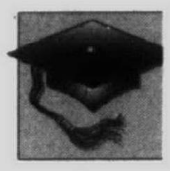
Principal suspended during probe



A Plymouth Canton schools principal has been suspended without pay by the schools' administration after the teahcers union charged that co-workers felt threatened working with him.

BY M.B. DILLON
STAFF WRITER

Larry Cole, principal at Gallimore Elementary School, has been suspended with pay pending an investigation in the wake of numerous harassment complaints from staff.

Taking his place on an interim basis is George Dodson, a retired Plymouth-Canton principal.

Plymouth-Canton Education Association President Chuck Portelli filed a grievance on the staff's behalf last May. Complaints were brought to the administration's attention before the grievance was filed.

A letter the district recently sent to parents said that "Effective this month, Mr. George Dodson will be interim Gallimore Elementary School principal.

"He is an experienced Plymouth-Canton principal, and in fact has been the Gallimore principal. You will enjoy working with him.

"Larry Cole is on a leave of absence at this time and will not be at school. All of Mr. Cole's duties and responsibilities will be accommodated by Mr. Dodson." The letter was signed by Assistant Superintendent for Instruction Patrick O'Donnell.

Neither Superintendent Chuck Little nor Assistant Superintendent for Employee Relations Errol Goldman could be reached for comment.

The PCEA filed an "association grievance," which means it affects more than three teachers, said Portelli. "It involved the whole staff, male and female. The nature of the complaint was harassment," added Portelli, who spent many hours researching the issue. Portelli's wife Rose is a Headstart/PLUS teacher at Gallimore and Hoben elementaries, and building chairperson at Gallimore.

Cole created an environment in which teachers felt threatened, employees charge in their grievance. Some of the teachers' complaints

Rescue groups watch out for Rover

BY KEVIN BROWN
STAFF WRITER

If you have a purebred dog and have to give it up, there are people who'll take it.

Dog rescue groups started springing up around the country and across Michigan beginning in the late 1980s. And there are rescue groups headquartered in the Plymouth area, including Michigan Great Dane Rescue, and Bernese Mountain Dog Rescue.

Several will be participating in the Michigan Purebred Dog Rescue Conference Oct. 6 in Ann Arbor.

Linda Reider, who heads the conference, said purebred dog owners seeking a rescue organization — to give up a dog or adopt one — can call the group's hotline at 426-6788.

For years, dog breeders often ran their own informal rescue organizations by taking in and trying to place dogs of their favored breed which were being abandoned. Organized rescue groups began to spring up breed by breed in the late 80s.

Dog handler Lorrie Carlton and her husband, veterinarian Dr. Lawrence Letsche, run two dog rescue organizations out of their Remrock Farms Veterinary Services on North Territorial Road in Salem Township. Bernese Mountain Dog Rescue supports a rare breed, which can be described as a smaller version of a bouvier with distinctive brown markings. Unlike a bouvier, it doesn't drool.

Music festival, ARTrageous return downtown

BY KEVIN BROWN
STAFF WRITER

Downtown Plymouth's last big seasonal event happens this weekend — the Plymouth Music Festival coupled with Plymouth is ARTrageous.

"I think it's become a standard in the community," said music fest promoter Mike Watts of the sixth annual event.

"A lot of people in the community like to see some contemporary entertainment. People ask me year round about the Friday night blues in the park," Watts said.

"We've also gotten very positive response on the children's programs and other entertainment we do on Saturday, and we've always had a good turnout for the taste festival," he said.

The music festival happens Friday and Saturday. ARTrageous runs Friday through Sunday.

The music, which opens at 5 p.m. Friday, is free. Blues in the Park on Friday features the Chisel Brothers with Thornetta Davis. Also appearing are Robert Noll, Baked Potato, Mimi Harris and the Snakes and Mudpuppy.

"Taste of the Town" happens from 5-9 p.m. in the Gathering. There is a charge for the taste fest.

Friday marks the opening of the third annual Plymouth is ARTrageous event. It features guest artists at downtown galleries.

"It's always exciting to show artists, especially works in progress. People don't often have a chance to see that," said Randy Lee, Plymouth Community Arts Council director.

"It's a festival feeling and it's wonderful to promote the arts and have people enjoy the weekend," she said.

This year's ARTrageous theme highlights the auto as art, and local dealerships have been invited to display their most artistic models on Penniman downtown.

Local students will also display their art works at participating galleries, in competition for a $100 prize.

On Saturday, music programs for kids open in the park at noon. The entertainment will include young Katie Cavalleri who often performs the national anthem at Red Wings and Tigers games. Other kids activities include an inflatable slide, bungy running, a roller coaster and more.

The Plymouth Country Music Festival opens at 2:30 p.m. with Debi

Swastika, ethnic slurs painted on school walls

By Valerie Olander
Staff Writer

Officials and students at Crescent Academy International in Canton Township are keeping a positive attitude, despite vandals painting ethnic slurs on the Islamic school.

"We're keeping our chins up. We know it's not the community at large. There's just some bad elements out there and we're not going to take it personally," said David Tauhidi, principal of CAI.

Last Thursday morning, school officials discovered the graffiti that included ethnic slurs and a Nazi sign. It was the second such incident at the Palmer and Lotz road school since the summer when the buses were vandalized.

This week, custodians were using lye to remove the final smudges of paint from the brick wall.

"It did leave the parents and children a little nervous about it. No one likes to see that," said Tauhidi. "The school has been here five years and we've owned the property here since 1988. There was never a hint of anything like this."

Detective Sgt. Rick Pomorski of the Canton Police Department said the vandalism doesn't appear to have any connection to a Sept. 9 incident at the Speedway gas station, 5596 Lilley.

Racial epithets, including references to the Ku Klux Klan, were scrawled on a bathroom wall at the gas station. Two black attendants could hear the scribbling of a pen on the wall as they stood outside the door.

The vandal fled on a bike. Police stopped a suspect matching the vandal's description not far from the gas station.

An arrest warrant has been issued for malicious destruction of property, but the suspect has yet to respond to the written notice, Pomorski said. Prosecutors declined to add a charge of ethnic intimidation because the threats weren't specific to an individual, Pomorski said.

There doesn't appear to be any witnesses or suspects in the Islamic school incident, although police will continue to investigate if additional information becomes available, he said.

"We are running a school here and we just want to be left alone to educate our kids," Tauhidi said.

Samuels, Forbes Brothers, Hot Walker and Storm Rider. Also performing is the Christian group "The Chapels" featuring Plymouth Police Chief Bob Scoggins.

Evening entertainment includes Lemon James who pays homage to Jim Hendricks through her music, jazz group Ino Uno and reggae band Black Market. "We've had very strong support from WYCD Young Country and Star 97-FM," Watts said, to help pay for the entertainment.

To benefit ARTrageous, "The Rocky Horror Picture Show" will be shown at 11:30 p.m. Saturday at the Penn Theater. Audiences who love the cult classic created a tradition of throwing rice and toast speaking lines at showings. Lee said people who want to bring props can only bring dry rice, plain toast, small squirt guns with water only, no super soakers. Violators will be asked to leave.

ARTrageous galleries include the Animation Station, Chameleon Gallery, Creative Framing and Gallery, Frameworks, Francis Jewelry, Gabriala's, Native West, Penniman Showcase and Wild Wings.

Other music celebration sponsors include: Johnson Controls, Budweiser, Morse Dental Group, Blackwell Ford and the Plymouth Observer.

Work on Temple Baptist in full swing

BY KEVIN BROWN
STAFF WRITER

Drivers on M-14 can't miss Temple Baptist Church's new worship center, as it rises from former farmland.

Now, the walls of the two-and-a-half-story, 2,350-seat auditorium — the main building of a future church campus — are nearly complete and work is set to begin on the interior.

While church officials had hoped to open in time for Christmas, that opening will be delayed at least a month.

"We're looking at a January to March move-in date," said Pastor Brad Powell. "The exterior is quickly moving toward completion, we're preparing to pave the parking lot, the landscaping is being worked on, everything is on schedule."

Meanwhile, the paving of Ridge Road between Powell and North Territorial "is going to be completed by the end of the month," said James Anulewicz, township public services director.

The township administration is also getting final permits from Wayne County on road improvements at North Territorial and Ridge to meet higher traffic volume. A traffic light is also to be installed at the intersection.

Plans call for sunken parking lots to be screened with trees, shrubs and flowers at the 56-acre site.

Temple Baptist, now on West Chicago just east of Telegraph in Redford, continues to conduct services at their current building which has been sold to Word of Faith Church of Detroit. "We have been in preparation, tagging every single thing — I'm surprised I don't have a tag on me," Powell said.

Founded at a site at 14th and Marquette streets in Detroit, Temple Baptist moved in 1954 to Grand River and Livernois, then moved to Redford in 1968.

The church bought 30 acres in Northville Township and had considered a move there. "When I came, people were doing logistics studies. I drove by that place and told the leadership there's no way they should build on that property," Powell said, as two other large churches were already building nearby.

"Why should there be three large lighthouses on the same hill," Powell said, adding the church could have better visibility and more impact at another location.

The site at North Territorial and Ridge offers significant visibility from M-14, he said.

The project contractor, Cristman Co., did renovation work on the state capitol building.

By working out a compromise with township officials who sought to downsize the church, the first phase of construction involves completion of the worship center. Phase two, to happen in four years, involves construction of a Christian education center. A third multi-use building will be built in a third phase, and the entire church campus will be completed in seven to 10 years, Powell said.

The worship center will include church offices and child care facilities.

While church neighbors strongly urged the township government to reject the large church development, officials determined the freedom of religion doctrine under the law would likely allow the church to prevail.

Township officials said that by getting the church to agree to phase in the development, the township would have some control.

Despite that opposition from church neighbors, Powell said that in recent months, "The community has been super."

"We've gone before a housing association, we've spoken at Kiwanis, the Jaycees invited us to participate in the Fourth of July parade and fireworks display," he said.

"We have been embraced by the community in a tremendous way. We're really excited, things are good."

The worship center will also have an 85-foot tower. The township is receiving $67,180 in building permit fees and $40,694 in water and sewer benefit charges from the development.4

Temple Baptist prompts Canton to try banning large churches

STAFF WRITER

If Temple Baptist Church decided to settle in Canton — instead of neighboring Plymouth Township — it would not be allowed under zoning ordinance amendments recommended for approval by Canton planning commissioners Monday.

The church would have to find a large commercial or industrial site along a major thoroughfare, such as Haggerty or Ford Road, planning.

The proposed amendment to the Canton Township ordinance defines a new classification of "large-scale religious institutions" as having a seating capacity of 1,500 people, parking for 500 cars and 100,000-square-feet in size.

In comparison, one of Canton's largest churches is St. John Neumann Catholic Church, which has 1,200 seats and 425 parking spots.

The 56-acre Temple Baptist site at North Territorial and Ridge roads will have a two-and-a-half story building with a 2,350-seat auditorium, an 85-foot tower and plans for future expansion over the next 10 years.

"I think there was a concern of what Plymouth Township went through when a large church came in . . . this gives us specific standards in our code," said Canton Community Planner Jeff Goulet.

Planning commission chairman Vic Gustafson said he didn't think the proposal was "unnecessarily restrictive or creates a hardship because there are not that many locations within the township for a large-scale religious institution to locate.

"I don't think Canton is a big market for large-scale religious institutions."

Commissioner Karl Zarbo said he's more concerned that a 200-seat church will outsize the neighborhood than a large-scale church locating within the township.

The amendment proposal also characterizes a large-scale church by one or more of the following features: region-serving "accessory facilities" such as junior high or high schools colleges and seminaries.

Existing churches wanting to expand would fall under the proposed amendment restrictions only if they did not show expansion phases in their original approval, Goulet said.

For example, the Hindu Temple would not have fallen under the proposed amendment since its original plans to build the facility included the future expansion. On Monday, the temple was given recommended approval by the commission to build a 5,625-square-foot auditorium and residence.

Another section of the amended ordinance would prohibit regular-sized churches from developing on unpaved roads.

"It's difficult when any religious institution comes before us. We don't want to step on any toes by saying no," said Commissioner Cathy Johnson. "We don't want to offend anyone, rather we'd have all our ducks in a row."

The planning commission has recommended approval of the amendment, which now goes before the township board for final consideration.

The amendment would be under the "Site Development Standards for Non-Residential Uses" section of the Canton Township Zoning Ordinance.

Area school to hold reunion on Nov. 29

BY M.B. DILLON
STAFF WRITER

Calling all Chargers!

If you attended or taught at St. Damian's Elementary School in Westland between 1964 and 1986 and haven't already heard, you're invited to a grade school reunion Thanksgiving weekend.

Festivities on Friday, Nov. 29 will kick off with registration at 4:30 p.m. in St. Damian's Community Room. Mass will be said at St. Damian's at 5 p.m., co-celebrated by Fr. Marc Gawronski, Fr. Richard Dorr, and Fr. Colum Morgan.

A tour of St. Damian School, 29825 Joy Road between Merriman and Middlebelt, will follow Mass.

A reception and dinner-dance is planned for 7 p.m. at Laurel Manor in Livonia. Master of ceremonies will be James Kosteva, Class of 1966. Kosteva, who served in the Michigan Legislature, is director of community relations for the University of Michigan.

"We thought this would be a really unique thing for the community," said reunion organizer Christine Jonasz-Wofford of Canton. "I don't know if there has ever been a grade school reunion. We're excited about it."

"We are looking for students who graduated, or would have graduated eighth grade from St. Damian's School, between the years of 1964-86.

"We're also looking for teachers, lay and religious, who may have taught during those years," she said.

Jonasz-Wofford said altar boys, choir members, and memorabilia are all needed.

Former Chargers willing to help are asked to call her at (313)397-3158. Jonasz-Wofford's fax number at work is (313) 595-8627.

Lisa Musico of "Reunions Made Easy" is assisting. "To receive an invitation, Reunions Made Easy" must be contacted," said Jonasz-Wofford. "Call 1-810-366-9493. Press 6 and leave a message."

"There were more than 3,000 kids at St. Damian's from 1964 - 1986," said Jonasz-Wofford. "We just received the current 'lost list' and there are several hundred names on it. It's extremely important that they call, even if former students are not planning on coming. We would still like an updated address for where they are."

Former altar boy Bruce Jonasz "will be serving Mass, and my brother is looking at four-to-six guys to help," she added.

"We're also trying to get a choir together for the Mass."

Anyone willing to help out planning the Mass also is encouraged to call. "We'd like to have a real nice candlelight Mass, and sing some old Latin songs."

A "Memory Lane" is planned for the hall. "We want people to bring in their old cheerleading outfits, uniforms, prayer books, pictures — anything they might have to be put on display."

The first batch of invitations was mailed some time ago and the RSVP's are coming in. "A lot of people are very enthusiastic about it," said Jonasz-Wofford.

PLYMOUTH - CANTON
TEACHERS don't STRIKE

- Superintendent Little and the board are taking unfair advantage of this law to attack teacher's salaries and medical benefits.
- This attack comes in spite of a projected $9 million fund equity surplus.
- Superintendent Little told two Plymouth/Canton teachers: "The board and I would be negligent if we did not use every weapon in our arsenal against teachers."

Household Hazardous Waste Drop-Off

EQ's "Fall Clean Up" allow area residents to clean out their homes and safely dispose of hazardous household products that cannot be thrown in the regular garbage. We all purchase a variety of products everyday that contain hazardous materials. Whenever you paint your house, strip your wooden furniture, or clean your kitchen, you generate a small amount of hazardous waste that could threaten the enviroment if not properly managed. That is why EQ – The Enviromental Quality Company is offering this free collection service to the community. Together, we can safely manage the hazardous waste generated in your home, so it never threatens your family, your neighbors, or the environment.

Special Notice:
The federal government recently issued a warning to consumers that metal mini-blinds manufactured overseas may be covered with paint that contains a high lead content. If you would like to replace your metal mini-blinds as a precaution, EQ will accept them during this event and safely dispose of them free of charge. This warning DOES NOT include plastic mini-blinds.

Acceptable Wastes:
- Latex or Enamel paint

Madonna celebrates 50 years of Catholic education, tradition

RENEE SKOGLUND
STAFF WRITER

Madonna University marks the start of its 50th anniversary year this fall, and blue and gold celebratory banners proclaiming "Intellectual, Spiritual and Personal Growth" are flying high across the campus.

The university will hold a homecoming weekend Sept. 27-30 which will bring alumni, faculty, students and friends together. The weekend include s president's reception, Eucharistic liturgies, Franciscan tribute, open house with guided tours, informal dance, an awards recognition buffet and will end with a golf outing and banquet at The Golden Fox, Fox Hills Country Club on Monday,k Sept. 30.

The library exhibit gallery is lined with five decades of photos and newspaper articles depicting the school's evolution from a primarily teacher-training school for women to a multi-program university that maintains a diverse profile within the community.

Sister Mary Lauriana Groszczynski, vice president for university advancement, and Sister Mary Danatha Suchyta, a former president, were among the school's earliest graduates. "We're the common thread through the ages," said Sister Danatha.

"The first class was made up mostly of sisters. We were well-disciplined," said Sister Lauriana, who recalled an academic atmosphere of "lots of music, liberal arts, and an English professor who demanded a great deal."

Madonna's roots actually go back farther than 50 years. It was founded in 1937 as the Presentation of Blessed Virgin Mary Junior College for the education of members of the Felician order. Its charter was amended in 1947 and its name changed to Madonna College. For the first time, lay women were admitted.

The school, which has a student body of 4,100, became coed in 1972. Sam Chunn III, 23, a psychology major who plans to became a priest, is one of 930 male students. He also is the chaplain of the men's soccer team, the Fighting Crusaders. "While they play, I pray," he said.

Chunn will miss Madonna when he returns to Sacred Heart Major Seminary to complete his studies after graduation. "I've enjoyed everything here, particularly my involvement with the teachers and other students. Everyone knows your first name," he said.

Madonna's personal environment has been a perfect fit for scholarship student Amy Kleusch, 20, a history major who plans a career in teaching. "I love it. I think the history program is excellent. They are very community oriented. The classes are small, and the professors know you," she boasted.

A history of preparing women for careers put Madonna ahead of its time as a liberal arts college, according to Sister Lauriana and Sister Danatha.

Referring to a founding objective, Sister Danatha said: "What was important was to give women a chance to move on in the work force. It was a time when the son was favored over the daughter. Most of the students were from blue collar backgrounds. Most of them were on scholarships."

Laura Standhardt of Birmingham, a 1967 graduate, was a member of Madonna's second nursing class. "We were an experiment. What they didn't do for the first class, they did for us," she said. "I felt I got a well-rounded education. When I got my first job at Beaumont Hospital, there wasn't anything I couldn't do. They went out of their way to compensate for being a new program."

Standhardt said that as part of making nursing students

Appliance doc featured at seniors day Saturday

Radio talk show host Joseph Gagnon, also known as the Appliance Doctor, is the featured speaker at the second Western Wayne County Senior Citizens Celebration Day next month.

State Reps. Lyn Bankes, Jim Ryan, Gerald Law and Deborah Whyman, Republican lawmakers from western Wayne County are sponsoring the Saturday, Sept. 28 celebration at Burton Manor in Livonia.

The 9 a.m. to 1:30 p.m. event features a consumer and health fair, continental breakfast, lunch, entertainment, gifts, raffle and informal discussions with several elected officials. Registration is $1.

Gagnon gives advice on home appliances during his weekly call-in show on WJR-Radio. He also is a business owner and consumer advocate who successfully lobbied the state to outlaw plastic and vinyl-covered clothes dryer vents. Lint build-up in plastic tubing is responsible for starting fires in more than 13,000 homes nationally each year.

He also initiated legislation concerning truth-in-advertising in the yellow pages.

Gagnon is fighting for more legislation in Michigan to protect home-appliance consumers. He is on call at the Detroit Consumer Affairs office as an appliance fraud investigator.

"If you've ever been in need of home appliance repair, you'll truly appreciate Joe Gagnon's words of wisdom," Ryan said.

For information on the celebration day, call Mary Carter at (313) 421-4513 or Mo Herstek at (517) 373-4698.

"They're very gorgeous, a very faithful dog," Carlton said. "They originally carried milk wagons up mountains for farmers in the Swiss Alps. It's a good general farm dog. You can leave fences open and it will stay around, with some training."

They've only rescued two of these dogs in three years, which attests to the rareness of the breed. Yet for the other breed for which they head a rescue group — the Bichon Frise which is a larger-size poodle — they get about 20 calls per year.

Of rescue groups, Carlton said, "There's such a need for it today. People won't take the time to do what's necessary to train a dog, and they finally say OK, let's get rid of it."

After getting a dog, Carlton said, "I keep it three weeks to a month before I even think about giving it up. Rescue dogs are often neglected, their habits need to be changed. There's a lot of work to be done."

Carlton said people will sometimes seek to get a purebred dog through a rescue group, thinking it will be cheaper than getting one from a breeder. That can be true, but Carlton sells Bichon Frises for $750, and Bernese Mountain Dog puppies for $1,000 each.

At Sandra Boutin's house off Gotfredson Road, her Great Danes Jasmine and Lou nudge a visitor. She shows photos of the healthy pair, which reveal they were once emaciated before their rescue from a home in Detroit by the Michigan Anti-Cruelty Society.

Boutin's family had Great Danes ever since she was 6 months old. "They're very loyal and protective and sweet," she said, of the breed which can reach up to 170 pounds or more. "They're good with kids."

She's been running the Great Dane rescue group since February, and has placed 20 dogs since then. Boutin said people should consider a Great Dane "if they want a good loyal dog, a loving, fun, big dog."

Cost to adopt is $125. Known as the largest breed, Boutin said Great Danes need two cups of dry dog food twice a day. She said a lot of space "isn't necessary, as long as they're exercised every day. They love to be with people."

For information on Great Dane rescue call her at 454-3683. Bernese Mountain Dog Rescue and Bichon Frise rescue can be reached at 665-0731.

were sexual in nature. Cole announced at his first meeting with staff and the PTO that he'd had a vasectomy, according to those in attendance.

Reached at his home in Ann Arbor Tuesday, Cole said, "I cannot comment, and if you don't mind, I'd like to get off the phone." Cole came to the district in 1992 from the Carman-Ainsworth Community Schools near Flint, where he was an assistant principal.

The grievance hearing has not yet occurred.

Portelli, along with West Middle School teacher Mike Chiumento, has spoken at school board meetings in the past regarding the district's harassment policy, requesting that administrators be treated the same as employees.

"We want all employees to be treated fairly and equally," said Portelli.

In the past, employees accused of wrongdoing have been suspended immediately, with an investigation following.

Asked when the Cole investigation will be complete, Judy Evola, the district's director of community relations, couldn't say. "It is ongoing. He is temporarily out on leave. It is a paid leave pending an investigation."

The district is in the process of revising its harassment policy.

"There have been two versions of it, and there's a third version. But nothing has been given to employees," said Portelli. "At one meeting, I asked (Superintendent) Chuck (Little) if they would give an in-service to educate people. He was in agreement, but I don't know what's going to be done about it. Nothing has been given to employees."

"We want the policy to be consistent," said Portelli. "We want all employees to be treated the same."

CHARTER TOWNSHIP OF CANTON BOARD PROCEEDINGS
SEPTEMBER 17, 1996

A regular meeting of the Board of Trustees of the Charter Township of Canton was held on Tuesday, September 17, 1996 at 1150 South Canton Center Road. Supervisor Yack called the meeting to order at 7:00 P.M.

ROLL CALL:
Members Present: Bennett, Burdziak, Kirchgatter, LaJoy, McLaughlin, Shefferly and Yack

STAFF PRESENT: Machnik, Goulet

ITEM 1 SPECIAL LAND USE REVIEW PROCEDURES

A summary of the current Zoning Ordinance was discussed. Currently, the Zoning Ordinance requires that special land use approval be reviewed in conjunction with a complete site development plan. Discussion occurred suggesting a separation of the site plan and special land use approvals.

Trustee McLaughlin asked Jeff Goulet, Community Planner, whether going through with the special land use approval were possible and then to add a contingency for the special land use tied to site plan. Ms. McLaughlin felt the need for two distinct processes for site development plan and special land use approvals. She felt that specific issues such as moving of trees becomes the focus rather than site plan issues. Ms. McLaughlin pointed out that zoning issues are handled separately and that special land uses could be handled similarly. Mr. Goulet explained that State Statue requires a preliminary site plan.

Mr. Goulet said that it would be a possibility to set a time limit for site approval tied to the special land use. If the site plan is not approved then the special land use is null. He stated that the problem with the current procedure is that the focus is directed on the wrong issues. He used the gas station as an example of when the focus was on site plan issues and not on the special land use. Mr. Goulet said that administratively two motions and analysis could be presented. He felt that the Planning Commission would rather see the separation of site plan and special land use. Mr. Goulet suggested that changing the staff analysis to include two separate motions would clarify the focus for the Board and for the Planning Commission.

Clerk Bennett felt that in separating the two processes, the constituency as well as the Planning Commission, would benefit from a focused attention on either site plan or special land use issues. She felt that it's residents would have a better chance of influencing the process at the appropriate times. Ms. Bennett said that the separation of issues might afford the project sponsors an extra opportunity to supplicate their case to the residents.

Director Machnik commented on the fact that special land uses are typically small in number. He said that they were not designed to be a regular issue. Mr. Machnik stated that the unusual uses that may occur are usually difficult and tough land uses.

Trustee Shefferly initiated discussion concerning the granting of special land uses as a policy. He entertained the idea of eliminating special land uses all together.

The Board discussed and considered how other communities handle special land uses in various zones. The Board considered the reasons for granting special land use and whether special land use is necessary. Also discussed were landscape buffers design questions in site plan, and in special land use approval. It was recommended by the Board that staff proceed with the preparation of changes in the procedure for special land use and site plan approval.

ITEM 2 TAX ABATEMENT CRITERIA

General discussion from a previous Board Study Session regarding tax abatements. Staff had evaluated the present criteria and had developed an alternate scale for discussion. Jeff Goulet summarized that existing scale is based on 58 points maximum. In this scale, applicants can qualify for the full 12 years if they score 40 or more points with the current criteria. He said that the proposed amendments to the criteria expand the scale to 100 points and reweighs the criteria, making it more difficult to achieve the full 12-year abatement while maintaining fairness for the smaller business. Mr. Goulet presented a comparison on the impacts of the new scale using four of the most recent tax abatement applications.

The Board discussed the pros and cons of the current and proposed criteria. It was noted that the State has ultimate authority over tax abatements. Tax abatements only qualify to manufacturing facilities not commercial facilities. Some applications for facilities exemptions are turned down by the Township and later the State will grant the tax abatement, and some applications approved by the Township maybe turned down at the State level. Mr. Goulet stated that many jurisdictions do not give tax abatements. However, he commented that Canton was in a position where tax abatement serve some benefits to the community by holding on to property.

In response to questions regarding the abatement agreement to contribute to local non profit organizations, Mr. Goulet suggested that a monitoring letter be sent at the beginning of each year requesting proof of contributions.

Marc Susselman, 43834 Brandywyne addressed the Board on the issues of tax abatements. He expressed his concern over the tax load of the residents to pick up the police and fire service portion of taxes. As for creating new jobs, he felt that the jobs should go to Canton residents, because these wages would be spent in Canton. He spoke about the tax abatement granted to K & Y Screw Machine. He felt it was realistic to assume that these newly created jobs are displaced or transferred workers who go back to their specific communities to spend their money. He had concerns over manufacturing companies because of the pollution that goes along with the manufacturing of products.

Mr. Goulet pointed out that the Township criteria are different from the criteria used by the State to grant tax abatement.

Supervisor Yack explained that the benefit to the manufacturer is that they save 50% on taxes. The benefit to the community is that the land is developed and the State Equalized Value is increased. Therefore, the taxes collected are greater than if the land were left undeveloped. The taxes collected after the tax abatement has expired are significant.

Trustee McLaughlin suggested that competition to get manufacturers to locate in Canton, demanded the tax abatement incentive. Incentives to both the community and to the manufacturer were further discussed. Consideration involving the pay scale of the newly created jobs was discussed and whether to include this in the criteria scale.

Supervisor Yack suggested formulating some criteria involving how much office space versus how much warehouse space a facility used. He felt that the value to the community, concerning higher levels of jobs and job creation, was greater if a plan included more office space. Mr. Yack asked Mr. Goulet to consider a way of rewarding an application for incorporating more office space as opposed to more warehouse space.

The above is a synopsis of actions taken at the Regular Board meeting held on September 17, 1996. The full text of the approved minutes will be available following the next regular meeting of the Board on September 24, 1996.

Supervisor Yack adjourned the meeting at 9:30 P.M.

aware of the spiritual needs of their patients, the sisters presented controversial topics. "We had discussions on euthanasia and the humane and moral approach to suffering."

Throughout the years, Madonna has remained true to its Catholic and Franciscan mission and requires students to take six credit hours in religious studies. Courses like Comparative Religions are ecumenical in scope.

Fourteen percent of Madonna students are foreign, representing 14 countries. Madonna's Center for International Studies has made it possible for students like Martha Rios, 29, a new citizen originally from Columbia, to realize her dream of becoming a teacher.

Financial aid and various awards fund much of her education. "It's nice to see the hand of God in a place where you get your higher education," said Rios. "Madonna is like home, 1,000 miles away."

Madonna continues to forge ahead with new programs, new ways of reaching into the community. They have conducted classes at Ameritech in Southfield and have established distance learning sites as far north as Gaylord. They have allowed returning adult students, who now make up most of the student body, to present portfolios of their work for credit.

"We are grateful to all those who have supported our 50 years of existence," said Sister Mary Francilene, president.

Sister Lauriana and Sister Danatha are proud of Madonna's heritage.

"We move with the times, with the necessities of the student," said Sister Lauriana.

We love to brag," said Sister Danatha.

Business group applauds state proficiency test

BY TIM RICHARD
STAFF WRITER

The jury will be out – maybe five years – on the question of whether employers and colleges pay attention to new, state-endorsed high school diplomas.

"It'll be at least five years before there will be any impact," predicted Art Ellis, state superintendent of public instruction, when the State Board of Education met Sept. 18.

One purpose of the Michigan High School Proficiency Tests was to give grads who got "proficient" results a special stamp on the diploma or transcript. It is supposed to tell corporate personnel departments and college admissions officers that the bearer had passed state tests.

So far, many high school principals and K-12 superintendents say no one is paying attention.

Ellis said it's too early to tell.

And a business group applauded the Michigan Department of Education for establishing "a rigorous test with a reasonable standard of expectation."

That group is the Michigan Business Leaders for Educational Excellence (MBLEE). Its members include the Big 3 automakers, Dow Chemical, Kmart, Mead Paper, Pharmacia & Upjohn, Comerica Bank, Whirlpool, Michigan Chamber of Commerce and the University of Michigan. They employ 500,000 of the state's 4.4 million workers.

"For years we assumed that any child completing 13 years of schooling would be equipped with these skills (math, science, reading and writing)," said Jim Sandy, MBLEE executive director. "Unfortunately, we were wrong, but these tests and the endorsed diploma will send the message that these skills are necessary and important."

Statewide test results were released Sept. 13 in Lansing. Ellis said he encouraged local school districts to call local news conferences to release their results.

There was much dismay and hand-wringing at some of the results, particularly at the 93,000 11th graders performances (in percentages):

- Math – 47.7 "proficient", 38 "novice," 14.3 below.
- Science – 32 "proficient," 52.2 "novice," 15.8 below.
- Reading – 40.2 "proficient," 51.3 "novice," 8.5 below.
- Writing – 34.4 "proficient," 53.1 "novice," 12.5 below.

■ 'For years we assumed that any child completing 13 years of schooling would be equipped with these skills (math, science, reading and writing). Unfortunately, we were wrong, but these tests and the endorsed diploma will send the message that these skills are necessary and important.'

Jim Sandy
MBLEE executive director

But State Board members had other complaints: Students and parents weren't being told their test scores, and so they were unable to decide how to brush up for "makeup" tests in October.

"The individual student doesn't know how he or she did. Can we correct that?" asked board member Dorothy Beardmore, R-Rochester.

"My daughter took the tests," said board member Sharon Wise, R-Owosso, "and hasn't had the results. She doesn't know what to study for a re-take. I wonder if we're giving students the tools, or we're dooming them to perpetual failure."

"It surprised me. The schools have them," replied Anne Hansen, a member of Ellis' staff.

Two members said the public — such as MBLEE — put too much emphasis on how many students achieved proficiency on the new tests, administered last March.

"I'm concerned about the perception of failure. It's not a pass-fail system," said Louis Legg, R-Battle Creek, newly appointed board member.

Gary Wolfram, R-Hillsdale, agreed. "On the SAT (Scholastic Aptitude Test for college admission), no one comes in and say, 'my kid flunked.' It's a continuum."

Wolfram said it's possible only one point or two on the exam made the difference in deciding whether huge numbers of students were "proficient" or not.

Kathleen Tabor, a Bath School District parent, warned against pessimism in interpreting test results. "A very small percentage did not do well," she said. "The onus is on business and higher education to ask for it (endorsed diplomas)."

Two board members fretted at the low scores in inner city schools.

"Districts still blame low minority students' scores on low socioeconomic status. We need to look at financing," said Barbara Roberts Mason, D-Lansing.

"The feeling builds up," said board vice president Marilyn Lundy, R-Detroit, "that it's not 'cool' to learn, it's not 'cool' to be smart. I think you'll see a big difference next year."

Ellis praised the State Board for setting high "cut" standards on the tests. "The board showed true leadership," he said.

"The criteria for proficient performance reflects high expectations for what students should know and be able to do by the end of the 10th grade. The criteria for novice performance reflects a lesser expectation, but one that is still rigorous."

Tests are administered in the fifth, eighth and 11th grades to public school students. Non-public schools may request the materials at state expense.

Rain forces Plymouth Canton Marching Band inside

BY DIANE HANSON
SPECIAL WRITER

Mother Nature did it again. Near the end of the Flight IV performances at the Clarkston Invitational Marching Band Competition at Clarkston High School Saturday, the heavens let loose with a torrential downpour and electrical fireworks sent spectators and performers alike dashing for the safe, dry confines of the gym.

"We were really ready to go out and perform," said Plymouth-Canton band director, David McGrath of his students.

He said they were disappointed at having to perform a standstill show for the second week in a row (last week was an outdoor standstill at Lakeland High School in White Lake, again due to heavy rains and unsafe field conditions.)

"The weather really cooperated all week and we really had a great week of rehearsals," said McGrath. "The kids were really excited to come and perform this show out on the field and it was very disappointing when it started raining just before we went into warmup."

Associate band director, Pat Ruddy, pepped the band members up by telling them, "I don't know what the problem was. We were on fire. We could have dried the field up!"

The 200-member band and color guard kept that fire burning when they packed the gym floor and let loose with their rendition of "The Road to Oz," a delightful and jazzy combination of music from "The Wiz" and "The Wizard of Oz." The body vibrating sounds brought the audience to their feet.

"We felt like we did a really good job," said junior trombonist, Jesse Williams. "I thought we had a very focused performance. I was very happy with how we did."

Apparently, so were the judges. For the second week in a row, Plymouth-Canton captured first place for Flight I and highest overall score of the 14 competing bands with 49.75 points out of a possible 60. The lower scores were due to the inability to judge marching and maneuvering and color guard during a standstill performance. No caption awards were given.

Other Flight I scores were: Milford, 45.75; Troy Athens, 40.7; Saginaw Heritage, 38.4; Livonia Franklin, 37.25; Davison, 37.1; Wayne Memorial, 27.55; and Grand Blanc, 25.75.

Of the band's musical performance, McGrath said, "They sounded wonderful." McGrath pointed out that it is more difficult to make everything work when playing in a gym because it is like an echo chamber with considerable reverberation. He said the band members really must watch the field commanders and not rely on their own ears for the tempo.

Williams agreed. "You can't really listen because the sound bounces off the wall," he said. "You really have to watch. It's hard to stay in tempo and it's hard to concentrate. It's challenging."

Although the color guard was not judged, they were able to perform some of their lively routine. "We were happy to be able to perform," said senior color guard member, Valara Keesey. She said they were able to adjust to the space allotted but are anxious to perform on the field. "I think it's going to be a really good year," she said. "I'm real excited."

Youth home contract prompts questions

■ WAYNE COUNTY COMMISSION

Wayne County Commissioners expressed their frustration at not having their questions answered last Thursday.

An amendment to an architectural contract for the new juvenile detention facility was sent back to committee when commissioners complained that no one from the county executive's attended their meeting to answer questions.

The amendment, in the amount of $450,000 with BEI Associates of Detroit, provides for changes to the design of the new juvenile detention facility and provides for additional architectural and engineering services.

But when commissioners questioned whether this would increase the cost of the project, no one could answer the question. A motion to table was then made and defeated. Commissioners then approved sending it back to a joint committee meeting of the Committee on Roads, Airports and Public Services and the Committee on Health and Human Services to be held this week.

Local Commissioner Michelle Plawecki, D-Dearborn Heights, who chairs the roads, airports and public services committee, said she would guess this will put construction behind. "But no one is here in the audience to answer questions," she said. Plawecki also represents Redford Township and Livonia east of Middlebelt.

The building of the new youth home began in Detroit this year, but only after years of debate about whether a tax approved in 1988 should have been used to build the facility. A bond sale to fund the project was approved last fall.

Airport audit

Commissioners Thursday approved hiring two auditors to audit the county's Detroit Metropolitan Airport in Romulus, but spent some time debating the funding of the positions.

The positions will cost $10,400 for the month until the budget year ends. Then the positions, which would cost $128,000 annually, would need to be budgeted in the next fiscal year. Commissioners discussed whether the money would come from the airport budget, the general fund or the commission budget.

Commissioner Thaddeus McCotter, R-Livonia, said he expects to have $10,000 left over in his office budget and wants the money to go toward paying for the auditors.

The commission's fiscal adviser said the surplus usually goes to fund the commission's project list.

"Do we have a project list? I'm curious to see where the money from my budget will go," McCotter said. "I'd like to see it go to funding auditors at the airport."

Commission counsel Ben Washburn said the commission may want to look at changing the rules to earmark surpluses.

"It's important to have auditors out there with all the work going on," Vice Chair Kay Beard, D-Westland, said.

Plans were announced earlier this year to build a new terminal at Metro Airport, among other expansion plans.

Bridge work

A $422,620 contract for work on a bridge for golfers to use to cross the Rouge River at the under-construction Inkster Valley Golf Course was approved Thursday.

Wayne County commissioners questioned why the contract wasn't part of the original construction plan for the golf course, which was approved earlier this year.

"We did indicate that these three parts would be forthcoming," County Parks Director Hurley Coleman told commissioners. The next contracts will be for a pro shop and grill, he said.

The county didn't have a final cost for the bridge because it had to work with agencies such as the Department of Environmental Quality to come up with a plan for it, Coleman said.

"We didn't have it engineered," he said. But it was included in the projections for the cost of the course, he said.

"This causeway is a vital part. It is the only access across the river for players," he said. O'Laughlin Construction Co of Brighton was awarded the contract to rehabilitate the bridge, which was built in 1931 as part of the Eloise Hospital complex.

The course is expected to cost about $5.2 million, he said, with other parts of the project bringing the cost of $7.5 million, Coleman said.

The funds for the bridge are being borrowed from the general fund and will be repaid plus interest with greens fees, he said.

Construction is on schedule, with completion expected in fall of 1997, he said.

The 18-hole course will be located near Michigan Avenue from Merriman Road in Westland across Middlebelt and into Inkster.

Local commissioners Thaddeus McCotter, R-Livonia, and Bruce Patterson, R-Canton Township, voted no on the bridge contract.

McCotter said he can't support building a golf course, when other things such as roads should be a priority. Also, golf cart bridges cost a maximum of $5,000, he said.

City to hand out Mut Mitts to public

If you forget a plastic bag the next time Rover squats in a city park, no problem.

Just reach for a Mutt Mitt.

The city department of municipal services announced last week that five dispensers of the plastic bags have been placed in city parks.

"Over the years, the city has received complaints regarding people who walk their dogs, but do not have a way to clean up after the dog," said Paul Sincock, municipal services director.

Sincock got the idea for Mutt Mitts in northern Michigan.

"I saw them in used in Traverse City, Petoskey and some other communities. We felt that we should run a test project here in Plymouth," he said.

"They're kept in white metal boxes at the park. It's a little plastic bag they can use to pick up after their dog," he said.

After picking up the mess, one folds the bag over, ties it up and a messy situation has been handled.

The dispensers have been placed at Hough Park at Evergreen and Maple, Rotary Park at Herald and Wing, and Jaycee Park at Harding and Wing.

Other locations are Kellogg Park downtown and Kiwanis Park at Auburn and Junction.

If the test period is successful, more dispensers will be bought and placed at other city parks.

"Residents are still responsible to have a primary way to clean up after their dog, especially when walking the dog," Sincock said.

"Mutt Mitts are a supplement to the clean up process."

Story time for kids starts Oct. 5

Peggy Heiney, a retired elementary school teacher from Bird School, has volunteered to conduct story times for children.

Story times are open to children in kindergarten or first grade.

The programs run once a month on the first Saturday, starting Oct. 5.

Heiney will conduct the story time at the Plymouth District Library at 10 a.m.

Sessions will be 45 minutes long, and no registration is required.

Program dates are: Saturday, Oct. 5, Nov. 2, Dec. 7, Jan. 4, Feb. 1, March 1, and April 5.

House OKs bill to curb phone fraud

The state House of Representatives approved 100-0 a bill by Rep. James Ryan, R-Redford, to protect customers from telephone fraud.

House Bill 5983 amends the Consumer Protection Act to outlaw the use of pay-for-call telephone numbers for claiming a prize. It also prohibits the use of electronic fund transfers to those offering a prize. The bill goes to the Senate.

One-third of the victims of this type of fraud are senior citizens, said Ryan, adding, "If something sounds too good to be true, it usually is."

Senate passes

The state Senate has approved a bill by Sen. Loren Bennett, R-Canton, to protect public officials and law enforcement officers who have been the target of false property liens.

His Senate Bill 828 is aimed at anti-government groups who file lien's against officials' homes to intimidate or harass them. The dissidents currently are able to file a lien without providing "a full and fair accounting of the facts" and "proof of service," then use the lien property as collateral to write bad checks.

The Senate also has passed SB 443, sponsored by Mike Bouchard, R-Birmingham, to make emergency medical personnel immune from civil liability in certain circumstances.

Bouchard said it would promote volunteerism among emergency medical personnel in response to such groups as the Michigan Special Olympics. The bill extends the Good Samaritan Act, which already grants civil immunity to doctors and nurses who provide emergency medical care.

Both bills go the House.

Committees act

■ Police will be able to retain DNA (genetic) profiles of violent criminals permanently under a six-bill package, sponsored in part by Rep. Gerald Law, R-Plymouth. The House Judiciary Committee reported out the package Sept. 18.

The lead measure, House Bill 5912, lengthens the list of crimes in which DNA records of convicted offenders must be retained to first- and second-degree murder, attempted murder, kidnapping and attempted kidnapping.

HB 5913 would require the state Corrections Department to collect blood and saliva samples form convicts in such cases. Convicts couldn't be paroled or discharged without giving the samples.

HB 5783 orders juvenile offenders to provide the state police with DNA samples.

■Rep. Lyn Bankes, R-Redford, was sponsor of a an Appliance Repair Act, House Bill 5833, that cleared the House Committee on Regulatory Affairs Sept. 18.

It requires that the consumer approve in writing all estimates of needed work after an explanation, impose a 30-day minimum warranty on labor on an appliance, and require appliance service dealers to provide warranties on parts consistent with the manufacturer's warranty. Used parts installed during a repair will have to be shown to the consumer and documented in writing.

Penalties: Violators may have to pay attorney fees and up to double the amount of damages.

■ Rep. John Jamian, R-Bloomfield Township, chaired the House Health Policy Committee which reported out a bill aimed at the "date rape" drug, flunitrazepam. The drug would become a Schedule I controlled substance. Marketed as Rohypnol, the tranquilizer is seven to 20 times stronger than Valium.

"This has become the weapon of choice for rapists," said Rep. Eric Bush, R-Battle Creek, sponsor of House Bill 6067. Perpetrators knock out their unsuspecting victims by dropping an odorless, tasteless and colorless tablet into a drink. The drug causes short-term memory loss, so the victim may have no recollection of the attack.

Simple possession carries a maximum five-year prison sentence and $4,000 fine. Manufacturing can result in a 15-year sentence and $20,000 fine.

All the bills are on this week's House calendar, though with no guarantee any will be passed.

Introduced

Sen. Willis Bullard Jr., R-Milford, is sponsor of a bill to reduce the state personal income tax by 0.1 percent a year for five years – from the current 4.4 to 3.9 percent.

Bullard said the proposal may include tying the income tax reduction rate to the fuel tax issue. "If a gas tax increase becomes instituted, as we've heard much talk about, I believe the least we can do is return a little bit of that in the form of an income tax cut," said the freshman senator, who won a vacant seat at midyear.

A.G bashes

Attorney General Frank Kelley wants the Michigan Public Service Commission to order Ameritech to provide information supporting the telephone company's proposed 12 percent rate increase.

"It is ludicrous that a regulated telephone company refuses to provide my office the materials supporting its requested rate increase. The public deserves the right to know what the reasons are for this increased cost," said Kelley.

Under its Aug. 9 request, Ameritech Michigan proposed to increase all rates between 15 cents and $1.25 a month except in Detroit, Royal Oak and Southfield.

Kelley said Ameritech may be trying to position itself in anticipation of future competition. Most of the license issued to provide basic local exchange service in competition with Ameritech have been in the metro Detroit service area.

Schoolcraft will host college night Oct. 2

More than 70 colleges and universities will be at Schoolcraft College Wednesday, Oct. 2 for the annual College Night Program.

All area high school students, their families and the community are invited to attend. The program begins at 6:45 p.m. and continues through 8:50 p.m. A College Fair will be held in the Physical Education Building and some schools will offer individual presentations in other classrooms on campus.

Individual sessions will be repeated three times — at 6:45 p.m., 7:30 p.m. and 8:15 p.m.

Participating schools include: Michigan State University, George Washington University, Eastern Michigan University, Ohio State University, Adrian College, Notre Dame, the University of Michigan, Amherst College, Schoolcraft College and Purdue University.

School representatives will be on hand to answer questions and disseminate information and materials about admission requirements, costs and programs.

For more information, call the Schoolcraft Office of admission at (313) 462-4426. Schoolcraft is at 18600 Haggerty, between Six and Seven Mile roads, just west of I-275.

Those attending the first session are advised to arrive no later than 6:30 p.m.

Festival flap

Art in Park needs fixing

Community events cut both ways. They create an identity, but at the same time, create some inconveniences for residents and businesses.

Plymouth has its fair share of events and festivals in and around downtown that spark complaints that range from loud music from the public to cries of unfair competition from local merchants. Those complaints should be taken seriously.

However, they should be kept in perspective. The main idea to keep in mind when considering complaints is that human activity in and around a downtown area is what keeps businesses and a community alive.

Many people are attracted to live in Plymouth because they can walk from their homes to the downtown area for shopping and entertainment. Those residents support the local merchants.

Merchants need to remember they are part of a community in which there are complex relationships between residents, the city and other businesses.

Each feeds off the other. Without an art gallery, there's no need for a coffee shop or a restaurant.

That means businesses and residents need to recognize those complex relationships and see how they fit into the overall picture of Plymouth. By seeing those relationships, they will hopefully become more tolerant of the interests of others.

A recent survey of businesses pointed out the following complaints:

- The booths set up during the Art in the Park show during the summer kept people from visiting the shops.
- Regular customers are kept out of town by festivals and events.
- One merchant bluntly said: If they're looking to hold a festival some place, try a big parking lot someplace.

The merchants make a good point with Art in the Park. The booths that spread along Main Street and Penniman this past summer did obscure the front entrances to many businesses.

Also, there were many street vendors who were selling items that were in direct competition with the nearby stores. Better care should be take when selecting those who wish to sell their wares at Art in the Park.But while Art in the Park needs some fixing, there are other events that directly benefit businesses. This coming weekend is a good example.

ARTrageous and the Plymouth Music Celebration are set for Friday through Sunday in and around downtown Plymouth. The events feature a walk of 11 art galleries and music in Kellogg Park.

The business survey points out the need to fine tune community events. But it also shows there's a need for more understanding of the needs of others in the Plymouth community.

ROAD WORK

State must raise road money

Perhaps the Great Pumpkin will arise from the patch on Halloween, repave our Wayne County and local roads, and not charge us a dime in taxes.

Or perhaps Santa Claus will give us good roads for Christmas. Or the Easter bunny. Or the Tooth Fairy.

Or perhaps the magic wand of a technology guru will pass over these suburbs and computers will fix the roads.

But don't bet on it.

Some new revenue will have to be raised by the Michigan Legislature and the governor, who should have done so eight years ago.

Gov. John Engler put Pat Nowak in charge of the state Department of Transportation to squeeze all he could out of existing revenues. Nowak squeezed, contracted the work on highway comfort stations and other efficiencies, but couldn't squeeze enough to avoid a tax increase.

There is no need to list the interstate, state, county and local roads that are in bad shape; no need to point out how far Wayne County drags behind Oakland in installing smarter traffic signals to move the flow.

Instead, we hope that the common sense will tell the Legislature to raise the money before it adjourns Dec. 30, or that courage will prompt our lawmakers to do it before the Nov. 5 election.

Several principles should guide them.

First, lawmakers should remember the governor's boast that Michigan has cut taxes 21 times.

Second, the burden will have to fall on the gasoline and diesel fuel tax, currently 15 cents a gallon and dedicated to transportation. If lawmakers had had the sense to raise those taxes a penny a year beginning in 1988, we wouldn't have the bone-jarring mess we're putting up with.

Third, truckers will have to pay their shares. The 6-cents diesel discount for commercial trucks must go. Consumers of diesel fuel should pay the same rate as everyone else.

As for Michigan's truck weight limits — the highest in the nation in allowing 11-axle behemoths — only the truckers and the politicians who benefit from their political action committees believe their tall tale that they're not pounding the daylights out of our roads.

Fourth, the state can't have all the fuel tax increase. It must continue to be split between MDOT, the counties and the municipalities.

Fifth, the 1951 formula allocating transportation funds between counties needs to be revisited. Many rural roads are like velvet while urban and suburban roads look like a Bosnian battle zone. Given the way outstate lawmakers are raiding the treasury for cultural funds, however, we have little hope for a formula change. But our urban and suburban lawmakers must try, at least, to make the outstaters feel guilty.

Sixth, lawmakers in both Lansing and Washington have departed from the principle that road-oriented taxes should be dedicated to transportation. The state sales tax, which mainly pays for schools, is applied to motor fuel. Congress last year slapped on a 4-cent gasoline tax whose revenues fuel the general fund, not roads. Both are wrong. In time, both should be corrected.

Our state legislators have great ingenuity when it comes to dreaming up new kinds of crimes, new forms of prosecution, new kinds of punishment. Let them apply that ingenuity — plus a dose of courage — to putting up new revenue for roads.

Festival violence

In spite of Saturday's rainfall, Plymouth's 41st annual Fall Festival was a great success. I couldn't help but notice, however, that on opposite sides of Kellogg Park were two activities, the messages of which conflicted.

On one side, in and around The Gathering, was the Rotary Club's chicken dinner.

Their effort was being carried out with true enthusiasm and community spirit.

Not only was the food and service outstanding, but tucked in each chicken dinner sold were several pamphlets.

One, in particular, caught my eye. Entitled "Turn off the Violence – You Can Make a Difference."

The pamphlet points out the all-too-prevalent violence in our society.

This Rotary-sponsored program seeks to "encourage non-violence in entertainment choices and real life behavior."

After reading the pamphlet and devouring my dinner, I walked to the other side of the park with my family.

The irony was like a slap in the face.

There, for the festival-goers' entertainment, were at least two forms of violence.

Sure, the sumo wrestlers looked funny, but as I watched I heard the man coordinating the spectacle say "ready, set, fight."

Then there was the gladiator-style jousting which, incidentally, the American armed forces uses to train their troops for hand-to-hand combat.

Such things may look innocuous and may have their place, but is it alongside community-based charitable groups seeking to make the world a little better?

Maybe the coordinators of the 42nd Fall Festival will show groups such as the Rotary a little more respect when they schedule the entertainment next year.

Negative campaign

We are following with interest the campaign of Joe Fitzsimmons and Lynn Rivers. Rivers is establishing herself as negative campaigner, just as she has done in the past. We have all heard her story many times of early pregnancy, struggle for survival, ordinary person, UAW — members husband, hard life, night school for a law degree, struggle, etc., etc. Isn't this better material for a soap opera than for candidacy for Congress?

Many of us have met adversity in our lives, and risen above it. This may have been character building, but has it been her only pep course to serve in the Congress?

Rivers' main thrust seems to be about the difficulties for her life. We fail to see how this alone has qualified her to serve in Congress. Recently, she criticized her opponent because he had been successful in business. Is that a handicap for a person seeking a seat in Congress? Fitzsimmons has also risen above adversity, but this is not his only qualification for the job.

If Rivers has any genuine ideas, we would like to hear them. Each time that she speaks, it comes across as whining. Come on Lynn, this campaign is not about membership in the Welfare Society. You are opposing a man of proven ability and worth. Do you think you can match his qualifications? We don't think so.

Ear plugs?

What a shame that Jack Wilcox does not like music. Does he realize how long Plymouth stood for his unkempt house?

Why should thousands of people go without entertainment when it benefits so many residents and also shop owners.

If Mr. Wilcox does not like the sound of music and so many enjoying themselves, maybe he should invest in a good pair of ear plugs.

POINTS OF VIEW

GOP puts Rivers on November hit list

Sometimes I fear that television, the "idiot box," has reduced us to a nation of presidential personality watchers.

We ignore the U.S. Congress at our peril. And most folks do ignore our 100 senators and 435 representatives. Many supposedly literate registered voters don't know which congressional district they live in.

Voters not only will elect 435 U.S. representatives this year, but they also will decide which party controls the House. It makes a difference, you know. And Michigan has several marginal districts that will decide the balance of power.

The Hill, a Capitol-watchers' paper, headlined that "Dems take aim at 10 vulnerable GOPers. . ."

No. 1 Democratic target in the nation is Dick Chrysler, a first-term congressman from Brighton. "If Chrysler falls to challenger Debbie Stabenow (D), as many expect, Democrats will be deeply indebted to the AFL-CIO. Nowhere in the nation has labor's $35 million campaign against Republicans been more conspicuous. . . Chrysler won with only 52 percent in 1994 in a district that voted for (President) Clinton by a wide margin in 1992. . . At the very least, the race will force Chrysler to again spend heavy amounts of his own money."

The Hill says No. 4 on the GOP's national "hit list" is Lynn Rivers, D-Ann Arbor, also a first-termer whose district includes Northville, Plymouth and part of Livonia. The challenger: "Retired businessman Joe Fitzsimmons is somewhat of an anomaly among Midwestern Republican candidates: He's socially moderate and pro-choice. His millions should help defray the costs of his campaign. But they may not so easily win over the mostly blue-collar, liberal district."

Conventional wisdom is that to win the GOP primary, one must be pro-life, but to win the general election, one must be pro-choice. Well, Fitzsimmons somehow got the nomination. It's a race.

TIM RICHARD

No. 10 Republican target is veteran House Democratic whip David Bonior of Mount Clemens. Says The Hill: "Former state party chairwoman Susy Heintz has moved back into the district where she grew up in order to challenge Bonior. She decided to run only after failing to recruit other viable Republican candidates," says The Hill — on target.

Those of us who knew Heintz in her days in Northville Township, Wayne County and state government are sad that one of the finest, quickest brains in politics is being wasted in a Macomb County race.

The Wall Street Journal, too, has written about some Michigan races. Amazingly, it portrays Stabenow, a former legislator and Democratic nominee for lieutenant governor in 1994, as "a New Democrat and fiscal conservative.' In her state House days, Stabenow was the darling of the Lansing social workers. Either she has evolved or her image has been doctored.

But we should move beyond personalities and such single issues as abortion. Congress votes on a $1.3 trillion budget. How will these folks vote:

• On Medicaid, which costs $178 billion a year and will triple by 2000, the way costs are rising?

• On education, where we have "Goals 2000," scholarships, loans, grants and all sorts of pork?

• On the fuel tax, that was diverted into the general fund instead of into transportation improvements?

• On the vast pile of proposed constitutional amendments — balanced budget, line-item veto, school prayer, term limits? Which one is most important?

How do Democrats view the heavy-handed domination of their party by public employee unions? How do Republicans view what has been called the "Dixie-ization" of their party, the takeover by the old Dixiecrat states?

Electing members of Congress involves more thought than snickering over Bill Clinton's lightening zipper or Bob Dole's first marriage. We all need to pay attention to congressional issues.

Tim Richard reports on the local implications of state and regional events.

Racism — an issue in the state representative race

Racism is here, this year. And it comes as the fortification and foundation of Deborah Whyman's bid for re-election to the State House of Representatives from the 21st District.

It began this year when Rep. Whyman issued a May 15 campaign letter to constituent supporters charging that her "very serious" opponent was "recruited" by the Detroit NAACP "to run against me."

Deborah Nesbit, Whyman's Afro-American Democratic challenger, is a resident of Canton. She is a middle-class, 12-year Oakwood Hospital social worker with extensive personal and professional ties to the western Wayne community. She has never been a member of the NAACP.

The notion that the NAACP might consider choosing a black Democrat to confront in Canton a white Republican is as irrational as the charge that they did. Canton is historically white and Republican.

Reading her letter, one might conclude that Whyman is running against the city of Detroit.

"I fought the (black) Detroit power structure..." For the purpose of granting to "all the citizens of Wayne County the right to vote for all of the judges presiding over Wayne County." What she did was sponsor the bill that abolished Detroit's Recorder's Court. So that "the residents of Wayne County (would) have the ability to vote for all the judges that serve them." And white suburbanites would help pick the justices who would serve black Detroiters.

But she does concede to us the possibility of some intelligence: "As you may know. . . until recently, recorder's court judges presided over all of Wayne County." They did indeed; until the state Supreme Court prohibited the practice. What Whyman elects to ignore for us is the fact that Recorder's Court has never been the only source of immediate justice in this county.

She declines to acknowledge that it was the county's circuit court that was responsible for the broadened jurisdiction of Detroit's Recorders Court. The former begged the latter to help it reduce its suffocating caseload. The Detroit system accepted the added burden in order to be of assistance to the courts serving the white suburbs. To help put away the bad guys preying on the citizens of Canton Township, for instance.

Even more disturbing is the lack of news coverage devoted to an incident that occurred during Belleville's annual Strawberry Festival parade. According to Whyman, a member of the staff of Congresswoman Lynn Rivers, who represents Plymouth and Canton, assaulted her, accused her of racism, demanded that she apologize to Nesbit and threatened her life. Whyman identified the "assailant" as a five-foot-six black female and promptly filed charges of "ethnic intimidation" and criminal confrontation.

The woman accused is barely five feet tall, was born of a Caucasian mother and a Filipino father. And she was present at the parade not as a member of Congresswoman Rivers' staff, but as a private supporter of both Lynn Rivers and Deborah Nesbit.

When a male member of the Rivers-Nesbit contingent expressed a desire to confront Whyman and demand an apology for her racist smears against her opponent, this woman confronted Whyman, demanded an apology, and, when none such was forthcoming, shook her finger and declared: "We're going to get you."

Though she believes she added the words "in November," the statement was, in context, clearly a political one. The Wayne County prosecutor agreed, and dismissed the charge.

That leaves one unresolved issue. Are the voters willing to endorse racism and return Whyman to Lansing in November?

We believe that civility and decency have too conclusively permeated western Wayne County for that to happen.

Senior drivers should take tests to say on state's roads

Because my son, Nathan, is 14, I read with more than passing interest news stories about the new, three-tiered licensing standards for teenage drivers that the Michigan Legislature passed last week.

Effective next April, the law will allow would-be drivers to get a learner's permit at age 14 years, nine months. This will allow teens like Nathan to drive with a supervising adult for 50 hours, including 10 at night. It also will require them to take driver's training and be free of tickets and accidents for six months.

At that point, teens will qualify for level-two licenses, which would allow them to drive free of adult supervision from 5 a.m. to midnight. Teens can obtain an unrestricted license six months later if they are free of accidents or tickets.

This new system is much tougher than the old one, which allowed a learner's permit at 15 and an unrestricted license at 16, after passage of a driver's training course. Teens who concentrate on safe and responsible driving, however, will be able to obtain an unrestricted license under the new system in about the same time as the old one.

Plainly, the new system will save lives. Automobile accidents are the third leading cause of death for Michigan youngsters aged 16-19, and although drivers 17 and under accounted for 2.9 percent of all licenses in Michigan, they made up 8.6 percent of drivers involved in car accidents and 6.5 percent of all fatalities.

Moreover, the new system will encourage teenagers not just to drive but to learn to drive well and safely. If you're anything like Kathy and me, among your greatest worries about your child will come the moment he takes off alone in the car and is late getting back home. Maybe the 50 hours of supervised driving will do something to relieve a bit of the anxiety.

Now that the Legislature has addressed teen driver safety, I'd like to put in a plea for our lawmakers to take a look at elderly drivers.

One of the hardest things I have had to do in my entire life was convince my proud and stubborn father, who at age 80 was suffering from Parkinson's disease and the aftereffects of a series of little strokes, that he really ought to quit driving. Literally every time he took the wheel, he had an accident, and I finally had to argue that he would be better off not to drive than to have a judge take that decision from him.

PHILIP POWER

There are 953,777 drivers in Michigan who are 65 or older, according to the Secretary of State's office.

Unlike teenagers who are convinced they are immortal and take commensurate risks, older people are, by and large, careful and safe drivers. Statewide, drivers 65 and older accounted for nearly 12 percent of all drivers, but they were involved in only 7 percent of total automobile accidents, according to 1994 statistics.

However, according to Patricia Waller, director of the University of Michigan Transportation Research Institute, "If you look at the number of crashes per mile of drivers in their 80s when they're out there, they're worse than teenagers."

Elderly drivers are more likely than younger ones to get tickets for failing to yield, turning improperly and running stop signs and red lights, according to the Insurance Institute for Highway Safety. Moreover, the number of motor vehicle deaths per 100,000 people is higher for the elderly than for all other age groups except those under 30.

Although plainly the issue here is a person's driving record, not his or her age, anybody who has ever tried to weigh safety against self-esteem for an elderly relative feels pretty lonely in today's regulatory climate. A family member, doctor or police officer can ask to have an elderly driver re-tested, but in the eyes of many older people, such a step is close to betrayal.

Would a statewide requirement that all drivers over age 70, say, be tested regularly be a better solution?

Department tells consumers how to decrease lead in drinking water

The Detroit Water and Sewage Department, through education and water supplements, is stepping up efforts to keep people from consuming lead in their drinking water.

"People need to know that there is no detectable lead present in drinking water as it leaves the water plants, and that home plumbing is the source of most lead in drinking water," stressed Dorothy Mann, public relations administrator for the City of Detroit. City officials have spent years identifying the source of water problems and have found 34 communities which have failed to bring their drinking water below the lead action level during the testing periods.

Following the first and second testing periods (January through June 1992, and July through December 1992), these communities continue to contain lead levels above 15 parts per billion, including Garden City and Westland. Communities which failed the first test, but passed the second include: Farmington, Farmington Hills and Livonia.

Lead is a common metal found throughout the environment in lead-based paint air, soil, household dust, food, pottery, porcelain, pewter and water. It can pose a significant risk to your health if too much enters your body. The greatest risk is to young children and pregnant women, as it can slow down normal mental and physical development of growing bodies. Lead also causes damage to the brain, red blood cells and kidneys.

Lead in drinking water rarely is the sole cause of lead poisoning, according to city officials, but it can increase a person's total lead exposure. To combat the problem, residents are encouraged to take steps. The first step is having your water tested. If the test shows lead infiltration, people should:

- Run their tap water for 15-30 seconds whenever the faucet has remained untouched for six or more hours. This should be done for every faucet every time.
- Use cold water, rather than hot water which dissolves lead more quickly, to cook or prepare baby formula. If the water needs to be hot, heat it on the stove.
- Remove loose lead solder and debris from recently installed plumbing
- Have an electrician check the wiring, because if grounding wires from the electrical system are attached to the pipes corrosion may be greater

Testing the water for lead is essential because lead cannot be seen, tasted or smelled. If you are concerned about previous exposure, a blood test can be performed at your family doctor's office.

County parks host fitness walk program

Lace up those walking shoes and start stretching now. The Wayne County Park System has lined up the following dates for Walk Michigan, an annual fitness program organized by Michigan Recreation and Park Association:

Oct. 3, Thursday, 3 p.m., Warrendale

Oct. 12, Saturday, Noon, Holliday Nature Preserve, Cowan Section

Oct. 17, Thursday, 3 p.m., Warrendale

Nov. 7, Thursday, 3 p.m., Warrendale

Nov. 16, Saturday, Noon, Holliday Nature Preserve, Koppernick Section

Nov. 21, Thursday, 3 p.m. Warrendale

Dec. 5, Thursday, 3 p.m., Warrendale

Dec. 7, Saturday, Noon, Holliday Nature Preserve, Cowan Section

Dec. 12, Thursday, 3 p.m., Warrendale

The Warrendale designation is off of Heinz Drive, one block east of Telegraph in Dearborn Heights. Registration will take place in the Pavilion. For walks at Holliday Nature Preserve, there are two locations: Cowan Road parallels north of Warren Road in Westland. Entrance is across the street from Service Merchandise, near the Westland Mall. Koppernick Road is west of Hix Road, north of Warren Road, and south of Joy Road in Westland. Follow dirt road to entrance.

Fill out a registration card for every event attended. The cards will be entered in a drawing for the grand prize, a trip for two to Mackinac and the Governor's Annual Labor Day Bridge Walk.

Walks held at the Holliday Nature Preserve will be guided. Sturdy boots are recommended. All walks will be canceled if conditions are icy or dangerous. For more information, call (313) 261-1990.

Keep swearing out of 'village'

"It takes a village to raise a child." That's been said and printed a lot lately. And I suspect it'll be said and printed even more as candidates for public office go stumping and whistle-stopping along to election day. It's a challenging statement – for villagers. We must be on our toes all the time.

Even Sundays. No taking a day of rest from this; after all, children don't take a day of rest from being children.

I am writing this on a Sunday. And there were, today, some villagers who let the children down.

For instance, at the very end of church today, while we, adults and children alike, were being told to go out and do good during the week (which was a good thing), we also were being told to pray for the Lions, as they would need our prayers to help them win their game against Philadelphia this afternoon. While requesting prayers for robust strange men playing a boys' game for extremely high pay isn't the world's worst request, it isn't teaching the children particularly useful prayer habits.

Anyway, after we came home from church, I fixed a light lunch, cleaned it up and took Carmen to the gym because her team pictures were being taken for the gymnastic club's yearbook. Two of Carmen's little brothers came along as well. I'd nearly forgotten about the pictures, but the reminder note materialized on my kitchen counter just as I was finishing lunch dishes. We made it to the gym in the nick of time.

The wrong word spoken

Carmen and her teammates were called to the picture-taking area and I waited in the lobby. There were other young girls, parents, and my two little boys in the lobby, too. Suddenly, and with little provocation, one of the waiting parents – a "villager" – let fly a four-letter word.

Heads turned: young girls, 4-year-old Joe, and 2-year-old, language-acquiring Jack. All turned. This woman must've forgotten, if even for a short time, her citizenship in the village and the responsibility that entails.

Once we all were home, I resumed weekend house cleaning. Dusting, picking up toys and junk, vacuuming, doing laundry, shaking rugs, the usual. That done, I planned the week's menu, made the shopping list, paid bills, and made Sunday dinner.

During all of this, the normal interruptions occurred. The diaper changes, the feeding the baby a bottle, the doorbell ringing with fund-raising school kids, the phone ringing with children's friends, the Rollerblading in the front hall, the unidentified crashing noise upstairs, the bug bite, the head bump, beachball soccer in the kitchen. You know, typical "village" life. Provocation? Plenty. R-rated words? No. Why not? Children.

While dinner was in the oven, I helped Tony with his homework and then helped Carmen select a book from her school book order form. You know the book order forms, featuring grade appropriate books, in paperback, for low cost. The books are pictured on the four-page flier and a little description of each book is given underneath its picture. I remember getting these when I was in elementary school way back when. I think I bought "Charlotte's Web" and "Clifford, the Big Red Dog" that way.

And even more wrong words

Anyway, today while I was helping Carmen select a book, she and I saw a book entitled, "The Kids' Book of Insults – How to Put Down, Dis, and Slam Your Best Friends." It's 96 pages long and costs $1.95. The idea. Honestly. Somebody at the book company apparently forgot, the author apparently forgot, about the "it takes a village" thing.

After dinner, Jack and I went to the grocery store to buy the week's groceries. The first stop inside the store was the bottle-breaking/can-crushing machine. Jack helped push the pop cans in as I steadied him in the child seat of the shopping cart. Right next to us was a man, in his 20s, pushing bottles into the bottle hole.

There was quite a racket what with the cans being crushed and the bottle being broken, but above the din, from the bottle-breaking guy next to word-sponge Jack, came an even worse, an even louder, four-letter word than the one the woman uttered earlier today, actually this man's word was the worst one of all. Mr. Bottle Breaker was angry because his beer bottle had temporarily become jammed in the machine. By temporarily, I mean maybe three or four seconds. And that was enough for him to fire his word into the air.

If it'd just been me there, this incident wouldn't have warranted notice. But my 2-year-old was there, he heard it. So to Mr. Bottle

David, a 16-year-old

Westland resident, walked into a store, put on a $95 pair of athletic shoes and walked out wearing them. He later explained that he did it because "I wanted to."

His mother couldn't understand why he stole the shoes, because she recently bought him a pair. And she worried that the misdemeanor offense would follow him on future job hunts.

David got a second chance through a new shoplifting diversion program offered by Family Service Detroit and Wayne County with the Wayne County Juvenile Court.

The program targets youths 10 to 17 years old who have been arrested for shoplifting for the first time and the value of the items stolen are worth less than $100. If the offenders complete the four-session course, pay $75 and if they don't have another offense before they're 18, the incidents are removed from their criminal records.

"There aren't a lot of times in life that we're offered chances to wipe the slate clean," according to Brenda Plecha, family life education program manager for Family Service Detroit and Wayne County. She designed and created the shoplifting diversion program earlier this year.

The program focuses on why the youths steal. So families, like David and his mother, can sort out their feelings.

"You can't just tell them to quit, you have to find out why they were doing it," Plecha said.

The goal is to prevent repeat offenses and to serve as one more means to relieve overloaded court dockets. Prosecutors and social workers aren't the only ones overwhelmed by the effects of five-finger discounters.

Nationally, retailers lose between $11 and $27 billion annually from shoplifting. The numbers of shoplifting cases are ever-growing with experts estimating that the figures have doubled since 1976.

Some $8.5 billion is spent to deter shoplifting. Retailers' ammunition includes a wide variety of methods from security guards, to two-way mirrors and mannequins dubbed Anne Droids that let employees watch shoppers through miniature cameras behind glass eyes. More and more convenience stores are posting signs that say only two teens are allowed at a time.

A Westland convenience store owner who enforces that rule said it's impossible to watch what's happening to his merchandise when a group of kids comes into the store. He doesn't only place the blame on teens, adults can be a problem, too.

The store owner, who asked not be identified, said if only one pack of cigarettes is stolen a day the loss amounts to almost $1,000 in a year.

Dan Mayotte, Meijer stores' loss prevention manager, speaks to youths in the shoplifting diversion program.

"There's a lot of statistics that are thrown around out there," he said. "But there are a lot of stresses that theft places on businesses in general. As an employer, it can inhibit opportunities for advancements or to provide benefits and with small businesses it can drive them right out."

Some store owners are going after even the smallest of offenders to send out a message that they aren't going to tolerate theft at all. Plecha tells a story about a 15-year-old girl from Wayne who stole a $1.39 key chain and was shocked when the police were called in. She never dreamed she would be ticketed for such a small item, Plecha added.

Dispelling myths about shoplifting is another goal of the diversion program.

For instance, stores can charge the shoplifter up to 10 times the amount of the item taken, up to $100. Another myth is that if the item is concealed a shopper can't put it back. The item can be put back before the shopper reaches the last cash register.

During the first session of the programs, the youths say who they are, explain what they stole and why they did it. The items range from sports jerseys and shoes, to CDs for boys. Silky lingerie is the most common items stolen among girls.

"Every choice people make is based on their feelings and most kids and some adults don't have a clue what their feelings are," Plecha said. "If I heard it once I heard it 9,000 times: 'Nothing is going to change what I want to do.' We're offering you a chance to make changes about what you want to do."

Some steal for excitement. Others think they need the $150 athletic shoes. Some are pressured by friends.

"What's surprising is that friends they were trying to impress will leave or say: 'I told her not to take it,' " Plecha said.

Others, she added, are trying to get attention from their parents. Guardians are required to attend two of the four classes. One of the sessions helps the youths identify what they need and want emotionally from their parents, teachers and friends.

"Then I have them project 'What do you think people need from you?' " Plecha said. "We don't fail as parents when our kids make a mistake. We fail as parents when we don't let our kids learn by their mistakes."

Parents need to hold their children accountable, she said adding, "Sometimes the parent will make the kid pay the store fee, program fee and babysitting fee."

Most of all, the sessions give the child and parent a chance to work out problems that may have lead up to the theft. Some unexpected discussions and emotions surface.

"We had one child who said he loved his father and the father started to cry," Plecha added.

Beyond the personal growth among families that attend, Moyette added that the program should have a dramatic effect on curtailing shoplifting.

"It really is an investment in our future," he said.

Contestant makes 3rd try for senior title

In competition: Cathy Agee of Livonia is Wayne County's representative for the Ms. Senior Michigan Pageant that will be held Thursday, Oct. 3, at the Macomb Center for the Performing Arts in Clinton Township. For the talent portion of the event, Agee plans to read a poem that she wrote.

Cathy Agee is used to looking at beauty pageants from the point of view of an organizer.

On Thursday, Oct. 3, all eyes will be on her.

Agee, of Livonia, is the Wayne County representative for the 10th annual Ms. Senior Michigan Pageant. The pageant will be at 1:30 p.m. Thursday, Oct. 3, at the Macomb Center for the Performing Arts in Clinton Township.

Although this is her third go at the Ms. Senior title, Agee is still a little nervous. For 14 years, Agee worked for the Miss Livonia Scholarship Pageant, a stepping stone to the Miss America Pageant, with her daughter, Sharon Lee, who served as its executive director.

"I did everything," Agee said. "I was the secretary. I was the go-getter. I was the caller. I was the fix-the-costumer. I was everything.

"Now, my daughter, she's been coaching me, as you can imagine. She says, 'Mom, walk this way. You've been doing this for years.' I told her, I know that but now they're looking at me."

Agee's first try at the Ms. Senior Michigan Pageant was in 1992 when she placed fourth. She entered again in 1994 and placed second. She decided to enter the event to see what it was like to be a contestant.

"I've been connected with them always," she said. "I thought, 'I'd like to see how it would be to be a contestant for a change.' It's very different. The difference is that you are the one that's being examined. You are the one being judged on everything that you do."

Helpful experience

And in retrospect, entering the pageant as a contestant has helped Agee as a pageant judge.

"I guess that's a good thing because when I go (now) to judge and I have judged a lot of other pageant then I am extraordinarily careful how I word my question and how the answer gets back to me," said Agee, a former dental hygienist.

Although she has experience as a contestant, judge and organizer, Agee said that that doesn't give her a leg up on the competition.

"As a matter of fact because I do know it may be little bit detrimental because I'm trying to do everything so perfectly and other people can be a little more relaxed because they

Workshop focuses on adoption process

The process of adopting a child can be overwhelming, according to one couple in the middle of the adoption process.

"There is so much to learn and know," said the soon-to-be-mother. "There are so many things to know about the differences among the agencies and Michigan's laws."

Adoption is a complicated and lengthy process, one reason why Schoolcraft College will present an Adoption Exploration Workshop 6:30-9:30 p.m. Wednesday, Nov. 6.

Persons considering adoption will learn where to begin, how long the process may be, the types of children available, the cost and what to expect in a home study.

Other topics will include a family's readiness to adopt, domestic and foreign adoption, adopting infants or older children, foster care, private and open adoptions and adopting special needs children.

"I wish I had attended a seminar like this when I started," said the woman, adding that it took many tries and a lot of research to find an agency that was perfect for her.

Agencies differ widely in the criteria they may require both before and after the adoption and encountering a bad fit can be very upsetting, she said.

The workshop's keynote speaker is Linda Yellin, a nationally known therapist and consultant to child welfare and adoption agencies, foster and adoptive parent organizations and other groups. She is in private practice in Farmington Hills. She will talk about "Adoption in the '90s."

A panel of experts and members of adoptive families will present a panel discussion, and agency representatives also will be available to answer questions and provide information.

"Adoption is overwhelming emotionally," said the woman. "You need to get to the point when you are ready. It's scary. I know when I began thinking about adoption, I was so afraid because of stories like Baby Jessica, but now I know that is only a small fraction of what really happens."

The workshop will be held in Room 200 of the McDowell Building. The cost is $17 per person. Schoolcraft College is at 18600 Haggerty Road between Six and Seven Mile roads, Livonia.

haven't any inkling about this," she said. "Although if the judges follow this criteria as they're supposed to, then I know pretty well where I stand."

The contestants are judged on four criteria: interview, talent, philosophy of life and poise.

For the talent portion, Agee will read a poem that she wrote. She had planned on singing but became ill, so she wrote a poem about her problem.

"I sing and I couldn't sing because I had bronchitis," she said. "I called and told them I had to cancel I couldn't be there. One of the nice girls in the office told me to do something else."

Her philosophy of life will be read as Agee walks across the stage in her evening gown during the poise portion of the pageant:

"Practical wisdom, calmness of temper and judgment, evenness of mind ... that's Mr. Webster's definition of philosophy. This is mine in rhyme: I'll use my practical wisdom from experience to yours. I'll humbly bow to superior knowledge with calmness of temper and judgment without fear. I'll be profoundly grateful to God for his help in maintaining my evenness of mind. And that's my philosophy of life for now and all time."

Bit of prestige

The winner of the pageant goes to Biloxi, Miss., to participate in the national pageant in September 1997. Locally, the winner makes special appearances throughout the year.

"Simply and plainly, it's a prestigious kind of thing to appear in your neighborhood or your community for any or all senior projects or things that are coming up for the senior citizen and promote to senior citizens to be the useful person they are," Agee said. "So often times we're overlooked. We have schools that are just begging for people to help. The churches and the hospitals and the Big Boys and the Hardee's and all the places.

■ 'I believe that I can bring some fresh enthusiasm and training to the person who has not been allowed to go out and do work in the field of schools and libraries and churches and day care centers where they use all grandmas.'

Cathy Agee

"It's sad that the older person is being kind of pushed in the background because of their age because the usefulness is still there. I feel sad that they don't always take advantage of those things."

Agee has volunteered for Livonia's Greenmead Historical Village, Cancer Society and the Heart Society, as well as being a former member of the now-defunct Business Women's Association of Livonia. She is a 40-plus-year member of Christ the King Lutheran Church.

She also enjoys spending time with Lee and her husband Bill and 12-year-old son Vann. Agee's husband, Robert, died on Thanksgiving Day 1989.

Using all these experiences, Agee believes that she would make a good Ms. Senior Michigan.

"I believe that I can bring some fresh enthusiasm and training to the person who has not been allowed to go out and do work in the field of schools and libraries and churches and day care centers where they use all grandmas," she said. "I believe I can do that.

"I believe that I could just instill in them the fact that they are indeed very, very worthy persons."

REAL ESTATE UPDATE

by Chris Knight

FROM A REALTOR'S VIEWPOINT

Working as a Realtor in the Plymouth and Canton areas is truly a rewarding experience! Most people don't realize the vast knowledge, experience and never-ending patience that is required to be a successful Realtor.

The need for a real estate professional when buying or selling a home or land has been the subject of much debate. The operative word here is"need" because in today's changing world of rules and real estate laws, you really do need a real estate professional! If you or someone you know has bought or sold property recently, you are already aware of some of the changes. Your Realtor can provide a wealth of information, everything from help with mortgage services, home inspection procedures, title encumbrances, feasibility studies, survey's and boundary line disputes, etc. A good Realtor is a problem solver, a mediator, and a great comfort if you are confused and or frightened during the process.

In the coming year this column will cover may interesting and challenging topics regarding buying or selling real estate and financing a home. I hope you will join me as a regular reader and feel free to call me with any questions you may have.

Chris and his wife are lifelong residents of the Plymouth Canton community. Chris has been the #1 Realtor at Coldwell Banker-Schweitzer Plymouth since 1988 and ranks in the top 1% of all sales associates internationally.

Pregnancy center stages walkathon

BY CHRISTINA FUOCO
STAFF WRITER

There's a crisis at AAA Crisis Pregnancy Center in Livonia.

Donations are down at the center, so this year's "Walk-For-Life" from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Saturday, Sept. 28, at Veteran's Memorial Park in Livonia is especially important, said Diane M. Montes, administrative director for the center.

"We've had kind of a bad year financially, so we're hoping to do well. Unfortunately, we're in competition with a lot of other walkathons this time of year – big ones with important people," Montes said.

AAA Crisis Pregnancy Center is hoping to raise about $40,000 from the event, more than double of last year's total of $18,000.

"The first year we raised $9,000; the second we raised $18,000 so we're really hoping to double it again this year and raise $36,000," Montes said.

The walkers will meet at Veteran's Memorial Park at 10 a.m. and proceed to Ford Field across from the park near the Livonia YMCA to walk the square mile around the field. WNIC's Chris Edmonds will arrive at that time to kick off the event.

■ 'With cuts in welfare, more and more women are coming in. We have a lot of young girls coming in who are just confused. They come in for a pregnancy test and we tell them the consequences of being sexually active.'

Diane Montes

"We're asking people who walk to get pledges for their walk," Montes said. "Everyone who turns in a pledge sheet will get a T-shirt. We'll have donuts and bagels in the morning and hot dogs in the afternoon."

Walkers do not need to collect money. The organization will collect the pledges, which are tax deductible, by mail. The walk will be held rain or shine.

AAA Crisis Pregnancy Center, a non-profit organization, was founded in 1973 after the landmark abortion case Rowe vs. Wade was upheld by the U.S. Supreme Court, Montes explained. The center has been at its Livonia location, 27592 Schoolcraft Road at Inkster Road, since 1982.

"We help women find alternatives to abortion," Montes said. "We've grown to see more than 2,000 women a year and with phone counseling almost that many. That's another part of the reason we need to do well. Client numbers are increasing steadily.

"With cuts in welfare, more and more women are coming in. We have a lot of young girls coming in who are just confused. They come in for a pregnancy test and we tell them the consequences of being sexually active. They get information that they haven't been getting from other places about sexually transmitted diseases (for example). We're being more pro-active before they wind up with a crisis pregnancy."

Besides offering pregnancy tests, the organization offers counseling to a woman and/or her parents, boyfriend or husband; arranges for live-in accommodations; furnishes maternity clothes, baby clothes, and baby furniture; and post-abortion counseling.

AAA Crisis Pregnancy Center uses pamphlets and videos to inform women about fetal development, abortion procedures and alternatives to abortion. It also provides information on community resources, such as medical care, legal aid, Family Independence Agency programs, adoption agencies and schooling options.

All the services are free. The center is open from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Mondays through Fridays, 10 a.m. to 1 p.m. Saturdays and 7-9 p.m. Monday through Thursday.

For more information about the center's services or about the walk, call (313) 425-8060.

ANNIVERSARIES

Fritz

Barbara and Charles Fritz of Muncie, Ind., formerly of Farmington Hills, celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary with a reception held Aug. 17 in Muncie.

They were married on Aug. 24, 1946, at St. Mathias Episcopal Church in Detroit. The couple has four children – Alan of Albany, N.Y., Susan of Howell, Greg of San Francisco, Calif., and Steven of Traverse City. They also have three grandchildren.

A native of Grand Haven and Wayne State University graduate, he spent 45 years in the metals industry with Letts Industries in Detroit and retired from Ontario Forge in Muncie. He is an active member of Grace Episcopal Church, the Elks and Shriners.

Born in Detroit, she attended Western Michigan University and was employed by the Farmington Board of Education. She also is active in their church and volunteers for Ball Memorial Hospital, the American Cancer Society, YWCA and the symphony.

Rudd

Harlow R. and Donna J. Rudd of Redford celebrated their 35th wedding anniversary at a cookout dinner with friends and family given by the Minock Meadows Social Club.

The couple exchanged vows Aug. 12, 1961, in Royal Oak. She is the former Donna J. Stone.

The couple has three children – Richard Darryle of Culleoka, Tenn., Brenda Lee Hatfield of West Jordan, Utah, and Sherrie Lynn Seyuin of Belleville. They have seven grandchildren.

He retired on a medical disability in 1988 from Detroit Diesel. His wife was the manager of the Garden City Beauty until she retired in 1982.

The couple are life members and past commanders of the Redford No. 113 Disabled American Veterans and its auxiliary. They are also life members of the V.F.W. No. 345 of Redford and its auxiliary, and members of the Redford Senior Citizens Club.

Donna Rudd is the chairwoman for the T.A.C. Board of Minock Meadows and the editor of its monthly newsletter "Chatter From The Meadows."

Scott

Annie and William Scott of Dearborn Heights will celebrated their 50th anniversary by renewing their marriage vows in front of family and friends on Sept. 15.

They met in Oak Ridge, Tenn., and married 10 days later on Sept. 16, 1946.

They have five children – John Scott of Dearborn, Ruth Mears of Jackson, and Paul Scott, Richard Scott, and Joyce Wollschlager, all of Westland. They have 14 grandchildren and seven great-grandchildren with another on the way.

He is retired from Mutual of Detroit Insurance Company. He is a deacon at Kirby Freewill Baptist Church in Taylor.

She retired from Garden City Hospital after 25 years, but has returned on a part-time basis.

They are active in their senior citizen group.

Just because something is old doesn't mean it isn't valuable.

Now that retirement is almost here, I'm grateful that I started planning early — with U.S. Savings Bonds through a Payroll Savings Plan.

St. John Bosco conducts parish mission of renewal

St. John Bosco Parish in Redford will have a parish mission of renewal Sunday through Thursday, Oct. 6-10, conducted by Capuchin Franciscan, Fr. Adrian Staehler.

Staehler will preach at the weekend Masses on Oct. 5-6 to outline the schedule and purpose of the mission. The morning services at 9 a.m. and will focus on the message of "The Kingdom of God." Themes will vary each morning and include "God is my all in the Kingdom," "Is living God's Kingdom in our values?," "Finding God's Kingdom in our relationships' and "Creating God's Kingdom in our society."

The evening services will begin at 7:30 p.m. The topics include "What is sharing Gospel Faith?," "The need for Gospel sharing," "Faith is shared in many ways and situations," "Reconciliation is bringing good news" and "Eucharist is sharing Faith."

Fr. Richard Osebold, pastor of St. John Bosco, and Staehler urge the community, including high school students, and parishioners to spend time nourishing themselves on the Word of God and to grow in their faith and understanding and to build a stronger community based on Christian values and a Gospel lifestyle.

"Whether one can attend the entire week or part of it, the time will be well-spent for people to 'reconnect' with the Lord," Staehler said. "This is a wonderful time for us, as a community of believers, to be open to the spirit of God working among us and calling us to deeper faith, wholeness and service to one another."

"This mission calls us to be involved as a whole people in the mission of Jesus which is to share with others – God's love," Osebold added. "Our society needs that saving love on all levels. I know people will enjoy Fr. Staehler's enthusiastic presentations."

Staehler has been involved with preaching parish missions full-time for many years. All of his talks will be related to situations that members of the audience face each day as they try to make their faith a central focus in their lives.

Fr. Adrian Staehler

St. John Bosco Church is at 12100 Beech Daly, Redford. For more information, call (313) 937-9690.

Summit treats pass holders to Health and Fitness Day

BY LINDA CHOMIN
SPECIAL WRITER

Annual pass holders were treated to a Health and Fitness Day at the Summit on the Park recreation facility in Canton Saturday, Sept. 14. Co-sponsored by Mission Health, the event offered the opportunity to sample fitness and self-defense classes, karate demonstrations, free racquetball court time, Canton Public Safety programs, and low-fat foods that students can learn about in the Women's Health Series that begins Thursday, Sept. 19.

"We wanted to make people aware of what we do have, to try a class for a half hour. Mission Health is here giving flu shots as well as answering questions and passing out information on breast cancer, women's health and heart disease because we're partners in wellness," said Summit manager Debra Bilbrey-Honsowetz.

"For the kids, there are games to promote physical activity. We also want to work with kids to get them eating healthy early. That's why we're going to offer a nutritional class for kids."

Sally Bailey, clinical nurse manager for urgent care at St. Joseph Mercy Health in Canton, was coordinating activities for Mission Health, which broke ground in July to build a health center on Summit Parkway not far from the community center.

"Instead of treating illness, we're trying to promote a healthier community through our women's health programs by teaching self exams, blood pressure screenings, and the first Women's Night Out on Oct. 2 with dinner, networking and a speaker to foster friendships between women," Bailey said.

Registered Dietitian Linn Storch passed out samples of low-fat muffins, bagels and bean dip as a way to interest pass holders in the 10-week Nutri-Way Program starting in early October. Free introductory sessions Sept. 24 and 26 will give prospective students a chance to taste delicious, nutritious foods and learn more about the program dealing with weight and cholesterol management.

"We're trying to encourage healthier food choices. A lot of people believe low fat means it doesn't taste good. Our Nutri-Way Program means learning to eat healthy. It's a lifestyle change that includes the whole family," Storch said.

David Paquette was one of the 3,800 annual pass holders to take advantage of the day. The Canton resident was there to sign up his two children for swimming classes and for a blood pressure screening for himself.

"Having it taken was very convenient. I found out my blood pressure's back up again. I'll have to get back to exercising and using the Summit's machines again," Paquette said.

Mission Health is a community-based network of four hospitals including St. Joseph Mercy in Ann Arbor; Providence, Southfield; McPherson, Howell, and Saline Community, Saline. The Mission Health Medical Center in Canton, tentatively scheduled for completion around Thanksgiving 1997, will house out-patient diagnostic and therapeutic programs as well as urgent care. In the meantime, Mission Health is partnering with the Summit to offer "Women and Heart Disease". It is one in a four part series on women's health.

"The goal is trying to encourage educational and women's issues, and good health care for women. A lot depends on a women taking responsibility for their health. One out of two women die of heart disease while one out of eight women develop breast cancer. What they do in their 30s to 50s impacts them in their 70s and 80s," said Judy Brandell, R.N., director of women's health services for Mission Health.

In a private exam room, Patty Bartos of Canton was hooked up to electrodes to measure her body fat and lean muscle mass. Her body analysis composition registered normal. Bartos regularly uses the Summit's jogging track and exercise machines to keep in shape.

"I've never had a body fat analysis before," Bartos said. "Even though I'm thin, I wanted to know how much I need to lose and how much I need to exercise.

"I think it was great to bring this into our community. The day was family oriented and I felt it wasn't just for seniors like so many other health related events."

Matthaei Botanical Gardens will conduct docent training

Do you have a keen sense of nature, horticulture or the environment? Would you like to interact with the public in rewarding and challenging ways?

Why not mesh the two interests and become a University of Michigan Matthaei Botanical Gardens docent. Docents are the volunteers who lead tours and interpret the garden's collections for visitors. Volunteers are needed to provide tours to visitors of the Conservatory, trails and display gardens, with an emphasis on guiding kindergarten to eighth grade school groups. Docents conduct educational tours and interpret plants and areas according to the natural history or human interest topic that is established in advance of the tour.

A set of 12 training sessions on content and tour techniques will be held 9:30 a.m. to noon Tuesdays, beginning Oct. 22. The remaining session dates are Oct. 29, Nov. 5, 12 and 19, Jan. 7, 14, 21 and 28 and Feb. 3, 4, 11 and 18.

The commitment beyond training is one morning or afternoon tour a week for three years (there are no school tours in December or the summer months). There is no charge for the training sessions.

To receive an application form and to schedule a pretraining interview with a currentDocent, scheduled for Oct. 1, call Mary Pulick at (313) 998-7061.

The botanical gardens offers a sensory experience year-round with the many exotic plants, bright flowers and fragrances, and visitors can explore the gardens during the month of October with a docent-led tours.

Docent-led tours of the Conservatory will take place at 2 p.m. Sundays, Oct. 6, 13, 20 and 27. Individuals can sign up at the front lobby reception desk prior to the tour. Conservatory admission is $2 for adults.

Docent-led tours of the outdoor trails will take place at 2 p.m. Sundays, Oct. 6, 13 and 20. This month's topic is "Flingers, Floaters and Stick-tights." Tour participants should meet docents on the gardens' front steps.

The Matthaei Botanical Gardens is at 1800 N. Dixboro Road, north of the Geddes Road intersection, Ann Arbor.

Parenting fair needs participants

The Child Abuse Prevention Council of Out-Wayne County will hold its annual parenting resource fair, "Celebrate Families," Saturday, Oct. 26, at Wonderland Mall in Livonia.

Many family support agencies will be available to explain their services and how they can help enhance families while making parenting a little bit easier.

"This is a wonderful opportunity for human service and non-profit agencies to inform the community of the assistance and support they offer," said Tricia Cole-Klaes, CAPCo education coordinator. "Thousands of families of all sizes, ages and cultures have significantly benefited from the wealth of information distributes at past 'Celebrate Families.'"

Agencies interested in participating in the fair or for more information, call Cole-Klaes at (313) 721-5901.

CAPCo is a non-profit, parent friendly agency offering a variety of literature, no cost parenting sessions and family activities.

Canton tennis

There was only one setback for Plymouth Canton's tennis team in Monday's dual meet against visiting Livonia Franklin, and that took three sets for the Patriots to win.

The Chiefs ruled everywhere else, taking a 7-1 victory that evened their dual-meet record at 2-2-2 in the Western Lakes Activities Association.

Canton winners in singles play were: at No. 2, Jessica Dumas over Karen Freeman, 7-6, 6-2; at No. 3, Patty Snook over Molly Peterson, 6-2, 6-0; and at No. 4, Carolyn Dixon over Laura Conrad, 6-4, 6-1. Mai Lam, moving up from her normal position at No. 2 to fill in for Laura Belisle, lost in three sets to Cherie Berner 6-4, 5-7, 7-5.

In doubles, Liz Elsner and Shreya Shah beat Julie Wood and Robin Sari, 6-1, 6-1; at No. 2, Jennifer Leonard and Anjali Shah defeated Karen Savage and Karen Koleczko, 6-4, 2-6, 6-2; at No. 3, Melissa Robbins and Natali Gut topped Sheila Marolia and Kelli Zellers, 6-0, 6-1; and at No. 4, Lizzie Brown and Carrie Kovachevich bested Annmarie Lipinski and Katie Brown, 6-2, 6-1.

Last Friday, Farmington won in singles but Canton rallied to capture the doubles portion of their dual meet and earn a 4-4 tie at Farmington.

Canton had one winner in singles: at No. 4, Snook defeated Carly Ramsay 7-5, 6-7, 6-1.

In doubles, the results were reversed, with the Chiefs winning three of four flights. Canton winners were: at No. 1, Elsner and Shah, 6-4, 1-6, 6-4 over Susan Kettler and Juanne Gore; at No. 3, Robbins and Gut, 6-1, 6-1 over Melissa Mytty and Lauren Picard; and at No. 4, Brown and Kovachevich, 7-5, 6-2 over Lovely Tom and Melissa Geronimo.

In singles, the Falcons got wins from Stephanie Unger at No. 1, 5-7, 6-4, 6-4 over Belisle; from Carrie May at No. 2, 6-2, 6-1 over Lam; and No. 3 from Fawn O'Leary, 6-4, 6-7, 6-2 over Dumas.

The Chiefs tangle with Plymouth Salem at 4 p.m. Friday.

In-line champions

There were 24 teams that competed in the 9-11 year-old division at the International In-Line Hockey Championships held Sept. 18-21 in Las Vegas.

The best came from the Detroit area.

The Sun and Snow-sponsored Stingrays emerged as the division champs with a resounding 11-1 victory over the In-Line Kingdom Capitals in the final game of the tournament.

Brett Einheuser and T.J. Hensick each accounted for two goals and two assists in the final match. Bryan Genrich had a goal and three assists, and Joshua Sciba had two goals and an assist.

The Stingrays' Einheuser was chosen as the division's best offensive player in the tournament; Hensick was the best defensive player and earned the best sportsmanship award; the top goalie award went to the Stingrays Jason Harris.

In earlier tournament games, the Stingrays beat the Cajun Fury of Louisiana (Joshua Sciba and Hensick had hat tricks); the Vail Hawks in what was the toughest game of the tournament (Sciba, another hat trick); the Rollin Ice Warriors (two goals from Hensick); and the California Condors (hat trick for Sciba).

Stingray team members are: Tom Mullen, Alex Parent, Steve Carter, Joshua Sciba and Bryan Genrich, all from Plymouth; Jason Harris, from Belleville; T.J. Hensick from Howell; Corey Elkins from West Bloomfield; Matt Hunwick from Roseville; Kyle Spears from Ypsilanti; Alex Parent and Adam Was, from Ann Arbor; Einheuser, from White Lake; and Tommy Parent, from New Boston.

Steelers, Lions football

•Defense and a quick-strike offense led the Plymouth-Canton Steelers varsity to victory over the North Farmington/West Bloomfield Vikings, 19-0 Sunday. Touchdowns came on a 21-yard pass from Chris Hardy to Chris Sherfey; on a Marshall Tucker 4-yard run; and on a Nate Halbert 7-yard run.

The Steelers junior varsity won 16-0, scoring on a safety as Mike Jones sacked the Vikings' quarterback in the end zone and getting another defensive score from Justin Carson on a 20-yard interception return. Carson also scored on a 17-yard run. The Steeler freshmen lost for the first time, 19-6, despite a 20-yard scoring run from Brandon Mancini.

•The Canton Lions fared better, collecting a 12-0 win over the Belleville Cougars Saturday. Long runs by Brandon Ellison set up scoring scoring plunges by Kerry Mills and Scott Disher.

Both the Lions' JV and freshmen teams suffered one-touchdown losses. The JV fell 12-6, getting a 13-yard TD run from Reggie Joyner; the freshmen lost for the first time this season 20-12, scoring on an 8-yard David Thomas-to-Tony Barth pass in the closing seconds of the first half and on a 3-yard dive by Matt Trublowski.

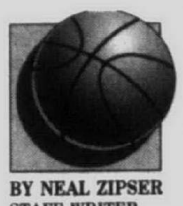
Rocks rebound, clobber Harrison



When you're use to winning, a loss can be difficult to handle. Two setbacks in a row can make you very cranky. Farmington Harrison found that out when it took on Plymouth Salem Tuesday.

BY NEAL ZIPSER
STAFF WRITER

After losing two straight, the Plymouth Salem girls basketball team was in no mood to make it three in a row Tuesday.

Unfortunately for visiting Farmington Hills Harrison, the Hawks were on the schedule as the Rocks returned to state-ranked form with a 69-34 rout.

The Rocks played solid basketball, committing only 10 turnovers, dominating under the glass (30-22) and shooting 49 percent from the floor (24-of-49).

"We wanted to get back to having a workman-like effort," Salem coach Fred Thomann said. "The defense was solid and didn't give Harrison much space to play. And we had good balance offensively."

Salem improved to 5-2 overall and 1-1 in the Western Lakes Activities Association. The Hawks, who had a two-game winning streak snapped, dropped to 4-3 overall and 1-1 in the league.

Things don't get easier for Harrison, which plays Northville Thursday. The Mustangs handed Salem a 42-39 loss last Thursday. To avoid a repeat of Tuesday, the Hawks can't commit 25 turnovers and shoot only 27 percent from the floor (nine-of-34).

"Salem is too good of a team to come out flat against and we were very flat," Harrison coach Pete Mantyla said. "We pride ourselves on being ready to play and tonight we weren't ready and didn't play hard enough."

Sophomore Angie Sillmon took it upon herself early to make sure Salem would get back to its winning ways. The 5-foot-10 forward scored all nine of her points in the first quarter to help the Rocks build an 18-8 lead.

"We weren't out to prove anything, we just wanted to regain our confi-

Stevenson edges Salem, should play for title

BY BRAD EMONS
STAFF WRITER

Livonia Stevenson boys soccer coach Walt Barrett refers to his team as the "Cardiac Kids."

And the Spartans didn't disappoint, getting a late goal from Scott Babinski to beat Western Lakes Activities Association rival Plymouth Salem in a heart-stopper, 2-1.

Defending champion Stevenson, ironically bypassed in the latest statewide coaches poll, is now 6-1 overall. The Spartans have won six straight since losing their season opener to Troy, 1-0.

But more importantly, Stevenson beat its toughest opponent in the Lakes Division of the WLAA.

The two teams have pretty much owned the division since the Western Lakes was formed in 1984.

"Our key is that we try play team defense over the whole field," said Barrett, who avenged last fall's 1-0 regional final loss to the Rocks (Stevenson's only defeat in 1995). "No matter who is carrying the ball, he is being marked. It's a man-to-man and a zone. Actually, it's a double system."

Salem, fresh from a 4-3 win Saturday over state-ranked Troy, falls to 6-2-1 overall.

"Stevenson played terrific and we'll tip our hats off to them," Salem first-year coach Ed McCarthy said. "They earned it. I was impressed. Stevenson took it to us all over the place in the first 10 minutes. It took us awhile to settle down."

Stevenson's Ryan Broderick scored with 15:53 left in the opening half off an assist from Mark Dietrich.

The high-scoring Rocks were contained until a trio of yellow cards were handed out -- one apiece to Thomas Eller, Steve Roy and Jason Roy -- during the final 35 minutes of play. With each sitting out 10 minutes, that put the host Spartans at a distinct disadvantage.

Salem, pushing defensive midfielder Brent Mullin forward, began to apply the pressure and finally scored when Ryan Konley rifled a shot from 20 yards out into the upper left-hand corner, the goal coming with 15:38 to play.

But the Spartans, back at full-strength for the final 10 minutes, countered when Broderick, who controlled the ball inside the box, was intentionally tripped by Salem goalkeeper Andres Lopez.

The play resulted in a penalty kick for Babinski, a senior defender.

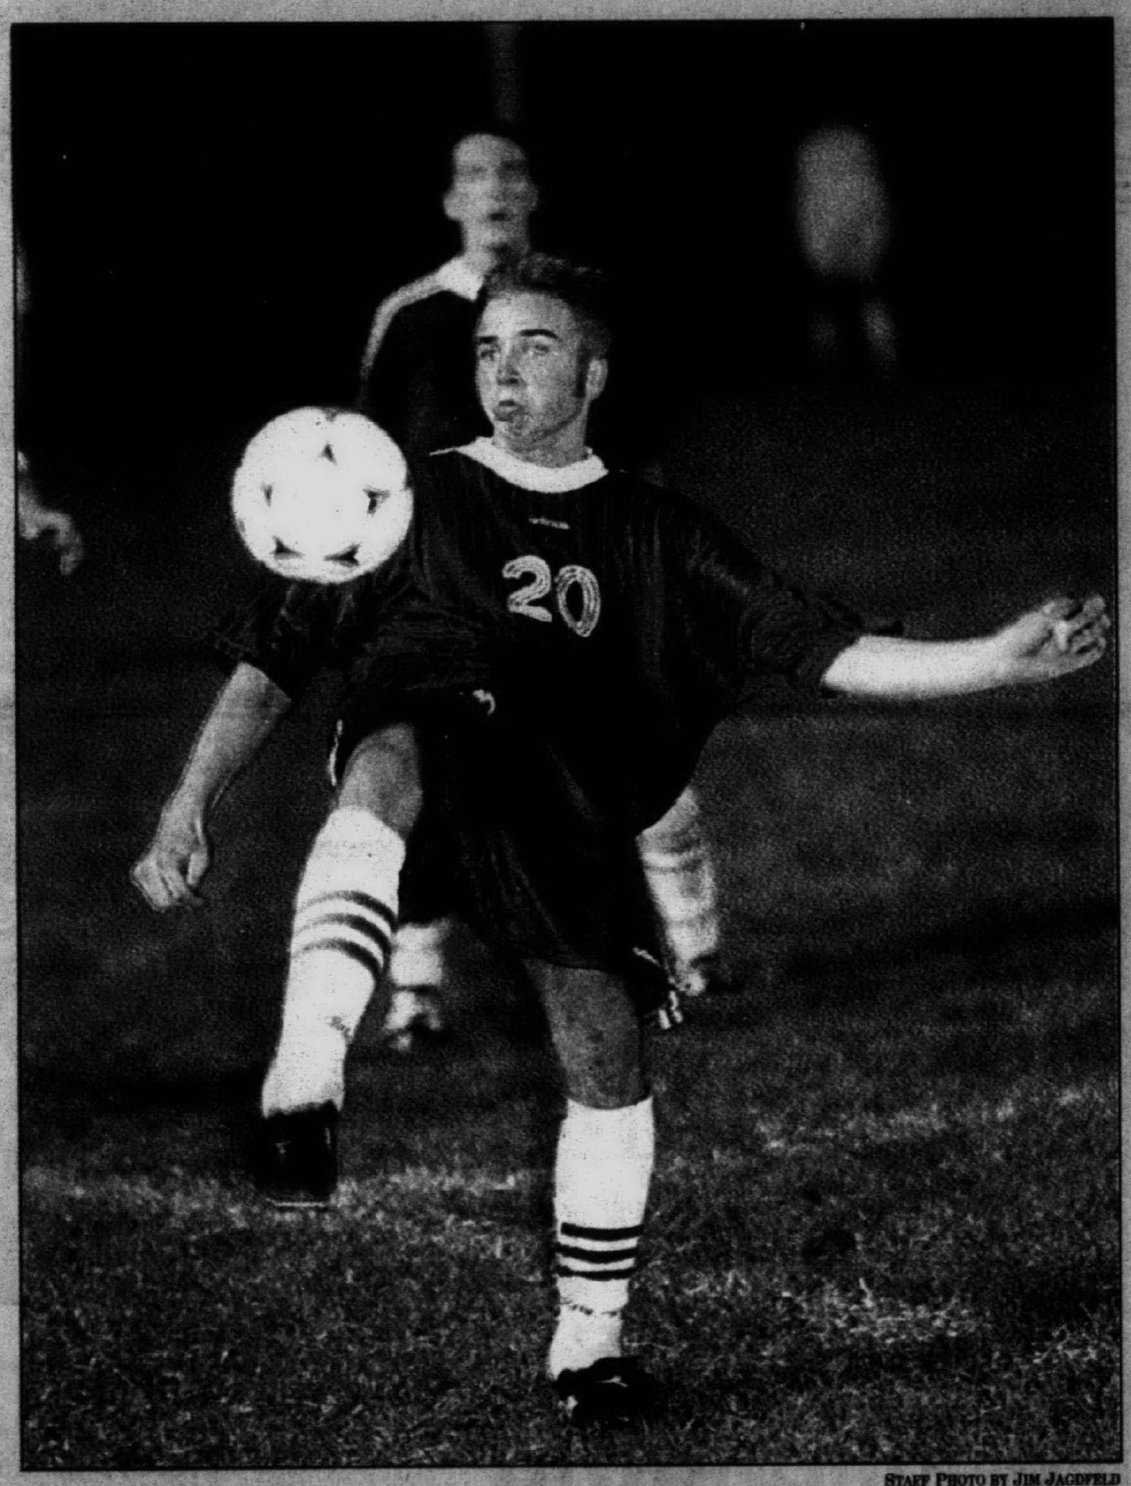
Lining up his shot, Babinski guessed wrong, hoping to get Lopez moving the wrong direction. The kick went straight-on with Lopez making the save.

But there was only one problem.

The ball bounced directly back to Babinski, who knocked home the rebound before the Salem defenders could blink, giving Stevenson the game-winner.

"Our goalie made a good save, but the guy who scored finished properly," McCarthy said. "We just didn't react as quickly as they did. It was no excuse. We just didn't have everybody back.

"They (Stevenson) had a little too much at the end. We had just enough good stuff, but they had a little more."



STAFF PHOTO BY JIM JAGDFELD

Well-balanced: Salem's Brent Mullin has the ball under control this time, but the Rocks couldn't keep Livonia Stevenson under any kind of control. The Spartans won this key divisional playoff.

Stevenson maintained a tight pulse on Salem's high-scoring threat Brett Konley.

"He's definitely one of the best in the league (Western Lakes)," Barrett said of the Rocks' junior forward. "He played brilliantly. We exhausted four players marking him."

Barrett, however, was proud of the way his team hung on when the yellow cards came out.

"I thought our keeper (Eric) O'Neil kept us in it along with (Jim) Bullock," the Stevenson coach said. "Bullock was the only defender who didn't go out. Those two held the fort down.

"But the minute we got our players back on the field, we started playing ball."

Chiefs take 4th at Jefferson Invite

The picture becomes clearer.

Plymouth Canton's boys cross country team went up against some stiff competition from downriver at last Saturday's Monroe Jefferson Invitational, and the Chiefs fared fairly well.

They finished fourth in the team standings with 104 points. Wyandotte Roosevelt was first (44), followed by Woodhaven (71) and Trenton (also 71); in fifth was Taylor Center (116), with Southgate Anderson (173), Livonia Churchill (176), Lincoln Park (242), Belleville (244) and Taylor Kennedy (275) next. No team scores were available for Romulus and Dearborn Heights Anapolis.

CROSS COUNTRY

Shawn Moore led the Rocks, finishing eighth in 16:47 to earn a medal. Adam Degiorgio placed 14th (17:35), Jason Vergari was 19th (17:48), Sanjay Sharma took 31st (18.22) and Jerry Reynolds placed 32nd (18:26).

Canton runs up against Northville at 4 p.m. Thursday at Cass Benton.

Salem 13th at Jackson

It wasn't the best of finishes, but realizing how far his team has come and how much further they will yet travel this season, Plymouth Salem cross country coach Geoff Baker couldn't be too disappointed.

"It wasn't bad," he said of the Rocks' 13th-place standing in the 23-team field. "Jackson's always been a fast course. I thought we ran well -- I wanted us to finish in the middle, and we were pretty close to that.

"Our times are still dropping, the guys are still working hard."

Baker named the teams he and his Salem team are targeting: "There are seven teams fighting for three berths from our regional to the state tournament -- Salem, Canton, Adrian, Saline, Ann Arbor Pioneer, Ann Arbor Huron and Novi."

The Rocks would like to be one of them, but there's still much to do to accomplish that.

At Jackson, Salem was led by Jon Little, who finished 35th overall in 17:03. Next for the Rocks was Jeff Chrzanowski, 38th (17:06); Jake Gray, 64th (17:38); Dave Rowe, 87th (18:03); and Adam Barbara, 96th (18:10).

White Lake Lakeland won the race with 74 points. In second was Traverse City (134).

Salem races North Farmington at 4:30 p.m. Thursday at Oakland CC. On Saturday, the Rocks run at the Dearborn Heights Crestwood Invitational, starting at 10:45 a.m.

Missed chance

Canton wastes 2-goal lead in final minutes, ties Troy

There's no such thing as a sure thing. Just ask the Plymouth Canton boys soccer team.

A 2-0 lead by the Chiefs with five minutes to play is generally safer than a win bet on the race horse Cigar. Not this time, though.

Troy scored with 4:41 to play and again with 52 seconds left Monday night to gain a 2-2 tie with Canton in a match played on Plymouth's field.

"It was not good for us," Chiefs' coach Don Smith said, "but it was a good spectator game.

"They're a good team. We just didn't hang on -- although we missed a shot, just wide, with about two seconds left. It just beat the buzzer as it snuck past the post.

"So it could have been even more exciting, it but didn't quite make it."

Kevin Gniewek scored seven minutes into the game with an assist from Jon Page. The Chiefs added to their lead 20 minutes into the second half with Scott Wright scoring off an assist by Gniewek.

"We're playing pretty good soccer," Smith said after his team saw its record go to 5-2-3. "We've got some good ball games coming up.

"We didn't lose it, anyway. They had to come back to tie it. We feel bad, but we'll overcome that."

Canton played Farmington on Wednesday and was scheduled against Northville on Saturday.

The Chiefs defeated Farmington Hills Harrison last Saturday, 9-0, after trimming Westland John Glenn, 6-0, the previous Wednesday.

Assists were by Nick Wright, Jason Bennett, Matt Ammons, Demergis and Barnes.

Nick Wright and Scott Wright each scored two goals against the Rockets while sophomore Steve Epley and junior Brandon Anulewicz each had one. Assists were by Epley, sophomore Justin Fishaw and Jason Bennett.

Salem 4, Troy 3: Plymouth Salem built a quick, three-goal lead by the midpoint of the first half, but Troy narrowed the margin -- not enough, however, to catch the Rocks Saturday at Troy.

Tim Makins, Brett Konley and Rob Zdrodowski scored in the game's first 25 minutes to give Salem a 3-0 lead. The Colts narrowed the margin to 3-1 by halftime.

Konley's second goal of the match in the second half gave the Rocks the cushion they needed. Troy continued to cut into the lead, scoring three times on penalty kicks in the game.

Brent Mullin contributed three assists for Salem. Brian Wozniak (first half) and Andres Lopez split time in goal.

The loss left Troy with a 7-2 record.

Chiefs trail WLAA field in tri-meet

Farmington Harrison edged city rival Farmington High by two strokes Tuesday to win a triangular boys golf match that included Plymouth Canton.

The Hawks shot 213 at San Marino Golf Course, the Falcons 215 and the Chiefs 228. The match counted as a double dual for Canton but not Harrison or Farmington.

GOLF

Farmington's Derek Fox shot 40 to win medalist honors.

Just three strokes separated Harrison's top five golfers. Adam Tandon shot 41, Jeff Boxman 42, Brian Grohman 43, Dave Boak 43 and Chad Hines 44.

Also scoring for the Falcons were Pat Hickey (41), Tim Fluter (44), Jeff Thomas (45) and John Knight (45).

Sophomore Ben Tucker shot 43 to lead Canton. The freshman trio of Derek Lineberry, Matt Rosol and Brendan Wheeler shot 44, 45 and 46, respectively. Junior Matt Heiss rounded out the scoring with 50.

"Our freshmen and sophomore scored well today," Canton coach Tom Alles said. "We're very solid with our younger boys, but we're a little light for this year. We have some potential for the future.

"They're all playing hard; we're just in a real tough conference."

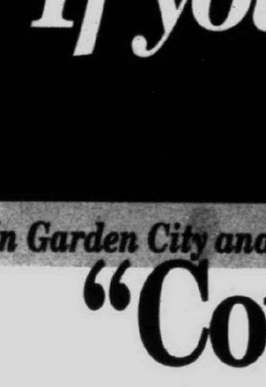
If you want more than just the highlights these are the guys to turn to:

In Garden City and Redford—

"Covering community sports is challenging."

We caught a glimpse of Steve Kowalski's sense of humor when he first told us why he enjoys doing what he is doing, "Coming home at three in the morning, paying for parking and hot dogs at the games..."



Then on a serious note he admits that it's the challenge that keeps him going, "Some of your sources are young, never been interviewed. It's fun and rewarding to do a good job."

Steve knew that when he scored only four points in Junior Varsity Basketball during his own high school days, that he had a better chance writing about sports than playing them. He's done it so well that he's received awards for it; the most recent in 1994 from the Michigan Press Association in their "top game story" category.

In Livonia and Westland—

"We have a good group of schools to cover."

When we asked Brad Emons what he enjoys most about covering community sports, he told us, "The people we deal with, from the coaches to the student-athletes, they truly appreciate the coverage—we cover a good group of schools from the smallest to the largest."

Brad began reading the major league box scores when he was still in grade school, wrote in high school and earned a degree in journalism from Franklin College in Indiana. He's been writing for your hometown newspapers since he graduated in 1977.

How does our coverage stack up? Brad says that unlike the metropolitan newspapers, "We cover a variety of prep sports and do it in-depth—both boys' and girls'. We're able to hit more than the highlights. We get to know nearly every high school coach and athletic director by their first names."

In Plymouth and Canton—

"It's real, it's serious, but it's also fun."

C.J. Risak is talking about SPORTS, of course.

When did he decide on sports reporting? "Early in my career, after being out in the real world. Sports is real, it's serious, but it's also fun."

One facet of the job C.J. especially enjoys is meeting people—the players and the coaches, "We get to know a lot of people first-hand," he said.

His enthusiasm and dedication is reflected in his writing. In 1994, he received a first place award from the industry for best sports column and second place for putting together the best sports section.

SPORTS ROUNDUP

SC stumbles

According to coach Nikki Johnson, Schoolcraft College's women's soccer team dominated play against their last two opponents. Problem is, the Lady Ocelots have only a tie to show for it.

SC traveled to Mount Pleasant to play Central Michigan University to a scoreless tie last Wednesday (Sept. 18). "We dominated," said Johnson. "We just didn't finish the ball."

Last Saturday against visiting College of DuPage (from Glen Ellyn, Ill.), the Ocelots did score. They just didn't score enough, losing 2-1.

"We played very well," Johnson insisted. "We just didn't play well enough to win. We didn't put the ball in the net."

DuPage opened the scoring, but SC battled back to tie it at 1-1 by halftime, getting a goal from Melissa Crain. DuPage, however, was the only team that could finish in the second half.

The Ocelots are on the road this weekend, off to North Carolina to play Brevard CC Saturday and Spartenberg Methodist Sunday.

Ace

Joe Wedesky of Canton used a six-iron to knock down a hole-in-one on the 144-yard 17th hole at Whispering Willows in Livonia last Thursday.

Wedesky, 43, has been playing golf seven years. It's his first hole-in-one.

Spawn champions

The Plymouth Spawn Pee Wee "A" hockey team was unbeatable at the prestigious Sylvania, Ohio, Early Bird Tournament last weekend, defeating four other teams from Michigan and Ohio.

Sponsored by McFarlane Toys, the Spawns, whose home ice will be the new Compuware Ice Arena in Plymouth, consist of Jason Burke, Nick Beaudoin, Sean Baltazar, Patrick Coldren, Michael Cook, Jeff Davis, Mikel Facchini, Corey Garbutt, Keith Hay, Ryan Kuczynski, Dan Path, Nathan Perkovich, Chris Ryan, Rob Sinclair, Spencer Thomson and Derrick Woodring. The team is coached by Mike Garbutt, Dennis Kuczynski, Rob Simsick and managed by Mike Vescoso.

Salem girls take 6th

Perhaps the final placing wasn't as impressive as one might have come to expect, but Plymouth Salem girls cross country coach Dave Gerlach was anything but disappointed.

"We fared pretty well," he said after the Rocks took sixth in a field of 16 at the Jackson Invitational. Ann Arbor Pioneer won with 76 points, followed by Rockford with 78. Salem scored 189.

"We ran with the big dogs," Gerlach explained. "That's why we went there. If we're going to have to see and hear about them all year, we might as well run against them."

Salem senior Nicole Bolton especially pleased Gerlach with her eighth-place finish (19:44). Kristie Giddings was 28th overall (20:23), with Evelyn Rahhal 43rd (20:51), Mari Disbrow 48th (21:02) and Ellen Stemmer 62nd (21:21).

Salem has a busy week ahead of itself, with two important duals sandwiched around Saturday's Dearborn Heights Crestwood Invitational. The Rocks run against North Farmington at 4 p.m. today, and meet Farmington in another important league dual at 4 p.m. next Wednesday. Both are at Oakland CC in Farmington Hills.

dence and move on," said Sillmon, who also grabbed a game-high seven rebounds. "The main goal coming into the game was to play as a team and I just wanted to contribute. But if I could get the team going, so be it."

"Angie did a great job giving us the jump start our offense needed," Thomann said. "She set the tone, and from there, the rest of the team picked it up."

Sillmon was one of six Rocks to score eight points or more. Heather Guerin netted a game-high 12 points off the bench, with eight of them coming in the game's final three minutes.

The Rocks also received 11 points each from Andrea Pruett and Merritt Walker and eight apiece from Laurel Weinman and Nikki Nauman.

Not to be left out is junior Amanda Abraham, who scored only two points but recorded 10 assists and three steals.

Mahogany Fletcher and Ari Ault led Harrison with 10 and eight points, respectively.

The Rocks took care of the ball in the first half, committing only four turnovers. The Hawks made 14 miscues in the first half, as they fell behind 36-17 at halftime.

Salem had little trouble breaking the Harrison full-court press. That success led to uncontested scores and Harrison foul trouble.

"It's the kind of press that if we don't play hard, you can give up a lot of easy baskets," Mantyla said.

"We've been working hard in practice against beating pressure because we know several teams in the league use it," Thomann said. "It's definitely a point of emphasis for us and I thought we did a very good job against it tonight."

Salem made sure there would be no letdown in intensity in the second half, as the Rocks scored the first six points of the third quarter.

The Hawk offense sputtered in the fourth quarter as they could only muster layups by Fletcher and Ali Ault. The Rocks won going away as they made seven-of-eight free throws in the final four minutes.

Both teams shot 67 percent from the line, Salem making 20-of-30 foul shots. Harrison converted 14-of-21.

Canton 56, Powers 38: Plymouth Canton's non-league game Saturday against visiting Flint Powers was a sweet one, with the Chiefs using strong second and third quarters to pull away from the Chargers.

The win pushed Canton's record to 7-1. Powers slipped to 3-3.

The Chiefs opened up a 15-9 lead after one quarter, but it was the next two that proved decisive. A 33-16 scoring advantage made sure of that.

Kristin Lukasik sparked Canton's second-quarter rally (a 17-8 burst) by nailing 2-of-3 three-pointers. Junior guard Melissa Marzolf enjoyed her best scoring game of the season, pouring in 18 points. Kristi Fiorenzi netted 12 and Nkechi Okwumabua finished with 10 points and eight rebounds.

Also, Okwumabua and Tiffany Williams combined to limit Powers' scorer Brandi Pickens to just seven points. Aimee Pearson led the Chargers with 16 points, 10 coming in the fourth quarter, when the outcome was decided; Canton led 48-25 after three.

The Chiefs had a commanding 31-19 rebounding edge.

And Canton committed just 11 turnovers in the game, something that didn't escape coach Bob Blohm.

"We're starting to pass and catch the ball better, which is good," he said. "Some good screens were getting Marzolf open.

"They play together and work hard. It's great coaching this group."

Agape 47, Greater Life 21: Plymouth Agape is hot.

The Wolverines won their sixth game in seven tries Monday night when they went to Pontiac and trimmed Greater Life Academy, 47-21.

Agape is now 2-0 in its league while Greater Life, 0-2 overall, dropped to 0-1.

Greater Life took a 10-9 lead after the first quarter but Agape made some defensive adjustments and recorded margins of 16-4 and 16-3 in the next two quarters.

Sophomore guard Kim Ther scored 14 points, grabbed five rebounds and had five steals while junior center Caley Mullen scored 12 points and had seven rebounds.

Jackie Ther had six points, four assists and four steals and sophomore forward Charlotte Sexton grabbed 12 rebounds.

Greater Life was led by Sarah Mitchell, who had nine points and two rebounds.

Both coaches agreed that the game was played tightly, compounded by closely called officiating.

"We wanted to make sure we were solid in the back," said McCarthy, who was missing three key players to injury – Scott Loewe (broken leg), Chris Curry and Aaron MacDonald.

Added Barrett: "When you have a game like this that puts pressure on both teams, the level often turns out low. It was just too cautious, not a synchronized game at all."

Maybe what Barrett needs is a pacemaker.

Salem, Canton face stern challenges

BY DAN O'MEARA
STAFF WRITER

Observerland still boasts four undefeated varsity football teams, but one will fall from the ranksof perfection this week.

That's because two, Westland John Glenn and Plymouth Salem, meet head-to-head in a key Lakes Division contest Friday at Salem.

Both are 3-0, just as Wayne Memorial and Redford Catholic Central.

The Shamrocks have a tough game in their Catholic League Central Division opener Saturday against Detroit DePorres (3-0) at Clarenceville.

But there's rarely an easy game on the CC schedule.

The Shamrocks beat the Eagles 35-6 last year, but CC has a lot of new starters and faces a senior-dominated DePorres squad.

"We've played three hard games and managed to win them," CC coach Tom Mach said. " I think we're getting better. Our kids have a little more experience now.

"I think we're in good shape right now. Going into the next several weeks, we'd better be."

CC plays unbeaten teams (as of this writing) in three of its next four games: Brother Rice, Orchard Lake St. Mary's and Divine Child.

Other key games have Northville at Livonia Franklin on Friday night, Plymouth Canton at Farmington Harrison on Saturday afternoon.

In the fall campaign, Brad Emons was 11-4 last and Dan O'Meara 10-5. Emons holds a two-game lead, 38-9 to 36-11.

GRID PICKS

FRIDAY GAMES
(all times 7:30 p.m. unless noted)

Redford Union at Dearborn, 4 p.m.: Dearborn (2-0, 3-0) recorded its 12th consecutive regular-season shutout Friday with its 48-0 win over Garden City. Including the playoffs, the Pioneers have won 13 of their last 14 games by shutout. The Panthers (0-2, 0-3) missed their best chance yet for a victory when they lost to Taylor Kennedy, 14-6. PICK: Another shutout? Either way Dearborn comes out ahead.

Churchill at W.L. Western: The Warriors (1-0, 2-1) looked like the real deal Saturday in beating Farmington Harrison, 14-3. Western dominated with an offense that mixed the pass and run and a quick, aggressive defense. The Warriors, legitimate contenders now for the division crown, have winless Churchill (0-1, 0-3) and Northville (0-1, 0-3) before facing Plymouth Canton and Livonia Franklin. PICK: Western marches on.

Northville at Franklin: It will be a historic night at Franklin High when the Patriots (1-0, 2-1) play their first night game under their new lights. A big crowd is expected for the inaugural event. Franklin has won two straight and needs another win against the Mustangs (0-1, 0-3) to stay on track heading into a challenging three-week run against the other Western Division contenders. PICK: The Patriots celebrate the occasion with a victory.

Farmington at Stevenson: This one has been close the last two years, and the teams appear evenly matched again. The Spartans won 7-0 two years ago in a game to decide the Lakes Division championship and 21-19 last year. Both teams lost their division openers, slipping to 1-2 overall, and need a win to keep from falling farther behind. PICK: It's another close one, but Stevenson keeps the streak going.

John Glenn at Salem: The Rockets (1-0, 3-0) are probably the favorite of most observers to win the Lakes Division, and a win here will help to confirm that notion. But Glenn can't be looking ahead to Oct. 11 and a showdown with Walled Lake Central. The Rocks (1-0, 3-0) have been the surprise team in Observerland this year, and they just might have another in store this week. Salem escaped with a 21-14 victory Saturday at winless North Farmington to give coach Tom Moshimer his 200th career victory. PICK: Glenn causes the Salem bubble to burst.

A.A. Huron at Garden City: After losing their first game to Saline, the River Rats (2-1) have won two straight over Lansing Everett and Dearborn Heights Robichaud. Mike Kosta's 33-yard field goal in overtime gave Huron a 9-6 win over the latter. The Rats like to relay on the passing arm of senior quarterback Nick Verska, son of coach Paul Verska. Even with the Dearborn game out of the way, it doesn't get any easier for Garden City (0-3). PICK: Rats! A win for Huron!

Wayne at Woodhaven: The Zebras (2-0, 3-0) saw their stock rise considerably with their 20-18 defeat of state-ranked Monroe. Wayne is a team on a roll and could well be 6-0, barring an upset along the way, going into its Oct. 19 showdown at Dearborn Fordson. After a big win, the Zebras have to guard against just such a letdown when they face winless Woodhaven (0-2, 0-3), which lost 45-6 to Wyandotte. PICK: Chalk up No. 4 for the Zebras.

Harper Woods at Clarenceville: Harper Woods (3-0, 3-0) had an impressive, 35-21 victory over crosstown foe Lutheran East last week and is atop the Metro Conference standings. The Trojans (1-2, 1-2) knocked off previously undefeated Bloomfield Hills Cranbrook for their first victory Saturday, but the Pioneers will be a more formidable foe. PICK: Harper Woods stays unbeaten.

SATURDAY GAMES
(all times 1 p.m. unless noted)

Canton at Harrison: The Hawks (0-1, 2-1) couldn't stop Western QB Frank Stanford's running and passing, so what will they do against Canton quarterback Rob Johnson? Johnson ran for three touchdowns, including a 71-yarder, and passed for two in Canton's 41-14 win over Northville. Defending champ Harrison must find its offense again and win, or be out of the division race after only two games. The Chiefs (1-0, 2-1) have won two straight and, like a shark, smell blood; they sense Harrison can be taken. PICKS: Harrison rebounds in a close game, says O'Meara, but Emons predicts a Canton victory.

W.L. Central at N. Farmington: The Raiders (0-1, 0-3) played unbeaten Salem to a draw, and who knows what might have happened if the Rocks hadn't recovered an errant snap in the end zone for the winning TD. North's first three opponents are 7-2. The Vikings (1-0, 2-1) roared back from a loss to Canton and routed Farmington, 42-13. The key questions: Will injured North QB Brad Rivers play? Will Central's size wear down the Raiders? PICK: Central wins its third.

Allen Park at Thurston: The Eagles (1-1, 2-1) have been the hardest team in Observerland to predict. Regardless, Thurston's 36-19 defeat of Crestwood was an eye opener. Matt Koskie ran for two TDs, and Mark Dombrowski passed for two. Now, if the Eagles can do it again this week, we will really be impressed. Thurston faces perennial Mega-Blue power and Class BB finalist Allen Park (2-0, 3-0). The Jags coasted to a 39-6 win over Annapolis in which the Allen Park defense had seven interceptions. PICKS: Allen Park is still king of the hill.

Memphis at Luth. Westland: The Warriors (2-1, 2-1) sent the Hamtramck Cosmos into orbit Saturday by taking a 34-8 win, their second straight after a loss to Harper Woods. Lutheran takes a break from Metro Conference play with a non-league game against the Class C Yellowjackets (1-2) from the Thumb area. Memphis beat Capac 27-19 and lost to New Haven 36-33 last week. This is the last of four straight road games for the Jackets, who play their last five at home. PICK: Another win for the Warriors.

St. Agatha vs. A.A. Richard at RU's Kraft Field: The Aggies dropped to 0-3 by losing to Cardinal Mooney, 30-20. They start Catholic League C-Section play this week. Gabriel Richard has been an easy win in recent years, but the Fighting Irish are 2-1 so far. They racked up 413 yards rushing last week in a 54-0 win over St. Florian. Richard also beat Tekonsha (26-0) but lost to East Catholic (28-6). PICK: Richard take a turn at winning.

Borgess vs. East Catholic at Detroit Denby: Both teams are 2-1 and picked to finish at the bottom of the Catholic Tri-Sectional. Borgess rebounded from a loss to Mount Clemens to beat Inkster 24-14. The Chargers lost to DePorres (40-0) and beat Ann Arbor Richard (28-6) and Ecorse (62-0). PICK: The home field tips the advantage in favor of East Catholic.

Redford CC vs. DePorres, 7:30 p.m. at Clarenceville: This one matches the No. 1 Class AA team (CC) against the No. 1 CC team, the defending AA champ against the defending CC champ. Both are 3-0. The Eagles have beaten East Catholic, Villanova (Ontario) and Bishop Foley. The Shamrocks have played the tougher schedule with victories over Pershing, Ann Arbor Pioneer and DeLaSalle. DePorres is led by quarterback Kevin Glenn, a four-year starter. PICKS: The Eagles have won by impressive scores but haven't seen a defense as good as CC's. The Shamrocks eke out a win.

Late touchdowns lift Shamrocks

FOOTBALL

It's good to be lucky, but very often in athletics you'll find you also have to be good to be fortunate.

And Redford Catholic Central, ranked No. 1 in Class AA, was both Saturday night, coming up with two late scores to remain undefeated with a 14-0 win over host Warren DeLaSalle.

Junior fullback Chris Dueweke scored on runs of 4 and 3 yards following late fourth-quarter turnovers to give the Shamrocks their win in a game delayed a half-hour by lightning followed by a steady rain.

Rich Deptula recovered a DeLaSalle fumble on the Pilots' 12 and the 6-foot-1, 215-pound Dueweke carried in from the four. The Shamrocks missed the extra point and led, 6-0, with 5:42 to play.

DeLaSalle then fumbled the kickoff with Jason Marzec falling on the ball for CC at the 11.

Dueweke got the call four times in a row and his last rush was successful from three yards out. Just to make sure, he also ran in the two-point conversion to make it 14-0 with 3:30 left.

The Shamrocks held a 185-47 edge in total offense in the game, played at Roseville's Memorial Field, and a 13-5 margin in first downs.

Dueweke, a junior fullback, was a workhorse, rushing 24 times for 93 yards. CC had a total of 148 yards on the ground in 46 attempts.

Quarterback Greg Call completed half his eight passes for 37 yards and also picked up an interception on defense.

DeLaSalle was held to 28 yards rushing in 17 tries and only 30 through the air (4 of 7).

Linebacker Milam Brooks was in on eight tackles, four solos, for the Shamrocks with defensive tackle Brian Douglas, subbing for the injured Dan Dominguez, recording 10 tackles (eight assists) with one of CC's four sacks.

Gino DiGianDomenico also recovered a fumble.

•MOONEY 30, ST. AGATHA 20: There is good news and bad news about Redford St. Agatha's 0-3 start to the football season, which includes a 30-20 loss last Saturday at Marine City Cardinal Mooney.

The good news is the Aggies lost five games last year and still qualified for the Class D playoffs.

The bad news is the Aggies are about to embark on the tough part of their schedule, which might make five losses an ambitious goal at this point of the season.

St. Agatha hosts Ann Arbor Gabriel Richard on Saturday at Howard Kraft Field, followed by consecutive dates with Royal Oak Shrine, state powers Waterford Our Lady of the Lakes and Centerline St. Clement and up and coming Pontiac Notre Dame Prep.

St. Agatha coach Gary Tuz believes the Aggies wasted a chance at victory against previously-winless Mooney.

Senior fullback Chris Opalka got the Aggies started fast, scoring on a 97-yard run on their first play from scrimmage for a 6-0 lead.

Opalka finished with 170 of the Aggies' 265 yards rushing.

Wesley Shaw scored the Aggies' other touchdowns on runs of 8 and 12 yards.

The Aggies led 14-8 at halftime before losing their hold on the lead in the second half.

"We had them on the ropes, we should have beat them," Tuz said.

Mooney scored once after blocking a St. Agatha punt and another time after recovering an Aggies fumble. Each play occurred deep in St. Agatha's territory.

"We keep making theose dumb mistakes at inopportune times," Tuz said.

Tuz moved Mike Fenbert, the starting quarterback in the first two games, to tight end to get better blocking on the end. Mike Simpson was the starting quarterback and he completed three passes, including two to Fenbert.

"The offensive line (Tim Kennedy, Tijuan Maddox, Shawn Manar , Scott Carsell, Joe Godinis) is blocking great," Tuz said. "The quarterback was never in danger of getting sacked, they were opening monstrous holes for people."

BILL PARKER

"G" is good! "D" is dangerous!

That's the simple way to differentiate between the two ballot proposals dealing with our hunting heritage and slated to be on the ballot when the polls open on Nov. 5.

Proposal G, The Wildlife Act, which was sponsored by republican senator Matt Dunaskiss of Lake Orion, received broad-based bipartisan support in the Michigan legislature,and was signed by Governor John Engler _ is supported by conservation groups statewide including Citizens for Professional Wildlife Management, Michigan United Conservation Clubs, Michigan Boating Industries Association and many others. Proposal G would leave decisions regarding the preservation and well-being of Michigan game and wildlife up to the Natural Resource Commission. Under Proposal G the Commission would oversee all wildlife and game management decisions, with ample opportunity for public input in the decision-making process. Proposal G would leave these decisions up to professional wildlife managers who use sound scientific principles to manage wildlife.

Proposal G is an endorsement for the Michigan Department of Natural Resource's outstanding record in wildlife management over the past 75 years. That management strategy, which includes regulated hunting as a management tool, has produced outstanding results. For instance, there are more whitetail deer in Michigan right now than there were at the turn of the century; elk and turkey populations, which were nearly non existent in the early 1900's have now been restored and are thriving; the black bear population is in excellent shape with a growing population estimated at 10,000 animals. All of these species, with the aid of managed hunting, are now living in harmony with the carrying capacity of the available land.

Thanks to professional wildlife management, Michigan offers some of the best hunting opportunities in the nation, and still provides plenty of wild game for public viewing and photographic opportunities. No species has ever become extinct because of managed hunting.

Proposal D: The C.U.B. initiative, which is financed by a couple of wealthy Michigan land owners and out-of-state animal rights groups _ seeks to eliminate two scientifically-proven techniques for hunting bear in Michigan. Proposal D seeks to ban the use of bear hounds and bait in harvesting a bear _ the way 95-percent of Michigan's black bear are taken. If proposal D passes it will severely restrict the Michigan Department of Natural Resource's ability to manage the state's largest predator.

Last year, with the use of dogs and bait, 5,652 bear hunters killed 1,458 bear in Michigan. Contrary to what the non-hunting, animal-rights activists claim it is not easy to hunt a bear with bait or dogs. That fact is underlined by the 25.8-percent success rate. If these techniques were really "unsporting" and made it "easy" to kill a bear, as the animal-rightists will try to make you believe, wouldn't the success rate be up somewhere at least above 50-percent?

Take away these two time-honored techniques and you have essentially killed bear hunting in Michigan. Driving and glassing bear the way they are hunted in other states, won't work here because of the vast swamps and tracts of wilderness in bear country _ primarily the Upper Peninsula. Take away these two techniques and you'll have an exploding population of unmanaged predators.

Michigan only has so much wilderness left in which bear can prosper. Through regulated hunting, wildlife managers are able to maintain a viable bear population which is in harmony with the carrying capacity of the available land. If the population exceeds that carrying capacity _ because hunters will no longer be able to harvest 1,400 bear annually _ a number of events will likely occur:

- Nuisance complaints will rise because bear will be pushed into the fringe of populated urban areas.
- Camper and hikers will undoubtedly be threatened by rummaging bears who will have lost their fear of man.
- Property and crops will be damaged from the growing, unmanaged bear population.
- Poaching will increase as property owners randomly kill nuisance bears to protect their investments.
- The status of the black bear will diminish from a prized game animal to a varmint.
- Eventually, nature will step in and manage the population through disease and starvation.

Although passage of Proposal D would be a disaster for the black bear, another frightening aspect of the proposal is that it is supported and promoted by animal-rights activists who admit their ultimate goal is to end all hunting. Passage of Proposal D is the first step in achieving that goal in Michigan.

COLLEGE SPORTS ROUNDUP

Lady Crusaders make top 20 poll

Ranked No. 17 in the first NAIA poll, the Madonna University women's volleyball team continued its winning ways by downing Hillsdale College in a match Tuesday, 12-15, 15-3, 15-9, 15-9.

The host Lady Crusaders improved to 18-2 overall with the victory, including a perfect 10-0 mark against NCAA Division II squads.

Senior Kelly McCausland (Redford Union) led the winners with 27 kills, 14 digs and three solo blocks.

Setter Meg Paris added 42 assist-to-kills and 10 digs.

Other contributions came from Julie Martin (15 kills/4 solo blocks); Karin Sisung (10 kills/7 digs); Heather Steinhelper (7 kills/18 digs); Erin Gregoire (9 digs); Erin Comment (6 kills/14 digs).

The one-two punch of McCausland and Martin, along with the passing of Paris, carried last year's NAIA national qualifiers to three straight victories Saturday in the Tri-State (Ind.) Invitational.

All three were named to the All-Tournament.

Madonna posted victories over Mount Vernon (Ohio) Nazarene, 15-5, 15-11, 15-9; Tri-State, 15-4, 15-6, 15-8; and Goshen (Ind.), 15-8, 15-8, 15-7.

It was Madonna's third tournament win in four starts this season.

McCausland had a total of 35 kills, while Martin added 27. Sisung added 19.

Paris was the team's top passer with 76 assists.

Deanne Helsom had a team-high 12 against Tri-State. Gregoire led the defense with 19 digs.

On Sept. 19, Madonna had little trouble at Siena Heights sweeping the Saints, 15-0, 15-1, 15-2.

McCausland paced the Lady Crusaders with eight kills in 12 attacks. Steinhelper recorded four service aces and four kills.

Paris and Helsom took care of the setting, collecting 28 and 25 assists respectively.

SC beats Henry Ford

Schoolcraft College won a key Eastern Conference match Tuesday with a 15-13, 15-11, 10-15, 15-7 win over Henry Ford.

The Lady Ocelots, who overcame a 10-1 deficit in the opening game, improved to 9-5 overall. Both teams are 2-1 in the conference.

Michelle MacRae led the winners with 25 kills, 43 digs and 7 blocks.

Other standouts included Hermina Angeles (13 kills/35 digs), Yvette Sixbey (15 kills/6 blocks), Amber Wells (48 assists), Jamie Clark (22 digs), Mindy Sullivan (19 digs) and Stacy Sailus (5 kills/5 blocks).

Over the weekend, Schoolcraft finished 2-3 in the Rock Valley Invitational.

On Sept. 19, Clark's first volleyball match as a collegiate setter, was successful as she led SC past visiting Oakland Community College, 15-10, 15-10, 12-15, 15-9.

Clark, from Livonia Churchill, recorded 34 assists. She also kept OCC off-balance with a tough spin serve.

Leading the way on offense for Ocelots was Angeles, who had 15 kills and 12 errors in 47 attempts. Sullivan, the freshman from Churchill, added 12 kills with three errors in 28 attempts. She also led Schoolcraft with two service aces.

Other contributions came from MacRae (6 kills), Sailus (5 kills) and Garden City's Sixbey (4 kills).

Angeles added a team-high 26 digs. Wells, from Plymouth Canton, played a strong defensive game with eight kills.

Madonna captures exhibition match, 3-0

Madonna University won the neighborhood men's college soccer battle in an exhibition match Saturday at Riley Middle School in Livonia.

The Fighting Crusaders blanked Schoolcraft College, 3-0, as Christian Emert, Scott Emert and Brock Becker scored goals. Jason Stempien had two assists, while Becker added another.

Schoolcraft falls to 4-4-2.

The game does not count on the regular season record for the Fighting Crusaders.

"Both of their goals were crossed in," Schoolcraft coach Van Dimitriou said. "I thought we dominated play and put a lot of pressure on the ball, but we just couldn't finish.

"We also had a goal disallowed by a handball. I think if we had scored on that play, it would have lifted our kids up. But we kind of sagged."

ROUNDUP

•MADONNA 5, FINDLAY 3: The Fighting Crusaders (5-2 overall) scored a come-from-behind 5-3 victory over visiting University of Findlay (Ohio) in a match at Livonia Ladywood.

The Crusaders fell behind 2-0 in the first half, but battled back to tie the game at 2-2 on consective goals by Christian Emert before the intermission. Emert now leads the team with seven goals.

Madonna added second-half goals by Rob Vega (Livonia Franklin), Jason Stempien and Seamus Rustin. Scott Emert recorded three assists.

"I think our team showed a lot of heart and courage coming back from a two-goal deficit to tie the game before the half," Madonna coach Pete Alexander said. "Then, we scored another goal that was taken away (on an offsides call), but we rebounded and kept playing our game.

"This was one of the first games that we've truly played as a team. Everyone palyed with each other and I think it showed. I think we're finally gelling as a team. We're not playing for personal goals."

•SCHOOLCRAFT 3, DELTA 0: Livonia Stevenson product Mike Minicilli scored a pair of goals Sept. 18, leading the Ocelots past host Delta in an Eastern Conference match.

Igli Vokopola added a goal for Schoolcraft, now 3-1 in the conference.

Goalkeeper Joe McCarty posted the shutout.

The Ocelots met Macomb Community College in another Eastern Conference match on Wednesday (Sept. 25). SC returns to action again 1 p.m. Saturday at home against St. Mary's, a club team Madonna beat earlier this season, 13-0.

Walled Lake Western smothers Harrison, 14-3

BY DAN O'MEARA
STAFF WRITER

Walled Lake Western pumped new life into what it hopes will be another dream football season Saturday.

The Warriors rebounded from a loss to Westland John Glenn and dominated host Farmington Harrison, the defending Western Lakes Activities Association champion, for a 14-3 victory.

Both teams are 2-1 overall.

It was a fine start in the Western Division for the Warriors, who hope to repeat their 1992 success when they took their only other win over Harrison and won the WLAA.

"We knew we couldn't lose today and win the division," Western coach Chuck Apap said. "If you don't beat the Hawks, you don't win a championship.

"We have a dream, but this is only one fifth of the dream. We're one fifth of the way in our division, but it won't mean a thing without the other four."

The way Western dominated the game, outgaining Harrison 392-121 overall, was as much a surprise as the final score.

The Warriors never allowed the Hawks to establish their offense, using their defensive quickness to stifle Harrison's running game.

Western's defensive front of Kevin Crane, Jason Brewer, Russ Thompson and Adam Armitage kept quarterback Kevin Bambenek under pressure all game and registered five sacks.

Offensively, the Warriors went for it all right away and struck for points.

On their first play from scrimmage, Frank Stanford found Adam Lloyd wide open down field on a reverse pass for a 75-yard touchdown and 7-0 lead after Pat Gibson's extra point.

"We've been setting that up since our scrimmage," Apap said. "We've been running that and letting everybody see it, but we kept the split end in to block. This was the first time we ran the pass pattern.

"(Coach) Bob Kefgen said, 'Let's open with it. Let's go right at them and let them know what we came here for.'"

Harrison coach John Herrington said his coaches knew what was coming when Stanford lined up at wingback instead of quarterback.

"It's not what the coaches expect, but what the players expect," he said. "Obviously, we didn't have them ready for it."

The Warriors could have led 17-0 at halftime but failed to take advantage of other opportunities.

Gibson missed a field-goal attempt from 25 yards, Francis Gojcaj's interception stopped another drive and the half ended with Western on the Harrison doorstep.

The Warriors had third-and-goal at the 1 but fumbled. With no timeouts left, they hurried to line up for a field goal, but Ed Hight intercepted a Jason Bishop pass.

Western had 208 total yards in the first half and Harrison 25.

"I told the kids, 'Hey, you're the better team. They have eight guys going both ways; we have one or two; we're going to wear them down.' But they got me scared in the beginning," Apap said.

Harrison closed the gap to 7-3 early in the third quarter with Zack Cornwell's 23-yard field goal, and Western failed to capitalize after two straight Harrison turnovers.

Gibson missed field-goal tries from 48 and 42 yards when the offense ground to a halt.

"He had a bad day," Apap said. "I had to yell at him on the sideline, because he was letting it bother him. But he came back and punted well.

"You don't want to let a team like Harrison hang around town. I was just hoping it wasn't going to bite us. Once we scored again, then we're up 11; they had to drive the field, and they weren't going to do that against our defense."

Western all but clinched the win with a 76-yard drive in just six plays early in the fourth. A 43-yard run by Scott Naz, after he was nearly stopped in the backfield, led to Dave Johnson's 20-yard touchdown run.

"The (Glenn) loss looked worse than it was; we had five turnovers," Naz said. "We knew we could play with the best teams; we just had to come out here and execute like coach said. Now we have to keep it up. This is going to set the tone for the season."

Herrington said he thought the play of the game was Western linebacker Nick Gerhard's interception on Harrison's next possession after making the score 7-3.

"If we had scored there, it could have been a little different," Herrington said. "Basically, we didn't move the ball and had trouble protecting the passer -- and that was the story of the game.

"Our defense played well most of the day. But you can only bite the bullet so many times, and then it's going to bite you.

"Our division is very strong. It's just the first game of the division and not the last. There's a lot of football left."

Naz led a 240-yard rushing effort with 92 yards on just three carries. Johnson had 80 and Stanford 50 on 17 rushes apiece. Stanford completed his first six passes and was 6-of-7 for 152 yards.

Harrison had just 37 yards on the ground. Nick Shaieb had 32 on five attempts, Sean Sarsfield 26 on eight. Bambenek was 5-of-18 passing for 84 yards.

Albion's Lessway ties record

John Lessway's second collegiate rushing attempt was one for the record books Saturday.

The freshman fullback sprinted 97 yards for a touchdown Saturday in Albion College's 26-0 football victory over host Wabash in Crawfordsville, Ind.

The run tied a school record for the longest run from scrimmage and capped the scoring.

Lessway, an All-Observer linebacker at North Farmington High School last year, rushed for 3 yards on his first carry and had his first 100-yard rushing game as a college player.

Handing the ball to Lessway was junior Joe Pesci, a former Harrison High quarterback.

Stress relief is here

" 'Bubble Wrap' or air-sealed plastic packaging is a wonderful tension-reducer," according to Dr. Stephen Hayes, a clinical psychologist and director of an area mental health clinic. "The popping of each air-filled plastic bubble offers an immediate discharge of tension. It is an act which harnesses our destructive drive in a constructive way."

"When you think about all the inappropriate ways to discharge tension, popping Bubble Wrap is affordable, socially acceptable and quite harmless."

Plymouth businessman Michael Foley, owner of the Handle With Care Packaging Store on Ann Arbor Road, said such plastic packaging can reduce a shipper's stress in several other ways. It is fire retardant, anti-static which reduces electronic components from damage from static electricity, and allows lighter weight and shipping costs and faster wrapping.

Safety first

Oakwood Health Care System's "Keep Kids Safe!" team is gearing up with Valvoline Instant Oil Change to offer a special incentive for parents choosing to donate car seats not in use. During September, parents are encouraged to take unused car seats to any of the 27 Detroit-area Valvoline locations. In return, they will receive a $3 coupon toward their next oil change.

The Oakwood team will then restore the car seats and provide them to other area families in need. This is Oakwood's commitment to reduce the number one killer and health threat facing children 14 and under — preventable childhood injury and illness.

Call (800) FAST-CHANGE for information, or the Valvoline location nearest you.

7-year study underway

The National Institute of Health has awarded the Department of Urology at Henry Ford Hospital and William Beaumont Hospital $2.7 million for a seven-year study of the two most common drug treatments for benign prostatic hypertrophy, commonly known as enlargement of the prostate gland due to aging.

The condition is considered benign unless the enlargement causes an obstruction of the urethra. Symptoms include a slow or intermittent urine stream and incomplete emptying of the bladder. The study will determine if drug therapy stops progression of the disease, thus eliminating the need for surgery or if it just delays surgery. Patients may enroll in the study if they have BPH symptoms and are at least 50 years old. Eligible patients include: those who had no medical or surgical treatment of BPH symptoms, have not been on alpha blockers for the last year and have never taken Proscar. All aspects of the study — medication, blood studies, procedures and office visits — are free.

For more information, call Henry Ford Hospital's Urology research Office at (313) 556-8972 or William Beaumont Hospital's Urology Research Office (810) 551-3565.

State contract awarded

Southfield-based Claimspro Health Claims Services, Inc., a prescription drug manager, will begin administering the prescription drug claims of many Michigan groups formerly administered by Pharmacy Network, including those of the Michigan National Guard, the Michigan Emergency Prescription Program for low-income seniors and Hospice of Michigan.

Upshaw reaccredited

The Upshaw Institute for the Blind, formerly the Greater Detroit Society for the Blind, has been reaccredited by the National Accreditation Council for Agencies Servicing the Blind & Visually Handicapped. This is the organization which sets standards for those working with the blind.

The accreditation involved a comprehensive self-study of the agency, the staff and governing board. "The process helps us recognize our strengths as well as our weaknesses and guides us toward the specific improvements we require," said Peter D'Angelo, Upshaw board president.

BOTSFORD TAKES NEW VIEW ON LONG-TERM CARE

BY CASEY HANS
STAFF WRITER

Health care has stepped out of the past, and into a bright future with the grand opening of new, three-story, 179-bed nursing facility on the grounds of the Botsford Continuing Care Corporation's campus in Farmington Hills.

Called the Botsford Continuing Health Center, corporation president and administrator of the new facility, Linda Mlynarek, views the new facility as " a continuum of health care." It is on the campus with Botsford Commons — independent cluster housing — and also apartments and other services aimed at people 50 and older.

Like other health care providers, Botsford is looking to improve both the image and level of care in long-term patient care, most commonly known as "nursing homes."

"We're still living with the old way of doing things," said Mlynarek, a Redford Township resident, who said the image of nursing homes hasn't always been the best. "We're still trying to come from under dark shadows of the past. The reason we've evolved into this is that people wanted more options. All that has changed based on consumer demand."

The type of facility opening in Farmington Hills is increasingly in demand as the population ages and medical care for the elderly and infirm progresses, Mlynarek said. In 1995, 34 million Americans were 65 or older and 3.6 million were 85 or older, according to United States census figures. The government estimates that the demand for long-term care will rise steadily until 2020 and double by the year 2040.

Although long-term care is offered to any adult over the age of 18, many with the need are elderly patients.

The new Botsford facility will be home to patients living in the older building, which was originally used as a suburban polio rehab clinic for children starting in 1920, and then converted into a teaching hospital for nurses. It was vacant for a time before becoming the Farmington Nursing Home in the late 1960s. Botsford purchased the property in 1984, and in the late 1980s, Botsford began planning for the future. The older building will be rehabilitated and used for other services.

"What a beautiful setting," said Sally Manns, who was a polio patient at age 19 in 1955. She visited the site during grand-opening festivities. "I had thought then what a beautiful place it was. It was really nice to come back."

The new Botsford building replaces the older structure, allowing a host of state-of-the-art features such as accessible showers with benches, patios that are safely enclosed but provide a view of woods, nearby condominiums and apartments. It includes 59 beds dedicated to subacute, or interim, recovery care; 60 beds for patients suffering from dementia-related illnesses such as Alzheimer's Disease and 60 beds for chronic care patients who are typically bed-bound.

Each unit includes common dining areas, entertainment centers, pastel, rather than institutional colors, finished furniture and beds of every type made to look as homey as possible. It even includes a special floor covering imported from England that looks and feels like carpet, but can be mopped.

That homey environment is especially important for the population of dementia patients, which includes those with Alzheimers.

According to local statistics, 1.4 million Americans currently have the dementia-based disease, with 60,000 of those in the metro-Detroit area. Some 4 million are expected to develop the disease in the next several years.

"About 50-60 percent of people in long-term care facilities have a dementia," said Dian Wilkins, executive director of the Alzheimer's Association-Detroit-Area Chapter. "We really think they do need some special care." Through special environments, she said patients are able to enhance memory skills, communicate better and deal with difficult behavior sometimes associated with the disease.

She attributes both the "graying of America" and the awareness of such disease to the growth of (reported cases of) diseases such as Alzheimers, which require more long-term care.

Kelly Fulkerson, a Livonia resident and director of education and training for the local Alzheimers Association, said the idea for special care units has been around since the early 1980s, but that many organizations are now expanding to offer this type of in-patient help.

She suggests that consumers who are researching long-term care facilities for a dementia patient, ask just what makes the facility special.

"It should have a home-like atmosphere," she said, including special windows and wall treatments, special activities, and special set-ups to deal with the wandering patient. Often, Alzheimer's patients will wander, and may become lost. Safe porches will allow patients to view the neighborhood and adjoining woods without wandering away.

"The more environment you can bring in, the better it is for our well-being," Mlynarek added. "God dealt them (these patients) a raw deal — let's make things as comfortable as possible."

Future of long-term care costs uncertain

BY CASEY HANS
STAFF WRITER

There are more questions than answers about the future of long-term health care, said one local watchdog of nursing homes and similar facilities in Michigan.

Mike Connors of Citizens for Better Care said the many new and upgraded facilities for long-term care are good, with "promising programs planned."

"There is a great desire by a lot of advocates . . . to offer (consumers) more choices," he said, which is being discussed among those involved in the national health care debate.

But many issues lay beyond the average person's control, he said.

For example, Connors wonders how people will pay for this long-term care. Will only those with private savings be able to afford it? Will less beds be available for those only covered by Medicaid?

Another issue, he said, is the impact of a managed care system for long-term care. Such a program could be instituted in the next several years and managed through the Medicaid system.

"There are all sorts of possibilities," he said. "More choices — that's the good side. The question is whether fee rates will allow them (patients) to purchase appropriate services of decent quality."

And, he continued, how will the providers of health care (under such a system) be selected and monitored?

Linda Mlynarek, director of Botsford Continuing Health Center, believes today's consumer, should consider looking at long-term health care insurance to help take care of them in the future.

"It's a piece of the pie, as consumers, we really need to examine," she said. "People need to do their homework. We cannot afford, as citizens, to overtax this Medicaid system.

"We need to take some social responsibility for that."

Caring for Our Aging Population

- In 1995, 34 million Americans were age 65 and older; 3.6 million Americans were age 85 and older.
- By the turn of the century, the number of Americans age 85 and older is estimated to be 4.3 million. Between 2020 and 2050, the number is expected to jump three-fold, from 6.7 million to 18.9 million.
- An aging baby boom generation will mean a increased demand for skilled nursing care. It is estimated that the number of long-term care residents will rise steadily until 2020 and then double by the year 2040.
- Long-term care facility population age 85 and older is expected to triple from 1990 to 2050.
- Skilled nursing facilities across the country are adjusting to provide for more than just the long-term care needs of an aging population. According to the American Health Care Association, increasing numbers of nursing facilities are shifting from traditional long-term care to a more specialized level of service as patients are discharged earlier from hospitals as soon as is medically feasible.

Have a heart: Walk to prevent disease Oct. 5

Participants in the upcoming Metro Detroit Healthy Choice American Heart Walk on Saturday, Oct. 5 will have a chance to fight America's No. 1 killer and disabler: cardiovascular disease.

The Detroit-area walk, being held 9:30 a.m. Saturday, Oct. 5. at the Detroit Zoo, is one of more than 900 walks around the country expected to draw four million participants.

In addition to getting all Americans involved in a simple and fun exercise — walking — and educating them about good nutrition, the walks will raise more than $17 million to support cardiovascular research and heart-healthy lifestyle programs.

Those collecting $100 or more will receive an event T-shirt and be eligible for prizes. Call 1-800-AHA-USA1 for more information on the walk, which is sponsored by the American Heart Association and Healthy Choice.

Following are recommendations for preparing for the Oct. 5 event, or just walking for fun:

■ Fuel up — Try a pre-exercise meal low in fat, high in carbohydrates and moderate in protein which is easy to digest and supplies the body with glucose to fuel muscles. Ready-to-eat cereal with skim milk, pancakes or waffles with syrup and toast with jam or jelly are all good choices.

■ Perfect your posture — Stand straight. Walking with an upright posture keeps your body aligned so that it can move more efficiently with minimum strain and effort. Keep your head level and your chin up.

■ Get Into the Swing — The arm swing transfers walking into a total body activity. Keep your elbows bent at a 90-degree angle and swing from the shoulder. To maintain speed and control, do not let your hands reach behind you or higher than mid-torso. For balance, avoid crossing your arms.

■ Strengthen your stride — The heel of your leading leg should contact the ground at a 40-degree angle; never walk flat-footed or on the ball of your foot. If you want to increase your stride for a faster pace, thrust your leading hip forward and increase the pumping action of your arms.

■ Maximize efficiency — All your movements should contribute to propelling your body forward. Wasteful movements such as swinging your arms out to the side, or Call (313) 655-2943.

■ The Center for Behavior and Medicine is offering free depression screenings to the public at all three sites from 11 a.m.-1 p.m. and 5-8 p.m. Interested participants can simply walk in during those times or call for further information. Qualified counselors and therapists will be on hand to discuss the results of the self-administered screening. Call their Canton office at (313) 981-3800 for more information. Offices are also located in Ann Arbor and Brighton.

■ Couples looking to fulfill their Premarital AIDS class requirement before being allowed to marry can look to St. Mary Hospital. The class will meet in the Marian Pavilion Conference Room B near the Levan Road entrance from 7-8:30 p.m. Upon completion of the class, participants will receive the necessary certificate to obtain the marriage license. Certificates are valid for 60 days. Registration is required. To register call (313) 655-3314 or 1(800) 494-1615. The fee is $15 per person or $25 per couple.

kicking your feet to the side will only slow you down. Concentrate on keeping your feet one to two inches to the side of an imaginary line and keeping your feet, knees and arms forward.

■ Walk frequently — Try to work a fitness walk into your schedule three-to-five times each week, keeping your heart rate in your target zone for 15-60 minutes. The recommended target heart rate is 50 to 75 percent of the fastest your heart can beat in a minute. Figure your maximum heart rate by subtracting your age in years from 220, and then strive to keep your heart rate at 50 to 75 percent of that number.

■ Pick up some speed — Strive to walk at a speed of at least four miles an hour. That usually will drive your heart rate to at least 60 percent of its maximum.

Long-term health care: Do you really need it?

At the age of 91, Susan Earling died in a nursing home. She was in that home for 11 years, and since she didn't have the means to pay for it, her son went bankrupt. It is therefore appropriate to ask: What can people do to prevent this from happening to them?

One way to avoid such a disaster is to buy a long-term care policy. As a starter, look for the following features in a policy. The company should:

- Be rated A+ or AAA by at least two of the four rating agencies: Best, S&P, Moody's, and Duff and Phelps.
- Use front-end underwriting by requiring a physician's statement and/or medical records from the applicant. The procedure should also include a telephone or personal interview and/or genetic assessment. Such a procedure would help the company control future benefits.
- Liberally define the inability to perform activities of daily living that requires a commitment to a nursing home. Generally, a policy would cover a patient who is unable to perform at least two of the following activities: eating, walking, taking medication, bathing, dressing, and getting in and out of bed.
- Cover all levels of care, including skilled, intermediate and custodial care, respite care, and home health care.
- Not require prior hospitalization to start the benefit payments.
- Guarantee to renew the policy as long as the premiums are paid.

A good policy should also permit the following:

- Allow the insured to use any health care facility. People requiring only custodial care should be able to receive that care in a custodial facility.
- Pay either a fixed daily amount for home care – on average $100 – for six years, or a lifetime dollar amount, with $500,000 being desirable.
- Allow care management, a cost-containment feature that usually includes an assessment of the policyholder's long-term care needs. It also includes assistance in applying for programs, and help in negotiating fees from providers for the most effective and cost-effective care.

Here are the basic features of an attractive long-term care policy:

- A benefit of $100 per day is a good average number, although you may wish to choose a higher or lower amount to suit your needs.
- Non-forfeiture benefits provide for the return of premiums in case of the policyholder's death or policy lapse.
- Because a high rate of inflation plagues the nursing home industry today, it is appropriate to buy an inflation rider — a 5 percent simple benefit increase option. This increases the daily benefits annually on the policy's anniversary date by 5 percent of the initial benefit.

SID MITTRA

- The company should not exclude pre-existing conditions that exceed six months preceding the effective date of the coverage.
- Premium payment should be waived within 90 days once the policy's benefits are activated.
- While you can buy coverage for two, four or six years, or even a lifetime, it's most cost-effective to buy a policy that would cover you for six years.
- An elimination or deductible period is a waiting period measured in days. A 90-day elimination period offers a good balance. Remember though, that it will cost you $9,000 ($100 x 90 days) before your coverage begins.

Here are some of the attractive features of a long-term care policy:

- There should be no life-time limit on the benefits a policyholder can receive for all periods of care.
- The policy should allow the full restoration of the benefit period for a new period of care. The new period should begin when services are required for a new condition or a related condition developing after six months.
- The policy should cover Alzheimer's disease based on a physician's diagnosis.
- The policy should include an alternative plan of care benefit which will pay for medically appropriate services and supplies in a setting other than a nursing home. This care can be given in other settings, such as assisted living facilities which are licensed by the state.
- The policy should pay at least 75 percent of the eligible expenses for respite care during the plan of treatment.
- The policy should cover you if your doctor recommends that you enter a nursing home. This should hold even if you are able to perform all the functions listed in a typical policy.

Auto duo takes new opportunity

BY MARY QUINLEY
SPECIAL WRITER

"Retirement" isn't Bob Armstrong's favorite word when he talks about making a career change.

They say that "retirement means no responsibilities — (that's) not true," he said, referring to the recent announcement that he and his brother Tom have sold Livonia Buick Isuzu to new owners.

"We have a small leasing company (which) we are going to manage," he added.

Automobiles have been an integral part of Bob and Tom Armstrong's lives since the late-1950s when their dad operated a Buick dealership in Detroit. In March, 1973, the two brothers moved that franchise to the Plymouth Road location in Livonia.

"When we moved to Livonia, we suddenly found ourselves (in a place) much like a town — like a family. Our ideas get listened to, we know the city officials, and we both have the ability to get with them and talk with them," said Bob, a Plymouth resident.

He looks forward to his future as "an adventure . . . no grand tours planned or building a dream home . . . I'm too young for that."

Tom recalls the days of the early 1970s: "We drove through all the neighborhoods, looking at how many cars were in driveways. Buick did some research. They concurred (with us). Livonia was a growing community; it was a business community."

Tom, who lives in Orchard Lake, has been active for many years in local civic organizations. He served on the board of directors and as president of the Livonia Chamber of Commerce and was also president of the Rotary Club.

"I have a lot of friends and attachments (in both organizations). I suppose, just like anybody else, my days will be filled. Golf is a viable option; I might be working for the chamber. I will definitely have fun."

Any advice for young men and women who are considering managing a dealership someday?

"It's an excellent opportunity because you are always dealing with people and fresh new ideas," said Tom. "There is always the excitement of change because of the auto business. Service complaints are an opportunity.

"No one holds you back except yourself. I highly recommend it."

Bob added: "Be prepared to put a lot of time in. You have to be dedicated. Yes, I would do it all over again. There is something very exciting about new products and people."

Livonia Mayor Jack Kirksey has "mixed emotions" about the Armstrong's announcement.

"As others, I wish them the best. They knew people and operated as (if they were in) a small town. When someone went into their dealership (they were greeted) by a big smile and sincere handshake.

"They are very reputable business people who have contributed to the social scene. They will be missed."

Don't let 'Hare Krishna' zap computer

EMORY DANIELS

There's a new virus making the rounds that is causing some concern among PC owners. The "Hare Krishna" virus, more commonly known as the "Hare Virus," first struck on Aug. 22 and was scheduled to appear again on Sept. 22.

If the Hare Virus is not made totally ineffective by anti-virus software, we likely will be receiving alerts about potential outbreaks on Oct. 22, Nov. 22, Dec. 22, etc. What's the fascination with the 22nd? Its got something to do with the unfathomable machinations of a twisted, but likely brilliant, mind.

Reports I've heard is that the virus was picked up by subscribers to certain news groups on the Internet. But these are second-hand reports so I won't vouch for accuracy as to source of the Hare Virus.

Those misguided people who enjoy creating viruses are challenged to "outsmart" the anti-virus software reprogrammed to wipe out earlier viruses. So, this becomes an ongoing game — a game, unfortunately, that can have dire results on a user's files or hard drive.

The best protection is not only to install anti-virus software and run it regularly but to continually install the latest upgrades of anti-virus software so we are equipped to ward off the latest virus. Failure to upgrade is where most users fall short. And although actual virus infections are not as common as the virus alerts, the virus threat remains real.

The two major anti-virus software are products from MacAfee Associates and the Norton AntiVirus from Symantec. Others include Cheyenne Software, IBM, and Higher Ground."

McAfee's Web site is at http://www.mcafee.com/.

Go to http://www.mcafee.com/down/downeval.html and you can download a "personal evaluation" copy of their anti virus program. In mid-August, the McAfee did not contain any mention of the Hare Virus.

Symantec can be accessed at http://www.symantec.com/. Go directly to http://www.symantec.com/avcenter/hare.html and you will find information about the Hare Virus and you will be able to download the latest Norton AntiVirus definition set to detect and repair this virus if you already have the Norton AntiVirus program.

The people at F-prot also have written a program that will kill the Hare virus. The program is free by download from their Web site. I can't find my notes on F-prot but use any search engine and enter "F-prot" or play around with something like www.f-prot.com. Maybe you'll hit it quick.

Dr. Solomon's site at http://www.drsolomon.com/ provides free detection software. You will be asked to fill out a form and provide a little information about yourself or your company. Go directly to http://www.drsolomon.com/vircen/krsna.html for more information on the virus and from this page select "Evaluation FindVirus V7.63" to download a copy of the detection program.

To read an article on where you can find programs that kill the hare virus go to http://www.infoworld.com/cgi-bin/displayStory.pl?960816.virus.htm. Another information source to check is http://www.ttalk.com/table.html for daily computer news headlines and associated URLs.

CompUSA advises all computer users who share diskettes, use on-line services, or use the Internet, to install up-to-date anti-virus programs on their computers, regardless of their operating system.

There are trial programs available on the Internet, both freeware and shareware. Remember, though, that those who download anti-virus software protection won't automatically receive information about the latest upgrades, and thus may not be protected from the latest strains of a virus.

A variant of the "Hare" virus emerged on Aug. 22, but no one knows the actual size of the Hare outbreak. Furthermore, the experts disagree on its origin.

The "Hare" virus was first reported in the United States in May, and the first infections were traced back to news groups on the World Wide Web. However, the virus can be transmitted by users sharing diskettes as well.

According to Cheyenne Software, systems infected with the virus may exhibit symptoms before the scheduled eruption. One sign of an infection is that COM.files will grow by 7750, 7610 or 7786 bytes. Additionally, executable files will show growth in the same amounts or up to an additional 15 bytes.

Many Internet pages provide virus protection at their sites to prevent the spread of viruses, but the potential for infection exists anytime a computer user accesses or downloads files from the Internet.

To merely shut down a computer, or disconnect an Internet connection before the eruption date is not a good plan. By then, it could be too late.

PLYMOUTH FALL CELEBRATION

'Artrageous'

The third annual Plymouth is Artrageous Art Walk is the place to be this weekend, not only for visual art aficionados, but for music and theater fans as well.

The largest art event of the season, the walk includes nine galleries, and a host of activities sponsored by the Plymouth Community Arts Council including an exhibit of automotive designs by Center for Creative Studies students, a musical review saluting the 100th anniversary of automobile manufacturing, and a special showing of "The Rocky Horror Picture Show."

Visitors will be able to meet artists at each of the galleries. In addition, galleries will display artwork of students from Plymouth Canton Schools. On Friday night and Saturday morning students will create chalk drawings on sidewalks in competition for a $100 cash prize.

"We're making it bigger and better, but bringing the artists into the galleries is key. People will be able to watch the artists painting, sculpting and talking about their work," said chairwoman Annette Horn.

"It's a wonderful event for families of all ages, young and old. There will be violinists and saxophonists on the streets. It's a wonderful time of year to get out for a stroll."

A special screening of "The Rocky Horror Picture Show" will be presented with a live cast Extreme Lifestyles on Saturday night. Released in 1975, the cult film is a mix of classic horror/sci-fi, super-charged sensuality and outrageous fantasy. Horn envisions it as a wild, energetic community party.

"It's an audience participation movie, an experience you will never forget. The live cast performing during the movie will lead the audience through the warp dance and during the wedding everyone throws rice," said Horn.

Instead of hosting the arts at the new building, the Plymouth Community Arts Council will sponsor an array of arts related activities.

"Because the arts council building's renovations won't be completed until Nov. 15, we're presenting a revue with songs about cars and highlighting the designs of CCS students and tying it in with the anniversary of the automobile because the car is really a work of art," said Randy Lee, arts council executive director.

A 20-page guide to the art walk and music festival will be available at galleries in Plymouth.

Plymouth is Artrageous

What: An art walk featuring nine galleries and events hosted by the Plymouth Community Arts Council. Live street entertainment including a classical guitar duo, American bluegrass banjo player, and acoustical folk music.
Held in conjunction with the sixth annual Plymouth Music Festival Sept. 27-28 in Kellogg Park, a celebration of music featuring everything from blues to country (see schedule inside).
Where: Main Street, Ann Arbor Trail, and Penniman in downtown Plymouth.
When: Sept. 27-29. Hours are 7-10 p.m. Friday, 10 a.m. to 9 p.m. Saturday, and noon to 5 p.m. Sunday. For more information, call Annette Horn at Native West Gallery, (313) 455-8838.
Highlights:
- "The Art of the Car," an exhibit of futuristic automotive designs by Center for Creative Studies students in the windows next to Cafe Bon Homme on Penniman.
- Musical salute to the 100th anniversary of the automobile 7 p.m. Friday, Sept. 27 on Penniman (across from the post office where cars will be on display) no charge.
- Special screening of "The Rocky Horror Picture Show" with live cast 11:30 p.m. Saturday at Penn Theater, 760 Penniman. (Under age 17, will not be admitted. Props will be policed.) Tickets $5 available in advance at the galleries, or Plymouth Community Arts Council office, 774 N. Sheldon. Seating limited to 650 people.

Kachina Carver: Meet Hopi Kachina sculptor Michael Kahe, who carved this Mother Crow figure from a single piece of cottonwood root, at the third annual Plymouth is Artrageous Sept. 27-29.

■ The Animation Station, 298 S. Main Street, meet animator/production artist Nick Pritula who has worked on several Disney Interactive Projects including "The Hunchback of Notre Dame," "Pocahontas," "The Lion King," and "Babe."

Pritula currently works for Media Station in Ann Arbor and will demonstrate his animation skills. Steve Stanchfield, who has worked on many Disney productions and recently completed an animated short now appearing at the State Theater in Ann Arbor, will also be present.

Stanchfield is considered an expert in animation history, cel authentication and cel origin. He will demonstrate the animation process and will authenticate and appraise animation art.

■ Chameleon Galleries, Ltd., 370 S. Main, listen to Plymouth doll maker Ingrid Dijkers talk about her fairies, elves and mystical figures. Born in the Netherlands, Dijkers was stimulated by old folk tales and stories of real or imaginary personalities while traveling and living in Europe, Great Britain and South America.

■ Creative Farming and Gallery, 853 W. Ann Arbor Trail, painter Ruth Ann Mersino will be signing her works featuring waterfowl resting on ponds and deer eating winter corn. Much of the subject matter is taken from the countryside surrounding her 10-acre Ortonville farm.

■ Frame Works, 833 Penniman, award-winning photographer Maureen Electa Monte who focuses on heirloom black and white portraits of children. In 1995, she won Best of Show at the Celebrate Life exhibit.

■ Francis Jewelry Gallery, 470 Forest, photographer Michael Reynolds became interested in art at Plymouth Canton High School. His images capture the beauty of form, texture and light found in urban settings.

■ Gabriala's 322 S. Main, Nashville painter Dwayne Warwick loves to create garden scenes because their beauty is universal. A graduate of the University of Southern Mississippi, he says his watercolors are inspired by the Old Masters.

■ Native West Gallery, 863 W. Ann Arbor Trail, Hopi carver Michael Kahe will demonstrate his skill of sculpting Kachina dolls from a single piece of cottonwood root.

Kachinas are spiritual beings who serve as intermediaries between man and the Gods bringing rain for the crops and health for the villages. The dolls were originally made to teach the children about the different Native American dance ceremonies. According to Horn who owns Native West, "the root of the cottonwood is used because it's what gives the tree life; it's what gives the creation life."

■ Penniman Showcase, 820 Penniman, glass blower Rob Adamson, owner of Glass Eye Studio in Seattle, Washington and creator of Mt. St. Helens glass. The studios signature ingredient for their glass art is ash from Mt. St. Helens. Also, Penniman Showcase will introduce its latest limited edition dichroic glass ornament issued annually, and made exclusively for the gallery by Glass Eye Studio.

■ Wild Wings Gallery, 388 S. Main Street, Michigan pet painter Kim Hundley who will do a portrait of your dog or cat from your photos or from a photo session with the artist. Wild Wings will feature the work of Thomas Kinkade renowned for infusing light into his paintings to create romantic and tranquil scenes.

Band celebrates 'Blackwater Surprise'

STAFF WRITER

Robert Bradley may not be a legend, but his story has all the makings of one.

The blind street musician was singing near the corner of Griswold and State streets in Detroit trying to make a living, but young rock musicians at the White Room Studio in the Capital Park Building were drowning out his music.

"They were playing all this loud music and they had the windows open and I thought, 'I can't make no money, I'm (mad),'" Bradley explained in his blues cat voice.

But the music wasn't loud enough to block musicians Andrew Nehra and Jeff Fowlkes from hearing Bradley. Impressed with his soulful, raspy vocals, they came downstairs to offer their services to Bradley.

"Then here comes some stupid white boy," Bradley said to a collective laugh. "They said, 'Hey man you sing good, don't you want to make a demo of that?' I thought, oh no here's some more bull."

He declined their offer and packed up and moved to Alabama. Bradley had moved his performance to that corner after being kicked out of Eastern Market, a place he had called his musical home for years. Frustrated that he couldn't make money at Eastern Market, or at Griswold and State because of his noisy neighbors, so he went South.

Soon afterward, then-Mayor Coleman Young contacted Bradley and gave him the green light to come back to Eastern Market. It was only a matter of time before Bradley and the White Room Studio boys got together.

"I went down there (to the White Room) just before Christmas, on the 23rd of December. I got to singing, doing some acoustic stuff. Then before we knew it, that was it. We went to Austin, Texas, (to play the prestigious South by Southwest music conference), and we had a good time down there," Bradley said.

"We came back and got in the studio, Andrew, Jeff and I, and we did 'Trouble Brother.' It came out so good that we knew something was going on."

Apparently, RCA Records knew that something was going on too. The label swiped up Robert Bradley's Blackwater Surprise and released its self-titled debut album Tuesday, Sept. 17. The band celebrates the release with a party and performance Saturday, Sept. 28, at St. Andrew's Hall, 431 E. Congress, in Detroit. The band also includes Nehra's brother Michael on guitar, and keyboardist Jimmy Bones.

Bass player Andrew Nehra still looks back on those recording sessions with wonderment.

"As soon as we got together we just knew. It just worked. There was magic instantly," said Nehra of Ferndale. The original versions of "Trouble Brother" and "California" from that recording session appear on the album.

"What made it easy," Bradley added, "was that they were Motown listeners. I was influenced by a lot of the rock that was out there back in the '60s. That made the blend just work out. It's really not R&B, it's not really rock. It's just American. That's what I call it – plain American music."

"I met these guys and it was a stroke of genius on my part. I'm like their step-daddy and they do what I say," said Bradley who can get laughs as effortlessly as his lyrics come from his heart.

Born in Evergreen, Ala., 46 years ago, Bradley learned to sing in church and played in rock and R&B bands there until his family moved north during the mid-'60s when his father took a job at an engine-making plant.

Bradley dropped out of high school and kept himself fed and clothed by playing music as he traveled around the country. He strummed his guitar in coffeehouses and played piano in Baptist churches from Detroit to California.

"I would travel with my guitar across the country by myself. I quit because it got kind of dangerous. I got my guitar ripped off in a couple places. Then I settled here. I've been here off and on ever since the '70s, but I would go out to California when it got cold. The thing about it is back then, people weren't killing people for no reason. It wasn't as violent. I feel safe in Detroit. A lot of people talk about Detroit but Detroit's always been nice to me. If I run into any problems, I call the police and they take me home."

His experiences of cross-country traveling are charted in the first single "California." It recalls his discovering that the California dream was not all that it was supposed to be, which eventually led him back to Detroit – settling here for good in 1986.

Bradley is crisscrossing the country again – this time with the comfort of his band members and tour manager. His tour schedule includes dates with Maceo Parker and Leftover Salmon.

Moving his show from the streets to venues like St. Andrew's, the Fox Theatre in Boulder, Colo., or the Cubby Bear in Chicago, has been taken a little getting use to for Bradley.

"It's pretty cool. It's kind of hard because of the logistics of it and the fact that when I went down to the Market I would sing for five minutes and rest for an hour," Bradley said.

As a result of the band's constant touring, "California," in which Bradley sings "I never seen the stars shine in California, But I remember seeing the rain coming down," was the single most added to adult alternative radio stations' playlists the week of Sept. 16, according to Fowlkes. Andrew Nehra attributes that to the universal appeal of the band.

"It seems that whatever kind of audience we play in front of people can relate to it young or old. That's all because of Robert. He breaks all the barriers for us. He has an experience that none of us can relate to." Andrew Nehra explained.

"It's the kind of stories you hear about some of our favorite bands. It's supposed to be that way. You never know what's going to happen. It just feels right. People just really like the music."

RENOWNED CHINESE POTTERS TO SPEAK AT DIA

Chinese ceramists Pan Chungfang and Xu Chen Quan will appear at the Detroit Institute of Arts for a series of workshops and lectures on Yixing teapots. Teapots for Yixing, a pottery center of China have long been prized because they are considered the best vessels for brewing tea.

A teacher workshop will offered 9:30 a.m. to 4 p.m. Saturday, Sept. 28, and includes an informal tour of the Asian galleries. The fee is $25.

A lecture 2 p.m. Sunday, Sept. 29 at the DIA by Pan Chungfang and Xu Chen Quan will include a slide presentation of their work. Laurie Barnes, associate curator of the DIA's Asian art department will demonstrate how tea is made in Yixing teapots. Free with museum admission. For information, call (313) 833-4249.

GALLERY 222

"Black and White," an exhibit of new works by photographer Robert Zeichner will run Oct. 1-31 at Gallery 222, 22266 Michigan Avenue, Dearborn. Meet the artist 7-10 p.m. Tuesday, Oct. 1. Call (313) 565-9222.

Zeichner's newest works will include images from the Finger Lakes region of New York and Death Valley, California. States Zeichner, it has many times been said that the difference between color and black and white photography is a lot like the difference between seeing a movie and reading the book. Black and white images beg tremendous interpretive energy from the viewer. A fine black and white print exhibiting a broad range of tonality can elicit the perception of color in one's imagination. It is this extra level of involvement that draws the viewer into the image and makes them more of a participant than a bystander.

ARTS ASSOCIATION

The Garden City Fine Arts Association held their first meeting for the 96-97 year Sept. 4. New president Robert Sheridan of Livonia, provided a wheel and clay and demonstrated throwing the earthy material. Members were treated to a hands-on experience with clay as well.

Fenced Path: This scene photographer by Robert Zeichner is in Munising, Michigan.

The Art Gallery in Garden City, which exhibits many GCFAA members, recently participated in "Job Shadowing" with two ninth grade students when they indicated on a questionnaire that they would like to become artists. Gallery director Norma McQueen spent a day in the gallery with each student explaining various styles, mediums and background information on the artists.

For information about becoming a GCFAA member call McQueen, (313) 261-0379.

Recital features soprano

This year's schedule of free concerts at Schoolcraft College, 18600 Haggerty Road, Livonia, will please the most discriminating music lover .Call (313) 462-4400, ext. 5218 for information.

FINE ARTS

Plymouth Community Arts Council classes continue during renovations

LINDA ANN CHOMIN

Mary Mack of the Plymouth Community Arts Council called to say art classes will begin the week of Sept. 30 despite continuing renovation work to the lobby of its' building. The brightly lit art rooms were completed during Phase One of the project completed last spring. All art classes except for pottery will be held at the Joanne Winkleman Hulce Center for the Arts, 774 N. Sheldon Road. Pottery classes will take place at Plymouth Salem High School on Joy Road.

"People driving by might not realize we're still holding classes, but students will come in the back door," said art education director Mary Mack.

Fall is a great time to learn or brush up on drawing, painting, and pottery skills.

"We're offering classes for all ages taught by a wonderful roster of top quality instructors at different times and days to fit in with people's busy schedules," said Mack who is most excited about the ARTVenture classes for parents and children.

"ARTVenture is where the parent works with the child. It's for parents who would like to spend some quality time with their children."

In addition to ARTVenture, the arts council offers cartooning classes with Plymouth commercial artist/cartoonist Timothy Paul, watercolor for adults with Marge Chellstrop, creative drawing for children and adults with Canton artist Gwen Dietrich who graduated from Parsons School of Design in New York City after studying with children's book illustrator Maurice Sendak, a percussion workshop for children who have always wanted to play drums, a vocal training class, and a creative expressions class for pre-schoolers who read a story then make an art project dealing with the story.

"The process makes it so the story is really firm in their mind," Mack said.

Ancient Egyptian Art, an elementary-age class promises to be fun. Children will make their own costumes, design jewelry and create mummy cases.

"Last year one girl who made a costume wore it for Halloween," said Mack.

Prices for Plymouth Community Arts Council classes range from $45 to $73 and run for eight weeks. PCAC members receive a 10 percent discount. Annual fees are $35 for individuals; $50 for families, and $25, seniors/students. To register for classes call (313) 416-4ART.

Seniors on the Move

Transition between locations is always a challenge. Canton Parks and Recreation senior coordinator Diane Neihengen is looking forward to settling into the new art classrooms at Summit on the Park Community Center on Summit Parkway and Canton Center Road next to the library, township hall and Canton Public Safety complex. Formerly, classes were held in a building on Michigan Avenue.

"The move wasn't easy on the seniors but we're all adjusting. We have an excellent program with a two media class for which John Davison will teach painting like the Old Masters for the first six weeks and Sharon Dillenbeck, watercolor for the final six weeks of the course," said Diane Neihengen.

"Our seniors realize they have to keep learning. A lot of people asked us for a drawing class because they realize they need the basics to paint."

Besides drawing and painting, seniors can study basketweaving, machine quilting and fine crafts. Prices range from $11 to $24 for courses, or a $2 to $3 drop-in fee per class. For non-residents there is an additional 20 percent program fee.

There is no charge for woodcarving, and the quilters and handcrafters groups which meet in the spirit of fellowship. For more information or to register call Neihengen at (313) 397-5444.

Linda Ann Chomin of Canton Township is a freelance writer specializing in the visual arts. Her Artistic Expressions column appears weekly in the Arts & Entertainment section of the Observer Newspapers.

The Observer & Eccentric Newspapers and its Arts & Entertainment staff, applaud the efforts of gallery owners, community arts council members and individuals who promote fine arts in our communities. In anticipation of the 1996-97 season, we would like to meet with each of you as we address your concerns regarding our coverage of art shows, exhibits, and other fine arts events.

Discussion will also include ways to work together as we deliver the message, to the communities served by our newspapers.

—Arts are Vital—

This important exchange of ideas will take place in our Plymouth Observer office on Wednesday, October 9, at 6 p.m. Please RSVP to Keely Wygonik, Arts & Entertainment Editor, Observer & Eccentric Newspapers, 36251 Schoolcraft, Livonia, MI 48150 no later than 5:00 p.m. Friday, September 27, 1996.

Festival in Kellogg Park features local musicians

This year's Plymouth Music Celebration Sept. 27-28 at Plymouth's Kellogg Park will feature some of the finest artists in southeastern Michigan. For information, call (313) 459-6969.

Friday's free "Blues in the Park" concert will feature the Chisel Brothers with Thornetta Davis at 9:45 p.m. Also appearing will be Robert Noll (8:15 p.m.), Baked Potato (5 p.m.), Mimi Harris and the Snakes (7:15 p.m.), and the Mudpuppy (6 p.m.).

The "Taste of the Town" tastefest will also take place in the Gathering 5-9 p.m. Many of the area's top eating establishments will be featured. There is a charge for the tastefest, and proceeds help underwrite the festival.

Family Fun Days and the Country Music Festival take place at the park on Saturday. From noon to 3 p.m. there will be entertainment for the younger set. Programming for children features storytelling, kiddie rides, and games beginning at noon.

At 2:30 p.m. the Young Country "Plymouth Country Music Festival" will take the stage featuring Debi Samuels, the Forbes Brothers, and area favorites Hot Walker, and Storm Rider.

Also appearing will be Christian music group, "The Chapels" featuring Plymouth Police Chief Bob Scoggins.

The evening will conclude with a potpourri of musical styles — rock, jazz and reggae. Performers include Ten Second Dynasty (5 p.m.) Garden City's Lemon James (7:15 p.m.), an accomplished guitarist who regularly pays homage to the late Jimi Hendricks; Ino Ino (8:15 p.m.) and the reggae band Black Market (9:45 p.m.)

Featured performer: Guitarist Lemon James of Garden City will perform Saturday at the Plymouth Music Celebration.

Concert features Polish composers

Pianist Leszek Bartkiewicz will present a piano recital featuring Polish composers 4 p.m. Sunday, Oct.6 in the Shrine Chapel on the Orchard Lake Schools' campus in Orchard Lake.

Tickets are $10 in advance, $12 at the door, call (810) 683-0428 for information.

Bartkiewicz is on the faculty at teaching piano at Macomb Community College, and has performed extensively in Europe and the U.S.

Stanley Tucci's 'Big Night' worth the effort

TICKETS PLEASE

JOHN MONAGHAN

"Big Night" is a little film with some grand ideas. On the surface a simple story about a struggling Italian restaurant on the Jersey Shore in the 1950s, it also speaks to the difference between pandering to the masses and creating something that you are truly proud of.

For brothers Primo and Secondo (played by Tony Shalhoub and co-director Stanley Tucci) these philosophies get argued daily. Primo, the eldest, does most of the cooking. He refuses to serve the spaghetti and meatballs that packs them in at the restaurant across town. Secondo, who serves as manager, would like to pay some bills.

A cross-town rival (Ian Holm), recognizing Primo's brilliance in the kitchen, throws the brothers a bone. Popular band leader Louis Prima will be in town soon, looking for some place to eat after his set. The way Secondo sees it, the notoriety (not to mention the autographed picture on the wall) will be just the endorsement they need to get the restaurant rolling.

Much of "Big Night" involves the preparation of the authentic Italian dishes, works of culinary art that require time, patience, and the freshest ingredients. As Primo prepares the banquet, his brother hand picks a guest list and spruces up the place, using up all of the restaurant's remaining capital.

"Big Night" is the first feature from Stanley Tucci, best known for an ongoing role on television's "Murder One." He and friend Campbell Scott ("Mrs. Parker and the Vicious Circle") share the directing credits, with Scott appearing in a cameo as a high-pressure Cadillac salesman who gets invited to the soiree.

While the Caddie as symbol of the American dream is hardly a new concept, the movie does offer some unique touches. The evocative restaurant, a study in muted colors and imported oil paintings, speaks of simple elegance, a far cry from the garish red checkered table clothes in the rival restaurant, where a chubby soprano sings "O Solo Mio."

Look for some surprises in the cast as well, starting with Tucci as the suavely dressed Secondo, the personable and far more culturally acclimated of the brothers. Shalhoub successfully plays a man uncomfortable outside of the kitchen or his white chef's uniform. He stammers in his attempts to court a pretty flower shop owner.

And while Isabella Rosellini seems right at home as a restaurant hostess, her husband (played by English actor Holm) is in the wrong business. A far cry from the squat, eccentric Englishman he has played for the past two decades, the performance should be seen less as a career move than a curious experiment. Why Holm with so many authentic Italian-American actors around?

Only rarely does "Big Night" indulge in typical first-time director flourishes. In one scene, Secondo's discussion in Holm's office is blocked by a large lamp that bisects the center of the screen. Is this foreshadowing the fact that their conversation will get Secondo nowhere? Or did it just look good at the time?

Made for around $4 million, "Big Night" looks to have cost twice as much, thanks to dreamy retro locales and evocative cinematography by Ken Kelsch. Even when the story drags, you can tell that for Tucci, this is a heartfelt labor of love.

John Monaghan welcomes your calls and comments. To leave him a voice mail message, dial (313) 953-2047 on a touch-tone phone, mailbox 1866.

Tori Amos fosters healing through song

Although sometimes troubling and always brutally honest, pianist/vocalist Tori Amos's songs foster healing.

Her debut album, "Little Earthquakes," tackled the subject of rape. "Me and a Gun," for example, tells the story of a woman being raped and the thoughts that go through her mind: "I sang 'Holy Holy' as he buttoned down his pants/Me and a gun and a man on my back but I haven't seen Barbados so I must get out of this."

"God," from her sophomore effort "Under The Pink," covered her upbringing as the daughter of a preacher: "God sometimes you just don't come through. God sometimes you just don't come through. Do you need a woman to look after you? God sometimes you just don't come through."

Her latest album, "Boys For Pele," was her catharsis after she and her boyfriend broke up. The album allowed her to grieve but there was still something missing. Recently she released "Hey Jupiter," an EP that includes a different version of the song found on "Boys for Pele" as well as unreleased live recordings. The "Dakota Version" of "Hey Jupiter" leads Amos's vocals over a backbeat and lush harmonies. The album take of the song is poignant and somber – just her and her piano.

"I knew I needed to say goodbye. It was my way of saying good-bye to a part of myself. It's more of a personal message and I just needed to express 'Hey Jupiter' in a different way from the album version," Amos said in a recent phone conversation.

"They're both valid to me. One was written right when I was going through a separation with someone, and this is two years later. I'm finally ready to say goodbye which is a hard thing to do. I think the break up is like a death, and 'Boys For Pele' was my grieving, and 'Hey Jupiter' is my goodbye."

Re-recording "Hey Jupiter" was therapeutic for Amos.

"If you slam the door on something and don't deal with your feelings, you'll have to deal with them eventually. (If) you busy yourself and put the pedal to the floor and move on, you really haven't made peace with your heart. Sometimes you have to scream and throw things and do all sorts of things. But I don't think you ever really take the diamonds of the relationship with you unless you can admit your true feelings. That means the hurt and the love, and where you disagreed."

"Boys for Pele" was recorded in rural Ireland and Louisiana. From the riotous "Professional Widow," through the poignant balladry of "Hey Jupiter" and "Doughnut Song," to the harpsichord pop of "Talula," and the bluesy "In The Springtime of His Voodoo," this is a work of musical extremes.

Outside of her music, Amos has been active with her record label, Igloo, and with rape support groups. She started an 800 number referral line for rape victims, but funding ran out. Amos recently got the good news that within the next six months, a new sponsor will be announced.

"I've got to tell you it's a wonderful thing because we just couldn't keep it going without somebody coming to the table. Hopefully people will be more aware of it, those who need it next year, because we have a support. It's a relief."

Tori Amos and former School of Fish vocalist Josh Clayton-Felt perform at 8 p.m. Friday, Sept. 27, at Hill Auditorium, 530 S. State St., Ann Arbor. Tickets are $23.50 and $20 for the all-ages show. For more information, call (313) 764-8350 or (810) 645-6666.

If you have a question or comment for Christina Fuoco, you can write to her c/o The Observer & Eccentric Newspapers, 36251 Schoolcraft Road, Livonia, or via e-mail at cfuoco@aol.com. You can also leave a message for her by calling (313) 953-2047, mailbox 2130 on a Touch-Tone phone.

Coming to town: Pianist/singer/songwriter Tori Amos returns to the area Friday, Sept. 27, to play Hill Auditorium in Ann Arbor.

Gay films find showcase at Birmingham Theatre during festival

BY JOHN MONAGHAN
SPECIAL WRITER

A controversial film about the start of the modern gay rights movement kicks off the fourth annual Michigan Lesbian and Gay Film Festival this weekend. For event organizer Michael Lary, the screening of "Stonewall" and six other features marks a significant change in the festival.

"The majority of films I show have never been to Detroit or probably won't be," Lary says of the selections. The festival is sponsored by his organization, South East Michigan Pride.The event has moved to the Birmingham Theatre from the Magic Bag Theatre in Ferndale, where it has been held for the last three years.

A champagne reception will be held in the spacious lobby before the single screening of "Stonewall" on Friday night.

Adapted from Mark Duberman's book, "Stonewall" follows the lives of a half dozen gay New Yorkers in the weeks prior to the events at the Stonewall Inn in Greenwich Village, where a routine harassment spree by police turned into a riot and protest that effectively launched the modern gay rights movement.The movie has drawn controversy for playing loose with history, but, according to Lary, "once you realize that this is a fictionalized account, told from the point of view of a drag queen, it's quite entertaining."

What: The Fourth Annual Michigan Lesbian and Gay Film Festival
When: September 27-30
Where: Uptown Birmingham Theatre, 211 S. Woodward.
Tickets vary; series pass $35. Call South East Michigan Pride (810) 825-6651.

The rest of the series focuses on short and feature films, most shown on both Saturday and Sunday. "Man of the Year" is the documentary account of a gay man who became a sensation as a model for Playgirl.

"Costa Brava," the closing film on Sunday night, stars prolific lesbian actress Desi del Valle, who will also introduce the film.

Lary, who manages Gayle's Chocolates down the street from the Birmingham Theatre, recently attended the San Francisco Lesbian and Gay Film Festival. He believes that the success of recent independent films such as "It's My Party" and "The Sum of Us," has given movie audiences the opportunity to view gay characters better.

The Film Festival, which plans to draw 3,000 moviegoers, is SEMP's second biggest event of the year, next to the annual PrideFest in June. Meanwhile, several comedy and musical performers are on tap at the Magic Bag Theatre in Ferndale along with a new slate of monthly movies at the Birmingham.

River Pines: Attached, detached options

Construction is well under way in the final phase of River Pines Condominiums – unusual in that both detached and attached units are offered to prospective buyers by Italo-American Condominium Corp.

"This is one of the last planned unit developments for a large condo community in Farmington Hills," said Norton Chaiken, sales manager.

When the last quarter of the puzzle is put into place, nearly 400 units will be built on the 90-acre site off Nine Mile between Halstead and Drake.

Seven floor plans are available, ranging from $164,000 for a ranch of 1,337 square feet with two bedrooms and two baths to $219,900 for a Cape Cod of 2,100 square feet with three bedrooms and 2-1/2 baths.

"I think this is the best sub around from quality, beauty, workmanship and how we deal with people," said Tony DiFederico, the developer/builder along with his brother-in-law, Mario Prezioso.

"We have the same materials, the same doors, the same casings here as I use on a $500,000 house in Plymouth," DiFederico said.

"We bend over backward for people and accommodate them any way we can," Chaiken added. "It's the personal touch that sells here."

And plenty of amenities at no extra cost, too.

A fireplace, air conditioning, dishwasher and oven, two-car garage, basement, first-floor laundry, a flooring allowance ranging from $1,400 to $2,000, a lighting allowance from $500 to $600, a wood deck at the front entrance and sod are included at base price in all plans.

Brick is the primary exterior material with wood siding and trim.

TAMMIE GRAVES/STAFF ARTIST

The master suite has two walk-in closets and a separate tub and shower. The second bedroom in the model is decorated as a den.

Base price of the 1,493-square-foot unit is $166,900.

The great majority of buyers in River Pines are retirees or have older children, Chaiken said.

Most people who buy a detached unit make significant upgrades including a rear deck and whirlpool tub, he added.

Just 18 stand-alone units will be available in the final phase. The attached units will be clustered four to a building.

DiFederico said he believes his accessibility also has a lot to do with the success of the subdivision.

"We get involved. I can't sit in an office all day. We do a lot of houses around Livonia, Plymouth, Canton and Farmington, and a lot of people say 'I see your signs'.

"I know all of the details that go inside. Myself and my brother-in-law personally take care of people," DiFederico said."

He gave an example.

River Pines: This condominium community in Farmington Hills offers a beautiful landscape and plenty of amenities at no extra cost within the units.

"People say a door won't close and it's been 2-1/2 years. I tell Mario, 'Send someone over.'"

"It's care-free living," Chaiken said. "With Tony's reputation, he's more of a custom builder."

River Pines, within the Farmington school boundaries, is serviced by city water and sewers. All utilities are metered to the individual unit.

The property tax rate is $39.74 per $1,000 of state equalized valuation, half of market value. That means the owners of a $167,000 condo unit would pay about $3,300 the first year.

The monthly maintenance fee ranges from $119 to $160, depending on size for an attached unit – 10 percent higher for detached units.

Fred and Angie Morris were among the first to move into a ranch at River Pines eight years ago. Fred is president of the association.

"It's so close to freeways and shopping," he said. "Most of all, the site looked so beautiful. I count our trees as special. You go into other places, you won't see the trees we have.

"We wanted a ranch so we could live, if we had to, on the first floor," Morris said.

Ed and Yvonne Grace also are longtime residents.

"Basically, we liked the floor plan of the unit," Ed said. "We're in a two-story. It has a very open floor plan, a 20-foot ceiling in the living room, a bridge that goes across from one bedroom to another. Each bedroom has its own full bath.

"We liked the setting. We liked what the builder was doing saving tree lines.

"It seemed like a place where people cared about where they lived. Cost per month to maintain was reasonable enough," Grace said.

The sales model at River Pines, (810) 474-1060, is open 1-6 p.m. weekdays, noon to 6 p.m. Saturdays and Sundays, closed Thursdays.

Here's how to lock in specific mortgage rates

MORTGAGE SHOPPING

DAVID MULLY

For the purchase of an existing home

In the home-buying purchasing market today, the average time between the seller's acceptance of the offer to buy and the closing if 45 days. Hence, your window for securing your interest rate is minimal. You can only hope that your timing is good and that rates hit a low point during the 30- to 45-day period you are waiting to close. Buyers can lock-in a good interest rate while they wait to close, but the policy for locking-in or floating the rate can be different from lender to lender.

There are two separate options normally offered by lenders for locking and floating the rate. A third option I'll discuss is offered only by some lenders.

The first option lenders offer is the ability to lock-in the rate at the time of initial application at no extra charge. If, for some reason, you need a lock-in of longer than 45 days, there can be a charge. This means that if you choose this potion, your rate will be frozen during this period. If rates should go up or down during the 45-day lock period, you're protected and your rate will stay the same Generally, if the rate lock expires before the closing is held, your rate will go to the current market rate at the time of the rate lock expiration. If rates have cropped , however, you will be offered your previously locked rate and not the current lower rate.

A second option is to float the rate until closing or to float the rate and monitor the rates daily and then lock-in on any day you feel the rate is at its lowest and you don't want to risk any more fluctuations. If you choose to play this game, the choice of when to lock is up to you. The lender does not typically charge for this option. If you never lock-in a rate before closing, the lender will establish the rate for you approximately five days before closing. When you do exercise your lock-in during the processing of your mortgage, the locked rate usually stays in effect for 30 to 60 days from the day you lock. It's important to be sure you will be able to close before the lock expires.

As I mentioned above, a third option is available but is not offered by all lenders. This option allows you to lock-in the rate at application and then get a lower rate if the rates drop before closing. It may sound too good to be true and, as you might expect, it does come with some strings attached. For instance, there may e an additional fee up front for this option. Consider this carefully because the fee may not be worth it if rates never fall.

Another factor when considering this option is that typically the lender will only give you one chance to exercise the lower rate, usually just prior to closing. If your timing is off, rates may have been lower at other times during the processing of your loan but may have bone back up during the time your are allowed to lock in a lower rate.

For the purchase of a new construction home

When you are working with a builder who requires you to provide financing for the construction stage of the transaction, the lender you select will usually need some information on your builder. Lenders typically have an approved builder list. If your builder is not on their list, they will require certain information to put your builder on the list. While the information needed from the builder may vary slightly from lender to lender, there are the general requirements:

- a professional contractor's statement
- A list of professional references
- A copy of the current builder's license

Ask your chosen lender what his requirements are. Or, it may save some time to ask the builder for the information up front, in case you need it later.

For the refinancing of your current home

The best tip I can give you here is to ALWAYS talk to your accountant before refinancing! There are several reasons why you should do this, but the reason I'll talk about today pertains to the size of the new loan amount you'll be requesting.

For example, assume you refinance and borrow $150,000 on your current home, which was originally purchased 10 years ago with a mortgage of $75,000. check with your accountant at this point because you may not be able to write off the interest on the mortgage in excess of the original $75,000 loan. In other words, the difference of $75,000 between the original loan amount and the new loan amount of $150,000 may not be tax deductible – with special emphasis on the word "may." This obviously would be a costly mistake and could provide a shock at tax time if you had been wiring off the interest for the whole amount all along without double checking it.

Gerald Sallan of CPA firm Sallan, Nemes & Company in Southfield suggests, "You should always check with your CPA or tax adviser when remortgaging. When people buy a vacation home, often times they will take cash out of their current home by refinancing and then use this case for the vacation home purchase. For tax deductibility of the mortgage interest, you may want to look into getting a stand-along mortgage on the vacation property.

In closing, just remember to check with the proper sources when making a big decision such as refinancing your mortgage.

Living room is hub of Venetian

A covered front porch with iron columns and a handsome brick exterior underscore the durability of the 2,274-square-foot Venetian.

If you are searching for good value in todays' market, this innovative floor design should merit a closer look.

With the sleeping areas on opposite sides of the house, the Venetian would be ideal for a family with teenage children or empty nesters who need overnight accommodations for visitors.

Once inside the entry, a skylit atrium creates a pleasant atmosphere for greeting your guests. For those with a green thumb, a large plant repository is available. Just inside the door, a home security system ensures your safety.

Directly off the atrium, through an elegant arched doorway, is the library. Built-in bookshelves and wide window seat make this a cozy site to settle in for some light reading.

The isolated master suite provides comfort and privacy. In addition to sliding glass doors opening onto the back deck, amenities here include a skylit sleeping area, huge walk-in closet and private bathroom with twin basins. An extra storage closet is in the hall.

The walk-through kitchen has many features that will please the cook in the home. A built-in desk is at hand for helping to maintain household accounts.

There is also a walk-in pantry, cooktop, double ovens and a nice garden window. An attached nook, with a big bay window, provides a bright spot for casual meals. For more formal occasions, a front dining room with arched doorways will enhance any repast.

The living room, with vaulted ceiling, is the hub of the Venetian. Here you can entertain friends and family with the TV/game cabinet. A gas fireplace will keep everyone snug. In warmer months, open the doors to the deck and set up the barbecue.

The two secondary bedrooms share a bathroom, and either one would be easily convertible to an exercise room, den or home office if not needed for sleeping.

A utility room at the end of the hall leads to a two-car garage. Included here are shop area and extra storage.

White paint – you can't go wrong

It embraces and brightens. It has the power of illusion and the quieting effects of solitude. It can sparkle like a diamond or soothe like an ocean breeze. It also happens to be the hottest paint color on the market today.

Believe it or not, it's white.

"Most people think that the only thing duller than using white paint is watching it dry. The fact is, it can do so much more for a room, or an entire house, than virtually any other color," says Shari Hiller, co-host of HGTV's "Room By Room", and an accomplished interior designer.

Whether it's brightening a room, making it appear larger, or adding sophistication, whites – and especially ultra-bright whites – are more in demand today than ever before.

White's diversity is what makes it so appealing. Few colors can convey so many moods or take on so many personalities.

"There's really no area in the house where white doesn't work. From the living room to the garage, it can be used to create a number of different looks," Hiller says.

Hiller, who has used the color extensively on her broadcasts, and in decorating numerous homes, offers these thoughts on the color's chameleon-like qualities:

• Whites have always connoted freshness and cleanliness. That's why they are great for bathrooms, basements and garages.

• It's the ideal "silent partner". It complements virtually every accent or color.

• It's as light as one can go with color. Because of this, it is the highest reflector of natural or artificial light.

• The moods it can evoke range from elegance to utilitarian. Whites can add subtlety or cheerfulness; calmness or brilliance to any room.

Why white?

"More and more people are using whites today to create distinct moods and looks within a home. And the demand for premium-priced, ultra-bright whites is what's driving this category," said Linda Feldman, brand manager of Dutch Boy Paint.

How did white go from being the color and personality of plain vanilla to America's hottest paint color?

"White isn't just white, it can be bright, or muted, vibrant or hushed. Furthermore, many top-of-the-line white paints incorporate shades of color into their palette," said Feldman.

Dutch Boy's popular Renaissance Paint, a complete line of premium-priced paints, has just unveiled its latest offering to satiate this growing desire for bright whites.

The Renaissance Diamond Collection, Dutch Boy's most brilliant whites embraces the lightness in whites, and features hints of color to provide warmth and elegance.

With the growing interest in high-end whites, it's obvious that today's do-it-yourselfer is turning to these premium-priced, bright-whites to do more than just cover a wall.

Full spectrum of white

"Room By Room's" Hiller says these brilliant whites can do everything from creating an illusion of a bigger room to accenting a prized piece of art or furniture.

Hiller's top uses (and techniques) for using brilliant whites:

• To "raise" a ceiling. An ultra-bright white paint carries more pigment to the ceiling and causes greater reflection, thereby making it seem higher.

• To brighten rooms. For small rooms with little natural sunlight, white gives the space a brighter, larger feel by taking whatever light it receives and reflecting it back into the room.

• To complement a contemporary design statement. Combined with black and gray, or taupe, as neutrals, white allows the exquisite design details of contemporary furniture to shine. Add a few large pieces of artwork and you've given white a chance to take center stage.

• To add sophistication to a room. Nothing is more elegant than using a white on white painting technique in a dining room or foyer. First put on a flat or satin white basecoat, then with a semi-gloss version of the same white, sponge, rag, or even stripe the walls.

• To enhance ambient lighting. Light from torchieres or wall-mounted sconces reflect beautifully off a brilliant white ceiling.

Interest grows in new insulation

For many years, there were only a handful of choices when it came to insulating a new home or upgrading the insulation in an existing dwelling. Today, however, there are a number of new insulation systems which are growing in popularity including wet spray cellulose, foam materials and the Blow-In Blanket System, (BIBS).

Wet spray cellulose and foam insulations are used primarily in wall cavities of new construction. While providing high R-values, there are concerns with settling of these materials over time and the retention of moisture.

Perhaps the most popular of the new systems is the Blow-In Blanket System. BIBS takes fiber glass insulation, like Insul Safe III, combines it with an adhesive and pneumatically blows it behind a netting into wall cavities for higher energy efficiency, lower annual energy bills and improved sound control and privacy.

Because the BIBS uses an adhesive, it is completely different than other insulation systems currently on the market. Unlike loose-fill materials that are blown-into a wall cavity by drilling holes and filling up the space and used more for retrofit jobs, BIBS is designed for new construction as well as reinsulation projects. With its adhesive and netting process, the product completely fills walls cavities at a higher R-value than other wet applied materials and completely covers every nook and cranny even around wiring, pipes and plumbing fixtures. In addition, the Blow-In Blanket System will not settle over the life of a home.

For more information on BIBS and other popular insulation materials, write to the CertainTeed Home Institute, P.O. Box 860, Valley Forge, PA 19482, or call 800 782 8777. Also, visit us on the Internet at http://www.certainteed.com

Furnaces need periodic service

All heating systems should be serviced periodically by a qualified contractor to ensure top performance, according to the American Gas Association. Such maintenance will ensure safe and efficient operation.

Heating contractors should follow the manufacturer's maintenance guidelines for each unit in accordance with local building codes and regulations, A.G.A. says.

The check-up should include:

- inspection of the furnace vent system;
- removal of any leaves, nests or other obstructions from inside the chimney;
- replacement or cleaning of the air filter;
- lubrication of the blower motor;
- replacement of blower belts, if needed;
- cleaning of pilots and burner chamber;
- removal of dust and lint from furnace vents, registers and baseboard heaters; and
- cleaning and adjusting of thermostats.

AMERICAN INVSCO

Today's sculpted TVs look great on their own

(MPS) – Fortunes can be invested creating living environments that focus on one key element: the television. These days, the home-entertainment system is receiving increased attention from decorating professionals and design-conscious consumers who are challenged by the placement of products within a particular design scheme.

Now, lovers of great home entertainment and beautiful decor don't have to sit in opposite corners of the living room. Today's newest television models are coming out of the cabinet with their own design statements.

Some new televisions even complement decor and offer choices for matching the rest of the furnishings. One new 35-inch big-screen television from Sony Electronics debuts an interchangeable panel design that can be selected to match a consumer's decor. The KV-35V75 offers a choice of interchangeable panels in Glossy Black, Sienna Burl or Amber Oak to complement both the TV cabinet's dark gray finish and the viewer' room decor. The panels highlight the integrated stand that houses Sony's Emmy award-winning Trinitron picture tube, which produces outstanding picture quality.

There are other exciting examples of the trend to stylish televisions. For example, Sony's KV-32XBR100, which received a "Best of" award from Video magazine, features a modern Z-shaped Shigie stand and a unique V-shaped chassis. This is made possible by the unique two-piece design. The tuner and circuitry, typically found in the chassis, have been moved into a special access center. No bigger than the size of a typical VCR, the access center may sit neatly beneath the TV monitor or be placed beneath or to the side of the television on a shelf.

With the continuing trend to light-colored decorating schemes, a black television may seem out of place in a secondary room. Sony's white televisions offer a much-needed design option. They look as great in the master bedroom as they do in the kitchen and bath. Sony's crisp-looking "whites" come in a variety of sizes, from 9-inch to 20-inch. A white TV/VCR combination is also available, perfect for curling up in a pastel-colored bedroom to watch a movie.

To meet the needs of consumers and custom installers, Sony also offers an advanced "custom" 53-inch XBR model, expressly designed for a home-theater installation. Custom-install ready, the television's front-edge bezel fits flush into a home-theater wall unit or can be built seamlessly into a wall. The television also has a removable contrast screen, touch-sensitive control panel and an illuminated infrared (IR) received built into the Sony logo on the bezel.

Sacrificing attractive decor for the pleasures of the big screen-television entertainment is a thing of the past. These new televisions make it possible to focus on great design and an equally great TV picture. For the nearest Sony retailer, call 1-800-222-SONY.

Gas fireplaces lend warmth, charm and efficiency

(MS) – When it's cold outside, there's nothing more comforting than a warm, crackling fire inside.

What, you say you don't have a fireplace? Or, you do, but don't like to bother with the fuss and muss of burning firewood"? Well, there's an economical and efficient solution, no matter your fireplace situation: vent-free gas fireplaces and log sets.

These advanced fireplaces are gaining popularity among homeowners, home builders and remodelers across the country, because they are highly efficient and can be installed in almost any room of the home with no need for a chimney or electrical connection. There's a model to suit virtually any design need.

Vent-free gas systems can be installed in rooms where no fireplace now exists, without the cost or construction mess associated with a chimney or vent. They can be used to convert existing wood-burning fireplaces into efficient zone heaters or to replace wood stoves or fireplace inserts, according to lack Fahey, vice president of sales and marketing for Temco Fireplace Products, a pioneer in home heating and fireplace products.

"Vent-free gas systems are very versatile. They give homeowners and home remodelers a safe, economical way to create the warmth and beauty of a wood-burning fireplace in any room in the home," he says. "More importantly, they are highly efficient and provide very economical supplemental zone home heating."

There are a variety of models available depending upon the design and heating need, adds Fahey. Temco's American Dream vent-free collection, for example, includes several front-opening fireplaces, see-through and peninsula models, free-standing nits, and a variety of log sets.

Large models feature a 36- or 42-inch front opening with full refractory firebox lining and accommodate American Dream gas logs in 18-, 24- or 30-inch lengths. Louvered or flush-face fronts provide design versatility. Controls may be thermostatic or operated by a three-setting manual system, depending upon the user's heating needs.

See-through and peninsula models expand interior-design options. While requiring minimal floor space, these versatile, multisided options provide a view of the fire to different areas. Temco's flush-face construction permits finishing up to the opening with any noncombustible facing for added decorating versatility. The see-through model features refractory walls on two sides, the peninsula model on one side. The log set is designed for multisided viewing. Gas logs for the see-through models also are sold separately for use in existing multisided wood-burning fireplaces, says Fahey.

The American Dream collection also includes compact and free-standing models. The compact unit requires less than 4 square feet of floor space for a wall installation and projects only 15 inches into a room. The vent-free design and compact dimensions allow installation in any room of the home in dens or studies, on interior walls, or in basements, built-in or in a ready-to-assemble cabinet. One model can be installed in bedrooms, local codes permitting. Free-standing fireplaces provide an elegant alternative to built-in units and require no construction, adds Fahey. Temco's 28- and 36-inch models feature a bay-shaped hearth with full refractory firebox lining and a wide view of the fire and log set.

Unlike conventional logs, which produce harmful combustion byproducts that must be vented from the home, Temco's American Dream gas logs, standard with this collection, produce a 99.9-percent-efficient burn, with only negligible amounts of the harmful combustion byproducts. These logs burn so efficiently, they can be used iii a fireplace with the flu damper closed, notes Fahey.

In addition, instead of a standing pilot, an Oxygen Depiction Sensor (ODS) safety pilot is standard equipment on each lo set. This advanced control system automatically shuts off fuel to the main burner if room oxygen ever drops below a predetermined level. All American Dream models are equipped with a convenient pushbutton piezo igniter. Thermostatic controls that work much the same way as a thermostat on a furnace or central heating system cycle on and off, maintaining the room temperature within a comfortable range.

Except for models with optional blowers, vent-free fireplaces need no electrical connections for operation, so they can provide supplemental heating in the event of a power outage. All American Dream vent-free products arc design-certified by the American Gas Association Laboratories.

There's no doubt these systems owe their popularity to their installation versatility, says Fahey. "They may be installed in almost any room of the home and in almost any location within a room, becoming the focal point of the space, whether a kitchen/great room combination, a living room or a study," he says. "And, no matter the style, they recreate the warmth and atmosphere that we all associate with a wood-burning fireplace."

For more information about ventfree gas fireplaces and the Temco American Dream collection, homeowners and home remodelers may contact their local Temco retailer or call Temco toll free at 1-800-934-8338.

Herbs spice up family recipes

MARTY FIGLEY

Herbs are becoming more and more popular, so this book nook column is devoted to these plants and using them in the kitchen.

"Lavender: Fragrance of Provence," Hans Silvester, text by Christiane Meunier (Abrams, $29.95), traces the history of the cultivation of lavender, which grew wild on the sunny slopes of the region from earliest times. The book details its importance as an essence, when it was first used to scent bath water and laundry, and used medicinally.

In the 1920s lavender, Lavandula angustifolia, was crossed with another plant in the same Labiatae family, "spike," Lavandula latifolia. This superior hybrid, called Lavandin, yields 10 times that of lavender. From that time on the cultivation and business of lavender was off and running.

All aspects of the business are covered from planting, agricultural management, harvesting, distilling and marketing.

Silvester's full-page color photographs are a story in themselves, showing the fields through the seasons, from the austere winter scenes to the lush fields of summer. Beautiful.

"The Pioneer Lady's Hearty Winter Cookbook," Jane Watson Hopping (Villard, $25), is the fifth in a series of books that evoke a feeling of nostalgia. The title continues, "A treasury of old-fashioned food and fond memories," and it truly is. We meet the family who generates warmth and the love of food, hearth and home and some of the ways they spent a cold winter. Hymns, poems, cooking traditions for holidays as well as old-fashioned and tasty recipes fill the pages; for instance, the Honey Mayonnaise dressing of mayo, honey and nutmeg makes the Celeriac, Carrot and Apple salad sparkle.

"Herb Mixtures & Spicy Blends," introduction by Maggie Oster (Storey, $12.95), contains recipes for mixes suitable for dishes from appetizers to desserts. Herb growers and buyers across North America share their special blends to enhance the flavor of food with herbs. The recipes are simple, quick and easy, a bonus for busy people. The idea is to mix the ingredients so that they will be ready when needed. Specific recipes follow each basic herb blend.

"The New Kitchen Garden," Anna Pavord (Dorling Kindersley, $29.95), gives a different slant for growing vegetables, fruits and herbs in a yard of any size.

Pavord shows how to make the most of gardening space all the while designing the garden in a pleasing style, from formal to rustic. Growing and harvesting information about not only common, but plants not necessarily well known, will guide to success with excellent photographs for emphasis. The author discusses soils, crop rotation, sowing, pests and diseases, staking and all things necessary in a garden.

The color drawings for the plans are easy to follow with exact measurements and plant placement. The herb section is quite thorough. We must remember this is a book by an English

Garden center plans fall festival

Four Seasons Garden Center welcomes another splendid Michigan season with its third annual Fall Fun Festival.

The festival will include a variety of games, contests and seminars for the whole family. Hours are 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. Saturday-Sunday, Sept. 28-29. Four Seasons is at 14471 W. 11 Mile, Oak Park. Call (810) 543-4400.

Artisan BIM Willow will be back by popular demand, demonstrating his craftsmanship by turning tiny willow trees into a functional work of art. He is known for using his imagination and sense of playfulness with each piece of furniture or sculpture he creates. (The pieces cost $49.98 and up. All purchases or special orders are 20 percent off this weekend only.)

Try pumpkin bowling with a mini-pumpkin or gourd of your choice, and then take it home with you. Grab your putter and test your skill with gourd golfing balls.

Popular master gardener Stacy Picard will be back 12:30 p.m. Saturday to demonstrate how to make a pumpkin head scarecrow just in time for your Halloween decorating and scaring.

Enter the pumpkin painting contest, to be judged 3-4 p.m. Sunday. Winners in each age group will be awarded first, second and third place ribbons.

Guess how much Paully and Matilda Pumpkin individually weigh. Two correct guesses will result in two winners taking either pumpkin home for front porch decorating.

Perennial specialist Sherri Peninger will give a seminar, "Putting Your Perennials, Shrubs and Trees to Bed for the Winter," 2 p.m. Saturday. Master composters will present "Turning Yard Waste Into Gardener's Gold," a how-to composting workshop, 12:30 p.m. Sunday. Pond expert Crista Suggs will present a seminar, "Basics of Planning and Installing a Pond," 2 p.m. Sunday.

author so some of our growing conditions may not be the same.

Seven small books published by Storey Communications (written by Ruth Bass, $9.95 each) feature a particular food.

The first four are "Peppers Love Herbs," "Tomatoes Love Herbs," "Onions Love Herbs" and "Mushrooms Love Herbs." The others are "Herbal Soups," "Herbal Breads" and "Herbal Salads." Each book follows the same format and is gently illustrated by Mary Rich. An introduction gives general instructions.

All encourage the use of fresh herbs and ingredients and the recipes are innovative. How about Peter Piper's Dill Peppers, or Herbed Tomatoes with Avocados, Onion Rice with Tarragon, or a Savory Mushroom Sauce? The soup book recipes are mouth-watering. Here you'll find, among others, Apple Onion Soup. In the bread book, Zucchini Cornbread and the Mustard Spread are quite tasty. I can't wait to try Jewel Coleslaw using purple cabbage from the salads book, and the Fruited Chicken Salad is quite delicious.

Thirty recipes per book make these attractive price-wise and would be an excellent gift, along with an herb plant, a bottle of herb vinegar or perhaps a spice grinder, set of tea towels or other cooking "goodie."

Plant exchange set for Saturday

The Yardeners of St. Clair Shores are sponsoring a plant exchange 8-10 a.m. Saturday, Sept. 28, in the front parking lot of Blossom Heath, 24800 Jefferson between Nine and 10 Mile, St. Clair Shores. Admission is free.

Bring your healthy plants or seeds (perennials, bushes, shrubs, grasses, etc.) in containers or bags. Each container must have a label telling the name of the plant and its special needs (full sun, etc.). Come even if you don't have plants to exchange – there are always people wanting to give plants from their garden to a "good home."

Master gardeners and master composters will be on hand to answer questions and provide advice.

The city has arranged for commercially finished compost to be delivered to the exchange, so bring containers to carry some home with you.

FOCUS ON PHOTOGRAPHY

Move in close for big picture

MONTE NAGLER

Moving in close is one of the most important guidelines in helping to improve your photography. But most 35mm cameras can only bring you to within 24 inches of your subject. Being able to move in extra close – even to only one or two inches – will open up whole new horizons for you.

With closeup photography, you can take the ordinary and transform it into something beautiful. A single drop of morning dew clinging to the underside of a blade of grass, the delicate intimacy of a flower or leaf, a detail of peeling paint on the siding of a deserted barn – all can become magnificent portrayals of mood and sensitivity.

Shooting closeups is fun and easy and can be achieved with a minimal investment. There are four types of closeup accessories for a 35mm.

• Closeup filters – These are the least expensive means of taking closeups and usually come in sets of three. They act like magnifying glasses when screwed onto your lens. A No. 1 filter will allow you to focus to within 16 inches, a No. 2 to about 10 inches and a No. 3 to about six inches. Combining some will enable you to focus down extremely close to your subject.

Up close: One of Monte Nagler's top students, Laura Little, moved in close to obtain this striking photograph of mannequins. Notice the care and attention she used to get good composition.

• Closeup rings – Also called extension tubes, these rings are sold in sets of three. The idea is to attach one or a combination of the hollow tubes between the lens and the camera body. The farther the lens is away from the body, the greater the degree of magnification.

• Extension bellows – Here, a flexible bellows is placed between the lens and camera body similar to extension tubes. The advantage is that you have infinite latitude of lens to subject distances, and you can achieve greater degrees of magnification than either closeup filters or extension tubes.

• Macro lenses – Macro lenses can be carried on your camera as a normal lens, and then can quickly be converted to a closeup lens without stopping to add accessories. Many zoom lenses have a macro mode, which is fine but may not move you in as close as a pure macro lens.

The closer you are to your subject, the less depth-of-field you get. Depth-of-field could even be a fraction of an inch. Often a small aperture is a must. When an image is magnified, any camera movement will be exaggerated in the finished print. Therefore, a tripod is a necessity.

When you move in close, details are magnified and surfaces can lose their texture unless you light them in a way that accents their miniature topography. Therefore, aim for side or backlighting to bring out and enhance pattern and texture. Usually, shooting in the early morning or late afternoon will do the trick.

INVITING IDEAS

Season brings sensational cider

RUTH MOSSOK JOHNSTON

When our family lived in downtown Franklin, cider season filled me with the expectation of fall and the smell of cool-crisp apples, and hot cinnamon doughnuts that always permeate The Franklin Cider Mill. Along with these feelings came mild to intense resentment – depending on how many "tourists" were parking on our front lawn!

With cider season upon us, it's not hard to get in the mood. I can always pop over to nearby Franklin Cider Mill and visit with Jack Peltz (the delightful owner who after all these years, is still there about 18 hours a day while the season is on) and discuss just about anything, or just stop in to pick up; caramel and candied apples, a freshly made apple pie, fresh apples, a Hickory Farms beef stick, a wedge of cheese, maple syrup, honey butter, honeycomb suckers, jams, or just the usual — cider and doughnuts.

About 930 million pounds of apples come right from our own state of Michigan. There are so many things you can do with cider – some of my favorites are:

- Make a hot mulled cider to serve at homecoming games, tailgates and for brisk evenings (it not only tastes wonderful, it makes your house wonderfully fragrant)
- Make a cider sorbet
- Freeze fresh cider so you can have it all year round (just make sure your gallons are not filled to the very top!)
- Warm some cider and serve instead of tea
- Add cider to your favorite tea and make a fruity hot drink
- Serve well chilled cider with a bag of popcorn (the combination of the sweet and salty is delicious!)
- Poach chicken or turkey in cider
- Use cider as a base in sauces for all kinds of fowl – especially wild game birds
- Use cider as a liquid ingredient in making a bread-type stuffing – even cornbread!
- Make a cream cheese frosting using cider (make sure you reduce the cider first by boiling it until thick and letting it cool)
- Use apple cider in dressings for salads (especially good with spinach)
- Splash some cider on Swiss chard, sorrel or spinach while sauteing it
- Poach dried fruits in apple cider
- Add cider to bread, muffin and cookie recipes as part of the liquid ingredients
- Freeze cider in an ice cube tray and add to your favorite fruit punch
- Use cider as an ingredient in barbecue sauce.

Last year, at one of the Weight Watchers Healthy Gourmet Cooking Series Programs, Matt Prentice (The Unique Restaurant Corporation) prepared a delicious Apple Grilled Turkey with Cider Sauce recipe – it was one of those recipes you hang on to! This recipe can take up to a week to marinate – allow yourself enough time.

APPLE GRILLED TURKEY WITH CIDER SAUCE

Yield: 8 servings
8 (4-ounce) skinless, boneless breasts of turkey
1 1/2 quarts fresh Michigan apple cider
Marinade:
2 tablespoons mustard seed
8 ounces apple cider
6 ounces cider vinegar
4 ounces apple jack brandy
1 ounce sugar
2 teaspoons fresh thyme
1 tablespoon fresh rosemary
1 tablespoon chopped garlic
2 ounces corn oil
1 tablespoon kosher salt

Combine mustard seed, apple cider, cider vinegar, apple jack brandy, and sugar in a stainless pan (not aluminum) and bring to a boil; simmer until reduced by half. Cool to room temperature.

Add herbs, garlic, oil and salt to cooled mixture. Put turkey in stainless steel container. Cover with marinade. Marinate for a minimum of four days (Chef Matt suggested 7 days when he was doing this recipe), turning occasionally.

APPLE CIDER SAUCE:

Boil 1 1/2 quarts fresh Michigan apple cider at high heat until reduced thick enough to coat the back of a spoon.

To finish turkey:

Drain the turkey breasts of marinade (slice against the grain). Sear on a hot grill; then bake in a 200–220 degree F. oven for 20 minutes or until cooked through (internal temperature should be at 160 degrees F.)

Garnish with 1 tablespoon Apple Cider Sauce and a sprig of fresh thyme.

I love crystallized ginger — it's a great marriage with cider — experiment — add as much ginger as your palate desires. I always make 16 cups — if there's any left (an unusual occurrence), I refrigerate it and drink it chilled the next day.

MULLED CIDER WITH CRYSTALLIZED GINGER

See JOHNSTON, G7

GINGER

Yield: 16 cups
16 cups fresh apple cider
4 cinnamon sticks (quills)
2 navel oranges with whole cloves, each orange quartered – stick in whole cloves (like the pomanders kids make in preschool)
Crystallized ginger
1 piece whole nutmeg

In a large nonreactive pot, combine the cider, the cinnamon quills, the clove pierced orange quarters, the crystallized ginger and the whole nutmeg. Place over medium heat for five minutes, reduce the heat to simmer and continue to heat for 20 more minutes. You may strain the mulled cider, or leave au'natural. Place in a heat proof bowl or pitcher. Serve warm.

I love this frosting on carrot cake — a nice change to the ever popular old standby. You can also make your carrot cake into cup cakes and frost (will adequately cover 16 cupcakes).

APPLE CIDER CREAM CHEESE FROSTING

2 cups apple cider (reduced down to 1/4 cup)
6 ounces cream cheese or Neufchâtel, cut into pieces and softened
1/2 cup sifted powdered sugar
Pinch of salt

In a nonreactive pot, reduce the cider down by boiling it – reduce to 1/4 cup. Let the liquid cool.

In the mixing bowl of an electric mixer, add the softened cream or Neufchâtel cheese, the powdered sugar, the reduced cider, and a small pinch of salt – beat until frosting is well mixed and smooth. Spread on cake or cupcakes with a spatula.

Make environmentally friendly home and life

A new class at The Community House, 380 S. Bates in Birmingham, will help those who are environmentally conscious to "reduce, reuse and recycle."

A few simple techniques can help eliminate junk mail, improve buying skills and provide practical solutions to everyday environmental concerns. The ideas are good for the family, the pocketbook and the Earth.

The class is taught by Lisa Katzman, a registered dietitian and environmental consultant. Her family of four puts out only half a can of garbage per week. She will describe how to make a no-garbage lunch, how to use fewer chemicals in cleaning, where to find organically grown fruit and vegetables in stores and how to recycle properly.

Sessions are 7 p.m. Thursday, Sept. 26, and 7 p.m. Tuesday, Nov. 5. Cost is $10. To register or for more information, call (810) 644-5832.

This is a class for people who know they want to cut down on waste but don't know how.

"People think it takes too much work and money to be environmentally conscious but self-sufficiency actually saves time and money," Katzman said. "For example, I use cloth diapers which I clean at home; I don't have to keep running out to the store to buy expensive disposable diapers."

Katzman also recommends using cloth grocery bags, which can be bought at grocery stores or second-hand stores. Shoppers get 5 cents back for every bag they use of their own.

"As soon as you unload your groceries in the house, put the grocery bag back in the car to keep from forgetting it the next time."

Antique appraisal scheduled Oct. 5

An antique appraisal clinic, sponsored by the Museum Guild of Dearborn, will take place 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Saturday, Oct. 5, at the McFadden-Ross House Dearborn Historical Museum.

The museum is at 915 Brady, just north of Michigan Avenue in Dearborn. Call (313) 565-3000. Cost is $5 per hand-carried item; limit five items.

Joan Walker of the DuMouchelle Art Galleries will evaluate antiques and collectibles on a first-come, first-served basis.

All proceeds will be used for museum restoration projects.

APPLIANCE DOCTOR

Possible new law to be at your service

JOE GAGNON

A week ago on a Wednesday around 11 a.m. the advisory and regulatory committee of our state government voted in favor of sending House Bill 5833 to the full house.

The sponsor of the bill, state Rep. Lyn Bankes, hopes to have the bill into law before the end of the year, and I'm keeping my fingers crossed. After two public hearings and much testimony from the appliance service industry, we are now ready in the state of Michigan to have in effect laws to protect consumers from being ripped off by the few unethical service technicians who service your major home appliances. It has been a long time in the making.

In May 1986 there appeared in the Detroit News a front page story that quoted consumers and how they were ripped off by members of the service industry. This two-day story in the paper gave names of companies that were at fault and who had a terrible record with the Better Business Bureau. The whole story was a beautiful piece of consumer education that was badly needed and I feel proud of playing a major role in that story. During this year of 1996 you haven't seen any stories written by our major papers about the appliance service industry except in the paper you are now reading.

In 1989, now retired state Rep. Perry Bullard introduced into committee a similar bill that never made it out of committee. I could never understand why, and I was never given an explanation.

This time around I have learned a great deal about how our government works and how the negative forces sitting in the sidelines care little about the average American. The National Federation of Independent Business opposes the bill along with the Michigan Retailers Association and for the life of me the same language was used at his last hearing that was used in 1989. Are these organizations so blind they can't realize what is good for the consumer, or are they supported by people who shouldn't even belong?

Major supporters of the bill are the Whirlpool Corp. and Sears, who know how important customer loyalty is. Along with them is the Maytag Co., whose service manager, Rich Robbins, involved himself to no small degree. Several key players in the service industry represented their companies with favorable comments and support. Murray Gula represented the home building industry along with a lobbyist from the Air Conditioning Association to testify as to why this law is needed in the state of Michigan.

Many years ago, I decided to make all of this my life's ambition before I would retire from the service industry. To the many readers who have helped me, I owe you a vote of thanks for your involvement. I would ask you to continue to write to your state representatives and ask for their support on your behalf when this bill gets to the House and Senate.

In this era of less regulation as the opinion of our government, there has to be an exception for the sake of the Michigan consumer. Many of you homeowners have proven that you have been ripped off by some members of the appliance service industry. I'm sure you will all agree, it's that time in our history to put a stop to it and to write a short note to your government officials who have the final say-so. Here's hoping that this fall, they care enough about you to vote the bill into law.

Joe Gagnon, the Appliance Doctor, will answer your questions about maintaining and repairing large appliances. Gagnon is president of Carmack Appliances in Garden City and does a weekly radio program on WJR-AM. He is author of "First Aid from the Appliance Doctor," available at area bookstores.

TILES GIVE FINISHING TOUCH

BY MARY KLEMIC
AT HOME EDITOR

The traditional meets the new in the ceramic artistry of Dianne Stewart.

Her Stewart Specialty Tiles of Troy creates custom handmade tiles, handpainted tiles with special textures, finishes and colors. These include her tiles that have the look of cobblestone.

"I wanted something different," said Stewart, who will be one of 200 exhibitors featured at the Fall Remodeling Show at the Novi Expo Center, Thursday-Sunday, Sept. 26-29. "I've always loved ... cobblestone."

"I've always liked the natural look of rocks. It's homey."

Her cobblestone tiles have been placed on the floor surrounding a tub as well as on the outside of the tub. Stewart works from templates that she designed so the tiles interlock with each other. The bullnose edges have a smooth finish; the cobblestone shape continues apparently unbroken from the rim of the tub to the side.

Stewart's tiles merge art with science, creativity and imagination with exact measurement. They are like functional works of art. For a fireplace project, she sketched the area on large sheets of paper and arranged the pieces on it. Allowances have to be considered for shrinkage and color change in the heating and glazing process.

It's a challenge to "put them all together so they fit."

The results are breathtaking. Stewart's tiles fit in any room. She has made arrangements of Pewabic-style squares on the wall and floor around a fireplace, and painted baskets of luscious fruits on tiles to adorn a kitchen wall. Images on tiles can be made to match wallpaper, a china pattern or a picture. The colors can be muted or dazzling – blues and teals can shimmer like water. Crushed glass in the glaze can give a powdery texture.

One of the murals by Stewart to be displayed at the remodeling show features a colorful world of tropical fish; another to be shown features golfer Ben Hogan. The fish mural measures three by three feet; the golfer mural measures four by six feet.

"No two tiles are alike. (There's) a lot of keeping track."

Work by Stewart Specialty Tiles was seen in the foyer and kitchen at the Designers' Showhouse earlier this year.

The tiles combine Stewart's love of painting and sculpture.

"It's so spiritual," Stewart said of ceramics. "It speaks to you however you (want) it to."

They answer do-it-yourself questions

Fall Remodeling Show
NOVI EXPO CENTER

September 26-29, 1996

Katie and Gene Hamilton, creators of HOUSENET on America Online and on the World Wide Web, will bring their hands-on expertise to the fourth annual Fall Remodeling Show to answer the definitive remodeling question, "Should you do it yourself?"

As seen on NBC's "Today Show" and Lifetime Channel's "Our Home," the answer, says Katie, is "not always." The couple's weekly newspaper column, which is syndicated by the Los Angeles Times, answers the same question about a multitude of home repair and improvement projects in papers such as the Chicago Tribune, Cleveland Plain Dealer and The Daily Oklahoman.

'You'll save the most money by doing unskilled work the professionals don't want to do, like removing wallpaper or gutting a room.'

GeneHamilton
Do-it-youself pro

Their quick-fix career got its start when the newlyweds bought their first fixer-upper, a small brick duplex in suburban Chicago in the late 1960s. Fourteen houses later, the former teachers have taken on new students – homeowners.

The Hamiltons have written more than 10 home improvement books, including "Don't Move ... Improve," "Quick Fix Home Repair Handbook," "How To Be Your Own Contractor" and "Keep It Working ... Longer, Better." They are frequent contributors to magazines like Home Mechanix, Workbench, Popular Mechanics, Home and Family Circle.

"We've made most of the mistakes a homeowner can make and we like sharing what we've learned," Gene said.

They say that their interaction with computer users helps them do their job better by giving them insights into what homeowners want to know.

Their "Do-it-yourself or not?" column analyzes the cost, time and skill required to complete a project. The column actually compares the cost and time of doing a job oneself versus having a professional do it.

Painting is the best do-it-yourself project, saving the homeowner about 50 percent of what a painting contractor charges.

"You'll save the most money by doing unskilled work the professionals don't want to do, like removing wallpaper or gutting a room."

Other good projects to do oneself are adding insulation, caulking and weather stripping.

The Hamiltons used to do everything themselves but learned they had to look at the time commitment and dollars. They've concluded that sometimes it pays not to do it yourself. Some jobs the Hamiltons always subcontract now include installing dry wall and sanding old floors.

The Hamiltons will present seminars on when you should do it yourself and when to hire a contractor, coping with a handyman special and finding good contractors and working with them at the Fall Remodeling Show. Seminar times are 3, 4, 6 and 8 p.m. Thursday; 3, 5, 6 and 8 p.m. Friday; noon and 2, 3, 5, 6 and 8 p.m. Saturday; and noon and 1, 3 and 4 p.m. Sunday.

After each seminar, they will be available to answer questions.

This bulb festival offers Dutch treats

An antique European show organ will pump out Dutch, German and American tunes to create an authentic atmosphere for this year's Holland Bulb Festival, Saturday-Sunday, Sept. 28-29, at Brickscape Gardens of Northville/Novi.

The organ was a hit with visitors to the first festival last year, as were the Dutch wooden shoe dancers from Holland, Mich. The dancers are also back again.

Festival hours are 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. at Brickscape Gardens, on Old Novi Road just north of Eight Mile and east of Novi Road. Call Brickscape Gardens at (810) 348-2500 for more information. The event will feature free pony rides, contests, cider and donuts and chats and planting demonstrations by experts.

The 17-foot organ was built in the 1920s in Bavaria. It has 205 pipes, a snare drum, a bass drum and a cymbal.

Show presents trends for future

Fall Remodeling Show
NOVI EXPO CENTER
I-96 and Novi Road
September 26-29, 1996

Remodeling has become a hot word for the homeowner of the '90s and the fourth annual Fall Remodeling Show, which is open Sept. 26-29, really gives showgoers something to talk about.

"People are remodeling extensively and most of what's being done reflects the trends we will see in houses built during the next decade," said Gilbert "Buzz" Silverman, president of Building Industry Association of Southeastern Michigan (BIA) and president and chief executive officer of The Silverman Companies in Farmington Hills.

"New and remodeled homes will incorporate dedicated home office space, media rooms, expanded kitchens and all-season rooms to name a few trends."

The non-profit BIA is the sponsor of the event.

A special highlight of the show, columnists and authors Katie and Gene Hamilton, creators of HOUSENET on America Online and on the World Wide Web, will help homeowners decide whether to tackle home improvement projects themselves. The pair has been seen on NBC's "Today Show" and Lifetime Channel's "Our Home." Other highlights include members of the American Society of Interior Designers conducting designer consultations and clinics and the Home Office Show, a show within the Fall Remodeling Show, featuring products, services and support for home offices.

Additional show features include BIA's Remodelers Council Home Remodelers Clinic offering seminars on moving to a new home or remodeling an existing home; the second annual Showcase of Distinctive Homes sponsored by BIA, which will kick off at the show, and displays detailed home illustrations, demonstrations on decorating, home repair and remodeling and a Treasure Chest contest with daily prizes.

More than 200 exhibitors will show their most interesting and up-to-date products and services for kitchens, baths, home offices, doors, windows, yard/gardens, remodeling, interior design, furniture, arts and crafts, decorative accessories, pet accessories, electronics, heating, cooling and appliances.

BIA also sponsors the International Builders Home, Flower and Furniture Show at Cobo Conference-Exhibition Center and the Spring Home & Garden Show at Novi Expo Center.

Novi Expo Center is at I-96 and Novi Road. Show hours are 2-10 p.m. Thursday-Friday; 10 a.m. to 10 p.m. Saturday and 10 a.m. to 7 p.m. Sunday.

Admission is $6 for adults; $4 for seniors; $3 for children 6-12 and free for children under 6. Family tickets for two adults and accompanying children are available at Farmer Jack for $9.

Ample parking is available at Novi Expo Center for a fee. For more information, call (810) 737-4478.

Clawson club plans fall festival

The Clawson Ladybug Garden Club, a branch of Woman's National Farm and Garden Association, will have its fall festival 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. Saturday, Sept. 28, at the Clawson Historical Museum, 41 Fisher Court.

The Ladybug Club will offer plants, baked goods, fall crafts and a raffle in the back yard of the museum. In case of rain, the sale will be in the basement.

For more information, call (810) 435-0642 or (810) 435-5488.

Highland Park homes tour Saturday

The Highland Park Historic Homes Tour will take place Saturday, Sept. 28.

Guided walking tours leave every 15 minutes between 10 a.m. and 3:30 p.m. from St. Benedict Catholic Church, 60 Church Street at John R, just east of Woodward and two blocks south of Six Mile.

Tickets are $8 in advance and $10 at the door. Call (313) 867-8673 for more information.

Arts and Crafts bungalows, antiques cars, souvenirs and refreshments will be featured.

Take steps to add style to house

BY DIANE GALE
SPECIAL WRITER

Staircases are more than a means to get from one story to another.

If you've seen it once you'll never forget Rhett holding Scarlett and ascending a long flight of steps. Staircases have long represented mystery and romance in art, too, with angels leaning gently against a succession of steps leading to heaven.

In our own homes our imaginations set the limit to what we can have, according to Mike Borland, Woodsmiths Design and Manufacturing territorial sales manager for Michigan, Chicago and Wisconsin.

Browsers at the Fall Remodeling Show in Novi Thursday-Sunday will get a taste of what Borland has to offer in his library of brochures and pictures.

"Homeowners have options within options that they're not aware of and it's one of the best-kept secrets," said Borland, who works out of his Redford Township house that he shares with his wife, Wendy.

Borland will show visitors a mockup of a staircase with wooden newels designed after pineapples and cats. And he will remind them that Woodsmiths' craftspeople, including a master woodcarver from Italy, can bring to life almost anything they can dream up.

Staircases are usually the first thing we see after entering the front door. They can be circular, spiral, straight and made of almost any material, including wood, metal, glass and many types of stone. The cost ranges from $6,000 to more than $40,000.

Steps to style: Many homeowners let staircases become reflections of their personal flair and style.

The most expensive staircase Borland could recall working on was a three-story, all-glass staircase that was wired for electricity so it could light up. It was built in a home in northern California and the cost was $43,000.

"The staircase is the biggest piece of furniture in the home, but it's permanent."

Trends seem to be going toward charcoal gray, European-type, wrought-iron, circular staircases and carved wooden newels. The most common wood used is still oak, with cherry and maple following. But any kind of wood can be used, Borland said.

"We sold more spirals during the first six months of this year than during the last two years."

The succession of steps creates that uplifting, you-can-do-anything feeling. So, a lot of homeowners let their staircases, oftentimes the focal point of the interior design, become a reflection of their personal flair and style.

An unusual but brilliant request, Borland said, came from a woman who wanted to change the look of her staircase on a regular basis. Woodcarvers grooved out a place within each step for inserts. She ordered six sets of different colored inserts that she changes for the season, the holiday and whether she is having company.

Woodsmiths, a division of the 60-year-old L.J. Smith Company, sells directly to homeowners and builders.

If a homeowner is interested in doing something different from what the builder is offering, he or she can bring Woodsmiths in for ideas. Borland works directly with architects on designs and ideas.

"We work with a lot of architects and there isn't a charge for that design cost, because it's part of the service."

Borland previously worked as a furniture designer. He designed all the furniture, from headboards and chairs to dressers, in the Bavarian Inn Motor Lodge in Frankenmuth.

You don't have to be a new homeowner to have a new staircase. People who want something different can usually change their existing staircases. A straight staircase that turns 90 degrees, for instance, can be transformed into a circular staircase.

"The gracefulness of a circular staircase is just so dramatic."

What you put into your staircase financially could become a good investment, too.

"We've done studies with builders across the country who had models with straight staircases and models with circular staircases. Above the cost of the staircase, the circular style enhances the value of the house up to 50 percent above the cost of the staircase."

"When it comes to structural parts like this, most people don't know they have an option. It's just a matter of educating the public."

Patio doors can save energy – beautifully

Tired of tugging on that old aluminum sliding glass doorwall to open and close it? Sharon Bonsall of Bloomfield Hills was when she and husband Jim decided to replace it with an energy-efficient patio door that leads to the deck.

Their first stop was the Home Builders Show in Novi, where Empire Doors & Windows of Redford featured a sliding glass door with solid-steel, zinc-plated tandem rollers that act like an automobile's suspension system to keep the door gliding along effortlessly.

"Our old door was very unattractive and the track all bent. We're thrilled with our new door. It's the most beautiful renovation we've done to our home," said Sharon Bonsall, whose home was originally built in the 1960s.

Ninety percent of people replacing patio doors are doing so because they still have the original aluminum doorwalls installed in their homes in the 1960s and 1970s, Empire sales representative Phillip Ben-Ezra said.

"Beautification is the number one reason for replacing glass doorwalls. A new patio door gives the home a cleaner look. But people are also replacing them because the older doors are not energy-efficient. With the new ones, no more storm doors are necessary because the 7/8-inch of dead air space between walls creates insulation and a high R-value. Saving on heating and cooling bills runs a strong second," Phillip Ben-Ezra said.

Although Empire patio doors are built with energy smart three-in-one glass with low-E coating and argon gas filling to improve a home's energy efficiency, design is also an important factor.

Homeowners can personalize the door by choosing a variety of sizes, styles, colors, interior wood grain finishes, and optional solid bronze or oak handle sets. Etched glass and inset muntins in colonial or diamond designs make doors even more stylish.

"Besides sliding patio doorwalls, we also offer French doors which give a more open look and don't cut down the size of openings."

New doors don't compromise safety or security because the latest designs include locks not only on the handle but a foot-operated deadbolt ventilating night latch. On hot summer nights, the latch lets homeowners lock the door in a partially open position to welcome in fresh air and cool breezes.

"With the double locking system you don't need that old broomstick in the bottom of the door anymore."

Empire Doors & Windows will display its patio doors, windows and entry doors at the Fall Remodeling Show Thursday-Sunday at the Novi Expo Center, I-96 and Novi Road. The show features thousands of ideas, products and services for the home.

Saarinen-designed home featured on house tour

A home designed by nationally recognized Cranbrook architects Eliel and Eero Saarinen is among the five unusual and historically varied residences featured on this year's AIA Detroit House Tour.

The tour, taking place Sunday, Sept. 29, is sponsored by the AIA Detroit, a chapter of the American Institute of Architects.

Each year for the past 12 years, AIA Detroit has presented this special opportunity for the public to visit beautifully restored older residences, as well as newer homes designed by talented local architects.

Among the featured architects are Saarinen, Swanson and Saarinen and Ronald Mayotte & Associates of Troy.

Groups will depart by bus 11 a.m. to 3 p.m. from The Neighborhood Club, 17150 Waterloo, Grosse Pointe.

Tickets for the tour may be bought prior to the event for $13 per person. Call (313) 965-4104 for information. A limited supply of tickets will be available at the door for $15 per person.

How to choose an interior designer

Fall Remodeling Show

Whether you are designing a new interior from the floor up or redesigning an existing space, the earlier you engage a designer, the more likely you are to have successful results. Your designer will be invaluable in helping you transform general ideas into functional realities. Where should your preliminary search begin?

- Referral service – The American Society of Interior Designers network of designers offers you a rich resource in Michigan. Check the yellow pages for an ASID chapter in your area or call the ASID referral service at (800) 553-ASID.

ASID chapters frequently participate in civic fund-raising projects that showcase the residential and commercial design talents of local members. Call your local ASID chapter to determine if such a project is forthcoming or check your community newspaper.

- Personal referrals – Check with associates or friends who have recently redesigned their businesses or homes with projects of similar nature and scope to the one you have in mind. If they are pleased with the outcome, contact the designer responsible for the project.
- Design trade and shelter magazines – Many different magazines feature exemplary design work. You should read design trade magazines that feature the type of projects you have in mind; for example, restaurant, hotel, store, office or residential design. National and local magazines will feature the work of a variety of residential designers.

Next you will want to interview the designer. This is your opportunity to present your project, listen to the designer's observations and insights and examine the designer's work. It is equally important that you assess the degree of compatibility you have with the designer.

- References and education – It is also important that you check the designer's references and education. Ask about the designer's other educational background, experience and affiliations with professional organizations.

Ask for the names of clients you may contact for references. It is important that you feel a strong sense that you and your designer can work well together as a team. Compatibility is key to a good experience and you should ask yourself if you expect a good outcome and also a rewarding personal experience.

It is also vital that you identify the budget that you intend to commit to the design project. By doing so, you enable the designer to seek solutions to the problems that you've identified, that are within your financial means.

During the interview, it will be appropriate to discuss the method by which the interior designer will be compensated. Examples of compensation methods are noted below. It is critical to both parties that methods of compensation are documented. You should expect a contract from your designer during the early stages of the design process. Some methods of compensation are: a fixed or flat fee, an hourly fee, cost plus a mark up on purchases, a percentage fee, retail basis, cost by square foot and/or a combination of one or two of the aforementioned. A quick check list for someone about to retain an interior designer would be:

1. Determining your needs
2. Searching for an interior designer
3. The interview
4. Determining fees and compensation
5. Contracts
6. The design process

There are many rewards to good design. You have come to understand the interior design impact on every aspect of your life. Each environment you enter – home, office, restaurant, hotel – has its own distinctive interior.

You know that good design is more than a question of good taste and appearance. Interior design is the only profession that focuses on making the interior environment meet your needs for beauty, for efficiency and for comfort and safety. Through your experience as a consumer or as a business professional, you have earned an education in the value of good design and the high cost for design.

The letters ASID following the name of an interior designer identify him or her as having met the highest professional standards in the field. In order to become a professional member, a designer must meet rigorous criteria that include a credited education, years of proven experience and passing a two-day examination. The allied designation, Allied Practitioner ASID, identifies a designer as having met some of the above criteria regarding education and experience, but not the examination process.

ASID is the hallmark of professionalism. It assures you of the ultimate degree of valuable assistance and consumer protection.

Fabulous Flooring

Pay Attention to what's under foot

By Elizabeth Scheibner
Copley News Service

In the proverbial good old days, no one paid much attention to carpeting. Its purpose was more functional than decorative.

Today, that's all changed. In recent years, carpeting has become one of the most versatile decorating tools around. Not only is the quality much better, but the choices are virtually endless, ranging from colorful plaids and elegant florals to sensuous velvets and stylish textures.

Thanks to innovations in fiber technology, carpet is also more durable than ever before. Virtually every manufacturer now offers carpeting that is anti-static, stain-resistant and low-sheen. In addition to the wide range of colors and patterns available, consumers also have a choice of fibers, including wool, nylon, cotton, polyester, acrylic and the newest contender, polypropylene (a form of plastic).

Designers say carpeting alone can change the entire look of a room, turning an otherwise Spartan room into something warm and cozy or transforming an ordinary room into an elegant retreat.

WHAT TO LOOK FOR

The old adage, "You get what you pay for," certainly holds true for carpeting. Sacrificing quality in order to save a few hundred dollars is not particularly smart since most poorly crafted carpets will stain and show signs of wear in a short period of time.

That's why experts suggest you buy the best carpet you can afford.

Carpet comes either tufted or woven. In general, woven carpet is more stable and resilient, but also more expensive. If you are buying tufted carpet, make sure that it has enough fiber per yard. For example, a carpet with 48 ounces of fiber per square foot will last longer than one with only 28 ounces.

To assess quality and durability, look at the thickness or density of the carpet. Press your thumb firmly into the pile: the quicker it recovers, the denser the carpet. Another way to check density is to bend the carpet back in a fold. If you see any of the backing, you will know that it is not high-quality.

When buying carpet, many people make the mistake of trying to match their carpeting to an existing piece of furniture. This can be a costly mistake.

While it's important to take into consideration your existing color scheme, you don't want to invest $4,000 in new carpeting to go with a $300 chair.

FABULOUS FLOORING – Many homeowners are drawn to the timeless beauty and durability of hardwood floors.

If you're not sure what color to choose, your best advice is to select carpeting that is a neutral shade. Try to stay away from trendy colors that will only look passé five years from now (who can forget the avocado green fad of the 1970s?).

Keep in mind that the small swatches you see in the stores look a lot different when applied to an entire floor. For example, the teal green you like so much in a 12-inch square may look hideous in a 12-by-16-foot room.

Before making any decision, experts suggest you bring home several samples to see how they look during the day and at night.

While the trend used to be to have the same carpeting in all rooms of the house, designers quickly realized how impractical it was for most families.

One of the most important factors to consider when buying carpeting is how much traffic the room normally gets.

Master bedrooms, for example, which tend to get very little traffic, can usually handle softer, less-handy carpet in lighter colors. Dining rooms, children's rooms and stairs, on the other hand, demand darker, more resilient covering.

One of the hottest looks today is sisal, which is woven from coconut. Although expensive, many designers like the look of sisal for the texture and warmth it gives a room without being overly intrusive.

Also growing in popularity are patterned carpets and borders. Many carpet manufacturers now offer colorful, durable carpeting just for kids – including those with clowns, teddy bears, sailboats, toy soldiers, zoo animals and other motifs.

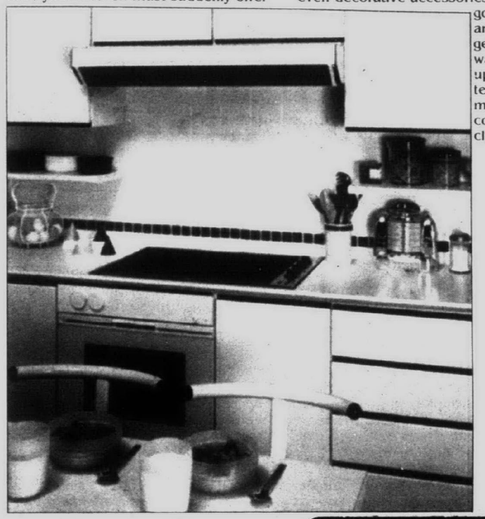
Your Kitchen—Simply Adequate Or Suddenly Spectacular?

Many kitchens that are adequate during most of the year become embarrassing eyesores – and a chef's worst nightmare – come Thanksgiving and Christmas when extra demands are placed on this important room.

When cooking for 14 instead of four, your kitchen must suddenly offer more: more workspace, more cabinetry and more cooking capacity. It must also stand up to the scrutiny of your most discerning guests.

One way to create such a space is to clear the decks. Before the big cookin, put away all appliances, utensils and even decorative accessories you're not going to need and that can get in your way and use up your countertops. You might also consider cleaning out the refrigerator and pantry to make room for all the ingredients and finished dishes you're going to have.



A new smoothtop range or cooktop will not only draw "oohs" and "ahhs" from your guests, but it will also offer you easy cooking and cleanup, and provide additional food preparation space. Most of today's smoothtops use the Ceran-top-System® from Schott, which includes the Ceran® glass-ceramic panel, heating elements and their mountings, a steel frame and burner controls. Schott recommends that consumers look for smoothtops that include at least three different size heating elements, ranging from six to nine inches in diameter, and residual heat indicator lights that glow even after the cooktop is turned off.

Unlike the opaque white smoothtops of 20 years ago, the new Ceran material lets you see the heating elements glowing beneath the glass. Today's material, a specially formulated and treated glass-ceramic panel – is the result of more than 17 years of engineering development.

Preventing Kitchen Fires

More than 100,000 fires start each year in U.S. kitchens. Most could have been prevented if the basics of fire safety had been followed, say Whirlpool home economists.

They suggest looking to your Whirlpool range owner's manual as a quick and easy source for fire prevention information. In it you'll find an entire section devoted to safety instructions, including tips such as:

- Do not use the range for warming or heating the room.
- Do not wear loose or hanging garments when using the range. They could ignite if brushed against a hot surface unit.
- Use only dry potholders. Moist or damp potholders on hot surfaces could result in burns from steam. Do not let potholders touch hot heating elements. Do not use a towel or bulky cloth for a potholder – it could catch on fire.
- Do not line reflector bowls with aluminum foil or other liners. Improper installation of these liners could result in a risk of electric shock or fire.
- Turn pan handles inward, but not over other surface units. This will help reduce the chance of urns, igniting of flammable materials and spills due to bumping of the pan.
- Grease is highly flammable. Do not allow it to collect around cooktop or in vents. Wipe spillovers immediately.

ROOM TO GROW – This woodsy theme room with tent-bed turns every night into an adventure. However, changing the room's look could prove expensive when Junior outgrows the camping trip.

Space for Kids

By Jennifer Plantier
Copley News Service

Creating a wonderful environment for a child's room involves more than the regular elements of interior design. Unlike adding a kitchen or bathroom, it's also a forum for kids to express their ideas, explore their self-image and build on a parent/child relationship.

Involving children in choices and trying to incorporate their interests and preferences is the key to success. And what a challenge for any adult/child team – to create a personal space that is both fun and functional.

COLORFUL CHOICES

Color researchers point to a number of physiological responses to color – and suggest that each person responds to color in his own way. It follows that kids should be allowed to pick their own color preferences – as they just may be filling some personal need at a given time. Use paint samples to help them zero in on the specific colors and intensities that brighten their outlook.

Some specialists suggest that a more neutral background with subtle colors and textures works well with the many colorful toys and accessories collected over time. Too much vivid color can overload the senses.

Diversity may be the best choice – after all, the world is not done entirely in pastels or even primaries. Try to include a number of different textures, colors, shapes, tastes and styles in the spaces where children play pretend and rest up for the next day's adventures.

Theme rooms seem like a natural choice for children, given their preoccupation with certain characters and activities. But keep in mind how many of these preoccupations are short-lived and replaced by others in the span of weeks. This is the best of reasons not to go overboard with any one theme. A child's dream space could become an eyesore even before the paint dries.

One resolution may be to play up a theme with minimal expense, just so it won't be so frustrating when they move on to the next source of fascination. Wallpaper borders, stencils, removable wall decorations and window treatments are inexpensive details that are easy to put up – and take down when the time comes.

With this strategy parents can encourage their children of any age to change their environment and experiment with new tastes.

FUN FURNISHINGS

As the bulk of investment in any room, the furnishings require a lot of thought. You'll want them to work for the long term, so select a style and a finish that is versatile and that you can all live with for years to come.

When shopping for furniture, consider not only the size and style but also the workmanship of a piece. If your budget is on the low side, quality secondhand pieces may be a better option than poorly made inexpensive ones.

All furniture should have a detectable function other than decoration – beds, dressers and night stands for storage, bookshelves and desks are standard items. Easy-to-use hardware, drawer glides and other features that make them easy for a child to access are best.

Items that adapt to growing children or perform two functions work a double shift. Consider cribs that convert to single beds, trundle beds that can sleep guests and be used for storage, window seats that house toy chests underneath.

SAFE SOLUTIONS

When it comes to children, safety always comes ahead of style. Keep the following tips in mind when designing a safe living space for your little ones.

- Buy furniture that meet current safety regulations. Check heirloom pieces (especially cribs) carefully for hazards or put them away for later use. All furniture should also be sturdy enough to fend off the most active children. Toy and storage chests should have safety hinges, plenty of ventilation and no locking devices.
- Buy furniture with rounded edges or use corner guards for extra protections.
- Use guardrails to keep young children from falling out of bed.
- Avoid slippery floor coverings.
- Make sure there are no climbable objects under windows, and the window-covering cords are fastened out of reach (to protect from strangulation).
- Cover all electrical outlets with safety plugs or plates.

A safe and stimulating environment is every parent's ultimate goal. A team effort and some imagination will result in a versatile room that no child will want to grow out of.

Do-It-Yourself Remodelers Update Kitchen And Bath

In a recent national survey of homeowners, nearly half indicated they have already or are planning to remodel their kitchen or bathroom this year. A surprising 82 percent of homeowners who plan on remodeling report they'll fund their project through savings rather than take out a home equity loan or obtain money from other sources. Not only are these homeowners saving before remodeling, a review of their purchasing patterns shows a high awareness for the overall value of their remodeling investment.

"Homeowners are much more careful with their money," notes home improvement expert Beverly DeJulio. "And, as the survey shows, they tend to invest in projects that can update or modernize a room without breaking their budget."

Updated Faucets In Both Kitchen And Bath

The most popular reason for starting a kitchen or bath remodeling project, cited by nearly 60 percent of the remodelers surveyed, is the need to update or modernize the kitchen or bathroom. And the preferred way to do that? New faucets – cited by nearly 50 percent of those surveyed.

"Nothing dates a room like an older faucet," DeJulio explains. "Whether it's the kitchen or the bathroom, there are so many modern faucet designs to choose from. In the bathroom, I like the look of Moen's Monticello series. For the kitchen, I'd recommend Moen's One-Touch. If you want to update a room a step at a time, this is the best place to start."

Semi-Custom Cabinets In The Kitchen

Another popular kitchen update, cited by over a third of the kitchen remodelers surveyed, is semi-custom cabinets. Providing homeowners the flexibility to express their personal taste, semi-custom cabinets offered by Decora provide a wide variety of molding, cabinet facing and handle styles. More important, they offer this design flexibility at a reasonable price.

"Semi-custom cabinets are really the way to go," DeJulio says. "Homeowners can get the look they want without paying custom prices."

Another kitchen remodeling trend is the addition of cabinet accessories such as spice racks, wine racks or double wastebasket roll-outs offered by cabinet manufacturers such as Aristokraft. Twenty-eight percent of the kitchen remodelers in the survey said they plan to make better use of their cabinet space with accessories. Thirty-four percent of homeowners intending to remodel also want to include separate workstations for preparation, cooking and cleanup.

Saving Water And Other Bathroom Trends

As for bathroom remodelers, the most popular trend after new faucet installations is water conversation. Efficient shower, tub and faucet fixtures made the plans of nearly half the bathroom remodelers surveyed.

"There are several efficient showers available today," notes DeJulio. "For example, several shower models come with flow control features that keep your shower pressure at about 80 pounds per square inch while using about 2.5 gallons per minute. Moen also offers a new feature for both tub/shower and lavatory lever handle faucets: an adjustable temperature limit stop, which enables you to preset a maximum hot water temperature. This is especially important for children and the elderly.

To receive a free brochure full of easy remodeling ideas, call Moen Incorporated at 1-800-553-6636 and ask for Moen's Kitchen and Bath Guide To Remodeling. To receive Aristokraft's Kitchen Planning Kit, send $7.95 payable to Aristokraft, Inc., to Kitchen Planning Kit, P.O. Box 420, Jasper, IN 47547-0420.

The national survey of homeowners was conducted in April by Opinion Research Corporation of Princeton, New Jersey, on behalf of MasterBrand Industries.

Keeping Your Bathroom Looking Showroom Perfect

The beautiful bathrooms you see in home magazines and showrooms which feature fancy fixtures, imported tile or marble and glass shower doors always look so spotlessly clean. How do they do it?

In your home it's a different story, right? Unsightly water spots, created when the water dries after someone takes a shower, leave your bath looking embarrassingly unpresentable.

There is an easy way to keep your bath looking "showroom" clean all the time. The trick is to squeegee the glass shower doors, tile and marble immediately after bathing while the surfaces are still wet. The procedure takes just seconds and saves a big cleanup job later.

To make the task easier, it's best to leave the squeegee in the bath so it is handy to reach all the time. The award-winning Cleret bath squeegee is the one specifically designed for that purpose because, unlike ugly T-shaped, industrial-looking squeegees which must be hidden after use, it's attractive enough to leave out on display.

One swipe with the Cleret bath squeegee shows why it was awarded the Gold Medal for Design Excellence from the prestigious Industrial Design Society of America. Dual wiping blades provide streak-free cleaning, and the unique compact form of the "squeegee with class" allows one to reach difficult corners. In addition, it has been ergonomically designed to reduce strain on the hand and wrist. And when not in use, this piece of functional art may be stored vertically (like a small sculpture), neatly out of the way. It's also perfect for clearing fogged mirrors for shaving, putting makeup on, etc.

This new bathroom fixture, the Cleret squeegee, is available in several colors. In addition, an upscale line features gold or chrome accents. Prices range from $20 to $30. For information on where to find it at a location near you or to order direct, call 1-800-726-6488.

Hardwood Flooring Is Now A Natural For The Kitchen

No other flooring material provides a lifetime of service like fine wood flooring. A wide variety of colors, patterns and lusters make hardwood flooring easy to coordinate with any decorating scheme.

Now you can consider hardwood flooring a solid investment for your kitchen. Robbins laminated engineering flooring is made with one-sixth-inch wear surface, the thickest in the industry. The company guarantees that the flooring can be professionally sanded and refinished up to three times, if desired. No other manufacturer of engineered hardwood flooring promises even a single sanding.

Robbins New Traditional Plank is available in six exciting colors including Chablis, Sahara Sand and Woodland Walnut. Eight coats of no-wax polyurethane finish make it impervious to any household spills your family can dish out.

Robbins precision milling produces flooring with a true square edge for a custom-finished look. In kitchens this means it's easy to keep clean with no bevels to collect dust or crumbs. Robbins backs their products with a Premium Lifetime Limited Guarantee for as long as you own your home.

What To Do When Creepy Critters Move In

By Caron Golden
Copley News Service

They're creepy and they're crawly and there's nothing much worse than walking into your kitchen and finding them munching away on your food.

No, we're not talking about the neighbor's kids or the relative who won't leave – we're talking pests, the kind with wings, tails or antennae.

Those little things like roaches or mice or termites or ants or fleas that the mere mention of make you cringe in disgust.

We're talking the ultimate proof of Darwin's theory of evolution, because no matter what you do to these guys, they just won't go away – or will they?

Different pests cause different problems and require distinct methods of obliteration. Here are some tips on how to keep them from invading your life and what to do if they decide to settle in anyway.

TERMITES

Drywood, subterranean, Formosan – these are the three most common types of termites, and between them and their 41 other cousins they cost the American consumer over $1 billion annually.

Subterranean termites are found in every state but Alaska and cause 95 percent of all termite damage. They nest is the ground and enter the home by building mud tunnels or entering through cracks.

Drywood termites are found in the humid Southern coastal regions of the United States. They live in the wood itself, not the soil, attacking through the air.

Formosan termites are found in small numbers in the Southern coastal region. They look and act like subterranean termites but their colonies are twice as large, they consume wood six times faster than other termites and, consequently, are capable of wreaking far more havoc on your home.

To prevent termites from entering your home, Orkin Pest Control recommends the following steps:

• Remove wooden trellises from exterior walls.

• Don't let leaves accumulate in gutters or outside drains.

• Trim tree limbs so they don't touch or hang over the house.

• Ventilate crawl spaces to minimize moisture buildup.

• Remove tree stumps and firewood from beneath and around the house.

• Be cautious when building an addition to a house or when gardening; you could destroy existing termite barriers by disturbing treated soil around the foundation.

• When gardening, leave 18 inches of undisturbed soil adjacent to the house.

You'll know you've got problems, however, if you find mud tubes along the basement or attic walls or outside the house, if paint on wood starts buckling, if you see tiny holes in wood, or see flying or swarming insects, especially near light sources.

If your house is under attack, there's really no way of treating the situation other than calling professional exterminators. If you think you may have termites but are unsure, call a termite inspector. Since termites eat from the inside out, an inspector will be able to spot signs that the homeowner may not notice or know to look for.

COCKROACHES

Roaches are among the most disgusting and yet most fascinating of household pests. It seems they have an amazing ability to develop resistance to many common insecticides.

Cleanliness is one of the key ways to prevent the appearance of roaches. Take out garbage regularly, clean the kitchen sink and run the disposal long enough to get rid of all food, rinse bathroom sinks, put away toothbrushes (they love toothpaste!), store cupboard foods in airtight containers and don't leave pet food or bowls of fruit out at night and, finally, regularly vacuum rugs and sweep floors in or near eating areas.

If you get hit with roaches, there are a number of ways to hit them where they live. We hear a lot about "roach motels," but according to some exterminators they're just sticky traps and don't get to the source. Sprays will kill roaches when you see them, but again don't reach the source. What may prove the most effective are bait stations, which can be placed in vulnerable areas in the home.

The roaches feed on the bait and return to the nest, resulting in contamination of both adults and eggs. Combat, which makes bait stations, also makes a crack and crevice gel for use in hard-to-reach places. Make sure that the product is child- and pet-safe before putting it out.

FLEAS

There's no way around it. If you don't want fleas, don't have a pet. At least that's the gospel, according to Lloyd Pest Control's sales manager, Greg Augustine. Other than that, however, Augustine recommends superb hygiene to prevent fleas, including continuous vacuuming (dispose of the bag outside after each session or pop out cut-up flea collars into the bag to kill what you pick up). Also groom your pet and don't forget to wash its bedding.

Check with your pet's veterinarian to see if you can put your pet on an internal flea-buster called Program. It's not harmful to dogs or cats and is apparently quite effective when ingested monthly.

If you get hit with fleas despite your best efforts, Augustine recommends a holistic approach to getting rid of them. You'll know you've got problems if your pet is constantly scratching itself, if you notice bites on your own body or if you see tiny black spots on upholstery – that's flea fecal matter.

The trick to getting rid of fleas is killing both the adult and the eggs. Bombs therefore won't be effective. They'll kill only the adult because they don't leave any residue. You'll need to apply a residual chemical that will stay around long enough to attack the larvae after they hatch. Lloyd's uses a combination of insect growth regulator and what they call an adulticide that are not toxic to either people or pets.

Of course, this approach also requires simultaneous cleaning of the animal itself, its bedding and any other places where fleas nest, such as carpeting and upholstery. If the animal goes in and out of the house, consider treating your outdoor environment with the chemicals as well.

ANTS

In some parts of the country, ants are a regular menace. After a wet winter, they breed crazily. When the dry summer sets in, they look indoors for water. You find them in the kitchen, but also in the bathtub.

Tilford recognized

Jeanne L. Tilford

Jeanne L. Tilford, a Realtor with Prudential Great Lakes Realty Troy, has been recognized as an elite Chairman's Circle Award winner for placing among the company's top 1 percent of sales agents nationwide.

Tilford, a Troy resident, has been in the real estate business for 13 years.

Schonesheck names

Schonesheck Inc., a design, engineering and building company in Wixom, announces two appointments.

Frank Grocki, RA, has been named director of architecture where he will be responsible for planning, implementing and directing all corporate engineering design.

Grocki previously worked as a project architect at the Troy office of SSOE Inc. He lives in Rochester Hills.

Cindy Stanisz of South Lyon was named director of marketing where she will be responsible for sales and promotions. She previously was special projects manager with P.O.B. Publishing in Canton.

Vice presidents picked

The Prudential Great Lakes Realty announces vice presidents and sales managers at three of its offices.

Randal L. Goodson has been named vice president and sales manager in Farmington Hills. A 15-year veteran, Goodson last year achieved top sales honors with inclusion in Prudential's Chairman's Circle.

Andrew S. Collins has been appointed vice president and sales manager in West Bloomfield. Collins, a successful real estate company owner and 11-year veteran, holds the professional designation Graduate Realtors Institute.

Earl G. Partica has been named vice president and sales manager in Grand Blanc office. Partica, who entered the business in 1962, holds a brokers license. He's been a sales office manager in numerous marketplaces throughout his career.

The Prudential Great Lakes Realty, a franchise operation, also has local offices in Bloomfield Hills, Clarkston, Rochester Hills, Troy and West Bloomfield.

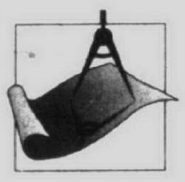
Clutter, dirt turn off buyers



Getting a house ready to sell doesn't necessarily cost a lot of money. It takes a keen eye and a willingness to put in the time on task.

■ 'Prospective buyers want to see there's lots of room. If you have a great many things out, it makes a room look smaller. You pack things up, put things in boxes in the basement, garage or attic.'

Maud Granzow
Realtor with Prudential Great Lakes Realty

BY DOUG FUNKE

Dirt and clutter.

Those are two of the biggest problems most sellers face when preparing their houses for sale.

The prime summer sales months have passed, but people relocate throughout the year. And clutter and dirt know no season.

"The most important thing is that the house is clean, as absolutely, sparkling clean as can be," said Maud Granzow, a Realtor with the Prudential Great Lakes Realty in Birmingham.

"Clean and neat sells," said Mike Anderson, an associate broker with Century 21 Dynamic in Westland.

"The sharper the house, the more money the seller will sell it for," said Ken Koenig, associate broker with RE/MAX Crossroads in Canton. "Plus, it will sell in a shorter period of time."

"Presentation is so important," said Nancy Mahlin, a Realtor with Cranbrook Associates in Franklin. "I think sellers have to ask themselves if they would buy their own house in the condition it's in."

Different folks have different standards of cleanliness, and one person's clutter is another's organization.

But sellers have to remember that they're trying to connect with and please prospective buyers, so they should assume picky, picky, picky.

"Windows should be washed, light fixtures washed clean," Granzow said. "When I show a house, I turn lights on so people can see the room."

Pay attention to carpets, walls and drapes.

"Get the house freshened up," Koenig said. "Get rid of old wallpaper. Paint in neutral colors. If there's only two things I could do with a house and spend money it would be carpet and paint. Today's buyers don't want to do anything."

Beige and shades of white complement almost any fabric, hue or pattern.

"Most people have furniture that can't move into exotic colors," Granzow said.

Anderson is a big believer in the power of thorough cleaning over the need to spend a lot of money on new floor and wall coverings.

"If it's really bad, it's one thing," he said. "Most people can get into showing condition with a lot of elbow grease."

Clutter sometimes goes hand in hand with grime.

"I always tell my sellers if you have stuff in your house and you're not taking it with you, get it out now," Anderson said.

"Prospective buyers want to see there's lots of room," Granzow said. "If you have a great many things out, it makes a room look smaller. You pack things up, put things in boxes in the basement, garage or attic."

Collectibles – dolls, plates, stuffed animals, bells, you name it – tend to close rooms up, Granzow added. Buyers don't always share sentimental attachments to personal collections.

And don't overlook any of your storage areas.

"Empty things out so closets appear larger," Granzow said. "Same thing for linen closets and kitchen cabinets."

Clutter can quickly accumulate, so be on guard.

"People (buyers) realize an occupied house is being lived in," Koenig said. "But you don't want a laundry room that's so filled up with clothes that you can't walk in or leave dishes in the kitchen that haven't been washed in two weeks."

When you're finished sprucing up inside the house, step out to the sidewalk and give the property a critical look.

"Always, first impressions count," Anderson said. "That means the outside, too. Bushes need to be trimmed, the yard trimmed. If something needs painting or the gutters need to be hung, get that done. Most buyers drive by homes before they get in a car with us."

"You've got to have curb appeal," Koenig said. "You can pretty much tell from the exterior what the inside is going to look like."

Sellers are much better off getting houses spruced up before listing rather than giving it a shot without.

"Most activity occurs when the house first goes on the market," Koenig said.

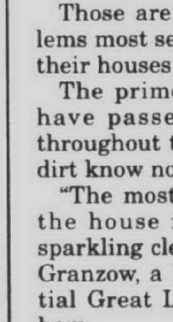
"You don't walk into too many ready to show right off the bat," Anderson said.

"I think most people have either moved enough or are familiar with people who have that they understand they have to make the house as showable as possible," Granzow said.

"In a nutshell," Mahlin said, "people have to pay attention to details they normally wouldn't."

Management company is just blowing smoke

REAL ESTATE QUERIES



ROBERT M. MEISNER

Q. Several members of our homeowners association circulated a document containing complaints about the management company.

The management company is threatening to sue for defamation and for tortious interference with its business expectance because it is about to lose the account.

What do you think of the potential for their claims?

A. Members of a homeowners association generally enjoy a qualified privilege because the publishers of the allegedly defamatory statements and the recipients (their fellow association members) have a common interest.

This privilege is not absolute, however, and would protect members only if they acted in a reasonable manner and for a proper purpose. Unreasonable use of the privilege for an improper purpose, such as perpetrating a deliberate lie, would forfeit the privilege.

With respect to the claims for tortious interference with business expectancy, it would appear that that is also spurious because the members cannot interfere with their own contract. It is my expectation that the court would determine that an action for tortious interference with the business expectancy lies solely against a third party.

Q. I am perplexed at our real estate saleslady, who dragged her feet, in my opinion, in getting the offer into the seller's agent.

We ended up losing the sale because another offer came along at the 11th hour. I do not think our saleslady did a good job, since she basically told us that we had a deal.

What recourse do I have?

A. It is difficult to answer your question with specificity based on the limited amount of facts which you have given me. Assuming that your salesperson was a buyer's representative, she owed a fiduciary duty to you to operate in your best interests in a timely fashion.

To the extent that she did not get the offer submitted to the seller's agent within a reasonable period of time with deliberate speed, she may have breached her fiduciary duty to you. The fact that she told you you had a deal before both parties signed the agreement was morally reprehensible and legally bad advice, since the real estate transaction is not binding on the parties until both parties have signed the purchase agreement.

You may have recourse against the salesperson for damages sustained by you, and you may wish to file a complaint with the Department of Commerce, multilist board, as well as the real estate firm with whom she is affiliated.

I have seen several situations, unfortunately, where brokers and/or salespersons have compromised the interests of their clients by not acting expeditiously to present an offer with the expectation that they may earn a larger commission or win favor with their client by delay or, in some instances, subterfuge.

Free remodeling magazine offered

When choosing a professional remodeling contractor, it's important to do your homework and check the experience, credentials and references of the candidates, according to Murray Hodgkinson, president, National Association of the Remodeling Industry (NARI), Alexandria, VA. "One way to determine a contractor's professionalism is to ask them if they belong to an industry organization such as NARI. Becoming a member clearly demonstrates a remodeling contractor's commitment to quality and professional development."

For homeowners who are planning to remodel their home, NARI offers a free color magazine entitled "The Master Plan For Professional Home Remodeling." This helpful magazine includes information on a wide range of subjects, from the latest design trends to tips on selecting and working with a professional contractor. Topics covered include planning basics, complying with local building codes, contractual agreements and financing.

According to Hodgkinson, the magazine guides homeowners through every step of the contractor selection process, as well as project planning design. "Our magazine is a must for homeowners who are considering a remodel. It is packed with useful information," said Hodgkinson.

Since a home is a large investment worth protecting, thoughtful planning is the first thing you should do when starting a remodeling project. Look over your home and property carefully to decide what improvements you want and can afford. Think ahead to determine your needs in the next few years, especially if you have a growing family or may have elderly parents coming to live with you. Professional remodelers can help you during the planning phase by outlining options and discussing the improvements you can make within your budget.

The size and complexity of your remodeling budget will dictate the types of professionals you need to involve – from architects to engineers to remodeling contractors.

For major remodeling projects, such as large additions or rearranging existing space, you probably will need the services of an architect. Such projects require construction drawings, which architects draft and provide, to help the contractor determine his budget and obtain permits. In many instances, your contractor can refer you to a good architect who is adept at remodeling projects.

Some remodeling firms, known as design/build companies, have architects, engineers and contractors all under one roof and can see your project through from first designs to completion. If your home improvement project is less extensive, it easily can be handled by an experienced contractor whose knowledge of materials and procedures has been gained through years of practical field work. As always, be sure to deal with a professional.

Check to see if the remodeling contractor you are considering is bonded and insured. Also, if your state has a licensing requirement for contractors, make sure they are currently licensed and in good standing with all state requirements. You also may want to check with your Better Business Bureau to ensure there are no unanswered or well-founded complaints on file.

Ask for references of people who have recently had similar work done. Visit their completed jobs and interview the homeowners. Find out firsthand what it's like to work with the contractor.

When you have narrowed your selection to the two or three contractors who are the right fit for your job, you may want to get bids from each. Although price may be a key determinant in contractor selection, be sure to weigh all of the options. And remember to look for a NARI member. The NARI logo is the mark of a professional contractor.

When reviewing the contract, be certain it includes the contractor's name, address, telephone number and license number if applicable. It should detail specifically what the contractor will do and will not do, such as protection of your home's property and clean-up procedures. The contract should also specify all building materials chosen, including size, type, color, etc. All contracts should include the approximate start and completion dates of your project. By law, contractors must give you a three day rescission form, which allows you to cancel the contract without penalty within three days of signing it. Make sure all financial terms, including the payment schedule, are spelled out clearly in the contract and that you fully understand them.

Your contractor should provide a minimum one year warranty to cover workmanship and materials, and should be identified as either "full" or "limited." A full warranty stipulates that all defective products must be repaired or replaced, or your money returned. A limited warranty implies only certain things are covered and under specific circumstances. Make sure the names and addresses of those who will honor the warranty and expiration dates are clearly marked.

Local building permits are necessary when you are changing the structure or living space of your home. Allow your contractor to obtain them rather than getting them yourself. He will know your local requirements. Since the person obtaining the permit will be liable if the work does not comply with local building codes, it is best to let your contractor handle permits.

NARI is a not-for-profit trade organization with nearly 6,000 member companies representing over 40,000 remodeling professionals nationwide. With over 50 years of experience, the Association is committed to enhancing the professionalism of the remodeling industry and serving as an ally to the nation's homeowners. For a free copy of the full-color "Master Plan for Professional Home Remodeling" and the names of NARI professional remodelers in your area, call 800 440 6274.

■Fall Remodeling Show

The fourth annual Fall Remodeling Show presented by the Building Industry Association of Southeastern Michigan opens its doors Thursday, Sept. 26, through Sunday, Sept. 29 at Novi Expo Center, I-96 and Novi Road.

More than 200 exhibitors will show products and services for kitchens, baths, home offices, doors, windows, yards/gardens, heating and cooling, appliances, furniture and arts and crafts.

Cost is $6 for adults, $4 for senior citizens and $3 for children 6-12. Family tickets at $9 are available at Farmer Jack. Parking is an extra charge.

For information, call BIA at (810) 737-4478.

■Log house

Town & Country Cedar Homes hosts a free open house of a 5,000-square-foot custom log-style home 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Saturday, Sept. 28, on Randolph west of Sheldon and south of Eight Mile in Northville.

For information, call (800) 968-3178.

■Condominium seminar

The United Condominium Owners of Michigan presents its 22nd annual seminar 8 a.m. to 3 p.m. Saturday, Sept. 28, at the Michigan State University Management Education Center in Troy.

Sixteen sessions will be presented by experts on a variety of subjects to expand the knowledge and improve the decision-making procession of condominium association leadership.

Cost is $95 for the first attendee and $55 for subsequent representatives of member associations, $125 and $75, respectively, for non-members. Continental breakfast and lunch are included.

To register, call United Condominium Owners of Michigan at (810) 352-8490.

■Green Tree Mortgage

Green Tree Financial Corp., a diversified financial services company with an office in Livonia, has established Green Tree Mortgage Services to originate and service home equity and mortgage loans.

Green Tree is a publicly-owned company traded on the New York Stock Exchange.

■Sunflower winners

Dean Sells of Century 21 Gold House distributed more than 3,000 seeds and starter plants last spring in Canton's Sunflower Subdivision.

Ashley J. Smith grew the tallest sunflower, 11 feet, 11 inches, and Mollie Dobersek grew the largest in diameter at 15-1/2 inches. Both children are eight years old and received a $500 savings bond for their efforts.

■Mortgage acquisition

Mortgage Corp. of America has acquired Econ Mortgage Services, a privately-owned mortgage company specializing in non-conforming loans in the Chicago area.

Mortgage Corp. of America is a wholly-owned subsidiary of MCA Financial, a Southfield-based financial services company with offices throughout the U.S.

■Strategic alliance

Giffels Associates and Aero Systems Engineering have created an alliance to design, integrate and supply complete vehicular test facilities for the automotive, truck and heavy equipment industries.

Giffels is an architectural/engineering/planning firm headquartered in Southfield. ASE, located in Minnesota, is a designer and equiper of aerospace engine test cells and aerodynamic and climatic wind tunnels.

■Builders license class

■Softball champs

BEI Associates, an architectural and engineering firm, compiled a perfect 12-0 regular season and a 3-0 run through the playoffs to win the championship of the Building Arts Softball League.

Current projects of the employee-owned company away from the athletic field include the Chrysler Jefferson North Jeep Plant, Wayne County Juvenile Detention Facility and Wayne State University Undergraduate Library.

Appliances should meet national standards

Natural gas appliances and equipment should be certified to national operating and design standards, according to the American Gas Association.

Consumers should look for the Blue Star Design Certification Seal from the A.G.A. Laboratories or a similar seal from another nationally recognized testing agency, A.G.A. says.

The A.G.A. Blue Star means that the design of the national gas appliance complies with American National Standards Institute safety standards.
