Swimming requirement sinks

Students won't have to learn how to swim to graduate from high school in Plymouth. The school board dropped the requirement starting with the class of 2000. Some coaches are critical of the move.

BY M.B. DILLON
STAFF WRITER

Beginning with the class of 2000, students at Plymouth-Canton Educational Park won't have to take swimming to graduate.

The Board of Education eliminated the requirement at its meeting Monday night after listening to teachers, students, and parents. The board voted 6-1 to drop swimming, with Trustee Susan Davis dissenting.

Left intact is the district's requirement for one credit of physical education, to be earned at any time during high school.

Swimming surfaced as an issue after parents and students complained in recent months that the test given to opt out of swimming is unfair, unnecessarily difficult and arbitrarily graded.

Trustee Michael Maloney said, "I think this is a reasonable way to handle it. It provides parents and students with choices. Parents and kids are the customers; the ones we are trying to serve. In light of that, I don't feel I have a choice."

Brian Wolcott, director of health, physical education and athletics, urged the board to let the situation with the swim opt-out test "work itself out. We need to be process-driven, not reactive," he told the board.

"An overwhelming amount of research shows swimming is a lifelong fitness activity; the best cardiovascular activity a person can engage in."

Patrick Barry is a teacher at PCEP who works on the school improvement team.

"I'm a bit puzzled as to why we are having this discussion. I guess it's due to a few parents in the district," he said.

Fire destroys downtown apartment

BY DOUG FUNKE
STAFF WRITER

Two police officers — Kevin Chumney and Ron Bianchi — who spotted smoke while on early morning patrol today safely roused and evacuated all residents from a century-old house before the structure was destroyed by fire.

The two-story, wood-frame house at 870 Penniman, just west of the post office, was subdivided into about a half dozen apartments.

■ 'I just thank God I'm out. Material things do not matter. I was very fortunate.'
Jeff March

None of the residents was injured, said Larry Groth, chief of the Plymouth Community Fire Department. None of the 26 firefighters who responded to the scene was hurt, either.

The fire didn't spread to surrounding buildings.

"The fire was very high," Groth said. "It almost appeared like it was in the attic in the northwest corner. When the first engine arrived, flames were coming through the roof."

The fire was reported at 4:51 a.m.

Firefighters continued to spray water on the structure through the mid-morning hours and had yet to determine a cause.

"The roof fell in and trapped some small fires," Groth said at about 8:30 a.m. on the scene. "It will take some time to put this out.

"We are very fortunate no one was injured because the fire was high in the attic and it was above the level of the smoke detectors," Groth said.

Several residents left homeless by the blaze seemed dazed by the experience.

"I was sleeping and a police officer came banging on my door," said Jeff March, who is hearing-impaired. "I got up, got my clothes on and saw little flames. It started in the attic.

"I just thank God I'm out," March added. "Material things do not matter. I was very fortunate."

"When I came out, smoke was coming out of the attic," said Jim Dillon. "I lost everything."

"A police officer came knocking on doors and said there was a fire," said Jody Hardy. "I thought somebody was mad and kidding. Firefighters told me if my things weren't damaged by fire, they were damaged by water."

The Salvation Army brought its emergency response vehicle to Penniman to providing food and warmth to firefighters.

The organization also will tend to the immediate needs of the fire victims.

"We'll provide food and clothing, everything they need this week," said Lt. Randall Van Landingham, commanding officer of the Salvation Army in Plymouth. "We're working with the Red Cross to get them temporary housing."

There was no sign of forced entry to the business. Police who are investigating the theft planned to question an employee of the firm's cleaning service, according to the police report.

Leaders learn to get involved

BY M.B. DILLON
STAFF WRITER

Organizers of a new program called "Leadership Plymouth" hope it will encourage more people to seek leadership roles in areas including human services, business, government, education, human relations, the criminal justice system, and the arts.

Retired 35th District Judge James Garber is chairing the leadership development initiative, with backing from the Plymouth Community Chamber of Commerce.

Garber said the impetus for Leadership Plymouth came at a lunch a year and a half ago. "Fran Toney (chamber director), John Thomas and Tom Carmody (both past presidents of the chamber) and I got together, and one of the things we were talking about is something that's concerned me for a number of years.

"You talk about Canton and what they are doing — they've had this leadership program. They have an economic club; a black-tie, citizen-of-the-year affair; a business-person-of-the-year event; and a hall of fame. These are the kinds of things we used to do in Plymouth. They came to a screeching halt. We're not doing them any more."

Many of the individuals who organized activities in Plymouth have grown old, left town, or passed on, said Garber.

"They took with them a lot of the verve you once saw. There's been kind of a vacuum, and it's in my generation and that is the problem," said Garber."I'm not putting Canton down; I am patting them on the back and say, 'More power to you. You're doing the right thing, and we aren't in Plymouth.'

"We are looking for people interested in coming in and preserving some things, and leading the community on into the 21st century."

Others share Garber's enthusiasm. Others on the Leadership Development Steering Committee include Toney; 35th District Court administrator Marion Belding; Margaret Slezak of First of America Bank; Plymouth Township Supervisor Kathleen Keen-McCarthy; Plymouth City Manager Steve Walters; Cliff Dawson of Ford Motor Co.; businessmen Denny Campbell and Tom Webber; and certified public accountant Ed Schulz.

Twenty individuals paying $850 each will kick off Leadership Plymouth at an overnight retreat in September at the St. Clair Inn. The nine-month program will include seven full-day sessions (one per month), and a graduation banquet.

The program is recommended for individuals who wish to make a difference in the quality of life in Plymouth; employees who've been identified as having leadership potential; local business owners; and residents interested in developing their leadership skills, learning more about local needs and opportunities, and then helping address those issues.

Participants will take an in-depth look at all facets of Plymouth and Plymouth Township. They'll work on consensus building; negotiating skills; conflict resolution; dealing with difficult people; problem solving; time management; self development; leadership styles; mentoring; and volunteer organizations.

Contributions toward tuition are gladly accepted and may be made by calling the chamber at (313) 453-1540.

Similar leadership programs have met with success nationwide, said Toney and Linda Shapona, executive director of the Canton Chamber of Commerce, which launched a leadership program last year.

The National Association of Community Leadership estimates there are between 650-750 community leadership programs currently operating in the U.S., said Shapona.

Leadership Canton resulted in "graduates" running for school board; serving on chamber committees; working with the township Planning Commission; "and taking major leadership roles in the community, because they know the community, and know the challenges and opportunities we face," said Shapona.

"We have found it to be such an energizer of leaders in our community. I can't say enough about this."

The Canton program is affiliated with Cleary College, and participants receive college credit.

Leadership Plymouth is considering a similar affiliation with local colleges.

"What's exciting about the leadership program," said Toney, "is that it helps people not only learn about their community, but find some potential they weren't even aware of, or a new avenue of interest maybe they weren't aware of.

"One of the main reasons Judge Garber is the chairman is that it really started with him. I've wanted to do this for years. When you are leading such a large volunteer organization and someone has an idea who's willing to run with it, especially someone with his leadership abilities, it's just fantastic."

Study done by local doctor will make Olympics safer

BY KEVIN BROWN
STAFF WRITER

Thanks to a study headed by a Plymouth orthopedic surgeon, breakaway sport bases will be used this summer in the Olympic Games in Atlanta, Ga.

"I was very happy and very pleased," said Dr. David Janda, upon hearing from Olympic organizers that the safer bases were being chosen. He is director of the Institute for Preventative Sports Medicine in Ann Arbor.

"They had seen our studies. It gives it worldwide exposure," Janda said.

Breakaway bases are among several sport equipment items studied in recent years by the institute. Janda said the goal is not to interfere with the way sports are played, but to make them safer.

Studies showed that use of breakaway bases reduced sliding-into-base injuries by 96-98 percent for recreational players in Ann Arbor from 1988-91. A study of the bases used at the collegiate level showed an 80 percent drop in injuries, Janda said.

Stationary bases are bolted to a concrete-mounted post. The breakaway base, developed by Roger Hall of Pennsylvania, "looks just like a stationary base," Janda said. The base has suction cups underneath which attach to a stationary rubber mat flush with ground level. There are different models, from youth to adult, which require varying degrees of force to pop them off the base, Janda said.

Should the base be knocked off by a runner rounding second base, the square underneath can serve as the base for another runner rounding the bases.

"It's still in the ground, it just has a low profile," Janda said.

To those who say the base popping off means delays, Janda responds, "If you want to hold up the game, wait for an ambulance to come take the person off the field."

Janda said a government study has concluded use of the breakaway base could prevent 1.7 million injuries a year and save more than $2 billion in health care costs. Still, most leagues won't try the bases.

"If you can convince one mom or dad on the PTA board, that's the greatest ally you can have, they will demand to get it done," Janda said. "We've tried a number of different routes, we've tried to get to the powers that be and the insurance industry. They feel they'll do it when it's demanded that they'll do it."

"We have monitored over 5,000 games, the bottom line is a rationale for not using it is non-existent," Janda said. "It's easily implemented, it reduces injuries and costs significantly and it does not hurt enjoyment of the game."

Janda is scheduled to speak on sports injury prevention to an International Olympic Committee group this summer. He will also address the Mid-American Sports Medicine Symposium at the Ritz-Carlton Hotel in Dearborn March 28-30.

The Institute for Preventative Sports Medicine has also scheduled a program at the symposium to raise money for research. Tickets are $10 and offered at a raffle will be sports equipment autographed by members of Detroit's professional sports teams, and other professional athletes.

Also offered at the raffle will be vacation trips and sports memorabilia.

Madonna is first in nation to offer master's in hospice

A national leader in hospice education, Madonna University is the first institution in the United States to offer a master's degree and graduate level certificate in hospice.

Approved by the Board of Trustees in January, the master of science in hospice core courses will be offered starting fall 1996. Cognate courses in either business, education or nursing can be taken immediately.

"Because of the increase in the number of hospice facilities and the cost of health care, there is now more demand for advanced preparation of managers and leaders, as well as with educators and researchers, in all aspects of hospice," said Sister Cecilia Eagen, director of Madonna University's hospice education program.

"It is in such high demand," Eagen said, "that we already have students wanting to take the classes."

The degree requires 30 semester hours of coursework: 15 from the hospice core; six from the research core; and nine from a cognate discipline, which are currently either business, education or nursing. In the future, a cognate in pastoral ministry will be added. The graduate certificate demands completion of the 15-semester-hour hospice core.

The curriculum was based on results from a survey sent to CEOs and employees of hospice organizations as well as hospice students and graduates. Areas of study will include: history and philosophy of hospice, bereavement, legal and ethical issues, holistic palliative care, and research.

"This new program will prepare professional leaders in the hospice field and advance the mission of Madonna University, which promotes the dignity of the individual and a respect for human life," said Dr. Ernest Nolan, associate academic vice president and dean of graduate studies.

CWW votes to join 9-1-1 lawsuit

BY BETH SUNDRLA JACHMAN
STAFF WRITER

The Conference of Western Wayne has entered a lawsuit brought by the Wayne County Taxpayers' Association over a charge for emergency 9-1-1 on phone bills.

A motion to enter the case on the defendant's side was filed Monday on behalf of the CWW, a group of 18 western Wayne County communities, according to Daniel P. Gilmartin, CWW executive director. CWW members voted Friday to enter the lawsuit and approved spending $10,000 in legal fees.

The Wayne County Taxpayers Association filed suit in Wayne County Circuit Court in 1995 against Michigan Bell, which operates as Ameritech, and Wayne County saying that the collection of 9-1-1 fees on the monthly phone bill violates the state constitution because it is a new or expanded tax without voters' permission. The original suit did not name the Conference of Western Wayne, but the conference is a coordinator of the fees raised.

Ameritech collects the fee on phone bills, but was directed to do so after the Wayne County Commission voted to impose the charge in late 1994. Judge Andrea J. Ferrara dismissed Ameritech, at the company's request, from being a party to the suit on Jan. 19.

Wayne County's Corporation Counsel met with representatives of the CWW, Conference of Eastern Wayne and the Downriver Community Conference in December, according to Gilmartin. "Our fear in the case is that our interests are not protected," Gilmartin said. A motion was filed on behalf of the DCC on Friday, he said.

The conferences fear that the case will not be a priority for the county, according to Gilmartin. Until the motions were filed, the Wayne County Corporation Counsel was the sole legal counsel on behalf of the defense. CWW's legal counsel is Charles Fiedler of the law firm Sills, Law, Essad, Fiedler & Charboneau. The DCC's counsel is Howard & Howard law firm.

Phone calls to the association and Ameritech weren't returned by deadline.

The CWW and the other conferences coordinate the distribution of the money collected. The money is spent on 9-1-1 systems, which answer emergency police, fire and medical calls in Wayne County. Local police departments administer the money, Gilmartin said.

The money can be used on the purchase of new equipment and the operation of 9-1-1 systems, Gilmartin said. "A lot of communities need to upgrade their systems," he said.

The basic fee is 48 cents, but can be a lot higher in some out-county areas, Gilmartin said. It is listed under local and state additional charges as the 9-1-1 emergency system billed for western Wayne on Ameritech phone bills.

The fee is being collected in a number of counties, not just Wayne, Gilmartin said.

It brings in about $170,000 a month in western Wayne County, Gilmartin said. Pay phones, 800 lines and cellular phones are exempt, he said.

In December, Ferrara denied a motion by the taxpayers' association to stop the collection of the fee until the case is heard.

The County Crier, a Wayne County Taxpayers' Association newsletter, calls the 9-1-1 charge "a tax, pure and simple."

Woman reports her auto missing

A 58-year-old Plymouth woman told police her son disappeared with her 1995 Chevrolet Feb. 10. The 30-year-old had permission to take the Lumina, but hasn't returned it. The woman said she believed her son went to a Detroit house.

Domestic problem

Plymouth police said a 35-year-old Deer Street resident reported that her estranged husband came over "to make up and try to get together again." But name-calling ensued, and the man left taking with him $20 in cash and a cooked steak off the stove. The woman said her husband also spit at her.

Teddy bears will help ease pain of kids

The Canton Target store is helping to make emergency situations a little more bearable for young children by donating cuddly teddy bears to the Canton Police and Plymouth Fire departments to help comfort children in emergencies.

Helping hugs, created by Target, supplies paramedics with animals to help ease children's fear and anxiety during emergencies. This is the fifth year for the Target-sponsored event. It is also sponsored, in part, by the National Association of Emergency Medical Technicians (NAEMT) and Hershey.

Representatives from the local EMT units will arrive 10 a.m. Tuesday, Feb. 20, at the Canton Target to receive their Helping Hugs bears. Target stores throughout the country will donate 94,000 teddy bears to local NAEMT affiliates in communities across the country.

"Helping Hugs is a community program that we look forward to every year," said Randy Craig, good neighbor captain at the Canton Target. "We are pleased to provide these huggable bears to paramedics, comforting frightened children and making the paramedics job easier. Target is always looking for ways to make a difference for families who lived in our communities."

Stuffed animals have become recurring passengers on many EMS vehicles because research has show they have a comforting effect on children in emergency situations.

Target founded Helping Hugs in 1991, in partnership with NAEMT, creating the first cooperative effort within the NAEMT to organize the distribution of stuffed animals on a national basis.

Again this year, Hershey made a donation for every Hershey's milk chocolate Kiss sold at Target between Feb. 4 and 14, in conjunction with the "Give Your Heart Away" Valentine's Day promotion. Their generosity made the purchase of 135 teddy bears, per store, possible.

Barry told the board that in response to a charge from Superintendent Charles Little 16 months ago to "provide a rigorous education for our students," staff at the high school studied the curriculum.

"We strongly recommended that Swim Fit be a part of it. As you make this decision, teachers have the perception that what they do doesn't matter anyhow, because no matter what they decide, they will have their legs cut out from under them. I think we will run into a huge problem with site-based decision-making working the way you would like to see it."

Curt Perry and Sharon Strean who work on the PCEP Curriculum Coordinating Committee said the CCC "feels it's premature to ax the Swim Fit requirement."

Area Coordinator Joan Claeys said placing the 1,500 students and teachers involved with swimming each semester will be a huge problem if swimming is no longer required.

Parent Jeff Phillips told the board "It's arrogant on the part of the schools to think they are going to override what they've learned at home for 18 years." He favors eliminating the physical education requirement entirely. "Don't perpetuate the foolishness of the past," he said.

Parent Paul Schrauben also advocated dropping swimming.

Kellie Drinkhahn, an eighth-grader at Pioneer Middle School, told the board that having to take swimming means having to give up choir, Spanish or other attractive choices.

"What will change my life is how my parents brought me up; not one semester of swimming. You need to listen to kids and parents, because they are the ones who are going through this, not you."

Parent Pam Mincher, who teaches in another district, said, "Kids who know how to swim should have the option to take another class."

Parent Carol Bollman urged the board to resolve the problem. "I've told you the opt-out test is unfair. For over 10 years, parents have been ignored. We've talked too much about this."

Trustee Davis opposed dropping swimming. "Swimming is a life skill. We all need to know how to swim. I think it's a valuable piece of their education in becoming well-rounded."

Trustee Mark Horvath said, "I don't think we should continue to impose our view of the best way to achieve cardiovascular fitness on our students."

Trustee Barbara Graham commended Kellie, saying, "We talk about drugs and the things our kids get involved with. For a student to come to us and say she'd rather take Spanish than swim . . . I think we have to listen to what Kellie says, because Kellie is the reason we are here — Kellie and all the other Kellies."

High court hands Engler win on MEA funding case

BY TIM RICHARD
STAFF WRITER

A shift by Chief Justice James Brickley gave a Supreme Court victory to Gov. John Engler and the Legislature over the Michigan Education Association on the issue of funding retired teachers' health care.

But the high court left even lawyers puzzled. There was no majority (four signatures) on any of the three decisions it issued Tuesday.

"We won," said state Rep. Lyn Bankes, R-Redford, a member of the House Appropriations Committee that handles school aid.

"It gets us completely off the hook," agreed John Truscott, the governor's spokesman.

"We've lost it. Absolutely. Big time," said Dawn Cooper, spokesperson for the MEA, the state's biggest school employees union. "Retired and about-to-retire teachers haven't lost anything right now. They've just lost their constitutional protection."

The decision means school retirees will continue to get their pacemakers and bifocals, but the state isn't required by the constitution to prepay the benefits before they retire.

"We don't have to pay retroactively or prospectively," said Truscott. "It will be a pay-as-you-go system. It (funding of benefits) is in the funding base, in the foundation grants (from the state)."

Local school boards must pay the benefits out of annual state aid checks.

In practice, the high court prints the "controlling" opinion first, followed by concurring opinions and dissents. In this case (Musselman v. Governor), however, the court reported Brickley's solo opinion first; it was followed by Justice Dorothy Comstock Riley's opinion supporting Engler, and then by Justice Patricia Boyle's opinion saying he acted unconstitutionally.

In April of 1995, the Supreme Court ruled 4-2 that 1) Engler's and the Legislature's actions were unconstitutional when they raided the fund in 1991 to balance a recession-year budget, but 2) the court couldn't do anything about it — a court can't force the governor and Legislature to spend money. In that decision, Brickley signed Boyle's opinion, and Justice Elizabeth Weaver abstained because she hadn't heard oral arguments.

After the parties complained about the confusion, the justices re-heard arguments in October and decided the case this week. Results:

- Brickley agreed with Boyle's opinion that the court can't mandate spending, but he avoided the question of constitutionality.
- Riley, joined by Charles Levin and Elizabeth Weaver, said Engler and Legislature "did not violate the constitution and should prevail" but found it "unnecessary to address the mandamus issue."
- Boyle, joined by Justices Michael Cavanagh and Conrad Mallett Jr., stuck by their guns — the constitution requires prefunding of retirees' health benefits. That would have cost the state $418 million — 5 percent of the current general fund budget. But the Boyle group agreed the court couldn't order the other two branches to prepay benefits — a 7-0 defeat for MEA.

"But we still had three votes on the constitutional question," said MEA's Cooper.

Now the question becomes political rather than constitutional. Sen. James Berryman, D-Adrian, who is running for governor in 1998, blistered Republicans in the Senate record last May for their "pay-as-you-go" approach. "We on this side of the aisle had amendments, year after year after year, to continue the prefunding. But those amendments were turned down . . . We (should) continue a very good policy of prefunding for public employees' retirement system."

Republican Bankes flatly disagreed. "Your retirement benefits and mine are not prefunded, as long as it's actuarially sound," she said. "The Supreme Court said retirement (pension) benefits are protected by the constitution, but not health care. The state can be flexible with health care."

Last April Boyle's opinion required the state to put $138 million into escrow to prepay benefits. Lawmakers took the money out of the June 1996 school aid payments.

After Brickley's shift, the court's decision this week has the effect of lifting the April order and allowing June state aid to be paid to school districts without requiring Engler and lawmakers to scramble for the money.

Senate OKs bill to double fines

■ STATE NEWS

Capitol capsules:

Drivers would pay double fines for speeding and moving violations in road construction zones and around schools under a bill passed by the state Senate and sent to the House.

Sen. Mike Bouchard, R-Birmingham, tacked on the amendment extending the penalties to areas around schools. "It would double the fines for violations 30 minutes before school starts and 30 minutes after it lets out," said the former police officer as the Senate gave his amendment and the main bill 36-0 approval.

In 1994 State Police issued 1,427 moving violation tickets in construction zones. County and local police issued uncounted other tickets. The state recorded nearly 6,000 crashes in construction zones in 1994.

The Senate Fiscal Agency had no estimate on how much revenue might be collected if the bill becomes law. Movable warning signs cost $80 apiece.

Refer to Senate Bill 755 when writing to your state representative, State Capitol, Lansing 48909.

Sunday values

The Senate is moving to repeal an 1893 law forbidding barbers to cut hair, shave or shampoo their customers on Sunday. Barbers who conscientiously object to working on the sabbath, however, could continue to have a day of rest.

The century-old law provides for a fine of at least $10 but not more than $25 and up to 30 days in jail.

Refer to Senate Bill 797 when writing to your state legislator.

Bigger funerals

Funeral benefits for work-related deaths are raised under a bill on its way to Gov. John Engler's desk.

Rep. Frank Fitzgerald, R-Grand Ledge, sponsored the bill amending the Worker's Compensation Act. It raises the limit on the cost of burial from $1,500 to $6,000 or the actual cost, whichever is less.

The Senate completed work Feb. 7 without debate by a 36-0 vote.

Deputies will thank courteous drivers

Drivers pulled over by the Wayne County Sheriff's Department this month could roll down their windows to a surprise: a $10 gift certificate to Meijer or a pair of tickets to AMC movie theaters, instead of a traffic ticket.

As a part of the countywide "Randon Acts of Kindness" week, Feb. 16-23, sheriff's deputies will be patrolling roads looking for safe and courteous drivers.

The program kicks off at 4 p.m. Friday, Feb. 16.

"This is a great way for the department to give back to the community and say thank you for supporting our police efforts," said Sheriff Robert Ficano.

Mayflower updating next step

Downtown Plymouth can complete its transformation, if the owners of the Mayflower Hotel obtain the financing needed for a $3 million renovation project that would bring the ailing landmark up to date.

However, if that doesn't happen, all isn't lost. The Mayflower has been seen as Plymouth's anchor, its draw. However, businesses have been doing quite well in Plymouth, even though the hotel doesn't have the allure that it once did.

The hotel has been the pride of Plymouth since the late 1920s, but has fallen on hard times since the death of Ralph Lorenz who owned and operated it for nearly six decades.

Times and tastes changed, but the hotel remained the same. Even The Round Table Club, once a private club which operated in connection with the hotel, has closed.

Updating is needed to cater to more casual dining tastes. If that happens, the corner of Ann Arbor Trail and Main Street will have have a significant new look. That corner has on it, Kellogg Park, the Box Bar, and Wild Wings gallery.

For many, it's the entrance to downtown. The move and renovation by Wild Wings made the corner more inviting, and plans are for a renovation of the Box Bar into a micro-brewery.

Now, it's time for the the Mayflower to join the club. For too long, to the casual observer, the hotel has looked closed, with a string of non-hotel or restaurant-related businesses using the corner of the building.

It's not the sight that will make a visitor to Plymouth stop and park his or her car.

That will change if the Mayflower owners get financing to create a 175-capacity restaurant along Ann Arbor Trail and Main Street with windows overlooking Kellogg Park. Plans also call for outdoor seating along Ann Arbor Trail. Other renovation plans call for a bakery and cafe west of the current Ann Arbor Trail entrance.

If those improvements are made, Plymouth will have a business corner that will be more inviting.

Access curbed to public land

Russell Harding, Gov. Engler's embattled director of Environmental Quality, has much to learn about what's happening to Michigan's land. Attempting to defend the administration's effort to raid the Natural Resources Trust Fund for pollution cleanups, Harding offered this naive view:

"Government-owned land in Michigan totals 7.6 million acres. That's 21 percent of the total land, more than any other state east of the Mississippi. Adding environmental cleanup to the list of trust fund uses is entirely appropriate. Proper stewardship doesn't mean just buying more land; we also must reclaim what we already have."

Actually, open space for recreation is disappearing fast in Michigan, despite Harding's numbers.

In times past, "Live and let live" was the ethic. A hiker or hunter could move freely in much of the state without worrying whether the land was public or private. That has changed.

Since the end of the recession in 1983, building has exploded on former vacant land. The sale of "Posted — No Trespassing — Violators will be prosecuted" signs is a growth industry in the countryside.

In part it's because many retirees are setting Up North, lured to stay in Michigan and shore up local economies by Engler's cuts in inheritance, intangibles and school property taxes.

In part it's what the French called nouveau riche, city folks with newly acquired wealth seeking a piece of the landscape, posting it and fencing it in. They have a perfect right to do so, of course, even if they turn couch potatoes and stare out picture windows.

But other property owners succumb to the "I've got mine — you keep out" syndrome. They illegally expropriate road endings reaching public waters to keep out others. If Engler had any environmental concern, he would support Senate Bills 715-717, a bipartisan effort to require that unused road stubs be offered to the Department of Natural Resources instead of letting property owners seal them off.

The Engler administration has made its chief goal the reducing of impediments to business through tax cuts and deregulation. So be it. But it doesn't follow that the conservationists should be robbed of land acquisition funds that came from irreplaceable oil and gas in order to clean up the messes business left behind. It is entirely inappropriate.

Harding's view of public land ownership is sadly out of date and harmful to the public interest. State land acquisition and improvement should be continued, not blocked by public officials and the nouveau riche.

This clearly is no time for the governor to raid the land trust in the name of cleaning up pollution.

Disappointed

I read with dismay your recent article about the study being conducted by the Michigan Department of Transportation to construct an interchange at I-275 and Cherry Hill Road.

We have lived in our home just south of Cherry Hill for over 20 years and have watched the tremendous growth in Canton. One of the reasons we moved to this location was because there was no access to I-275!

The buildings along Ford Road, Ann Arbor Road and Michigan Avenue, where interchanges are presently located, are commercial into residential. This is not the case with Cherry Hill. Until recently, the area surrounding Cherry Hill has been primarily residential with a few small businesses which has kept traffic from larger, heavier vehicles to a minimum. There is no way the present road configuration could accommodate the increased volume which would result from the addition of a I-275 interchange. It is already very difficult to turn left onto westbound Cherry Hill after 4 p.m.; travel on the two-lane road would become even more difficult and dangerous for the many people who reside in the vicinity.

The rapid, unrestrained growth throughout all of Canton has caused overcrowding on many roadways during evening rush hour, not just the exit ramps of I-275 at Ford Road. I agree that something needs to be done about our overburdened roads but I feel that an interchange on Cherry Hill is definitely not the answer!

I encourage anyone who is opposed to this road improvement project to please write to the Michigan Department of Transportation and make your opinion known.

A thanks

On behalf of Community Hospice Services, but most of all our patients and their families, we would like to express our sincere gratitude to the Plymouth-Canton Jaycees and Cameron Miller & Associates for the generous donation they presented to us at their meeting on Jan. 25.

CHS is proud to be an active member of the Plymouth community as we continue our mission of providing comprehensive and compassionate care for the incurably ill since 1981. As a non-profit organization, we look to community donations to offset many of our non-reimbursable costs — such as our extensive bereavement support groups which we offer at no charge.

Your support for the hospice concept of care is very much appreciated by CHS, your "Hometown Hospice."

Enjoyed article

I really enjoyed reading Mr. Power's article, "Hands Off Message Clear on Natural Resources," on Thursday, Feb. 8. I really enjoyed your watchdog efforts in Lansing.

Since most citizens do not follow the Legislature, and can't make the meetings, I really appreciate the perception that you make when you see irregularities in government. Especially when it is related to the environment. I would like to think that Gov. Engler is pro-environment. I think that he could do a lot more to make the Republican Party look like a party that cares for the environment much more than he often times make it. Thank you.

Dave Thomas, Canton

Bad taste

I hope your photo of the government class, Feb. 5, was an example of poor audience attire, behavior and attitude, because it certainly appeared that way to me.

Hats on — inside a building, during class time and seated in front of a senator? When did hats inside become proper attire? Do hats show respect these days? Many students are slouching and look disinterested. The only appropriate behavior was the girl in the pink sweater who is sitting upright and is looking toward the senator.

Is this the best training from home that Plymouth has to offer? I would not be proud if one were a child of mine. I am not proud that they represent Plymouth.

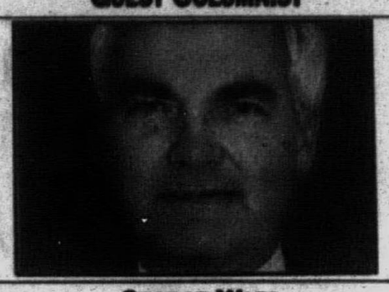
POINTS OF VIEW

Russell Kirk's contributions worth remembering

GUEST COLUMNIST



GEORGE WARD

Since Russell Kirk's death in 1994, I've had the nagging thought that this native son of Plymouth, whose prolific writings provide the intellectual foundation for Conservatism in modern America, deserves an appropriate memorial in his hometown.

In pursuit of this idea, I called his former residence in Mecosta, Mich., and spoke to Annette Kirk, his widow, who agreed to send a copy of his autobiography, "The Sword of Imagination," published last year by Eerdmans of Grand Rapids, if after reading it, I would present it to the Plymouth Library.

It came inscribed by Mrs. Kirk to the Plymouth Public Library: "Russell had many fond memories of growing up in Plymouth and of reading many good books during his years there."

Public benefits

Not only am I now happy to turn it over to the library, but perhaps a brief review of the adventures, triumphs, friendships, causes and controversies which comprised Russell Kirk's life will entice other residents to borrow the book.

Kirk — syndicated columnist, regular contributor to National Review magazine, and recipient from Ronald Reagan of the Presidential Citizen's medal — was an opponent of trends to reduce academic rigor in American education.

In 1951, he resigned a teaching position at his alma mater in protest of the post-war building boom which he feared would turn Michigan State College into a "behemoth." Despite more than a dozen honorary doctorates and many distinguished visiting professorships, he would never again accept a full professorship anywhere.

Kirk's interest in the occult — stimulated no doubt by his move to his ancestral home in Mecosta, reputed to be haunted and called "Piety Hill," and by numerous visits to the country houses and old cathedrals of the British Isles and Western Europe — led to the publication of a number of ghostly tales, including the 1961 best-seller "Old House of Fears," which made Kirk a master of the Stephen King genre before there was a Stephen King. But horror fiction remained a sidelight. As Kirk put it, he "wrote to improve rather than to entertain."

Personal side

There's also the personal side of Kirk's story. Pursuing his secular interest into the "origins of social order" and such authors as Alexis de Tocqueville and John Henry Newman, this one-time teenager who had "twitted his elders by professing militant atheism" became curious about the role of religion.

In 1953, he "obtained formal instruction in Catholic doctrine" at the Jesuit University of Detroit. But it would be another 11 years before he professed "his faith in the world beyond the world."

The occasion was his marriage in middle-age to Annette Courtemanche of Springfield Gardens, N.Y. Together, they would make a welcoming and hospitable home of Piety Hill for four daughters and an endless progression of illustrious scholars, writers, politicians, and ordinary folks who visited and studied at the Kirk estate. In such fashion said, said Kirk, "Annette and he helped to sustain the institution of family by creating a vigorous example."

But to the political world, Kirk's enduring importance results from "the manner" of conservatism which he introduced to America in 1953 with the publication of his doctoral thesis, prepared at Scotland's St. Andrew's University, under the title: "The Conservative Mind — From Burke To Santayana."

It was praised in the New York Times Review of Books after its appearance in April 1953 and in Time Magazine of July 6, 1953.

His own conservatism

Kirk's conservatism differed from much of what passes for conservatism today. He was neither libertarian, abstractly capitalistic, nor militaristic.

For Kirk, conservatism was not ideology, but a common sense approach which limits the role of public governance, precisely because humans are moral beings, with an innate capacity for "right reason."

Kirk believed that democracy must foster "a people with a higher standard of character — character that must include religious faith, morality, educated intelligence, self-restraint, and an ingrained demand for justice and unselfishness."

Practical and unpredicatable

Nor was this conservative a predictable hawk. In 1991, he broke sharply with President Bush over "taking a quarter of a million lives in Iraq" in the month-long Gulf War.

Kirk's practical and non-doctrinaire conservatism would undoubtedly have taken a different shape in other times and other circumstances.

In reading this fascinating man's autobiography, among the things one takes away is a conviction that his conservatism is the very theory of governance which was once regarded as the only workable liberalism.

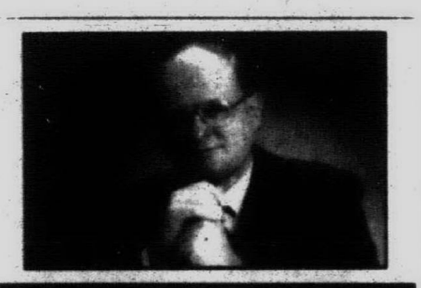
Michigan voters flunk judicial civics test at the polls



TIM RICHARD

If 90 percent of Michigan schoolkids flunked their fourth-, seventh- and 11th-grade MEAP tests, schools and kids would face parental wrath. There would be thunderous breast-beating and howls for more intensive teaching of "the basics."

But hardly anyone raised an eyebrow when Michigan adults flunked a civics test about the third branch of government, the judiciary. Items:

- 90 percent couldn't name a single justice of the state Supreme Court.
- No single justice was named by more than 7 percent of the electorate. Jim Brickley, Michael Cavanagh and Conrad Mallett Jr. were identified by 7 percent; Patricia Boyle, Elizabeth Weaver, Charles Levin and Dorothy Comstock Riley by 6 percent.
- 93 percent didn't know how many justices there are (seven).

Since I'm not running for public office, I can afford to tell the truth. The overwhelming majority of Michigan voters are so uninformed that they shouldn't be casting ballots for the Supreme Court.

Yet 86 percent of voters thought that Supreme Court justices should continue to be elected. People can be just as smug as politicians.

The survey was conducted by the Alliance for Judicial Accountability, a nice cover name for the Michigan Chamber of Commerce, Michigan Manufacturers Association and a bunch of medical professional groups. They have an ax to grind because they get sued by unions, consumers and patients. Yet AJA's questions and results seem honest enough.

State Bar president Thomas G. Kienbaum, of Franklin, is giving a lot of thought and magazine ink to the question of "merit selection" of judges — a system that would involve appointment followed, in a couple of years, by a judge's facing voters for a "yes" or "no" decision on continuing in office.

Obviously, Kienbaum has an uphill battle. He should be encouraged.

Martin Doctoroff, chief judge of the state Court of Appeals, leans in that direction. On last week's Channel 56 "Off the Record," Doctoroff had good things to say about merit selection.

Doctoroff, of Birmingham, was appointed by a Democratic governor but tends to be conservative, scholarly and fair-minded. Yet he had the innards scared out of him in a recent election by an obscure lawyer with little to recommend him beyond a gorgeous Irish name.

In truth, people vote for names. The Michigan Manual index lists 11 Kellys, 11 MacDonalds, 10 Brennans, seven McDonalds, seven O'Briens, five O'Neills, and so on; mostly Irish, but there are a few good Jewish names, too, like Levin and Kaufman.

Or as Tom Kienbaum puts it, "irrelevant name recognition will continue to be the single most significant factor in the judicial election process, particularly in large population areas."

And: "There is no chance for any real comparison of records of incumbents versus those of challengers, let alone incumbent versus incumbent. The result is an enormous waste of judicial energy and resources . . ."

Clearly, we should be appointing appellate judges. But how do you make changes when adults who flunk civics tests still think they're good at electing them?

Tim Richard reports on the local implications of state and regional events.

Monitoring kids' TV time doesn't equal censorship

PHILIP POWER

■ The effect of today's television of violence is so pervasive, so normal, so ordinary that it has become banal.

Hannah Arendt was one of the best political philosophers of my generation.

She studied Hitler's Germany and Stalin's Russia to distill the core of totalitarianism. In a famous phrase, she concluded the distinguishing character of totalitarian political systems — what made them so awful — was the "banality of evil."

Evil, in other words, is so shot through totalitarian societies that it becomes the expected, the norm, the ordinary, the banal.

The phrase echoed in my mind last week in connection with kids and violence and television. The evidence keeps piling up that:

- Kids (not to mention their parents) watch a lot of TV.
- Violence "predominates on television," according to the just-released, largest-ever study. By the time an average child finishes elementary school, he will have seen 8,000 murders and 100,000 acts of violence on TV.
- No less than seven U.S. and Canadian scientific studies demonstrate a "correlation between prolonged childhood exposure to TV and a tendency to physical aggression that extends from before adolescence into adulthood."

In other words, watching violent TV makes it more likely that kids will be violent.

The effect of today's television of violence is so pervasive, so normal, so ordinary that it has become banal. Misusing Arendt's phrase, "television propagates the banality of violence."

That's why I was so encouraged to see the big telecommunications bill that passed Congress last week requires "V-chip" technology to be installed on all TV sets manufactured two years hence. The V-chip is a computer chip that manufacturers will place inside TV sets that allows parents to block violent or sexually explicit shows they feel are inappropriate for their kids.

To work, the V-chip requires a rating system indicating various levels of violence or sexuality be embedded in various programs. The V-chip would be programmed to block shows whose ratings are above levels set by parents.

U.S. Rep. John Dingell, D-Mich., whose committee has been looking at TV and violence for years, commented: "All we are doing is seeking to give parents the ability to control what their children watch on television. It is a way of giving parents control without censorship."

Not surprisingly, the television industry is asking a court to declare the V-chip illegal censorship, an unconstitutional violation of the First Amendment free speech guarantees.

Ho, hum. That's nothing more than a predictable (and self-interested) reaction of an industry traditionally more interested in selling advertising time than in promoting freedom of speech.

Tell me, is it censorship when I tell my 13-year-old son Nathan that he can't watch certain shows? Of course not. So how is my decision as a parent to program the V-chip an unconstitutional intrusion on my son's viewing habits?

And just why is it the constitutional right of the entertainment and broadcasting industries to bring in to my house — without my explicit permission, but certainly at their profit — programming that is banally violent and which, at the very minimum, tends to coarsen my son to violence?

Should parents be more actively involved with their children's TV viewing than merely programming a V-chip? Sure. But many working parents don't have much choice.

And when Kathy and I went to a dinner party at a friend's house last Friday night, I would have been a lot more comfortable about what Nathan was watching at home on TV if there had been a V-chip in the set.

Un-be-liev-able family viewing

Back last week, on Monday, NBC aired a show called "Lance Burton: Master Magician." Did you see it? It was terrible.

It was on at 8 p.m. I happened to be just finishing up the supper dishes, the TV was playing to a mostly nonexistent audience in the family room, Joe and Jack were running from room to room with toys, airplanes mostly, making loud airplane noises, husband Ron and son Tony were at a Boy Scout meeting and daughter Carmen was at gymnastics.

I heard above the aircraft noise the TV announcer introduce the magic show and I yelled out to Joe and Jack that something cool was coming on TV. They ran in to see. The show began and birds appeared out of nowhere and out of handkerchiefs and out of torn-up paper and Joe and Jack plopped down, mesmerized. A few feet away, in the kitchen, I dried the last dish and began scrubbing the table.

"How does he do that?" Joe exclaimed from the other room. I yelled back to him, "Isn't that neat? I wish I could do stuff like that."

After completing my kitchen tasks, I joined my two young sons in the family room. I had laundry to take care of but I sat with them instead. It was nice.

Until the television double-crossed us. What a nasty surprise that was. Here this was, a pro-

Moms make most of multiples club

■ They come by twos, sometimes threes, even fours and fives. For mothers who face the challenge of nurturing twins, triplets or more, it's nice to know there's the Mothers of Multiples Club to help smooth the way.

BY CHRISTINA FUOCO
STAFF WRITER

Fifteen to 20 kids are running around Cathy Rickelmann's two-story Canton home. Ear-piercing screams, quiet babbling and gurgling fill the rooms.

The toddlers participate in foot races across her living room. Some run up and down the stairs with their toy shopping carts while others quietly watch television or look at books.

Rickelmann, who has a 6½-year-old daughter Taylor, 4-year-old son Ethan, and 2-year-old twins Troy and Kyle, stands in her kitchen with a cup of coffee, chatting with other members. It's as if she doesn't notice the chaos around her.

What might be a headache for some is a relaxing time for members of the Plymouth-Canton Mothers of Multiples Club.

"We don't have to be what I call 'on duty, 100 percent' because there's so many more eyes," said Kim Gouwens of Canton, the mother of 2-year-old twin boys, Kyle and Tyler. "It's different when you've got the group of moms there. All moms have eyes on the back of their heads so you can catch everyone's kids before anyone does anything."

Westland resident Kimberlyn Benjamin — who attended play group with her twins Nathaniel and Morgan, 10 months old, as well as her other children Christine, 6, Zachary, 4, and Shannon, 3 — agreed.

"Play group is a big plus," Benjamin explained. "Every other Wednesday we get together at someone's house. We sit down, drink coffee and talk and let the kids play."

Chance to talk

Mothers enjoy the chance to talk with others with multiple children, and the kids have fun playing with each other.

"Play group is a good outlet for everybody," said the group's president, Cheryl Bidlingmaier of Westland.

"It's good for kids to have each other so they have someone to learn to play with," vice president Mary Patnode of Canton added. "Other kids, like singletons, don't have that."

Besides play group, the Plymouth-Canton Mothers of Multiples Club hosts other events like gram on NBC, not cable, 8 p.m. — the "OK for family viewing time." The program? A magic show, with disappearing birds, card tricks, that sort of innocent thing. At least, that's how it started out.

As I watched the first few magic tricks with my little guys, I thought about how dumb magic shows on TV really are. TV is nothing but illusion anyway, so to see illusions performed on purpose in this illusionary medium really makes little sense. But I didn't mention this to Joe or Jack. They liked the birds coming out of nowhere too much.

The magician, this Lance Burton person, was fairly young and he was dressed in a typical magician's type dark suit. He worked alone for the first few minutes. But then he introduced his assistant. What a mistake. Off stage right this seductress slithered and snaked out.

She had veils and legs and guilty eyes. And she performed this dance of sorts across the stage before reaching Lance, at which point she ripped his clothes off, or at least the top half. What was left on top was a torn-looking T-shirt and a gold chain and a chest.

The dry ice billowed up from the stage floor, enveloping the magician and assistant while they embraced each other and then began this dance, of sorts. At some point, he tore away the veils of her already scanty costume, leaving hardly anything to the imagination.

Did you see this? Could you believe it? And then did you see the magician and his assistant perform their first "illusion" together? On prime time network television? Un-be-liev-able.

This guy and this girl, in their mutually ripped clothing, amid a number of other scantily veiled ladies, climbed aboard a board. It was a narrow board, so she was forced to lay on top of him. Then they were covered with some veil-like, magical piece of cloth by some veiled ladies, and then the board, with its two passengers, levitated. The cloth was ripped away after the board was about five feet off the ground and there they were, during family viewing time in all their un-NBC-ness. I couldn't believe my TV had double-crossed me like that.

I should have turned the double-crossing machine off right then and there, actually I should have turned it off when Miss Vixen first appeared stage right. But at that point I was giving the show the benefit of a doubt. I know how TV executives strive to draw the largest and most diverse audience, so a little sleaze is frequently added into the recipe. But this levitating board thing went way too far.

And then there was the heart-warming autobiographical monologue, focusing on the old family heirloom crate. This too caught the double-crossed viewer by surprise.

At this point, the Boy Scout gang came home and then Carmen and so the rest of the show sort of got lost. It was lost from the very start. It was a loser. It was not a good thing.

And so I felt double-crossed because I was the one who actually called my little boys in to see this "cool thing on TV." And I was the one who told Joe, "I wish I could do stuff like that."

Now, what kind of message did I send?

I'm in deep trouble here.

Archdiocese to sponsor PRISM '96

People from throughout the tri-county area can spend a day learning and in reflection, prayer and celebration at PRISM '96, the ninth annual archdiocesan conference for single and married adults.

Organized by a volunteer staff from the adult community and supported by the Archdiocese of Detroit's Office of Family and Youth, the conference will take place Saturday, March 9, at Sacred Heart Major Seminary, 2701 W. Chicago, at Linwood, Detroit.

Registration will be at 10 a.m. followed by a welcoming address by Adam Cardinal Maida, Archbishop of Detroit. The keynote address will follow. It will be delivered by Father John West and follow the conference theme of "The Journey Continues — A Time for Renewal."

There also will be two workshop sessions. Participants can choose from 24 workshops, covering topics dealing with such issues as dating relationships, communication, marriage, faith life, careers, finance and inner child healing.

There also will be a special Mass of celebration and dinner, followed by dancing until midnight.

PRISM is an opportunity for participants to explore their faith life or even discover it. It also is a chance for participants to learn about themselves, others and the world around them in a Christian atmosphere as well as other adults who share similar values and beliefs.

PRISM was chosen as the name of the conference to show that it is aimed at touching the participants in many aspects of their lives — social, career, spiritual and service related.

PRISM '96 is for singles and marrieds 18 to 80 years of age. The registration fee is $25 before and $30 after Wednesday, Feb. 28.

For more information or to register for the conference, call the St. John Neumann Singles Hot Line at (313) 480-7830. A registration form will be sent to those callers leaving their name, address and telephone number at the end of the message.

Halloween parties, Easter egg hunts, a benefit auction and an end-of-the-year dinner for the mothers.

The 28-member group holds two meetings each month — a planning meeting and the regular meeting. Members volunteer their homes for the get-togethers which sometimes feature guest speakers, games, or crafts. The next meeting is Monday, Feb. 19.

The meetings, the mothers said, give them the opportunity to relax and talk about adult things with adults. It also allows the fathers to "get quality time with the kids," Rickelmann said.

"Dad gets to put them to bed," Gouwens said. "Dad does things different than mom so they get to experience that."

Although Patnode said the meetings are a "a good place to go and vent your frustrations," Bidlingmaier, the mother of 5-year-old Erika and 3-year-old twins Michael and Nicole, stressed that the organization is not a support group.

"It's more like a friendship group," Bidlingmaier said. "To me, 'support group' means it's a problem-solver. You're there just for the support. You have a problem. Here, there are no problems and we're all happy with what we have. We're not looking for support, just for common bond."

Somewhat unique

She said the group, which was founded about 10 years ago, is unique because of the women's socio-economic status.

"The group is a lot of stay-home moms which is not the norm, even though some just have two kids, the twins, and some have more than the twins," she said. "We're an extraordinary group because it's stay-home moms or they work opposite their husbands, like me."

That sort of arrangement is hard, but worthwhile.

"You have the kids so you sacrifice something," Bidlingmaier said. "I always told myself I would raise my kids, not the babysitter."

The majority of the Mothers of Multiples members have toddlers. Patnode said it's common for mothers to drop out of the group after their children reach first or second grade.

"We tend to gear toward mothers with infants and toddlers," Patnode said.

Bidlingmaier said she hopes to persuade mothers to stick around longer, but she realizes that once children are school age, the schedules start to fill up.

"The challenge of the club is to keep it going and keep members' interest. We get so busy at home that we don't even want to go out, or we can't get out. But if you do, it's worth every minute."

The Plymouth-Canton Mothers of Multiples Club meets the third Monday of each month. The next meeting is Monday, Feb. 19. The annual membership fee is $15, which includes a monthly newsletter. For more information, call Kimberlyn Benjamin at (313) 326-3036.

Tips for surviving bringing up babies

Mothers and fathers of multiples may feel a little overwhelmed by their situation, so members of the Plymouth-Canton Mothers of Multiples Club have a few tips on raising twins or triplets.

- Don't feel guilty about taking short cuts with the children, like propping up bottles so you can relax during feedings.
- Learn to live with a messy house.
- Consolidate your efforts. When one child wakes up, wake them all up.

"Keep them on the same schedule to save your own sanity," said Sue Micek of Plymouth — the mother of triplets Ashley Nicole, Adam and Aaron, 2½; and the late Nicole Ashley.

- Fathers of multiples tend..to help out more than fathers of singletons, many of the mothers said. Look to them for help. "Who needs dead weight? He helps out or he's out of there," Micek said.
- Remember, things will get easier after age 2.

LORENE GREEN

Dear Ms. Green,

I am a right-handed, 52-year-old woman who is very interested in the visual significance of my handwriting. As a top-level administrator, I am often called upon to manage projects that demand creativity, sensitivity to the public, and reliance on a network of connections that ensure warm, smooth running and substantive events.

I welcome your objective feedback and hope I am selected as one of your graphology profiles. I am interested in your insight and I know my husband will also welcome your analysis.

P.F.,
Birmingham

A preoccupation with or delight in forms, structure and aesthetics can be found in today's handwriting. The writer has skillful hand and eye coordination along with an enterprising nature.

Augmenting this is her shrewd, sharp mind. She needs mental stimulation and is capable of original and innovative thinking.

This woman is results-oriented and thrives on challenges. Willpower, efficiency and perseverance contribute to her success. She is intensely determined to overcome obstacles that might appear in her path. In this handwriting there is a little tendency to lose interest. But this pessimism usually gives way to hard work.

Our writer has developed her self-discipline early in life. Growing up, I believe she often heard "shoulds" and "should nots."

Seemingly, she has made a break with the past, but it appears to continue holding some control over her. A seeming contradiction is apparent here. While she wants to be independent, she also feels a need to return to the mother figure emotionally when things become difficult. At this particular time, she may be a little dissatisfied with either the work or social role.

Some tension appears to be building within her. Although she has vigorous likes and dislikes, it may be difficult for her to spontaneously express or act out her feelings, as she has learned to keep them under control.

In a structured situation she is most comfortable. She feels a need to adhere to social mores and customs. Any attempt to lift her curtain of privacy may cause resentment.

Her tactful manner contributes to smooth relationships with others. However, in matters involving ideas and/or ideals, she is not a pushover and will fight for her beliefs. She will not be dominated and may find it difficult to face competition or orders.

At times, her nature becomes restless. She then needs diversion and change in her life. A brisk physical activity would be beneficial in using up some of her abundant energy. Traveling might be another good outlet.

I am a right-handed, fifty-two year old woman who is very interested in the visual significance of my handwriting. As a top-level administrator, I am often called upon to manage projects that

If you would like your handwriting analyzed in this newspaper, write to Lorene C. Green, a certified graphologist, at 36251 Schoolcraft, Livonia 48150. Please write a few paragraphs about yourself, using a full sheet of white, unlined paper and writing in the first person singular. Age, handedness and signature are all helpful. Due to the volume of mail, personal replies are not possible. However, objective feedback is welcome.

Michael Meyer named bereavement director

Community Hospice Services Inc. has named Michael M. Meyer of Novi as the new director of bereavement and spiritual care.

Meyer holds a master of arts degree in theology from the University of Detroit as well as a doctorate of ministry to those in grief from the Ecumenical Theological Center of Detroit.

He has served as the pastoral associate at Our Lady of Good Counsel Parish in Plymouth for nine years and served as bereavement specialist for the O'Brien Chapel of the Ted Sullivan Funeral Home in Novi. He also teaches at several local colleges and is an accomplished musician.

Community Hospice Services has been providing a comprehensive, holistic program of compassionate care for the incurably ill and their families in western Wayne, southern Oakland and eastern Washtenaw counties for more than 15 years.

A.D.D. and Learning Problems Linked to Vision

Livonia - For the past three years, Dr. John Jacobi, optometrist, and his visual therapy staff have helped hundreds of patients overcome their vision-related learning difficulties. Why look to vision for relief? Vision is our number one tool for gathering information. 80% of learning takes place through the visual system.

Dr. Jacobi stresses that having 20/20 eyesight does not guarantee 20/20 vision. Vision is the ability to maintain focus long enough to read without strain, and it enables a child to keep the letters from being "double". It involves his ability to recall what he has seen, which assists him in learning to spell. Reading, handwriting, and letter reversals are all greatly affected by a child's vision.

Eric working with Dr. Jacobi and his vision therapist.

In addition, vision is strongly linked to concentration. Symptoms of visual deficiencies and Attention Deficit Disorder are very similar. "My concern is that a child with A.D.D. may have undiagnosed vision problems," says Dr. Jacobi. "There could be a serious, yet treatable vision deficiency that is being overlooked."

The first step is a thorough testing of sight, eye movements, visual concentration, visual memory, coordination, and letter reversals. Juli Ygeal, vision therapist, explains, "This simple testing can change a child's entire future. I've met so many concerned parents, who are desperately searching for answers. It's wonderful to be able to give such hope to these children."

"Identifying the problem is just the beginning," notes Dr. Jacobi. "The real hope lies in the fact that in most cases, it is correctable. These students have potential to make gains - great gains."

Dr. Jacobi is dedicated to this need for vision testing. He is currently offering free testing at Suburban Optometric in Livonia. Call (313) 525-8170 for an appointment.

Pointers swing "Misbehavin'" revival

"Ain't Misbehavin'," a revue inspired by the music of Thomas "Fats" Waller, is providing a new direction for the Pointer Sisters.

A touring revival of the musical, which debuted in the 1970s, opened at the Fox Theatre Tuesday. The show runs through Sunday; there are six performances left.

"We hadn't done a musical before," said Ruth Pointer, who with sisters Anita and June has sung everything from rock and pop to jazz and rhythm and blues to gospel to country in a career spanning more than 20 years.

"We like show business in general," Pointer said of the group's motivation. Pointer spoke by phone from Pittsburgh, where the show was running through Feb. 11.

"Ain't Misbehavin'," based on an idea by Murray Horwitz and Richard Maltby Jr., celebrates music made famous by Waller in the 1920s, '30s and '40s. The current show was choreographed and directed by Arthur Faria.

"Ain't Misbehavin'" includes many songs co-written by Waller whose titles have become almost household phrases: "Honeysuckle Rose," "The Joint is Jumpin' " and, of course, "Ain't Misbehavin'." Other songs were written by others but performed by Waller.

The show tries to capture the glamour of Harlem in its heyday and the golden age of places like the Cotton Club and the Savoy Ballroom.

The touring schedule, and the show itself, are demanding, Pointer said. "This is really a grueling show," she said.

Waller's influence on music was extensive, and the Pointers were really not aware of that until they got involved in the show, Pointer said.

One of the originators of swing, Waller studied with Harlem stride piano masters. He was recording by age 18, composing a year later and eventually appeared with his band in Hollywood films.

The Pointer Sisters have long resisted being pigeonholed in terms of their style, Pointer said. Early on, there was "a lot of emphasis for us to categorize ourselves," she said. "We didn't want to do that. . . . Luckily we had a manager that agreed with us."

They are probably best known for songs such as "He's So Shy," "Slow Hand," "I'm So Excited," and Bruce Springsteen's "Fire." They recently teamed up with country star Clint Black on the song "Chain of Fools."

In September of 1994, the Pointers sang for President Bill Clinton at the White House. Pointer said that appearance helped her realize that the places and people of power aren't just abstract. It was "a pleasure to be in the midst of such power," she said.

The "Ain't Misbehavin'" revival opened in Green Bay, Wis., in September. The Pointers are hoping the show eventually lands on Broadway.

Artist tells biblical stories in clay

BY LINDA ANN CHOMIN
SPECIAL WRITER

Fresh from a faculty show at Monroe County Community College, Gary Wilson works to install his earth tone vessels and wall relief in the Livonia Civic Center Library Fine Arts Gallery. These are truly paintings in clay. In the tradition of Renaissance painters, Wilson renders artworks featuring biblical and religious themes.

Beside the pieces, he places an explanation of the thinking that went into each. In one green vessel with splashes of red, he illustrates the ancient custom of collecting tears in a bottle to be buried with the dead.

In a wall narrative, 48-year-old Wilson conveys the creation of man by portraying a kneeling God scooping up red clay to mold the tiny figure in his hands. The wall mural is much like ones he's permanently installed at Nardin Park United Methodist Church in Farmington Hills, Frankenmuth Lutheran Church in Frankenmuth, and St. Joseph's Catholic Church in Monroe.

"I consider myself a storyteller in clay. They're really biblical narratives in clay," said Wilson, an associate professor of art at MCC since 1971.

"What deeper meaning is there than man's relationship to God, and to live a life of integrity and caring for your fellow man?"

Up until the 1800s nearly all art dealt with religion. Acknowledging all art has been done before, the Redeemer Baptist Church guiding elder and Sunday school teacher wrestles with saying something new. It is ironic he says, that Protestants do not have a tradition of art.

"Because I teach art history about Michelangelo, Raphael and Tintoretto, I knew these individuals had strong convictions about life. There's a continuity in art. The challenge for me is how to take northern Renaissance ideas and make them viable in the 20th century."

Originally, Wilson began by doing functional pottery and landscape scenes in clay after graduating from Michigan State University with a master of fine arts in ceramics. Upon examining who he was, Wilson realized "that religion is who he is." That was 15 years ago.

Wilson is committed to the marketplace. He's exhibited his work in street fairs for 30 years. During the last 15 not all have agreed with the content.

"Initially, I was going to be a painter. I was taught content is a no-no in contemporary art. I got into clay because (at that point in my life) I didn't have anything to say," Wilson said.

"Thirty years of experience go into each piece. I've found that a lot of people, their beef isn't with God but with the church. I'm touching that chord of people who've been estranged. My work isn't preachy. People realize I'm not confronting them. I'm not trying to win people over."

But he does touch them. One woman whose son was killed during the fighting in Iraq broke down crying when she saw Wilson's vessel on the Gulf War with the angel of death flying above. Last week Betty Volstromer, who works in

FINE ARTS

Sculptor captures the human spirit

ARTISTIC EXPRESSIONS

LINDA ANN CHOMIN

It's nearly impossible for a fine art sculptor to make a living by working at their craft. That's why Evelyn Bachorkski-Bowman is proud that she's always had her hand in sculpting. Granted, although it was not fine art by which she's earned a living, it was art nonetheless.

Employed first as a prosthetist or medical sculptor at Henry Ford Hospital in Detroit, the Redford resident designed, fabricated and fitted custom ears, fingers, and noses for patients in need. After eight years of working with cancer patients, Bowman burned out. Seeing little room for growth in her job and needing a change, she returned to school to study clay modeling.

After earning a certificate in the craft from Center for Creative Studies in Detroit, Bowman began interpreting designer drawings of concept cars in clay at Ford Motor Company's Product Development Center in Dearborn. During the day she sculpts full size clay models of 1998-99 Crown Victoria and Lincoln Towne Cars to feed her body.

At night, to feed her soul, she models human figures and busts in a home studio built with the help of her husband Brian, a clarinetist with the Michigan Opera Theatre. At age 40, she hopes to rekindle the dreams of her youth.

An admirer of master sculptors Rodin and Donatello, her goal is to eventually make a living by creating portraiture busts and full-figure sculpture.

"I was interrupted by the need to make a living, but I would like to do commission portraiture," said Evelyn Bowman, who earned her master of fine arts degree in sculpture from Wayne State University in Detroit.

"There's not a big call for it but a lot of people like to have a bust done to remember someone they love, or to pay honor to someone on a personal or professional level."

Bowman's commissions include portrait busts ranging from a local Detroit businessman to the president of a Chicago bank. In a series of five three-hour sitting sessions with a live model, Bowman strives to communicate the person inside.

"I've always gravitated toward the figure, the human spirit, capturing the personality of someone. Anatomical integrity has to be there but it's only a vehicle to expressing the spirit," said Bowman, who has exhibited her work at Detroit Focus and the Scarab Club in Detroit.

"Photographs are helpful aids, but face-to-face contact is the only way I see fit to experience the immediacy necessary for me to successfully interpret and convey my artistic expressions."

Whenever possible Bowman casts her sculpture in bronze using the lost wax process. Access to a foundry makes this difficult. Her dream is one day to build a foundry with Brian in northern Michigan. Commissions of Bowman's portraiture start at around $3,500.

"The figurative tradition in art is a long and strong one; though not always in vogue or thought to be on the cutting edge," said Bowman, a graduate of Rosary High School in Detroit.

"I will always feel most comfortable when working within this tradition. It's an appreciation for the human form. It's a beautiful form through which I try to pick up on the personality. I hope people can see that in the work."

'Born Yesterday' delightful comedy

REVIEW

The Theatre Guild presents "Born Yesterday," 8 p.m. Fridays and Saturdays, Feb. 16-17, Feb. 23-24 and 2 p.m. Sunday, Feb. 18, at the playhouse, 15136 Beech Daly Road, Redford. Tickets $9 adults, $7 senior citizens/students. Call (313) 531-0554.

BY BOB WEIBEL
SPECIAL WRITER

The Theatre Guild's current production, "Born Yesterday" first tickled the funny bone of Broadway audiences 50 years ago — as did the 1950's movie starring Judy Holliday and Broderick Crawford. The material is as fresh as ever, especially in this election year, though some of the humor may no longer be politically correct.

Garson Kanin's classic comedy is about a vulgar but wealthy junk dealer, Harry Brock, who comes to Washington to bribe a senator or two. His girlfriend, ex-chorus girl Billie Dawn, is totally lacking in education and social graces. Even Harry finds his "dumb broad" embarrassing.

A reporter, who happens by for an interview, is hired to "smooth off the rough edges." Or as Harry puts it, "She's a little on the dumb side. I'd like you to make her over, and learn her how to talk good."

Well, Harry is used to getting his money's worth. But he never imagined what a little classical music, a few books and a tour of the art gallery could do for Billie.

Basically an honest person, Billie begins questioning things. She wants to know "What's this business we're doing down here?" Harry gets worried when Billie refuses to sign papers (she actually owns all of Harry's enterprises), "How can a broad get so out of line, on account of just reading a book?"

Billie, of course, has an entirely new view of life. Harry is now too crude for Billie. She turns the tables, tells him "drop dead, you don't own me" and gives incriminating documents to the newspaper reporter that end Harry's crooked schemes.

Kelly Boczek sparkles as the uneducated but shrewd, Billie Down. She is the center of attention in every scene and she never fails to deliver just the right comedic touch.

John Reneald is very effective as the loud-mouthed Harry Brock. Sometimes, however, his strong character is so unsavory that it overpowers the witty dialogue and subtle humor of the play in the Theatre Guild's small auditorium. A more loveable slob might work better.

Dan Glomski, as the reporter Paul Varrall, looks appropriately bookish and intellectual. A more forceful character, however, would add to his believability as one who would take on a strong man like Harry Brock — and be a romantic interest for Billie.

Sam Jungermann is excellent as Harry's attorney, Ed Devery — who drinks to cope with a guilty conscience. Kim Fox scores as Senator Norval Hedges — who assumes everyone has a price. And Ken Hannan is very good as Eddie Brock, Harry's "go for" relative.

Directors Chris Bremer and Sam Jungermann keep the action moving at a brisk pace. The setting is stunningly beautiful as are the elegant furnishings. Topping things off is music from "Anything Goes" and other tunes of the era. Just the right touch to a delightful evening of theater.

'Computer Chips and Salsa' fun

REVIEW

"Computer Chips and Salsa," at The Second City — Detroit, 2301 Woodward, 8 p.m. Wednesdays through Sundays with additional shows on Fridays and Saturdays at 10:30 p.m. Tickets range from $12 to $19. Call (313) 965-2222.

BY BOB SADLER
SPECIAL WRITER

"Computer Chips and Salsa" is the title of the sixth and latest revue being performed at The Second City — Detroit. It opens rather quickly on the heels of "Whitewater Rafting," which opened in September, and signals a transition by the group at Woodward and Montcalm to produce three new shows a year — instead of the two shows a year clip exhibited during the troupe's first couple of years.

Making such a transition requires a great commitment from producers an performers alike to a more intense schedule of writing and rehearsing. Add to that mix the usual reblending of The Second City — Detroit cast, and pulling off that transition becomes even more challenging.

Gone from the "Whitewater" cast are Emily Rose Merrill of Southfield and Chris Smith of Detroit.

The newest cast member is Wisconsin native John Farley, formerly of The Second City National Touring Company, and brother of Second City and "Saturday Night Live" alum Chris Farley.

The talented cast almost meets the challenge with the recent opening of "Computer Chips and Salsa." The accelerated production schedule meant that, for the first time since "Kevorkian Unplugged" four revues ago, a significant amount of non-Detroit produced material finds its way into the show. This in itself is not a big deal for Detroit audiences, unless they happened to be in Chicago recently and checked out "Pinata Full of Bees" at The Second City Main Stage. However, homegrown material is supposed to be the life's blood of The Second City, so hopefully this issue will be worked out shortly.

The show opens with a biting musical number on the current state of our country's court system, saying "Justice is a lady, and the lady is a whore."

Dionna Griffin of Southfield distinguishes herself as a blues singer in a later sketch, supported by musical director Trey Stone on piano and cast member Joshua Funk on guitar. Griffin plays the role to the hilt, displaying her outstanding vocal range and sense of comedic timing.

A recurrent sketch in the show places Funk and Rico Bruce Wade sometime in the future inside the broadcast booth at the new Tiger Stadium, which could eventually be right next door to The Second City's digs. Funk and Wade produce some laughs with their call of the game, which only proves the adage "new stadium, same old Tigers."

Newcomer Farley does not rouse immediate comparisons to his brother and fits seamlessly into the Detroit cast, evidenced most in a sketch with Funk about two wheelchair basketball players. Farley displays not just his comedic skill, but his acting chops as well in a piece that brings out the darker side of Second City humor.

Veteran cast members Nancy Hayden and Grant Krause round out the ensemble with strong supporting roles in numerous sketches. Krause induces uproarious laughter in a solo tour de force backed only by the Red Hot Chili Peppers "Under the Bridge."

Finally, with "Computer Chips and Salsa," actually breaks with The Second City tradition by featuring a musical number based on the revue's title. Penned by Funk and performed with the help of the full cast, it's a real Spanish guitar-laced showstopper.

Overall, this show may not be as strong as the troupe's best work, but it's still worth seeing.

"Computer Chips and Salsa" is directed by Anne Libera. The show is produced by Lyn Okkerse with executive director Andrew Alexander.

the library's gift shop, was moved by Wilson's work as well. In fact, she paid the gallery a visit after prompting from others who'd seen the show.

"Several people have come into the gift shop saying you have to go see this. I thought it was beautiful. It has a lot of scriptural connotations, and I like the way he explains everything he has in his paintings," said Volstromer.

"The exhibit is fitting being Lent is just around the corner."

Although there are some lesser priced functional pieces in the exhibit, prices for the narrative vessels and wall reliefs range from $200 to $500. Considering many of today's paintings start at $500, Wilson's work is a real bargain.

"I try not to price out of people's range," said Wilson. "I want this in people's hands."

Explosive 'Broken Arrow' aims, but misses target

TICKETS PLEASE

JOHN MONAGHAN

The military uses the term "Broken Arrow" when a nuclear warhead ends up missing. Does Hollywood have a similar way of describing a movie that also goes astray, one that has all the trappings of something explosive but ultimately proves a dud?

You can see why Twentieth Century Fox hesitated to release this lackluster actioner until now, the traditional dumping ground for movies not strong enough to compete during the holidays.

It should have been great: John Travolta and Christian Slater playing good-pilot/bad-pilot when the former dumps a pair of nuclear warheads in the desert and holds a good chunk of the Northwest for ransom.

And duking it out hand-to-hand under the direction of Hong Kong action master John Woo? It really was too good to be true.

Set primarily in the Utah desert, "Broken Arrow" turns into the beigest action movie ever, with scrubby, sunbaked locales only punctuated by yellow explosions. You long for the action to move somewhere, anywhere other than the slightly darker shades at the bottom of an abandoned copper mine.

Director Woo is at home in the opening scene, a well-choreographed dance around the ropes with Travolta and Slater trading punches that sound like bomb drops. The two spar for $20, a symbolic link that fuels the ultimate competition to come.

Slater comes off especially well, despite some truly pathetic dialogue. He's given a love interest in a park ranger (with seeming combat training) who insists on coming along during the most dangerous points of the battle.

Travolta tries to have fun with his too-cool bad guy, almost giddy at the thought of detonating the bomb he's been carrying around all these years. But when he simulates sex by holding a gun to the woman's head, seducing her into touching the delicate touchpad that will detonate his bomb, it's embarassing for just about everyone involved.

This is John Woo's second entree into American films. The first, "Hard Target," still stands as the best of the Jean-Claude Van Damme actioners. "Broken Arrow" has none of the over-the-top set pieces that made his Hong Kong-based "Hard Boiled" and "The Killer" such cult classics.

Sophomore screenwriter Graham Yost has concocted a script that mines just about every cliche of the western and action movie genres. Rumor has it that his script for the megahit "Speed" required intense doctoring by a whole team of writers, something that probably should have happened here.

The man who was supposed to show American directors how it's done is responsible for one of the year's biggest disappointments. "Broken Arrow," begun in earnest, turns into the kind of project that leaves the actors and the audience simply trying to make the best of a bad situation.

RICHARD FOREMAN/20TH CENTURY FOX

Action: John Travolta is Stealth bomber pilot Vic Deakins in "Broken Arrow."

Series presents 'Green Pastures'

Southfield's Cultural Arts Division, along with the Southfield Public Library and Potpourri Productions, will present "Green Pastures," as part of their Classic Cinema Series 7:30 p.m. Friday, Feb. 16, in the Marcotte Room on the lower level of the library. Tickets are $3 per person and include light refreshments. Call (810) 424-9022 for reservations.

Filmed in black and white, "Green Pastures" features an all-black cast including Marc Connelly, Rex Ingram, Eddie Anderson and Oscar Polk. Connelly wrote this fable of live in Heaven. The film gives more meaning to biblical stories and figures such as Adam, Noah and Moses than most more "biblical" films of the time.

Prior to the showing of the film, guest lecturer Dr. Karen Davis, chair of the Humanities Department at Marygrove College will give a brief discussion of the background of the story and the time in which the film was produced.

■ Coming to the Classic Cinema Series on march 26 will be "Judgement at Nuremberg" starring Spencer Tracey.

For Omaha's 311 'interesting' music is their top priority

BY CHRISTINA FUOCO
STAFF WRITER

The rock/hip-hop band 311 has been kicking around, gathering a grassroots following since its inception in 1990. Sold-out club dates followed and consequently the band's first two albums, "Music" and "Grassroots" have sold in excess of 100,000 each.

Now, six years later, 311 has its first across-the-dial national hit single, "Don't Stay Home," and another, "All Mixed Up," on the way. Both songs are off the band's self-titled third album.

Band members should have known that success with 311 was in the cards. After all, 311's first gig was with punk legends Fugazi.

"We kind of lucked out for that show," drummer/percussionist Chad Sexton said. "It was only one show but it helped our fan base in Omaha (311's hometown). We were unknown and we played in front of 800 people. When you're unknown, 800 people is a lot."

"It just gave us a little bit of confidence."

The album "311" (Capricorn) blends traditional rap with rock, jazz, funk and reggae. A bold, multi-dimensional band like that would have to have some innate confidence.

Sexton explained that the band members' diverse musical influences — ranging from jazz artists to Frank Sinatra to rockers Monster Magnet to the Grateful Dead — helped create the 311 sound.

"We were influenced by all these different kinds of music and it showed through in our music writing. It's more of a collaborative effort instead of a basic rock song."

He added that "interesting" music is a priority with 311.

"To me, the No. 1 thing has not been to sell as many record as you can but to make the most interesting music you can," Sexton explained.

"I thought we would be successful if we just made really good music and really unique music. I always thought that would be the first thing that everyone would want to do. Now I realize there's people in the business who are not even in it for the music, which isn't a big surprise anymore. It is a surprise how few people are out there who are well known who solely concentrate on how much money they can make."

311 is comprised of five guys — lead vocalist/rhythm guitarist Nicholas Hexum, drummer Sexton, guitarist Tim Mahoney, bassist P-Nut, and vocalist SA Martinez — who grew up together in Omaha, Neb. Sexton said that being raised in Omaha didn't have much of an effect on 311.

■ 'My belief is for this type of music it takes listeners a longer time to understand where the band is coming from. Instead of listening to it and right off the bat loving it, it takes five times maybe six times before you'll love it.'

Chad Sexton
drummer/percussionist

"It was more of a good place for us to grow up. We have good values and things like that. That all goes to help in your mental stability later on."

The positive lyrics on "311," however, prove that Omaha had some influence on them. In the anti-weapon song "Guns," Hexum and Martinez write "You guys think that you're hard/But you're in fear of being harmed/I fear no man and I am unarmed."

Along the same vein is "Misdirected Hostility" : "So much angst and pain, it's so wack/You should take a tip from the one (singer) Frank Black/ Play some Pachinko, Play some Parcheesi/' Cause all the angst (stuff) is just cheesy."

Sexton said that Hexum and Martinez, the group's main songwriters, are motivated by daily events.

"I've heard them say before that their own daily experiences (motivate them). SA tends to be a little more abstract, though. But generally the overall message is one of positivity and just really spilling out what they've learned," Sexton said.

After six years of working hard, he said it doesn't bother him that mainstream audiences are just now catching on.

"My belief is for this type of music it takes listeners a longer time to understand where the band is coming from. Instead of listening to it and right off the bat loving it, it takes five times maybe six times before you'll love it."

Cypress Hills, the Pharcyde and 311 play a sold-out show at 6:30 p.m. Thursday, Feb. 22, at the State Theatre, 2115 Woodward Ave., Detroit. For more information, call (313) 961-5451.

Drummer gets tips on success

BY CHRISTINA FUOCO
STAFF WRITER

A few years ago, the Rochester Hills alternative rock band Higher was a publicity-hungry, promotion machine. Complete with a flashy press kit, pretty-boy looks and an album re-mixed by Jack Ponti of Skid Row fame, Higher's short-lived career was a classic case of trying too hard to get what you want.

Drummer Michael Falzon jumped ship before the "official" end of the band hoping to start a new project. He played around with a few local bands but still unsure of his musical future, Falzon took a chance that most people probably wouldn't be brave enough to do.

"The Afghan Whigs were looking for a drummer so on a whim I sent some of my work to their manager. A week later John Curley, the bass player, called me up at home and said, 'I really like your stuff.' "

The following week, the alternative rock band's charismatic singer Greg Dulli phoned up Falzon and asked if he could come down to Cincinnati, the Whigs' hometown, to try out.

Falzon rehearsed with the band, according to an Elektra Entertainment spokeswoman, but in the end was passed up for Memphis musician Paul Buchignani, who appears on the demos and final recordings for the Afghan Whigs' new album "Black Love" which is due out Tuesday, March 12.

Falzon — a 26-year-old graduate of Adams High School in Rochester — has fond memories of his stint.

"It was cool because I got to sit there and play with my favorite band. It was kind of surreal," Falzon said.

There's no hard feelings because, after all, Falzon got some valuable tips that he hopes to use in Star 80's subtle trek to fame.

"I kind of picked John's brain about how they started. They did some shows in Cincinnati, but mostly every weekend they went out and played out of town as much as they could," Falzon said.

"So I started forming these ideas. I came back and Eric (Myers, singer/guitarist of Star 80 and former Higher member) and I started getting a little more serious about the material for Star 80."

This week Star 80 is releasing its debut three-song EP on the Rochester-based Woodshed Records label. The CD release party will be held at 9 p.m. Saturday, Feb. 17, at the Old Miami, 3930 Cass Ave., on Wayne State University's campus in Detroit.

The CD, which includes a cover of Bruce Springsteen's "Fire" and two originals "Luck" and "Star 80." Falzon said the band is using the CD to introduce Star 80 to clubs, the public, and media.

"It's just like a calling card," Falzon said during an interview at his Royal Oak home. "We're going in the studio to record demos just for people who want to hear more stuff."

Star 80 is a far cry from the hard rock-flavored Higher. Choppy guitars (a la Afghan Whigs) and Myers's stripped down vocals pair up to create a Replacements-esque sound on "Luck."

On the song "Star 80," Myers and his fuzzy guitar bring along a PTD (post-Tanya Donelly) Breeders sound while Falzon lays down the rhythm with bassist James Burton, formerly of Ethos.

When the band members write songs, they push aside their influences, which range from Motown and Prince to Iggy Pop to traditional country.

"I think the main thing is when Eric comes up with the idea of the song, I kind of just don't think about my influences and I just play to the song. Eric's guitar playing inspires me for my parts. I listen to a lot of stuff but I don't consciously try and incorporate aspects of stuff that I listen to. It's not a contrived thing at all."

Falzon added that Star 80's sound is still evolving.

"We've just begun to explore where we want to go with the music."

Star 80 celebrates of CD with party and performance at 9 p.m. Saturday, Feb. 17, at the Old Miami, 3930 Cass Ave., (between Alexandrine and Selden), Detroit. The show is open to those 21 and older. For more information, call (313) 831-3830. For more information about Star 80, write Woodshed Records, P.O. Box 82391, Rochester, MI 48308.

Volebeats release plaintive, gorgeous EP

BY CHRISTINA FUOCO
STAFF WRITER

Thanks to bands like the Jayhawks, Wilco and Son Volt, the country rock scene is flourishing.

You'd think that the Oakland County-based Volebeats — who's a little more country than rock 'n' roll — would be thrilled about the "new" movement. But it's actually the opposite. Please take the pigeon-holing elsewhere.

"We had that sound down six years ago," said singer/songwriter/guitarist Matthew Smith.

"By the time we started being pigeon-holed, we were already trying to move the music away from that."

From a marketing standpoint, the timing couldn't be more perfect. The Volebeats have released the EP "Bittersweet" on the Royal Oak-based Third Gear Records. The six-song EP is a gorgeous collection of trembling, twangy love songs that make the perfect soundtrack to an ending of a relationship.

The album kicks off with a breath-taking countrified version of Barry White's "I'm Gonna Love You Just A little More, Baby."

On it, Jeff Oakes's vocals are so pain-filled that he sounds like he's imprisoned by a woman's love when he sings: "Deeper and deeper in love with you I'm fallin'/Sweeter and sweeter your tender words of love keep calling/Eager and eager, yeah, feel your sweet lips on my face/Please her and please her any time or any place."

The impeccable album continues with "Same Old You," written by former drummer Bill Peterson, where Oakes is again convincing as a broken-hearted lover: "I never got beyond the very moment that we parted/My life without you never started/And it's so hard to find your way when you feel so broken hearted/I'm sad and lonely but my vision's strong and true/Still I keep waiting for that same old you."

"Bittersweet" is a segue to The Volebeats' follow-up to 1994's "Up North" which will be released on the New Hampshire-based Safe House Records, a one-time home to the Lunachicks and Half Japanese. So far the band has 15-16 songs recorded for the record due out in mid-'96. Since critical success, from the likes of Billboard, Option, Pulse and CMJ magazines, followed the band after "Up North," that's sure to follow. But the modest band shrugs it off.

The Volebeats will make it on their own laurels, not because of a trend. The "weirdness" of the band sets them apart.

"We're a weird band," said Smith who sings "Angel" on "Bittersweet." "We're not like other country rock bands. We're weirder. There's something unsettling and weird. It sounds normal to me but what I like about what we do is that underneath the melodic base there's a weirder vibe."

The Volebeats celebrates the release of "Bittersweet" with a party and performance at 9 p.m. Saturday, Feb. 17, at the Cass Cafe, 4620 Cass Ave. (two blocks south of Warren), Detroit. Cover charge is $4. For more information, call (313) 831-1400. At 11 a.m. Friday, Feb. 16, the band will perform songs from "Bittersweet" on radio station WDET (101.9). For more information about The Volbeats, write Third Gear Records, P.O. Box 1886, Royal Oak, MI 48068.

Harrison holds off Salem, 60-57

What Plymouth Salem needed was a win Tuesday against a mediocre Farmington Hills Harrison squad. A win would have almost certainly put the Rocks into the WLAA Tournament. Now, the Rocks' playoff berth is in doubt.

By Richard L. Shook
Staff Writer

Young teams are often good at one thing, if nothing else: aging basketball coaches in a hurry.

Farmington Hills Harrison shaded Plymouth Salem, 70-67, Tuesday night to keep its Western Lakes Activities Association playoff possibilities on the strong side of the quicksand.

Both teams are 7-9 overall, but the Hawks are 5-5 in the WLAA to a 4-6 record for the Rocks.

"History has it that five (wins) gets you in (the playoffs)," Harrison coach Mike Teachman said. "Six (does) for sure."

Harrison hosts Northville Friday night while Salem entertains North Farmington. The playoffs begin next Friday.

The Hawks and the Rocks are both laden with underclassmen. Harrison has two seniors, Salem four.

At times they look full of possibilities. And at other times, they look impossible.

Harrison came out with sophomore Matt Derocher bombing in two threes as his team took leads of 8-0 and 10-2. The Hawks hit eight treys in the first half.

"When we came out and our shots were dropping in the first half, we were like a kid with a new toy," Teachman said, "who shoved the old toy — defense — off in the corner."

"We did not play very well and there's no excuse for it," Salem coach Bob Brodie said. "Our intensity level was just pathetic. Our decision making on the floor isn't very good.

"I told them, they've got to quit playing like young players. They're not young players any more. They have a season under their belt.

"There are situations where you've got to quit figuring out what you're going to do on the floor and just go out and do it. Basketball is a game of reactions. We're not doing it."

Junior Andres Lopez scored 26 points for Salem, freshman Mike Korduba had 14 and sophomore Andy Power 11. Derocher scored 23 for Harrison, including five triples, while junior Kevin Bambenek got 12.

"We did not have any answer for Lopez," Teachman said. "He's what I call a '60s basketball player — he'll work and work and work. The '90s player wants to wear the right pants, have the right number on his back."

"Some other players have got to step up, and nobody did," Brodie said. "We've been riding his (Lopez's) shoulders all year."

For a team with no height, Salem didn't box Harrison out well. The Victory assures Canton of a tie for title

It seemed like another walk-through of a game for Plymouth Canton's basketball team Tuesday against visiting Farmington.

But the Chiefs didn't treat it as such, putting together another strong defensive effort and scoring their season-high in points as they demolished the Falcons, 86-40.

Their efforts were rewarded when, later that same evening, Westland John Glenn was beaten in double-overtime by Livonia Churchill, 84-74.

That result means Canton has clinched at least a tie for the Western Lakes Activities Association championship. Should the Chiefs win Friday at Churchill, they will be the WLAA winners with a 10-1 record. The best defending champion John Glenn can do now is 9-2.

Canton coach Dan Young's reaction was predictable: "We want to win it outright now."

If the Chiefs play like they did against Farmington, they will. By the conclusion of the first quarter, they had a 20-10 lead. And they never wavered, besting Farmington in every quarter, their defense limiting the Falcons to no more than 12 points in a quarter.

"Our defense set the tone," said Young, his team now 15-1 overall. Farmington is 4-11, 3-6 in the WLAA. "We played extremely hard and got a lot of baskets in transition."

It wasn't just defense, however, that sparked the rout. Canton had a commanding 33-10 rebounding advantage.

"We really pressured and we rebounded the ball," added Young. "We got easy shots in transition. We played very hard for the entire 32 (minutes)."

Four Chiefs reached double figures in scoring: Nick Hurley, 22

Perhaps winning isn't everything. But it seems for Plymouth Salem's volleyball team, it is the only thing.

The Rocks took a giant step toward stretching their string of Western Lakes Activities Association regular-season titles to three straight with a sweep of Walled Lake Central, 15-8, 15-10, 15-11, Monday at Salem.

The victory put Salem's overall record at 30-6-2 and its WLAA mark at 9-0; the Rocks have lost one league match in three years. A win last night at Northville or next Monday at Westland John Glenn will clinch the title. Central fell to 34-4 overall, 8-1 in the WLAA.

The win also provided some revenge for Salem.

The only thing lacking was a first-place finish by the local skaters.

Otherwise, the Tri-State Precision Skating Competition was a big success Saturday at the new Farmington Hills Ice Arena.

Between 1,500 paid admissions, 1,200 skaters, coaches and workers, it was standing room only during the day-long event, according to Carl Modetz of the Plymouth Skating Club.

Sixty-two teams from several Midwest states and Canada competed in 12 divisions based on age and skill level.

"Farmington truly benefited by all the ice we bought, and the exposure for the arena is tough to place a dollar value on," said Modetz, who assisted the Farmington Hills club in organizing the competition. "I can't say enough about the Farmington people. It worked out real well.

Canton posts record score after Invitational win

If this doesn't set the stage for the Western Lakes Activities Association gymnastics final, what possibly could?

Monday at Plymouth Canton, the Chiefs not only put together their best performance of the season, but their best ever — they scored a school-record 143.9, bettering the previous mark of 143.4 set by the 1992 WLAA championship team.

And know what? They lost.

Northville-Novi outdid Canton, posting a 144.2 in setting itself up as the team to beat in the league. The WLAA final will be at Canton next Thursday.

GYMNASTICS

The loss was the Chiefs' first this season after nine consecutive wins. They fell to 5-1 in the WLAA. Northville-Novi is 6-0 in the conference.

Another Canton school record fell, too: Katey Gilles posted a 9.65 in winning the balance beam, bettering her own mark of 9.6 set in '95. Gilles' 37.10 all-around total was best in the meet; she also won the vault (9.2) and was second in the uneven parallel bars (9.15).

Brie Wall was Canton's next-best performer, finishing in a second-place tie with teammate Marcie Emerick on the beam (9.0), fourth in the vault (8.9) and tying teammate Kim Nowak for fifth in the floor exercise (9.15). Wall tied for third in the all-around (36.15).

Other top scores for Canton were posted by Brooke Larson, who tied for third in the floor (9.2), and by Nowak, who tied for sixth in both the bars (8.9) and beam (8.75) and placed sixth in the all-around (35.1).

Last Saturday, both Canton and Plymouth Salem competed in the 18-team Freeland Invitational, with the Chiefs finishing first with a 141.95 total. Salem placed fifth at 137.5.

Traverse City was second (139.3), followed by host Freeland (139.0) and Hartland (138.75).

In Division I, the Chiefs' Gilles nearly notched a sweep. She won three of the events and finished second in the fourth, capturing the all-around title easily (37.45). Gilles posted winning scores of 9.55 in the vault, 9.15 in the beam and 9.55 in the bars.

She was second to Salem's Kristin Kosik in the floor. Kosik scored a 9.4 to Gilles' 9.2.

Kosik's other scores were 8.75, fifth in the beam; 8.65, fifth in the bars; and 8.9, sixth in the vault. She was fourth in the all-around (35.7).

Salem's Brooke Kilby was seventh in the bars (8.45) and eighth in the vault (8.65), beam (8.45) and floor (8.55), and was eighth in the all-around (34.1). The only other top-10 scorer for either team in Division I was Canton's Emerick, 10th in the bars (7.7).

In Division II, Salem's Zoe Yockey and Canton's Wall both recorded top-10 finishes in the all-around, with Yockey placing third (35.55) and Wall fifth (35.25).

Yockey was second in bars (9.0), fifth in floor (8.9) and eighth in both vault (8.7) and beam (8.95). Wall finished second in both the vault (8.9) and beam (9.2).

The only other top-10 finishes for either team were by Canton's Larson, eighth in both the vault (8.7) and bars (8.75), and Beth Muylaert, third in the beam (9.2); and by Salem's Danielle Pucholt, who tied for 10th in the beam (8.9).

Canton travels to Traverse City for its final dual meet of the season Saturday at 11 a.m. Salem is idle until the WLAA meet Thursday.

COLLEGE SPORTS

Donahue's 1,000th a winner

If coaching keeps one young, then Glen Donahue is at least on his second time through the teenage years.

Donahue has now coached 1,000 games — the equivalent of coaching a game every night for nearly 2.74 years — at the collegiate and high school levels.

Sure, that's a lot of losses. But it's a lot of victories, too.

And two of the most recent came last week against Delta, 84-81 on Wednesday, and over St. Clair, 94-75, Saturday.

Donahue compiled a 113-81 high school record at Highland Park, St. Gabriel, Salesian and Redford Bishop Borgess; had a 401-205 mark at Highland Park CC; and posted a 114-63 record at Orchard Lake St. Mary's college. That makes the total 1,000 — 636 of them victories.

Schoolcraft's Doug Walters earned a share of the league's Player of the Week honor for totaling 37 points and nine assists in the two wins.

He led the Ocelots with 26 points and four assists against Delta on 9-of-14 shooting. He added 11 points and five assists against St. Clair.

Bruce Goode scored 18 points and had 12 rebounds while Rudy Hatfield had 15 points and 11 rebounds in the win over St. Clair (8-3), which came into the game second in the conference. Dwaun Warmack, Dave Pavlak and Jason Maschke (Livonia Franklin) each had 12 points.

Crusaders also win

Brandon Slone (Plymouth Salem) scored 19 points to pace Madonna University to its seventh win in 27 tries this season, a 69-64 victory over visiting University of Michigan-Dearborn Saturday.

Jeff Kennedy had 17 points, Christian Emert 12 and Mike Maryanski 11 as balanced scoring offset 40 points split between two Dearborn players, Tyree Jackson (22) and Charles Johnson (18). Dearborn held a 32-26 halftime lead.

Maryanski took down 13 rebounds and six blocked shots while Slone had 10 rebounds for the Crusaders. Dearborn is now 9-19.

Lady Ocelots stumble

A two-shooter show gave St. Clair CC's women's basketball team the vengeance it sought Saturday as the Lady Skippers stopped Schoolcraft College 75-72 at SC.

The win not only pushed St. Clair ahead of SC in the MCCAA's Eastern Conference — the Skippers are 6-3 (13-8 overall) to the Lady Ocelots' 6-4 (16-8 overall) — it also put the entire conference standings into a state of disarray. Delta and St. Clair, tied for the league lead, met last night; one dropped into a tie for second at 6-4 with SC and Henry Ford CC. After that comes Mott at 4-5, followed by Oakland CC at 3-7 and Alpena at 3-8.

SC has two league games remaining, at Mott CC Saturday and at Oakland CC Feb. 21.

Disarray describes last Saturday's game, anyway. SC had traveled to St. Clair CC Jan. 17 and had returned with a victory. This time, it was the Skippers', the reigning conference champs, turn.

Officiating played a major role, to be sure. Both SC coaches, Ed Kavanaugh and Joe Miskovich, received technical fouls, and two players (one from each side) were ejected for fighting, although no technical was called on either.

The Ocelots were down a point (the same amount they trailed by at halftime) with 12 seconds left when Amy Pietila drove the lane. She dished the ball to Kristi Engel (from Redford Thurston), but Engel missed the layup and the putback.

St. Clair got the second rebound, and SC fouled with six seconds left. Stacy Leasher nailed both free throws, making SC's deficit three. The Ocelots did manage to get off a three-pointer at the buzzer, but Becky Bilicki's shot missed and — even though she was leveled on the play — no foul was called.

For the game, the Skippers were 25-of-30 (83.3 percent) from the line to SC's 13-of-17 (76.4 percent).

St. Clair's two-player show consisted of Leasher, who scored 31 points, and Kelly Falter, who had 27. They not only combined for 68 of their team's 75 points, they made 25-of-27 free throws (Leasher, 13-of-14; Falter, 12-of-13).

For SC, Bilicki finished with 24 points, Pietila had 16 and both Christine Edwards and Julie Schmidt netted eight.

WRESTLING

Salem places 3rd at conference final

BY DAN O'MEARA
STAFF WRITER

Livonia Stevenson didn't exit the stage as some had hoped after winning a second straight Western Lakes Activities Association wrestling championship.

A call for the final curtain was premature; the Spartans were merely between acts.

With a new cast of team leaders, Stevenson returned to win its third consecutive WLAA title Saturday at Plymouth Canton.

The Spartans had five first-time individual champions and 222 points to finish ahead of Walled Lake Western (179), Plymouth Salem (171½) and Westland John Glenn (158).

"It's all very pleasing because at the beginning of the season we weren't expected to be where we finished up," Stevenson coach Don Berg said. "It's the culmination of a lot of hard work."

In contrast with the last two years, the strength of the Stevenson lineup is in the lower weights.

The Spartans had six champions a year ago — all from 142 and up. This year's winners were at weights 140 and below.

Senior captains Dave Falzon (125), Dan Christenson (130) and Jon Sata (135) emerged from the shadows of last year's senior class to claim league titles, as did sophomore Katsuhiko Sueda (103) and junior Nick Petryk (140).

The Rocks had one weight-class champion: senior Clayton Walker at 215.

Walker (35-6) was seeded No. 2 and pinned No. 3 Bill Sari of Franklin (20-9) at 3:43 of the final. Sari eliminated No. 1 Steve Acton of North Farmington in the semis, 2-1 in overtime.

"My whole four years I've wanted to take first place, so I could get my picture on the wall of champions (in the Salem practice room)," Walker said.

"The first day of practice my freshman year I could barely do a somersault. I've worked so hard, and it's such a great feeling to finally be a league champion."

Walker attributed much of his success to his coaches, especially former Salem 189-pound WLAA champion and state placer Brian Burlison, who is good practice competition.

"My coaches have taught me so much about focusing my mind before a match," Walker said. "So far, this is definitely a highlight. Nothing comes close to this in my wrestling career."

Western senior John Woolf upset Farmington's two-time defending champ Matt Michalski in the 112-pound final, and juniors Steve Atwell (119) and Russ Thompson (145) were additional winners for the Warriors.

Livonia Churchill had two champions in senior Chris Seder (160) and junior Bob Fowler (275).

The other winners were Northville senior Mike Scappaticci (152), Glenn sophomore Tim Reeves (171) and Walled Lake Central junior Derek Vos (189). Plymouth Canton's Doug Cooper lost to Churchill's Fowler in the 275 final.

Falzon (35-4) and Christenson (37-4) upheld their No. 1 seedings. Falzon defeated Farmington's Mike Lane 17-7 in the final, and Christenson won by injury default over Central's Mike Donahue.

Sata (29-6) defeated No. 1 Randy Morgan of Central 15-8, scoring a flurry of third-period points to cement his title.

A third-period near-fall helped Sueda (34-8), the runner-up at 100 pounds in the JV tournament last year, clinch a 12-7 win over North Farmington's Scott Richmond.

"At the end when it was tied, I kinda got scared because I didn't want it to go into overtime," said Sueda, who has lived in the United States since age 5. "I just had to wrestle smart, keep good balance and position."

Petryk (33-9) had lost 8-6 in overtime two days earlier to Western's Paul Schneider but came back to beat the No. 1 seed Saturday, 5-2.

Woolf, the consolation winner at 126 last year, dropped two weights, and the move paid off Saturday when he avenged a 7-0 loss to Michalski with a victory in the finals, 4-2.

Woolf (21-4) scored a first-period takedown and reversed Michalski in the second for his points.

Michalski was pressing late in the third period for back points when the referee, hearing the buzzer for an adjoining mat, stopped the match prematurely.

With only eight seconds left, Michalski didn't have time to regain the same advantageous position.

"I figured I had to make my mark my senior year, so I dropped all the way down," Woolf said. "This is the hardest I've ever worked.

"My 103-pounder told me 'You're the underdog; you have to go out there and prove them wrong.' As long as I stayed aggressive on my feet, I knew I could take him down. (The loss to Michalski) was the only time I haven't taken someone down."

Fowler (20-4) won 11-7 over Plymouth Canton's Doug Cooper but nearly lost it in the first period when his opponent used a headlock to execute a takedown.

"I'm very happy with myself, because I spent the entire first period on my back and came back from 5-0 to win it," Fowler said.

"I thought it would be a little easier than it was, because I pinned him at Observerland. When he put me on my back in the first period, it kinda woke me up. I didn't want to lose."

Seder (26-4), who was fourth at 160 last year, is having more success with the added experience and maturity of being a senior.

"I've put in a lot more time, staying after practice, and my coaches have been working with me a lot," Seder said. "It's definitely worth all the extra time."

Two weeks ago at the Schoolcraft College Invitational, the Rocks lost two close games to the Vikings.

However, that Central team was anchored by 6-foot-1 middle hitter Becky Cummings. In the Vikings' final match of the tournament, Cummings injured her knee; she is still sidelined. She was scheduled to have further tests this week to determine when she could return.

Central is still formidable without her. But against the two-time defending champions Monday — a team with fire in its collective eyes after losing to Central earlier — the Vikings couldn't match up, mentally or physically.

"It changes us a whole ton," said Central coach Mike Lindstrom of Cummings' loss. "And (Salem) knows that. These are two good teams, but we're struggling."

The Vikings were never able to get the upper hand against Salem. In the three games, they managed to lead just four times: 2-1 in the first game, 1-0 in the second game, and 3-2 and 5-4 in the third game.

"She's a big difference in their team," said Salem coach Brian Gilles. "From where we saw them two weeks ago, without her I almost feel sorry for them.

"But at the same time, I'm real glad to win this one."

Salem's leaders were Shellye Sills with 19 kills, four service aces and four block assists; Karissa Socia with six kills; Nicole Van Hees and Kim Sheldon, each getting five kills, with Van Hees adding three block assists and Sheldon chipping in five digs and two block assists; Amanda Abraham with four kills, two solo blocks and four block assists; and setters Karen Springsteen and Kari Flynn combining for 28 assists to kills, with Springsteen also adding five aces.

"I didn't think we played an outstanding game passing the ball to our big hitters," said Gilles. "But we outscrapped them."

The Rocks also outserved them. In the first game, they got six points on aces or unreturned serves; the number escalated to seven in the second before they finished with three in the third.

Which means Salem got more than one-third of its 45 points on just serving.

"I think they understood that if they played (Central) a little sharper, they could beat them," said Gilles. "When they found out Becky (Cummings) wasn't playing, it gave them that extra shot."

Which is all the Rocks needed. In the first game, Central was as close as 5-4 before Salem took command, scoring the next seven points; the Vikings got it to 12-8 before falling.

Hawks had the edge on the boards, particularly at crucial points in the game.

The score was tied at 21 after one period, Harrison held a 42-40 halftime lead and was up, 56-53, after three.

"The game was always in doubt," Teachman said. "That period of not playing defense in the first half bothered me. They had 21 points in the paint.

"With a young team — when you don't know how you're going to come out shooting — you've got to rely on your defense. But at the end, they were excellent on defense."

Especially when Justin Snow smothered Power and forced him to take a badly off-balance three-point shot at the buzzer that clanged off the right side of the rim and backboard.

The Hawks did not have school this week so Teachman called a morning game-day practice and drilled his team on the Rocks' press and half-court offense.

Guess you can still learn something even when school is out.

(and three assists); Mike Elsner, 16; Ron Hunter, 14 (with four boards and six assists); and Mark Bray, 10 (with four rebounds and four assists). Donte Scott collected five points, a team-best 11 boards and five assists.

Farmington was led by Jake Siskosky with 16 points, which included 4-of-6 shooting on three-pointers. Next highest, however, was Dave Dilworth with six.

■ Roeper 73, PCA 69: The comeback came for Plymouth Christian Academy Tuesday at Bloomfield Hills Roeper, but it came too late.

The Eagles (9-7 overall, 2-5 in the Michigan Independent Athletic Conference) allowed Roeper to build an enormous lead through the first three quarters before rallying to make it a game in the fourth.

By then it was too late. PCA got 16 points from Mark Hovermale (and seven rebounds), 14 points from Chris DeRenzo and nine apiece from Jeremy Shia and Mike Roose (with nine boards).

Eric Righetti led the Roughriders (3-5 in the MIAC) with 25 points. Chris Watkins and Josh McCaun got 12 each, and Byron Pink scored 11.

Roeper led 22-10 after one quarter, 39-26 at the half and 57-42 through three quarters. The Eagles finally rallied in the fourth behind Hovermale, DeRenzo and Shia, each scoring six in the period as PCA outpointed Roeper 27-16.

"We were one possession away (from tying the score) and we had the ball," said PCA coach Dan Brandel. "And we had two shots at (tying) it.

"But starting in the first quarter, we just did not show up."

Last Friday, the Eagles' visit to Allen Park Inter-City Baptist proved a fruitless one as the state-ranked Chargers thumped PCA 61-41.

The Eagles were within striking distance through the first half, trailing 33-26. But a 19-3 third-quarter explosion by the Chargers ended PCA's hopes.

Jim Neil's 11 points was tops for the Eagles. Jim Long and Mike Zeisman led Inter-City with 13 each.

■ Agape 97, Saline Christian 64: From the opening tip Monday, Plymouth Agape Christian poured it on against visiting Saline Christian, eventually building a 49-28 lead by halftime.

The victory clinched the Metro Christian Conference championship for Agape, which is 13-2 overall and 7-0 in the MCC. Saline Christian slipped to 7-4 overall, 4-3 in the MCC.

Paul Salah led the Wolverines' attack with 31 points and 15 rebounds. Cory Mullen scored 22, with Adam Martin getting 14, Josh Thompson 12 and Matt Major 10. Ross Gordon's 23 paced Saline Christian; Matt Short had 10.

■ Detroit CC 81, Rochester SS: Four players scored in double figures Tuesday for host Catholic Central, which breezed to the easy non-league win against Rochester.

The Shamrocks, who improved to 13-3 overall, led 32-10 after one quarter and 53-26 at halftime.

Junior guard Marc McDonald led the Shamrocks with 16 points. Seniors Justin Hoener and Michael Jordan had 12 points each followed by senior guard Chris Misiak with 10.

Tom Chirco had 14 and Matt Maniago 12 for Rochester, which fell to 9-6 overall.

the facility, the aesthetics of it, the layout. The skaters loved the ice. The workers, the people who ran the Zamboni, gave us quick ice makes and made quality ice."

The best area skaters could do was a second place in Team Introductory by the Birmingham Blazing Blades. The Plymouth Sparklers were third in two categories, the Oxford Ice Crystals and Blades one apiece.

The Crystallettes of the Dearborn based Great Lakes Skating Club and Team Elan of the Detroit Skating Club dominated the competition with four and three first places, respectively.

"We were hoping for a little bit better," Modetz said. "The preliminary team was a real pleasant surprise, but we were really hoping the juvenile team would get a medal.

"Of all the teams, we thought they probably had the best chance. It has more girls who have skated together, and more of them have skated precision than the other teams."

The second-place team in the Senior Free Skate division was from Miami (Ohio) University where precision skating is a varsity sport.

Thought it's not strictly a female sport, Modetz said he foresees it becoming a varsity sport at more schools as the gender-equity issue unfolds.

"Here's a chance to offer 30 scholarships to women. That helps offset the 100 or so they give to football players," he said.

The finale by the three Senior Free Skate teams before a capacity evening crowd was worth the price of admission itself, according to Modetz.

"The Canadian team did a routine to Michael Jackson songs, and all the girls on our club couldn't believe it," he said.

"I said to one of the workers 'How in the world can you pick between these three teams?' It was high quality skating. It was a quality way to wrap up the day."

Besides the skating conditions, the size of the arena was a benefit and comfort to the competitors, Modetz said.

"The skaters themselves really enjoyed this competition," he said. "Most times they don't get locker rooms. If they do, it's only for 10 minutes to change.

Take a closer look at the day's news on Internet

O&E ONLINE

EMORY DANIELS

The Internet is not only a good place to find current news but to get detailed information about the day's news.

There's been a lot of interest amongst on-liners in the Telecommunications Bill that has passed the U.S. House and now awaits Senate passage, which may occur before this column's ink dries. Anyone wanting to take a look at the full text of the House bill, point your Web browser to http://www.bell.com. Warning — it's long.

The Congressional Quarterly also has opened a 96 election page which can be accessed at http://voter96.cqalert.com.

Interested in how your Congressman voted on this measure, or any other piece of legislation? A site called "How Congress Voted" allows you to find out how your Senator and Congressman voted just by entering your Zip Code The Universal Resource Locator (URL) is http://www.timeinc.com/cgi-bin/congress-votes.

A similar site will take your ZIP Code and returns the address and congressional district of that representative. Point to http://www.stardot.com/zipper. This is one service offered by the Jefferson Project which is a fully searchable index of political sites around the globe. Point to http://www.stardot.com/jefferson and you find such general categories as Politicians and Candidates, Parties, Magazines, State Resources, Political Humor, Issues and Activists, The Left, The Right, The Radical, Political Watchdogs, Interactive and Reference, International, Government Resources, Listserves and Mailing Lists, and Campaign '96. There also are links to some 60 political magazines.

Sometimes our desire to become informed about a particular subject cannot be satisfied by normal means. The University of Michigan Documents Center provides a "Documents in the News" page that provides full text documents taken from original sources on such subjects as Rabin's' assassination and Bosnia. The URL is http://www.lib.umich.edu/libhome/Documents.center/docnews.html.

Another way to stay informed on current events by getting more detailed information is to take advantage of the hundreds (thousands?) of electronic magazines or e-zines. There are so many e-zines on the Internet now that a specific search tool has been developed to help find the one that best relates to your topic.

You can access "Magfinder Online" by pointing to http://www.magazinebusiness.co.uk/. The site believes it has the widest-ranging selection of magazine links on the Web, and who am I to argue? The general categories include animals & pets, lifestyle, arts & entertainment, motoring, business & finance, professional, computers, current affairs, specialist interests, general interests, sports, publishing industry.

Another source of news maintained by GrayFire Information Services offers news stories from Reuters, Bloomberg Business News, Standard & Poor's MarketScope, Knight-Ridder/Tribune Business News, and many U.S. newspapers. The publications are updated throughout the day.

"The Wall Street section allows you to create a personal portfolio and track your stocks, including current (well, OK, 15-minute-delayed) pricing, volume, and news," says Karen Olrik, director of product development for GrayFire. "You can also see historical pricing, latest trade information, and create price graphs on the fly." Visit this site by pointing to http://www.grayfire.com.

By now most of us would try Yahoo as a search tool for news or information. A New Kid on the Block of super search tools is Digital Equipment Corp.'s net search service called Alta Vista. Point to http://www.altavista.digital.com.

Digital has developed what it calls "super spider" software which it claims runs 100 times faster than its competitors in searching out and indexing web sites. (Again, who am I to question). Alta Vista indexed some 16.5 million pages in only eight days which, if true, means in little more than a week they amassed a bigger catalog than either InfoSeek or Lycos. Digital plans to index the entire Web. Alta Vista also maintains a separate and dynamic index of Usenet postings.

By the way, an engineer at Digital has taken data from Alta Vista tests and came up with this estimate on the size of the World Wide Web — 130,000 servers holding a total of 40-50 million pages (not including graphics, audio and video) as of November 1995.

Last year I erred in referring to an education site as an NEA site. Well, the NEA now has a presence on the Web and has since December 1995. Point to http://www.nea.org.

You can direct questions to Emory Daniels by e-mail with emory@oeonline.com or fax number 591-7279. To sign up for O&E On-Line, dial (313)591-0903, at "log-in" prompt type "new" and at "Key:" prompt type GL6NY2. Try disciplined way of investing

TOM HOGAN

With cash inflows pumping up the stock market and this year's market already setting several new highs, how high will the market go from here before we get a market correction?

The relentless push of the stock market upward, constantly moving it into record territory is making many people very nervous. They wonder if it is time to get out, or should they stay in or jump in for fear of missing even bigger gains. Who is correct?

It is difficult to know for sure whether or not we are at a market top, or are we just going to march right on to a DOW 6000 by year end. Frankly, my crystal ball is not clear enough to answer either question.

What I prefer to recommend is that investors take a disciplined approach to investing in the form of an asset-allocation strategy which proportions holdings in stock, bonds and cash according to your risk tolerance profile.

In other words, how much of your savings are you willing to risk in stocks and how risky do you want those stocks to be?

In a diversified portfolio, you are not putting all your eggs in one basket and you can skew your allocation toward more or less risk. Once you have determined what your allocation strategy is, then you should stick with it for the long haul, because you will receive the more consistent returns that way.

However, you should be willing to re-balance your portfolio at least once a year. That means taking profits from the asset classes that did well in the last year and move them to the categories that did not do so well.

This makes sense, because the stocks that did well last year, often don't do as well the next year. Conversely, assets which have been lagging for a couple of years, can follow up with a very good year.

To give you an idea of what I mean, international stocks don't always follow U.S. stocks in terms of their going up and down at the same time. In 1995 the U.S. stock market had a banner year and international stocks, for the most part, lagged behind. Maybe the next few years will be just the opposite.

Taking this into consideration, we are recommending that our clients move just the profits from their U.S. assets into the international markets, thus reducing U.S. holdings and increasing foreign assets. This does not dramatically change the overall portfolio, but it does re-balance one's allocation in the direction the market appears to be headed.

Questions and comments are welcome. If you would like a particular financial subject addressed, write: Elizabeth A. Allen or Thomas E. Hogan, Observer Newspapers Editorial Department, 36251 Schoolcraft, Livonia 48150.

■ CORPORATION ACQUIRED

Tenneco Packaging, which has a plant in Plymouth, has acquired Mid-Michigan Container Corp., manufacturer of corrugated boxes and specialty corrugated packaging.

The acquisition includes a manufacturing plant in Edmore and an assembly operation in Traverse City.

"The addition of Mid-Michigan Container is another important step in fulfilling our specialty plant strategy," said Dwight G. Ebeling, vice president and area general manager for Tenneco Packaging's Corrugated Products unit. "In concert with our existing corrugating plants in the state, the Edmore and Traverse City operations will continue their role of supplying customers in central and northern Michigan with high-quality corrugated packaging."

Tenneco Packaging operates two full-line corrugated products plants in Grandville and Plymouth. The newly acquired operations will focus on serving customers who require smaller orders, shorter lead times and specialized services. The former mid-Michigan operations will be supplied with corrugated sheets by the full-line Tenneco Packaging plants.

Tenneco Packaging recently completed the acquisition of the plastics division of the Mobil Corp. for $1.27 billion. Formerly known as Packaging Corporation of America, Tenneco Packaging changed its name and logo as part of a Tenneco corporate identity program announced in early November.

■ PRSA AWARD

The public relations and marketing communication firm of Robert E. Moreillon Inc. in Livonia received one of eight Awards of Excellence in the 1995 North Star Awards competition sponsored by the Detroit Chapter of Public Relations Society of America.

Bob Moreillon of Novi is president of the firm, which in June celebrated 20 years in business in downtown Detroit and Livonia.

The award, in the category of community relations, was for a program called The Good Neighbor Team, which Moreillon initiated for Bergstrom's Inc., a heating, cooling and air conditioning company in Livonia.

The Observer Newspapers and the Salvation Army were partners with Bergstrom's in the program, which provided furnace repair for needy homeowners who otherwise might not have had heat last winter.

Robert E. Moreillon Inc. is at 19500 Middlebelt, Suite 260, in Livonia.

The Detroit chapter of PRSA honored 18 entries at its Dec. 19 awards luncheon. The program recognizes outstanding communications professionals and programs in eight categories: community relations, marketing communications, public affairs/issues management, institutional programs, investor/financial relations, internal public relations and special events.

■ COMPLETES EXHIBIT

Exhibit Works of Livonia has put the finishing touches on the Motor City Exhibition, the newest permanent exhibit at the Detroit Historical Society.

The 8,000-square-foot interactive display, which features a working body drop from the former Cadillac Clark Street plant, was developed by Exhibit Works, Detroit Historical Museum staff, automotive historians, representatives from the Big Three, and more than 80 automotive suppliers.

The body drop traces three vehicles moving through the assembly line, while giant pinchers lower the body of a baby blue Cadillac onto a chassis.

The exhibit's 15 displays and videos recount the story of Detroit's rise to fame as the Motor City.

"For anyone who loves automobiles, this exhibit is a must see," said Ted Lottman, production manager at Exhibit Works. "But I think this exhibit is great for children, too."

Exhibit Works was the designer and fabricator of the 1996 North American International Auto Show exhibits for Ford Motor Co. and Volkswagen/Audi. The firm will also design and fabricate the exhibits for the upcoming Automotive Hall of Fame in Dearborn.

INTERIOR MOTIVES

French decorating is 'soigne et bon gout'

NAOMI STONE LEVY

Part I

No matter the simplicity, the French people instinctively know all there ever was to know regarding elegance in their furniture, fabrics and "bibelots." What we refer to as French Provincial is a countrified version of French, but is nonetheless "soigne" (elegant). When you graduate to any of the more formal "Louis" periods their elegance becomes incredible.

Country French furniture won't be highly polished. It won't be pretentious. It won't be ostentatious. It won't be unadorned; there is a lot of handcarving. It will always have that inimitable handcrafted appearance. It may be lighter in weight, both physically and visually. It will always be refined, called "bon gout" or in good taste. If we are going to deal with French let's use a few of their words and phrases.

The finishes range from painted to warm walnut coloration and patina. The furniture will rarely be mahogany, leaving that for their more formal furniture or their English counterparts. Their country painted pieces have a rubbed-off and aged appearance, even when brand new. What we term "distressed" almost always prevails.

Upholstery

The French are fabulous weavers, among the best in the world. Therefore, we can expect their upholstered furniture to display fabrics "extraordinaire." A simple tapestry in muted colors is often the prevailing material. Even on the most countrified frames we find linen velvets and other pile finishes. However, their fantastic damasks are reserved for the more formal pieces.

Simple cottons in wonderful "Toile de Jouy" prints are also prevalent. Other cotton prints, generally with a small repeat pattern, are ever popular. Quilting these cottons adds to their appeal, to the country look and to their durability.

Commencing with seating pieces, sofas and chairs are seldom overstuffed and boxy. If there is a skirt, it usually is ruffled or box pleated. More often, the lighter weight frame is exposed, on legs, with stretchers, sometimes double stretchers. They are known as bergeres or fauteuils. The arms may have a small padded area, with the balance of the wood arm exposed. The curves incorporated into the shapes of French Provincial resonate their design skills and innate good taste. Look at the pieces and see how intelligently these skills are used.

Storage

Storage units elicit another specialty. Armoires and bonnetieres originated with the French. We are smart if we avail ourselves of their knowledge. I frequently advise use of these marvels to house the ever-present TV sets that are ruinous to the decor of a living area.

Dressers, credenzas and cabinets are more palatable when in the provincial mode. They will undoubtedly be curvaceous and carved. These case pieces, when antique, are often topped with rouge marble. When they are reproduced that is the intelligent way to go.

Returning to the subject of finishes: All of the above will be handsome if knowledgeably painted. The paint should be wiped out of the grooves and carvings, leaving some of the bare wood exposed. This requires a craftsperson who cannot learn the technique in one easy lesson; it takes study and practice, and, it is hoped, a good teacher.

Another great finish is fruitwood in a light color; of course hand-rubbed, never, never a factory spray-on. Fruitwoods include apple, pear, cherry and walnut.

Floors and windows

On the floor. Where do we go from here? Try for wood floors of lightly stained oak or pine. Top that with small scattered area rugs. Braided, hooked or Oriental designs are all very correct with provincial interiors.

On the windows. I would advocate louvered shutters as the No. 1 choice. No. 2 would be sill-length curtains, on rods. They can be suspended on cloth tabls, or brass pinch-on tabs. The fabric for said curtains should be a lined (necessary for room darkening) cotton with a whimsical trim.

The curtain fabrics offer many options. Plain colors (even plain old beige linen) are great foils for trims. We haven't discussed provincial printed fabrics, generally small all-over repeats. They are the essence of French. Flat, wide, ribbon-like braids sewn on at least ½-inch from the edges are quaint. The trim could also be hanging hand-tied tassels in agreeable colors, the more handsome the tassel the more costly it becomes.

On the table

Ready to select tables and lamps? In many previous columns I have discussed scale. Once again, be sure that the accompanying tables aren't too ponderous; the old ones are mostly small. The lamps are also lightweight.

French lamps simply follow their own predecessors. The "bouilliotte" is the most recognized, always bespeaking French. The best interpretation will be painted tole, usually a two- or three-candled version. There were no coffee tables in 18th century France, but there were charismatic painted tole trays, often set on a low table and used in front of a settee.

MARKET PLACE

Cuppa art

Classic coffee: Wells Freight & Cargo in Birmingham features fine china inspired from the great artistic masters. The pieces include espresso and cappuccino cups and saucers from Cafe Arts and Signature. Shown here are cups and saucers with a decidedly artistic flair from Cafe Arts. A set of four cappuccino or espresso cups is $24.97. Also shown is a set of "Mona Lisa" demi tasse cups and saucers from Signature; cost is $14.97 for a set of four. Among other graphics from Signature are "World Map" and "Clock" demi tasse cups and "Rise and Shine" and "Coffee Express" cups for cappuccino.

Camel Flair

Sculpted sofa: This soft, sculpted camel-back sofa exemplifies the high standards Bernhardt has established for the furniture maker's new Flair division: that every frame be fresh and distinctive, and that every piece look good all the way around with the best fabrics and finest tailoring. Flair is rounded, flowing, livable shapes that are, above all, casual and comfortable. Note the reverse camel arm mitered down to the skirt. The 89-inch sofa is covered in a lush, casual fabric that features a subtle diagonal effect with bulky cotton chenille yarns on a textured warp. The pillow covering is a multi-textured plain fabric of rayon chenille yarns that give a luxurious hand. Available from Creative Collections at Lacoff's at Michigan Design Center in Troy. Levy from page 2D

I cannot sign off without a few tips on "bibelot." Because the small table surfaces will be limited, the accessories logically will also be small. This is the perfect time to display your treasured collections.

One of the collectibles of that era were sulfides. These were small, breathtaking bits of glass with portraits, flowers or fruit incised into and then etched white with sulfur. Other items, made of papier-mache, would look wonderful as table toppers. Snuff boxes made of tortoiseshell or silver or brass will be tasteful and suitable.

The formidable topic of "formal" French will require more space than I am permitted in this column. I shall try to shed some light on this awesome and complex subject next time.

What should be done to create safer homes

JOE GAGNON

This article is written to inform the consumer and to warn the construction industry, that if this advocate turns his attention in your direction, some of you will pay through the nose. Get your attention — I hope so.

I know of a community where several new homes were built this past year and the dryer has to be vented into and up the walls and across the attic etc. The length is much too long and consumers are forced to use that dreaded plastic vent line. This was all created by the builder without any thought to the homeowners safety or to the state construction codes which specify that the vent line should be no longer than 14 feet and should be metal. I would hope that the construction industry would wise up to how many house fires are started each year by an improperly vented clothes dryer.

If I was having a new home built or an older home renovated, I would incorporate into the job some things which differ from the norm. I thought the readers of this column might find it interesting as to what my thoughts are on this subject.

1. Let's start with the dryer. I would have a direct hole made on the wall behind the dryer. It would be in the exact position where the exhaust comes out of the dryer so that a short piece of solid aluminum vent line would fit perfectly in place. The venting to the outside would be a distance of only inches and this method would add years oflife to the product plus assure that little lint would ever clog up the vent line. Not only would it be the safest method, and add years to the product, it would also take about one half as long to dry a load of clothes and save a lot of money in energy cost.

2. If I was having a new kitchen floor installed I would make sure that the sub-board was removeable in front of my dishwesher. I can't tell you how many times people purchase a new dishwasher and when they try to remove the old one, it won't come out. There are leveling legs on a dishwasher and they only go up so far. If they don't clear the new floor it many times means removing the kitchen counter top. That can end up costing more than the dishwasher.

3.I would have a circuit breaker box installed in my stairway leading into the basement. Every year in this country homeowners are killed when they step into a flooded basement. I would make it easy to kill all power to the home at a point which would be safe to do so. I would also place a smoke alarm at that point.

4. The plumbing pipes to my clothes washer would have the new type shutoffs called handies. They would not be the round type shut offs that we normally see in homes. The reason for these new type handles makes it as easy as using your fingers to shut off the water supply when you are done washing. There is a lot of damage caused by ruptured hoses leading to a clothes washer and it will only happen once to you before you give this some serious thought.

5. I would make sure that all gas lines have a shut off valve installed where I can reach it easily in case of emergency.

6. In the built in area of my refrigerator on the back wall, I would have louvers cut into the wall and even a small fan installed to remove the heat which is displaced by the refrigerator compressor. This removal of heat is critical to the life expectancy of the refrigerator and also to the cost of operation to any refrigerator.

7. The stove or microwave would be placed far enough away from the refrigerator so that the refrigerator didn't suffer the added heat of cooking products.

Just some thoughts folks as to what I would do, and maybe something for the construction industry to think about.

Joe Gagnon, the Appliance Doctor, will answer your questions about maintaining and repairing large appliances. Gagnon is president of Carmack Appliances in Garden City and does a weekly radio program on WJR-AM. He is author of "First Aid from the Appliance Doctor," available at area bookstores.

TRANSFORMATIONS

Two young architects make old, conventional houses look new and exciting.

Renovations bring dramatic change

STORY BY HUGH GALLAGHER • STAFF WRITER

When Jackie and Michael Bogle went house hunting they found the perfect location on White Lake, but the stone-fronted house was another story.

"We loved the property but didn't care for the house. But we knew it had possibilities," said Jackie.

To bring out the possibilities, the Bogles turned to two young Birmingham architects, Kevin Akey and Frank Zychowski, who have been transforming many area homes from ordinary to special.

Akey, 33, said many homeowners are like the Bogles, they have prime lakefront property but they're unhappy with the dated appearance of the house.

"They come to us and say should we tear it down, save it. I analyze their needs and make a recommendation to tear down or save," Akey said.

Akey advised the Bogles that their house could be renovated to give them better views of the lake they love,

"It often comes down to an investment aspect, how much they put into it and how long they want to stay. Then we show them things that are beyond their wildest dreams about what a house can be," said Zychowski, also 33.

The architects met while students at Lawrence Technological University. They worked together at another firm before striking out on their own as AZD Associates Inc. 5 1/2 years ago.

"We do separate things," Akey said. "I handle client contact, getting jobs, the complete design process. Frank takes over after that and handles technical coordination, blueprints, works with the builders. There is a lot of interaction."

House transformations constitute about 40 percent of their business, which also includes new houses, industrial and commercial buildings. Each project is a collaborative effort between the homeowner, the architects and the builders who will complete the work.

"Each client is different. Some people obviously we wouldn't take a house and turn it into something like this without their input. We discuss what they need in space, taste in architecture, budget," said Zychowksi.

Jackie Bogle said Akey did most of the designing on her house, but she told him the size of the rooms she wanted and that she wanted more light. Akey took a dark, stone fronted house with small windows and turned it into a dazzling, soaring two-story white house with glass from top to bottom. By breaking out the center of the house and changing the roofline, Akey gave the house a whole new look, a look that Jackie Bogle calls "very pure with the white and all the openness."

"We give them two or three alternatives as far as the exterior. They may have an idea, 'I like stone, not cold, stark contemporary.' In terms of our ideas, we max out glass. Clients often don't understand the possibilities," Akey said.

Zychowski said clients often know what they want but are unaware of what can be done.

"They're not used to looking in the third dimension. Most clients give us minimal input and allow us to use our creativity and experience. When they're not pushing us and we're not pushing them, we have our most successful projects," Zychowski said.

But some clients do have definite ideas about what they want. One Franklin homeowner had AZD turn his simple white Cape Cod into an exquisite buff-colored Tudor.

For Leonard and Lorraine Skersky of White Lake, the style they wanted was Victorian.

"We both wanted Victorian," said Leonard Skersky. "It was difficult to make the transformation from 1950s tri-level to Victorian. There was a lot of back and forth. After three or four sets of drawings we agreed on things."

The Skerskys' "painted lady" is a bright yellow clapboard with new gables and window treatments and a turret replacing the dull gray standard brick '50s tri-level.

"It worked out very nicely," Skersky said. "We got the attic space and liked the Victorian. We changed the inside and the facade. We got the turret which is like an atrium. Right now I'm sitting in the dining room and it's 28 feet to the top, all windows that bring in beautiful light in the morning."

The Skersky's are finishing up the rest of the project. Leonard Skersky, who works at Ford Motor Co., enjoys doing the woodworking as a hobby.

But Akey is often able to nudge clients to try something different.

"Some architects go in and tell people what they have to do, some sit back and do what the client wants. I've been complimented on taking an interview and going off in another direction, taken ideas and grown with them," Akey said.

The transformations have ranged in total price from $20,000 to $800,000 with the average being $150,000 to $300,000. Once AZD has done its work, a builder takes over. But Akey and Zychowski stay with a project as it develops.

"As with anything, things pop up," Zychowski said. "We try to get clients to understand the drawings. We have to adjust. We stay with it all the way through."

Zychowski said it is important for a homeowner to meet with several builders to find one with whom they can be comfortable.

Jackie Bogle said Akey was always calling and checking on every aspect of the job. Though she said she had some problems with the builder, she has been generally happy with the resulting renovation.

"I just love it more than I thought I would. I tell my husband every day I want to stay here as long as we can," she said.

INVITING IDEAS

Doing tapas is fun way to help put lid on winter

RUTH MOSSOK JOHNSTON

I love using the word Tapas. Those unfamiliar with this term usually think I am saying "topless" — what fun watching their quizzical faces, waiting for me to continue — the Spanish word for Tapa means lid. Its use probably came from the old custom, and actual decree, of insisting on the placing of a small plate over a glass of wine in drinking establishments — this plate contained small edibles to ensure some level of sobriety among the clientele, especially the nation's coach drivers. Tapas bars pepper the waterfront barrios of Barcelona and are ever present throughout Spain. The tradition of tapas incorporates many types of appetizers, savory and piquant, with a heavy emphasis on fish and shellfish. Individual tapas bars will reflect the regional origins of the proprietors, and the number of selections could be as few as half a dozen or just under 100.

One of my favorite restaurants in Chicago is "Cafe Ba-Ba-Reeba!," part of Lettuce Entertain You Enterprises Inc., on Halsted Street. This upscale trendy spot specializes in Spanish cuisine and only tapas, those popular hot and cold "little dishes of Spain" — small appetizer-type portions of wonderful tastes and flavors.

Doing tapas at home makes for an interesting form of entertaining, either an intimate gathering for two, or a large party (lunch, dinner or just for snacks). The number of dishes is up to you. Add some delicious wine, warm crusty bread with plenty of goat cheese, and enjoy the experience — remember, the party is yours, you can do any type of ethnic cuisine you choose, it doesn't have to be only Spanish.

Here are some traditional tapas selections, or use your favorite paella recipe.

MUSSELS ESCABECHE

40-50 mussels, scrubbed well and debearded
4 cloves garlic, peeled and left whole
3 slices of lemon, whole lemon round, sliced thin
Ingredients for Escabeche:
1½ cups olive oil (high quality)
¾ cup red wine vinegar
1 clove garlic, peeled and minced
1 small onion, peeled and minced
1½ tablespoons chopped fresh parsley
2 teaspoons chili powder
¼ teaspoon cayenne pepper
Juice of 1 fresh lemon
Freshly ground sea salt (or kosher salt) and freshly ground black pepper to taste

When cleaning mussels, make sure they are all closed — tap on any open ones, if they don't close — discard.

In a large non-reactive pot, add approximately 2 inches of cold water, the garlic and lemon slices. Steam the mussels until they open. Gently refresh under a small stream of cool water.

In a large glass bowl, mix together the Escabeche ingredients — olive oil, wine vinegar, minced garlic, minced onion, and chopped parsley. Gently add the chili powder, cayenne pepper, and lemon juice. Add the fresh ground salt and pepper to taste. Add the mussels to the Escabeche and refrigerate 12 hours or overnight. Serve the mussels cold in their marinade on individual plates. Serves 8.

GRILLED WHOLE SHRIMP WITH AIOLI SAUCE

Ingredients for shrimp
6 garlic cloves, peeled and coarsely chopped
½ cup olive oil (good quality)
2¼ to 2½ pounds whole shrimp, washed well and left in shells
Chopped parsley, washed well
Ingredients for the aioli:
3 cups mayonnaise
1 teaspoon lemon juice
6-12 cloves garlic, peeled and finely minced

In a glass bowl, place garlic, olive oil and shrimp — marinate for ½ hour.

Prepare the garlic mayonnaise while shrimp is marinating.

In a bowl, whisk together the mayonnaise and the garlic, slowly adding the lemon juice. Set aside for serving of shrimp.

On the top of the stove in a heavy skillet, or a stove top grill (or grill pan), heat the oiled pan over medium high heat until hot — add shrimp, a few at a time, to keep under control. Add a little of the marinade oil to the shrimp while it's cooking — cook the shrimp two minutes on each side, adding a little oil to prevent it from drying out.

Keep the cooked shrimp warm — do not over cook. When the shrimp is ready, sprinkle with chopped parsley and serve with the garlic mayonnaise. Serves 8.

LET'S REMODEL

Leak can cause damp basement

Q: Our basement is wet and damp. We are unsure of what is causing this but wondered if you could help us with some suggestions or directions on how to solve the problem. A: It is possible that you have a leak in your basement. Mold, mildew, discolored walls, paint chipping or flaking, warping of paneling or cabinets, floor tile buckling or raising, rusting of appliances, cracks, excessive dampness can all be signs of trouble.

During periods of cold weather, the building materials used in your foundation contract and shrink, thus the cracks and voids that allow water to enter are larger.

When the ground is frozen or covered with ice and snow, and warmer temperatures bring rain, the ground becomes quickly saturated and so does your basement!

Here are some things you can consider in finding the source of the problem.

■ Take a look at your grading coming up the foundation. Is it sloping toward the house or away from it? Your grading should slope away from the foundation, as this will prevent excess surface water from building up around the outside of the basement walls.

■ Improperly positioned downspouts can also add to the problem. If your downspouts are running off to the surface they should discharge the water a minimum of 5 to 6 feet away from the foundation walls.

If your downspouts are going into tile underground, check to make sure they are draining properly. The use of a garden hose is all it takes.

■ On the inside, if you have a sump pump system, check the float mechanism for proper operation.

These are just a few of the more common culprits either causing or adding to a basement problem. If you have taken these steps without results you may be in need of some professional help.

If you do need a reputable contractor consider the following before signing a contract.

■ Is the solution you're considering a tried and proven method?

■ What does the warranty cover and for how long?

■ How strong is the company to back the warranty?

■ Can the contractor supply you with a list of satisfied customers or more importantly referrals from lending institutions who finance their work?

■ What kind of credentials has the company built over the years?

Credibility is not something you declare, it is something you earn over years of developing satisfied customers.

BOOK BREAK

'All My Sins . . .' is worthwhile reading

VICTORIA DIAZ

"All My Sins Are Relatives," by W. S. Penn (257 pp., $25.00, University of Nebraska Press).

W. S. Penn ("The Absence of Angels") is an associate professor of English at Michigan State University, a member of the National Advisory Council on Native American Writing and the Native Writers Circle. He writes here of his experience as a mixblood of Anglo, Nez Perce/Osage descent, who grew up not on a reservation, but in the city of Los Angeles.

Though the title may imply otherwise, "All My Sins Are Relatives" is not light reading. It is flavored by Penn's background as a scholar who takes his subject very, very seriously, and expects his readers to meet him at least halfway. Somehow, you just know he'd prefer that you sit up straight and didn't chew gum while reading this book. Grousing about via rambling, elaborately-punctuated sentences, amidst a confusion of time frames and tenses, he shows us that he can make the mysterious even more so, especially for those are not familiar with what he calls "the digressive circularity of the oral tradition."

Even so, Penn's book is a worthwhile read, especially for readers who have special interest in literature focusing on the Native American experience. It touches, elucidates, and wittily perceives, lending warmth to the commentary (and to Penn), "Indians are popular right now," he observes drily. ". . . you find movies like "Dunces (sic) with Wolves" that dress Indian women in Eastern beaded buckskin . . . or make Indian men into sentimentalists who shout "You are my brother!" from the ends of stories."

And "You have to care," he reveals to those who want to know exactly how he writes a book. "Enough to get out of bed . . . and overcome the inertial despair of shoelaces."

Now and then, Penn's filigreed prose turns surprisingly brief and lively, seems almost to break into dance. "Exclamation marks . . . make dull sentences important!" he writes at one point. "They give horns to crows!"

Two of the most memorable sections of "All My Sins Are Relatives" reflect his marked scene-making gifts. When, as a young man, he accompanies his mother on a rare visit to her parents' home, readers may feel his isolation so sharply they will be relieved to reach scene's end, and head somewhere else, anywhere else. And, when Penn learns to "hurry up and wait" among a motley crew of resourceful Army grunts mixing urine samples in a desperate attempt to escape Viet Nam assignments, laughter and tears seem equally apropos

Penn has many specific bones to pick, and indulges himself by doing some of the picking here. His mother who, according to him, wrote him out of her will one day, heads the list. ("Poor Mother," he says, claiming that, at her funeral, he "wept from laughter"). Next, in no particular order, he hones in on: an agent's assistant who once wrote him "the meanest letter"; the TV couple who fall in love over that "crystallized coffee gunk"; the Coca-Cola Bottling Co.; editors; mainstream literary agents; missionaries; his mother's family . . .

Old bones aside, however, it's Penn's oral-tradition-on-paper that really most distracts and detracts here.

For instance: "I can't help but wonder if Parins didn't pick this example to cite in his biography of Ridge because it encapsulates — especially at this period of the young Rollins life, about to watch his father killed, and later killing one of the killers in a dispute over a horse — the kernels of John Rollin Ridge seeing in himself an example of the Romantic hero who is singled out by fate for special attention, a true poetic artist on a quest for the ideal which was unattainable, and a . . .

Deductions sweeten ownership

BY DOUG FUNKE
STAFF WRITER

Deductions still figure in the home ownership equation.

While most people primarily buy into a way of life with ownership – a piece of land, their own castle, a sense of neighborhood – tax breaks for mortgage interest and property taxes also are important.

But just how important is difficult to measure.

"It's a whole package," said Deborah Field Cavanaugh, a Realtor associate with Hall & Hunter in Birmingham. "I think the number one reason (to own) is lifestyle, then financial."

Some 1.15 million individual federal tax returns filed in Michigan in 1993 claimed a deduction on Schedule A for interest expense, said Elcy Maccani, a spokeswoman for the Internal Revenue Service in Detroit.

That deduction, like others to reduce taxable income, is permitted only for interest paid on mortgages or home equity loans and available only to owners of property.

Some 1.3 million federal returns filed in Michigan in 1993 showed a deduction for taxes paid, which the IRS didn't break down between real estate taxes or income taxes, Maccani said.

However, it's not a far reach to figure that the same people who deducted mortgage interest would also take property taxes.

"I think they're real important," said Diane Tedder, a certified public accountant with a practice in Livonia.

"There's no doubt owning your home is the best investment you can make," she said. "Not only can you take itemized deductions, but you're living in a place that's appreciating in value."

Even without tax write-offs, the appreciation makes home ownership a good investment, Tedder said.

Congress adopts tax laws not only to raise money, but also to set social policy.

In recent years, deductions have been eliminated for state sales taxes and personal interest expenses including credit card debt.

Mortgage interest and property taxes – along with state, local income taxes and charitable contributions – are among the handful of deductions available to most people today, Maccani said.

Awareness of home ownership deductions shows up at both ends of the buying spectrum.

"I hear people say all the time, 'We have two incomes, we need write-offs for taxes,' " said Mary McLeod, president of the Western Wayne Oakland County Association of Realtors and an associate broker with Coldwell Banker Schweitzer in Northville.

"It's one of the factors particularly noted by first-time buyers . . . as a reason to own rather than lease," said Nita Anderson, president of the Birmingham Bloomfield Rochester South Oakland Association of Realtors and sales manager for Prudential Great Lakes in Bloomfield.

"I always notice when I'm at the closing table, the officer of the bank closing the loan says, 'These are deductible items and check with your tax adviser because these may be deductible,' you always see young couples or old couples, they perk right up," Cavanaugh said.

Dr. Keri Topouzian, wife, Rita, and children are shopping for a another house.

"Our purchase isn't based on tax advantages," Rita said. "You think of it, consider it, but it will not be the deciding factor.

"We're looking at more of a lifestyle, school district, stability of a city, value of real estate," she said.

Reinforcing that view, Rita said, was how the tax code changed for limited partnerships after her husband invested in limited partnerships for tax advantages.

Barry Miller said he bought his first house soley for the schools years ago when his children were younger. Now, financials are more important as he relocates here from Florida.

"At my age now, 50, home ownership doesn't mean a lot to me," he said. "If I buy a house, it's for appreciation, amenities in the community and the write-offs the government gives me on taxes."

There are other tax ramifications to home ownership other than deductibility of mortgage interest and property taxes.

- Points (mortgage origination fees) are also tax deductible on Schedule A – all at once on an original mortgage, pro-rated over the years on a refinancing.

Also, all remaining pro-rated points on an initial refinancing can be deducted on a subsequent refinancing.

- Uncle Sam will let you defer tax on any capital gain (Form 2119), the difference between your buying price and selling price less adjustments, as long as you buy up.
- The federal tax code currently allows a once-in-a-lifetime exclusion of tax on capital gains up to $125,000 on a house for sellers at least 55 years of age (also Form 2119).
- The Michigan homestead property tax credit is still available, even though property taxes were substantially reduced for many people with the passage of Proposal A in 1994. Do the math to see if you qualify.
- A federal mortgage interest credit (Form 8396) is available for a first-home purchase within income guidelines. Contact the Michigan State Housing Development Authority at (800) 327-9158 for information.

You are still better off with your own insurance policy

REAL ESTATE QUERIES

ROBERT M. MEISNER

Q. We are often told to be sure we have better "additions and improvements" coverage in our homeowner's H06 policy in the event that the condominium association doesn't have such coverage. What happens if the association does obtain that type of coverage for the individual units in our condominium project?

A. Each master deed and set of condominium bylaws may be different as it relates to the responsibilities of the association to obtain insurance. Also, many association insurance policies cover more than the bare minimum required in the condominium bylaws.

If you are a co-owner in a condominium, you should obtain a copy of the association's insurance policy and as a board of directors, it should be monitored yearly, as is normally required by the condominium documents.

If you are a co-owner, and the association has additions and improvements coverage, you may wish to check with your own carrier. It may not be necessary for you to obtain such coverage since there, in effect, may be a double payment of a premium in this regard.

You should be careful, of course, to ensure that the association continues to obtain coverage that will protect you in the event of improvements to your condominium unit, excluding, of course, personal property, which is normally not covered by the association.

Q. We live in a cooperative and are concerned about some of the actions of our board. Recently in its bidding process, we needed to have some refurbishing done to the interior of the cooperative, and the managing agent apparently went out and got a builder's license in order to bid on the project.

Not surprisingly, the management company's subsidiary came in at a price below all other bids and was chosen. We in the cooperative feel this was a conflict of interest and/or a breach of duty owed to the association by the managing agent. What do you think?

A. It is difficult to comment with specificity without knowing all of the facts. If the management company did not disclose that it had formed a subsidiary in order to bid on the project and took advantage of the information that it had as managing agent of the association, that would clearly be a breach of its duty owed to the cooperative and, indeed, could be actionable.

If full disclosure was made to the cooperative, it also raises the question as to the propriety of the cooperative entering into contracts with affiliates of the management company to perform services besides managing as it relates to other prospective contractors.

Generally speaking, it is best to contract with someone who has no proprietary interest in the cooperative. When dealing with managing agents, their relationship to the cooperative should be considered in regard to awarding contracts to subsidiaries or affiliates of the managing agent.

■ MORTGAGE IN A BOX

Rock Financial, a residential mortgage bank, has created a simple, do-it-yourself, at-home mortgage application kit that it maintains will change the traditional process of home mortgage lending forever.

Mortgage in a Box eliminates the time consuming meetings needed at a local branch bank to obtain a mortgage loan.

In addition, the copywrited product was designed to transform the often confusing and stressful process of home financing to an easy, quick — 30 minutes or less — hassle-free experience.

"Nearly 100 percent of consumers in our test groups flipped over this major breakthrough," said Daniel Gilbert, president of Rock Financial.

Mortgage in a Box is available for all mortgage scenarios including new purchase, refinance, new construction, FHA financing and brusied credit lending.

■ BUILDINGS HONORED

Two buildings in metro Detroit are regional winners in the Pursuit of Excellence Office Building of the Year Awards competition sponsored by Building Owners and Managers Association International.

Victor V in Livonia, managed by Axiom Real Estate Management, won in the 100,000 to 249,000 square foot category.

Volkswagen of America in Auburn Hills, managed by Etkin Management Services, won in the 250,000 to 500,000 square foot category.

Each won in its specific category because of outstanding operations, emergency and handicap procedures, tenant amenities and impact on community.

■ POPULAR HOUSE

The Home of the Year commissioned by Better Homes & Gardens and built by John Richards Homes of Birmingham raised more than $18,000 from tours the three weekends it was open for public viewing.

Children's Hospital of Michigan Auxiliary was the designated charity.

The 3,300-square-foot model combines the future of residential construction materials and techniques with a traditional American design. More than 9,000 visited the house in Novi's Autumn Park Subdivision.

Time to get ready for the homebuying season

MORTGAGE SHOPPING

DAVID C. MULLY

Now that the holidays are past, it's time to begin the homebuying season.

While spring and summer still are the busy times for house sales, now is the time when many people make the conscious decision to start looking for a new house. If you're one of those people — and this will be your first house — there are some questions to ask yourself to make sure you are in financial position to buy the house you want.

Do you have a steady job?

When considering an applicant for a mortgage, most companies focus very seriously on this question. Generally, if you have been working at the same job for two years or more, you are considered to have steady employment. However, the two-year employment guideline is not a hard and fast rule.

If you have been working continuously for less than two years, the lender may look for an explanation. Maybe you were recently discharged from the military or just finished school. On the other hand, your work may be seasonal and you might have gaps between seasons. Most mortgage lenders will take these factors into account when evaluating your application. Also, even if you have changed jobs over the past two years, it will not necessarily be considered a negative factor if you have stayed in the same line of work. The important thing is that you show the lender a consistent and stable employment history.

However, if you have lost a job for a reason such as excessive absences, have long gaps in your employment record or have dips in your income level that are difficult to explain, you should probably delay buying a house until you can demonstrate a stable work history.

Do you pay your bills on time?

When you apply for a mortgage, you will be asked to list all of your debts and monthly payments. How you have paid your bills in the past gives a lender some indication of how you can be expected to pay them in the future.

Your mortgage company will get a credit report, which lists all of your debts — from banks that may have given you a car loan to department stores that offer credit cards. If your credit report shows you do not have a good credit history, you should put off trying to buy a house and take steps to improve your credit profile.

Keep in mind, however, sometimes credit reports are inaccurate. To check yours, obtain a copy for yourself. For a small fee (or sometimes for free) you can request a copy from a credit reporting agency listed in the phone book. If you find any errors, you can then take steps to have the report corrected.

Do you have enough saved for a down payment?

Before you are ready to buy a house, you will have to gather enough money for a down payment and closing costs. The amount of the down payment may vary, but generally you will have to make a down payment that equals at least 5 percent of the purchase price.

You will also need money for closing costs. This includes costs for the title work and other administrative expenses involved in acquiring a mortgage. These costs can be expensive, depending upon the area where you live. However, sometimes the property seller is willing to pay part of these costs.

The mortgage lender will want proof that you have saved the money to be used for the down payment and closing costs. If the money is from a savings account, the lender will ask the financial institution to verify the amount and the length of time the money has been in your account. The lender needs to be sure that you are not borrowing the money you will use for the down payment and closing costs.

Many companies have programs to help first-time buyers. With some of these programs, you can accept a gift from a relative or receive financial help from a local nonprofit organization or government agency.

If you do not have at least a portion of this money already saved, it's probably not a good time to start looking for a house. Instead, it would be a good idea to open a savings account and begin putting aside money every payday. The longer you have the accounts and the more consistently you have been able to save, the better you will look to lenders.

These are just a few of the questions you will need to consider before you become a home owner. If you have any questions, please contact your local mortgage professional. Next week, we'll take a look at how a lender determines how large a mortgage you can receive and how much you can afford to pay each month.

Making it happen: Mark Bolitho, Matt Schwanitz and James V. Clarke expedited renovation of Pontiac Area Transitional Housing's newest units.

24th unit added

Pontiac Area Transitional Housing now has 24 units with a complete revamping of a duplex on Hovey Street in that city.

James V. Clarke, vice president of Robertson Brothers Group, Matt Schwanitz, vice president of Giffels/Webster Engineers, and Mark Bolitho, owner of Sterling Millwork, administered and supervised the renovation, saving thousands of dollars in the process.

The Michigan State Housing Development Authority funded the project with a $129,000 grant.

The entire duplex was rehabilitated including a new roof, siding, heating, electrical, plumbing, windows, appliances, fixtures, carpeting and paint.

Each unit has a living room, kitchen and dining area on the main floor, two bedrooms and a bathroom upstairs and a basement.

Two single mothers, each with a child, have moved into the units for up to two years while they receive job training skills and learn to be self sufficient.

One third of their income goes to rent until they graduate into a permanent housing lifestyle.

High-rise condos offer luxury amenities

An outdoor pool, two tennis courts, exercise room, saunas, 24-hour concierge, enclosed parking security system and a location near Northwestern Highway and I-696 are among the draws at 5000 Town Center in Southfield.

About 25 percent of the 216 condominiums in the luxury high rise have sold since new ownership last fall decided to release individual units for sale. Most buyers to date have been existing renters.

"The reason people come here is the personal attention they get," said Bernard J. Ackerman, vice president of sales. "It's a unique, upscale property."

The building, off Civic Center Drive west of Evergreen, had been planned as condominiums. But when 5000 Town Center opened in 1982, interest rates had skyrocketed and sales were slow, so it became a rental.

"I don't think a property like this is different from a single family residence," said Nicholas N Mason, vice president of American Invsco, which purchased the building from Prudential.

"You probably picked your house for a number of reasons — location, proximity to what you do. Price is always important.

"The advantage here is we have services in this building you don't have in a lot of places. There's not much not to like here," Mason said.

Prospects like what they see, Ackerman said.

"They're impressed with the building, itself. They're impressed with windows and views," he said.

Eight floor plans are available. Prices depend on type of unit, how high up it is and directional exposure.

A condo of 988 square feet with one bedroom and a 1½ baths can be purchased for $75,000 to $94,000, a unit of 1,395 square feet with two bedrooms and two baths for $97,000 to $147,000 and a condo of 1,868 square feet with three bedrooms and three baths for $160,000 to $190,000.

Each plan includes all major appliances — double oven, dishwasher, refrigerator and washer/dryer.

The washer and dryer are placed in a closet near the kitchen in most two and three-bedroom units, in the bedroom of one-bed units.

Many of the appliances will be 10-12 years old, Ackerman said, but they will be in perfect working order.

American Invsco will repaint and replace carpeting before buyers move in as part of the purchase agreement. Or as an alternative, buyers can choose a cash allowance of $2,000 for a one-bedroom unit, $3,000 for two bedrooms and $4,000 for three.

Purchasers receive one assigned parking space with a one-bedroom unit, two spaces for two and three bedrooms. An underground tunnel goes from the parking structure to the high rise.

The monthly maintenance fee ranges from $212 to $462 depending on the size of the unit. Optional valet service is available for $90 monthly.

"A lot of people as renters upgraded units," Ackerman said. "Some put in marble floors. As buyers, they will do more extensive things. They might take certain walls out."

Mason projects that his company will spend in excess of a million dollars upgrading the community room, off-lobby sitting room, hallways and elevators.

"Professionals, both single and couples, are becoming a major factor in the high rise condominium market," Ackerman said.

"They desire a more convenient and secure living environment, more time to spend on leisure activities rather than the concern of maintaining a home, the ability to travel and not worry about making arrangements to care for their residence while away."

Most residents are single and there are few children living at the site.

The property tax rate is $56.60 per $1,000 of state equalized valuation, half of market value. That means the owners of a $120,000 condo at 5000 Town Center could expect to pay nearly $3,400 the first year.

Peter Fuciarelli purchased a three bedroom, 2¼ bath unit and plans to open one bedroom to extend the living room and convert another bedroom to a formal dining room. He rented several years before buying.

"It's accessible from that location to all major expressways," he said. "I was aware of the amenities it had — concierge, valet parking . . . security. It's a vertical city. I think the building is a great building. It's perfect for me."

Querida Del Holland, who moved to the building last summer as a renter, decided to buy a one bedroom, bath and a half unit because she didn't want to relocate again.

Del Holland said she's pleased she can get all her dining room and living room furniture in the main living area "and still have plenty of room in the middle of the floor."

The sales office at 5000 Town Center, (810) 351-4663, is open 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Monday through Saturday, noon to 5 p.m. Sundays.

5000 Town Center: Condos start at $75,000 in the 216-unit high rise in Southfield.

30-year mortgages average 7.02%

WASHINGTON (AP) — Thirty-year, fixed rate mortgages averaged 7.02 percent this week, unchanged from a week earlier, according to a national survey released Thursday by the Federal Home Loan MortgageCorp.

The latest average also matched the 7.02 percent rate during the week of Jan. 18, which had been the lowest since rates averaged 6.97 percent during the week of Feb. 3, 1994.

On one-year adjustable rate mortgages, lenders were asking an average initial rate of 5.33 percent, down from 5.37 percent last week.

Fifteen-year mortgages, a popular option for those refinancing mortgages, averaged 6.51 percent this week, down from 6.52 percent a week earlier.

The rates do not include add-on fees known as points.

Inviting, workable kitchen welcomes Nadina visitors

If the kitchen is the main determinate of whether or not a home will be a comfortable one in which to live and work, the Nadina will come through with flying colors. Highly workable, the kitchen also enjoys a wide window view from an extension at the front of the house, and is convenient for greeting guests at the foyer entry on one side, or for serving in the dining area on the other side. The kitchen is a basic U-shaped, with a full wall of workable space on the facing wall as well. A snack bar forms the division between kitchen and dining room. The dining room shares the front view with the kitchen, through a wall of windows.

The living room, adjacent to the dining area, offers a fireplace, and a sliding glass door to a secluded patio area, but the side wall is windowless to shield the occupants from city neighbors. The living room avoids major traffic patterns in the home, and is out of sight of the guests as they enter the home.

The master suite also demonstrates the homeowner's desire for privacy. Off the bedroom is a dressing cove, with a long vanity. A walk-in closet is to one side of the dressing area, and a commode and shower/tub are in the room on the other side. A master suite with these features is unusual in such an economical and compact home.

Two additional bedrooms share the extensive linen storage and the full bath that faces each other across the hall. The washer, dryer, and extra storage facilities are nearby, in a walk through utility room between the house and the double garage.

For a study kit of the NADINA (200-11), send $10, to Landmark Designs, P.O.BOX 2307-OE48, Eugene, OR 97402 (Be sure to specify plan name and number) For a collection of plan books featuring our most popular home plans, send $20 to Landmark, or call 1-800-562-1151.

Even in the city, country kitchens are in

By Lis King
Special Writer

The country kitchen remains an American favorite, and that's true even when "home" happens to be a high-rise in cities like New York, Chicago or Seattle.

Noted designer George Rallis, who heads Rutt of New York, creates a great many country kitchens in Manhattan apartment buildings as well as in suburban colonials and ranches, and he isn't the slightest bit surprised that this style has proved to be so enduring.

"The fact is that this is much more than a style," he says. "It's a mood, an attitude. . . . It permits us to indulge in charm and comfort, and in this day and age we need that more than ever. I think that the fact that today's two-career families, who have less and less time to spend at home, are in the forefront of the search for cozy, warm kitchen says it all. Today kitchen is the heart of the home, and they want that to be a place as far away from the office as possible."

Debi Oertle, whose beautiful Rutt kitchens are the talk of Chicago and 'burbs, agrees.

"Yes, 'country' is a much-sought-after look today," she notes. "But it should be clearly understood that just as the nostalgic past that we seek never really exists, today's country kitchens are not the cluttered, cutesy spaces we used to associate with the country style."

Instead, today's country kitchens are sophisticated and international in scope. When people say "country" today, they're not talking about what we used to call "colonial." They mean kitchens reminiscent of Provence or Tuscany or Sussex or 18th century Virginia, only with a lot all-American efficiency mixed in. And above all, we're not talking about formula design here. Today's homeowners want highly individualistic spaces. The kitchen has to fit their lifestyles to a T."

Function and aesthetics

According to Mark Bernard and Tom Pettigrew of Rutt's showrooms in Los Angeles and Seattle, respectively, function in today's country kitchens is as important as aesthetics.

"If it looks good, but doesn't work, it's not for today's homeowner," says Bernard.

He believes that the steps towards a perfect kitchen include a floor plan that eases our work load, appliances that work well for our way of life, cabinetry that fits our possessions, materials that are easy to care for, and a style that pleases over the long haul.

All Rutt's designers base their designs on in-depth interviews to determine clients' lifestyles, and Oertle even expects her Chicago area clients to sit down with her and come up with all the answers to a 12-page questionnaire.

"The in-depth interview is the first step in the process that enables us to design a kitchen that's just right for our clientele," says Pettigrew. "For example, we need to know how a family shops, cooks and eats. Those who like fresh food need more refrigerator space.

Indoor grilling is ideal for fans of low-fat foods. A microwave oven — or two — will anchor weekday cooking. Multiple work stations are great for families who arrive home with hunger pangs and need room for everybody to pitch in and prepare dinner in a hurry. "These are all practical aspects and must be considered before we even begin talking about the style of the kitchen."

"Even sinks, stoves and dishwashers have become good looking," he says.

"Never before has such a wealth of function and style been available, and that means enormous excitement as well as challenge to the designer. But more importantly, it means incomparable convenience, comfort and enjoyment for the client."

Examples of great country kitchen can be found in Rutt showrooms throughout the nation or in the firm's 98-page, beautifully illustrated Folio, which is available for $15.00 from Rutt Custom Cabinetry, 1564 Main Street, P.O. Box 129, Goodville, PA 17528 or call 1-800-420-7888.

How do you stop roof condensation

Q: I built a porch with a metal roof on it. We enclosed it in, using storm windows, but have not installed heat. The problem is that in the summer with the windows open, condensation forms and runs off the inside of the roof. What is the best way to stop the condensation. Will installing plywood and shingles over the metal help?

A: The way to stop the condensation from developing is to prevent the vapor in the porch air from contacting the cold metal roof. Putting plywood and shingles on top of the roof will not help. Instead, you should put insulation under the roof and cover the insulation with a vapor barrier. With this installation, the vapor will not migrate beyond the vapor barrier. Also, because of the insulation, the vapor barrier will have a temperature that is above the dew point. Consequently, condensation will not develop. You can cover the insulation and vapor barrier with drywall or wood panels.

Q: I am looking for a replacement toilet-tank cover for an American Standard Tank F409 in Regency Blue. Our local plumber claims the cover is not available and wants to sell me a complete toilet. Since the color of the new toilet will not match that of the other bathroom fixtures, I am reluctant to buy it. Do you have suggestions?

A: We called the American Standard Co. and inquired about the cover to your toilet tank. Although they no longer manufacture that model and color, they apparently still have some covers in stock. They suggest you contact the American Standard Wholesale distributor that covers your area to order the cover. If you don't know who the distributor is in your area, you can check with American Standard at (800) 223-0068. Ask for the Consumer Product Service Department.

It's important to remember that just because an item is not available locally, and is no longer manufactured, doesn't mean that it's not available.

Tree care increases property value

Ask a Realtor, and you'll find that mature, healthy trees can add as much as 20 percent to the worth of a residential property. But even if a homeowner isn't planning to sell, there are good reasons to plant and maintain trees.

Aside from the obvious aesthetic value, mature trees provide shade during warm months, which helps keep a house cool naturally and drives down the cost of air conditioning. Likewise, trees provide a wind break during winter and help keep a house warm.

But trees usually grow so slowly that it can be many years before there is any effect on a house's value. There are steps, however, that can help young trees pick up the pace.

Be sure to provide routine maintenance, particularly in urban areas, where trees are often stressed. Compacted soil and air pollution can choke a tree, and an adequate water supply can be lost if surrounding grass and weeds prevent moisture from reaching the root system.

The experts say trees should be fertilized, either by the homeowner or a professional, to help ensure their health and vitality. It is important to properly identify a tree's needs and use proper methods and materials at appropriate times, says Brian Barnard of the National Arborist Association. The NAA, based in Amherst, N.H., is an association of professional tree care experts.

Barnard notes that lawn care and landscaping pros, including arborists, often take soil samples to determine what nutrients, if any, should be added to the soil. They then inject liquid or granular fertilizer into the soil near a tree's roots or even directly into the tree to get the most benefit for the tree.

Another way to improve a tree's vigor, Barnard says, is to create a ring of bare ground several feet in diameter around the bottom of the tree, then cover the ring with mulch. The ring eliminates much of the tree's competition from grass and weeds for water and nutrients.

Scientific studies have shown that mulch rings can as much as double the rate of tree growth over a period of years. But be careful creating the ring. Lawn mowers and string trimmers don't mix with trees, Barnard warns. A whirling string or a bump from a lawn mower can tear open the bark, creating a path into the tree for insects and disease.

Many professionals remove the lawn around the trunk with a non-selective herbicide such as Roundup, which is also available to homeowners, because of the product's effectiveness and favorable environmental characteristics. After the grass dies out, the bareground ring is covered with mulch or stones to help prevent the return of weeds and grass, to hold moisture in the ground, and to improve the appearance of the ring.

Pruning also should be a part of routine maintenance. Start at the top of the tree and work down, never removing more than a quarter of the tree's crown in a single growing season, Barnard says. Taking off too many branches removes too many leaves, which the tree needs to collect sunlight. Also, remove limbs and branches that cross one another, and strive for a balanced overall appearance. Be sure to cut a limb or branch where it joins with another one. This eliminates unnatural branch stubs, and the tree will have an easier time healing the exposed cuts.

When pruning a mature tree that has never been trimmed, look for weak and dead limbs toward the center of the crown.

The pruning of mature trees is best left to professionals because falling out of the tree, being hit by falling limbs, and dropping limbs onto power lines are very real risks.

Housing construction keeps pace with demand

Builders apparently are learning that speculation doesn't always pay.

America's housing industry has marched in lock-step with demand ever since the residential construction excesses of the 1980s and the economic recession that followed.

During the past five years, homebuilders have operated at a pace neither far ahead nor far behind the rate of construction necessary to maintain balance in supply, reports U.S. Housing Markets, a tracking service based in Livonia.

During the 1980s, homebuilders pulled permits for an average of 1.4 million units per year, the service reported.

That ranged from a low of 986,000 in the 1981 recession year to a high of 1.8 million at the peak of multi-family fever in 1986, the last year of generous rental property tax shelters.

With an estimated 1.3 million residential units permitted in 1995, the last five years have seen an annual average of 1.2 million units authorized nationally.

Household growth, meanwhile, has averaged 1.1 million for the same five year period, U.S. Housing Markets indicated. That is very much in balance with the supply of new units, especially when taking into account average demolitions of 70,000 units per year.

A gradual, balanced growth is better than boom-and-bust cycles for the financial health of the industry.

Builders in the Midwest probably have been better than those in other parts of the country at building on household formation rather than speculation on a more consistent basis, said Brian Bragg, editor of U.S. Housing Markets.

"It's the conservative nature of business here," Bragg said. "It tends to be more blue collar, traditional. Don't get too wild."

Builders in Southeastern Michigan, however, are still dependent on the auto industry — but getting better.

"They tend to learn over time," Bragg said. "They tend to depend less when there's good times rolling that it will go on forever."

If the country avoids recession, the rate of household formations will increase to an average of about 1.25 million households annually during the next five years, U.S. Housing Markets projects.

And there will be a growing demand from maturing Baby Boomers for second homes.

The greatest household growth in the past five years has been in the 45-to-55 age group as the first wave of baby Boomers arrived.

This group includes nearly 3.3 million more households than it did in 1990, the service reported. About 75 percent was in the homeowners category, just 25 percent renters, as might be expected from a middle-aged group.

Now, persons born from the early 1960s to the early 1970s have moved into the prime years of their household-forming activity, U.S. Housing Markets indicated.

These 25-to-34 year olds have in the last five years left rentals to purchase houses at a greater rate than the preceding generation, which was stymied by rampant housing inflation and high interest rates in the 1980s.

Doubled-up living arrangements, including the formation of extended-family households of unrelated adults, has increased over the years and isn't particularly good news to the homebuilding industry.

Historically, those living arrangements were widespread only in hard economic times.

In the last dozen years, doubled-up households have grown from 3.3 million to 5.2 million, from a 3.9 share of all households in 1983 to 5.2 last year, U.S. Housing Markets reported.

"It certainly takes away from present demand," Bragg said.

Social trend: The tendency of unrelated and unmarried persons to double up and form a single household has been increasing. That doesn't do much for residential builders now, but represents potential for growth.

Recycled glass insulation saves money

Everyone knows that using home insulation saves energy and money, and protects the environment because it enables utilities to produce less fuel for heating and cooling.

Schuller GoldLine fiber glass insulation has added another plus for the environment by utilizing a minimum 25 percent remelted glass in its manufacture. More than 70 percent of this is post consumer, which is any glass product or container originally produced for, and used by, a consumer.

Good examples of this glass are using household food and beverage containers which, through curbside recycling, end up in other useful products, rather than in a landfill.

A typical truckload of GoldLine fiber glass insulation contains about one-and-a-half tons of recycled glass, which nationwide translates to thousands of cubic feet of saved landfill space.

This recycling has earned Schuller GoldLine the right to bear the Green Cross symbol from Scientific Certification Systems, a leading independent organization.

For more information, see your nearest building supply dealer, or contact the Product Information Center for Schuller GoldLine Insulation, Schuller International, Inc., PO. Box 5108, Denver, CO 80217. Or call, 800-654-3103.
