

Smith Elected Jaycee U.S. Vice President

WENDELL SMITH

And now National President of the United States Jaycees in 1968. That's the aim of the Plymouth chapter after successfully campaigning Wendell Smith, the energetic president of two years ago and State President a year ago, to one of the 10 national vice presidents in the annual convention in Baltimore. A total of 26 members of the Plymouth group assisted by 293 Jaycees from all sections of Michigan waged a successful three-day campaign for Smith. They had visions of getting enough support to land the national presidency for Wendell but had to settle this time for a second place.

"We'll get it all next time," was their vow and judging from the way the Plymouth Jaycees performed in Baltimore and in Detroit a year ago, they have the know-how to get the job done.

For Smith, it was the highest honor he has attained thus far although he was picked as one of the nation's five outstanding State Jaycee Presidents earlier in the convention.

Smith received a Clayton Frost award from National President Bill Suttle, of Marion, N.C. The award is named in honor of Clayton Frost, who served as State Jaycee President in North Carolina. He was killed in an automobile accident in 1946 returning (Continued on Page 4-A)

Civic Dinner Honors Lord Mayor Thursday

One of the largest gatherings of business, industrial, civic and political leaders in the long history of Plymouth will be presented at the Centennial Dinner Thursday evening when His Worship, Frank Chapman, Lord Mayor of Plymouth, England, will be thanked, officially, for making the trip across the ocean to attend the celebration.

Heading the list of celebrities, aside from the British delegation, will be U.S. Senator Philip A. Hart, who will deliver the principal address.

With him will be State Representative James Tierney, State Senator George Kuhn and most of the members of the City Commission to represent government.

All major industries in the area will be represented with special tables of officials and all of the fraternal groups in the area will be in attendance.

Sir James Easton, Consul-General for Her Majesty, Queen Elizabeth, will head the British group that will help pay tribute to the Lord Mayor. With him will be R. V. Juchau, British Consul.

The Lord Mayor, who arrived in Plymouth on Monday, will have members of his government with him. They will include S. Lloyd Jones, LL.M. Town Clerk; Alderman R. G. King and Alderman H. M. Pattinson.

Never have so many foreign officials visited Plymouth for a single occasion and a gathering of more than 300 guests is expected to attend.

Following the traditional toasts to Queen Elizabeth and the President of the United States, the Lord Mayor and his group will be welcomed by Mayor James Jabara. Then, speaking for the nation, Michigan's senior senator will add his welcome and deliver the main discourse.

Following the response from the Lord Mayor, he will present a very unusual gift to the City of Plymouth. It will be a 50-pound block of granite taken from the dock in Plymouth, England, from which the Mayflower (Continued on Page 9C)

2 Youths Caught In Break-In

Two 18-year-old youths will appear for examination in Plymouth Municipal Court July 10 on a charge of attempted breaking and entering with intent to commit larceny following their apprehension by Plymouth police June 29.

Police nabbed the pair while allegedly attempting to gain illegal entry into Beyer Drugs, 1100 W. Ann Arbor Rd.

They were arraigned the following day and bond was set at $2,000 each. Both men pleaded not guilty.

The two charged are William Edward Pentecost, 18, a former Plymouth resident who now resides at 1926 Washtenaw, Ypsilanti, and Dale Richey Schultz, 18, 1101 S. Harvey, Plymouth.

Police also questioned the pair relative to any connection with a downtown Plymouth break-in June 28 when six pistols and revolvers, ammunition, $50 in cash, a wastebasket and two automobile tachometers were stolen from the Western Auto Associates Store, 884 Penniman.

They deny having participated in that robbery, according to police.

Council Sets Study of Charter

Members of the City Commission are not going to be given a chance to relax after the activities of the big Centennial celebration of this week.

"We've got several big jobs to do," Mayor Jabara pointed out, "and we're going to settle down and do them."

"We've got the big task of making a thorough study of the City Charter, and then the zoning ordinance. Each of these is a gigantic task and it means work throughout the summer."

Commissioner George Hudson instigated the activity on the charter several weeks ago when he asked for a study of certain sections before he could vote on several appointments.

"Before I vote on these appointments," he said at the time, "I would like a clarification of the terms of the charter."

As a result the appointments were held in abeyance. Commissioner Hudson then offered his services to make the study of the charter.

"This is not a one-man job," Mayor Jabara retorted, "and I will appoint a committee to do the job."

Thus far, the committee has not been named but the Mayor promises to have a committee at work in short order.

The zoning ordinance has been prepared and a study already has begun on what gives every promise of being a long, drawn out controversial issue.

The street paving program also is going to come in for further study and action, especially since the property owner's protest of the South Main portion of the program.

Out of Frying Pan Into Fire For Rossman

New School Chief Joins Bargaining Talks

It will be out of the frying pan and into the fire for James Rossman, who officially became the Plymouth School District's new superintendent Saturday morning.

Rossman, who is leaving the St. Clair Shores system to succeed retiring Supt. Russell Isbister, was busy with negotiations with the St. Clair Shores' Teachers' Association team from 6 p.m. Friday until the wee hours Saturday morning.

As Superintendent, he headed the administration team in the negotiations which started in March and reportedly are still far from nearing agreement.

Then at midnight Friday, Rossman stepped out of the negotiations in St. Clair Shores and now will become a member of the Plymouth School district negotiating team that is also trying to arrange a suitable contract with the Plymouth Education Association team.

Like Rossman, Supt. Isbister and his associates on the Administration team met with the PEA negotiators Thursday evening at 7 p.m. in Junior High East in his final appearance at the sessions.

It was a quiet session during which little was accomplished although both groups discussed the proposals made by each. Then after that session, Isbister shook hands with the four negotiators for PEA and officially bowed out.

The meetings were resumed Wednesday morning at 8 a.m. with Supt. Rossman joining the administration team which will be headed by Asst. Supt. William Harding and also includes Earl Gibson, special co-ordinator.

The PEA team is headed by Chief Negotiator Thomas Cavannaugh, President Philip Johnson, President-elect Ray Homer and Vice President William Drudge.

Just Learn Blacksmith Trade

Big Money For One Who Likes Horses

ANN ARBOR—A young person who likes horses, is strong, and would like a high-paying job has one waiting for him.

Herseshoeing.

According to Ross J. Wilhelm, business economist in the University of Michigan Graduate School of Business Administration, a top-flight blacksmith who specializes in shoeing race horses often earns $30,000 a year and may go as high as $40,000.

The reason for the high wage, Wilhelm says, is that the number of horses in the United States is increasing more rapidly than the number of blacksmiths and the high wages reflect this short supply.

Horses declined in number with the coming of the automobile and tractor at the turn of the century. However, with incomes rising since the mid-1950s, he explains, the number of horses used for hunting, hocking, and pleasure riding has been galloping upward. The supply of blacksmiths has not kept pace.

Wilhelm explains why a horse needs a blacksmith's attention:

"A horse's hoof grows about four inches a year with the heel growing about a half-inch more than the toe. Given the proper conditions a horse may not need shoes. Unshod saddle and light harness horses may do easy work on soft, dry soil.

However, even unshod horses require the regular attention of a blacksmith to trim the hoof and to check any splitting or cracking of the wall."

Under most other soil and climate conditions, he adds, it is almost impossible for a horse to do a day's work without shoes. The horn of the hoof becomes soft and pulpy, absorbs moisture, and wears excessively. This will cause the horse to go lame or become tender footed.

Wilhelm estimates that a three- or four year old horse under normal conditions will require that his hooves be trimmed and his shoes be refitted about every three

Boehms Wins RADA Award

Lewis W. Boehms, 35611 Minton, no longer is a retail gas dealer, but neither is he a forgotten man.

A long time ago Boehms switched over to the business of distributing automotive parts, doing business with many of his old business associates and friends.

He remained active in their organization's interests and became an associate member under the name of Garfield Auto Parts.

As a reward for his efforts and interests, the Retail Automobile Dealers Association of Michigan gave him the Meritorious Service Award for 1967, at a dinner at Detroit's Sheraton Cadillac Hotel. It read:

"In recognition and appreciation of his outstanding contribution to economic progress and the highest standards of service in the retail petroleum industry in Michigan through his leadership and vigorous support for the ideals and programs of the association."

big problem encountered by most older blacksmiths is that their legs and arms give out and are not up to the arduous work."

Some racetrack blacksmiths offer courses and a number of agricultural colleges and universities also have blacksmith programs.

"I have often wondered why some of the larger schools that offer such courses do not use this as a means for providing their football players with skills that would enable them to have very lucrative summer employment," the economist adds.

A football player would meet all of the physical requirements, of course, and this would provide a means of helping him through school without giving him money."

Amer. Motors Group Honors Area Retiree

Russel D. Foley's 37 years of work in the automobile industry were honored at a retirement party for him at Roma Hall.

Foley, 31441 Sheridan, Garden City, retired after 23 years with American Motors Engineering. He was supervisor of heater and air-conditioning development, and had been one of a group who pioneered front-mounted, air-conditioning.

Prior to joining American Motors, Foley had been a chassis and engine draftsman for 11 years at Graham Paige, a year at General Motors Diesel, and two at Ford.

He was presented with a stereophonic record player and some small humorous gifts, such as a fan to spoof his work in air-conditioning.

Principal speaker was John F. Adamson, Vice President of Engineering, in American's Auto Division.

Master of ceremonies was Carl E. Burke, 11035 Auburndale, Livonia, and another speaker was L. J. Ladouceur, 29120 St. Martins, Livonia.

Development Group Plans Brochure

Westland's Industrial and Commercial Development Corp. is planning to distribute a four-page brochure in the near future with a larger one expected to be completed as soon as the necessary information is completed.

Gerald T. Harris, president of the private corporation, said that the four-page brochure will "spell out the reasons why industry should locate in Westland."

He also said that the group, formed last December as a non-profit organization to attract more business and industrial firms to the city, has already advertised in Detroit newspapers to accomplish this purpose.

The corporation has been holding a survey among owners of vacant properties in Westland to see if they would be interested in having their land sold for future commercial or industrial use.

The results of that survey, which includes pertinent information about the properties which potential buyers would want to know, will be incorporated into the larger brochure, Harris said.

The corporation president also urged local businessmen to support the organization so more funds could be obtained to promote more industrial growth in the city.

In separate action on the same topic, the Westland City Council met in closed session last week with Mayor Thomas H. Brown to discuss the formation of an industrial development department within the city government.

Discussion centered around the location of the office and the proper procedure in getting personnel, Brown said.

"Another meeting will be held in the near future with people experienced in this field attending," the mayor concluded.

The city budget for the fiscal year which started Saturday included a $15,000 appropriation for industrial development commission within the municipal government.

Remapping Stalled, Await U.S. Edict

Wayne County's reapportionment machinery clanked to a halt today in the wake of a Michigan Supreme Court decision and a ruling that the commission has no duties. The twin developments follow an April 10 Michigan Supreme Court decision ruling the state law on the subject unconstitutional. County Clerk Edward M. Branigan said: "As a result of the at-ney general's opinion, the reapportionment commission here in Wayne County has decided there is no point in proceeding at this time. "The United States Supreme Court was expected to settle the question of whether county boards must be reapportioned on a one-man one-vote basis in its spring term. "But now I understand the issue has been carried over to the fall term."

Branigan said the county commission was granted a 60-day extension of life by the State Court of Appeals. The extension expires July 13 but the commission will ask for another 60 days. Secretary of State James

Hare sent the county commission the applicable parts of an opinion issued by State Atty. Gen. Frank J. Kelley. Kelley said the law under which the commission was formed "is presently ineffective."

Kelley said the entire issue is before the courts and "as to the duties of the County Apportionment Commission... they have none." However Kelley suggested the county keep the commission alive and ready to act in the event of a court reversal of the state decision.

Independence - Where?

The Farmington Township fire department fought the battle of Independence four days early last week.

Friday at 9 a.m. a call brought them to Independence Green on the west side of the Township.

It proved to be a false alarm. The fire was actually on Independence St. at the apartments near Botsford Inn.

Children were playing with matches in the basement and the blaze was quickly doused.

An excited housewife gave the wrong street. Both Independence Drive and Independence Court are streets in the Independence Green country club and apartment development. Independence St. is near Botsford.

Fire department spokesmen urge everyone on any Independence to know exactly on which one they are.

And the department has a new phone number - 474-2233.

An Ex-WAC Is New Commander Of Legionnaires

Meet Mrs. Dorothy Koi, 17th District Legion Commander.

A former WAC who lives in Plymouth has become only the third woman in Michigan history to be elected Commander of an American Legion district.

Mrs. Ernest (Dorothy) Koi, a member of Myron H. Beals Post No. 32 of Livonia, has just recently been accorded that honor by delegates of the six Legion posts which comprise Michigan's 17th District.

These include Redford Township, Plymouth, Northville, Livonia and two western Detroit posts.

She and other newly elected District officers - all men - will be installed in a special ceremony to be held Sunday, Aug. 13 at Mrs. Koi's home post in Livonia.

Long active in Legion affairs, the new District head served in the WAC's during World War II in a unit assigned to the Air Corps.

She has held several lesser District offices, and was commander of the Beals Post in 1964-65. She also has held a variety of elected positions within the State Department of the Legion, but none has carried the significance of her newly won District command.

Her husband, Ernest, has been equally active as a Legion member.

However, he and his wife do not belong to the same post.

Koi is a member of Passage-Gayde Post No. 391 of Plymouth and twice has served as commander of that organization. He, too, held the role of District Commander in 1961-62, and this year was chairman of the Wolverine Boys State program within his post.

Commander Koi (Dorothy) is a native of Pennsylvania and Ex-Commander Koi (Ernest) of Ohio. They have lived in Plymouth the last 15 years. He is in the sales and accounting fields, while Mrs. Koi is employed by the Godard & Godard Co., Detroit.

The question of who is to salute whom is their own to resolve.

Other newly elected 17th District officers, to be installed at the same time as Commander Koi, include:

Bill Ballenger, junior vice commander; Pete Crawford, historian; T. Roragen, chaplain; Joseph Andrews, sergeant-at-arms; Arnold Dembrowski and Irvin Geer, executive committeemen, and Bow Bewer, alternate committeeman.

MSU Grads Form New Alumni Group

EAST LANSING—A new independent alumni association, to be run by alumni, has been granted a charter by Michigan State University's trustees. The new organization will be called the MSU Alumni Association.

It will operate with a high degree of flexibility and freedom as a partner, rather than a department, of the university, according to John R. Kinney, presently director of MSU's Department of Alumni Relations and MSU Development Fund.

Kinney was chosen by the association's 59 founders to serve as continuing director, chairman of the board and executive director of the organization.

The new association will incorporate the structure of the present department, retaining the personnel who direct its many activities and assuming responsibility for administering alumni relations and activities.

COG Fails To Attract Area Units

It may have been the weather, it may have been due to the fact that a long weekend holiday was coming up and it may have been lack of interest but governmental representatives from the area covered by the Observer Newspaper Group were conspicuous by their absence at the meeting of the proposed Southeastern Michigan Council of Governments in the Southfield High School.

The Council is an outgrowth of the Committee of 100, of which Retiring Plymouth School Supt. Russell Isbister and Plymouth Supervisor John McEwen, were members.

Perhaps it was because he was a member of the original '100' that McEwen was present or perhaps he is genuinely interested in the Council but the fact remains that he was the only governmental representative present from the Plymouth community.

The City of Plymouth and the Plymouth School Board were not represented. Matter of fact, in the entire circulation area, only the Livonia School Board (Supt. Behton Yates), Redford Township (Supervisor Al Bellaire), Nankin Mills School District (David Goose), City of Farmington (Curtis Hall), and Farmington School District (Leland Clifford) were represented.

As it was, Wayne County delegates successfully fought off a movement to curtail their voting power in the Council. They beat down two restrictive amendments and adopted by laws. The amendments would have eliminated the Wayne County-dominated executive council as a policy making body.

They would have placed the powers in the general assembly in which each of the 50 local units now belonging to the Council would have had an equal vote.

Other powers delegated under the bylaws or yielded by the Assembly would have been given to the executive council which eventually will seat 25 members, 11 from Wayne County.

The opposition forces were led by Detroit Councilman Mel Ravitz, Highland Park Mayor Michael M. Glusac, and William L. Mainland, of Milford, the chairman of the bylaws committee.

Calling the amendments a "means of nullifying the effectiveness" of the group, Ravitz said some of the outcounty delegates "showed an unnecessary fear, since the bylaws as written offer the assembly the opportunity to override any action by the council."

Glusac commented: "I had hoped this council would be above bringing up 'big, bad Wayne County' and how it would control this august body. If even half of the other members show up at meetings, they could outvote Wayne County any time."

Mainland said he was "not afraid of the Wayne County bogeyman."

"If this calls for vigilance, then so be it. Let all members turn out and outvote Wayne County."

In other business, the delegates approved a budget of $250,000 or the rest of this year and the 1968 fiscal year. Also approved was a 20 percent reduction in membership fees for cities, villages, townships and school districts.

Post Office Hikes Limit On Parcels to 25 Pounds

Persons, sending mail, will be able to send 25-pound parcels between first class post offices which are 150 miles or more apart. The new provision became effective July 1 and contrasts with the 20-pound limit prior to that date.

This is the first of five increases scheduled to take effect annually until 1971 when a 40-pound, 84-inch maximum size will be authorized between all first class offices. Size limitations are now 72 inches in combined girth and length.

The next increase on July 1, 1968 will raise the weight limit to 30 pounds. On July 1, 1969, the limit will be increased from 30 to 40 pounds; on July 1, 1970 to 78 inches; and on July 1, 1971, to the new maximum of 84 inches.

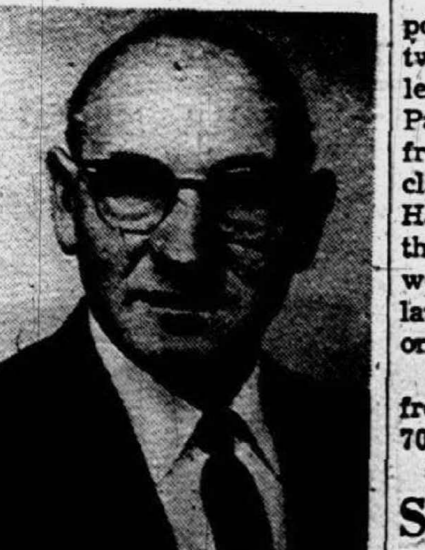

Parcels weighing up to 40 pounds may be mailed between first class post offices less than 150 miles apart. Packages addressed to and from second, third and fourth class post offices, Alaska and Hawaii are not affected by the increase in size and weight provisions of the new law which became effective on January 1.

Parcel post mailings to and from these offices remain at 70 pounds and 100 inches.

Set Sign Up For Swimming

Redford Union youngsters who want swimming lessons may sign up for the two periods, from July 17 to 28 and July 31 to August 11, at Redford Union High School today, tomorrow and Friday from 9 to 11.

On Saturday, registration will be from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. The fee for lessons is $5.

HAROLD ENGEL of Detroit Edison's data processing department will be honored by the company this month upon his 45th Service Anniversary. Engel, who has made his home at 39236 Florence in Garden City for the past 12 years, joined the Edison Company in June, 1922, as a billing clerk.

Selection of the top five state presidents is made by a special judging panel, at the national convention, which bases its decision on a review of the accomplishments and activities of state presidents during their year in office.

That was just an indication of what was coming. The Plymouth group was campaigning actively for Smith for President, the remainder of the Wolverine delegation joined in and had something going — but it wasn't to be.

Smith went to the convention as the Past Michigan President and a national director.

Strange as it may sound, it was Pat Duggan, of Livonia, who succeeded him as President.

Smith, who has an executive position with Kroger Co. at the huge warehouse in Livonia, has made tremendous strides in the Plymouth Community and in the Jaycees organization in the past two years.

His climb started when he was elected vice president three years back and then succeeded Joe Fletcher as President when the latter shifted his activities to the Baltimore area.

A year later, Smith was named president and because of the many projects he started during his term as vice president, he was selected by the Plymouth Jaycees for the Distinguished Service Award as "Young Man of the Year" in 1966.

At the state convention that year, he was named one of the five "Young Men of the Year" in Michigan and came out of the session as the new State President.

It was his dynamic leadership that found Michigan backing him for a national post in the Detroit convention—and succeeded in having him named a national director.

Under Smith's guidance Michigan received first award for chapter extension and climbed from 31st to 10th nationally for accomplishments by a state chapter.

A reception will be held at the Smith home Saturday evening when the Baltimore delegation returns.

The group from Plymouth included: Mr. and Mrs. Terry West, Mr. and Mrs. Cal Strom, Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Youhey, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Jacobson, Mr. and Mrs. John Ferguson, Dr. and Mrs. Robert Turck, Mr. and Mrs. Wendell Smith, Mr. and Mrs. Donald Derr, Dr. Gary Hall, Ernest Moran and Arlene Ripard, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Fletcher joined the Plymouth delegation and invited all to their new home in Baltimore.

State Plans Beetle Traps For District

Plymouth and Northville are among the southern Michigan communities designated by the Michigan Department of Agriculture for location of Japanese beetle traps as part of its 1967 control program.

The Department will place 20,000 yellow plastic traps across the southern portion of the state. Beetles are attracted to the traps by an aromatic oil.

Where beetle populations are detected, lawns and fields will be treated to eradicate the pest at no cost to the property owners, according to a state spokesman.

It is estimated that Japanese beetles cause more than $10 million in crop damages annually in the United States. Michigan losses have been kept extremely low through such control programs as that now being undertaken.

Slides, Recordings Given to Girl Scouts

Enter now... Your Child Can Win! 33rd National CHILDREN'S PHOTOGRAPH CONTEST! Cash, awards and gifts totalling $50,000.00

Several months ago wildflower slides became available to us through the generosity of a benefactor. These slides were beautiful, interesting and educational and consequently the leaders began using them to teach the Girl Scouts just a little extra about wildflowers.

Our benefactor was pleased to see that his gift was so widely used and has now made available to us film strips on amphibians, reptiles, birds and moths. There are 25 slides on each of these four film strips and also recordings to be used in conjunction with them.

Note to leaders—You must have a tape recorder if you wish to use the recordings, and please remember to put in your reservations early if you wish to use this excellent material.

JUNIOR TROOP 224, which meets at Middlebelt School, Mrs. June Hoffman, leader, held a cookout the end of May at the home of Mrs. Heuer in Lincolnshire. The girls worked on their backyard fun badge and also managed to cook their meal of hamburgers over an open fire.

Just after school closed for the year, the troops went out to the campgrounds at Kensington Park and spent the weekend at Arrowhead Lodge. The 6th graders of the troop also went camping at Arapaho with Cadette 1005 early in June.

This same group went to Washington for four days beginning June 26 with Troop 1005. The girls in this group are: Joan Bartlett, Vickie Bice, Lori Barto, Feli Engelbrecht, Betsy Hoffman, Gail Heuer, Vickie Kindler, Sandy Leone, Jan Wolfe.

Mrs. June Hoffman will not be staying with the troop next year so we are now in the process of finding new co-leaders to keep the troop going next fall.

FOR THE FARMINGTON City Neighborhood meeting in June the leaders met at the Farmington City Park for breakfast.

These ambitious leaders baked sweet rolls in a cardboard box. Sound impossible? Well, they just lined the box with aluminum foil, using several thicknesses on the bottom, put bricks in a circle on the bottom and set about 10 hot coals in the center. They then put the baking pan on top of the bricks, closed the box and let them bake.

The district chairman, Mrs. Leona Stidwell, was invited to the meeting, and also the new leaders in the Neighborhood.

ONE OF OUR local Senior Scouts, Tess Schaefer, from Miss Bridget Reagan's Troop, will be studying in Spain this summer and will be carrying a letter of introduction from the Girl Scouts of the United States. She hopes to meet Girl Guides in Spain. She is a trained program aide.

Our camp directors, Margaret Socall and Eileen Schaefer, tell me that things are just about set for Camp Arapaho but of course they can always use extra help. If any of our mothers have time to spare, call one of the directors and offer your help.

GARY SHORTT and his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph M. Shortt of 23930 Grace, Farmington, were among the nearly 1,000 guests who visited the 31st Annual Student Art Exhibition at Wayne State University.

The younger Shortt received a Merit Award in painting in addition to being honored by having his design used for the announcement poster advertising the show.

WASHINGTON REPORT

Draft Reforms Rapped By Esch

Final action on extending the draft law was completed last week and unfortunately Congress has done little in the way of desperately needed reform.

This is particularly discouraging to me and especially distressing to Second Congressional District families who are expected to send 108 of their sons to fill the August draft quota which is almost twice as many as June and July combined.

My concern for the establishment of uniform national criteria was at least partially satisfied by the House version of the bill. However, because of the adamance of Senate conferees the provision was weakened.

It is not fair when there are two men of identical status and one is drafted and the other is not because of different policies followed by their local draft boards. The final draft law represents only a very small beginning toward remedying this situation.

The conference also expunged a simple statement of purpose that the government would attempt to meet its military manpower needs through adequate voluntary enlistment before it would resort to compulsory conscription.

I am not satisfied with the consideration Congress has given to the draft. We owe far more to our nation's young men whom we ask to risk their lives in military combat. As a result, I am planning the following actions:

- 1) Sponsorship of legislation to amend the law to provide for uniform national criteria for Selective Service classification emphasizing explicitly that the draft is a residual source of manpower to be employed only when absolutely necessary.

I hope that the American people do not have to wait another long four years for Congress to give attention to the problems of the draft, which after all, affects every family more directly and more seriously than any other single policy of our government.

Let me also add that there has been much confusion over what actual changes were made in the new law, many details of which are left up to the President. If you have questions, please write me at the House Office Building, Washington, D.C., and at the same time let me also have the benefit of your views.

COST OF DRIVING dropped $83,709 for area motorists insured by the AAA on July 1. Two who should benefit are (left) Patty Farmer, 13250 Ridge Road, Plymouth and Rodger Van Derveen, 686 Herald, Plymouth, shown with Plymouth AAA Manager Tom O'Hara (center). They illustrate that Plymouth area customers should realize that amount from the $1 million rate reduction with a 10 per cent refund of the cost of 1966-7 auto insurance policies.

Moelke Ripped By Zone Appeals Board

Councilmen named two new members to the Zoning Board of Appeals and voted down a request Mayor Harvey W. Moelke be summoned before them to explain why he "usurped the prerogatives of this board."

The resolution from the board said Moelke has overruled some building permits approved by the board.

The Council named Robert Bennett to fill out an unexpired term held by the resigned Russel D. Haller and also to a full three-year term and Jerry Brown to a one-year term, succeeding Robert L. Coopes.

Board members by a split vote asked the Council to "explain . . . why he is attempting to abort and not follow the legal resolutions and variances granted by the Zoning Board of Appeals."

It charged that Moelke directed aides to withhold building permits.

Council President Peter A. Ventura said the Council is "within its rights to direct the mayor to cease and desist." He was joined by Councilman Edward Milligan in casting the two votes for the resolution.

"I think it's high time that this council stood up and took the right side of the law in these matters," Ventura said.

City Attorney Steve Polgar said that "in some cases the mayor would be derelict" in not overruling the board after receiving counsel from the law department.

Milligan said the Council was actually being more courteous than necessary, that it could use its investigative powers and take Moelke to court to determine

McKinley School Hit By Fire

Smoke damaged most of Livonia's McKinley School, 9101 Hillcrest, although fire was confined to the receiving room where it apparently started.

William Duckett, 55, who lives across the street at 9038 Hillcrest, told police he smelled smoke and then saw flames in a window of the school. He called the Livonia Fire Department, and squads commanded by Captain Donald Folsom extinguished the fire.

School furniture, clothes, and miscellaneous items from the lost and found were burned in the fire, the cause of which was unknown.

Parents, Teens Told Shun Group Influence

EAST LANSING — Teen-age 4-H'ers were told at MSU to think for themselves rather than "go with the crowd."

Following a theme of "Teen Citizenship" during the 49th annual 4-H Club Week, more than 1,200 teenagers from all over Michigan heard Dr. Owen Morgan and Morley Fraser, among other speakers.

Dr. Morgan, Director of the Skillman Center Program at the Merrill-Palmer Institute in Detroit, said teens must have the courage to challenge the "They" concept, and live their own lives.

Many of the teen-agers, who planned the program themselves, brought their parents for the final sessions. Dr. Morgan said teens must learn to take over their own lives, and live them responsibly, "basically on their own steam."

This must be done in a responsive way, Dr. Morgan said. "Too many people sit around, waiting for someone else to give them their life, and fulfillment for that life."

He and Morley Fraser, head football coach at Albion College, challenged teens and parents to make their own decisions based on what is right for them, and not influenced by others.

Challenging the concept of "They"—that vague, undefined force of "everyone else," is essential to becoming an individual and living one's own life in this mass society, Dr. Morgan said.

Fraser discussed the parents' role in making mature, responsible citizens of their teen-agers.

Fraser said parents also have a responsibility not to follow the crowd. Parents that always say "yes" because other parents do, don't really love their children.

Cycles Skid, 2 Men Hurt

Two motorcyclists were injured when one turned in front of the other.

Leonard R. Moran, 31, of 1133 Denice, Wayne, and Robert E. Lang, Jr., 22, of 34607 Pinetree, Livonia, were both riding north on Stark Road.

Lang made a left turn in front of Moran, who skidded on loose gravel into Lang.

They were taken to the Parkview Medical Clinic by Robert E. Lang, Sr.

Add Student To County Staff

Oakland County Democratic Committee Chairman, George Googasian, has announced the appointment of a new member of the County Committee's staff.

Judy Varner has been awarded a seven-week internship by the National Democratic Committee following recommendation by former Congressman Billie Farnum, who is presently deputy chairman in charge of voter registration for the National Democratic Party.

Miss Varner has been assigned to the Oakland County Democratic Headquarters, 1700 S. Telegraph Road, Pontiac. This internship is part of the nation-wide program by the National Committee to involve a larger number of young people in the political process.

Grand prize—a trip to California with the Tigers will be announced in August . . . if some other kid on Penn wins, they'll flip.

Val and Iris Connolly of Greenland Avenue, hosted about 50 friends last weekend for a 'spanish re-union.'

The Connollys spent about four years in Spain working for the school system, returning to Livonia in 1961, vowing to meet their friends again.

Most guests came from all over the United States, Philippines and Mexico for the reunion party—the Connollys neighbors opening their homes for housing the travelers.

Spanish food, music and decor created the atmosphere for the occasion as the Connollys greeted their old friends, Spanish style.

The Livonia Non-Partisan Club (they sponsored the fun-picnic and baseball game between the Democrats and Republicans last week) has had a new election of officers for the coming year: Ben Thomas, president; Casey Patzsch, Vice-President; Treasurer, Joe Drost and Secretary, Jackie Thomas.

John, having enlisted in the Air National Guard, will leave for Texas this week for basic training. He plans to become a Livonia Policeman, if Uncle Sam doesn't have different ideas.

LOUIS ADAMS, 9084 Gillman, Livonia, has been appointed a district manager for a national life assurance society. After 10 years as a Michigan State Police officer, Adams joined the assurance company in February 1966. He has won many awards and currently is "Man of the Quarter."

Students Named To Dean's List

Five Farmington residents have been named to the dean's list at Ferris State College. To be named to the list, a student must maintain a B average while carrying a full academic load.

The five are Robert F. Byrnes, 22037 Haynes, pharmacy; Joseph W. Clark, 30419 12 Mile Rd., technical and applied arts; Keith J. Market, 23540 Glencreek, commerce; Richard M. McChesney, 26632 Greystone, general education; and William E. Ranck, 29820 Woodbrook, commerce.

Serves in Vietnam

Airman Apprentice Neil A. Davis, USN, son of Mrs. Eileen J. Harden of 22488 Violet, Farmington, helped land Marines and equipment in South Vietnam, 17 miles south of Da Nang, as a crewman aboard the amphibious assault ship USS Tripoli.

Farmington GI Finds Bit of Humor in War

A Farmington Township soldier's letters home from Vietnam mix the humor of a military cook with the battles and death in the war.

This was so in a recent letter received by Mrs. George Culp, of 20904 Robinson Street, whose son is PFC Arleigh R. Hamm, 19.

He has been in the Army since February, 1966. He sent home a clipping which described the battle, involving the 11th Armored Cavalry Regiment near Ton Son Nhut. Hamm received a minor injury when his tank crew fought a Viet Cong battalion.

At the end of the letter,

FHS Lad Does Fishery Research

Bruce Carlson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard B. Carlson, 28880 Wellington, is taking part in an eight-week science training program at the University of California, San Diego's Scripps Institution of Oceanography.

A student at Farmington High School, Carlson will work with Dr. Elbert H. Ahlstrom, director of the U.S. Bureau of Commercial Fisheries' Fishery-Oceanography Center, on fishery research.

Hamm added the comment that an Army cook asked him to "bring home a Viet Cong head that he wanted to take home for a porch light."

The letter also related how his unit captured a Viet Cong prisoner and took two pictures of him; and that dope addicts in America would "have a field day" in Vietnam where narcotics grow out in the open.

The clipping from the Army newspaper, "Stars and Stripes," described the tank regiment battle which took place about 30 miles east of Saigon.

"As the platoon swept the highway for mines," the newspaper said, "the enemy force cut loose from the 10-foot high elephant grass on the roadside, hitting the cavalymen with anti-tank fire, rockets and automatic weapons.

"The armored unit was composed of Armored Cavalry Assault vehicles, a tank, mess truck, and a gulf jeep. Every vehicle was hit at least once by anti-tank rounds or rockets.

"During the firefight, which lasted 10 minutes, 16 Americans and 20 Viet Cong were killed. Only one soldier escaped the enemy attack uninjured.

"The platoon's tank was hit 14 times. Three of its four-man crew were injured when the first round hit."

Pfc. Hamm is the son of Mrs. Culp and the late Arleigh A. Hamm.

Tip of Hat to Livonia Police For Road Aids

Hats off to the Livonia Police Department. It is doing something to ease the traffic jams caused by the closing of Farmington Road from Eight Mile to Five Mile by the Wayne County Road Commission for improvements.

The closing funneled traffic across Merriman and Hubbard Roads to the extent that one could hardly get out or into Hubbard from Six Mile Road which doesn't have a traffic light.

Made aware of the situation, the Livonia Police Department has men stationed at Hubbard and Six and Hubbard and Five at peak traffic times.

Motorists have to appreciate this. One can get in and out of Hubbard within a normal length of time and not get held up for as many as 15 minutes trying to move into the Six Mile traffic.

The situation is much different in Plymouth Township and the City of Plymouth where it is almost worth one's life to try to move into the main streets and highways from a sidestreet.

Phoenix Road at Northville Road has developed into a tremendous bottleneck. It's about time for Plymouth Township officials to demand that the Sheriff's Patrol do something to relieve this situation.

If you have been one of those stalled at Phoenix Road while traffic moves merrily along Northville Road, then you know just how it feels to sit there for 10 or 15 minutes trying to move left or right. It's almost an impossibility.

The City of Plymouth has more traffic going through the main streets now than ever before and hasn't done a thing to correct jams.

Starkweather at Main is one of the worst intersections in the entire area. City officials point out that it isn't a high accident intersection—our answer is that it is only because drivers sit and wait, fuming every minute of the delay.

The ultimate is to have a long wait at the intersection, finally make a turn onto Starkweather and then find traffic lined up for blocks by a long, slow-moving freight train. This happens every day and still nothing is being done.

What with a Centennial celebration and the detours caused by the closing of Sheldon Road, we still have a strong feeling that the City of Plymouth is not living up to its responsibilities. Do we have to have a series of accidents at Starkweather and Main to make the city fathers realize there is a problem?

If We Belong In COG, Let's Get On The Ball

Governmental units in the Observer Newspaper Group circulation area should make up their minds whether they are going to participate in the Southeastern Michigan Council of Governments or not.

It doesn't make much sense to send representatives to a series of pre-organizational meetings at district points and then completely ignore the Council at sessions where important business is taking place — such as last week's session in Southfield.

The Plymouth community was represented by the City, Township and school board at every meeting until last week's meeting where the bylaws were adopted.

The same is true of the City of Livonia, Garden City, City of Farmington and others. Only Plymouth Township, Redford Township, Farmington Township, Livonia School Board, Nankin Mills school district and Farmington School Board had delegates present.

It's a lot of nonsense to attend meetings that have little importance and skip the ones that mean something. Area units should make up their minds to join or not and then keep silent, if they decide not to participate, when the Council develops as expected into a powerful organization in the six county district.

OBSERVATION POINT

By Philip H. Power

TODAY IS July 5. Which, as I understand it, is one day after July 4th. Which, in turn, was our Independence Day. By now, the politicians will have made their speeches, full of rotund phrases and marketable sentiments.

Abroad, champagne will have been drunk at American embassies around the world by diplomats, experts at concealing beneath a bland face their own calculations of our stance and intent.

Out here in Observerland, parades will have gone by, leaving their debris of hot dog wrappers, cigarette butts, and empty paper cups.

People will have relaxed at home over the long weekend and will have just started to put on the second dose of sun burn oil.

And the country will have paused for just a moment before plunging into the All-Star Game and summer.

SO IS THIS what the Fourth is all about?

I think not.

I think there must be something more.

Something like a recollection of the past. Like remembrance of that little group of men, so long ago, who decided that they wanted a different sort of country — and were willing to do something about it.

Something like a pause for thought about two words that are among the most misused in our language: freedom and independence.

Maybe the ideas of freedom and independence that men had back on that first Independence Day were different from what they are now. But they had something in common.

And it might be a good idea to think about just what these two key ideas in the history of our country meant then and what they mean now. Particularly on July 4th.

ALL OF WHICH suggests that in our Fourth of July celebrations, we have tended to concentrate on the form and forget the substance.

Kinda like what's happened to Xmas. Ooops, Christmas.

My secretary, who is a thoughtful type, said the other day that some of her kids were asking her what Memorial Day meant.

For anyone who went through World War I, Memorial Day means an awful lot — something about men and war, freedom and history.

But to a lot of people, now, it just means another vacation.

To be abstract about it, occurrences become events because they have meaning. For example, the Fourth of July is an event because of its meaning: On that day, this country declared its independence from Great Britain.

Meaning comes about in a lot of ways, but often it's through memory. And, unfortunately, memory is not easy.

But without it, all we have are long weekends and a few old hot dog wrappers blowing the long, dusty streets.

Refreshing, But Idea Didn't Take

One of the most frequently heard cries at rezoning hearings before local planning commissions and city councils is usually voiced by neighboring residents who yelp about how a proposed apartment project or shopping center would result in lowering their property values.

However, a refreshing change — almost — came about before the Garden City Council last week during discussion on a 24-unit apartment building.

One homeowner said that it is no concern of the City Council whether the owner of the proposed apartment site makes a profit on his land or not. I agree. The wheels of free enterprise will turn without the involvement of local government.

But later in the meeting, another Garden City homeowner speaking on the same apartment project expressed his concern about the proposed buildings causing a decrease in the value of his own property.

But I guess it depends on whose dollar is being gored.

Redford Township Voters Should Stop No Union-No Work Tactics

How would you like to work for Redford Township and be told you would have to join a union to keep your job?

How would you like to be working in South Redford's school district and be forced to pay monthly dues of $6 in order to hold your position?

Such things can happen in Redford and may unless citizens step forward to make their feelings known.

The Police Officers Association is asking that all members of the bargaining unit be required to join their union and that the township "shall be required to deduct dues for membership from the wages of each member employe."

Bargaining with Teamsters is now going on at the township level and with South Redford School District officials.

Teamsters are demanding that all school employes affected by the contract be made to join 30 days after being hired or else pay an equal amount in lieu of dues.

It may seem of little concern to those of us who do not work for the government, but it should.

Do we want to pass the reigns of government over to the unions or are citizens to remain in the driver's seat?

What happens to a loyal public employe, who wants to obey the state law forbidding strikes, ordered to go on strike by a union he joined only because he was forced to join?

How many potential public employes will not accept public service because they believe that membership in a union requires more meetings to attend, money paid out in tribute to union leaders who have achieved a sinecure?

Many municipal and state organizations have capitulated to the union-shop demands, entirely ignoring the tax-paying citizen who believes the United States of America is the greatest union and improved conditions are brought about at the ballot box. Just look about and see what is happening when unions, such as the Detroit Police Officers Association, start wagging the dog.

When this happens, governments are in for a heap of trouble.

The way to prevent more woe, is to make sure that membership in a government employe's union is done voluntarily and not by force.

All governments, representing all taxpayers, should not give away the rights of each citizen!

We have just finished observing Independence Day, celebrating our freedom, let us not give it away again.

—Bill Gail

Famous Words

Management stands in the middle of a triangle. At the lower right corner is Labor, with a rope around Management's right leg, yanking for raises. At the lower left corner is Capital, with a rope around Management's left leg, yanking for dividends. The top corner, the Consumer corner, the Market corner, is worse. It has a rope around Management's neck like a noose, yanking forever for bigger bargains.

An Oldtimer Is Shocked By Redford Appearance

Like many residents of the western suburbs, this writer emerged from Redford High School and used to shop the fine business section along Grand River Avenue between Lahser and Six Mile Roads, northwest of the school.

So one recent evening, we took a ride past the old stamping grounds, although they're not really so old.

It was appalling.

What used to be national chain stores, bright drug stores, fine clothing stores—these had turned into low-grade schlock shops; in one stretch, there were no less than seven vacant store fronts.

A physical deterioration? It wasn't evident, yet. A population change? Maybe in other parts of town, but it certainly wasn't the case here. Poor merchandising? Possibly, but it's not logical that every businessman would go down hill at once.

Probably it was what the city planners call "strip commerce." That means one store after another, side by side, on both sides of the street, with only street parking.

Businessmen like the idea of being on a thoroughfare with traffic (translation: "customers") going by. It works, as long as the volume of cars is moderate.

But in the days when practically everyone has a car, and there are more people, the moderate stream of traffic turns into a raging torrent. It's as easy to stop-and-shop as it would be to stop a raft on the Colorado River and take a stroll up the side of the Grand Canyon.

The shopping center—a compact grouping of stores with ample parking—is suburbia's answer.

But what of the older "strip commerce" sections? Livonia's City Planning Department has proposed a set of answers.

One idea is to limit certain kinds of commercial development along the "mile" roads—the ounce of prevention method.

The pound of cure proposal for existing "strip commerce" is to turn the thoroughfares into five-lane limited-access highways bordered by one-way service drives. These service drives would be separated from the highway by a landscaped strip; at convenient points, there would be entrance and exit drives.

There is vastly more to the proposal, but this isn't the place to go into details, and this isn't the time to give it a blind endorsement.

We will go this far, however: We like the city planners' analysis of the problem, and we hope they're on the right track.

It wasn't so many years ago that that Grand River Avenue shopping center near Redford High was prosperous.

Death of Primo Carnera Closes Most Sordid Chapter in Sports

By W. W. EDGAR

From a little village in Italy the other day came the news that cancer had claimed the life of Primo Carnera, the former heavyweight boxing champion of the world. And thus came to an end one of the most sordid chapters in the history of sport.

The big hulk of a man who stood six feet, six inches, and weighed 260 pounds in his prime, forever will stand as the innocent pawn of one of the most glaring and daring bits of maneuvering in a sport that long has been known for its shady dealings.

Despite his size, the "Ambling Alp," as he was known at the height of his career in the 30's, lacked punching power and was far from nimble on his feet. Yet, through the shrewd dealings of his handlers, he was maneuvered through a series of synthetic victories to the richest prize of all — the heavyweight championship of the world.

The climax came in 1934, when midway in the sixth round, his hand was raised as the knockout victor over Jack Sharkey who dropped from a punch that no one had seen. It was the boldest bid of chicanery ever perpetrated on the boxing public.

THE SIGHT of him standing in mid-ring being declared the champion is not the mental picture of him that I have carried through the years. The one I can never forget is the expression on his face when he felt one of Joe Louis' punches for the first time.

It was a summer evening in 1935 in Yankee Stadium and Louis was making his first appearance in the "big time" on his way to the title.

Joe had built up quite a reputation in and around Detroit and it was felt the time had come for him to step out and make a real bid for high honors.

Who would be the best man to show him against in New York?

His managers pondered the question a bit and then decided that Carnera would be the man because he would give Joe a good target. So, the bout was arranged.

Carnera had fallen victim to Max Baer a few months before in a match that was what the industry calls a "hippodrome." Now Carnera and his handlers were anxious to get the Ambling Alp back on the high road again.

No sooner was the match made than there were rumors that an attempt had been made to make a "deal" with Louis. It was the way Carnera's handlers always had worked. But this time the plea went unheeded. Louis didn't do business that way and he was on the course to the title. He wouldn't bow to anything so sordid.

Joe set up camp in Pompton Lakes, N.J., and it was the first exposure he had to the big time. He was bound he'd make the most of it.

It was at the time of the Italian-Ethiopian War and the meeting of the two caused quite a stir throughout the entire world of boxing.

THERE were many who figured Joe couldn't handle such a hulk of an opponent. He was just a lad of 21 years and being pitted against a giant wasn't the easiest assignment in the big city or so they thought.

But once the bell rang, the pattern was set, and it provided a picture that never will be forgotten by those who saw it.

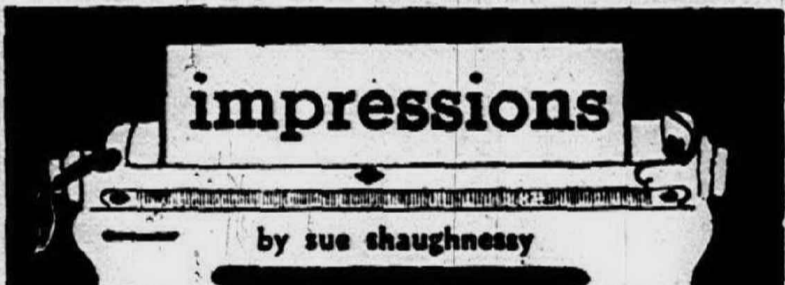

The echo of the opening bell hadn't faded away before Joe measured his giant opponent with a left jab and then crossed with a right to Carnera's jaw. It landed flush. Carnera's eyes popped. His mouth opened. His face took on a sickly grin. It was the first "honest" punch he had felt in his career. Never was there such a look of amazement on any man.

From the time the punch landed, Primo was a beaten man. That first blow was the moment of truth and in that fleeting second he had come to realize he had been the pawn of the connivers and sordid characters who handled his affairs.

He never was the same and finally went down for good and was counted out.

The memory of that face will live forever for two reasons. First, the reaction to the first real punch he ever had been hit. Second, it was over his stunned and beaten body that Louis climbed as his first real step to the heavyweight championship.

Now Primo is dead. The chapter is ended. And it is a chapter of which no one can be proud.

Just what is an advertisement supposed to do? I asked a friend of mine, who earns her living turning out copy for many of the ads you see in the newspapers and magazines.

What prompted the question was a negative reaction to a campaign for a new toothpaste. The campaign seems to be based upon the idea that the use of the product will help one acquire sex appeal.

My reaction was that the ad was stupid. My friend, who is a pretty sharp gal and knows her business, disagreed.

"I think it's a pretty smart campaign based upon some very good research."

"That's how people want to feel," she said pointing to the toothpaste ad that was pitched on the idea that its use made your mouth feel clean and good.

"I think that people have decided that all toothpastes will help to guard against cavities and now they want something more," was her conclusion.

The final test of the effectiveness of an ad is how well it works, she explained. How this is accomplished is through research, knowledge of the market and some creative writing and thinking on the part of the copywriter and account executive.

The young lady pointed to the fact that this particular product was in a highly competitive market and noted that any product has to live up to the ads or the consumer will not buy it more than once.

All very interesting. Having learned this I can't criticize the "Madison Avenue flacks" for the contents.

I could criticize society in general for its preoccupation with sex. Of course, the comeback is that advertising feeds upon this preoccupation. That might be true, but answering that argument is somewhat like answering the question about which first, the chicken or the egg.

About four years ago a young American, who had lived and traveled throughout the world, told me that Americans were the most concerned of any nation about that famous three letter word.

I didn't really agree with him, but maybe he was right. I have no sound conclusion to draw or ready program for the solution to the mental attitudes of society.

Personally, however, I can still retain the opinion that the ad is an insult to my intelligence and boycott the product. Unfortunately, it seems that I am a minority.

Follow These Rules in Making Report

It Isn't Hard to Figure State Income Tax

The State Legislature has passed a state income tax, effective Oct. 1, and the job of parceling out allotments in the state budget will start when the legislators get together again later this week.

Then it is expected that negotiations between teachers and School Administration will move along quickly—there has been a strong suspicion that both groups have been holding back until they see what kind of a package the legislature will come up with for additional state aid.

The state income tax itself appears complex but from those close to the situation in Lansing, it isn't as difficult as thought.

Taxpayers must first take the number of personal exemptions, wife, children and all other dependents allowed by federal law and multiply that number by $1,600. Subtract the total from the total family income to get the taxable income.

Then multiply that by the personal income tax rate of 2.8 per cent. From that amount deduct property tax credit and any city income tax credit and one has the state income tax owed.

The new state tax, like federal and city income taxes, will be deducted by employers from paychecks. Individuals will file a final return by April 30 — 15 days after the federal tax deadline. The 1967 return will cover the three months the personal exemption would be a $300 a person.

Credits for property taxes and city income taxes will not apply until 1968, and may not be deducted from the three-month 1967 return. For 1968 it will work this way:

To compute the property tax credit, fit the amount of property tax you pay into the following formula. (If you are a renter, take 20 per cent of your annual rent, and use that figure as your "property tax" in the formula.)

If the property tax is between 0 and $100, your credit is 20 per cent; if it is from $100 to $150 the credit is $20 plus 10 per cent of everything over $100; $150 to $200 is $27.50 plus 10 per cent of everything over $150; $200 to $10,000 is $32.50 plus 5 per cent of everything over $200, and over $10,000 is 4 per cent.

Any city income tax credit is figured on the same formula, except that the credit for $200 and above is $32.50 plus 5 per cent of the amount over $200 with a maximum credit of $10,000.

Thus for a typical family of five, with an income of $7,500 a year, property taxes of $300 a year and a city income tax bill of $45, the new state income tax obligation would be computed as follows:

Five exemptions at $1,200 per exemption equals $6,000. The $7,500 family income minus $6,000 exemptions equals $1,500. State tax rate of 2.8 per cent times $1,500 equals $39.

Property tax credit equals $32.50 plus 5 per cent of $45, or $9.

$100, or $37.50. City income tax credit equals 20 per cent of $45, or $9.

Total of property tax credit and city income tax credit equals $46.50. Subtracting $46.50 from $39 equals a minus $7.50.

In this case no income tax would be owed to the state, but even though the family involved has more credits than income tax owed, no money would be returned.

The law is written so that property tax and city income tax relief are given only as a credit against income tax owed, not as a rebate.

Had the family involved been renting an apartment at $1,200 per year their property tax for purposes of determining their credit would be 20 per cent of $1,200, or $240.

Dropping that into the formula, their credit would be $32.50 plus 5 per cent of $40, or a total of $34.50.

Computations for some typical families show that the state package hits those with larger incomes and smaller families much harder than those with low incomes and large families.

A family with an income of $4,500 per year or less with two or more children will not have to pay any new taxes, regardless of whether they are subject to a resident, non-resident or no city income tax.

A family of four with an income of $9,000 per year, who pay non-resident city income taxes, would pay $62.60 in new taxes to the state. The same family would pay only $56 if it is already subject to a resident city income tax, or $69.20 if subject to no city income tax.

For the family of five with a $9,000 annual income, the net new taxes would be $26 if they live in a city with an income tax, $32 if they are subject to a non-resident city income tax, and $38 if subject to no city income tax.

An income of $18,000 per year for a family will result in much higher state income taxes — almost five times as much as the $9,000 per year family.

With two children an $18,000-per-year family living in a city with an income tax would pay about $265.60 in new taxes.

The same family, subject only to a non-resident city income tax will pay $278.10, and where there is no city income tax, $293.80.

AAA Continues Drive to Trim Highway Toll

Continuation and improvement of a 19 percent decrease in highway deaths this year and a 10 percent increase in Michigan tourism will be the twin goals of an expanded and continuing $100,000 "Bring 'Em Back Alive!" traffic safety campaign by Automatic Club of Michigan this year.

"Three additions to last year's campaign include a study of injury accidents over the three summer holidays plus July and August and fatality and injury studies in Flint and Genesee County with cooperation of local authorities," said Auto Club General Manager Fred N. Rehm.

Rehm said two facts had prompted the Club to continue for a sixth consecutive year with the same general safety theme and approach.

"We think 'Bring 'Em Back Alive!' had an effect on cutting highway deaths and injuries by 11 percent from July through September last year and on the drop in fatalities this year," Rehm said. "And police, legislators, city officials, tourism agencies, the press and general public have written many letters urging we expand the program."

"Difference between this and other safety campaigns is that in addition to posters, banners and pamphlets, 'Bring 'Em Back Alive!' has researched into causes of deaths, and is using facts," Rehm added.

"Bad weather had something to do with Michigan's decrease in deaths so far in 1967," Rehm said.

"But average death reduction across the country, much of which had bad weather also, was only one percent in the first three months of 1967. It was 23 percent for the same period in Michigan. Our drivers must be doing something different than those other states to cause this heartening result."

"Auto Club believes two major factors have contributed to Michigan's better-than-average record. They are the State Police random check lane car inspection program, which has made all motorists more safety conscious, and the support given Michigan's unique 'Bring 'Em Back Alive!' safety campaign."

Rehm also noted intensified traffic safety activity by Michigan police safety agencies and traffic engineers in the last year.

This year's BEBA program includes:

- The "Holiday News Service," an information network through which Auto Club keeps motorists informed of traffic conditions on the three summer holiday weekends with hourly reports to wire services, newspapers and 107 Michigan radio and TV stations.
- Several series for daily and weekly newspapers stimulating Michigan travel and reminding drivers of their responsibilities, easy-to-remember points of law, and alerting them to dangers uncovered in last year's accident research.
- TV and radio messages with the same aim.
- Safety posters and banners around Michigan carrying the same message in captionized form.
- Table tent cards for restaurants citing facts learned last year.
- A special reminder to parents — a decal that can be ironed on to a youngsters T-shirt urging the driver to please "Bring ME Back Alive!" This and bumper stickers are available free to all at all Auto Club offices.
- In-depth analytical reports on accident causes and patterns following each holiday weekend and all summer.

Chamber Members Hear About Airport

The Garden City Chamber of Commerce held its general membership luncheon recently with 24 members attending.

Guest speaker was Frank Osborn, general manager of Airport Aircraft Services at Metro Airport. He spoke of how the activities of the airport would affect Garden City within the next 10 years.

The airport will attract new interest to our area, because the convenience of the airport is important to locating places of business.

Osborn stated that by 1975, 7,000 people will be employed at the airport, and $50 million dollars will be paid in salaries and in proportion all business will benefit, but this will not come by itself, Garden City must do something to attract this business, and this means that our business people must get active now to be able to get in on this bonanza.

The airport will be hauling 1 1/2 billion pounds of freight, using 100 million gallons of fuel, and employment will involve many people. Trips will be taken by 275,000 people, and the average trip will be 600 miles.

By 1985, 50 million passengers will go overseas, and airport activity will triple in 10 years.

Osborn spoke of a jumbo jet with a circular stair case, and a supersonic transport that will consume 1/2 ton of fuel per minute; Lockheed C5A for military use only; 160,000 to train for air service; and DSR has applied for bus service to Metro.

Keep a close eye on Metro, said Osborn, and let it put Garden City business in its proper perspective.

Peace Corp Placement Tests Set

Placement tests for service in the Peace Corps will be conducted in the metropolitan area Saturday, July 15 beginning at 1:30 p.m.

Nearest locations for the test for residents of the area serviced by The Observer are: Ann Arbor, Civil Service Room in the Downtown Post Office Building at 22 N. Main; Detroit, 711 Lafayette Bldg. at 149 Michigan Ave.; and Pontiac, Room 1 of the Federal Building at E. Huron and Perry Sts.

The test measures general aptitude and the ability to learn a foreign language, not education or achievement. It is given to determine where and how an applicant will be happiest and best utilized overseas. The test, which takes about an hour and a half, requires no preparation and is non-competitive; an applicant can neither pass nor fail.

The application form, available from local post offices, is the most important factor in the selection of volunteers. Persons interested in serving in the Peace Corps must fill out an application, if they have not already done so, and present it to the tester before taking the test.

More than 15,000 Peace Corps Volunteers are now at work in 53 developing nations.

TAKES HIS CUT — Tom Moersck, of Livonia Elks, connects against the Bentley team in the Connie Mack League. Note the ball leaving the bat. The catcher is Don Montroy, who starred during high school at Bentley High.

RU a Winner, Too, In Sandlot Action

The transition from high school play to the summer sandlots hasn't had a great deal of effect on coach Bob Atkins and his athletes from Redford Union high.

The Townshipers gained a share of the Suburban Six League diamond championship with Plymouth — and now with the Connie Mack League campaign almost half over, the same group of athletes has soared to the top in the American League with a 6-1 record.

About the only difference in the team is that during the present play it operates under the banner of the Earl Morrall Sporting Goods.

Earl Morrall, the team and not the fine football quarterback, received two spectacular pitching performances last week.

The first came from Dale Bjerke in a 5-1 decision over the Livonia Phillippi Service Giants. Then followed a 1-0 conquest over Northville as Tom Booker worked five innings and Mike Riley finished up.

Bjerke held the Giants to three hits while Rod Ferguson and Glenn Buckingham bagged two hits apiece to conquer the Giants. Four runs in the fifth inning helped to wrap up matters.

Booker gave up three hits and fanned eight in his stint against Northville. Riley allowed one hit and struck out four the rest of the way. The game's lone run came when Mark Ross doubled and went to third when Ferguson was safe on an error. With two out, they successfully pulled off a double steal.

Joe Huber, the brilliant all-around athlete at Garden City East, continues to sparkle this summer for the East entry in Connie Mack action.

He gave up three hits in blanking the Plymouth Optimists, 3-0. He fanned nine men.

Two runs in the first inning shot the East team off and running. Mike Sparkman walked along with Marvin Martin. Huber was safe on an error and Larry Shanks singled.

In the seventh a walk and stolen base by Sparkman and Greg Pike's hit accounted for the other run.

In an all-Livonia battle pitting the Phillippi Giants and Spartans (or Bentley vs. Stevenson Highs), the Giants emerged a 6-1 winner.

Fred Davies uncorked a five-hitter while Jerry Deter suffered the reversal.

The Giants counted twice in the first inning on hits by Smalley and Fisher. Then after getting one more in the fifth, the Giants counted three in the sixth with Carl Gulbronsen's triple the big blow of the outbreak.

A one-inning duel between Garden City East and Northville produced only some brilliant pitching as the teams fought to a 1-1 tie.

Marvin Martin hurled the distance for the East, giving up eight hits and fanning 15. The East run was scored in the third when Monte Hockman walked, Martin walked and Pike doubled.

Bentley emerged an 11-0 winner over the Livonia Elks behind the three-hit hurling of Wayne Paulson.

Jimmy Powers slapped out three hits while Dave Gorton had a pair for the winners, who suffered a 4-1 loss at the hands of South Redford Big Boy earlier in the week when Tim Carr flipped a neat three-hitter.

Bobby Holmes and Paul Santangelo each slapped a triple for Big Boy which went ahead for keeps in the second inning when Bobby Holmes was safe on an error, Santangelo tripled him over and then scored on an infield roller.

The Plymouth Elks cooled off McFarlane King of Garden City, 6-4, by tallying all of its run in the first two innings to give Rick Fillmore plenty of working advantage.

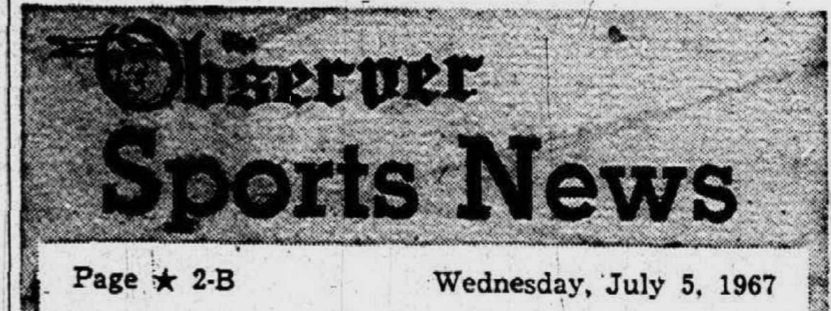

The Elks broke loose for four runs in the first inning when Gary Robinson walked, Fillmore singled and Russ Carlson singled to jam the bases. A fielder's choice cashed one run before Don Gullekson knocked in two more with a single and Tom Elias knocked in another with a hit.

In the second, singles by Larry Wasalaski, Robinson and Walter Lee, coupled with two infield rollers, completed the scoring for the winners.

Hole-In-One Party Continues

Gilbert Forthofer joined the happy throng of golfers who have collected aces when he scored on his first shot on the 149-yard sixth hole at Hilltop Golf Club in Plymouth last Thursday.

The Plymouth golfer used a 9-iron to collect Hilltop's third ace of the season and shot 44 for nine holes.

Farmington Runner Sixth In Festival

Dennis Hunt, running unattached from Farmington, placed sixth Saturday in the seventh annual International Freedom Festival 10-mile run.

Hunt was clocked in 52.48 minutes in the event which started at Detroit's City Hall and wound up in Windsor via the Ambassador Bridge.

Louis Scott of Arizona State University captured the race for the third straight time and then took off for Los Angeles to represent the United States in a dual track meet against the British Commonwealth.

Gordon Dickson of the Hamilton Olympic Club was second with Dick Reamer of Motor City Striders third, Glenn Duke of Hamilton fourth and John Bennett of St. Clair Shores fifth.

Wins Letter at Drake

Dennis Hunt of Farmington, won a letter in track at Drake University in Des Moines, Ia., according to an announcement from Athletic Director Jack McClelland.

New Rule on Players Helps Garden City Team

A new rule for teams in the Greater Livonia Detroit Free Press baseball League this season is helping Garden City Sporting Goods.

The change makes it possible for each team to use three "outsiders" during the season. By outsiders, it means a player living outside the community which the team represents.

In the case of Garden City one such player is Mark Wojciehowski of Dearborn, a student from Eastern Michigan University.

Mark turned in a neat effort last Friday in downing Dearborn Heights, 3-2, to give Garden City a 3-2 record and second place in the standings.

It took a rally for Garden City to pull the game out with two runs in the bottom half of the seventh and final inning.

Wojciehowski himself had doubled and scored Garden City's first run on a single by Joe Huber in the sixth. The tally still left Garden City on the short end of a 2-1 score.

Then in the seventh Carl Stewart rapped his third hit in as many trips to start Garden City's payoff rally. Gary Slade walked, but Don Byczek forced him at second. Then Dick Reed walked to load the bases.

Paul Kightlinger was the next hitter and he wasted no time drilling a single on which Stewart and Buczek raced across with the tying and winning markers, respectively.

In another one-run verdict, it was Cardinal Decorating of Livonia over front-running Dependable Hard Chrome of Redford Township.

Larry Ruzsas went all the way for the winners as he scattered three hits and fanned nine. He walked only three runners.

Bob Durand worked for the losers until the fourth when he gave way to Chuck Vianne when Cardinal counted the game's only run.

Bill Andrews singled and was sacrificed to second by Ed Ryan to get the fourth inning going for Cardinal. Before Mike Stachurski walked, Andrews moved over to third on a wild pitch.

Then Stachurski broke for second and when the throw went to second, Andrews headed home and slid across the plate for what proved the night's big run.

Stachurski went two for two for the winners.

Bob Holmes, Bill Fahey and Terry Rothwell each netted one hit for the losers who got only one man as far as third in the game.

Action resumes in the Free Press League Wednesday with Cardinal meeting the Red Sox at Henry Ford Field at 6:15 p.m. Then it'll be Dependable vs. Dad's 7 Club from Dearborn Heights at 8:30.

In Friday's play, the Red Sox hook up with Dad's 7 at Haggerty while Garden City tackles Dependable at Bell Creek.

Four games make up next Sunday's slate. Garden City hosts the Red Sox at 2:30 and Cardinal at 5. Dependable takes on the Red Sox at Henry Ford at 6, while at 8:30 Cardinal faces Dad's 7.

Legion 9 Erupts For a Split

Strange are the ways a baseball team hits the ball. Farmington's American Legion nine could do little offensively as Walled Lake last Friday and wound up a 6-1 loser.

Then on Sunday, Farmington went against Troy in a doubleheader. The opener saw Farmington blow a 3-0 lead and suffer a 5-3 setback.

But in the nightcap, the Farmington bats exploded to produce a 10-2 victory.

Carl Hunt coasted along to victory in the one-sided Farmington barrage. He scattered three hits and struck out six.

Farmington erupted for four runs in the third inning to take a comfortable lead.

Hunt himself got matters going when he walked. Al Kilka was safe on an error after which Doug Drapalski singled. Tom Webster followed with a two-run single and after Joe Himmelspace walked, Jerry Tinkle delivered another two-run single.

Two more runs in the fourth cemented the outcome. Kilka walked and walked home ahead of Joe Himmelspace who drilled a mighty homer.

Webster had three hits in five trips to the plate while Himmelspace had a single, plus his homer.

In the opener of the twin-bill, Farmington couldn't stand prosperity after seizing a 3-0 lead in the third inning.

Steve Sager singled and Mike Thompson walked before Kilka doubled in one run, Dennis Perry and Webster each followed with a run-producing hit.

But the Farmington defense fell apart behind Mike Thompson, making it possible for Troy to rally and win.

Farmington was held to six hits in the Walled Lake game as Himmelspace and Webster each got two.

Gary Verhan's double drove in Drapalsky with the lone Farmington run in the sixth inning.

Big Doings On Thursday

Play resumes Thursday in the Greater Livonia Connie Mack Baseball League.

In the National League it will be Bentley vs. McFarlane King at Garden City. Hawthorne vs. Plymouth Elks at Plymouth High and Big Boy of South Redford vs. Livonia at Henry Ford at 6:15.

American League action matches the Spartans and Earl Morrall at Bell Creek, Plymouth Optimists and Northville at Northville and Garden City East against the Livonia Giants at Henry Ford. The latter tilt starts at 8:30, the others at 6.

San Marino Squashed In Golf Match

The San Marino golf course team went down to defeat Sunday in a Michigan Public Links League match.

Despite a fine 75 by Bill Woods, San Marino was outscored by Rochester, 15-7, in a Blue Division match.

The loss left San Marino with a record of one victory and two setbacks while Rochester tops the division with a 4-0 record.

Ed Thompson and Dennis McInerney each had a 78 for San Marino while Walt Nordess came through with an 81.

San Marino's next match is against Oxford Hills on July 23.

Braeburn, the defending league champion and the Gold Division's current leader with a 3-0 mark, will host Idyl Wyld next Sunday.

That's the price of a new Volkswagen. Some people won't buy one because they feel they deserve something costlier. That's the price we pay for the price we charge.

And some people are afraid to buy one because they don't see how we can turn out a cheap car without having it turn out cheap.

This is how:

Since the factory doesn't change the bug's shape every year, we don't have to change the factory every year.

What we don't spend on looks, we spend on improvements to make more people buy the car.

Mass production cuts costs. And VW's have been produced in a greater mass (over 1 million to date) than any car model in history.

Our air-cooled rear engine cuts costs, too, by eliminating the need for a radiator, water pump, and drive shaft.

There are no fancy gadgets, run by push buttons. (The only push buttons are on the doors. And those gadgets are run by you.)

When you buy a VW, you get what you pay for.

What you don't get is frills. And you don't pay for what you don't get.

Reduce Home Noise Level

Visitors to scores of new-home and new-products displays frequently ask, "What can be done to quiet my present home? Is this feature restricted to new homes?" The answer is "No." There's a lot you can do to significantly quiet the home you now live in.

Insulation board acoustical ceilings in all rooms where the noise level is high will sharply reduce annoying din.

Up to 70 per cent of the noise striking the surface of an acoustical ceiling is absorbed, making the room quieter and creating a more relaxed environment.

The product you install can be either the familiar 12x12 inch and 12x24 inch tile or large 2x2 or 2x4-foot panels for a suspended ceiling.

If a wall partition between two rooms permits noise to pass through easily, it must be modified. IBI suggests that homeowners install an auxiliary wall directly in front of the present wall on one side only.

The IBI system uses 2x3 inch wood studs placed 24 inches apart on 2x3 inch wood floor and ceiling plates. There is a 3 inch space left between the new and existing wall partition.

This same auxiliary wall can also be constructed on metal studs.

The new studs are then covered with sound deadening insulation board with the nails dimpled. Finally 1/2 inch gypsum wallboard is applied vertically with the joints, offset 12 inches with respect to the sound deadening insulation board.

The gypsum wallboard is installed with drywall laminating compound, not nails. Edges of the gypsum wallboard are temporarily blocked with wood strips, while the adhesive sets and bonds.

The wallboard joints are then taped and finished. Finally, the entire perimeter of the new wall is caulked to prevent noise leaks. Your lumber and building materials retailer can supply complete details of this new wall system.

If you now hear loud conversation through your present wall, this auxiliary wall installation will reduce the same conversation to a murmur!

Replace hollow-core doors with solid doors with vinyl gasketing and a snug-up threshold closer. If you are installing new floor coverings, take a look at the products with custom backing which reduces noise.

Mount appliances on rubber mats to absorb vibration. Line the underside of kitchen cabinets with insulation board acoustical products to reduce counter-top-clatter.

This same technique works well on the inside of cabinets housing dish washers and garbage disposal units.

Quieter hardware can be installed in the water closet. Air chambers, well-known to your plumber, can soften hammer in the pipes.

Philodendron Needs Light

If your philodendron leaves appear to be getting smaller, your plant may not be receiving enough light.

In the belief that the leaves are smaller because they do not take enough food from the soil, some householders over fertilize. Instead of doing this, move the philodendron, or other tropical vine, to a brighter spot and see whether there is an improvement.

In the tropical rain forests, where philodendron thrives, the plants climb along tree trunks to reach the light.

This, with the warm, moist atmosphere, helps keep the plant leaves large and fresh.

FORD MOTOR COMPANY Executive Vice President Charles H. Patterson (left) and Steel Division General Manager Alfred Krause look over a scale model of the Rouge Power House where Ford will spend $3,500,000 to reduce dust emissions. The expenditure is for six giant electrostatic precipitators.

Ford to Spend $3.5 Million in Pollution Fight

Ford Motor Company will spend $3,500,000 to reduce dust emission from its Rouge Power House, Charles H. Patterson, executive vice president, announced Monday.

Construction of six giant electrostatic precipitators to control Power House emission is expected to begin in October. The installation schedule calls for the first precipitator to be operating in April, 1968. Another device will be completed every two months thereafter until the sixth and final precipitator begins operating in February, 1969.

Patterson said "the new project is one of the most important steps in Ford's multipronged air and water emission control program at the Rouge.

"The company has spent or is planning to spend approximately $67 million for air and water emission control at the Rouge," he added. "The more than half of some $132 million Ford has spent or is planning to spend for anti-pollution activities nationwide."

The new Power House equipment will be similar to a system installed on a new boiler at the Power House last year. Of eight stacks at the Ford Power House, seven are connected to operative boilers. Upon completion of this project, all stacks connected to operative boilers will have been equipped with electrostatic precipitators.

The dust-collection equipment will be installed above the roof of the Power House. Ducts will carry gases from the boilers to the dust collectors. As dust particles in the gases enter the collector, they will pass over a grid and be given an electrical charge.

The particles then will be attracted and held by oppositely charged collector plates. The plates will be vibrated every few minutes and collected particles will fall into hoppers for removal.

The Rouge Power House produces enough electricity in one day to serve the domestic needs of a city of 1,000,000 people, the approximate size of Baltimore, Md., or Cleveland, Ohio.

When Ford constructed its giant Basic Oxygen Furnace facility at the Rouge, an electrostatic precipitator was installed to reduce emissions.

Two weeks ago Ford announced completion of a $2,200,000 project at its Dearborn Specialty Foundry in the Rouge.

Stainless Steel Gets A Florentine Finish

Stainless steel sinks are now available in a florentine finish that requires no special polishing.

4-H Members Compete for 6 Scholarships

Six scholarships worth $8,000 are among more than 300 4-H educational grants offered this year to former and present 4-H Club members, according to the National 4-H Service Committee.

Two are for $800 each to be awarded to college sophomores or juniors majoring in agricultural courses that apply to crop protection and production. Donor is Chevron Chemical Company, Orto Division, of San Francisco.

Four scholarships of $1,600 each are provided by Homelite, a Division of Textron Inc., Port Chester, N.Y. These are available to college freshmen who plan to major or minor in forestry.

All six scholarships are based on 1967 college enrollment. Winners will be announced by the Cooperative Extension Service during the National 4-H Club Congress in November.

To be eligible, the candidate must have completed three years of 4-H Club work and submit a 4-H scholarship application form available from the State 4-H office. Scholastic standing, need for financial assistance and record of 4-H activities are considered by the judges.

Applications are processed through the State Extension office, and forwarded to the National 4-H Service Committee by Oct. 20. It is recommended that any college student wishing to apply should do so immediately.

According to Gloria Lewis, home design consultant for Just Mfg. Co., Franklin Park, Ill., makers of stainless steel sinks, the finish utilizes a cross-grain effect that hides fingerprint smudging.

As a result, Miss Lewis said, the sink doesn't have to be polished. You treat it as you would an ordinary porcelain sink.

There has been some criticism of stainless steel for kitchen use in general because of its susceptibility to fingerprints, she said.

"Insofar as sinks are concerned, this problem only lasts until the special polishing compounds applied at the factory wear off," she said. "Then fingerprinting becomes almost entirely noticeable.

"With the new florentine finish, the problem is solved at the beginning."

Miss Lewis points out that in addition to being functional, the new finish is also highly attractive, and a complement to the kitchen.

Select Plants for Long Effect; Fence Helps Slow Growers

When designing a garden from scratch on a bare lot, or re-landscaping the yard of an older home, it's sometimes hard to wait long enough for young plants to attain their full growth. The temptation is to substitute fast-growers and large showy specimens in order to achieve an immediate effect.

Yet, according to Landscape Architect Daryl B. May, that can spell ruin for the garden and loss of the homeowner's investment in time and money, for the final effect is likely to be a far cry from the original intent.

There are, however, ways to create a good appearance right from the start. A bit of the budget can be spent on a few near-mature plants to help balance the use of so many young specimens. Adding a few interesting materials in containers around patios and entrance areas does a lot, too, toward creating a more settled appearance in the young garden.

"Perhaps most important of all," said May, "is to include a backdrop for planting beds, something that fills in space while plants are growing and sets them off when they reach maturity. A fence is an excellent choice for this purpose. It lends stability right away and makes the most of even the smallest shrub.

"The fence doesn't need to be fancy to do the job," May pointed out. "In fact, the plain board fence is frequently the best choice since it won't dominate the scene. A light touch is needed, however, and use of 1x4-inch fence boards gives it to either a tall or low structure."

Resawn western red cedar, Douglas fir or ponderosa pine produces the best textural complement to plant materials while requiring less maintenance than smooth-surfaced wood, May suggested.

For finish, the penetrating transparent stains are preferred in shades that won't conflict with leaf and petal tones—moss green, sand-gold, natural wood tones and the silver of weathered wood. Reddish browns are often not good since they tend to turn purplish.

Use of the fence permits a few other aids for the young garden, May said. For example, interesting things can be espaliered against the fence to add form and eye-appeal. Trees like apple, pear and quince make exciting espaliers, and, of course, vines, climbing roses and some junipers can be trained into handsome shapes against a fence.

"To make young beds look their best, mulch with bark material. Some rock also helps produce an established appearance, while bulbs and bedding plants are a reliable source of immediate color and body."

Hot Mixture Encourages Old Wallpaper to Peel

When it comes to repairing walls, if there are three or less previous layers of paper and the top one is in good condition, just add the new one over the old.

Apply paste sparingly, for the moisture from excess paste can soften the old paste, loosening the old wall paper.

It's down to the bare plaster if there are already more than three thicknesses of paper.

The easiest way to get there is with the garden sprayer filled with a piping hot mixture of water, three tablespoons of sudless, automatic washer detergent and an equal amount of sal soda concentrated.

When sprayed on the wall in a fine mist, the mixture penetrates and loosens paper.

Then just peel it off from the top downwards with an occasional nudge from a wide-blade putty knife.

Any remaining scraps of paper or dry glue can be scrubbed off, while the wall is still damp, with a stiff-bristled brush sprinkled with dry sal soda.

Rinse wall and let dry thoroughly before proceeding with the papering.

If you have a yen to paper a painted wall, some preliminary action is needed.

Wash wall thoroughly with a warm solution of sal soda concentrated . . . six tablespoons to the bucket of water.

Rinse well; and when dry, coat with a thin glue size. When this is dry, paper.

Repainting a wall also calls for a preliminary wash-down. Play lazy and skip this important step, and fresh paint may chip, peel or blister.

The pores of the surface are already filled with moisture, grease or soil, so the fresh paint can't penetrate and form a firm bond.

A good cleaner is sal soda concentrated, for it removes the dirt and grease without leaving a soapy film and tends to dull glossy paints which give the new coat a better grip.

Three tablespoons of the sal to the gallon of warm water cleans, while double the amount of sal dulls the surface.

Rinse well, and let wall dry before you start wielding the paint brush.

New Silicone Caulking Comfort Contributor

A draft-free, comfortable home is largely the result of sound basic construction—but it is generally also a sign of a well caulked one.

Careful caulking of exterior cracks as between brick or masonry walls and metal windows or door frames can successfully keep out not only annoying drafts but also dust, dirt and insects.

Yet minor maintenance of this type may easily be overlooked or put off simply because it does not directly affect the operation of the home and because it has always been a messy job. Another reason is undoubtedly the often short life of the repairs once they are made.

This need not be the case any longer, however, for by making such repairs with Dow Corning silicone rubber bathtub caulk the home owner can now be assured that his work will last over a considerable period of time—as much as ten years or more.

Since the caulk is actually a silicone rubber, it is extremely weather-resistant, stretching and contracting with changes in temperature and humidity. The resulting seal thus remains permanently flexible and will not leak, dry out, crack or crumble.

It can be used with virtually any combination of materials, forming an excellent bond between metal, glass, masonry and even painted surfaces.

As its name indicates, it is also an ideal choice for sealing cracks around porcelain or ceramic objects such as plumbing fixtures, wall tile, shower enclosures and the like.

Application is easy, too. The caulk comes in a handy squeeze tube with its own applicator nozzle which is simply snapped off to desired opening size.

When this is pushed along the crack, it forces the caulk into the joint instead of merely coating it and smoothes it out at the same time. The seal dries to the touch in about an hour and cures completely within 24 hours.

Dow Corning silicone rubber bathtub caulk is available from hardware, building supply and paint stores.

Because spring was late in the north, garden viewers had more color available all at once.

Bulbs, such as tulips, were still flowering gayly when azaleas and rhododendrons were wearing blossoms.

And there were columbine, pink lady's slipper, iris, alyssum, white rockcress, scilla and phlox.

Plants Need Open Window

House plants need fresh air, even in cold weather.

The best way to give them this is to admit air indirectly from an open door or window in an adjoining room.

The top soil of the potted plant should be stirred about once a week with an orange stick to admit air to the roots.

On the Lawn

With Larry Lawrence

Have you noticed, as I have, that more and more homes are being beautified with lawn trees? Builders are finally coming to realize that existing trees have a sales value and shouldn't be bulldozed away. And most owners soon discover that nothing makes a lawn more livable than shade trees.

So the question arises as to the best method of speeding up the shade. Are special foods required? Is it really necessary to punch those unsightly holes in the ground? Except in very special circumstances the answer is a plain No.

If you want to speed the lawn, feed the tree—with a long lasting, protein building fertilizer. It's as simple as that. And it isn't uncommon to see such a lawn tree gain four or five feet a year.

When a lawn tree isn't fed, this oversight, soon becomes painfully apparent. The lawn around it dies back—and this is usually, and mistakenly, attributed to shading out the grass.

Potted Plants Add Color, Ease Contemporary Lines

The use of living plants in decorating plans is not solely ornamental. Plantings have become functional!

Consider color—one of the most important features of any room setting. Plants in their natural terra cotta pots can enhance or keynote any color scheme.

If your upholstered pieces, draperies, floor coverings, are monotone, then plants as well as accessories can supply needed contrast. Or you can pick up your strong color with clay-potted flowering plants to reinforce your decorative effect.

Large green plants soften the boxy, sharp look of contemporary furnishings. And smaller plants add a natural look to sometimes too-formal period rooms.

Plants, of both the flowering and foliage variety, not only provide subtle differences, they often serve as important pieces of "furniture."

They can separate two living areas as the center of interest in room dividers. And in these days of mammoth wall units, plants are increasingly important to break the monotony of straight lines of shelving.

Clay-potted foliage plants plunged into built-in planters often solve the problem of what to place against the long walls of narrow foyers or entryways.

Another interesting "architectural" treatment is a built-in ceramic tile planter that runs along the wall of the room, with wells for plunging clay-potted plants and a surface that can hold additional plants, as well as being a perfect showcase for a collection of sculpture or curios.

Overhead lighting can supply the necessary "sun" for plant growth.

And, an awkward corner in the living room turns into a decorative "plus" with one of the larger foliage plants, its clay pot and saucer set directly on the floor, to add a "finished" look.

Living plants more than repay you in warmth and beauty for the care they require. Just make sure that your plants are professionally grown and conditioned in porous red clay pots and follow your florist's instructions on their light and water needs.

Mezzo-Soprano Is Feature of Concert

Mezzo-soprano Leslie Eitzen will be soloist with the Schoolcraft College Court Orchestra in the second of a series of four summer Court Concerts in the open-air amphitheater at the college on Wednesday evening, July 12. The concert is scheduled for 8:30 p.m.

During the first half of the program, Miss Eitzen will be accompanied by the orchestra in the cantata, "Miseri Noi, Misera Patria," by Haydn. She will return after the intermission to sing songs from "The Marienleben," by Paul Hindemith.

Music of the Schoolcraft Music Festival during its inaugural season features works by both Haydn and Hindemith.

The orchestra portion of the evening's program will include Suite No. 2 in B Minor for Flute and Strings by Bach; Beethoven's Septet in E Flat Major for violin, viola, cello, double bass, clarinet, horn and bassoon; and Haydn's Symphony No. 100 in G Major — the familiar "Military" Symphony.

Miss Eitzen is well known as a concert artist throughout Michigan, and has been soloist with the Plymouth Symphony on several occasions. She has sung leading roles with the Detroit Opera Company in "Faust," "Carmen," and "Madame Butterfly," and has been featured artist on two occasions on the Schoolcraft College Library Concert series.

Her teaching experience includes appointments at the University of Michigan, University of Iowa, Detroit Institute of Musical Art, and at Schoolcraft College.

Wally Roberts UP' GOING 'CURTAIN

"Richard III" as performed at the 1967 Stratford Shakespearean Festival will amaze, irritate, and create hours of heated discussion among Shakespearean devotees. Director John Hirsch has staged this bloody Shakespearean drama in a manner reflecting our troubled times.

In an age that produces warped minds such as Richard Speck who blithely kills eight nurses under the influence of barbiturates and alcohol, a crazed campus killer that machined-gunned 15 innocent folks, and Lee Harvey Oswald, a diabolical killer such as Richard III seems mild as he slinks about all evening chopping off a score of heads to get the throne.

Alan Bates was imported from England to play the power-demented monarch. Bates, fresh from his cinema triumphs in "Georgy Girl", approaches the majestic lines of the Bard almost matter-of-factly. His detached air gave even greater terror to the role.

Gone were the crafty, wily sneers of the usual villainous approach to Richard III. Startled you are at first. Bates holds your interest effectively as he flits about the stage carefully plotting murder and mayhem. His "kiss of death" always falls lightly and such clinical detachment creates a final effect that has even more impact. The mad monster that lurks beneath this twisted figure is hidden by Richard's smiling facade.

Director Hirsch has even gone several steps further to make this production as lively as an LSD trip. The incidental music buzzes, squeaks, tinkles, rattles and beeps in true electronic fashion. Musically, you feel you are in the next century. Such bizarre musical effects plus some "koozy" costuming and you'll agree Stratford's "Richard III" is indeed quite different.

Back in 1953 when Alec Guinness opened the Festival for its first season the production was quite calm and pedestrian. Guinness utilized the standard full-blooded villain approach. No garish costumes graced the stage. No lurps and beeps assaulted your eardrums.

Assisting Bates in this "Mod" version of "Richard III" is veteran Stratford actor, Lee Ciceri as Lord Buckingham. Ciceri gave a restrained, resolute portrayal and provides excellent counter-balance to the incessant circling of Bates.

The women in the production, always held to a minimum in Shakespearean historical drama, were flawless. Zee Caldwell as Anne, the widow of Edward, etched another of her super characterizations. Frances Hyland, Ann Firbank, and Barbara Bryne appeared only briefly, but gave the production needed added pace and force.

The unique funeral scene that occurs early in "Richard III" in which Richard III wins the heart of Lady Anne while sitting on her husband's casket gives this Shakespearean drama a macabre beginning. The sick humor inherent in this scene sets the tone for the evening's steady procession of murders by a nervous, neurotic Richard III.

"Richard III" staged in a most contemporary style awaits your pleasure at the 1967 Stratford Festival. Old Wally found it most interesting and provocative.

An added attraction at Stratford this year is the serving of liquor in the lobby at the intermissions and after the show. Now you can have your Scotch and Shakespeare too, in jolly old Stratford.

Bottoms up, old chaps, as we toast the Stratford Festival where you'll always find excellent theatrical productions!

Greenfield Village Schedules Summer Antique Auto Events

Visitors to Greenfield Village will see antique automobiles in action in several special events this summer. These activities will highlight much of nearly 75 years of motoring history.

Cars of 1925-42 vintage will be on display Saturday, July 8, on the Village activities field. That's the date set for the Midwest National Classic Car Rally, which will draw nearly 100 of the fabulous vehicles of the period. Included in this group are the Rolls-Royce, Cadillac, Pierce-Arrow, Duesenberg, Auburn, Lincoln and Chrysler.

Pair Highlight MSU Festival

Performances by pianist Grant Johannesen and his wife, cellist Zara Nelsova, highlight the music events of the 1967 Fine Arts Festival at Michigan State University July 16-21.

Three Frenchmen, noted authorities on contemporary art, theatre and literature, will also participate in the eighth annual festival.

Daily showings of "Golden Eagle Award" documentary films and "New Cinema" (avant garde) films are also scheduled. There will be no charge for any of the lectures, exhibits, concerts or films.

Nickel Research

The world's largest and most modern laboratory dedicated to research on nickel and its alloys is operated by International Nickel at Sterling Forest, New York.

The first National Tour of the Model "T" Club of America will converge on the Henry Ford Museum and Greenfield Village, Sunday, July 16. Restored Model "T" Fords will start to arrive early in the week-end from many points in the United States and Canada for this first annual conclave. Participants will gather at the nearby Dearborn Inn on Saturday, July 15, then take part in all-day activities at the Village on Sunday.

Antique Lincoln automobile owners will bring their 1921-1939 vintage classics to Greenfield Village on Saturday, July 29, for a one-day program. At least 50 beautifully restored Lincolns are entered in this annual program.

Highlight of Summer 1967 is the 17th Annual Old Car Festival scheduled at Greenfield Village on Saturday and Sunday, Sept. 16-17. This renowned motoring history event will present over 300 restored antique automobiles in action for the two-day festival.

Visitors to the Village always enjoy the program, with its authentically costumed drivers and contests of skill. On this week-end there are many activities to record with camera and sound.

The historic Glidden Tour of Antique Autos travels through Michigan during the week following the Old Car Festival at Greenfield Village. Originated more than 50 years ago by the American Automobile Association to prove the reliability of travel by automobiles, the Glidden Tour begins at Greenfield Village and proceeds in caravan to Grand Rapids, Holland and Saugatuck, returning to Detroit via Flint.

The various antique automobile programs at Greenfield Village are held on the activities field directly behind a row of historically significant residences. Viewing of any of these special motoring events is included

Stratford Trips Planned By Metro YW

Three trips to Stratford's Shakespearean Festival during July and August have been arranged by the YWCA of Metropolitan Detroit. All of them are for matinee performances this year and each one includes charter bus transportation, dinner at the Victorian Inn and theatre seats, the cost of these determining the price of the trip.

On Saturday, July 15, the performance will be "The Merry Wives of Windsor," and the trip cost will be $18. Monday's matinee, Aug. 7, will be the most economical at $15 for "Anthony and Cleopatra."

"Richard III" will be the performance at the Saturday matinee, Aug. 12, at $16.

Departure time from the YWCA Downtown Building is 7 a.m. for all the trips which will return at 10 p.m. that same night. Experienced YWCA tour directors accompany each trip. Further information on what is rapidly becoming a sell-out season at Stratford may be had from the YWCA Program Office, 2230 Witherell, Detroit 48201, or WO 1-9220, Ext. 65.

Honey Is A Cook's Friend

BY JOYCE TOTTEN

Mention the honey bee to the average person, the first thought usually is—"it stings!" Poor honey bee She (all honey-gathering worker bees are female, of course) is one of the least understood and appreciated creatures in the world today. Yet it would be difficult to find another that has worked so hard or contributed as much to man's development and well being through the centuries as the little honey bee.

The importance of the honey bee and her product to the world can hardly be overstated. Almost every civilization has valued honey as food, a medicine, a trading commodity and a social and spiritual force.

Even if the honey bee gave us no honey or beeswax at all, she is essential to the lives of all of us because she is the main source of pollination for over 50 vital agricultural crops.

Honey is a natural, unrefined food, unique because it is the only unmanufactured sweet available in commercial quantities. In addition to its sugar, honey contains a considerable number of minerals, seven members of the B vitamin complex, ascorbic acid (Vitamin C), dextrins, plant pigments, amino acids and other organic acids, traces of protein, esters and other aromatic compounds, and several enzymes.

Honey is fun to use, a delicately flavored, golden sweet that adds its own special appeal to all your cooking adventures. Use it as is, as a sauce or spread, in vegetables or meat dishes, in beverages and, of course in candies and baked goods.

To replace sugar with honey in cake or cookie recipes, a general rule is to reduce the amount of liquid called for by 1/4 cup for each cup of honey used to replace sugar.

Cakes and cookies made with honey keep fresher much longer. Honey absorbs and retains moisture, retarding the drying out and staling of baked goods. This is especially important when you want to bake in advance or save baked goods for any length of time.

Follow the steps of chefs of old and put honey in your menus.

A honey sauce is scrumptious with baked chicken. One that's excellent is simply a mixture of 1/4 c. melted butter, 1/4 c. honey and 1/4 c. lemon juice. Use it for basting during the last half hour of baking.

HONEY HUMBARS

- 1 c. honey
- 6 egg yolks
- 1 1/4 c. sifted flour
- 1 t. baking powder
- 1/2 t. salt
- 1 c. chopped dates
- 1 c. chopped pecans
- 1 t. vanilla

TOPPING

- 2 c. sifted confectioners' sugar
- 2 t. grated lemon peel
- 1 egg yolk
- 1 T. lemon juice
- 3 T. soft butter

Blend shortening and honey together; beat in egg yolks, one at a time. Sift dry ingredients and blend into egg mixture. Stir in dates, pecans and vanilla. Spread into a greased 13x9x2 inch pan. Bake 350 degrees for 30 minutes. Cool. Combine remaining ingredients and spread over cooled cookies. Cut into bars. Makes about 3 dozen.

QUICK CREAMED FROSTING

- 1/2 c. honey
  - 1/2 c. butter
  - 1 t. vanilla
  - 2 egg whites
  - 1 c. sifted confectioners' sugar
  - 1 sq. unsweetened chocolate, melted
- Cream honey and butter. Stir in vanilla. Beat egg whites until they form soft peaks. Add sifted confectioners' sugar gradually, beating after each addition. Fold egg white mixture gradually into honey mixture. Add melted chocolate to 1/2 of frosting. Use the chocolate part between the layers. Spread the white frosting on top and sides of cake.

Livonia Playing Host This Week to 155 Foreign Touring AFS Students

Livonia is playing host during the coming week to 155 foreign exchange students from all corners of the world. Four high schools — Bentley, Franklin, Stevenson and Clarenceville — are participating in the American Field Service program that provides two-week bus tours for teen-agers from foreign lands who have spent the last school year studying in this country. The students, coming in busloads ranging from 36 to 42 teen-agers in each, will be entertained in more than 100

Livonia families — some take more than one—for three-day stays. All are heading eventually to New York, where they will embark sometime this month for their homelands after a year's absence. The short stays in Livonia, planned by AFS leaders, include visits to the Ford Motor Co. assembly plant and Greenfield Village, get-togethers for all the families from each school, and plenty of time for the students and their host families to get acquainted. Each busload is making several stops to give the foreign visitors a chance to know a number of American families before returning home. The first busload, with 40 students to visit Stevenson High School families, arrives this afternoon and will be greeted by Livonia Mayor Harvey Moelke. The teens in this group have spent the year in the area of Iowa, Nebraska and

South Dakota. Mrs. Arthur Schan, in charge of arrangements said the group would leave July 7. Coming in tomorrow are busloads of AFS students for Bentley High School and Clarenceville. The 42 arriving to visit Bentley families have been in the central New York state area, and the bus for Clarenceville comes from Connecticut. Mrs. Donald Freidricks heads the Bentley program and Mrs. Beverly Frechette the one at Clarenceville.

They will leave July 9. The Franklin visitors, 36 strong, will be here from Saturday, July 8, to Tuesday, July 11. The bus will arrive from Yarmouth, Maine, where the 21 boys and 15 girls will assemble after a year in various New England high schools from which they have just graduated. They've attended schools in Maine, Vermont and New Hampshire. They come from 22 countries, from Australia to Uruguay — including: Austria, Brazil, Chile, Costa Rica, Ecuador, Ethiopia, Finland, France, Germany, Italy, Malaysia, New Zealand, Norway, Peru, South Africa, Spain, Sweden, Turkey, Uganda and the United Kingdom. They were house guests in American homes during the year of study. To give the party an opportunity to see more of America, the Franklin chapter invited them to Livonia to visit in homes with children of their own ages. The program is under guidance of Mrs. Nancy Shaughnessy, 9816 Berwick, and Mrs. Janet Campbell, 29455 Robert Drive, as co-chairmen. There will be a tour of the Ford Rouge plant and a talent show at Franklin on Monday. Some of the students will appear in native dress, tell of life at home and speak in their native tongues. The visitors carry names easy and hard to pronounce, or spell, but all are eager to know and see more of America, and Americans. The Franklin chapter has one visiting student this year. The city has three chapters of the American Field Service, which has headquarters in New York and through which exchange students are obtained. Each chapter must raise $700 before it can apply for a student.

Teacher Says Thanks

Families around here are interested in international understanding and more than willing to help out a teacher in a jam. That's the conclusion of John Hopkins, Plymouth High School French teacher who appeared in last week's Observer for help in locating families who would like to have a French exchange student live with them for a time. "My telephone hardly stopped ringing the afternoon the paper came out," Hopkins reported, "and at this point I have about 40 families lined up." Hopkins thought the response when his more remarkable because the story mistakenly stated that the students would be here eight months. Actually the time is eight weeks, he said, "and a lot of the families were disappointed when I told them that." He wants to thank all the folks who responded, and let them know he'll follow up with more details as soon as possible.

Mr. and Mrs. Glen Pepper, of N. Harvey Street, Plymouth, announce the engagement of their daughter, Linda Susan, to James E. Henderson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Hope Robertson of Chubb Road, Northville. The bridegroom-elect recently returned from service with the U.S. armed forces in Vietnam. An August wedding is planned.

Livonia Woman Turns a Parachute Into Wedding Finery for Two Local Brides

The white nylon parachute traveled from Okinawa to this country in the gear of a young aerial photographer home on emergency leave just after World War II ended. It bloomed into bridal finery when his youngest sister announced plans to marry and fine materials weren't available. There had been a war on, remember? And last Saturday, July 1, it made another trip down the aisle on a second young bride, daughter of the first. The occasion was the wedding of 18-year-old Carrie Lynn Harrell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dred Harrell of Brighton, Mich., to George Steffen, of Ypsilanti in the Free Methodist Church at Ann Arbor. It stirred up many memories for Carrie Lynn's family, on hand four-generation strong, and particularly for her mother and three Livonia residents, Mrs. Carrie Holmes, her son, George Holmes, and her daughter, Mrs. Fred T. Wilson. All live on Schoolcraft. It was George Holmes who brought the parachute along when, in January, 1946, he was sent to the bedside of his seriously ill mother. And it was Laura Wilson who thought of the firm white material when, after Mrs. Holmes was better, sister Barbara Holmes announced she wanted to marry as soon as Dred Harrell was discharged from service. Mrs. Wilson used about a third of the parachute for the wedding gown. Part of the rip cord edged the oval neckline and trimmed the skirt. "It cost ten cents to make," she remembers. "I spent that for a spool of thread." The purchased thread had yellowed a bit in the 21 years that passed before Carrie Lynn's wedding, but the nylon was still gleaming white. Mrs. Wilson added rows of pearls along the bias parachute seams in the skirt "to change it a little for another bride." It was the first time the family had seen the dress on a bride, for the Harrells were married in Georgia. Mrs. Wilson's daughter, Mrs. Adelaide Fulmer, was matron of honor. She made her dress after the refitting of the bridal gown was complete. At the wedding were Mrs. Holmes, her sons and daughters, and the Harrell's other eight children, including Dred Harrell Jr. and his wife and a small daughter Kimberly Lynn. "I told him I wanted her there even if she did fuss," said Mrs. Harpell. "She made it four generations." Besides, Kimberly Lynn had to have a look at the wedding gown she might wear some day.

Livonia Girl Scouts Attend Conference

Three Girl Scouts from Livonia are among 220 representatives from seven northern midwest states who attended a Senior Girl Scout Conference held on the University of Wisconsin campus at Madison last week.

The conference on the UW campus at Madison was one of 10 held by the Girl Scouts in various areas of the nation this summer, and the girls were from communities in Wisconsin, Illinois, Indiana, Michigan, Minnesota, and North and South Dakota.

The conference at Wisconsin is sponsored by the Madison Black Hawk Scout Council and the University's School of Home Economics. Theme of the conference is "Dimensions for Living." Its aim is "to stimulate awareness in senior high school scouts of the many influential functions of the home and the role of women in these challenging times."

Livonia Girl Scouts who attended the conference were Suzanne I. Brown, daughter of Mrs. Kenneth Brown, of Livonia Crescent; Patricia Buckman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Buckman, of Washington Avenue, and Alicia Nalez, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Norbert Nalez, of Pinetree Avenue.

Women on the GO!

By Margaret Miller

The organizing general for a Wayne County war against "the long, hot summer" is an attractive blonde mother of two who lives in Garden City.

Mrs. Delora Yori heads a $100,000 federally funded program to promote summer activities and jobs for the 14 to 18 year set in 10 Wayne County communities.

The idea, of course, is to fill the young people's summer hours so completely that no one will have time or energy to get into difficulties.

To do this, the 10 communities, including Garden City, have set up programs of day camps and recreation, for which some young assistants will be hired, and a junior police plan, which will give youths an hourly wage for jobs like cleaning up park areas, playgrounds and streets.

The program, known as Operation Summertime, will run six weeks beginning next Monday, July 10, and Mrs. Yori expects it to be a pretty lively six weeks for her.

Besides serving as director of the whole program, she wants to be on hand to help implement it wherever needed, and that could well take her to Ecorse, River Rouge, Romulus, Sumpter, Taylor, Wyandotte, Inkster, Hamtramck or Highland Park.

"We've had a wonderful response from the communities involved," Mrs. Yori said. "They moved quickly to set up their programs, and they are working hard to make them good ones."

Preliminary plans, she said, call for involvement of 245 teens in the various programs. The funding will cover hourly pay ranging from $1.40 for the junior police to $2.25 for a few youth supervisors, as well as lunches for youngsters in the recreation programs, weekly bus outings for the junior police group and materials that may be needed.

"If we find we have some of the materials money left," Mrs. Yori added, "we'll put it right back into wages for more kids. We intend to spend every penny of the money allotted in our own communities."

Delora Yori's appointment to her summer responsibility grew out of her membership on the Wayne County Citizens Committee on Economic Opportunity since its inception in 1964.

And that, along with several other community positions, was the result of a number of years of activity at various levels of the Garden City Parent-Teacher Association.

"We had just moved here when our oldest daughter, Lynette, started kindergarten and I started the PTA," Mrs. Yori remembers. "She's now 16 and a half and nearly through high school, and I'm still busy."

Mrs. Yori and her husband, John, also have a 14-year-old daughter, Patricia. Besides her work on the Office of Economic Opportunity Committee, she is a member of six years' standing with the Garden City Parks and Recreation and for two years has been chairman of the local United Community Services, the budgeting branch of United Foundation. She also has managed several political campaigns.

Looking at her summer job and all its possibilities, Delora Yori likes to keep in mind a purpose that extends beyond six weeks.

"We would like to see a program like this operating year-round," she says. "We want to make this a really meaningful experience for these youngsters—help them understand how governments operate and teach them their own rights as people and citizens."

"We can't do that in six weeks." But it's a safe bet she'll make a good start.

Wayne BPW Has Installation

The Wayne Business and Professional Women's club held its annual meeting and installation of officers recently, with Mrs. Tina Cieply continuing as president of the group.

Installed with her were Mrs. Pat Grosjean, vice president; Mrs. Jan Sutton, recording secretary, and Mrs. June Hamrick, treasurer.

Mrs. Eileen Warburton, a member of the Lincoln Park BPW and former District 8 director of the organization's state federation, presided at the installation. Mrs. Cieply reported on the BPW state convention in Detroit in May.

The outgoing board of officers had charge of the meet-

Woman to Head Local Torch Drive

The region includes Garden City, Westland, Inkster, and Wayne.

Mrs. Oldenburg's appointment was announced by the Western Wayne residential chairman, Mrs. Arthur R. Hempe Jr., of Northville.

"I am pleased Mrs. Oldenburg has accepted this important post," Mrs. Hempe said. "She is a dedicated, enthusiastic volunteer who gives many hours to a number of community organizations."

The newly named region chairman will organize and train volunteers to call on residents of her region during the house-to-house campaign.

She also will be responsible for their collections duplicator. They have four children: Sandra, 21; Kurt William, 19; Richard K., 16, and Dana K., 4.

health research services and 32 child care services.

Torch Drive dollars are allocated to the services on the basis of minimum needs as determined by the United Foundation's goal and allocations committee, which annually reviews each agency budget and makes recommendations.

Heirloom Lace Mantilla Accents Bridal Gown

A floor-length mantilla of heirloom rosepoint lace accented Mary Ann Feller's bridal gown when she spoke her nuptial vows to Eddy E. Ellegood in Nardin Park Methodist Church, Farmington, on Saturday, June 24.

Both bride and bridegroom are teachers in Farmington schools.

Mr. and Mrs. David Nathan Feller, of Montrose, Mich., are the bride's parents, and the bridegroom is the son of Mrs. Ellen Ward and the late Dr. J. W. Ward.

The Rev. Roy Syme officiated at the ceremony.

Romance crepe and re-embroidered Alencon lace fashioned the bride's gown, which featured a sheath skirt and chapel train. A pillbox secured the long veil, and she carried a nosegay of assorted white flowers.

Her attendants wore floor length dresses of blush pink chiffon and lace and floor-length veils. They carried crescents of pink asters and statice. Mrs. Michael Bellows was her sister's matron of honor, and the bridesmaids were Mrs. David E. Feller, Mrs. Wayne P. McCormick and Mrs. Donald C. MacGregor.

James O. Ellegood was best man for his brother, Robert, Thomas and Wayne Huber and Clyde Kirkpatrick were ushers, and the bride's small niece and nephew, Janis MacGregor and Michael Scott/Bellows Jr. were flower girl and ring bearer.

Mrs. Feller was gowned in coral re-embroidered lace for the wedding, and Mrs. Ward wore rose lace.

After a reception in the church fellowship hall, the couple left for a Florida and Jamaica honeymoon.

The new Mrs. Ellegood, a graduate of Central Michigan University, teaches physical education at North Farmington High School. Her husband teaches at Dunckle Junior High School and is a graduate of Wayne State University.

J. Haefner Married to T. Thornton

Judith Haefner and Thomas L. Thornton spoke their nuptial vows by candlelight in the First United Presbyterian Church of Plymouth Friday, June 16.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Haefner, of Hartsough Avenue, Plymouth. William Thornton, of Madison Heights, and Mrs. Thelene Hautamaki, of Detroit, are the bridegroom's parents.

The Rev. Henry J. Walsh officiated.

A white silk organza over taffeta sheath was the bride's choice. It was made with scoop neckline and empire waist, and featured a five-yard train bordered by lace. She wore a bouffant elbow-length veil and carried white lilies and stephanotis.

Kathleen Allison, of Plymouth, wore a mint green empire sheath for her duties as maid of honor. She carried deeper green carnations.

Similarly gowned in tangerine and carrying harmonizing orange carnations were bridesmaids Kathryn Henderlong, of Plymouth, and Sandra Haefner, of Garden City.

Bennie Parsons, of Detroit, was best man, and the ushers were Wayne King, of Detroit; Thomas Fitzpatrick, of Novi, and Joseph Haefner, of Garden City.

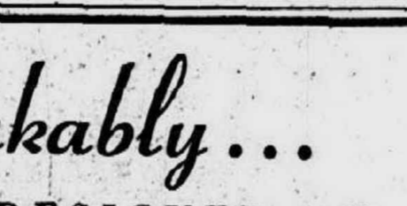

The bride's mother wore a dress and coat ensemble of turquoise silk and linen, and the mother of the bridegroom chose peacock blue silk jersey.

Roma Hall in Livonia was scene of the reception for 135 guests.

After a Chicago wedding trip, the couple plan to live in Stevensville, Mich., where the bridegroom, a veteran of four years in the U.S. Air Force, is service director with Ashley's Ford. The new Mrs. Thornton is a graduate of Schoolcraft College.

HAPPY GRADUATES, Carolyn Browning and Dot Kostuck, enjoy festivities in their honor. Both women recently graduated from Farmington Senior High School after taking evening classes in the Adult Education program. The party was also an occasion to celebrate the birthday of Bob Kostuck.

Hippies Invade Town For Graduation Celebration

Placard-carrying hippies invaded the City of Farmington June 24 and marched in protest at the home of Bob and Dot Kostuck, 33705 Hamlin Court.

After demonstrating against higher education and learning, the "hippies" then joined ranks with friends to help celebrate Mrs. Kostuck's high-school graduation at a party given by her husband.

The hip surprise was planned by pals who carried signs reading, "Fite egg-heads," "It pays to be ignorant," and "Rah rah recess." They shouted, "Down wit ejukashun!"

They were clad in outlandish costumes, with the gals in miniskirts and the guys in ripped sweatshirts. Wigs made from mops were decorated with bows and flowers. Some guys even smoked bananas — plastic ones stuffed with cigars!

As if one big surprise weren't enough, guests then banged pots and pans to announce a joint celebration for Bob's June 13 birthday, which had seemingly passed unnoticed. He was plied with comic presents and with a cake decorated with embarrassingly large numerals (40).

Having left high school in Chicago before graduation, Mrs. Kostuck had determined last September to complete her high school education. With the encouragement of family and friends, she entered night school in Farmington Senior High's Adult Education program. She graduated in June, receiving her diploma along with nine others from Adult Education.

Classmate and fellow graduate Carolyn Browning attended the celebration. Both plan to attend college in the fall at Orchard Ridge campus of Oakland Community College.

Wishing both graduates the best of luck in all future scholastic endeavors were: Bob and Susie Jahn, Helen and Erick Braun, Bill and Julie Yochum, Bill and Mary Checketts, Bill Van Norstrand, Mrs. Minnie Galant, Mr. and Mrs. Jud Goltra, Bob and Jane Drushel, Rita and Ed Moshammer, Bill Petrelack, and Russell and Louise Eavey.

Former residents of Chicago, Ill., the Kostucks have lived in Farmington for the past six years and been active in local affairs.

Mrs. Kostuck is past president of Longacre's PTA and last year was the Ways and Means Chairman. This coming year she will serve as Parliamentarian and Safety Chairman on the Farmington Area PTA Council. She is also deeply involved in Operation Headstart which works with underprivileged children.

Her husband is vice president of the Alta Loma Homeowners Association as well as membership chairman and past treasurer. Both Bob and Dot are bowling enthusiasts and active in church work.

The Kostucks have two children, Paul, 15, and Donna, 12.

Dimes Volunteers Hold Meeting

Storm Sewer To Serve 2 Subdivisions

Two industrial subdivisions in the Plymouth-Levan Road area will begin the final stages of their development this month.

A $1 million dollar storm sewer, now under construction, will clear the way for the subdivisions.

Globe Industrial Subdivision and Plymouth-Levan Industrial Subdivision will have sewer, water and paving installed this summer.

The Globe sub is being developed by Practical Home Builders in Oak Park. Sam Hechtman, owner, said his subdivision will have 65 acres.

"A street will run from Plymouth Rd. to Amrhein Rd. We'll sell all sizes of lots, from 100 feet wide to 415 wide. The biggest portion of the lots can be served by railroad lines."

Hechtman has developed similar subdivisions in Oak Park and Clawson.

The Plymouth-Levan sub—already partially developed—will cover 40 acres. Only final plat approval from the Council remains. Contracts for sewer, water and paving have been signed, according to engineer for the project, Martin Padmos.

6 Livonia, 2 Plymouth CMU Grads

Six students from Livonia and two from Plymouth are included in a list of 974 June graduates from Central Michigan University.

Graduates from Livonia are: F. Robert Joseph, BS; Paul James Kendziorski, BS in education; Nancy Jo Loud, BS; James John MacLeod, BS; Sandra Lee Rivers, BS in education; and Diane R. Seleen, BS in education.

Plymouth graduates are: Sally Jean Anthony, BS in education, and Beverly Irene Gilbert, BS in education.

Signs have been installed throughout the business districts telling of the city's Centennial Celebration. They will remain until after the final events in late October.

DPW crews are busy mowing city parks and replacing sod at the City Hall. Rubbish barrels were painted. Workers handled three funerals at Riverside Cemetery where mowing and tree trimming was continued.

Crack sealing was completed on Main between Mill and Church streets. Cold patching was done where needed and the sides of the street were patched on Junction from Karmada to Sheldon Road.

Trees were trimmed at places where limbs were interfering with street lighting.

Crews installed a water tap, repaired a broken water main and moved four water stops back to the property line.

Plymouthite To Attend Summer School

Marvin Smith, a teacher at Thurston High School, has been selected to participate in a special Summer Science Institute at Knox College, Galesburg, Ill., which opened this week and will run through Aug. 11.

The institute is sponsored by the National Science Foundation to acquaint high school teachers with modern teaching methods in physics and chemistry and with new scientific developments. Fifty-three teachers from 16 states, Canada, Turkey, England and Bermuda are attending.

Smith, who lives in Plymouth, will participate in the Chemical Education Materials Study Program during the institute.

Half of MSU Freshmen Receive Financial Aid

EAST LANSING—Almost half the freshmen entering MSU this fall will receive some type of financial aid. Three of every seven freshmen from Michigan, in fact, qualify for a scholarship, loan, job or a combination of these, on the basis of their family's financial need.

Aid to needy M.S.U. freshmen averages nearly $800.

DPW News & Notes

By SUPT. KENNETH VOGRAS
Plymouth Public Works Dept.

During the past week, the Department of Public Works spent several hours cutting dirt out on Elizabeth Street, hauling it away and dye testing houses there in preparation for the resurfacing of the street under the improvement program.

Mowing and trimming of grass and cleaning of the mausoleum and one funeral were conducted in the Riverside Cemetery. A program was started to dig out temporary patches in the streets which will be refilled with a permanent material. Parks were cleaned and mowed and the city hall was washed on the outside front and sod replaced on the lawn.

Cold patching was done on various local streets. Grading was done on Junction and Farmer Streets from Sunset to Sheldon Road. Fifty new street barricades were purchased, painted, stamped and made ready for use. Gravel was put on Carol Street and the intersection at Hamilton and Roe Streets was repaired.

The bandshell was set up in Kellogg Park for the band concerts on Thursday nights. Unistrut posts were removed from Kellogg Park. These had been used to support the lighting system for various occasions and are being replaced by gas lights.

Centennial cards were being placed in frames and hung on light posts throughout the city business section. The islands in the Central Parking lot were weeded and cleaned out. Major streets have been cleaned.

Flat sanitary sewers were flushed out. Catch basins were cleaned at Sunset and Farmer and Auburn and Junction Streets and a manhole was rebuilt on Elizabeth Street at Ann Arbor Trail.

Civic Fete

sailed in 1620. It will be given as a symbol of the friendship that exists between the Plymouths of two nations.

The granite was flown here by the British Overseas Airline Corporation and will be given to the Lord Mayor by Jack Jarvis, of Plymouth, who is the local BOAC representative.

The dinner is the main highlight of the visitors' stay in Plymouth.

They have had a busy week. Starting with their arrival on Monday they were guests at a meeting of the City Commission Monday evening and were in the forefront of the July Fourth parade, and attended the Home Products Show.

On Wednesday they toured the Ford Motor Plant and Greenfield Village and the Lord Mayor engaged in the popular "Focus" program with J. P. McCarthy at WJR at noon. In the evening they were guests of the British consul at dinner in his home.

On Thursday they will visit the University of Michigan in the morning and then be tendered a salute at the Civic Dinner. On Friday they will be guests at a special program at the Rotary Club and then will take part in a closing ceremony on the City Hall lawn before their departure for home on Saturday morning.

Fall Festival Next Big Event

Lest we forget—the big celebration this week is not the end of the Plymouth Centennial.

The next big affair will be the Fall Festival in which the various service clubs in the community join hands in making the event one of the most unusual in the state.

The Festival will reach its climax with the Rotary Club chicken barbeque and corn roast in Kellogg Park.
