During Vogras' reign DPW bid practices reveal irregularities

BY PHILIP TARDANI

The City of Plymouth's acting Department of Public Works (DPW) director has uncovered a variety of purchasing irregularities left over from the reign of former director Kenneth Vogras.

Paul Sincock, who took over the DPW post after Vogras retired last month, detailed the expenditures in memos to City Manager Gordon Jaeger and purchasing director Carol Stone.

Among the expenses for which there are no available bids or quotes:

•$4,950 for concrete curbs at the Vietnam Veteran's memorial in Kellogg Park.

•$2,601 for cement used for a paving project at Irvin and Junction Streets.

•$1,053 to repair a DPW truck.

"Apparently this truck was involved in a collision," Sincock said. "As best I can find, there were no quotes, no bids and there was no accident report filed relating to this incident."

The above expenses are for work that has been completed, Sincock said, but the bills have not been paid.

"The contractor provided the work in good faith and they're expecting to be paid," he said.

City purchasing policies require price quotes for any expense over $1,000 and sealed bids for any expense over $5,000, Stone said.

Requisitions are supposed to go to Stone first, then be approved by the city finance director and city manager, Sincock said. After their approval, Stone issues a purchasing order, he said.

Stone said Vogras apparently made the purchases, then filed a requisition form with her.

Sincock said he is instituting new purchasing procedures for all DPW personnel.

"They must check with the front office to make sure we have authorization to make these purchases," he said.

Mayor Dennis Bila said he was worried about how the purchases were made but thinks the administration is taking care of the problem.

"It's disturbing and we're convinced that the administration is getting a handle on it," he said.

Sincock has also informed city department heads that the DPW will not authorize payment for interior cleaning and waxing of city vehicles. This order was apparently prompted by a $93 bill from Colonial Collision for the cleaning and waxing of City Engineer Ken West's car.

Court-ordered workers will provide this service in the future, Sincock said.

In addition, Sincock directed department heads to get their vehicles washed at Colony Car wash, where the city pays about $1 less per vehicle than at Main Street Auto Wash.

Schools report says Mettetal not worth saving

BY KEN VOYLES

A report prepared for the Plymouth-Canton Community Schools Board of Education suggests that Mettetal Airport would generate far more tax money for the district if the site became an industrial park.

Ray Buckman, the district's legislative liaison who prepared the report, told the board Monday that his efforts were not of a "political" nature.

"These are just the facts," he said.

In the study, Buckman found that Mettetal paid $21,205 in taxes to the district in 1989 based on a State Equalized Valuation (SEV) of $606,904. The airport includes about 60 acres.

Buckman then estimated that if the site was developed into 26 industrial units it would generate more than $465,000 in taxes for the school district. That, he said, would be based on an SEV of $8.7 million. He added that if industrial tax abatements were okayed by Canton the total would be about $237,000.

"Airport supporters argue that Mettetal acts as a magnet for businesses," Buckman told the board. "We checked the (flight) logs for the last four months and found that is just not true."

Buckman said he also took an informal survey of some 70 businesses in

City says dealership needs oil interceptor

BY PHILIP TARDANI

The Dick Scott Dodge dealership and service facility, opened in early 1988, does not have a required oil interceptor -- even though its original plans filed with the city indicated it would be installed, according to City of Plymouth Engineer Kenneth West.

West said the dealership's construction management firm has been ordered to add the environmental protection system.

West also said the city would change its policies regarding new construction by insisting builders keep plans on-site to help city inspectors follow up on requirements and proposed changes on work in progress.

The oil interceptor situation at the new Scott dealership was brought to the city's attention by The Community Crier last week.

Richard Duwel, president of Duwel Corp., said original plans for the oil separator were changed while the job was in progress but were not filed with the city until last week.

West said, however, the sump system installed is not an oil separator as required by federal laws.

Duwel said yesterday he was uncertain what steps would be taken now that the city has issued a notice. The sump installed by subcontractor Robertson Plumbing, of Wayne, is identical to that installed and approved at five area service garages, he said.

"There's no doubt in our minds that this is an approved system," Duwel said. "It is different than what was on the original plan drawings, but it was

Want answers to developmental learning P-C parents seek school forum over program

BY KEN VOYLES

Parents in the Plymouth-Canton Community Schools concerned about a developmental education program in district elementary schools are seeking a public forum to get answers to their questions.

On Monday, they requested that the Plymouth-Canton Schools Board of Education arrange a public forum to allow parents who have questions or concerns a chance to find out what the program is all about.

Jim Stevens, a local businessman who has a child at Bird School, said he wanted a "public answer" to his questions, including who is "monitoring" the program.

"I request a public forum to address all of these questions," he told the board. "It is not unjust or unfair that we get answers. A lot of people don't know where to get the answers to their concerns."

"I'm willing to do a mailing," he continued. "I'll pay for it."

Other parents on hand Monday, including Brenda Walsh, Laura Harrington and Stevens' wife Patsy, also raised concerns over the program.

"I'm very disturbed by this," said Harrington.

Patsy Stevens added, "I feel no monitoring is being done and I'm very upset about the program."

Walsh said she removed her child from Bird because of the developmental program, a program which gets away from a more traditional style learning. "I had a very frustrated child," she said. "I would like to have a meeting to get some answers."

Resident finds plane part

Three months after a fatal air collision in Plymouth Township, police there have received what they believe is a piece of one of the aircraft.

Investigator Erik Mayernik said a resident found the one-and-a-half by two-and-a-half foot, corrugated chunk of metal in a tree near the crash site last week.

Mayernik said it is not apparent what the piece is, though the report stated it is possibly part of an aileron; a movable surface on the trailing edge of the wing.

The FAA has been notified, Mayernik said.

"I don't know if they're going to pick it up or not," he said.

Protesters file complaint; show goes on

BY MIKE GUINN

A dispute over whether an Ann Arbor art show is obscene remains stalemated with protesters charging the exhibit violates federal statutes and organizers asserting the display is free from prosecution.

The "Fear No Art" exhibit, on display through Dec. 2 at the Performance Network in Ann Arbor, has drawn protests from a group known as "Art In Heaven," led by Canton resident Mark Baidel.

Baidel said his group, which has 10-15 members, is protesting the display because of contents depicting "sodomasochistic acts."

"They are presenting it in ways that are classified as art," Baidel said. "We come against all abominations suggested to the public and referred to as such."

Baidel and his wife, Elizabeth, have also filed a civil complaint in Ann Arbor which has been referred to Washtenaw County Prosecutor William Delhey. Delhey said Monday that he has not determined if charges will be filed.

Peter Knox, graphic designer at the Performance Network, said he does not believe the Baidels have a valid case against the exhibit.

"We are not at all worried about (the charges)," said Knox. "It's not a commercial venture, and does not fall within the statutes. There is no legal action which can be taken."

While the protesters and the sponsors disagree on their various positions, Knox said the protesters have been generally well-behaved.

"We haven't had any problem with them," Knox said. "They just show up every Saturday. There have been some lively debates with customers, but nothing that would constitute a problem."

Baidel tells another story.

"We have been sworn at, threatened," Baidel said. "There has been a lot of retaliating behavior that has been ensued by attendees and people who run the exhibit."

Baidel said that he is also concerned about the use of public funds to support the exhibit.

"In fiscal year 1990, $6,140 was given to the Performance Network by the Michigan Council for the Arts," Baidel said. "They are going to have to prove that none of that money went to support the exhibit."

Knox said that while the council did give the money to his organization, it went solely to support a play, "The Public." None of the grant money, said Knox, went to the current art show.

"We have made a point to make that clear (that no public money went to the art exhibit)," said Knox. "It's sad that he (Baidel) feels it necessary to bend the truth in his direction."

If the protestors' intent was to get the display closed down, their actions may be working against them. Knox said the media attention received has caused many people to visit the show who otherwise would not have bothered.

"People have been coming all the way from Toledo after hearing about it," Knox said. "The reaction I've seen is people have come because of the media barrage and they say 'What is all the fuss about, is that all there is?'"

Baidel said that some people who originally disagreed with his group changed their mind after viewing the exhibit.

"One person who was demonstrating against our group came out silent after seeing (the works)," Baidel said.

Both sides are vowing to continue their actions. Baidel said that his group will continue to picket the show each weekend, while Knox said that the exhibit will fulfill its run.

Canton police wait on charges in hit-run death

Mandatory curbside program in Canton?

BY SCOTT DANIEL

A mandatory curbside pick-up program for recyclable materials will likely become a reality in Canton by spring of 1991.

The Canton Board of Trustees reviewed the idea of a mandatory program last Tuesday with the township's Solid Waste Committee and considered a plan of action to implement it by spring.

Last night the board was expected to give "conceptual" approval to the curbside pick-up plan and authorize the committee to develop an educational program.

"I'm really behind this program," said Trustee John Prenciczky. "I wish we could have gotten to it sooner."

Once in operation it is expected that materials such as metal cans, newspapers, plastics and glass would be picked from residents.

According to David Denski, manager of Canton Recycling, which currently hauls the township's refuse, the materials would be picked up by a vehicle similar to a trash truck.

Both trash and recycling trucks would come to each home on the same day for pick-ups, he said. Denski added that the recyclables would only be picked up during "composting season."

The recyclable materials wouldn't necessarily be picked up by Canton Recycling, said committee member Cindy Burgess last week. She said the lowest bidder for the program would likely be awarded a contract.

"Some might consider our plan to be premature," said Burgess, "but we think it is progressive."

Committee member Cathy Prince said a key to starting the program will be to educate the public.

"We want to get people going the right way," she said. "It will take more than one or two brochures to educate the public."

Trustee Robert Shefferly agreed with Prince.

"I would prefer that the committee goes slow enough to make sure that the program is done right," he said.

During last week's discussion, Canton Supervisor Tom Yack instructed the Solid Waste Committee to work out a timeframe for implementation of the program.

"Realistically, we think it will be spring (to start the program)," said Prince. "I think it's a realistic time constraint."

Oakwood is Advanced Medicine

In Vitro Fertilization

In vitro fertilization is one of several new treatments for infertility successfully being practiced at Oakwood today. This highly specialized procedure has enabled hundreds of Michigan couples, who otherwise would not have been able to conceive, to bear children. The procedure involves removal of eggs from the woman's ovaries, the addition of sperm to the eggs in the laboratory, and then placement of fertilized eggs into the uterus where the baby may develop. Physicians currently at Oakwood succeeded in developing the state's first in vitro fertilization pregnancy and have pioneered a number of new reproductive technologies.

At our state-of-the-art facility, couples undergo a comprehensive analysis process involving a team of highly skilled physicians, nurses and technicians. If you would like more information on in vitro fertilization or any of the advanced medicine we offer, your physician may refer you, or you may call the Center for Reproductive Medicine at Oakwood Hospital.

Oakwood Health Services is one of the largest health care systems in Michigan, with five hospitals, more than 30 local health care and specialty centers and more than 1,000 physicians in every major health care specialty and subspecialty. Oakwood will serve more than one-half million patients this year.

Owes an apology

Ethnic slur shames Graper

Henry E. Graper, Jr. is pathetically slipping into a mudhole.

He has resorted to ethnic slurs in his attempts to counter last week's announcement that the Michigan State Police have joined the investigation of his Plymouth City Hall finances.

Now the city manager of Sault Ste. Marie, Graper told The Evening News there that the 15-month-long investigation into his affairs while city manager in Plymouth, was the fault of City Commissioner Jim Jabara. "He's an Arab; a very difficult person to work with," Graper was quoted.

Graper's ethnic remark is out of line.

It is astonishing that a long-time public service leader would stoop beneath the issues to make such a statement.

Graper owes the public an apology. (Characteristically, Jabara doesn't want to make a personal issue out of the remark.) But what if Jabara had been black? A woman? An American Indian? What outrage would have been started by those corresponding slurs?

In the story, Graper also blames City of Plymouth Purchasing Agent Carol Stone for over paying him $17,300.68 -- which he later paid back. (She explained previously that Graper had instructed her to make the extra vacation pay disbursement.) He also criticizes this newspaper's investigation of City Hall allegations, saying the paper "won't let it go." (The editorial staff is flattered more by that comment than by the recent awards received from the Michigan Press Association.)

Certainly Graper has the right to refute charges and attack his "attackers."

But he has no right to make ethnic slurs.

It certainly appears that he's grasping frantically at straws as he slips deeper into the mudhole.

Writer needs more understanding

EDITOR:

After reading Marcia Sheppard's comments about the Roe Street situation, I sat down to send this letter. At the moment, I'm flabbergasted that anyone could be so narrow-minded and hypocritical.

Sorry, Marcia -- I don't know you, maybe you're not that way, but first impressions stick. Let me ask you a few questions. Why can't you still attempt to reach your goal to win the "Beautification Award?" What have your neighbors to do with that? Would you go for night walks in Kellogg Park before, without worrying about anyone else ever being a threat to your safety? If so, you are very naive. A woman out alone walking at night is not a very good idea in any town, Marcia. And you don't lock your doors? Let's face it, it's easy enough for someone to break into homes, but at least locking the doors makes them be a little creative!

Then you mention choices, and that "our 'choice' was to roll up our sleeves and work our way through," but you fail to see that these people in the program have "chosen" to do just that. Are you saying that "bad times," "divorces," "job loss," "skeletons in our closets," are good choices which deserve to be "worked through," but that substance abuse doesn't deserve to be "worked through?"

Statistics -- well, statistics tend to tell you whatever you want to hear. If you had a medical doctor tell you that you had one chance in one million to recover from a terminal illness, would you go through the treatment process in hopes that you were that one in one million? Or would you simply say that it's too low of a percentage and not try?

Your statement that a trail of hurt and turmoil has already been left is no doubt true. I'm sure that each person in the program is well aware of that and that they have now "chosen" to make positive changes in their lives.

I only hope that the program residents don't get the wrong impression about everyone in this community.

Voters can change govt., but will they?

The election season which ends in two weeks has been noted as "Incumbent Bashing of 1990."

Never has there been such disenchantment, not with a specific incumbent, but with incumbents in general.

The lack of leadership in Washington D.C.; the realization that the "no new taxes" campaign pledge was manure; and the negative campaign ads have turned off voters in significant numbers. The common chant this election is "throw the bums out."

Yet, not many challengers have truly stepped up.

And, unless I miss my guess, voter turnout won't amount to a hill of beans.

This means that unless lightning strikes before Nov. 6, little -- if anything -- will change.

Voters have the power to change their government.

But they're more content to just grumble about it.

Mettetal Airport facts distorted

EDITOR:

Historic Mettetal Airport has been serving the surrounding communities, quietly and safely, for 50 years. It has for 20 years been a component of the National Airspace System. It has been a place where children have dreamed of flight; where local residents come to watch airplanes, and to buy airplane rides for their children; a place where untold hundreds or thousands of young Americans began regarding careers in aviation; an open space among rapid development; and an interesting, unusual and welcome feature in a colorful community. It has for several years been the home of McMahon Helicopters, Michigan's largest helicopter service, a pillar of the aviation community with a reputation for professionalism second to none.

Those who were interested in it, loved it; those who weren't, didn't really notice it. In 1989, Mettetal conducted more than 32,000 flight operations without incident.

Recently, Canton had the opportunity to use 100 per cent Federal and State "Aviation Trust Fund" money (tax money already paid exclusively by aviation industries and users) to buy the airport, lock, stock and barrel from its private owners, to preserve this valuable asset as a public airport. When they turned it down, contrary to the recommendations of their own study committee, Plymouth Township officials, under the time proven leadership of Maurice Breen, agreed to take the opportunity.

Sadly, there have been many instances of people publicly distorting the facts with the intent of furthering their own economic or political interests.

I'm tired of reading things about Mettetal that just aren't true. So here's the facts, with supporting references at the end of this commentary.

Mettetal does have, and for years has had, an approved instrument approach procedure. Mettetal is not a "recreational airport," boasting 40 per cent business use, but even if it was, what's wrong with that? Mettetal's "short runway" is capable of handling the vast majority of business aircraft but is not capable of handling jets (I think you'll agree that's a blessing), and can not be expanded to handle them, for reasons based on cost, politics and aeronautics.

Location of hangars and other alleged problems do not disqualify Mettetal from any Federal funding. Mettetal is a viable, profit-making airport. There are no threats of significant amounts of local, non-aviation money could be spent on the airport. "Your tax money" will not be used unless you are a user of the National Airspace System, in which case you are a benefactor.

But the most exciting aspect of a public Mettetal Airport is the education aspect. School officials at the high school and college level in Canton and Plymouth are very excited about the prospect of building educational facilities at Mettetal, to provide cooperative educational and vocational training for aircraft mechanic, avionics repair, pilot, and other positions.

Clearly, America loves aviation, and Plymouth and Canton love Mettetal airport. Mettetal is the right place for a small airport, and the right small airport for the place. A few opposed politicians have no right to fly in the face of public needs and wishes, while pretending to seek Holy Grail of fiscal responsibility.

When the airport purchase was first proposed, Canton Supervisor Tom Yack appointed a "study committee" to look into it. Yack was quickly flanked by parties opposing the purchase, among them, wealthy industrialist Jan Mueller, owner of competing New Hudson airport. He graciously loaned Yack one of his employes, accountant Jim Darling, whom Yack appointed to the "impartial" airport study committee.

Thankfully, the study committee did consist mostly of people who truly wished to serve their community; despite the stacked deck, the committee voted 6-4 in favor of the purchase. Yack turned down their recommendation.

Yack proceeded to attempt to justify his disregard of his study committee's decision. He claimed that he was concerned about loss of tax revenue on the 60-acre parcel, even as he was planning a multi-million-dollar, tax-exempt, 250-acre publicly-owned golf course within Canton boundaries, the second golf course in Canton's boundaries, the second one Canton would own, eight miles or less from 19 other golf courses, 20 miles or less from 29 other golf courses, and the seventh one to exist in the cities and townships of Plymouth and Canton. By comparison, Mettetal is the only airport serving the "fertile crescent" of business in the I-275/M-14 corridor.

Public-opinion meetings were held occasionally during the study period. Despite extensive coverage in the local papers, the turnout of opposed residents was very small. Those who were opposed typically were needlessly concerned about their property tax dollars being spent at Mettetal, or were real-estate agents or speculators seeking a quick buck. Their concern for the good of the community was conspicuous in its absence.

As the heat increased, Mettetal became an opportunity for local politicians to make themselves a name. The one-issue campaign of state representative candidate Dennis Shrewsbury is a prime example. In his campaign ads, he has lifted out of context statements from an FAA publication, "Value of Airports to their Communities, Vol. 2," August 1989, claiming that "(Mettetal) was not found . . . responsible for . . . economic development." He claims that Mettetal has "no instrument approach facility," apparently, he didn't read carefully.

That document explains Mettetal's long-established instrument approach procedure; the 40 per cent business use of the airport; the $3.5 million it contributes annually to the local economy, $1.1 million of it in household earnings; the 22,500 visitors who arrive in Canton every year at Mettetal; the fact that the airport is an "all-season facility, capable of handling 95 per cent of general aviation aircraft types"; the attraction and retention of local business; and the non-economic values, including alternative air service for local residents, medical access, evacuation of supply functions in disaster or emergency situations, and use by the school system.

America is the most aviation-oriented society in the world. Americans are the undisputed leaders in the industry, exporting a hundred billion dollars of fine aircraft each year. America's best-in-the-world aviation safety record owes to the easy access to aviation by the general public: You can't learn to fly at Metro airport; federal law prohibits student pilots from such airports.

Where do you suppose tomorrow's airline pilots will come from? The military? Hardly! That source dried up 20 years ago.

Do you need evidence that the community supports preserving this historic airport? How about the estimated 350 people who stopped in to buy 235 airplane rides for their children on Airport Day last spring (with only word-of-mouth advertising?) How about the 155 volunteers who showed up on September 29, to cut weeds, paint hangers, and clean up, many of them working 12 or 15 hours, stopping only briefly for a mid-day hot dog? How about the dozens of individuals and companies that donated everything from paint brushes to the use of heavy equipment for fixing up the airport? How about the people who have submitted signed pledges for over a half million dollars, to cover the $300,000 in grant money that Canton has the power to veto? How about the easy passage through the State House and Senate of Senate Bill 817, authorizing funding from state funds for the airport preservation? How about the school officials from Canton, Plymouth, and elsewhere, excited about using the airport as a vocational training center? How about the hundreds of area airplane owners, who have created a waiting list for hangar space, just on the rumor that Mettetal will survive for the long term?

Come on, Canton community leaders! Stop worrying about industrial parks long enough to get some real progress made. Mettetal Airport and her people are willing and able to serve their community. If America doesn't use her unique features to educate and motivate her young, then the best our economic plans can be are the equivalent of rearranging chairs on the deck of a sinking ship. You or I may be the last to go down, Yack, but go down we will.

Let's enthusiastically embrace this golden opportunity; let's let Mettetal live up to her potential and truly serve these fine communities.

Airport eases abatements

I think the only reason Maurice Breen would like to see Plymouth Township's involvement in the Mettetal Airport would be to make it easier for business groups to fly into town, get their 50 per cent tax abatements and fly back home.

Chamber supports Mettetal

EDITOR:

The Plymouth Community Chamber of Commerce Board of Directors supports a full exploration of the potential development Mettetal Airport offers.

Preserving Mettetal with expanded airport facilities and an aviation school may be an opportunity to strengthen the economic base of The Plymouth-Canton Community.

Economic development marketing efforts are maximized when full services are available. An airport is as necessary to a growing business community as adequate utilities, sewers and convenient access to railways.

*can be the difference

By Scott Daniel

Parting thoughts:

Covering a government body was much different than I thought it would be.

I had this idea that the people who run our local governments were self-serving, autocratic, pencil-pushers. I was all ready to deal with people who would have no time for me, who, surely would think my questions were stupid and would make my job as difficult as possible.

But, I was quite wrong.

I found that the people who run Canton Township really do care. I found that they care about what their residents think and the problems that they have in their lives.

No, the system isn't perfect. The board of trustees moved too fast in some cases (such as where a composting farm should be located in the township) and sometimes got a little surly with angry residents (again, over composting).

But, for the most part, Canton government is responsive. I was amazed at the time Aaron Machnik, the township's municipal services director, took with residents to listen to their flooding problems. I was impressed with how hard he worked to try and solve a problem that was created by someone else.

It's been a growing experience here at the Crier.

I'll never forget how scared I was doing my first story. I was assigned to find out how Canton's new 911 emergency service was working.

My basic source for the story was Public Safety Director John Santomauro. I also talked to a Michigan Bell representative for background on the systems.

It seemed like a complex story then and an ordeal to get through. I wondered if it would always be so difficult.

But, as time went on, doing the stories became easier. Of course I had a lot of help on the way. Having a managing editor and another reporter that were willing to work with me made it manageable (not to mention a certain other reporter who never let me forget what a rotten speller I am).

I guess what I'll remember most about working at the Crier is the atmosphere (don't laugh Phil). Even though we all bitched about each other and about how hard we worked, I think we never lost sight of the bottom line:

The newspaper.

No matter how cranky or tired we were, I knew deep down that we all cared about what went in the newspaper and how it looked to our readers. That's what journalism should be about.

It's what the atmosphere at the Crier is about.

City Commission looks to future

It's 1995 in the City of Plymouth and all railroad crossings -- "once a source of many complaints" -- are smoothly surfaced.

The expanded Dunning-Hough Library, which features a multi-level parking deck in the east-central lot, is nearing completion.

Intra-governmental cooperation has increased and there are quarterly meetings between the city, Plymouth Township, Canton, Northville and Northville Township, as well as the Plymouth-Canton Community Schools.

In addition, the city directly involves citizens in planning for the yearly budget. Old Village has become a popular tourist attraction and city-generated refuse has been cut by 75 per cent through curbside recycling.

That's what the present city commission hopes, anyway.

The commissioners came up with that view of the future at a September retreat with consultant J. Patrick McMahon.

Mayor Dennis Bila said he felt the most important idea coming from the retreat was the planning process directly involving city residents.

"We know we're going to have to change the way we do business," he said, citing budget deficits as a motivating force for change. "It would be better to change based on input

On the beat

By Phillip Tardant

from the whole group."

The new process would begin in September, with a community needs assessment survey. In the first week of November, the commission would hold a planning session incorporating the information from the survey in setting goals for the coming year.

The budget process begins in January, and the city would be able to draw upon citizen input to insure resources are advocated effectively, Bila said.

"We're not just guessing at what people want," he said. "It's a long-term process that will help us to get citizen input."

Bila said the commission will implement the planning process beginning next year, adding that over time it should gain more legitimacy with city residents.

The commission also hopes to strengthen financial stability by creating a reserve fund. Goals call for setting aside an average of two per cent of yearly budgets beginning in 1991.

The topic of services offered to city residents was also prominently discussed, Bila said, adding that the quality of those services "will not be compromised."

The commission hopes to continue providing the same services by cooperating more with local governments and contracting some services -- such as the city opted to do with garbage pick-up in the 1960s.

"Voluntary attrition" of retiring city employees will also save the city money, Bila said. Basically this means that some retiring employees will not be replaced.

"The city commission's primary responsibility is to the citizens," Bila said. "Our secondary responsibility is to city employees."

Other goals include -- among other things -- creation of an infrastructure rehabilitation plan, an expansion of community events and a common architectural theme for commercial structures.

Bila said McMahon had the commission -- which he added was made up of fairly independent people -- working well together.

He also said most of the goals were certainly within the realm of possibility. "It was our goal to be as realistic as possible," Bila said. "Only time will tell how realistic they are."

Let's not misrepresent policy

It is now official.

The Plymouth-Canton Community Schools Board of Education gave its okay Monday to a new "policy" which has been largely misunderstood and somewhat misrepresented.

The two-line statement tries to put in words what the district is telling its staff -- that the mandatory review of all teaching materials is basic, very important.

It sets the standard for the district.

The policy statement -- "...that all instructional materials be previewed by the teacher prior to use in classroom instruction" -- puts into the context the district's administrative "procedures" regarding the use of R-rated movies and other audio-visual aids in the classroom.

Those procedures -- audio-visuals were debated, by the board until it decided it would only deal with policies -- have not changed. R-rated movies must still be okayed a semester in advance of their use, teachers will still have to submit a form when they use any other movie, filmstrip, video, or cassette in class.

Again, no change. So why has the board of education been misunderstood? Blame it on the board, but also blame it on the media.

Earlier this year -- over the summer

In the margin

By Ken Voyles

actually -- the board debated an audio-visual "procedure," but later backtracked and decided once and for all that now was a good time to get out of the business of setting up what are basically administrative functions.

Still the core of the procedure -- that visual teaching aids must be reviewed (and approved) -- remained.

I would think that those who have opposed certain "controversial" be elated. But it turns out they don't really oppose the procedures set up to really oppose the procedures set up to control certain teaching tools, they oppose the board and administration. Period.

Also, the board allowed confusion to reign, instead of making it clear of their intention to get away from strict procedural matters and talk in philosophical ideals, they went on the defensive, taking their cue from a gunshy administration.

At the same time, the community, following the lead of the school district, fell for the twisted, confusing nature of the debate. Most prone to mistaking the essence of what was happening were those who failed to know what the board was doing.

Tying it all together now: the board has set a policy -- a standard if you will -- that the administration has to realize on a daily basis.

But the administration has been doing that already with procedures set in motion over the last several years.

No change really, except that now the board is easing certain liabilities from the shoulders of its instructors and forcing the administration to make sure another tragedy does not happen.

And to make sure that any so-called "dangerous" films do not reach students without some kind of review, either by a teacher or an administrator.

Is that any clearer? I'm sure it is for some.

The others? Well, they can follow the action from the sidelines.

Plans mortgage burning VFW pays off hall

BY KEN VOYLES

The Veteran of Foreign Wars (VFW) Mayflower-Lt. Gamble Post 6695 recently paid off the mortgage on its post home along Mill Street in the City of Plymouth.

To celebrate the group, along with its ladies auxiliary, is planning a mortgage burning ceremony and dinner/dance on Nov. 10 at 6 p.m.

"It's a very big deal," said Archie Bunch, post secretary, who added that Plymouth Mayor Dennis Bila will be on hand for the festivities.

The current VFW hall is the second building on the site, said Bunch. The original post home burned down in 1982 and was rebuilt in 1983. The post's mortgage was renegotiated that year and the post combined with another post from Detroit.

Bunch said the facility's mortgage was worth about $300,000. The hall, located on property zoned industrial through a zoning variance, is valued at more than $500,000, he added. The property is made up of four lots.

Tickets for the mortgage burning party are $10 and must be reserved by Nov. 6. The evening will include cocktails at 6 p.m., dinner and the program at 8 p.m. Entertainment, food and a cash bar will be provided.

For reservations or tickets call Bob Smith at 453-1528 or the post home at 459-6700.

For audit report

State rejects request

The Michigan Department of Treasury has denied a request by The Community Crier for a copy of the special audit report on the City of Plymouth.

In a letter dated Oct. 19, Melvin Van Vorst, director of the Bureau of Management Services, said The Crier's request filed under the Michigan Freedom of Information Act was denied because "this matter is still under investigation."

Van Vorst said the denial is allowed under Section 13 of the law which says that a public body can exempt from disclosure investigating records compiled for law enforcement purposes.

Officials with the Michigan Attorney General's office have said it may be a month or two before their investigation is complete. A copy of the audit was given to that office by the Local Audit Division of the treasurer's department.

Free rentals coming to Canton Public Library

BY SCOTT DANIEL

If you've ever heard the old saying, "nothing is for free," don't believe it.

Beginning on Jan. 1, 1991, the Canton Public Library will end its policy of charging rental fees for videos, compact discs and best selling books.

"It's something I've wanted to do for a long time," said Library Director Jean Tabor last week. "Our taxpayers have been very generous with their support. We are really pleased to do it (for them)."

The library board voted in September to end the policy, which had been effect since the library began using the materials in the mid-80s, she said.

Revenues from the rentals, projected at $15,000 for videos, $200 for CDs and $2,000 for books this year, wasn't worth continuing to charge library patrons, Tabor added.

"We will make the adjustment in our budget (from the lost revenues)," she said. "Offering the service to our patrons more than makes up for it. We think it's a nice service."

The Canton Public Library had charged $1 a day for videos, Tabor said. She added that CDs and extra copies of best selling books were rented at 10 cents a day.

"Most libraries still charge rental fees in the state," Tabor said. "It isn't like that in other parts of the country though."

About 1,500 videos stock the library's collection currently, she said. Besides feature films, Tabor said, the library will add more educational and how-to videos to its collection.

"We don't want to compete with the video stores," she said. "But it's time videos take their place with other library materials."

Rock, country, classical, Jazz and new age make up the library's 700 CDs, Tabor said. Numerous new books also can be checked out, she said.

'Friends' to sponsor used book sale

A used book sale sponsored by the Friends of the Canton Public Library will be held Saturday (Oct. 27) from 9:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. and Sunday (Oct. 28) from 12-5 p.m.

Proceeds from the sale will be used to enhance the Canton Public Library sculpture fund.

The offering will be held at the Canton Public Library on S. Canton Center Road. Books are four for $1, and five for $1 for Friends of the Canton Library members.

Anyone interested in donating books to the sale can call the library at 397-0999.

College enlists 1,000th male

BY MIKE GUINN

Madonna College in Livonia took another step towards a sexually balanced student body last month when for the first time in the school's history more than 1,000 male students registered for classes in the same term.

Putting Madonna's male population into the fourth digit is H. Charley Curtis, 18, of Plymouth. A freshman, Curtis said he thought the male-to-female ratio was pretty even.

"To me, it looks pretty 50-50," said Curtis, who was recruited by his grandfather, local car dealer magnet Don Massey.

The four-year college now has 1,020 males enrolled for the fall 1990 term. The total student population is 4,393.

Andrea Nodge, Madonna's director of public relations, said the college's graduate program played a part in attracting men to the campus.

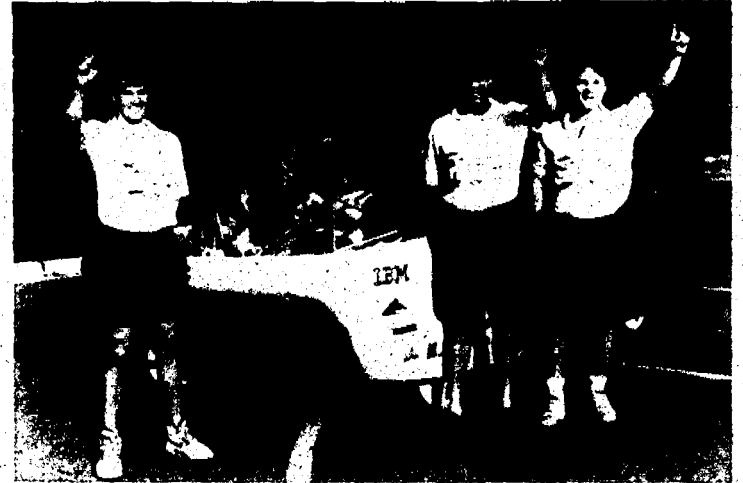

"A lot of men are interested in pursuing a master's program," said Nodge. "(The graduate courses) help bring in many new students."

Founded in 1947, the college originally accepted female students only. Men became eligible for admission in 1972.

Another change that may be in the future for the school involves its name. A task force is in the process of studying whether to grant Madonna university status.

Nodge said the school hopes to have the classification by May of 1991.

An open house for prospective students is being planned for Nov. 3 from 1-4 p.m.

At Ernesto's Candidates to speak Friday

A public forum will be held at Ernesto's restaurant in the City of Plymouth Friday during which candidates from the federal, state, county and local level will discuss issues affecting the community and its residents.

Candidates scheduled to attend include: U.S. Rep. Carl Pursell and Elmer White, running for the U.S. 2nd Congressional District House of Representatives seat; Michigan State Rep. Gerald Law, and Dennis Shrewsbury, running for the 36th District State House of Representatives seat; Michigan State Sen. Robert Geake, and Patrick McDonald, running for the 6th District State Senate seat; and Wayne County Commissioner Susan Heintz, running unopposed for the 10th District Wayne County Commissioner seat.

The forum is scheduled for 7:30-9 a.m. Admission is $10. For more information call 453-1540.

Theatre guild begins new season

The Plymouth Theatre Guild kicks off its 1990-91 season with a production of "You Can't Take It With You," written by Moss Hart and George S. Kaufman.

Performances are scheduled for the weekends of Nov 2-3, 9-10 and 16-17. The curtain goes up at 8 p.m. Al La Croix, of Plymouth, is directing the cast of 19 zany characters in the comedy about two very different families whose children are in love.

Cast members include Ford Sutherland as grandpa, Jacque Rundell as Penny, Russ Dore as Mr. Kirby and Cathy Lietz and Frank Markus as the young lovers, Alice and Tony.

Other scheduled shows throughout the season include "Crimes of the Heart" and "Once Upon a Mattress."

All performances and auditions are at the Water Tower Theatre, on the campus of Northville Regional Hospital, 41001 W. Seven Mile Road.

Tickets are $6 for adults $5 for seniors and students. Season tickets and group rates are also available. Call 349-7974 for more information.

GERALD LAW

Biography:

Gerald H. Law, 45 has been a Plymouth Township resident since 1976 and has been a state representative in the 36th District since 1982. Prior to that, Law served on the Plymouth Township Board of Trustees. He has a law degree from Wayne State University and a master's degree in business administration from the University of Detroit. Law is vice-chair on the House public health and insurance committees and serves on subcommittees on infant mortality, steroids, nursing homes, substance abuse, auto and home insurance and health insurance. He is married and has two daughters.

Mettetal Airport:

"It's a local problem between the townships. Irregardless of what my opponent has printed in the papers, I have not taken a position on it and I don't plan to. I'm on the record for not voting for any funds -- the state five per cent or local waiver."

Economic woes:

"A solution to the (national) deficit problem will be very important for Michigan. Using a gasoline tax to an extreme amount will not be good for Michigan because our major industry is still the auto industry... Our overall business climate is still affected by business taxes and our business taxes are some of the highest in the country. We have businesses moving to Indiana all the time because of unemployment compensation taxes, product liability and, of course, a number of other things along that line. We're very high and that's frightening a lot of manufacturing interests away."

Goals, objectives:

"For my particular district, we're still at the state level debating and attempting to work out property tax/school finance reform. Property taxes are very high in my district and people are very upset about that. I think, also, statutory- and budgetary-wise we have to handle the lottery problem. The lottery -- before we're going to have credibility with folks on school finance reform -- is going to have to be proved to people that it is an issue to the regular general fund support and not a replacement for general fund support... We have a problem with our budget that's coming up and we're going to have to make some tough decisions."

Law, Shrewsbury in 36th

BY PHILIP TARDANI

Voters in the 36th State Representative District will choose between Republican incumbent Gerald Law and Democratic challenger Dennis Shrewsbury during the Nov. 6 general election.

Law, from Plymouth Township, is seeking his fifth term in the House. Shrewsbury, from the City of Plymouth, is making his second run for state office.

The 36th District includes all of the City of Plymouth and most of Plymouth Township and part of Canton.

DENNIS SHREWSBURY

Dennis F. Shrewsbury, 49, has lived in the City of Plymouth for 10 years. He holds a law degree from Wayne State University and a bachelor's degree in political science from Mercy College in Detroit. Shrewsbury is self-employed as an attorney, working in criminal defense, negligence, juvenile and probate law and appeals. He has also worked for the Michigan Department of Social Services, investigating criminal fraud and internal security matters and was a member of the Wayne County Organized Crime Task Force for 10 years. Shrewsbury, who has also served with the U.S. Coast Guard, has two adult children.

"I agree that it's a local issue except insofar as any state money might be concerned. It's a local issue as to whether the local townships or governments want to form an authority, and everything I've heard or read indicates that the people who are behind it locally are the local Republicans. It doesn't seem to me that using public tax money for what is essentially private business is the right thing to do."

"The governor has been working for the last eight years on getting new industry to diversify our entire industry in Michigan. There's been a lot of new industry brought into Michigan and I think those are the kinds of things we need to keep concentrating on: what kind of new industry and new business can we bring into Michigan that will help us ride out any national downturn to the extent that it's possible. I would work on trying to bring new industry to Michigan and trying to preserve the industry and business that we have here."

"One of my goals is to work as hard as I can to repeal the parental consent law for abortion. I think that it's ill-conceived and not indicative of what the majority -- certainly the majority of women -- want. I agree with Mr. Law that school financing and property tax is a problem. It's a difficult problem, there are a lot of proposed solutions... Mr. Law has been part of the problem for eight years or however long he's been in there... I am not in favor of increasing taxes; on the other hand I'm not in favor of reducing services to people, whether it's education, social services or workers compensation."

Law was elected to represent the 36th District when it was created in 1982. He holds a bachelor's degree and master's degree in finance from the University of Detroit and a law degree from Wayne State University.

Shrewsbury is a lawyer in private practice, working in criminal defense, juvenile and probate law, negligence and appeals. He has a law degree from Wayne State and a bachelor's degree in political science from Mercy College in Detroit.

"One of my goals is to work as hard as I can to repeal the parental consent

JAMES KOSTEVA

Kosteva, Carmichael in 37th

BY MIKE GUINN

Residents voting for the Michigan House of Representatives 37th District seat will choose between a Democratic incumbent and a Republican challenger in the Nov. 6 general election.

Current State Representative James Kosteva, a Canton Democrat, will face Republican challenger Dolores Carmichael, of Romulus. The 37th District includes Canton, along with Wayne, Romulus, Belleville and part of Van Buren Township.

A state representative since 1984, Kosteva worked as a Canton planner prior to his election. He holds a degree in metropolitan studies.

Kosteva said that affordable education is one of the main issues that the state house must confront.

"We have to do what we can to

Biography:

James Kosteva, 38, has been a Canton resident since 1979. He has been a member of the Michigan House of Representatives since 1984 for the 37th District. He holds a degree in metropolitan studies from North Central College, and is a former Canton planner. Kosteva is currently chairperson of the Colleges and Universities Committee and a majority vice chairperson of the Taxation and Conservation Committees. He is the House of Representatives Majority Whip. Kosteva is married with four children.

Mettetal Airport:

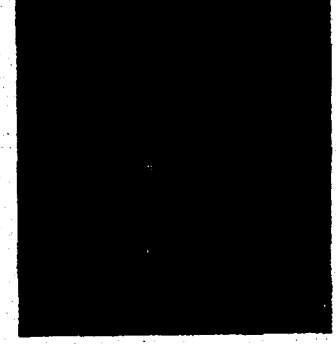

"I do not at this time have a position regarding public purchase of Mettetal Airport. I remain in a 'show me' position. Demonstrate to me that the general aviation needs of this area and of the State of Michigan warrant a public purchase."

Economic woes:

"I would largely continue the same course that we have been on over the past six to eight years, in some of the investments that have been made in diversifying Michigan's economy. We will have to maintain and hold down on state spending. If we can reduce state spending, we can reduce the amount of money coming out of taxpayer's pockets. It will be important for us to do what we can to maintain affordable tuition levels in the state."

Goals, objectives:

"I'm not really pleased with the level of governmental oversight performed in Lansing today. I'd like to see that increased. Bringing some property tax reduction to Michigan. At a minimum to enact some inflation index cap on the subsequent increases. Maintaining a vigilant eye over spiraling health care costs. Continue improvement in the quality output of our educational system."

DOLORES CARMICHAEL

maintain affordable tuition levels, be it in community colleges or adult education programs," Kosteva said.

Carmichael, a former candidate for the Romulus City Council, said that she would like to attract greater citizen involvement through campaign reform.

"Voters have a tremendous apathy out there," Carmichael said. "I think if we start saying we're going to look at campaign reform, people will start to have a rejuvenation of working with their government."

Dolores Carmichael, 54, has been a Romulus resident since 1957. She is owner and operator of Dolores' Resale Shop, in Romulus, and president of Carmichael and Associates, a management consulting firm. Carmichael served on the Romulus executive board of directors from 1970 to 1973, and ran for the Romulus City Council in 1973. She has served as a Romulus precinct delegate since 1986. Carmichael is married with two children.

"Mettetal Airport, I'm not well-versed on. Could the township afford it? Would they have to sell bonds for it? I wouldn't know. I would have to look at that to find out business-wise which one would be the best."

"I'm trying to make Michigan a film capital. That in itself would create tourism, it would create jobs, it would put Michigan on the map. I think the small business tax needs to be reduced, so small businesses have a chance to stay in business. I think first-time homeowners, if they had some type of a short term tax credit, people would want to locate here. All of these things keep the economy moving."

"The very first thing would be to cut out government wasteful spending. Champion finance reform which would probably start to eliminate the apathy in the voters. I think if we start saying we are going to look at campaign financing, people will start to have a rejuvenation of working with their government. I am real keen on making this state another Hollywood. Eliminate the small business tax."

Schoolcraft is community's college

Students at Schoolcraft College enjoy the unique advantage of studying at a community college that is committed to being the "classroom of the community."

In order to teach well, a community college must listen well. Meeting the many needs of a varied community is of first priority at Schoolcraft.

Each year, the college evaluates and updates current programs and adds new programs or courses to its curriculum. The college's newest program is Computer-Aided Graphics.

Schoolcraft offers more than 63 programs leading to a certificate or an associate degree, including computer-aided design, computer-aided manufacturing, robotics, and many allied health programs.

The college participates in a transfer agreement with 52 four-year colleges and universities in Michigan. Students who have transferred have consistently earned higher grade point average than their counterparts from other community colleges.

Through Continuing Education, the college offers more than 20 credit and non-credit courses, workshops, and seminars. Continuing Education courses are designed to meet the personal needs and interests of area residents.

Specific courses are designed for business and industry.

The district includes five public school districts: Plymouth-Canton, Northville, Livonia, Garden City, Clarenceville and part of Novi.

The college is governed by the Board of Trustees: Mary Breen, chairperson; Jeanne Stempien, vice chairperson; Wendell Smith, secretary; and trustees Michael W. Burley, Harry Greenleaf, and Thaddeus McCotter.

The main campus is located on a 183-acre site on Haggerty Road between Six and Seven Mile Roads in Livonia. Other College Centers are Radcliff, 1751 Radcliff, Garden City, 425-3380; and Plymouth Canton Center, Plymouth Canton High School, 8415 Canton Center Road, Canton 451-6660 or 425-3380.

ROBERT GEAKE

PATRICK McDONALD

Geake, McDonald in 6th

BY PHILIP TARDANI

This year's election race for a seat representing the 6th State Senate district features a rematch between Republican Robert Geake and Democrat Patrick McDonald.

Geake, 53, beat McDonald for the seat in a 1977 special election.

The 6th district includes the City of Plymouth, Plymouth Township, Canton, Livonia, Northville, Northville Township and Redford.

Geake, who holds a doctorate in psychology and education, is chairman of appropriations subcommittees on social services and mental health.

McDonald is a practicing attorney, concentrating on real estate, small business, probate and personal injury

Biography:

R. Robert Geake, 53, has been a resident of Northville since 1962. He was elected to serve the 6th State Senate district in 1977. He has three degrees from the University of Michigan—a bachelor's in special education, a master's in guidance and counseling and a doctorate in psychology and education. Geake is chairman of the Senate appropriation subcommittees on social services and mental health and vice-chairman of the appropriations committee and human resources and senior citizens committee. He is married and has three children.

Mettetal Airport:

"I favor the proposal and I introduced the amendment to the capital outlay bill which would allow the state aeronautics commission to waive the local match. I understand my opponents concern that the property there would yield more taxes as light industry, but I believe there has to be a place for general aviation in our society, too, and I think that a small airport like that could have advantages to local businesses."

Economic woes:

"First of all, I believe we should allow local school districts to keep their property tax base, and not compel them to share it, keep it through a tax base sharing scheme or to "so-called" recapture it. Secondly, we need in the Legislature to continue to reform worker's compensation rules in order to make our business climate more competitive with other states."

Goals, objectives:

"I have a number of goals and objectives. The first is property tax relief. Secondly, I'd like to see the schools become more competitive. I support choice for parents in the school they enroll their children in within a school district. I support giving individual teachers and principals more autonomy regarding curriculum and the expenditure of funds. We need to do more in the area of alcohol and drug abuse prevention and treatment. We need to increase our requirement that able-bodied persons on welfare either work or go to school so they can become self-supporting. I'd like to see us do more in the area of diversion of people in the criminal justice system."

law.

"I would seek some type of rollback in auto insurance rates," McDonald said of his plans if elected.

"I would propose a temporary freeze on property tax increases with some type of mandatory limitation on the amount they are allowed to increase on an annual basis," he added.

Please see pg. 24

Patrick J. McDonald, 43, has been a Livonia resident for nine years. He has a bachelor's degree in political science and philosophy and a law degree from the University of Detroit. McDonald is a practicing attorney involved in real estate, small business, probate and personal injury law. He was supervisor of Redford Township from 1974-78 and served on the executive board of the Southeast Michigan Council of Governments and executive board of Southeastern Michigan Comprehensive Health Planning Council. He has two children.

"I guess, very frankly, I don't know what position I would take. I don't think I have enough information."

"In terms of what a state legislator could do in that particular area, I'm not sure, other than encourage what has been going on in investment capital. We've pretty much traditionally been tied to the automobile industry in Michigan. We've made some strides away from that. I would suggest that we continue to attempt to become more diversified in terms of economy."

"First of all, I would seek some type of rollback in auto insurance rates. I would propose the adoption of core curriculum standards for the school systems. I would propose a temporary freeze on property tax increases with some type of mandatory limitation on increases with some type of mandatory limitation on the amount they are allowed to increase on an annual basis. I would encourage various environmental projects, recycling projects with some type of tax incentives for those industries that would invest in terms of recycled material as well as to encourage people who adopt curbside recycling

MILTON MACK

VICTOR GUSTAFSON

Biography:

Milton Mack, 41, has been a life long resident of the City of Wayne. He served as a Wayne City Council member from 1977-82 and has been a Wayne County Commissioner since 1982. Mack, who has practiced law since 1975, is currently with the legal firm of Petersmarck, Callahan, Bauer and Maxwell. He has degrees from Eastern Michigan and Wayne State. He has also chaired the county's Solid Waste Implementation Committee and in 1988 chaired the United Care, Inc. board of directors. He has served with SEMCOG since 1977. He is currently on the board of directors of Metropolitan Affairs Corp. He has one child.

Mettetal Airport:

"I'd be very reluctant to move with public ownership. There are numerous questions raised about the viability of that airport and those questions have not been resolved to my satisfaction. The county has looked at it, and it makes little sense to have the public sector come in and run it if the private sector cannot make it work.

"Modernization of Metro Airport is important and should go through. I too support the bond issue and modernization project so long as it's done in concert with the community and special attention is paid to environmental issues and the quality of life of residents in the area."

City vs. suburbs:

"The relationship historically has been somewhat tense. We'd like to see that Detroit-suburb split broken down. We as commissioners see that split more closely, but with the executive style government that split is less important. The struggle isn't as important as it used to be. The county has not abandoned any community in the county. The fact is that the county can serve as a linkage between the communities and we have forged some of those links."

Environment:

"I think it will work. It's one of the most practical documents we've seen, come out of government. It does some very important things not being done in other parts of the state. We've more than just provided capacity, we've created an incentive for local governments. We're very optimistic on this issue. The plan is a good one, it looks at a global perspective. It's working..."

Victor E. Gustafson, 50, has been a resident of Canton for 10 years. He served as city council member from 1970-75 in Harper Woods. Gustafson owns and operates North American Marketing and Consulting, a firm which markets golf and sportswear apparel in the United States. He attended the University of Detroit and Wayne State University and has been active in community organizations, including president and founder of the Homeowners Advisory Council in Canton. He is currently a member of the Canton Planning Commission. He is married with three children.

"Naturally, I support Mettetal Airport. I think it's excellent for the community. There's a demand there for an excellent airport. It should be a benchmark in the state and for this country, how a community can take a diamond in the rough and turn into a thriving business.

"The bond proposal for Metro Airport is a very positive move, but positive to a point. The airport does not have the business development not service development around it. If we expand the airport and fail to logically develop the business potential around it, that's what we'll have—a fine airport unto itself, missing the business opportunity of linkage with the community."

"I intend to take a pro-active stance working with Detroit, but on the other hand recognizing the growth potential that is here in the 11th district. I envision the county as an umbrella establishing a linkage, working toward a common goal. We can certainly work for a bigger slice of the pie. Before we attack or work with (each other) we have to have accountability—there must be accountability. It's not happening."

"The solid waste issue is something of great importance to this community and the state. If we're running a solid waste plan it should be a Michigan solid waste plan. Landfills are quite an issue, a very volatile issue. People must understand that whether we like it or not we have to take better care of what we have. The solid waste effort is off to a good start but it does need some refinements."

Mack, Gustafson in 11th

BY KEN VOYLES

Canton voters will select a Wayne County Commissioner for the 11th District during the upcoming general election on Nov. 6.

A Republican challenger from Canton, Victor Gustafson, is taking on the Democratic incumbent Milton Mack. Mack resides in the City of Wayne.

The 11th District includes all of Canton as well as Van Buren Township, Belleville, Sumpter Township, Romulus, Huron Township and Wayne.

This is the first run at a county commission seat for Gustafson, 50, the owner of North American Marketing and Consulting. He is the founder of the Homeowners Advisory Council in Canton and currently sits on the Canton Planning Commission.

Gustafson is also a former city council member in Harper Woods (1970-75).

Mack, 41, a practicing attorney with firm of Petersmarck, Callahan, Bauer and Maxwell, has held the county post since being elected in 1982. He is currently a special assistant attorney general for the State of Michigan.

Before serving with the county, Mack was a member of the Wayne City Council from 1977-82. He holds degrees from Eastern Michigan and

41 groups expected CEP hosts state band show

This is it -- the big event for state high school marching bands.

Forty-one high school marching bands from across the state will compete for the state title during the Michigan Competing Band Directors Association (MCBDA) State Show on Saturday (Oct. 27) at Centennial Educational Park (CEP).

The host band this year -- the CEP Marching Band -- has won the state show five times in the past six years and will again vie for top honors. Show organizers include the Plymouth-Canton and Livonia Franklin band boosters.

The 41 bands will be divided into two flights with preliminary rounds during the day and finals in the evening. The Flight I and II preliminaries will be held from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. at CEP. Part of the prelims will also be held at Livonia Franklin High School.

The finals, including the top bands in both flights, begins at 7 p.m. at the CEP football stadium and will run to approximately 10:45 p.m.

Tickets for the competition can be purchased the day of the event, said organizers. They are $8 at the door, $6 in advance and $4 for seniors. Some advance sales will be available through band members this week.

CEP band wins

The Centennial Educational Park (CEP) Marching Band came home victors again this past weekend taking first place in the Jenison Marching Band Invitational.

The CEP marchers also captured Best Music, Best Marching, Best Percussion and Best Color Guard awards during the competition with eight other schools in their flight.

Among the schools to be on hand for the competition include: West Bloomfield, Linden, Davison, Mt. Pleasant, Clio, Clarkston, Milford, Ferndale, Allegan, Hartford, Milan, Trenton, Woodhaven, Westland John Glenn, Grand Blanc, Battle Creek Central, Novi, Flushing, Jenison, Grandville, Durand, Southgate, Troy, Algonac, Southfield, Cadillac and Montrose.

For further information call 451-0972.

Reception features local pols

State and local politicians, including Canton Supervisor Tom Yack and Plymouth Township Supervisor Maurice Hreen, are inviting residents to a Scholarship Reception benefiting the Canton Community Foundation Scholarship Fund.

The gala, to be held Oct. 29 from 6-8 p.m., will take place at Palermo's in Canton.

The cost is $100 per person. Proceeds will be used for a donation to the Canton and Salem high schools Close Up program.

Places to be

At Maybury State Park

Get spooked for SADD

See the spooks come out this Halloween at Maybury State Park in Northville Township during a Haunted Forest Walk will be sponsored by Students Against Driving Drunk (SADD) and Northville Community Recreation.

Walks will be held on Friday and Saturday evening (Oct. 26-27), beginning at 7 p.m.. The walk is expected to take about 20 minutes, and will conclude with a hay ride.

Cider and doughnuts will be served at the end of the hay ride, with other food being available for purchase. The cost of the event is $5.

Children under 11 must be accompanied by an adult. All proceeds will be donated to Northville SADD chapters. For more information call 349-0203.

Celebrate Halloween

Calling all spooks, gremlins, and wee goblins, the Canton Parks and Recreation Department is hosting a pair of Childrens Halloween Parties on Saturday, Oct. 27.

The parties, featuring games, refreshments, prizes, magic and a movie, are for Canton children ages three to seven and 12 and under.

They will be held at 9:30 a.m. (for 3-7 year olds) and 10:45 a.m. (for 12 and under) at the Canton Recreation Center on Michigan Avenue.

There is no admission fee. Children should come to the parties in costume; party reservations need to be made in advance.

For further information or to reserve a spot call 397-5110.

Pumpkin Caper in Plymouth

The annual Great Pumpkin Caper, sponsored by the Plymouth Community Chamber of Commerce, First of America and other local merchants, kicks off with a pumpkin carving and a baking contest this Sunday (Oct. 28).

The carving contest will be held from noon to 4 p.m. in the City of Plymouth's Gathering, while the baking competition will take place from noon to 2 p.m., also in the Gathering. Prizes will be awarded to top five winners in two categories. The competition is open to youths ages six to 13.

Youths can register for free at the chamber office (or call 453-1540 for further details).

Trick or treating will be held in downtown Plymouth on Tuesday (Oct. 30) starting at 5:30 p.m. A costume contest is planned that day also. Register at the bandshell at Penniman and Union beginning at 5:30 p.m.

All of the prizes from the events will be awarded on Tuesday evening.

Haunted forest on tap

Nothing is quite as scary as a midnight walk through a quiet, dark forest. Add gremlins, ghosts and ghouls and you've got a haunted forest.

As part of this year's Halloween celebrations the Plymouth-Canton Jaycees and the City of Plymouth will co-sponsor a Haunted Forest on Oct. 19-30.

The Jaycees are challenging residents to take a hike through the Jaycee Haunted Forest on selected evenings during those two weeks.

The event is for children and adults, but the Jaycees don't recommend it for toddlers or the fainthearted.

The Haunted Forest will be located on the north side of the Ford Motor Sheldon Road Plant, across from the M-14 Sheldon Road exit.

Visitors who survive the fright will complete the tour in about 20 minutes. The Jaycees suggest trekkers dress for the outdoor environment -- sturdy shoes are a must.

The spooks will offer 10 tours per evening starting at 8 p.m. A minimum of 10 people will be taken on each tour. The cost is $4 per person, $3 if paid in advance, and children under five get in free.

Proceeds from the event will go to fund Jaycee community projects.

Reservations must be made through the Plymouth Parks and Recreation Department, at 455-6620, weekdays 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m.

To ease solid waste costs

City bag-tag system to go on-line next month

PG. 21 THE COMMUNITY CENTER, October 24, 1990

BY PHILIP TARDANI

In about a month, the City of Plymouth will embark on its answer to rising solid waste disposal costs: the "bag of tag system."

The program -- comprised of a millage reduction and a fee for each receptacle put out at the curb -- is designed to put the cost of disposal on the person putting the most in the landfill.

"If you are a low volume user of the solid waste system, your costs will go down," said Paul Sincok, assistant city manager. "Prior to the bag or tag system, low volume users and people who take the time to recycle have been paying the disposal costs for high volume users."

Residents will pay $1 for each specially-marked bag or the same amount for a similar tag to mark a garbage can or large item put out to the curb. Any item not in the bag or marked will not be picked up, Sincok said.

By disposing of appropriate materials at the city recycling center (located behind city hall, 201 S. Main St.), residents can cut down on the number of bags or tags they use, he said.

The following items are taken at the recycling center:

•Types 1 and 2 plastics; the numbers are stamped in a triangle on the bottom of the receptacles. Plastics should be clean and crushed, with lids discarded. The label may be left on.

•Clear, brown and green glass. It should be sorted by color and the labels may be left on.

•Newspapers. They should be bundled in a paper bag, with no slick advertisements.

•Tin. Clean and crushed with labels

•Household batteries. Size AA, AAA, C, and D.

"I really believe there will be a big reduction in the amount of trash out at the curb," said Finance Director

William Graham, who helped put the program together. "I think the bag-tag program is a very good answer to covering the costs of solid waste disposal on an on-going basis."

Graham said that since 1987 solid waste disposal costs have increased 23 per cent. During the 1989-90 fiscal year, he said, disposal costs exceeded available resources by about $200,000, playing a large part in the city's $230,000 deficit.

The city is in the process of hiring a solid waste coordinator to help with implementation and enforcement of the program and take charge of the recycling center, Sincok said.

Graham said the amount of mills levied for solid waste disposal -- which has decreased from about 2.5 to 1.5 -- will likely go down further with implementation of curbside recycling, which could come as early as next summer.

The recycling center is open Tuesday through Thursday from 4 p.m. to 7 p.m. and Saturday from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Compost ordinance OK'd

BY SCOTT DANIEL

Ready or not, here it comes.

The Canton Board of Trustee unanimously approved an ordinance last Tuesday that will allow for a composting operation in the township. The ordinance will go into effect on Thursday.

"I think the ordinance addresses all the concerns residents had about composting," said Western Townships Utilities Authority (WTUA) Executive Director Ann Hollin. "All systems are on go."

A composting operation in Canton, in conjunction with WTUA, had been proposed for Geddes and Beck roads in May. But, plans stalled when citizens expressed concerns over drinking water contamination and smell, among others, from such an operation.

It appears the last hurdle the program will have to clear is approval from the Michigan Department of Natural Resources (DNR), Hollin said. She said she expects approval from the DNR within a month.

The new site for the program is on Michigan Avenue near Sheldon Road. Hollin said the compost farm will cover 70 acres in the township.

The site won't be ready for operation until about April of next year, she said.

Once open, the site, which will be run by Composting Systems Inc. of Ypsilanti, will accept such materials as grass clippings, leaves and other yard wastes for composting, Hollin said.

"I think we were better prepared this time to get the operation going," she said. "WTUA was much more involved this time."

New dialing step

Bell plan to affect P-C

BY KEN VOYLES

Plymouth and Canton Michigan Bell customers are switching over to a new dialing procedure to make long distant calls within the 313 area code.

Under the new procedure local customers will dial '1' plus the 313 area code and the local telephone number, according to Marcia Buhl, Michigan Bell's public relations director.

The change is being phased in throughout the 313 area to avert a phone number shortage early next year. Local exchanges '981' and '420' will have changed over by the end of this week.

It is expected that the other local exchanges '451,' '453,' '454,' '455,' and '459,' will complete the changeover by Nov. 28, said Buhl. The remaining local exchanges will be phased in after that.

The new procedure is expected to create an additional 1.5 million phone numbers by allowing the company to use any of the nation's other 152 area codes as the first three digits of local phones numbers in the 313 area code, Buhl added.

"This has been in the works for a long time," she said. "We knew we had to gain more telephone numbers in the 313 area. We first thought of a seven-digit dialing system, but too many customers voiced concern that they needed to know when they were making a long distance call.

"This now allows us to use all those other area codes as the first three-digit exchange," she continued. "We started in January of this year and hope to be complete by early 1991."

Buhl said two-thirds of Bell's customers are in the 313 area code. That equals 2.8 million out of 4.2 million customers in the entire state. She also said there are about five million phone lines in the 313 area.

The growing number of personal pagers, mobile phones, fax machines, computer modems and answering services in 313 area continued to the shortage being experienced, she said.

Northville exchanges affected include: '344,' '347,' '348,' and '349.'

Getting down to business

Fire union locates to Twp.

BY SCOTT DANIEL

All roads lead to Plymouth Township. At least for the state's firefighters they do.

The Michigan State Firefighters Union recently moved its headquarters to the township after spending the last several years in Southfield, according to union President Larry McColl.

"The union feels it's a privilege to move into Plymouth Township," he said. "We really like the community."

The union, which recently celebrated its 50th year of service, currently has about 5,500 members, McColl said. He said firefighters union includes 114 locals from Detroit to Marquette, including one in the township.

"We have all of the full-time firefighters in the state," McColl said,

"with the exception of five communities."

The decision to move headquarters to Plymouth Township was Chesneg's, McColl said. He added that the union usually moves its main office every few years to a different community.

The union, which is located on Haggerty Road off of Ann Arbor Road, has a two-year lease with an option for two more years to remain in the township, McColl said. He said the union left Southfield because of heavy traffic near its office.

"We moved out here because of the township's central location to many of our members," McColl said.

"Folks are more than welcome to come and check our facilities out," McColl said. "I think we have a lot to offer the community."

law for abortion," Shrewsbury said.

"I am not in favor of increasing taxes," he added. "On the other hand, I'm not in favor of reducing services to people."

Law cited economic concerns to be of major concern to him.

"Our overall business climate is still affected by business taxes and our business taxes are some of the highest in the country," he said.

"Property taxes in my district are very high and people are very upset about it," he added. "We're still at the state level trying to work out property tax/school finance reform."

vironmental issues affecting the county. He also wants to "maintain the county's financial strength" and improve the delivery of public services.

"One of my major goals is to see the full implementation of the solid waste plan," Mack said. "I want to see the follow through. It's going to take a lot of work."

Mack added that he is also concerned about issues centering on drains and road conditions throughout the county. "I also want to find a way to manage growth so that we don't waste our resources," he said.

Gustafson said his goals if elected include getting the county government to think and work on a "pro active stance."

He said, "I think we have to begin with the county government itself."

Gustafson also would work to improve the relationship between the county and its western communities. To that end he suggested an "ombudsman" type post for each county community.

"Roads are also important. It's a real dilemma," he said. "Yes, we're getting roads paved out here but something is wrong when we have to go through a double-taxation to get them done."

Other goals, he added, include working on reducing load limits on roads, continuing work on improving the environment, and forming a blue ribbon committee to study business development in the county.

Contractor: sump is an interceptor

West disagreed.

"I've sent Dick Duwel a notice to put in a separator in accordance with the original plans," he said. Oil separators are required to keep oil out of the sewer system, which ends up in the City of Detroit for treatment.

The original plans on file with the city for the building show an interceptor located in a sewer at the back of the dealership.

Robertson Plumbing revised the plans in 1987, Duwel said, to save time and money.

"There were some cost savings, but I think timing was as important as cost," he said.

West said that with a sump system, oil, which is lighter than water, floats to the top where it can be removed, while water drains into an outlet.

The sump is not as efficient as an interceptor, which removes the oil to a separate storage tank, West said, because only 18 inches of oil -- about 30 gallons in a two-foot diameter sewer -- can be collected before it also drains into the sewer.

The required interceptor has a 300-gallon separate storage tank for oil, he said.

West said the city did not receive a copy of the revised plans until last Thursday, adding that they should have been submitted at the time of the revision.

"I've indicated that I'm not going to approve the revised plans," he said.

Duwel agreed that the revision was submitted late.

"If he (West) felt it should have been handed to him sooner, he's right -- it should have been three years (sooner)," Duwel said. "But we got it approved and inspected in the field."

City plumbing inspector Cyril Atkinson, who is contracted to do the inspection, approved the Dick Scott Dodge building, and the sump system, in August of 1987.

"They made a change we didn't know about," Atkinson said. "I can't sit on that job every day."

The city will now insist that construction firms have approved plans located on-site, to make inspection easier, West said.

Debbie Mach, manager of Dick Scott Dodge, said the company will comply with city code requirements.

"I'm sure that we will, without a doubt," she said, noting that the correction was addressed to Duwel and not the dealership. "I just got the notice today."

According to the notice, Duwel has until Nov. 2 to provide data on the interceptor and until Dec. 14 to install it.

Salem, Canton grid teams to clash

Chiefs hope for win, playoff berth

BY RITA DERBIN

Dreams of the state football playoffs are almost a reality for the Canton football team. There's only one team standing in the way of the Chiefs' first ever playoff berth and that team is cross campus rival Salem.

"If we win we'll go to the playoffs," Canton coach Bob Khoenle said of the cross campus showdown. "If we lose we'll still have a good chance of making the playoffs but we'll have to watch and see what other teams do."

This week both teams are preparing for their annual meeting which takes place on Friday night at 7:30 at the Centennial Educational Park stadium. Salem has won five of the last six contests, including last year's game which knocked Canton out of the playoffs.

"They are definitely going to be favored," said Salem coach Tom Moshimer. "Canton is strong defensively and can put points on the board."

"I'm expecting them to keep bringing everyone at us," he added. "They're going to throw everything at us except the kitchen sink."

The Chiefs are 7-1 this season and Salem is 6-2 -- the identical records the two teams carried into their annual clash last year when the Rocks ruined Canton's chances of a playoff berth.

"There's no doubt there will be a lot of emotion on both sides going into the game," said Moshimer, whose Rocks have an outside chance of making the state playoffs if they beat Canton.

"The Chiefs are a very good senior team," he added. "And we have a junior team this year that is much improved -- there should really be a battle out there."

"This will be a tough game," said Khoenle. "It's critical, there are a lot of important things hanging on the outcome of the game."

Rock kickers nip

Canton rivals

BY RITA DERBIN

They were down but they were never out.

The Rocks (15-1-1) came from behind Monday night to defeat cross campus rival Canton 4-3 in the first round of the soccer district playoffs.

The victory advanced Salem, ranked second in the state coaches poll, to the district semi-finals tonight at Livonia Churchill against the Chargers in rematch of the conference championship game. The game begins at 7 p.m.

The Chiefs were ahead by scores of 2-0 and 3-1 during the first half but the Rocks regrouped and came out of the halftime break ready to play.

"Canton came out smoking and we were a little shell shocked," said Salem coach Ken Johnson. "They were beating us to the ball and we were a little let down after beating Churchill last week for the conference title."

The Rocks' scored in the first half on a goal from Tom Baker with an assist coming from Chris LaJoy.

At the 60 minute mark of the game Jake Baker scored on a header from Andy Cosenza. Joe Perron, who was just called up to varsity, then scored the tying goal three minutes later on a pass from Cosenza. Cosenza scored the winning goal on a pass from Tom Baker at the 75 minute mark. The Rocks then held on for five minutes for the victory.

"We're proud of the win," said Johnson. "Anything can happen when we play Canton but our captains came through with big games."

For the season, co-captain Cosenza leads the team with 19 goals and 23 assists.

Co-captain Ryan Fitzpatrick has played well at the fullback position all season, according to Johnson, and played well throughout Monday night's game.

"Ryan had a good game when we needed him," said Johnson. "He's been a solid player for us all season."

Last Wednesday the Rocks won the Western Lakes Activities Association conference title for the first time by defeating Livonia Churchill, 2-0.

Cosenza scored both goals in the victory. Assists went to Truskowski and LaJoy.

Chiefs land 6th place

in state golf regional

BY RITA DERBIN

Junior Jon Paupore qualified for state and led the Chiefs to a sixth place finish at the state golf regionals last Friday.

Paupore shot a 77 for Canton and was the fifth medalist at the tournament, which qualified him for the state meet held Saturday. At the state meet Paupore shot an 86.

"He's a very good player," said coach Fred Libbing. "He played real well all year and won a few tournaments for us."

"He's capable of shooting 77 at any time," Libbing added "He's a leader and will be our captain next year."

Finishing up his career at Canton was senior Kevin Holmes. Holmes was on the team four years and was always one of the top golfers on the team.

"He has been a real steady player for us," said Libbing. "He was our captain and an excellent player and fine person."

The Canton squad placed fourth at the conference meet this year. Overall, the team finished the season with a 3-2 record in the Western Division and 5-2 in conference play.

Canton hosts 'fowl' shoot

Test those basketball abilities and make a turkey out of the competitors by winning the first ever "Fowl Shooting" Contest at Hoben Elementary School on Nov 10.

Sponsored by the Canton Parks and Recreation Department, the contest will be divided into age brackets of nine and under, 10-12, 13-15, 16-18 and 19 and over.

Competitors will be given 10 shots from the free throw line. Winners, those who make the most free throws in each group, will be awarded a turkey and a plaque. Special prizes will also be given to those who make all 10 shots.

The first 10 "fowl shots," will be free. Each additional set of 10 costs $1. On-site registration, open to all area youths, will start at 9:45 a.m., with the contest beginning at 10 a.m.

For further information call 397-3110.

Women's b-ball in Dec.

The City of Plymouth Parks and Recreation Department will once again offer a Women's Basketball League beginning in December.

The entry fee is $300 for a 12-game schedule, plus $5 for each non-resident. Each team is allowed up to 10 non-resident players on a roster of 12.

Games will be played on Monday nights.

Registration begins the week of Nov. 12 for new teams. The league is limited to six teams. Action begins the week of Dec. 3.

For further information call 455-6620.

Play this Friday

CEP teams post grid wins

"It's going to come down to the team that plays the best defensively and makes fewer mistakes will win," Khoenle added. "We're going to do whatever we can to stop (Leon) Hister ... whatever it takes to win, we'll do it."

Last Friday, the Chiefs soundly defeated North Farmington, 34-9. Brett Howell caught a 35-yard touchdown pass from Mike Wougamon to begin the scoring. Karl Wukie then scored on runs of four and 15 yards. Wougamon added a 22-yard touchdown run and Jeff Nafe kicked a 29-yard field goal. On defense, Mark Meszaros had a safety for Canton.

"The whole team is playing well," said Khoenle. "Our defense is especially coming along well."

The Rocks avenged an earlier loss to Northville on Friday night by defeating the Mustangs, 27-13.

Senior quarterback Chris Tebben scored on a one-yard run in the second quarter to put the Rocks on the board and then connected with John Flynn for a touchdown in the third quarter. Hister then scored on runs of 56 and five yards to finish off the scoring. For the game, Hister ran with the ball 25 times for 165 yards.

Hister holds the Salem single season school record with 18 touchdowns and 968 total yards rushing. The junior tailback has carried the ball 133 times for an average of 7.3 yards per carry.

"This year we have had a lot of improvement from a predominantly junior team," said Moshimer. "The team started out slow but ever since the fifth game against Livonia Stevenson we have really come together on offense and defense."

"It should really be a battle Friday night," he added. "We'll just play the way we have all season."

Jr. Lions split

The Canton Lions junior football squad came away with a win, tie and a loss to the Westland Comets over the weekend.

The Lions Varsity pulled off a 12-6 win Sunday, scoring on a touchdown pass from Kevin Kovachevich to Jeremy Eaton and another score by T. J. Johnson in the third quarter.

The Junior Varsity Lions garnered a 7-7 tie with the Comets. Ed Krzeminski recovered a fumbled Comets punt in the endzone for the Lions touchdown and Bill Styles hit Brandon Curvin for the extra point.

The Freshmen Lions fell to the Comets 27-0.

The squad plays this Sunday at Central Middle School to finish their season. Games start at 1 p.m.

Steelers get 2 wins

The Plymouth-Canton Steelers junior football team took two wins over the Ann Arbor West Wildcats this past weekend.

The Freshmen Steelers won their game 14-0 on touchdowns by Ian Searcy and Kevin Salla.

The Junior Varsity Steelers won their game 12-6 with Robert Johnson popping in from the one-yard-line and Jason Hoban scampering 55 yards for the second touchdown.

The Varsity Steelers fell in their contest 33-14, scoring on a pair of Lenny Gardner touchdowns.

Spike league forming

Spike the ball during the upcoming Coed Volleyball League being sponsored by both the Canton and Plymouth parks and recreation departments.

The league, which runs for 14 weeks, begins Nov. 9 at West Middle School.

There is a 16-team limit.

The cost to join the competition is $160 per team, plus $15 for each player who lives outside the Plymouth Canton Community Schools district.

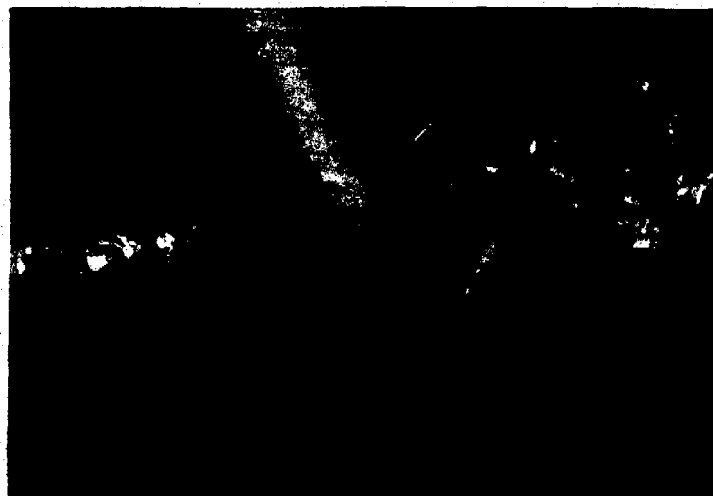

For further details call 397-5110.

Sunday at Plaza Lanes Bowl for Breath

Help strike out a killer on Sunday (Oct. 28) at the 13th Annual Cystic Fibrosis Bowl For Breath, taking place at Plaza Lanes, in Plymouth Township.

Participation is open to anyone who has obtained at least five pledges of one cent a pin or more. Bowlers will roll three games at a reduced charge, and be given a tee-shirt. Prizes will also be available.

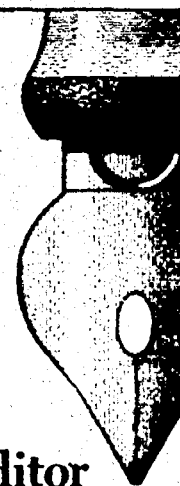

The event is scheduled for 12-5 p.m. Plaza Lanes is located at 42001 Ann Arbor Road. For more information call 354-6565.

Rocks sink Walled Lake Central

Hailey Brannon helps the Rocks swim to a 131-55 victory over Walled Lake Central on Thursday. Salem, 7-1 overall and 3-0 in division action, will take on third-ranked North Farmington Thursday night to determine the division title. (Crier photo by Eriq Lukasik)

Residents seek program answers

Dean Swartzwelter, board president, told the parents that he did not know about setting up a meeting. Instead he suggested parents talk to building principals and other district administrators.

Barb Graham, board trustee, suggested that parents form a parents group if their school did not already have one. "I don't think any of us really have all of the answers you need," she said.

Dave Artley, board vice president, said he wanted a report already being prepared by the school district administration to be put on a future agenda for public discussion.

The program has been in place at district elementary schools for about three years, said school officials.

Airport report

Canton to see if Mettetal was a reason they moved to the township. "None of them cited the airport as a reason," he told the board.

Buckman said the idea that Canton has plenty of land to develop for industrial park is "simply false." He said most of Canton's industrial zoned property is along Michigan Avenue in the Wayne-Westland Public Schools.

Canton Supervisor Tom Yack, who opposes municipal ownership of Mettetal even by an authority, helped prepare the report, Buckman told the board.

In a release dated Oct. 11, Yack said the use of any tax dollars to save "a recreational airport is not a wise use of money."

Yack added that the airport is considered a "nuisance by a number of Canton residents."

Barnes autopsy: no alcohol found

Canton Police Detective Brian Schultz said the Wayne County Prosecutor is currently determining which charges to file against a driver who allegedly hit Steven K. Barnes while crossing Haggerty Road north of Cherry Hill Road in Canton.

The case was turned over to the prosecutor last week after the results of an autopsy of Barnes.

"In cases like this, the charge could be manslaughter, it could be negligent homicide," Schultz said. "It's up to the prosecutor's office."

A second driver who also struck Barnes that night failed to stop after the incident. Police said the identity of the second driver remains unknown.

Canton Police Officer Pat Nemecek said a blood analysis of the first driver revealed a .18 blood alcohol level (BAC). A BAC level of .10 is considered to be legally intoxicated in Michigan.

An autopsy report on Barnes found no drugs or alcohol in his system, said

Shultz, who added the cause of death was a hemorrhage to the brain.

Schultz said that it was standard procedure to wait for an autopsy report before filing charges against a suspect.

"We had to find out the cause of death," Schultz said. "I wanted the alcohol level of the pedestrian. You can't just go with half of the information."

An arraignment of the first driver is expected to occur sometime this week, Canton Police said.
