"There's love in the park!" That refrain echoed in offices overlooking Kellogg Park on a sunny, autumn afternoon as Dana Leja of Livonia proposed to Teresa Gap of Plymouth last week.

Leja surprised Gap with a catered dinner served by their friend and co-worker, Peter O'Brien of Plymouth Rock Catering. Served atop the winterized fountain, Leja and Gap were served at a linen-covered table replete with candles and a vase of red and white roses.

The couple dined on cheese and crackers, salad with raspberry viniagrette, cherry sorbet, chicken pasta, raspberry torte, and coffee flavored with Bailey's Irish Cream.

"Pete and I had been roommates, and I'd been talking about wanting to get engaged to Teresa

Parking stalls growth

■ Expansion plans by one downtown Plymouth business are being hampered by questions about parking. Business owners want to expand, but city officials are cautious, citing a parking credit system.

BY KEVIN BROWN

Make it happen. Let the Box Bar expand and build a microbrewery; it would be good for downtown.

That's what a group of downtown shop owners told city commissioners on Monday.

"This town is so far behind, you're years behind," said Mary Millington of Little Professor book store. "Don't be so cautious that it slits our throats."

"The fact is, we need a heck of a lot more activity in this town," said resident Mark Oppat. "We could use about three or four more restaurants, something that has a little hustle-bustle to it."

The Box Bar expansion, said Native West owner Annette Horn, "will enhance the downtown greatly — it's not going to hinder it at all."

The City Commission's answer to business people was this:

- Parking downtown could be a big problem in the future.
- We've been working for several years on a solution to the problem, but the end isn't in sight.
- Restaurants that want to expand have to provide adequate parking.
- It's not fair for restaurants to expand, then have patrons park at lots owned by other business people.
- So a restaurant owner lacking on-site parking — like Chip Falcusan of the Box Bar — should somehow arrange with a private lot owner or the city to provide it.

While some business people questioned the contention that the city faces a potential parking problem, Mayor Doug Miller said, "That's the way Royal Oak started," referring to parking problems in that town.

City candidate forum turns friendly

BY KEVIN BROWN
STAFF WRITER

Once fiesty political campaigns in Plymouth have turned friendly.

The tone was light and informal for the first candidate forum of the fall election season Tuesday at the Box Bar and Grill. Five candidates, vying for four seats on the Plymouth city commission, didn't criticize the current commission.

In the 80-minute program, sponsored by the Community Democratic Club, the candidates took questions and generally introduced themselves to the voting public. About 30 people attended the forum.

Plymouth Community Fire Department firefighter William Warren, a Vietnam veteran, said he's served in the department 16 years. "I believe in very good services in this community," he said.

Warren said he's been involved in contract negotiations, and has some understanding of budgets. "I'll try to protect services within the restraints of city budgets," he said. "I feel that government has a responsibility and obligation to all the citizenry," Warren said, adding it's important to maintain good relations with city employees.

Incumbent City Commissioner Stella Greene said she's walked neighborhoods and talked to downtown business people to hear what concerns them, and will continue that. "It boils down to communication. There's a lot that still needs to be done, there's still a long ways to go," she said.

Greene said the current commission has worked together to be fiscally responsible, face issues and give citizens an opportunity to air their views at commission meetings. She also highlighted her community involvement, including service as president of the Women's Club, with the Trailwood Garden Club, and the Historic District Committee.

Incumbent Dennis Shrewsbury told the group, "I am your city commissioner. I would like to continue working for you, my bosses." He cited the current commission's record of playing a part in reducing the city millage from 13.57 to 13.01 mills and in keeping costs down to pick up garbage.

Hazardous waste dropoff 'place to be'

The hazardous waste was out in full force Saturday in Plymouth Township as residents brought in old car batteries, drain openers and other materials that people just don't know what to do with.

The collection was at Pioneer Middle School and was the first since 1990, when one was held in conjunction with the city of Plymouth.

At the most recent collection day, accepted items included adhesives, aerosol cans, asbestos materials, auto-related fluids, driveway sealer, explosives, gas, hobby chemicals, household cleaners, lab chemicals, lawn and garden products, medications, mercury, paint, pesticides, polishes, pool chemicals, solvents, wood preservatives and other chemicals.

Meanwhile, Plymouth Township residents can put more items out for recycling. Now being accepted are junk mail, telephone books, magazines and corrugated cardboard.

These items are not to be placed in orange recycling bins, but instead go in clear plastic bags available where trash bags are sold.

The orange recycling bins are still being used to hold newspapers, magazine sections and glossy inserts from newspapers, plastics No. 1 and No. 2, glass containers, tin, steel and aluminum cans.

Household batteries are also accepted in the bins when placed in self-closing plastic bags.

Newsletters have been sent to township residences with the information. For more information, call the township solid waste department at 454-0530.

City debates bed and breakfasts

Are bed and breakfasts bad for a residential neighborhood?

City commissioners and bed and breakfast owners debated the issue on Monday, before commissioners voted 4-3 to tell the Planning Commission to find a way to allow them in residential areas.

The City Commission took up the issue after planning commissioners voted 4-3 to recommend the opposite — that city commissioners not allow them in residential areas.

Some current bed and breakfast operators told commissioners the establishments only boost a residential area. "It's such a cozy atmosphere, like going to grandma's house — This is the atmosphere they're looking for," said Bernadette VanLenten of Canton.

"A lot of the business I'm getting is from people with family members in Plymouth," she said.

Diane Stamp of Plymouth, who said she hopes to turn her house on Penniman into a bed and breakfast, told commissioners in a letter that homeowners should not be stopped "from opening their homes to guests who would like to come and share the charm and hospitality of the city of Plymouth."

Some bed and breakfast backers said the establishments don't bring a neighborhood down, adding they must be well-maintained and landscaped for customers to return — and return business is a key to their success.

While Mike Soignet of Penniman said he wasn't against bed and breakfasts, "I have some concerns about a bed and breakfast right next to my house," adding it could bring more commercial development.

Also expressing misgivings about allowing bed and breakfasts in residential neighborhoods were some city commissioners.

"I've seen the good and the bad aspects when several bed and breakfasts come into a residential area," said Commissioner Stella Greene.

"The question that has to be raised is the long-term impact on residential neighborhoods, and I think it will be negative," said Commissioner Bill McAninch.

"We're under a lot of pressure to change from the commercial sector and others. The pride of Plymouth is in our residential neighborhoods," he said.

Commissioner Ron Loiselle, noting that the current ordinance allows bed and breakfasts throughout the city — one just opened on Sheldon Road and has yet to register its first guest — said, "My opinion is, if it's not broke why fix it?"

"I don't stay at bed and breakfasts but I know a lot of people who do; they're jewels," said Commissioner John Vos.

Those voting in favor of bed and breakfasts in residential areas were Vos, Loiselle, Dennis Shrewsbury and Mayor Doug Miller.

On the losing side were commissioners McAninch, Greene and Jones, who voted to back the Planning Commission's recommendation to keep them out of residential areas.

Careless smoker causes fire at Meadows

A fire started by a careless smoker caused extensive damage to two residences just before dawn Oct. 3 at the Plymouth Meadows condominiums on Deer Court.

There were no injuries.

Damage is estimated to be at least $131,000, said Plymouth Community Fire Chief Larry Groth.

"We got a call at 4:48 a.m., and the fire at that time appeared to be between the first- and second-floor levels," Groth said. "It appeared at first to be an exterior fire on the balcony, or deck."

A male resident of a third-floor unit who lives above the damaged units discarded a cigarette into a milk carton on his balcony. "It set fire to the third-floor balcony, and as it burned, debris dropped down to the second-floor balcony," Groth said.

"At the second floor, it found the second-floor joist and worked its way inside the building. It was burning between the first and second floor and extended 25 feet until it got into a bedroom, which became totally engulfed."

Extensive fire damage was done to two of the 18 condos at the Meadows. "The condos in this building are separated by one fire wall, and nine condos suffered very heavy smoke damage," said Groth.

Twenty-two firefighters using nine pieces of apparatus fought the fire, Groth said.

The chief expects the damage estimate to increase after insurance companies survey the full extent of smoke damage to carpet and upholstery throughout the complex.

Glumm in court Oct. 26

Plymouth resident Barbara Glumm, charged with assault with intent to commit murder, is to appear for a final conference before Detroit Recorder's Court Judge Craig Strong Oct. 26.

Glumm is free on $1,000 bond, set by Judge John MacDonald at her preliminary examination in 35th District Court last month.

If a plea bargain agreement is not reached, a date will be set for a bench or jury trial at the conference.

Shrewsbury, a Vietnam veteran, also stressed his community involvement, as a former Plymouth YMCA board member, adviser to the Plymouth Symphony and community hospice board and on the board of the Plymouth-Canton Vietnam Veterans Association.

Donald Dismuke, a CPA with Ernst & Young and a member of the board of zoning appeals, said he's lived here since July 1994. "I am a fresh face in the community. I bring new ideas, I have no hidden agenda," Dismuke said, adding he would encourage "teamwork to meet all the goals the commission lays out each year."

"I believe all the people have a responsibility to get involved in our city and protect what previous generations have done, and foster growth for a new generation. I'm a very dedicated, enthusiastic individual, I have a broad budget background, I'll be a very fair and impartial community representative," Dismuke said, adding downtown business growth is important.

Joseph Koch, a certified financial planner at Roney & Co., said he grew up in a small town like Plymouth. "I remember going to parades, barbecue chicken dinners, I remember that fondly. It instilled values in me I take with me in everything I do," he said.

"I don't have all the answers, you gather information and establish goals. You need a comprehensive plan, you monitor issues as they come about," Koch said. "I do have an agenda to some degree, I do want the city to stay on the path it's going, and proceed to move along at a quicker pace," he said, adding encouraging good business development downtown is important.

Koch cited his work with the Plymouth Lions Club to have a $25,000 play structure erected at Lions Park, and encouraged young people to get involved in service projects.

The candidates were asked if they had any programs to encourage and retain business. "The issue is not whether it can grow, but if the city will allow it to grow," Koch said. City parking requirements have kept some prospective downtown businesses out, he said, adding reducing parking restrictions would encourage businesses and increase business values downtown.

Dismuke said, "We need to continue to provide tax abatement packages to keep businesses in the city, we don't have that much area for expansion." He encouraged following downtown consultant Hyett-Palma's plan that suggests types of businesses to attract. "Property values will go up," he said.

Shrewsbury said the commission has made some headway in working to solve the parking restrictions problem and has communicated often with the owner and lease holder of the vacant Farmer Jack on Main Street — yet both sides say it's more profitable to keep the storefront vacant.

Greene also stressed following the Hyett-Palma downtown plan. That plan identified an outdoor goods-clothing store as a likely success in Plymouth, she said, and Venture on Penniman after more than a year in operation is now using the downtown development authority's services to find a larger downtown storefront, because they're so successful.

Warren said that while there isn't much available for industrial businesses in Plymouth, downtown's success could be helped if more downtown shopkeepers maintained hours more attractive to shoppers who work during the day.

The candidates are scheduled to meet in a forum at 6 p.m. Monday at Plymouth City Hall.

Homecoming

Tailgating is scheduled to begin at 5:30 p.m. Friday in the Plymouth Canton High School parking lot, kicking off the school's homecoming game and festivities.

Tailgating participants are asked to bring a dish to pass, utensils, napkins and pop. The Egyptian theme homecoming float parade from Salem High to Canton High starts at 6 p.m. and will feature creations by all classes.

Senior parents of Canton football players, Chiefetts and Canton Cheerleaders will be acknowledged, and at halftime the homecoming queen, king and their courts are announced.

Firefighter honored in death

BY M.B. DILLON
STAFF WRITER

■ 'He was a real Samaritan who cared about his family and his community. He was well-loved and respected; a fireman's fireman, and a man's man.'

Michael Stevens
friend of Paul Sanders

The Plymouth Community Fire Department and uniformed police and firefighters from area communities bestowed on former Plymouth Fire Captain Paul "Sandy" Sanders Wednesday the highest honor a firefighter can receive in death.

The 71-year-old Sanders, who retired from the Plymouth Fire Department in 1984, died in his sleep of a massive heart attack Sept. 28 in Siloam Springs, Ark.

Sanders' Stars-and-Stripes-covered casket was carried atop a gleaming red Plymouth fire pumper that led a funeral cortege of more than two dozen vehicles from Schrader Funeral Home to Riverside Cemetery on a chilly, cloudy morning in Plymouth.

After graveside prayers were said by family friend Michael Stevens, the fire captain was saluted as taps were played by Mayflower-Gamble VFW Post life member Harry Krumm. The fire engine bell was then rung 26 times; once for each of Sanders' years of service.

Plymouth Community Fire Chief Larry Groth removed the flag from the casket, folded it, and presented it to Sanders' daughter, Sharon Marie Burow of Terlton, Okla.

"When you give a memorial, you're concerned about making someone more than what they were," Stevens said. "Not in this case. Sandy was an example for all firefighters and all people to follow. Everyone who knew him really liked him. He was a real Samaritan who cared about his family and his community. He was well-loved and respected; a fireman's fireman, and a man's man."

Firefighter Jim Valenski said Sanders was always "a very generous person with his time. He was there to help out, doing anything for anyone."

"I followed him into a lot of burning buildings," said firefighter Dennis Buzuvis, who was trained by the Oklahoma-born Sanders. "I trusted him, and he trusted me."

Sanders was always gratified that no lives were lost in fires or accidents to which he responded, Stevens told mourners. "His concern was to save lives, and that he did. He could eat smoke."

Sanders enlisted in the Air Force in 1946 and served for three years before coming to Michigan, where he met his late wife, Lorraine. He joined the fire department in 1952 as a volunteer and was promoted to full-time firefighter, sergeant, lieutenant and captain.

Stevens said Sanders "talked people out of committing suicide or harming themselves. Once, he arrived at a house fire, and directed other firefighters to work outside. He went right through the door, going from room to room. He picked up a man who was unconscious and carried him to the porch.

"He went back in in case there was someone else, and found this woman. She was a large woman, and he couldn't pick her up. So he grabbed her and began to drag her out of the house. He put her on the porch where it took four firemen to carry her."

Sanders lost an 8-year-old son, Douglas, when the mentally handicapped youngster drowned. He channeled his grief into helping other disabled youth, Stevens said.

"He often visited the mentally retarded children at the Plymouth Center for Human Development. He spent time with the children and interacted with them," he said, adding that Sanders developed an evacuation plan and raised funds for the center.

Empty boots: Paul Rainey and William Conroy set up empty boots, helmet and coat as a tribute to Paul Sanders.

Sanders retired on an Arkansas cattle ranch with his wife, who died in June. Seven years ago, while helping a neighbor in the fields with the harvest, a one-ton bale of hay fell on him, and Sanders broke his back.

He lost the use of both legs and an arm, and spent the remainder of his life in a wheelchair.

"He recovered, partially, and with his son and a neighbor, he started raising emus," said friend Esther Buzuvis. "They have a sizable herd of emus. He was an amazing man."

In addition to his daughter, Sanders is survived by a son, Timothy of Siloam Springs; brothers, Jim of Dallas, Texas, Joe of Claremore, Okla., and Leroy of Owasso, Okla.; sisters, Virginia Shaffer of Fort Worth, Texas and Shirley Chambers of Tucson, Ariz.; and two grandchildren.

Funeral services were also held Oct. 2 in Arkansas.

School erupts with learning

BY M.B. DILLON

In Canton Tuesday, continental plates collided deep beneath the earth, causing the eruption of volcanoes Mount St. Eriksson and Mount St. Miller.

As hot lava spewed from the magma chambers of the volcanoes, amazed witnesses at Eriksson and Miller elementary schools could be heard making comments like "awesome" and "it's exploding!"

Actually, the geological spectacles were miniature — staged by Canton residents Pam and Chris Lincoln in second- and fifth-grade classrooms at the two schools. Pam Lincoln, a research pathologist at the University of Michigan, and Chris Lincoln, a pilot, have daughters who attend Eriksson and Miller.

"I called it awesome, because it is," said Michael Fichtner, an Eriksson second-grader.

"It's really different," said second-grader Lara Mayfield, as she watched her own homemade volcano erupt. Students made individual 'Mount St. Helens" at their desks with small canisters of baking soda and vinegar inserted in mounds of cookie dough.

Students also inserted straws in Hostess Twinkies to get an idea of how drilling is done to explore the earth's core.

"Pam is just wonderful. She does more things; you wouldn't believe it," said Eriksson Prinicipal Judith Ireson. "Last year, she brought pigs' hearts to school for the children to dissect."

Pam Lincoln also visits schools in Ann Arbor. "Her supervisor allows the staff to take time off to do this kind of stuff," said Chris Lincoln, a Masco Corp. pilot whose day began at 5:30 a.m. Lincoln flew to Detroit via Greensboro, N.C. and Memphis, Tenn. in a Hawker 800.

"This gives students an introduction to the experiment process," said teacher Joanna Uhl. "This will tie in nicely with the unit we do on matter."

Laura Jones, 7, said she enjoyed the experiment. "I'd like to see a real volcano," she said.

for a while," said Leja, banquet manager at Laurel Manor. Proposing in a hot-air balloon and other possibilities crossed Leja's mind, but "we thought because we do so much catering, we should be able to do whatever we want," said Leja.

"We both carve ice and have carved at the Plymouth festival, so serving a dinner in the park was another idea we came up with," said Leja, a Stevenson High School graduate.

"All three of us work together, and we all worked that Tuesday," said Leja. "I let Pete go at 1:30 p.m., and I let Teresa go at 3 p.m.

"Pete went and arranged everything" with help from Leja's twin brother Dean and his wife, Lisa.

"At home, Teresa's sister was waiting for her. She told her to pick something nice out and get dressed because I would be over in 15 minutes. After that, she kind of knew something was going on."

Leja escorted Gap, a graduate of Plymouth Salem High School, to the park and "we walked to the round table Pete had set up on the fountain."

Right after we had dessert, "I got down on one knee — I had a wrapped-up blanket for a little kneeling pad — and I told her, I've waited all my life for a special moment like this. Will you marry me?'

"She said yes, and I put the ring on her finger. There were hugs and kisses and applause from the area of the Box Bar after I threw up my arms and screamed it to everyone," said Leja.

"Everyone started cheering. Some of the people from the local businesses right across the street came over and wanted to know what was going on. They said they thought it was the neatest thing.

"One lady was almost in tears. She kept calling her friends, saying, 'There's love in the park!' It was kind of funny. One of the people in the businesses took us over to the Box Bar and bought us a round of drinks."

Leja and Gap, who met six years ago on the job, haven't set a date.

"The easiest thing for this group (the commission) to do would be to do away with parking credits; they'd probably put up statues of us in Kellogg Park," Miller said.

"But in 10 years they'd burn down those statues," Miller said, as a parking problem would have been created.

William Saxton of Saxton's Garden Center, near the Box Bar, said he didn't mind if Box customers parked in his lot at night. But when they use it during the day, "The customer who brings his lawn mower in for service has to park a half a block away."

"We stepped up to the plate 25 years ago," Saxton said, adding he paid $50,000 to tear down two houses to create his lot.

City commissioners said the old parking credit system — which requires a restaurant owner lacking on-site parking to pay money toward creation of public parking — should not be used in this case.

They made that recommendation to the city Zoning Board of Appeals, scheduled to meet tonight to review the issue.

The City Commission is expected to revisit the issue at its October 16 meeting, when the project could be ultimately approved.

The commission has in recent years been negotiating with owners of downtown lots in an effort to buy or lease them, then redraw them to create maximum parking.

Those negotiations have stalled as some parties have not come to terms over parking in talks with the city, officials say.

City officials say they're trying to buy or lease the lots to keep private owners from building on them — which would reduce parking.

RUTH E. ARMSTRONG

When longtime Plymouth resident Ruth E. Armstrong passed away in July at age 96, she left a legacy to her family. Her greatest pride in life was her family and the love of cooking and sharing of her recipes with them over the years.

She became the author of a family cookbook and then published it with the family's favorite recipes. The 278-page cookbook entitled "Mostly Scratch" contained her homemade recipes from her years as a homemaker and volunteer.

And on what would have been her 97th birthday, her family and friends will gather to honor her life and her contributions to the community, her church, and of course her family.

Born in Waco, Texas on Oct. 16, 1898, she met her husband Cyril "Cy" James Armstrong while stationed in Waco. He was training at Camp McArthur for the 1st Michigan Cavalry, eventually serving in World War I. After Cyril returned from France at the end of the war, the couple were married.

They raised four children, Virginia Purcell (deceased); Cyril James of Tulsa, Okla.; Thomas D. of Novi; and Robert F. of Waterford. Her sons and daughter were raised in Detroit, as were their families which include 12 grandchildren, 18 great-grandchildren; and great-great-grandchildren.

Also surviving are two sisters, Ann and Evelyn, of Texas.

Mrs. Armstrong moved into Tonquish Creek Manor in Plymouth two years after it was built and lived there for the next 20 years. She was active in bake and craft sales to raise money for many of the Tonquish Creek projects, including the beauty parlor built for the Tonquish residents.

When that project was complete, she turned her attention to the cookbook project. She spent countless hours compiling her favorite recipes. With the help of several of her granddaughters, she published the three-ring binder cookbook with over 200 recipes.

The cookbook became so popular with her family and friends that a second printing was required.

During Mayor Exchange Day with the City of Warren, Plymouth Mayor Bud Martin and the mayor of Warren were both presented with copies of the notebook bound cookbook.

A memorial service will be held at the 11 a.m. Saturday, Oct. 14, at the First United Methodist Church of Plymouth on North Territorial Road. Donations may be made in her honor to the First United Methodist Church, Tonquish Creek Manor, or the Charter House of Novi, Social Activity Fund. No flowers please.

Student radio station supports good sports with broadcasts

WSDP is the home of Plymouth-Canton and Plymouth Salem sports. This fall the station will air girls basketball, football and boys soccer.

WSDP regularly airs public service announcements provided by the MHSAA. The series of announcements include messages on good sportsmanship. WSDP also focuses on sportsmanship in interviews aired during the halftime of football broadcasts. The interviews are also aired on WSDPs Sportsweekly program on Fridays at 5:40 p.m. Interview guests have included Plymouth Canton Schools retiring Athletic Director Paul Cummings and Assistant Athletic Director Sue Heinzman.

"We feel sportsmanship is an important issue and we're committed to supporting it through our broadcasts," said WSDP sports director, John Kreger (Plymouth-Canton junior).

This past year Plymouth Salem's girls soccer team was awarded a "Good Sports are Winners" award. They received a crystal trophy, sportsmanship banner, and a $1,000 donation.

The MHSAA's "Good Sports are Winners" campaign is sponsored by True Value Hardware Stores of Michigan. WSDP's sports broadcasts are sponsored by Learning for Everyone of Canton.

SCC has health care magazine L

Starting today residents of southeastern Michigan will be reading LifeLine, a brand new health care magazine published by Specialty Communications, Inc.

According to its editor, Cathy Smillie, LifeLine is designed for people who need complete, easy-to-read tips on how to keep themselves well.

"Our readers live fast-paced, busy lives," Smillie said. "They're looking for clear perspectives and accurate information that is useful in their daily activities."

All stories take a local slant, using experts from area hospitals, clinics and other health care facilities. Although the magazine covers complex medical issues, most articles are written in the "how-to" format, such as how to pack nutritious lunches that kids will eat, or what to look for when browsing for fresh fruits and vegetables at the local farm market.

"Now more than ever, we are encouraged to take responsibility for our own health," Smillie says. "But where do we start? The medical field can be costly and confusing, and insurance companies make matters even more complex."

October's feature story, "Whole Health," explores the emerging managed care environment and aims to help readers better understand its components, including the role of the primary care physician, when you should see a specialist, and how to use nurse midwives, osteopathic physicians and other providers.

Specialty Communications is a subsidiary of Suburban Communications Corporation, publisher of Observer & Eccentric and Hometown newspapers. LifeLine will be distributed through the Suburban network in Wayne, Oakland, Washtenaw and Livingston counties.

Local panel addresses foreign aid

A panel which includes U.S. Rep. Lynn Rivers, D-Ann Arbor, will discuss foreign aid at 7:30 p.m. Sunday, Oct. 15 in the Plymouth Cultural Center, 525 Farmer Street (north of Main and east of Sheldon Road).

Rivers — whose district includes Garden City, Westland, Plymouth, Plymouth Township, Canton Township and part of Livonia — will be joined on the panel by Mike Presants, state coordinator of the Concord Coalition; Sam Daley-Harris, executive director of RESULTS; and Margie Hazelton, a Peace Corps volunteer.

Moderator will be Paul Huth, associate professor of political science at the University of Michigan.

The panel members will share their views on foreign aid and respond to questions pertaining to: "Is foreign aid a form of embezzlement from U.S. taxpayers or an investment in our future?"

The discussion is being held to mark the fifth anniversary of the World Summit for Children. RESULTS (Responsibility for Ending Starvation Using Legislative, Trimtabs and Support) is a non-profit, grass-roots citizens lobby committed to creating the political will to end hunger and the worst aspects of poverty.

Symptoms of depression

According to the National Mental Health Association, you should seek professional help if you or someone you know has experienced several of the following symptoms for two or more weeks:

- Feelings of extreme sadness, grief or anxiety.
- Loss of interest or pleasure in activities once enjoyed.
- Increased fatigue, decreased energy.
- Sleep disturbances (either increased time asleep or insomnia).
- Eating problems (either overeating or loss of appetite).
- Difficulty remembering things or concentrating.
- Feelings of inappropriate guilt or worthlessness.
- Irritability.
- Recurring aches and pains.
- Thoughts of death or suicide.

Free exam offered to detect depression

BY DIANE HANSON
SPECIAL WRITER

The fifth National Depression Screening Day takes place today (Thursday, Oct. 5) at a number of locations in the metro Detroit area, free of charge. Last year there were 31 area sites where more than 1,300 people were screened. Nationally, over 85,000 people were seen at more than 2,000 locations. Of those screened, 76.4 percent scored positive for depression.

While one out of every four women and one out of 10 men will experience one or more depressive episodes at some point in their lives, currently only about one-third of those who suffer from a depressive illness will seek professional help.

Depression is not just "a case of the blues." It is not a flaw in character or a personal weakness that the victim can "pull themselves out of." It is a serious biological illness that can be successfully treated in 80 to 90 percent of cases with medication, therapy or a combination of the two.

"I think that many people tend to see depression as something very obvious — this guy is really depressed, he's suicidal or what have you,' said Dr. William Hart, psychologist and clinical program director at Suburban West Community Center in Redford Township, one of the sites offering screening today.

"It's not unusual for people to be depressed, to be suffering from depression and not realize it. It's kind of like having a very negative, dim view of life and thinking that's the way things are."

The most common types of depressive illness are unipolar (deep, prolonged depression) and bipolar or manic depression (cycles of deep depression followed by inappropriate highs).

The screening questionnaire to aid in detecting depression takes only about 10 minutes to fill out. A professional will go over information individually with each participant and, if screened positive for depression, will be able to offer a variety of resources for follow-up care.

"Most of the people that have come in the past have been able to go home with a lot of educational material," noted Linda Lupo, secretary for the Department of Behavioral Medicine at St. Mary Hospital in Livonia.

"There's a wealth of information that they can get at the screening along with speaking to someone individually."

St. Mary has participated in the National Depression Screening Day every year since its inception.

The Oct. 5 screening day program at most locations will offer a video presentation as well as presentations and question and answer sessions conducted by medical professionals. The entire program runs from one and a half to two hours. Those seeking screening or information are encouraged to come in for all or part of the program.

Even if a potential depression sufferer is unwilling to come in for screening, Hart encouraged friends or family members to stop by for information.

Lupo pointed out that it is also helpful to have a friend or relative come along with the person being screened.

"It's good to have somebody there who can hear what's being presented along with the person who feels they might be dealing with depression," she explained. "It just reaffirms how they are feeling and lets somebody else in their family understand what they are going through so they can help them identify and deal with it."

Although the Suburban West Community Center is a facility that provides services for adults 18 years and older, Hart pointed out that "the depression screening is available for children and adolescents as well." Referrals will be made to proper treatment facilities for that age group.

There is no cost for the depression screenings at any location on Oct. 5. St. Mary will offer the program at 2 p.m. and 6 p.m. on Thursday. Suburban West has set screening times of 2-4 p.m.

Many facilities, including St. Mary and Suburban West, offer free assessments for mental health difficulties at other times as well. The Marian Center at St. Mary offers a screening day for anxiety and depression on an alternating basis each month. Upcoming anxiety screening days are Oct. 12 and Dec. 14. Depression screening day is scheduled for Nov. 9. New dates for 1996 will be announced later. For appointments call: (313) 591-3314 or 1-800-494-1615.

County canoe rental to open

A new county-operated canoe rental concession opens this weekend at the Oak Grove Area of Hines Park, Ann Arbor Trail one-quarter mile west of Farmington Road.

The canoe concession will operate Saturdays and Sundays from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. in October.

There is a $20 deposit fee and $10 for a maximum of two hours.

The three-mile trip from Newburgh Lake to Nankin Lake takes about 90 minutes, according to county officials.

"This is an important symbol of our efforts to clean up the Rouge River," said Wayne County Executive Edward H. McNamara.

"We plan to make the Rouge a national model of how to take a river that once was thought to be helplessly polluted and return it to a state where people can use it and enjoy it."

In addition to recent county efforts to improve water quality, McNamara credited the volunteer efforts to the Friends of the Rouge, who have been working to clean up the river for more than a decade, and U.S. Rep. John Dingell who helped secure federal funding to clean up the Rouge River watershed.

The first canoe trip was expected to be taken earlier today by Deputy County Exeuctive Michael Duggan and his children. Duggan, who headed a recent project to clear logjams from the river, said that even though other parts of the Rouge are still polluted, the stretch of the Rouge used for the canoes is clean enough to allay any health concerns.

"From Newburgh Road to Farmington Road, the water in the Rouge is passing all tests for human contact," Duggan said. "The canoeing here will be safe — otherwise I would not have brought my children."

Although the Newburgh-Farmington stretch has been cleared, Wayne County Environmental Health Director Glenn Brown stressed that the rest of the Rouge does not yet meet health standards and should still be considered hazardous to human health.

Temple Baptist

Compromise is still possible

Plymouth Township should continue on its path toward seeking a compromise plan with Temple Baptist over the building of a church in the northwestern portion of the township.

That compromise hit a bump on Friday when the Township Board delayed approving an accord that could have kept the dispute out of federal court. A Nov. 1 court date is set.

The board delayed voting on the compromise plan until it hires more lawyers who have experience with religious and zoning issues. The reason is that under the compromise plan, the church could come back to the township in three years with plans to expand.

The project has been opposed by nearby residents who contend the church project is too large and will produce too much traffic and noise from musical performances.

The caution on the part of Plymouth Township is understandable. However, there should be a sense of urgency injected into the situation. Plymouth Township has much to lose in such a suit. There is the money — $5 million. But there is also the entire ballgame.

If the township was to lose the suit in federal court, the church would be able to build any structure or complex it chose. That would mean wasted legal fees on a lost cause.

Under current conditions the township can have some say about the type of structure and its uses.

Here are some of the main disputes between the church and township:

- The township wants to keep the project the size that was agreed on during negotiations. The church is seeking the ability to come back in three years and expand the complex.
- The township wants a worship center that would seat no more than 2,000 people. The church wants the ability to seat 2,500.
- The township wants to limit parking to 667 spaces. The church wants 834 spaces.
- The township wants to limit the number of musical performances to 10 each year. The church wants 14.

The major issue is future expansion. Township officials and authorities said they don't want the church coming back in three years and attempting to enlarge its facilities.

That shouldn't be such a hot button. If the church proves to be the problem that its critics say, then that will be proven during the next three years by the volume of traffic and noise. The township could then make a valid argument against expansion.

Also, in dealing with the church issue, the township and residents have yet to think through the situation. If that 56-acre parcel was developed into subdivisions or as commercial property, it would also produce traffic and noise.

Plymouth Township officials and residents have an opportunity to strike a compromise with Temple Baptist that would give residents some control over what happens at the site. If it doesn't take advantage of that opportunity

Pro ball in suburbia? No joke

Broadcaster Ernie Harwell had a little joke when he narrated Detroit Tigers baseball games in the 1970s, '80s and early '90s.

"That pop foul was caught by a fan from Allen Park That home run was nabbed by a fan from Kalamazoo That slice into the right-field stands was picked up by a fan from Okemos."

Of course, Harwell had no way of knowing where the fans came from, but it was the Tigers' way of acknowledging that people from over two-thirds of Michigan came to games.

Joke time may be over. A new competitor is emerging for baseball fans' attention, and it is eyeing the metro Detroit suburbs.

We refer to minor league baseball. Already the West Michigan Whitecaps are attracting folks to their new ballpark in Grand Rapids. Lansing is putting up a stadium for a team with the unlikely name of Lugnuts. Battle Creek's team, the Battle Cats, started play this year.

Earlier in 1995, a group of outstate investors approached the city of Novi with an idea for a minor league stadium.

And a couple of weeks ago, the Palace approached Oakland Community College with an unwritten proposal for a minor league stadium on 20 acres of OCC property on the Auburn Hills Campus.

Anyone can see the point. The notion of a minor league baseball team and stadium near I-75, I-96, I-696 or even I-94 is far from crazy.

And if the horse racing business goes belly-up, as the owners of Ladbroke DRC in Livonia threaten, a good chunk of land and parking lot may come on the commercial real estate market sufficient to accommodate a minor-league ballpark.

Tiger crowds used to push the two million mark in a season. Lately they've been lucky to exceed one million. There was one players' strike too many in 1994 that cost loyal fans a World Series. "Fans" comes from the word "fanatic." That's how much baseball watchers love the sport. To deny them a World Series is an act bordering on desecrating the flag. And that's just about what the major leagues did.

During former owner Tom Monaghan's machinations for a new stadium, it became abundantly clear that most suburbs wanted no part of a major league stadium, with 50,000 seats and a parking need for tens of thousands of cars and buses. But a minor-league team? That may be food for thought.

Minor-league stadiums are built for 10,000 or fewer fans. Minor-league stadiums don't demand the $55 million the Michigan Strategic Fund intends to use for "public infrastructure and land assembly" for a new Tiger Stadium.

A dozen metropolitan Detroit suburbs are large enough in population to qualify as a hometown for a new minor-league club.

If the PBS television series "Baseball," produced by former Ann Arborite Ken Burns, taught us anything, it's that major-league ball wasn't always played in palatial surroundings seating 60,000 people with luxury boxes for the corporate types. Smaller-town baseball can be just as satisfying, easier to get in and out of, cheaper to take the family to see, and easier on the state treasury than major-league ball, at which current Tigers' owner Mike Ilitch confesses he's losing $10 million to $15 million a year while producing disappointing quality.

Think about it. Baseball in a small-city setting in the suburbs, the way it used to be played.A lot of investors are thinking about it. A lot of fans are ready for it. Mike Ilitch's Tigers should be looking over their collective shoulders.

Museum plea

The Plymouth Antiquarians is a branch of the Questers, a national organization, whose goal is preserving our heritage. This year we have chosen as our project, the carpeting of a portion of the Plymouth Historical Museum. Because of the cost of this project, $3,500, we are asking our community organizations, businesses and interested citizens to join us with financial help.

We plan to carpet the area in the lower level, that includes the children's classroom and meeting area. We feel this part of the museum needs updating and that carpeting and eventually some fresh paint would enhance the use of the room. It serves as a meeting place for several community organizations, symphony after glows and anniversary parties. Also, the schoolhouse serves many classrooms for our community schools.

Any donation you could make, put toward the fund we have started, would be greatly appreciated. Please make your check payable to the Plymouth Historical Society Museum and earmark it for the carpeting fund.

Class size an issue

I wish to tell your readers about the Class-Size Action Partnership (CAP). CAP was formed two years ago by a small group of parents in the Plymouth-Canton Community School District. The mission of CAP is to facilitate cooperation among parents, community members, school board members, teachers and school administrators in an effort to improve the quality of the teaching process and learning environment in the district.

The present focus of CAP is class size in the elementary schools. CAP has researched class-size issues and has determined that smaller classes do indeed improve the teaching process and learning environment. Over the past two years, CAP has worked to heighten awareness of class-size issues in the community and among school district personnel. This year we have seen some class-size reductions.

While the reductions are encouraging, more work is needed to further improvements in the district. CAP invites non-parents and parents to join in their efforts. CAP's next meeting is 7 p.m. Wednesday, Oct. 11, at the E.J. McClendon Educational Center, 454 South Harvey, Plymouth. All levels of participation are welcome.

Tobacco wins again

I'm worried! After the news last night that even Canada — after passing tough laws virtually banning media tobacco advertising as well as requiring extremely large health warnings of each pack — has been told to cease their successful ban because such restrictions are unconstitutional!

The tobacco industry, the same tobacco giants that have successfully continued their sales of unhealthy tobacco products in our country, despite the ample evidence that using tobacco, in any form, chewing/spit, snuff, as well as cigarettes/cigars, can cause death, has won again!

What does this mean to us here in the areas of western Wayne County? It means that the tobacco industry's delay efforts continue — like their getting our state legislative leaders at Christmas time 1993, to include a pre-emption clause as part of the new tobacco tax law.

Pre-emption is used nationwide by the tobacco interests to maintain their market shares and, of course, their huge profits. Pre-emption places state law as supreme; therefore local government, our cities, townships, villages, etc., cannot enact stronger restrictions or limits that could, for example, further protect our children from their addiction to tobacco!

Of course, the tobacco industry's position makes sense — dollar cents — when you realize that our children, many only in elementary grades, must be recruited early into the ranks of tobacco users. New smokers to replace those adults that have either finally quit (thanks to all the Surgeon General's reports, etc.), or, the estimated 430,000 who actually die from tobacco-related illnesses every year. Every day 3,000 children/minors under 18 years, begin using tobacco/smoking.

We can do something, however. We can contact our state legislators and ask/tell them to support repeal of the pre-emption clause by supporting either House Bill 4366 or Senate Bill 145, both of which are still in legislative committee. We can insist that committee chairs send the bills to the floor for a vote. Our legislators will pass the bills if allowed to vote. Ask them!

POINTS OF VIEW

'Tough' bills would incarcerate public safety

Now you can experience the distress that recently gripped the California-based editors of the staunchly Republican Investor's Business Daily without ever leaving Michigan.

The IBD scribes were recalling how Gov. Pete Wilson had campaigned for "three strikes and you're out" legislation but has now established quotas on the number of parole violators he'll take back into prison.

A Michigan version of "Speak Loudly, and Carry a Featherduster" consists of a package of three bills — HB 5033, 5034 and 5035 — introduced by Reps. James Ryan and Eric Bush.

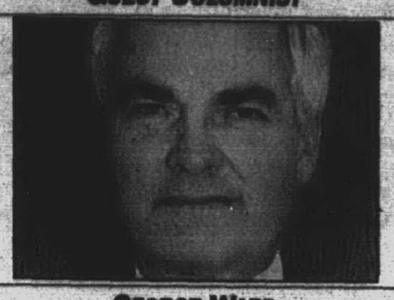
These bills would abolish consecutive sentences for new felonies committed by parolees through the drastic measure of stripping the prosecutor of authority even to file new charges; render parolees unsupervisable by eliminating their risk of prompt re-incarceration for parole violations; and destroy the public safety leverage of parole revocation, which law-abiding society must possess over the re-entering felony convict — all under the camouflage of an empty but tough-sounding provision which merely makes a name change from minimum sentence to determinate sentence.

In August, Rep. Ryan told Ronna Romney's WJR talk-show audience that under his bills, if a sentencing judge selects a sentence of 12 years, "that person will serve 12 years in prison, not one day less." But that's not even close. Section 33 of HB 3054 provides that sentence shortening credits of 84 days per year are to be calculated exactly as before and "deducted from the prisoner's determinate sentence in order to determine his or her discharge date." Whatever happened to truth in sentencing?

Let's consider other elements of what the public understands by determinate sentence. Take manslaughter, for example. The present statutory sentence is 15 years. To voters, getting rid of parole means that the manslaughter convict will stay in prison for the full 15 years.

But that's not what Ryan and Bush mean. Just as now, they pass the buck to judges in each case to fix a so-called determinate sentence. Legislative guidelines are talked about, but there's no provision for ever bringing them to closure. Some idea of determinateness.

GUEST COLUMNIST



GEORGE WARD

But the biggest objection to Ryan/Bush is how it would undermine public safety.

The real purpose of this hodgepodge of provisions is to covertly repeal the consecutive sentences for re-offending felony parolees which were enacted by the Legislature in 1988 and upheld by Judge Susan Bieke-Neilson in O'Hair vs. Gregory Young.

But the package is so pro-convict it even intrudes upon the prosecutor's authority to file new charges. Section 8A of HB 5033 vests the last sentencing judge of the prisoner on supervised release with "exclusive jurisdiction to impose a penalty" for any violation alleged to be a felony. It's hard to believe the inmates themselves didn't write this one.

We've known for three decades that society's only chance to deter criminality is with a credible threat of swift and certain punishment. That threat cannot exist as to first offenders. They're presumed innocent, and most are out on bond for the six months or more it takes to complete their first criminal trial.

The conditions necessary for swift and certain punishment exist only for offenders already in convict status. That's why MCL 791 has long provided that a parole violation subjects the parolee to prompt re-incarceration for the unexpired term of his or her maximum sentence.

How, with recidivism rates as high as they are, can we repeal the unserved maximum sentence? Yet, under the guise of getting tough, section 38 of HB 5035 would abolish this important leverage.

Almost 20 percent of the offenders against whom new prosecutions are instituted in Wayne County are already in convict status. Prosecutor John D. O'Hair has estimated that taxpayers in Wayne County alone could save $6 to $10 million a year if the state would just use the punishment authority of existing unused sentences. The parole board refuses to do so on the false ground that it lacks subpoena power.

Now legislators, including a number from Wayne County, propose to compound the state's past sins against their own county taxpayers by abandoning what they should insist be used.

Sadly, the overly generous concessions to felony parolees by the Ryan/Bush proposal makes Governor Pete Wilson's quotas for parole violators look hard-nosed by comparison.

But don't take my word for it. Read the Ryan/Bush package for yourself. If you care about public safety, I'll bet you conclude as the IBD editors did about the comparable California situation. "It's an administrative shift," they said, "worthy of Mike Dukakis."

George Ward is chief assistant prosecuting attorney for Wayne County. He lives in Plymouth Township.

Law-enforcement lobby misfires on concealed weapons

If Sen. Joe McCarthy, of 1950s Commie-hunting infamy, had said it, liberals would have said he reached new depths of smearing and depravity.

The statement was that would-be handgun carriers are "criminals who have avoided conviction, hot-heads, alcohol abusers, drug abusers and people prone to domestic violence."

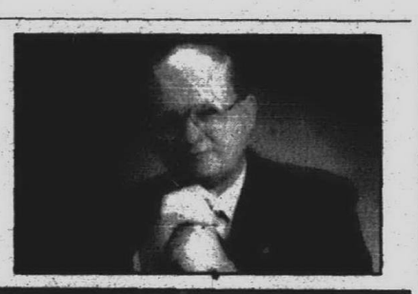
It came from John O'Hair, Democratic prosecutor of Wayne County. A former judge, O'Hair appeared to have forgotten that a person is innocent until accused, tried and convicted. Moreover, his wording was so all-encompassing that it muddied all persons interested in CW (concealed weapon) permits.

Also in the fray was Ron Deziel, Dearborn police chief, with statistics about what happened to crime rates in Florida after it liberalized its handgun laws. Deziel wrote of crime and shootings soaring in 1987-91, after the sunshine state's gun law was changed.

Very slippery. Deziel hopes you will be tricked into assuming that the newly issued CW permit handguns were used. He never proves it. In fact, he never even tries to prove it. It's reminiscent of those hokey statistics that showed New York City with a ballooning birth rate nine months after a power failure.

Center of attention is House Bill 4720, sponsored by state Rep. Alan Cropsey, R-DeWitt, to change the rules under which CW handgun permits are issued. There are two issues, and most commentators mix them up.

1. Should Michigan do away with 83 separate gun boards and have a single state office regulate permits? The answer should be a resounding "yes."



TIM RICHARD

2. Should Michigan become a "shall issue" state — that is, should it be required to issue a CW permit to anyone who isn't a felon, awaiting trial or in some way demonstrably loony? Here there may be room for negotiation, as the attorneys say.

But not a lot of room. Consider the language of the Michigan Constitution, Art. I, Sec. 6: "Every person has a right to keep and bear arms for the defense of himself and the state." That is the entire section.

I am most bothered by the current 83 county gun boards. These are three-member panels: the sheriff, the prosecutor and the local state police commander. And what groups are lobbying hardest for retention of the present boards, even to the point of issuing smears and hokey statistics? Prosecutors, local police and the Michigan State Police.

The purpose of gun rights, as patriots since the days of Thomas Jefferson have pointed out, is to allow citizens to defend themselves against not only hostiles and criminals — but against government itself.

Have you ever been in a police state? The first rule is that only cops have guns. The citizenry is disarmed.

One of the more potent groups in the Michigan Legislature calls itself the Law Enforcement Caucus, many former cops and prosecutors. Some of its members recently introduced a constitutional amendment allowing the death penalty, but only for cop killers.

Governor hits a foul ball on Tiger Stadium funding

I was a big baseball fan when I was a kid.

I lived and died with what happened to the Tigers. I knew all the standings, memorized all the statistics and thought that Johnny Groth, a journeyman Tiger outfielder in the '50s, was the most perfect being ever put on this earth.

But now, like most folks I know, every year I get grumpier and grumpier at what's happening in professional sports.

The players' collective greed and arrogance is matched only by that of the owners, who suffer the additional delusion that owning a professional team entitles them to demand and receive public money for new sports stadiums erected primarily to enrich themselves. Moreover, matters of professional sport appear to attract politicians in a way as profound and as pointless as a light attracting a moth.

In the weird world of professional sport, nothing ever seems to add up.

The recent news that Gov. John Engler and Detroit Mayor Dennis Archer have cut the deal to kick in $90 million in public funds to build a new baseball stadium for the Tigers is a perfect case in point. Some Q and A will show how.

Is a new stadium really needed?

Probably not. The old Tiger Stadium could almost certainly be renovated at far less cost than the current estimate of $250 million or so for building a new stadium.

So why build a new stadium?

Good question. There seem to be three reasons.

The unstated reason is simple profit. Tiger owner Mike Ilitch will make lots more money with a new stadium than with the old, not to mention the enormous gain in value for his Fox Theatre, Second City comedy club and two restaurants. He isn't going to put $140 million of his own money into the deal just to be public spirited.

The stated reason from the politicians is economic development. A new stadium, it is asserted, is a great way to bring more folks to downtown Detroit and, hence, will provide lots of new jobs and contribute to the renaissance of the city.

The real reason is that building a new ballpark is the price to be paid to keep Ilitch from moving the Tigers out of the city. It isn't full-blown blackmail, but it's close.

Does the economic development argument make any sense?

Not much. After construction is over, a new stadium itself won't generate many more jobs than the old one. Some argue that the new stadiums in Baltimore and Cleveland stimulated the rebirth now going on there. It seems far more likely that the rebirth was going on well before any new stadium was built.

PHILIP POWER

The state's ante in this deal is $55 million from the Strategic Fund. Is gutting the fund in the interest of all the people of Michigan?

No. Started during the Blanchard Administration, the Michigan Strategic Fund was supposed to put long-term investment money into stimulating research, technology transfer and entrepreneurial business startups around Michigan's universities. While the results have been disappointing, it's very difficult to argue that a new stadium for the Tigers is going to build a more solid economic base than investing in high-tech business ventures.

Engler's a smart politician. What's he getting out of this?

It doesn't add up.

Certainly, it's not good pubiic policy. The governor first killed the Greektown Indian gambling casino, arguing, "There are no shortcuts . . . no magic." Most economists think neither a new stadium nor legalized gambling are magic routes to prosperity, but there is no doubt that of the two, gambling offers far more jobs.

Votes? Engler's western Michigan base cannot be happy, while solidly Democratic Detroit is not likely to turn around solely on the basis of building a new stadium. The suburbanites I talk to mostly don't care.

After all, it's only our tax dollars, hard at work.

Fire prevention begins at home

National Fire Prevention Week will be observed next week. It's scheduled then, near the eighth of October, because it was Oct. 8 when, in 1871, Mrs. O'Leary's cow kicked over that kerosene lamp in that downtown Chicago cowshed and started the "great Chicago fire."

Things were a lot different back then. First of all, there were cowsheds with cows in them in the middle of the city. And second, not a lot of thought went into fire prevention or building codes or even fire safety awareness. And that is why 250 people perished and 100,000 were left homeless and 17,000 buildings were destroyed. Yet, out of the ashes something good arose. Better-built, stronger, fire-resistant buildings were constructed. And a keen awareness of the swift and brutal nature of fire came to pass. And eventually, Fire Prevention Week.

Now, I didn't know much about this, Fire Prevention Week and its history, until a couple of weeks ago when the fire chief told me a little about it while offering advice on conducting my own fire safety program right at home. It was sheer coincidence that what I, on my own, had thought of doing was what fire departments across the nation encourage everyone to do during the early October observance of Fire Preven-

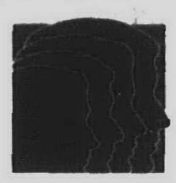
Sailor finds niche as personal cook for ship's captain



Getting in the kitchen and rattling those pots and pans is music to the ears of Jeff Kolbas who has parlayed his high school training in the culinary arts to the position of the captain's personal cook in the U.S. Navy.

BY DARRELL CLEM
STAFF WRITER

Even as a young child, Jeff Kolbas preferred television chefs over Bugs Bunny and The Jetsons.

"Most kids would watch cartoons, but Jeff would watch the chefs on TV," his mother, Susan Kolbas of Plymouth Township, recalls.

Within a few years, Kolbas was preparing gourmet-like meals for his mother and father, Richard Kolbas.

"It was really pretty amazing," his mother says.

After honing his culinary skills at the William D. Ford Vocational-Technical Center in Westland, Kolbas joined the Navy and quickly impressed his superiors.

Now, this 1993 graduate of John Glenn High School has earned a prestigious post as the personal cook for Capt. David Polatty of the USS Independence, the Navy's oldest ship.

"I try to keep my standards high in the kitchen," Kolbas, 21, said during a telephone interview from Yokosuka, Japan, the ship's home port.

A typical day for mess specialist Kolbas begins at 6 a.m., when he prepares breakfast. In tending to the captain's needs, he works closely with another mess specialist, Eddie Manlutac.

"We cook whatever we want," Kolbas said. "But we know what the captain likes."

The kitchen operates on a tight budget, he said, so he plans his meals accordingly.

"What we have to work with here is a real challenge," Kolbas said.

His favorite foods to prepare are soups, sauces and pasta dishes. Ironically for someone who spends time at sea, he prefers not to cook seafood.

"I don't know a lot about seafood," he admitted.

Kolbas, in the second year of a five-year enlistment, already has post-Navy plans for studying in Schoolcraft College's highly touted culinary arts program.

"Someday I'm going to be a certified chef," he says confidently.

Kolbas has no aspirations to own a restaurant, though. Such ventures are too risky financially, he said.

On the USS Independence, a 5,000-personnel aircraft carrier with a 4.2-acre flight deck, Kolbas used to work in the ward room where officers eat, he said.

One in eight American women will develop breast cancer... If it's found early, about 90% of them will survive

The key to beating breast cancer is finding it before it spreads. While it's still 90% curable. With the best chance of saving the breast.

At Providence, we're committed to providing a quality program to screen for breast cancer and teach women about breast examinations using:

- low-dose radiation
- fully accredited mammography equipment
- specially trained radiologists and technologists
- four locations with convenient hours
- acceptance of most insurance plans

Providence provides all the care you need if the diagnosis is breast cancer, from surgery, radiation and chemotherapy to reconstructive surgery. A multidisciplinary working group of physicians and other health care professionals assists patients in deciding which treatment is best for them, then streamlines that treatment so care can begin in a matter of days rather than weeks.

Providence oncologists have access to the latest cancer-fighting drugs and treatment protocols through membership in several national research organizations. The Hospital's radiation oncology program is affiliated with University of Michigan, bringing state-of-the-art care right here for Providence patients.

And we offer something more: The support, care and compassion cancer patients and their families need at a time that challenges body, mind and spirit.

Please call one of our four locations to begin your breast care program today. And practice it for life.

Writer favors intellectual

GRAPHOLOGY PROFILES

LORENE GREEN

Dear Lorene,

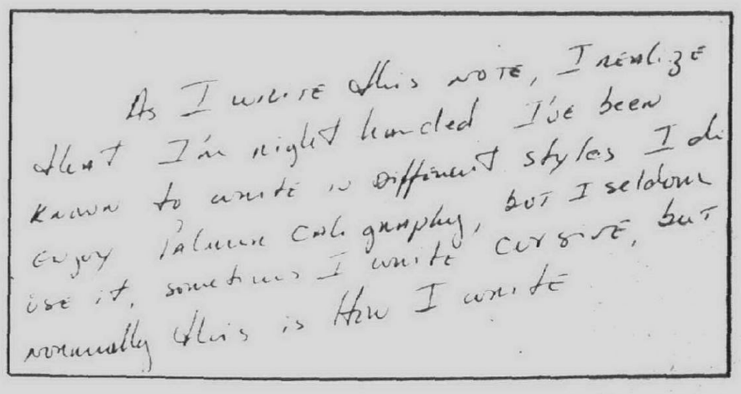
I'm a terrific and energetic young man of 32 years of age.

I'm currently seeking employment in the business and technical field. I have been employed by the same corporation for the last 7 years.

As I write this note, I realize that I'm right handed. I've been known to write in different styles. I do enjoy Palmer calligraphy, but I seldom use it; sometimes I write cursive, but usually this is how I write.

Thank you for your response and assessment.

C.W.,
Farmington Hills



As I write this note, I realize that I'm right handed. I've been known to write in different styles. I do enjoy Palmer calligraphy, but I seldom use it; sometimes I write cursive, but usually this is how I write

This is the handwriting of a young man whose orientation is toward intellectual pursuits. His astute mind can concentrate on the essentials and rapidly distinguish the important from the unimportant. He thrives on mental challenges.

This is a quick, intuitive thinker. He is able to appraise a situation and formulate his answer. Often, this can be done on gut feelings.

He is concise in speaking and writing. His succinct style helps him move things right along. He wants information minus embellishment.

In his work, he is very productive. He dislikes distracting influences, procrastination or delay. Wasted time or materials can be upsetting. He prefers to work with his mind rather than his hands and may work more effectively alone than in a group situation.

This young man utilizes his time very efficiently. He does not waste it on window dressing. Time is money and he has more than a passing interest in this.

On the day this letter was written, he was feeling extremely euphoric. However, it is not possible to be certain how long he can maintain this level of optimism without seeing samples written at other times.

Some indications in this handwriting sample suggest he might run a little hot and cold in relations. He appears to need time by himself and does not require a great amount of company. Friends, I believe, would be people with similar intellectual leanings.

The writer is independent and self-protective. We are not going to know him more intimately than he wishes.

At times, the writer is restless. He seeks new vistas and wants to break with some of the old ways.

He is also quite versatile. He can do many different things, and probably all of them well.

When his huge illegible signature is compared to the body of his writing, it presents quite a contrast. It suggests he wants to project a bolder image than he may be able to sustain. The illegibility says he wants to be an enigma, or is.

If you would like your handwriting analyzed in this newspaper, write to Lorene C. Green, a certified graphologist, at 36251 Schoolcraft, Livonia 48150. Please write a few paragraphs about yourself, using a full sheet of white, unlined paper and writing in the first person singular. Age, handedness and signature are all helpful. And objective feedback is welcome.

tion Week.

No cows or kerosene lamps were the impetus behind my unofficial Fire Prevention Week. Instead, a stranger burning leaves and branches on a windy day in our subdivision, rather near our house, was. The flames appeared to shoot 10-12 feet high and every time more brush got thrown in, sparks showered upward toward the trees and flew everywhere.

The children worried. And I worried. But then I worry about spontaneous combustion in the clothes closet. I worry about the furnace this time of year when it first is put into use after months of being dormant. And I worry about our cozy fireplace. And I worry about the wires crisscrossing behind my walls and coming into contact with unknown flammable things in there and the dreaded, unexpected, inexplicable short circuit and the clothes dryer with its flame right behind that bottom panel. And at night, when all of the children are snuggled in their beds fast asleep, sleeping peacefully and knowing all is well, I worry that all might not be well.

And so, after seeing those shooting flames against the night sky a couple weeks ago, the worry translated itself into Fire Prevention Week at the Meiers'.

This is how it went. First we talked. We discussed how each of us can avoid fires. Most of that was review, of course. I cover these things periodically throughout the year on an as-needed, "I don't have time to explain it all right this instant or else you won't be safe anymore" basis. But this time I explained — calmly and clearly.

I explained why the kitchen is off-limits for throwing games and bumping games while I'm cooking and baking. And why the family room becomes a non-rumpus zone while I'm ironing. And why the fireplace is best enjoyed from a safe distance. And why something as small as a match can be a monstrous danger.

As I talked about these dangerous, rather frightening things with the children, I wondered if I were perhaps doing them psychological harm. Was this going to lead to nightmares?

But then I realized that not knowing what to do in a situation where fire is involved goes way beyond frightening, it goes straight to deadly. So I figured a little bit of psychological harm today and a nightmare tonight might be necessary to save tomorrow.

So we discussed. And then we tested the smoke alarms. We talked about what we must do if we hear that signal. We talked about crawling or moving like a snake on the floor and feeling doors before opening them and not hiding in a closet or under a bed and how we should always, always leave THINGS behind and think only of getting to safety.

We talked about the fire extinguishers we have on each floor. We looked at the escape routes I'd drawn on paper. And we went to our meeting place out on the sidewalk. And then we had a fire drill, which put everything we'd talked about into action.

I can only imagine (and I hope that's all I'll ever have to do, is imagine) what a real fire emergency would be like. And I realize that even though the practice and the drills and calm discussions will have preceded such a situation, panic will flare up anyway just like the flames. But knowledge will be there to help neutralize, to squirt water on the panic.

So even though that stranger's fire a couple weeks back was scary and bad, good arose from it, just as good arose from Mrs. O'Leary's cow and the great Chicago fire of 1871. Awareness, I'm convinced, is always good.

It's time to send in holiday cards

Samples of holiday cards offered for sale by charitable organizations are already beginning to arrive in the offices of the Observer & Eccentric Newspapers.

Each year, starting in November, each of the five O&E offices invites readers to come in and look over a scrapbook we compile, showing the cards available.

If your nonprofit group is selling holiday cards to raise money, send us five samples of each card, which will be distributed to our offices in Birmingham, Rochester, Farmington, Livonia and Plymouth. Be sure to include information on how the cards may be ordered.

Deadline to receive cards and information is Thursday, Oct. 19, in order for your organization to be included in the scrapbooks, which will placed in our offices Thursday, Nov. 2.

Cards can be mailed to Ethel Simmons, Suburban Life editor, The Eccentric Newspapers, 805 E. Maple, Birmingham 48009, or Sue Mason, Community Life editor, The Observer Newspapers, 36251 Schoolcraft, Livonia 48150.

For more information, call Simmons at (810) 901-2576 or Mason at (313) 953-2131.

Scouts are selling calendars, planners

Ready to start making plans for 1996, but lack the calendar? The Huron Valley Girl Scout Council has the answer.

Scout troops are currently selling 1996 wall calendars and pocket planners showcasing winning artwork from a nationwide contest open to Girl Scouts of all ages.

With the theme of "Be Your Best," the calendars feature illustrations which express the girls' insights of health, fitness and the principles of the Girl Scout promise and law.

Calendars and pocket planners can be ordered directly from local Girl Scout troops. After Nov. 16, they will be available at the Huron Valley Girl Scout Council headquarters, 1900 Manchester Road, Ann Arbor.

Family Tradition.

©UMC 1994

Every family has its traditions. Gathering for Sunday dinner. Marking anniversaries and celebrating birthdays. Unfortunately, some families share more than happy times . . . they also share the risk of certain illnesses.

Breast cancer—which now strikes one in nine American women—is among them. If your mother, grandmother, aunt or sister has been diagnosed with this disease, your doctor probably has explained the added risk you face. But unlike women in past generations , you can put time and technology on your side.

We at the Marian Women's Center, St. Mary Hospital, encourage you to see your doctor regularly whatever your age and, once you reach 40, to see us for a mammogram. Our mammography services are designed to give you peace of mind by bringing together certified radiologists and staff, personalized education and high-tech imaging equipment approved by the American College of Radiologists.

Make mammography and regular breast exams a new family tradition. For more facts on mammography services and other programs at the Marian Women's Center just call us at (313) 591-3314.

Benefit fetes Polish culture

When Suzan Marzecdons one of her Polish folklore costumes, it takes more than a few minutes. And it's no wonder the ensemble — skirt and blouse, apron and vest — tips the scales at close to 25 pounds. And that doesn't include the head scarf and mid-calf high lace-up boots.

Those costumes will be at the center of a Stroje Ludowe, a Polish folklore fashion show luncheon Sunday, Oct. 15, at Sts. Peter and Paul Banquet Hall in Dearborn Heights.

It is, in part, an observance of Polish Heritage Month, but more importantly it is to raise money for the Polish National Alliance Centennial Dancers who will be traveling to Poland in July 1996.

The dancers have been invited to participate in the children's festival in Krosno as well as at the X Swiatowy Festival in Rzeszow.

"We're trying to raise $200 for each dancer to cover their stay in the area they will be dancing," said Marzec, the troupe's director. She estimates that 40-50 dancers will make the trip.

The fund-raiser will start with a social hour at 2:30 p.m., followed by dinner at 3:30 p.m., at Sts. Peter and Paul, 750 N. Beech Daly. There will be Polish food and baked goods, artifacts and authentic men's and women's costumes from some 15-20 Polish regions.

Among those modeled will be the aforementioned heavyweight from the Lowicz Region. The costume features panels made with beadwork and is considered the prettiest costume of Polish folklore, Marzec said.

The collection also includes a long-sleeved city vest from the Krakow region that dates back to the 18th century, a vest from the village of Pzworsk in the Rszeszow region.

"These costumes are influenced by Austrian and Slovakian folklore and most are wine-colored because they produce wine in the region," Marzec said of the city vest. "The ornamentation can tell a story about the culture and you have to look closely at the detail to tell the story."

Yet another costume that will be modeled is from the Opocznow region and is distinguished by its colorful striped material and very fine detailed embroidery influenced by German and Jewish immigrants.

The Centennial Dancers are made up of young people ages 3-20 from many of the western suburbs — Livonia, Plymouth, Westland, Wayne, Romulus and Northville — as well as such Oakland County communities as West Bloomfield. And a few from Mount Clemens also make it to Livonia for the Wednesday and Thursday evening practices.

Tickets for the Stroje Ludowe cost $20, and reservations can be made through Oct. 8 by calling (313) 535-9094, (313) 525-0556 or (313) 422-1731. Checks or money orders can be sent to the Centennial Dancers, 29161 Lori, Livonia 48154.

People interested in helping finance the trip can send donations — checks made payable to the Centennial Dancers, P.N.A. Lodge 53, P.O. Box 700379, Plymouth 48170.

ty school in San Diego, Kolbas knew early on that he wanted to cook for a high-ranking Navy officer.

It's not an easy job, said Navy journalist Alan Baribeau, who shot some kitchen photos of Kolbas for the Observer. "It's a lot more than flipping burgers."

At an early age, Kolbas followed his mother around the home kitchen.

"I used to see if I could get a couple of burns on myself," he joked.

Kolbas said his talents blossomed at the William Ford Vocational-Technical Center, which he attended when his family lived in Wayne.

"The chefs there are really good," Kolbas said.

Culinary arts teacher Kathy Windiate taught Kolbas for two years.

"Jeff came in as a junior and knew that he wanted to be a chef," she said. "He knew where he was going and what he needed to do to get there. Most kids don't know at that age what they want to be. Jeff did.

"He was directed, motivated, talented and very personable," Windiate said. "And he was career-minded."

Kolbas was always ready to volunteer his time to cook for special parties, she said.

Windiate credited Susan and Richard Kolbas with inspiring their son to become successful. Susan Kolbas teaches living skills and health at West Middle School in Plymouth, and Richard Kolbas is an electrical engineer for Ford Motor Co.

Windiate recalled that Richard Kolbas used to bring other Ford engineers to lunch when his son cooked at the vocational-technical center's Cafe Marquette.

Jeff Kolbas has attracted attention for his cooking talents. One Navy publication featured a story about him.

"We're real proud of him," his mother said.

■ RUMMAGE SALE
St. Timothy Presbyterian Church will have a rummage and bake sale 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. Thursday and Friday, Oct. 5-6, and 9 a.m. to noon Saturday, Oct. 7, at the church, 16700 Newburgh Road, between Five Mile and Six Mile roads, Livonia. For more information, call (313) 464-8844.

Trinity Church of the Brethren, 27350 West Chicago at Inkster road, Redford, will have a rummage and bake sale from 9:30 a.m.-1 p.m. Saturday, Oct. 14. Items to be sold are furniture, clothing, household goods, books and small appliances.

■ PACE GROUP
The PACE (Post-Abortion Counseling and Education) Group will meet 7:30-9:30 p.m. Thursdays, beginning Oct. 5, in Room 22 of the First Church of the Nazarene, 21260 Haggerty, north of Eight Mile, Northville. For more information, call (810) 349-7600.

■ "COSMIC CONFLICT"
Terry Nelson will discuss "Cosmic Conflict" at 7 p.m. Friday, Oct. 6, and Saturday, Oct. 7, at Plymouth Seventh-Day Adventist Church, 4295 Napier Road, Plymouth.

■ "FASHION SHARE"
Detroit World Outreach presents its annual "Fashion Share" from 11:30 a.m.-2:30 p.m. Saturday, Oct. 7, at Fairlane Christian School, 22425 Hass, two blocks west of Telegraph between Ford and Warren roads. Sponsored by the Women's Group of Detroit World Outreach, this community outreach will go into the city's shelters and gather up underprivileged women and "make them a queen for a day." Guests will be treated to lunch and a fashion show sponsored by Crowley's of Dearborn. Model and recording artist "Jullian" will entertain the guests and share her personal triumph of being an abandoned and abused child to becoming one of the country's most glamorous fashion models. To finish the outreach, each guest will go on a "free" shopping spree arranged by the women of Detroit World Outreach. For more information, call (313) 561-3300, Ext. 121.

■ ROSARY PROCESSION
The sixth in a series of Rosary Processions will take place at 2 p.m. Saturday, Oct. 7, at St. Mary's Catholic Church at Fourth Street and Michigan Avenue in Wayne. According to organizers, "these processions have been taking place monthly since May in order to ask God through his holy mother to intervene in the affairs of men in order to bring about a just and lasting peace in our country and throughout the world."

■ MONEY SEMINAR
Christ Our Savior Lutheran Church, 14175 Farmington Road, Livonia, will offer a money management seminar 8:30-9 p.m. Sundays, Oct. 8 and 15. The video-based program by Ron Blue will present financial planning concepts to help participants stretch their dollar, develop a home budget, and learn cash flow techniques. The registration cost is $12.50 per workbook ordered. For more information, call Bob D'Ambrosio at (313) 522-6830.

■ FAMILY SEMINAR
Livonia Church of Christ is hosting a "Hope For The Family" seminar from 8:30 a.m.-3 p.m. Sunday, Oct. 8, at the church, 15431 Merriman Road at Five Mile Road. Topics include marriage (8:30 a.m.), "Father's Role/Leadership" (10 a.m.), "Things To Teach Our Kids" (11 a.m.), and "Good Things in Family" (1 p.m.). Visitors are welcome.

■ RADIO SHOWS
The radio series "What is this Christian Science and who are these Christian Scientists?" is being broadcast at 9:30 a.m. Sundays on WAAM-AM 1600. Topics include "What kind of person was Mary Baker Eddy really?" on Oct. 8, "Media coverage of Christian Science" on Oct. 15, "Why don't Christian Scientists take medicine?" on Oct. 22, and "Is it possible to heal without medicine?" on Oct. 29. The series also can be heard at 8:30 a.m. Sundays on CKLW-AM 800. The series is produced by the Christian Science Committee on Publication for Michigan and sponsored by local Christian Science churches. For more information, call 800-886-1212.

■ SOCIAL ISSUES
The Rev. Charles Boayue, associate council director of urban ministries/church and society of the Detroit Conference, will lead a roundtable discussion of social issues 7-9 p.m. Wednesdays, Oct. 11, 18 and 25, at Aldersgate United Methodist Church, 10000 Beech Daly, between Plymouth Road and West Chicago, Redford. In his discussion, he will use the booklet "Social Principles of the United Methodist Church," based on "The Book of Discipline." For more information, call (313) 937-3170.

■ BARNYARD DANCE
Bethany-West chapter, a nonprofit Catholic organization which provides spiritual, social and educational assistance to divorced and separated Christians through peer ministry, is hosting a "Barnyard Dance" at 9 p.m. Saturday, Oct. 14, at St. Robert Bellarmine Church in West Chicago, east of Inkster Road. The cost is $8 which includes pop, beer, wine and munchies. For more information, call Kathy at (313) 584-1158 or Laurie at (313) 565-3529.

■ "BEYOND SUPERWOMAN"
The Board of Women's Ministry at Christ Our Savior Lutheran Church in Livonia is sponsoring a one-day workshop "Beyond Superwoman" at the church, 14175 Farmington Road, Livonia, from 9 a.m.-3 p.m. Saturday, Oct. 14. The $10 cost includes lunch and refreshments. The workshop, lead by Elise Arndt author of "A Mother's Touch" and "A Mother's Time," deals with how women of the '90s have passed through the "Superwoman" syndrome and escalated into a realm of unconscious speeds of thinking and doing. For tickets, call (313) 522-6830.

■ NEW LOCATION
The Church of the Risen Lord, a mission of the Charismatic Episcopal Church of North America, is meeting at a new location — in the chapel of the Disabled American Veterans Hall, 8850 Newburgh, at Joy.

Worship in the church is part of the Convergence Movement in Christianity. It is an expression of the Christian faith through the convergence of three streams — liturgy, openness to the Holy Spirit and the evangelical belief in a personal relationship with Jesus Christ with the Bible as the word of God.

Inquirer's classes are forming to introduce people to the characteristic beliefs and practices of the Charismatic Evangelical Church. Participation does not require a commitment to be confirmed or be received into the church. For more information, call the Rev. Kenneth Bieber at (313) 397-7132.

Organizational skills worth learning for the busy '90s

BY CHRISTINA FUOCO
STAFF WRITER

Barbara Hemphill has been helping people organize their personal and professional lives for about 17 years. But the expert has a confession to make.

"I'm naturally kind of a messy person; I'm not naturally a neat person," she said. "When I take off my clothes, I'm real happy to just drop them on the floor or drop them on the chair."

That reflects her belief that the old saying "a place for everything and everything in its place" is only half right.

"I can quickly put them (the clothes) in the right place because they have a right place. The stress comes when people don't have a place to put them," she explained.

Hemphill, the author of "Taming the Paper Tiger" (Kiplinger Books), was in town recently for seminar at Staples in Westland.

Since forming her company Hemphill & Associates in 1978 with a $7 advertisement in a New York newspaper, Hemphill has provided organization skills for homes and offices. She has appeared on numerous television shows, including "CBS This Morning" and "CNN Nightly News," and has written for publications like Reader's Digest, Redbook, USA Today, Kiplinger's Personal Finance and The Washington Post.

Hemphill, who once worked in India with Mother Theresa, shares her wealth of information because she feels organization skills are an important skill to learn, especially in the busy '90s.

Complicated lives

"Our personal lives are more complicated," said the immediate past president of the National Association of Professional Organizers. "We have dual-career families. Children have more complicated lives than ever before. Their schedules are more complicated and many of us now are dealing with aging parents. It becomes very complex."

She became interested in helping people organize their lives because it's a "mechanism to get to know the people." She and her staff organize anything a client desires, from kitchen cupboards to entire corporations.

"When you help them organize their stuff, you get to know all about them," she said. "When I used to do people's homes, I had people who put my name in their safe deposit box because they said when they died there was no one who knew more about their affairs than I did."

Although the basic principles are the same, she sees corporations as more challenging than households.

"There's virtually nothing you could show me in a household that I haven't seen before," Hemphill said. "Corporations and businesses are becoming more and more complicated all the time. The technology issues, the international issues, and the economic issues — all those things make it more and more complicated."

Different reasons

Hemphill, who is now based in Raleigh, N.C., said there are plenty of people she has met who are unwilling to be organized for a number of different reasons. One of these is they feel they don't have the time.

But Hemphill counters: "They don't have the time because they're not organized. This morning a woman said she spent 45 minutes looking for a piece of paper she needed in her office yesterday. She said she didn't have the time to get organized but yet she had to spend 45 minutes looking for something that if her filing system (was up to par), it would have taken her three minutes to find. It's kind of a Catch-22."

Others don't know how to organize.

"Unfortunately, in our school systems, it's not a skill we teach," she said. "As a mother of five, I'm concerned about why we don't teach this in school. It's just as important as learning math."

Finally, people think that there are certain ways to be organized and creative people find that restrictive and boring, Hemphill said.

"My definition of organized is, 'Does the situation work and do you like it?' I spent a lot of time today with someone who had specific questions. All these people are creative people who are not fixed. They need flexibility and creativity about how they organize."

The key to organizing, she said, is to keep it up.

When we say we screen our doctors, it's not a slogan and it's not just some routine examination, either. This is a procedure we take very seriously. After all, your health is at stake here. So, before any doctors become Blue Care Network doctors, before they ever examine one single patient, they must first survive a very detailed examination themselves.

Here's what it takes. First, all doctors (personal care physicians and specialists) are reviewed against very specific written criteria. (Quality of care is what we're measuring here.) In addition, an on-site inspection is conducted by specially trained staff and results are reviewed by Blue Care Network doctors in the area.

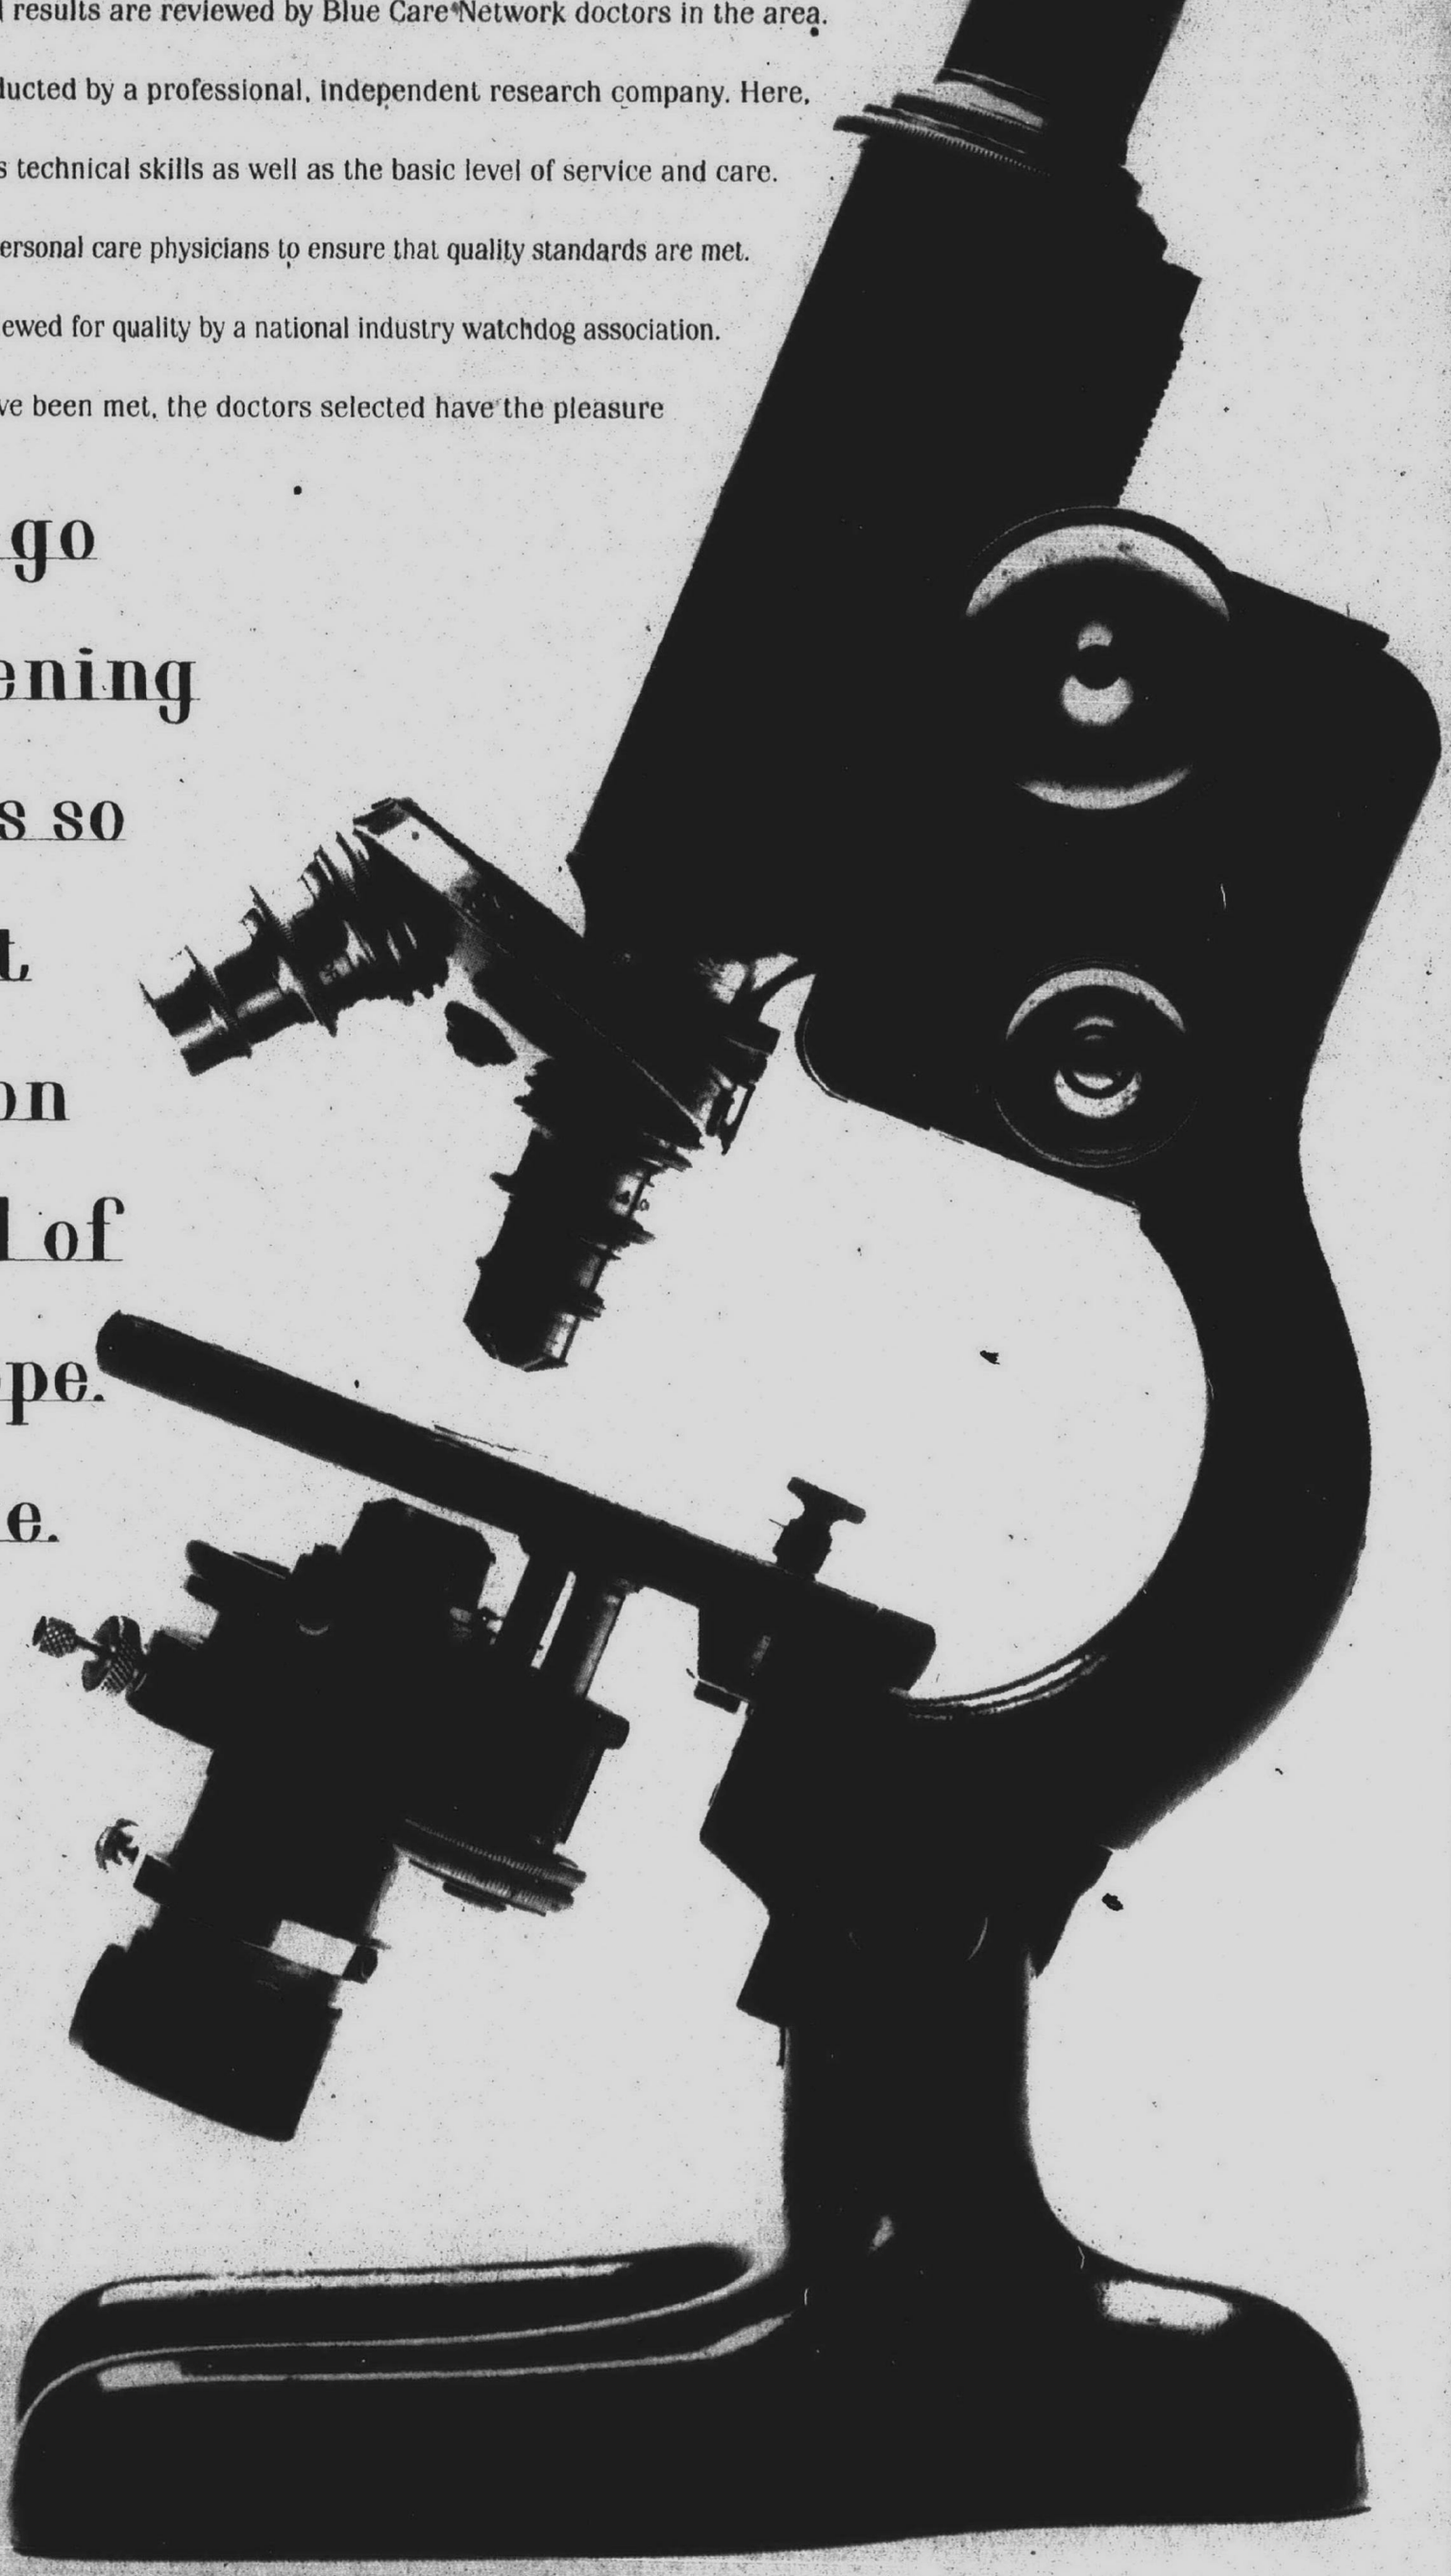
Patient satisfaction surveys are conducted by a professional, independent research company. Here, we ask patients to evaluate their doctor's technical skills as well as the basic level of service and care.

And, Blue Care Network works with its personal care physicians to ensure that quality standards are met.

Finally, Blue Care Network itself is reviewed for quality by a national industry watchdog association.

Oh, and after all these standards have been met, the doctors selected have the pleasure of going through this process all over again every two years for as long as they're with us.

Our doctors go through a screening process that's so detailed, it puts them on the other end of the microscope. For a change.



Now, that is a tall order to fill. But if we're going to take the guesswork out of selecting a doctor, we should try our hardest to provide you with a sizable list of quality personal care physicians and specialists. It's as simple as that.

Blue Care Network

All Blue Care Network HMOs are independent licensees of the Blue Cross and Blue Shield Association.

Observance aims to dispel myths about mental illness

Mental illness is a disease. And like physical diseases, it has nothing to do with personal strengths or weaknesses, will power or morality. It has specific symptoms. It can be accurately diagnosed and effectively treated.

That is the message the National Alliance for the Mentally Ill and the Alliance for the Mentally Ill of Michigan are trying to get out during Mental Illness Awareness Week now through Saturday, Oct. 7 . . . "Treatment works."

"We try to educate the community about what people with mental illness can do," said Hope Cummins of AMI of Michigan. "We want help the community understand that mental illness is a biological condition, that it is a serious illness that is treatable and that treatment works."

What began as a move to increase congressional awareness of mental illness has become a nationwide observance the first week in October. This is the 12th year that a grass-roots effort has been launched to "bring information, hope and treatment to millions."

"We want to emphasize that one key to increasing awareness and decreasing stigma is to emphasize that with proper with proper access to treatment, people with severe mental illness can live productive lives," said Farrell Fitch of the National Alliance for the Mentally Ill.

This year's observance is cosponsored by The American Academy of Child and Adolescent Psychiatry, American Psychiatric Association, Center for Mental Health Services, National Alliance for the Mentally Ill, National Depressive and Manic-Depressive Association, National Institute of Mental Health, and National Mental Health Association.

Mental illness is a term used for a group of disorders causing severe disturbances in thinking, feeling and relating. It can affect people of any age — children, adolescents, adults and the elderly — and occur in any family.

Probably, the most serious and disabling is schizophrenia, which affects approximately one person in 100. It affects men and women equally and onset is usually in the late teens or early 20s.

Schizophrenics may have poor reasoning, memory and judgment, high levels of anxiety, eating and sleep disorders, hallucinations and delusions, to name a few of the symptoms. Contrary to myths about the disorder, they do not have "split personalities," and are not prone to criminal violence.

Likewise, their illness isn't caused by bad parenting or the result of weakness of character. It is due to a biochemical disturbance of the brain.

Affective disorders are the most common of the psychiatric disorders. Generally less persistently disabling than schizophrenia, the primary disturbance in these disorders is manic-depressive (bipolar) illness and persistent severe depression (unipolar).

People with bipolar illness usually have such symptoms as boundless energy, enthusiasm and need for activity, decreased need for sleep, impulsive and erratic behavior, and rapidly switch to severe depression.

On the other hand, people with severe unipolar illness have difficulty sleeping; loss of interest in daily activities; loss of appetite; feelings of worthlessness, guilt and hopelessness; and suicidal thoughts and even actions.

Anxiety disorders, when severe, may also be considered mental illnesses. Likewise, personality or behavioral disorders and the abuse of drugs and alcohol may also be so disabling as to be labeled mental illness.

Working to improve the quality of life for people with long-term mental illness is the Alliance for the Mentally of Michigan. Based in Southfield, its purposes also include providing support and advocacy for families and educating the public to dispel myths and overcome the stigma associated with mental illness and open opportunities for the mentally ill in the community.

The organization also advocates for legislation, at the state and national levels, which would improve the care of the mentally ill; and advocates and supports research into the causes, treatment and prevention of mental illness.

GIA chapter looks at synthetic diamonds

■ Synthetic diamonds are manmade materials that essentially duplicate the optical, physical and chemical properties of natural diamonds, grown under natural conditions unaided by man.

When the Michigan chapter of Gemological Institute of America Alumni and Associates meets on Sunday, Oct. 8, the topic will be a new trend in the jewelry industry — synthetic diamonds.

The keynote speaker will be Sharon Wakefield, a well-known gemological author, according to chapter president Melinda Adducci, who with Joseph DuMouchelle operates Michigan Gemological Services, a Plymouth-based jewelry appraisal and brokerage business.

The afternoon meeting will be at the Fairlane Club in Dearborn and is open to the educated professional, daily practitioner, gem hobbyist, and person who loves and owns gems and jewelry, Adducci said.

The program will include a slide presentation, samples of synthetic diamonds and lunch.

Synthetic diamonds are manmade materials that essentially duplicate the optical, physical and chemical properties of natural diamonds, which grown under natural conditions unaided by man. Synthetic diamonds should not be confused with simulated diamonds, which are imitations or fakes like cubic zirconia.

For more information about the meeting, call Adducci at (313) 455-2856.

And jewelry enthusiasts should circle Saturday, Oct. 15, on their calendar. That's when DuMouchelle through his Joseph DuMouchelle Fine Estate Jewelry Auctioneers will have a jewelry auction at the Ritz Carlton Hotel in Dearborn.

The auction will start at noon and feature a collection formerly belonging to the estate of Matilda Dodge Wilson, more than 200 lots deaccessioned from the Detroit Institute of Arts, a 30.6 carat pear-shaped diamond, a 97.83-carat emerald from a private collection, a fine 6.34-carat Burmese blue sapphire and a fine 5.12-carat ruby.

There also will be many signed pieces by Cartier, Harry Winston, Tiffany & Co., Van Cleef & Arpel, Bulgari, Aldo Del Noce, David Webb, and more than 500 lots with estimates ranging from $100 to more than $500,000.

Preview dates are 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Thursday, Oct. 12, and 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. and 6-9 p.m. Friday, Oct. 13.

For a catalog and more information about the auction, call (313) 455-4555 or (313) 455-2856 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday. Catalogs cost $10 $15 postpaid and $20 Express Mail.

PSO celebrates 50 years of harmony

BY RENEE M. SKOGLUND
SPECIAL WRITER

This year marks the Plymouth Symphony Orchestra's golden birthday, and a celebratory concert season is about to begin. On Oct. 15, the orchestra will replay its first concert at Plymouth-Salem High School Auditorium. Titled "Come Home to Plymouth," the program features award-winning violinist Scott Yoo and includes many Plymouth Symphony alumni.

"It's a pleasure and an honor to conduct the orchestra during such a momentous year," said Russell Reed, the symphony's present conductor, who is beginning his ninth season. "There's always been a great sense of pride for the musical product and a great commitment from the members of the orchestra."

When it comes to the musicians' commitment to the orchestra, longevity seems to be the rule. "It's not unusual to play for 20 years in the Plymouth Symphony. It's because it started out as a family and a community kind of feeling," said Christa Grix, PSO executive director, and a free-lance harpist.

Edith Schutze of Plymouth, a cellist, holds the honor of being the orchestra's longest-standing member. She joined in 1945, shortly after 10 Plymouth musicians met in Carl and Evelyn Groschke's home on North Mill to organize a string orchestra. "There were so few of us at that time. We were so excited," she said.

While Schutze cannot recall specifics of those early years, she does remember that sometime during the first 10 years, "Life" magazine did an article on the orchestra. " 'Life' wrote us up as being one of the best community orchestras. They focused on the fact that we were all volunteers," she said.

At age 90, Louise Bradley, also a cellist, is the oldest member of the Plymouth Symphony. In

All that glitters is not gold. Just ask members of the Great Lakes Beadworkers Guild.

At a recent gathering of the guild board in the Troy home of treasurer Posey Macedonia, they enthusiastically listed dozens of reasons why beads have fascinated mankind for thousands of years. Although cultures from the North American Indians to the Ovumbundu in Africa considered beads so valuable as to use them as currency in trade, beads continue to stand the test of time primarily because of their decorative capabilities.

"Most women do some kind of needlework and embellishment with beads. That's why beadworking is experiencing a resurgence in popularity. Quilters and artists are using them. Young girls are making friendship bracelets, and anklets," said Macedonia, who intricately knits beads into new purses as well as restores antique evening bags at Complements in Lake Orion.

"Beads have gone beyond personal adornment. There are many people who use beads. Ukrainians do an awful lot with them in their folk art."

If you collect beads, string them as jewelry, add them as embellishments to clothing or simply love the way the ornamentations sparkle in the light, don't miss the Great Lakes Beadworkers Guild's First Bead Bonanza Sunday, Oct. 8, at The Plaza Hotel in Southfield.

Nearly 30 venders will offer hard-to-find seed beads, antique, stone, glass, clay polymer and ethnic beads from Austria to Czechoslovakia. A guild exhibit of beadwork, "Beadlieve It or Not," will illustrate the many different objects capable of being created with beads.

Nationally known glass artists Don Schneider of Plymouth along with Fred Birkhill, art professor at the University of Michigan-Dearborn, and Stevi Belle of Chicago will demonstrate their lampworking skills turning out one-of-a kind beads throughout the day.

"This is an exciting time to be a glass artist as there are a tremendous amount of glass beads being made as of late. Glass beadmaking preceded the invention of the blow pipe by about 2,500 years," said Schneider, a glass artist who is in constant demand nationally as a lecturer and demonstrator due to the beauty of his millefiori beads.

"Lampworked glass is being looked at now from an art perspective. People interested in beads or glass should come to the Bead Bonanza. It's a chance to see artists working with different glass techniques. There will be beads from all over the world. As this is the first event we need people to come out and support the craftsman."

Many of the exhibitors in the Bead Bonanza began beading before reading. Gail Frederickson, who teaches beadwork in Birmingham Public Schools adult education classes, started at her grandmother's knee. Frederickson's loom-woven fiber necklaces are miniature works of art much like tapestries. Her mini-purse necklaces using peyote stitch will be on display in the guild exhibit.

"I grew up in northern Minnesota on the edge of a reservation and everybody beaded. Stringing as jewelry is what most people think of when they think of beads, but you can do bead weaving, knitting and crocheting, embroidery, and on and off loom weaving. You can even weave baskets from beads," said Frederickson of Beverly Hills.

Pattee Goodman, a child development worker at the Jewish Community Center in West Bloomfield, says quite frequently exhibits she enjoys at the JCC's Janice Charach Epstein Museum allery incorporate some type of bead in the art, whether it's quilts or paintings.

"You can create wall hangings with beads. Anything you do you can use beads. It's not just your basic stringing. Beads spark your creativity," said Goodman, whose Egyptian style multi-strand seed bead necklace will be on display.

Besides being versatile, beads create a comfortable state of mind. Sylvus Tarn of Detroit sees beading as a form of Zen, providing plenty of time for meditation and escape from the stresses of the day.

"Beads date back 30,000 years. Some of the first were made of seeds, shell and amber because they're easy to drill. Glass beadmaking peaked when Louis XIV gathered up all the artists on the island of Murano to work over alcohol lamps but now it's enjoying a renaissance in this country due in large part to Dale Chihuly," said Tarn, who frequently uses spacer bars and a Japanese technique called maruda as design elements in the jewelry she sells at arts and craft shows and festivals.

"As far as beading, it's an inexpensive hobby to get into. You can start with a pair of pliers, beads and some string. You don't need $3,000 worth of equipment."

The Great Lakes Beadworkers Guild, a non-profit organization dedicated to education and promoting an awareness of beadwork being created in the Great Lakes region, meets monthly at Good Shepherd Lutheran Church, 814 N. Campbell in Royal Oak.

Symphony from Front

fact, she is the oldest playing member of any community orchestra in the state. "You have a real feeling for something special that keeps you alive inside. I hat to think of my life without music," she said. Since joining in 1963, Bradley recalls missing only one performance, when she was recovering from surgery.

When Bill Beitner of Plymouth joined the Symphony in 1947, he didn't have to audition. They needed his trumpet. "I never played an audition. They took everybody they could at the beginning. The principal players usually filled the section with whom they wanted. You needed somebody who could play, be compatible, someone who could fit. It was like family, always. We rehearsed in an old barn behind the high school." Beitner retired in 1983.

Throughout the years, the Plymouth Symphony has maintained its singular musical voice. "For many years, 20 years or so, Wayne Dunlap was the voice of the Plymouth Symphony. That kind of feeling is still continuing with Russell Reed. The orchestra members love him, and he feels the same way about them," said Grix.

"He gives his players a great deal of freedom to interpret. His vision is clear. I think stylistically we're all in the same boat," said two-year member Betsy Bogner, a flutist and the symphony's personnel manager.

Under Reed, the Plymouth Symphony continues to challenge its members, playing difficult pieces like "Night Rivers" by Anthony Iannaccone and the complicated Verdi Requiem. Also, it's no stranger to introducing new works. "We are premiering a piece in November that was recorded in Warsaw. It's a clarinet concerto. The first United States performance will be with the Plymouth Symphony Orchestra," said Reed.

The orchestra realizes its programming must evolve to meet the audience's needs. That includes reaching out to children, its future supporters. This February's "A Carnival of the Animals" will duplicate last year's program by inviting children — and their teddy bears — to take an orchestra safari.

"They walk through the orchestra as the musicians are playing so that they can really experience the music intimately," said Grix. "That's the kind of thing that's unique to the PSO."

The Symphony recently received some "hot, hot news," said Grix. It was awarded a $5,000 grant from The Michigan Counsel of the Arts and Cultural Affairs to commission a special 50th birthday work. Grix said she knew nothing of the proposed work other than it would be "a celebratory fanfare." The birthday piece will be part of the Verdi Requiem program on March 23.

Except for a short time a few years ago, the Plymouth Symphony's home always has been Plymouth. During their "homeless" period, the orchestra reached out and made new friends in neighboring communities.

"We were welcomed with wide open arms by Belleville and Novi. They were thrilled to have us in their community. We had sold-out auditoriums. That brought to light how valuable this orchestra is," said Grix.

Even though their Plymouth home is once more secure, the orchestra continues to give one concert a year in Novi and one in Belleville. "We are really trying to make ourselves the orchestra for Western Wayne County," said Grix.

After 50 years, the Plymouth Symphony's identity has been enriched by tradition and innovation.

Grix summed up the orchestra members sentiments by saying, "We're not the Detroit Symphony, and we're not trying to be the Detroit Symphony. But the Detroit Symphony is not the Plymouth Symphony either."

Spend the day exploring Hidden Lake Gardens

BY DAWN NEEDHAM
SPECIAL WRITER

Owned and operated by Michigan State University, Hidden Lake Gardens in Lenawee County in the tiny village of Tipton, is a virtually undiscovered treasure. The land in the Irish Hills area was donated to MSU by Harry Fee of Adrian, a businessman with an interest in horticulture. He purchased Hidden Lake, and about 200 surrounding acres, in 1926. Intending to farm, he found the rolling, rocky Irish Hills area was not conducive to conventional farming, explained Hidden Lake Gardens' coordinator of education, Tina Podboy Laughner.

He then turned the place into a nursery, but when the Depression hit, the wealthy Fee closed so he wouldn't compete with people who really needed the money, Laughner explained.

In 1945, he entered into an agreement with MSU "to preserve the area for the benefit and education of the public," Laughner said.

Fee chose MSU — then known as Michigan State College — for its agricultural connections and its horticulture department, to which he frequently turned for advice about his ventures.

This year is the 50th anniversary of Hidden Lake Gardens' affiliation with MSU, and a celebration is being planned Saturday, Oct. 14.

In those five decades, Hidden Lake Gardens has grown to about 755 acres through accumulation of contiguous property.

Hidden Lake Gardens is more like a beautifully landscaped park than a conventional public garden. There are five miles of hiking trails, picnic areas and a six-mile one way paved drive that gets used by walkers and drivers alike.

The fall color displays attract many visitors, and AAA calls weekly to monitor the percentage of fall color for a list the automotive club compiles. Laughner said Hidden Lake has "great fall color" from maple and sassafras plantings, as well as serviceberry and Virginia creeper, two of the first plants to change color in autumn.

Hidden Lake Gardens is "designed for four-season interest," Laughner said. In the winter, some access is limited, depending on snowfall, but visitors can walk anywhere.

Visitors to the gardens, on M-50 west of M-52, first approach a gatehouse where they pay admission and receive a map. From there, it's an individual decision on how to proceed. Sticking to the main loop of the drive, first you go through a huge expanse of lawn and evergreens, beyond which is a pond constructed by Fee.

The drive continues around Hidden Lake. The lake has a pair of resident swans which had eight cygnets this spring; seven are still alive, Laughner said.

At the north end of the lake, visitors can park and choose a hiking trail. The first quarter-mile is extremely level asphalt, eight-feet wide, that's even accessible for wheelchairs. Past that is a wooded area that opens into a panoramic view.

Next along the drive is the shelter/picnic area, with water and rest areas, followed by a new planting called "Trees for Tomorrow," installed by some master gardeners from Jackson.

There's no time limit for guests, and it's easy to while away a few hours or an entire day. Visitors are encouraged to picnic, walk on the grass, and examine plantings up close. Bikes are allowed any day except Sunday; in-line skates and skateboards are prohibited.

"It really is a hidden gem," Laughner said, adding that while much of the Irish Hills area has become more commercial and tourist-oriented, Hidden Lake Gardens has worked very hard to maintain its pristine nature atmosphere.

Hidden Gardens is in Lenawee County. Take I-275 south to US-12 west to M-52 south to M-50 west. It's on the north side of the road.
Hours: Open 365 days a year, 8 a.m. to dusk through October, and 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. November thorough March. Admission is $1 per person weekdays, $3 holidays and weekends.
■ The Visitors' Center sells a limited selection of candy bars, chips, pop and juice; visitors are encouraged to pack lunches for picnics.

Heist goes wrong in 'Dead Presidents'

TICKETS PLEASE

JOHN MONAGHAN

"Dead Presidents" means cash, which Allen and Albert Hughes have a lot more of since directing their debut feature "Menace II Society" in 1993. The success of that film, a gripping account of life and death on L.A. streets, gave the 20-year-old twins the chance to tackle an ambitious project about the effects of the Vietnam War on black America.

It would be great to say that these former Detroiters, raised here through the age of eight, have produced another winner. But "Dead Presidents," which opens wide Friday, is an uneven and often routine look at what they call "the American dream gone wrong."

Anthony Curtis (Larenz Tate from "Menace") is young and going nowhere when he decides to join the Marines in 1968. After a nightmarish five years overseas, he returns home to find that his neighborhood has changed, the girlfriend and baby girl he left behind now visited by a flashy pimp.

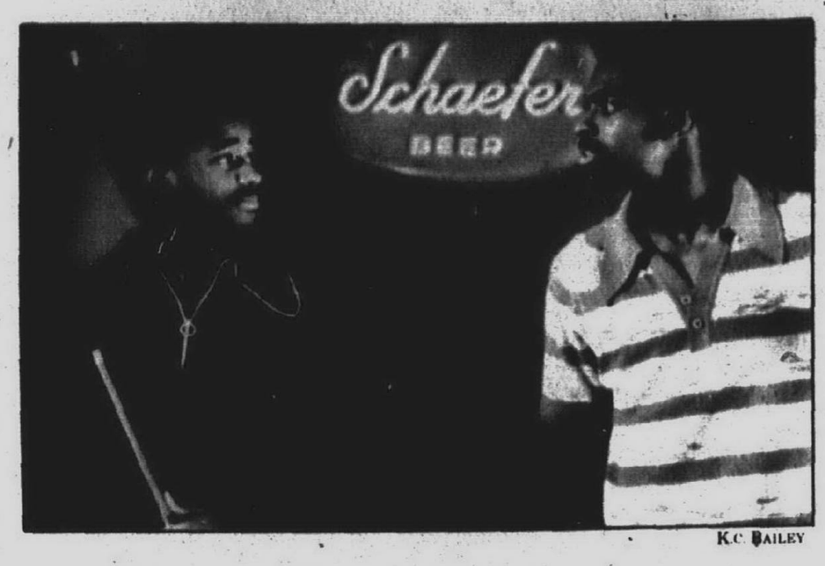
When he loses his job at the local butcher shop, Anthony starts hitting the bottle. Desperate to provide real money for his family, he plots an armored car heist with his old army buddies and his Revolution-obsessed sister-in-law.

According to Albert Hughes, in town recently with his brother to promote the film, "We like the story because it's about one person going through so many experiences, and how he deals with those extremes ... we like to see him go through the ups and downs."

To see the ads for "Dead Presidents" you'd think that it's a heist movie. "We realize that," said Albert, "but we didn't want anything attached to that other Vietnam picture that came out last year. The whole one-sheet poster was in direct response to that."

That other movie, "The Walking Dead" was made by another Detroiter, a low-budget story of a Marine unit with each member recalling how they got to the Nam in the first place. The Hughes call it a "stinker" (which it was at the box office), quickly assembled after word of their project got out.

Actually, the brothers could learn a few things from that film, especially in terms of plot structure. Characters come and go in "Dead Presidents" and then pretty much disappear, among them Anthony's brother and a drug dealer that helps push him to the edge.



K.C. BAILEY

REVIEW

Though Allen and Albert Hughes were barely alive when the Vietnam War was raging, they did their homework. Much of the film is based on stories from the book "Bloods," a riveting collection of black veterans' memories.

The late '60s/early '70s atmosphere, from clothes to black velvet paintings, is especially vivid. "We heard from a lot of people who liked the authenticity of those scenes in "Menace,"" says Allen. "We designed a whole lot of the look on my dad's photo album from 1972."

After "The Usual Suspects" and "Reservoir Dogs," however, it's difficult to watch the routine heist scenes in "Dead Presidents" without drawing some comparisons. "We definitely went for a more linear type of movie making," said Allen. "We didn't want to simply retread what was already done before."

The movie does have some moments it can call its own. One of the best finds Anthony leaping over backyard fences then cuts immediately to him jumping over obstacles in the fields of Vietnam.

■ BALDWIN THEATRE
415 S. Lafayette, Royal Oak. Call (810) 541-6430 for information. ($10)

"The Phantom of the Opera" (USA - 1925). 8 p.m. Oct. 7; 2 p.m. Oct. 8. The theater, which usually hosts community theater, has completed restoration of its 1926 theater pipe organ in time for two showings of the horror classic. This is the silent version, with Lon Chaney as the organ-playing maestro who keeps a beautiful singer locked beneath the old Opera house.

■ DETROIT FILM THEATRE
Detroit Institute of Arts, 5200 Woodward, Detroit. Call (313) 833-2323 for information. ($5; $4 students)

"Stairway to Heaven" (Britain - 1946). 7, 9:30 p.m. Oct. 6-7; 4, 7 p.m. Oct. 8. Martin Scorsese supervised this stunning Technicolor restoration of Michael Powell's romantic fantasy about a World War II pilot (David Niven) who goes to heaven before his scheduled time.

"Black Is . . . Black Ain't" (USA - 1995). 7 p.m. Oct. 9. An exploration into what it means to be African-American. Director Marlon Riggs recently died, leaving behind a legacy that included the equally controversial "Tongues Untied."

■ KINOTEK, WINDSOR FILM THEATRE
2135 Wyandotte St. West, Windsor, Canada. Call (519) 254-FILM for more information. ($4.50; $4 US)

"Why Does Herr R. Run Amok?" (West Germany - 1969). 9 p.m. Oct. 9-10. A rare screening of an early work by director Rainer Werner Fassbinder, stringing together apparently mundane scenes of a petit-bourgeois wage slave who slowly unravels, spiraling toward violence and death.

■ MAGIC BAG THEATRE
22918 Woodward, Ferndale. Call (810) 544-3030 for information.

"Hard-Boiled" (Hong Kong - 1993). 8 p.m. Oct. 5. Action master John Woo gave an explosive goodbye to his native Hong Kong in this high-powered crime thriller. The final 40 minutes, set in a a hospital, include some of the most over-the-top action ever filmed. ($5)

"Belle de Jour" (France - 1967). 7:30 p.m. Oct. 10, 12. Catherine Deneuve stars as a bored Parisian housewife who spends her afternoons as a prostitute. Luis Bunuel directs with his usual eye for the absurd, especially as it involves the social classes, religion, and modern morality. ($4)

■ MAIN ART THEATRE
118 N. Main Street at 11 Mile, Royal Oak. Films play through at least Thursday, unless noted otherwise. Call (810) 542-0180 for information and showtimes. ($6.50; $4 students and matinee; $3 twilight)

"Jeffrey" (USA - 1995). A gay actor/waiter living in New York vows celibacy in fear of contracting AIDS, but then meets the man of his dreams who just happens to be HIV-positive. "Star Trek's" Patrick Stewart recalls his stage actor origins in his turn as a flamboyant interior decorator.

"The Usual Suspects" (USA - 1995). Five guys who meet in a police lineup join for a simple heist. What happens next will keep you guessing in this cleverly scripted caper starring Gabriel Byrne, Kevin Spacey, and Chazz Palminteri.

"The Brothers McMullen" (USA - 1995). For what some people spend on a new car, Edward Burns made this engaging first feature about a young screenwriter and his two brothers in contemporary Long Island. Burns calls his audience pleaser a "romantic comedy for guys" and what it lacks in acting and production values it more than makes up in charm.

■ MAPLE THEATRE
4135 W. Maple, Bloomfield. All titles play through at least next Thursday, unless noted otherwise. Call (810) 855-9090 for information. ($6; $2.95 twilight)

"Run of the Country" (Irish - 1995). After his mother's death, a Catholic lad from Northern Ireland rebels against his police-sergeant father (Albert Finney) with disastrous results.

"How to Make an American Quilt" (USA - 1995). Winona Ryder wants advice about marriage, so visits her grandmother and great aunt (Ellen Burstyn and Anne Bancroft) who are already in the process of creating her a wedding quilt. Along the way they tell stories about their own lives and loves. Directed by Jocelyn Moorhouse ("Proof").

"The Brothers McMullen" (USA - 1995). See Main Art Theatre listing above.

■ PAPER CASTING CLASSES

The Art Gallery in Garden City will hold a series of classes in Paper Casting and Oil Painting with Canton Township artist Ilene Tarkington. Her favorite subjects range from wildlife to architecture.

Beginning Oct. 12 for six Thursdays, Tarkington will teach the fine points of oil painting 1-3 p.m. in the gallery. The cost is $10 for each session. Students must bring their own table easel, canvas, brushes and primary colors.

For three Saturdays starting Oct. 14, students will learn the craft of Paper Casting with Tarkington 10 a.m. to noon. All supplies are provided for the $60 class fee.

For more information about the classes or to register, call Norma McQueen (313) 261-0379.

■ ANTIQUE TOYS

Madonna University's art department hosts an display of antique toys of an architectural theme in the Exhibit Gallery on the second floor of the Library Wing through Oct. 30.

"Designs to Delight," features toys from the Lawrence Scripps Wilkinson collection housed at the Detroit Historical Museum. Amassed over a 30 year period, the collection consists of more 7,000 items from as far back as the mid-19th century.

Madonna University is on the northwest corner of Levan and Schoolcraft in Livonia. Hours are 8 a.m. to 10:30 p.m. Monday-Thursday, 8 a.m. to 7 p.m. Friday, 9 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. Saturday, and 1-5 p.m. Sunday. For more information call (313) 591-5187.

■ INDOOR ART FESTIVAL

Michigan's largest indoor art show featuring more than 800 works by 165 artists, including 17 from Livonia, takes place Oct. 5-8 at the Southfield Civic Center Pavilion 26000 Evergreen between 10 and 11 mile roads. Admission is free.

The Michigan Association of Artists Exhibition & Sale, sponsored by the Cultural Arts Division of the City of Southfield's Parks and Recreation Department, showcases art groups ranging from the Livonia Artists Club to the Scarab Club and Farmington Artists Club.

The event was originally organized last year to provide a venue for Michigan artists to display and sell their work. This is all original artwork: no reproductions, photographic or otherwise. Among the Livonia exhibitors are Billy Thompson, Al Weber, Tom Igle and Eileen Bibby, straight from her one-woman show based on the homes in Rosedale Gardens at Livonia City Hall.

An opening reception and corporate walk-through takes place 5-8 p.m. Thursday, Oct. 5.

Exhibition hours are 10 a.m. to 8 p.m. Friday-Saturday, Oct. 6-7 and noon to 5 p.m. Sunday, Oct. 8. For more information call (810) 354-4717.

■ CALL FOR CRAFTERS

Attention Observerland crafters here's your chance to make a little money all for a good cause. The Friends of the Westland Historical Museum is having an indoor craft show 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Saturday, Oct. 14 at Bailey Recreation Center, 36651 Ford Road behind Westland City Hall. Proceeds will go toward restoring the 1856 one-room schoolhouse known as the Perrinsville School. The group needs $75,000 to complete the project.

To apply for entry call Ruth Dale (313) 425-1955 or Denise Johnson (313) 261-3633.

■ SHARING THE GIFT WITHIN

Observerland artists are among the entrants (exhibitors) in the third annual juried fine art exhibition sponsored by the First Presbyterian Church of Northville Oct. 7-13. Admission is free.

Playful R.E.M. builds frenzy

BY TODD WICKS
STAFF WRITER

Michael Stipe hates balloons — at least the black ones from a local radio station that floated around Michigan State University's Breslin Center Sept. 27.

Midway through R.E.M.'s set, the Q106 balloons, which had drifted lazily through the air during Radiohead's languid set, invoked the wrath of the bald singer. "I don't know why, but those balloons are really bugging me," Stipe announced between songs. He then accepted one from a security guard, and with a little help from bassist Mike Mills, popped it with a microphone stand to wild applause.

Funny little scenes like this were scattered throughout R.E.M.'s show in East Lansing last week. On the final leg of the grueling tour in support of its latest album "Monster," the band seemed relaxed and playful. Barely 30 minutes after Radiohead's set ended, the lights went down as R.E.M. strolled casually onstage and leaned into the midtempo "I Took Your Name." But something about the scene wasn't quite right. Light flooded in from the exits, and the bleachers circling the floor seats never let anyone forget that this was, after all, just a mid-sized basketball arena. As the first song ended, both the crowd and the band seemed uncertain about what kind of night this was going to be.

However, several crowd-pleasers in quick succession roused the sedate crowd. A vested, surgery-free Peter Buck and a Les Paul led the charge through "What's the Frequency, Kenneth?", "Crush With Eyeliner," and the electric hip-hop version of "Drive" with gusto. Mills, in a white Nudie suit and long curls, stomped about the stage with his bass slung low, banishing his former nerdy, shirt-sleeves image to the '80s forever. His perfect background harmonies also saved a few songs from Stipe's purposely erratic pitch. Drummer Billy Berry was typically non-descript, donning a baseball hat for his turn at bass during a disturbing "Country Feedback," which Stipe introduced as "our favorite song."

For all of their scissor kicks and crowd-working, Stipe remained the show's focal point. Under thick black eye makeup and the quickly shifting stage lights, he alternately resembled an angry zombie and a playful, restless child. Untalkative at The Palace show this past summer, Stipe was exceptionally verbose between songs. "This one is ladies' choice," he announced as a disco ball dropped for roller-rink effect on "Tongue." At one point, harrassed by an overzealous fan at stage right, Stipe looked perplexed and said, "Uh, I'm going to go over here now," walking left to enormous laughter.

Like The Palace visit, the show contained a good number of new songs consistent with the gritty, glamorous, guitar bent "Monster." "Departure" and the Beastie Boy-ish "Revolution" were highlights of material slated for an upcoming album. R.E.M.'s road-tested muscle also rejuvenated overplayed gems like "Losing My Religion" and "Man on the Moon," turning the latter into the most propulsive, rousing song of the evening. Reaching back for 1986's "Begin the Begin," Buck's Spanish riff was hypnotic above Berry's tribal rhythm. Although the set's fast song-slow song-new song pattern occasionally distrupted a good groove, it also provided for a wealth of diverse material, from the slowest of the slow ("Everybody Hurts") to the slamming ("Star 69").

Stipe seemed especially excited bringing out Detroit legend Patti Smith for their encore. After an under-rehearsed but moving duet on "Let Me In," and a lovey-dovey chat near the drum riser, Stipe left the spotlight as Smith fronted the band for the night's only cover, her classic "Dancing Barefoot."

However, the night's best treat was yet to come. The closer, "It's the End of the World as We Know It (and I Feel Fine)" was given a trashier veneer than its album counterpart, with Stipe ranting the stream-of-consciousness lyrics way out of time. As the song built and built, the crowd, who had remained excited but orderly the entire show, finally broke loose, flooding the aisles in a rush to the stage.

After several stressful and injury-prone months on the road, R.E.M.'s performance was full of fire and gristle. Overcoming a slow start, it had professionally worked the crowd into a frenzy. Now it was time to have some fun. So Mills, Buck and Stipe, immediately noticing the crush, moved forward like good old-fashioned rock stars, closer to the broiling masses, posing, jumping and teasing the crowd joyfully as the night spun to a frenzied close.

R.E.M. and special guest Grant Lee Buffalo perform at 7:30 p.m. Sunday, Oct. 22, at Crisler Arena, 333 E. Stadium, Ann Arbor. The show is sold out. For more information, call (313) 763-4636.

Roseville's The Ritz becomes Palladium

BY CHRISTINA FUOCO
STAFF WRITER

After 11 years as The Ritz, the Roseville club has changed its name, its facade and is in the process of revamping its image.

The Palladium, as it's now called, will turn its focus toward Top 40 and alternative music.

"We've always been known as a long-hair heavy metal band club," said manager John Cathers. "We're making a change in format to Top 40 dance and bands."

"We want to become more of an event-oriented room. We want to bring in bands, comedians, anything really," he added.

Charm Farm shifts musical gears

BY TODD WICKS
STAFF WRITER

It's a rare band that can successfully change musical styles over the course of its career. The Rolling Stones have done it a few times, from rock to country to disco to punk and back. U2 reinvented themselves from earth-toned missionaries into black-leathered technobrats a few years ago with "Achtung Baby."

Detroit's Charm Farm doesn't resemble either of those bands, but doesn't need a 10-year career to start genre-hopping, either. On their third album, "Pervert" (PRA Records), they do it within the course of a few songs. The head-turning jump from the straight-ahead rock of "I'm a Man" to straight-faced disco on the first single "Superstar" is an undeniable shock. Likewise, the whispery funk of the title track unexpectedly gives way to "Sick" and stereo guitars like something by Queen.

These kinds of surprises delight the members of Charm Farm. After four years, the band has become a staple of the Detroit scene. Singer/songwriter Dennis White and guitarist Steve Zuccaro, both of Grosse Pointe Park, enjoy their ongoing expeditions in musical perversity.

"It's a very, very diverse record," said White of "Pervert," released Sept. 19. "I must confess, I don't listen to music a lot. If I do listen to a full CD, it's because it went all over the place. Even if (a CD) is great all the way through, if the instrumentation doesn't change up a lot, I can't be interested in it. And of course, if I'm making a record, it's something I want to be interested in."

Zucarro said despite the musical changes there's an underlying theme to the songs.

"There are a lot of different areas we're going into, but there's still a common denominator in all of the songs. The production value should bring it all together and make for a cool record. When we were recording it, we were thinking about that. We knew that these were all different styles, so we tried to make sure that the production was similar on each song so it would be cohesive."

Particularly for White, "Pervert" marks a distinct change from the styles on 1993's "Flirt," which spawned the radio hit "La La Hey."

"Those songs (on "Flirt") were written when I was between 22 and 24, and that's a pretty happy record," said White, who is 28 now. "I had just finished playing with Inner City (a groundbreaking Detroit techno project with Kevin Saunderson). I had been travelling around the world at someone else's expense, and it was just models, parties and good times. I came home and wrote a record that sounded exactly like that . . . which is why no one cares about it now, why it died a pretty quick death artistically."

White, who produced both albums, shared the public's apathy.

"'Flirt' was out of sight, out of mind for me four days after I got the CD," he said.

He sees the superior lyrical quality of "Pervert" as a personal triumph.

■ 'There are a lot of different areas we're going into, but there's still a common denominator in all of the songs. The production value should bring it all together and make for a cool record. When we were recording it, we were thinking about that. We knew that these were all different styles, so we tried to make sure that the production was similar on each song so it would be cohesive.'
Steve Zuccaro, Charm Farm

"I have a record now that I really believe in. I'm very proud of this. I can actually listen to this and be interested in what we came up with in the studio. I want as many people to hear it as possible."

Interestingly, "Pervert's" more wounded, emotional approach was completedly unplanned.

"I didn't go into this album saying, 'Here's what's on my mind and I'm going to get it down,'" White said.

"Only after I finished everything and put the songs in order did I start to notice that it was the kind of record that a guy who's getting older makes. In retrospect, thematically, the record is about the pangs of getting older and getting on, more about coming to terms with the way life really is as opposed to the fantasy of what we hope it will be. There are the fantasies we entertain about it when we're 16 and then there is the way that it really is."

Besides "Pervert," a new development that should widen Charm Farm's audience is a band project called "Underground Television" (U.T.V.) on local public access cable channels. The show features interviews with the band, acoustic performances, and old Charm Farm footage. Having his own TV show excites White.

"The minute I learned that cable operators had to let you have your own TV show if you wanted one, I was all over that in a second. You can spend a lot of time trying to promote a little concert and hope that 400 or 500 people show up, or you can spend the same amount of time putting a TV show together. Even if it's on these little dinky cable stations, at least 5,000 people are going to see it. We hope to not just get exposure for ourselves, but to get exposure for things that we're into."

Zuccaro said that the TV show is "a big deal to us."

"This could really help spread the word. Plus it's something you don't really see a band do, at least not since the '70s, since the Osmond Family or something."

The members of Charm Farm — which also includes bassist Dino Zoyes, background singer Taj Bell, keyboardist Ken Roberts, and drummer Eric Meyer — are pleased to have become a multi-media experience. The group is one of the few Detroit bands who have its own World Wide Web site.

"It does a lot more to empower individuals and give them a lot more access to information and exposure. Like us! A couple of dorks can get their own TV show, exposing themselves to tens of thousands of people. We have a web site, and tens of millions of people have access on the Internet now," White said.

He paused sounding cowed by such numbers. "Look for Charm Farm to worry less about playing shows around the area and more about maintaining a really cool television show and having a really good site online. We want to have a lot of ways for people to interact with the group besides the same old, boring, 'We're playing a show at a club' thing."

Technology and advancement aside, Charm Farm members are still old-school rockers enough to throw a good bash the U2 "Where the Streets Have No Name" or the Beatles' last gig way. Without coming right out and saying it, Zuccaro hinted that Charm Farm would be visiting downtown Royal Oak very soon in a very special sort of live show.

Charm Farm, with special guest DJ Kenny Larkin, celebrates the release of "Pervert" with a party and performance at 10 p.m. Friday, Oct. 6, at the Magic Bag Theatre Cafe, 22918 Woodward Ave., Ferndale. Tickets are $6 for the 18 and older show. For more information, call (810) 544-3030. They will also perform Thursday, Oct. 26, at Industry, 15 S. Saginaw, Pontiac, (810) 334-1999. Visit the Charm Farm World Wide Web site at http://msen.com/tilda chrmfrm.

Jude Cole drops heartbreak for happiness

BY CHRISTINA FUOCO
STAFF WRITER

St. Jude and singer/songwriter Jude Cole have a lot in common. St. Jude is the religious icon to turn to for hopeless causes, and since the late 1980s Cole's fans have looked to him when relationships have crumbled.

Now they'll have to turn elsewhere. The man who specialized in break-up songs like "Get Me Through The Night," "Time for Letting Go," and "Tell The Truth" is much happier, thank you.

His latest album "I Don't Know Why I Act This Way" (Island) reflects this sentiment.

"I'm a pretty happy person. I'm very out of step with what else is going on, musically speaking. The thing that tickles me the most about this record is I'm not 'alternative.' It's not an angry record," Cole explained.

On "Believe In You" he sings "There's too much talk about the clouds of gray/when there's a great big sky of blue/I turn off the TV, and look in your eyes/and I know that I've found something true/ just believe in you/and I'll believe in me."

That's a far cry from his heartbreak songs like the 1990 single "This Time It's Us" on "A View From Third Street" (Reprise) where he says, "I never thought it could happen to us/ Now we're going 'round, breakin' down/Each other's hearts/So go on and blame me/For whatever you must/But we've become just like the ones/We laughed about/This time, this time it's us."

It's kind of a surprise that "I Don't Know Why I Act This Way" turned out as optimistic as it did. It's been a rough ride for Cole since the recording of 1992's "Start The Car" (Reprise). Cole kicked a drug and alcohol problem four years ago, which is chronicled in the song "Heaven's Last Attempt".

"All that came to a head when I was recording the 'Start the Car' record. That first year of being sober is not the most fun place to be. Every time something goes wrong, and things always go wrong because you're edgy, you want to run to the closest bar or whatever. That was the hardest year of my life. Now I've settled into it and I'm having a lot of fun."

Around the time he was settling into it, his longtime manager Ed Leffler died of cancer which is reflected on the mostly acoustic "I Don't Know Why I Act This Way."

"That is why the record is more softer and more introspective, possibly. With a baby on the way and a very close friend and manager dying, I wasn't really in the mood to rock out."

The positive mood of the album is a result of the musical reawakening that Cole went through while preparing to record "I Don't Know Why I Act This Way."

"I'm not too interested in writing about turbulent love anymore. There was a lot of songs that were about that. I know I can do that and a little voice inside my head told me to go onto other things," Cole said.

His songs still trace some sort of conflict but they have a happier ending.

"I find it hard to sing about optimism without some sort of conflict first," Cole said. "Like 'Speed of Life,' it's very optimistic. 'Believe In You,' is very optimistic. 'Take the Reins,' they're all about optimism."

"They all come from maybe a more down-on-your-luck perspective. I've found it more interesting to be down on your luck and to fight twice as hard. That's been my life and my career anyway. It's not something I'm fabricating from my million dollar home."

Cole has definitely had to "fight twice as hard" in his career. The singer, who released "Start The Car" and "A View From 3rd Street" on Reprise Records, never reached the star status that he deserved. Those two albums along with his self-titled debut are bursting at the seams with pop gems.

Granted "House Full of Reasons," "Baby It's Tonight" and "Worlds Apart" achieved some airplay on contemporary hits radio, but had the records been pushed to his standards by his former label, he would have been all over the radio.

"I still love listening to those records. They withstood the test of time for me. I don't have any animosity (for the label) but I don't think they did a great service.

Jude Cole, and special guest Chris Bennett, perform Tuesday, Oct. 10, at 7th House, 7 N. Saginaw St., Pontiac. Doors open at 8 p.m. Tickets are $10 for the 18 and older show. For more information, call (810) 335-8100.

Happier times: Jude Cole's latest CD "I Don't Know Why I Act This Way" is more uplifting and positive than his past efforts. Cole plays an acoustic show on Tuesday, Oct. 10, at the 7th House in Pontiac.

DINING

JIM RIDER/STAFF PHOTOGRAPHER

Spectadium scores with sports fans

SPECIAL WRITER

Nothing of the two-thirds-pound cheese burger was left on his plate.

Sherer was having a business lunch with his son, Jon, also of Troy, and Greg Capp of Ann Arbor.

Jon was merely half-way through a huge Mediterranean salad, of beets, Calamata olives, feta cheese, onions, pepperocini, chick peas on mixed greens. He ordered the herb vinaigrette dressing on the side and pronounced the salad full of "great flavors."

Capp had finished a Philly Cheese Steak sandwich which he described as "good and spicy." Their 40-ounce glasses of soda pop and iced tea appeared to need no refills.

At another table, Beverly Hills resident Theresa Dziubek had eaten lunch at her Troy office, but was indulging in one of two desserts on the menu, the deep dish apple pie. "It was exquisite," she said.

Spectadium owners say they are already filling their multi-tiered stadium-setting tables with fans for big games and sporting promotions. The 8,000 square foot restaurant is designed to resemble a miniature stadium. There are three 12-foot projection screen televisions, 20 31-inch televisions, and a state-of-the-art Surround Sound audio system. Linked to three satellite dishes.

But they are hoping the menu that Chuck Williams, former executive chef at Morton's Steak House in Southfield, has put together also will make them a contender for non-sporting types who just like high quality food in a relaxed atmosphere.

And they are eagerly awaiting the November day when the road construction on nearby Big Beaver is supposed to be completed and customers can get to them without a hassle.

"We're a restaurant first," said CEO Mark Alhermizi, a West Bloomfield resident who acknowledges he's had little time lately for his Farmington Hills law practice. "Chuck's a veteran executive chef. It is a genuine American concept — a little more upscale, a little more creative than the average sports bar," Williams says, of the cuisine. In particular, he is stressing "homemade" over "deep-fried."

- Appetizer: Maryland crabcake served with garlic Aioli and Hunter dipping sauces ($6.95).
- Salad: Mediterranean ($5.95).
- Sandwiches: Meatloaf served on potato bread with homemade country gravy ($5.95). (All sandwiches come with homemade Sarasota chips. Fries are $1 extra.)
- Entrees: Baby-back ribs — a full slab with Hoisin barbecue sauce ($15.95) including salad and choice of potato.

"I'm in love with our ribs," said Alhermizi. And he says a following is developing for the vegetarian chili.

Williams rib recipe calls for rubbing spices into the ribs themselves, then slow-cooking for six hours.

And the secret to the meatloaf, also offered as an entree, is "personalizing it in an individual one-pound meat loaf pan."

The five different peppers and cumin ketchup give it, he says, "a nice blend."

A few menu revisions have already been made in the several weeks Spectadium has been opened.

A weekday all-you-can-eat deli lunch buffet ($5.95) that can also be carried out has been added to lure the quick business lunches.

Now that the staff is familiar with the menu, Williams says it's no problem to serve the 500 fans who watched the University of Michigan-Boston College game on a Saturday night or the blacked out Lions on a recent Sunday.

Tough swim

Plymouth Salem's swim team discovered exactly what the competition at the state level was like when it hosted the Salem Invitational Saturday.

The Rocks invited second-ranked Ann Arbor Pioneer, third-ranked Livonia Stevenson and fourth-ranked Birmingham Seaholm for the uniquely-scored meet, which featured four heats in each event. Each team put its best swimmer in an event in the first heat, its second-best swimmer in the second heat, etc., with every heat scoring the same number of points.

Salem did not get a first in any of the first two heats. The Rocks finished fourth with 140 points; Pioneer won with 282, with Stevenson second at 207 and Seaholm third at 171.

The scoring format favored teams with depth. "We've got depth," insisted Salem coach Chuck Olson, "but not quite enough quality for this group. It doesn't get any better than it did Saturday."

The best finishers for Salem were divers. Zoe Yockey placed second in the first heat with 389.65 points (on 11 dives), Laura Berezak was second for the Rocks in the second heat with 325.05 points (11 dives), and Michelle Wallon was second in the third heat with 138.06 points (six dives).

Another top scorer for Salem was Carrie Dzialo, who was second in the first heat of the 50-yard freestyle in 26.03 and was second in the first heat of the 100 free in 57.58.

Salem's only other top scorer was the 200 free relay team of Kathy Kelly, Kristin Whalen, Rebecca Noricks and Andrea Bien, which was second in the second heat in 1:50.19, and Lori McKay, who was second in the fourth heat of the 100 backstroke in 1:12.85.

The Rocks now get to go up against Stevenson in a Western Lakes Activities Association dual meet at 7 p.m. tonight at Livonia Churchill.

Steelers still perfect

The Plymouth-Canton Steelers varsity football club remained unbeaten and unscored upon through four games, posting a 24-0 triumph over the Ann Arbor Wildcats Sunday. Andy Kocoloski scored two touchdowns, on a 46-yard return of a fumble and a 27-yard run. Mike Hardin (111 yards rushing) also scored on a 27-yard run.

The Steeler junior varsity also remained unbeaten through four games with a 39-12 victory over the Wildcat JV. Chris Trott collected 166 all-purpose yards and scored three TDs, including a 69-yard kickoff return and a 44-yard run. Jerry Gaines and Mike Nicoloff also scored TDs, with Chris Pisani and Paul Aschmetat combining on a safety.

The Steeler freshmen, however, lost 18-12 to fall to 0-4. The game-winning points came on a long pass with the clock expired. Brandon Mancini scored one touchdown and Daniel Taylor caught a 39-yard pass for another.

The Canton Lions varsity team posted a 19-6 win over the North Farmington Vikings Sunday. A pair of touchdown runs were provided by Justin Toth; a third came on a Kyle Richardson-to-Grant Grayer pass play.

The Lions' junior varsity battled the Viking JV to a scoreless tie Sunday. The Lion defense was led by Brandon Ellison and Jason Singleton, and by Doug Flateau, who intercepted a pass to thwart a Viking threat.

The Lions' freshmen team was a lopsided winner, trouncing the Vikings 26-7 to run its record to 4-0. Three touchdowns came in the first half, two by Chad Fuller — on a 50-yard run and an 18-yard pass reception. Drew Amble also scored on a 41-yard run. Scott Hewitt scored in the second half on a 21-yard run.

PASS airs pairings

The Michigan High School Athletic Association Football Playoff pairings, notifying the 128 qualifiers in eight different classes, will be announced at 9:30 p.m. Sunday, Oct. 29 on PASS Sports, a 24-hour network available to over 1.6 million cable subscribers on over 250 systems in Michigan and northwest Ohio.

The 30-minute program, featuring the region-by-region pairings, will be presented by Farm Bureau Insurance for the second year in a row. Game dates and times will also be announced if they have already been determined.

The broadcast will originate from the studios of TCI Cablevision in East Lansing, and will be hosted by Tim Staudt, sports director of WILX-TV. Staudt also serves as play-by-play announcer for the MHSAA finals telecasts in boys and girls basketball.

The Football Playoff Pairings Show is the first in the largest championship television package the MHSAA and PASS have combined to bring viewers.

In the fall, the finals in boys soccer, football and girls basketball tournament will air. Winter events on PASS include girls competitive cheer, ice hockey, lower penisula girls volleyball and the boys basketball finals. Also, there will be four, one-hour programs shown of the 1996 MHSAA Lower Peninsula Individual Wrestling Finals.

In the spring, the finals in girls soccer will be aired.

All of the events, except the boys basketball finals and the Class A and D championship games of the girls basketball tournament — which will air live — will be shown on a tape-delayed basis.

Rocks still rule over Chiefs

■ In the last season-and-a-half, Plymouth Canton has experienced its share of success on the soccer field — except when its opponent is Plymouth Salem.

Maybe this is a repeat. Deja vu, 1994 all over again.

Any Plymouth Canton boys soccer fan would accept that. Happily. Because in 1994, the Chiefs got whipped — soundly — by archrival Plymouth Salem on the opening weekend of the season, then did not lose again. They marched all the way to the state championship.

One of their only slips was a 1-1 tie to Salem in their second meeting of the season.

And the Rocks? They didn't make it past the district tournament, but they were the only ones to beat the state champs last season.

On Wednesday, the two teams met for the first time this season — but maybe not the last. The result: a 1-0 Salem triumph.

Other than bragging rights, the game really didn't mean too much, in terms of the Western Lakes Activities Association. Salem is now 12-2 overall; Canton fell to 9-4-2.

"We'll probably see them again," said Canton coach Don Smith, looking ahead to the districts. "We looked tired out there. That's what happens when you have three tough ball games in that short a time."

Canton played Troy Athens Saturday and Livonia Churchill Monday, beating Athens and tying Churchill. But the Chiefs couldn't mount any kind of offense against Salem.

"In the first half, our attacks were mainly counterattacks," said Salem coach Ken Johnson. "We played more cautiously in the first half."

After a scoreless first 40 minutes, the Rocks' altered their strategy. "At the half, we went to three forwards instead of two," Johnson explained. "That upset them — it stretched them wide."

Hibbs holds on to collect O&E crown

It came down to the finish, quite literally.

The winner of the 1995 Observer & Eccentric Golf Tournament? Adam Hibbs of Farmington — with an assist from the weather.

Perhaps that isn't quite fair. After all, Hibbs — a 1991 Farmington HS graduate — hardly benefitted from the extremely high winds that buffeted Livonia's par-70 Whispering Willows Golf Course Sunday.

Hibbs won this tournament in Saturday's first round with a 72, which tied him for first going into Sunday's final 18 holes with Razmig Boghikian of Southfield. Next best was Karl Nagy of Livonia at 74.

The Rocks are 12-0 overall, 9-0 in the Western Lakes Activities Association. They clinched the Lakes Division title with a 4-0 mark.

Canton was paced by Brian Carlson at 40. Erik Allen was next best for the Chiefs at 43, followed by Scott Belisle (44), Miles Meibers (45) and Chris Wilson (46).

Salem concludes its dual-meet season Friday against Northville at Tanglewood. Canton hosts Walled Lake Central Friday at Brae Burn. After that comes the WLAA Tournament Tuesday at the Links of Pinewood in Walled Lake.

Wilson figures the favorites for the title are Livonia Churchill, Northville and his own Rocks, the defending champions. "I think Churchill and Northville will both be real tough," said Wilson.

Of course, he has a lineup that can certainly compete. "We have four guys who could break 80," he said. Then he added: "And that's what it might take to win this tournament."

Extra effort

Warnke leads Chiefs past Rocks in OT

BY RICHARD L. SHOOK

Only one thing is closer than the outcome of a girls basketball game between Plymouth Canton and Plymouth Salem — the sweat-soaked shirt that clings to Salem coach Fred Thomann.

And Thomann's shirt was extra wet Tuesday night because it went through an overtime period.

Canton won, 53-44, in a game that could easily have swung either way.

But it didn't, thanks to the power post game of Chiefs' center Sarah Warnke in the extra session.

"Salem is every bit as good as anybody in our league," Canton coach Bob Blohm said. "We were fortunate to beat a very good team."

Canton is now 7-3 overall, 3-1 in the Western Lakes Activities Association, while Salem dropped to 5-4, 1-2 in the WLAA.

"We've played a lot of good teams," Thomann said, his back against the Canton gym wall and his soaked shirt stuck to his chest, "and our girls are feeling some heat from it. But we're going to grow and develop. We'll get better."

Better? The Rocks aren't half bad right now. It's quite possible the only thing standing between them and a long tournament run is the Chiefs.

Conversely, it's entirely possible the big obstacle between the Chiefs and a long tournament run is the Rocks.

The difference between them Tuesday night was Warnke, who scored 18 points just about as unobtrusively as it is possible to get 18 points in a high school basketball game.

Warnke burst through a double-team to make a layup in the paint to break a 40-40 tie with 3:44 left in the overtime, later adding three more points to power Canton and no doubt please the three college scouts who were there to watch her.

A Salem guard then tried to make a pro move — turning a pass into a dribble with one hand — in a situation that cried out for a high school move. It resulted in a turnover.

Sophomore Melissa Marzolf, who scored 11 of her 15 points in the fourth quarter and overtime, turned that mistake into a fastbreak layup and, following a solitary Salem free throw by sophomore Amanda Abraham, Warnke added a free throw for a 45-41 lead with 2:49 to play.

Warnke followed an ill-advised triple-try by Salem with another power move, bursting through a double-team for a six-footer that upped the Chiefs' lead to 47-41 with 2:13 left.

"They made two baskets at the start of the overtime," Thomann said. "We were down four and struggling. At the end, we just didn't make the plays."

It was largely a matter of the Chiefs making half their free throws after that (6-of-12) to take the

Tie to give Chiefs title shot

BY C.J. RISAK

■ SOCCER

The final result was deserved, because neither Plymouth Canton nor Livonia Churchill proved itself better in Monday's soccer showdown for supremacy in the Western Lakes Activities Association's Western Division.

Examining the division records reveals why. The Chiefs are now 3-0-1 against Western foes; Churchill had a scoreless tie against Northville, leaving it with a 2-0-2 mark.

The Chargers hosted Walled Lake Western last night in their final divisional match; Canton plays at Western Monday. If Churchill won and the Chiefs lost or tied, the Chargers would play Livonia Stevenson for the WLAA championship Oct. 18 at Stevenson.

But that is an unlikely scenario. As Canton assistant coach Jeff Neschich put it after Monday's 1-1 tie, "It's good enough for the division title."

Neither team displayed much in the way of offensive skill. The Chiefs scored first, in the 10th minute, with Evan Sabourin knocking in a loose ball. Churchill knotted it in the 28th minute on a goal by Peter Varga.

That's the way it remained. Both teams had opportunities in the second half; neither did anything with them. Shots went over the net, dribbled to keepers Bryan Stramecki (Churchill) or George Tomasso (Canton), or were swung at and missed. There were no close calls in the last 40 minutes; indeed, it was rare to see either team complete two-straight passes.

"It was a great game," insisted Churchill coach Chad Campau, his team now 6-2-4 overall. "I hate tying and I hate losing, but watching two teams like this is great. This was like a state tournament game already."

Canton's Don Smith did not quite agree with that assessment. But then, perhaps the differences in the coaches offers an explanation for that — Campau is in his first year of coaching; Smith guided the Chiefs to the Class A championship last year.

"We're not as skillful, but we're getting there," the Canton coach said. "Nobody really had an advantage (tonight). Nobody really had any real good shots."

After a moment of reflection, Smith provided a more blunt description of his team's offense: "We just stunk it up."

What are the Chiefs doing well? "Hustling, and we're playing fairly good defense. We're not giving up much," Smith said.

Unfortunately, they weren't getting much against Churchill, either. "We're not putting the ball to peoples' feet," Smith said. "But (Churchill's) defense was tough. They ran our forwards off the ball.

"Of course, we did the same thing to their forwards."

So it could be said both teams are perhaps halfway there. Of course, in the hotbed of soccer that this area has become, halfway won't get a team too far in the state playoffs.

What's ahead was something Campau was quick to point out to his players minutes after the game. "Keep your heads up — don't worry about it. We've got a lot of road ahead of us," he told them.

His meaning was all too clear: "Every game along the way from now on will be just like this. As a team, our first goal was to win the division. We can't do that now, but there are bigger and better things ahead."

■ Salem 6, Franklin 1: Drew Drummond pumped in two goals to propel Plymouth Salem past Livonia Franklin Monday at Franklin.

The win boosted the Rocks' record to 3-1 in the WLAA's Lakes Division. Franklin is 8-5 overall, 2-2 in the division.

Salem opened up a 4-0 lead in the first half before surrendering a penalty kick goal to the Patriots' Eric Kracht prior to halftime. Mike Mezgec, Ronny Mashni, Andy Makins and Chris Curry also netted goals; Matt Sarkesian had two assists.

Last Saturday, Salem traveled to Brighton and returned with a 2-0 triumph. Goals came from Mezgec and Matt Simons; Brett Konley and John Larson had assists.

■ Canton 2, Athens 0: Last Saturday, Canton hosted a powerful Troy Athens team and came out the winner, scoring twice in the final seven minutes.

"It was a pretty even game," said Canton coach Smith. "They dominated in the first half when they had the wind, but we had better chances in the second half.

"Actually, there weren't too many shots for either team (six for Athens, seven for Canton). You just have to make something happen with the chances you get."

■ Redford CC 3, Bishop Foley 2: Dan Mulvihill scored twice and back-up goalkeeper Matt Kessler, filling in for the injured Travis Miller, posted the shutout Tuesday, leading host Redford Catholic Central to the win over Madison Heights Bishop Foley.

The win gives CC a 9-2-1 overall record. The Shamrocks also stayed in the hunt for a Catholic League playoff berth. CC, 4-2-1 in division play, can earn a spot in playoffs with a win Saturday at Warren DeLaSalle.

Lindsay then scored in the final minute from Shaun Kahanec.

Salem boys take 2nd at Pioneer

■ X-COUNTRY

Plymouth Salem boys cross country coach Geoff Baker saw what he wanted Saturday at the Ann Arbor Pioneer Invitational in Buhr Park.

Improvement.

"We're still getting better," the Rocks' coach said after his team finished second to the host Pioneers. "I saw some nice things. That was a tough course."

It was one he wanted his runners to experience, because come state regional time, that's where they will be racing — with a berth in the state meet at stake.

Salem scored 76 points to finish well behind Pioneer, which won with 38. Novi was third (85), followed by Birmingham Brother Rice (120), Utica Eisenhower (151), Dearborn Divine Child (162), Bloomfield Hills Cranbrook (174), Warren DeLaSalle (186), Clarkston (226), South Lyon (236) and Battle Creek Central (305).

Scott Pengelly again led the Rocks, finishing third overall in 16:35. A pair of Pioneers finished one-two: Keith Braxton (16:09) and Mike Humes (16:30).

Salem's other scorers were Jared Biniecki, fourth (16:48); Japbir Gill, 19th (17:56); John Little, 25th (18:07); and Jason Barylski, 38th (18:34).

Last Thursday at Cass Benton, Salem ran up against a struggling Farmington team, with results that come as no surprise — the Rocks collected the first 14 places in winning 15-50.

Pengelly was first (16:26), followed by Biniecki (17:10), Barylski (18:27), Little (18:36) and Gill (18:46).

Plymouth Canton

Saline won the meet with 31 points, followed by Brighton with 62. Canton scored 114.

"I thought for running on a course we never had before, we ran pretty well," said Chiefs' coach George Przygodski. "Becky, right now, has been hovering around the 20-minute mark. She was right there again.

Wolfrom finished second overall in 20:12. Beth Knight was sixth (20:37), Jamie Vergari was 33rd (22:26), Becky Uryga was 35th (22:28) and Christiana Bradford was 38th (22:33).

Canton runs against Livonia Churchill at Cass Benton today.

CORRECTION: In Monday's story on Canton's cross country meet against Livonia Franklin, it was inadvertantly omitted that Jamie Vergari, a sophomore, finished third on the Nankin Mills course in 21:46.

Anglers record some big catches

OUTDOOR INSIGHTS

BILL PARKER

I know! I know! It's bow season! And the success reports are already starting to roll in. But there are a ton of bass anglers out there who are experiencing great success as well, not just on the local circuits, but on the pro circuits as well.

I'll get to the hunting success next week and in the future, but for now, on with the anglers.

From Pelton's Point to Dollar Bay and all points in between Lake Orion was buzzing with bass anglers Sunday as 50 boats participated in the Oakland County Bass Masters' Lake Orion Open.

High, gusting winds and a slow-moving front didn't bode well for the anglers as just 23 of the 50 teams in the tournament returned to the dock with fish. In all, 29 bass were caught for a total weight of 126.33 pounds.

Bill Man and Ken Trinka, of Waterford, won the tournament with a five-fish limit that weighed 10.39 pounds. The duo earned $1,082.25 for their efforts.

"We used every bait in the boat and you had to work your baits real slow," said Trinka. "They just didn't want a fast-moving bait." Man and Trinka caught most of their fish in 10 to 12 feet of water.

Second-place honors and $614.25 went to Ron and Mike Aiello of Goodrich for a catch of 10.11 pounds. They were followed in order of finish by Jeff Bianco and Dwight Perry of Utica with 8.88 pounds ($409.50), Mike Dywer of Clarkston and John Vanhook of Bloomfield Hills with 6.94 pounds ($292.50), Tim Weber and Dan Wright of Lake Orion with 6.44 pounds ($234.00), Ron Damian of Lapeer and Blake Nordman of Huntington Woods with 6.05 pounds ($175.50), and Arthur Austin of Southfield and Steve Randells of Garden City with 5.95 pounds ($117.00). The Jan's Sport Shop Big Bass Award went to Bianco and Perry for a 4.50-pounder. They won $75 cash and a $50 gift certificate.

Oakland Bass Masters will hold an open tournament on Pontiac Lake on Sunday, Oct. 15, (810) 542-5254. Michigan Bass'n Gals will hold an open tournament on Cass Lake on Sunday, Oct. 22, (313) 981-3367.

Red Man qualifiers

Six area bass anglers will hit the waters of Lake Erie on Friday and Saturday as participants of the Operation Bass Red Man Regional tournament. They qualified for the regional by placing in the top 30 in the Red Man Michigan Division.

Division place is determined on a basis of points and pounds. At the conclusion of six Michigan Division tournaments, the top 30 anglers advance to the regional. Four divisions make up the regional. Of the 120 anglers fishing in the regional, the top 10 will advance to the Operation Bass Red Man All American and have a chance to compete for a grand prize worth $100,000.

Livonia's Art Ferguson III was the highest area finisher, placing fourth in the standings with 39-pounds, 14-ounces and 163 points. Kenneth Purvey, of Walled Lake, placed seventh with 26-pounds, 8-ounces and 142 points. Kevin L. Long, of Bloomfield Hills, placed 14th with 28-pounds, 12-ounces and 75 points, Neil Coomes of Troy was 21st with 26-pounds, 5-ounces and 78 points, Livonia's Bruce Smith placed 26th in the division with 22-pounds, 1-ounce and 91 points and Livonia's Ed Dietrich was 29th with 21-pounds, 12-ounces and 87 points. Livonia's Scott Emery and Lake Orion's Chuck Economou just missed qualifying for the regional, placing 32nd and 35th, respectively.

BASSMASTERS competitors

Three area anglers recently competed in the BASSMASTERS New York Invitational on the St. Lawrence River and Lake Ontario in Clayton, New York.

Chuck Economou, of Lake Orion, placed 81st out of 316 anglers with nine fish that weighed 18-pounds, 5-ounces. Plymouth's Patrick VanTiem placed 87th with 11 fish that weighed 18-pounds, and West Bloomfield's Rick VanTiem was 164th with 10 fish that weighed 12-pounds, 9-ounces.

Kyle Greene, the amateur champion at last year's BASSMASTER Top 100 on Lake St. Clair was registered to fish, but a medical emergency kept the Bloomfield Hills angler grounded and he missed the tournament.

Michigan's own Kevin VanDam, of Kalamazoo, won the tournament with a limit catch of 15 fish that tipped the scale at 41-pounds, 14-ounces.

Ferguson on TNN

Ferguson, a Rochester Hills native who now resides in Livonia, will appear on TNN's Fishing with Roland Martin at 11:30 a.m. Saturday and 9:30 p.m. Sunday. The show is a rerun of a smallmouth bass fishing trip Ferguson took Martin on last year on Lake St. Clair.

"Lake St. Clair probably has the best smallmouth fishing in the state," Ferguson said. "There are more smallmouth per acre in St. Clair than any other body of water in Michigan."

Sponsored by Jan's Sports Shop in Goodrich, Pro Angler Outdoors in Livonia, Astro Boats, Mercury Outboards and Berkley-Trileen, Ferguson fishes in several local bass circuits.

Hunters and anglers are urged to report their success. Questions and comments are also encouraged. Send information to Outdoors, 805 E. Maple, Birmingham, MI 48009. Fax information to (810) 644-1314 or call Bill Parker evenings at (810) 901-2573.

State champs

It was an odd game in some respects.

Canton made 17 turnovers — seven in each of the first two quarters but none at all when making a bid to take control of the game with a 16-9 third period.

"I thought we held the ball better in the second half," Blohm said. "And we did a better job of spacing out the court, getting away from our post player."

Salem was helping Sills with an extra defender or two every time Warnke got the ball. Sills had three fouls 56 seconds into the second quarter and picked up her fourth 1:12 into the final period.

Most of the time it was Abraham who provided the aid. Good thing somebody did, because Warnke would have had a ton of points otherwise.

"We moved our people out (away from Warnke in the second half) and it worked," Blohm said. "We got good scoring opportunities out of it. I don't know that we made many, but we had the opportunities. And we did a little better job of screening for her in the second half."

Salem was up, 18-14, at the half but fell behind 22-19 within three minutes of the third quarter and trailed by four much of the time right down until the final 61 seconds.

Abraham drove the baseline off a nifty feed by Janelle Sterling to make it 40-38. Sillmon made a 16-footer from the left side of the top of the key with 26 seconds left in regulation to deadlock the score.

"It was like, 'Okay, we came back and got to overtime, you mean there's more?'" Thomann said.

Yep, but there might not have been if Marzolf had looked down at her feet when shooting free throws.

Twice in the fourth quarter and once in overtime a successful Marzolf free throw was erased because an official detected her feet on the line.

Wonder what she'll be working on this week?

■ PCA 43, Clarenceville 29: Plymouth Christian Academy jumped out to a 13-3 lead Tuesday and never looked back as the Eagles won the non-conference road game.

Senior center Kristine Zedan led all scorers with 18 points and 10 rebounds. PCA (6-4) also received eight points from senior guard Lisa Erickson and seven points and nine rebounds from freshman forward Jenny Sutherland.

The Trojans (0-9) were led by Melissa Cairns' eight points.

"It was a rough game," Clarenceville coach Bob Wolf said. "They were the bigger team and we let them play rough inside."

The Eagles dominated at the free throw line where they made 17 of 30 attempts. Clarenceville made five of its 14 tries.

"We got a lot of players time tonight which was good," PCA coach Rod Windle said. "I thought we shot well in the first half. Our post play really helped us."

So on Sunday, all Hibbs needed to do was basically survive. And he did, barely, with a 76 that included a 40 on the back nine.

"I was getting nervous," Hibbs admitted. "The way I was hitting the ball, I'm not deserving of this. I mean, I had 32 putts each day . . . that's not good.

"But it was good enough, I guess."

Hibbs posted his score Sunday early, then had to wait while the final foursome in the championship flight finished. Three members of that foursome — Alex McLuckie of Livonia, Ian Harris of West Bloomfield and Chris Zbanek of Farmington Hills — were within striking distance of Hibbs' clubhouse-leading total of 148.

"I was warming up on the putting green," Hibbs admitted. "I thought for sure I'd be in a playoff."

Had any one of the final three parred the last two holes, that's just what would have happened. Harris had birdie opportunities at 15, 16 and 17, but missed all three. He three-putted at 18 to finish 77-73/150, tied for third with Zbanek (76-74/150), who missed the greens at 17 and 18 and bogeyed both.

Still, any veteran of the O&E Tournament would agree that the hard-luck title could easily be retired by McLuckie. He's finished second four times (including '94), twice by a single stroke.

On Sunday, a bad chip from just off the green at the 144-yard, par-three 17th led to a bogey-four, which meant he had to birdie 18 to tie.

McLuckie nearly pulled it off. A strong drive and superb chip at the par-4, 394-yard finishing hole left him lying two 11 feet from the cup. But his birdie putt skipped past, and McLuckie ended up with a 76-73/149 — and another runners-up plaque.

"It's always something," a discouraged McLuckie said. "I shot myself in the foot yesterday (with a first-round 76)."

It seemed almost unfair, the Livonia golfer unable to match his surname while Hibbs won in his first-ever attempt. Hibbs remained in a state of disbelief even after the final results were posted.

"The scores should have been five strokes lower," he said, citing the wind and inconsistent greens as reasons they were not. "Honestly, that was the toughest wind I ever played in."

And Boghikian, the first-round co-leader? He shot a 78 Sunday to tie with Zbanek, Harris and Nagy (who carded a second-round 76) for third at 150.

The tournament's best round belonged to David Higham, a Livonia Churchill senior who fired a 71 Sunday. Unfortunately, Higham had an 81 Saturday; he finished tied for seventh overall with Kirk Osler of Livonia (77-75) at 152.

In second flight, the championship was captured by Canton's Craig Nehasil (80-88/168), who was a single stroke better than Livonia's Howard White (87-82/169). Livonia's Ken Plozai was third (90-83/173).

In third flight, Ron Retzlaff of Southfield won (98-104/202). Marshall Brenner of Farmington Hills took second (101-105/206), with Michael McComb of Redford third (109-102/211).

The field of 97 golfers was one of the smallest on record for the annual tournament. First place in the championship flight was worth a $275 gift certificate, with second place earning a $200 cert.

And it created an opening. Salem's Matt Sarkesian forced a Canton turnover in the Chiefs' end of the field, feeding the ball through to Ronny Mashni. The senior midfielder quickly cashed it in, pounding a shot into the net from 20 yards out, just to the right of Canton keeper George Tomasso.

The goal came with 31:16 remaining in the match. The Chiefs never really threatened much, before or after that.

"They moved the ball at will," said Smith, "although they didn't get that many shots. But we didn't get many, either."

Difference was, Salem capitalized; Canton couldn't.

Lady Ocelots win twice during Chicago swing

This time, the Schoolcraft College women's soccer team didn't waste a lead against DuPage College (Ill.).

The Ocelots led 2-0 at halftime and defeated DuPage, the No. 10-ranked team in the National Junior College Athletic Association, 3-0, in a Region 12 game played Saturday near Chicago.

The victory avenged a 3-2 loss earlier in the season to DuPage when Schoolcraft blew a one-goal lead in the last 10 minutes.

The Ocelots are 5-3 overall, 4-3 in Region 12.

"My girls were really up, they should have won the last time and they wanted to show they were better," Schoolcraft coach Nikki Johnson said. "We had a long team meeting Friday night. DuPage, no matter their (skill) level, always plays hard and we knew we had to play full out for 90 minutes to the whistle."

The Ocelots finished the weekend trip with a 6-1 victory Sunday against Moraine Valley, a school also located outside of Chicago.

Freshman goalkeeper Jennifer Audritsh (Garden City) made only three saves, but that was because she played more aggressively, which is the style encouraged by Johnson. Audritsh usually got to the ball before DuPage's forwards could get a shot on goal.

"When the ball went over the defenders heads, Jennifer asserted herself in coming out. She didn't hold back," Johnson said. "That's what we worked on with her."

Scoring chances for DuPage's star forward Debbie Markovich also were limited because of the defense of freshman defender Stacey Miller (Plymouth Canton).

"She is a really quick forward, but Stacey did an excellent job," Johnson said. "Debbie didn't get but one shot maybe the whole game."

Kimble scored first, converting a pass off a corner kick by Staci Muysenberg. The lead grew to 2-0 before halftime after Kimble stole a DuPage outlet pass and scored on a shot from about 18 yards out.

Miller, Erin Stacherski and Misty Heath collected assists.

SC men suffer lost weekend

■ SOCCER

It may not seem that way, but the results could not have been better for Schoolcraft College's men's soccer team.

What? You crazy? They lost and they tied!

True enough. The Ocelots' trip to the College of DuPage, to play the former top-ranked team in the NJCAA Saturday and then another tough team, Moraine Valley, on Sunday, ended up with a 3-0 loss to DuPage and a 4-4 tie against Moraine Valley.

Or is it?

It can be. As SC coach Van Dimitriou noted: "We got what we wanted out of the weekend — not in terms of wins and losses, certainly, but the kids found out how hard they will have to play to beat better teams.

"If anything, this will enhance our level of play. It taught us the importance of teamwork. And when you're playing away from home against teams of this caliber, that doesn't help us. But now they know what it will take."

And, to an extent, so does Dimitriou. Against DuPage, a strong wind made a big difference. SC had it at its back in the first half and controlled play, but failed to score. DuPage got a run upfield late in the half and a penalty kick was called, which it converted.

In the second half, with the wind against the Ocelots, the tide changed in favor of DuPage.

"We had our opportunities," said Dimitriou. "We just didn't convert. The wind was a major factor; they just took better advantage of it than we did."

Dimitriou wasn't at all pleased with the Ocelots' fold-up act in the second half against DuPage, something he made sure they knew prior to Sunday's match with Moraine Valley. The result: A fired-up SC team attacked aggressively, which led to a 4-1 halftime lead for the Ocelots.

"That was our best half of the year, against a very good team," said the SC coach.

Unfortunately, it also led to four yellow cards. With injuries limiting two others, Dimitriou suddenly had a very limited bench. A penalty-kick goal for Moraine Valley early in the second half helped turn things against SC and fueled the comeback.

Which ended with a goal scored by SC's Doug Walters into his own net. Walters was filling in at stopper, a position not entirely familiar to him.

SC got first-half goals from Mo Hijazi, Victor Rodopoulos (from Livonia Franklin), Ryan Phipps (Plymouth Canton) and from Rodopoulos again. Hijazi assisted on Rodopoulos' second goal, and Rodopoulos assisted on Phipps' goal.

"In the long run, this might help us," Dimitriou said. "It was an educational thing."

A pair of wins might have led the Ocelots toward overconfidence. Now they have a goal: A return trip to DuPage (which will host the NJCAA Inter-regional Tournament) still lies ahead. If SC is to go further, it must win that tourney.

Now they should know how to do it.

Comment spurs Madonna to victory

VOLLEYBALL

Sophomore Erin Comment recorded 14 kills and 21 digs Tuesday, powering Madonna University to a 15-1, 9-15, 16-14, 15-8 women's volleyball victory over stubborn University of Michigan-Dearborn.

Madonna is now 15-8 overall.

"We started off very fast in the first game — we put the opponent away," Madonna coach Jerry Abraham said. "But in the second game, we played softer and U-M probably played the best match they've played all year. Their setter really took control the second game."

The Lady Crusaders, however, bounced back as Julie Martin (Livonia Stevenson) added 13 kills and seven digs. Junior Kelly McCausland (Redford Union) contributed 15 digs and eight kills, while setter Meg Paris tallied 40 assists (10 per game).

"We came back in the fourth game and put them away," Abraham said. "We hadn't played in a week and it showed. But hopefully we're back on track now and can get rolling."

Teeters not discouraged

On Tuesday, Macomb CC moved into a first-place conference tie with Henry Ford after a 15-6, 9-15, 16-14, 19-17 win over the visiting Lady Ocelots.

"All of our losses have been to strong teams, but I'm pleased with the way our lineup is shaping up," said the SC coach, whose team is 14-9-3 overall. "We're going more toward a defensive setup."

Jamie Clark (Livonia Churchill) led Schoolcraft with 37 digs against Macomb. Setter Andrea Greer (Livonia Franklin) contributed 37 assists-to-kills.

Hermina Angeles led SC's offensive attack with 20 kills, while Michelle MacRae added seven blocks. Stacy Sailus had four ace serves.

Belleville, ranked No. 5 in the National Junior College Athletic Association, downed SC, 14-16, 15-4, 15-8, 15-11. Belleville posted a 3-0 record to win the tourney.

Second-place Parkland (Ill.) also beat the Lady Ocelots, 15-12, 15-17, 15-7, 15-6, while third-place West Plains (Mo.) outlasted SC, 15-12, 8-15, 13-15, 15-7, 15-11.

Offensively, Tracy Sledz (Livonia Clarenceville) led with 32 kills and Sailus added eight blocks.

On Sept. 29, SC lost to Henry Ford, 15-12, 15-4, 16-14, despite Clark's 22 passes on target and Sledz' 12 kills.

Macomb and Henry Ford are both 4-1 in the Eastern Conference of the Michigan Community College Athletic Association. SC is a game back at 3-2.

League races, playoff picture beginning to clear

BY DAN O'MEARA
STAFF WRITER

As the high school football season enters its sixth week, divisional races and the playoff picture come into sharper focus.

Farmington Harrison and Livonia Stevenson are on course for a rematch in the Western Lakes Activities Association championship game.

Westland John Glenn, as well as Livonia Franklin, Walled Lake Western and North Farmington, stand in the way of that happening.

Looking farther ahead, Class AA Glenn, Redford Catholic Central and Stevenson and Class A Harrison have good playoff chances. Redford St. Agatha (D) and Plymouth Canton (AA) are on the bubble.

■ A final word on the '95 Boys Bowl. It was quite possibly the best game in the long history of the event.

Brother Rice had the game won twice, 20-17 late in the fourth quarter and 23-20 in overtime. But CC rallied each time to win 26-23.

CC's last-minute drive to force overtime, a booming field goal by Eron Kosmowski and a decision on fourth-and-one to go for the winning TD in overtime provided plenty of high drama.

■ On the prediction front, Brad Emons gained another game and leads by seven over Dan O'Meara, 62-11 to 55-18. Emons was 12-3 last week, O'Meara 11-4.

FRIDAY'S GAMES
(all times 7:30 p.m.)

Northville at Liv. Churchill: The Mustangs (2-1, 3-2) are smarting this week after losing 48-7 to Harrison in a game that could have been much closer. Northville's other loss was to South Lyon, the No. 1 team in Class A. The Chargers (0-3, 0-5) are still looking for their first win. PICKS: The Mustangs kick up their heels again.

Farmington at Westland Glenn: These teams played a great game last year when the Rockets (2-1, 4-1) won in overtime, 20-17. Glenn's win streak was stopped last week when underdog Walled Lake Central staged a surprising, 21-20 upset. The Falcons (1-2, 2-3) had hoped to be 5-0 going into this game but have had some bad breaks and just-misses. Farmington is coming off a 21-12 win over North Farmington. PICKS: Glenn wins a squeaker.

Ply. Salem at W.L. Central: Momentum belongs to the Vikings (2-1, 3-2), who suddenly became Lakes Division contenders with their big win over Glenn. Salem (1-2, 1-4) tries to rebound from a 27-6 loss to Lakes frontrunner Livonia Stevenson. Aside from their 35-34 win over Farmington, the Rocks have scored only 13 points and will need more to beat Central. PICKS: The Vikings stay in contention.

W.L. Western at Ply. Canton: This one looks like a tossup between even teams. Both are 2-1 in the Western Division (beating Churchill and Franklin) and 3-2 overall. The Chiefs have won two straight and hope the home-field advantage helps to make it three. PICKS: Canton keeps the streak going.

Wayne Memorial at Belleville: The Zebras (2-2, 2-3) appear to be coming together as a team, winning their last two games over Woodhaven and Wyandotte. Lorenzo Guess passed for two TDs and ran for another as Wayne beat the Bears 20-8. But now comes the big test against state-ranked Belleville (4-0, 5-0). PICKS: Ian Gold and the Tigers won't be stopped.

Taylor Kennedy at Garden City: The Cougars (1-2, 1-4) got their first win last week, trouncing Truman 35-14, and the confidence gained from it should help against winless Kennedy (0-4, 0-5). The Eagles aren't flying too high these days, losing 9-0 to Southgate last week and averaging just five points a game. PICKS: The Cougars get the deuce.

Redford Union at Southgate: The Panthers (1-2, 1-4) need some offense. They haven't scored a point since beating Kennedy three weeks ago. Southgate (3-1, 3-2) has a superior record, but the game will determine if the Titans are really a better team. PICKS: Southgate pulls out a win.

Red. Thurston at Taylor Center: The Eagles (0-4, 0-5) have their best chance to get something started since the second week of the season. Thurston has played Crestwood, Allen Park and Melvindale in its last three games, but the Rams (2-2, 3-2) won't exactly be pushovers either. Center has beaten Kennedy, Annapolis and Carlson. PICKS: Thurston has to wait longer for its first victory.

SATURDAY'S GAMES
(all times 1 p.m. unless noted)

Liv. Franklin at F.H. Harrison: The Hawks (3-0, 4-1) are rolling after four-straight wins, including a 48-7 thrashing of Northville last week in which Jason Granger rushed for 283 yards and five touchdowns. The hard-luck Patriots (0-3, 1-4) have lost three in a row and will try to rebound from a 17-6 loss to Walled Lake Western. PICKS: Harrison has a happy homecoming.

Liv. Stevenson at N. Farmington: The Spartans (3-0, 4-1) are alone in first place in the Lakes Division and could be headed for a second straight appearance in the WLAA championship game. Stevenson can't afford to be looking ahead to next week's showdown with John Glenn, however. The Raiders (0-3, 1-4) played well against Farmington and have the potential to give the Spartans a good game. PICKS: Two votes for Stevenson.

Clarenceville at Luth. Westland: Observerland's Metro Conference members meet this week, and both hope to end two-game losing streaks. The Warriors (2-2, 2-3) suffered a 33-8 loss to Lutheran East. John Rose caught two touchdown passes from Rob Ashton, but the Trojans (2-1, 2-3) lost 36-14 to Harper Woods. PICKS: Flip a coin. O'Meara takes Lutheran Westland; Emons goes with Clarenceville.

St. Agatha at O.L. Lakes: The Lakers are having a down year by their standards. Lakes is 3-2 overall but 2-0 in the Catholic C-Section following a 28-0 rout of Ann Arbor Richard. St. Agatha (1-1, 3-2) eked out a 7-6 win over Richard two weeks ago and lost to Royal Oak Shrine 21-0 Saturday. PICKS: Nobody said the Lakers were all wet.

Bishop Borgess vs. Benedictine, 2 p.m. at Garden City Jr. High: Borgess (1-1 Tri-Sectional, 3-2) saw its two-game win streak end in a 36-18 loss to Riverview Richard. The Ravens (0-2, 2-3) have lost three straight in the league after beating New Haven and Inkster. Benedictine held Allen Park Cabrini to a touchdown in a 7-0 loss a week ago. PICKS: Emons is an Edgar Allen Poe fan, so the Ravens are his choice. O'Meara's reply: Go Tell The Spartans.

Redford CC vs. O.L. St. Mary's, 7:30 p.m. at Clarenceville: The Eaglets (4-1) are having another good year, but OLSM isn't the awesome team that won the Class CC title in '94. The Shamrocks (5-0) will be thinking payback this week, having lost 20-0 to St. Mary's last year. CC has a new lease on life after rallying to beat Brother Rice 26-23 in overtime Sunday in the annual Boys Bowl. PICKS: St. Mary's (2-0) is ahead of the Shamrocks (1-0) in the new Central West Division, but that will change Saturday.

Montessori hosts workshop for teachers, parents

The Michigan Montessori Society presents a workshop for teachers and parents, "Everyday Living Skills in the Montessori Environment," from 9 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. Saturday, Oct. 14.

The conference will be presented by Rita Schaefer Zener and Sharon Keenan at the Messmore Education Center, 8742 Dill Drive, Sterling Heights.

Zener is director of teacher training at the Washington Montessori Institute during the summer months and is Montessori coordinator for the District of Columbia Public Schools during the academic year.

She holds a master's of education degree from the University of Portland and a doctorate in human development from the University of Maryland. During her 32 years in Montessori, she has pioneered classroom work in Texas, and founded and directed the training course in Portland, Oregon.

Sharon Keenan is principal of the Montessori House of Children in London, Ontario. During her 24 years of Montessori work, she has taught at the preschool, elementary, and junior-high levels.

She conducts teacher training sessions for Toronto Montessori Institute, and St. Nicholas Montessori College in London, England. She has been a lecturer, workshop presenter, and school consulter in several areas of the world. She holds a bachelor's degree in psychology from the University of Western Ontario and is a Montessori trained at the 3-6 and elementary areas.

The conference costs $30 for MMS members and $35 for non-members. Call (810) 825-2234 for registration information.

■ The conference will be presented by Rita Schaefer Zener, director of teacher training at the Washington Montessori Insitute, and Sharon Keenan, principal of the Montessori House of Children in London, Ontario.

MARKET PLACE

Cutting edge

Artistic point: Artist Ted Miller creates a portrait of American Indian history with his handcrafted knives, which serve as uncommon accents to an American Indian decorating theme. The blade is etched with a portrait of an American Indian warrior in full garb. The handle, carved from wood, displays faces of wolves and warriors, inlaid with turquoise and other stones. Cost for the 12-inch knife with stand shown here is $395. Available at Native West Gallery, 863 W. Ann Arbor Trail, Plymouth.

GARDEN SPOT

Bulb seminar gives information, inspiration

MARTY FIGLEY

More than 40 people attended the recent two-day bulb seminar with Charles Cresson, which was sponsored by Telly's Greenhouse in Troy and The Gardeners Guild. Cresson provided much information and inspiration; I shall try to share some random thoughts.

Flowering plants that grow well with bulbs include forget-me-nots, wallflowers, pansies and dark blue grape hyacinths. Try color combinations of yellow and red, blue iris with violas and tall allium, white with deep purple, and orange and yellow mixtures. A few white blooms peeking out of pachysandra or vinca add interest, as do the yellow or white blooms of daffodils. Think of color combinations and bloom times when you plan the gardens.

A pedestal planter can be changed for the season and surrounded by wood hyacinths in the spring then over planted with annuals such as impatiens for the rest of the summer.

Placing

Plant early blooming things close to the house so you can enjoy them as soon as they appear. Dwarf species tulips do well in a rock garden or on a raised bulb bank.

Plant tulip bulbs eight to nine inches deep when they are to remain in the ground. Bedding tulips need only to be planted six inches deep. For optimum results, bulb sites should face in the following directions: first south, then east, west and finally north.

Evergreen boughs provide good mulch for bulb beds because they trap more snow, thus provide better cover. Don't tie bulb foliage because it absorbs the sunlight for energy to feed the bulbs.

Daffodils should be planted by mid-October to develop strong roots before winter. Mulch to keep the soil warm. Tulips and grape hyacinths can be chilled before planting. Fall blooming bulbs should be planted in early fall; the ideal time is mid-August — six inches deep. Two good crocus to grow are Thomasine and Crocus Speciosus. Narcissus hybrids will generally multiply best if planted four to six inches deep.

"If rodents eat the bulbs, kill them . . . after chipmunks have done a certain amount of damage, they're no longer too cute to kill," Cresson said.

He suggested making cages of ½-inch rat wire (or use plastic containers) and planting the bulbs in them. Squirrels can't eat crocus with wire placed six inches over the top of the bed. Scilla siberica isn't bothered by animals.

Hyacinths

Daffodil hybrids are better adapted to our gardens than are the species or wild ones. Species tulips are those found in the wild — not hybridized. Buy small hyacinth bulbs for the garden — they will produce blooms that don't fall over. If bulbs are diseased with either striped or mosaic virus, which is spread by aphids, dig all the infected bulb out and destroy. The soil should still be clean.

Fertilize all bulbs in the fall when roots begin to grow and again in the early spring when foliage begins to grow. Don't put fertilizer in the bottom of the planting hole — roots can be burned.

Force bulbs in small pots so they can be moved from one location to another to change the decorating scene as wanted. Large hyacinth bulbs are best for forcing. Two good bulbs for forcing are the tulip "Apricot Beauty" and daffodil "February Gold." Tulips that have been forced are usually not strong enough for future bloom, but daffodils will recover after forcing and gain full strength in the garden.

Bulbs require good drainage, rich soil, sun or light deciduous shade. Dig (and mix in amendments) to a depth of 12 inches; six to 7.5 is the ideal pH range. Generally plant 2-½ times the height of the bulb.

The Gardeners Guild will present a garden symposium March 2, 1996. Watch for details.

Forcing bulbs

Force hardy bulbs for early indoor bloom. Do it now, or store in refrigerator until needed.

Fill the pot ½ to two-thirds with free-draining potting mix. Place bulbs in the moist mixture, tamp to settle and recover bulbs with additional soil. Water until it drains out holes well, then place in plastic bag and seal. Chill in temperature between 32 and 45 degrees — a refrigerator is fine.

When you see top growth, remove plastic and set in a cool spot for a couple of days then in regular house temperature in a place with as much light as possible. Don't let soil dry out. Blossoms should appear in two to four weeks.

Festival

Brickscape Gardens, 21141 Old Novi Road, Northville, is celebrating bulb season with a Holland Bulb Festival 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Saturday-Sunday, Oct. 7-8.

A European fairgrounds organ will entertain with Dutch and German tunes, "Clompen" dancers will perform, and Joe Vandervlugt will share bulb information as well professional gardener Barbara Reichard. For information, call (810) 348-2500.

TIMELY GARDEN TIPS

- Plant a new shade tree or flowering shrub.
- Give evergreens and shrubs a long drink if it hasn't rained.
- Plant at least a dozen bulbs of the same variety for a dose of "wow" in the spring.
- Fertilize the lawn. A slow-release kind of fertilizer is excellent with a formula of 8-12-24.
- Start a compost pile with shredded leaves and garden debris — no diseased plants, though.

COVER STORY

On the job

STORY BY LINDA ANN CHOMIN
STAFF WRITER

In the future, it's not a matter of whether a home will have an office, but for what tasks it will be designed.

Combine the popularity of home computers with today's life in the fast lane and you have two good reasons why home office furniture sales are going through the roof.

Add to that the fact more and more people are working at home and it becomes evident why increasing numbers of people are buying home office furniture.

Dolores Carroll has a whole set of theories about the necessity for home offices in the future. She says busier lifestyles than our parents' generation (committee meetings for fund-raisers and the like, keeping a schedule of the children's karate or skating lessons) necessitate organizing a space where receipts, valuable papers and scribbled down appointments will no longer be kept in a shoebox.

According to LINK, a New York City research and consulting firm, nearly half a million people are now working at home, either as employees or independent business people. The invention of computer modems and E-mail to convey information (back to the office), coupled with the trend of more people starting their own businesses make it necessary for people to get organized. The key is to do it in style.

"The home office is coming out of the closet. People are going for beauty, the traditional wood office furniture because our work environment affects performance. How organized you are and the beauty of your surroundings makes you more efficient," said Carroll, a sales representative at Walker/Buzenberg Fine Furniture in Plymouth.

And what does a handsomely outfitted office complete with classic credenza, barrister bookcase inset with beveled glass, and a traditional leather sofa and chair say about you to clients?

"It's power dressing for the home office, the business suit look. What you work at says a lot about you as well. It says professional.

"A lot of people have a home office mostly because it organizes your life. Once you have one, you wonder how you ever did without one. It does decrease the stress level."

Determining present and future needs

The face of home offices is changing and that face has many different looks depending on space limitations. Do you need a home office to house a computer system complete with tower, printer, and fax machine? Is the office simply for keeping track of household papers? Does the room do double duty as a den, dining room or extra bedroom? Will the size of the space suffice if you plan on running a small business or meeting with clients there?

Along with measurements of the room, these are some of the questions you'll need to ask yourself before determining the style of furniture. Will it be a hideaway computer cabinet, credenza or rolltop desk, traditional or modular?

"The trend is to more and more modulars. A lot of people do go for the hutch because it does give you the vertical space for manuals and books. Fifteen years ago you couldn't find modular for the home, now with the computer it's become available," Carroll said.

The advent of affordable home computers is affecting the types of desks and cabinets furniture manufacturers design and produce. Tailoring their pieces with slide-out trays for keyboards, larger areas for work surfaces and equipment such as speakers for multimedia computers with CD-ROM, and locking storage for family computers, the manufacturers are trying to keep up with the electronics that seems to change every six months, says Pat Zatina, home office and occasional buyer for Scott Shuptrine in Troy.

"Technology is driving this category of furniture with students and adults depending more on their computers at home. The number one consideration of people is what components they will need to add eventually. They also need to consider the size of work surface needed for papers, and the type of lighting, determining the correct amount of light to reduce eye strain. A desk lamp is important if you plan to be working with or reading papers," Zatina said.

"We sell a lot of the cabinet type set-ups because you can throw this in any room and close it away when it's not in use. When it's closed it's a relatively nice looking piece of furniture."

Functional beauty

Corner hideaway computer cabinets offer beauty plus functionality. In general, cherry and oak pieces are the most popular because of the woods' classic look, says Walker/Buzenberg co-owner David Buzenberg, but whitewash is also available.

"People want to do the traditional, and typically by nature, the office is not a room that's contemporary," Buzenberg said.

"We're seeing more wall units and credenzas, the wood pieces. Most address the filing needs, and provide storage for manuals and books. Everyone comes in with different sizes of equipment. If people bring in a floor plan of their room we can suggest a configuration."

On the cover: The Herman Desk Collection, available at Walker/Buzenberg Fine Furniture in Plymouth, offers flexibility in building the home office.

▶ The invention of computer modems and E-mail to convey information (back to the office), coupled with the trend of more people starting their own businesses make it necessary for people to get organized. The key is to do it in style.

Series focuses on antiques

Schoolcraft College, Haggerty and Seven Mile in Livonia, is offering a series to help you identify and evaluate antiques.

In the series, prominent professionals Frank Boos, owner of the Frank H. Boos Gallery in Bloomfield Hills, and James Krol, owner of Birmingham Gemological Services in Birmingham, will discuss what's "out there" in the market as well as what items to look for.

Art work, furniture and accessories and new and antique fine jewelry will be discussed. The four-session series begins 6-8 p.m. Wednesday, Oct. 18, and continues Wednesdays, Oct. 25 and Nov. 1 and 8. Participants may attend individual sessions or the entire series. For a brochure or to register, call the college at (313) 462-4448.

Boos will lead classes on antique furniture; painting and prints; and silver, china and objets d'art. Krol will lead the final class, discussing jewelry and gemstones. Students will learn about carat weight, color, clarity and cutting.

'Miniature' workshops set

Instructions on decorating a dollhouse for the holidays and making a human-size wreath centered with a miniature room are included in fall classes starting Saturday, Oct. 21, at Miniature Makers' Workshop in Royal Oak.

Owner Criss Goad announces that a brochure with details is available at the Workshop, 4515 N. Woodward, or by calling (810) 549-0633.

At open workshops every Friday, students may bring projects and join friends to work together on miniatures.

Students are asked to register for classes at least two weeks in advance to give instructors time to prepare. Class fees vary according to hours and the materials supplied.

Flowers will be created at three sessions by visiting instructor Sandy Wall of Inverness, Ill. Her classes Saturday, Oct. 28, will cover lilacs and iris. Morning glories will be the subject Sunday, Oct. 29.

A class Saturday, Oct. 21, covers the making of a miniature woven basket with hinged lid that can be finished with a holiday theme. The instructor is Sue Jaques of Farmington Hills.

At a Saturday morning class Nov. 18, students will make and exchange miniature Christmas cookies so that everyone can take a large assortment home.

FOCUS ON PHOTOGRAPHY

MONTE NAGLER

Often times a small area of a building such as an ornate doorknob or ivy-covered window ledge will create a photographic composition much stronger than the whole. The intimacy of a flower petal or the patterns of a breaking wave on the beach are often missed in our desire to concentrate on the totality of the subject.

Details of pattern, form and texture can tell us much about our subjects without the need to show their entirety. Isolating detail will give a new perspective and impact to your pictures not obtained by shooting the whole.

Any environment contains an inexhaustible supply of fascinating detail waiting for your camera. For example, in nature photography, try moving in close to isolate the texture of bark instead of shooting the whole cluster of trees. Photographing the lake in its entirety will give you a nice scenic picture, but don't overlook the delicate reeds and lilies at water's edge. Overall winter scenes are dramatic, but isolating that one unusual icicle will give you that special shot not obtainable in the whole.

In architecture, the supply of detail is endless. Isolate a pattern of unusual brickwork or look for colorful window shutters. Move in close on a section of peeling paint. Churches offer details in statues as well as the many colors and patterns of stained glass.

Can you isolate parts of people? Of course! The hands of the elderly or the foot of an infant will produce photographs of special, personal impact.

Other than a keen eye, no elaborate equipment is needed to isolate detail although a viewing mask will prove invaluable as an aid in composing your shot. At times, closeup filters will help you to move in close and a tripod should be used to maximize sharpness and depth-of-field.

But the important ingredients in isolating detail are your vision and insight. Your aim in photographing detail should be to obtain a complete picture in itself while at the same time maintaining the flavor and essence of the whole.

ESTHER LITTMANN

"Imagine the wonders of America. To begin with, there's the land. It's flowing with milk and honey. People make heaps of money, they make fortunes, they literally scoop up gold. And business is so good, it makes you dizzy. You can do anything you want. If you want a factory, you set up a factory. If you feel like opening a little store, you open a little store. And the size of the cities! The width of the streets! The height of the buildings!"

"That's all very well . . . but tell me: Don't people die in America, just like here? Or do they live on and on?"

— from Sholom Aleichem's "Beryl Isaac and the Wonders of America" (1948)

These sentiments, expressed by the Yiddish author whose stories form the basis of "Fiddler on the Roof," were shared by countless Jewish immigrants who came to America. They also provide the framework to "The Wonders of America" (Hill and Wang, 1994), a fascinating and informative book by Jenna Weissman Joselit, Princeton University professor and author of numerous works on popular culture.

When Jews came to America, the freedom to pursue happiness took many forms, religious as well as commercial and professional. But freedom of worship was only the beginning.

After that, writes the author, Jews claimed freedom to discard, modify, invent and reappropriate. Not for them a religious straitjacket of "ideological and behavioral consistency." America was the place to exercise choice, to practice indulgence rather than self-denial, to secure material well-being as well as spiritual welfare.

Grass-roots

Joselit has written a book of modern Jewish history in America like we've never read before. It's about a Judaism shaped by consumers rather than by the "cultural custodians," a grass-roots phenomenon, created by the people and for the people.

When time constraints made strict Sabbath observance too difficult, Jews channeled their energy and enthusiasm to another family event — the Bar Mitzvah celebration. When adherence to dietary laws began to wane, the love of Jewish cooking proliferated, dotting the urban landscape with bagel shops and delicatessens.

The author's 40-page bibliography contains no weighty tomes by biblical scholars. Instead, we find references to temple yearbooks, articles in popular Jewish magazines, personal letters to relatives still living in the "old country," and advertisements to entice the Jewish homemaker.

Along with the minutiae of daily living — marriage, childbirth, parenting and departing — Joselit includes some startling, little-known items of information.

Beginnings

For example, we learn that Bat Mitzvah (coming-of-age ceremony for girls) isn't a liberal innovation.

It started in the Conservative movement, and was even practiced by some

Orthodox congregations before the Reform movement welcomed its inclusion. The latter, after all, already had a ceremony that acknowledged women's religious quality: Confirmation. Bat Mitzvah, purists claimed, was redundant. But who could ignore the tide of popular opinion?

Also interesting is Joselit's account of the double-ring ceremony. Although its roots were in non-Jewish 19th century Germany, the ritual was adopted in 1871, after several educated, cultured German-American Jewish brides asked if they could give their grooms a ring. Reluctant to be passive at the altar, they wanted "equal participation."

But whether the examples come from the kitchen (beef-frye, a meat product that resembled bacon) or the wedding (the electric chupa), Joselit's work is alive with amusing anecdotes and telling detail that describe what it means to be Jewish in America.

When the community's leaders "saw only deterioration," writes Joselit, "the folk, by contrast, saw color, liveliness, fun and good-natured sentimentality. When the elite believed consumption and religious ritual to be . . . adversarial, the folk joined them together."

"Our distinctive characteristics are going," said one rabbi from a pulpit in Chicago. "Intermarriage is rising, and temple attendance is in decline."

That was 1893. Since then Jews have bemoaned the same trends and continue to ask, "Can we survive freedom?" Joselit's response is provocative: "The wonder of it all — and of America — is that the answer remains the same."

Jenna Weissman Joselit will speak on the topic "The Unaffiliated Jew" 1 p.m. Friday, Oct. 13, at the Birmingham Temple in Farmington Hills as part of "Colloquium '95."

INVITING IDEAS

Your family will flip over these oatcakes

RUTH MOSSOK JOHNSTON

Oat cuisine doesn't classify as serious food prepared in grand manner or necessarily topped with an elaborate sauce, but it does classify as a great breakfast comfort food.

Some oatcake "affectionados" believe all proper oatcakes are composed of leavened batter made of oatmeal, flour, milk, water, salt, sugar and yeast. When oatcakes are flipped they almost look like Indian Chapatis — you can stuff them or top them, but they still taste like pancakes, no matter how you flip 'em.

Here are some oaty ideas:

- Grate a hard cheese over the back of an oatcake, then fold over, roll over, or fold into quarters for easy handling.
- Using large oatcakes as a pizza base — add your favorite tomato sauce and shredded cheese (bacon or sausage too).
- Make a clown face out of an oatcake — use chocolate chips or raisins for eyes and mouth, a cherry for the nose, and make a whip cream or yogurt collar. This is fun for children's parties.
- Spread softened chevre cheese over the back of an oatcake, top with a slice of smoked salmon and roll up. This is perfect for even the most elegant brunch.
- Dress up plain oatcakes: add a cheese sauce, fruity chutney, warmed fruit topping, flavored yogurt or shredded coconut. Another option is bacon, mushroom and melted cheese. Top oatcakes with ice cream or frozen yogurt, whipped cream and chocolate chips, peanut butter chips or butterscotch chips, honey or real maple syrup.

Henry Ford, who was progressive in all things, had his personal party chef Ian Willemse making Soybean Oatmeal Pancakes in the 1930s. Long before our local health food stores, Henry Ford saw the possibilities of utilizing soy beans in food as well as the manufacturing of commercial products.

Here are some recipes to try.

SOYBEAN OATMEAL PANCAKES OR WAFFLES

3 egg whites
1 teaspoon salt
⅓ cup honey (or sugar)
1¾ cups milk
½ cup soybean oil (or melted soy margarine)
¾ cup soybean flour
1 cup whole wheat flour
¾ cup instant rolled oats
1 tablespoon baking soda

Beat the egg whites, salt and honey (or sugar) until foamy. Add the milk and oil and stir a little. Then fold in the flours, rolled oats, and baking soda. Heat a greased skillet to about 350 degrees F. Pour 2-ounce pancakes. Cook until they bubble, turn and brown the other side. Serve with honey or syrup. Yield 3½ dozen, 2-ounce pancakes.

Recipe from "Cooking For Henry" by Ian Willemse and Eleanor Eaton, published by The Doning Company, 1993.

OAT PANCAKES

1½ cups rolled oats (not instant)
6 tablespoons butter or margarine
2½ cups flour
2 tablespoons sugar
2 teaspoons baking powder
1 teaspoon baking soda
½ - 1 teaspoon salt
4 large eggs
2 cups buttermilk

In a large saucepan, combine rolled oats with 2½ cups water. Bring to a simmer over medium heat and cook stirring, frequently, for approximately 4-5 minutes. Remove from the heat source and stir the butter or margarine into the hot oatmeal until they are melted.

Sift together the flour, sugar, baking powder, baking soda, and salt into a large mixing bowl. In another bowl, whisk together the eggs and buttermilk.

Slowly stir in the oatmeal into the egg/milk mixture. Add oatmeal mixture to the dry ingredients — and stir just enough to mix.

Spray a grill, griddle or large frying pan with no-stick cooking spray, (butter or margarine can also be used). Preheat the pan or grill to very hot. Ladle out an eight-inch circle — cook until bubbly, then flip and cook the other side until it is as brown as desired.

Serve with your favorite topping. Yield 8, 8-inch pancakes.

This recipe is based on an old recipe dating back to the 19th century where batter of this type was left overnight to swell — and then rest.

APPLE OATCAKES

Ingredients for the night before:
⅓ cup buckwheat flour (you can also use whole wheat)
1 cup all purpose flour
¼ cup rolled oats (not instant)
½ teaspoon salt
1 tablespoon sugar
1¼ cups buttermilk
Ingredients for the next morning:
2 eggs separated
1 tablespoon melted butter or margarine
½ cup grated fresh apple (peel can be left on or off)
1 teaspoon ground cinnamon
1 teaspoon baking soda

Place all of the dry ingredients (for the night before) into a large bowl and slowly drizzle the buttermilk in, stirring continually until the batter appears smooth.

Cover the bowl and place in the refrigerator overnight.

The next day, in a glass bowl, beat the egg yolks with the melted butter or margarine. Add the grated apple and cinnamon.

Stir the egg yolk/apple mixture into the flour batter — then add baking soda.

In another glass bowl whisk or beat the egg whites until stiff — when the peaks are produced, gently fold into the batter.

Grease or spray a griddle, frying pan or grill. Heat until medium hot and pour your oatcakes on to the desired size. When one side becomes bubbly, turn over and cook until they are the desired doneness. Serve hot with powdered sugar. Yield 12 large pancakes.

Realtors, friends pitch in to fix house

By Doug Funke
Staff Writer

Real estate agents and associates in the mortgage, title and insurance business love to sell houses.

That's how they make their living. For many, there's also a genuine affection for helping other people realize their dreams.

For the second year now, a group calling itself Realtors Who Care, affiliated with the Western Wayne Oakland County Association of Realtors, has renovated a house for a single mom with children who needed a helping hand.

"It felt wonderful," said Diane Winkelmann, a Realtor associate with Red Carpet Keim Midwest in Farmington and co-chairwoman of the improvement project.

"There was a sense of camaraderie, a sense we were accomplishing something."

Realtors Who Care solicited donations of supplies and cash to get the job done and, just as important, got down to the dirty business of doing much of the work themselves.

They installed a new furnace and water heater, rebuilt the front porch, put up new gutters and downspouts, replaced some doors, painted, landscaped and assembled play equipment.

"This is just tremendous dedication from everybody. Not just talkers, doers," said Al Marshall, marketing director at Great Lakes Title in Livonia and co-chairman of Realtors Who Care. "Every time you fix a house up, everybody benefits."

Lynn Bender, a Realtor with Coldwell Banker Preferred in Plymouth, was painting the back of the house.

"We just want to help out wherever we can," she said. "It's going just great. I'm not the handiest person in the world, but I'm learning."

Pat Murphy, an agent with Realty Professionals in Farmington Hills, and Dan Haverty, manager for real estate lending at Dearborn Federal Credit Union, worked together replacing the front door.

"Home ownership is the American dream, right?" Murphy said. "We want to keep it that way for as many people as we can."

"It's continued community development, helping out in a community we do business in," Haverty said. "It's a good way to meet each other, a lot more casual. Basically, it's a whole lot of fun."

"This is what we do – houses," said Pam Assemany, a Realtor with the Michigan Group in Livonia.

"It's so heartwarming to see what happens following this," said Betty Bjarnesen, also a Realtor with the Michigan Group.

"The lady whose house we did last year, her son didn't want his friends to come to the house. He was embarrassed. The night we finished, the boy wanted to bring his friends over. It almost brings tears to your eyes."

Tom Isbell, broker/owner of Red Carpet Keim Midwest, was shoveling dirt into a wheelbarrow to be distributed around the yard.

"I get a lot of pleasure out of helping people," he said. "I do a lot of this through the church and the real estate association. Unless you do it and know the feeling, you don't understand it."

"I think it's important to help people," said Carol Hainline, a Realtor with Century 21 Row in Livonia as she stickered numbers on a new mailbox. "Everyone at some point in time needs some help in their life."

Tammy Sunman, who lives in the three-bedroom ranch in northeast Livonia with four children, works full time and attends Schoolcraft College. She was referred to Realtors Who Care by Livonia Head Start.

"This coincides with everything else in my life – getting off ADC, going to work, going back to school," Sunman said. "I'm very excited. I think it's awesome."

"This isn't a handout," Winkelmann said. "This is a reward. She's been busting her butt."

"You're talking necessities, not luxuries," Marshall said.

Sunman perhaps best summarized the work effort as she applied paint to the side of her house, "We do good work."

REAL ESTATE QUERIES

ROBERT M. MEISNER

Q. Apparently Michigan Public Act 415 requires certain owners of real estate to file with the local assessor affidavits stating the value of real estate involving certain transactions. Does this apply to real estate transactions and should lawyers involved in other areas be concerned?

A. Public Act 415 was enacted to address the effect of the constitutional amendment limiting property assessment increases. Failure to file the affidavit required by the act results in a $5-per-day penalty.

Real property attorneys can therefore expect to file a transfer affidavit for clients any time property is conveyed by deed or land contract, subject to certain exceptions for conveyances into trust and between spouses.

Estate planning attorneys must review all conveyances into a trust, as well as all testate or intestate distributions to determine if Act 415 is triggered.

Business and corporate attorneys should analyze all transactions involving the sale of shares of stock in a corporation or the transfer of any interest in a partnership or other legal entity to determine if Act 415 applies. "Transfer of ownership" for the purposes of Act 415 encompasses certain stock transfers, long-term leases, and changes in designation of beneficiaries under a trust.

Q. Can you confirm a recent story I heard regarding some ghosts in a condominium and the response of the association in that regard? Did this really happen?

A. I am advised that in a Connecticut condominium, a pair of so-called "ghost hunters" asked a Catholic bishop to conduct an exorcism in a unit at the condominium project.

The residents of the condominium contacted the ghost hunters after experiencing paranormal activity in the unit, including the appearance of two ghosts and an "unseen force."

According to the Bristol Press, the owners promptly held a seance and determined that the unit was haunted by an evil human spirit and two demonic spirits.

The spirits were unleashed because of witchcraft rituals performed by previous tenants, according to the ghost hunter. There was no determination by the association, however, as to whether there had been any violation of the condominium documents, either by the alleged intrusion of the ghosts and/or by the exorcism.

Creative mortgages make dream home within reach

ON MORTGAGES

DAVID C. MULLY

The lowest interest rates in more than 20 years have many homeowners scrambling to refinance higher-rate mortgages. But as important as the low rates have been for reducing monthly payments, they're even more valuable for people looking to buy their first house.

By taking advantage of the current rates, consumers are discovering they can not just afford to buy a house for the first time, but they can buy more house than they ever dreamed possible.

When consumers apply for a house loan, the mortgage company looks at, among other things, income and down payment. According to lending guidelines, the monthly mortgage payment cannot exceed a certain percentage of monthly income. For example, if a couple had a combined yearly income of $34,285, this would work out to a monthly income of approximately $2,857. The maximum monthly mortgage payment, including interest and taxes, could not be more than $800.

When this interest rate was at 10% (which was not too long ago, by the way) the highest mortgage you could acquire would have been $91,116. If you take into account a 20% down payment, this means the most expensive house you could afford would list at $113,895. Not bad, but at today's rates, you can do a lot better.

	9%	8%	7%
Mthly Pmnt	$800	$800	$800
Mrtg Amount	$99,378	$108,991	$120,300
Price of House	$124,223	$136,239	$150,375

Let's take a look at three similar scenarios, with the same monthly income, and see the difference that low interest rates can make.

It's quite a dramatic difference. For the same monthly payment that bought you a $113,000 house at 10%, you can now afford a $150,000 house. Now, first-time homebuyers can start in a house of their dreams, instead of spending years building up equity in a house in which they're really not comfortable.

Of course, homeowners who already have substantial equity in their current residences and are looking to move up can now apply that equity toward a much more expensive house than they could have just a few years ago. To see how much house you can truly afford, talk to your local Realtor. Your real estate expert can give you the information you need to make an informed homebuying decision. But don't wait. These low interest rates may not be around for very long. If you're thinking about making a move, there's no better time than the present.

2 Prudential franchises merge to improve service

■ 'The company merger is a key element in our strategic plan of being a major force in the residential real estate marketplace.'

Daniel Stiehl

Two Prudential Real Estate franchises — Prudential Great Lakes Realty and Prudential Stiehl & Associates — have consolidated business activities and will conduct business as one company, Prudential Great Lakes Realty.

Daniel Stiehl will serve as chief executive officer. Jerome Baranski, previously broker/owner of Prudential Great Lakes Realty, will serve as chief operating officer.

"The company merger is a key element in our strategic plan of being a major force in the residential real estate marketplace," Stiehl said. "By combining our resources and office locations, the new company is positioned to offer expanded services to all of our clients."

"The merger will have great impact on the companies' clients and customers," Baranski said.

"We combined not only our internal resources of marketing, training and relocation, but we merged the business and people philosophies of two successful companies. These elements make a strong company stronger," he added.

The merged company is comprised of 215 sales agents and nine sales offices including Bloomfield Hills, Clarkston, Farmington Hills, Rochester Hills, Troy and West Bloomfield.

The Prudential Great Lakes Realty has been in existence since 1958, operating first as Chamberlain Realtors and in 1983 as Merrill Lynch Realty.

The company became part of the Prudential Real Estate Affiliates in 1989 with Prudential's acquisition of the Merrill Lynch Realty business.

The primary marketplace for Prudential Great Lakes is Oakland, western Wayne and northwest Macomb County.

Stiehl has been a residential real estate sales agent since 1979. He founded his agency in 1988 and became a Prudential affiliate in 1989.

The company is a leading broker in new home sales for residential developments in Genessee County and a prominent broker in north Oakland and Livingston counties.

As part of the Prudential family, the company has access to corporate support in the areas of national relocation services, national advertising, certified trainers, agent promotional materials, resort property and new homes marketing support materials.

Duct system improves air quality

Most Houses have conventional duct systems which contribute to indoor air quality problems. They don't heat or cool some parts of the house as well as others, and leak air at the joints. Frequently they are noisy, and offer no protection against potential microbia growth.

To overcome these problems, there' a rigid fiber glass duct system whose consistent high insulating value and minimal air leakage help to deliver warmed or cooled air at desired temperatures, with greater energy efficiency and improved comfort.

The system also absorbs noise, and is cleanable using standard duct-cleaning systems.

Its tough acrylic polymer airstream surface coating is even formulate with an EPA-registered anti-microbial agent for exceptional resistance to microbial growth.

Although this new SuperDuct system, manufactured by Schuller Interntional, offers the highest performance any duct system available, its installed cost is comparable to other systems.

For all the facts, obtain a copy of brochure AHS-210, from the Schuller Product Information Center, P.O. Box 5108, Denver, CO 80217, or call 1-800-654-3103.

Plum Creek offers one-of-a- kind luxury houses

Christopher Young, president of Homes of Distinction, offers all kinds of floor plans and artists renderings for visitors to Plum Creek, a site condominium community of 51 lots in Oakland Township.

But it's just an academic exercise, a starting point, to give prospects an idea what the Rochester builder can do.

"Houses in Plum Creek basically are one-of-a-kind built homes," Young said. "Really, houses we build in here we design from the ground up. We have a CAD designer and three architects on staff.

"Houses here will start at $350,000 and go up to $750,000 with a mid range of $400,000 to $500,000.

"We're a niche builder. Our typical buyer is someone who usually pays attention to detail more, expects more things in a house," Young said. "We're a smaller company. We do five to 10 houses a year."

The model at Plum Creek, off Adams just north of Orion Road, has five bedrooms, 4½ baths and four fireplaces. The 3,940-square-foot, story-and-a-half lists for $475,000.

The main floor features a dining room with octagonal ceiling and a step-down family room with fireplace for more formal occasions, plus a kitchen/eating nook/hearth room with fireplace for less formal gatherings.

The first floor master suite has two walk-in closets, separate whirlpool tub and shower, two sink vanities and tray ceiling. A den with fireplace connects to the master.

Young has built a full bath next to the first floor laundry off the three-car garage. A half bath also is on the main floor.

Four bedrooms, each with a walk-in closet and ceiling light, and two full baths are on the second floor.

TAMMIE GRAVES/STAFF ARTIST

Little nooks and crannies — window seats between the first and second floors and the main floor and walk-out, an opening over the fireplace in the hearth room for a TV and a planter shelf on the second level at the foyer — abound.

The model has two separate stair entrances, off the foyer and the hearth room, and a bridge at the second floor overlooking the main level.

Exterior materials include brick, limestone and wood siding.

"The house has a lot of recessed lighting," Young said. "That's a favorite of us. It gives more of a clean look.

"Several things we like to recommend. We like to put linen closets in every bath. In the laundry room, we recommend a place to fold things. If you're going to have a formal dining room without a view of the kitchen, we recommend a butler's pantry," Young added.

The model comes equipped with two furnaces, air conditioning, a 75-gallon water heater, and oven, microwave, cooktop and dishwasher.

"Almost everybody talks about quality as they go through," said Conrad Chojnacki, sales manager. "We tell them we don't furnish, we don't decorate. Here, they get to see the actual house. You can't hide anything here."

The typical buyer will have lived in several houses and probably built at least once, Young said.

"Plum Creek has some of the longest lots in the area, a lot of wooded walk-outs. We have a stream running through the area, a nature preserve in the area. There's a lot of wildlife. The topography drops off 70 feet from top to bottom," Young said.

Plum Creek is served by city sewers and a community water well. It's in the Lake Orion Community Schools.

The property tax rate is about $23 per $1,000 of state equalized valuation, half of market value. That means the owners of a $400,000 condo in the sub would pay about $4,600 the first year.

"We talked to some builders who said they could do what we wanted, but we got the feeling they always felt more comfortable working with their plans," Radford said.

"We sat down with Ruth Young (designer) and Chris and went on from there. It was really, 'Tell us what you want and we'll work it in.'"

The Joneses, longtime Rochester residents, wanted to remain nearby.

"My wife was driving in that area and saw the development," Radford said. "We liked the rolling hills, the woods, the way it was laid out."

The model at Plum Creek, (810) 693-6555, is open 1-6 p.m. daily, closed Tuesdays and Thursdays.

SHOWCASING INCOMPARABLE HOMES CREATED BY IVANHOE · HUNTLEY HOMES, BILTMORE BUILDING COMPANY AND MJC WEST

Take time to pick a builder committed to value

Now that you have decided you want to buy a new house, do you know how to find a builder who is committed to giving you the best value for your money? When selecting your builder, you'll want to choose him or her as carefully as you will choose the style of your house.

A good place to start your search is the real estate section of the newspaper. Look for the type of house you want and note who builds them. Make a list of the ones you like, then visit the developments. Take a look around, and pick up the promotional material they will have available. Talk to a sales person about the builder's history, the company's mission statement and what its customer service response system is. Remember that most of the information you will pick up will be oriented toward selling the house and will be written by the builder or someone the company employed.

Ask the builder for the addresses of the houses they recently built, and take a drive around the neighborhood. Saturday and Sunday are good days for your tour since you are more likely to catch people at house doing yard work and chores. Introduce yourself and tell them that you are considering purchasing a house from the builder who built their house and that you are collecting random opinions of the builder's quality and customer service. If no one is outside, don't be afraid to knock on their doors. Try to talk with at least three or four homeowners per neighborhood, and don't just rely on the views of one person. The more information you obtain, the better your decision will be.

After you have decided what sort of house you want, another good resource is your local house builders' association. You usually can get a list of builders who meet your criteria from the association. Check the Yellow Pages under HOMES or BUILDING to get the association's number.

Other reference sources include real estate agents and personal references. Please remember that real estate agents typically work for the seller of a property unless you retain them as buyer brokers. Be sure to talk to your friends and relatives and find out the builders they have had good experiences with.

In your search, be thorough, and don't be afraid to ask plenty of questions. Make sure the builders you are considering are fully licensed by the state. Before making your final decision, be sure you know the answers to these questions:

- Is the builder an established member of the community where you want to live?
- Does the builder offer a customer service program, and, if so, what does it cover?
- Can the builder give you references from satisfied customers?

Remember that when you are buying a new house, you are not just buying a structure, but a package of services, and the quality of those services will affect your enjoyment of your house. Do your research thoroughly, and you should have no trouble finding a builder who meets your high standards of quality.

Now is the time to plan for winter

For most homeowners, the chores around a house are never done. Fortunately, for many household maintenance and improvement projects, there also seems to be an appropriate season to undertake them.

As the weather gets crisper outside, attentions should focus on winterizing a house. While many homeowners automatically think of outdoor activities like replacing screens with storm windows and shutting off the water outside, it's even more important to think about winterizing a house on the inside as well.

If time gets short on you this season, consider hiring a professional insulation contractor. These contractors are experts at weatherizing houses and can undertake projects from adding an extra layer of insulation in an attic to insulating sidewalls and crawl spaces.

Insulation contractors can be located in the Yellow Pages, by calling friends and neighbors who may have had work done on their houses or by calling the local contractor's association in your town. An insulation contractor will then come out to your house, conduct an energy audit and suggest ways to winterize your house to make it more comfortable and efficient when the true cold hits.

If your contractor suggests an extra layer of fiber glass insulation to bring your house's attic up to today's energy standards, ask about the highest quality and safest products and systems on the market today. Contractors might mention Insul Safe III Blown-In Fiber Glass Insulation, a pure white material that feels and looks like cotton. It is highly thermally efficient, noncombustible and noncorrosive for the life of your house.

Another unique insulating method on the market today is the Blown-In Blanket System or B.I.B.S. A B.I.B.S. is ideal for insulating sidewalls in a house you are constructing or renovating. It involves applying a netting to the wall cavity, and mixing a small amount of adhesive into a blown-in insulation, which helps the material completely fill the cavity, even around pipes and wires.

Besides insulating, an insulation contractor can handle any number of winterizing projects including:

Caulking

One of the best means for sealing a house against drafts. Caulking can be applied to do the most thorough job around stationary parts of window and door frames, around wall and roof vents, skylightsand chimneys and where plumbing or electric wiring enters your house.

Weatherstripping

Drafty windows rob heat from houses. One of the most effective means for preventing this is sealing them with weatherstripping. This can involve channel stripping, which is most popular for double-hung windows, foam-filled or hollow vinyl tubing. Drafty doors can cause as much heat loss as several drafty windows. Insulation contractors can handle this project as well. The process normally involves sealing the sides and tops of the door and then sealing the bottom. Foam-edged wooden strips are the most popular forms of weatherstripping products available today.

Preparing Heating Systems for Winter

Inspect and service your system annually for safety and efficiency reasons. Some insulation contractors also specialize in this; otherwise, call a qualified heating technician. An inspection should include: checking for air leaks, cleaning and checking the filter system, combustion air blower and burner motor, examining the firing system, and adjusting the draft regulator.

For more information on hiring an insulation contractor or on installing blown-in insulation, write to the CertainTeed Home Institute, P.O. Box 860, Valley Forge, PA 19482 or call 1-800-782-8777.

Websites cater to women users

O&E ONLINE

EMORY DANIELS

A few months ago I wrote a column dealing with Internet sites of interest to women and invited women users to e-mail their favorite sites to be shared with others.

Actually only two persons did that, but I since have come across other sites that women surfers will want to check out.

Carol Dunitz, a writer from Ann Arbor, believes she might be the first to publish a romance novel on the Internet. Surfers and romance enthusiasts can find the first two chapters of "Already Spoken For" at http://lastword.com.

"Already Spoken For" is set in metropolitan Detroit. Readers have the opportunity to visit a number of landmark places there including historic Greenfield Village, the Detroit Zoo, and The Whitney, the residence built by turn-of-the-century lumber baron David Whitney. A scene in the first chapter occurs on Farmington Road in Livonia.

Dunitz has her doctorate in speech communication, theater and journalism. She writes, researches and produces speeches, scripts and promotional literature for business. She also is writing the music, script and lyrics for a musical stage play. "Already Spoken For" is available on computer disk for $5.59 plus postage, handling, and sales tax. Information on ordering the book is at Dunitz' Website as well as the first two chapters for on-line reading.

Another suggestion for women surfers came from Judith Weiss, who is an information specialist with Tradewave Galaxy. Weiss is involved with an organization called Assault Prevention Information Network (APIN) and has developed a website accessible through Galaxy.

To learn about APIN go to http://galaxy.tradewave.com, click on the "guest editors" link, scroll down to the ensuing list of guest editors until you come to Judith Weiss, and click on Assault Prevention Information Network. The APIN site has information about self-defense, domestic and workplace violence, martial arts, conflict resolution, and child safety.

I found interesting the information she provided on how to protect your child, real life self-defense stories, how to evaluate a self-defense course, and self-defense myths. Weiss' page has been chosen by the Feminist Majority for inclusion in its directory and a lot of feminist pages on the Internet link to Weiss' page.

The Feminist Majority Foundation has a World Wide Web site which is a pretty complete package at http:/www.feminist.org/textmenu.html. The site offers extensive background information on all aspects of feminist affairs and issues, including a weekly news summary focusing on U.S. events.

The site also has a Media Response Service which encourages women to send e-mail to Internet-connected media outlets. You will find here convenient links to a variety of media outlets, from the major television networks to newspapers and wire services to organizations which act as media critics.

When you arrive at the Feminist Majority site, you will find links to Feminist News, Feminist Internet Gateway, Feminist Publications, Feminist University Networks, and 911 For Women. Follow the links and you will find information about organizations for women, hotlines, shelters, career center, and more.

Another site I've learned about is Femina which can be visited at http:/www.femina.com. This site claims to be the first friendly and searchable database of links to information online relevant to women and girls. There are more than 500 links, and it's growing daily. This site sees itself as the "Yahoo" for women and girls, offering many links to specific sites of interest to women under such broad categories as art, business, computers, culture, education, entertainment, feminists, girls, health, etc.

Women's resources and more are offered at Cybergrrl Webstation at http:/cybergrrl.com. Here you will find more online resources for women, a collection of cool links, and a lighter approach. Some of the topic areas include SafetyNet, Biz-Line, Health-Wise, Info-Zone, and Family-Life.

You can direct questions to Emory Daniels by e-mail with emory@oeonline.com or fax number 591-7279. To sign up for O&E On-Line, dial (313)591-0903, at "log-in" prompt type "new" and at "Key:" prompt type GL6NY2. Past columns may be accessed online at http://oeonline.com/(tilde mark)emoryd/archive.html.

Seminar outlines reforms in unemployment laws

"Unemployment Insurance — What's New for 1996" will be the topic of a seminar scheduled Wednesday, Oct. 18 at the Michigan State University Management Education Center, 811 W. Square Lake Road, Troy.

This year's conference emphasizes several areas, including legislative reforms in the Michigan unemployment law. The recently passed legislation will bring changes to the unemployment insurance system in 1996-1997.

Von Logan, deputy director of financial and management services, MESC, will release his annual report at the conference.

During lunch, F. Robert Edwards, director of MESC, will explain his ideas of a reorganization of the MESC. This reorganization would flatten the structure of the agency.

At the workshop sessions, unemployment insurance experts will teach how to control costs by learning the basics of the unemployment insurance system, how to succeed at referee and MESC Board of Review hearings, and the basics of the employment law.

The seminar is sponsored by the Employers Unemployment Compensation Council, 23815 Northwestern Highway, Southfield. Phone registrations require payment on or before the conference date. Cancellations prior to Oct. 18 will be issued a full refund.

Cost is $50 for EUCC members; or $125 for non members. For additional information, call Michelle Conley, executive assistant, at (810) 354-7916.

Women fuel business growth - editor

BY JULIE BROWN
STAFF WRITER

Lynn Povich knows a thing or two about working women. Her position as editor in chief of Working Woman magazine guarantees that.

"There's certainly still a glass ceiling in place," Povich told about 400 people at a Women's Economic Club luncheon last Thursday at the Westin Hotel in Detroit's Renaissance Center. Some industries, however, are making way for bright, talented women.

Povich, who previously worked at Newsweek for 25 years, has been at Working Woman about 4½ years. The magazine, with 750,000 circulation, deals with a variety of concerns of professional women.

Next year, the magazine will mark its 20th anniversary. Povich, who is the sister of TV's Maury Povich, cited several changes in its coverage in recent years.

There's more coverage of management issues and of personal finance. "Women are vitally interested in money," Povich said. Women live longer, earn less and are often not aggressive enough about investments.

Coverage of small businesses has increased. Some women are leaving large corporations to begin their own businesses or to work for smaller businesses with greater opportunities.

"That's where the jobs have been created and women have fueled the small business growth," she told her audience.

The publication has profiled the highest-paid corporate women and other leaders. "Working Woman is the only magazine to cover women business owners in depth," Povich said, citing Marian Ilitch of Little Caesars as one of the top women business owners.

There's been improvement for women, with 81 percent of Fortune 500 businesses having at least one woman on the board of directors, she said. Globalization means that well-trained, well-educated women in the work force are a secret weapon. Competitors such as Japan have no equivalent, and even European women lag behind their American counterparts in professional success, she said.

Men have a head start in development of computers. "But software in the world of the Internet is a different thing." Women need to acquire those skills, Povich said, particularly women who are disadvantaged.

She discussed work/family issues and women's management style. Women often have the ability to build consensus and to create a more collegial workplace, in part because of their experiences as mothers, said Povich, a wife and mother of two.

"It's not easy as managers to deal with flexibility." Such flexibility, however, helps employers attract and retain employees.

"We like to work on teams in projects. We all know that smarts only go so far." There's still a long way to go in solving work/family problems.

"So we still need to solve those problems for those of us now and for our daughters and sons," Povich said.

She took questions from the audience on a variety of topics, from female-to-female mentoring and ways in which Working Woman is family-friendly as an employer. One person wanted to know why so many celebrities grace the magazine covers; the economic realities of newsstand sales make that so, Povich said.

Reaction to Povich's speech was positive. "I thought she was so succinct in her definition of the key elements," said Eileen Sinclair White of Warren, who grew up in Garden City. White is associate director of marketing and public relations for Youtheatre at the Music Hall Center.

"As somebody starting my own business, it was encouraging to hear the success stories," said Christine Ilas of Northville Township, who does writing and design work. Ilas, former executive director of the Plymouth Community Arts Council, was pleased to hear women's issues addressed as issues for all.

"I think that's one of the most important things she said."

Editor in chief: Lynn Povich has made a number of changes during her tenure at Working Woman magazine. She recently spoke to the Women's Economic Club on "What Women Want Now: Key Issues in the Next Decade."

Hudson's opens gift showroom

On Friday, Oct. 13, Hudson's Corporate Gifts & Incentives division will debut its first showroom on the lower level of Hudson's Oakland.

The department will be located in the store's service area and will display a number of items available through the Gifts & Incentives program. In the past, many of these items were only available for viewing through catalogs.

The program was designed to make gift giving easy, especially in the business environment. There is no minimum number of orders required for participation in this service, which allows recipients to choose gifts that reflect their individual lifestyle. Offerings include everything from sporting goods to computers, accessories to yard equipment.

A merchandise specialist will be available in the showroom to meet individually with clients to assist them in developing a program that will fulfill their gift-giving needs. Clients may receive suggestions for specific gift purchases, incentive program awards or information on opportunities for recipients to select their own gifts.

Hudson's Corporate Gifts & Incentives program offers companies and individuals a series of gift selector catalogs that they may present to individuals for gift selection. The catalogs describe the merchandise options available to the recipient within the price range selected by the client. Catalogs are established in nine price points — $25, $50, $75, $100, $200, $300, $500, $750 and $1,000.

The showroom will be open from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday, and by appointment. Appointments may be made by calling (810) 597-2260.

Corporate Gifts & Incentives offices may be reached by calling 1-800-655-5785 or by stopping by any Hudson's location. Hudson's was the first retailer to offer this type of mail-order program which delivers throughout the contiguous United States.

Master franchise

Stone care: Marblelife Inc. of Canton Township has sold a master franchise in Saudi Arabia. Abdulaziz Ismail (right) of Saudi Arabia was trained at the Marblelife Franchise Suport Center in Canton. Also pictured is Jeff DeVries of Marblelife Inc. Along with this purchase, Abdul Moshen Alsulaiman also has secured the rights to nine other counties: Kuwait, Turkey, Egypt, Iran, Syria, Jordan, Bahrain, Quatar and the United Arab Emirates. Marblelife is a stone care company with 30 franchises in the restoration and preservation of marble, granite, terrazzo and other dimensional stone to residential and commercial properties. Marblelife was originally formed by Union Carbide Marble Care Inc., a division of Union Carbide. In 1993, the company was purchased from Union Carbide and moved its headquarters from Danbury, Conn., to Canton Township.

Oakwood Hospital and Medical Center-Dearborn presents the fourth annual "Ingredients for Healing" conference — featuring author Paul Pearsall, Ph.D.

The conference will be from 8 a.m. to 4:15 p.m. Thursday, Oct. 26, in the Hyatt Regency, Dearborn. Registration begins at 7:30 a.m. Patients, caregivers, healthcare professionals, and anyone interested in healing issues are welcome to attend.

Topics will include:

- "Humor, Healing, and Hope," by Pearsall, author; professor of psychology at Henry Ford Community College, Dearborn; and adjunct professor of psychiatry, Wayne State University, Detroit.
- "Buddhist Insights for Healing," by Sahn Buhl Sunim, Zen Buddhist monk and spiritual director, Detroit Zen Center.
- "Pain Management: A Holistic and Humanistic Approach," by Ronald Larson, M.D., chief of the Oakwood Hospital and Medical Center medical staff, and chairman of the Department of Anesthesiology.
- Panel discussion: "We are All in This Together," featuring a cancer survivor and her daughter, an oncology physician, oncology social worker, and hospice nurse.
- "Animals as a Complementary Therapy in Healing," by Neva Sharlow, R.N., O.C.N., director of Happy Tails Registered Therapy Dogs.
- "Nutritional Oncology," by Faith Ottery, M.D., Ph.D., F.A.C.N., president, Society for Nutritional Oncology Adjuvant Therapy.

Cost for the conference is $45 and includes lunch and a continental breakfast. Limited grants are available. Continuing education credits for physicians and nurses have been requested for this conference.

Credit contest open to students

The theme of a contest, announced by Ford Credit, a financial subsidiary of Ford Motor Company, is "Credit Drives America."

It is open to 11th and 12th-grade students in public and parochial schools.

Students are invited to submit written essays or posters on the topic of "Why is good credit important?" The contest does not promote the use of credit, but does help students to understand why they should keep their credit in good standing.

Deadline for entries is Nov. 8.

"The program focuses on 11th and 12th-graders because they'll soon be applying for student loans, credit cards, perhaps financing their first automobile," Ford Credit's branch manager Mike Jurecki said.

A prize will be awarded to the essay and poster contest winners. The winners' sponsoring teacher will also be recognized.

For more information on the Ford Credit Essay and Poster Contest, call: Trista Williams at (313) 271-4400, ext. 381, or write to Ford Motor Credit Company, One Parklane Blvd., Suite 405E, Dearborn 48126.

Investing requires study

TOM HOGAN

Many people put their money into investments with little thought or knowledge of what type of financial instrument their money is going into.

The first step in investing money is to acquire information about financial instruments that are available. This can be done by going to the library and obtaining an appropriate book, or attending a class or a seminar that is offered by financial institutions or financial advisers.

You also need to have balance in your cash flow between expenses and the need to save money for the future. For many people, saving 10 percent annually for retirement and living on 90 percent of what they earn is about right for the purpose of having balance between what is needed to live on and saving enough for the future.

If an individual is close to retirement with little in savings and investments, then they will have less time to accumulate adequate savings for retirement. Therefore, savings will have to be accumulated at a much faster pace, because there is less time to acquire the needed nest egg.

On the other hand, if you start the process at a very young age, you will not have to save as much yearly, because your assets will have longer to compound and grow.

A 25-year-old saving $2,000 per year, growing at 8 percent annually, will accumulate $518,113 by age 65. By contrast, a 45-year-old would have to save $12,228 annually to accumulate approximately the same amount by age 65.

People tend to overlook the fact that they need to maintain proper cash reserves to weather the financial storms that inevitably come along when you least expect them. A good rule of thumb is to have at least 90 to 180 days cost-of-living set aside in your savings account to handle financial emergencies. In addition, it is a good idea to have cash set aside for near-term purchases that need to be made over and above your normal budget. This avoids unnecessary use of credit cards and payment of the high finance charges.

Having adequate cash reserves also means that valuable investments will not have to be liquidated at an inopportune time in order to meet your needs. With proper cash management, one can stay fully invested long-term to maximize returns on investments.

Diversification is one of the most important aspects when investing. Two recent events clearly illustrate the benefits of diversification. On Black Monday, Oct. 19, 1987, the Dow dropped in excess of 20 percent in one day. During the late summer of 1990, Iraq invaded Kuwait and it resulted in the fear of oil supplies being cut off. This contributed to stock markets worldwide taking a significant drop. If you were fully invested in stocks during both of these events, you would have felt the full force of the drop in the financial markets.

Through diversification into various securities, such as bonds and cash equivalents, you would have at least somewhat softened the blow, because not all of your money would have been in stocks.

You can also enhance your diversification by investing some of your money overseas. Since international financial markets can react differently than U.S. markets, a portion of your assets diversified overseas can enhance return while at the same time reducing volatility. These are just a few of the things that can be done to reduce the risk in your investment portfolio through diversification.

Invest prudently by acquiring knowledge, balance expenses and savings, maintain adequate cash reserves, and diversify your investment portfolio.

In a future article, we will discuss how asset allocation can help to diversify an investment portfolio to enhance return and reduce risk.

STEWART L. TUBBS

Two items caught my attention recently. First, Newt Gingrich complained bitterly that those who were trying to smear him were doing so strictly out of political motivation. Second, in the recent Sean Connery movie "Just Cause," one of the main characters complains that a person from his community who tries to better himself by going to college is pulled back down into the barrel with the rest.

On a more personal level, each of us has undoubtedly been on the receiving end of personal criticisms or even attacks in a job situation. In fact, a recent article in the Journal of Accountancy reported the results of a national survey showing that "office politics" was the single greatest source of stress — more stressful than too many assignments, lack of job security, time pressures, stalled careers, and even frequent interruptions.

The question arises as to why this phenomenon exists. In large part, it exists due to people's assumption of what is called a "zero sum" condition. In this situation, if you get a larger piece of pie, it leaves less for the rest. When all the pieces are gone, the sum of what's left is zero. This is referred to by Stephen Covey as "the scarcity mentality."

When this point of view exists, it fosters antagonism between and among employees. Therefore, the opportunity and the temptation for political back-stabbing is rampant. In fact, your best strategy is to keep all others from getting ahead by making them look bad every time you get the chance. In a case such as the example in the movie, the person who tries to better himself or herself by going to college is threatening to others who have not achieved. They try to keep him from getting ahead by attacking him. The effect is to reduce achievements in the entire community and to perpetuate its impoverished condition.

However, a very different point of view is called the "non zero sum" condition, or the "abundance mentality." In this situation, you find ways to create a bigger pie so that if one person takes a larger piece, there is still enough left for others.

In business, for example, there is often tension between labor and management. Management always wants workers to be more productive, which is defined as increasing the ratio of output over input. Workers, on the other hand, always want to be better compensated, and find it astonishing when they see the large salaries of top executives.

How can this be resolved?

Recently, U.S. companies have adopted several practices that offer some help. First, with team-oriented employee involvement programs, employees help participate in finding ways to reduce costs and increase profits. This results in increased productivity. In effect, these activities enlarge the pie.

A good example of this is American Airlines. Through its employee suggestions, it decided to eliminate the seldom eaten olives from salads served in the first-class section. This alone saved $40,000. Overall, American Airlines has saved over $180 million because of employees' ideas.

Second, companies have been offering profit-sharing bonuses, thus rewarding employees for their efforts to increase productivity. When the company does better, everybody wins!

It seems that every organization could potentially benefit from trying to encourage an "abundance mentality." Even families and communities could practice more of this.

Politics in business is often defined as the activities of a subgroup that achieve the objective of the subgroup at the expense of the larger organization. On the other hand, organizations that reward activities which contribute to the success of the entire organization, as with profit-sharing bonuses, are more likely to see a reduction in "politics" and an increase in achievement.

Imagine what the world might be like if each of us in our daily lives decided to practice more of an abundance mentality and less of a scarcity mentality.

Newsletter targets area small business

Small businesses now have another avenue to reach out to potential markets through Independent Concepts, a quarterly newsletter published in Canton for distribution throughout the metro area.

"Many small companies couldn't afford to put out an independent newsletter — there's no time or not enough information to fill on a regular basis," said Carol Heminger, publisher of Independent Concepts.

"This idea just came to me one day — a cooperative newsletter — you can buy as much or as little space as necessary."

Heminger's small production company (10 on staff) has produced employee newsletters and promotional pieces for several years out of offices on North Lilley Road.

Now the focus has shifted to Independent Concepts, circulated to 3,000 small businesses in the Detroit area. The first quarterly issue debuted this past summer.

"We've had a phenomenal response," Heminger said. "Our goal is to eventually have between 30 and 40 zoned editions of each issue. We are currently in seven areas. We distribute to businesses free of charge. The fall edition is in production now and we're two-thirds sold for winter."

The idea behind the newsletter is to create a communications link between local businesses. In the first issue, a certified nurse midwife on staff at the Plymouth Health Center writes a column about pregnancy and new mother in the workplace issues.

An architect from Canton writes about selecting the right architect for a project. Other articles center on employee automotive purchase programs, tax reform, and keeping employees injury-free. Clients pay for publication of their articles based on column size and placement in the newsletter — with top prices for the front page.

The newsletter premiered in Plymouth and Canton in the summer. An October issue will begin publication in Ann Arbor and Livonia. In the winter, Westland, Northville, Novi and Wixom will be added. Farmington and Farmington Hills will premiere next spring.

"Every business has information that would help other businesses do business better. This is especially true of service-oriented businesses where the information a business possesses can be of crucial importance to its clients," said Heminger.

Participating businesses can pick the target publication area and the type of advertising, from display ads to feature articles, that's best for them.

"Since we handle the production and distribution, and even the writing if they want, it can be a very appealing option for even the busiest business owner."

OU creates family business center

BY CATHERINE M. PACINI
SPECIAL WRITER

Approximately 90 percent of all businesses in the U.S. are family owned, generating an estimated 50 percent of the gross national product and 50 percent of the total payroll in this country, according to Robert Kleiman, associate professor of finance at Oakland University's School of Business Administration.

The new Center for Family Business sponsored by Oakland University and eight corporate partners is devoted to providing educational and financial services for the survival of the family business. Kleiman, the center's director, said less than 30 percent of family businesses ever make the transition to a second generation and less than half of those will be transferred to a third generation.

"The top three problems facing family businesses are succession, inter-family dynamics, and estate planning," said Kleiman. "Our program is primarily oriented toward the established, $2 (million)-$3 million, family controlled enterprise. We are not attempting to duplicate the efforts of other institutions like Wayne State University or Walsh College. They have small business development centers that focus on start-up entities."

The Center for Family Business provides a variety of educational and informational services to family business owners and their advisers, as well as create access to resources to serve the needs of the principals of family business. With a $500 membership, businesses will be offered information on issues such as: personal financial planning, strategic planning, employment practices, family business relationships, government regulation updates, and tax law changes. Meetings and seminars will include topics such as: succession, valuation, estate planning and financing. Private counseling and specific family plans will require an additional fee.

Mitch Newman, of G-M Underwriters Agency in Rochester, attended the opening reception. He said his concerns "deal with passing this business to the next generation, or, if something happened to me suddenly and the business went to my wife and children, the tax ramifications."

Bernie Cipa of TCT Stainless Steel Service Center in Sterling Heights said, "In a family business, you're working with people that you've grown up with and love, but in a business situation, that can sometimes be difficult. Having this kind of center that can offer educational programs, including sibling rivalry, would be very helpful."

Corporate sponsors of the new center are: Derderian, Kann, Seyferth & Salucci, P.C., accounting services, Troy; Comerica Inc., commercial banking, Birmingham; Great Lakes Strategies, L.L.C., employee benefits, Birmingham; Massachusetts Mutual Life Insurance Co., life insurance, Farmington Hills; Meadowbrook Insurance Group, property and casualty insurer, Southfield; Merrill Lynch, Pierce, Fenner and Smith Inc., money management, Dearborn; Pepper Hamilton & Scheetz, legal services, Detroit; and Seidman & Co., investment banking, Ann Arbor.

In the forefront: The major problems facing family businesses are succession, inter-family dynamics, and estate planning, says Robert Kleiman, Center for Family Business director.

"Sponsors will assist in developing appropriate content and programming. They have been carefully chosen based upon their expertise in the established family business market. We have taken people from a wide variety of disciplines among the sponsor list," said Kleiman.

The Center for Family Business is one of Oakland University's initiatives related to public-private partnerships. The university has been engaged in other outreach activities with private industries.

Food, fashions at Parisian benefit Children's Hospital

The Festival of Trees, a benefit for Children's Hospital of Michigan, and Parisian, have joined forces to produce "Passport to Fashion" at Laurel Park Place Sunday, Oct. 22.

More than 20 area food and beverage stations including Livonia's Dennison's and Macaroni Grill will participate, as will the The Water Club Seafood Grill and The Plymouth Marketplace both of Plymouth.

Tickets are $45. Parisian will refund the $45 to the ticket holder with a purchase of at least $175 of store merchandise.

Tickets also include two complimentary drink tickets, complimentary valet parking, and a tax deductible receipt.

Tickets will be on sale at the Parisian at Laurel Park Place every Saturday from 1-5 p.m. until the event. Tickets also may be bought at the door, or by calling Penny (313) 274-4401, Cindy (313) 565-8684, Colleen (313) 563-5172, Suzanne (313) 953-1174, or The Festival Office at (313) 996-TREE.

Workshop features critic of managed care

The Michigan Psychological Association will feature Karen Shore, Ph.D., on Saturday, Oct. 14 at a workshop "Saying No to Managed Care: The Movement to Expose, Regulate and Replace Managed Care and Managed Competition."

Shore has appeared on CNN and her views have been presented in The New York Times and The Wall Street Journal.

A critic of managed care, she is a co-founder and executive director of the National Coalition of Mental Health Professionals and Consumers.

The Michigan Psychological Association is an organization for all psychologists working to advance psychology as a science and profession and to promote human welfare by encouraging the highest level of standards in all branches of psychology.

The fall convention is scheduled for Friday and Saturday, Oct. 13 and 14, at Radisson on the Lake, Ypsilanti.

On Friday, Randolph Nesse, M.D., will be a featured speaker. His recent book "Why We Get Sick — The New Science of Darwinian Medicine" is receiving international acclaim and attention.

The focus for the convention will be clinical knowledge and clinical skills.

Also Friday, Kay Redfield Jamison, Ph.D., will be the keynote speaker. Jamison is co-author of "Manic Depressive Illness" and the author of "Touched with Fire: Manic Depressive Illness and Artistic Temperament."

Her talk is called "A Clinical Overview of Manic Depressive Illness/Mood Disorders and Artistic Creativity."

A full Saturday morning seminar will be presented by James Prochaska, Ph.D., called "Staging: A Therapeutic Revolution." Prochaska is a 1969 graduate of Wayne State University and is professor of psychology and director of the cancer prevention research consortium at the University of Rhode Island and a clinical psychologist in part-time practice.

He will focus on how people overcome chronic conditions. Special emphasis will be made on difficult patients who are resistant, ambivalent or at high risk for relapse.
