City hikes recreation fees

Soccer players who don't live in the city of Plymouth will be paying $20 more to play under a measure approved this week by the city.

BY KEVIN BROWN
STAFF WRITER

A recreation fee increase for non city residents was approved by Plymouth city commissioners Monday as part of the 1996-97 fiscal year budget.

That means Plymouth Township or Canton soccer players will pay $20 more in fees to register for leagues. The average price to take a class at the Plymouth Cultural Center _ $30 for city residents _ will go to $70 for non-residents.

The cost for senior activities will also rise for non city residents. They'll pay $15 more for senior trips and the senior golf league, and will pay more than residents for other senior activities.

"If participation declines in response to the fee increases _ which is expected especially in the classes and senior programs _ then the revenues will fall short of the budget," said City Manager Steve Walters. "In some cases the programs may have to be canceled due to insufficient participation," he said.

Hockey fees for non-residents are not slated to rise. Softball fees are rising from $15 to $45 for softball players in several leagues.

City officials have said the recreation rate hike for non residents is necessary. That's because the city is undertaking a street repair program, and city residents can't afford to pay for street improvements and to subsidize non-residents recreation activities.

The recreation rate hike for non-residents is part of the $5.05 million city budget which takes effect July 1.

Residents will pay 2.8 percent more in taxes during 1996-97. That means someone with a house valued at $100,000 will pay $29.40 more per year to the city in taxes.

The tax increase follows state law which says assessment increases can't rise more than the inflation

Library patrons turn new page

BY KEVIN BROWN
STAFF WRITER

No tears were shed on the Dunning-Hough Library's last day, as patrons and staff looked forward to a new, larger library opening in 1998.

But some said they'll miss the library, built in the 1950s and expanded in the '60s. It is to be demolished, and a new two-story library will go up in its place.

"I come here a couple of times a week. It'll be like missing an old friend," said Charles Galea, looking over the new releases shelf Monday morning.

"The library is very nice, they keep it really clean and orderly," Galea said. "The only bad thing is the parking."

"I'm trying to get enough books to last me until they open up again," he said.

"The video shelves are bare," said Library Director Pat Thomas, adding patrons had been stocking up.

The temporary library site at 705 N. Main _ the former Farmer Jack supermarket _ is scheduled to open Friday, June 21. "It's possible we'll be opening sooner," Thomas said, depending on how the move goes.

In the library staff office area, lighting was dim Monday as electricians removed light fixtures over desks as staff members worked.

While some office items will be boxed up for the move, books won't be boxed. Thomas said. Movers are able to move whole book shelves with books stacked inside.

In getting ready for the move, "We found all this promotional stuff _ kitchen gadgets and mouse pads and we're trying to sort this stuff and have a garage sale," Thomas said.

The date for the sale hasn't been set, but Thomas said it will likely happen at the Dunning-Hough Library.

Are patrons and staff sad about leaving Dunning-Hough? "They say mostly that they're looking forward to the big library and that they're pleased we were able to commandeer Farmer Jack's," Thomas said.

Some, she said, are unaware of the changes. "It's surprising how many people come up and say, 'You're moving?'" she said.

Then there was the call placed to the library from a taxpayer outraged that officials would demolish Dunning-Hough and build a new library, without asking the people.

Duh, isn't that what they did?

It was in November 1994 that Plymouth city and township voters approved spending nearly 1 mill to build and equip a new library on the site of the current one.

"I'm looking forward to the new library," said fiction fan Murray Strand, tapping keys at the computer reference keyboard Monday morning. "I come here a couple of times a week."

Barb Kobiela, seated at a table, said, "I come every week. I like how-to books, mysteries, I like fiction."

Asked if she'll miss Dunning-Hough, Kobiela said, "I'm stocked up. The new library will be great."

Patrons can return materials to either Dunning-Hough or the temporary site between now and June 21.

City puts street tax on November ballot

BY KEVIN BROWN
STAFF WRITER

Some city residents told city commissioners they don't want to pay special assessments for street repairs, and they'd prefer a city-wide millage instead.

So the commission voted Monday to put the issue before voters in November.

Voters will have a chance to approve or reject a bond issue to pay for a 20-year street improvement program. Cost to taxpayers will be an additional 2 mills. If passed, a resident with a home valued at $100,000 to $150,000 would pay from $150 to $200 per year initially.

The city administration estimates the first 10-year program would cost $6.4 million. The second 10-year program would cost $3.2 million.

Commissioners had initially considered asking the voters to approve ballot language to ask for 2 mills for a street program. But they opted instead to follow City Manager Steve Walters suggestion to ask voters to approve a bond issue, which would result in an estimated 2-mill levy.

Walters suggested this option, as specific ballot language to approve a 2-mill levy for the program would require voters to also approve a charter amendment.

The city administration must notify the county clerk by Aug. 31 to officially place the ballot proposal on the November ballot.

While commissioners said they wanted to give voters a choice on how they'll be taxed for street

Most oppose funding for arts in Plymouth

Some constituents of state Rep. Gerald Law, R-Plymouth, offered opinions on state and national issues in responses to a survey Law's office distributed.

Responding were more than 3,000 residents of Law's 20th district, from Plymouth, Northville and Livonia. "Lawmakers must never lose touch with the issues important to the people and the results of this survey indicate how the people of the 20th House District want to be represented in Lansing," he said.

In various response categories, Law reported 90 percent oppose racial quotas and affirmative action programs that give advantages to minorities in government and business contracts.

Seventy-five percent oppose subsidies for local art programs, 80 percent support a federal balanced budget amendment, and 65 percent oppose expansion of Indian reservation casino gambling.

Seventy-eight percent oppose providing state funds to help build a new Tiger Stadium, 97 percent support laws to require able-bodied welfare recipients to work, do community service or go to school.

Also, 55 percent support a gas tax increase to maintain state roads and 68 percent support a flat state income tax that would lower the rate and eliminate all or most deductions and credits except a $2,500 personal deduction, according to the survey results.

YMCA run set for June 16

The Y promises "lots of fun and excitement for all ages."

The one-mile run/fitness walk is set for 8 a.m. There'll be a 5K run/fitness walk at 8:15 a.m.

The 10K run follows at 8:45 a.m.

Runners can enter all three events (the mile, 5K and 10K) for one price.

New this year is a free Diaper Dash for aspiring athletes aged 1. Competition gets under way at 10 a.m.

Seniors graduate Sunday

Graduation for Plymouth Canton and Plymouth Salem seniors is set for Sunday, June 9 at Hill Auditorium in Ann Arbor.

Commencement for Canton High School graduates will begin at 1:30 p.m. on the University of Michigan campus. Ceremonies for Salem High School grads will begin at 5 p.m.

The graduations were to be held at Eastern Michigan University's Bowen Fieldhouse because of renovations planned for Hill Auditorium. The renovations were postponed, so it's back on for Hill. "The district is saving a lot of money by having at at Hill Auditorium," said Judy Evola, the district's community relations director.

	What is your opinion of the way the district operates financially?	?How do you think the district operates 1) administratively; 2) its academic program?
 JACK FARROW, 47, Plymouth. BS in computer science, University of Michigan. Occupation: electrical engineer, Medar, Inc. PCCS Board of Education member since 1992; Co-chair of the 1989 "I CARE" millage campaign and I CARE co-founder; Chair of the TAG Advisory Committee, 1987-89; President of the Plymouth-Canton Association for the Academically Talented, 1990-92; Chair of the 1990, 1992 CEP Graduation Party committees. Plymouth Fall Festival Board; Business-Education Partnership; First Presbyterian Church of Plymouth. Married Angela Farrow in 1970; four children. Two graduated from PCCS; one currently at Miller Elementary; the other at East Middle School. Resident of community since April, 1978.	The focus of our budget is clearly on teaching and learning. The new format for the budget, started two years ago, makes it much easier to understand. Our new Asst. Supt. for finance/operations John Birchler has shown himself to be quite capable. The district is not in great shape financially, but at least we know where the problems are.	1) Supt. Chuck Little has brought positive changes to the district. Trust, which is necessary for an effective organization, is growing. Communication with our community is improving as well. Whenever public expectations exceed financial resources, someone will be unhappy, but I feel the administration has done a good job under the circumstances. 2) Our school district is considered a leader in using computer technology to improve education. We are solidly focused on teaching and learning.
 ELIZABETH GIVENS, 48, Canton. Daughter of a college academic dean and a middle school teacher/principal. Graduated from Cheltenham High School, Cheltenham, Penn. Bachelors degree from Philadelphia College of Bible and a masters in Communications from Temple University. Freelance writer. Works with husband David for SEND International in communications. Married 25 years. Three children. Two graduated from PCCS; one to graduate in 1999. Past president, vice pres. PCCS Council; School Improvement Team PCEP; Superintendent search committees; District Goals Committee; PTO-Eriksson, Lowell, East and Canton; classroom guest speaker in social studies, geography; curriculum review committees. Resident for 15.5 years.	The district fiscally lean. But that doesn't mean there is no room for improvement. I think all Michigan districts are still learning how to better manage money in light of decreased state funding.	1) The district has gone through massive administrative change in the past two years. I am pleased with the new direction of administrative changes under Dr. Little and a virtually new board. I'd like to be part of helping this new team work for better communication with citizens. 2) Michigan is demanding higher standards. The district needs to respond to these demands and put in place rigorous academic standards. I'd like to see higher MEAP scores, higher ACT and ACT, and more merit scholars. I'd also like to see strong help for students who struggle.
 JEFF PHILLIPS, 33, Plymouth. Graduate of Livonia Franklin High School. BS in Mathematics, Madonna College, Livonia. Advanced systems engineer with Electronic Data Systems. Hired by GM, transitioned to EDS in 1985. 12 years with GM/EDS. Assigned to Detroit Diesel account in engineering and manufacturing support. Serves on Reproductive Health Advisory Council; Elementary Parent Awareness Group and School-to-Work Advisory Council. Regularly attends school board meetings. Married 12 years to Sheryl Phillips. Three children, two in PCCS; one entering kindergarten this Fall at Bird Elementary. Resident for 10 years.	The district operates haphazardly. We spend without justification and don't prioritize needs. Last year, we hired a network administrator for $45,000/year for one year "to see if the position is needed." We can't afford enough teachers, yet we have no problem spending over $80,000 for an athletic director. We need to better define what is important, write it down and prioritize our spending. With better planning and prioritization, we can spend our money where we need to.	1) We operate somewhat effectively. Most of the work is getting done but we don't have many documented procedures and we have people making decisions who don't have authority. The administration doesn't always know what information the board needs or expects, so the decision is delayed. 2) Academic programs are effective. We still have room for improvement. We need to set priorities, and one is teaching materials. Very little of the budget is set aside for these tools. Documenting our priorities will enable us to see what's important and how
 PAUL SCHRAUBEN, 33, Canton. Education: Portland Saint Patrick's High School; Aquinas College, BSBA, Cum Laude; majors in business administration, economics and political science. Currently a stay-at-home parent. Previously worked for the United States Treasury Department in the Office of Thrift Supervision. Member, PCCS Citizens Advisory Finance Committee. Regularly attends Board of Education meetings. Sits on the Education Sub-committee of the Canton Chamber of Commerce. President, Willow Homes Homeowners Association Member, St. John Neumann Church Family: wife, Sara; Children: Evan, 3, and Leah, 1.5 Resident for 6.5 years.	This is an area which I feel could benefit from better planning. Because of the financial position of the district, we have to focus on doing things over time. This requires that we have a plan in place for doing things in stages and that we review that plan regularly to measure our progress. Examples of some items where this applies are class size, technology replacement and textbook replacement.	1) We need to put plans in place and monitor our progress in various areas. This requires us to prioritize issues and complete regular reviews to ensure consistency and relevancy. It also can give us goals and benchmarks to measure progress. 2) We have done a good job providing alternatives for learning so all students can be challenged. Example are Journey, Spectra and the TAG program. We should continually examine our student needs and adapt programs as necessary to meet those needs.

'Shotgun' spending criticized

BY M.B. DILLON
STAFF WRITER

If elected to the Plymouth-Canton Board of Education June 10, Jeff Phillips of Plymouth would push for more fiscal responsiblity in the district.

"We don't really spend our money in the best possible fashion, yet we cry for more and more. We use a 'shotgun spending' approach. Last year, we hired a network manager and were told 'We are only doing this for a year to see if we really need it.'"

High teacher salaries complicate the district's financial situation, he said.

"We are going to have to fix our pay scale, but no one wants to step up and say we are going to have to look at this. We pay our employees top dollar. That can only happen for so long, until we can't afford to do that. A lot of people in our community haven't seen a raise for two or three years. We're going to have to start to control our costs."

Phillips advocates granting raises to promoted administrators only after they prove they can do the job.

The EDS advanced systems engineer said he'd encourage the district to put things in writing. "I would try to establish the mindset with administration and the board that we have to write down what we do. We have folks making decisions who aren't authorized to do so."

Phillips says he would bring strong leadership and business skills to the school board, examining things with a critical eye. He has handled $5 million budgets, managed employees and had extensive training in financial accountability, interpersonal relations and leadership.

The candidate says he's not convinced the district needs to build more schools. A look at past enrollment suggests "the district is shrinking," he said.

Opening new schools would require $5 milion in operating costs, and we can't even buy textbooks now."

Communication needs to improve, he said. "We don't communicate what we are doing when it comes to things like developmental learning and invented spelling. If it doesn't work, we can't change back. We never say, 'We screwed up; we are going to back to what works.'"

Phillips also questions a disciplinary system that "suspends students for three days for throwing snowballs in school, while suspending students for two days for a first-time drug offense."

Phillips said we need "practical measurements of how our students are doing. This will give us an idea about what programs work. We need to raise our expectations and work with parents to reinforce them at home. We need to educate our students to do everything well, rather than just the bare minimum.

Working with people a skill

BY M.B. DILLON
STAFF WRITER

Elizabeth Givens of Canton, seeking election to the Plymouth-Canton Board of Education, shared her views on a host of issues with the Observer recently.

The freelance writer and married mother of three has been involved with the schools for 15 years, working in parent groups, classrooms, and on various committees.

Endorsed by Plymouth-Canton teachers, Givens says her forte is working with people. "I'm frugal, but I'm not the greatest financial whiz. My strengths I see more in terms of people skills; pulling together disparate groups to gather and disseminate information."

Givens says she'd "like to see a higher level of academic demand put on elementary students. This does not mean more class time or more homework, but a strong emphasis in basic reading, writing and math skills on which they can build more diversified skills at middle and high school level."

Other views:

•"I think we need to look at education becoming a completely different animal. My daughter in college doesn't buy books; she buys software and downloads what she needs. We can buy packages that will be up to date, as opposed to textbooks which are out of date in a few years.

•"I'm pleased with the education my children have gotten. We have a lot of excellent teachers.

•"I would like to see a more consistent curriculum in all the elementary and middle schools so kids can come into our high schools with the same experiences.

•Growth: "We have to be careful in addressing this. We don't want to end up 20 years from now renting out schools. We need another high school, but maybe it shouldn't be the same kind of school.

"Kids feel like they are one in a million. We need to build smallness into the bigness."

•Board: "You have a different group than five years ago. I think they are much more concerned about whether people trust them or not. Trust isn't built overnight; trust is only earned."

•On teacher contract negotiations: "I haven't done a whole lot of study to know exactly what is paid. I would hope both parties go away feeling they've gained something and lost something."

Township follows auditor's recommended changes

BY KEVIN BROWN
STAFF WRITER

After an auditor criticized the Plymouth Township treasurer's office for some bill collection and paying practices, Treasurer Mary Brooks and township trustees approved changes on Tuesday.

At the trustees May 7 meeting, they discussed auditing firm Rehmann and Robson's recommendations that the treasurer's office to do more to collect delinquent property taxes.

The auditors also urged that the treasurer's office set up a "lock box" system. Under this system, tax or water bills are addressed to a post office box and handled by a bank _ and not sent to township hall as they are currently.

After studying the audit report, township Finance Director Rosemary Harvey suggested the board seek bids from vendors who would collect delinquent property taxes and to establish a lock box agreement with a bank.

Following the suggestions, the township board voted to spend $19,000 to establish a lock box agreement and to authorize the administration to seek bids for delinquent property tax collections.

Harvey said the anticipated cost of that contract will be $15,000.

Brooks moved the resolutions before the township board, which trustees approved unanimously.

Trustee Charles Curmi said the spending of $19,000 "should be offset to pay for this by efficiencies in either the treasurer's or the finance department."

Harvey said that by the lock box system used by many other communities to collect tax and water bills, checks would be mailed to a post office box in Detroit. Bill payments would be tallied at the end of each day and a printout provided to township officials.

Brooks said Birmingham, Rochester Hills and Livonia are among towns that have the lock box system.

In an earlier report to the township board, auditors Rehmann and Robson found about $230,000 in property tax payments collected by the township treasurer's office had not been distributed "to the various taxing jurisdictions in accordance with the Michigan Compiled Laws."

Some trustees have said the problem with late payments is that it might pose a legal problem for the township, if taxing authorities who get the payments raise concerns.

Plymouth firm to exhibit at show

Mark J. Baldwin and Associates of Plymouth will be among the exhibitors at the fifth annual Meadow Brook Hall Landscape & Garden Show which features 21 designed gardens June 7-9 at Meadow Brook Hall in Rochester.

"Discover The Pleasures of Gardens," provides an expedition into a beautiful world full of the sights, sounds, textures and scents to get showgoers in sync with nature, said Larry Wright, CEO/president of the Metropolitan Detroit Landscape Association (MDLA).

Each of the gardens was individually designed and built by its own team of leading designers and landscape contractors from southeastern Michigan.

Featured show attractions included a spectacular water garden display; garden seminars from PBS's Victory Gardens guest host Jim Wilson and other garden experts; a new and notable plant garden; a garden railroad with "G" gauge model trains and a garden filled with ornate birdhouses.

For the young and young at heart, the Children's Garden will be the location for face painting and garden craft activities. A maze garden will use evergreens to create a network of paths and passages. Also on the ground will be a "Wildlife Walk" with live mounts of native Michigan animal and a tree identification program.

Marshall Fredericks sculptures and Pewabic Pottery's collection of garden art will be on display. Several plant societies including the Rose and Herb Societies will sell books and plants and answer garden questions for attendees.

repairs, Commissioner John Vos said he was skeptical voters will pass the bond issue.

"I'm pessimistic. I hate to see us spend all this money on bond counsel and a publicity campaign. But I believe in letting voters decide on how they want to be taxed," he said.

While the city administration has noted that Farmington and Northville voters have approved street improvement millage, George Kazen of Mill Street told commissioners, "17 cities have voted this issue down."

Todd Wilson of Mill Street told commissioners, "I live on a county road that floods every time it rains, there's no gutter."

"Now with a millage you're asking me to pay all these taxes for streets and I have no benefit," he said.

Commissioners said they would consider as part of the street paving program paying a share of street improvements along country roads in the city.

Commissioners said they could also consider providing some sort of rebate to homeowners along streets for which they're still paying special assessments for street repairs. Walters said this has been done in some cities where voters passed street millage.

Some residents spoke in favor of a bond issue being placed on the ballot. "As a resident I feel a responsibility to pay for improvements throughout the city, not just on my road," said Dan Doyle of Blunk.

"Good roads, improved roads do benefit everyone," said Del Templeton. "You have to consider the majority of the residents."

Ed Ford of Arthur Street said special assessments produce inequities. "One way to cure it is if all the citizens of Plymouth pay for all the streets of Plymouth," he said.

Walters said one benefit of voters approving a bond issue would be more streets could be done faster, reducing maintenance costs.

rate, which is 2.8 percent.

An 11.76 mill rate is proposed for city operating millage and 1.25 mills for solid waste. Both rates are unchanged from fiscal year 1995-96 rates.

City officials anticipate getting $4.87 million in the budget period from property taxes, the state and other sources.

The budget anticipates spending $5.05 million. The city administration anticipates receiving nearly $2.9 million from property taxes, more than $984,000 in state-shared revenues, and $327,450 in charges for city services.

Top spending categories include $319,360 for municipal services and $667,500 for the fire department _ down from $732,150 in 1995-96. The city will spend nearly $1.5 million for police and $343,11 for city finance department costs.

The budget also calls for setting aside $200,000 toward a street repair program expected to begin next year.

While the budget shows no surplus, the city administration maintains a $450,000 budget stabilization fund to deal with emergencies.

Senate committee orders debate on court reform

BY TIM RICHARD
STAFF WRITER

State senators this week are heading for a showdown vote on trial court reform amid shouting from the sidelines that they should move more slowly.

"You need to consider the complexity of the caseload. You need a great deal more input," said Detroit attorney Reginald Turner, representing the Wolverine Bar Association.

"We're prepared to work with you on a formula," said Deputy Wayne County Executive Michael Duggan. "I think we can find common ground."

But on May 30, the Senate Judiciary Committee voted 4-3, Republicans for and Democrats against, to send two reform bills to the full Senate for debate this week. Members Mike Rogers, R-Brighton, and Gary Peters, D-Bloomfield Township, voted with their parties.

There were rumors Sen. Robert Geake, R-Northville, was removed from the Judiciary Committee because he – along with Loren Bennett, R-Canton – had bucked the Republican leadership a day earlier by joining Democrats in a failed effort to pump $72 million more into Wayne County courts.

False, said his staff chief, Bill Kordenbrock. Geake had a previous commitment to attend a health and safety conference May 30-31. Because a fourth Republican vote was needed to report the bills out of committee, Senate majority leader Dick Posthumus temporarily replaced Geake with Sen. Joel Gougeon, R-Bay City.

One key reform idea is to merge probate courts, which handle estates and juvenile matters, with circuit courts, which have jurisdiction over major civil suits, criminal cases and divorces.

Probate whittled

This year's court reform debate was started by Gov. John Engler's threat to veto the constant increase in judgeships unless trial courts were made more efficient.

One key reform idea is to merge probate courts, which handle estates and juvenile matters, with circuit courts, which have jurisdiction over major civil suits, criminal cases and divorces.

The problem: Probate courts are required by the Michigan Constitution, and voters would have to approve an amendment.

So Sen. William VanRegenmorter, R-Jenison, chair of the Judiciary Committee, is proposing to transfer many powers of the probate courts to a new "family division" of circuit court.

"We're removing 90 percent the probate court's jurisdiction," Van Regenmorter said. "We would establish family court as a division of the circuit court. There would be more user-friendliness. The family knows one judge will handle all matters.

"We would also combine the staffing. And we'd take advantage of the expertise among judges," he added.

VanRegenmorter's chief tool is a Senate substitute for House Bill 5158, which did some of the same things as the House-passed version. If senators approve the substitute, it would go back to the House for concurrence in amendments — or to a conference committee.

Recorder's flap

A second reform idea is to eliminate Detroit Recorder's Court.

Established in 1857, Recorder's Court handles criminal cases while Wayne Circuit Court handles major civil cases and divorces. Detroit is the lone city in Michigan with a separate criminal court. In 82 counties, circuit court handles all criminal cases countywide.

Many potent politicos howled in protest at the thought of eliminating Detroit Recorder's Court. So Senate Republicans are considering an alternative idea: thrusting the costs of that court onto Detroit or Wayne County by Oct. 1, 2001.

Their theory is that the state pays for all the costs of Wayne County and Detroit courts, and the free lunch must stop.

"A myth," Wayne County's Duggan told the Judiciary Committee May 30. Although the state writes checks for Wayne County court operations, he said, "The state picks up all Recorder's, circuit court and traffic fees. You take them, give them back to us, and then there's grumbling (in Lansing) that you're paying it all.

"The perception that Wayne County is being funded is plain wrong. You're taking our fees and redistributing them to all 82 other counties," said Duggan. Detroit leaders cited a State Court Administrator's report showing Wayne County is actually in the middle of the pack in terms of per-capita court funding.

In earlier testimony, Chief Justice James Brickley, who started his political career in the 1950s as a Detroit councilman, said, "We are dealing with historical accidents. We need to have equity in the use of state funds, or it (the problem) will be right back."

Detroit Recorder's Judge Vera Massey Jones urged the panel to retain Recorder's Court so as "not to impinge on the pension benefits of employees." She cited a case where an employee hired in 1977 lost four years of benefits when the state took over funding in 1981.

85-15 formula

VanRegenmorter's bill calls for a court funding formula based 85 percent on population and 15 percent on caseload.

Critics said the formula was inadequate and simplistic.

"Southfield has a daytime (business) population mush greater than the nighttime (resident) population, yet Southfield district court has the same funding" as others, said Sen. Gary Peters, D-Bloomfield Township, whose district includes Southfield.

"Consider the complexity of the caseload," said Turner of the Wolverine Bar. He said cities like Detroit, Flint, Pontiac and Grand Rapids have more complex juvenile and criminal cases that should be accounted for in the funding formula.

Refer to House Bill 5158 (Senate substitute) when writing to your state legislator, State Capitol, Lansing 48909.

House vote vows ban on same sex marriage proposal

"An overwhelming majority of Michigan residents are against legalizing same-sex unions," said Rep. Deborah Whyman, R-Canton, and the full House of Representatives agreed.

The House voted 74-28 on May 29 to approve Whyman's bill, which she called "a pre-emptive" strike so that Michigan wouldn't have to recognize homosexual and lesbian unions if and when Hawaii recognizes them.

Under the U.S. Constitution's "full faith and credit" provision, a state must honor other states laws such as marriage, divorce and driver's licenses.

Male representatives were 73 percent in favor of the bill — 59 voting yes, 16 no and five not voting. Females were 50 percent in favor — 15 voting yes, 12 no and three not voting. (Because 56 votes are needed to pass a bill, political analysts consider a missed vote the equivalent of a no vote.)

■ 'I resent the use of a court in Hawaii to redefine what marriage is, and then inflict that definition on every other state.'

Deborah Whyman
—state representative

Some lawmakers and the American Civil Liberties Union challenged Whyman's bill as unconstitutional.

The second-term lawmaker's reply: "I resent the use of a court in Hawaii to redefine what a marriage is, and then inflict that definition on every other state."

If Michigan were required to honor Hawaii's same-sex marriages, it would lead to legal problems over spousal insurance benefits.

A companion bill in the Senate will ban same-sex unions in Michigan.

Whyman's House Bill 5662 amends a 1939 law recognizing marriages performed in other states by adding: "This section doe not apply to a marriage contracted between individuals of the same sex, which marriage is invalid in this state."

Yes — Eileen DeHart, D-Westland, Tom Kelly, D-Wayne, Gerald Law, R-Plymouth, James Ryan, R-Redford, Whyman.

Not voting — Lyn Bankes, R-Redford.

Kids, parents learn about science

Miller Elementary School students and parents viewed starfish and crayfish, helix snails and volcanos and did it all without leaving Canton Friday night.

They attended Miller's "Partners in Science" night, organized by Jan Rourk and Pam Lincoln, a Miller parent who works at the University of Michigan.

Kids competed in "pill bug" races, enjoyed an "owl encounter," had fun with bubbles, made and ate their very own cells, and created their own terrible tornados.

"Science Olympians" dropped eggs six feet without brekaing them; built a newspaper bridges strong enough to support bricks, and discovered how airplanes stay in the air.

Students witnessed the formation of a volcano, and experienced core drilling and a volcanic eruption. They took a look at squid and open-minded eaters even tasted the underwater marvel.

Students dissected crayfish and found out why crawdads are a favorite food in New Orleans.

The art of natural dyeing with a variety of plants was explored, and students made projects to take home.

Miller principal Peggy Brooks got into the spirit, volunteering to sit in a chair for the "catapult session," even though it meant having wet sponges launched at her.

All agreed it was a fun-filled evening of hands-on science.

Lawmakers take odds in favor of casino regulations

BY TIM RICHARD
STAFF WRITER

State lawmakers want to bring Indian-owned casinos under more state and local control — zoning, building codes, liquor laws, advertising and liability insurance — before allowing any more into the state.

"We should be able to regulate them like any other business," said Sen. Dale Shugars, R-Portage, as the Senate gave his resolution 27-9 approval May 17.

"I don't want casinos next to my church, school or kids' day-care center," said Shugars.

"It's going into the wastebasket anyway," scoffed Sen. Jim Berryman, D-Adrian, who opposed the measure.

Shugars' resolution asks the U.S. Congress to take state and local concerns seriously before allowing more Indian casinos under the 1988 Indian Gaming Regulator Act. It also asks that local cities or township boards approve casinos by supermajorities of two-thirds or three-fourths.

Opposed were: George Hart, D-Dearborn.

SCR 251 is a resolution without the effect of law — hence Berryman's prediction the federal government will ignore it.

Shugars disagreed. "The secretary of the Interior is asking for state input. It won't go into the circular file (trash basket)."

The resolution was passed after a two-hour debate in which the Senate, in an unrecorded vote, rejected a pact for a Manistee-area casino negotiated by Gov. John Engler with the Little River band of the Ottawa tribe.

The Senate lacked eight votes to require a roll call. Instead it took an unrecorded vote which showed 13 votes in favor in 15 against before the lights were shut off.

Green (yes) lights were observed by the names of Cherry, Peters, Smith and Dunaskiss.

While the bulk of senators were unhappy at the prospects of any Indian casinos, they split on whether it would do any good to resist the Manistee Ottawa proposal.

"If we don't do it on a state basis," said sponsor George McManus, R-Traverse City, "the tribe can go to the feds, and we don't get any regulations out of it.

O.K., risk takers... here's a real challenge:

Defying the odds can be fun in recreation and rewarding in business. But deadly where your health is concerned. Even if you haven't had any heart problems so far, today's culture can burden your body's systems. Add stress, less time for relaxation and a poor diet and you could be accumulating risk.

Ask yourself these questions:

Smoking: Have you stopped? A smoker dies an average of 7 to 8 years sooner than a non-smoker.

Blood Pressure: Is your blood pressure above 140/90? Almost 58 million people have high blood pressure.

Cholesterol Level: Did you know that for every 1% you lower your blood cholesterol level, your risk of heart attack drops by 2%?

Oakwood Healthcare System is committed to helping you avoid heart risk. Call us at 1-800-543-WELL for a complimentary Heart Risk Appraisal. Return it and we'll send you your personal heart risk evaluation and recommendations to help decrease your risk.

We also offer health education classes near you. And if you don't have a personal physician, we'll provide you with information so you can make the choice that's right for you.

Play it safe with your health. Call us at 1-800-543-WELL.

Lawmakers: Let's save the farmland

BY TIM RICHARD
STAFF WRITER

Farmland should be preserved, a growing number of state senators believe.

They are revising the Subdivision Control Act in one bill and allowing local units to buy development rights from farmers in another set of bills. The bills have been through committee and are on the Senate calendar for a final vote.

"We want to eliminate bowling alley lots," said Sen. Leon Stille, R-Spring Lake, sponsor of Senate Bill 112, the revised subdivision law. "We've seen nearly 854,000 acres of land drop out of agricultural use in the last 10 years."

That loss of farmland amounts to 37 survey townships or the equivalent of all of Washtenaw and Livingston counties.

As Stille, a former village president, explained it May 30, the law requires land to be sold in 10-acre parcels or subdivided. To avoid subdividing costs – which include provisions for water, sidewalks, streets and so on – a farmer will sell a 10-acre parcel with narrow road frontage and a "bowling alley" back yard that eats up a lot of farmland.

"A parcel of 10.1 acres was totally exempt from the (subdivision) process. That one process ate up more farmland," Stille said. So one section of his SB 112 requires a "depth-to-width ratio of not more than 4:1. . ."

Sen. George McManus, R-Traverse City, sought to exempt counties of less than 75,000 population from the bill. Stille opposed it because "I hate to see a two-tier process, where on one side of the road you'd have one standard and another on the other side of the road."

Senators shouted down the McManus amendment in a voice vote and put the bill on "third reading," ready for final passage.

At the same time, the Senate advanced three bills by Sen. Bill Schuette, R-Midland, allowing counties, municipalities and townships to purchase development rights (PDR) from farmers.

The PDR idea grew out of a Farmland Preservation Task Force appointed by Schuette when he directed the state Department of Agriculture (1991-94). The staff chief, Dr. David Skaerlund, made presentations to the Southeast Michigan Council of Governments on an array of ideas.

The concept is similar to separating mineral rights from land use rights. No one knows what development rights will sell for. But the bills require that farmers be given the option of buying back those rights.

A Schuette aide said Old Mission Township in Leelenau County is interested in a PDR program. Washtenaw County is reported to be considering a model PDR ordinance, too.

Airport expansion

County sets flight pattern with committee

Wayne County Commissioners have formed a Special Committee on Airport Expansion to review and evaluate the agreement between Wayne County and Northwest Airlines.

A $1.6 billion airport expansion project expected to be completed in 2000 will double the size of the airport.

"The role of the commission in the airport expansion is very clear," said Wayne County Chairman Ricardo Solomon, who will also serve as the committee chair.

"It is not to renegotiate this agreement or obstruct its process, however, as the legislative arm and coequal branch of county government, it is our fiduciary responsibility to conduct an independent and objective review of this contract.

"The Special Committee on Airport Expansion will provide the best mechanism for us to accomplish our charge."

Solomon also will be making a recommendation to the commission that an outside consulting firm with expertise in airport expansion be hired to help in the committee's review.

An inquiry also has been sent to Wayne County Executive Edward McNamara, requesting specific information regarding the agreement to facilitate the work of the special committee.

The commission will focus on ensuring the construction and budget schedules are met; oversee the management team; and assure "safeguards' to maintain the balance of power between the county and Northwest Airlines.

Other goals include:

■ Improve the airport audit system concurrent with the expansion. Out of the top 20 U.S. airports Detroit Metro is the only one without internal auditors.

■ Guarantee that there will be fair and equitable participation by disadvantaged business enterprises, women and minority vendors;

■ Examine the economic development plan for metro airport, the surrounding communities and marketing/promotional plan for the airport. Every billion dollars of new investment translates into 25,000 new jobs and millions in economic redevelopment.

Seven commissioners will serve on the Special Committee on Airport Expansion. Commissioners Michelle Plawecki and George Cushingberry will serve as committee vice chairs. Commissioner Plawecki serves as the chair of the Committee on Roads, Airports and Public Service and Commissioner Cushingberry serves as Chairman of the Committee on Ways and Means.

Commission Vice Chair Kay Beard, "Dean of the Commission" and Vice Chair Pro Tempore Edna Bell, chair of the Subcommittee on Small, Minority and Women-Owned Businesses will also serve on the committee.

Also serving are Robert Blackwell and Bruce Patterson, who respectively serve as vice chairman of the Committee on Roads, Airports and Public Service and Ways and Means. Patterson also represents the commission district that encompasses Metropolitan Airport.

The special committee will be staffed by Wayne County Commission Director of Administration and Chief Operating Officer Victor L. Marsh, Auditor General Ramona Henderson-Pearson, General Counsel Ben Washburn and Senior Fiscal Analyst Joellen Shortly Perlman.

"There's no way I can ever give the galleries as much as they've given me." Arnold Palmer

Few athletes have forged as enduring or intimate a bond with sports fans as Arnold Palmer. The sight of his slashing swing on black-and-white television screens in the late fifties, when he won the first of his four Masters Championships, helped launch the modern game. And some thirty years later, his commitment to the Senior Tour transformed an intriguing notion into a major force.

The key to Arnold's charisma has always been his unique accessibility. His open, determined face shares every up and down of a crucial round. "A lot of athletes go about their business, and don't relate to people," says Palmer, "but I like having the folks with me." And his army of followers knows it. As Lee Trevino once pointed out, "Arnie has more people watching him pack the trunk of his car than we have watching us on the golf course."

Like other great champions, Palmer is a fierce competitor who earned his reputation with remarkable performances under great pressure. Not surprisingly, he has chosen a timepiece that made its name in the same way. Rolex.

OPINION

Election

Phillips, Schrauben are best

Voters in the Plymouth-Canton schools go to the polls on Monday, June 10, to elect two school board members who will serve for the next four years.

There's no school millage on the ballot, but it is an important election. The two new board members will help formulate the policies that will affect the education of nearly 15,000 students in the district into the 21st century.

There are particular challenges facing the school board. The first is a possible bond issue on the ballot in the near future. School administrators say the money is needed to build more buildings because of an expected influx of students into the district. Housing those students and possibly building a third high school in the district will require planning and hard work by school board members.

Technology in the schools is also an issue. It's important that students learn how to use computers and other technology. The challenge for school board members is the realistic management of that technology. That means buying the right equipment and getting the biggest bang for the buck.

Class size is another top issue in the district. Lowering the ratio between teachers and students, especially in the lower grades, has been a priority of many parents and teachers in the district.

However, it's the job of the school board to weigh all issues and determine spending priorities for the district's $96 million budget.

The setting of spending priorities was our top criteria for the following endorsements of candidates. There are many good educational ideas that could be tried, but putting them into practice is often too expensive a proposition for a public that is wary of new taxes.

For that reason, we recommend Paul Schrauben of Canton and Jeff Phillips of the city of Plymouth. Schrauben and Phillips will offer a fresh approach to school district business.

What makes Phillips and Schrauben so necessary is their ability to listen to an issue, investigate and study it and use reason to reach a conclusion. Clearly, for both candidates, the district – not the school board system – takes priority.

We need independent thinkers with financial savvy. This is especially important given the district's static financial state.

As a former staffer with the U.S. Treasury Office of Thrift Supervision, Schrauben has the financial expertise that the district sorely needs.

Schrauben strongly believes it's time the district focused on long-term planning, including identifying and prioritizing issues, setting goals and developing ways of achieving those goals.

Phillips researched the issue and contends there won't be a glut of students that school officials say is forcing the need for new schools. Right or wrong, clearly this candidate is unafraid of investigating an issue and saying what he believes.

Phillips also correctly points out that the district lacks documented policies and procedures to follow to make decision-making easier and more responsive to public needs.

Both candidates are informed about the district and its financial, administrative and academic needs. Both candidates are gutsy enough to stem the tide, ask the tough questions and make the tough decisions.

The school district will be well-served with the election of Schrauben and Phillips.

Let voters decide term limits

Republicans on the Wayne County Commission are proposing term limits for commission members, county executive, sheriff, prosecuting attorney, clerk, treasurer and register of deeds.

Commissioner Thaddeus McCotter of Livonia sought to have the issue placed on the Aug. 6 primary ballot. Instead, commissioners sent it to their legislative committee for consideration.

Term limits has been a hot topic in recent years with strong and vital arguments on both sides of the issue.

We support placing the issue on the November ballot. We agree with Commissioner William O'Neill, D-Allen Park, that the fall election will allow more voters to join in the decision. A primary, especially one without a major state or national office being contested in the Democratic Party, would not draw a fair representation of county voters. McCotter argued that the primary has fewer issues for voters to consider, but it also draws fewer voters.

Proponents of term limits argue that incumbent office holders have an unfair advantage in elections because they are able to raise campaign chests and build political bases that challengers do not have. They propose that with term limits, all candidates will have a more equitable opportunity to present their case, making for fairer elections.

They argue that with term limits, government will have a regular infusion of new ideas and enthusiasm. They say that long incumbency breeds contempt for voters and strengthens ties with special interest groups. They also argue that the original framers of the U.S. Constitution envisioned a part-time, non-professional legislature and that limited terms promote that position.

Opponents of term limits counter that when you limit terms you take choice away from voters who may favor their long-term incumbent. They also argue that term limits rob legislative bodies of experienced legislators who fully understand the legislative process. They argue that when legislatures turn over constantly, real power rests with unelected staff aides and department bureaucrats who understand the issues better than the newly elected legislators.

They also argue that the constant infusion of one-issue amateur politicians creates legislative deadlock because these office holders do not understand the need for working toward mutually satisfactory compromises.

On the national level, opponents also argue that if some states adopt term limits for congressional members and other states do not, the states with term limits lose legislative clout on seniority-based committees.

Locally, McCotter's plan would limit county commissioners to four full, two-year terms; the county executive to two full, four-year terms; and sheriff, prosecuting attorney, county clerk, treasurer and register of deeds to two full, four-year terms. The plan would take effect Jan. 1 with no retroactivity.

We urge the commission to put the issue on the November ballot and welcome a vigorous debate on this important issue.

He's outstanding

I hope it's not too late to give you a name of an outstanding young man named Lonnie Bryant.

Lonnie always has a smile and gives you that extra mile you don't expect nowadays.

I've seen him carry an end table for an older man who would have had trouble because of the bulk.

He's taken his time with a woman with two young children scurrying around after him and he never lost his smile or his patience.

And I had to do a lot of looking over furniture made two extra trips to see if I "really" wanted what I picked out. Plus when I wanted to exchange the chairs I'd ordered because they were not the quality I wanted - he was always polite and had a cheerful attitude and smile.

Also, he was a proud "pappa" and readily showed his babies' pictures.

Lonnie is willing to share his expertise as a furniture salesman, plus his joy in being able to help people to all who came into contact with him.

Ted, go away

I, for one, wish retired lawyer Ted Bohlen would go away (Dillon, "Residents Want Response From Schools," The Canton Observer, May 23.

Quite simply put: What is the world coming to when a lawyer questions the salaries of teachers?

State of Michigan teachers must have completed schooling for a bachelors degree and 30 plus additional credit hours in education-related course work. In addition, they must also have completed 8-more credits, plus 100 hours of on-site field work and student teaching.

This is only for initial qualification. Keeping the teaching certificate requires many logged teaching hours and proof that the individuals has made a concerted effort toward a graduate degree. (The 30 plus hours above and beyond a bachelors is just not good enough.) The graduate degree is usually in an education-related area.

All of this, coupled with a prospective teacher's noble-minded desire to make a difference in the world, and you get the whopping $31K in beginning pay Bohlen is griping about. The 54K teachers are those that have been around for awhile. Most have advanced degrees.

Perhaps instead of comparing the low pay of our teaching professionals to the low pay of teaching professionals in neighboring areas. We should attempt to analyze the pay of our teachers to Canton professionals in other fields (lawyers, for instance). Lets add an analysis of the overall worth and importance of these professions to our future.

One of the main problems in public education today is the demise of respect for teachers. Even elevated schooling requirements have not succeeded in upping credit given to our educators that they so richly deserve. And our children are becoming more wayward everyday.

I think Mr. Bohlen needs to point the finger elsewhere if he wants to solve the problems of public education. A couple of topics he may wish to investigate are slacker parents, and children without discipline. MEAP scores fall when kids can't get away from Sega Genesis long enough to mind their business.

Thank you for story

On behalf of the Plymouth Rotary Club, Ales Klempa our International Exchange student from the Czech Republic, and the families who have hosted him, please let me thank you and Ms. M.B. Dillon for a thoughtful and scholarly story about Ales and the China Rotary Wheel.

A Czech Rotary Club sent that wheel to Plymouth in 1936. The article in the May 27th Observer was simply superb.

This historic significance of that momento brought by Charles Bennett, former president of our Rotary and president of Daisy Air Rifle, which he had received from Thomas G. Masryk, first president of the Czechoslovak Republic, was well explained. We hope it will help us recognize the need to guard and preserve it well for future generations.

It is clear that all the details about this symbol could not be included in one account. We thought, however, that your readers interested in historic Plymouth might want to know that attorney Michael Muma, current president of Plymouth Rotary, has his office in the former Charles Bennett home at 143 N. Main, Plymouth. During his year as Rotary president he has kept the historic Rotary wheel on the mantel in his office. That building was designated an historic treasure some years ago.

POINTS OF VIEW

Parents dropping the ball with their kids

GUEST COLUMNIST

DALE YAGIELA

In his new book, "The Sibling Society," Robert Bly makes a compelling case that adults are acting like mere adolescents and increasingly less capable of providing the guidance needed by our children and youth.

He describes us as "half adults" who refuse to do our jobs as parents. We don't set limits for our children because we are afraid of damaging our relationship with them or injuring their self-esteem.

Instead of being invested in our children's character development and in them developing a sense of integrity, honesty, responsibility and competence, we are more concerned about the child liking us and his or her feelings.

While I have hoped that Robert Bly was overstating the case, the sad truth is that his observations are becoming the norm in our society and in our community.

In the 25 years I have worked with adolescents and parents, I have never been as concerned about the caliber of parenting as I am now.

Parents in this community act as if there is an economic immunity to wrongdoing, that their children are above the law. In fact, the numbers of community youth using illicit drugs is well above the national average and increasing yearly.

Adolescent drinking is way above the national average as well. Contrary to our conventional wisdom on the subject, gang activity and youth violence are increasing among youth from middle and upper middle class families.

Many parents operate on the notion that because they have such a good relationship with their child, wrongdoing could not possibly be going on.

Most disturbing is the notion that rules established for all youth, or for that matter all residents, do not apply to me or my child.

The classic example is skateboarding. Plymouth, Plymouth Township and Canton have skateboarding ordinances that prohibit this activity in certain areas.

While skateboarding is a pretty minor issue, it is illustrative of our thinking. My agency operates a program for juvenile offenders in cooperation with the Wayne County Juvenile Court and local police agencies. When local police agencies issue tickets for skateboarding, the youth is assigned to us as a consequence of the infraction.

As soon as the notification letters are sent about the violation, our youth assistance staff begins to receive irate calls from parents. Many say that the rule is stupid, their child is being picked on or that they have a constitutional right to skateboard wherever they desire.

In essence, each complaining parent believes that his or her child is above, albeit a relatively minor but nonetheless, community rule. And usually the justification is that he is a good boy and therefore entitled to do as he sees fit.

As high school graduation season approaches, many parents will apply the same thinking to their sons' and daughters' graduation parties. They will make their own rules regarding alcohol use by their sons, daughters and their offspring's friends at graduation festivities.

They will not admonish their own children not to drink. They will permit their children's friends to drink at their parties. The premise includes the following; kids drink anyway. The rules about adolescent drinking are dated. We have a good relationship with our son or daughter. He or she is more responsible than most and can be trusted. I'd rather have them drinking at home where I can watch them. I guess it's all right.

The fact remains is that it is illegal for minors to drink. It's against the rules and the rules are for everyone. It's a sound rule.

When kids get into trouble we tend to focus on their behavior and are critical of their decisions and choices. I am suggesting that we, as parents, are not fulfilling our obligation and mandate to set limits and boundaries for our children.

Bly's nightmare is becoming our reality. While we complain about the government imposing itself in our daily lives, local "Parental Responsibility" ordinances are not far behind when parents do little to enforce common sense rules that apply to protecting the welfare of their children and are in the interest of the community.

Stick it to school districts that hire chauffeurs

TIM RICHARD

Since 1789, there has been a tug of war between the federal government and the states. It has resulted in a Civil War, the New Deal and now the welfare reform siege.

The same tug of war goes on between Lansing and the local units. 'Twas ever thus. 'Twill always be thus.

As the state House passed a school aid bill, Rep. David Jaye, R-Macomb County, won support of an amendment to penalize any school district 10 times over for spending money on a chauffeur for the superintendent. Any district? Only Detroit is dumb enough to do that.

Several years ago, the Legislature wrote a $1 for $1 provision to discourage Detroit from chauffeuring its school board members – it would lose $1 of state aid for every $1 spent on chauffeuring. Detroit failed to learn the lesson. It spent nearly $60,000 on such transit for Superintendent David Snead last year and sacrificed $60,000 in state aid. Jaye showed us an audit.

I beckoned Jaye to the aisle and told him he understated the damage, which was actually $120,000 – $60,000 for the chauffeur service plus $60,000 in lost aid. Jaye agreed my math was correct.

It was a major loss, even for a big district like Detroit. With $120,000 it could have paid for teachers, supplies and space for 23 pupils ($120,000 divided by $5,153 per pupil). If workbooks cost $10 apiece, it could have bought 1,200 workbooks.

Anyway, Jaye's new amendment would penalize a school district $10 for every $1 spent on chauffeurs, or $660,000. "The idea isn't to penalize them," Jaye said. "The idea is to get them to quit doin' it."

Two other incidents occurred with the universities' budget:

- Sen. Bill Schuette, R-Midland, tacked on an amendment that deducted aid to universities that pay benefits for employees' "domestic partners."
- A Jaye amendment orders universities to bargain abortion benefits out of their union contracts.

Chief target is the University of Michigan; secondary target, Wayne State University.

Here, however, the Legislature's power over the purse strings is weaker. The Michigan Constitution (Art. VIII) says, "The power of the boards of institutions of higher education ... to supervise their respective institutions and control and direct the expenditure of the institutions' funds shall not be limited by this section."

Later: "Each board shall have general supervision of its institution and the control and direction of all expenditure from the institution's funds."

The Legislature is entitled to "an annual accounting of all income and expenditure" by the universities, but there's nothing in the constitution about reducing an appropriation once it becomes law.

Sen. Alma Wheeler Smith, D-Salem, opined that the universities can successfully challenge the legislative act in court. I think she's right. Perhaps Jaye, Schuette, et al. got carried away by the fact U-M has lost several court decisions on the Open Meetings Act, Freedom of Information Act and Whistleblower Protection Act.

What's the difference between Detroit schools and U-M? A school district is a creature of the state; the state created it, and the state can abolish it; it's subordinate to the state. U-M was created by the people through the constitution; it has a fair amount of autonomy; its officials refer to it as a "coordinate" branch of government.

The genius of American government is that it is neither totally centralized nor totally local. The result has been a constant tug-of-war, but never a revolution, because we are forever adjusting.

The American system may not last forever, but my hunch is that it will set a world's record.

Buses link people to jobs

PHIL POWER

Anybody who takes a look at the Help Wanted section in the classified ads of this newspaper knows the obvious: There is a labor shortage in Michigan today, especially for jobs that pay $6 to $8 per hour.

Equally, anybody who takes a look at the labor force statistics in the city of Detroit knows the obvious: There are lots of people who want and need work, but who don't have jobs.

So how come folks who live in Detroit and need work don't fill the job openings that are going begging in the suburbs, just a few miles away? Simple. Regardless of motivation, they don't have cars and can't get to and from work.

That's what public transit – buses, trains, subways – is all about in most metro areas around the country. Cheap, reliable transportation lubricates the workings of the labor market, moving the people who want work back and forth from the places where they live to the jobs in other locations.

And one of the striking things about the Detroit metropolitan area as compared with others around the country is the lack of public mass transit. Whether it's because the auto companies conspired in the old days to eliminate buses and trains in order to push car sales or because population densities in southeastern Michigan are too low for good transit economics, I don't know.

But I do know that the growth of our regional economy is being stifled by the continuing mismatch between job availability and labor mobility.

That's why the news coming out of the weekend meeting of the Greater Detroit Chamber of Commerce meeting on Mackinac Island was so encouraging. Officials running the region's two often-quarreling mass transit system – SMART, the suburban bus system, and the Detroit Department of Transportation (DDOT) – announced they are working on coordinating their services.

The idea is to start by consolidating one route – running up along the Woodward corridor – by this summer and add other merged routes – John R, Gratiot, Van Dyke, Grand River, Jefferson and Fort – later on. "We have many times in a day where SMART buses drive by people waiting to get on a DDOT bus and the SMART bus is not full, but they can't. It's silly," said SMART General Manager Richard Kaufman.

He's right. It's not only silly, but it's expensive and hurts businesses whose growth is being hindered by lack of labor.

That's why area business leaders are hoping the experiment in consolidated routes will result in an integrated transit system for the entire region. The Greater Detroit Chamber has set up a task force that is preparing a regional transit plan for release late this summer. The timing is to try to get a merged regional transit system in place before the millage that supports SMART expires in 1998.

"It is our strong belief that a regional (mass transit system) is key to the continued economic development and job growth in southeastern Michigan," said Claudia Berry, director of regional government relations for the chamber.

She's right. Providing a consolidated mass transit system for the entire region is one of those rare ideas for which there are enormous benefits and virtually no liabilities. It's a good idea whose time has come.

IMPORTANT NEWS ABOUT BEER FROM MILLER BREWING COMPANY

BREWS & VIEWS

Miller introduces brand new beer bearing family name

New Miller Beer joins America's popular beer family

For more than 140 years, Miller Brewing Company has created a variety of beers to satisfy beer drinkers' tastes. Each beer – Miller Lite, Lite Ice, Miller Genuine Draft, Miller Genuine Draft Light, High Life, and now Miller Beer – is brewed with the highest-quality ingredients and brewing traditions that have been handed down for generations.

New Miller Beer is brewed from the "heart of the hops" for a fuller flavor with little bitterness; Miller Lite is a great-tasting, low-calorie premium beer; Miller Genuine Draft is a premium beer brewed using a patented cold-filtered process; and High Life is a traditional American full-flavored lager.

Brewmaster: "Miller Beer makes thirst worthwhile"

By Mike Gilman

When you craft a beer that stands out from the crowd, picking a name is easy – you name it after yourself. That's what Miller Brewing Company has done with its new creation – Miller Beer.

"We take a lot of pride in creating a beer so good, we're just calling it who we are," says Miller Brewmaster David Ryder.

Available nationwide this spring, Miller Beer is a premium, mainstream beer with a full, rich flavor. The secret is a special brewing process using the best part of the hops — what Miller calls the "heart of the hops."

"Hops are what give beers their individual, distinct taste," says Ryder. "Using the heart of the hop results in a beer that is big in flavor, short on bitterness and a taste that goes down easy."

Tastes and preferences in beers are evolving, adds Ryder, who points out that the popularity of light beers indicates some people want beers that are easy to drink and not bitter or filling. At the same time, other people want fuller-flavored beers – witness the interest in micro-brews and specialty beers.

"The special brewing method used in new Miller Beer lets us strike a perfect balance between taste and drinkability that meets the changing tastes of today's beer drinkers," says Ryder.

Miller Beer is brewed to satisfy that wide array of tastes and preferences.

"Miller Beer is truly a new, distinctive beer that stands out from the crowd," says Ryder. "One taste and you'll know the difference."

New Miller Beer stands out on the shelf, too. A striking red, blue and white logo in a traditional brown bottle makes it easy to identify.

Miller Brewing Company expresses confidence that Miller Beer represents a new standard for premium, mainstream beers.

Experts agree: New Miller Beer dethrones the competition

By Peter Marino

Throughout time, the ultimate test for an up-and-comer has been to challenge the champion. In the beer industry, where taste is king, the most direct challenge is a taste test.

In an independent, blind taste test conducted by a major metropolitan daily newspaper with three well-known beer experts, new Miller Beer soundly defeated the top-selling beer in the American premium mainstream beer category, which is the largest segment in the beer industry and includes a variety of full-calorie products.

Following the conventional rules for a taste test, the three experts, all of whom have judged numerous professional beer competitions in the past, scrutinized their beers for nearly half an hour and then all three — one a native of England, one German-born and one a Milwaukee native, scored new Miller Beer the taste champion.

With comments such as "...good malt balance," "...fuller flavor, nice finish," "...nice follow-through with hop flavors," "...it's a better beer," the experts were unanimous in their assessment of new Miller Beer.

We found out how you can conduct your own taste test. Try it with new Miller Beer and the leading American-style lager. Here's how:

"It's a better beer."
-Dennis Davison, beer judge

Beer drinkers call for Miller Beer – the one with the red label

As new Miller Beer becomes available in bars and restaurants across the country, the brand is quickly becoming known as "Miller with the red label."

Paul Roller, president of Miller Brands, a Miller wholesaler in Milwaukee, Wis., says that referring to the brand's distinctive red packaging graphics is an easy way for beer drinkers to order the beer.

Big flavor, big advertising

Miller Brewing's newest brand with big flavor is supported by a substantial advertising line-up. "Miller Beer is for beer drinkers who associate great possibilities in beer taste with great possibilities about themselves," said a company spokesperson. "Our advertising reflects this."

The advertising for the brand uses the tagline "Reach for what's out there" and includes national television, radio, print and billboards and introduces new Miller Beer and its unique product profile. The highly visible television campaign includes major sports programs such as the NBA Finals and prime time programs.

MILLER BREWING REMINDS YOU TO: THINK WHEN YOU DRINK

The heart of the matter

Quality hops mean big flavor, smooth taste

By Jori Mendel

In a proprietary brewing method, Miller Brewing Company is using "the heart of the hops" to brew a beer with full flavor but very little bitterness — new Miller Beer.

Hops are the spice of beer: adding flavor, texture and aroma.

With 140 years of brewing under its belt, Miller spent more than two years crafting this new beer, brewed with only the best part of select hops.

"Hops are the spice of beer adding their own special taste, aroma, texture but also bitterness," explains David Ryder, brewmaster for Miller.

"When brewing new Miller Beer, we use only the heart of the hop to produce a rich flavor that diminishes the bitter characteristics typically associated with full-flavored beers," says Ryder. "This gives Miller Beer its smooth taste and rich texture."

The new brewing process also gives Miller Beer richer flavor by allowing the use of four times more hops than are typically used in premium, mainstream, full-calorie beers.

"More hops means more flavor, richer texture, but in the case of new Miller Beer, less bitterness," says Ryder.

Quality hops are essential to brewing quality beer. More than 100 varieties of hops are cultivated nationwide. Miller Beer is brewed with highest quality of Galena hops from the Pacific Northwest.

"More hops means more flavor, more texture, but in the case of new Miller Beer, less bitterness."

YOU BE THE EXPERT

Gather some friends or "tasters," two pilsner-style glasses per taster, Miller Beer and the challenging beer of your choice in the American-style premium lager category. Use the score card below. Each beer should be scored on color, aroma, flavor, smoothness / easy to drink and less bitter aftertaste.

Chill both beers to approximately 38 degrees Fahrenheit. Ask a non-taster to pour both beers behind a shield to ensure an objective, "blind" tasting. Ask each participant to taste the beer and record their rating in each category, using 1 (poor) to 5 (great) for each characteristic. Repeat this process with the second beer, gather all score cards and compare. The beer with the higher score is your taste-test winner.

KAREN MEIER

Meier milestone: Steven is smiling

Steven's smiling now. At three months, he smiles big and he smiles often. His whole face smiles. His eyes and cheeks. And chins. Yes, chins. Steven is plump now and he sports an extra chin, which gets in on the smiling.

And to think, he had all that trouble when he was new back in February. But those troubles are gone. All gone. He eats now. A lot. He's keeping up the baby Meier tradition. Like his brothers and sister before him, he has that well-fed baby look – a double chin and cheeks that rest on his chest.

Now this smiling business of Steven's is still a relatively new occurrence, so we yell: "Steven's smiling! Come! Look! Quick!" You moms and dads know exactly why it means so much when your baby first smiles. It's absolutely miraculous. The physiology of it and the psychology of it. The muscles and the emotions involved are so intricate and so utterly human.

I'm not sure about this, but aren't humans the only creatures on the planet capable of smiling for joy? I know dogs wag their tails, but they don't really smile with their mouths, do they? And cats purr. And birds can't smile with their beaks. Now maybe gorillas and monkeys smile, but I'm not sure their smiles work the same way ours do.

Anyway, smiles are very precious here on earth. And when a baby first smiles that's a precious moment. And I've learned babies with Down syndrome may try out their smiles a little later than other babies. So we waited for

A hero's reward

Torchbearer recognized for work with women

■ Marlene Kershaw was honored when she found out she had been nominated as a "Community Hero" for her work with displaced homemakers and even more so when she was selected to carry the Olympic flame as part of the Michigan segment of the nationwide relay.

BY SUE MASON
STAFF WRITER

What? Marlene Kershaw worry? You would think a "Community Hero" would have a few concerns about carrying the Olympic Flame on Sunday.

No, she says, she's not worried about dropping the torch. Nor is she worried about putting out the flame or setting herself on fire as it is transferred to her torch.

One of 32 "Community Heroes" who will carry the Olympic flame during the Michigan leg of the 15,000-mile, 84-day relay, Kershaw does admit to just one itty-bitty concern ... her shorts won't fit.

"The committee provides the torchbearers with a shirt, shorts and socks, and they only had sizes small, medium, large and extra-large, so I ordered a large," Kershaw said. "Now, I'm worried they won't fit, which gets me on the treadmill every night."

While the Farmington Hills resident might laugh about a snug fit, she is dead serious about the job at hand. She has been in training since finding out in February that she was among the 10,000 people selected to carry the flame from Los Angeles, Calif., to Atlanta, Ga., for the opening of the 1996 Summer Games.

"There was this little envelope that looked like advertising; I almost threw it out, but opened it," Kershaw said. "It said congratulations, you have been nominated and won. It was just an honor when she (Nancy Swanborg) told me she had nominated me, so I think being chosen is an even bigger honor."

that in nine years time, Kershaw "has developed, expanded and given life" to the program for displaced homemakers.

"Her design of 'One-Stop Shopping' provides self-discovery activities, a structured career search, assertiveness training and job-hunting techniques," Swanborg noted. "Over nine year, 200 women have jobs earning $15,000. Cards and letters from participants clearly indicate that they name Marlene as their hero, mentor, model and leader."

Kershaw was "elated and honored," when Swanborg told her of the nomination. She describes the nomination as an "elegant essay."

Swanborg also has had T-shirts made for volunteers and staff members to wear as they line Kershaw's half-mile stretch of Sunday's relay. Kershaw, who needs someone to hold a flag that will mark her segment , has decided to ask Swanborg to be her flagbearer.

"She has allowed me to develop and implement ideas," she said. "She has become the program's mouthpiece and its advocate. I think we make the greatest partnership."

Armed with a weighted small torch, mimicking the 3 1/2-pound one she will carry for a half mile, Kershaw has worked out on the treadmill and even at the track at North Farmington High School. She's been walking three miles every night in hopes of being able to run at least a portion of her segment, but now says "no way."

"I tried running on the treadmill, but on regular pavement, it hurt my knees," she said. "Twelve years ago I injured my knees playing racquetball, so it's going to be a fast walk for me.

"My segment is 2 1/2 times around the high school track and I've only been able to run half way around one lap. It's been disappointing for me, but also wonderful for me because I've found the treadmill and that's something I can do every day."

And now that her son, Jon, is home from the University of Wyoming, he is making sure his mother is properly motivated. Jon is a swimmer whose "goal ... aspiration is to try to attain Olympic times," according to Kershaw.

"He gets me motivated," she explained. "He's been an athlete for 10 years and asks me questions like 'Are you eating right?' You know, all the questions we would ask him, and, of course, he loves to have the shoe on the other foot. He loves to tease me."

Organizers haven't set a limit for each segment of the relay. Torchbearers will be given time at the exchange of the flame for photographs with families and friends.

But when Kershaw starts her fast walk with the Olympic flame on Sunday, she will be carrying in honor of the people who have given her "probably the best job in the world."

"The success of the Chips program is not because of me, but because of the staff, the volunteers, Nancy's part, the people at Student Services, the dean whose been supportive, the vice president, the president," she said. "They say it takes a village and it's been said by a number of participants that this has been their village."

Following the Olympic flame relay

For Olympic flame watchers, there are plenty of opportunities to see the relay during its visit to Michigan, as brief as it is.

The flame will come from Toledo on Saturday, June 8, following M-24 (Telegraph Road) through Monroe, Flat Rock, Brownstown, Taylor and Dearborn Heights before arriving at Dearborn High School, 19501 W. Outer Drive, at 12:15 a.m. Sunday, June 9.

The second leg of the relay will start at 6 a.m., at Michigan Avenue and Outer Drive. Torchbearers will follow Telegraph Road north to Joy Road, where the route turns east to Littlefield, Tireman, West Grand Boulevard and eventually Woodward Avenue en route to a 9:30 ceremony in Hart Plaza.

Following the ceremony, the flame will be placed on the Great Lakes ore carrier, American Republic, for its journey across Lake Erie to Cleveland, Ohio.

The community celebration will start at 5 p.m. Saturday in Hart Plaza with an Olympic Street Festival and Exhibit, sponsored by Coca-Cola.

At 8 a.m. Sunday, torch watchers can enjoy breakfast, provided by McDonald's, while waiting for the relay and welcoming ceremony, featuring a special performance by Aretha Franklin.

Many readers have asked about Steven and Down syndrome. You've urged me to report on his progress in the "Family Room." You've asked for and given information about this disability. And that's good. Awareness seems to diminish fear and foster compassion. And there's always room for a little more bravery and understanding in this world.

So let's see. Steven and his progress. I'm pleased to say he's enrolled in an "early intervention" program. And I have several readers to thank for that. You provided the very information I needed to get Steven enrolled in the program offered by the school district here. It's called IPSEP – the Infant and Preschool Special Education Program. Other communities offer similar programs although they may be called by other names. The state of Michigan provides for programs like this under the federal law known as the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act.

You know, I remember seeing IPSEP pamphlets and fliers coming home over the years with the millions of other notes and notices my two older children would bring from school. But I never paid attention; the information didn't apply, so I just tossed the stuff away.

IPSEP and programs like it are wonderful. Steven, my young baby, goes to school. It's just once a week for about an hour and there I learn and he learns and even Joe and Jack learn. That's because we all go. Together. The children with special needs are brought to school (which here is in a wing of a regular elementary school) by their mom or dad or grandma or grandpa or aunt or friend or care giver. Preschool siblings of the special child can attend, too. It takes a whole community to raise a child, you know.

The children in Steven's class range in age from newborn to 3 years old. Steven is the youngest at three months. Some of his classmates have Down syndrome, some have cerebral palsy, some have speech or hearing or visual impairments. They all have special needs and they all have special gifts. Most of the children in Steven's class are in the 2- to 3-year-old range so they really enjoy the activities, the songs, the play centers, the snacks, and the kindergarten room-like atmosphere. For the young babies, it's more of a time for mom. She learns by watching the older children and their moms and by asking questions. Therapists and specialists are on hand to help the children and the grownups.

In addition to his "class," I bring Steven to the school for physical therapy. The therapist works with him and teaches me how to work with him. We're all working together to strengthen his muscles and encourage his development. He's holding his head up more steadily each day. He rolled over once from his belly to his back. His grasp is getting stronger. He's tracking the movements of things with his eyes. He responds to noise. And sometimes he'll bring a little soft toy right up to his face, if someone puts it in his hand.

And he smiles. That, though, he didn't learn from a teacher or a therapist. Or me. He learned that from deep inside. It's his spirit. And it's shining through.

He has spirit and he has a smile. And nothing can stop him now.

For information about "early intervention" programs in your area, call 1-800-327-5966.

If you have a question or comment for Karen Meier, a Plymouth resident, call her at 953-2047, mailbox number 1883, on a Touch-Tone phone.

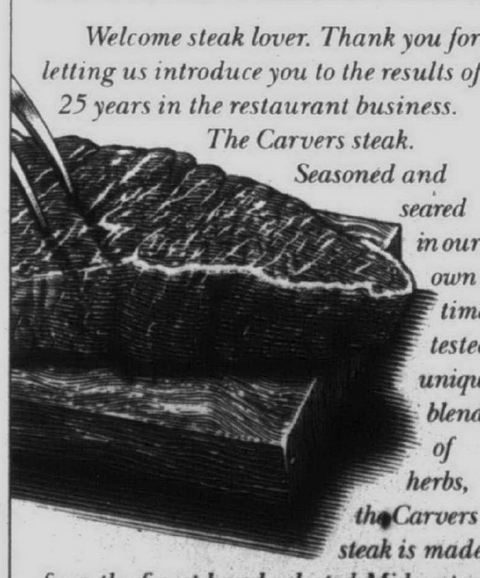
A STEAKHOUSE YOU MIGHT EXPECT TO FIND IN NEW YORK, San Francisco or Chicago is right here in Farmington Hills: Carvers.

We're happy to announce that everything we've learned in the last 25 years now fits neatly into 14 ounces.



Welcome steak lover. Thank you for letting us introduce you to the results of 25 years in the restaurant business. The Carvers steak. Seasoned and seared in our own time tested, unique blend of herbs, the Carvers steak is made from the finest hand-selected Midwestern corn-fed beef we could find (far beyond USDA choice standards).

We take great care in preparation as well. Our filet mignon for example. To make sure you'll savor every bite, we take the extra step to remove the "chain". (The gristle that other restaurants commonly leave on.)

Steak goes well with wine. And together, they go well with life.

We'd also like to say thank you for letting us introduce you to Carvers itself. When you come in you'll see how the place exudes a kind of traditional, authentic and comfortable atmosphere from the warm wood setting to the extensive wine list.

We like to refer to it as the definitive American steakhouse. We're not about trends. We're all about food: steaks, prime rib and seafood.

Carvers, we're open in Farmington Hills. Please call for a lunch or dinner reservation. And start a tradition of your own.

Care to make a reservation now?
Simply dial 476-5333
We look forward to serving you.

Relax and enjoy a bit of perfection.

Family Emergencies.

© UMC 1994

No two emergencies are exactly alike. So all emergency care shouldn't be the same either.

That's why we designed and equipped our emergency department to handle everything from minor accidents to life-threatening injuries. If there are any questions about the seriousness of the emergency, a specially trained nurse is on hand to evaluate the situation and direct you to the appropriate level of treatment.

And whether you're a walk-in patient or require critical care, you'll receive the same quick and personalized medical attention from doctors who are specially trained in emergency medicine.

Our emergency care is backed by the resources of a full-service hospital, it's available 24 hours a day, every day, and it comes with the understanding that minor problems shouldn't result in major expenses . . . good reasons to go to St. Mary Hospital for sudden illness or injury. For more information call us at (313) 464-WELL.

Because when it comes to family emergencies, the specialized care we offer is no accident.

Millions in loans, plus one great rate—½% below Prime.

At Michigan National Bank, we've made it our business to help your business. We've dedicated millions of dollars for new loans with our Business Investment Term Loan. And, what's more, we're offering a great introductory rate—½% below Prime for the first 12 months. Just call and ask to speak with a Small Business Representative. They'll show you that if you have a small business, your bank should be Michigan National Bank.

Phone: 1-800-CALL-MNB

Michigan National Bank

Member FDIC LENDER

The discounted introductory variable rate of 7.75% APR is based on The Wall Street Journal prime rate minus ½% which was 8.25% on April 1, 1996. Your APR may rise or fall if the prime rate changes. After that, the negotiated rate will apply. Offer available for new investment only and excludes small business lines of credit, construction loans, SBA loans and/or refinances of existing Michigan National Bank loans. Loan requires a ½% commitment fee plus any applicable third-party cost (such as recording fee, appraisal fees, title search fee). This term loan is a minimum of 60 months. The minimum is $50,000 and the maximum is $500,000. Offer valid May 1 through June 30, 1996. Loan must close by July 31, 1996.

CHARTER TOWNSHIP OF CANTON
ELECTRICAL ORDINANCE
SUMMARY

AN ORDINANCE AMENDING ORDINANCE NO. 77, ELECTRICAL ORDINANCE; FOR SAFEGUARDING LIFE AND PROPERTY BY REGULATING AND PROVIDING FOR THE INSTALLATION, ALTERATION, REPAIRING, SERVICING AND MAINTENANCE OF ELECTRICAL EQUIPMENT; PROVIDING FOR THE LICENSING AND/OR REGISTRATION OF ELECTRICAL CONTRACTORS, FIRE ALARM CONTRACTORS, SIGN SPECIALTY CONTRACTORS, MASTER ELECTRICIANS, JOURNEYMAN ELECTRICIANS, FIRE ALARM SPECIALTY TECHNICIANS, SIGN SPECIALISTS, APPRENTICE ELECTRICIAN AND FIRE ALARM SPECIALTY APPRENTICE TECHNICIAN; PROVIDING FOR THE ADMINISTRATION AND ENFORCEMENT THEREOF; PROVIDING FOR AN ELECTRICAL EXAMINING AND APPEALS BOARD AND ITS POWERS AND DUTIES; PROVIDING FOR MEMBERSHIP IN THE RECIPROCAL ELECTRICAL COUNCIL, INC.; FOR THE PURPOSES OF ACHIEVING UNIFORMITY OF ORDINANCES, ELECTRICAL RULES, LICENSING, EXAMINATIONS AND GENERAL RULES; PROVIDING FOR PENALTIES FOR VIOLATIONS OF THE ORDINANCE; PROVIDING FOR REPEAL OF ALL INCONSISTENT ORDINANCES; PROVIDING FOR SEVERABILITY; PROVIDING FOR SAVINGS CLAUSE; PROVIDING FOR EFFECTIVE DATE.

THE CHARTER TOWNSHIP OF CANTON ORDAINS:
SECTION 1.
This section amends Ordinance No. 77 as follows:
12.001 Section 1. Short Title.
This sections titles this Ordinance as the "Electrical Ordinance".
2.002 Section 2. Definitions.
This section defines "Apprentice Electrician", "Board", "Department", "Electrical Equipment", "Electrical Contractor", "Electrical Inspector", "Electrical Journeyman", "Electric Sign", "Electrical Wiring", "Fire Alarm Contractor", "Fire Alarm Specialty Apprentice Technician", "Fire Alarm Specialty Licensure", "Fire Alarm Specialty Technician", "Fire Alarm System", "Jobsite", "Master Electrician", "Minor Repair Work", "Municipality","Outline Lighting", "Owner", "Sign Specialist", "Sign Specialty Contractor", "Sign Specialty Licensure", and "Related Sign Wiring".
12.003 Section 3. Electric Inspection.
This section grants jurisdiction to the Electrical Examining and Appeals Board over the inspection of electrical installations, empowers the Board to promulgate and recommend rules and regulations concerning electrical work in the Township, and provides that the Board of Trustees shall appoint an Electrical Inspector.
12.004 Section 4. Fees for Inspection.
This section provides that the Board of Trustees shall establish fees for permits, license registration and examination.
12.005 Section 5. Right of Access to Buildings.
This section provides that the Electrical Inspector shall have access to buildings in the exercise of his or her official duties and authority to disconnect electrical supply where such current is dangerous or may interfere with the work of the Fire Department.
12.006 Section 6. Permits.
This section makes it unlawful to install, alter or repair electrical equipment without a permit, and provides that permits may be issued to Licensed Electrical Contractors, Licensed Fire Alarm Contractors, Licensed Sign Specialty Contractors and a bona fide owner of a single family residence, no part of which is used for rental or commercial purposes.
12.007 Section 7. Contractor's Requirements; Exceptions
This section prohibits a person, firm or corporation from engaging in the business of electrical contracting, fire alarm contracting, or sign contracting unless first licensed by the state or appropriate municipality, and prohibits any person other than a Master Electrician or a person licensed, employed by and working under the direction of a holder of an Electrical Contractor's License, Fire Alarm Contractor's License or Sign Contractor's License, to execute any electrical wiring, except for work indicated in Subsections (g), (i)-(n), and provides that a license or permit is not required to execute work specified in Subsections (a)-(f) and (h).
12.008 Section 8. Inspection
This section requires the person, firm or corporation installing wiring, to notify the Township Building and Inspection Services Department, and provides that the Electrical Inspector shall inspect said installation, and if in conformance with this Ordinance, to issue a Certificate of Inspection, and provides that all wires to be hidden from view must be inspected prior to concealment.
12.009 Section 9. Re-Inspection
This section provides that the Electrical Inspector may, when authorized by state law or ordinance, make periodic re-inspections of wiring, devices and material installed within the Township, and if found to be dangerous or unsafe, to notify the person, firm or corporation owning, using or operating the device to make necessary repairs and/or changes within fifteen (15) days, and to disconnect electrical service if found to be defectively installed.
12.010 Section 10. Construction Requirements
This section prohibits the issuance of a Certificate of Inspection unless electrical installation conforms with the provisions of this Ordinance, the laws of Michigan, the rules and regulations of the Michigan Public Service Commission, the regulations of the National electrical Code, the Township Building Code, and the N.F.P.A.'s 71-74 for Fire Alarm Systems, and are deemed to be prima facie evidence of approved methods.
12.011 Section 11. Approved Materials
This section makes it unlawful to use any electrical device or equipment unless of good design and construction, and provides that devices and equipment approved by recognized authorities, such as U.S. Bureau of Standards, Electrical Testing Laboratories, Underwriters Laboratories, or Factory Mutual, may be approved by the Electrical Inspector.
12.012 Section 12. Record and Review
This section requires the Building and Inspection Services Department of Canton to keep complete records of all permits and inspections, and provides that an owner or agent, after receiving written notice from the Electrical Inspector that all or part of an electrical installation is condemned, may, within five (5) days, petition for a review by the Electrical and Examining and Appeals Board.
12.013 Section 13. License and Registration for Electrical Work
13.1 This section establishes the membership of the Electrical Examining and Appeals Board.
13.2 This section provides that such Board shall be appointed by the Board of Trustees of the Township of Canton, and that the Board shall examine all applicants for Electrical, Fire and Sign Contractors License, Fire Alarm Specialty Technician's License, and Sign Specialist License, and shall examine all registrants for Apprentice Electricians and Fire Alarm Specialty Apprentice Technicians.

TOWNSHIP OF CANTON

CHANGES ARE MADE IN DETERMINATIONS OF THE TOWNSHIP OF CANTON, WAYNE COUNTY, MICHIGAN, BASE (1% ANNUAL CHANCE) FLOOD ELEVATIONS UNDER THE NATIONAL FLOOD INSURANCE PROGRAM.

On September 2, 1981, the Federal Emergency Management Agency (FEMA) identified Special Flood Hazard Areas in the Township of Canton, Michigan, through issuance of a Flood Insurance Rate Map.

The Associate Director for Mitigation, has determined that modification of the elevations of the flood having a 1% chance of occurrence in any given year (base flood) for certain locations in the Township of Canton, is appropriate. The modified base flood elevations amend the FEMA Flood Insurance Rate Map for the community.

This modification to the effected Flood Insurance Rate Map reflects channelization and placement of fill along Tonquish Creek. This revision also deletes the nonexisting roads, Production Drive, Enterprise Drive, and Commerce Drive, and adds the existing Koppernick Road. As a result of the channel modifications, there are increases and decreases in the base flood elevations, 1% and 0.2% annual chance floodplains and floodway. The revised base flood elevations for Tonquish Creek are as follows:

	Base Flood Elevations (NGVD)*
Location	Effective	Revised
Approximately .6 mile downstream of Lilley Road	None	674
At downstream side of Lilley Road	682	683

* Elevation in feet National Geodetic Vertical Datum

The changes are made pursuant to Section 206 of the Flood Disaster Protection Act of 1973 (P.L. 93-234), and are in accordance with the National Flood Insurance Act of 1968, as amended. (Title XIII of the Housing and Urban Development Act of 1968, P.L. 90-448) 42 U.S.C. 4001-4128, and 44 CFR Part 65.

Under the above-mentioned Acts of 1968 and 1973, the Associate Director for Mitigation, must develop criteria for floodplan management. In order for the community to participate in the National Flood Insurance Program, the community will be using the new base flood elevations to administer the floodplain management measures of the National Flood Insurance Program. These modified base flood elevations will also be used to calculate the appropriate flood insurance premium rates for new buildings and their contents.

Upon the second publication of notice of these changes in this paper, any person has 90 days in which he can request through the Chief Executive Officer of the community that the Associate Director for Mitigation reconsider the determination. Any request for reconsideration must be based on knowledge of changed conditions or new scientific or technical data. All interested parties are on notice that until the 90-day period elapses, the Associate Director's determination to modify the base flood elevations may itself be changed.

Any person having knowledge or wishing to comment on these changes should immediately notify:

Handwriting shows she is versatile and interesting

GRAPHOLOGY PROFILES

LORNE GREEN

Dear Lorene C. Green,

I am 60 and I will be 61 in June. I am retiring Aug. 22 from Great Lakes Steel. I will have 22 1/2 years. I have five grown children and 13 grandchildren.

I am busy and active. I am somewhat shy. After I know you, I can talk and am OK.

Thank you.

D.A.,

Canton

This is the handwriting of an interesting, versatile, and lively writer. Augmenting this is unpredictability and impetuousness. Life with her would never be dull.

Her many interests would bring change and variety to her days. She is excitable and high strung. Moods might swing from the peaks to the pits rather quickly at times.

In a disciplined setting, she may have a little difficulty. Neatness is not first on her list. When her capricious nature kicks in, she may drop what she is doing and move into something more appealing. Completing projects may not always happen.

At times, she appears to be fraught with conflicting emotions. This ambivalence can make it difficult for her to reach decisions.

The writer seeks admiration and may wish to have her own way at times. She is quite interested in the impression she makes on others.

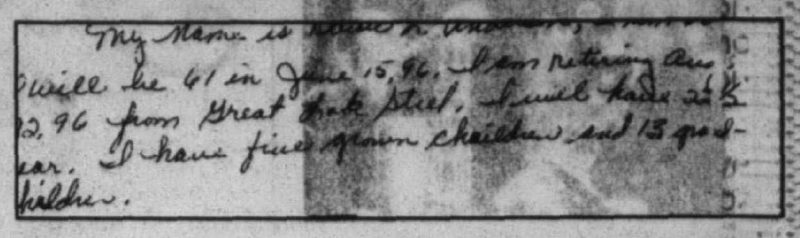
She appears to have good common sense. Formal education, however, may have been cut short.

Seemingly, the writer is easily annoyed at times and a tad rebellious. She may be experiencing anxiety in her life currently.

Her likes and dislikes are rather pronounced. Long lasting feelings tend to make her a little prejudiced. some things she clings to tenaciously.

Our writer is self-conscious, especially in unfamiliar situations and with those she does not know well. After she finds the communication progressing she can relax and open.

With friends and family, her ready wit can be an endearing trait. People also appreciate the empathy and concern she shows to them.



If you would like your handwriting analyzed in this newspaper, write to Lorene C. Green, a certified graphologist, at 36251 Schoolcraft, Livonia 48150.

Please write a few paragraphs about yourself, using a full sheet of white, unlined paper and writing in the first person singular. Age, handedness and signature are all helpful.

Two Oakland County religious communities and a pianist with international stature have turned an annual "musical conversation" into a major cultural event.

Pianist James Tocco, a Detroit native, returns this year as artistic director of the third Great Lakes Chamber Music Festival, a series of nine concerts over seven days. The opening performance is at 8 p.m. Saturday in the sanctuary of St. Hugo of the Hills Church, Bloomfield Hills.

"I want to focus on chamber music," said Tocco, who describes chamber music as a gathering of friends having a "musical conversation" before an eavesdropping audience. "It's very important that we enjoy one another's music, one another's company," Tocco said.

Tocco joined with St. Hugo, where his brother, the Rev. Tony Tocco, is the pastor, with Temple Beth El in Bloomfield Township, and with the Detroit Chamber Winds and the Chamber Music Society of Detroit to organize the festival.

This year, two concerts will take place at St. Hugo, five at Temple Beth El. Two family concerts are scheduled for Sunday at the Detroit Zoo's new Wildlife Interpretative Gallery. (See complete schedule for program details.)

The festival's first two years drew bravos from participating musicians and classical music fans.

"It's really succeeded beyond our wildest expectations, and we have pretty high expectations," said Maury Okun, a trombonist and the executive director of the Detroit Chamber Winds, which provides local musicians for the festival. "Critical responses have been very very positive."

"We went in the first year with great trepidation," Tocco said.

"I think that our audience has proven to be very enthusiastic about the festival."

Another Detroit native, pianist Ruth Laredo, will be returning to the festival, as will the Amernet String Quartet, recent winners of the Banff International String Quartet Competition.

Cellist Paul Katz, violinist Yehonatan Berick and violist Barbara Westphal will be guest musicians new to the festival. Emmanuelle Boisvert, Detroit Symphony Orchestra violinist, will also perform.

The six regular concerts after opening night will be preceded by a "Prelude," a half-hour performance and lecture that will start an hour before the show. Preludes are free to ticket-holders.

Tocco said organizers have slightly increased the number of concerts the festival offers. Next year, he expects to expand it to two full weeks.

Festival expansion has been done conservatively, he said. "I don't want it to mushroom into something unwieldy."

In the future, Tocco said, he would like to see the festival include an education program that pairs seasoned musicians with less-experienced ones.

Tocco said he appreciates the spiritual qualities of music but that the festival is not based on religious music, even though it is sponsored by religious institutions.

EXHIBITION

Paintings provoke thought about migrant workers

LINDA ANN CHOMIN
SPECIAL WRITER

Nora Chapa Mendoza uses brushes and paint to educate the public about the plight of migrant farm workers and women living in poverty in the current exhibit at the Livonia Civic Center Library Fine Arts Gallery. The internationally exhibited West Bloomfield artist created the works as illustrations for the book "Al Norte: Agricultural Workers in the Great Lakes Region 1917-1970" by Dennis Nodin Valdes.

Forty of the works were exhibited in 1995 at the George Meaney Memorial Archives in Washington, D.C. The paintings were done from sketches made during visits to migrant camps, from old photos, and her own memories.

Born in Weslaco, Texas, on the United States-Mexican border, Mendoza's mother died when she was 4 years old. Shortly thereafter, an aunt tied potato sacks onto her back and front and took Mendoza to pick cotton with her in the Rio Grande Valley of Texas. She spent days in the fields exposed to sun and unbearable heat, working from sun up to sundown.

Through her paintings, Mendoza strives to tell the story of faceless peasants breaking their backs to work in order to eat and survive. Their shack-like homes were on wheels so that they could follow the succession of crops. She tells of a hoe, since outlawed, which forced workers to remain bent over at all times because of its short handle. The symbol of stoop labor for two generations, the hoe caused ruptured discs, arthritis of the spine and torn back ligaments.

"I hope the paintings give the viewer some insight to struggles and issues of migrant workers. I paint to tell a story or document what's happening or what has happened that people will learn from it," said Nora Chapa Mendoza, a Michigan Council for Arts and Cultural Affairs board member.

Growing up in a poor household, Mendoza learned to mix and match colors from her father, a house painter. She began painting at age 14 when her father brought home canvas and pigments and asked her to copy a picture of a bullfighter for him. Two years later she was illustrating books including the book of poetry "Why am I so Brown" by Trinidad Sanchez.

A Chicana Indian, Mendoza uses her work to not only speak proudly of her heritage but the trials and tribulations of people suffering worldwide. Mendoza "feels a social consciousness and sense of loyalty to support the human rights of all people." She paints three subjects: migrant workers, women and Indian people in an effort to make a statement about their lifestyles, struggles and pain.

Although she was unable to attend college that did not stop her from learning about the world. Her travels have taken her to the mountains of Peru to paint a village of abandoned women living in poverty, and to other countries in the Third World. In 1986, Mendoza met Cesar Chavez who

FINE ARTS

Artist searches for spirituality

ARTISTIC EXPRESSIONS

LINDA ANN CHOMIN

When Dolores Carroll's husband died after suffering a heart attack five years ago, etching and painting kept her going as well as "early morning walks with God." As part of a two person exhibit with Catherine Peet, 19 pieces by Carroll, a Westland artist, continue on display through mid-July at the coffeehouse Espresso Royale, 324 S. State Street (between Liberty and William), Ann Arbor. The show is presented by the Ann Arbor Art Association of which Carroll is a member.

Using acid etched into zinc plates, Carroll creates moody, dark compositions of musicians Ron Brooks performing at the Bird of Paradise, Steve Woods at Del Rio in Ann Arbor, and Chicago-style blues saxophonist Joe Picollo at the Aar-D-Vark in Windsor. Another limited edition print featuring legendary jazz vocalist Billie Holliday illustrates the beauty and not the singer's troubled life. Carroll calls the tone she sets a spiritual one.

"The common denominator is spirituality. People tell me they see peace in my artwork and hope. You can almost see the person's spirit coming out," said Carroll, a graduate of Our Lady of Sorrows High School in Farmington.

Carroll, who studied fine art and interior design at Wayne State University, moved to Windsor in 1981 when she married her husband Lorne. Until 1994, she owned Carroll Associates Art Gallery & Custom Framing in the Windsor area. For two years after the death of Lorne, a Canadian musician, Carroll says she remained in a cocoon. She then began searching for the direction her life would take. After 10 years of selling other artists' work, Carroll decided life was too short and wanted more time to paint. She moved back to the U.S. to be close to her family.

She continues to exhibit her work in Ontario and most recently was part of a print exchange exhibition at Chiba-Shimin Gallery in Japan.

In order to pay the bills, Carroll is employed part-time selling furniture at Walker Buzenburg in Plymouth. There she works with design and color to build rooms around clients needs and wants.

"Selling furniture for me is cross-training like an athlete only I'm working with furniture and color and people," she said.

Carroll's early works were influenced by her background in interior design. They are primarily florals tailored to the colors of specific environments. In the past five years however her work has taken a turn to black and white in the form of Intaglio prints. Many times Carroll, a member of the Farmington Artists Club and the Michigan Guild of Artists and Artisans, recycles her artwork.

An unsuccessful print becomes a collage of images relaying an anti-smoking statement. "Cool with a Capital C" speaks about cancer. Blackened and damaged lungs combined with old cigarette ads and an image of a man with throat cancer make for a powerful message.

Also on display are Carroll's latest figure studies. Painted in acrylic on paper, the 50 year old artist moves in a new direction of color with the newest work as if in an awakening of her own spirit.

Prices for Carroll's work ranges from $100 to $500, original etchings of the musicians between $165-200.

In the mood: Dolores Carroll captures the spirit of jazz and blues musicians in black and white etchings, including these of Ron Brooks at Ann Arbor's Bird of Paradise and Joe Piccollo at the Aar-D-Vark in Windsor.

fought the Environmental Protection Agency on behalf of the United Farm Workers of America to ban the spraying of grapes with Dinoseb, a pesticide causing birth defects.

Chavez commissioned Mendoza to design six greeting cards depicting children and farm workers. Proceeds from sales went to the Children of the Fields program of the United Farm Workers.

Last year's travels took her to Germany to do a commissioned mural as a project which involved children. Also last year, she was one of seven artists who did decorative painting to restore Music Hall to its former splendor.

As an artist active within the community, Mendoza frequently gives art workshops to elementary school children as part of Omni Arts which brings artists into inner city classrooms. She brings along the posters created for Hispanic and Latino conferences held annually at Michigan State University. The images demonstrate the influence of Aztec and Spanish as well as relay the Chicano history of ancestors who worked in fields and mines and built railroads.

"The posters are good teaching tools. It gives them a sense of pride of who they are," said Mendoza.

One of the paintings done for a documentary filmed about poet Naomi Long Madgett spotlight a young Naomi looking out a window on the streets of Detroit. Security bars obstruct her view in this dark sepia painting. The paintings from "Poet's Voice" will be featured in September at an exhibit and film debut at the National Conference of Arts Gallery in the Fisher Building in downtown Detroit.

During her 20 years as an artist, Mendoza has earned many awards including the University of Michigan Award of Artistic Excellence, the Michigan Women's Foundation Woman in the Arts-1988, Museum of Science and Industry Award of Recognition (Chicago), the Michigan 150 First Lady Award, State of Michigan on Spanish Speaking Affairs Certificate of Leadership and Achievement, a Certificate of Achievement for Casa de Unidad's barrio muralist project in Southwest Detroit, Wayne County Artistic Excellence and Community Commitment Award, and New Detroit's Latino Caucus Award.

Her work is in the collections of Detroit Mayor Dennis Archer; Aretha Franklin; the Budd Co. in Troy and Detroit, and Ford Motor Co. in Rockefeller Center in New York City and World Headquarters in Dearborn.

Enjoy summer breezes while reading latest magazines

VITCTORIA DIAZ

Now that you have that lawn and garden in working order for the summer, take time to smell the roses. Spend some hours out there relaxing, not laboring. Don't forget to take along a bit of reading material, maybe the latest in magazines. I'd suggest some of the following:

■ "Film Comment" (May-June) – If I were Clint Eastwood, I'm not sure I could bear to look at this issue of the prestigious FC. I think I might literally die of embarrassment at all the gushy praise. Honoring the guy who got his foot in the door via Spaghetti Westerns, the ads call him "icon" and "legend." A full-page Kodak paean reads "People everywhere trust him. Because he's Clint." (Does this include his ex-wife, and his ex-paramour, Sondra Locke?)

Anyway, when the Hollywood mega-star isn't being glorified on these pages, his every notion is being analyzed. Film critic, Richard Schickel, contributes one orange piece. "We've never discussed the matter," he writes, revving up for some rather filigreed conjecture, "but I suspect (Clint) sees the urge to press prizes upon figures like himself as part of the natural order of things, to be dealt with — how else in his case? — cooly, not as some grand culmination, but as an agreeable interruption in a life still unpredictably unfolding, something like, say, a round of golf: diverting, absorbing, a matter to be taken seriously for the moment but not dwelt upon for very long."

Could you die?

For those of you won can't get enough of "The Bridges of Madison County," there's a rather detailed analysis of the snoozy movie — plus non-related articles on Jim Jarmusch, Stanley Kwan, John Sayles, and others.

If you're a movie fanatic (other than Clint), this issue will make your day.

■ "Country Journal" (June) – Come back down to earth via this unpretentious, but always intelligent periodical. Learn for instance, how you (really, you) can hybridize such glories of the garden as crocus, tulips, poppies, iris, phlox, and others, plus how to create a yard that is especially welcoming to birds and butterflies. The section on kids' gardening is not only nuts-and-bolts informative, but fun-to-read, even downright inspiring if you have little ones around.

■ "Detroit Monthly" (June) – Unattached area females can take a closer look at some of Detroit's most eligible bachelors in this issue, plus learn a bit more about personals ads and services like Close Encounters and Great Expectations. There's also a feature on "Holdouts Who Took the Plunge," and a piece on bachelors over 40.

Not all the magazine is devoted to single women, I should hasten to add. Read on, and you'll find just where Detroiters most like to go for Coney dogs, and where you can find some old-fashioned (and-up-to-date) family fun this summer. Fishermen/women should especially enjoy "Local Angles."

■ "Psychology Today" (May-June) – "I'm not the kind of person you want to sit next to on an airplane," reveals CNN's popular interviewer, Larry King, in this issue's PT interview.

"Why is that," queries PT.

"Because I'm going to ask you questions the whole trip," fires back the guy who kissed Marlon Brando on camera last year, as part of an interview with the allegedly reluctant-to-speak actor.

The loquacious King talks about everything from his weakness for women to inept money management to serious legal problems to his childhood in Brooklyn. He also talks about other TV celebs. (". . .when people tell me Howard Stern's a really nice guy and a wonderful person and very shy, that doesn't impress me, because that means the show is a phoney, and it's fabricated.")

Also in PT this month: "Brain Food: How to Eat Smart." Why are jalapenos so hot right now? What's so great about garlic? Will chocolate really help you to feel better, or sugar help you to think more clearly?

Somebody somewhere should do a feature story on the ads in Psych. Today. They suggest you can develop various psychic powers (not to mention "pherome power"), learn about "neurodynamics," attain a "hypnotherapy diploma," "chill out with . . . Kava Calm," and somehow get hold of "prescription drugs without a prescription."

■ "Cooking Light" (June) – This month's luscious cover announces that it's "key lime time!", and also promises to enlighten us about how former Olympians stay fit, if we'll just take a look inside. The article on Olympic champs contains some information to sink your teeth into. It focuses on the likes of gymnasts Nadia Comaneci and Bart Conner, swimmer Nancy Hogshead, and hurdler Edwin Moses.

The pie is on the airy side, made with nonfat milk, fewer egg yolks (gelatine substitutes), lighter crust than the traditional killer variety. (you can also try your hand and taste buds at the chilled strawberry soup with pound cake croutons, Grand Prize winner in CL's most recent cook-off.)

An eye-opening bonus: "Best of the Disc Docs," a timely piece about health-related CD Rom's.

Series features jazz duo

Artbeat features various happenings in the suburban arts world. Send news leads to Linda Chomin in care of Keely Wygonik, Arts & Entertainment Editor, Observer & Eccentric Newspapers, Inc., 36251 Schoolcraft, Livonia, MI 48150, or fax them to (313) 591-7279.

LIVONIA ARTS & CRAFTS FESTIVAL

The 20th annual art fair 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Saturday and Sunday, June 8-9 at Greenmead Historical Village, 20501 Newburgh Road (at Eight Mile Road), Livonia, features more than 225 exhibitors of folk art and country, pottery and ceramics, glass, wood, jewelry, photography, metal, textiles, floral, and fine arts.

ART BEAT

Free admission, parking (enter off Newburgh Road) and shuttle bus service. Live musical entertainment, a clown and sand art booth for kids. Food, drink and ice cream available on the grounds. The historic Hill House Museum will be open for tours. For more information, call Suzanne Montambeau in the community resources department at Livonia City Hall (313) 421-2000 ext. 221.

JAZZ SERIES BEGINS

The Plymouth Community Arts Council kicks off a series of monthly jazz concerts with two performances featuring Heidi Hepler and Michele Ramo 7p.m. and 10 p.m. Saturday, June 15 in the PCAC auditorium, 774 North Sheldon in Plymouth. Seating is limited to 100 per performance.

Tickets are $10 and available in Plymouth at Frances Jewelry Gallery, 470 Forest; Plymouth Guitar Gallery, 819 Penniman, and the arts council office, 774 North Sheldon or by calling (313) 416-4ART.

Hepler and Ramo mix a blend of Brazilian, Spanish, Classical and Latin jazz in their music.

"The purpose is for older folks to enjoy a night out and to enlighten younger people to alternative music," said Frank Kuszak, arts council board member.

Jazzical Nights will continue the second Saturday of the month through September.

CHRIISTINA FUOCO

Spirit of the West's title of its latest U.S. album "Two Headed" (Discovery) is taking on a literal meaning as the band begins its summer tour.

The Celtic-influenced Canadian pop band has put itself in two frames of mind for its U.S. and Canadian tours. Here, the band is touring in support of "Two Headed" (released Tuesday, June 4, in the U.S.) while in Canada Spirit of the West is pushing "Open Heart Symphony," an album it did with the Vancouver Symphony Orchestra released on May 21.

"It's a very weird year for us," said lead singer/guitarist John Mann. "It's so strange doing interviews in the states where we're talking about 'Two-Headed' which, for us, is an album that came out a year ago (June 1995). We're also, at the same time, doing interviews in Canada for the symphony album."

"We definitely are very two-headed in that respect."

There isn't a U.S. release date set for "Open Heart Symphony" because "Two-Headed" was just released.

Formed in 1983, the group was originally conceived as a Celtic-influenced folk trio, thanks to guitarist/flutist/vocalist Geoffrey Kelly's Scottish heritage. He moved to Canada when he was 9 and returned to his native country 10 years later. There, he became enamored with Scottish music, the flute and tin whistle.

"Our early records are very, very folky polky. As the years went on, we started to more and more acknowledge the fact that we listen to a lot of different music. We do have (CDs by) bands like the Chieftains, but we also have Jawbox and Shudder To Think – a variety of alternative music," Mann said.

"Two-Headed" has a much more acoustic sound than its last album "Faithlift," and "Open Heart Symphony" takes that a step further.

"We chose to keep our instrumentation acoustic. We found listening to a lot of other albums with rock groups paired with symphonic orchestras that the electric guitars tend to obliterate the entire sound."

Spirit of the West performs at Sunday, June 9, at The Shelter below St. Andrew's Hall, 431 E. Congress, Detroit. Doors open at 7:30 p.m. Tickets are $8 in advance; $10 at the door. For more information, call (313) 961-MELT.

'Basketball Diaries' Carroll brings poetry to area

BY CHRISTINA FUOCO
STAFF WRITER

Poet/musician Jim Carroll, who scored a hit with the song "People Who Died," has gotten the music bug once again.

Carroll left the music industry years ago for, what he called, the sobering life of a writer. But his interest was piqued when he was asked to write original music for the film "The Basketball Diaries," his autographical tale of drugs, sex, crime and basketball starring Leonardo DiCaprio and Mark "Marky Mark" Wahlberg.

He joined forces with Truly, a Seattle band that includes former members of Soundgarden and the Screaming Trees, and producer Lenny Kaye to record the three-song demo.

"It was fun because I was able to write from the point of view of a 15-year-old kid again," Carroll said via telephone from his New York studio. "The lyrics had to be germane to the movie. It had lines like 'I'm a divine disgrace but I can jam in your face.'"

The songs didn't end up on the soundtrack, but it made an impression on his mind.

Born and raised in New York City, Carroll came from a working-class Catholic background, the son of a third-generation Irish-American saloonkeeper. Basketball and writing became twin obsessions by the time the tall redhead entered his teens. Music seeped into his consciousness as well, by artists ranging from the Everly Brothers and Roy Orbison to Bob Dylan and Phil Ochs. Later, Carroll was a devoted follower of The Velvet Underground, who became a key influence in his own musical endeavors.

Carroll's basketball talents combined with his academic abilities, landed him a scholarship to Trinity, a private New York high school. He was tagged sports editor of the school paper. Inspired by Jack Kerouac's semiautobiographical "On the Road," Carroll had already been keeping his own journal.

In 1970s, on the cusp of his 20s, excerpts from "The Basketball Diaries" were published in the Paris Review. It was published in its entirety from ombouctou in 1978, Bantam in 1980, and Penguin in 1987.

He delved into music in the late 1970s after kicking his heroin habit. In October 1980, he released his first of three records, "Catholic Boy" that featured the title track and "People Who Died." (Carroll recently rerecorded "Catholic Boy" with Pearl Jam for "The Basketball Diaries" soundtrack.) After the third album, he left the music industry.

During an hourlong conversation with Carroll, he went back and forth about his future music career. He's considering an offer from an Atlantic Records subsidiary to record an album. But right now his priority is his writings.

"Rock and roll is great, but I am still at a point in my life where I have to move into a more sober, not in the sense of getting high but in the sense of my life, where I want to work on books. I can't rely on that ecstatic youth energy anymore," said Carroll who is now clean and attending Narcotics Anonymous meetings.

Right now he's working on a fictitious story and he already has an idea for another book.

" These novels are a real gift and blessing. It would be a literary sin to not really fulfill that gift from the muse or from my own schizophrenia or wherever the voice comes from that tells you these things."

Carroll will be in town for two spoken-word performances – Friday, June 7, at the Blind Pig in Ann Arbor, and Saturday, June 8, at the Magic Stick in the Majestic complex in Detroit.

He's going to read from a variety of his works including new poems and sections from the book "The Basketball Diaries." Since the release of the movie "The Basketball Diaries" his shows have been packed. His audience recently doubled in Canada where a 12-page short story that Carroll wrote about his recovery, called "Curtis's Charm" has also been made into a movie. The film, from producer Atom Egoyan ("Exotica") won "Best Canadian Film" at the Toronto International Film Festival in September 1995. It's due to hit art houses in the United State later this year.

"I walked into a radio station to do an interview before a show in Toronto and there were about 100 kids, between 13 and 17, who were there waiting for me. I thought, 'Is (Lemonheads' singer) Evan Dando coming here?' I really didn't think they were there to see me. All these kids had seen the movie and read the book. I really like that."

Jim Carroll reads his works at 9:30 p.m. Friday, June 7, at the Blind Pig, 206-208 S. First St., Ann Arbor. Tickets are $12.50 in advance for the 19 and older show; and at 9 p.m. Saturday, June 8, at the Magic Stick in the Majestic complex, 4140 Woodward Ave., Detroit. Tickets are $12.50 in advance for the 18 and older show. For more information, call (313) 996-8555 or (313) 833-POOL.

(Volebeats, Outrageous Cherry), Cary Loren (Destroy All Monsters), Erika Hoffman (Godzuki, Ohio), and The Wade (Ohio, The Ohms) performs at 7 p.m. Sunday, June 9, at Greg Hall in the Fisher Mansion, 383 Lenox, Detroit. Vegetarian hors d'oeuvres will be provided by the on-site Govinda restaurant. The band – recently invited to record for Thurston Moore's Ecstatic Peace! label – describes itself as "somewhat related to Indian Ragas, the inner percussion of Pharoah Sanders, and non-traditional folk bands like Ghost, The Incredible String Band, Moroccan and Gamelan music and lyrical/symbolist poetry." Some of the instruments played by the island are sitar, tamboura, African xylophone, mbara, kora, harmonium, 12-string guitar, shakahuchi, clarinet, sax, tingshaw, assorted bells, chimes and toy samplers. This summer Monster Island members will be touring with their respective bands: His Name Is Alive will have a new CD on 4AD; Destroy All Monsters will have a new CD out on Sympathy for the Record Industry; and Outrageous Cherry just released a CD collection of covers. Tickets are $5 at the door, or in advance at Car City Records in St. Clair Shores, The Record Collector in Livonia, and the Book Beat in Oak Park. For more information, call (810) 968-1190.

Dopey acting can't keep magical 'Dragonheart' down

TICKETS PLEASE

JOHN MONAGHAN

Once upon a time, the countryside was terrorized, not by a dragon but by an evil king. When the ruler was finally killed and his son mortally wounded, a dragon with magical powers agreed to resurrect the prince. Rule fairly and justly, the dragon said, and you will share all the powers of my heart.

Well, the new king welched on his promise. It took one of his minions, a dragon slayer by trade, to team up with his enemy and restore peace to the kingdom.

Such is the story of "Dragonheart,"a sword and sorcery fable that takes a decidely gentle look at the fearsome flying reptiles. Approach it like "Twister"– dopey plot but eyepopping special effects – and you're likely to have a good time.

Don't come for the acting, not unless you count Sean Connery as the voice of the dragon. You'll also find sixties superstar Julie Christie as the king's mother, but her face (not to mention acting) is virtually hidden beneath her long white robes.

In classic movie monster style, we see the dragon only in shadows before he makes his full appearance on screen. With his commanding brogue, Connery gives him surprising substance and depth.

Powerful, wise, with a hatchet-sharp tail and long bat wings, the dragon is also equipped with a sense of humor. Most directors would have played him for laughs (let Mel Brooks supply the voice) but he wisely comes off as a noble, misunderstood hero.

Too bad no one could animate Dennis Quaid. The actor still best known for playing Jerry Lee Lewis can't decide whether to keep that Highlander accent or simply grunt a lot. Has he been practicing The Method with Marlon Brando or just hanging out with the Beastmaster?

The inevitable love interest comes in the form of a scarlet-haired damsel (Dina Meyer) who spits in the face of the spoiled king. His royal slyness is played in British prig fashion by David Thewlis, though his resemblance to the lovesick prince in "Monty Python and the Holy Grail" is bound to provide even more unintentional laughs.

Some of the action scenes are appropriately rousing, with two (maybe three) climactic sword-fights. Still, director Rob Cohen needs to come up with another way of dispatching villains than to have someone sneak up on them from behind when they're about to kill one of our heroes.

At its core "Dragonheart" is the kind of movie that would probably work better in book form. Its premise that the dragon and the evil king share hearts and thus each other's mortality must result in an ending that even the most gullible filmgoer can figure out halfway through.

Cohen and company also could have tried harder with the sets and musical score, which look and sound about as genuine as your local Renaissance Festival. Much of the budget for the movie obviously went to the special effects whizes at Industrial Light and Magic, who should take most of the credit for making "Dragonheart" fly, even if just a little.

SCREEN SCENE

BIRMINGHAM THEATRE

211 South Woodward, Birmingham. Call (810) 644-FILM for information. ($6.50; $4.25 matinees; $4.25 seniors/children under 12)

■ "Mission: Impossible" (USA - 1996). Tom Cruise and Jon Voigt play super-secret agents involved in a deadly hunt for a missing computer disk in this big-screen version of the sixties TV show. Directed by Brian DePalma.

■ "The Postman" (Italy - 1995). The Oscar-nominated tale of love and friendship between an exiled poet and his postman.

■ "Last Summer in the Hamptons" (USA - 1996). Henry Jaglom ("Eating") directs Victoria Foyt, Viveca Lindfors, Roddy McDowall, and Martha Plimpton in a celebration of love, art, and family life surrounding a matriarch and her three-generation theatre clan.

MAGIC BAG THEATRE

■ "The Rocky Horror Picture Show" (Britain - 1975). 9 p.m. June 12. Susan Sarandon and Barry Bostwick play the boring young couple who spend the night with a kinky transvestite in his eerie castle. Audience participation is key in this cult classic, where viewers lob toast and rice at the screen at key moments.

MAIN ART THEATRE

118 N. Main Street at 11 Mile, Royal Oak. Films play through at least Thursday, unless noted otherwise. Call (810) 542-0180 for information and showtimes. ($6.50; $4 students, seniors and matinee; $3 twilight)

■ "Horseman on the Roof" (France - 1995). An epic adventure, set in 1832, about an officer and a woman who together face an unrelenting epidemic that reveals both the weaknesses and strengths of mankind. Directed by Jean-Paul Rappeneau ("Cyrano"), this most romantic comedy of the year could be a word-of-mouth success.

■ "Welcome to the Dollhouse" (USA - 1996). Middle school can be hell for teenager Dawn Weiner, who dreams of popularity and revenge against the beautiful people around her. Todd Solondz' debut film is notable for its honesty, but its also an uneven piece of work that is both funny or horrifying. Starts Friday.

MICHIGAN THEATRE

606 Liberty, Ann Arbor. Call (313) 668-8397 for information. ($5; $4 students/seniors)

■ "I Shot Andy Warhol" (USA - 1996). Through June 13 (call for showtimes). Lili Taylor stars as Valerie Solanas, the real-life wacko feminist who tried to put a slug in the Pop Art icon.

■ "The Young Poisoner's Handbook" (Britain - 1995). Through June 9 (call for showtimes). The true story of a London schoolboy who discovered the lethal properties of toxic chemicals.

■ "James and the Giant Peach" (USA - 1996). 3 p.m. June 8 -9. Stop action and computer animation techniques blend in this animated adventure

■ "The City of Lost Children" (France - 1996). 5 p.m. June 8. The French filmmaking team of Jeunet and Caro produced this fantastical story of a young girl's odyssey on the shadowy streets of Paris.

■ "Last Summer in the Hamptons" (USA - 1996). 5 p.m. June 9; 7 p.m. June 10 - 11. See Birmingham Theatre listing above.

STATE THEATRE

■ "Leaving Las Vegas" (USA - 1995). 9 p.m. June 10. One of last year's biggest surprises was this downbeat story.

Mardi Gras Cafe offers taste of N'awlins cuisine

BY KEELY WYGONIK
STAFF WRITER

Chef Louie Finnan lights up every room he enters with his warm personality and smile. A native of New Orleans, Finnan brought his beloved Bourbon Street to metro Detroit by opening Mardi Gras Cafe on May 29.

Located on Franklin Road, right behind Tom's Oyster Bar, Mardi Gras Cafe captures the spirit and flavors of Mardi Gras. Festoons of purple, gold and green greet diners as they enter Chef Louie's home away from home. Carnival masks decorate the walls, and a wrought iron railing is strung with colorful beads.

"Everything here means something to us," said Finnan. Mardi Gras Cafe is a family operation, and he aims to please. The official Mardi Gras colors — emerald for love, gold for loyalty, and purple for sincerity, describe Chef Louie's approach to food, and entertaining.

"I feel very strongly, passionate, and privileged to serve the people here in metro Detroit," he said. "When people eat my cuisine, it's an honor."

A native of New Orleans, Chef Louie has been involved in the restaurant business since he was nine years old and working at his grandparents bar & grill on Rampart Street.

"My grandmother told me if you don't do it well, don't do it," he said explaining that all of his menu items are like his children, "special."

Mardi Gras Cafe
Where: 29110 Franklin Road, (near the corner of Northwestern Highway), Southfield, (810) 356-4972
Hours: 11 a.m. to 10 p.m. Monday-Thursday; 11 a.m. to 11 p.m. Friday; 5-11 p.m. Saturday; closed Sunday
Menu: Authentic Creole and Cajun specialties
Reservations: No
Atmosphere: Festive, casual
Price: Moderate. Entrees range from $9.95 to $15.95
Credit Cards: All majors accepted
Entertainment: 7-10 p.m. Tuesdays

The menu notes the distinction between Cajun and Creole cooking. "I want Detroiters to understand that not all food from Bayou Country is spicy," he said. "It's exciting food — it has a lot of intense flavor. We try to balance the vinegar with sweet, use fresh herbs, and dried peppers, which tend to be less abrasive. While Cajun dishes get much of their distinctive taste from a strong mix of cayenne pepper and other spices, the hallmark of the Creole food is its flavorful mix of sauces and textures."

House specialties include Barbecue Shrimp — sauteed, not grilled, in a spicy, smoke-laced sauce and served with enough warm French bread to absorb any remaining sauce; Crawfish Alexander, sauteed crawfish tails in a Creole cream sauce spiked with brandy; and Luzianne Crab Cakes, made from lump crab meat combined with green onions, sweet peppers, celery and homemade French bread crumbs.

Mardi Gras Cafe offers soups, French Market Salads, appetizers, Cajun and Creole Entrees, Carnival Pastas, Carnival Steaks, Po-Boys and Burgers, a variety of side dishes including Zucchini Saint Charles and Jambalaya, and "N'awlins" Desserts — Bananas Foster Shortcake, French Quarter Bread Pudding, Mississippi River Pecan Pie, and Praline Creole Cheesecake.

Finnan, who brought his style of cooking to Louie's on the River in downtown Detroit, and Norman's Eton Street Station in Birmingham, moved to metro Detroit in April 1992.

Roman J. Gronkowski, treasurer of the City of Southfield, and his wife, Judy, were among the guests invited to a VIP Sneak Preview on May 28. "It's fun and festive," they said. "It's our first chance to go to New Orleans. The food was good."

Their table mates, Jean Kuhn of Southfield, and Southfield's 46th District Court Judge, Stephen Cooper, agreed. "The shrimp was good," said Kuhn. "The turkey was excellent," added Judge Cooper.

Chef Louie said every Tuesday will be "Fat Tuesday" at Mardi Gras Cafe. Bon Temp Roulle — "Let the Good Times Roll," will play jazzy New Orleans music 7-10 p.m.

Murinas just misses

Katie Murinas, the Plymouth Salem junior who qualified for last weekend's Class A state golf tournament as an individual, finished 16th overall in Friday's first round, missing qualifying for the second round by two strokes.

Murinas overcame a rough start at Michigan State's Forest Akers course in East Lansing to make a run at qualifying for the final round. She shot a 48 on the first nine holes, then regrouped to fire a 42 on the back nine for a final total of 90.

"She really put together a string of pars on the back nine," said Salem coach Rick Wilson. "She really finished strong, she kept her composure. After shooting a 48 on the front nine, she could have rolled over, but she didn't."

Indeed, Murinas did something few of her peers could - on what Wilson called "the toughest hole on the course," the hazard-filled 420-yard No. 17 - Murinas managed a birdie.

Kalamazoo Central won the team title easily, placing all four of their scorers among the top 12 individuals. The tournament's medalist was Ellen Colenbrander of Holland, with a 78/81-159.

Out early

Plymouth Salem's Xinning Li, who last year made it to the No. 1 singles finals at the Class A meet, this year lost early. Li fell in three sets to Jeff Brink of Grand Rapids Christian in the second round.

Brink, who was seeded eighth, rolled all the way to the final before losing to Mike Kosta of Ann Arbor Huron.

Li was disappointed, according to Salem coach Bill Nelson, but "he played well. This Brink kid is just a backboard. He returns everything."

Li, who posted a 26-2 record as a senior, is bound for Campbell College in Kansas City, an NCAA Division II school that has offered him a partial scholarship.

Soccer champions

•The '82-83 Canton Hornets claimed their divisional title for the third consecutive year at the Canton Invitational Tournament. The Hornets were unbeaten, defeating their opponents 3-0, 10-0, 3-0 in the preliminaries and 1-0 in the finals.

•The Canton Flames, and under-14 premier girls soccer team, won the Midland Tournament and the Canton Memorial Day Tournament, shutting out nine-straight opponents in the process.

All-Academic

Stickney posted a 3.881 grade-point average, with a major in bio-medical science.

To be selected to the all-academic team, the student-athlete must have at least a 3.0 grade-point average, must be a starter or key reserve on his team, and must have attended the university for at least one year.

Whalers' draft

The Detroit Whalers, members of the Ontario Hockey League, will have some holes to fill in their lineup when they open their first season at their new home, a 4,000-seat arena in Plymouth Township now under construction.

Among them is Bryan Berard, who was named the Defenseman of the Year for the Canadian Hockey League at the recent awards banquet in Peterborough, Ont.

Berard posted 31 goals and 89 points in 56 games last season. He was selected first overall by the Ottawa Senators in 1995 and later was traded to the New York Islanders.

The Whalers took their first step in filling those holes by selecting 20 players at the OHL Priority Selection Draft last Saturday in Kitchener, Ont.

The Whalers open their season at the end of September, with 33 games to be played at their new arena. For ticket information, call (810) 737-7373.

Chiefs win! Finals next

BY C.J. RISAK
SPORTS EDITOR

Mission: Impossible?

OK. Sure. When the Class A state soccer tournament started, Plymouth Canton's chances of making any kind of significant run seemed remote at best.

Maybe even an impossible mission.

But after Wednesday's state semifinal against Grand Rapids Christian at Jackson's Mehall Field, the Chiefs (alias IMF, or Impossible Mission Force) are very near a mission: accomplished.

It wasn't pretty. It wasn't Canton's best performance of the post-season. But it was a 1-0 victory, a win that puts the Chiefs back into the state final for the third time in five seasons.

Their opponent will be Troy (now 13-8-1), which defeated Midland Dow 2-0 in Wednesday's other Class A semifinal. The championship match will be 1 p.m. Saturday at Canton's field.

And if anyone figures the Chiefs' run to the Class A title match was unlikely entering the post-season, they should examine Troy's.

The Colts were 7-8-1 after the regular season and, with defending state champ Birmingham Seaholm plus highly-touted Troy Athens and Birmingham Marian in their path, a short playoff life seemed certain.

And yet here the Colts are. And so is Canton, with an equally impressive playoff run to its credit.

"Today was just enough," said Don Smith, the Chiefs' coach, of his team's effort. "Overall, defensively and offensively, it wasn't our best. But we played a step ahead of them."

The game's only goal came off a defensive mistake midway through the first half. Lisa Reissenweber pounced on a deflected clearing pass and headed toward the Eagles' net. Keeper Brittany Huyser tried to come out and challenge her, but Reissenweber rolled the ball past her for the goal with 22:08 to go in the half.

"I think we were a little tenative on it," said Christian coach Larry Klaasen, his team finished at 19-2-1. "Part of the problem was we weren't passing the ball at all in the first 20 minutes. They did a better job of it at first."

To put it bluntly, the first half was ugly - for both teams. And although Klaasen thought Canton handled the ball well, Smith did not.

"Our passing sure wasn't sharp (in the first half)," he insisted. "They weren't outhustling us, either. We just weren't going after it."

Fortunately, the Chiefs survived their sluggishness. They missed three excellent scoring chances in the first 12 minutes before Reissenweber cashed in, and failed on a few others later on.

But the Canton defense was good enough. The Eagles penetrated far better in the second half, getting the ball into scoring position on several occasions. Twice they had indirect kicks inside the box, within 10 yards of the Chiefs' goal.

But they couldn't connect. "I thought we created some great pressure for about 20 minutes (of the second half)," Klaasen said. "The girls showed what they were made of."

And Canton answered. With three minutes left in a one-goal match, the Chiefs demonstrated that they know how to win. They kept the pressure on the Eagles, pounding the ball back into their end of the field.

"They had some exciting moments," Smith said of Christian's second half, "but no real scoring opportunities."

What Saturday's match holds is anybody's guess. Canton has the better record at 17-4, but what does that matter? The Chiefs have played and beaten five teams in the playoffs with better records than theirs, including state-ranked Brighton, Plymouth Salem and Livonia Churchill. And they've shutout five of their six foes.

But Troy has a Mission:Impossible quest of its own going.

Rosters in place for all-star classic

BY C.J. RISAK

SOCCER

It took a bit longer than hoped, but the rosters for the first-annual Michigan High School All-Star Soccer Games have been completed.

And as expected, there's a fair share of local talent on both the boys and girls teams.

Of the 80 players selected, both boys and girls, 34 are from the Observer & Eccentric coverage area.

The first-ever event will feature only graduated seniors. Both games, the girls and the boys, will be hosted by Plymouth Canton and Plymouth Salem on June 15. The girls game will be at 6 p.m., with the boys following at 8 p.m.

Special coaches have already been selected to serve as coaches. For the girls, the coaches will be Cathy Cole-Kansman, who coached at Farmington HS, and Gene Fogel, one-time Farmington Hills Mercy coach.

The boys teams will be coached by Pete Scerri, formerly of Livonia Stevenson, and Ken Johnson, who retired last year after guiding Plymouth

Salem, Canton teams take a tumble

BY C.J. RISAK

Could say it was an accident going to state meet.

At least there were a number of collisions for Plymouth Salem and Plymouth Canton runners. The Salem boys and girls teams, and the Canton girls team, each had 3,200-meter relays qualify for the Class A meet Saturday at Rockford HS.

All three teams ran into - quite literally - the same trouble: another runner. And all three suffered for it.

The only points scored came from Salem's boys 3,200 team. Problems after the first exchange, between Jason Barylski and Jared Biniecki, and a Flint Kearsley runner forced Biniecki to come to a complete stop. The time lost was never regained, although the Rocks (Ian Searcy and Scott Pengelly followed) were able to regroup to finish fourth in 8:04.64.

"I don't think they could have won the race," said Salem coach Geoff Baker, even though his team was seeded first overall. "But after what happened, well, they ran a different race from behind.

"The guys were panicked. Had they been close to the 1-2 guys, they would have run more relaxed. But running from behind, they didn't have the same confidence."

Baker had hoped the foursome would challenge the school record and break 8:00. Their best going into the meet was 8:00.3.

"It just wasn't meant to be," Baker said.

Salem's 1,600 relay also reached state meet, finishing in the top 15 in 3:27.7 (top eight scored). Scott Kingslein, Biniecki, Searcy and Barylski teamed in the event to come within two-tenths of their season's best.

Four individuals also qualified for state for the Rocks. Pengelly went 1:59.7 in the 800, Barylski went 50.8 in the 400, and in the 300 hurdles Dan Johnson was clocked at 40.0 and Rob Hawley at 40.8, both finishing in the top 25.

For Canton's girls, the results were the same. "There was a lot of bumping around in the exchange zone," said coach George Przygodski of the 3,200 relay.

Brooke Larson, running the third leg, collided with another girl in the exchange zone and ended up losing a significant amount of time. The Chiefs - Angkana Roy, Amy Klim and Becky Uryga were the other relay members - ran a 10:00.0. Their season's best was 9:49.3.

"Those things happen," said Przygodski.

The 1,600 relay team of Tiffany Williams, Mary Anderson, Nancy Hoffman and Uryga managed to avoid any collisions but finished out of the scoring in 4:11.1, a second off their season's best.

Both Roy, in the 3,200, and Williams, in the 1,600, ran their best splits of the season.

Canton's other qualifiers were Emily Moran, who tossed the discus 93-feet, 4-inches; Nkechi Okwumabua, who leapt 15-10 3/4 in the long jump; and in the hurdles, Mary

Eagles blast tourney foes to collect 3rd title

In the semifinals, the Eagles scored seven runs in the second inning to beat Fairlaine 17-7 in a six-inning mercy. PCA won the title with a 23-4 rout of Birmingham Sacred Heart.

"We've been lucky the past couple years to get in a rather weak Fairlaine Christian district," PCA coach Mary Harmsen said. "But the girls to their credit really smacked the ball around, especially in the second game."

The Eagles will play in the Fairlaine Christian regional Saturday and open play against a Marine City Cardinal Mooney.

In the first game, Lisa Erickson tossed a two-hitter and struck out 11. Kim Rinzema sparked the second-inning rally with a two-run single. She drove in a total of three runs.

Rinzema, Rebekah Pugno and Carrie McCoy each had two hits.

In the title game, the Eagles ripped 16 hits (15 of them singles). Erickson again went the distance, scattering three hits and fanning five.

PCA put the game away early with an 11-run first inning. Carrie Whittaker paced the offensive attack with four hits and three RBI. Erickson, Pugno and Rinzema added three hits each.

PCA baseball season ends

The baseball season came to an end Saturday for PCA, as the Eagles lost to Bloomfield Hills Roeper at the Fairlaine Christian district.

But what a year it was for the Eagles. After recording only two victories over the last two seasons combined, PCA finished 8-16 overall and 3-5 in the Michigan Independent Athletic Association.

"This was a very good year for us," PCA coach Dave Robillard said. "We played much better in league play this season and were competitive in a lot of games.

"We've been trying to build this team in the three years I've been here. Next year we'll have four seniors and three juniors and should have a solid core."

Several Eagles were rewarded for their play by the MIAC, including three members on the league's first team.

Sophomore first baseman Jon Isensee was a shoe-in as he batted an incredible .800 in league play. Junior pitcher/outfielder Jim Spier, who batted .654 with 12 RBI also made the first team.

Also making first team was PCA's only senior, John Pugno. The shortstop batted .409 and scored 10 runs after being moved to lead-off batter.

Eagles that made the second team include: Nathan Bryan, junior pitcher, 2-0 and .354 batting average; Chris DeRenzo, junior third baseman, .542 with 10 RBI; James Jones, sophomore catcher, .360 with five RBI; and Doug Robillard, junior second baseman, .313 with five RBI.

Softball champs

Portland Building, a men's modified fast-pitch softball team comprised of former Observerland athletes, won the Ken Kipke Tournament on Memorial Day Weekend in Saginaw.

Greg Haeger (Catholic Central) was the winning pitcher in all five games, including a 1-0 win over the Port Huron Sharks for the championship.

Portland players hit nine home runs in the opener, a 29-5 rout of P.F. Markey. Kevin O'Connor hit four and Jason Lichtman (Harrison) two.

O'Connor had 13 RBI in the tournament and named the MVP. Haeger batted 12-for-18, Sean Maloney (CC) 10-for-19 and Lichtman 8-for-19. John Longritch (Canton) also hit two home runs.

Teammates Chuck Robbins, Rich Dinsmore and Pat Malzone attended Livonia Bentley High School; Doug Kirkpatrick, Kevin Craggs and Kevin Kirkpatrick, Plymouth Salem; Keith McManaway, Livonia Franklin; and Kevin Rogers, CC.

Portland Building is 10-0-2 overall.

CC faces Kennedy in a regional rematch

BY STEVE KOWALSKI
STAFF WRITER

■ BASEBALL

The last time Redford Catholic Central and Taylor Kennedy met in the state baseball tournament, the Shamrocks had to worry about a guy named Steve Avery.

He was so good, the next time they saw him was on television.

The Atlanta Braves selected Avery third overall in the 1988 Major League draft and within two years he was pitching on their parent club.

The awe-struck Shamrocks managed to get a couple first-inning runs off Avery, who bailed himself out with a two-run homer and a long double leading to a Kennedy victory.

This time it's the Shamrocks who risk being overconfident.

Kennedy, a member of the Mega Conference White Division, won a district championship last weekend despite not yet reaching double digits in wins.

The Eagles are 9-16 overall, while the Shamrocks are winners of 11 straight and own a 23-10 overall record.

The two teams meet in a regional semifinal at 9:30 a.m. Saturday at Southgate Anderson. The winner will advance to the 3:30 p.m. final and meet the winner of the Detroit Southwestern-Grosse Pointe South semifinal.

"I talked to one coach about them and he said they've been playing better the last couple weeks," Salter said. "They have a couple decent arms, nobody like Steve Avery.

"I told them (his players) they were kind of like us. They struggled in their league, but played pretty good the last couple of weeks. 'Don't take anyone for granted.'"

CC's offense might not put fear in Kennedy like Avery did to opponents, but its impressive nonetheless. The Shamrocks are hitting .336 as a team with seven batters hitting .371 or better.

Senior first baseman Mike Daguanno, who has committed to University of Detroit-Mercy, leads the Shamrocks with a .446 average and 33 RBI.

Senior catcher Garet Burch is hitting .424, followed by leadoff batter Chris Karney, a senior second baseman/pitcher, at .417, and second batter Chris Misiak at .398. Misiak, a senior shortstop, leads the Shamrocks with 32 runs scored.

"Karney has really developed into a good leader," Salter said. "Last year, he'd swing at bad pitches, take strikes. He worked as hard as anyone in the off-season."

O'Connor, a senior left-hander, will likely start on the mound. He had his first shaky outing of the season in Saturday's 20-10 mercy victory over Garden City in the district semifinal.

Salter hopes O'Connor returns to the form that has helped him record an 8-2 mark with a 2.49 earned run average, 63 strikeouts and 32 walks in 59 innings.

"He's a control pitcher, tries to hit spots with decent velocity," Salter said. "I think he'll bounce back and be fine."

The Shamrocks also can also start senior Marty Wilk (4-0, 2.47 ERA), Karney (1-3, 3.86 ERA) and use Thomas in short relief.

Thomas, battling arm trouble all year, has struck out 11 of the 12 batters he's faced.

Shamrocks close season with a Big Guns crown

The Redford Catholic Central baseball team won its last nine regular-season games, including four to win the annual Big Guns Classic at Madonna University over Memorial Day Weekend.

The offensive hero in the four-game sweep was senior Mike Daguanno, who was named the Big Guns MVP after going 7-for-11 with seven RBI in the tournament.

CC opened the tournament Saturday at home with a 2-1 win over Fraser. Garet Burch's solo home run in the sixth inning was the difference. The Shamrocks scored in the first, after a single by Chris Misiak, a Burch double and a sacrifice fly by Daguanno.

CC then beat Royal Oak Kimball 13-6. Daguanno was 3-for-3 with a two-run homer in the first and a two-run double in a six-run second. Matt Kaye and Chris Karney went 2-for-3 with one RBI each.

Misiak pitched the middle three innings for the victory, striking out five and allowing only one run.

Misiak, Kaye and Dave Viane ripped three hits apiece in CC's 6-1 victory over Trenton in Sunday's semi-final.

Ryan Kolb scattered four hits to record the win in 5 1/3 innings. O'Connor pitched the final 1 2/3 innings of hitless ball.

The championship game began with Adrian jumping out to a 5-0 lead in the first inning. But the Shamrocks rallied to take the lead in the third and win the tournament with a 7-6 win.

Marty Wilk tossed the complete game, striking out eight and walking five. Daguanno drove in two runs with three hits.

Misiak scored three times and collected two hits. Kaye and Karney each went 2-for-3.

The Shamrocks finished the regular season with a doubleheader sweep over Bloomfield Hills Lahser on Tuesday.

CC erupted for 10 runs in the fifth inning in the opener against Lahser. Daguanno opened the scoring by belting a two-run homer in the first.

Burch, who was 3-for-3, started the scoring in the fifth with a run-scoring triple. Misiak and Kaye added a pair of hits.

Viane pitched the first five innings for the win. Mike Haller hurled the final two innings.

The sweep was complete with an 11-1, six-inning mercy in the nightcap. The Shamrocks struck early with a seven-run first inning.

The inning began with back-to-back triples by Misiak and Burch. After a walk, Kaye slammed a three-run homer.

RU beats Lahser

Redford Union scored eight first-inning runs and used pitchers by committee to win Thursday's non-league baseball game against visiting Bloomfield Hills Lahser, 9-7.

The Panthers used pitchers Jeff Rigley, Chad Duchesneau, Matt Bicknell and Joe Bernwanger on the pitcher's mound to save some arms for the Class A district, which was on Saturday.

Rigley, the starter, Duchesneau and Bicknell pitched two innings each and Bernwanger one.

Tony Maternowski paced the Panthers' 11-hit attack with three hits, including a pair of doubles, and three RBI. Robert Septer had a triple and Paul Horen drove in two runs.

The Panthers on Wednesday lost to Garden City, 10-3, in a Mega Conference White Division game.

Salem to the boys championship.

Now the rosters are set, too.

"We're real satisfied with the rosters," said Gary Balconi, former athletic official at Plymouth Salem who has served as a key organizer of the event. "We're looking forward to a great day of soccer."

On coach Cole-Kansman's 20-person girls team, local players are Laura Montecillo of Troy Athens, Meghan Kolbe of Birmingham Marian, Julie Buczek of Plymouth Salem, Shannon Stevers of Athens, Angela Pandoff of Livonia Stevenson, Kerri Verardi of Livonia Churchill, Pamela Bierzynski of Detroit Country Day, Sarah Lawton of Marian, Andrea Sudek of Salem and Kristie Drinkhahn of Canton.

Others on Cole-Kansman's team are Amber Berendowsky of Brighton, Kristi Elliott of Lake Orion, Anna Muccino of Royal Oak Kimball, Kelly Hait of Royal Oak Shrine, Shera Teitge of Grosse Pointe University-Liggett, Anna Hagenah of Lakeview, Hollie Bonneman of Grand Haven, Sandi Poniatowski of Milford, Mary Hoban of Okemos and Ericka Miller of Midland Dow.

Local players on coach Fogel's girls team are Sarah Warnke of Canton, Emily Schmidt and Katie Markey of Athens, Mamie Vanderburgh of Stevenson, Marie Spaccarotella of Churchill, Jennifer Timlin of Birmingham Seaholm, Mari Hoff of Salem, Julie Cummings of Country Day and Lisa Deshano of Livonia Franklin.

Other players on Fogel's roster are Jennifer Machak of Madison Heights Bishop Foley, Amber Wiersmen of Holland Christian, Nicki Nosek of Macomb Lutheran North, Kelli Schmidt of East Detroit, Christine Molitor of Kalamazoo, Heather Nelson of Dearborn Edsel Ford, Jennifer Haller of Grand Haven, Caroline Valenti of Midland Dow, Carey King of Grosse Pointe South, Penny Richards of Lake Orion and Melanie Kemmerling of Brighton.

In the boys game, coach Scerri's local players will be Brian Zawislak of Churchill, Scott Sersen of Stevenson, Alex Garn of Country Day, Todd Stonestreet of Canton, Ronnie Mashni of Salem, Steve Williford of Stevenson, Daniel Dembiec of Athens, Timothy Castillo of Country Day and Brian Bacyinski of Salem.

Johnson's local players will be Jeff Urbats of Stevenson, Drew Drummond of Salem, Bryon Pink of Bloomfield Hills Roeper, Matthew Quinter of Stevenson, George Tomasso of Canton, Matt Simmons of Salem and Tom Derhake of Redford Catholic Central.

Others on Johnson's 20-player roster are Christopher Piazza of Utica Eisenhower, Patrick Morrison of Portage Northern, Mark McClutchey of Petoskey, Sean Roberts of Midland Dow, Jordon Rossi of Lutheran North, Zachary Olson of Mason, Eric Rubert of Elk Rapids, Jason DeJorge of Western Michgian Christian, Matt Keeler of Portage Northern, Todd Folkert of Western Michigan Christian, Jim Maychale of Bishop Foley, Damian Nicey of Kalamazoo Hackett and Nick Rutan of Warren DeLaSalle.

Rules for the games will be simple: Each all-star will play a half, with substitutions restricted.

The game's sponsors are Adidas and the Canton Soccer Club. Balconi was hoping that the organization of future all-star classics would be assumed by the Michigan High School Soccer Coaches Association.

Anderson, 16.2 in the 100 and 49.3 in the 300, and Nancy Hoffman, 50.0 in the 300.

None of the performances were season-bests.

"I would not say the state meet is our main focus," said Pryzgodski. "Because the reality of the thing is, we can't compete with those kids.

"When we set our goals, we want to win our division, we want to win our conference, and we want to do well in the regional. Anything we do beyond that is great."

Canton accomplished all that. The Chiefs won their third-straight Western Lakes Activities Association championship, collected their 12th-consecutive Western Division title, and finished second in the region behind Detroit Cass Tech, the runner-up at the state meet.

"It's been an outstanding season," said Przygodski. "Our kids have done everything asked of them."

Salem's girls team featured three sophomores and one junior - Kristie Giddings - on its 3,200 relay. In the last exchange, Katie Bonner took the baton, turned around and ran smack into a Port Huron Northern runner that had just finished. Both went down.

"It was just a football hit," said Salem coach Mark Gregor, who also serves as an assistant coach for Tom Moshimer's football team. "Katie got all skinner up, but she got up and ran.

The Rocks finished 12th in 9:51.9, just a second off their season's best time. "If that (collision) didn't happen, we were capable of going 9:45," said Gregor.

Salem also had two competitors in the high jump. Nicole Van Hees cleared 5-0, placing in a tie for 18th; Kristin Kosik went 4-11, placing in a tie for 28th.

"They were a little disappointed with their performances, but they were glad to get the opportunities," said Gregor. Kosik's best was 5-3 this season; Van Hees had gone 5-2.

The last of the Rock qualifiers was Giddings in the 800. A strong first 400 meters had her in first in her heat, but she faded after that. She finished 24th in 2:29.6, more than four seconds off her season's best.

"We were pleased with the way the girls competed at state meet and overall this season," said Gregor.

However you look at the final event of the track season, however, it was a rough meet.

GOLF

Livonia Stevenson missed the cut by only two strokes in last weekend's state Class A girls golf championships held at the Forest Akers West Course in East Lansing.

The Spartans wound up with a total of 406 strokes during Friday's first round to finish 12th overall.

Farmington Hills Mercy shot 403 and Holland carded a 404 to make the final two spots in the 10-team cut-off. Portage Central was next with a 405, followed by Stevenson.

Kelly Kristy was Stevenson's medalist with a 99, followed by Mara Mazzoni, 100; Andrea Khoury,103; Kristy Bartholomew, 104; and Julie Kosior, 111.

The Marlins were led by Jennifer Borowiec, 98-94/192; Kristen Smith, 97-103/200; Angela Harbar, 103-98/201; Erin Moug, 105-107/212; and Gina Mazzoni, 117-113/230.

Livonia Ladywood's Laura Kowalski, a senior headed for Florida State, shot 98, while Plymouth Salem's Katie Murinas was only two strokes off the cut with a 90.

Conservation club wins national award

With 11,000 affiliated gun clubs nationwide, the National Rifle Association of America named the Western Wayne County Conservation Association, of Plymouth, the recipient of the 1995 NRA President's Award. The honor was announced at the Association's 125th Anniversary Annual Meetings in Dallas, Texas.

This prestigious award recognizes clubs that have met NRA Club Awards Program standards in the areas of administrative organization, member services, program development and public service. Clubs are awarded for excellence in activities such as bolstering membership, expanding range facilities, sponsoring youth programs, conducting firearm safety training courses, publishing a club newsletter and participating in local legislative programs.

Presented annually by the NRA Clubs & Associations Department, the NRA President's Award is issued as part of the NRA Awards Program which recognizes noteworthy accomplishments by individuals and NRA-affiliated clubs nationwide. The awards reflect the continuing efforts of members to fulfill the purposes and objectives of the National Rifle Association of America and preserve the constitutional rights guaranteed by the Second Amendment.

Condominiums combine golf with easy living

Models are up at Links of Pheasant Run, the condominium component of the burgeoning Pheasant Run residential development in Canton.

Fifty-six units, four to a building, are slated for the initial phase.

The Links, off Canton Center Road at Palmer, will cluster around three holes of the municipally-owned golf course and within a short walk to all amenities of the township's civic center.

Three different floor plans are available, each with a two or three bedroom option.

Base prices go from $168,500 for an 1,663-square-foot two story with two bedrooms and 2-1/2 baths, to $174,500 for a 1,598-square-foot ranch with two bedrooms and two baths to $183,500 for a 1,722-square-foot Cape Cod with two bedrooms and 2-1/2 baths.

All include as standard features two-car garage, fireplace, first floor laundry, basement, range and dishwasher, pedestal sink in the powder room and covered porch.

"We're really proud of this one," said Paul Robertson Jr., developer/builder of the Links.

"This is the fastest-growing community in southeastern Michigan. Canton officials enticed us down here. We won the request for proposal.

"No question what makes it unique is the golf course," Robertson said.

"It costs $250,000 and up - more like $275,000 - to buy a house in Pheasant Run on the golf course. Here, you can get on the golf course for $185,000."

He cited other benefits to living in the sub.

"I give you the Summit on the Park (recreation center), I give you the public library, I give you Centennial Park over there with a pond and band shell and, on the other side of that, is ball fields."

"This is a lifestyle," Robertson said of condo living.

"All of your maintenance is taken care of. It's for people who are busy or already have had their house experience and are tired of it. There's nothing to worry about."

About 60 percent of the community is expected to be empty nesters or families with older children in college or high school who plan to live in the Links year-around, said Michael Cox, sales representative.

The remainder will be evenly divided between young professionals with no kids and retirees who spend part of their time at the Links and the rest out of town.

"They (visitors) are impressed with the location, the size and features what they see in models - design features, space, use of natural light, window stylings," Cox said. "Most of the sites back up to woods, the golf course or ponds."

An opening between the wall and ceiling separating the kitchen from main living areas conveys a feeling of spaciousness.

The master, with cathedral ceiling, has a separate whirlpool tub (extra cost) and shower, two walk-in closets and dual sink vanity

Price of the model, including upgrades, is $191,000.

The two story, 1,700 square feet, incorporates a family room/breakfast nook, dining room with small butler's pantry leading to the kitchen and living room with volume ceiling on the first floor.

Price of the model is $172,000.

The Cape Cod, also about 1,700 square feet, situates the master on the main floor, the second bedroom and a full bath upstairs.

A two-way fireplace separates a sitting room from the living room. Peaked/sloped ceilings also can be found throughout the house.

Price of the model is $188,000.

The Links is within the boundaries of Plymouth-Canton schools. The sub is serviced by city water and sewers. There won't be sidewalks.

The property tax rate is $30.87 per $1,000 of state equalized valuation, half of market value. That means the owners of a $183,000 unit would pay nearly $2,825 the first year.

The monthly association fee, which includes water, is projected at $155. A clubhouse and swimming pool are planned a couple of years down the line.

Wayne Bollinger, a golfer, will be moving into a three-bedroom Cape Cod fronting the course with wife, Catherine, and children, Erin and George.

"Look at that," Wayne said pointing to the course. "We're overlooking a pond with geese and ducks. The homes are beautiful. It's open. We made one change (half-wall) that opened it up even more. They're very accommodating."

Bollinger also said he was impressed that Robertson includes a 6-inch concrete wall between units to buffet noise.

Victor and Betty West, with their children grown, are downsizing from a house to a condo.

TAMMIE GRAVES/STAFF ARTIST

"We looked all over," Victor said. "That seemed to be in a perfect location. Being on the golf course in the morning you have a vista like up north."

Vinyl system wins excellence award

A reinforcement system developed and patented by Wolverine Vinyl Siding of Livonia recently received an Award of Excellence from Composites Institute, a division of the Society of the Plastics Industry.

The three-part Stabilize R Reinforcement System incorporates a high-density fiberglass tube inserted along the top edge of the panel, a friction-fit reinforcement channel and an extra-deep lock.

The innovative design provides 200 percent more stiffness than standard panels, helping to straighten wavy walls, said Walter A. Hoyt, director of marketing for Wolverine Vinyl Siding.

The Stabilize R Reinforcement System is utilized in the Benchmark product line.

"Benchmark is the industry's first structurally reinforced vinyl siding," Hoyt said.

"It's ideal for applications where there are wall irregularities because its superior rigidity keeps it from conforming to uneven surfaces resulting in a straighter look.

"Benchmark's technology also provides for a unique installation technique we call Lap Lock," Hoyt added.

"The fiberglass rod is pushed from one panel across the lap into the next panel like a deadbolt for a tight fit and a smoother appearance."

The Stabilize R Reinforcement System was one of three products to receive an Award of Excellence in the construction category which included other building products such as glazing, tubs/showers, garage doors, windows, polymer concrete floor blocks and walls, and ceiling linear panels.

Wolverine offers a full line of siding products including Portfolio HP, Classic, American Legend, Encore, Weatherstone and Benchmark.

The covered porch with a waist high railing leads to the entry of the 2608-square-foot Lakewood. This house is versatile and adaptable to a variety of lifestyles and family sizes.

The entryway also has a lofty vaulted ceiling, brightened by two skylights. Windows rim the right wall of a combination family room/kitchen, expanded by a bayed eating nook.

Luxury amenities in the master bathroom include an oversized garden tub with space for tropical plants in the tub alcove and a basin in the vanity outside the bathroom.

For a study kit of the Lakewood (404-33), send $10 to Landmark Designs, P.O. Box 2307-0E48, Eugene, OR 97402 (Be sure to specify plan name and number).

Handy storage tips for your workshop

(AP) - Your workshop will be neater _ and safer _ if you follow the rule "a place for everything and everything in its place."

To get your shop shipshape fast, store everything you can in the same-size cardboard boxes. Cut off the tops, label the boxes by general categories, such as "plumbing" and "sandpaper," and arrange them alphabetically on shelves.

Here are some more tool-storing tips:

■ Turn discarded muffin pans into shelves you can pull out for nails, screws and other small bits of hardware. Mount the trays in a box made of plywood with grooves routed in the sides so the trayscan slide in and out of the boxlike drawers. Baking pans, cookie sheets and other items with a projecting top lip also work well.

■ If you use perforated hardboard for tool storage, you'll always return tools to their proper places if you outline each tool on the perf board with a wide felt-tip marker.

■ To make a handy rack for screwdrivers and other small tools, drill a series of one-half-inch to 2-inch holes through a 1-by-3 board. Mount the board on the wall with angle brackets.

■ Styrene foam, which is commonly used for packaging, is also handy for workshop storage. Mount a block above your workbench and insert knives, screwdrivers, bits and other such small, sharp tools into it to keep them handy. Buy the foam from a home center or craft store, or recycle foam used as packing material.

■ Tack an old leather or strong canvas belt along the edge of a shelf to hold tools. As you nail it in place, leave small loops in the belt into which you can slip the tools.

■ For another convenient spot to park screwdrivers, scissors, punches and other small hand tools, screw a magnetic knife-holder strip to the underside of a shelf over your workbench. .

■ A toilet paper holder mounted on a shop wall or workbench makes a great dispenser for as many as five or six rolls of masking, friction, duct or other types of tape. For easy cutting,tie scissors to the dispenser with a length of string.

WAYNE BUSINESS Finance

Midwest Guaranty Bank has opened a new office at 37601 Five Mile, just west of Newburgh in Livonia.

A ribbon cutting last Thursday celebrated the bank's first Wayne County location. Bank officials and local city officials snipped a ribbon made of $20 bills. The money - $1,000 - was then donated to the Livonia Family YMCA's Invest In Youth program.

Midwest was founded in 1988 by Clarke Maxson. The first office was opened in Troy on Jan. 2, 1989. Midwest also has an office in Beverly Hills. A fourth branch is expected to open in mid-summer in Bloomfield Hills.

Midwest officials already have plans to add another 700,000 square feet to the existing facility to expand the business development and loan departments.

Mingling: On hand for the Midwest ribbon cutting were Peter Karadjoff, of Mission Health, Livonia; Charles Ball, vice president of business development for Midwest Guaranty bank in Livonia, John Carney and Ray Stecko

The flag is owned by Charles G. Ball, Midwest's vice president of business development who was formerly president of Manufacturers Bank of Livonia and then later an officer with the merged operations of Comerica and Manufacturers.

It is the same flag that was flown over the building in 1975 when the building - then owned by Manufacturers Bank of Livonia opened. The flag belonged to Ball's late mother. It was sent to her by then U.S. Rep. and former President Gerald R. Ford who represented the Grand Rapids area in Congress for some 20 years.

Midwest's new Livonia office will soon have its very own flag that has been flown over the U.S. Capitol Building in Washington, D.C.

ASSETS PURCHASED
Detroit Diesel Corp. and Rexam PLC have signed a letter of intent in which an affiliate of Detroit Diesel will buy the assets of Rexam's Australian Detco Division. Detco is the sole Australian distributor for Detroit Diesel, Perkins Engines, Electro-Motive Diesel and Allison Transmission products. It distributes and services diesel and natural gas engines, heavy-duty automatic and hauling transmissions and replacement parts. In 1995, Detco had sales of about $90 million and assets of about $47 million.

COMPANY ACQUIRED
Diabetes Self Care, a subsidiary of Universal Self Care Inc. of Livonia, has acquired PCS Northfield Inc., a Troy-based durable medical equipment company. PCS Northfield specializes in providing diabetes equipment and supplies to health insurance companies. In 1995, PCS Northfield has annual gross revenues of $738,111.

LEASE AGREEMENT
American Golf has been awarded a long-term lease agreement to operate the Hilltop Golf Course in Plymouth Township. "Hilltop Golf Course is one of Wayne County's most beautiful and well-maintained courses, and we are proud to add it to our expanding portfolio of high-end daily fee courses," said American Golf Northeast Regional Operating Executive Rich Hohman. Designed in 1939 by golf course architect Jim Lite, Hilltop Golf Course was redesigned in 1980 when the course's back nine holes were added. "We are very excited about working with American Golf," said Plymouth Township supervisor Kathleen Keen-McCarthy.

RELOCATION
MIKA Systems, Inc., a high-end software customizing lab, formerly in Livonia is tripling the size of its headquarters with a move to Bingham Farms. Located at 30600 Telegraph Road, suite 3150. The new headquarters will advance from present T-1 cable facilities to T-3 to handle the high volume of Internet/ Web work the company does for companies ranging from Fortune 100 to local small business, said MIKA President Mike Hammond. The headquarters were formerly located on Laurel Park Drive in Livonia. MIKA Systems is a closely-held company specializing in UNIX, NT, TCP/IP, Client/Server, Internet, Web site development, database programming and administration.

INTERNATIONAL EXPANSION
The A & W Restaurants basic menu of hamburgers, hot dogs and frozen mugs of root beer plus ethnic additions, such as fried chicken in Southeast Asia, chicken franks and rice in Indonesia is gaining in popularity around the world as the oldest franchise restaurant chain in the U.S. plans to double its international presence. Kevin Bazner, International Division Managing Director for Livonia-based A & W, who managed the company's international operations for Malaysia until moving back to the U.S., recently announced a four-year growth plan which aims to increase the number of outlets from 120 units to 300. The company opened 18 international restaurants in 1995 and plans to increase openings to 62 by 1999, increasing international restaurant count from 116 at the close of 1995 to 302 by the end of 1999. A & W's international units are currently concentrated in the Asia region and growth targets include Latin America and the Middle East.

FIRST QUARTER REPORT
Detroit Diesel Corp. announced first quarter 1996 revenues of $479 million an net income of $8.3 million or $0.34 per common share. Total engines sold in the first quarter were 37,300 units, as compared to 44,400 in the first quarter of 1995. Declines in shipment were largely the result of the anticipated lower demand in the North American heavy-duty truck market and lower economic activity affecting the company's European automotive operations.

EXCLUSIVE PROVIDER
Livonia-based Diabetes Self Care, a subsidiary of Universal Self Care, Inc., has been chosen as the provider in a managed care agreement with Total HomeCare, Inc. in San Antonio, Texas, Cal Optima in Orange County, Calif. and the Santa Barbara Health Initiative. Under the terms of the agreement, Diabetes Self Care will provide diabetes equipment, supplies and services to the three companies.

FINANCIAL INFO
Plymouth financial educator Phyllis J. Wordhouse, CFP is offering a complimentary audio tape on "The ABC's of CRT's" subtitled "Increasing Your Community's Net Worth by Giving a Gift That Lasts for Generations" to 500 qualified non-profit organizations. Since Wordhouse presented this speech at the Canton Chamber luncheon, numerous small to mid-sized non-profits have benefited. The CRT (Charitable Remainder Trust) allows donors to control who spends their taxes; the IRS or charity. To obtain one of the 500 free audio tapes, the executive director must send a request on the non-profits letterhead and included a self addressed stamped (78 cent) non-profit envelope to : Wordhouse Financial Planning & Education, 9440 Sheldon Road, Plymouth 48170-4066.

EIGHT MILE BUSINESS
Fifty-five percent of business managers are optimistic about the future of Eight Mile Road, according to a survey of over 300 Eight Mile Road businesses. More than half of the Eight Mile businesses surveyed plan to improve or expand their business within the next three years, while 25 percent volunteered to join a committee or donate money to support crime prevention programs. "We are cheered by the fact that people are responding favorably to Eight Mile Road and the efforts of the Eight Mile Boulevard Association (8MBA)," says newly-elected board Chairperson Jonathon Grant, who also chairs the committee which oversaw the study. Conducted by Market Opinion Research in Farmington Hills and Planning Research of Northville, the study determined the types of businesses that are on Eight Mile, where their customers come from and how the *MBA can address their needs. A $17,000 grant from the Community Foundation for Southeastern Michigan funded the study.

Betty Gilbert will become the new executive director of human resources at Schoolcraft College in Livonia effective July 1. Gilbert, who joined the college in 1986, moves from her position as the school's director of labor relations.

In her new position, she will be responsible for all labor negotiations in addition to overseeing hiring, compensation and evaluation. Before joining Schoolcraft, Gilbert was the director of personnel at Oakland Community College.

Gilbert has an associate degree in applied science from Oakland Community College, a bachelor's degree from the Detroit Institute of Technology and a master's in management from Central Michigan University. She lives in Rochester Hills.

Karen Woodside, a Wayne County assistant prosecutor, has been honored by the Michigan Arson Prevention Committee (MAPC) and the Michigan Chapter of the International Association of Arson Investigators (IAAI) as the 1996 Prosecutor of the Year. Woodside was honored at a ceremony held recently in Detroit to kick off Arson Awareness Week in Michigan.

Woodside was instrumental in obtaining passage of Senate Bills 511 and 565. The new law extends the definition of arson in the Felony-Murder Statute to include the burning of a dwelling house, other types of buildings, personal property and insured property. previously the law had been interpreted by the Michigan Supreme Court to be limited only to deaths resulting from fires in an occupied dwelling.

Woodside represented the state in a 1995 case which became the catalyst for changing the law. The case involved the death of a Detroit firefighter killed while fighting a blaze in an abandoned dwelling. The men responsible for setting the fire were charged with felony murder after the Supreme Court upheld the charge.

Woodside is assigned to the Appellate Division of the prosecutor's office for the past six years. She resides in Northville with her husband and two children.

Mathiesen

Sue Mathiesen has been promoted to the position of benefits consultant at Gallagher ABOW, Inc. in Troy.

Mathiesen began her career with Gallagher ABOW in September 1994 as a group service representative. She received her bachelor's degree from the University of Illinois at Chicago in 1990 and is currently working towards her CEBS designation. Mathiesen lives in Westland with her husband and young son.

Gallagher ABOW is an insurance, financial services and employee benefit brokerage and consulting firm offering services to individuals and business organizations throughout the midwest.

APPLIANCE DOCTOR

JOE GAGNON

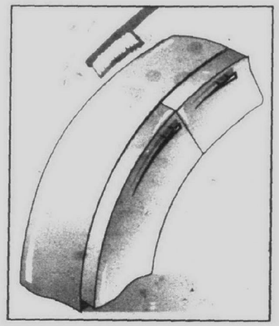
The Appliance Repair Act, House Bill 5833 sponsored by state Rep. Lyn Bankes is getting some action. There is a public hearing on this bill scheduled for 10:30 a.m. Monday, June 10 at the Livonia City Hall at Five Mile and Farmington Road. In attendance will be members of the appliance industry and also consumers who would like to voice their opinions on the service industry.

Joe Dulcey of WXYZ-TV will be doing a followup to his recent investigative report on unethical service. I must again thank many of you for your interest and response to this bill and I do hope to meet many of you on June 10.

Hot weather alert

As the onset of summer hits the area, so does the need for service technicians to repair refrigerators, freezers, dehumidifiers and room air conditioners. Since last October I have been preaching the things consumers have to do before the temperature hits 80 degrees.

It is obvious by the many hundreds of phone calls I'm receiving that not everybody reads this column and that's a darn shame. Here is an example of what is happening at my business at an escalating rate, and it's not really very hot yet.



Caller: I need a service man to check out my refrigerator, it's not cooling very well and my food is spoiling.

Caller: It's a soandso, with a freezer on the top.

Joe: Do you clean the condenser underneath the refrigerator every four months or so?

Caller: The what?

Joe: The condenser, the radiator underneath, the tubing which if not kept clean will burn out the compressor or create the kind of problems you're having. When is the last time you cleaned it?

Caller: Oh, heck, I'll bet it's been years since I've cleaned it. It's been so long I forgot how. How do you clean it?

Joe: You pull the plug on the refrigerator, you use a long handle brush available at the hardware store, and you plug in the vacuum cleaner. That's how you clean it. Now caller, let me tell you something of interest. For every month you've operated this refrigerator with a dirty condenser it has cost you $10 in wasted energy consumption. That's quite a sum you've burned up in the last few years.

Joe: The average total charge is $66.

Caller: Click . . .

In most of these cases the home owner cleans the dirty condenser and no longer needs a service technician. The refrigerator may have run fine during the winter, but the warmer temperatures and a dirty condenser will create such a heat burden on the compresser, that it will fail to do its job.

I have written a book, pamphlets, done seminars, television shows, heard by millions on radio and yet there are still dirty condensers out there. Thank you for reading this column in this newspaper. You're that much smarter than the person who doesn't.

Joe Gagnon, the Appliance Doctor, will answer your questions about maintaining and repairing large appliances. Gagnon is president of Carmack Appliances in Garden City and does a weekly radio program on WJR-AM. He is author of "First Aid from the Appliance Doctor," available at area bookstores.

Growing in style

GREAT GARDENING: Deborah Silver and Co. Inc., a landscape and garden design firm that counts Grand Hotel on Mackinac Island as one of its clients, has opened a retail store for gardeners at 1794 Pontiac Drive in Bloomfield Township. Detroit Garden Works, housed in a renovated machine shop, specializes in handmade terra cotta from France, England, Italy, Crete and the United States. Garden ornaments both new and antique, garden sculpture, treillage, handmade English fencing and trellises, plants and topiary, garden furniture and accessories are in store. Call (810) 335-8089.

In sink

ARTISTIC TILE: Trikeenan Tileworks is a family-owned ceramics studio with a specialty in ceramic tiles, sinks and murals. Drawing from the esthetics of both contemporary and traditional styles, it offers an eclectic palette of artistic tile. All of its tiles are individually handmade and hand decbrated, and all of its sinks are hand thrown on the potter's wheel. Because it isn't an automated tile factory, it allows itself more freedom with its creativity, giving the customer more flexibility with his or her specific needs. Shown here is Trikeenan Tileworks' Pine Bough and Chickadee tile, available through Beaver Distributors Inc. in Michigan Design Center in Troy. Call (810) 649-5552.

Country comfort

GOOD TIMES: Waverly's Good Times Collection is a sophisticated group of country collectible patterns printed on 100 percent cotton duck. These patterns, inspired by hand blocked printed textiles and hand painted pottery, are whimsical and charming. Patterns shown here are Cafe Stripe (draperies), Lakeside (curtains and pillows), Picnic Plaid (pillow ruffle), Clubhouse (chairs and bench), China Shop (chairs), Treehouse (tablecloth) and Country Lane in Berry (wallpaper). Waverly's Good Times Collection is available through F. Schumacher & Co. in Michigan Design Center in Troy. Call (810) 649-4941.

AROUND THE HOUSE

Installing vinyl windows needn't be a pain

Wood windows can maintain charm in many homes, but more often than not, they will be replaced by a considerable number of homeowners with vinyl windows, which generally offer better operability and insulation capability.

Like many home repairs or replacements, replacing wood windows with vinyl replacement windows is something handy homeowners can do with basic instructions.

Here is a step-by-step plan to help you remove the old sash (the part of the window that moves up and down) and install a vinyl replacement window.

1. Measure the opening between the two side jambs and the top and bottom of the sash. Generally, the top sash and bottom sash are the same size.

Once you get these measurements, take off about 1/4-inch from the sides and top and bottom because you will need room to install the windows. If a window is severely out of square, or racked, you may want to order new windows 1/2-inch smaller on each of the sides, top and bottom, instead of 1/4-inch.

Example: If the window is 30 inches by 50 inches, you are going to make the window 29-3/4 inches by 49-3/4 inches tall, if 1/4-inch is all you need.

2. Order the windows and wait until they come in before you take out the old sash. Carefully remove the window stop beads, which are the pieces of trim that are nailed to the jambs that hold the sash in place.

Once you remove the top bead, take out the bottom sash. It isn't uncommon to break some of the stop beads when taking them out, so be careful. You may want to buy extras if you are replacing a number of windows.

3. There will be another wood bead, often called the parting bead, which is between the two window sashes and keeps them apart. This will have to be chiseled off. You will then be able to take the top sash out. The opening will be ready to receive the replacement window, and the interior and exterior trims are left in place.

4. Install the replacement window into the opening as explained in the manufacturer's suggestions. Make sure they are plumb and level and secured with screws. Replace the top window sash stop beads and paint or refinish any marred trim.

The cost of the window is generally between $100 and $150 for a vinyl replacement window with insulated glass. Variables are size, quality and features. For professional installation, anticipate an additional $75 to $150 per window. These are general rules of thumb.

INTERIOR MOTIVES

Change your rooms with your lifestyle

NAOMI STONE LEVY

Suddenly I am 10 years older, and my lifestyle has changed. Coincidentally my taste has changed. Perhaps I am a bit more affluent and want to replace some items with better quality than I could afford 10 years ago.

Where should I begin? Being pragmatic and surveying the premises with my mind and my eyes, I won't start from scratch, because that isn't feasible. Much of my furniture and accouterments are still wonderful. I'll build on those.

I will replace a table that was a poor repro of an 18th century Chippendale mahogany model. In the change of my taste I have learned to like contemporary — more simple and clean-lined. The replacement wood is going to be bleached walnut, or ash, a discriminating mix with my other mahogany pieces.

My coffee table is the worst offender. Out of style, scuffed and insignificant. I'll be eclectic, and assemble the new one from parts. If you, the reader, are limited in space, a 3/4-inch glass top has a better spatial relationship. I am not restricted by space so I settle on thick marble. I will visit Michigan Marbles' premises and select an inordinate slab that blends with my other colors, and have the top made with a "bull-nosed" edge.

Either one will rest on a stainless steel base. The scale of the metal will depend on the top in question. There are tubular legs in various dimensions. My preference is that the table be 16 inches high, and of a size that is significant; the shape square, rectilinear or round, to be governed by the room.

Much can be changed by adding one knockout new chair, and disposing of the least desirable of my present ones. I will upholster the new one in a handsome fabric. If all of your present upholstery is one color, add a large print. Conversely, if all of your pieces are in a pattern, do locate a plain, strong, gorgeously colored chenille or velvet.

What about my walls? The wallpaper I always thought was exceptional is no longer appropriate. Much as it hurts, I have it removed.

Painted walls change the interest in spaces, and make me review my art work. The small scale of most of my collection is not outmoded. Rearranging them into groups helps immensely. However, my eye tells me I need to visit several galleries and add one large print or painting.

In the 10 years that have changed me I have a strong urge to eliminate. That includes accessories. I want to use the best, not the most. The understated feeling of modern has an elegance that is tasteful and is hard to explain. I expound to my clients on the subject, and trust they listen.

That coffee table we created formerly would have housed an ashtray (no longer acceptable), a half-dozen bits and pieces, some magazines and a bowl of greens or flowers. Pared down it will now feature a prodigious piece of glass or a bronze sculpture. A low bowl with some greens will be appealing. An esthetic large art book will add interest. Enough!

Diversity in window treatments also reiterates my 10-year change in taste. The open look is more modern, and so I elect to remove my draperies, trying to decide on no covering at all, or if necessary because of privacy, a discretionary approach. One understated scheme I have culled from many I have used for clients is made of sliding panels that stack, one behind the other. This permits the biggest opening. The open panels can be filled with a subtle sheer, either stretched on a rod or gathered.

Herein lies my plan to make colossal changes in my lifestyle. How about you?

Hardy plant pruning to be discussed

The Hardy Plant Society, Great Lakes chapter, will present a program on pruning techniques for hardy plants 7 p.m. Monday, June 17.

Carl Simmons will lead a group discussion on the topic at the Bloomfield Hills Bowers School Farm, 1219 E. Square Lake Road. The farm is on the north side of Square Lake Road, the second road east of Squirrel Road and the third road west of Adams. Guest fee is $3.

Ford House notes auto's anniversary

The Edsel and Eleanor Ford House, 1100 Lake Shore Road, Grosse Pointe Shores, will join in celebrating 100 years of the automobile in America by offering an informative look at the Ford family's involvement in the evolution of the automobile.

Ford House will celebrate the 100th anniversary of the birth of Eleanor Clay Ford June 6, 1996. David Lewis, professor of business history at the University of Michigan, will present a commemorative lecture, "Eleanor Clay Ford: A Fond Remembrance," 7:30 p.m. Wednesday, June 5. Complimentary tours Thursday, June 6, will feature highlights from the life of this generous woman who dedicated much time and financial support to enriching the lives of her fellow Detroiters and Americans.

The Garden Club of Michigan will decorate the house with commemorative floral arrangements, and her wedding gown will be displayed. Ford family historic photographs and memorabilia will be on display.

During the week of June 16-22, Ford House will present special tours that will focus upon the lifestyle of Edsel Ford and his family and the vital role they played in shaping the automotive industry as we know it today. Visitors will also have the opportunity to view Edsel Ford's 1941 Lincoln Continental and Eleanor Clay Ford's 1952 custom-built Lincoln Town Car.

Ford House offers public and group tours, exhibits, children's programs, a tea room, a gallery shop and other special events throughout the year.

The Tea Room in the Activities Center is open for light lunches and refreshments.

The room and the center are available for luncheons and dinners for any group touring the house.

Tours are offered 1-4 p.m. Wednesday-Sunday on the hour; noon tour available May through December. Cost is $5 for adults, $4 for seniors (60 and over), $3 for children (12 and under). Group tours by reservation.

DISCOVER GARDEN DELIGHTS AT MEADOW BROOK GROUNDS

BY MARTY FIGLEY
SPECIAL WRITER

The gardens are blooming in profuse color where you can "Discover the Pleasures of Gardening" at the fifth annual Outdoor Garden Show, sponsored by Meadow Brook Hall and the Metropolitan Detroit Landscape Association, at Oakland University's beautiful Meadow Brook Hall, Rochester.

This exciting event will take place 10 a.m. to 8 p.m. Friday-Saturday, June 7-8, and 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Sunday, June 9. Admission is $7 per person, $3 for children 6-12, free for those under 6. There is ample free parking. Meadow Brook Hall is near I-75 and Exit 79 (University Drive), and its entrance is south of University Drive on Adams. For more information, call (810) 646-4992.

"Each year this show gets bigger and better as MDLA members strive to improve their gardens and create new ones," said Larry Wright, MDLA CEO/president. "Twenty-one expertly landscaped gardens surround Meadow Brook Hall and new ideas abound."

Gardens galore

The mansion's front center court garden provides the perfect place to showcase a spectacular water display with flowers provided by the Metropolitan Detroit Flower Growers Association. Melodic music will fill the air as visitors stroll through this garden into other parts of the show.

The railroad garden, popular with children and adults, will be in the rock garden, constructed by Ray Wiegand's Nursery, Macomb, which features outstanding specimens of conifers and provides the perfect setting for this garden. Many "G" gauge model trains will travel on the tracks that wind in and out and up and down throughout the landscape. A European theme has been chosen by members of the Lakeshore Garden Railway Club.

This year several new and innovative gardens will inspire visitors. Annuals and perennials, provided by Telly's Greenhouse, Troy, will fill a garden that incorporates a deck and a gazebo by Bidwell Construction, Shelby Township. Unusual and artistic handcrafted hardwood birdhouses will be featured in another garden, landscaped by Mark Baldwin and Associates of Plymouth. The birdhouses are designed by the Art Harrison Interior Design Studio of Birmingham. A series of these temporary gardens will illustrate new ideas for the home landscaper.

A stroll through the woodland garden will take visitors through an Oriental garden and a "Wildlife Walk." Knoll Cottage, the playhouse modeled after the mansion, will be the setting for face painting and garden crafts for the youngsters. New this year will be a miniature maze garden, and a small garden in the shape of a butterfly. Both of these new additions have been designed and constructed by Eaton Nursery Inc., West Bloomfield.

The large maze garden will again be in place and entice young and old alike to find their way through the paths. The Emerald Green Arborvitae that comprise this garden will be available for purchase after the show at $25 each.

Other features

The sculpture of Marshall Fredericks will grace the grounds as will garden art from Detroit's Pewabic Pottery.

Plant societies will be placed throughout the show to answer questions and provide information about their groups and to offer garden-related items and plants for purchase. Master gardeners will be stationed in the gardens to provide information about the plants.

Dozens of exhibitors will be found in the Marketplace tent, where the latest in statuary, lighting, tools, furniture, planters, garden services, books and other products will satisfy the most discriminating buyer.

A series of speakers will present their programs during the show from a large deck situated on the grounds. They will speak at specific times so that attendees can schedule their visit to coincide with the ones they wish to hear.

Jim Wilson, prolific author, lecturer and host of PBS's "Victory Garden," will speak each day. He was elected to the Hall of Fame, the top honor of the Garden Writers Association of America, at its annual meeting last fall, and was recently given a life membership to the National Council of State Garden Clubs Inc.

Other experts will round out the program and offer a variety of topics about gardening. They are Margaret Thele, Sage Advice, Birmingham; Rick Lazzell, Lazzell's Horticultural Services, West Bloomfield; Janet Macunovich, Perennial Favorites, Waterford; Laurie Lee, Backyard Birds, Rochester; and yours truly, garden writer.

This is the program schedule for the fifth annual Meadow Brook Hall landscape and garden show co-sponsored by Observer & Eccentric Newspapers:

FRIDAY, JUNE 7

- Landscaping With Container Plants, Jim Wilson, 11 a.m. to noon — Join Wilson as he shows gardeners how to add impact to their landscapes through container plantings. Homeowner or apartment dweller, all will learn ways to incorporate and care for the plants they love to make perfect portable gardens.
- A Plethora of Perennials, Margaret Thele, 12:30-1:30 p.m. — How do you decide which perennials to grow? What plants will best enhance your landscape? Thele, a garden designer, will ponder these and other perplexing perennials synonymies.
- Establishing a Wildlife Habitat Garden, Jim Wilson, 2-3 p.m. — Wilson will share his hands-on experiences about the subject, and share ideas and explain the steps necessary to create a creature-friendly garden.
- Herb Gardening Through the Seasons, Marty Figley, 3:30-4:30 p.m. — If you have wondered when and how to harvest the bounty of herbs from your garden, this talk will lead you in the right direction. Learn how to preserve and enjoy herbs all year long in culinary endeavors and crafts.
- So, You Think You'd Like a Water Garden, Rick Lazzell, 5-6 p.m. — Lazzell shares his expertise on all stages of the processes necessary to achieve your goal of a successful water feature in your garden. From the planning stage to installation to planting and finally pond management.

SATURDAY, JUNE 8

- Landscaping With Native Trees, Jim Wilson, 11 a.m. to noon — Wilson expounds on a simple and common sense principle: Trees that have become successfully adapted to our region over thousands of years often make the best choices for the landscape. Learn about the benefits of a native landscape and how to fit these beautiful trees into your life.
- A Plethora of Perennials, Margaret Thele, noon to 1:30 p.m.
- Landscaping With Container Plants, Jim Wilson, 2-3 p.m.
- Choosing and Placing Plants in the Landscape, Janet Macunovich, 3:30-4:30 p.m. — A basic plan to get you off and running in spring: how to select plants that will meet your expectations, and ideas for placing them in the yard. Applies to all permanent plants — trees, shrubs, vines, ground covers, perennials and annuals.
- Speaking of Birds, Laurie Lee, 5-6 p.m. — Behind gardening, bird watching is the second most practiced hobby. These winged wonders bring new dimensions of color, sound, movement and constant entertainment to the home landscape. Let Lee show you how to make your yard a bird-friendly place.

SUNDAY, JUNE 9

- Establishing a Wildlife Habitat Garden, Jim Wilson, 11 a.m. to noon
- A Plethora of Perennials, Margaret Thele, 12:30-1:30 p.m.
- Landscaping With Native Trees, Jim Wilson, 2-3 p.m.
- So, You Think You'd Like a Water Garden, Rick Lazzell, 3:30-4:30 p.m.

INVITING IDEAS

Give 'outlaws' cozy welcome into family

RUTH MOSSOK JOHNSTON

With all the upcoming weddings or wedding plans of the season, it may be time for families to meet future in-laws.

Remember the funny parents dinner scene in the original movie "Father of the Bride" (1950) with Spencer Tracy as the over-protective devoted father and Elizabeth Taylor as the beautiful bride-to-be.

Introductions of in-laws can be quite stressful for all those concerned (in-laws many times may feel more like out-laws). How do you set up an ideal introduction?

Plan your get-together on comfortable turf — make sure the meeting place will not be offensive to either side of the family. Keep whatever you plan casual and cozy. Have an outdoor get-together — cocktails and hors d'oeuvres on a patio or deck, or a dessert get-together later in the evening.

If you're feeling ambitious, host a lunch or dinner. If home turf is your setting, it's nice for the future groom to help the future bride — sharing the responsibility is part of it all, and giving the parents time to converse alone will help them get to know one another.

Have some baby and childhood photos of the bride-to-be and groom-to-be on hand to share with the other set of parents. Childhood photos lend themselves to great conversation!

Keep the conversation light and comfortable, the first meeting doesn't need the added dimension of wedding plans — there's plenty of time to deal with the reality of guest lists and who's paying for what!

When entertaining outdoors I like to serve simple finger foods that don't require much handling or fumbling.

To avoid fumbling, I recently discovered a neat new gadget, Drink Mate™ a plastic ringed clip-on designed especially for stemware which attaches securely to almost any plate including disposable ones, and leaves one hand free. These drink holders come in a variety of colors and can be purchased in small amounts, or large quantities. Custom imprints and colors are available for big events (weddings!) for information on this product contact: Drink Mate International Inc. 1-(800)-929-9363.

SPICY SHRIMP SATÉ

36 medium-to-large raw shrimp (count pieces, not pounds)
2 tablespoons high quality olive oil
3 garlic cloves, peeled and minced
1/8 cup fresh lemon juice
1/8 cup fresh lime juice
3 tablespoons reduced-fat peanut butter
2 1/2 teaspoons lite soy sauce
1/2 - 1 teaspoon curry powder
1/2 teaspoon chili powder
1 teaspoon turmeric
2 tablespoons finely minced green onion
Bamboo skewers

Shell and devein the raw shrimp, set aside momentarily.

In a skillet over medium-low heat, add oil. Let the oil warm and add the garlic, saute until lightly browned (not burned). Stir in the lemon juice, lime juice, peanut butter, soy sauce, curry, chili powder, turmeric and green onion — this mixture will be quite thick — let simmer while stirring constantly for approximately one minute. Let the mixture cool completely.

In a glass bowl, add the shrimp mix carefully with a rubber spatula, not to break the shrimp. Make sure the shrimp is well coated, cover the bowl with plastic wrap or a tight fitting lid and refrigerate overnight to marinate.

Soak the bamboo skewers in water (to prevent burning), and light your barbecue.

Let the coals or wood chips heat for at least 1/2 hour. Thread three shrimp on each skewer. Cook low over coals or chips until golden brown and crispy (approximately 3 minutes per side). Serve hot. Yield: 6 servings.

CROSTINI AL DRIED TOMATO, CHÈVRE CHEESE & BASIL

18 pieces of chèvre cheese
18 whole fresh basil leaves, washed
18 marinated dried tomatoes in olive oil, drained well

On each piece of toasted baguette, place a slice of chèvre, one basil leaf and top with a sun-dried tomato. Serve at room temperature. Yield: 18 pieces

Chef's note: If you prefer fresh bread instead of toasted, use this same idea on slices of fresh baguette.

LET'S REMODEL

You need strong base for ceramic tile

Q: I would like to have ceramic tile installed in my kitchen. I have had two contractors out to give me an estimate on the project. One contractor said he was going to glue the tile to the plywood. The other contractor said he was going to put down a "mud" base, then put the tile over the base. Which method is better?

A: A single layer of plywood is completely insufficient. You must add "underlayment" prior to installing the ceramic tile. However, it is important to inspect the floor joist spans before you proceed. Ceramic tile is a very rigid material. Most ceramic tiles will crack if there is movement underneath the tile. Some wood floor systems when designed to minimum standards have too much flex in them. The flex of "bounce" will crack tiles.

Floor joists are basically wood "I" beams for a given floor joist, or you increase the distance between supports. The joist will defect a great amount. Floor joist beneath ceramic tile floors must not defect more than 1/360 of their span. Assuming your joists are No. 1 grade and the span is no greater than 16 feet, 9 inches, you can proceed. You have two choices of underlayment: 3/8 inch exterior grade plywood or 1/2 inch Cementitions board. Both will perform exceptionally as long as you install them carefully. Your existing sub floor should be securely attatched to the floor joists. Drywall screws work well, use ones that have course threads.

If you choose to use exterior plywood, the spacing of the sheets is critical. The 3/8 inch plywood edges must be offset from existing plywood edges at least 2 inches in each direction. You must also be sure to maintain a 1/8 inch spacing around each sheet of plywood. The plywood expands with changes in humidity. If spaced too tightly, the plywood will buckle and crack the tile. Attach the plywood with nails or screws that will penetrate the floor joists at 3/4 inch. Be sure to screw the edges.

Cementitions board makes a great underlayment, but it requires some additional labor. It is necessary to install the Cementitions board in a layer of fresh thin set or dry set mortar. This material act s as a filler for low spots in the plywood. Without this layer of thin set, the board may flex under foot traffic causing the ceramic tile to crack. The Cementitions board is attatched to the existing plywood and floor joists with galvanized nails and screws. If you choose exterior plywood as underlayment, you must use an organic adhesive or an epoxy mortar as a bonding agent between the tile and the wood. A latex modified Portland cement mortar will create long lasting adhesive should you decide to the Cementitions board underlayment. Remember without a stiff floor your ceramic tile job is doomed to failure.

GARDEN SPOT

Extend an invitation to the butterflies

If this year you have decided to encourage butterflies to visit your garden, here are some quick tips that may help to "invite them in."

Butterflies like flowers with flat surfaces, especially in purple, yellow, pink and white colors. Some so-called weeds (or shall we call them wildflowers?) such as Queen Anne's lace, milkweed, clover and thistle are magnets for these creatures. Artimesias such as Silver King and Silver Queen also attract them.

An area protected by a hedge, wall or side of a house will add to their comfort. A shallow place such as a pan, birdbath or large scooped out rock filled with a constant water supply is desirable. A low natural spot in the garden that catches rain water (or water from your bucket) is another option.

MARTY FIGLEY

Don't forget to include several flat stones so that they can rest. Beer or sugar water painted or sprayed on the stones provides a delicious treat!

We must be patient when we introduce a new type of garden such as this to our landscape. The creatures have to find it and feel comfortable in it before they will use it regularly. Before you begin, learn about the life cycle of caterpillars and butterflies so that you will be able to recognize them when they are in their caterpillar stage. I'm sure you won't want to destroy what may eventually become a delightful addition to your garden scene.

It's rewarding to know that homeowners are becoming more interested in protecting our wildlife and providing places of safety for them. The area needn't be large, but it will make a large impact on our environment.

Growing businesses

A lot of things are happening in the nursery business in Michigan! We are most fortunate to live in an area where new and innovative practices are tried. Many nurseries are expanding their facilities in order to serve you better.

For instance, I recently attended a ribbon cutting ceremony at Bordine Nursery Ltd. in Clarkston, where the Bordine family has been serving its customers since 1939. It was here where the first retail venture began from a wood table set out by the road on Mother's Day. This nursery has certainly grown since that inauspicious beginning!

Bordine is one of several nurseries that is cooperating with Michigan State University in a research program to develop plants that will bloom their first season before they would normally bloom in a Michigan garden. This will enable customers to see the exact color and form of a perennial before purchase. By the time the second year rolls around the plants will bloom at their regular time.

Fourteen new greenhouses have been erected at the Bordine Clarkston facility to enable the staff to control the environment, such as light, humidity, heat, to achieve this goal. Sixty kinds of perennials have been "coerced" into this mode frame, said William Carlson of MSU. They have either been forced or held back so that they will be blooming when gardeners buy them.

Bob Theisen, perennial production director, is working with MSU in this regard.

Another exciting event is the expansion of Wiegand's Nursery on Romeo Plank Road, Macomb County. This facility is just a short drive for our Rochester and Troy readers. A 10,000-square foot building is adjacent to the original structure and contains a 3,000-square foot glass greenhouse, and a 13,000-square foot bedding greenhouse that opens to the large sales yard.

"Our customers will realize that we are now one of the elite garden centers in the country," said Matt Jesue, Wiegand's garden center manager.

We are fortunate to have these forward-thinking businesses in our area.

TIMELY GARDEN TIPS

- Place grow-through supports over perennials.
- Before you destroy an insect in your garden, identify it. Use the proper procedures to destroy it.
- Analyze a site before planting: Shady? Sunny? Windy?
- Choose sturdy compact plants without bloom.
- Use an old plastic clothes basket for garden debris.

FOCUS ON PHOTOGRAPHY

Photography benefit in the bag

MONTE NAGLER

When your camera equipment consists only of a camera and a couple of rolls of film, carrying them around presents no problem.

But as soon as you begin to acquire extra lenses, a flash unit, filters and other accessories, a good camera bag becomes a necessity. A camera bag not only gives you adequate protection for all your photo equipment, but it makes it easy to locate a particular item in a hurry.

Camera bags come in two types: soft bags and rigid cases. Soft bags are by far the most popular. They're more portable and therefore easier to move around and travel with. Rigid cases are more often used by the professional photographer who works mostly out of a studio.

The range and quality of camera bags on the market is immense. Here are some tips on what to look for.

To start with, keep in mind the wise saying, "You get what you pay for." So don't waste your time looking for a cheap bag. After all, you've probably invested wisely in a good camera system, so why house it in a flimsy bag?

Look for something with quality. Check out the material. It should be a durable nylon weave with good stitching. It should be fairly weatherproof and have adequate protection on the bottom. A rigid bottom protects your equipment if you should put your bag down sharply on a hard surface.

All sides along the top should be padded and the strap also padded for comfort while carrying your bag.

Many bags today have adjustable partitions on the inside that attach by means of Velcro. This means you can compartmentalize each piece of equipment to assure a tight and secure fit. Don't buy a camera bag that will just exactly house your existing equipment. Plan for the future. Buy one that's a little larger to allow for that extra lens or second camera. If you're a backpacker, check out some of the new bags that easily convert into a backpack. For comfort on a long hike, it's the only way to go.

One further hint: Always carry your camera bag with you when traveling by air. So take your camera equipment and bag it! — in a good camera bag that will serve you well.

STORY BY DOUG FUNKE • STAFF WRITER

It's only funny, unexpected or unbelievable if it doesn't happen to you, one real estate agent said. And it can be just plain embarrassing, too.

Bill Willis, a longtime agent with Mayfair in Livonia, remembers an experience he culled from his what-more-can-I-do-to-let-you-know-we're-here file.

"We called to show a house and no one was home," Willis said. "I knocked on the door real hard and we went in through the lock box.

"I showed two bedrooms, went into the living room and walked toward the master bedroom and heard a noise. It sounded like a fan. I yelled at the top of my voice, 'Hellooooo.'

"A woman came out of the master bedroom with nothing on and said, 'Hi.' She thought it was her husband. We were all startled. So was she. The buyer said, 'Would you mind if we came back some other time?'"

Just ask Russ Messina, associate broker with RE/MAX in the Hills in Bloomfield, if sellers are hard to figure sometimes.

"I made an appointment to show a house. The seller knew I was coming. Normally, they will open the front door for you. They didn't, so I had to use the lock box.

"The door wouldn't open, so I bumped it a little bit with my shoulder and heard a crashing sound," Messina said. "All the molding fell off the door on the inside.

"I'm standing there with the buyer. All the seller had to do was open the door for us. The buyer kind of giggled all the way through the house and never came back."

Buyers can present zany situations, too. Listen to Leslie Friedman, a Realtor with Cranbrook & Associates in Franklin.

"I was working with clients who were very, very specific about their needs," Friedman said. "They wanted a scaled-down house, a first floor master, not a big lot, a ranch. We had been looking for months.

"One day, we were driving down the name of the street one of them had grown up on in a different city. We just happened to be driving down the street and they saw a house for sale. They said, 'Let's just see that.'

"It was a big house, no first floor master, a large lot, a colonial with a pool," Friedman said. "They ended up buying it."

Ruth Martin, an associate broker with Remerica Suburban in Livonia, usually knows where she's going. However, one time she had a buyer and...

"I called the seller to make an appointment," Martin said of a showing "There were two houses for sale on that street. We went to the other one. The seller said she didn't know me, I argued with her and she let me in. My client bought the house.

"Then I got a call back from the other Realtor asking why we never showed up at her house," Martin said. "That's when I realized we showed the wrong one."

Rod Ruth, an agent with Realty Executives Metro in Livonia, recently had a once-in-a-lifetime experience he'd just as soon forget.

"I forgot to tell my sellers we had a closing," he said. "I talk to those people all the time. I sold it three times, but this was the first time it went through.

"They got busy. I got busy. I forgot to call."

Rich Halmekangas, broker/owner of One Way Realty in Livonia, figured he was just doing his job. The man of the house wasn't quite sure what was happening.

A couple planning to sell without an agent wanted a Realtor's opinion of the price. Halmekangas, always prospecting, agreed.

"The lady invited me to go through," Halmekangas said. "We were coming out of the upstairs bedroom at the top of the stairs when her husband came through the front door. His first reaction was, 'What are you doing up there?'

"They were both startled," Halmekangas continued. "She thought he'd be home later. I was between them saying, 'I can explain.' I ended up getting the listing and sold it. They said they were impressed with the way I handled the shock."

Halmekangas had another chance to make lemonade out of lemons during his real estate career.

"I had a California buyer in here who wanted Farmington Hills," he recalled. "I drove into a new subdivision and kept going and going and ended up getting stuck at the end of a cul-de-sac in mud up to the axle.

"I called AAA on my car phone. Then, we went over financing, qualified them and got all the paperwork done while we waited," Halmekangas said. "After we were towed out, they went inside the house and ended up buying."

There's always potential for catastrophies in the making. If it can happen, it probably will.

"One of our biggest fears is having a cat or dog get out of the house and chasing it down the street," Martin said. "You just panic." Fortunately, she managed to corral an animal when it happened to her.

"I had two separate clients. I was showing both of them houses. I had no idea they were related. They were sisters-in-law and had different last names. They must have never discovered they were working with the same agent.

"They each liked the same house," Friedman said. "Before one put in an offer, she wanted family members to see the house. When the sister-in-law pulled up, she said, 'Oh, my God.'

"Usually, you negotiate with the seller. This time, they (relatives) had to negotiate with each other. One bought the house."

Builder can charge for work not written in contract

REAL ESTATE QUERIES

ROBERT M. MEISNER

Q: I am a builder who performed some extra work on a house for a customer, although I did not have a written contract for the work. Do I have any basis to pursue them for the extra monies since it was not in writing, although my underlying contract was.

A: Yes. Under the theory of quantum meruit, where changes are authorized without a written contract, the court can award the value of the work. The doctrine does not require actual knowledge of the expected cost nor do you have a duty to inform the purchasers beforehand of the costs of changes that purchasers may have made in the original specifications. You must prove by preponderance of the evidence the terms of the oral contract. Since there was no "transfer of land," the statute of frauds does not impede you from pursuing this claim. In that regard, there was a recent unpublished decision from the Michigan Court of Appeals confirming this type of result.

Q: We are a cooperative association who is entertaining various insurance bids for the physical amenities. I am trying to convince the cooperative board, however, of the need to look closely at the directors and officers liability insurance as well. Do you have suggestions?

A: Unfortunately, most associations look at the bottom line cost of the fire and property damage insurance and disregard the terms and conditions of the directors and officers liability policy that frequently accompanies the policy issued by the insurance company. For community associations, it is important that they understand the full extent of coverage for the directors and officers, including what exemptions and/or exceptions from coverage are provided in the policy. Obviously, not all insurance policies have the same coverage and/or benefits and this is particularly true with respect to directors and officers liability insurance.

There are several companies that stand out among the rest with regard to adequate coverage for directors and officers, but obviously their cost may be more. In the final analysis, however, volunteer directors should get the very best insurance coverage, as well as the very best management, legal and accounting advice they can find.

Comparison shop when seeking home loan

MORTGAGE SHOPPING

DAVID C. MULLY

If you've ever shopped for a credit card or a car loan, you know that getting the best interest rate is a very important part of your shopping decision. The same is true when you shop for a mortgage.

As with any other loan, the lower your interest rate, the lower your monthly payments. Or another way to look at it is the lower the interest rate, the more buying power you'll have. With lower rates, you can borrow more money for approximately the same monthly payment. Here are some points to keep in mind when you compare interest rates among loans:

Shorter term loans offer lower interest rates. Keep in mind that each type of mortgage loan may carry a different interest rate. As a general rule, the shorter the term of the loan, the lower the interest rate you will pay. So, a 15-year fixed-rate mortgage usually has a lower interest rate than a 30-year fixed-rate mortgage.

A fixed versus an adjustable interest rate. Also keep in mind that you can choose a mortgage with an interest rate that is fixed for the entire term of the loan or an interest rate that adjusts during the loan term. A fixed-rate loan gives you the security of knowing that your interest rate will never change during the entire term of the loan. An adjustable-rate mortgage loan (called an ARM) has an interest rate that will vary during the life of the loan, with the possibility of both increases and decreases to the interest rate and consequently to your mortgage payment.

An ARM frequently offers a lower initial rate than a fixed-rate mortgage. However, when comparing interest rates between ARMs and fixed-rate mortgages, you need to know that adjustable-rate mortgage's interest rate caps. There is a cap of a limit on how much the interest rate can increase at each adjustment date. These caps tell you the maximum interest rate you could be required to pay during each adjustment period and over the life of the loan.

Paying discount "points" can lower your interest rate. Simply put, a point is a unit of measure that means 1 percent of the loan amount. So, if you take out a $100,000 loan, one point equals $1,000. Discount points represent additional money you can pay to the lender at closing. In return, the lender will provide you a lower interest rate on your loan.

For example, say you are shopping for a 30-year mortgage loan. A lender quotes you an interest rate for a 30-year, $5,000 mortgage at 9 percent with no discount points. If you like that rate, you can choose not to pay any discount points at closing and pay 9 percent interest. If you want to pay less interest, ask the lender to quote you an interest rate with you paying one, two or three discount points. Usually, for each point you pay for a 30-year loan, your interest rate is reduced by a 1/8 (or .125) of a percentage point.

So, if you pay one discount point at closing on a $50,000 loan ($500), you could lower your interest rate from 9 percent to 8 7/8 percent. Paying two discount points could lower your interest rate from 9 percent to 8 3/4 percent and so on. Remember, these are just examples. For a true comparison, you need to call lenders. When you call lenders to shop rates, it is important to compare the same combination of interest rates and points quoted by each lender. A good example to help you compare rates is to ask lenders for quotes for a loan with no discount points. You can often get a better idea of what the basic interest rate is at zero discount points. Then, you can ask to see how the interest rate is reduced for each additional discount point you pay.

How do you decide if you want to pay more discount points and a lower interest rate, or fewer discount points and a higher interest rate? First, you should know that you can sometimes negotiate with the seller of a property to pay some of the points on your loan. Second, the discount points you pay are tax deductible. Third, realize that you will need more cash at closing if you decide to pay points. And finally, remember that you have to pay for all your points all at once, whereas you only pay interest on your loan as long as you have your house. So, if you will be living in your house for only a short period of time, you may decide not to pay points.

Interest rate lock-ins. While you shop for a loan, interest rates can change frequently. So it's important to ask if the mortgage lender will offer you a rate lock-in. This can guarantee you a specified interest rate, provided the loan is closed within a set period of time. When you apply for your mortgage, you should have a good idea of when you want to close on your house. If your lock-in period expires before you go to closing, your lender is not obligated to give you the same interest rate you had locked in earlier. So, it is important to lock-in for a period that will cover the time until your expected closing date. Locking in a quoted rate when rates are rising may save you thousands of dollars in interest over the life of the loan. If rates are falling, it may be best to wait until the last possible moment before locking in.

Annual percentage rate (APR). The percentage figure includes interest plus points and closing costs and spreads them over the life of the loan. The APR gives you your effective rate of interest and must be disclosed to you according to federal truth-in-lending laws.

Here are some recent interest rates that may be helpful to you in tracking the direction of rates. These are just a guide. Be sure to call a lender to get specific current rate quotes. In Freddy Mac's Primary Mortgage Market Survey, the 30-year fixed rate for the North Central area of the United States for the week ending May 25, 1996 was 8.07 percent, down from 8.13 percent a week before. The 15-year fixed rate average was 7.58 percent (7.63 percent previous week) and the ARM average was 5.58 percent (5.90 previous week).

High-tech way to turn on the air conditioner

BY HILLARY CHURA
AP BUSINESS WRITER

CHICAGO (AP) _ It's a sweltering summer day, and your house will be an oven by the time you get home from work. Now, imagine turning on your air conditioner with a telephone call from the office.

The idea isn't that farfetched. Ameritech Corp. and Commonwealth Edison on Wednesday announced a test program of "smart homes" that allows consumers to turn an air conditioner, a heater, or even a washing machine on and off over the phone.

The service, already being tested in southeastern Wisconsin, would be available to 2,000 Chicago-area homes by year's end. Currently, Ameritech's pilot program allows consumers to receive electricity rate information, determine their bills, control heating and cooling functions and program appliances to come on and off.

"Monitoring and controlling what is going on in our homes is a concern for everyone," said William Downey, ComEd vice president of customer operations. "This equipment may eventually be used for home security, home monitoring and making choices about how you want equipment in the home to work."

Home automation has come a long way from items such as the Clapper, which allows a person to turn off and on lights by clapping. Appliances now can be controlled from one console, but such systems have been priced at $5,000 or more _ well above the average consumer's range.

Now, the advent of a single electronics industry communications standard, called cebus, and the increasing use of inexpensive, powerful computers has companies scrambling to develop systems inan industry expected to bring in $2.6 billion in revenue by the turn of the century.

Ameritech officials say they believe their system could be significantly cheaper than those currently in use, but would not say exactly how much.

"We have designs on growing the largest, most successful and most capable business in the United States," Ameritech Chairman Richard Notebaert said recently.

The system also would give utilities the option of controlling the appliances themselves. Chicago-based ComEd and Wisconsin Energy Corp., for example, are exploring the service as a way to automatically shut down a home's air conditioners or heater for certain periods during high-usage times or to electronically read meters, said Richard Taylor, president of Energy Oasys, a joint venture between Ameritech and Wisconsin Energy.

Chimney 'cricket' needed to stop leaking

Q: We have a persistent leak in our roof by the chimney. This leak is causing water damage to the ceiling by the fireplace in our living room. My husband's efforts to tar the edges between the roof and chimney help for a while but don't correct the problem. We replaced the roof but that made no difference. Will a "saddle" from the roof to the chimney help? Our chimney is 4-feet-wide.

A: A cricket (also called a saddle) should solve the problem. Whenever the width of a chimney located along the slope of a roof is more than 2 feet, a cricket should join the roof and chimney.

The cricket prevents debris or snow and ice from piling up behind the chimney. This can cause rain or melting snow to back up under the shingles and leak into the house. The cricket also deflects water running down the roof around the chimney.

Q: Can you tell me what "Flame Spread 200 or less" means? I saw it on a label on the back of a 4-by-8 plywood panel that had a decorative finish.

A: Flame spread is the propagation of a flame over a surface. The flame-spread rating classifies the fire hazard potential of different building materials. It is based on tests performed by independent labs using procedures developed by Underwriters Laboratories. Inorganic materials and untreated red oak provide the range against which flame-spread ratings are made. Inorganic materials, which include concrete, cement-asbestos board and metal, have a flame spread of 0. Untreated red oak has a flame spread of 100.

Q: We are considering laying our own carpeting and would appreciate any suggestions you might have on working the stiff material into corners and around stair steps.

A: Modern carpeting is made of man-made fiber held together by a latex or foam backing (Kanga-back). The carpet is very stiff and hard to handle, but here are a few easy tips to help you add flexibility to the carpet so it will fit easily into odd shapes and around stair steps.

If at all possible, lay the carpet flat, unrolled, to let it "relax" and lose any wrinkles that resulted from rolling. If you have a large paved area, such as a driveway or patio, unroll the carpet outdoors, so the sun can warm and soften the backing. .

If you are working in cold or wet weather, unroll the carpet in a basement or garage and let it lay loose for a day or two to lose its wrinkles. If you still have trouble fitting the carpet aroundstair steps, apply moisture to the latex backing with a plant mister. Using heat from a hair dryer or heat gun will help make the carpeting as flexible as ordinary fabric and you'll be able to shape it easily.

Front porches are becoming the place to meet

BY MICHELLE CAMPBELL
CHICAGO SUN-TIMES

up faster than tulip bulbs this spring as homeowners struggle to reclaim a way of life passed by.

The look and feel of some neighborhoods and subdivisions are being transformed as property owners, one by one, build nostalgic front porches on their homes.

And it doesn't seem to matter what style of home they have. In

"Before people started building porches, everyone used to be intheir back yards and no one really knew their neighbors," said

"Now, we can sit out here, have a beer and play cards in the evening. Our neighbors stop by and talk to us," he said. "Porches help get back a way of life that has passed us by."

Ken Zomparelli, who owns a Tinley Park deck-building business, said over the past two summers he has noticed a dramatic increase in the number of porches being built.

"They give the house a better look," said Zomparelli, who has even seen some trailer home owners try to make their barbecue decks look like old-time porches. "So many people are tired of having their house look just like everybody's else's on the block. A frontporch can add some personality."

While the thought of putting a Victorian-era porch on anythingbut a Victorian house makes architecture purists cringe, it didn't stop Pamela and Bill Palm from building one on their Homewood bungalow.

"I love being able to sit on my porch swing and watch everyone go by," said Pamela Palm, 30, who persuaded her husband todecorate their porch with pink, gingerbread-style accents. "I'd always wanted to live in an old farmhouse, but we decided to stayhere and make this house look more old-fashioned."

Since the Palms built their porch a year and a half ago, several more have popped up in their neighborhood.

"It's starting to look more like the kind of neighborhood youwould see in the movies," she said. "People are trying to grasponto that old, warm, homey feeling."

Many real estate developers are designing new home models withtraditional front porches.

"We've definitely noticed a dramatic resurgence of the old-fashioned front porch," said developer Jim Hughes Jr., a partner in the Wheaton-based Wiseman-Hughes Enterprises, Inc. "A lot of people want to be in a subdivision that is like an old neighborhood. The kind of place where everyone would go on their front porch and mingle with their neighbors after dinner."

The sprouting porches are actually part of a national trend that has been tracked by sociologists and architects over the past several years.

The main theory explaining the rebirth of the front porch is that "because people are living such private and internalized existences because of the car and the television, porches represent a community of people who communicate face to face," said

Up to about 40 years ago, the porch was an integral part of anyneighborhood, Cromley said. It was where neighbors got together and talked, and the point from where they watched each other's children and kept track of who came in and went out of the neighborhood.

But even though there's "a lot of nostalgia for that sense of community," Cromley said front porches in the '90s may be more symbolic than anything else.

"The porch is a gesture toward that kind of life, but people are still inside where it's air-conditioned and they're talking to people by email," she said.

But Ball State University architecture professor Tony Costello believes the rebirth of the front porch will bring isolated neighbors together, as well as bring down crime rates.

"I think we're beginning to realize that suburbia has become too isolated," he said. "I believe front porches can play a vital role in rebuilding our neighborhoods."

Choose the right adhesive for a successful project

If you've ever done any repair work around your home, chances are you've worked with adhesives. And if you're like most do-it-yourselfers, there were probably times when things didn't work out on the first try, either because you didn't prepare the surfaces properly for a particular application, or you just didn't apply the adhesive properly for optimal results.

"Surface preparation is key to projects where you'll be bonding one material to another," according to Michael Running, president of Running Remodeling, Silver Springs, Maryland, and a 1995 National Association of the Remodeling Industry (NARI) Contractor of the Year (CotY) award winner. "A dirty or greasy surface can cause even the best product to fail."

Equally important is selecting the right product for a particular bonding project, according to Robert Juran, director of marketing, Macco Adhesives, Cleveland, a leading manufacturer or adhesives, caulks and sealants. "To meet most bonding needs, we formulated project-specific Liquid Nails® products," said Juran. "Each product features unique properties that are best-suited to a particular application and to assist consumers. Liquid Nails user-friendly packaging clearly explains project-specific applications to make decisions easier and misuse less frequent."

According to Juran, consumers no longer have to search the fine print for a product's application, since the name of the product itself defines what it can be used for, such as Liquid Nails for Wood, Parquet and Plank Floors.

With the appropriate product and the following preparation and application tips from Running, you'll be assured of success when working with adhesives on these common do-it-yourself projects.

Hanging paneling

Using an adhesive to hang paneling can reduce the number of nails needed and the unsightly holes that accompany them. Liquid Nails for Paneling & Molding bonds so well that you'll find you need only a few nails to install the paneling properly, according to Juran.

Make sure all surfaces are clean, dry and structurally sound before adhesive is applied. Apply a 1/4-inch zigzag bead of adhesive to each surface that the panel will be covering. Position panels so that edges meet at stud center. Press materials firmly in place, pull away for one to three minutes, then press back into place. This allows for better and quicker adhesion.

Water can damage laminate countertops and cause edges to lift up and separate over time. To repair, Running suggests a simple application of contact cement.

All surfaces being bonded should be cleaned of any dust or loose, dried adhesives. With a brush, apply a liberal, even coat of contact cement to both surfaces being bonded. For small areas, you can apply the contact cement with a syringe which can be purchased from a hardware store or home center. You may have to use a utility knife to open the area more in order to get a better application. (For extremely porous surfaces, a second coat should be applied after the first coat has dried.) After both surfaces have dried slightly (per product labeling), clamp the countertop, using a block of wood on top and bottom to prevent damage to the laminate. Leave the blocks on for 24 hours, or longer in hot humid conditions. According to Juran, Latex Liquid Nails® Contact Cement is ideal for laminate countertops and bonds instantly.

Building a deck

Because pressure treated lumber tends to dry out, a deck's mitered corners may eventually separate. To help prevent the deck from squeaking when you walk on it _ apply adhesive to joists before nailing. This double protection allows the plank to withstand the elements longer.

Ensure that all surfaces are clean and free of excess water. Some adhesives can adhere to damp wood, but the adhesive will take longer to cure. Apply a 1/4-inch bead of adhesive to joists. If you find the bead has skinned over of started to dry, scrape off and apply a fresh bead. Pre-drill nail holes to prevent splitting of wood and nail planks at every other joist.

Home sales moved higher during April

WASHINGTON (AP) _ Sales of previously owned homes rose 0.5 percent in April, the third consecutive advance.

The growth was mixed, however, with sales up in the Northeast, flat in the West and down in the Midwest and South.

The National Association of Realtors said last week that sales totaled a seasonally adjusted annual rate of 4.22 million, up from 4.20 million in March.

The association attributed the latest gain to consumer confidence in the economy and mortgage rates that remain favorable despite recent increases.

Thirty-year, fixed-rate mortgages averaged 7.93 percent inApril, up from 7.62 percent in March but well below the 8.62 percent a year earlier.

The median price of an existing home was $116,600, up 8 percent from $108,000 in April 1995. The median means half of the homes cost more and half cost less.

The Northeast posted the only gain, a 10 percent increase to a 66,000 annual rate. Sales were unchanged in the West, at a 970,000 rate.

But they fell 2.8 percent in the Midwest, to a 1.05 million rate, and 1.3 percent in the South, to 1.54 million.
