Teachers close to contract

Negotiators for the Plymouth-Canton teachers and the school district are still talking. Both sides report there has been progress in reaching a settlement following a marathon session.

BY M.B. DILLON
STAFF WRITER

After more than nine months at the table, it appears negotiators for Plymouth-Canton Community Schools and its 850 teachers reached a meeting of the minds after a 14-and-a-half hour bargaining session that ended early Monday.

Negotiators bargained from 3 p.m. Sunday until 5:30 a.m. Monday, when Tom Cotner, chief negotiator for the Plymouth-Canton Education Association, had to go to work. Cotner teaches advanced math at Plymouth-Canton Educational Park.

"We think we can reach an agreement fairly soon," said Cotner. "We don't have a tentative agreement. It appears that we have a meeting of the minds in principle. Now we just have to hammer out the details and get it on paper, which is not always an automatic thing."

The two sides were scheduled to meet again today at 4 p.m.

Errol Goldman, chief negotiator for the district, says he is optimistic as well. "We've made headway. We both moved on positions."

Cotner and Goldman declined to say anything regarding the terms of the settlement.

"I've seen it happen where you think you have everything wrapped up, yet there's a little thread. Someone pulls on it, and the whole thing comes apart," said Cotner, who got up at 4 a.m. Sunday to prepare for the day's bargaining. "No one got everything they wanted. It's way too delicate to say any more."

Said Goldman: "I'm not going to speak to that at this point. It's too delicate to speak to any aspect of the issues. First we want to get it signed off and put away; and let the teachers' union communicate to their teachers."

Goldman said both sides "had to give, and it was painful at times for both of us. But that's what you need to do to get a settlement. I'm hopeful we can put it away Thursday."

City seeks skateboard solutions

BY JEFF COUNTS
STAFF WRITER

A new task force to come up with solutions to skateboarding and Rollerblading problems is being formed.

Skateboarding and Rollerblading in downtown Plymouth has long caused concerns over safety among merchants and city officials.

So, on Monday, the Plymouth City Commission announced the formation of a task force to find a solution, one of which would be to find an alternative site for those activities.

The task force includes police, merchants, city officials and skateboarders.

"We want to work with the skateboarders," said Plymouth Mayor Ron Loiselle. "There isn't any place they can skateboard."

As part of that effort, the commission wants the task force to:

- Have more interaction between youths and police officers.
- Make recommendations on city ordinances which have an impact on bicycling, Rollerblading and skateboarding.
- Study having a community facility for skateboarding and Rollerblading.

On hand at the commission meeting to complain about the skateboarding problem on Penniman was Jill Young, who runs a photography studio on that street.

She contends that skateboarders scare away potential customers. She also complained that the police need to patrol the area better.

"It's very frustrating," she said.

Dave Pugh, a Penniman property owner, echoed Young's complaints, and accused city commission members of smiling when Young was complaining.

"This is a serious problem," he said.

He recounted a recent confrontation he had with a skateboarder on Penniman.

Civic leader Mary Childs dies at her home

BY JEFF COUNTS

"She touched a lot of people's lives. More than we'll ever know."

That's how Peter and Jon Childs summed up the live of their mother, Mary Childs, a former Plymouth mayor and civic leader who died Wednesday in her Plymouth home. She was 73.

Mrs. Childs was know as the marrying mayor. "She married 1,107 couples, every place from jail cells to baseball diamonds," said Peter.

"She knew everybody. She waved at construction workers on the road and thanked them when we were in the car," said Jon.

He said her last days were peaceful and added that she was able to die at home with her family around.

Just before she died, she told us: "I saw the great pyramids. I stood at the foot of Mt. Kilimanjaro. I saw the Taj Mahal and the Eiffel Tower. I've had a good life, a wonderful family and I'm ready to go."

"She was know as the flag lady," said Peter. "She was always telling people to plant a tree and fly the flag. She use to sell them at the Farmers' Market at The Gathering."

She even brought a certain style to government. During one contract negotiations with city workers, she took a plate of homemade cookies to one union negotiator, said Peter.

Mrs. Childs was born May 25, 1923, in Hamilton, Ohio, graduated from Miami University in Oxford, Ohio, with a degree in education and lived in Plymouth for 34 years.

She was married to Eric E. Childs for 51 years. He survives. Other survivors include three sons, Michael and his wife, Mary Beth, of Millington, N.J.; Jon and his wife, Corinne, of Ann Arbor; and Peter and his wife, Andrea, of Phoenix, Ariz.

Also surviving are six grandchildren: Robert, Bradley, Clarke, Audrey, Eric and Lauren.

Her involvement with city of Plymouth government started in 1968 when she was appointed to the planning commission. She later served on the zoning board of appeals, the city commission, and as mayor from 1979 to 1981.

She was also a member of the Plymouth Tree Board and Beautification Committee.

Committee meets to study building needs

BY M.B. DILLON
STAFF WRITER

The Plymouth-Canton school district is forming a steering committee to study the need for a bond issue to build new schools.

Superintendent Charles Little, who will serve as an ex officio committee member, has invited participation from a cross-section of the community.

"The mission of the steering committee is to work together to assess the information gained in forums, and to put together a final report that would be presented to the board," said Judy Evola, community relations director for Plymouth-Canton Community Schools.

Residents of the community are being asked to assist the 17-member steering committee at a series of three forums at Pioneer Middle School.

"We really want members of the public to participate in all the forums. We want the community's input," said Evola. "We want the community there because we need to know what they think. This is really about what the community wants and thinks."

Anyone wishing more information may call Evola at (313) 416-2757.

■ 'We really want members of the public to participate in all the forums. We want the community's input.'

Judy Evola
-school spokesperson

It's anticipated that voters will be asked to approve a multi-million dollar bond issue in the spring to fund the construction of new schools to accommodate residential growth.

The first forum was Saturday. Representatives from Roy G. French Associates and Perkins and Will Inc., the district's architectural consultants, gave presentations on trends in education, demographics, the economy, society, and technology.

Participants then brainstormed in small groups.

"The idea is to give people a frame of reference as to how education is moving in society; the directions it's taking as community and as a school district," said Evola.

The remaining forums are set for 5-9 p.m. Monday, Nov. 4, and 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Saturday, Nov. 23.

The second forum will "seek to build on the first by addressing the responses to questions on facility needs. This will include looking at implications of these responses including costs," said Evola.

"The third forum will consist of discussing a limited number of options and priorities, focusing on previously defined priorities determined in the second forum."

The steering committee will consist of representatives from the board of education; administration; the Plymouth-Canton Education Association; the district's support services; finance committee; long-range planning committee; housing committee; homeowners' associations; the School Community Council; chambers of commerce; media; I CARE Committee; and the senior citizen community.

Members who've come on board thus far include board of education President Mark Horvath, Assistant Superintendent for Business John Birchler, West Middle School principal Judy Stone, and Evola.

Congressional candidates to speak at forum

The Canton Economic Club will host an information forum featuring 13th District Congressional candidates Lynn Rivers and Joe Fitzsimmons at noon on Wednesday, Oct. 16.

Tim Richard, state and regional correspondent for the Observer Newspapers, will moderate questions from a panel of four representing local government, health care, social service agencies and business.

Panelists are Dale Yagelia, executive director of Growth Works in Plymouth Township; Carleigh Flaharty, executive director of the Canton Chamber of Commerce, Kathleen Kittle of Mission Health and Tom Yack, Canton Supervisor.

The forum runs from noon to 1:30 p.m. at Summit on the Park. Cost is $15 per person for lunch and program.

Call Joan Noricks at 981-3002 for reservations.

Rivers, an incumbent Democrat, is seeking a second term in the U.S. House. The Republican challenger is business man Joe Fitzsimmons. Both candidates are from Ann Arbor.

The 13th District includes part of Washtenaw County and the western Wayne County communities of Plymouth, Plymouth Township, Canton Township, Westland, Garden City, Northville, Northville Township and part of LIvonia.

The forum will end at 1:30 p.m. and will include opening and closing remarks from each candidate, questions from panelists and questions from the audience.

Homecoming fills fall air

BY DIANE HANSON
SPECIAL WRITER

Gail and Dennis Sarrault came to cheer on the Canton Chiefs football team in their homecoming battle against the Livonia Franklin Patriots Saturday, where son Eric, number 82, is a senior member of the home varsity team.

Even though the Chiefs were tromped 21 to 9, that didn't stop the homecoming fun and festivities.

"We have a great time," said Gail Sarrault.

The boosters' pre-game picnic, held on the grassy knoll in Canton's parking lot, was for football players, Chiefettes, cheerleaders and their families and provided plenty of spirit and camaraderie. It was hard to tell who was enjoying the celebration more.

"The kids get so excited," said Pat Tervo. Her daughter, Kathy is a sophomore and second year Chiefette. Tervo said her daughter was so excited that she broke into dance at a store earlier when James Brown's, "I Feel Good," filled the airwaves.

But Gail Sarrault felt the parents might just enjoy the homecoming fun a bit more than the kids. "We're probably going to miss it once he graduates and goes off to college," she said. "We'll just come back and meet up with everyone."

She said that's exactly what Howard and Barb Pelkey did this year. "He is running our 50-50 raffle this year for us as an alumni parent," she said. "He couldn't stand to be away."

Freshmen, Mike Kalis and Steve Haradon, were enjoying their first homecoming. "I like it. It's pretty fun," said Haradon. He and Kalis planned to attend the dance on Saturday evening as well.

Junior Jason Rozman came to cheer on his team with a group of his fellow classmates. "That's why we're in the front row," he said, "so they could see us."

For Rozman, homecoming has special meaning. "It's a lot of school pride," he said. "You've got the pep rally. You've got the school decorated. It makes you feel good about your school."

This year's homecoming theme, "Around the World," was food for creative thought for the class floats. In judging, the freshmen's float was fourth, sophomores were third and juniors came in second. Seniors took first place with a float sporting monumental trademarks of several countries including Big Ben, a pagoda and the famous leaning tower.

The juniors won the Spirit Award for their highly decorated cafeteria wall. Juniors, Jennifer Linden, Nichole Higgs and Ruth Viforeanu, were busy dismantling their float that had taken a week to build very shortly after the parade.

"We've been with each other since three o'clock every day until about midnight," explained Higgs, president of the Class of 1998.

The senior representatives included: Fiorenzi and her escort, Nick Hurley; Mari Kushner and Jason Bennet; Tiffany Williams and Ryan Konley; Rachel Richter and Dave Dismondy; Nancy Hoffman and Tim Makins.

Juniors were represented by Julie Price and Trevor Anulewicz. Sophomore reps were Lisa Tomasso and Scott Wright. Vanessa Guastella and Jerry Zlothucha represented the freshmen.

School maintenance workers settle contract; insurance coverage changed

BY M.B. DILLON
STAFF WRITER

Plymouth-Canton Community Schools' 125 custodial-maintenance workers will receive an average salary increase of 3.4 percent under a wage reopener agreement ratified by the school board of education Monday.

The raise includes a previously-negotiated 1-percent increase.

Automatic pay increases are built into the multi-step salary schedule, so depending on the length of service, raises will vary from 3.1 percent to 8.9 percent, said John Birchler, assistant superintendent for business.

Entry level pay for custodians is now $9.65 an hour, increasing to $10.01 after a 90-day probationary period. Top of the scale will be $13.25, plus 1.5 percent that's been added as a top step.

The union agreed to offer members a choice between their existing Blue Cross-Blue Shield health coverage and Preferred Choices, a preferred provider organization that's a subsidiary of Mercy Health Plans.

Health insurance savings for the district are projected at 5.3 percent, or $32,309, said Birchler.

Superintendent Charles Little and Birchler said the settlement represents a change in bargaining strategy.

"Conducting a review of total employment is a tactic the board has been using to look at not just the salary base, but the total cost of employing members of our bargaining units," said Birchler.

Salaries and benefits for the union will cost the district an additional $165,393, or 2.93 percent more, in 1996-97.

Chris Gearns, chief union negotiator, said employees who choose to keep Blue Cross will pay an annual premium of less than $300 per individual, and about $600 per family. "It's not out-of-pocket. It comes out before taxes," said Gearns.

■ 'This change didn't come easy for our membership, but it is quality health care. It's nothing the general public hasn't been seeing for 10 years.'

Chris Gearns
—Union negotiator

Employees opting for the PPO will pay no deductible if they receive medical treatment from doctors within the organization. In-network office visits will require a $15 co-pay.

"This change didn't come easy for our membership, but it is quality health care," said Gearns. "It's nothing the general public hasn't been seeing for 10 years — co-pays, PPO's and HMO's. That is what seems to be good out there for employers to save money in health care costs."

Negotiators reached a tentative agreement after just two sessions, Gearns said.

The custodial-maintenance employees' contract will expire June 30 of next year. "But also, as part of our tentative agreement, we've committed to sit down and negotiate a multi-year agreement. We'll return to the bargaining table to work on that," said Gearns.

School board President Mark Horvath shared their optimism. "We are tired, but we are all very hopeful about decisions that were made Sunday and Monday," he said.

Wages and benefits have been the two largest stumbling blocks. The district wanted to freeze teacher salaries and switch from Blue Cross-Blue Shield to a Preferred Provider Organization.

Teachers were asking for a 3-percent raise and no change in health care coverage.

Currently, entry-level pay for teachers is $30,997. Top of the scale is $62,050.

Things got rolling during Thursday's bargaining session, which went from 4-10:30 p.m. "We sort of got some new ideas that appeared worth pursuing," said Cotner. "We felt each other out on some things."

The board of education met at noon Sunday in closed session to discuss negotiations. Having board members around was helpful, said Cotner. "The only way things can get done quickly is to have access to the board, because the negotiating team only has the latitude it was given originally."

The decision to bargain Sunday wasn't made lightly. "We didn't want to go into a Sunday deal like we did unless we felt like it had a pretty good chance of being fruitful," said Cotner. "If you go into those things and it doesn't work out, you're worse off than before, because everyone gets excited thinking you're going to get something worked out. If you don't, it's rough."

Teachers were told to "cease and desist, at least temporarily," from taking any action protesting the labor dispute.

It will most likely take two weeks for a contract to be ratified, Cotner estimated.

Once Goldman and Cotner sign a tentative agreement, which they hope to do today, "850 copies of a big document have to be run off for the teachers," said Cotner.

"A general membership meeting will then be called as soon as possible to give teachers a chance to ask questions. After we hold a ratification vote, the board would ratify the contract," Cotner said.

"Under the best-case scenario, that'll take two weeks. But there's no way we can guess. I hope we finish it soon. I'm going to wait and see."

Man charged with attempted robbery

A 27-year-old man identified as a Lebanese citizen was arrested for attempted robbery Friday morning after being chased by the female attendant he tried to rob at the Total gas station at 1066 N. Mill.

Andre Haddoni pleaded not guilty to the five-year felony at his arraignment before Magistrate Eric Colthurst at 35th District Court Friday. His preliminary examination is set for Friday, Oct. 11.

He is being held on $10,000 cash bond in Wayne County Jail.

Plymouth Police Lt. Wayne Carroll said the clerk, also 27 years old, saw the suspect enter the building at 7:45 a.m. and grab three packs of cigarettes.

"He was hiding them under the counter, and she challenged him, and told him she was ringing it up," Carroll said. "He threw them on the counter and kept the other hand out of sight, as if he was holding some kind of weapon," said Carroll.

"He demanded money, and she refused. He again said, `Give me the money,' and she refused.

"He then removed his hand from underneath the counter, and with his thumb and index finger pretended he had a gun, pointed at her in a threatening manner, and said `bam,'" said Carroll.

"He took off with the cigarette packs. She followed him as he fled southbound on Mill, and he threw cigarettes back at her."

Police issued a bulletin to other departments with a description of the suspect. A Plymouth Township officer apprehended a subject, who was identified as the would-be robber by the station clerk, said Carroll.

The incident took place shortly before 8 a.m., Wednesday, Oct. 2.

His blood alcohol was measured at .14 percent.

DRUNKEN DRIVING: A 33-year-old Plymouth man was arrested at 2:28 a.m., Sunday, Sept. 29 for driving while under the influence of alcohol. Police checked the license plate of the 1994 red Ford Probe and found it expired Sept. 3.

His blood alcohol level was measured at .137 percent.

PLATE MISSING: A 30-year-old Plymouth woman told police that he noticed his license plate missing from his Chevy pick-up truck Sept. 28. He's not sure if was lost or stolen.

CAR TOWED: Plymouth police stopped the driver of a 1991 white Mercury Tracer at 2:56 a.m. Sept. 28. the man was stopped for driving with an expired license plate.

Police towed the car, and issued the man a citation for driving without insurance and with an expired plate.

He said the youth argued with him and said it was his right to skateboard in the downtown area.

He also complained about the lack of enforcement of ordinances that prohibit skateboarding on sidewalks and on downtown streets.

Commission member John Vos responded by saying that police should get out of their cars and walk around.

■ 'We have a tremendous number of people doing it. They just often don't know they can't do it downtown.'

Robert Scoggins
—Plymouth police chief

"They shouldn't just be sitting in their cars," he said.

Police Chief Robert Scoggins said he has talked with Young and others about skateboarding complaints.

He also pointed out that Rollerblading is a different issue than skate boarding.

"We have a tremendous number of people doing it. They just often don't know they can't do it downtown," he said.

The commission approved the formation of the task force, which will report back to the city commission. Members include: Scoggins; Jim Penn and his son, Kevin; Tom Willette; Jack Wilcox; Maureen McInerney; Dave Pinta, a skateboarder; Tracy Sincock; and city commission member Joe Koch.

Money raised by the Plymouth event will go to the Make-A-Wish Foundation, which grants wishes to children with serious ailments.

"There's been a lot of interest," said Horn. "I've already received a $250 check for the foundation. People are excited because the money will stay in Michigan."

The event starts at noon when the folks in the chili competition start cooking. The chili judging will take place from 3-4:30 p.m., with the awards presentation at 5 p.m.

Other events are:

- Live country bands, including Shotgun Willie, will play from noon to 6 p.m.
- There will be a salsa competition, with the judging 3-4 p.m.
- A chili tasting at 3 p.m.
- Line dancing 1-4 p.m.
- Jalapeno eating contest 1-4 p.m.
- Classic Harley Davidson display, 11 a.m. to 6 p.m.
- Western barbecue, noon to 5 p.m.

One way that those who are attending the cook-off can ensure that their money goes to charity is to buy tickets to taste chili.

The cost is 25 cents per taste. The tickets will be available after 3 p.m. Also, to raise money, the Plymouth Landing and Station 885 are making chili that will be sold in 8-ounce cups.

Quality, costs are key issues for WSU

BY TIM RICHARD
STAFF WRITER

Candidates for Wayne State University's board differ on holding open interviews for a president but agree that quality teaching and the low tuition are priorities for urban higher education.

They also see "no problem" at WSU in exposing undergraduates students to top professors.

Candidates appeared Sept. 26 at a forum sponsored by the Livonia branch of the American Association of University Women.

Although President David Adamany has been at WSU since the early 1980s and there's little prospect of his leaving before retirement, it is known that Adamany has been considered for other jobs.

Open interviews

So moderator Yvonne Constas asked their views on the Open Meetings Act, which requires public bodies – including university boards – to conduct most business, including presidential candidates, in open sessions.

Candidates on Nov. 5 ballot

■ Democrats

Murray Jackson, 69, Detroit, incumbent. Retired University of Michigan professor of education.

Annetta Miller, 75, Huntington Woods. Served three terms (24 years) on State Board of Education.

■ Republicans

Vernice Davis Anthony, 51, Farmington Hills. Incumbent (by appointment of Gov. Engler). Vice president of St. John Health System; former director of state and Wayne County health departments.

Dr. Paul Fecko, 62, Bloomfield Hills. Ophthalmologist; former chemical engineer with master of business administration degree.

■ Wayne State

Located in Detroit with several extensions. It is considered a research university and has many professional schools. The eight-member board adopts a budget of $500 million, sets tuition for 33,000 students and hires the president.

Dr. Paul Fecko (R): "They should be open at all times except for accusations, purchase or sale of property." (The existing OMA allows closed meetings to hear charges against an employee, purchase and lease of property but not sale of property.)

Annetta Miller (D): "The most important job a board does is to choose a leader. Many (candidates) refuse to risk losing the jobs they hold. But there comes a point when it (interviews of finalists) must be done in the open."

Vernice Davis Anthony (R, incumbent): "The president does not have to be in the open."

Dr. Murray Jackson (D, incumbent): "I have some reservations. But there is no right (for the board) to not share what it's doing publicly."

Tuition hikes

What is the most important issue facing WSU? What are your views on holding the line on tuition? (The questions were separate, but answers overlapped.)

Anthony (R): "Costs and tuition. A college education should be affordable. Wayne has many working students. We need to seek administrative efficiency and building operations efficiency. We have very high utility costs."

Jackson (D): "Wayne State is not the University of Michigan or Michigan State University. (To control costs,) we should combine administrative positions."

Fecko (R): "Quality education is the most important issue. Cost is second. Tuitions have been outrunning inflation. We need to look at the university structure, look at the administration-student ratio, and lobby the government and citizens for funding."

Miller (D): "The MET program under (Gov. James) Blanchard

Irish Americans plan local rally for Clinton, Gore

A rally in support of President Bill Clinton and Vice President Al Gore is set for 5-8 p.m. Thursday, Oct. 17, at the Gaelic League, 2068 Michigan Avenue in Detroit.

Hosting the event is the Michigan Steering Committee of the Irish Americans for Clinton-Gore.

Keynoting the rally will be special guest Bruce Morrison, former congressman from Connecticut. A champion of Irish immigration reform with the Morrison Visas named after him, Morrison has been a friend and tireless advocate of peace and justice for Ireland within the White House during the last four years.

Traditional Irish musicians will entertain, and food and beverages will be served. The public is welcome, and there is no admission.

Michael Kerwin of Detroit, the organization's chairman, said, "President Clinton has done more to help achieve peace in Northern Ireland than any other president."

For more information, call Kerwin at (313) 861-5760 or McGowan at (313) 287-6107.

BY DIANE HANSON
SPECIAL WRITER

For the first time since the competition season started in September, the sun sparkled on the brass and silver of the Plymouth-Canton Marching Band.

But, for the fourth time in as many competitive performances, the 200 musicians and color guard "eased on down the road" collecting all the Flight I first place awards for their perky portrayal of "The Road to Oz" at the Michigan Invitational held at Atwood Stadium in Flint Oct. 6.

Assistant director, Pat Ruddy, wasn't a bit surprised by the band's stellar performance.

He knows how hard they work all week.

"They were great starting on Monday and they were great all the way through," he said.

■ 'They were great starting on Monday and they were great all the way through.'

Pat Ruddy
—assistant band director

"So it wasn't a surprise at all today that they were as good as they were."

Band director David McGrath thanked the kids "for the best week I've had since I've been teaching." And this is his 10th year.

"That sums it up," he said. "It was a week where they got down to business, they worked really hard, and it showed tonight. I mean, they were just outstanding."

Indeed it did show in Plymouth-Canton's 88.22 score that secured first place for Flight I competition along with Flight I caption awards for Best Percussion, Best Winds, Best Marching & Maneuvering and Best Color Guard.

They also captured the Governor's Trophy for highest overall score of the 20 competing bands.

The traveling trophy didn't have far to go since Plymouth-Canton was also last year's winner.

Closest competitors for Plymouth-Canton came from Flight II bands.

Mona Shores took first place in Flight II with a score of 87.27 and Lakeland captured second in that flight with a score of 85.27.

Farmington Hills Harrison High held the next highest score with 77.95 and first place for Flight III.

The top awards put smiles on Plymouth-Canton faces.

"We were all really happy with how we did," said junior trombonist, Jesse Williams.

"I don't think we could have done any better at this point in the season. We've all worked really hard all year and we just had a lot of fun performing tonight."

Tina Hein, senior clarinetist, couldn't agree more. "I thought it rocked," she admitted.

"We worked really hard this week and we came here and tried our hardest. It was a lot of fun, especially marching on turf and with the sun out."

■ BAND

Apparently the judges thought the show rocked too. McGrath said scores for music effect, 19.1 out of 20, and visual effect, 14 out of 15, "tells you that the show really works." And the show isn't even complete yet. He said the kids will learn about another 25 to 30 drill charts this week and about two more minutes of music.

"To learn that in a week and not let the rest of the show take a step back is our goal," McGrath admitted.

"Then the beauty of this is, we have four weeks before Nationals (Nov. 7, 8, 9) to do nothing but get better."

Metro expansion to cost more than $1 billion

BY KEN ABRAMCZYK
STAFF WRITER

Commissioner Kay Beard, D-Westland, called Wednesday a "historic day for Wayne County."

"We'll have the kind of airport to make us one of the big players in terms of global economics," Beard said.

A $1.2 billion plan to expand Detroit Metropolitan Airport was approved by Wayne County commissioners between Wayne County and Northwest Airlines.

But the agreement still needs approval from at least 85 percent of the other airline carriers at Metro.

The project development agreement calls for construction of a new midfield passenger terminal with 64 domestic and 10 international gates, a power plant, garage and taxiways. Plans also call for a fourth parallel runway for an estimated $116 million near the west side of the airport.

Construction is expected to be completed by early 2001.

The project outlined a domestic terminal for $413 million, midfield aprons and taxiways for $108 million, international terminal for $85 million, an interim improvement program for $60 million, power plant and utilities for $45 million, a cargo, maintenance and mail facility for $38 million, and terminal roadways for $34 million.

Northwest Airlines will be responsible for overseeing the midfield terminal building project, a new cargo facility, maintenance facility and mail handling facility.

Construction of the midfield terminal and the capital improvement program will be financed through $496 million in airport revenue bonds, $240 million in "pay-as-you go" passenger facility charges, $228 in federal grants, and $65 million in state funds.

McNamara praised the commissioners and thanked them for their vote.

"I think it's the largest construction project in the state of Michigan," he said.

Detroit Metro was the only airport in the U.S. to fly directly from the United States to Beijing, China, McNamara said. China will be a great market for American companies, and the expanded airport will help the county and state attract more business, McNamara said.

Commissioner Bruce Patterson, R-Canton, proposed a resolution which was approved that called for $115 million to be spent on noise mitigation and would not be diverted from that purpose. Patterson's district contains Metro Airport.

Patterson was joined by Commissioner Thaddeus McCotter, R-Livonia, in introducing the resolution. Patterson said he was concerned about costs.

McCotter believed the resolution "clears up" the issue of noise mitigation. "We believe it is in the best interest of the taxpayers and the traveling public," McCotter said. "We also believe this will prevent the expansion of Willow Run."

Patterson and McCotter were concerned about that issue, as nearby residents were opposed to that airport's expansion.

McCotter believed private business will have more incentive to seek lower bids on the construction work. Northwest will handle many of the contracts for the midfield terminal and oversight responsibility for construction and financial controls.

Commissioner Michelle Plawecki, D-Redford Township, echoed their concerns about the noise.

"Departures over District 9 (Dearborn Heights, Redford Township and part of Livonia) decreased by 88 percent in four years," Plawecki said. "But arrivals are still an issue for me and my constituents.

"But I supported the expansion for the jobs and the economic development."

helped parents and grandparents finance youngsters' college tuition. Even Doug Roberts (state treasurer under Gov. John Engler) bought in. The current governor said it (MET) is not cost-effective. (The challenge at WSU is) to bring the university into the 21st Century, reassess programs, form collaborative programs with public schools and community colleges." She endorsed the Clinton Administration's efforts to provide aid to college students.

Charter schools

What is the university policy toward chartering public school academies?

Anthony (R): "That is still in evaluation. Wayne hasn't been aggressive in granting charters."

Miller (D): "I served 24 years on the State Board of Education. I heard Minnesota's Gov. Perpich on charter schools. It never occurred to me they would be used against public education. They should be magnet schools."

Fecko (R): "I favor innovation and charters. But you (chartering authority) also have the responsibility to supervise the schools you charter. Central Michigan University has chartered 32 or more, but it hasn't supervised them."

Jackson (D): "Wayne State helped Detroit solve its problems (by chartering a school). I supported the first one." He added he has "misgivings" about some of the other schools chartered in Michigan.

Faculty teaching

Students sometimes complain that top faculty members do research and don't teach undergraduate students. Is that a problem?

Jackson (D): "Most students have professors in their classes. Professors teach, by and large. At Wayne, we don't have that problem."

Anthony (R): "We don't have a major problem at Wayne. Professors are necessary especially for counseling. We use graduate student assistants but under the leadership of a professor."

Miller (D): "I just completed a program in art history at Wayne. The professors were most willing to talk with us, individually and as a group."

Fecko (R): "Education is No. 1. Research and public service follow. They (professors) have an obligation to teach. If they do research, they should have students in the lab."

Candidates were quoted in the order in which they spoke. A 30-minute segment of the program was videotaped. To see it, call you local cable TV company and ask it to obtain a copy of the Sept. 26 AAUW program from Time Warner of Livonia.

Salvation Army in need of bell ringers for Christmas drive

BY JOANNE MALISZEWSKI
STAFF WRITER

The leaves may just be starting to turn as autumn sinks its teeth in, but it's still not too early to think about Christmas.

That's especially true for the Salvation Army. Scheduling the hundreds of volunteers who are needed to man the Christmas Red Kettles takes weeks of work - and that work is starting now.

"We have these groups of volunteers who do it every year. But we are always looking for new volunteers," said Martha Schultz, Salvation Army community center director and kettle coordinator.

Literally, the Salvation Army needs hundreds of volunteers to ring the bells and accept donations 12 hours a day, six days a week beginning Nov. 18 through Christmas Eve, Dec. 24.

"We have quite a few locations in Plymouth and Canton," Schultz added.

If you are a member of an organization, or want to help out just as an individual, a student or as a family, you are wanted.

"Last year the students at the high school were wonderful," Schultz said. "We do have a lot of students who come out and help."

The Salvation Army is hosting the Kettle Breakfast for anyone interested in volunteering at 7:30 a.m. Friday, Oct. 11, at the Salvation Army building, 9451 S. Main in Plymouth.

If you cannot attend the breakfast but are interested in volunteering, call Schultz, 453-5464.

BY KEN ABRAMCZYK
STAFF WRITER

David Ramsey disagrees with the proposed use of tax dollars to build a new stadium in Detroit.

"It's like me going to (Canton Township supervisor) Tom Yack and asking him to build me a new building," said Ramsey, a Canton Rotarian who is self-employed in real estate.

Ramsey had just heard Carl Pursell, a former U.S. Congressional member, criticize Proposition S at a lunch Monday for the Canton Rotary Club.

The proposition involves a series of taxes to help build a new Detroit Lions football stadium. It asks for an excise tax of 1 percent on hotel rooms and 2 percent on motor vehicle rentals to give to a stadium authority. The tax would last 30 years.

The proposition involves $245 million for a Lions football stadium adjacent to a new Tiger stadium, including $80 million in excise taxes, if voters say yes.

Pursell has initiated a drive against the ballot proposal. He now co-chairs Taxpayers Against Proposition S (TAPS).

On Monday, he called county officials' drive to place the proposal on the ballot "an inept abuse of power." He criticized the county commission, where he once served 26 years ago.

The commissioners conducted public hearings, but they did not advertise in general publication newspapers, as they are required to do under the Open Meetings Act, Pursell said. They did not advertise in the Detroit News or Free Press, but rather with the Detroit Legal News.

Pursell accused the commissioners of "ramming this thing through," on a 12-3 vote.

But Pursell spent much of his time criticizing the tax itself.

"This $30 million is an encumbrance for us in Wayne County," Pursell said. "If it passes, I think there will be a tax revolt."

About 250 cars a day are rented in Plymouth by business people, or family members staying in town with relatives, Pursell said. "We're all paying this tax directly," Pursell said. "Our hotel and motel tax is more expensive than other communities."

Pursell said many public officials do not see the significance of the tax on communities. He recalled a quote used by others during political campaigns: "You cannot tax yourself into prosperity."

"Many people believe the bigger that government gets, the more services it can provide to people trying to raise a family," Pursell said.

Pursell called the Detroit school system the "worst in the state," but yet William Clay Ford, the owner of the Lions, wanted tax money for a stadium. Pursell said another taxpayer funded program in Detroit — empowerment zones — earmarks no money for reading programs.

Pursell wants to hold a press conference near a school to formally announce his citizens' group's opposition to the proposition.

"Let's use our tax dollars for the right purposes, not the wrong ones," he said.

Other Rotarians supported Pursell's position.

Ramsey called using tax dollars to fund a stadium "a crime." He disagreed with assertions from stadium supporters that Detroit businesses will benefit from the new facilities.

"(Sports fans) will go to the stadium, but they'll get in their cars, drive home and will still eat dinner near their homes," Ramsey said.

John Schwartz, a building manager for the Canton library, also agreed with Pursell's argument.

"These guys are all business people," Schwartz said, pointing to other Rotarians. "To build their businesses, they've had to borrow money."

Schwartz said there was nothing to reimburse taxpayers for the stadium, while owners do not pay taxes on them.

Ed Schulz, a certified public accountant in Plymouth, said the speech helped him affirm his beliefs that Wayne County commissioners should have sought more public input before approving the ballot proposal.

"I thought (Pursell's speech) was very factual. You need representation from all aspects of the community," Schulz said.

"I do support his position and I'm for privatization of the stadium."

But Schulz concluded that Wayne County voters should have the final say, which they will do on Nov. 5.

Patient's rights bills get unanimous House OK

BY TIM RICHARD
STAFF WRITER

■ House Bills 5570-5574 face an uncertain future in the Senate. John Jamian said he is concerned that senators may gut some of the important protections on which his panel worked for months.

The state House of Representatives was one vote short of unanimous as it passed a bill banning a "date rape" drug.

But it gave 100 percent approval to lame-duck Rep. John Jamian's "Patient's Bill of Rights" package. The bills go next to the Senate.

The House handed Jamian a going-away present by giving unanimous approval, on votes of more than 100-0, to a package of bills he steered through his Health Policy Committee. They would:

- Protect patients with pre-existing conditions.
- Protect workers against losing health insurance if they moved or changed jobs.
- Help people, particularly retirees, understand their health insurance coverage by requiring health insurers to tell customers exactly what is covered.
- Require insurers to establish a 90-day grievance process for customers who disagree with coverage decisions.

"I was shocked at the lack of debate and controversy surrounding the bills when they hit the House floor," said Jamian. "I have to attribute that to the hard work and compromise of the special interest groups and the other multitude of parties involved this summer."

House Bills 5570-5574 face an uncertain future in the Senate. Jamian said he is concerned that senators may gut some of the important protections on which his panel worked for months.

The House gave 102-1 approval to a bill regulating Rohypnol, a sedative many times stronger than Valium that can not only knock out a young woman but cause short-term memory loss.

The bill, by Rep. Eric Bush, R-Battle Creek, will classify Rohypnol as a Schedule I drug instead of Schedule IV. Possession would be a two-year felony offense, manufacture and sale a seven-year felony, and rape a 20-year felony.

"We have not allowed sufficient time," said dissenter Michael Bennane, D-Detroit, "to gather all the pertinent facts and information. This is not the type of decision you can thoughtfully contemplate, thoroughly explore and decide in 24 hours.

"The federal Food and Drug Administration has been studying the issue of rescheduling Rohypnol for several months, and a decision is expected shortly.

"Rohypnol is not significantly different from other compounds in the benzodiazepine family. All other benzodiazepines are in Schedule IV. Rescheduling sends an an inaccurate message to physicians, patients and governments in other countries where it is used safely and effectively for the treatment of sleep disorders," said Bennane, who isn't seeking re-election.

But Bush, a former police commander, said, "The use of Rohypnol in connection with rape cases has already reached epidemic proportions in Florida and Texas. Once again, Michigan is one step ahead of the federal government."

The State News, campus newspaper at Michigan State University, endorsed the measure editorially but said the drug still could be smuggled into the U.S. "However, if the drug had more color and taste, Rohypnol-related crimes would undoubtedly drop even further by alerting those who are slipped the drug," it said.

The Associated Press contributed to this story.

Skateboarding

Facility needed for activity

The Plymouth City Commission on Monday started down a road toward addressing recreation in the Plymouth community.

Mayor Ron Loiselle announced the formation of a task force to come up with solutions to the in-line skating and skateboarding problems that face downtown Plymouth.

It is a serious concern. Skateboarders regularly zoom past pedestrians, frightening people and causing concern among merchants that customers will be frightened away.

However, instead of focusing on just keeping the kids off the streets, the task force, which will include skateboarders, will look at finding a facility where skateboarding and in-line skating can be done.

It's the best approach to the problem. Skateboarding and in-line skating are recreational activities that should be encouraged by communities.

As Loiselle put it: "There's no place to skateboard in Plymouth."

There should be one. It doesn't need to be an expensive facility, maybe just a smooth parking lot with a few hills or jumps for the skateboarders.

The city has taken the right approach with the task force, by including skateboarders and police from both the city and Plymouth Township.

By including Plymouth Township Police Chief Carl Berry in the task force, the city is seeking an area solution to an area problem. Let's face it, the kids skateboarding in the downtown area are also from the township.

Also, the formation of the task force comes as the city and township are looking to cooperate on recreational issues. The city and township have commissioned a recreation study of the entire Plymouth community.

That study should address the skateboarding and in-line skating issues. Both are recreational activities in search of a home.

The community survey is the first step the city and township have taken to address the recreation issue that faces both governmental entities.

The eventual outcome should be the formation of a single recreation department that serves the needs of both the city and township. In that way, the skateboarders and in-line skaters could find a location for their activities.

Salvation Army needs help

Being part of a community is more than having an address in it. It means getting involved and doing things for others.

Already the Salvation Army, which serves families in Plymouth, is preparing for its famous Red Kettle drive. Hundreds of volunteers are needed to ring the bells and ask for donations.

Proceeds from the Salvation Army's efforts help finance much of what the corps does for the community, such as its food cupboard, which provides nourishment to families in need.

At 7:30 a.m. Friday, Oct. 11, the Salvation Army is hosting a breakfast for anyone – individuals, families and businesses – who wants to get involved in the Red Kettle drive.

It is a great opportunity to involve your family, especially your children in helping others. If you want to help, but can't make the Kettle Breakfast, call the Salvation Army, headquartered in Plymouth, 453-5464.

Sanity needed in suicide debate

One of the most debated and emotional social issues in recent years is whether people should have an unlimited right to decide how they should end their lives and if anyone should be allowed to help them.

Thanks to Dr. Jack Kevorkian, usually accompanied by his media-savvy attorney Geoffrey Fieger, the issue of assisted suicide has dominated the agenda of the state Legislature and has triggered numerous debates among health care professionals as well as individuals.

With the U.S. Supreme Court deciding to review two related cases and the state Senate initiating a bill to address a small segment of the controversial issue, it's time that a degree of sanity be brought into the debate.

The specific proposal before the Senate's Committee on Families, Mental Health and Human Services is a straightforward one which should be enacted into law.

The proposal doesn't cut to the heart of the assisted suicide issue, but it does open the door for some direction for individuals and health care professionals.

Basically, the proposal would do three things: assure that physicians tell their terminally ill patients their rights to accept or refuse treatment; given physicians immunity when they prescribe narcotics as pain-killers; and tell patients that state case law prohibits anyone from assisting in a suicide.

While the Senate bill, sponsored by Sen. Dale Shugars, R-Portage, doesn't offer a comprehensive approach to the issue, it certainly provides a common sense solution on how to deal with a controversy which began in mid-1990 when Kevorkian first assisted a suicide.

Since then, he has been involved in more than 40 others.

While polls reflect that a majority prefer that government stay out of an individual's private decisions which don't affect others, the Observer believes that there must be a stop to the insanity of bodies of those who have received help in ending their lives being unceremoniously dropped off at a hospital's emergency room entrance.

The Senate proposal represents a well-thought-out answer to part of assisted suicide controversy. The proposal, if enacted into law, would make sure that patients are provided with information on options other than ending their lives.

There are new techniques in pain management. There are hospice organizations. There are a variety of counseling services available to patients who are depressed and see the ending of their life as the most attractive alternative to their situations.

Hopefully, legislators and the public will realize that and put an end to the emotional debate surrounding the issue.

Festivals out of control

You have at least one reader who empathizes with Mr. Wilcox and his complaints regarding the downtown festivals...All umpteen of them! I have witnessed the deterioration and the commercialization of the downtown festivals for many years.

I remember when the fall festival's main attraction was the Rooster Flying Contest which was eliminated after threats of legal action by the A.S.P.C.A. I think that flying contest was the most fun that those roosters had all year. I also think that it was actually held in the fall.

What we have now is not a festival: It is a sideshow and carnival, and it is not held in the fall. How about a theme? Like cornstalks, pumpkins apples, cider etc...You know; like fall. What we have now is every civic group known to man setting up food stands, carnival amusements, and loud music that I am sure bothers many more people than just Mr. Wilcox. I don't understand why this man is being persecuted for simply voicing himself. When I still attended the fall festival, I took many guests from out-of-town to the fall festival and there reactions were always the same..."There is nothing there."

The Ice Festival is another one that seems to deteriorate more every year. The early Ice Festival were non-corporate, non-commercial, and non-chain saw! They were beautiful and when the weather held, I enjoyed an early morning drive-by for many days after it was over. If there is anything that detracts from beauty, it is orange traffic cones and yellow construction tape that encircles the park during this spectacle. The Hi-Los and pallets parked right at the corner of Main and Penniman are also huge detractions. Generators cranking, chainsaws buzzing, and food stands flashing, add nothing to the esthetics that once were enjoyed by residents of this community.

Art In The Park, Plymouth Blues (Plymouth Blues???), The Fall Festival (Held in the Summer), The Ice Festival, ARTrageous etc. are all written up in the "Observer" as being huge successes. If money is the measure of success then I guess I can understand.

I feel that these "Festivals" have become too big; too commercial; too numerous; and too loud for Kellogg Park.

I also feel that Plymouth needs a referendum from all the residents and downtown business owners regard the issue of the downtown "Festivals."

I hesitate to mention the boat show that used to be held on the parking deck, fearing that someone might want to resurrect it!

Salem issues important

Citizens everywhere should consider it their duty to become familiar with the candidates and issues that they will be voting for Nov. 5. Voting is not a free gift; a dear price was paid for this right. In voting, as in all things, to be deceived is to be destroyed.

Nowhere is this more important than in the local Salem Township election. Our collective head must come out of the sand now. Hiding in the shadows of the M-14 expressway has worked for a short time only — and we are paying every day for decisions not made 20 years ago.

We could have planned properly for growth and development, working with the County to preserve what we had instead of snubbing them as "outsiders." We didn't. We could have paid attention to the roar of the bulldozers and chain saws that have cast a diseased pallor over our neighboring communities and which now threatens us. We didn't.

We don't have the luxury of another 20 years, or even another year, to continue this head-in-the-sand scheme. If you are concerned about out situation, let your concern lead you to find out who among the candidates were part of this scheme or if their "vision" is for more of the same out-of-sight, out-of-mind mentality that has put is in this situation.

Our current supervisor, honest, and sincerely motivated to do the very best for us, has had less than two years to serve us in this capacity, but he has been a presence in the Salem community for many years. Don Riddering was barely defeated in the primary due to state law that does not allow party crossing in primary elections. Now is the time to find out what the rest of the candidates stand for.

Our leadership, that is to say the elected, part-time board of trustees of Salem Township, must be interested in the public good, not their now (and their friends) wallets, not their other businesses, not proving a point, not ignoring development (it's here, people, and we can protect ourselves or run scared, it's that simple). Not entertaining themselves with the sound of their now voices at our expense.

Let's make sure Rome doesn't burn while the fiddlers serenade each other. It is time for a thoughtful, considerate board that can do something to protect us from the fire.

I exhort you to not fall prey to "voter fatigue."

The next President will never affect you and your family's quality of life as much as your local board of trustees will. Vote in your election.

Teachers ask for support in negotiations with board

Teachers need support

Apparently Superintendent Little and the board's chief negotiator Errol Goldman feel they would somehow be remiss in their duty if they didn't fight to prevent teachers from getting a raise and keeping their health benefits.

These are the same teachers I heard speak to the board a few weeks ago listing the time they have given and the activities they have participated in for this district over many years. These are the teachers that voluntarily gave up a 3 percent raise three years ago in order to help out the financially-strapped district.

These are the teachers who were told "we won't forget this" when they gave up their raises but are now being ignored by many of those same people. Imagine how it must feel to make these contributions to the district and be told the district doesn't consider these contributions significant.

Superintendent Little and Errol Goldman are not from this community. They have no stake in this community. They are using Gov. Engler's PA112 as a means of negating the labor progress teachers have made. Neither the community nor the teachers welcomed the strikes that were part of our community's history, but the strikes led to several years of labor peace, and reasonable settlements were made with cooperation on both sides.

I'm sure many people in the community see this as a positive step, and there was no reason to believe such cooperation would not continue into the future. That cooperation was based to some extent on a balance of power. Now, however, all the power is on one side. PA112 has seen to that, and now that peace has been broken. Some people are alarmed by that.

Dean Swartzwelter, a former board president, has expressed his concern that what is happening is not a good way to deal with the people who teach this community's children. Mr. Swartzwelter thinks good working relationship are important. The current board apparently does not.

Even if the current board doesn't think dealing fairly with teachers is important, I trust the parents of this community realize what it would mean to this community if teachers were to resort to the only action they have left, which is to withhold all non-contractual work.

As a teacher who worked for this district for 26 years, I know how many hours I put in on work I was never paid for. And I know I was not alone.

And I know what the impact on the community would be if teachers no longer had the desire or will to put forth the extra miles the board likes to publicize. Does the community truly want its schools staffed by demoralized people?

I have suggested to my teacher friends that this is not the case, and I would like to see the parents in this community join Dean Swartzwelter in letting the board know how they feel about the current situation.

Contract sought: Plymouth Canton teachers marched outside of a recent school board meeting. The district's teachers have been working without a contract since returning to school.

Settlement urged

I have followed the contract debate between the Plymouth-Canton Board of Education and the Plymouth-Canton teachers with great interest. As the parent of a recent Salem graduate and a current sophomore, I have been involved with the school system for over 12 years. We all know that a superior school system involves a collaborative effort of students, parents and teachers. An exceptional school system requires the enthusiastic dedication of the teaching staff.

The Plymouth Observer recently reported that Plymouth-Canton students scored near the top of the High School Proficiency Test. Only Bloomfield Hills, Grosse Pointe and Birmingham scored higher than Plymouth-Canton students in the metro Detroit area. For the 1994-95 school year, the Birmingham schools spent $10,058 per student. Bloomfield Hills and Grosse Pointe spent $9,515 and $7,878 respectively per student while the Plymouth-Canton expenditure per student was $5,723.

The fact that Plymouth-Canton student scores are exceeded only by students in districts spending $2,000 to $4,000 more per student, per year, clearly indicates that this community is getting much more value for its educational dollar. The students and teachers have done their part in enhancing this community's reputation for having an exceptional school system.

The correlation between property values and the reputation of the community's schools is irrefutable. Improving property values attracts new residents, generating more tax revenue. This cycle can be maintained only by retaining the high caliber of teaching professionals we currently have. Just as in the business world, we compete with other communities for the best educators. We can retain the best only by providing an attractive working environment.

Three years ago, Plymouth-Canton teachers voted to give up their raises so that extracurricular activities in the district would not be eliminated. I believe it is time for parents to repay the favor and demonstrate our appreciation and support of the teaching staff. If parental support of our teachers has decreased then our expectations for excellence should decrease also. Education is not much different than other things in life: You get what you pay for.

Renee Casillas, Plymouth

Why no contract?

State Proficiency Test results came out recently. Out of 34 Wayne County districts, Plymouth-Canton scores rank second only to Grosse Pointe in high school science and writing, third in high school reading, fourth in high school math, and sixth overall at all levels.

In light of student and teacher success, why is the Plymouth-Canton Board of Education cutting, freezing, and downgrading teacher compensation, forcing negotiations to impasse, and moving to unfairly impose settlement on teachers?

With such a negative approach, how can the teachers and board retain a positive working relationship? Why is the board moving from a cooperative to an adversarial attitude with district teachers? Working together would be a better way to deal with our explosive growth and improve our already high student achievement.

Teachers do not understand why the board is seeking what they call "adjustments," which really amount to reductions. The board has stored funds in equity to provide salary and benefits that keep pace with other local districts.

Though our test scores are some of the highest in Wayne County, P-C teachers are not asking anywhere near the top salary.

We have done all that the community has asked and more: We teach in overcrowded buildings with too few materials, volunteer hundreds of hours after school to offer award-winning academic and competitive activities, guide students to job success, state championships, scholarships and high test scores.

Three years ago we gave up a salary raise to preserve low class sizes and student programs. Does all this really warrant downgraded pay and benefits?

The board's confrontational approach with its employees should be questioned. At a time of high test scores and expansion, we need a rational, conservative maintenance of standards, not a radical departure from the traditional high regard and respectable compensation for educators in P-C.

I would ask families that moved here because of the high quality staff, satisfied parents and business people to speak up and advise the board to act wisely in negotiations.

State schools should have consistent election dates

You wouldn't know it happened if you get your news from the big city papers or TV. But the House Local Government Committee recently held a hearing in the State Capitol on a timely topic – school elections and when to hold them.

It's important because holding elections costs money, and when elections are held often decides turnout and, thus, the outcome.

Currently, school districts have the option of holding elections whenever they choose. Here's a sample of comment from the hearing about why this system is wrong:

• Former Ingham County clerk, Rep. Lingg Brewer, D-Holt: "We have almost endless, ongoing elections with turnouts of 3, 4 or 5 percent."

• Tony Brehler, a retiree from Livonia and spokesman for a letter-writing group, "Grumpies": "It's kind of sad" that most elections are held on a June Monday. In Livonia, an election costs $32,000; with 4,120 voting, the cost is $7.77 per vote.

• Brewer again: "When you have 70 percent voting for president and 7 percent voting for school board, something is wrong. I've seen school people as cynical as Chicago ward heelers. They say, 'We've got a multi-million dollar project. Let's sneak this through with Monday elections.'"

What to do?

First, urge your local lawmaker to support HB 4447, introduced by Rep. Beverly Hammerstrom, R-Temperance, which would allow Michigan elections to be held on just three dates: Tuesdays after the first Mondays in 1) May, 2) August (i.e., the August primary election); and 3) November (i.e., the general election).

School people don't like the proposal, on the stated argument that restricting school elections to certain dates reduces local control. Poppycock! Having a uniform speed limit on expressways limits local control, but it also provides a consistent speed standard for all drivers to follow, regardless of destination.

I suspect the fascination with local control has far more to do with the common practice of school boards (often in conspiracy with teachers unions) sliding big ticket items through an election held at a time specifically designed to ensure low turnout and disproportionate effect from a committed (self-interested?) minority.

PHIL POWER

Second, urge your local lawmaker to mutter words of encouragement to Rep. Bob Brackenridge, R-St. Joseph, the thoughtful former Berrien County clerk who is pushing an overdue reconsideration of Michigan's election scheduling laws.

Suggest that while our lawmakers are considering rationalizing school elections, they should widen their focus to include also elections for statewide education posts and judges. Surprise! These folks are also elected in November! But you sure wouldn't know it by reading a big city newspaper or watching TV. These folks get elected essentially at random by an almost totally uninformed electorate.

One can argue that we should appoint our judges and university board members. But we in Michigan have chosen to elect them, and the odds of our changing the Constitution in this regard are negligible.

So we should consolidate voting for these posts with the proposed school elections in May.

That way, we'd get the news media off their butts and have some searching coverage of people and issues – school boards, millages, university boards and judges – that might inform voters in a democracy.

Family Room surfs the Net

Surfing the Net. Downloading. Clicking the mouse. Uploading. Webs. Bytes. Fatal errors.

These things sound terrible, don't they? Like one of those "Indiana Jones" movies where he goes to some far-off land across the sea and spiders and rodents and evil scary things lurk in dark places like caves and pits.

That's what all that sounds like. But it really isn't any of that. At least that's what my husband says, it's just Internet stuff. And I'm just now learning about "Internet stuff" because last Friday husband Ron got me in line, or on-line, or whatever it is.

So, let's see. The Internet. It's a spider web sort of thing. I think. And it's all woven together by computer cords and telephone wires, and somehow they get crisscrossed and connected up across town, across the country, across the planet. And people communicate that way. It's very big and very mysterious.

Truly mystifying

And I don't get it. It mystifies me. But, to tell you the truth, doorbells and toilets mystify me. Self-sticking postage stamps mystify me. Most everything mystifies and amazes me.

Being amazed to this degree is rather embarrassing. How could anyone my age understand so little about so much? And then, here comes this Internet thing. It stuns me. It stuns me in aflabbergasted, awestruck sort of way.

I mean, who could've ever thought of this? This is really cool! People actually "talk" to each other all over the planet and it's not a long distance call?!

And then it stuns me in the stun gun, frozen in your tracks, sort of way. I wonder how those things work anyway? Stun guns. Do you get "shot" by something or other and that makes you just stand there, not moving, and you're frozen? Or do you fall over? Or what? I've never had this experience, so I don't know, and I certainly hope I never will, but the point is this ... What was the point?

See? I'm stunned and all frozen up just thinking about this, this Internet. That's because I worry I'm going to break it. I'll goof something up out there in the spider web of telephone wires and computer cords. And I'll get in big trouble.

Well, anyway. I'm on-line. The "Family Room" lady is on-line. So if you've an idea, thought, complaint, suggestion, question, answer, whatever, for the "Family Room" column, send me a message on the Internet.

Ron told me to let you know I have my own "address" on this Internet. This address looks like what Joey (who is 4) "types" on our computer (a bunch of willy nilly gobbledygook), but here goes. Here's my "address:" FamilyRoom@worldnet.att.net

Ron assures me that these letters placed in this way with those punctuation marks will work, they will get your message to me so long as you have a computer, a modem, access to the Internet, and, of course, a message.

Exciting proposition

Now, I'm pretty excited about this – this new way of communicating. I love communicating. With you. And I love when you communicate with me. It keeps me on my toes, it keeps me humble, it keeps me going.

Over the years, the calls I've retrieved from the Observer phone message system and the cards and letters forwarded to me from the Observer office have provided me with lots of incentive and ideas. People have told me the "Family Room" is a "coffee break column," they sit down with a cup of coffee and the paper and read the "Family Room." And I've been told the "Family Room" is "easy to take," it's "comfortable," it's "ordinary life," it's a "simple break from serious business and rotten news."

And one reader recently wrote, "The 'Family Room' reminds me ..." Or is it "The Family Room rom ..." something? "Roams?" Or "ram ...?" "Rambles?" I can't quite make out the handwriting. Anyway, in some way it's like "a conversation."

And that's good. But up till now it's just been me talking and talking and talking, and you just having to sit there listening and listening and drinking coffee, but now you can jump in, you can actually "talk" back, right away and I'll "hear" you right away, that day.

Now, if I'm to understand this E-mail process, there'll be no delays in getting your message directly to me, at my house, to my very own computer, in the den upstairs. No mail delays, no forwarding delays, no phone message retrieval snafus. Ron tells me the whole thing's easy as can be.

Moms find support with FEMALE

■ When working moms decide to stay home and raise their children, they can face conflicts and feelings of isolation. But thanks to FEMALE, at-home moms have a place to turn for information and support.

BY LINDA ANN CHOMIN

When Linda Macinkowicz's son Matthew, 7, and daughter Megan, 5, were born, she felt isolated and alone.

Two years ago, she heard about the support group FEMALE, an acronym for "Formerly Employed Mothers at the Leading Edge." The national non-profit organization is aimed at women, most of whom have left the full-time paid work force to raise their families at home.

Until the birth of her children, Macinkowicz had worked full-time as a secretary for Michigan Consolidated Gas Company. Thrust into the role of full-time motherhood with little or no training for the job, she had no one to turn to when problems or questions arose about child-rearing.

"In society today, you don't have a mother or grandmother living with you," said Macinkowicz who first belonged to the Warren chapter before moving to Livonia. "Most of the neighbors work and your pediatrician can only give you so much time and usually only deals with illness."

Macinkowicz now belongs to the Novi-Area Chapter that meets 7-9 p.m. twice monthly on the second Wednesday and fourth Tuesday at the Mission Health Professional Center on Ten Mile and Haggerty roads in Novi.

Social opportunities included in membership are a monthly mom's night out and play groups; the last one in late September provided mothers and children a chance to visit the Detroit Zoo as a group.

Difficult choice

For a woman dealing with transitions between paid employment and at-home motherhood, the choices are never easy; problems involving losses of identity and financial autonomy are many.

A September meeting of the FEMALE group covered topics ranging from job-sharing to how long is too long to breast feed. The members took turns telling their stories.

"We support all women whether working or staying at home with their children. Besides the regular meetings, our mom's night out gives women a chance to sit around a table where no food is being thrown and initiate friendships," said co-leader Dawn Fraser of Novi.

Fraser, who runs an in-home monogramming business, has four children between the ages of 21 months and 11 years. She began the meeting by informing members she had a broken arm at her house this week. She sees that as one good reason among many to belong to FEMALE.

"You need a buffer board; someone to ask, 'What do you think?' Raising children is a real challenge. You don't know if you're overprotective or underprotective," Fraser said. "When you have very small children, from mid-October to May, you don't see another adult human being during the day. In FEMALE, we trade ideas, take the ideas and try them for what works in potty training."

Susan Sidock, who has a 1- and a 4-year-old, works full-time as an engineer for General Motors. She is grateful to GM in Pontiac for allowing her to work flexible hours, so she can be there to provide guidance for her children. She agrees with Fraser about the need for FEMALE.

"It's a support system. It gives you the chance to get out with other women and swap information. It's moral support until the whiny stages end," said Sidock of Waterford.

Pediatrician Val Lazarchuk is the mother of twin 22-month-old sons. She works part-time in Southfield at Hospice of Southeast Michigan. Before becoming pregnant, she participated in an infertility support group.

"My immediate problem is they're taking over the house. Everything is taped down," quipped Lazarchuk of Northville. "But seriously, the group gives me the support to counter all the guilt of staying home after I'd done all the years of investing in education and about derailing my career.

"It helps me deal with the way our mothers were raised to stay home, and how society devalues us because this is what I choose to do."

Tremendous pressure

Added Fraser who just like Tracy Feliksa of Wixom struggles with tremendous societal pressures on a daily basis, "My daughter came home saying her teacher told her she couldn't be just a stay-at-home mother."

Janet Caldwell of Farmington Hills chooses to stay home with her two daughters, ages six months and 2 1/2 years, instead of returning to her full-time position at a brokerage firm. One of the main reasons she joined the group was for companionship.

"I wanted to meet other people. I didn't know a lot of people who stayed home," said Caldwell, who is group treasurer and play group coordinator.

At the national level, FEMALE, which held its first Midwest conference Oct. 4-5 in Illinois, advocates changes to make business communities, government and society more accountable to families' needs and well-being by conducting letter-writing campaigns and drawing media attention to work/family issues.

While some mothers prefer not to work at all, others wish to work part-time or job share as Gale Crowley and Deanna McDermott do as executive secretaries in the legal department at Waste Management in Livonia. Gale had worked full-time for nine years, Deanne for five before approaching management with the idea that also allows them to share child-caring responsibilities. The company benefits because the two have 14 years combined experience in the position, and management did not have to train a new employee.

"Women are going to start demanding more part-time jobs and job sharing with health benefits," said Crowley, a student at Schoolcraft College in Livonia.

The Novi-Area Chapter of FEMALE is seeking to increase membership. For more information call Fraser at (810) 349-4886 or Macinkowicz at (313) 432-6982.

Twins share their trip down the aisle

Melissa and Melanie Higgins have a lot in common. They like the same style in clothing and the same kind of music. They have a lot of the same friends.

Come Saturday, they'll have even more in common – their wedding day.

The twin sisters will say their "I do's" in a double wedding ceremony at St. Paul's Presbyterian Church in Livonia. It's a first for the pastor, the Rev. Dr. Thomas Eggebeen, who will have small name cards on the kneelers to keep track of the two couples.

But the sharing goes beyond the ceremony and the reception. The sisters and their husbands will share their honeymoon destinations – Tampa-St. Pete – and when they get home, live side by side in Redford.

"It seems like it's been forever coming, almost like a dream," said Melanie of her pending nuptials. Fiance Steven Myers nods in agreement. "I thought it'd never come."

"Yeah, I remember when we had a year to go," added Melissa, who is marrying Terry Poole.

Melanie was in eighth grade when she met Steve 11 years ago at the ACE Hardware. They started dating in 1988 and he popped the question in December 1993.

"The timing was right," said Steven, who grew up in Farmington Hills. "We were both friends for a long time before we got serious; thing just progressed into something a lot more special."

Melissa meet Terry at the Diamond and Spurs lounge in Mt. Clemens in February 1994. Terry's friend approached her, telling her that "that guy over there wants to dance with you, but he's too shy to ask."

They did dance and she did gave him her telephone number, but the former Mt. Clemens resi-

Exhibit features 'Firsts'

BY CHRISTINA FUOCO
STAFF WRITER

As program chairwoman, Jane Soltesz was looking for guest speakers to appear at Livonia Historical Society events. What she found instead, thanks to the Plymouth Historical Society, has led to the society's biggest event.

"First Ladies of Fashion" is an exhibit of 14 replicas of gowns worn by First Ladies. It is on display through Thursday, Oct. 31, at the Livonia Civic Center Library, 32777 Five Mile Road, east of Farmington Road, Livonia.

The Plymouth Historical Museum, which had previously housed the exhibit, suggested that it would make a good program for the society.

"It is an election year and I thought it might be something that would bring out people who are interested in that," Soltesz said.

The "First Ladies of Fashion" exhibit features replicas of gowns worn by Martha Washington, Dolly Madison, Louisa Adams, Sarah Polk, Abigail Fillmore, Julia Grant, Helen Taft, Florence Harding, Grace Coolidge, Lou Hoover, Anna Eleanor Roosevelt, Lady Bird Johnson, Patricia Nixon and Rosalyn Carter.

The gowns are on loan from the Frankenmuth Historical Association, which purchased the 14 gowns.

The exhibit was created by Michigan designers Don Nagel and David Zeese who were commissioned by the Republican Party in 1971 to do the work.

Since photographs of the original gowns found in the Smithsonian Museum were not allowed, the designers had to work from drawings they made.

Research for the exhibit took eight months. The complete collection of 23 gowns (Frankenmuth Historical Association received 14) was completed in three months.

Under the management of Dr. and Mrs. Ed Deer, the first showing was in Detroit. Since then, the gowns have been shown in every state.

The 14 pieces in the exhibit were selected for two reasons – to show the progression of fashion, and to give insight into the various periods.

To celebrate the event, the Livonia Historical Society held a gala opening party on Sept. 28 to benefit the Alexander Blue House at Greenmead Historical Village. The event raised $2,600.

The group's next program in conjunction with the "First Ladies of Fashion" exhibit is 3-5 p.m. Sunday, Oct. 20, when Weldon Petz will discuss and present a slide show, entitled "Mary Todd Lincoln: Wife, Mother and First Lady."

The event serves as the society's membership tea.

For more information about the society, call Soltesz at (313) 422-4061.

dent hesitated about calling her.

"I thought she gave me a bogus phone number," he recalled. "Some people give out the number for time."

Attracted by her love and affection, Terry asked her to marry him four months later. He decided to pop the question at her grandparents' 50th wedding anniversary party.

"She's a very loving, caring person and the love and caring she showed me ... things just progressed," Terry said.

The sisters credit their mother, Cheryl, with the idea for a double wedding. Melissa had been considering a May wedding when their mother suggested they "get it over with all at once."

"There's no way I could do this again," said their mother who, according to her daughters, has "gone all out and over budget" for the big event.

Melissa was excited about the prospect and eventually Melanie agreed. Their fiances also agreed.

"I think they both wanted their own show and tell and having a double wedding would take away from one," said Terry. "But it's easier for the parents; it saves them money.

"And it was fine with me. I've never seen a double wedding, let alone been in one."

The sisters went back and forth on the date. They wanted an October date because their parents and brother were married during that month and first selected Oct. 21. They moved it to Oct. 12 after coming to the conclusion that all of the halls would be booked by couples who selected Sweetest Day for their nuptials.

The sharing ends there. Each bride will have four attendants. There also will be three ushers and a ring bearer for the ceremony. Melissa, by virtue of being 11 minutes older, will be the first to walk down the aisle with their father, Harold.

■ 'I think they both wanted their own show and tell and having a double wedding would take away from one.'

Terry Poole

"Seems like she always goes first," quipped Melanie in discussing the wedding arrangements.

They also will have separate wedding cakes. Melissa has chosen banana nut and cherry marble, while Melanie has opted for the standards – yellow, white and chocolate.

Now, when it comes to the honeymoon and side-by-side homes, the fingers point at Melanie and Steven. Terry and Melissa originally were looking at honeymooning in Myrtle Beach, S.C., and living in an apartment in Wixom.

The housing arrangements went out the window when Melissa fell in love with the house that went up for sale next door to the one Melanie and Steven bought last year.

"At Christmas time, Steve called and said, 'Hey, want to be our neighbors?' " recalled Terry. "Melissa took one look at the house and fell in love with it."

"It wasn't planned," she added. "It just happened."

As for the honeymoon, it's unclear how they were swayed, although Steven admits that "we had to coax them into buying the house and coax them into going to Florida."

As for the future, it's a resounding no about having children at the same time.

"We want to be happy first," Melissa said.

With their wedding day a few days off, the sisters admit they're getting excited. While they fret about fainting during the service, Terry and Steven want to make sure everything goes well.

"That's going to be doubly hard," said Melissa.

Well, I suppose I'll have to trust him. But, right now? For me? If you talk about web sites, I'm afraid I'll still be thinking of the place where the wall meets the ceiling in the far corner of my basement. Now that's a website. And now, if you'll excuse me, I've got to go "delete" it.

REAL ESTATE UPDATE
Chris Knight

DON'T TAKE IT PERSONALLY!

You have a listing appointment with a Realtor who shows up with a detailed market analysis and a list of all the advantages of listing with his or her company. The agent then goes through your home with you, making suggestions about how you can present your home at its best.

This last part makes some sellers a little uncomfortable. The Realtor's recommendations about cosmetic "fix-ups" make them realize how they have put off all of those "little" projects. if the suggestions about the cat box, spider webs, kitchen and bathroom cleanup, and removing clutter make you feel a little defensive, remember that none of this is personal! Occasionally we encounter a housekeeper who has it "all together", but that's rare. Most sellers need a little coaching to make their homes show well. Providing suggestions is an important part of our jobs. The better your home looks while it's on the market in the Plymouth and Canton areas, the more likely it is to sell quickly, and for top dollar.

'Halloween Bash' benefits Community Hospice

The Community Hospice Foundation will hold its fourth annual Cabaret to benefit the terminally ill and their families.

This year's theme is "Halloween Bash," and guests are encouraged to come in costume. The cabaret will be Friday, Oct. 25, at the Msgr. Alex J. Brunett Activity Center at St. Aidan's Catholic Church, 17500 Farmington Road, Livonia.

"We are delighted to present a really fun evening for our guests that also provides Community Hospice Foundation members an opportunity to answer questions and provide information about the spectrum of services that Community Hospice Services provides for families," said Cabaret chair Beth Lurtz.

The evening will begins with cocktails at 6:30 p.m. and entertainment by Mike Jellick , followed by dinner and a variety show.

The show will feature comedians Alyce Faye and Jim McLean, musicians Ray Schmidt, Stephen King, Chris McCall, Lynne Neinhaus and the Howards Band.

Members of the children's choir in the current production of "Joseph and the Amazing Technicolor Dreamcoat" also will perform.

Directing the "Halloween Bash'" are Ray and Michele Schmidt of Redford. Ray is the vocal music director of the Redford Youth Theatre Choir and was instrumental in the choir being selected for the Detroit production of "Joseph."

The entertainers for the benefit are well known and share impressive performance venues. Jellick, a 16-year-old Livonia resident, has been a guest soloist with the Rochester Symphony Orchestra and the Macomb Symphony Orchestra.

Faye is co-founder and co-owner of "Motor City Women and Comedy."

The Howards Band, with Kevin Kuhlman, Vic Spicer, Lou Wysocki and Lou Polselli, have performed for more than 16 years, while Stephen King, Chris McCall, Lynne Neinhaus and Ray Schmidt have been performing in the Detroiit area for more than 20 years.

Tickets for the benefit are $40 per person and are available at the Community Hospice Services offices at 127 S. Main St., Plymouth – (313) 459-0548 – and 32932 Warren Roas – (313) 522-4244.

The "Halloween Bash" is one of two fund raisers the Community Hospice Foundation hosts each year.

The Foundation was established in 1993 with the goal of establishing an endowment fund for Community Hospice Services to meet patients' and families' on-going needs when funding is exhausted or when they are receiving services, such as bereavement support, that are not reimbursable.

'Amazing' stars: Members of the Redford Youth Theatre Choir who perform in the children's choir for the current production of "Joseph and the Amazing Technicolor Dreamcoat" in Detroit will share the stage with such notable area entertainers as comedians Alyce Faye and Jim McLean at the Community Hospice Foundation's "Halloween Bash" Friday, Oct. 25.

FREE "LIVING TRUST" SEMINAR

"What You Ought to Know About Living Trusts"

(What you don't know could cost your family thousands of dollars!)

If you own a home...or you have assets worth at least $100,000...you owe it to yourself—and your family—to get the facts on living trusts. If you think you're protected with a simple Will...think again... A Will guarantees that your estate will go through probate, which means that your family may not be able to take possession of your estate for many months, or even years!

Plus, if your estate is over $600,000, your family may owe estate taxes which could amount to 37-55% of the value of your estate. This means that your family may have to sell some assets just to pay the estate taxes!

A living trust avoids all this by avoiding probate and minimizing estate taxes. Plus, a living trust will protect your estate if you become incapacitated during your lifetime by avoiding a conservatorship. This means your estate will be managed as you see fit, not as a court-appointed guardian sees fit.

To find out more about the benefits of living trusts, attend one of these free seminars...

THE
NEWSPAPERS
Is sponsoring this message in the interest of the Greater Detroit community. United Way Torch Drive contributions are not used to pay for this ad.

The young people who deliver your hometown newspaper could one day be famous.

Walt Disney, Bing Crosby, Bob Hope, Red Skelton, John Wayne, Carl Sandburg, John Glenn, Tom Brokaw, Wayne Gretzkey, Dr. Norman Vincent Peale, Dwight D. Eisenhower, Herbert Hoover, Martin Luther King, Jr. and Harry Truman are just a few of the famous personalities who are part of the Newspaper Association of America's Carrier Hall of Fame.

Who knows? The young person who delivers your Observer Newspaper could be our next president, screen star or famous athlete.

But whether or not a single one of them goes on to great heights isn't as important as their current commitment to their route and their achievement of customer satisfaction. We appreciate their energy and determination as they deliver the hometown news week after week regardless of what, in Michigan, can be some pretty extreme weather. We hear a lot about character these days and we think a carrier route is a great way to build good character.

Saturday, October 12, 1996 is International Newspaper Carrier Day. We salute our carriers and want each of you to know that while you have a few more years before you achieve fame and fortune, each of you is a star today.

Activities aim to make people aware of domestic violence

Every 15 seconds in the United States, a woman is beaten by her husband or boyfriend.

Violence will occur in at least half of all marriages. In 25 percent, the battering will be regular and ongoing.

They are facts and figures that First Step, western Wayne County's Project on Domestic Violence and Sexual Assault, are focusing on during October.

Annually, the month is set aside to raise the public awareness about the domestic and dating violence that occurs in local communities.

People interested in raising awareness of domestic violence issues are encouraged to wear a purple ribbon throughout the month.

Ribbons are available at the three domestic violence agencies in Wayne County – First Step, with offices in Canton and Southgate, My Sister's Place, with offices in Detroit and Eastpointe, and Interim House in Detroit.

First Step also promoting the Rally for Safe Families noon to 2 p.m. Saturday, Oct. 12, on the east steps of the State Capitol Building in Lansing.

Sponsored by the Michigan Coalition Against Domestic Violence and the Council Against Domestic Assault, the rally is designed to raise awareness of the inter-generational effects of domestic violence and the impact on families and communities.

On Thursday, Oct. 17, Liz Claiborne Inc. will have a charity shopping day. Ten percent of all sales from the Troy and Novi Liz Claiborne stores will be donated to First Step.

A T-shirt and limited edition sterling silver heart necklace with the campaign's messages of "Love is not abuse" and "Abuse is not love" also will be sold throughout the month, with proceeds benefiting domestic violence agencies.

Two events are planned for Wednesday, Oct. 23. Soroptimist International of Trenton will sponsor Communities Crusading Against Crime forum 8 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. at the Trenton Theater.

The forum is designed to inform community leaders about social problems in the area, particularly geared to women and children, laws and enforcement issues, community responses to the problem and ways the public can help.

Registration information and more information about the forum is available from First Step at (313) 981-9595.

At 7 p.m. that evening, a candlelight vigil will be held at Marygrove College 8425 W. McNichols Road, Detroit.

The vigil will celebrate the lives and struggles off domestic violence survivors and mourn those who have been killed by their partners.

Closing out the month-long observance is the national recognized day of community volunteering, Make a Difference Day, on Saturday, Oct. 26. The day offers people a chance to give time to agencies like First Step.

For more information about First Step and the work it does, call (313) 981-9595.

Time to send us samples of cards

Ah, fall is here. Time to plant spring bulbs, hang storm windows and get those holiday cards in the mail.

Holiday cards? In the mail?

Well, yes ... if you're a charitable organization.

The Observer & Eccentric Newspapers will once again have books in its offices during the holiday season to showcase cards and gifts for sale by local charitable organizations.

Being a part of this popular holiday offering is simple. Organizations only need send in information about their products and sampling of their cards or fliers. Please be sure to include seven copies, one for each of our offices in Livonia, Plymouth, Farmington, Birmingham, Rochester, Clarkston and Lake Orion.

Coordinating the annual project is Sue Mason, Wayne County Community Life Editor. Card samples should be sent to Mason at 36251 Schoolcraft Road, Livonia 48150, by Thursday, Oct. 31.

The books will be available for one-stop holiday card shopping the first week in November.

For more information, call Mason at (313) 953-2131.

Writer is a woman who wants to live life to the hilt

GRAPHOLOGY PROFILES

LORENE GREEN

Dear Lorene,

I have always found have always found your column very interesting. I now have some extra time in my life to pursue activities I have been unable to do in the past, like writing to you. You see my husband and I are now "empty nesters." My youngest daughter left for college a few weeks ago. My oldest daughter is a senior at a different college.

I would appreciate your analysis of my handwriting. Maybe I will learn of some aspects of my personality that will help my adjustment to an "empty nester."

J.W.
Southfield

This page of handwriting is completely filled from side to side and is shortened to conserve on space. As I study it I know we are analyzing the handwriting of a woman who wants to live life to the hilt. She loves being busy and actively involved in daily life.

Her greatest area of interest appears to be in the here and the now. Social life has an important role. She has a good relationship with her friends and likes to be around them.

There is a special sensitivity about her that allows her to communicate well. Compassion, empathy and affection are abundantly present. Diplomacy and humor further ingratiate her to those around her. She probably fits smoothly into any situation she encounters. Beauty and harmony are as necessary as the breath of life. While she is a social person and popular with others, there is also a private side to her personality. Rarely does she share her innermost feelings with others. Some secretiveness is seen.

Strong maternal influence from early life can be found. She loves her home and is protective of family and loved ones. She adheres to her traditional background where a sense of responsibility was impressed upon her early in life. She carries a deep-seated affection to both her early family and her present one. She wants approval and affection from them.

Outwardly, this woman presents an aura of poise and self-control. In emergency situations she is calm, unflappable at times.

This is not a big risk-taker and she may be slow to adjust to new situations. Her personal choice is a code of proper behavior. Security is often a definite consideration.

Not a judgmental person, she is open to the ideas and thoughts of others. Live and let live is probably an acceptable credo for her.

Her thinking pattern is sequential and methodical. What she learns she retains like a computer. A little intuition is also present to furnish answers when logic does not.

Decisions are often predicated more on reasoning than feeling. She is inclined to take her time before arriving at a decision. In matters of importance she does not want to be rushed.

The writer is conscientious and dependable in all things. A sense of pride inspires her to live up to the expectations of others as well as do a commendable job of all she undertakes. People soon learn they can rely on her to live up to her commitments.

Being physically active is both enjoyable and relaxing for her. She also enjoys the beauty of nature. She finds God's hand in the awesome beauty of each new season. Manual dexterity is seen in her handwriting. On cold winter evenings, she probably relaxes with some type of hand work.

Conformity between her writing and signature suggest she presents a true picture of herself to the world.

If you would like your handwriting analyzed in this newspaper, write to Lorene C. Green, a certified graphologist, at 36251 Schoolcraft, Livonia 48150. Please write a few paragraphs about yourself, using a full sheet of white, unlined paper and writing in the first person singular. Age, handedness and signature are all helpful. Due to the volume of mail, personal replies are not possible. However, objective feedback is welcome.

Canton, Salem netters tie

Plymouth Canton ruled in singles, but Plymouth Salem was better in doubles.

Canton won three of the four singles flights, while Salem did the same in doubles -- resulting in a 4-4 tie in their tennis match Friday.

Canton winners in singles play were Laura Belisle, 6-0, 6-3 over Amanda Miller at No. 1; Mai Lam, 4-6, 6-2, 6-2 over Vicki Anderson at No. 2; and Patty Snook, 6-1, 6-0 over Sonal Shah at No. 4.

Salem's Kathy Clawson defeated Jessica Dumas, 5-7, 7-6, 7-5 at No. 3.

In doubles, Salem got victories from Sarah Mateer and Suzanne Theodore, 6-4, 7-5 over Anjali Shah and Jennifer Leonard at No. 2; Janel Davis and Danielle Winkler, 6-4, 6-3 over Melissa Robbins and Natali Gut at No. 3; and Abbey Hermans and Krystin Durrer, 6-4, 7-6 over Carrie Kovachevich and Lizzie Brown at No. 4.

Chiefs fall to Huron

Wins were hard to come by for Plymouth Canton's swim team Tuesday against visiting Ann Arbor Huron. The River Rats won 11 of 12 events and the dual meet, 129-57.

The loss left the Chiefs with a 2-5 record.

Teri Hanson was the only event winner for Canton, taking first in the 200-yard freestyle (2:02.22). The Chiefs did have five second places: Lisa Sabina in diving (187.15 points); Amy Sonnanstine in the 100 free (58.20); Meagan Dowd in the 100 backstroke (1:09.50); Kate Jackson in the 100 breaststroke (1:18.46); and Angie Frost, Sonnanstine, Sue Fanning and Hanson in the 400 free relay (3:54.63).

SC women runners 4th

In a nine-team field that included just two other two-year schools, Schoolcraft College's women's cross country team finished a respectable fourth at the16th annual Roadrunner Invitational, hosted by Southwestern Michigan College Friday.

SC scored 99 points. Hope College was first (33), followed by Hillsdale (43) and Cornerstone (91).

The Lady Ocelots who scored were Stacy Moore, 13th overall (20:12); Cris Lawrence, 18th (20:25); Kelly Passino, 21st (20:32); Tera Teran, 29th (21:17); and Kelly Prais, 33rd (21:31).

Young Rocks shine

Plymouth Salem's younger cross country runners turned in strong performances at the Westland John Glenn freshmen-sophomore invitational Tuesday.

Northville won the meet, scoring 71 points. Next was Belleville with 86, followed by Livonia Churchill with 92 and Salem with 93.

Leading the Rocks were Rachael Moraitis, who was ninth (21:18); Lisa Jasnowski, 16th (21:53); Shae Potocki, 18th (21:57); Becky Phelan, 24th (22:24); and Miranda White, 26th (22:33). Moraitis, Jasnowski and Potocki all medaled.

Lions win 2nd

The only score of the game came in the first few minutes, when quarterback David Thomas tossed a 52-yard scoring pass to Tony Barth.

Title goes to Salem

BY C.J. RISAK

It was a typical finish to the Western Lakes Activities Association golf season.

Ho-hum? Hardly.

Down to the wire is how it usually goes, and Tuesday's tournament at Hudson Mills Metropark Golf Course was no different.

Once again, Plymouth Salem was in the thick of things. And once again, the Rocks emerged with a league title.

Counting last year's tie for the overall WLAA championship with Livonia Churchill, Salem has now won (or shared) in the last three. titles.

Here's how two-day golf tournaments like the Observer & Eccentric's seem to work out:

•The first day is a barometer, a trial to see just how well you're playing. Either your in the hunt, hoping to finish in the money, or just playing for the fun of it. If you're more than five strokes out of first after the opening round, you're probably relegated to the last of those mentioned.

•The second day -- if you're in the hunt, then comes the challenge. The second day's best scorer is often the winner. Can't play too cautious, can't play

Canton rallies to tie up Salem, 2-2

BY C.J. RISAK
SPORTS EDITOR

SOCCER

It was, when you come down to it, a hard-fought, emotional, two-hour struggle between two evenly-matched and excessively-talented teams.

And it ended as one might figure: tied.

Plymouth Canton started hard but fell behind by two goals before staging another rally (remember the Livonia Churchill game?), scoring twice in the final 13:14 to forge a 2-2 tie Monday.

The outcome makes Salem 10-3-2 for the season. Canton is 9-2-4.

The tying goal was scored with just 2:17 left, with Canton's Kevin Gniewek getting a centering pass from Mike Bennett, beating two defenders and drilling a shot off the post and into the corner of the net.

For Salem, the final result had to be a bitter disappointment. For Canton, it was better than what they were looking at for the first 66 minutes of the match.

"They finally quit talking and started playing," said Canton coach Don Smith of his team's comeback. "We talked for 20 minutes yesterday about keeping your composure, keeping your composure."

That was something both teams struggled with at times during the match. And yet, the rally showed something to Smith.

"It showed a lot of heart," he said. "I don't want to rely on it, though. This was almost as ugly as the Churchill game (a 2-1 Canton win, in which the Chiefs scored twice in the last 10 minutes)."

Chiefs put it all together in 2nd half to roll to victory over Rocks

BY C.J. RISAK
SPORTS EDITOR

The first half was a struggle. The second half was a struggle too, but more so for Plymouth Salem.

The Rocks had a three-point halftime lead over rival Plymouth Canton, but let the game get away from them in the second half as the Chiefs first took control, then took the game, 44-34 Tuesday at Salem.

The win pushed Canton's record to 6-0 in the Western Lakes Activities Association, 11-1 overall. Salem is 9-3 overall, 4-2 in the WLAA.

"I thought they did a little bit better job executing (in the second half) than we did," said Salem coach Fred Thomann. "It became a game of not making a mistake, and we made more of them than they did."

That certainly was accurate. In the first half Canton made 10 turnovers to Salem's seven, one reason the Chiefs trailed 20-17 at the intermission.

But in the second, it was reversed. Salem seemed to lose its composure in the third quarter, committing seven turnovers to Canton's one.

The result: a 16-7 spurt for the Chiefs, including a 10-2 run in the last 4:35. That gave them a 33-27 advantage going into the final period, a cushion too big for Salem to overcome.

Indeed, the closest the Rocks could come was four, early in the fourth. Defense was one of the key factors for Canton, of course.

"I think this team is a good defensive team," said Chiefs' coach Bob Blohm. "I've felt that all along. At the beginning of the season I was concerned with our offense, but our offense is getting better."

Defining roles is something Blohm does well, and it's something the current Chiefs are getting accustomed to. Their top offensive threat, without a doubt, is Kristi Fiorenzi -- something she proved against Salem, pouring in a game-high 17 points (including 9-of-10 from the free throw line). She also tied Nkechi Okwumabua for top team honors in rebounding, with five.

But also emerging as a valuable offensive weapon is Kristin Lukasik. The junior guard's three-point shooting -- she nailed 2-of-3 from that range against Salem en route to scoring eight points -- allows her teammates to do what they do best: Go to the basket.

Getting into an offensive flow was something Canton had trouble doing against the bigger Salem defenders in the first half.

"The No. 1 thing offensively, we have to get into a half-court game, make five or six passes and play that way," Blohm explained. "And I think we have to be able to take the ball to the basket."

Canton followed that formula in the second half

GRID PICKS

It's a dead heat.

Your friendly prognosticators are both 61-14 with four weeks to go.

Thanks to Birmingham Brother Rice's 21-14 overtime win Sunday over Redford Catholic Central, the vactioning Dan O'Meara correctly picked 11 of 13 games last week to gain a game on yours truly, who finished 10-3.

This week's card has several games where you could flip a coin.

The key battles occur in the Western Lakes Activities Association.

Livonia Franklin and Walled Lake Western duel for first place in the Western Division, while Westland John Glenn can sew up the Lakes Division crown with a victory over Walled Lake Central.

Belleville and Wayne is also a pivotal game in the Mega Conference-Red Division.

As for the state playoff race, several teams remain in the hunt including Glenn, Franklin, Plymouth Salem, Wayne, Farmington Hills Harrison and Lutheran High Westland. Redford CC, with two losses now, is a longshot in Class A Region-III.

FRIDAY'S GAMES
(all at 7:30 p.m. unless noted)

Southgate at Redford Union (7 p.m.): RU (0-5, 0-3) is still searching for its first victory after getting dumped last week by Chelsea, 35-0. Southgate (3-2, 3-1), a Mega-Red team last year, is one game off the pace in the Mega-White after downing Taylor Kennedy last week, 19-2, as junior Mike Gratz rushed for 145 yards, including three TDs, one of which was a 100-yard return on a blocked field goal. PICKS: Southgate swings past the Panthers.

Ply. Canton at Liv. Churchill: Churchill, 1-58 for the 90s, played a respectable game last week in a 27-14 loss to Farmington Hills Harrison. The Chargers (0-5, 0-3) will be an underdog again this week against Canton (2-3, 1-2), which couldn't run the ball in a 21-9 loss to Western Division leader Franklin last week. PICKS: Canton zaps the Chargers.

Liv. Franklin at W.L. Western: A win by the Patriots (4-1, 3-0) could be a springboard to bigger and better things the rest of the season. Franklin's defense has only given up 22 points since a season-opening 40-21 loss to top-ranked Sterling Heights Stevenson. Special teams could decide this one. Western (4-1, 3-0) relies on kicker/punter Pat Gibson, one of the best in the state, and kick returner Kevin Thomas, a dangerous threat. PICKS: Western gets two votes.

Liv. Stevenson at Ply. Salem: Stevenson (3-2, 2-1), winners of two straight, appears to be picking up steam. The Spartans' senior tailback Gade Clark has rushed for 477 yards in his last two outings. Plymouth Salem (4-1, 2-1) is certainly the surprise team in Observerland so far. PICKS: Emons sticks with the Spartans in a close one.

W.L. Central at Westland Glenn: State-ranked Glenn (5-0, 3-0) has clearly been the most consistent team this year in the WLAA. The Rockets, who lost starting outside linebacker Nick Nieshewat to injury two weeks ago, continues to plug holes and not lose anything. Central (3-2, 2-1) was stunned last week by Stevenson, 28-21. Glenn also remembers last year's stinging 21-20 loss to the Vikings last season. PICKS: Glenn stays perfect.

Garden City at Taylor Kennedy: This Mega-White encounter pits a pair of teams that are struggling. GC (0-5, 0-3) had its hands full last week in a 40-7 loss to unbeaten Trenton. Kennedy (2-3, 1-3), meanwhile, is coming off a 19-2 defeat to Southgate. JFK has wins over RU and Taylor Center. PICKS: JFK wins for the home fans.

SATURDAY'S GAMES
(all 1 p.m. unless noted)

Belleville at Wayne: Wayne Memorial (4-1, 3-1) hit its mid-season snag once again in a 14-0 loss to Wyandotte. Turnovers (7) and an inability to score inside the 10 leaves doubts just how good the Zebras really are. Belleville (3-2, 3-1) has now won three straight after dropping its first two games of the year against Salem and Wyandotte. Senior fullback Willie Patton had 145 yards in a 27-6 win over Woodhaven. The loser of this game is pretty much out of the division race. PICKS: Wayne regroups to beat its longtime nemesis.

Farmington at N. Farmington: Staying out of the cellar in the Lakes Division of the WLAA is at stake. Both teams were blown out last week by good teams, Farmington to Salem (42-12) and North to Glenn (42-6). PICKS: Flip a coin, Emons and O'Meara take North.

Northville at F.H. Harrison: Harrison is very much in the hunt for a playoff spot in Class A-Region III after beating Churchill last week, 27-14, as Nick Shaieb rushed for 130 yars and three TDs. Northville (0-5, 0-3) is having a rare off year. PICKS: Harrison keeps rolling.

Taylor Center at Thurston: Taylor Center (1-4, 1-3) is closing its doors at the end of the year. The Rams were picked dead last before the year in the Mega-Blue. Thurston (2-3, 1-2) must find a way to stop people defensively if it entertains thoughts of having a winnning season. The Eagles stayed close for a half last week before losing to Melvindale, 30-6. PICKS: The Eagles are flying high again.

Clarenceville at Lutheran Northwest: Trojan coach Chuck Donaldson may have summed it up by saying "We're the best 1-4 team I've seen." Who could argue after Clarenceville (1-4, 1-4) took Lutheran Westland to the wire in a 14-13 loss. Rochester Hills Lutheran Northwest (0-5, 0-4) got ripped last week by Hamtramck, 48-8. PICKS: Clarenceville all the way to a Metro win.

Lutheran North at Luth. Westland: This is a key game in the Metro Conference. Harper Woods still leads, but Lutheran Westland (4-1, 4-1) is only a game out. The Warriors, however, are banged up and need a full lineup to beat North (3-2, 3-2), which pulld off a surprise last week with a 13-12 win over Bloomfield Hills Cranbrook. Quarterback Paul Drudel passed for 196 yards (22 of 32), including the game-winning TD with only 30 seconds left. PICKS: North stops the Warriors, according to both prognosticators.

Redford CC at O.L. St. Mary (1:30 p.m.): The Shamrocks (3-2, 0-1) must be the best 3-2 team in America after last minute losses to unbeaten Birmingham Brother Rice and Detroit DePorres. Orchard Lake St. Mary (3-2, 0-2) is no slouch, however. The Eaglets took DePorres to the wire last week before losing, 27-22. Their other loss is to unbeaten Dearborn Divine Child. PICKS: CC gets back on the winning track.

Bishop Borgess at Det. Benedictine (2 p.m.): Both teams are 2-3 overall and 0-2 in the Tri-Sectional of the Catholic League. Borgess was blasted last week by unbeaten Riverview Gabriel Richard, 52-6, while Allen Park Cabrini earned its first victory at the expense of Benedictine, 26-12. PICKS: The Ravens fly past Borgess.

St. Agatha at Waterford Our Lady (7:30 p.m. at RU's Kraft Field): The Aggies (0-5, 0-3) are coming off a 13-0 loss to Royal Oak Shrine. Our Lady of Lakes (3-2, 2-0), coached by Mike Boyd, ripped Ann Arbor Gabriel Richard on Sunday, 40-9. PICKS: Go with the Lakers in this one.

Rocks roll over Falcons to record lopsided victory

FOOTBALL

Six players scored touchdowns for Plymouth Salem as the visiting Rocks rolled over Farmington High 42-12 Saturday.

The Rocks took a 7-0 lead in the first quarter when James Chapman capped a 70-yard drive with a 15-yard scoring run. Brian James kicked the first of six straight extra points.

Salem extended its lead to 21-0 at halftime after quarterback Nate Gray ran 9 yards and Teono Wilson 6 yards for touchdowns in the second quarter.

Brian Lahane returned a pass interception 30 yards for a touchdown in the third quarter to make it 28-0 before the Falcons got on the scoreboard.

Farmington's Joel Lewis passed 5 yards to Bryant Bronner in the third quarter, and Dave Viane returned a punt 63 yards in the fourth period.

The Falcons missed a point-after attempt following their first touchdown and a two-point conversion after the second. Salem led 28-12.

The Rocks finished the scoring when Gray passed 6 yards to Kevin Conte and Jeff McKian returned a blocked punt 26 yards.

"I thought our defense played its best game of the season," Salem coach Tom Moshimer said. "The offense was sporadic, but we moved the ball early. We blocked two punts, which I was very happy about."

Gray completed seven of 14 passes for more than 100 yards. Mike Middell and Brad Schopieray were the Salem players who blocked the punts.

The Rocks are 2-1 in the Lakes Division and 4-1 overall.

Canton, Salem 3rd

Both Plymouth Salem and Plymouth Canton went up against some difficult competition in girls cross country last Saturday.

Salem was at the Ann Arbor Pioneer Invitational, run at Pioneer, site of the Class A regional. The Rocks ran well, but not good enough to catch first-place (and No. 1-ranked in the state) Livonia Stevenson, which scored 35 points.

Or runner-up Pioneer, which finished second with 55. Still, Salem's third-place total of 87 was creditable. Fourth was Saline (101), followed by Livonia Churchill (158), North Farmington (205), Livonia Ladywood (236) and Northville (241) in the 17-team field.

"I was real pleased with that," said Dave Gerlach, Salem's coach. "Our pack time between our one and seven runners was one minute even.

"We ran as a team for the second-straight race."

Finishing first individually was Churchill's Ashley Fillion (18:49). Stevenson placed seven runners in the top 15.

The Rocks did have four of their runners in the top 20: Nicole Bolton, ninth (20:17); Kristie Giddings, 13th (20:24); Ellen Stemmer, 17th (20:33); and Evelyn Rahhal, 19th (20:37). Mary Disbrow finished 28th (21:03), with Erin Lang 33rd (21:13) and Rachael Moraitis 37th (21:17).

Canton took part in the 11-team Ypsilanti Invitational, finishing third. Brighton was first (35), with Ann Arbor Huron second (76). Canton scored 84.

Best among the Chiefs was Becky Wolfrom in fifth (20:01). Beth Knight was seventh (20:13), Lori Schmidt placed 19th (20:58), Angkana Roy finished 24th (21:07) and Christiana Bradford took 29th (21:16). Other Canton runners: Jamie Vergari, 30th (21:25), and Darcy Crain, 34th (21:45).

Salem faces a major test today, going against Stevenson in a dual meet at Cass Benton. Canton is at the same location today, running against Churchill. Both teams will compete in the Ann Arbor Gabriel Richard Invitational Saturday.

If you want more than just the highlights these are the guys to turn to:

In Garden City and Redford—

"Covering community sports is challenging."

We caught a glimpse of Steve Kowalski's sense of humor when he first told us why he enjoys doing what he is doing, "Coming home at three in the morning, paying for parking and hot dogs at the games..."

Then on a serious note he admits that it's the challenge that keeps him going, "Some of your sources are young, never been interviewed. It's fun and rewarding to do a good job."

Steve knew that when he scored only four points in Junior Varsity Basketball during his own high school days, that he had a better chance writing about sports than playing them. He's done it so well that he's received awards for it; the most recent in 1994 from the Michigan Press Association in their "top game story" category.

In Livonia and Westland—

"We have a good group of schools to cover."

When we asked Brad Emons what he enjoys most about covering community sports, he told us, "The people we deal with, from the coaches to the student-athletes, they truly appreciate the coverage—we cover a good group of schools from the smallest to the largest."

Brad began reading the major league box scores when he was still in grade school, wrote in high school and earned a degree in journalism from Franklin College in Indiana. He's been writing for your hometown newspapers since he graduated in 1977.

How does our coverage stack up? Brad says that unlike the metropolitan newspapers, "We cover a variety of prep sports and do it in-depth—both boys' and girls'. We're able to hit more than the highlights. We get to know nearly every high school coach and athletic director by their first names."

In Plymouth and Canton—

C.J. Risak is talking about SPORTS, of course.

When did he decide on sports reporting? "Early in my career, after being out in the real world. Sports is real, it's serious, but it's also fun."

One facet of the job C.J. especially enjoys is meeting people—the players and the coaches, "We get to know a lot of people first-hand," he said.

His enthusiasm and dedication is reflected in his writing. In 1994, he received a first place award from the industry for best sports column and second place for putting together the best sports section.

DNF: Did Not Finish

overly aggressive.

That is exactly the route Alan Menzies, from Plymouth, followed to the O&E title Saturday and Sunday at Livonia's Whispering Willows. On Saturday he played very well, but his three-over par 73 only put him in a tie for third with John Burr (from Redford). Two others -- Chris Lemmon and Paul Deedler -- fired one-over par 71s.

But it wasn't the great first-day scores that stood up. Both Lemmon and Deedler came back to earth a bit on Sunday, Deedler shooting a 77 and Lemmon a 78.

Menzies, however, posted the day's best round, shooting a 74 that propelled him to a one-stroke victory in the championship flight with a 147 total. Deedler, from Canton, finished second with his 71-77/148, and Lemmon, from Westland, took third with his 71-78/149.

Here's some bad news for everyone else in championship flight: Menzies said he "decided to get into (the tournament) at the last minute."

The reason? "My wife's expecting a child. I wasn't even sure if I'd be able to play today."

Her due-date isn't until late next week, but these things are never certain. At any rate, Menzies played Sunday's round half-expecting his beeper to sound, summoning him to the hospital.

Fortunately for him, it never did. And he stuck to the strategy he scripted for himself: "I just tried to keep it away from any double-bogeys (on Saturday). Today, I stuck to the same game plan. I can't control what the other guys do.

"I wanted to hit a lot of greens and avoid those double-bogeys."

He did just that throughout Sunday's round, but if there was a stretch that won it for him, it was on holes 13 and 14. No. 13 is a short (301 yards) par-4; No. 14 is a little longer (365 yards), but more open.

Menzies put his approach shots up close to the holes on both, then sank short birdie putts. "Anything longer, I get nervous," Menzies said after his eight-foot birdie putt on 14.

"Those two straight birdies on 13 and 14," he said later. "They got me going."

Right to the top.

As predicted, Salem's overall depth proved decisive. The Rocks finished with 410 strokes, one better than Walled Lake Western.

Livonia Stevenson was third at 415, followed by Westland John Glenn (421), Livonia Churchill (422), Plymouth Canton (426), Farmington and Walled Lake Central (429 each), North Farmington and Farmington Harrison (436 apiece), Northville (437) and Livonia Franklin (451).

Overall medalist honors went to Churchill's Gary Kraus, who shot an outstanding one-over par 72. He and Western's Chris King (74), Stevenson's Steve Polanski (75), Glenn's Craig Piscopink (76) and Salem's Brian Fox (77) were named to the all-conference team.

Earning all-division squad honors were Salem's Jeff Lear (81) and Ryan Deschaw (82) and Canton's Ben Tucker (81).

Entering the tournament -- which serves as half the deciding factor in the final WLAA championship, with dual meet victories filling the other half -- five teams had a chance to win the title.

Western, with a 9-2 dual record (and therefore nine points), was in the best position. Salem (8-2-1, 8.5 points), Stevenson (8-3, eight points), Churchill (8-3, eight points) and Glenn (7-3-1, 7.5 points) also had a shot.

"Any one of them had a chance," said Wilson. "It was the most wide-open tournament ever.

"We knew going in we had to win it to win the title."

That's what the Rocks did; they won the tournament and finished first with 20.5 points, just ahead of the Warriors (20). Salem's depth advantage: All six golfers shot 86 or better. The other scorers for the Rocks were Adam Wilson (84) and Mark Runchey and Aaron Pawlowski (both at 86).

Canton, 2-9 during the dual-meet season, was a surprise at sixth. Other Chief scorers were Derek Lineberry, Eric Arlen and Miles Meibers, all at 85, and Adam Allan (90).

VOLLEYBALL

Not all the cylinders were firing quite right for Schoolcraft College's volleyball team Tuesday against visiting Mott CC, but the Lady Ocelots still found a way to come up with an important victory.

It took five games, but SC prevailed 16-14, 15-9, 3-15, 13-15, 15-10. The win put the Ocelots into first place alone in the Eastern Conference, breaking a tie with Mott -- which slipped to 4-2 in the conference. SC is 12-5 overall, 5-1 in the conference.

Blocking, which had been a strong point for the Ocelots this season, wasn't quite as strong, according to coach Tom Teeters. Still, several players rose to the occasion and helped secure the win.

Leading in that category were Jamie Clark (from Livonia Churchill), Amber Wells (Plymouth Canton) and Yvette Sixbey (Garden City).

Clark "really stepped up," said Teeters. "She's usually our third or fourth hitter, but she was really spiking well. She was really on."

Indeed, Clark contributed 16 kills with an impressive .341 kill percentage. Five of those came in the pivotal fifth game.

Sixbey didn't match Clark's numbers, but she came through when it counted. She had 11 kills for the match, with seven coming in eight attempts in the fifth game. Sixbey also had three service aces in the match, while Clark had 17 digs.

Wells did the setting that resulted in these impressive numbers, collecting 64 assists to kills.

SC trailed 8-7 and 10-9 in the fifth game before rallying to score the final six points.

Others who turned in solid performances for SC were Michelle MacRae with 26 kills (a .268 percentage); Hermina Angeles with 10 kills; Stacy Sailus with four blocks; and Sarah Gregerson with three blocks, all in the fifth game.

"That was a real important win for us," said Teeters. "We have control of our destiny now -- if we win everything else from here on out, we'll the the conference."

The remainder of SC's conference matches, however, are on the road. So the path to first place won't be easy to follow.

Madonna falls at OU

The Lady Crusaders winning streak against NCAA Division II teams ended, with the Lady Pioneers collecting a 15-10, 7-15, 15-12, 15-9 triumph.

OU improved to 14-6 overall; Madonna fell to 21-3.

Madonna's strengths -- a strong inside game and good blocking -- were matched by OU. Julie Martin (Livonia Stevenson) led the Crusaders with 12 kills and four blocks, but Kelly McCausland (Redford Union) was held in check, getting only eight kills.

At the game's start, Canton was pushing the play as much as Salem. Only a great diving stop by Salem keeper Andres Lopez on Matt Marcos, who beat a Rock defender in the corner and drove right to the net for a point-blank shot, kept the Chiefs from scoring first.

Instead, with 11:50 remaining in the opening half, Ryan Konley launched a line-drive shot from 25 yards out that got over Canton keeper Ben Davis. The ball hit the crossbar and bounced down to the ground, where Davis grabbed it.

But official Shawn Soraghan ruled it a goal, and Salem had a 1-0 lead, Konley assisted by Chris Curry.

Just 7:23 into the second half, Davis seemed to wander too far out of the net once more, and Salem made the Chiefs pay.

Again it was Konley, heading a pass from Josh Fair with his back to the goal from 18 yards out, the ball looping over Davis and into the corner of the net, making it 2-0 Salem.

The match seemed to be Salem's. Not that Rocks' coach Ed McCarthy was going to let up; his only adjustment to protect the lead was to move Curry back on defense.

His team, however, kept pressuring and attacking.

"I wasn't even nervous when it was 2-1," McCarthy said. "I was real pleased with the way our defenders were playing."

However, as McCarthy admitted afterwards, "We couldn't stop their counterattacks." And that hurt.

A quick break down the middle, with Gniewek slipping a pass to Nick Wright, ended with the ball in the corner of the net and a goal for the Chiefs, narrowing the deficit to 2-1 with 13:14 left.

At that point, Canton did start playing more confidently -- and with more focus. And while Salem's play didn't fall off noticeably, the Chiefs did surpass them.

Both coaches seemed to take the result in step, perhaps seeing it as more of a preview. It's quite possible -- indeed, probable -- that the two teams will meet during the state district tournament, which they will co-host.

McCarthy, whose team lost 3-2 to a strong Troy Athens squad Saturday, may want to work on the Rocks' offensive finishing. They could have scored more against Canton. "We definitely created enough chances," McCarthy said.

Smith's got a different challenge: a team that can at times get too emotional and lose sight of what they're playing for.

"We've got the kids who can do it," he said. "I've just got to manage them.

"They don't like to lose -- but there's nothing wrong with that."

That's a statement that can be applied to both teams.

Athens 3, Salem 2: On Saturday at Salem's field, Troy Athens (now 10-3-1) got the only goal of the first half and never trailed.

The Rocks did tie it, Brett Konley scoring early in the second half. But Athens answered by getting the next two goals to open up a 3-1 lead.

Matt Sarkesian pulled Salem to within one, scoring with 10 minutes remaining. But the Rocks couldn't get the tying marker.

and caught Salem when Lukasik got open outside and nailed a triple, making it 23-22 in the Chiefs' favor with 4:57 left in the third period. Salem answered immediately, getting a three-pointer from Laurel Weinman 18 seconds later to go back up by two.

But that's when the Chiefs' 10-2 surge started, with Fiorenzi and Melissa Marzolf (10 points for the game) getting four points apiece. Marzolf's second basket in the run, a baseline jumper, came as time expired in the quarter.

"I thought the basket Marzolf made at the end of the third quarter was huge," said Thomann. "I thought that was what made them feel they could win the game."

By that time, the tank seemed to be running a bit low for Salem. Canton's smothering defense apparently took its toll.

"I don't know if they had more energy than us," said Thomann. "They just out-executed us.

"You look at all the games they've won this year, and at the end of the third quarter they find a way, figure a way to win. They did the same thing to us."

Indeed Canton did, limiting Salem to 14 second-half points. Only one of the Rocks reached double-figures in scoring: Amanda Abraham, who totaled 10 points, four assists and four steals. Angela Sillmon contributed nine points (all in the first half), while Andrea Pruett finished with four points and six boards.

Agape 63, Greater Life 22: Plymouth Agape Christian blanked Greater Life Academy in the first quarter, 14-0, and that set the stage for the trouncing Tuesday at Agape.

The win pushed Agape's overall record to 8-1 and its Metro Christian Conference mark to 4-0. Greater Life is 2-2 in the MCC.

Five players scored nearly all the points for Agape. Kim Ther had 16 points, six rebounds and six steals; Jaci Ther totaled 13 points, seven boards, six steals and five assists; Crystal Palmer collected 13 points and 10 steals; Calley Mullen had 11 points and 12 rebounds; and Charla Sexton finished with eight points and 12 rebounds.

Angela Dumas' six points was best for Greater Life.

MU boots Aquinas

There's a first time for everything, and Madonna University's soccer team couldn't be happier that their time has come.

On Saturday, the Fighting Crusaders repelled a determined Aquinas College squad at Aquinas to record a 2-0 triumph. It marked the first-time ever Madonna had beaten the Saints; Aquinas was 4-0 over the past two years.

The victory did not come easily. "They were one of the better teams we've faced, actually," said Madonna coach Pete Alexander, his team now 8-2 (Aquinas is 8-4). "They pressured us a lot. They came out at the start of the game on fire, but we just kind of played with them."

The result was a scoreless match until the 19th minute, when Madonna's Christian Emert turned a pass from Roberto Vega into a goal and a 1-0 Crusader lead.

It remained that way for the rest of the half. But 12 minutes into the second half, Andy Makins doubled Madonna's advantage, converting a pass from Ryan Mollien to make it 2-0.

The two teams will meet again (Oct. 29 at Madonna), but this win will give the Crusaders a boost in their NAIA ranking in the Great Lakes Region. At present, Madonna is tied for the best record in the region, "so it was a real big game for us," noted Alexander.

•S'CRAFT 0, MORAINE VALLEY 0: It was, as Schoolcraft College men's soccer coach Van Dimitriou described it, "a real good game -- a well-contested match." But in the end, it solved nothing.

The Ocelots and visiting Moraine Valley competed through 90 minutes of regulation and two 15-minute overtimes, but neither team could score.

The results, combined with SC's 2-0 loss to University of Michigan last Wednesday, left the Ocelots with a 6-5-3 overall record.

"They had a better team than they did last year," Dimitriou said. "But our players played an excellent defensive game."

Although the outcome wasn't all Dimitriou hoped for, it wasn't all bad, either. "We've been stressing to upgrade the tempo of the game, adn the kids have been responding," said Dimitriou.

There was some bad news. Defender Joe Sisko, from Canton, suffered a spinal injury when he came down awkwardly after heading a ball. He was up and walking, however he will not play the remainder of the season, according to Dimitriou.

•SC 2, TOLEDO 1 (women): On Saturday, Schoolcraft College's women's team didn't play great, but it was good enough to get a win against University of Toledo's developmental team at Toledo.

"We did not capitalize on our scoring opportunities," said SC coach Nikki Johnson. "We should have buried this team."

SC led 1-0 at the half, getting a goal from Dawn Koontz (Plymouth Canton), the assist going to Nicole Gentry (Westland John Glenn). Koontz made it 2-0 in the second period, with an assist from Jodee Wilsher (Plymouth Salem).

Toledo trimmed it to 2-1 on a goal from Kelly Noles (Livonia Churchill).

On Sunday, Central Michigan scored twice in the second 15-minute overtime period to post a 2-0 triumph at SC.

Just as in the Toledo match, the Lady Ocelots dominated play. They outshot CMU, 15-4; against Toledo, the shot count was 29 for SC, 3 for Toledo.

"We dominated the first 90 minutes and the first overtime," Johnson said of the CMU match. "We just didn't score."

FLUID SITUATION

One commonly overlooked maintenance procedure involves the brake fluid. The reason that brake fluid is one of the most neglected and improperly serviced components is that many auto service manuals suggest draining and flushing the brake system only if there is evidence of fluid contamination or observable deterioration. Contamination and fluid deterioration, however, are inevitable and usually unnoticeable. By the time their effects are noticeable, damage has already occurred. Brake fluid is exceedingly hygroscopic, meaning that it absorbs moisture from the atmosphere, likely through microscopic openings in flexible brake hoses or through openings around rubber seals. Once the brake fluid is contaminated by moisture, it begins to break down and its ability to prevent corrosion declines along with its boiling point and lubricating properties. This increases the likelihood of dragging brakes and lost braking power.

Checking all fluids – whether brake or transmission or wiper – before going on a long trip is a good idea to help prevent breakdown on the road. At HOLIDAY CHEVROLET, INC., we are known in this community for the quality service we deliver. We welcome your questions – we're here to answer them. Call us at 474-0500. We are conveniently located at 30250 Grand River. Sales Hours: Mon.-Thurs. 8:30-9:00, Tu. & W. 8:30-6:30, F. 8:30-6; Service Hours: M-F 7-6; Parts/Body Shop: M-F 8-6. Come to us for a job well done. Stop in and see us soon!

HINT: Dragging brakes refers to a condition in which the brakes remain partially applied, even though the foot has been taken off the pedal.

He received his undergraduate degree in business administration from the University of Michigan.

STUDENT TEACHER NAMED
Kathleen Boyd, a 1996 graduate of the University of Michigan-Dearborn, was named the first recipient of the 1995-95 National Student Teacher of the Year award by the Association of Teacher Educators and Kappa Delta Pi, an international honor society in education.A resident of Wixom who majored in science and minored in mathematics, she was selected for the award from among 100 entries, based on her student teaching at Bentley Elementary School in the Plymouth-Canton School District. Her winning entry was a third-grade science lesson on sound. Criteria for the award included a 30-minute videotaped lesson with an introduction and reflection components. In addition, entrants identified critical issues facing education, created teaching metaphors and submitted information on their professional backgrounds. "Teaching is like gardening. Every plant has the ability to bloom, yet not every plant will bloom at the same time," according to Boyd's teaching metaphor. "Each plant will need personal attention and special handling to reach its full potential. And all flowers are not alike; yet, every flower has something to offer the garden." Boyd, who is the mother of four boys, was selected 1995-96 Outstanding Michigan Student Teacher of the Year by the Michigan Association of Teacher Educators before winning the national honor. She teaches now at Novi Meadows School in Novi.

New cancer funding

Legislation passed by the State Senate gives additional funding breast and prostate cancer research through a new check-off box on state income tax returns.

Senate Bills 740, 741 and 1181 establish the check-off box which gives taxpayers the option to donate $2 or more from their tax refund to go towards the Breast Cancer and Prostate Cancer Fund. The new box is expected to raise up to $20 million over the next few years. Funds will be used to develop statewide plans to control these cancers and provide information on cancer screening and early detections through the Michigan Department of Community Health.

October is Breast Cancer Awareness Month. It is estimated that this cancer kills 1,600 women annually in Michigan and that prostate cancer kills approximately 1,500 Michigan men annually.

Solving problems

Parents of children two to 12 years old can learn about discipline, self-esteem, communication and family enrichment as part of the Oakwood "Active Parenting Today" program.

The program includes six two-hour sessions and is designed to help parents develop responsible, cooperative and courageous children. Cost is $35 per couple and registration is required. Call (800) 543-WELL for information.

Free drugs

A 32-page booklet is available to those looking to get drugs free, or at a discounted price.

"Free & Low Cost Prescription Drugs" is published by the Cost Containment Research Institute in Washington D.C. at a cost of $3 for postage/handling. "Many major drug companies provide free or low-cost medication, but rarely, if ever publicize the programs," said Heather Kerrigan, director of the Institute. "We've published an A to Z listing of all the drugs that are available to certain qualified groups for free or at very low cost directly from the manufacturer."

Consumers can receive a copy by sending $3 to: Free & Low 'Cost Prescription Drugs, Booklet #PD370, 611 Pennsylvania Ave. SE, Suite 1010, Washington, D.C. 20003-4303.

Trainer volunteers

Jeff Kline, a Redford resident and Oakwood employee, recently participated in the Paralympic Games volunteering his medical skills and services at the 1996 Atlanta Paralympic Games in Atlanta over the summer. The games, designed for elite athletes with physical or visual impairments, includes many sports similar to the Olympic Games. The event, held in August, has more than 3,500 athletes from 127 countries.

"These athletes were sincere, intense and the desire to compete and win was overwhelming, more so than some of the disabilities," Kline said. His primary assignment was at the Georgia Tech Aquatic Center, the site of swimming competition for Olympics and Paralympics. There he spent a week evaluating and treating athletic injuries, aiding in the rehabilitation of injuries, acute trauma, modalities, massaging, assisting in stretching and general medical care for the swimmers.

REHAB: Center's program gets heart pumping

STORY BY LEANNE ROGERS • STAFF WRITER

The music is Big Band and there is no waiting to use the exercise equipment at Garden City Hospital's cardiac rehabilitation unit.

Two or three times each week, patients who have had heart problems or are trying to stave off a potential problem meet for a workout and some camaraderie.

"They tell me I had a silent heart attack. It left me with extensive heart damage and it's inoperable," said Don Carroll, 72, of Garden City. "This is part of my life twice a week now. It keeps me on a program. I know twice a week I'll get my exercise."

Although he has to rest occasionally, the semi-retired businessman said he is able to stay active — except for not being allowed to drink alcohol and a few other things.

"I've been coming for a year. I find it helpful. I can get out of bed now," said Garden City resident Joan Hotz, a retired Livonia school bus driver. "I'd miss it if I didn't come."

Now 63, Hotz suffered a heart attack on Easter Sunday in 1995. Coming for her twice-a-week workouts has been part of her recuperation.

"The people are friendly. You don't have to wait in line for the machines like a health club," said Hotz. "We're right in the hospital so if something happens they can deal with it."

Monitoring the patients physical condition is an important aspect of the cardiac rehabilitation program, especially for phase II patients who have recently had a heart attack, angioplasty, by-pass surgery or some other cardiac event, said cardiac rehabilitation nurse Marianne Couchman.

Phase II patients must be referred by a physician to participate in the six week program of exercise, nutrition and education.

The program goals are:

- Improving the patient's function work capacity and quality of life through exercise, nutrition and education
- Educating patients and their families about health enhancement and cardiac risk factor modification
- Assisting the participant in developing a lifelong exercise program and healthy eating habits

Participants in this program are thoroughly screened to determine current cardiopulmonary status, fitness level and blood cholesterol profile. A graded stress test is required before beginning the program.

The 12-week phase III program is open to people who have completed the phase II program and those who haven't had heart problems.

"Anyone can come into phase III, you don't need to be a heart patient," said Couchman. "Some come because they want to keep from having a heart attack. They might be at-risk and want to make some changes."

Patients participating in the two programs range in age from 29 to the oldest patient at 88 years old.

"Phase III patients want to learn what to do to be healthier. They feel safe exercising here. We monitor their blood pressure and pulse," said Couchman. "They also get a lot of support. They exercise with the same people all the time. It's kind of like a club."

Between half and one-third of the participants aren't Garden City Hospital patients, she said, having been referred by outside physicians.

The hospital also offers Heartpals, a cardiac support group that meets 7-9 p.m. the first Monday of each month in classroom No. 5 in Harrison School, on Harrison at Maplewood in Garden City. For more information, call 458-3242.

Madonna, St. Mary's the latest to join the Web

O&E ONLINE

EMORY DANIELS

The real Madonna now has a site on the World Wide Web.

Internet users outside this area probably will continue to arrive at the Material Girl's site when instructed to visit Madonna.

But southeast Michigan netters have an alternative destination — the new Web site of Madonna University in Livonia.

The address for Madonna University is http://www.munet.edu/. A quick look at the address will tell you that this site was designed by put together by the university staff and students. The hint is that the URL (Universal Resource Locator) has the .edu extension rather than .com. This indicates the Web site is on a server at an educational institution rather than on a commercial server.

From the message below you learn that Madonna is the second-largest Catholic university in Michigan, is the largest Franciscan independent university in the U.S., and has a student/faculty ratio of 18:1.

Surf through the Web site and you will find links to the university's 50th anniversary events — Homecoming Weekend which was Sept. 27-30 and the Madonna University Golden Golf Classic which was Sept. 30 at The Golden Fox in Plymouth.

Other links include "About Madonna University," "Events at Madonna University," "Schools and Colleges," "Admissions," "Student Life," "Faculty," "Library Services," "Academic Computer Services," "Special Programs," and "Alumni Information."

The site also has a link to an Information Center which allows you to fill out a request for information about whatever program you are interested in and a search engine to search the Web site by using keywords or words describing a concept.

St. Mary Hospital

St. Mary Hospital in Livonia also has its on site on the World Wide Web.

Because the hospital doesn't have a pool of computer students to develop a Web site for them, the hospital asked O&E On-line to handle that task for them and Sue Dorris and Greg Day gladly agreed.

■ Community Health Services is loaded with information on such classes and activities as The Back School, CPR, weight management, CareLink, screenings for cholesterol, depression, or blood pressure andothers.

To visit St. Mary's site point your Web browser to http://www.stmaryhospital.org/. Upon arrival you will find a very colorful home page that includes an aerial view of the hospital at Five Mile and Levan.

Links on the home page include "Our Mission," "Medical Services," "For a Physician Referral," "Community Health Services," "Location and parking guide," "Frequently Called telephone numbers," "Building the Future," and "News and Information."

"Community Health Services" is loaded with information on such classes and activities as The Back School, CPR, weight management, CareLink, screenings for cholesterol, depression, or blood pressure, Eating Disorders Clinic, Home Health Care, Medicare assistance, Health-O-Rama, speakers bureau, volunteers, the Wonder Walkers Club, women's and family health programs, support groups, and much more.

The "news and information" page contains announcements such as the "Hollywood Nights IV" fund raiser set for Oct. 17 featuring The Diamonds and Johnny Trudell. Trivia experts will know that The Diamonds had such hit tunes as "Silhouettes" and "Little Darlin'." The site also has a listing of fall activities at the hospital.

Speaking of hospitals, the Internet now has its own Hospital Locator which can be accessed at http://www.medaccess.com/hospitals/s—hospt.htm.Stop by and search for U.S hospitals by type, city, state or by zip code.

Canton Township

Canton Township has a local government page on the Web on a trial basis.

The test program consists of non-interactive web pages with detailed information about the Canton community and the Canton Police Department. The page can be accessed at http://www.cantontwp.org.

The site has links to "Fire Station Report," "Officer Profile," "Community Policing," and "Our Mission." The page was created and designed by Ken Voyles, a former journalist now working as communications coordinator for Canton Township.

The main focus of the township government pilot program is to find out how many people visit the site and whether there is interest by the general population. If the trial is successful, a permanent municipal-wide home page will be developed.

"Unlike most communities I have checked on," says Voyles, "we did it all in-house. I learned the software, our computer guys took care of the technical questions and we worked closely with the Canton Library and folks at Metronet" (the net consortium of libraries in Michigan). Voyles learned how to build a Web site in about nine weeks. Take a look at http://www.cantontwp.org and see for yourself how well he did.

The Canton Public Library uses the MetroNet service to provide a link to the Web. The library Web site has established a center with general information on Canton Township. Point to http://www.metronet.lib.mi.us/CANT/TWP/home.html and you will find links to public safety, municipal government and community information, a community calendar and to the Canton Public Library.

MESC report predicts job growth throughout Michigan

BY LAURIE HUMPHREY
STAFF WRITER

The Michigan Employment Security Commission is calling it a sign of progress, the rest of us call it a sign for help — "Help Wanted".

A recently published MESC report predicts an explosion of jobs for Michigan residents over the next nine years. In fact, they believe the trend began in 1994.

"Over our 11-year forecast period from 1994-2005, we foresee industry in the state adding 565,000 new jobs," MESC Director F. Robert Edwards predicted. "This is a 13.6 percent increase and very close to the expected national growth rate of 14.9 percent."

Some chamber representatives can already see growth at the local level.

"There's just help wanted signs all over Westland," said Linda Shapona, executive director of the city's Chamber of Commerce. "There is a tremendous amount of opportunity out there."

MESC officials attribute the auto industry for some of the growth. "As a result of the resurgence of the auto industry . . . the state's manufacturing sector will add 36,000 jobs between 1994 and 2005," reads the report.

Edwards points out that "manufacturing employment is already on the rebound with an increase of 31,000 jobs since 1990."

How will this affect local residents?

Rod Crider, executive director for the Livonia Chamber of Commerce, said any news of growth is good for the area.

■ 'Over our 11-year forecast period from 1994-2005, we foresee industry in the state adding 565,000 new jobs.'

F. Robert Edwards
—MESC director

"(And) more manufacturing jobs would be real positive for Livonia, with auto businesses here."

Benefits would extend to the greater Livonia community also, he points out.

"It would help residents too, because it's almost 50-50" in taxes. Money generated from Livonia businesses has "allowed Livonia to provide city services and amenities that have made Livonia such a good place to live and work."

Mary Jo Mullen, Redford's Chamber of Commerce executive director, hasn't seen the MESC report yet, but she is optimistic about the future, saying she has seen "Help Wanted" signs.

"(But) there are some companies that are trying to hire people and they are not getting the applicants," she said.

Crider reports the same problem in Livonia.

A topic of conversation at a recent meeting of the city's 60-80 top employers was the availability of employees — qualified employees.

"Several indicated that they were having difficulty getting jobs filled (with qualified people)," said Crider.

"Technical skills are becoming more and more important now; even in entry level positions, as companies become more hi-tech."

The MESC report supports Crider's theory. "The business services sector is projected to have the largest employment gain, increasing by 141,000 new jobs" in engineering, computer and management consulting services.

The health service industry can also expect gains, despite job reductions at certain hospitals. Edwards forecasts 90,000 more jobs, but adds that they will be found at practitioners' offices, outpatient facilities and home health care agencies.

"These are the health care segments that are benefiting from the growing trend toward HMO and other managed care programs," he explained.

That should be interesting news for Amelia Oliverio, a former Garden City Hospital employee turned Garden City Chamber of Commerce executive director. Filling in since the recent departure of Philip Davies, Oliverio is still learning about the city's businesses and their issues.

In the broad trade sector, retail trade and food services will show the greatest growth, up 58,000 and 46,000 jobs, respectively. Wholesale trade will increase by 27,000 during the period.

The future for construction employment also looks promising, assuming there are no sharp increases in long-term interest rates. Employment should increase by 21,000.

Orchestras present magical season

BY KEELY WYGONIK
STAFF WRITER

Making music magical is the secret to their success, and Livonia and Plymouth Symphony Orchestras have a few tricks up their sleeve this season, which begins Oct. 19.

Livonia Symphony Orchestra is presenting a "Magical Musical Christmas" program Dec. 14 featuring Magician Al the Only and Young Artist competition winner, vocalist Kimberly Haynes.

Follow the sorcerer on a magical musical adventure Feb. 16 when the Plymouth Symphony Orchestra presents "Family Fantasia," featuring the winner of the Youth Artist Competition. On the program is "The Sorcerer's Apprentice," by Dukas and Williams' "Star Wars."

"I am excited about helping the Plymouth Symphony take on new challenges and grow as it begins its 51st year as a community orchestra," said Bonnie Holyoak of Canton, symphony executive director. "I want our symphony to continue as a well-loved community resource that will serve to ignite a desire in people of all ages to love music, encourage musicians, and push for music and cultural programs in the schools and the community."

• PSO, under the direction of Russell Reed, begins its season 8 p.m. Saturday, Oct. 19, in the auditorium at Plymouth-Salem High School with a "Grand Opening" concert featuring cellist Robert Reed performing Haydn's "Concerto in C." Also on the program are Wagner's challenging "Flying Dutchman," and Tchaikovsky's Symphony No. 5.

A Gala Afterglow will be held after the concert at Damon's — The Place for Ribs, 43750 Ford Road in Canton. Afterglow admission is $5, call (313) 451-2112 for information.

In addition to the "Family Fantasia" concert in February, season highlights are "The Nutcracker" Ballet presented Dec. 13-15 by the orchestra and Plymouth-Canton Ballet Company, and the Caribbean Cruise Pops concert with the PSO and Trinidad Tripoli Steel Band at Fox Hills Country Club in Plymouth.

"A Spanish Connection," on Nov. 16 showcases popular Spanish classical music, including Bizet's Carmen Suite No. 1, and renowned guitarist Philip Candelaria.

A Chamber Concert on Jan. 25 will feature outstanding PSO musicians and ensembles, the presentation of the winner of the Youth Artist Competition.

"March Musical Madness" on March 15 includes performances by guest soloist Bryan Kennedy, French horn, and string players of the Plymouth-Canton schools in a program of works by Mozart and Strauss.

When you're not attending their concerts, you can enjoy "Sound Waves" the Plymouth Symphony's CD, which provides over an hour of pleasurable listening. Call the PSO office for information.

• The Livonia Symphony Orchestra, under the leadership of Volodymyr Schesiuk, former resident conductor of the Bolshoi Theatre in Moscow, will present an "Evening Fantasy," the first concert of their 24th season, 7:30 p.m. Saturday, Oct. 19, in the J.P. Carli Auditorium, Churchill High School, Livonia.

Schesiuk, and guest soloist Yuri Mazurkevich, are childhood friends. "He's a beautiful violinist, and professor of violin at Boston University," said Schesiuk. The program includes music of Paine, Tchaikovsky, Bilik's "American Civil War Fantasy," Chabrier's "Espana Rhapsody," and "Scottish Fantasy," by Bruch.

"Behind the notes must be life," said Schesiuk. "Like a picture, music can help you imagine the scene. Espana Rhapsody has a Spanish theme."

Because of popular demand, the LSO is bringing back its Chamber Music Series at the Civic Center Library with concerts on Nov. 15 and Jan. 24. "An Evening of Classical Guitar," on Nov. 15 will feature guest artist Victor Sakalauskas performing Vivaldi's Guitar Concerto. Audiences will be treated to performances by Schesniuk on violin, his wife, Luba, an accomplished pianist, and James Poe, bassoon, on Jan. 24.

"James Poe has been in the orchestra for a number of years," said Schesniuk. "He's an executive at Ford Motor Company, and plays to relieve stress. He donates his time to the orchestra, and is a very good musician."

Bringing together some of the finest musicians in metro Detroit, the Livonia Symphony Orchestra presents programs that appeal to a variety of musical tastes, and encourages young musicians through its Young Artist Competition. Last year's winners — Kimberly Haynes, vocalist, Benjamin Robison, violin; and Karl Shymanovitz, piano will be featured at concerts on Dec. 14, Feb. 8, and March 15.

"Dance Internationale," Feb. 8 features a variety of spirited and entertaining international dance selections including Chopin's Polonaise, and "Symphonic Dances from West Side Story" by Bernstein.

Join the symphony after the March 15 Spring Concert celebrating the music of Wagner, Khatchaturian, Von Suppe and Dvoorak at an afterglow at DePalma's, Ristorante in Livonia. The afterglow cost is $10 per person, call (313) 421-1111 for details.

LSO "Season Finale" on May 2 features works by Bach/Stokowski, Beethoven, Bizet and Brahms. Featured soloist is Ukrainian pianist Anna Sorohtej. An afterglow follows at Water Club Grille in Plymouth. The cost is $10 per person. Call the symphony for details.

Police officer captures athletes in action

SPECIAL WRITER

Although Clay Monte enjoys creating action-packed portraits of professional sports figures in colored pencil, the real challenge begins afterward when he sends or takes the artwork to the athlete, stadium or team and asks them to autograph it for him. Barry Sanders, Steve Yzerman, Chris Spielman and Michael Jordan are part of a 15-piece exhibit of portraits by Monte in the Livonia Arts Commission's showcases at the Livonia Civic Center Library.

"The fun part is getting it autographed. I tell the athlete that the autographed picture will remain in my possession and will not be sold," said Monte, a 25-year-old Livonia resident whose first love is working for the Wayne County Sheriff Department.

Monte admits to being a sports junkie. He frequently attends hockey, Detroit Lions and University of Michigan games. Mornings seem incomplete until he reads the sports page, but he is no couch potato. He runs two miles a day, works out several times a week at the Powerhouse Gym in Livonia and plays on the sheriff department's softball team.

"I'm hoping the kids get a kick out of seeing the different athletes in the show," he said.

Each drawing begins when Monte chooses a baseball card or photograph that catches his eye.

"Then I start throwing the color down. I like the colors of the uniforms, the movement of the body, the way it flows. I like capturing the wrinkles and shadows," he said.

The earliest influence on Monte's art was his uncle Ted Nowak, whose gifts of art classes, colored pencils and chalk instilled a love of drawing. Later on, Monte credits John Wagner, his art

FINE ARTS

'Sharing the Gift' showcases local artists

LINDA ANN CHOMIN

A host of local artists (31 to be exact) were selected from more than 230 entries to show their work in the fourth annual "Sharing the Gift Within You" exhibition continuing through Oct. 11 at the First Presbyterian Church, 200 E. Main Street in Northville.

Presented by the church, the show is fast becoming a respected competition in the southeast Michigan region. The juror this year was Farmington Hills artist Edee Joppich, owner of Joppich's Bay Street Gallery in Northport and a teacher at the Visual Arts Association in Livonia. She will give a gallery talk to discuss the juried works of art in the show today at 1 p.m. Admission is free.

"It was a challenge to jury the show because there were so many good pieces submitted. I was impressed by the caliber of work and the personal thought that the artist had something to say," said Joppich who looked for an unusual approach or interpretation by the artist when jurying works.

Joppich selected more than 125 pieces for the exhibit. First Prize went to Nancy Meyer of Plymouth for "Forget Predictions: Learn to Love Chaos," a black, white and gray quilt accented with red and purple fabric.

"It's a very exciting work. It's beautifully designed and has an architectural feeling. Color can be seductive. When you eliminate color as Nancy has you expose yourself because you're working strictly with composition," said Joppich.

A quilter for more than a dozen years, Meyer created the piece after reading a headline in the Maui News while on vacation. Winning top honors is becoming a regular occurrence for Meyer who won Best Of Show at the "Celebrate Life" competition in Birmingham a few years ago.

"I'm thrilled to have won. It's fantastic," said Meyer, a quilting teacher at Quiltworks in Plymouth.

Canton artist Connie Lucas won the Award of Excellence for "Perilous Journey," a water color commentary on abortion. Lucas likes to focus on controversial political and social issues in her work and frequently uses symbols such as children's toys like the stuffed elephants in this thought-provoking piece. Special Recognition awards went to Jean Weber of Plymouth and Regina Dunne of Livonia, and an Honorable Mention to Evelyn Henry of Redford.

All of the artists owe a heartfelt thank you to the more than 100 volunteers at the church who made the show possible. Venues for local artists showing work are few and far between. The church's Visual Arts Committee should be applauded.

Sharing fine art is nothing new for the church. In fact, "Sharing the Gift" is but one of many programs being presented during its sixth annual Fine Arts Series which includes concerts featuring piano, organ and brass. The church initiated the series in 1991 after installing a new Casavant Organ in the renovated sanctuary. It was a time of celebration and sharing.

The art show originated after an idea from former church member Judith Sechler who had heard of the "Celebrate Life" show in Birmingham. The name and concept for the Northville church's exhibit "Sharing the Gift Within You" comes from the Book of Timothy.

"We saw Sharing the Gift as an outreach to the community and the artists" creativity as a gift from God," said promotion person Norma Peltz. Hours are 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. Thursday and until 8 p.m. Friday.

Linda Ann Chomin of Canton Township is a freelance writer specializing in the visual arts. Her Artistic Expressions column appears weekly in the Arts & Entertainment section of The Observer Newspapers.

teacher at Stevenson High School in Livonia, for helping him develop his talent into successful drawings.

Monte studied commercial art with Wagner but chose not to pursue it as a career. A recent commission arranged by Wagner was a drawing of a truck for Waste Management in Livonia.

"I didn't want to have to be creative on deadline. When I have deadlines, it becomes a job. Then it isn't fun," said Monte, who graduated from Schoolcraft College with a degree in criminal justice.

In addition to the athletes, Monte draws portraits of people, pets, cartoon characters and a variety of subject matter. One particularly moving charcoal drawing is of his mother Cora Linda Monte, who died 13 years ago. A gift for his father several years ago, it now is displayed in the family's living room.

Hot cooks fired-up for Plymouth chili cook-off

Event proceeds will be donated to Make-A-Wish Foundation of Michigan.

It will retail for $20, and $15 will go to Make-A-Wish. We'll also have T-shirts for sale, and anyone who wants to can make a donation to Make-A-Wish.

"After the chili is submitted for judging, you can buy samples for 25 cents a taste. Local restaurants, including Plymouth Landing and Station 885, will be making chili and selling it for $2 a bowl. Western barbecue dinners, hot dogs and other foods will also be offered for sale.

Here's the special event schedule — Live bands, noon to 6 p.m.; Line dancing, throughout the day; Jalapeno Eating Contest, 1 and 4 p.m.; Classic Harley Davidson show, 11 a.m. to 6 p.m., and Western barbecue — noon to 5 p.m.

Co-sponsored by OU's Division of Continuing Education and Detroit Women Writers, the prestigious 1-1/2-day conference will offer 36 concurrent sessions for beginning through published writers, ranging from the basics of writing, fiction, poetry and screenplays to successfully marketing them. Suspenseful 'Bound' bends film noir formula

TICKETS PLEASE

JOHN MONAGHAN

We've seen the story a million times before: a street smart guy, recently released from prison, trying to keep his nose clean, meets a sexy woman by chance. A little innuendo-filled banter follows and soon they're in bed together, literally and figuratively, plotting to rip someone off.

What makes "Bound" so unusual is that this familiar "film noir" archetype is actually a woman. The lesbian twist, along with some unusual camera work, keeps us watching this first effort by writer/directors Larry and Andy Wachowski. "Bound" isn't as clever as it thinks it is, but it has some nice flourishes, usually involving the camera. The movie is awash in deep blacks, muted browns and blues, as close as you can get to making a black-and-white movie in color.

So when the blood comes, and it seems to arrive in buckets, you're all the more shocked. It spatters into toilet boils, spreads across apartment-house floors, drips slow-motion into a sea of spilled white paint, and saturates thick Oriental rugs. I guarantee you'll never be able to look at a pair of pruning shears the same way again.

Jennifer Tilly, best remembered as a gangster's girlfriend in "Bullets Over Broadway," plays another one here. This time the willowy actress with the baby voice is Violet, girlfriend of Mafioso Caesar (Joe Pantalino), who just happens to have a suitcase of literally laundered (and ironed) money in the apartment.Corky, working as a plumber and painter in the apartment next door, gets sucked into a scheme to take the money. When Caesar discovers it missing, he'll have no choice but to run. According to Violet, the total take should exceed two million dollars.

"Bound" should remind you of a lot of other movies, especially the classic "film noir" dramas "Double and Indemnity" and "The Postman Always Rings Twice." There's also a great deal of Hitchcock here, especially in Don Davis' music, which takes its cues from Bernard Herrmann and "North By Northwest."

Those other movie making brothers, the Coens, also seem to be lurking around every corner of this complicated mystery. Remember that their first feature, "Blood Simple," was a similarly claustrophobic study of unsafe sex and violent murder.

What makes the Wachowski brothers different from the Coens is sense of humor, or at least well-drawn irony. The only chuckles here come from Caesar, who catches on way too late that his wife could possibly have an affair with another woman.

They can't help themselves from staging elaborate shots. When the camera shoots Corky from a high angle, dwarfing her on the way into the apartment building, you know that fate is playing a major hand.

Other shots are there simply for show, including a multiple image shot through a wall of glass bricks.The performances are fine, providing you're not too irritated by Tilly's voice, which you'd hardly be able to listen to in real-life without stifling a laugh. Gershon's con, with her full lips, dirty leather jacket, and rusted Chevy truck, effectively turns the tables on a woman's place in the movies.

The gender-bending concept remains the best thing about "Bound," which otherwise takes itself way too seriously. While their movie is occasionally cool and often suspenseful, the Wachowskis have forgotten that even the bloodiest movies need to have a sense of fun.

John Monaghan welcomes your calls and comments. You can listen to him on Dave Dixon's Radio Show AM 1270, WHYT, 8 p.m. to midnight Saturdays. To leave John a voice mail message, dial (313) 953-2047 on a touch-tone phone, mailbox 1866.

CHRISTINA FUOCO

Music is a reflection of the artist who produces it and that's never been so evident than with cross-cultural singer/songwriter Nil Lara.

A simple 30-second voice mail message sums up the Miami-based Lara. He rolls his R's, slides between American and Spanish accents, and although he has every reason to be pretentious, Lara ends the message sweetly with "I'll be waiting for your phone call."

In case you haven't figured it out, Lara's music is an unpretentious mix of American pop, Cuban rhythms and Venezuelan folkloric traditions. He effortlessly interchanges the Cuban three-toned "tres" guitar, the "cuatro," a Venezuelan four-stringed instrument, the electric guitar and indigenous percussion instruments.

Lara is a master at his craft.

Standing outside a phone booth in the cold of Vermont, Lara isn't quite sure what to say about his music.

"I'm at your service," he says.

First a little background. Lara was born in Newark, N.J., to Cuban parents but lived in Venezuela until moving to Miami while he was in junior high. Music lessons in Venezuela exposed him to that country's folkloric traditions.

At age 8, he learned how to play the cuatro and eventually graduated to guitar. While studying microwave analysis at the University of Miami, Lara spent his spare time fine tuning his songwriting craft and eventually stumbled on to the "tres."

"As a child I used to watch live performances by 'guajiro' (Cuban country) artists and noticed a peculiar tonality which was present all the time. I later discovered that to be the 'tres.' It wasn't until I saw it and heard it in person that I fell for it and started to really appreciate the root of the 'son,' which is basically the blues of Cuban music."

Previous to his self-titled debut album released in March, Lara put out two albums on his own label, Beluga Blue Records. It was after a feature in Billboard magazine's Continental Divide column that label reps from Metro Blue, a subsidiary of Capitol Records, came knocking.

Lara's self-titled debut album was released in March to critical acclaim. Lara's songs are portraits of broken-hearted lovers, feelings of longing and loss, and nostalgia. "Bleeding," a muscular pop song that serves as the centerpiece of the album, showcases Lara's knack for writing soul-searing lyrics: "I feel you've got me near the end/Yes you have me bleeding/And so you've got me where you want/I feel you've got me on my knees/Yes you have me bleeding/Try to believe I am drained/I don't want to bleed no more."

The first single, "Baby" is an painful plead to a lover complimented with a Dominican tambora and a Bahamian junkanoo drum: "Baby doesn't know what she wants any more/Baby doesn't know what she wants/Baby doesn't know how to love anyone/Baby doesn't know how to love/Baby doesn't know what she wants to believe." Lara follows that up with "Be my savior/Won't you bring me home tonight?"

As a further paean to his heritage, three of the 11 songs on "Nil Lara" are sung in Spanish.

Through relentless touring of the U.S., Lara gained a grassroots following, having played a variety of small venues Alvin's to the 7th House locally.

Success hasn't spoiled Lara.

"I'm humbled by it. I did my work. I had a good time in the studio. My music and my culture come first. We just did a European thing. That was beautiful. I brought home an oriental instrument that has three strings. It's like a banjo for them but it doesn't sound so banjo-y. The skin is made out of dog," Lara said squeamishly.

Lara said that although he has a few songs written, he's going to take his time for the next album.

"We're livin' the experience, you know. We have songs that I could put on a record already but I'm going to try to live a little bit and experience everything that's going on."

Nil Lara makes two area appearances next week. He headlines a show at 8 p.m. Tuesday, Oct. 15, at the 7th House, 7 N. Saginaw, Pontiac. Tickets are $6 in advance for the 18 and older show. For more information, call (810) 335-8100.

Two days later, Thursday, Oct. 17, Lara will open for Los Lobos at the Michigan Theatre, 603 Liberty, Ann Arbor, at 8 p.m. Ticket prices range from $20-$30 for the all-ages show. For more information about that show, call (313) 99-MUSIC or (313) 668-8397.

If you have a question or comment for Christina Fuoco, you can write to her c/o The Observer & Eccentric Newspapers, 36251 Schoolcraft Road, Livonia, or via e-mail at cfuoco@aol.com. You can also leave a message for her by calling (313) 953-2047, mailbox 2130 on a Touch-Tone phone.

Cross-cultural rhythms: Nil Lara takes his Cuban and Venezuelan heritage and blends it into relentlessly hook-laden pop songs. He will make two area appearances – Tuesday, Oct. 15, at the 7th House in Pontiac, and Thursday, Oct. 17, opening for Los Lobos at the Michigan Theatre in Ann Arbor.

Corsi's serves homemade dishes with pride

BY KEELY WYGONIK
STAFF WRITER

There's a lot of pride and hard work behind the Corsi name, and after 30 years in business, they're still trying to do things better.

Since opening Corsi's Italian Restaurant in 1966 they've expanded three times, and recently remodeled their banquet center, which also provides overflow seating for the restaurant, which seats 75-80 people. Because customers requested booths, they got rid of the tables, and put in more booths.

Corsi's caters parties large and small, ranging from 50 to 400 people — weddings, reunions, funeral lunches, business meetings, retirement and holiday parties.

If everyone's coming to your house for dinner, but you don't have time to cook, Corsi's can help. Homemade pasta dishes, including lasagna (serves 10-12), salads, meatballs, chicken, and other items can be ordered for pick-up. They'll also help you put together a buffet menu with choice of meats, pasta, salad, and bread. The delivery fee is $25 for a minimum of 50 people.

Everything on the menu is homemade, and prepared with loving care under the direction of Adelia Corsi who oversees the kitchen.

Married in 1954, Adelia and her husband Rocco immigrated to the U.S. from Italy with nothing but dreams. Rocco worked at the Ford Rouge Plant in Dearborn, and when he got laid off, Adelia worked nights part-time in a pizzeria.

They talked about owning their own restaurant some day, and opened a pizzeria on the corner of Eight Mile Road and Grand River in 1959. In 1966 the couple moved their business to its present location on Seven Mile Road (between Inkster and Middlebelt) in Livonia.

Rocco is retired, but still makes the spaghetti sauce. "I learned from my mother in the old country," he said. "I still use my mother's recipe, and go by texture, and taste."

Adelia is known for her soups, especially minestrone, and chicken, which are always on the menu. Their sons Dean, a graduate of Schoolcraft College's culinary arts program, and Louie, also work in the restaurant.

"We were brought up here," said Louie. After school the brothers would go to the restaurant, eat dinner, do their homework, watch TV, and when they got older, help out before going home.

Dean is still single, but Louie is taken. "She came in for a job," said Louie explaining how he met his wife Penny who grew up in Redford. "We were eating lunch. My mother said 'there's a nice looking chicken, give her a job.' We called her a week later, and hired her."

Penny worked at the restaurant as a waitress while attending Eastern Michigan University. She and Louie have been married 17 years, and have two daughters ages 14 and 11. Penny supervises waitresses, is banquet manager, and special events coordinator.

"We're all here, we don't count the hours. We work hard," said Adelia.

"A lot of people have managers who run their restaurants, we're here all the time. This is a hands-on family operation. There's a lot of pride, this is home," adds Louie.

Corsi's is well-known for their delicious pizza, pasta dishes especially gnocchi and lasagna. For those who can't make up their minds there's a combo plate — lasagna, gnocchi, spaghetti and ravioli. Pasta is also available in half orders with meat or tomato sauce.

Specialty entrees include tripe, Veal Parmesan, Veal Scaloppini, and Chicken Cacciatore. The Greek salad is an often-requested item. Corsi's also offers an 8 ounce New York Strip Steak, chicken dinner, roast beef dinner, pork chops, and barbecue ribs. Be sure to ask about daily specials.

The recipes are winners, and most haven't changed in 30 years. "We put a marinara sauce on the menu for people who don't want meat," said Dean.

"We know our customers, and they know us," said Louie. "We have people who have been coming here 30 years." Many have moved to South Lyon, Brighton, and Howell, but they come back for the pizza and pasta.

"We use stick pepperoni and fresh ingredients," said Louie, "the sauce is not out of a can, everything is homemade."

Adelia enjoys gardening in her spare time. Her family says she can grown anything, and that's how she relaxes. She tends a garden at home, and in addition to vegetables, grows basil, parsley, sage and chives.

Adelia loves flowers, especially colorful unusual ones like the purple rooster crown. When she's not in the kitchen, you might find her outside taking care of her flowers — mums, roses, moonlight, and dahlias, which decorate the front and side of the restaurant.

West Bay offers luxury on lake setting

Luxury appointments in spacious units with spectacular views.

All of that – and more – describes West Bay on Pine Lake, 10 attached condominiums in three buildings on Orchard Lake Road just north of Long Lake Road in West Bloomfield.

John Richards Homes, a Birmingham company whose custom-built offerings can be found throughout the northern and western suburbs, has nurtured West Bay on Pine Lake.

TAMMIE GRAVES/STAFF ARTIST

"We're on one of the most premier, all-sports lakes in the area at a price under $600,000," said John Shekerjian, president and CEO for John Richards. "It can't be duplicated.

"I like to do things first class," he added. "I think what distinguishes us is attention to detail."

Prices go from $526,000 to $566,000 depending on square footage, location of the unit and view. Available space including the main living area, second-floor bedrooms and lower walk-out ranges from 3,796 to 4,166 square feet.

All units will include as standard features fireplace, air conditioning, whirlpool tub in the master suite and double oven, cooktop, dishwasher and microwave in the kitchen.

Also included at base price are a two-car garage (three-car garage in Unit 3), first-floor laundry, walkout with roughed-in plumbing and drywall, deck off the family room and a boat slip.

"Empty nesters who like to be by water and want to downsize will be looking in here ... plus young professionals who like to have everything taken care of and be by water," said M. Louis Sabatini, vice president of sales and operations for John Richards.

"The view is probably most impressive," she said. "Also, ceiling height gives a feeling of volume and spaciousness inside. The elevator (option) has been a real plus. And, of course, the pond and gazebo area."

"Imagine waking up every morning and looking at the lake," Sabatini said from a master suite.

"And the sounds of a waterfall and fountain," Seal added.

Different units provide different floor plans. However, a view of the water is available from the foyer of every one.

Unit 1 under construction features a library with a 10-foot ceiling and great room with two-story ceiling.

The master with cathedral ceiling and balcony has two walk-in closets and separate his and her bath areas with vanity, toilet and entrances to the shower.

Two secondary upstairs bedrooms share a jack-and-jill bath.

"When the leaves drop in winter, from this (back) bedroom, you have a full view of Orchard Lake," Seal said.

Unit 3 under construction features a walk-up master with pan ceiling, a dressing/make-up area and two walk-in closets.

A room next to the master can be used as an additional bedroom – two others are upstairs along with a full bath – or it can be opened to the master and used as an exercise room, media room, craft room or office.

An opening has been cut into the wall between the kitchen/nook and great room to allow a view of the water from the sink.

The property tax rate currently is $30.37 per $1,000 of state equalized valuation, half of market value. That means the owners of a $526,000 condo there would pay nearly $8,000 the first year.

Occupying almost the entire left section of the house, this sumptuous refuge has all the amenities to assure your complete comfort and privacy. A coffered vault graces the ceiling above the sleeping area. A large bay window admits the available light and provides a fine view of the landscape. The well-appointed private bathroom features an oversized tub, separate shower and twin basins. An enormous walk-in closet, fitted with shelves, has room for the most extensive wardrobe.

The remainder of the home, starting with the attractive brick-and-siding exterior, is equally as splendid. Stately columns frame the recessed entry. Immediately inside, a convenient half-bath and coat closet are at the disposal of your visitors.

The living room and dining room, both vaulted, are open to each other. Whether you are dining formally or enjoying a lively conversation in the living room, this configuration enhances the spaciousness of the central area. Adjoining the dining room, the walk-through kitchen opens into the well-lit breakfast nook and family room. This is the expanse where most of the informal gathering will take place and is heated by a generous fireplace. In addition to being well placed for easy serving, the kitchen features a central eating bar with built-in range, walk-in pantry and a separate oven.

The two secondary bedrooms are separated by a full bathroom. The larger one has a projecting bay window and will serve nicely as guest quarters. The smaller, if not in use, can easily be converted to a home office or exercise room. Each has ample closet space.

Whether you are a weekend hobbyist or dedicated to working on household projects, there is plenty of room in the garage to house all your tools in the shop area. The 319-square-foot attic can be developed as a bonus room or used as extra storage space.

Wallboard takes care

Wallboard, a fixer-upper's best friend, is used as a backing throughout houses in the United States. Because it is so common, repairs are going to be needed at some time turning your tenure as a homeowner.

These repairs range from fixing minor dents to replacing entire sections of a wall. The key element in wall repair is that once you're done with the repairs, the repaired area should blend in with the surround surface.

Standard wallboard is composed of a fire-resistant gypsum core sandwiched between two layers of paper. There are also waterproof panels available for use in the bathroom and other damp areas.

Preparation

Plan your layout in advance so you know how many supplies you will need. The larger the size panel, the fewer seams you'll have in your wall, so consider using long panels, such as 10- or 12-foot sizes. Panels can be hung horizontally or vertically, but horizontal placement is stronger.

Stack the wallboard against the last wall you plan to cover to leave maximum floor space available for working.

Examine the framing and straighten bowed or crooked studs by planing down high spots. Install blocking wherever joists are not available to give ceiling panels edge support. Make sure all electrical boxes are flush with the finished wall. Wires should be at least 1-1/4 inches from faces of studs or joists. If they aren't, nail on metal protectors.

It might be a good idea to rent a wallboard jack if you plan to redo the ceiling. The jack cradles a full sheet of wallboard and can raise or lower it with a crank. The jack is also mounted on wheels so you can position the wallboard however you choose.

Ceiling panels

The first thing you should do is mark all joist locations on the wall plates so you know where to nail after panels are in place. Start on one wall and lift the first panel into place and attach to joists with 1-1/4-inch ring-shank wallboard nails or 1-1/3-inch type W screws. Start in the center and work outward, spacing nails seven inches apart, 12 inches if using the double-nail technique. Screws should be placed 12 inches apart. Nails/screws should be at least 3/8 inch from the panel edge and embedded slightly into the paper.

Once the first panel is up, measure, cut to fit and install remaining panels. Measure and mark holes for electrical outlets, flues or other obstructions and cut out with a wallboard saw. Gaps around the obstructions should be no more that 1/4 inch.

Wall panels

Once again, the first thing you should do is mark all stud locations on the ceiling and floor. For horizontal panels, place top panel first and snug it up against the ceiling. Bring the bottom panel snug up against the top panel and fill in any gaps below with strips of wallboard. Before attaching wallboard to the studs, snap vertical lines to indicate stud locations. Use screws or nails to attach the panels in place. Space nails eight inches apart, while screws should be 12 inches apart. Cover all outside corners with metal corner beads and make sure to angle nails away from the corner.

Taping

You will need a number of specialized tools to tape and fill joints properly. Those include three sizes of putty knives (a three- or four-inch, six-inch and a 10- or 12-inch), an angled knife for corners, a tray to hold compound, a sanding block, wallboard tape, joint compound and tapping compound.

There are three applications required to adequately finish taping joints. Initially, mix the compound with a limited amount of water and spread a layer of compound along the joint. Wet the tape and lay it over the joint/compound and smooth it with a three- or four-inch putty knife.

After putting on the tape, apply a thin layer of joint compound with a four-inch putty knife, Use corner tools for inside corners and feather edges carefully.

Check the joint for dimples and smooth any you find out with a layer of compound. Let the compound dry overnight and then smooth by sanding or using a wet sponge. Don't forget to flatten any high spots with a putty knife.

Use a six-inch putty knife for the second application. This is done mainly to smooth and feather edges.

Do one side of inside corners at a time, one this application and the other during the third application.

When the second application is dry, sand again and apply a third coat with the 10- or 12-inch knife. Don't forget to coat nail dimples.

Once the compound is dry, sand again and check to see if a fourth coat is necessary.

Painting

Before you paint wallboard, it must be sealed to prevent absorption of paint into the panels. Polyvinyl acetate (PVA) is the most common primer on the market and creates an acceptable surface for most latex paints. Don't use PVA primer where you will be using wallpaper. It prevents wallpaper from adhering to the wallboard. If you plan to use oil-based paints, use an alkaline primer.

Closing costs can add up

MORTGAGE SHOPPING

DAVID C. MULLY

For the purchase of an existing home:

Everybody wants to know about interest rates and which lender has the lowest rate. But that's only part of the mortgage equation. What about the closing cost? What do they all mean? And why do you have to pay them?

Let's consider all these fees called closing costs. First of all, you need to understand the difference between third party fees and so-called "lender fees." Third party fees are fees the lender charges you while the lender, in turn, pays the third party with his money for services rendered. For instance, an appraisal fee, survey fee, credit report fee and closing fee are some examples of these fees. The lender is typically not making a profit on these fees. This is important to remember because popular opinion may cause you to believe that closing costs are just for the lender to make extra profit. The mortgage business is so competitive that any type of pure fee income has become very thin, at best.

That brings me to my next point. Exactly what fees are considered fee income for the lender? Fees such as document preparation fees, underwriting fees, processing fees and, in some cases, a tax service fee, may be used for extra income. This is not etched in stone. These fees can be necessary fees for some lenders. Be sure to ask for an explanation of what the money being collected will be used for.

You may have noticed that I have not mentioned pre-paid costs which include interest, property taxes and homeowner insurance. I will address this type of cost in a future column.

For the purchase of a new construction home:

While I am on the topic of closing costs, I would like to point out and clarify the requirement for title insurance cost for a new construction home.

A title insurance policy is most costly for a new construction home because the home has never had a title policy, whereas an existing home will have had a policy already in effect. Hence, the cost to update the title work is less expensive than the cost of initiating a brand new policy. Therefore, on a new home, an owner's policy and a lender's policy must be simultaneously generated from scratch. Thus, the reason for the higher expense.

To illustrate the difference, we'll consider a $150,000 new mortgage. The title insurance cost for this would be $695. But on an existing home, where a policy has already been in effect, the cost would be much less at $278. The difference of $417 is a lot. For this reason, when shopping for a new mortgage, you should specify to the lender that the mortgage is for a new home so you get accurate closing cost estimates. The amount of title insurance is usually based on the new mortgage amount. Most lenders use the same chart to quote the fee so it should not differ much from one lender to the next.

For the refinancing of you current home:

When refinancing, closing cost can be a little different. In fact you may not have to pay any at all. First, the amount of the closing cost can depend on several factors, including the length of time since you first obtained your mortgage. Next, consider whether or not you are using the same lender who did you first mortgage. If so, the cost may be lower. The fee for a survey can, in most instances, be waived if you still have your original copy of the survey. As long as you have not made any structural changes to the home, the cost will usually be waived.

Title insurance cost discussed above can also vary depending on whether you provide your original policy and if the lender takes the time to obtain credit on your behalf. The main thing to remember is that there are ways to save money so don't be afraid to ask your loan officer for ideas of how to cut costs on your mortgage.

Think paint when it's time to redecorate

BY POPULAR MECHANICS
FOR AP SPECIAL FEATURES

When it's time for some interior decorating in your home, think paint. Not only is interior painting an easy way to make a room look clean and fresh, it's relatively inexpensive, too. Thanks to the many fine companies that offer historical paint lines, old-house owners won't sacrifice authenticity when making this choice.

Of course, like everything else, paint and the way it's made has changed over the years – for the better. Some paint companies base their historical paint lines on documentary research.

Usually this includes old color cards, product information and books. Some go a step further and actually base a historical paint color on physical research conducted on existing period buildings. Layer after layer of old paint is carefully removed until the original coating is found. Samples are taken of this original coating and through laboratory analysis a reproduction color, based on its pigment, is duplicated in a modern paint.

You must remember, though, that our tastes today aren't necessarily the same as those of our ancestors. With this in mind, some companies have modified period colors to appeal to the modern eye. Unfortunately, many suppliers don't tell you when they've done this. So if you're striving for a museumlike reproduction in your home, you'll have to study the color cards carefully. If not, these slight adaptations shouldn't matter.

Looking at the way paint has changed through the ages, prior to 1700, whitewash was a popular interior paint used in the colonies. An inexpensive and easily available mixture of slaked lime and water, it resembled liquid plaster. (You can still find whitewash paints in some historic lines). Easy to use, whitewash was a way to make things look clean and neat. One problem with whitewash, though, was its impermanence. It didn't last long and washed off easily with water.

Another early paint that goes back to the founding of this country is milk paint. Often preferred for interior work because it didn't have an unpleasant odor – like the also available oil-based paints – milk, as its name implies, was used as the water and binder.

No matter what type of paint you're talking about, if it was made before the onset of the commercial paint industry (around 1860-1870), it was hand-mixed. So you didn't see the uniform consistency that we take for granted today – it had a different texture and was a bit streaky.

'Why don't you' ... try some of these ideas

NAOMI STONE LEVY

A tribute to Diana Vreeland's column in Harper's Bazaar magazine that relates to your interiors says, "Why don't you?"

Why don't you rip up that dated wall-to-wall carpeting and replace it with a significant area rug that will set the note for an entire new lifestyle? From it will emanate new colors and patterns. Be discerning in your selections.

Why don't you remove the also "dated" cabinet doors in your kitchen and breakfast area? Even paint the interior a contrasting color. Putty in the hinge holes, paint and leave the shelves open to exhibit your china, crystal, a vase or two, a bit of sculpture – whatever.

Why don't you tack up a large piece of canvas in your child's room, arm him or her with colored felt pens and let the child do his or her own thing? You never know, Cezanne may be living under your roof.

Why don't you buy a group of color-coordinated, terry, fingertip-size guest towels? They will perk up the powder room, and guests will enjoy using their own towel.

Why don't you have your new residence designed to enjoy one large space that accommodates all the activities of a living/dining area, a library and a den? People like being together in a convivial group. The dining area is used only an hour or so daily. Don't waste the space.

Why don't you find a wonderful quilt that becomes the focal point of a bedroom?

If it is an antique, and perishable, it could even hang on the wall as a tapestry. It also can function as a bedspread. Color coordinate the rest of the bedroom. Paint the walls a resonant color, and the woodwork all white.

My granddaughter used a group of my sample books, cut the varied fabrics into triangles and sewed them into squares. After joining the squares and tie-tacking them onto a backing, she made me the most astonishing quilt. I will forever treasure it.

Why don't you choose a strongly patterned, vividly colored wallpaper and completely line a guest closet, walls and ceiling? Buy brass hangers, and your guests will love it. No need to worry that it is too much, because a closet is used so little you won't tire of it.

Last but not least, why don't you gather all of your family photographs and mount them onto a folding screen? It can separate two areas, or it can stand in a corner and be your most significant possession.

Buy some grosgrain ribbon to outline each panel. Ask a professional wallpaper hanger to do the pasting if you doubt your own ability.

Naomi Stone Levy, a Franklin resident, is an interior designer and a former secretary of the American Society of Interior Designers. You can leave her a message by dialing (313) 953-2047 on a touch-tone phone, then her mailbox number, 1897. Her fax number is (810) 644-1314.

New rose society meets tonight

The Roses-West Rose Society offers an invitation to charter membership 7:30-9:30 p.m. Thursday, Oct. 10, at the Novi Community Center.

The center is at 45175 W. 10 Mile, just west of Novi Road and the I-696 Exit. Call (313) 534-5588 or (313) 532-8875 for more information.

At the meeting, society goals will be discussed, visitors will be enlightened about the American Rose Society and a brief program on "Winter Protection" will be presented by Jim Hill. INVITING IDEAS

Do Choucroute for cool fall evenings

RUTH MOSSOK JOHNSTON

Alsatian farmers are busy harvesting white cabbage through November – deliciously large cabbages to ferment (for making fresh sauerkraut), and to ultimately make their most prized winter dish – Choucroute. This cured-kraut based dish is combined with smoked meats (pork), sausages and local wine.

The Chefs of Alsace, in eastern France, were strongly influenced by German ingredients and food ideas – these influences traveled throughout the country, and now centuries later, it is most common to find Choucroute being served as a "specialty" in the Brasseries of Strasbourg and Paris.

Choucroute recipes vary from city to city, from family to family – all recipes include sauerkraut (either home cured or store bought) and a variety of pork products (pork knuckles, salt pork, spareribs, pork belly, fatty bacon, cured boneless pork shoulder butt, boned pork loin, smoked sausages, and frankfurters). Seasonings and spices are the choice of the Chef – some recipes will include champagne instead of wine, some will include onions, but all proper recipes will have potatoes on top as a garnish.

My dear and longtime friend, Liliane Rattner, just happens to be French (was born and raised in Nancy, in eastern France, the capital of Lorraine) and also happens to be a fabulous cook (I certainly know how to pick my friends!!). As a child, Liliane learned from her mother, how to make Choucroute.

She offers me a piece of advice, "make sure you place small containers of white vinegar around the house as you cook this, the smells are powerful – the vinegar will help absorb the strong odor."

Liliane has carried on the family tradition of making Choucroute, but usually makes it for special occasions, especially on Thanksgiving – one of her traditions. Liliane has modified her mother's original recipe to accommodate the low-fat trends of today – while her ingredients have remained true to her teaching (except for the salt pork), she now boils most of her meats to eliminate the added fat.

For a cool fall evening prepare Choucroute as a special one-dish meal for family and friends. Serve with a hearty bread or baguette, and make sure you have some Dijon or grainy mustard on hand to use as a condiment for those sausages. Liliane suggests that you accompany this dish with a good quality beer or a Panaché (half 7-Up and half beer) - (you can use diet 7-Up and faux beer, if you so choose). Like all good home-cooks, her old family recipe has no specific amounts attached, so Liliane has talked me through her recipe:

LILIANE RATTNER'S CHOUCROUTE

Sauerkraut
Juniper berries
White wine (jug of Chardonnay or a dry white table wine)
A variety of: smoked beef sausages, smoked kielbasa, pork hocks, a piece of ham, hot dogs (beef, pork, and or turkey), and smoked pork chops.
Potatoes (Firm potatoes - you can use red potatoes or any that will not fall apart when cooking) - peeled and quartered.

■ a 2 pound can of sauerkraut will be sufficient for approximately 4

■ use two juniper berries per can of kraut

■ each type of sausage, should be cut to feed four people

■ one pork hock for 2-3 people

■ ham used comes from the refrigerated section of the grocery store – already cooked, usually comes in a plastic package packed with jelly – very lean

■ buy smoked pork chops that are already cooked - can be purchased in upscale markets or specialty meat shops

■ if serving as leftovers – discard any potatoes left – they get too mushy.

In a heavy pot, place the pork hocks in enough water to cover – lid the pot, boil gently for approximately 2 hours. Remove the hocks, rinse and drain. Discard the water – set pork hocks aside. When cool enough to handle, leave half of the hocks used whole, the others, skin and cut meat into pieces.

In another pot, boil sausages and smoked kielbasa (not hot dogs, ham or pork chops) – cover the sausages with water and place over medium boil, when boiling, turn heat down, lid the pot, and cook for approximately 1 hour. Drain and rinse the sausages – discard water and set aside.

Rinse the sauerkraut in a colander and drain. In a large heavy non-reactive pot (7 quart Le Creuset – enamel over cast iron French oven) place drained sauerkraut. Place enough wine in the pot to cover the sauerkraut – put in juniper berries (use 2 berries per can of kraut) place over medium heat, bringing the sauerkraut and wine to a gentle boil - turn heat down to a simmer, add the pre-boiled pork hocks and bury in the sauerkraut – cover and cook for approximately 2 hours.

Add the sausages (bury in the sauerkraut) – make sure there is enough wine to cover – add more wine if necessary – add a few tablespoons at a time. Lid the pot and cook for 1 hour over simmer.

Add the pork chops and ham, place some of the sauerkraut over the meat – just cover lightly do not bury - add the hot dogs on top and lid the pot. Cook over simmer for another hour, mix in hot dogs as cooking.

Turn off Choucroute and leave covered for 1 -2 hours – to let all flavors absorb.

When ready to serve, use a large platter, top Choucroute with drained boiled potatoes – and bring meats to the top.

Additional note: Le Creuset Cookware - beautiful rich-deep colored enamel over cast iron provides a surface that won't absorb flavors or odors, easy to clean, and can be used over any heat source – gas, electric, induction, or ceramic top ranges. The cast iron may be weighty, but the evenly distributed heat is worth it! Warranted for 101 years - these products, are a once in a lifetime purchase.

THE HEIGHT OF GOOD REASON

The height of a countertop should be determined by the tasks performed on the surface and the comfort of the user. Standard kitchen countertop height is 36" above the floor. This dimension accommodates appliances such as dishwashers and ranges, and is a comfortable standing height for most people. Table, desk, and special activity counters (pastry -making) are usually 30" above the floor. Higher and lower heights are appropriate in some instances because of special needs.

AROUND THE HOUSE

Checklist will help hire qualified roofers

The roof is 20 years old and beginning to look like Ruffles. You think you may have heard that terrible "drip, drip, drip" sound last night and you've decided it's time to have that new roof installed. The questions are many. How much? Whom do I trust? How do I know I'm getting a good job?

The questions are important. Many of the homes we inspect have new roofs and many have defective workmanship. One brand-new roof we reviewed was missing some roof flashings, had the wrong type of flashings in areas and had improperly installed valleys, and the shingles didn't even come to the edge of the roof!

In some cases, fly-by-night companies will offer a free roof inspection and then insist the roof needs immediate replacement. Never ever have a roof reshingled under these conditions. Always seek out additional estimates and reviews to be sure you aren't being swindled.

The following checklist should help you along the path of hiring the right contractors.

Guide

1. Use only licensed contractors. The salesperson should have a copy of state licensure with them.

2. Ask who will be doing the work – an employee or a part-time subcontractor.

3. Find out how long the company has been in the roofing business and ask for references from two or three years ago. Check them out.

4. Ask for the company's insurance company to send you current proof of insurance. You want to see both liability and workers compensation insurance. Without it, if a worker falls off the roof, you become liable. It is important that the insurance company send the document directly (don't worry, they do this all the time); otherwise the insurance may have expired for non-payment.

5. Obtain a copy of the roofer's warranty. Make sure it is specific. Insist that the contractor be responsible for workmanship problems should the shingle manufacturer state the job wasn't installed according to its specifications.

6. Ask the company to agree, in writing, to meet National Roofing Contractors Association and the shingle manufacturer's standards of practice. This is fair to both you and the roofer because it establishes a written standard of practice by which the job can be judged. It eliminates subjective notions that you or the contractor may have.

7. Insist that the contractor pull a city permit. A contractor who doesn't pull a permit, or worse, asks for the homeowner to pull a permit is likely not reputable and increases the likelihood that you will be unhappy.

8. Don't pay more than 25 percent down on the job. A roofer who asks for more may not be financially sound and may walk away before a satisfactory job is completed. Obtain a Full Waiver of Lien, once the job is paid for, to avoid a lien being placed on the home.

9. Don't worry about claims about asphalt vs. fiberglass shingles. Despite claims to the contrary, both products can provide satisfactory performance for years to come. Asphalt shingles have the edge for cold weather installations (they break less easily) and may hide surface distortions better, but otherwise a 20-year fiberglass shingle should perform like a 20-year asphalt shingle.

10. Ask that the roofer install ice and weather shield at the roof edges, around through roof projections such as chimneys, and in any valleys or difficult-to-seal areas on the roof. This remarkable product has prevented more roof leaks than any other roofing innovation in decades.

11. Have the roofer calculate the need for new vents. The majority of roofs we inspect are underventilated. Adequate ventilation can help to protect the roof from decay and extend the life of shingles. In Michigan's hot, humid climate, proper ventilation is a must.

12. Develop a checklist like this and present it to the roofer. Tell the roofers that their quote will be compared against others on the same basis.

By following a few rules of practice, you can lessen the likelihood of getting an unsatisfactory roofing job. By using a checklist to compare all companies who bid, you will quickly eliminate some of the fly-by-night companies and provide an advantage to the reputable companies from whom you really want to choose.

LET'S REMODEL

Granite makes an excellent countertop

Q: I am having a new home built and cannot decide on which type of countertops to put in my kitchen. We are looking at solid surface materials such as granite. Any suggestions?

A: There are two types of solid surface materials. Man-made and natural. Although both types of materials are good, you need to be sure of the advantages and disadvantages of each material.

Solid-surfacing synthetic materials are all similar in their characteristics. The man-made materials are softer and therefore scratch easily. Hot pans cannot be set on the surface and household appliances such as a coffee-maker can burn and discolor the counters. Staining is also highly probable. Many homeowners do not like the look of a solid synthetic because of the dull matte finish. Homeowners do like the fact that many sheets can be molded together and create a countertop without seams.

Marble is a natural stone but is not recommended for kitchen countertops but often used in bathrooms. It is porous and can harbor dangerous bacteria. Because it is soft it can easily stain.

Granite is a natural stone (not manmade). The common characteristics of all types of natural stone is the fact that they took thousands of years to create. Granite is very dense and nonporous and would be my recommendation for a choice of countertop. The hardness of this stone is equivalent to 70 percent of diamond. Staining on most granites is almost impossible with an absorption rate as low as .01 percent.

Unaffected by acids or caustic agents and the ability to set hot items directly on the surface are some great reasons to consider granite. Cleaning granite is made easy because of the bright polished surface.

Both granite and solid surface materials come in a range of colors, although their looks are very different. The cost of granite is always a factor, but because of new mining methods and handling procedures, as well as the increase in volume buying, granite has become much more economical. Certain color varieties of granite are more available and may be less expensive than the norm.

When making the selection of your countertop, it is always wise to seek the services of a qualified stone designer. They can help you in choosing the right product based on the location and the use in your home. They can also save thousands of dollars down the road by the choice of product.

Remember that you need to take care in the handling of any of these countertop materials. Find out which type of cleaning product is recommended for your countertop.

COVER STORY

SCOTT EDDY/KMART

Color coordinated: Designer Jodi Anger created this functional but stylish room at Eastern Michigan University. The comforters are in Eastern's colors. The futon has a handy storage drawer. Individual lights allow students to read without bothering a roommate.

Students make a space of their own

BY HUGH GALLAGHER
STAFF WRITER

Jennifer Freece, a fourth year student at the University of Michigan, has had compatible roommates and incompatible roommates. But this year she's going it alone.

The Canton resident, who graduated from Ann Arbor Green Hills, has created her own special place at the University's Bursley Hall that expresses her interests and creativity.

"I have a huge construction paper tree outside the door. I'm involved with a lot of Christian groups on campus and the tree has leaves with different parts of scripture on it," she said.

"When you step inside I have warm rose-colored carpeting. I like to have people in to talk, so I have two bean bags, pillows, TV, VCR, stereo. The major colors are rose and forest green."

Her wall posters, a constant with all college students, show her dual concerns. They are either about her Christian faith or her devotion to music. Freece is a music major. One poster shows an old man playing piano and speaks about the spirit.

"My desk is special," Freece said. "We went to property disposal and bought the desk. My father, who's a mechanical engineer, cut a hole in the desk and put my computer in it so the monitor sticks through and there's a CD and tape deck. It's pretty high tech."

Freece said she had a roommate her freshman year who came from a different background and had different interests. It didn't work out. The next two years she had a roommate that she really got along with. This year her parents suggested that a single would be best for concentrating on her studies.

Every year thousands of college students are faced with the problem of making a comfortable home away from home. They often have limited budgets, limited space in dorm rooms or shared houses and limited privacy. Most also have to learn the fine art of compromise in dealing with roommates and house rules.

Kmart Corp., recognizing the budget problems faced by students, hired a design consultant to decorate a dorm room at Eastern Michigan University.

"When we were interested in working on a dorm room project, we went to Eastern because we already had a relationship with the university through NICE (National Institute for Consumer Education) at Eastern," said Kmart spokeswoman Laura Mahle. "I called the director of housing and since they already have showcase rooms, they thought it would be nice to have a room designed by Kmart."

Kmart hired Jodi Anger, a 24-year-old Eastern graduate, to do the decorating in a standard 12-by-18-foot two-person dorm room.

Anger said the biggest problems were the tight space and the strict dorm codes. She said the codes prohibit removing window treatments and painting the walls. She said that using prints and coverups solve the code problem and creative storage makes better use of space.

Here are some tips from Kmart design consultant Jodie Anger on how to decorate a college dorm room economically:

- Purchase space-saving containers to conveniently store your most prized possessions.
- Invest in a Multi-Use Cart with storage bins. Anger selected one equipped with wheels so that it could easily be moved around the room. She placed a microwave on top of the cart and stored food and supplies in the bins.
- Coordinate a student's work area with a desk organizer lamp that has compartments to hold desk supplies like pencils, pens and post-it notes.
- Consider a futon which serves as a couch by day and bed by night.
- Use the colors in your comforter as a starting point to color coordinate your room.
- A dome-touch lamp with a three-way lighting feature sheds just the right amount of light especially when one student burns the midnight oil while roomies sleep.
- Transition a dorm room decoratively with area rugs.
- Change the curtains supplied by the housing office, but be careful not to break housing codes.
- When it comes to appliances, pool your resources. If you don't continue to live with your roommate(s), buy the other partner(s) possession at the end of the year.

GARDEN SPOT

MARTY FIGLEY

Haven't the geraniums been outstanding this year? We enjoy the bright as well as the pastel colors of the blooms, but they haven't always been the main attraction.

As early as the 1800s geraniums were used as "carpet bed" plants and were prevented from flowering because the foliage was the most important component in these gardens. The fancy leaves had bands of colors in gold, cream, green and red that provided wonderful contrast to other foliage in the design. One of these old plants still survives, a hybrid, "Madame Salleroi," which never has bloomed!

These geraniums belong to the genus Pelargonium and, although they are still called geraniums today, should be called by their botanical name. When the plants were taken from South Africa to Britain, they were called geraniums because they resembled the hardy, herbaceous species of the genus Geranium, used extensively in Europe then.

The pretty ivy-leafed one, P. peltatum, reached England in 1701, while P. zonal (the plants with horseshoe markings on the leaves) arrived in 1710. It is the principal parent of the bedding geraniums – oops! pelargoniums.

It's about time to bring our pelargoniums indoors and I am excited about the successful way Ivan Zador of West Bloomfield has overwintered his plants for four years.

Ivan and his wife, Veronica, grow many beautiful, healthy pelargoniums with different bloom colors on and around their sunny raised deck during the summer. They are all grown in pots or window boxes attached to the deck railing and began their life in four-inch pots. Sometimes Ivan rescues "orphaned" plants and brings them back to luxuriant growth.

Ivan is in no hurry at this time to take the plants indoors. He traditionally waits until after Halloween, unless the temperature drops to 20 degrees, then it's "emergency time." Veronica, their children and friends help carry the pots into the basement and/or to his office.

Other than that time, Ivan said, "It's a slow process."

Before the move, he cuts back the dead branches and fading blooms but leaves the buds. The pelargoniums growing in the window boxes are transferred to others already in place in the basement. The basement is unfinished, with a cement floor and no additional heating, but it does have a large doorwall that lets in a lot of light, as do the windows in the basement and in Ivan's office where the overflow is stashed. No artificial lighting is used. The pots are turned regularly so that the growth is even.

Ivan keeps a strict routine that never changes as he cares for the flowers throughout the year. The first Sunday of each month the plants are fertilized with Miracle-Gro, mixed according to the package directions, and watered when needed. The plants, he said, "absolutely don't know what they're getting," and apparently aren't aware of the changing seasons.

The Zadors caution readers that the plants do go into a temporary decline and he believes it is caused by the photosynthetic change of less light; they look their worst about Christmas time.

"But don't worry, about January/February they say 'Hey, spring is coming' and they start blooming."

The photographs I saw were amazing; a riot of colorful blooms filled the plants.

They have also noticed the bloom colors are deeper with a different color cast and even the foliage is darker, with no zonal markings when they are growing indoors. When the plants are returned outside around May 15 – "not before" – the colors are more natural and the zonal markings are again evident.

Ivan uses potting soil from Kmart and has found it quite sufficient. All of the containers have drainage holes, which is very important.

"I do this by intuition. I am from Czechoslovakia and everybody does it there. I remember everybody brings their plants in. I'm choosing to keep and nurture rather than destroy or replace continually."

"The idea is, with just a little involvement and concern things can stay beautiful and alive," Veronica said. "It's pleasant for the children to see their father have a deep respect for these beautiful flowers."

and other objects from home.

"You have a lot of great storage units available," Anger said. "We put them under the bed and around the room. We had a futon with a big drawer under it and used space saver units in the closet, under the bed and under the microwave."

Mahle said Rubbermaid's Keeper boxes are great stackable storage units.

Mahle said lighting was used to create private sectors. Three-way lights can be dimmed for use by late night scholars while letting tired roommates sleep.

Anger said the most important thing about living with a roommate is communication.

"Some have hand-me-downs, objects that have been passed down from someone else. It's important to call before you move in, maybe going shopping together or waiting until you move in," Anger said.

She emphasized that this is especially important with electronic equipment to avoid expense and duplication.

Mahle said the project was to show a typical room with suggestions for things a student would need to live and study comfortably. She said they tried to keep items at a reasonable price and were aware that in a real life situation students would be bringing many used items from home.

"We assume that people will bring their own things from home," she said.

'The first day that you move in, get to know people. Make the room the way you want to make it. I'm creative, I like a lot of posters, a big fish tank. I'm a colorful person. Some people think it looks gaudy, but I like color. It has to look like life, like it's lived in. But the best part of college is to take part in campus activities'

Lynette Buffa
Oakland University

"Only a few things are what students will need but we wanted to show the whole picture. Mixing and mingling what you have from home."

Comforters and rugs were used to bring the room together in a bright but coordinated color scheme. Anger chose a strong berber rug to add warmth to the linoleum covered floors. (See a list of other ideas on this page.)

Not all Eastern students are in tiny two-person rooms; Catherine Ghrist, a junior from Westland and graduate of John Glenn High School, shares a suite with two bedrooms and a living room with three other coeds at Goddard Hall.

"The room is very big. We have a huge living room, two bedrooms," Ghrist said.

She said she and her roommate have had no problems agreeing on decorations.

"We have lots of posters. Salvador Dali on the door," Ghrist said. "My roommate is into exotic animals. I have a poster of a frog. We have tigers and cheetahs. She's going to be a veternarian. We both have pictures of our friends."

Ghrist said storage is a problem, but a big bookshelf helps. The roommates have the requisite electronics – microwave, "big TV," VCR, Sega-Saturn, stereo-radio, three refrigerators and numerous alarm clocks.

This is Ghrist's first year at Eastern and she said the biggest adjustment has been personal.

"I didn't go here last year and it was hard to get to know people," she said. "My first week I kind of hated it, I'm much more comfortable now."

At Oakland University, roommates Lynette Buffa of Canton and Emily Maderal of Bloomfield have found that getting to know each other is a good start in compatible room sharing.

"We met last year and became good friends, I was spending a lot of time in her room and she in mine," said Buffa, a sophomore graduate of Plymouth Canton High School. "We got to know each other real well. We don't have conflicts. We do our own thing and do things together."

The roommates have separate large closet areas with Rubbermaid carriers, two refrigerators and the requisite microwave, TV and stereo.

"We don't have a great deal of space, but we don't feel crammed," Buffa said.

"I have a bulletin board. We will be putting up posters. We have some surrealist posters up and a movie poster, but we'll be adding more after we put our couch in."

The couch is a loveseat from Buffa's parents that proved a hit last year and is coming back for more service. Last year it sat atop a loft, but Buffa has grown leery of lofts as last year's proved unsturdy."

Buffa said she loves college life and the secret to making a dorm room "homey" is to fill it with people and color.

"The first day that you move in, get to know people," Buffa advised. "Make the room the way you want to make it. I'm creative, I like a lot of posters, a big fish tank. I'm a colorful person. Some people think it looks gaudy, but I like color. It has to look like life, like it's lived in. But the best part of college is to take part in campus activities."

APPLIANCE DOCTOR

Service contracts need careful checking

JOE GAGNON

The other day listening to a news broadcast I heard a story on the subject of a consumers problem with service on her television set. She had purchased the set from Fretter Appliance and also signed up for the additional five year service contract. Now the set needed service and she couldn't get through to Fretters and she doesn't know what to do.

The news reporter tried as well without success, and finally upon a personal visit was told by an employee that she didn't have a clue as to what the consumer should do. In other words, tough luck.

When Highland Appliance went out of business, and now Fretter, the situation may present a serious problem for the innocent customer who purchased an extended service contract. The money that you have paid up front for this contract has been set aside, and we would hope that the failing business has made provisions for the care of your product. If that's not the case, we would then think it appropriate that the monies would be returned to us. The past few years have shown us just the opposite is happening, so I recommend that whenever you purchase the additional service contract on a product, you make inquiries on what happens to your contract if the business should go out of business.

A radio listener called and asked what was going on inside his microwave because the food was only cooking on the left side of the oven cavity. Let me give you a picture of why this can happen and what the problem could be. Imagine an upstairs hallway with an overhead fan pushing air down the stairway. Without that fan the air can not travel downstairs and the same analogy applies to your microwave.

The microwave is sent down a passageway into the ceiling of the oven cavity and from there it has to be directed into the space where the food is placed. This is accomplished with the use of a stirrer blade which is under the ceiling cover which you should clean once in a while. That blade is set at certain angles to disperse the waves into the oven as evenly as possible.

Some of these blades are driven by air from a blower motor and others are driven by a little motor. If the motor should fail or the nut which holds the blade falls off, then you will cook in only one area. This is not such a serious problem which can't be repaired at a reasonable cost by a qualified technician. I would suggest that you check out the reputation of a service company before you take your microwave into them for repairs.

The other day a senior citizen reported that a manufacturer replaced the motor assembly on her washing machine even though another independent service company wouldn't repair it. I felt good for her until later when I discovered that her washer was 26 years old and she spent in excess of $200 to have the motor replaced. Just how much longer does she think that washer will work before a rust hole appears inside the inner drum? Does spending that amount of money on that old of a machine really justify itself? With the brand of machine this woman owns, I can assure you that it was not a wise investment on her part. Stop and think a few minutes before you commit to wasting your dollars.

If you have a question or complaint about the appliance sales and service industry, why don't you drop me a line and send it to the address of your local Observer & Eccentric newspaper. I'd love to help you.

Joe Gagnon, the Appliance Doctor, will answer your questions about maintaining and repairing large appliances. Gagnon is president of Carmack Appliances in Garden City and does a weekly radio program on WJR-AM.

Tips for a more secure home.

✔ Don't leave lights on when you're away on a trip—burglar will watch for homes that have lights burning at odd hours or on successive nights, clues that you are trying to outfox him.

✔ A nosy neighbor is a good neighbor, so let them know whether you're expecting anyone while you're out.

✔ If you go out for a short period of time, leave a radio on. Tune it to a talk show or all-news station if there is one in your area. The burglar will have a hard time deciding if the voices are coming from the radio.

✔ Never hide a key under the doormat, above the door, in the flower pots or window boxes, or in low shrubbery around the front door or porch.

✔ Cut breaks in your shrubbery. Prune the shrubbery well so a burglar will find it difficult to hind behind it.

Gorget acted as battle protection

BY NANCY AND FRANK BOOS
SPECIAL WRITERS

Dear Nancy and Frank:
I bought this at an antique show. It is about five inches high, three inches wide and 1/8-inch thick. Please tell me something about it.
Daniel,
Birmingham

Dear Daniel:

What you have there is probably an American Indian gorget (pronounced "gor jit").

A gorget is a piece of armor or some other protective device or crescent-shaped ornament worn around the throat. It originated with medieval armor and at that time consisted of a neck defense made in two halves that wrapped around the entire neck just under the helmet and just above the torso armor. Often the two halves were again made of several parts to allow flexibility and movement of the neck. The halves were fastened with pins or studs to hold them in place.

Obviously, the purpose of the gorget was to protect one of man's most likely areas to receive a death blow in battle, his throat. As a point of interest, these suits of armor were heaviest in the parts covering the most vulnerable areas and would weigh between 25 and 100 pounds, requiring the knight to have a valet's help to put it on and take it off.

The American Indian also had some protective battle devices, such as shields, helmets of wood (painted with designs meant to frighten the enemy), bows and arrows, knives, clubs and the well-known tomahawk. Around the 1880s, they began to acquire rifles. Some tribes also had wooden slats tied together and wrapped around their bodies and held up with shoulder straps. Some used carved wooden collars (gorgets) that they wound around their necks.

As the Europeans began trading with the American Indians in the 17th century, they began influencing the Indians in their dress styles. By the 19th century, many Indian garments were copied directly from European dress.

However, there was one major exception, that being that the Indian refused to copy Western European style men's trousers. Leggings were de rigeur leg wear for the American Indian male, which makes sense. It would be difficult to wear form-fitting trousers to ride bareback, sit cross-legged on tepee floors, run in the woods, fish in the streams, etc..

We believe the gorgets worn by American Indians at this time were mostly of silver, mostly decorative and received in trade with the Germans. Your piece, however, could be a pre-European gorget, probably of slate. It is possibly pre-Columbian (before the time of Columbus) or prehistoric (for our purposes meaning before the time of written history in the United States). It has absolutely no European influence that we can see.

You'll notice the use of words like "could be," "probably," "possibly." This is because this is all conjecture, as there is no written or visual record of this time in our history. In talking with Joe Rivera, director of the highly respected and renowned American Indian gallery, Morningstar Gallery in Santa Fe, N.M., he absolutely agreed that conjecture was the best we could do.

It is also conjecture as to the purpose of this gorget. It seems to us that when suspended from the neck, it would be too small to provide much protection in battle. We therefore believe that it was ornamental and strictly a personal enhancement. We think it's possible that the engraving represents someone's status or a historical happening in the wearer's life, but the engraving looks somewhat contemporary compared to the piece and may have been a later addition.

We know one thing: You don't see gorgets of this type every day. If it's real and in good condition, we think a good auction value would be around $300 to $400 and possibly somewhere double that at retail.

Nancy and Frank Boos are with the Frank H. Boos Gallery, an appraisal firm and auction house at 420 Enterprise Court in Bloomfield Hills that has been in the auction business for more than 30 years. Do you have an item you would like to know about? Send in a good photo of it, along with its description (including size, working parts, etc.) and any known provenance (history) to Treasure Search, The Eccentric Newspapers, 805 E. Retailers, designers invited to seminar

Hunter Douglas Window Fashions will sponsor a full-day educational seminar in conjunction with Kaleidoscope Industries Inc. Thursday, Oct. 17, at the Northfield Hilton in Troy.

"WorkSmart," the all-new "Quest for Excellence" seminar, will emphasize greater interaction and learning through demonstration by experts. Interior designers and window covering retailers will gain insight on such topics as improving business by fine-turning marketing strategies, gaining insight onto products and specialty applications, and using proven sales techniques in the face of competition.

Taking place 8:30 a.m. to 4 p.m. at the Northfield Hilton, 5500 Crooks, the seminar is $49 per person prepaid for the full-day session, including lunch and continental breakfast; $59 at the door. Participants may attend a reception at Michigan Design Center immediately after Quest.

For more information or to register, call Kaleidoscope Industries at (800) 288-1986.

Departing from the lecture presentation format, the new sessions will recreate the look of an in-home and in-store setting. Realistic sets will enable retailers to visualize real-life working situations they encounter with consumers every day.

"Our aim with this new format is to motivate dealers a the seminars to become more involved in the sessions, learning through demonstration," said Ron Spies, director of the Corporate Seminar Group.

Some of the real-life situations to be covered in the new WorkSmart programs will be how to find new customers, how to use merchandising materials, how to make the most of initial customer contact, how to develop relationships with customers, how to discover their real needs, and how to close a sale, Spies said.

The new sessions will continue to emphasize updated product information and a greater understanding of how to achieve maximum profitability, Spies said.

The guest professional speakers are Melanie Mills, an internationally recognized business trainer who will provide insight into successful customer interaction, and Jo Ann Brezette, a window fashions industry trainer and consultant whose discussion will focus on successful in-home and in-store selling strategies.

"We encourage retailers and interior designers to attend, even those who participated last year, as the new format is a great source of information," said Don York of Kaleidoscope Industries.

FOCUS ON PHOTOGRAPHY

Examine photos to expand your skills

MONTE NAGLER

So you've developed an interest in photography and just spent a few hundred dollars on a new camera with all the latest features. You've even bought a good "how to" book, maybe even taken a class, and you're getting an understanding of the fundamental mechanics of photography.

If so, you're off to a good start, and you should feel positive about your photographic growth thus far. But there is another important area of stimulation that unfortunately too few photographers pursue.

I refer to this as the area of "looking at pictures."

You can gain a tremendous amount of knowledge by looking closely at photographs. Museum and gallery personnel are eager to help you and answer your questions.

Study photographs carefully. Look for things such as composition, how the photographer uses light and how he or she performs in the darkroom. Look "into" the picture – see what the photographer is feeling and what he or she is trying to say.

Did you know you can learn a lot about a photographer by closely studying his or her work? Look at the magnificent landscapes and vibrant print quality of an Ansel Adams photograph or the simple subtleties of an Imogen Cunningham still life. You'll learn a great deal. Also, your appreciation of photography will be enhanced and your own photographic growth stimulated.

Begin collecting books. Not just "how to" books, but photography picture books. Study the works of the masters. Learn technique and style. Photography books are an inexpensive way to have and enjoy many photographs.

Consider investing in photographic prints. There are many outstanding, young photographers whose work can be bought at very reasonable prices. Even the works of many well-known photographers can be obtained at prices less than you might think. Photography can be a handsome investment. But first and foremost, any purchase should be based primarily on your enjoyment and love of the print.

Always fall season: Monte Nagler is always emphasizing the importance of looking at photographs. This one of Middle Falls in Oregon hangs proudly with many others in his home.

She has been a Detroit News columnist and a correspondent for the CBS affiliate in Detroit, and is a regular guest on "Good Morning America."

Her photographs are included in a recent book and have been in many national publications including Time, Newsweek and People. Solomon is enthusiastic about participating in Holiday Tables and promises an unusually decorated table.

In George Booth's newly renovated office is a whimsical display of pieces from the Cranbrook Collection, prepared by David Rau and Karen Serota, curators of the Cranbrook Art Museum. Jacobson's store in Birmingham is transforming the Sunset Room into a festive celebration, and Ginka Gerova-Ortega, noted flutist with her own chamber music concert series, is decorating a table.

Other exhibitors are Jeannette Keremedjian, noted area philanthropist – who shows her European mongal brass flower container in front of a fabulous, full-length Cranbrook House tapestry – and Wendell and Lynda Scales – who present an African Christmas table.

The list of exhibitors continues with the Bloomfield Hills Garden Club, Cranbrook Academy of Art, Edith Briskin, Pat Butzin, Maureen D'Avanzo, Jane Femmel, Zofia Kafarski, Joyce Koreman, Robert Kowalczyk, Jackie Krupp, Mary Beth MacGuidwin, Annie Margulis and Chris Negro.

BY DOUG FUNKE
STAFF WRITER

A dog may be man's best friend, but the family pet can become a complicating factor when it's time to sell.

"I've worked with buyers who wouldn't go into houses when they heard a dog barking," said Tom Tedesco, a Realtor with RE/MAX Executive in Troy.

Jane Solomon, a Realtor with Chamberlain in Birmingham, was once bitten by a dog while doing an inspection.

"I was told the dog was friendly," she said. "When I went to take him, he lunged and bit me. I was furious. I'm more wary now."

Then there are experiences with more exotic pets.

Sherry Hetkowski, an associate broker with Remerica Country Place Realtors in Canton, found the perfect house for a client except for two things – a family of boa constrictors and a tarantula in separate aquariums on the premises.

"It was unbelievable," Hetkowski said.

"I had a house once where a bird said, 'Bird shit,'" said Sheila Clark, a Realtor with Century 21 Today in Livonia. "I guess the bird picked it up from the owners. The prospects laughed. They weren't that offended. Problems are with animals that are loose."

Most folks are comfortable with their own pets and their pets with them. Owners are used to the smells, noises and the wear-and-tear generated by their animals.

"Pets tend to have odors," Solomon said. "We tend to live with them and not notice."

"Cat odor is a big turn-off," Tedesco said. "A lot of people have allergies. I recommend they (sellers) call a professional company to try and eradicate that odor, if possible, and put potpourri through the house."

"I had a condo listing that had a good-size dog," said Carol Copping, a Realtor with Real Estate One in Northville.

"The sellers replaced carpeting that had smells and dog hairs and, during the time it was on the market, took the dog to a brother's house in the country. That was just great."

But Copping and her colleagues acknowledge that not everyone is willing or able to do that.

"Dogs to most people are like children," Solomon said. "It's hard to talk with people about pets."

Containment is the key.

"People need to make arrangements for a showing," Hetkowski said. "Either they put the dog in a cage in a utility room or get a neighbor to come to take the animal to their house."

And out of sight isn't always out of mind.

"I had a client once who had a dog in a cage, but it wouldn't stop barking," Copping said. "I suggested they take the dog for a walk when I have a showing.

"Then some people will take the dog for a ride – which is a nice thing to do – but leave a huge food bowl half-filled in an obvious place," she added.

Scratch marks around doors and windows also are telltale signs of pet on premises, Copping said.

Clark, who owns a Dalmatian, parrot and salt-water fish, recommends that sellers with pets hire a Realtor who either lives or has an office nearby.

"I have shoveled and cleaned dog poop before showings," Clark said. "I keep an air freshener in the trunk of my car. If I took a listing in Canton, Redford and Plymouth and all had dogs, I'd be in trouble."

Birds can present special problems.

"Most larger birds are likely to bite a stranger," Clark said. "You have to put a note on the cage, 'Please don't put fingers near the bird.' You shouldn't spray an aerosol around a bird. It could kill it."

Clark has techniques she uses to make friends with dogs.

"One thing I do is give people (sellers) a T-shirt or sock I've worn," she said. "I also rub a rawhide bone on my sock to get a scent on the bone.

"I always keep bones in my car that have my scent. When an animal sees me, it always seems to know me."

It also pays to be on friendly terms with neighbors and their pets.

"If neighbors have a yapping dog, hopefully you can get their cooperation and have the dog inside during a showing," Copping said.

"Give the neighbor's dog a bone so it knows you," Clark said. "If you give him a chewy, the dog will hide, go eat and won't bother you."

There are services that will clean up after pets in yards which may come in handy for a listing, a neighbor or both. Sometimes, it's worthwhile to spend the money.

"I've even had to take a dog to a groomer myself because it was so dirty," Clark said.

Empathy is the watchword.

"Think about it in the eyes of the buyer," Solomon advised. "You want them to be as comfortable as in their own home. Do you want someone coming in and playing with the dog or looking at the house?"

Condo owners pay more than their fair share

REAL ESTATE QUERIES

ROBERT M. MEISNER

Q. Our city is proposing a tax increase to fix the roads. We live in a condominium and maintain our own streets. I do not think it is fair to be taxed by the city and not benefit as do all the other taxpayers.

In fact, do you agree or disagree that many condominium owners pay more taxes proportionately than individual homeowners on city services received?

A. This is one of the major disparities among condominium owners that needs reevaluation by the municipalities. Unfortunately, the municipalities may not readily accept a determination of this disparity in treatment and, ultimately, only litigation may remedy this inherent inequality.

I have been approached on occasion by several associations desiring to commence legal proceedings to seek to remedy this wrong. However, the costs may be prohibitive for one association to defray, and it would appear that a concerted effort among many condominium association will be necessary in order to take on the Municipal League as well as any individual municipality.

Political pressure should continue, however, in behalf of condominium associations to address what would appear to be total inequality in regard to the costs of services being provided.

Q. I am a real estate broker who is distraught at the actions of some of my compatriots in this clearly seller's market. Some listing and/or selling brokers are lying to other brokers and their customers regarding simple matters of communication to provide information and to communicate offers in an effort to make sure that they get the very best offer in a competitive situation.

What can be done to ensure that a buyer's agent and customer are protected against unscrupulous selling and listing brokers who may lie and be deceitful in order to maximize the benefits inuring to them and their client.

A. Unfortunately, I have not only heard about this problem in today's environment from clients, but have personally experienced it on several occasions. Obviously, the listing broker has a fiduciary responsibility owed to the seller to maximize the return to the seller on the property in question.

However, the listing broker has a fiduciary and legal responsibility owed to other brokers and to the public in connection with their conduct, including honesty and integrity.

If a selling or listing broker promises to be available to negotiate a transaction or to accept an offer and does not do so, or intentionally becomes evasive so as the broker is unable to reach the listing broker with an offer, that, in my judgment, is actionable conduct that can be pursued both legally and administratively through the various state agencies, local boards and/or the courts.

Brokers are going to incur the wrath of the public in increasing numbers and litigation unless they stop and recognize that even in a hot seller's market, they owe fiduciary responsibilities to their fellow brokers and customers.

Your redecorating could cost you nothing, claims author Tony Human, if you're careful when you clean house.

"Nearly everyone owns a few old things that can be sold to help cover the cost of the new " he says.

Five of the 10 most valuable baseball cards date from the 1950s, as do revolving novelty lamps worth hundreds of dollars. Transistor radios from the 1960s have reached the $300 mark. So have calculators, comic books, dolls, model kits and rock 'n' roll posters, some of which have soared to $10,000

Items don't have to be old, rare or expensive to be valuable today. PEZ dispensers have brought $1,500, and some McDonald's Happy Meals boxes are worth hundreds of dollars. A plastic ring given away by "Quisp" cereal will put $1,000 in your pocket.

The key to getting these outlandish prices is finding the people willing to pay them. There is only one good buyer of cigar boxes in the whole country, and finding top buyers of things like cap guns can be equally difficult.

Stan Block in Connecticut says there are hundreds of 20th Century children's marbles that he will pay $1,000 or more for. If you want to know if you have one he's looking for, how do you find Block to ask him?

That's where Hyman enters the picture. Twice weekly, his syndicated radio show (heard on more than 150 stations) tells what to do and where to go to sell everything from airplane parts to cookie jars to meteorites. In 17 years, Hyman's put tens of millions of dollars in people's pockets . Now that inside information has been updated and put into print.

Whether you need to know about one item or a thousand, his book provides names, addresses and phone/fax numbers of reliable people ready to pay cash for more than a million different items you might own.

The book includes 600 pages of what collectors want to buy, who wants to buy them, where to go for free appraisals, and numerous tips on how to get top dollar for china, records and everything else you want to sell.

Hyman says you need his book because you can't sell most things locally for more than a fraction of their real value. He says it's easier, faster and far more profitable to dispose of your stuff over the phone or through the mail.

Two summers ago, a home in Nova Scotia was sold for $55,000. In that attic was a pile of comic books that the new homeowner sold for $79,000 – enough to pay for the house and then some.

Toys from the 1960s aren't the only valuables you might own. A California family recently sold an oboe at a yard sale. They charged $2 because they "wanted to get rid of it."

The woman who bought the oboe contacted instrument specialist Mickie Zekley, who gave her $7,000. How did she find out about Zekley? Zekley, like Block, is one of 1,500 expert reliable buyers recommended in Trash or Treasure II.

The book is sold only by mail. Send $29.95 plus $5 shipping and handling to Trash or Treasure, Box 3028-CF, Pismo Beach, CA 93448. Include the banner name from this newspaper, and you will get a free pad of form letters to use when writing to buyers. Prompt orders also will receive at no charge the 1997-98 edition of The World's Most Accurate Antiques and Collectibles Price Guide, an $8 value. MasterCard and Visa are accepted at 1-800-549-7500 (you won't hear it ring.) A 30-day money-back guarantee is given.

Don't underestimate the value of some rather ordinary-looking things, Hyman warns. A toy 1960 Volkswagen recently sold for $2,000. A G.I. Joe nurse doll is worth that much, as is one of the Washington Redskins bobbing head nodders. And, if you can find Dee Battle, she pays up to $1,000 for a single piece of plastic jewelry.

House sales down in August but still high

WASHINGTON (AP) – Sales of previously owned homes fell 0.5 percent in August but remained above the 4 million rate for a sixth straight month. Sales rose in the Midwest and West but slipped in the Northeast and South.

The National Association of Realtors said today that sales of existing single-family homes totaled 4.13 million on a seasonally adjusted annual rate, down from 4.15 million in July.

Many analysts had expected a 1-percent decline, due in part to high mortgage rates.

The Realtors also reported July sales were less strong than initially thought. They reported earlier that sales were at a 4.16 million rate.

Still, sales have remained above the 4 million mark since the rate reached 4.2 million in March. Sales for all of 1995 totaled 3.8 million.

"The nation's housing market has seen unprecedented movement this year, and it's only natural that the market will correct itself," said John A. Tuccillo, an economist for the Realtors' association. "The nation's housing market is easing in for a soft landing."

Although analysts say high mortgage rates have slowed sales, rates have been tapering off for several months.

Thirty-year, fixed-rate mortgages averaged 7.95 percent in August, down from 8.25 percent in July and 8.32 percent in June.

The median price of an existing home was $122,300, up from $121,500 in July and $117,600 a year earlier. The median is the midpoint, meaning half the homes cost more and half cost less.

Regionally, sales jumped 5.6 percent in the West, to a 950,000 rate, at a median price of $154,600. They rose 0.9 percent, to 1.07 million, in the Midwest, where the median price was $104,900.

But sales plunged 9.5 percent in the Northeast, to a 570,000 rate, and 1.9 percent in the South, to 1.53 million. The median price in the Northeast was $144,500, in the South $105,700.

Cleaning up? More power to you

(NAPS) – Are you waging a never-ending war against dirt? These tips can help you rout it out and eliminate dirt wherever it may be hiding.

• Clean as you go. Don't let things pile up. Clear the dish rack before you go to bed, sweep up spills before they track through the house, and encourage family members to pick up after themselves.

• One good tip when cleaning up is to carry all your tools with you wherever you go, so you can deal with dirt and pet hair on the spot, without having to make extra trips.

Cleaning tools, such as polish, dusters, sponges and cleaning solutions can be carried in a bucket or in a special apron, or as in the case of vacuum cleaners, become portable by using a powerful hand-held vacuum with a variety of efficient, optional attachments, such as the new Dirt Devil Ultra Hand Vac by Royal Appliance Mfg. Co.

• Arm yourself with the best tools available. Units, such as the Dirt Devil Hand Vac, offer a variety of features useful in cleaning the nooks and crannies of furniture and car upholstery, as well as complete flights of stairs.

A 4.0 amp motor gives the unit twice the power of their original hand vacs, and a two-speed switch and long 20-foot cord provide more cleaning freedom.

Cleaning power is accelerated by the double row revolving brush, while the built-in stretch hose and crevice tool equip the vac for a multitude of cleaning jobs.

The unit's disposable paper bag makes it easy to clean. Each unit is equipped with an attached storage strap to wrap up the cord when not in use.

An optional attachment kit including two extension wands, a dusting brush, upholstery tool and wall bracket provide many extended uses for the unit.
