Tyburnski told police wife overdosed

By Diane Gale
staff writer

Leonard Tyburnski, charged with murdering his wife by bludgeoning her head against a basement beam and storing her body in the family's freezer for three years, called police six days before her death to report his wife had overdosed on pills.

When a Canton fire rescue unit arrived at the home on Avon Street in Canton on Sept. 22, 1985, Tyburnski said his wife had left, a Canton police report said. Dorothy Tyburnski was found in a nearby parking lot and taken to Oakwood Canton Health Center.

The information was revealed during a hearing in 35th District Court last week at which Judge James Garber ruled Tyburnski would stand trial on one count of second-degree murder. Tyburnski will be charged with second-degree murder because testimony didn't indicate premeditation, a condition of first-degree murder.

FIRST-DEGREE murder carries mandatory sentence of life in prison without parole. Second-degree murder carries up to life in prison with the possibility of parole.

Tyburnski, who was suspended from his job as dean of students at Detroit's Mackenzie High School, failed to post $250,000 or 10 percent bond and was transferred to the Wayne County Jail.

Under state law, bond isn't allowed in murder cases, however, Garber set bond for Tyburnski because there's a possibility that he could be found guilty of the lesser charge of manslaughter. Bond can be set when a person is charged with manslaughter.

Tyburnski, 45, told police he went into a rage Sept. 28, 1985 when Doro-

Mixed feelings about Tyburnski posting bail

By Diane Gale
staff writer

Leonard Tyburnski's neighbors on Avon Street have mixed feelings about the possibility he will be released if he posts $25,000.

"I'm glad that he'll be out on bond," said a neighbor, whose family has kept in touch with Tyburnski since he was jailed in January after confessing he murdered his wife. Tyburnski had not made his bond and was still in jail on Friday.

"He's a real nice guy and I have nothing against the guy," according to the neighbor, who asked to remain anonymous.

"I know that he had admitted it, but it's hard to believe that he had done something like that," she said.

"There's no doubt there's some people who would rather he didn't come back, but as far as I'm concerned it doesn't bother us. I'm assuming he's going to move back in. It's his house."

TYBURNSKI WAS friendly with her husband and sons, she said. They often visited each others' homes.

Tyburnski's bond was set last week at $250,000 or 10 percent of that amount by 35th District Court Judge James Garber. He is charged with second degree murder.

"I'm a little surprised he'd be getting out, but like I told the news media before, he had a good relationship and good rapport with the people in the neighborhood," said Judith Chabala, an Avon Street resident.

"It wouldn't concern me too much," she said.

"What happened was between him and his wife." Another neighbor, who also asked to remain anonymous, was less forgiving.

"I don't think he should be out on bond . . .

"Well, because he committed murder. If he done it once he might try it again."

A WOMAN, who said Tyburnski played basketball with her sons in her backyard, said she didn't believe Tyburnski was harmful to people in the neighborhood.

"He's not that kind of person," she said. "The whole thing is such a frightening thing I really don't know what to say," she said, also requesting anonymity.

"I knew them pretty good. My kids played with their kids."

Another Avon Street resident said the murder was a trauma to the neighborhood.

"This has been a most unsettling thing," she said. "This is not the kind of neighborhood this kind of thing happens. We have to trust that the system will work effectively."

Redford man confesses to shooting girl

By Marie Chestney
staff writer

A 19-year-old Redford Township man has confessed to the Feb. 18 shooting of a Livonia Churchill High student.

In his confession, one of three read by police Thursday in 16th District Court, Clint Allen Smith of Winston Street, Redford, said he shot Shannon James, 16, in the head after drinking five beers and smoking marijuana.

The confessions of two other teenagers, Lawrence Dennis Kapp, 17, of West Bloomfield Township and a cousin to Smith, and Christopher Robert Burow, 16, of Plymouth Township, also said Smith fired the gun.

In the signed confessions, read in court Thursday, Kapp and Burow also implicated themselves in the shooting.

BUROW, A former student at Plymouth Canton High, said he drove the car to the James' house on Grennada Street, Livonia.

Kapp, a senior at Canton High, said he lit some firecrackers after the shooting to hide the sound of gunfire.

After their pretrial examination Thursday, Judge Robert Brzezinski ordered all three to stand trial in Detroit Recorder's Court on charges of assault with intent to commit murder. All three also have been charged with possession of a firearm in the commission of a felony. The maximum sentence on the attempted murder charge is life imprisonment.

The three face a March 16 arraignment in Recorder's Court. None has yet posted a $500,000 cash or surety bond set by Judge Brzezinski. Smith and Kapp are in the Wayne County Jail. Burow, who is being tried as an adult under a new state law, is in the Wayne County Juvenile Home.

In their confessions, made to police after their arrests, the three said they decided to shoot James because

Harvey starts as finance director

Rosemary Harvey, 36, of Canton starts work today as finance director for Plymouth Township.

Harvey will coordinate the annual external audit, direct internal audit procedures, make financial projections, monitor the budgetary process and prepare cash flow analysis.

Harvey said she is anxious to get back into the work force now that her twin sons, David and John, are in school full time.

"This was really a good opportunity in the local area," she said.

HARVEY EARNED a master's degree in business administration from Northeastern University in Boston in 1978 and a bachelor of science degree in biology from Merrimack (Mass.) College in 1974.

Teens awaiting hearing arrested in 2nd incident

Two Plymouth teens, who are awaiting a juvenile court hearing for allegedly shooting three youths in separate incidents with a BB gun in January, were arrested last week after a purse-snatching in Livonia, police said.

The two, each 16, were turned over to their parents pending the filing of unarmed robbery charges in juvenile court, said Livonia police Lt. Michael Murray. He declined to provide the teens' names due to their ages.

"These, indeed, were the subjects involved in the BB shootings," Murray said.

—One of the two admitted to the shootings, said Plymouth Township officer Erik Mayernik. None of the victims of the random shootings was injured.

At that time, one was a student at Plymouth Canton High School, the other wasn't attending school, Mayernik said.

MURRAY SAID he didn't know when hearings would be set on unarmed robbery charges in juvenile court.

The purse-snatching incident occurred at about 4:25 p.m. Wednesday in the parking lot of a department store at Six Mile and Newburgh, Murray said.

He said the pair was in a car with two 17-year-old women and allegedly drove up to a woman. One youth allegedly grabbed the woman's purse after asking for directions, Murray said.

The driver, one of the women, accelerated the car when the victim resisted, he added.

They eventually succeeded in getting the purse but were arrested shortly thereafter near Five Mile and Levan, Murray said. The purse was recovered.

The victim wasn't seriously injured.

lice his wife said in the argument before he beat her. He also said she threw a knife at him. "I love my wife very much," Tyburski wrote in a confession the night he was arrested. "We had arguments before, but never like this. I was always in control."

She confessed to adultery in the moments before her death. For a brief moment in time the man totally lost control. She taunts him, emasculates him and asks him to leave his own home."

TYBURSKI'S DAUGHTER, Kelly, 20, wept as she testified.

Her father looked expressionless as she identified him and detailed how she found her mother frozen in the family's basement freezer. She said she went to the basement to do laundry and had halfway pried open the freezer when she spotted her mother's body. Kelly said she hadn't checked the freezer since her mother disappeared in September 1985. She was told her mother had left home, Kelly testified. "Craig (her boyfriend and mother's alleged lover) came to work and told me my mom was gone," Kelly testified. "And I got a phone call from my dad that my mom had left. He said he and my mother had a fight and she took off — that she left home." Tyburski told family and friends his wife had called twice.

Craig Albright, who had lived in the house a couple of weeks, stopped staying there a couple days after Dorothy Tyburski was reported missing. Kelly said her relationship with her mother had become complicated shortly after Albright moved into the house. She didn't elaborate. Kelly, accompanied by her younger sister and Albright, reported the incident to Canton police earlier this year after finding her mother.

to the Detroit area to intern with Burroughs (now Unisys) Corp. Her resume indicates stints with Burroughs as a senior staff accountant, financial analysis manager, cost accounting supervisor and accounts payable supervisor.

HARVEY, ONE of seven finalists for the job, was selected following a screening process by a consulting firm and interviews conducted by Supervisor Maurice Breen, treasurer Mary Brooks and clerk Esther Hulsing. "She has very good credentials.

She had some very responsible jobs with Unisys," Breen said. The township board authorized creation of the finance director position late last year. "There's just a lot of things we haven't addressed as thoroughly as we'd like," Breen said.

Harvey will be paid at a rate of $37,700 per year, Breen said. Harvey, married to David Harvey, said she enjoys hobbies in her spare time when not chasing after her 6-year-olds.

they believed she wanted to kill Kapp and Burow. In his confession, Burow said he told Kapp that James was involved in drugs and that she was "after him." He subsequently told police these statements he made to his friends were untrue. "Larry, Clint and I decided to shoot her," Burow reportedly said.

of us wanted to be the first to back out. So we shared a joint." After driving to the James' house, Kapp said Smith got down on his knees in front of James' bedroom window and fired a shot. The .22-caliber bullet still is lodged in James' head. Livonia police Lt. Michael Murray said she had been released from St. Mary Hospital in Livonia to the custody of her parents. "She will live with that bullet the rest of her life unless it becomes necessary to remove it," Murray said. "An operation may cause more damage than keeping it. She'll be under observation for quite a while and will be in serious trouble if the bullet moves."

he owned the .22-caliber rifle used in the shooting. Police said the rifle had been cut into a pistol. MELISSA LADUKE, a friend of James, testified she was in her friend's bedroom at 11:55 p.m., when the shooting occurred. She testified that both girls heard a knock on the window. After asking, "... who is at my window now?" LaDuke said James went to the window and opened the blinds. LaDuke said she heard glass breaking, saw James put her hand to head and saw blood coming from her temple. James was hospitalized in St. Mary Hospital. During cross-examination, LaDuke said it was not unusual for James' friends to knock at her bedroom window.

IN HIS confession, Smith said he volunteered to shoot James after hearing that she was going to have Kapp and Burow killed. In his confession, Kapp said he was "messed up on pot" and all three decided "something had to be done to Shannon." "Clint asked, 'do we do it, or what?'" Kapp allegedly said. "None

Saloon license issue is heading for court

By M.B. Dillon
staff writer

Ingham Circuit Judge Thomas Brown asked attorneys for Plymouth Township and the Plymouthrock Saloon to submit written briefs, and scheduled oral arguments for May 25.

It looks like Plymouth Township's right to revoke the liquor license of the Plymouthrock Saloon will be challenged in court.

Ingham Circuit Judge Thomas Brown asked attorneys for the township and the bar to submit written briefs, and scheduled oral arguments for May 25.

The issue ended up in circuit court after Norman Farhat, the bar's attorney, appealed a revocation order issued by Plymouth Township and the Michigan Liquor Control Commission.

The LCC revoked the license last August. The commission fined the bar $3,400 for selling alcohol to minors and for purchasing liquor at more than a state-authorized store.

State law permits the LCC to revoke a license after the license holder is granted a due process hearing by the city or township in which it's located.

After a show cause hearing a year ago, Plymouth Township trustees voted to revoke the license of the bar on grounds it has become a public nuisance.

The bar, on General Drive near Joy and Haggerty, is open for business pending resolution of the appeal. Its liquor license is for sale.

"Farhat thinks our ordinance is weak," said Plymouth Township attorney John Stewart. Stewart handled the case for the township before his election to the township board.

"I don't know that Farhat wouldn't take it to the Supreme Court, as long as it's of financial benefit to him to do business. The longer it takes, the better," said Stewart, "and it's not going to be resolved quickly, that's for sure."

In December 1986, a Canton woman was killed in a head-on crash near the Plymouthrock by a then underage Westland woman who'd been drinking at the bar. The bar's owners were fined $600 by the LCC after the accident.

Farhat, a member of Plymouthrock's board of directors, couldn't be reached for comment, but said recently that Michigan's liquor laws need revision.

"Count the number of townships and cities in this state. That's the number of liquor laws we're operating under," said the Farmington Hills attorney and former LCC employee.

Cities and townships are permitted to draft and adopt their own liquor ordinances.

"I think eventually the high courts will have to look at this and say, 'We screwed up,'" said Farhat. "That's what I'm banking on."

Farhat was able to file in Ingham Circuit Court because the LCC is located in Lansing. Peter Eleferio, who owns the Plymouthrock with Detroit restaurateur Donald Vargo, has put his liquor license up for sale. It's valued at $75,000 to $100,000.

PLYMOUTH TOWNSHIP Police Chief Carl Berry said a Southfield real estate broker has approached him on behalf of two potential buyers for the license.

"Two people are interested, or were," said Berry. "One was very interested. I don't have any names." The broker asked Berry whether "the township would consider a purchaser. My indication was that I would have to meet them, and any information I gathered would be referred to supervisor and then the board of trustees for any type of policy decision."

Donald Vargo owns the 1940 Chop House on Jefferson in Detroit. Eleferio owns the River Place on Franklin in Detroit's warehouse district.

The right of Plymouth Township to close the Plymouthrock Saloon is being argued in Ingham County Circuit Court.

No trial date yet in apartment arson case

By M.B. Dillon
staff writer

An attorney for a Plymouth Township man charged with arson will argue in Detroit Recorder's Court that the lower court abused its discretion in binding Guy Zukowski over on the charge of arson, said Birmingham lawyer Shirley Saltzman.

Zukowski, 25, faces trial in connection with an explosion and fire that gutted the Heritage Square Apartments at 300 N. Mill Nov. 4.

He was bound over for trial Feb. 3 by 35th District Judge John MacDonald.

MacDonald ruled there is probable cause to believe a crime was committed and that the defendant committed it.

Arson of a dwelling is a felony punishable by 20 years in prison.

The fire, which originated in Zu-kowski's apartment, damaged or destroyed eight of the complex's 18 units and left 10 people homeless.

Zukowski suffered burns over half his body. He was hospitalized for several weeks in the University of Michigan Burn Center. A second person sustained minor injuries, and several pets died in the fire.

At Zukowski's arraignment in Recorder's Court Feb. 17, Judge Craig

Strong continued the $10,000 personal bond set by MacDonald.

Strong entered a plea of not guilty for Zukowski. He scheduled a conference for 9 a.m. March 31.

"I expect we will set a trial date that day," said Saltzman, who added he's uncertain about what if any plea bargaining might be pursued.

"I don't know if the prosecution will make an offer," she said.

Zukowski, who owns a janitorial service, is doing fine, said Saltzman.

He is living with his parents in Plymouth Township, and is not working at present, she said.

"He's still receiving treatment at the burn center, as an outpatient. He has had skin grafting on both of his hands. Other burns to the face and torso "are coming along," said Saltzman.

At Zukowski's preliminary examination, Detective Sgt. Gary Mihalek of the Michigan State Police testified that a gas line in Zukowski's apartment was severed and that a flammable liquid was used to accelerate the fire.

In response to a question from Saltzman, Mihalek said it's possible a fire and explosion could have resulted had someone lit a cigarette in a room in which there was a gas leak.

Room to grow

Township eyes office expansion

By Doug Funke
staff writer

Wanted: Proposals to design, construct and landscape a department of public services building for Plymouth Township. Structure should be nearly 26,700 square feet including a shop, storage space and offices on 9-10 acres of land.

All replies to township hall, 42350 Ann Arbor Road, by March 30.

Lack of working and storage space at township municipal buildings has finally reached a stage where something must be done, and that something is expansion, township officials have decided.

"We're looking for somebody who, hopefully, has the land and wants to build," said Supervisor Maurice Breen.

"Most machinery is outside in the yard now behind the police station. Our sweeper is in a private building.

We have gravel and stuff to store for minor repair work we do.

"Here, we've got people hanging all over themselves now," Breen added.

PLANS CALL for consolidating DPW operations from the police garage, the water and sewer department from its building next to the police department and moving Paul Jones, public services director, from township hall, into a new public services building.

Equipment, supplies and records scattered throughout the township will also be moved to a central location.

The township has looked at several parcels of land as potential building sites, Jones said, but they were either unavailable or too costly.

Jones estimated construction costs at $1.1 million, which doesn't include the cost of land.

"Obviously, we're not going to build in a residential area," Breen said.

The project could be financed from a surplus of some $5 million in township's water and sewer fund, Breen suggested. He expects that construction will begin this year.

JONES ECHOED many of Breen's sentiments about overcrowding.

"We're short of space. We really are." Some building department records now are stored in an attic at a township fire station, he said.

The township has partitioned the library at township hall for offices for a solid waste consultant and a finance director.

The relatively young, growing police department probably could use the space vacated by public service operations for an assembly area or offices, Breen said.

The current water and sewer building would be a perfect place to relocate the cramped building department, Jones said.

"Whatever we do, we'll not inconvenience the general public," Breen said.

Memorial services Tuesday for local pilot killed in crash

A memorial service for U.S. Air Force Capt. John Young will be held at 1 p.m. Tuesday at Schrader Funeral Home, 280 S. Main in Plymouth.

The Rev. Merlin Jacobs of Resurrection Lutheran Church will officiate at the military service. Mark LaPointe, a local teacher who was Young's baseball coach, will give the eulogy.

Visitation will be 1-9 p.m. Monday at Schrader Funeral Home. Burial will be at United Memorial Gardens.

Young, 30, was killed Monday, Feb. 20, in a plane crash in Florida. He had been stationed at Norton Air Force Base in California, where he worked as an aircraft commander.

Young was a 1977 graduate of Plymouth Canton High School and a 1982 graduate of the U.S. Air Force Academy at Colorado Springs, Colo., where he earned a bachelor's degree in political science. During his high school and college years, he was an outstanding student and athlete.

THE YOUNG family has established a scholarship fund in his honor for local students. Memorial contributions may be sent to: Capt. John F. Young Memorial Trust Fund, Michigan National Bank, 5645 Sheldon, Canton 48187.

The scholarship fund will help deserving students with their college expenses.

"That's what it's all about," said John Young of Canton, Young's father.

Signup set for Kiddie Kampus

The preschool program, Kiddie Kampus, will institute a new registration procedure for fall 1989 classes.

All registration will be handled on a first-come, first-served basis with registration Tuesday, March 7, at the Plymouth Canton High School cafeteria.

Doors to the cafeteria will open at 2:30 p.m., and a registration number and pre-registration material will be issued at 3 p.m. Parents will then return at 7 p.m. to sign up in numerical order.

Parents may pick up a registration number for their child only. If neither parent is available, a friend may pick up the number providing he or she is not registering for anyone else.

TO SIGN UP, report to Room 129. Enter the first door to the right of the main entrance, and the second door on the left is Room 129.

The cost is $160 for two days, $225 for three days. Checks should be made payable to P.C.C.S.

Following registration, the child care facilities will be open for visitation 7-9 p.m. Teachers will be available.

Parents are asked to bring birth certificates to the registration. For more information, call 451-6660.

KIDDIE KAMPUS registration is open to all 4-year-olds (who will be 4 by Dec. 1) and 2 1/2-year-olds (who will be 3 by April 1).

Ficano files to regain jail

By Wayne Peal
staff writer

As promised, Wayne County Sheriff Robert Ficano has appealed the ruling that took the county jail from his office and gave it to County Executive Edward McNamara.

But the sheriff may have to pay for the appeal out of his own pocket.

Ficano filed with the Michigan Court of Appeals on Friday. He seeks to block Wayne County Circuit Judge Richard Kaufman's Feb. 16 ruling giving McNamara full administrative powers over the jail for one year.

The sheriff asked appeals judges to issue a stay order, temporarily blocking Kaufman's ruling while giving himself time to review his findings.

IF FICANO'S motion isn't granted, McNamara will become jail receiver Thursday, March 16.

The sheriff pledged to file an appeal as soon as Kaufman's ruling was issued. But whether the county will pay for the appeal remains an issue.

Ficano said he would continue to use the services of Detroit-based attorney Joseph A. Sullivan.

While Ficano is eligible to receive legal aid from the county corporation counsel office, he has declined to do so because that service is provided through the county executive's office. McNamara has been represented in court by deputy county executive Michael Duggan.

Wayne County Sheriff Robert Ficano has filed an appeal to regain the county jail. But he may have to pay for legal services out of his own pocket.

County commissioners, however, have told Ficano they won't pick up the tab for Sullivan's services.

Ficano downplayed the attorney pay issue. "I am confident my legal fees will be paid," he said.

County Commission chairman Arthur Carter, D-Detroit, said someone other than the county would have to pay the bills.

Commissioners told Ficano in December they wouldn't be picking up the tab for legal services in the case. Thus far, there has been no request from Ficano to change that position, Carter said, nor any indication commissioners are interested in changing their position.

"WE DIDN'T want to see any more county money spent on this suit," he said. "It was my feeling it should have been settled before Kaufman issued his ruling."

In announcing his appeal, Ficano called the ruling "erroneous." The judge's findings that jail conditions had scarcely improved since a 1971 inmate lawsuit were in "direct contrast" to a similar evaluation by the U.S. Marshal's office, American Correction's Association Accreditation Committee and Hutzel Hospital, Ficano said.

Despite the ruling, Ficano will retain his post as sheriff. He will remain in charge of airport security, park patrols and secondary road patrols. But if Kaufman's ruling goes into effect, he would be the only one of Michigan's 83 county sheriffs without direct control over his county's jail.

The Michigan Sheriff's Association, a Lansing-based organization representing all of the state's sheriffs, said its members were unanimously backing Ficano.

The organization filed an amicus curiae brief asking the appeals court to overturn the ruling and appoint Ficano jail receiver.

MSA president James McNutt said Kaufman's ruling was a "clear violation" of the state constitution.

"The judge has done what the Michigan Legislature refused to do — (the ruling) has changed the character of the office of sheriff."

While the MSA has made no pledge to kick in for Ficano's appeal, it hasn't ruled out the possibility.

"The door is still open," deputy director Dale Davis said. "We're setting up a conference call with our board of directors to determine just what our role should be."

The sheriff said it was the county executive who was costing the county money.

McNamara's initial attempt to be appointed receiver, withdrawn before the ruling was issued, represented a "power grab costing the county thousands of dollars", Ficano said.

Appeal against S'craft is denied

The state Court of Appeals has upheld a ruling in favor of Schoolcraft College, which was sued by a student who fell in an icy parking lot.

The appeals court last week affirmed the decision of Wayne Circuit Judge John Hausner, who ruled in favor of the college on the basis of governmental immunity.

Diane Abrams, in what lawyers call a "slip and fall" case, said she was injured Feb. 5, 1987, as she got out of her car.

State law says "all governmental agencies shall be immune from tort liability in all cases wherein the government agency is engaged in the exercise or discharge of a governmental function," although there are exceptions.

The appeals court said Abrams failed to show an exception because "In order for the public building exception to apply, the injury must have resulted from a defect or dangerous condition of the building itself or the immediately adjacent premises."

The opinion was signed by Judges William R. Beasley, John H. Gillis and John T. Hammond.

Jobs fair scheduled

Area businesses will have an opportunity to interview and hire community college and high school students during a job fair to be held Tuesday, May 16, at Schoolcraft College.

More than 2,000 students are expected to attend the fair. Free booths are available for businesses. The job fair is sponsored by Schoolcraft and the Wayne County Intermediate Schools.

The fair will be held in the Schoolcraft physical education building, 18600 Haggerty, Livonia. Additional information is available by calling Jean Pike at the Schoolcraft Career Planning and Placement Office, 462-4421.

Newspaper merger won't begin soon

Another roadblock has been raised against the controversial joint operating agreement between the Detroit News and Detroit Free Press.

A stay blocking the newspaper merger was extended Saturday by associate Justice William Brennan Jr. after a similar move had been rejected by the court's chief justice one day earlier.

The merger has been delayed at least until a conference of all nine justices Friday, March 17.

U.S. Chief Justice William Rehnquist had handed JOA opponents a setback Friday, ruling against continuing the stay order that temporarily blocked the merger.

Almost immediately, JOA foes filed a final appeal before Brennan, as is permissible under Supreme Court court procedure.

JOA foes seek a hearing before the full court.

Supreme Court," said Robert Dreyfuss, a spokesman for Public Citizen, a Washington, D.C.-based organization handling legal arguments against the JOA. Public Citizen is acting on behalf of Michigan Citizens for an Independent Press, a coalition of state newspaper readers and advertisers.

Newspaper officials were only cautiously optimistic after Rehnquist's initial denial.

"Usually, the second requests are also denied," Free Press executive editor Heath Meriwether said on the heels of the first ruling. "But nothing's been certain. It's like (baseball player) Yogi Berra once said: It isn't over until it's over."

The JOA would go into effect should the court decline to hear the case but when the newspapers would actually merge operations is unclear.

"The next step would be for the two companies to get together to decide when to go forward," Meriwether er said. "They could put the JOA into effect whenever they choose."

JOA foes, however, are readying for one final challenge.

"It's not in the bag for them yet," said JOA opponent Ed Wendover, publisher of the Plymouth Community Crier.

"WE HAVE said all along that we would seek a hearing before the full

WHEN TO ASK FOR HELP & WHEN TO TRY YOURSELF

If you have arthritis, you may face a continual struggle. Bathing, dressing, lying down, buttering bread, putting on a coat and gloves, walking from the doorway to the car; all can become tasks of great difficulty.

Surrounding you are relatives and friends who are available to help. Some of these individuals are eager to give aid, while others are irritated when you ask for their assistance. Possibly neither group really understands the extent of your limitations.

Under these circumstances, when do you ask for their help, and when should you take on the task yourself?

Get help when time is short, the job must be done, or you are tired and in pain. Turn the job over to someone else, if your doing it will put anyone at risk. For instance: don't try to drive a car when your hands can't grip anything, let alone a steering wheel.

Otherwise, the tasks of daily living are yours. There is no better way to keep up your dexterity, preserve your strength, or retain your self-esteem.

Show should die natural death

A WEST BLOOMFIELD woman's letter-writing campaign has succeeded in convincing advertisers to yank their commercials from "Married... With Children," a relatively new program on the relatively new Fox Broadcasting Network, seen locally on Channel 50, WKBD-TV.

The woman objected in general to the program's content and specifically to the way women are portrayed on the program.

Personally, I find the program offensive and embarrassing. Occasionally, it's funny. Regardless, I wouldn't dream of denying others the right to watch the program.

And that's what this woman may have accomplished.

Major advertisers such as Coca-Cola, Procter & Gamble and McDonald's have told their advertising agencies either to withdraw all of their commercials from the program, or place them on a case-by-case basis, depending on the program's content.

That's two forms of censorship.

First, it will give advertisers the right to screen programs prior to airing, with the option to pull or place an ad based on what they see. Second, if those advertisers yank their support, the program eventually will lose its ad base and die.

That means someone else will be making decisions for you on what you will and won't see on television. This could be a precedent-setting move. Personally, I think I am capable of weighing the merits of a television program and deciding for myself whether or not I'll watch it.

If this woman doesn't like the program, then she doesn't have to watch it. She doesn't have to support those who advertise on it. And those who advertise on it should realize her argument cuts both ways. She's now contemplating a boycott of your products because of her own personal preferences. Such a boycott could be economically devastating, if it is successful.

You might say that's a bit far-fetched; that it's hard to believe one woman's letter-writing campaign could have an impact on your sales. Well, thus far, her one-woman campaign has caused enough of a stir to shake the foundation of a broadcast network and frost local officials at Channel 50.

Advertisers, viewers, readers and writers are in this together. It's in all of our best interests to protect our right of freedom of expression without censorship in any form, including what could amount to economic blackmail, in this particular case.

I'm suggesting Coca-Cola and the other companies use a good, old-fashioned yardstick — ratings — and not the personal preferences of one person, as their guide for placing advertising on a program. According to news reports, "Married... With Children" is enjoying good ratings.

I'm suggesting that if "Married... With Children" is as vile as this woman portrays it to be, then it will die by its own hand. Meanwhile, I don't need a remote-control conscience telling me what I should and shouldn't see, read, say, write, watch or do.

Stories give added insight

I LAUGHED, because I didn't think it was appropriate to cry, when I was given a story assignment on the evolution of the ma and pa grocery store.

Make it exciting, my editor said. I tried to convince him I was the wrong person to do the story. I detest supermarkets and not just a little, either. In fact I'd rather clean the bathroom with a toothbrush than dodge cart pushing maniacs in a maze of aisles.

He wouldn't budge, so I went ahead kicking and dragging.

IT WAS even harder to swallow knowing that while I was stuck with fish counters other reporters in the office won assignments to Kensington and the Detroit Zoo.

But then all's fair in love and when assignments are being doled out in the newsroom. And as fate had it, I was out of the office when the story ideas came from our main office. The grocery store story — thank you very much — was left for me.

The three articles ran last year in Street Scene, a special Monday section that appears in all 12 Observer & Eccentric Newspapers and all O&E reporters contribute to the section. Sometimes it's a chance to do something offbeat and exciting. Sometimes it isn't.

There was a redeeming factor, however, because I walked away from the dreaded supermarket story with something more lasting than a tan.

I still keep a copy of a law on scanner scams in my purse. It goes like this: The Item Pricing Law could put up to $5 in your pocket. If a computer scanner makes a mistake and you find it later, the difference plus a penalty charge is yours. This ensures most merchandise has a price affixed. If an electronic scanner records a price overcharge, the business must pay a penalty fee.

If you bring it to the clerk's attention at the time it is rung up, you get the difference of the marked price and the cash register price. But if you go home and find the mistake, you're entitled to the difference plus 10 times the difference not less than $1 or more than $5.

For instance, if the item is marked $1.39 but the register rang up $1.69 you're entitled to 30 cents plus 10 times that or $3.30.

Diane Gale

It's not earthshaking information, but definitely fun to know.

KIND OF LIKE a law I learned about a couple years while doing a group of stories on car maintenance for the Suburban Life section.

The idea sprouted from a competition in the office on who could tell the most gruesome horror story about car repair shops.

The Motor Vehicle Service Repair Act arms consumers against ripoffs. It requires: A written estimate if the repair is $20 or more; a call from the shop if the job can't be done for the original estimate and the bill will exceed it by $10 or 10 percent; detailed invoices outlining completed work and the return of old parts.

If you're not happy with a shop in Wayne, Oakland or Macomb Counties call 357-5108. Outside the tri-county area the toll free number is 1-800-292-4204.

I'VE LEARNED a lot researching stories, but most of the really good advice has come from family and friends.

One of my favorites is from a woman whose desk is about eight feet from mine.

Some banks, she learned, will pay you for mistakes. For instance, National Bank of Detroit has a Guaranteed Performance policy. If a mistake is made on a personal account, the bank will credit that account $10.

Other banks have similar policies and will let you talk your way out of service charges if you go below a minimum balance, or the like.

Then there's mom, who always told me to fight for what I deserve. And Domenic, my fiancé, who reminds me to have patience.

So, I try to be pleasant when I correct clerks who charge me too much, mechanics who forget to call me with higher repair costs; and bank managers when I find mistakes on my statements.

Area churches have joined together

To the editor:

After reading C.L. Rugenstein's article ("Helping hands," Feb. 23), I would have to disagree with those who say that the local churches in Canton and Plymouth have never joined together to help the homeless. About 14 years ago, they were quietly united through a charismatic and dedicated school nurse, the late Darlene Hnyck. Personal contact with the needy inspired her to humbly ask the area churches for money, housing, food, clothing, or service. Parishes which had no "road" or membership restrictions responded generously. On her own time, she distributed all the items and made certain that no one was overlooked or that no one took advantage of the churches. She did this by confidentially sharing with the churches a list of the needy and the abusers. As a result, Darlene became the community's "first clearinghouse."

The proposal to have a private organization prepare a "need assessment" will be futile if people such as school nurses, social workers, and others who have daily contact with the hungry are not included in this program. "Ecumenical helping hands" can again heal a hurting people when the whole community is open to giving time, talent, and service without "boundaries."

Fessler bill attacks police residency rules

By Tim Richard
staff writer

A big city, a mid-sized city and rural townships all fired cannons at state Sen. Richard Fessler's bills to prohibit local residency requirements for police officers.

"We live in America," Fessler, R-Commerce, said at the Senate Local Government Committee opened hearings last week. "People should have the right to work where they can find it and live where they want."

Detroit politicians, however, saw white non-resident police officers as "an occupying force," declaring Detroit would lose $90 million in city income tax collections and consumer spending if officers could move to suburbia.

THE SENATE panel heard testimony for two hours but took no vote on SB 79 through 85.

By the time the hearing ended, chairman Harmon Crossley, R-Decatur, and members Rudy Nichols, R-Waterford, and George Z. Hart, D-Dearborn, had departed for other engagements, leaving only two senators in the room.

The change would require seven bills because home rule cities, villages, general law townships and charter townships are affected.

Union contracts with residency requirements would be unaffected, Fessler said, but unions would be free to negotiate the requirement out once current pacts expire.

FESSLER INTRODUCED the bills at the request of the Police Officers Association of Michigan (POAM), headquartered in Livonia.

"You may have reservoirs of talent that could be tapped," said Fessler, arguing that residency rules limit the labor pool from which governments can draw. "Out where I lived (as a youngster), you went into the police department or the army."

Fessler said the residency rule is particularly hard on the growing numbers of women in law enforcement. He cited a woman who had to quit her Pontiac job because she married and moved to Metamora.

Rich Ringer, a former 17-year Westland police officer now on the POAM staff, cited a Detroit woman officer who married a Bloomfield Township officer. The couple maintained a residence in each place until the husband insisted she move to the suburb. "The Detroit woman was fired after 16 years," said Ringer. "You have to remember that most of us were 21 years old when we joined police departments."

He noted a Redford Township rule requiring an applicant to be a resident for a full year before hiring was struck down in court.

DETROIT BUDGET director Walter Stecher said a residency rule was in Detroit's 1886 city charter and had been a policy, in one form or another, ever since. The policy also applies to civilian employees.

"I understood the rule then," said Stecher, a city employee 32 years, "and I understand it now. It has been tested in court and upheld."

He said a survey showed that 50 percent of Detroit officers and firefighters would live outside the city if they could.

He said the $90 million loss figure was calculated by Michael Thomson, a Wayne State University professor. It covers loss of resident income tax revenue, property tax revenue and consumer spending. The consumer spending figure was multiplied by 2.0 to yield what economists call "the multiplier effect" of money being spent and respent.

DEPUTY POLICE chief Mary Jarrett-Jackson, in charge of Detroit's west side, said residents today "see a department that represents them, not only by race but by gender."

She and Sen. Virgil Smith, D-Detroit, a committee member, repeatedly referred to the 90 percent white police force of the 1960s as "an occupying force designed to 'keep blacks under control.'"

Jarrett-Jackson said the current force, 50-50 black and white, "allows us to be very zealous in law enforcement" without alienating residents.

DETROIT AND POAM officials clashed on the question of whether it was an advantage to city residents to have armed policemen in town during off-duty hours.

Jarrett-Jackson said "response time would be a critical issue," and Sen. Smith said "a police officer's duty doesn't end with his shift."

POAM's Ringer said the argument was valid "years ago," but today "departments are leery of having off-duty officers carry weapons for liability reasons."

Ringer said "the last thing I want to do (off-duty) is become involved in a neighbor's domestic quarrel."

If he witnessed a burglary, he said, "I wouldn't go in without backup. I would call the police department. A citizen would do exactly the same thing."

SMALL TOWNS have the same interest as Detroit, said Gene Thornton of the Michigan Townships Association.

"When I was elected township supervisor, we had one police officer who lived 30 miles away," he said, adding that the officer's response time in emergencies was cut when he took the police car home.

David Osborn of the Michigan Municipal League said residency is a home rule issue and a negotiable labor item. "That's what local officials are for," he said.

Robert Postuma, executive director of the Coalition to Improve Public Safety in Grand Rapids, opposed the Fessler bills, stressing "community ties" and the home rule issue.

Men, if you're about to turn 18, it's time to register with Selective Service at any U.S. Post Office. It's quick. It's easy. And it's the law.

Eastern offers new master's degree in occupational therapy

Eastern Michigan University is adding an advanced master's degree program in occupational therapy. EMU regents approved the program at their Feb. 22 meeting.

A university study showed more than 1,000 occupational therapists live in southeastern Michigan and that many expressed interest in attending such a program.

The EMU program will be designed for people who are already occupational therapists, not for people just entering the field. It is aimed at training people to become managers, teachers, master clinicians, researchers and consultants.

The program will begin enrolling students in fall 1989, pending approval by the State Council of Academic Vice Presidents.

Western Wayne cities rank low on jail site selection list

By Wayne Peal
staff writer

Site selection for the new Wayne County Jail is shaping up as a two-community race between Highland Park and Hamtramck, with western Wayne sites distant possibilities.

Those involved with the process said the two eastern cities have expressed greater interest than have Romulus and Westland, a pair of western Wayne cities also under consideration.

Wayne County Executive Edward McNamara has indicated the jail would go to the community that desires it most, though the jail could actually go to the community that shows the least opposition.

A PUBLIC hearing Thursday in Hamtramck drew a mixed reaction, according to County Commissioner Susan Heintz, R-Northville Township, who attended as a member of the county's jail site selection committee.

"Still, it wasn't all negative. There were people in Hamtramck, including some members of their city council. There also appears to be interest in Highland Park," Heintz said.

City officials in Westland and Romulus have gone on record in opposition to the jail.

The county may have to sweeten the pot for whatever community ends up with the jail.

The Hamtramck hearing revealed the county was willing to pay an annual fee on the property — an unprecedented move. Communities generally receive no direct financial benefit from county-owned land or buildings. The payment to Hamtramck would equal property taxes paid by a commercial development on the same site. Schools wouldn't share in the payment.

"THE FEELING was they wouldn't really have a part in the facility," Heintz said.

Estimates placed the county payment at $500,000 a year. In addition, the county would pay the city fair market value for the site. While Hamtramck also sought a county-built facility to house district court and police activities, site selection members said that wasn't included in Thursday's proposal.

Negotiations between the county and two east-side suburbs are apparently further along than negotiations involving other sites.

"We haven't seen proposals from Highland Park or Romulus," said County Commissioner Richard Manning, D-Redford Township, also a member of the five-commissioner site selection committee.

THE COUNTY seeks to build an 840-bed jail. The jail is expected to house people suspected of committing misdemeanors, not felony suspects.

A quick evaluation of each site:

• Westland — County owned property at Merriman and Michigan roads is under consideration. Strengths include its low development cost and the fact that a county jail annex once operated on the site. Its biggest weakness is the lack of enthusiasm from city officials, who believe the land could be put to better use as a commercial development.

McNamara has said the jail would be placed in Westland unless another community stepped forward.

• Highland Park — Privately considered the leading contender among county officials, the Highland Park site's strengths include community enthusiasm. Some community leaders see the jail as a major economic boost to their aging, financially pressed city.

• Hamtramck — Considered to have the same strengths as Highland Park, the Hamtramck property also offers a relatively isolated location. The jail would be placed in an undeveloped 30-acre industrial park, cut off from other areas of the city by a viaduct. Its weaknesses include a lack of enthusiasm on the part of many residents. "Older residents seemed particularly opposed, though younger residents were more supportive," Manning said. The mayor and some other city officials have clamored for a community referendum on the site, perhaps dooming its chances.

• Romulus — Though two sites have been discussed, this proposal remains something of a mystery. County officials confirmed the Romulus offer would be made by a private developer, not the community itself. Because it would be a private offer, the county could accept without holding a public hearing. McNamara's pledge to avoid placing the jail in an unreceptive community, however, means such action probably won't be taken.

Further evidence the eastern communities are being given serious consideration: County Commissioner Arthur Blackwell, who represents both Hamtramck and Highland Park, is chairman of the site selection committee. Commissioner Milton Mack whose represents Romulus, isn't a member. Nor is Commissioner Kay Beard, who represents Westland.

Canham eyes racing commissioner's post

Former University of Michigan athletic director Donald Canham, rumored to be a candidate for the vacant state racing commissioner's post, has had no formal talks with Gov. James Blanchard about the post, a governor's office spokesman said Friday.

Speculation about Canham as a successor to former commissioner William Cahalan surfaced with a report Thursday in the Ann Arbor News.

While the spokesman acknowledged some candidates have approached the governor's office about the post, Canham to this point hasn't been one of them.

"IT IS generally not our policy to comment about appointment candidates, but some candidates have expressed interest in the post," said Greg Morris, director of personnel for the governor's office.

In an interview published Thursday, Canham said he would consider the job, if offered.

Sources close to the situation confirmed Genesee County Probate Judge Luke Quinn and former Upper Peninsula state Rep. Don Kolyisto have expressed interest in the position. Both were listed as potential candidates in the Ann Arbor News report.

Others listed as candidates included deputy racing commissioner Barbara MacKenzie and deputy Department of Agriculture director James Manning.

SOURCES CLOSE to the situation acknowledged there were several internal applicants but couldn't confirm whether MacKenzie was among them.

The commissioner oversees the state's thoroughbred and harness tracks: Northville Downs and Ladbroke DRC in Livonia. Formerly based in Plymouth, the racing commissioner's office is now in Livonia.

Cahalan, a former Wayne County Prosecutor, resigned last month after being appointed a Wayne County Circuit Judge.

Contest highlights pet week

The contest is open to school children under age 18. This year's theme is "Acts of Kindness Toward Animals." Winners will receive $100 U.S. Savings Bonds at an awards ceremony 7 p.m. Saturday, May 13 at the Hyatt Regency, Dearborn. Prizes will be awarded in these categories:

K-2, 3-6, 7-9 and 10-12.

Each entry must be the personal and original work of the artist. Entries must be received by Monday, May 1. Entries become the property of the MHS and will not be returned.

Works should be no smaller than 22-by-28 inches and no larger than 24-by-36 inches.

Additional information is available by calling 872-3400, Ext. 313.

S'craft offers 3 classes for horse owners

Three classes for horse owners will be offered this spring at Schoolcraft College, Livonia.

Courses include:

• Horse farm maintenance — The class offers an overview of horse farm operations including pasture maintenance, fence construction, tractor maintenance and repair, stall maintenance and rodent control. The class meets 7:30-9:30 p.m. for four consecutive Wednesdays, beginning March 15. The fee is $45.

• Psychology of equine training — The one-day workshop presents a scientific approach to horse discipline. Training problems will be discussed in an open forum. Participants are encouraged to bring their bridles. The class meets 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. Sunday, March 19. The fee is $25.

• Basic training of the horse: theory and application — The class offers horse training and retraining tips in both classroom and farm settings. The class meets 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. for four consecutive Sundays, beginning April 2. The fee is $40.

Schoolcraft is at 18600 Haggerty, between Six and Seven Mile. Additional information is available by calling 462-4448.

Master makes it look easy

How could I pass up an invite like this?

An opportunity to sit in on a private cooking class with the Italian master, Giuliano Bugialli, and afterwards, to share some Azienda Agricole Ascevi (a modest, dry Italian Chardonnay) and talk food.

And talk we did.

Anyone who has ever taken a "gourmet" cooking class, especially from masters like Bugialli, Pepin, Hazan and the like, usually finds himself or herself walking into a pseudo-demonstration that has the master sipping wine from a barstool while he/she snaps their fingers and frantic assistants do the actual preparation.

Not in Giuliano's class.

As I entered the room, a flurry of assistants were whisking, chopping (by hand), steaming, parboiling and setting the stage as Signor Bugialli himself cleaned the swiss chard and prepared the broccoli.

There was a certain ambience that filled the area as other class members entered and were warmly greeted with hugs from the master, and upon noticing the camaraderie, I overheard that these seemingly ordinary folk like you and me were Giuliano groupies, some of whom had followed him to his renowned school in Florence, Italy, and has taken his classes in this area yearly for the last nine seasons.

CHEF BUGIALLI'S presence and superb communication skills made it seem you were the only person in the room. Chunks of dough were passed about so the class could experience the proper texture of the dough.

Would you feel a little insecure sitting in a demo with someone of such international character, who himself has authored three cookbooks that have made the New York Times Best Seller List?

Not in Giuliano's class.

The class began promptly with a short introduction as to the evening's fantasies. We would begin with a Pasta de Ceci al Rosmarino (Chick Pea Pasta) from Sicily. I observed the master begin compiling the ingredients on a wooden board. Where was the Cuisinart? I thought everybody made pasta dough in a Cuisinart.

Not in Giuliano's class.

Now I had read this guy's books. I had even seen him on television. I learned more about technique during the creation of the appetizer than I had learned in a two-day pasta workshop in Kansas City. All the while, the class was sitting in awe, waiting for the cutting and rolling of the pasta.

A real neat lady sat next to me who has seen Giuliano for the last six years. "Get your camera ready," she whispered. "He's just about ready to roll the dough." I flicked on the flash (and just in time) because even before I could get up from my seat, this guy twirled a pasta machine better than the lead cheerleader of the Denver Broncos.

BEFORE YOU knew it, a paper-thin strand of pasta more than 25 feet long encircled the room with class members acting as trestles for the dough.

I looked around trying to find the likes of Jane Fonda and had my ears ready to report on the first scream of, "What are you doing to our diets?"

Not in Giuliano's class.

Most cooking classes offer you a pint-sized paper plate, a plastic fork and a sample of the cuisine that would barely fit into a thimble.

Not in Giuliano's class.

That's my kind of class.

Classy cooking experience

JUST ABOUT THIS TIME every year, friends and neighbors pack their bags and look for fun in the sun. Heaven only knows, we could all use a break from the winter blahs.

This year, I found a wonderful escape from those winter blues, right in my own backyard. Well, maybe not quite my own backyard but to a tres chic townhouse at Van Dyke and Jeffers in Detroit.

Not long ago a brochure came in the mail boasting of elegant cooking classes featuring "Cooking along the Danube" and "Christmas in Seville."

For the last seven years, the staff of Van Dyke Place restaurant has presented unusual and informative cooking classes, on the second Saturday of each month from September through April. The February class, "A Pique-Nique with Marie Antoinette," sounded so intriguing.

THE MENU began with a Chilled Lobster Timbale "de la Jardin du Trianon," served with an array of miniature vegetables in a pool of fish veloute, followed by a Brace of Young Quail "La Cage aux Folles" served with a satin blanket of truffle cognac sauce, and for dessert Coingtreau-scented oeuifs a la neige garnished with white chocolate curls and almonds. Who could resist? So I enrolled.

Attending a cooking class may not sound appealing at first, but consider this. At 10 a.m. class began with a mini-lecture presented by co-owner Ron Fox, about the latest in restaurant news and the food world.

The cooking demonstration started with the executive chef of the res-

For those of you who are interested in becoming a professional cook or chef, there are two schools in the area where you can study and receive a bachelor's degree in culinary arts.

Schoolcraft College on Haggerty Road in Livonia has been graduating chefs since the early 1960s. Master Chef Jeffrey Gabriel is on staff. To apply for admissions into Schoolcraft's two-year program contact Sandra Florek at 462-4417.

There also are a few classes available through Schoolcraft's Continuing Education Services: Microwave Oven Workshop, Introduction to Australian Cake Decorating and Wines of the World. For more details call 462-4400.

Oakland Community College's Orchard Ridge Campus in Farmington Hills also offers a 2-year program in culinary arts which is the largest in the state. For information call 471-7500. During the summer week-long accredited courses are offered in baking, and cake decorating. Other workshop classes to look for this spring:

Kitchen Glamour:

Favorite Italian Dishes — Donna Reynolds — 1 and 7 p.m. Wednesday, March 8, Redford Store; 1 and 7 p.m. Thursday, March 9, West Bloomfield, and 1 and 7 p.m. Friday, March 10, Rochester.

restaurant, Elwin Greenwald, preparing the lobster timbale — a delicate yet rich first-course seafood moussé. The moussé was made in individual ring molds and, when unmolded, was salmon colored and created a beautiful beginning for the quails.

Greenwald explained that although the dish was time consuming to prepare, it could be made the night before.

Teaching a cooking class is not as easy as it seems. There's lots of organization and preparation work. Greenwald is as good a teacher as he is a chef. Besides apprenticing at Van Dyke Place, he also studied with and graduated from Madeleine Kammar's Cooking School in Anney, France.

DURING THE BREAK, General Manager Kathy Dozier served freshly baked raspberry and blueberry muffins. While chatting with some of the 15 or so students, I found out they traveled from as far as Plymouth and even Ortonville. Others came from nearby, Indian Village.

Jean and Frederick Carr of Plymouth Township have been attending these classes on a regular basis for a few years. Mrs. Carr, a lovely, slender woman, comes to the classes mainly because, "I love to eat and enjoy watching the demonstrations." She admits, however, "I do not like to cook."

At about 11 a.m., Sous Chef Patrick Dunn began the quail preparation. These small birds, he said, are partially boned, and come from Elbow Farms in Ortonville. The rib cage was removed by the Elbow Farm staff and the tiny drumsticks left on.

"This makes it easier to stuff as well as eat," Dunn said. He then prepared the Pate a Choux pastry, which is similar to cream puff pastry and uses a classic French cooking technique. Once the batter is prepared, the little cages can be made in advance and slightly warmed in an oven at serving time.

Pastry Chef Jeff Murray has worked at Van Dyke for three years. He began his career at Oakland Community College as a culinary arts graduate and then worked for Machus Pastry shops.

THIRD DISH to be demonstrated in class was Oeufs a la Neige, small meringues which have been poached and are served on a layer of English custard. After skillfully shaping the meringue eggs, Murray garnished the dish with curls of white chocolate.

He explained that the easiest way to make a chocolate curl is to purchase a 10-pound slab of chocolate. Slightly warm the chocolate if it has been kept below room temperature. Angle a chef's knife, applying slight pressure while pushing along the length of the slab. Callebaut white and bittersweet from France is the brand of chocolate the staff at Van Dyke Place prefers to cook and bake with.

At serving time, Murray poured the custard into an antique French porcelain pedestal bowl and garnished the platter below with strawberries, red apples and kiwi fruit. During lunch, each of us was served an individual portion of oeufs a la neige in an oval-shaped dish surrounded by slices of kiwi and fresh raspberries.

When the demonstrations were over, we were all escorted into the main dining room, a small, intimate room filled with accessories and hand-painted murals depicting the era of Louis the 15th. The waitpersons meticulously served each course, all courses accompanied by appropriate wines selected for the occasion by Paul Mann.

What a combination — wonderful atmosphere, exquisite cuisine — total relaxation. I may have to go back again.

For information and schedules of the Carriage House Cooking Classes, write the Van Dyke Place, 649 Van Dyke, Detroit 48214, or call 821-2620 Mondays-Fridays from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Cost is $80 per class, or four classes in a series, for $225 (spring 1989).

CHILLED LOBSTER TIMBALE WITH FISH VELOUTE

Serves 4-6

Fish Veloute
4 teaspoon unsalted butter
4 teaspoon all-purpose flour
4 cups fish stock

Over low heat, melt the butter in a saucepan. Stir in the flour to make a roux. Cook, stirring constantly for 2-3 minutes. Place the stock in a soup pot and bring to a boil. Add the boiling stock to the roux. Remove from heat and whisk together. Place back on medium high heat and bring to a gentle boil. Simmer for 45 minutes. Remove from heat and let veloute reach room temperature. Use 1/2 for the Lobster Mousse. Reserve remainder for timbale sauce.

Fish Aspic
3 teaspoons unflavored gelatin
1/2 cup cold water
4 cups fish stock
2 egg whites plus shells
1/4 cup white wine

In a small bowl, soften the gelatin in the water. Add a little of the fish stock. Place in saucepan and add remaining stock and the wine. Heat over low heat. Stir until the gelatin is dissolved. Remove pan from heat. Beat the egg whites with a wire whisk. Add the shells.
Add to the gelatin mixture and whisk over high heat to incorporate thoroughly. Simmer until the whites form a "raft" and rise to the top. Gently strain through a cheesecloth-lined strainer. Let set until it is room temperature, and use for the Lobster Timbale.

Timbale
1 small leek, white part only finely diced
1 carrot finely diced
1 rib celery finely diced
1/2 cup dry white wine
1/2 cup brandy
salt and pepper to taste freshly grated nutmeg to taste fresh thyme, minced to taste
2 pounds cooked lobster meat or combination of shrimp, scallops and lobster

1 cup fish veloute
1 1/2 cups heavy cream, softly whipped
1 cup fish aspic

In a saute pan over medium heat, cook the diced leek, carrot and celery about 10 minutes until vegetables are soft but not browned. Add the wine and brandy and reduce until alcohol has cooked off, about 5 minutes. Add the seasonings and the lobster meat.

Puree the fish mixture in small batches, in a food processor. Pass the puree through a mesh strainer with a spoon and set in small ceramic bowl. Set the bowl into a larger one which has been filled with ice. Gently stir in the fish veloute. Fold in the whipped cream followed by the aspic.

With a ladle fill individual 1-cup ring molds or other metal molds almost to the top with mousse. Cover with plastic wrap and refrigerate overnight or until very firm. Place the molds in hot water briefly to ease the unmolding.
Serve on a chilled plate and garnish with sauteed miniature vegetables such as miniature patty pan squash, miniature zucchini, miniature carrots. Reheat the remaining veloute and spoon over each serving.

BRACE OF YOUNG QUAIL "LA CAGE AUX FOLLES" SERVED WITH A SATIN BLANKET OF TRUFFLE-COGNAC SAUCE

Pate a Choux Cages
1 cup milk plus 1/2 cup water
3/4 cup unsalted butter
1 1/2 cups all-purpose flour
1/2 teaspoon cayenne pepper
1/2 teaspoon nutmeg
salt and pepper to taste
6 eggs
1/2 cup freshly grated parmesan cheese (very fine)
1/2 cup jarlsberg or swiss grated very fine

Bring water, milk to a boil in saucepan. Add the butter. All at once add the flour, cayenne, nutmeg and salt and pepper. Using the wooden spoon mix over medium high heat until mixture forms a solid mass. Push the dough back and forth in the pan until butter begins to ooze on the surface. Transfer to a mixer bowl and add eggs one at a time, mixing well after each addition. Add the cheeses and beat until smooth. Cool.

When cool, put dough in a pastry bag filled with an 1/4-inch round tip. Brush a small 4-inch metal bowl with vegetable oil and pipe pastry on the back of the bowl in forming a lattice.

Bake the cage or bowls in a preheated 425-degree oven one at a time or using four bowls until golden about 5-8 minutes. Allow to cool 5 minutes, then gently remove and place on a rack to cool further. Reserve until serving time.

Quail with Truffle-Cognac Sauce
Serves 4
8 fresh boned quail (leave drumsticks intact)
1 cup wild rice cooked in 3 cups water
1 teaspoon chopped parsley
1/4 cup toasted, crushed walnuts
8 strips bacon, uncooked
1 tablespoon olive oil
1 tablespoon butter
1/2 cup rich veal stock

Quail can be purchased from

Elbow Farms in Ortonville, or call Van Dyke Place, 821-2620.

With a chef's knife, remove the wings from the quail and reserve. In a small bowl mix wild rice with the parsley and walnuts. Fill each quail with the rice mixture. Carefully wrap each quail around the breast with a bacon strip and a second across the backbone. Secure with toothpicks.

In a saute pan, heat the oil and the butter. Brown the quail on all sides. Add the veal stock and bring to a boil. Cover and place in a 350-degree oven for 15 minutes or until each quail is cooked through. Meanwhile prepare the Truffle-Cognac Sauce.

Truffle-Cognac Sauce
1/4 cup cognac
1 tablespoon finely chopped shallots
1 tablespoon finely diced carrot
1 tablespoon finely diced celery
1 teaspoon minced garlic reserved quail wings
one 4-ounce jar fresh truffles, peeled and sliced or a 4-ounce jar of fresh truffle peelings — available at Merchant of Vino in Birmingham, Southfield and Troy
3 cups rich veal demi-glace (concentrated veal stock)
1 tablespoon cold butter stock with 4 teaspoons potato starch (or cornstarch) until well blended. Place 3 cups stock in a saucepan and add stock-starch mixture. Heat. Remove from heat when simmering.

OEUF A LA NEIGE

Serves 4.
3 egg whites
¼ cup sugar
2½ cups milk
¼ cup sugar
4 egg yolks
2 tablespoons Cointreau
½ teaspoon lemon zest pinch nutmeg
¼ teaspoon vanilla

Garnish
¼ cup toasted sliced almonds
¼ cup white chocolate shavings or curls

In the bowl of a mixer, beat the egg whites with the first ¼ cup of sugar until stiff but not dry peaks form. Heat the milk in a heavy saucepan to a high simmer. Turn down heat, low. Shape oeuifs or meringue dumplings by scooping the egg whites onto a soup spoon and shaping it with another soup spoon. Repeat this five times so that the meringue is shaped into neat egg shapes. (This can be done a day in advance but each will shrink about 25 percent.)

Drop the dumplings into the simmering milk. Poach for 2 minutes on each side. Using a skimmer, remove the meringues to a tray lined with paper toweling. Repeat process until all meringue is used. Reserve the milk for the custard. Makes 12 dumplings.

In a mixing bowl, combine ¼ cup sugar, egg yolks, Cointreau, nutmeg and vanilla. Whisk to blend. Gradually pour the hot milk in a slow steady stream into the egg mixture, whisking constantly. Pour back the sauce into the pan and cook over medium heat until the custard coats the back of a spoon or is a thick pourable consistency. Cool completely.

You may serve by pouring custard into a large serving bowl and placing all the meringues on top, or by placing into individual bowls, dividing 3 into each. Garnish with grated white chocolate and toasted almond slices. For color add sliced kiwi; fresh, sliced strawberries, or fresh raspberries around the edges of the bowl or on a lining plate under the bowls.

When the students had left and the flurry of assistants found themselves with their overt share of dirty dishes, pots and pans, I snookered Giuliano into a corner.

"So where was the Cuisinart, the Kitchen Aid and the Mini-Chop?" I asked.

"Why?" was the only reply. Silence is deafening. Touche. "How can you even compare a pasta made by hand to one from the Cuisinart?" was the master's reply.

IT WAS EVIDENT that this man doesn't just cook. He loves to cook. To feel the food. To smell the food. Using machines to speed the process removes the enjoyment from the actual contact.

"It's about time people started to love the process of cooking," he responded. "It shouldn't be a chore. It should be a love affair."

Giuliano Bugialli taught 21 students that evening how to have a love affair.

And if all this wasn't enough, I've been invited to Chicago by the Italian Trade Commission to have lunch with Giuliano at Spiaggia's where he will be representing Bertoli Olive Oils on an East Coast tour. (This job does have its rewards.)

So if you have a few bucks sitting around and you demand the finest in assorted regional Italian cuisine, you will not be disappointed with Giuliano Bugialli's presentation. Giuliano himself has a world-renowned cooking school in Florence and New York City. Summer sessions are still available. For information call 212-966-5325.

CHICK-PEA PASTA

For the pasta:
2 tablespoons fresh rosemary leaves or 2 tablespoons rosemary leaves preserved in salt or dried and blanched
3 medium-sized cloves garlic, peeled
2¼ cups unbleached all-purpose flour

½ cup chick-pea flour
3 extra-large eggs
1 teaspoon salt
10 twists black pepper
3 teaspoons olive oil

For the sauce:
6 ounces Pancetta or Prosciutto, in 1 slice
3 tablespoons olive oil

To cook the pasta:
coarse-grained salt

To serve:
20 sprigs Italian parsley, leaves only, coarsely chopped

Prepare the pasta. Finely chop rosemary leaves and garlic together on board and transfer them to a small crockery or glass bowl. Add the oil and mix very well.

Prepare pasta using the ingredients and quantities listed above, placing the chopped ingredients with the oil in the well of the flour along with the chick-pea flour, eggs, salt and black pepper. Stretch the layer of pasta to the finest setting and cut into tagliatelle.

Prepare the sauce. Cut the pancetta into pieces less than ¼ inch thick. Place a small saucepan with the oil and pancetta over medium heat and saute for 15 minutes or until pancetta is crisp.

Bring a large pot of cold water to a boil. When the water reaches a boil, add coarse-grained salt to taste, then the pasta. Stir and cook the pasta from 40 seconds to 1 minute depending on the dryness of the pasta.

Drain, transfer the pasta onto a warmed, large serving platter, pour the sauce over, mix gently but very well and serve immediately, with or without the parsley. This pasta could be served even with a very light tomato sauce or just uncooked, good olive oil.

BROCCOLI TRASTEVERE STYLE

2 bunches broccoli
coarse-grained salt
2 large cloves garlic, peeled ½ cup olive oil
salt and freshly ground black pepper
¼ teaspoon hot red pepper flakes
4 tablespoons red wine vinegar
¼ cup cold water

Soak the broccoli in a large bowl of cold water for a half hour. Bring a large pot of cold water to a boil over medium heat. Remove and discard the woody ends of the broccoli. Cut the flowerets from the large stems and keep them separated. Then cut stems into strips about 2 inches long and ¼ inch thick. Add coarse-grained salt to the boiling water, then the stems and let boil for 3 minutes. Add the flowerets and let cook for 4 minutes more. By that time, stems and flowerets should both be cooked but still al dente. Drain broccoli and cool under cold running water and transfer it to a serving dish, being sure to drain all water from the dish.

Coarsely chop the garlic on board. Heat the oil in a small saucepan over medium heat and when the oil is warm, add garlic and let saute for 5 minutes or until lightly golden. Add salt and pepper to taste and the red pepper flakes.

Put in the vinegar and let reduce for 35 minutes, then add the water and let cook for 5 minutes more. Remove pan from heat, mix well with a wooden spoon, then pour the sauce all over the broccoli. You may serve immediately or let cool completely first.

Fruit served in orange cups can be made ahead of time

CINNAMON-ORANGE CUPS

4 medium oranges
2 tablespoons miniature semisweet chocolate pieces
4 teaspoons creme de cacao teaspoon ground cinnamon
¼ cup chopped pecans, toasted
¼ cup coconut, toasted

Rinse oranges; pat dry with paper towels. Slice 2 oranges in half. With grapefruit spoon scoop out orange sections into a colander, reserving juice. Remove and discard seeds and membrane from shells. Cover orange shells with plastic wrap and place in refrigerator. Peel and section remaining oranges. Remove and discard seeds.

In a bowl combine orange sections and juice, chocolate pieces, creme de cacao and cinnamon. Cover; chill thoroughly. Before serving, stir in nuts and coconut. Spoon into orange shells. Makes 4 servings.

Salmon Noodle Chowder starts out with packaged mix

AP — Here's a nourishing soup with rich, homemade taste. Because you start with a convenient packaged noodle mix, you can ladle the soup up in a mere 15 minutes.

SALMON NOODLE CHOWDER
2¼ cups water
2 tablespoons margarine or butter
4½-ounce package noodles with sour cream and chive sauce 1½ cups loose-pack frozen corn, broccoli and red peppers
½ teaspoon dried dillweed
7¼-ounce can red salmon
2 cups milk

In a large saucepan bring water and margarine to boiling. Stir in noodles with sour cream and chive sauce, frozen vegetables and dillweed. Return to boiling; reduce heat. Simmer, uncovered, for 5 minutes.

Meanwhile, drain salmon; remove skin and bones. Break salmon into chunks. Stir milk into noodle mixture. Return to boiling; add salmon. Cook and stir for 1 minute more. Serve at once. Makes 3 servings.

Rocks repeat as WLAA champions

Salem edges Canton

By C.J. Risk
staff writer

After 27 heats in 10 swimming events, after 18 divers, the outcome of Friday's Western Lakes Activities Association boys meet came down to the last man in the last heat of the last relay.

Which gave meet host Plymouth Salem a distinct advantage. Because the Rocks' last man was Ron Orris.

Through 10 previous events, Salem and Plymouth Canton had engaged in a dual-meet like war, with first one team, then the other surging into the lead. With only the 400-yard freestyle relay remaining, Canton had the edge: 416 points to Salem's 414. North Farmington was a distant third with 295.

The Chiefs, dual-meet winners in the Western Division, were seeded fifth entering the finals with a preliminary time of 3:24.33. Salem was No. 1; the Rocks had gone 3:23.09 in Wednesday's prelims.

THE ROCKS were never better than fifth during the first three legs of the relay, swum by Chris Caloia, Rick Steshetz and Eric Bunch. They kept their team close, however.

Jeff Schwinn, Jim Hartnett and Steve Geddes — Canton's first three relay swimmers — were as

JOHN STORMZAND/staff photographer

Fred Seidelman captured third place in the 100-yard butterfly Friday, assisting in Plymouth Salem's repeat victory in the Western Lakes Activities Association swimming championships. The meet came down to a duel between the Rocks and Plymouth Canton, with Salem winning by eight points, 462-454.

lay, and the meet. Orris touched in 3:20.71. North was second in 3:21.58, with Northville third in 3:22.39 and Canton fourth in 3:23.45.

Salem claimed its second-straight WLAA title with 462 points. Canton was second with 454, followed by North (337), Northville (312), Livonia Stevenson (230) and Westland John Glenn (207).

ASKED WHETHER he was worried with his team trailing by two points with one event left, Salem coach Chuck Olson responded, "I was hoping (the meet) would come down to that. I hoped we'd be that close. I figured we could win the last event. I felt pretty good about that."

But Orris could not claim the outstanding swim of the meet. That belonged to Canton's Jeff Homan, who took first in the 100 breaststroke even though he lost his goggles early in the race. He finished with them around his neck — and still tied the league record of 1:01.67 he had set in the prelims. The previous record was also Homan's: 1:02.18, last year. He was also second in the 200 IM to Orris in 2:02.14.

Who wouldn't, with Orris anchoring. The junior won both his individual events, setting WLAA records in each. He was easily the best swimmer in the meet.

"And to think," Canton coach Hooker Wellman contemplated. "We had a 50-50 chance of getting him."

But Orris was dealt a blue chip, sending him to bolster Olson's program for four years instead of Wellman's. He made it look almost easy Friday, particularly in the 500 free, which he won in a leisurely 4:53.97. Northville's Eric Newton was a distant second (4:56.75).

IN THE 500 free prelims, Orris set a new WLAA record of 4:44.23, breaking the mark set by Mike Tumey of North in 1986 (4:46.74). He got his first record earlier in Wednesday's prelims, going 1:57.34 in the 200 individual medley to bust another Tumey mark (1:59.36, in '87). Orris won the 200 IM in 1:59.45.

The meet produced one other double-winner in individual events, Salem's Mike Hill. Hill got firsts in both the 200 (1:48.52) and 100 (48.91) free.

Rocks victims of Stevenson rally

By Dan O'Meara
staff writer

The reason for Livonia Stevenson's basketball success this season is its ability to win the close games, according to coach Bob McIntyre.

That was never more true than it was Friday night when Stevenson presented the veteran coach with his first district championship at Plymouth Canton High School.

The Spartans rallied from a 20-point deficit early in the second half to overcome favored Plymouth Salem in a wild, emotional and controversial finish, 71-70.

"This year's group of kids have found ways to cover for each other and come up with a victory," McIntyre said. "I couldn't be more happy and prouder of the kids."

Stevenson, 16-6, will play Woodhaven, 21-0, at 8 p.m. Tuesday in the regional tournament at Willow Run High School. The final is slated for 7 p.m. Thursday.

FOR SALEM, the Western Lakes Activities Association champion which ends with a 20-3 record, the defeat was a crushing experience, especially since it appeared the Rocks had the game under control, leading 50-30 in third quarter.

"I think we had a great season, and no matter when you lose, it's tough to take," Salem coach Bob Brodie said. "It just hurts when it happens."

"It's tough to have a game in hand and let it slip away. I guess it's like Yogi (Berra) says, it isn't over until it's over."

Stevenson's amazing comeback was sparked by basketball

Chris Nazelli, who scored 18 of his game-high 24 points in the second half.

Ron Baran scored 12 points, Scott Kosikowski 11 and Eric Schwedt, who scored the game-winning basket with 47 seconds remaining, 10. Baran (3), Kosikowski (2) and Laven (2) combined for seven 3-point field goals, also.

"The thing I'm most happy about is that we knew what we had to do at the right time," Nazelli said amidst the euphoria in the Stevenson locker room. "If we needed the ball at a certain place, we got it there. It was a great team victory."

SALEM GOT 22 points from sophomore center Jake Baker, who was the key to the Rocks extending their 41-30 halftime lead in the third period. Jeff Elliott and Jeff Gold scored 12 points apiece and Craig Marshall eight.

Elliott, who had a chance to win the game with :02 on the clock, was at the center of the controversy.

While he was at the free-throw line to shoot a two-shot foul, Stevenson sent Mike Vrooman into the game. The horn sounded at the same time the official was giving Elliott the ball.

In a matter of seconds, Elliott, thinking play was stopped, tossed the ball back to the on-court official, who ignored the horn and, in so doing, ruled the ball was in play. The same thing happened earlier, with Stevenson leading 69-66 and 1:41 to play, when Baran was shooting a 1-and-1.

As a result, Elliott lost the opportunity for the first free throw. He missed the second one that would have forced overtime, and Steve Szeman rebounded for the Spartans.

The officials, Bill Rubin and Dave Dean, refused to answer questions about the call after the game. Bob Blohm, athletic manager at Canton, spoke to the officials and relayed their comments.

"Their explanation is once the ball has been administered, the shooter should shoot," Blohm said. "Both times the player threw the ball to the official."

"THE OFFICIALS said if they were in the process of handing the ball, they would have taken it back. But they had administered the ball and stepped back."

Bob Richardson, the scorekeeper at Canton, said he was certain the officials were still in the process of giving the ball to the players when timekeeper Sandy Downs sounded the horn.

He said Rubin and Dean told him after the game they should not buzz a player into the game while the officials are beginning to administer the ball, which is contrary to routine practice, according to Richardson.

"That didn't lose the game," Brodie said. "We tried to caution the kids in the huddle. We told them we had to keep playing, but we stopped attacking the basket (in the final quarter)."

Winning tradition continues for North

By Dan O'Meara
staff writer

A long-standing tradition was extended and another may have been started Thursday at the Western Lakes Activities Association gymnastics meet.

North Farmington continued its dominance in the sport by winning its 13th consecutive league championship, including the last five in the WLAA.

On an individual level, Westland John Glenn sophomore Wendy Minch won every event and captured the all-around title. With two years of high school competition still ahead, she has the potential to dominate the WLAA for some time.

North had all but wrapped up the championship by the time it completed the four events, making the eighth and final rotation of teams a mere formality.

Up to that point, it was a close meet between the Raiders, Glenn and Northville, and North needed a strong showing in its last event, the bars, to secure a safe lead.

THE RAIDERS, with their second-best score of the season at 137.45, finished ahead of Minch and the Rockets (134.55) and host Northville (132.95). Plymouth Canton was fourth with Plymouth Salem, Farmington, Farmington Hills Harrison and Walled Lake Western following in that order.

"We haven't had a lot of meets like this, but it makes it a lot more fun," North coach Jeff Dwyer said. "Any of three teams could have won it. Fortunately, we came out on top."

Because the competition was so keen and the meet close, North's latest championship was especially meaningful to Dwyer, who has now coached the Raiders to three straight titles.

gymnastics

"I was a nervous wreck," he said. "This is what competition is all about. Even though you feel pressure, it's a lot of fun, I think."

Going into the seventh team rotation and the last one for North, the Raiders had accumulated 103.55 points, Glenn 101.75 and the Mustangs 100.50.

North scored 33.90 on the uneven bars to strengthen its lead, but the Raiders needed some solid performances from Heather Kahn, Kim Heller and Kristin Szutarski after a slow start in that event.

KAHN AND HELLER had their season-best scores on bars with 9.25 and 8.95, respectively, and Szutarski was around her average with an 8.60. Kahn was runner-up to Minch, Heller placed fourth and Szutarski was eighth.

"The first two (gymnasts) were below their average, and that put a lot of pressure on the last three," Dwyer said. "We needed those scores. When you can hit under that pressure, that's a credit to those three."

The strong finish on bars meant Glenn had to score 35.70 on the bars, its last event, to catch the Raiders. That would have meant getting the highest single-event score by any team.

"I think that would have been very tough," Glenn coach Pam Yockey said. "We had a bad floor set (of scores), and we had too many falls on beam. Had the girls stuck their beam routines, we would have been more solid going into the last event."

"In the first two events (33.60 on beam and 33.40 on floor exercise), we were took shaky but still hit the average we've been scoring all year."

North had the best team scores on vault (35.55) and floor (34.60), was second to Northville (35.05) on bars and third behind Canton (33.90) and Glenn on beam. Rita Dunn, Jameelah Gater and Ellen Wesselman were important to North's team scoring, too.

"WHEN YOU have to count four scores, it doesn't matter if you have one or two superstars," Dwyer said. "It's the third and fourth scores that make or break it for the team. It was all four (in each event), and the girls deserve this meet."

Minch gave a spectacular performance, scoring 9.60 on vault, 9.15 on floor, 9.45 on bars and 9.55 on beam for an all-around total of 37.75. Heller and Kahn tied for second at 35.80.

Low score on bars costs Chiefs

By Dan O'Neare
staff writer

The only thing marring an otherwise excellent showing by Plymouth Canton gymnasts Thursday was a low score on the uneven bars.

The Chiefs scored 30.70 and placed fifth in that event, which caused them to finish fourth instead of third at the Western Lakes Activities Association meet.

Plymouth Salem also had a good meet from a pair of all-arounders and finished behind Canton. Northville scored 132.93, the Chiefs 131.70 and the Rocks 128.85.

Canton's objective was to beat host Northville, according to coach John Cunningham, and the Chiefs, who were better than the Mustangs in every other event, would have accomplished that with a higher score on bars.

It so happened Northville had the best team score on bars with a 35.05, giving the Mustangs a 4.35 advantage over Canton and enough points to make up the difference in the other three events.

"WE'VE SCORED as high as 33 on bars," Cunningham said. "Give me three more points, and I'm ahead of Northville and challenging (second-place Westland John) Glenn.

"I can't complain; we didn't have that bad a bars. We just didn't get the scores. But this was the kind of meet I wanted before regionals — a confidence builder.

"We've got both Glenn and Northville in our region," he added. "We're going to shoot for second or third, and that will qualify us for state. We've got another week (to get ready)."

Canton, which will be host for the regional Saturday, had an outstanding meet on the balance beam, scoring a meet-high 33.90. Heather Murphy was third, Dawn Clifford was tied for fourth and Johanna Anderson was sixth.

"The last three girls just kicked out on beam," Cunningham said. "In this competition, that's the kind of thing you want to see."

Despite the low score on bars, the Chiefs still had their best team total of the season, also.

"WE'RE BACK to where we should be," Cunningham said. "The bars are there. It's not a matter of something we can't get. We just didn't get them today."

Besides Anderson, Clifford and Murphy, who were seventh, 11th and 14th in the all-around, respectively, Cunningham was pleased with Anais Yoon (8.05 on beam), Danielle Mirto (8.40 on floor) and Sandi Sherwin (8.3 on vault).

"She's the kid who just started gymnastics this year," said Cunningham of Sherwin. "She decided 'I'm going to be a gymnast' and is proving it can happen."

Salem's team score was just .10 shy of its season best. Senior Dana Holda had her best all-around score at 33.45 and placed 10th, and freshman Autumn Bunch finished 13th with a 32.75 score.

"(Holda) knew she had to get her score on floor (8.30)," Salem coach Kathi Kinsella said. "She needed one more to go to regionals and she got it."

"Obviously, she had a very good meet, but the team is what gets us where we're going. We're trying to get ready for regionals, and we're almost ready."

BUNCH FINISHED her day of competition with her best performance. She received an 8.75 in floor exercise and tied for fifth with Anderson of Canton.

"And believe it or not, she left out a difficult trick in the last pass," Kinsella said. "She left out a back tuck, which brought her score down a little bit. But it was still a very good score."

Dana Holda, a Plymouth Salem senior, was 10th out of 21 all-around gymnasts Thursday in the WLAA meet.

Glenn's Minch top performer in WLAA meet

"I scored best on vault but felt really good on beam," Minch said, adding Thursday was the first time she performed a new mount on beam. "It's a round-off, layout move. It was so scary. If you do one little thing wrong, you're off. You won't land on the beam."

Minch's favorite event, however, is the bars. At one time it was her weakest. But during 10 years of training at the club level, she turned it into a strength by practice and increased physical strength.

"That's what I do the best on," she said. "I feel like I'm in control. I practice that the most."

"I go to practice (with the high school team) and then go to practice at another gym. I've had so many meets this year, I'm not even nervous anymore."

YOCKEY WAS Minch's coach when the latter was a beginning gymnast years ago, and she knew then Minch, who has scored 38.00 or better in the all-around twice this season, had potential.

"She's a little, feisty character," Yockey said. "She has a determination that doesn't quit. She has the concentration that puts everything into whatever she's doing at the moment."

"She tried some new things today and wasn't able to get some of the scores she had been getting, but her placement was good. That's where she belongs."

"She's head and shoulders above the other kids here because of what she's performing," she added.

In addition to Minch, senior Debbie Williams also had a good meet for Glenn, placing among the top 10 in every event and fourth in the all-around (34.35).

Holowicki gets 12th district title

By Brad Emons
staff writer

The Redford Catholic Central Shamrocks saw a tough draw ahead in their own district basketball tournament.

But they came through in the clutch Friday by conquering Detroit Redford, 67-65, for coach Bernie Holowicki's 12th district crown.

Forward Scott Haucher played a pivotal role in the victory with a team-high 23 points. CC now advances to Wednesday's Class A regional to face two-time defending Class A champion Detroit Cooley (21-1) at Southfield-Lathrup. (Game time is 7 p.m.)

It was only a week earlier that the Shamrocks were humbled in the Operation-Friendship final by Detroit Southwestern, 85-44, but Haucher, who scored the final six CC points, said playing the Public School League champs "helped us a lot."

"That game with Southwestern kind of lowered us down," said the senior captain. "When we play hard we can play with anybody, but when we don't we can be beaten by anybody. We just can't show up. We don't have a lot of talent so we have to play hard. That's why we've been up and down all season."

THE SHAMROCKS, who escaped with earlier district wins against Detroit Henry Ford and Southfield, appeared to be treading water again when the Huskies opened up a 17-8 first-quarter lead.

But the game began to sway back in CC's way when 6-foot-4 forward Marco Britton picked up his third foul late in the opening period.

"He (Britton) was one of their best leapers and when he got three fouls right away that helped when he went out," Haucher said.

The Huskies, however, held their own without the talented junior to lead 36-29 at the half.

"We knew the key to winning the game was rebounding (rebounding) with them," said Holowicki. "They (Redford) have multiple leapers."

"In the second half I had us go into our '75 press.' We didn't want to lay back. We wanted to attack. Sometimes it works and sometimes it doesn't. Tonight it was working."

And Ray Richards, a 6-5 senior, got untracked in the second half, scoring nine of his 13 points. Point-guard Terry Boykin contributed 14 before fouling out late, while Jeff Schaner added 11.

JUNIOR DEREK HARDY tallied a game-high 27, while Robert Morgan added 12 for the Huskies, who bowed out with a 10-7 record.

Meanwhile, Britton was held to seven and fouled out.

By the end of third quarter CC had all but seized the momentum, trailing 48-45.

Schaner's three-pointer to open the fourth quarter gave CC the lead and a three-point play by Richards with 5:55 remaining put the Shamrocks ahead for good, 51-49.

But Redford stayed close right until the final seconds.

Phil Mingo's basket with 23 seconds to go made it a two-point deficit, 67-65. And the Huskies got a break they were looking for when CC turned the ball over with 15 seconds to play.

Coach Marvin Miles then called a timeout to set up a final shot. When play resumed the Huskies patiently moved the ball around CC's matchup-zone, but Don Gross failed to convert the equalizer, missing a shot near the three-point stripe with two seconds remaining.

"It was a real battle," Holowicki said. "It seemed every time we got a bit of a lead, they'd hit a three-pointer."

HAUCHER'S game-winning basket with 33 seconds left seemed to typify the Shamrocks' night. He scored a layup when he got behind the Redford press.

"Scott's a very determined athlete and one of the smartest players I've ever coached," Holowicki said. "We let him call a lot of our plays."

"And Ray (Richards) came up big in the second half. He played hard and went to the hole."

The CC coach said the win was particularly satisfying from the standpoint of overcoming adversity for most of the season.

"It's rewarding for them because they've worked hard," said Holowicki. "We had a bad start (1-4) this season and turned it around, and then we got embarrassed by Southwestern, but that seems like ages ago."

Canton title bid falls short by 8

Canton got off to a good start by winning the opening event, the 200 medley relay. "We had to win that," said Wellman. "If we didn't, we never would have been able to challenge (Salem)."

Homan, Scott Schwartzwelder, Bryce Anderson and Mitch Timberlake combined for the win in 1:42.63, edging Salem's Chris Butzlaff, Mark Erickson, Hill and Fred Seidelman (1:42.90).

FARMINGTON'S SCOTT Hawkins was the 50 free winner, in 22.41. In the 100 butterfly, Steve Turney of North grabbed top honors in 55.59, outdueling Canton's Bryce Anderson (55.76). And in the 100 backstroke, Livonia Churchill's Mark Papierski was first in 57.47.

Northville dominated the diving, claiming the top three spots. Rob Devyak won the title with 421.70 points.

"We had opportunities all over the place that we could have won the meet," said Wellman. "But we really didn't have any control over it. The league is just so strong."

Olson agreed. "I don't know of anyone who didn't do well for us," he said. "We swam really well in the prelims, but we had lost points. That's not the way it's supposed to be."

"Everybody swam well for us in the prelims, and they swam better tonight."

And yet, as strong as the two CEP coaches claim the WLAA is, there was little doubt where the strength is centered. There was a 117-point gap between second-place Canton and third-place North.

The difference between first and second was obvious enough. In Wellman's description of Salem's advantage, "Thank God for Orris."

Spartans prevail over Harrison

By Dan O'Meara
staff writer

Dwayne Hayes didn't expect to score 18 points Saturday night, and neither did the Farmington Hills Harrison basketball team.

Hayes usually fills a non-scoring role for Bishop Borgess, but he exploded for a season-high total as the Spartans defeated Harrison in the final of their own Class B district tournament, 70-51.

Borgess, 14-9, advances to the regional at Warren Woods-Tower to play Mount Clemens Clintondale at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday. The championship is scheduled for 7:30 p.m. Friday.

"I was looking to play good 'D' and help out where I could," said Hayes, a 5-foot-9 point guard. "Tonight, they were giving it to me, so I was taking it."

"I've had a bad year so far. I guess they assumed I wouldn't hit those shots, but somehow I came through."

HAYES WAS right. Harrison coach Mike Teachman had scouted the Spartans five times and knew Hayes, averaging only two points, wasn't one of Borgess' regular scoring threats.

"In the two games I charted shots, he took one shot," Teachman said. "So we left him open, and he had to take the shots. And he certainly did come through."

Shawn Respert also scored 18 points for the Spartans, and Charles North had 13 on four triples and a free throw. Artie Brown added nine points and Carl Woods eight.

Chad Burgess, the all-time leading scorer at Harrison, had 16 in his final game and finished his career with 999 points, according to Teachman. Jason Lichtman tossed in 11 points, Mill Coleman and Rob Karbowski nine apiece for the Hawks, who end the season 18-4.

Harrison wanted to limit Respert to 18, Teachman said, and hold down North's scoring. The Spartans were content to play the half-court game Harrison wanted, and Burgess made up for a lack of transition points by shooting 17-of-30 in the first half and 54 percent through three periods.

"We didn't want Respert getting into the coast-to-coast stuff," Teachman said. "That was the idea of not pressing."

"THEY DON'T use him to bring the ball up, so he's in the middle going against forwards and centers — people he's quicker than."

Respert had 14 points in the first half and Hayes, hitting open jumpers from the top of the circle, 10 as Borgess opened up a 10-point lead at halftime.

The teams began the game racking up numbers faster than a cash register with the Hawks leading 15-13, but Borgess scored the last 10 points — including two of North's triples — and was never behind after that.

"Artie is the third man we look to score, but his shots weren't falling tonight, and Dwayne came through," Borgess coach Mike Fusco said.

"I never tell a kid not to shoot. If it's falling for you like that, I'm not going to tell him no."

Harrison rallied twice to cut the Borgess lead to four points but got no closer.

THE HAWKS went on a 12-5 run in the second quarter to make it 35-31, but the Spartans scored the last six with Respert sinking a layup at the buzzer.

Coleman's layup narrowed the score to 49-45 with 1:37 left in the third period at a time when the Spartans were in a cold-shooting phase. Borgess came out of the brief spin with Brown's last-second shot and played steady ball in the finale.

North's last triple and a Respert turnaround put the Spartans over the top in the fourth quarter, leading 59-49 with 4:45 to play. Harrison was 2-of-15 from the floor in the last period.

"Until the end when we had to hack a little and stop the clock, the difference was we missed some layups and free throws, and that changes the complexion of the game," Teachman said.

It looked as if Salem would avoid the harried finish that occurred the last time it played the Spartans — who won 71-69 on Feb. 9 — when Salem streaked to an 11-point half-time lead.

The slow-starting Rocks trailed 22-18 when they rallied against a suddenly turnover-prone Stevenson. Salem outscored the Spartans 18-3 to lead 36-24 with 2:40 left in the half.

The Rocks continued to roll in the third quarter, scoring the first nine points. In a wide-open quarter, Baker had 10 points as his teammates continued to find him at the end of the fast break.

BUT BARAN'S triple cut the deficit to 64-50 at the end of the third period, and the Spartans kept coming in the finale. Stevenson scored the first 10 points and outscored the Rocks 18-1 to take a 68-65 lead on a Nazelli layup.

"In the first half, it was all outside," Nazelli said. "We were hitting well from there, so they had to come out and guard that. Our guards started getting it inside, and I have to give them all the credit."

As was the case in Wednesday's win over Novi in which Nazelli had 17 second-half points, he was much more active around the basket, taking the entry pass and ducking around the defender to the hoop. He had 10 points in the finale.

"He went over and set the screen and popped back to the dotted line and was wide open," McIntyre said. "He's so tough coming back, by the time they realized we weren't going to the kid on the block, Nazelli probably already had spun back and had the ball."

Elliott gave Salem a 70-69 lead when he hit a short baseline jumper with one minute to play. But that was Salem's only field goal of the fourth period, and the Rocks were 1-of-13 in the quarter.

"Sometimes when you have a big lead, there's a tendency to say all we have to do is hold the ball," Brodie said. "But that's not our style."

"We broke their pressure, but then it was like 'Now what do we do with it?' We couldn't get into the offense."

SCHWEDT REPLIED by driving to the opposite basket for the winning layup 13 seconds after Elliott's bucket.

"He's also an all-state soccer kid," McIntyre said. "He knows how to win in the clutch. He probably won a couple (soccer) playoff games doing the same thing."

"Once a kid is a winner, put him in a different uniform, and he's going to come up to the same level."

After a Stevenson turnover, a pass slipped through Baker's fingers on the baseline, but he atoned with a mid-court steal that kept alive Salem's hopes. He fed Elliott, who was fouled driving on the basket with :02 to play.

Hot-shooting DePorres puts St. Agatha out of tournament

By Brad Emons
staff writer

One could only guess how good Detroit DePorres would have been with Tony Tolbert.

But even without the injured All-State guard, who is bound for the University of Michigan, the Eagles are a pretty good basketball team as Redford St. Agatha can attest after Saturday's Class C district final at Orchard Lake St. Mary's, falling 61-41.

The Aggies, Catholic League C-D Division champs, bowed out with an 18-5 record, while DePorres advanced to the Dundee regional with a 14-7 record.

Agatha failed to capitalize on a number of good scoring opportunities in the early going as DePorres roared out to a 19-12 first-quarter lead.

"We should have scored on our first three possessions and that would have helped us momentum-wise," said Agatha coach Jim Murphy. "We make those shots and it's a different ball game. Once they got that early six-point lead, now we're fighting to get back the rest of the night."

AGATHA CAME OUT with a 1-3-1 zone defense, but the Eagles

came out smoking. They increased their lead to 36-22 at intermission and 46-28 after three quarters.

"We've been throwing bricks all year; this is the best we've ever shot," said DePorres coach Ed Rachel.

Murphy was also impressed with the way the Eagles came out and hit seven of their first 10 shots.

"That's something we didn't expect," said the Agatha coach. "The 1-3-1 is something we normally don't run. I didn't think they could shoot outside, but I guess they can."

The top marksmen for the Eagles was 6-foot-4 senior Rashe Revere and freshman guard Brian Tolbert (younger brother of Tony). Each tallied 14 points. Terrell Thornton and Anthony Jackson added 12 and 11, respectively.

"Jackson and Revere became eligible right after Tony got hurt," Rachel said, "but we haven't had our full lineup yet because when they came back, Tony went down with the knee."

"But I was very happy with our freshman point-guard (Tolbert) off the bench tonight. He's played outstanding the whole journey."

RACHEL SAID the young Eagles have matured since losing to Orchard Lake St. Mary's in the Catholic League A-B Division playoffs (Feb. 18) at the University of Detroit's Callahan Hall.

"We lost to (Detroit) Cass Tech and UD-Jesuit, but I think by picking up tough games like that only helped us get ready for districts," Rachel said.

Meanwhile, Murphy said the Aggies' light schedule caught up with them.

"Playing the type of teams we've played all year long didn't prepare us to play a team like DePorres," he said. "But it was a good season for us."

The Agatha coach said he will miss all eight seniors.

"Four played regularly and four didn't play regularly, but the ones who didn't play contributed every day in practice and never complained," said Murphy.

Playing their final games for the Aggies were Galen Walker, who led with 14 points; Mike Boyle, who added 13 before fouling out; Matt Haran, seven; Matt Shortall, Pat Cylkowski, Mark Salah, Bob Picano and Pat Heffernan.

Bowling's origin questioned; High school qualifying on tap

WHERE DID IT all start? I have asked many people who have been around the sport of bowling for a long time, and nobody seems to know for sure exactly where bowling, in its present form, began.

It is possible that even the cavemen could have picked up a rock and tossed it as a pile of bones to see if they could knock them all down.

Perhaps the ancient Greeks practiced some form of bowling. There were bowling (artifacts) found in the tomb of an Egyptian child of about 5,200 BC, and the Italian game of Bocci traces back 2,000 years.

If any readers of this column have any information regarding this subject, please write to me, and we'll see who comes up with the most likely story.

You would think this game was really invented by the breweries, what with "beer frames" and all. By present format, I mean the use of 10 pins, a wooden surface of the present dimensions and similar type of missile. This does not include "turkey bowling."

In case you missed the news item recently, there have been some supermarket late-shift stock boys in California who reinvented the game by rolling a 16-pound frozen Butterball turkey at a set-up of 10 pop bottles at the end of an aisle. If you just happen to work in a supermarket, don't try it. The guy that got all the publicity got fired.

There are some very strong youth travel leagues in the area. They bowl in a different house each week. The teenage girls have been doing very well, and Tamika Glenn of Farmington Hills won the February tournament.

Lona Palise of Garden City was mentioned two weeks ago in this column, and Melissa Lindroth has just set a national high mark for the Junior Girls Division of the YABA with a 721 actual series.

At Mayflower Lanes in Redford Township, Clark Stone of Westland Center Men's League rolled games of 243-266-253, which adds up to a 762 series.

In the Thursday Mixed Seniors, Emery Gilnes shot a 212 and Larry Sharp had a 569 series. Frank Ferrara, bowling in the Friday Seniors League, pitched 12 consecutive strikes, but not in the same game and finished Game No. 2 with six and started Game No. 3 with another six in a row.

The Wednesday Nite Owls saw Bev Bricker shoot a 214 game, well over her 139 average. A few weeks ago Kathy Shanks made the 7-10 split.

10-pin alley AI Harrison

Woodland Lanes in Livonia had some excellent games from the youth leagues as 9-year-old Ryan Anderson rolled a 195 game and 491 series and 11-year-old Scott Hardesty bettered his 119 average with a pair of 159 games in the Livonia Parks & Rec Preps. In the Friday Preps, Christy Rose (age 11) scored a 217 game, and 12-year-old Mike Topolewski fired a 221 game.

In the Catholic Central Father & Son League, 11-year-old Matt Sroczynski (145 average) rolled games of 225 and 204 in a 573 series. The grown-ups liked the way the Lanes were behaving in the Wednesday Men's Trio League as these scores show: Tom Matheson bowled a 299 game (solid 4 pin on the last ball) and 703 series; Dave Norwick 683, Bobby Thompson 682, Walt Smith 677, Joe Gumbis 672 and Erv Watson 268-671.

In the Senior House League, Ken Smoltz led with a 279 game and 772 set, and Tony Kempinski rolled a 715 series. In the Livonia Elks League, Gary Porman had a 694 series, Nick Ferri a 277 game 664. The Grandale League featured a 278 game by Bud LeBlanc, Sr.; his series was 692. The "strikers" saw Howard Foucher with a 685.

Ford Parts was led by Tim Sparrow's 279 while Keith Coon ran up a 650 set. The Fyers saw Ellis Lange pitch a 619 series. The Jacks & Jills Mixed League saw a 251 game by Judy Moore, a 662 series by Yours Truly, a 221 game from Tom Brodeur and a 639 series by Gary Filban.

In the Bucks and Does Mixed League, Mark Wenzel registered a 278 game. The Batz's Bar League had the following results: Randy Smith, 298-193-201 for a 692 series; Bob Lewicki a 745 series on games of 229, 269 and 247; Len Singer 257-66; Jeff Wolber 227-644; Mark Cumbo 235-642; Gary Flummerfelt 217-626; Howard Clark 227-620; Ed Wisniewski 210-611; Terry Cwik 221-611; Don Deptula 245-609; Jeep Newton 221-608; Larry Hreben 607; Don Liptow 222-610; Joe Bigos 224-609; and John Udvardy 223-605.

Town & Country Lanes in Westland had a lot of high scoring in the week past. In the Friday Junior House League, Steve Stemp rolled 736, Rick Ryan 726 and Joe Bobby 728. Bobby also shot 717 in the Junior Classics, and Billy Mull also rolled a 710 in the same tournament.

Steve Pencola registered a 300 game and 677 series in the Guys & Dolls Mixed League, Feb. 26 at Town & Country Lanes.

The Ladies Senior House was the site of a 624 by Denise Hubbard and a 609 series from Cheryl Starback. The youth highlights from Feb 25 were (teenagers) Chris Adomitis 232-590, Jason Wiecek 205-584, Carl Mason 205-584, Mike Bint 218, Doug Ellison 210, Jason Salingue 204, Julie Troell 211-548, Tiffany Peeler 498 and Christy Arborgast 489. Prep highlights included 538 and 471 series by Terry Zelek and Steve Baran, respectively, and Michael Johnson's 120 game.

Oak Lanes on Middlebelt is the scene of the Monday Nite Ladies League with competition starting at 8:30 p.m. Leading the way was Jeri Toner in a 218 game, along with Laura Schmidt with a 209 score.

The high school team championship will take place on April 2, with the first qualifying rounds on March 19. Among the school which have placed entries so far are Redford Bishop Borgess, Northville, Southfield, Wayne Memorial and Troy Athens. Interested parties should contact Michael Martus at 254-2748 or Harry Burkey at 881-9149.

Bowling Tip of the Week: A few words about splits. Everybody hates to get them, but they are part of bowling and sometimes they pop up when you least expect them.

Some splits are almost impossible to convert by just nicking the edge of the pin to slide across to another on the same (parallel) plan. I'm talking about the 4-6 or 7-10 snake-eyes split. Kathy Shanks made the 7-10 at Mayflower Lanes. This is a rare feat.

I am amazed at how many league bowlers still try to slide it across and end up missing all the pins. This is giving away the score, and often enough a game can be decided by one single pin.

Foul shots doom Lutheran Westland

By Bob Stebbins
staff writer

Free throws, as they so often do, decided another close basketball game Saturday.

Host Allen Park Inter-City Baptist hit all 10 of its foul shots in the fourth quarter en route to a 60-56 win over Lutheran Westland in a Class D district final.

The Chargers shot 19 of 23 from the foul line for the game, while Westland connected on only 10 of 20 attempts.

Westland coach Scott Wiemer knew how important the free totals were. "I think if you looked back in the first half at the free throws we missed, that played a part (in the defeat)," he said.

The Warriors, however, were still in position to win the game despite the discrepancy in foul shooting.

They had a five-point lead and possession of the ball with less than two minutes to play before four turnovers and a missed one-and-one free-throw attempt led to 10 straight Allen Park points and a 60-55 Charger lead with only three seconds remaining.

EIGHT OF THE 10 points in the run came from the charity stripe.

Wiemer was pleased with his team's effort in defeat. "I thought we played hard for four quarters and that's all I can ask," said the Westland coach. "There were a few key shots (early in the game) that would have turned the tide."

Sophomore forward Mike Hardies led the Warriors with 19 points, including 13 of the team's 17 fourth-quarter points. Chris Habitz and Bryan O'Droski also chipped in with 10 points apiece for Westland, which closed out the season at 6-17.

Keith Howard paced Allen Park with 14 points, while Mike Veenstra and Andy Ragsdale each added 12 for the winners.

On Thursday, Lutheran Westland ousted Taylor Baptist Park, 45-38, as junior center Doug Nelson paced the winners with 10 points and nine rebounds.

The Warriors trailed 31-28 after three quarters before making a 17-7 run in the final period.

OAKLAND CHRISTIAN 67, TEMPLE 52: In a Class D district semifinal Thursday, host Redford Temple Christian couldn't overcome Pontiac-Oakland Christian as Mike Gingell paced the winners with 17 points.

Maurice Little and Marion Reed tallied 14 and 13, respectively, for Temple, which bowed out with a 11-11 record.

STREET SCENE

Going to the dogs . . .

Pooches capivate breeders

By Joan Boram
special writer

It's a scene worthy of Norman Rockwell — a boy and his dog, a fishing pole slung over his shoulder, trudging along a country lane to the old fishing hole.

But what's this? the lad is togged out in designer sweats, his sturdy feet shod in aerobic "tennies" and his faithful mutt is an Akita.

An Akita? Sounds like a small Japanese car, but it's really a large Japanese dog that's about the same size as a small Japanese car when fully grown (males can weigh as much as 140 pounds).

Revered as a national monument in his native country, the Akita is just one of several exotic imports that are capturing the imaginations of American dog lovers, who are switching their allegiance from such all-American breeds as the blue-tick hound.

Originally bred as a fearless hunter of bear, deer and wild boar, ownership of the Akita was for a time, restricted to the Imperial family and the ruling aristocracy. Care and feeding of the Akita were detailed in elaborate ceremony and a special vocabulary was used to address the Akita and to speak about them.

In modern Japan, the Akita is regarded as a symbol of good health as well as pets and protectors. When a child is born, the family will often receive a small statue of an Akita to express wishes for health, happiness and a long life. A person suffering from illness may receive a similar statue to express wishes for a speedy recovery.

HELEN KELLER is credited with bringing the first Akita to the United States. She was given a two-month-old puppy on a visit to Japan in June 1937. Later, when the puppy died, the Prefecture of Japan sent her another one.

Despite looks, loyalty and intelligence, the breed is not for everyone.

"If you have the kind of house where the doors are open to everyone and there are a lot of strangers, the Akita is not the dog for you," said Eileen Downey of Berkley, an Akita breeder. "They will watch to see if a person is accepted by the family, but they will remain aloof from someone they don't know well."

"They are quite a watch dog. They don't run up and down the fence, barking, but they are very protective of their family."

Despite a name that sounds like a gourmet ice cream franchise, the Bichon Frise is a very old European breed — they originated in the 1200s in the Canary Islands. A cross between the water spaniel and Maltese, the breed has only been recognized by the American Kennel Club since 1972.

At low points in their histories, Bichon Frise were featured members of circuses and fairs, where their pert looks and intelligence condemned them to a life of buffoonery.

The modern Bichon emerged in France under Francis I, the 16th century patron of the Renaissance. The breed was also very successful in Spain as a favorite of the Infantas. As such, they were included in several of Goya's paintings.

A TINY — 8½ inches — white ball of fluff, the Bichon is not a worker or a fighter. He's a lover and always has been. Breeder Joanne Horner of Troy is rhapsodic about them.

"They have a gorgeous temperament, very lovable, but laid-back, not excitable like some dogs," she said. "They're very intelligent and easy to train. They just love to be loved."

But they're not trouble free. They need to be brushed daily and groomed regularly, Horne said.

"But for the love they give, they're worth it," she added.

The Basenji, the barkless dog, is often favored by philosophical types whose favorite sound is one hand clapping. The breed was favored by Egyptian pharaohs, who received them as gifts from Sudanese pygmies.

It's called the dog of Ceops by archeologists after the pharaoh who built the great pyramids where the dog is depicted in friezes laying near the couch of its master.

According to Commerce Township breeder Les Butler, the dog "came out of the bush (the Congo) in the 1930s, when it was introduced into England and the United States at about the same time."

"Basenjis are very clean and wash themselves by licking their paws like a cat," Butler said. "Also like a cat, they don't care for water. They are very intelligent and good-tempered, but independent — they have a mind of their own."

"They are so graceful that they are often compared to a small deer."

Although he doesn't bark, the Basenji does whine and growl and when he's happy, he chortles," Butler said.

LIKE MANY breeds, the Chinese Shar-Pei started life as a working animal, used for hunting

Cobo gets ready for pooch parade

By Joan Boram
special writer

America's largest one-day, all-breed, benched dog show is coming to Detroit's expanded Cobo Hall Sunday, March 12.

The 71st annual Detroit Kenel Club event features a "benched format, meaning that dogs entered in the competition are stationed on benches except during the time they are getting judged and groomed.

The situation is ideal for viewing by spectators as they walk through the show's 400,000 square feet of space — that's 100,000 square feet more than last year and good news for those whose claustrophobia overwhelms their canophilia!

Approximately 3,100 dogs will compete in this year's show. Dogs of each breed will be judged in six different classifications — puppies, novice, American breed, bred by exhibitor, open class and best of breed.

The show will feature a Grand Prix-style steeplechase event with a course that includes seven barriers, a scaling wall and a 10-foot long tunnel.

Dogs will race against the clock during the individual time trials and because of the intricacy of the scissors-shaped Grand Prix course, dogs of all sizes have an equal opportunity to win.

"WITH THE completion of the magnificent Cobo Center, we are looking forward to hosting our best and biggest Detroit dog show," said Eric Bergshagen, president of DKC. Bergshagen is owner of Jagerboro (hunter's home in Danish) Kennels in Troy, one of the oldest registered kennels in Michigan. He breeds Labrador retrievers.

Among the judges will be Paolo Donina of Milan, Italy, who will judge the tournament of champions and individual breeds — Schipperkes, Lhasa Apsos, Keeshonden, French bulldogs and Finnish Spitz.

Jim Rider/staff photographer

Joanne Horne of Troy is sold on the Bichon Frise. Joined by her daughter Rebecca, 9, and Andrew, 5, she shows off Molly, 3 months old, and Rembrandt, 2 years old, whom she co-owns, and Tigre, 11 years old.

MOVING PICTURES

Writers deserve to get 'Grievous Bodily Harm'

The spring season is well underway this week, albeit in a number of cases the screenwriters' minds have been fatally flawed by a fungus from Frankfurt.

"Grievous Bodily Harm," (D-, R, 95 minutes), concerns crime reporter Tom Stewart whose murky relationship with a police sergeant led to a book used by literature instructor Morris Martin, who doesn't believe that his wife, Claudine, is really dead.

Don't get cocky if you got all that because that's just the tip of the iceberg of a story frozen in the dark reaches of muddled minds. There are five murders, another dozen or so characters (did I tell you about the big robbery?) plus other complications.

The abrupt editing keeps viewers on their toes and no matter how carefully one listens the mumbling and/or Australian accents make it impossible to figure out all the details. (Did I mention the noted surgeon who make porno videos?)

There was some perverse fun in trying to figure it all out (I couldn't) and in waiting around to see whether the movies

or not everything was explained (it wasn't). "Grievous Bodily Harm" should be done to the screenwriters of this confused and confusing Australian movie.

If you thought that was bad... wait... "Dream a Little Dream" (F, PG-13, 110 minutes) is worse. Mr. and Mrs. Coleman Ettinger (Jason Robards and Piper Laurie) are in the back yard one night doing a mystical hockey-pokey when a couple of teenagers (Meredith Salenger and Corey Feldman) bump into each other (literally) and interfere with the Ettingers' cosmic stuff.

Harry Dean Stanton is Jason Robards' friend and, naturally, Corey Feldman's buddy is the other Corey (Haim). The entire proceeding is deadly. Unfortunately, the corpse kept wiggling through almost two hours of disorganized clichés — slow-paced ones at that. Only masochists and isomniacs need apply to this little hallucination.

On the brighter side of film production, although not so happy in its message about conditions in Black America, "Lean On Me" (A-, R, 100 minutes) is an excellent rendering of the true story of Joe Clark (Morgan Freeman). Clark was appointed (for political reasons) to straighten out things at Eastside High in Patterson, New Jersey. His unorthodox methods work, but at considerable cost, and even his good friend and supporter, school Superintendent Dr. Frank Napier (Robert Guillaume) has trouble stomaching Clark's tactics.

The film is outspoken, as it should be, in its condemnation of the political and economic processes that have trapped Black America in cities surrounded by white suburbs.

The film manages quite successfully to project that message without preaching or getting sappy, although Clark makes it seem easier than it is, but since this is supposed to be a true story, perhaps truth is stranger than fiction. That, however, doesn't relieve filmmakers of their obligation to make it look credible.

For the most part they do, by good acting, fast-paced and an energetic, inspirational sound track. It's good entertainment and despite a happy, comic facade, "Lean On Me" is frank and outspoken about our treatment of minority students in inner cities.

"All's Fair" stars George Segal, Sally Kellerman, Robert Carradine, Lou Ferrigno and Jane Kaczmarek in a story of a young woman executive in conflict with her male colleagues.

"Kinjite" ("Forbidden Subjects") is more Charles Bronson's R-rated violence. This time he's a veteran detective with anti-Asian bias.

"Skin Deep" (R) is a comedy about an author who finds his marriage is collapsing because he is irresponsible, drinks too much and chases women. With John Ritter.

STILL PLAYING:
"The Accidental Tourist" (C+) (PG) 120 minutes.

Slow-paced family melodrama.
"Beaches" (A+) (PG-13) 120 minutes.

Bette Midler and Barbara Hershey in fine show of friendship.

"Bill & Ted's Excellent Adventure" (B-) (PG-13)

"The 'Bubs" (D) (PG) 95 minutes
Tom Hanks in slow-paced, absurd satire of horror films.

"The Chocolate War" (B+) (R) 105 minutes.

"Cousins" (A-) (PG-13) (115 minutes).

"Dangerous Liaisons" (C+) (R) 115 minutes.

Even lush images and good acting can't overcome the non-cinematic quality of this boring story of pre-Revolutionary French decadence.

"Dirty Rotten Scoundrels" (B+) (PG) 100 minutes.

"The Fly II" (R) (R).

"I'm Gonna Get You Sucka" (C+) (R) 85 minutes.

"The Land Before Time" (A) (G) 75 minutes.

"Lucky Stiff" (PG)

A beautiful woman takes a 300-pound man home for dinner — her family members are cannibals.

"The Mighty Quinn" (C-) (R) 90 minutes.

Grading the movies

A+	Top marks - sure to please
A	Close behind - excellent
A-	Still in running for top honors
B+	Pretty good stuff, not perfect
B	Good
B-	Good but notable deficiencies
C+	Just a cut above average
C	Mediocre
C-	Not so hot and slipping fast
D+	The very best of the poor stuff
D	Poor
D-	It doesn't get much worse
F	Truly awful
Z	Reserved for the colossally bad
*	No advanced screening

"Mississippi Burning" (A+) (R) 130 minutes.

"Naked Gun" (D) (PG-13) 90 minutes.

Overly broad farce never gets off the ground floor of the police squad room.

"Oliver and Company" (A) (G) 70 minutes.

Disney animation at its best.

"Rain Man" (A+) (R) 130 minutes.

Tom Cruise and Dustin Hoffman star as brothers in every sense.

"Tap" (C+) (PG-13) 105 minutes.

Nice dancing, but trite story with Sammy Davis Jr. and Gregory Hines.

"The Terror Within" (R)

"Three Fugitives" (A-) (PG-13) 95 minutes.

Touching comedy about a tough guy, a little misfit and his cute daughter.

"Torch Song Trilogy" (B) (R) 122 minutes.

VIDEO VIEWING

By Dan Greenberg
staff writer

The recently released video cassette of "A Tree Grows in Brooklyn" (A, 126 minutes) was never rated, but it's a "G" by any standard and the kind of family entertainment that leaves nice warm fuzzy feelings.

A fairly faithful rendition of Betty Smith's novel, it's the saga of the poor, but proud Nolan family who live in the Williamsburg section of Brooklyn around 1910.

The patriarch, Johnny Nolan (James Dunn), is as engagingly filled with blarney as one might expect of an Irish singing waiter. Unfortunately, he drinks up most of his earnings and his embittered wife, Katie (Dorothy McGuire), is forced to support the family as best she can.

Johnny's bad habits don't interfere with daughter Francis's adoration. She's marvelously well-played by Peggy Ann Garner whose long, wistful gazes and determined facial set is readily convincing that she shares Johnny's dreams. Unlike many child performers, Garner does more than look cute.

TED DONALDSON, brother Neeley, is the typical "cute movie kid," but nicely so. Lloyd Nolan is appropriately stiff and proper as the neighborhood policeman, while Joan Blondell tops off the cast as Aunt Sissy, Katie's fast — or at least what passed for "fast" among the prim and proper 80 years ago — blonde sister. Blondell is brassy in the best sense of the term with plenty of warmth for everyone.

Although James Dunn's portrayal of the good-hearted, but misdirected father is charming, the film really belongs to mother and daughter. Dorothy McGuire and Peggy Ann Garner are the hub of activity which centers on Dunn. But it is conflict over his vision of life which energizes their performances and, for that matter, the film itself.

McGuire is the practical mother whose entire existence is devoted to survival while Peggy Ann Garner is consumed by her father's dream of the potential for improvement.

Elia Kazan directed and, particularly for a first effort, is very successful. Plot and setting, and the book from which they are drawn, have the potential for maudlin sentimentality.

"A Tree Grows in Brooklyn" easily could have degenerated into saccharine soap opera, but Kazan kept a tight rein on the proceedings and the film. The unexplained inconsistency is German-accented Grandma Rommerly (Ferike Boros) in an Irish family. As it turns out in the book, Katie and Sissy are Austrian. Dorothy McGuire's slight brogue further confuses this issue.

The standards of Hollywood's studio years, when location shooting was largely unknown and artificial studio settings were the order of the day, are in evidence here.

FOR TODAY'S visually sophisticated eye, "A Tree" may look a bit stilted — the idealized, sanitized Hollywood image of New York's melting pot. For 1945, however, those images were the "state of the art."

The tightness of Kazan's direction keeps the film on track, and its potential for silliness never materializes. Instead, by virtue of excellent characterization and constant reiteration that life does grow and flower, even in Brooklyn, "A Tree Grows in Brooklyn" is joyful and inspiring.

What makes this tape so attractive today is it successfully celebrates life's happy and courageous moments without cloying, surgary sentimentality.

ALTERNATIVE VIEWING

Needed: More Ken Russell

By Anne Sharp
staff writer

Critics have never been happy with Ken Russell. He's just too damn weird, that's all. He's pretentiously high brow and at the same time smirkingly sleazy.

Watching "Gothic" or "Salome's Last Dance" is like attending a graduate seminar in comparative literature held in a Windsor strip club.

Who does he think he is, making up sicko, surrealistic fantasies about Oscar Wilde, Lord Byron, Tchaikovsky and other poor, defenseless dead people? And he does it all the time!

Last summer, a reviewer for the "Village Voice" called Russell "the Thing," as in "the Thing strikes again!" "Wild Thing, I think I love you."

It's a pity that so many viewers are only familiar with Russell from his most tame, commercial films, such as "Altered States" or if they're doddering old fans like myself, "Tommy." Still, this seems to be changing.

"Lair of the White Worm" had a surprisingly long first run and is now friskily making the rounds of alternative cinemas (it's at the Park this week). You can get "Salome" and "Gothic" at the corner video store (right, Dan?), and I've also seen "Litzomania" and "The Music Lovers" on tape. "Women in Love" and "The Devils" have shown up on Bravo.

Of course, you should never watch Russell on video, if you can see it on the big screen instead. His films are made to send you staggering out of the theater, dazed and shivering.

SO MANY things are possible in movies. They can dazzle us, frighten us or make us physically ill. Ordinary filmmakers hold back on the full range of effects available, only letting loose in certain areas clearly labeled horror, science fiction and so on.

Russell has made only two horror films — "Altered States" and "White Worm" — but even in his movies about 19th century writers and composers, there's a bit of the old creep show. Russell may go mad at any minute.

Trouble is, he's really only good when he's mad. The scenes in "Crimes of Passion" where Anthony Perkins does his crazed street preacher routine are amusing, but when the film cuts away to its subplot about a nice suburban couple getting divorced, it's horribly dull.

SIMILARLY, "WHITE Worm" goes numb during the bits about its cute, normal young heroines and heroes, but starts stirring again when Amanda Donohoe slinks in with her fangs, spittle and Noir Leather-like underwear.

Your local English teacher might shriek in outrage over the bizarre things Russell shows Lord Byron and Percy and Mary Shelley doing in "Gothic." But for all its opium swilling, leech swallowing and naked frolics over the rooftops, it's probably closer to how these rebellious young writers really carried on than the "cultural literacy" crowd would care to admit.

Similarly, Russell's segment in the opera video omnibus "Aria," in which a car crash victim's wounds appear, in her fevered imagination, as multicolored jewels, violates our sentimental "Reader's Digest" ideas about what injured people think and feel. Still, there's an element of truth, or uncanny beauty, in this strange vision.

RUSSELL HAS always been ahead of his time, and now it seems his time has come. While many films from the '60s and '70s seem dated, his seem amazingly fresh and relevant. And every new Russell film is a truly excellent adventure. It's gratifying that so much of his work is available, at least on tape.

But what about such rare gems as "Mahler" and "Savage Messiah"? We can't just let them mold away in some vault. Are you listening, film societies?

It's time for a Russell retrospective. We need spectacle. We need a furious burst of glittering lunacy to fill us with terror, pity and delight. We need more, more, more of the Thing.

Gospel according to Mercy Rule

By Larry O'Connor
staff writer

As a band of Christian heavy metal artists, Mercy Rule has found an audience of its peers.

"Our influence is more on other bands we play with than the audience we play for," said bass and keyboard player Bruce Tordrup. "We hear things like, 'It was so nice working with guys that we didn't have to worry about our equipment being ripped off.'"

Well, as the church lady would say, isn't that special? Mercy Rule is trying to carve out its own niche in what has suddenly become a fashionable market — Christian heavy metal.

Stryper has led the way for other bands wearing spandex to sing for Jesus. From that standpoint, Mercy Rule is one of many.

But they have taken a different tact with their message music. Mercy Rule's approach is a bit more subtle than their Bible waving brethren that makes up most Christian rock'n'roll.

"We don't like to continually drive the message home on every song," Tordrup said. "The songs have to be accessible to people. They all have their own meaning."

"Not all of the songs mention Jesus Christ, but all the lyrics have a Christian meaning behind them."

property in the Christian music scene. The band performed regularly in a series of concerts presented on Saturdays by Harvest Ministries of Detroit.

The group is featured on a compilation of Christian hard rock artists from around the country, "Underground Metal." Also, they have their own eight-song mini-LP in the works.

Only recently, though, has Mercy Rule left the security of the Christian audience and staked out in the secular nightclub scene. The band has performed before receptive crowds at Blondie's in Detroit and The Ritz in Roseville.

The venture has not only allowed them to widen their audience, but to gauge their music against what secular bands have to offer.

"WE LOOK at ourselves as a band that is Christian instead of a Christian band," said Tordrup, who lives in Redford. "If you look at Christian bands like Petra, they only perform for Christian audiences. We want to win over secular audiences as well."

The scandals of Jim Bakker and Jimmy Swaggart have left the secular world more than a tad cynical about preachers. Tordrup said he's yet to see any fall out in Christian music circles.

If anything, he said bands such as Mercy Rule have flourished because Swaggart was a noted critic of Christian rock'n'rollers.

Still, there are those critics who doubt the sincerity of some Christian rockers. Some accuse them of embracing Christianity as a marketing tool.

Members of Mercy Rule said no one has ever accused them of that. And, besides, being famous is not the main goal.

"We see ourselves as successful at what we're doing now," Tordrup said. "If we get a record contract, then fine. If we don't, then fine."

Added Rich Farazza: "That's what the name of the band is about. God's mercy rules our lives."

Mercy Rule will perform along with Rez Band and Sacred Warrior at 7:30 p.m. Friday, March 10, at The Redford Theater, Lahser Road, a half block north of Grand River Avenue, Detroit. Tickets are $13.50 at the door. For information, call 561-4599.

American country with a little Scotch

By Larry O'Connor
staff writer

Merle Haggard in a kilt? Hardly. But the Scottish musical outfit Proclaimers profess a genuine love for American country music. Their latest album, "Sunshine on the Leith," (Chrysalis) showcases that as well as influences in folk, rock and pop.

Country? C'mon when is the last time Waylon and Willie pulled into Edinburgh.

"It's a place where you always have country records in your collection and it's usually in the bars as well," said Charlie Reid, who is one half of the twin brother group. "So it's always around you. When you're a kid you don't admit you like country music. It did have an influence on us."

The Proclaimers, though, don't sing about whiskey, women and railroads. Instead, they grapple with the issues affecting their fellow Scots in the storytelling fashion of country music.

Love and politics get equal time on "Sunshine on the Leith," their follow-up to "This Is the Story." Unemployment and being under the thumb of England make for passionate subject matter for the Brogue Brothers.

The steel guitar flavored "What Do You Do" and the soulful "Cup in Hand" have political edges to them. Then sentimental torches such as "I'm Gonna Be" reveal a group who can be gushy.

THE PACKAGE is delivered with more vigor these days. The group has decided to forsake its sparse acoustical presence, opting for a full electric guitar rich sound.

The Proclaimers are touring

America for the first time with a full band. Charlie Reid believes the added members provide more punch to their tunes.

Sales of "Sunshine on the Leith" would indicate that people are getting knocked out. The album has gone platinum in the United Kingdom. All that waits is the United States.

Here, though, the Proclaimers are an unknown entity. One ad for the group's Thursday's show at Saint Andrew's Hall has them billed as being from Ireland.

Also, they come to these shores with no commercial radio play. A problem that besets many groups. Charlie Reid doesn't sound too worried.

"I think one of the problems is that we don't fit neatly into any one category," he said. "But we're getting airplay on college radio. So that helps."

The Proclaimers will perform along with special guests, The Blanks, on Thursday, March 9, at Saint Andrew's Hall, 431 E. Congress, Detroit. For information, call 961-MELT.

REVIEWS

FLIP FLOP

— Guadalcanal Diary

More fun from Georgia.

Fans of Guadalcanal Diary's previous three albums will also enjoy this one. The band produces more its brand of rollicking rock'n'roll on "Flip Flop," although at times without as much passion or verve.

By now Murray Attaway and crew's formula is fairly familiar. Lay down some heavy rockers ("Look Up!," "Likes of You," "Whiskey Talk"), throw in a couple of heady ballads ("Happy Home," "Ten Laws"), toss in a pinch of psychedelia ("Fade Out") and add at least one off-the-wall number ("... Vista").

The band doesn't really break any new musical group, except on "Barometer," a fantastic piece of funk rock which showcases Jeff Walls' searing guitar. Walls omnipresent, Townshendian guitarwork and John Poe's thunderous drumming provide the musical anchor for the band, particularly on "Fade Out" and "Pretty Is as Pretty Does."

The first single, "Always Saturday," is a comical fantasy about living in a constant weekend ("I wish I lived in a shopping mall"). The song is tailor-made for FM radio. But that's OK, since their Athenian predecessors, R.E.M., are scoring big commercial success at the moment, and the Diary is just as deserving.

Literally, the album is vague. Bitterness is abundant, mostly directed at the wealthy. Overall, the band lacks the genuine creativity it has shown in the past on such songs as "Watusi Rodeo" and "Little Birds."

"Ten Laws" is one exception. It declares the 10 commandments outdated and decries the world's immorality. Attaway sarcastically snarls the chorus: "Ten laws to break / 10 laws broken / My, how we've grown." "Flip Flop" is a keeper. But the time has come for Guadalcanal Diary to move forward and break out of the Athens mold.

BELEZA TROPICAL

— Brazilian Classics No. 1

No, no, don't automatically skip past this after reading the album title. OK, so maybe the thoughts of a compilation of Brazilian songs doesn't exactly set your heart racing, but the fact that it is compiled by David Byrne of Talking Heads should be something to grab your attention by the ear.

There is some interesting information on the sleeve, written by Byrne, about the history of Brazilian music. Most notable is how easy it is to mistake the lightness and easy rhythms of the music for bland middle-of-the-road radio schlock when in fact many of the artists on this record were viewed as dangerous by the military regimes of the late '60s and '70s, and were forced into exile by the threats they posed.

As may be surmised by this, most of the artists on the compilation have been around for a long time. They are cultural heroes in their own country and some have made more than 26 LPs already. It is quite easy to fall victim to the easy-listening fallacy when hearing the album. Acoustic guitars and soothing, happy voices abound. The first six songs on side one are very attractive and are reminiscent of the so-called "world music," i.e. Sunny Ade, Ladysmith Black Mambazo, etc., in that they keep that happy bouncy guitar feel.

It is somewhat "off-putting" not to be able to understand what is being sung, but I guess that's as much my fault as it is theirs.

Thankfully, the inner sleeve has an English translation of the lyrics printed alongside the Brazilian version, and it is here that the main strength of the songs are found.

For me, the first six songs have the best combination of melody and lyrics, while the remaining songs are somewhat lacking in the former department, but still manage to retain the marvelous lyrics.

This album, I'm sure, will be a big hit on daytime WDET shows.

JUGGLERS AND THIEVES

— Jugglers and Thieves

The slickly produced debut release from Livonia's Jugglers and Thieves is a maze of musical inconsistency.

Imagine an unnatural mixture of Kate Bush, The Cars and Loverboy and you'll get some idea of the various sound emanating from this record.

The best thing going for the band is the full-throated throat of vocalist/keyboardist Crissy McCall. She has the effortless range of Bush, and her powerful pipes are packed with as much raw emotion as Maria McKee's, although she hasn't quite harnessed it.

The words that she sings are a drawback. The seasonal and temporal images glossing the album are limp and cliché. Some lines are plain laughable, as from "Springtime," "Life should be lived/For it's not here too long."

The lyrics aren't the only problem, as shown in the awful instrumental "Mara's Song." The song starts like a cosmic "Dark Side of the Moon" outtake, and then cranks into what could be the theme to a mid-'70s biker movie.

Despite that, the potential of Jugglers and Thieves to produce quality rock'n'roll shines through on two songs co-written by McCall and bassist Jill Zimba, "Released Again" and "Train Tracks." The latter has more cohesiveness than any other track. It features rhythmic snare drumming by Colin O'Brien and clean, melodious guitar lines from Matthew Sage and Paul Cortez (no relation, I think).

These two songs are the only highlights on the record, but they prove that the band can succeed in making adventurous sounds. They don't have to make music with overused images and trite guitar solos. And they don't have to cover "Amazing Grace," which can't even be rescued by McCall's acrobatic voice.

All Jugglers and Thieves needs is some musical direction and some better lyrics. Or stop printing lyric sheets.

STREET SENSE

Dear Barbara,
I need advice, good, sensible and practical advice. I've never written to a columnist before.

What do you or should you do when you know that you are being taken advantage of by those closest to you? I know it's happening to me (and has been for a very long time), but what's worse is that I really hate it. And to top it off, when I need someone to lean on, there's no one around.

I feel like the little red hen who needed help baking bread. Of course, there's no one around to help get it ready, but when it's all done and ready to eat, everyone's around. I just can't (and won't) say "no."

And it's not only with family and/or friends — it's in the work situation also. I do believe my loyalties are misguided. What's that old saying, "to thine own self be true"? I feel the anger rising as I write this. What would you suggest I do to "just say NO"?

Disgusted
in Detroit

Dear D in D,

If you are truly disgusted with yourself, you won't say yes when you should say no. In your letter, you are describing a rigid character that needs experienced help so that you can change. It will be my policy in this column to try to answer questions asked of me and not to recommend treatment, if possible.

However, when there is a rigid, unchanging, not learning from mistakes type of person, I must in all honesty recommend a qualified, fully trained therapist.

Such a therapist might be able to help you undo the obstacle in your growth and development, so that you will be able to learn from your mistakes rather than rigidly repeating the same, unsuccessful behaviors.

Some possibilities in finding a qualified therapist are asking friends for referrals to therapists who have helped them or asking your family physician.

I wish you continuing growth.

Barbara Schiff

Thank you for your letter.

Barbara

Dear Barbara,

I am a 36-year-old man who has never been married. I want both to be married and to have children very much. Every time I date a girl there is something I eventually don't like about her. Right now I'm dating a girl and we're talking about getting married.

I have many doubts, again, about whether we are right for each other, but I'm getting older and think I'll go through with it anyway.

Is this my problem or is it a problem with girls I've dated, including the present one? I'm confused. Can you help?

Alan

Dear Alan,

You say that you want both to be married and to have children. However, if this is true, you would be married and have children. The many doubts that you are having, again, might show that you want to be married and have children without problems. There is no marriage and children without problems. These problems have to be solved by the adequacy of the marriage partners.

Barbara

and herding, about 2,000 years ago. Unlike other breeds, many of which have languished from indifference, the Shar-Pei was almost eaten out of existence.

In an effort to conserve food supplies and to discourage "decadent" pet ownership, Mao Tse-Tung placed a heavy tax on dog ownership, with the result being that dogs "wound up in the stew pot," explained Westland breeder Sue Pustay.

"In 1974, a few of the dogs made their way from China to the United States by way of Macao and Hong Kong where they had been smuggled by admirers," she said. "Today, China is seeking to re-import the breed to establish a breeding program there."

Shar-Peis epitomize the axiom that beauty is in the eye of the beholder. Its face and, indeed, its whole body is heavily wrinkled, the skin falling in to deep folds, giving the impression that it borrowed some other, larger dog's skin when it climbed out of the stew pot.

Its wrinkles are in two varieties — Meatmouth, the most heavily furrowed, and the Bonemouth, less so.

It's good with children, partly because if a small child pulls on the dog's loose skin, the dog doesn't know it.

"I have three adult dogs and seven puppies, and I also have three children and their friends around," Pustay said. "The children love to play with the dogs and the dogs enjoy it just as much as the children do."

YOU'RE THE kind the pet owner, who doesn't want to fuss?

Well, for those who can't deal with midnight walks, copious shedding, indiscriminate chewing, technology has come to your rescue with the "Video Dog."

This dog is self-walking and will run, if put on fast forward. He obeys commands like "sit up," "get the ball" and "roll over." He always comes when called and the tape even comes with a list of suggested names, like Elektra.

Norman Rockwell would have painted them in acrylics.

Townsend charges his way to top in comedy

By Larry O'Connor
staff writer

Hollywood no longer asks Robert Townsend if it's cash or charge.

With him, they know it's comedy. Of course, Tinsel Town needed some convincing.

The bright young actor, comedian and filmmaker had to drain his bank account and charge $40,000 on his credit cards in order to finance his first movie, "Hollywood Shuffle."

Townsend wrote, produced, directed and starred in the comedy hit, which has since grossed $10 million.

After the success of "Hollywood Shuffle" and his latest film "Mighty Quinn," Townsend's stock is on the rise as a writer and actor, but stand-up comedy is still one of his main pursuits.

"I really enjoy what I do," said Townsend, who will perform on Saturday at the Fisher Theatre in Detroit, "and I try to share Robert. That's really the toughest part, sharing Robert, sharing my views, what I believe in."

"It's like being naked." Returning to the comedy stage makes the circle complete for Townsend. He began polishing his stand-up routine in New York after graduating from Hunter College.

HE BLAZED the comedy trails with another upstart comedian. His name: Eddie Murphy.

In fact, Townsend and Murphy were the two finalists in an audition for a spot on "Saturday Night Live." Murphy not only got the part, but went on to instant stardom. Townsend later produced Murphy's concert movie, "Raw."

Townsend was left behind to toil on the nightclub circuit. Undaunted, he began working on other aspects of his career, such as writing and acting.

The latter proved fruitful, landing him parts in such films as "American Flyers" and "Soldier's Story" along with Denzel Washington (who co-stars in "Mighty Quinn").

Nonetheless, Townsend was frustrated by Hollywood and the limited roles there were for blacks in movies. "Hollywood Shuffle" was a semi-autobiographical painting of that.

The film was not only humorous, but proved a point. And perhaps the work of Townsend and Spike Lee will open the door for other black filmmakers as well.

"I think it has had an effect," Townsend said, "and I have seen some changes. There's still not enough.

Despite his success as an actor and filmmaker, stand-up comedy is still one of Robert Townsend's main pursuits.

"I think Spike Lee and myself want to do something about the images that we disagree with. Making films is the only way to change that."

Already, Townsend is busily working on the script for another film. During the phone interview, the whirl of the computer printing the manuscript for "Heartbeats" could be heard in the background.

THE FILM is about a black singing group similar to stand-up groups like the Spinners and Four Tops and focuses on the friendship that develops between the members.

Stand-up comedy somehow finds a place in it all. Although he's noted for film and television work, the stage is the glue that holds it all together for Townsend.

"It's therapeutic," he said. "When you get out there and you start working your chops, I discover a lot of things about me that I didn't know before."

"I let my guard down and I discover all these things. It's great."

Townsend's calling card is being able to find humor in any situation, whether as a struggling actor/comedian in New York or growing up one of four children on the tough west-side of Chicago.

At 16, he became a member of The Experimental Black Actors Guild, and later, Second City. Townsend was started on the laugh path.

Townsend lists a wide variety of comedic influences, from Lily Tomlin to Danny Kaye, from Richard Pryor to Bill Cosby. The latter might be used to compare both Townsend and fellow comedian Eddie Murphy in their early days.

"I wasn't as clean as Cosby," Townsend said. "I was a little blue, but Eddie was on the edge."

In times of shock comedy, such as Sam Kinison, Eddie Murphy and Richard Pryor, Townsend takes a less abrasive approach to humor. He keeps it clean because, "I think my mother would kill me if she heard me talking like that."

IN THE END, Townsend believes whatever works best depends on the individual.

"I love Richard Pryor. I dig what he does," Townsend said. "But I can't do it. If I try I'll hear, 'Robert why did you curse? It doesn't look good on you, man.'"

"Then there's confrontational type of humor. . . I'm not into the black versus white thing," he added. "I get uncomfortable in that arena. But Richard Pryor will say, 'white people are crazy. . . He'll pour it out.'"

"There's a different zone there. I'm more of an artsy comedian, like a picture. In the end, you know who I am."

Robert Townsend will perform at 8 p.m. Saturday, March 11, at the Fisher Theatre in Detroit. Tickets are $21.50 and $18.50. For information, call 872-1000.

Late arrivals: 'Big' winners in Oscar bids

By Dan Greenberg
staff writer

Movies may not be better than ever but the box office certainly is. Hollywood set a new dollar record in 1988, selling just over a billion tickets for a total take of $4.46 billion. That's more money for slightly fewer tickets as average ticket prices continue to climb.

As Oscar Night — March 29 — approaches, everybody's sharpening their wits to outguess the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences, which this year awarded most major and quite a few minor nominations to films released late in the year — "Rain Man" (eight), "Mississippi Burning" (seven), "Dangerous Liaisons" (seven), "Working Girl" (five) and "The Accidental Tourist" (four), 31 nominations for five films.

For the most part, those movies received nominations in the major categories — best picture, direction, actor and actress. Those are the four categories in the Observer & Eccentric/AMC Oscar Contest.

EACH YEAR, members of the Academy nominate five candidates in 23 categories. In addition, the Academy sponsors a very prestigious and rewarding nationwide Student Oscar competition.

Nominees in the well-known categories — as well as in sound effects, editing, documentaries, visual effects and other minor classifications — are chosen by each branch of the Academy so that selections are by peers who know the technicalities involved. The Academy membership as a whole then votes for the Oscar winners.

While that may all sound pretty reasonable, lots of politics and self-interest are at work as well as plenty of advertising in "Daily Variety" and "The Hollywood Reporter" as producers push their product for consideration. An Oscar can be worth big bucks as renewed interest at the box office inflates profit margins.

THE Observer & Eccentric/AMC Oscar contest isn't quite that big, but almost, and you can win a trip to Hollywood if you pick the winners. In the coming weeks, Street Scene will feature my analyses of the four major categories. Read these carefully and then make up your own mind, because I have a terrible track record when it comes to picking Oscar winners.

Two unexpected choices that run against the grain of popular films from late in the year are in the Academy's actors' branch, which picked Edward James Olmos for his role as a high school math teacher in "Stand and Deliver" and Max von Sydow as the aging Swedish worker who moves to Denmark looking for a better life.

Olmos did a competent job as the math teacher who prepared his students for a standardized test, one that everyone said they couldn't pass because they were typical underachievers. It's the same sort of attitude that infuses "Lean on Me."

To my mind, however, despite its moderate popularity and Olmos'

competent performance, "Stand and Deliver" was pretty lame and lacked the passion and dedication required for a major production.

VON SYDOW IS, of course, well-known for his long career. This is his first nomination and it comes for his role in a film that also was nominated as best foreign film. (Because of Academy rules, any film that played in Los Angeles for at least one week in 1988 is eligible for all categories.)

The best foreign film category, however, requires official submission from a foreign government, usually via the motion picture establishment in that country. Only one entry per country is allowed in this category.

While this was a surprising nomination and von Sydow is warm and convincing as Pelle's father, an individual who believes strongly enough in love's ability to conquer, the film hasn't garnered the kind of popular notice one expects of Oscar winners.

Tom Hanks is a well-liked, successful young romantic comedy lead and "Big" was just that at the box office — something that gets a lot of attention since Oscars are for success. But given Hanks' youth, and because comedy isn't considered quite as highly as drama, I'll pass on this one and get right to the two main contenders.

ALL THE smart money is betting that "Rain Man" walks off with all the cookies, and they're probably right. But in so far as talent and performance are concerned, I can't overlook Gene Hackman's tough, but human, and very realistic portrayal of a Southern sheriff turned FBI agent in "Mississippi Burning." Of course, the political questions raised about the film may dilute Academy voters' enthusiasm.

Dustin Hoffman's characterization of an autistic savant clearly is the front runner for best actor. The film has been enormously successful (more than $100 million at the box office) and it is very tightly focused. There is very little to the story except two brothers struggling to live and love — life and one another.

There are no political distractions in "Rain Man," hence the impact of Hoffman's performance is stronger. Also, it is an unusual performance, one that deals with a particular kind of mental disorder. That condition leads to a very different series of personal and psychological mannerisms and consequently a lot more meat for an actor to dig his talent into.

Because of that, despite the fact that Hoffman and Hackman both performed admirably, the nod probably will go to Hoffman. If it were up to me, I'd award each an Oscar, but nobody at the Academy has called.

Here's how to enter

So you think you're pretty good at picking winners, huh?

Think you know who'll be "el primo" on Oscar night, huh?

Well, if you're that good, then why not win yourself a trip to Hollywood in the Observer & Eccentric/AMC Theaters third annual Academy Award contest.

The rules are simple, but the payoff is big for the person who picks the most winners in six categories — best picture, best actor, best actress, best supporting actor, best supporting actress and best director.

The grand prize winner will receive a trip for two to from Detroit to Hollywood via Northwest Airlines, six nights' accommodations for two at the Pacifica Hotel in Los Angeles and a week's use of a Budget rent-a-car while in Tinseltown. Second place is an AMC gold pass, third place a screening party and fourth place AMC guest passes.

Here's the contest rules:

- Fill out an Oscar contest form available at AMC theaters and in the Observer & Eccentric Newspapers.

- Forms must be turned in by midnight Friday March 24. They can be dropped off at any AMC theater or at the O&E offices in Livonia, Farmington, Birmingham, Plymouth and Rochester, or sent to AMC Theaters, 26028 Greenfield, Suite 460, Oak Park 48237.

- No purchase is necessary, but the limit is one entry per person.

- If more than one entry contains the most correct answer, the winner of the grand prize and subsequent prizes will be selected by random drawing.

- Employees of the O&E and AMC Theaters and their immediate families are not eligible to enter the contest.

- The judges' decisions are final. Winners of the contest will be announced in the Monday, April 10, edition of Street Scene in the Observer & Eccentric Newspapers.

Now that you know the rules, what are you waiting for?

The Detroit Tigers 'roar' at London's Joe Kool's

By Iris Sanderson Jones
contributing travel editor

Q: A few weeks ago you mentioned a Detroit Tiger hangout called Joe Kool's in London, Ontario. We'll be in London next week. Tell us more.

MBD,
Plymouth

A: The banner above the front door of Joe Kool's restaurant/bar on Richmond Row in London reads: "1984 World Champions — DETROIT TIGER HEADQUARTERS." You will find Al Kaline, sitting in an almost life-sized photo above the dark mahogany bar. There are photos of the 1968 World Series on the right wall and clippings about the 1984 World Series on the left wall, over the booths where people munch on hamburgers and nachos.

Nobody would take any notice of Joe Kool's if it was in Detroit, but you don't really expect to find ardent Tiger fans 120 miles away across the United States-Canada border in Toronto Blue Jay country.

As Mike Smith, owner of Joe Kool's, said during the playoffs last year, "We don't really care if the Tigers win the pennant as long as they beat the Blue Jays."

WHAT'S A Tiger hangout like this doing on one of the downtown streets of a Canadian city?

Smith and his father used to go regularly to Tiger Stadium long before Toronto had a professional baseball team. Like many people in London, the Smiths became diehard Tiger fans. They drove two hours each way to attend games in Detroit. They watched the Tigers on television.

By the time the Toronto Blue Jays started playing baseball in 1977, it was too late to switch allegiance to a new team.

"Nobody in London knew the names of any of the Blue Jay players, but we could tell you all the stats on the Detroit Tigers," Smith said.

SMITH WAS working in the advertising business and operated a little takeout food place as a sideline before he left the business world to launch Joe Kool's in 1983.

Smith wanted a good, old-fashioned bar, so he haunted Detroit and Chicago bars "as research" and then built his own.

"I built the bar and then neglected it," he said.

LOOK CLOSELY at the neon sign in the window and you will see it is really "Joseph Koolinsky's," but the appropriate lights are permanently out so the lighted sign reads "Joe Kool's."

When you follow a path between wooden booths and bar today, you get that lived-in look of a place that has been around for a long time.

Turn right up the back stairs to the patio and you can sit in green folding seats straight out of Tiger Stadium. Smith bought them the last time the seats in the stadium were replaced.

And against the wall, next to the bowling alley, is the famous statue. It's not Michelangelo's David, it's Smith's "Lennie."

"A guy called Lennie used to work here," Smith said. "We used him as a model for the Tiger player who is facing the brick wall. Plug him in and he makes the fountain work by peeing on a Blue Jay." Specifically, Blue Jay player number 11!

The strange thing is that, as far as Smith knows, no Detroit Tiger has ever been to Joe Kool's. Londoners love it, whether they are Blue Jay fans or not. Willy, our waiter, told us that Tiger fans put Blue Jay sweat shirts on the floor for people to wipe their dirty shoes on during high season.

THERE ARE, of course, other things to do in London. This is the home of the University of Western Ontario, sort of the Ann Arbor of southern Ontario; so you'll find students hanging out at Barney's and The Ceeps, especially on Thursday nights.

The Second City, part of the group that started Second City at the University of Chicago in the 1950s, has dinner theater performances. Check the clippings on the lobby wall, showing Dan Ackroyd and Gilda Radner of "Saturday Night Live" fame.

London is full of parks where you can canoe, run, water ski, play softball, roller skate, ride paddleboats and otherwise play. Check out music bars like the Bavarian in Westown Plaza, or Dr. Rockets, which brings in good top 40s bands. There are two Kelsey's, restaurant/bars on East and West Oxford Street. Locals love Spooners.

The best fine food place is Michael's on the Thames, Smith said. Also, check out the events calendar for big band festivals at Wonderland Gardens.

For more information, contact the London Visitors and Convention Bureau at 300 Dufferin Avenue, London, Ontario N6B 1Z2, or call (519) 661-5000. You can also call toll free (800) ONTARIO or pick up brochures at their booths on the Windsor side of either the tunnel or the bridge.

And if you get to Joe Kool's, wear your Detroit Tiger sweat shirt.

Robert M. Meisner

Q. I am a developer that wants to do a site condo. I have never developed a condominium before and wonder what you can tell me regarding what the prospects are of being able to withstand in the attack concerning the legality of the site condo.

A. A site condo is a recent concept whereby the developer attempts to sell land in an envelope of space to a prospective purchaser without the physical improvement of the unit being constructed.

It is a way to get around the Subdivision Control Act and is presently the subject matter of an attorney general's opinion which should be issued in the near future. There is a strong argument that site condos are merely a subterfuge by developers to get around the Subdivision Control Act since, when you look at what is being done, in effect the developer is selling an area of land without an improvement on it without having to comply with the requirements of the Subdivision Control Act.

Others say that the present condominium act allows for site condos under the definition of "Condominium." There may be a need, however, to revise and/or clarify the present, condominium act as it relates to the so-called site condos. If the attorney general rules that they are not valid, there may have to be a total revamping of the condominium act as it relates to this type of marketing device. We will keep you informed in this column as to any decisions of the attorney general in this regard.

Robert M. Meisner is a Birmingham attorney specializing in condominiums, real estate and corporate law. You are invited to submit topics which you would like to see discussed in this column, including questions about condominiums, by writing Robert M. Meisner, 30200 Telegraph Road, Suite 467, Birmingham 48010. This column provides general information and should not be construed as legal opinion.

Q. I am so busy I resent it when others make demands on me, then feel guilty for not taking more time with them.

A. I have two questions: 1. Who are "others?" If they are outsiders who have no right to your time or try to take advantage of your good nature, then you have no need to feel guilty. If, however, "others" are family members or people in the community who have a right to expect your attentions, then you need to set aside enough time to help them out.

2. What keeps you so busy? If you are working hard (as in putting in long hours as sole support of your family) then even family members can expect only so much of you. However, if you are continually involved in a lot of activities which may be enjoyable or are good for your ego, but take you away from your responsibilities, then you need to delineate between what is busywork and what is important.

My definition of busy work is doing something that leaves no real impact on life. If you don't eat, care for your children or show up for work, it will be remembered. However if you don't use coupons or needlepoint your favorite saying on a pillow, life will continue nicely without it. Too many of us become convinced we need to be perfectionists or Super-People and load on far more unnecessary objectives than we can reasonably handle.

I'm not saying you shouldn't do things you enjoy. In order to assess what is or is not busywork, however, you must first know your lifetime goals. If making millions of dollars is uppermost in your mind, then doing nice things for others may be low on your priority list. If relationships are important to you, however, then kindnesses might warrant a higher place in your life.

Unfortunately, too many of us use the "busy busy" approach as a distancing tool. Take, for example, the party host who spends all his time refreshing drinks or refilling snack bowls instead of relaxing with guests. Too many people are too "busy" to play games with their children, write thank you notes or visit the elderly because these things make them uncomfortable. Because they are ill at ease in situations which require warmth, compassion or affectionate feelings, they use their "busyness" as a means of escape. These people often become workaholics.

For your own peace of mind, you must first ascertain who and what is worthy of your attention. Try to keep your life in balance by cutting out as much busywork as possible, accomplishing what has to be done quickly and effectively and then taking time to do nice things for yourself and for others.

Shedding light on plant woes

IF YOUR house plants aren't doing well indoors, the major reasons probably are insufficient light, dry air, and too much water and fertilizer — especially in winter.

Most plants kept in the house don't get enough natural light during late fall and winter, and generally don't require as much fertilizer or water. Some plants may be lost if you water and feed them as much as you did when they were outdoors or growing vigorously in spring and summer.

Indoor air, especially in apartments, is often very dry. Humidity must be added to improve plant conditions. Cactuses or succulents get along in drier air, but tropical plants require higher humidity. Under dry conditions, their leaves may turn brown at the edges and drop off.

What can you do? Put them in a bathroom, kitchen or laundry room that is more humid, or set them on trays of gravel covered with water. Room humidifiers will reduce problems for you and for your plants.

SUPPLEMENTAL LIGHT will improve your plant life. Use fluorescent light tubes a few hours a day to supplement natural light. Incandescent bulbs tend to give off considerable heat.

Plants that are kept indoors during the winter and are taken outdoors to spend the warmer months on the patio or in the garden must be given special care. Sudden, drastic changes in humidity, light and temperature can harm plants and result in such problems as yellowing of leaves, leaf scorch and dieback, among others.

Before you take plants outdoors to sink them in the garden, remember to put a bit of screen over the drainage hole to keep out snails, earthworms and insects. If plants become potbound, repot them in larger containers with fresh soil.

Most plants are of tropical or subtropical origin and can't stand the cold, so they should be brought indoors before frost. They should be acclimated slowly. Water and light should be reduced gradually. Water thoroughly and let the soil surface dry before watering again. Just before bringing plants indoors, spray them with insecticide to get rid of bugs, and clean the outside of the pot.

Dr. Edwin D. Carpenter, a professor at the University of Connecticut and an expert on house plants, says that when house plants are repotted with soil containing fertilizer, it is not necessary to feed them again for two to three months. "Fertilize according to container directions," advises Carpenter. "Don't use full-strength fertilizer solution more frequently than every six to eight weeks during the winter."

"Fertilize more frequently with liquid fertilizer if it is diluted to one-fourth strength. It is acceptable to apply the diluted liquid fertilizer at each watering time. House plants should receive fertilizer once every four to six weeks during the spring-through-fall growing season."

MITES IN EVERGREENS:

Tiny mites probably were to blame if your pines, spruce, arborvitae or junipers were discolored and defoliated this year. Spruce mites attack needled evergreens early in spring. Spray early before the mites become abundant.

Check your evergreens in spring with a magnifying glass to spot mites, starting on lower branches because infestations usually begin at the bottom and work upward. Rust-colored foliage, webbing and eggs indicate mites. Injured needles turn brown and drop off prematurely.

Learn how to do-it-yourself with videos

AP — How-to videos, branching out from the popular self-improvement exercise tapes, now are showing home improvements as well.

Among the latest releases are "Contracting a Home," "Refinishing a Lower Level," "Three Season Porch" and "Security," all from the Hometime library. The videotapes run 40-90 minutes and include a printed guide listing materials and tools needed for the job.

HANDY HINTS

AP — If you have a circuit breaker panel in your house and one of the breakers trips, blacking out the power on that circuit, check if there are too many lights and appliances on the line. There are if the line fails again after you reset the breaker. If it fails again after unplugging some appliances, you may need an electrician's help.

- When you need to remove grout from the joints of ceramic tiles, a blade set in a curved handle will make the job easier. This type of knife is available at ceramic tile dealers and some hardware stores.

- If you are going to install particle board paneling where there will be heavy moisture and/or high temperatures, get the kind made especially for those conditions.

- Rust and corrosion attack metal hardware and household objects because air and moisture eventually get under their protective films. The tiniest nick in the paint, oil, lacquer or other coating lets air and moisture begin their attack. Rust will spread under a paint finish and often won't be seen until it buckles the surface. To stop its spread, the rust should be removed with sandpaper or steel wool, then coated with a rust-proofing product available in paint or hardware stores.

- A leaping or jumping saw chain, irregular or crooked cuts, or excessive chain wear are signs that an electric saw's guidebar needs replacement. Abnormal bar wear often results from an over-tightened chain, lack of lubrication, or operator misuse.

- If you have pressure-treated lumber left over from a project, don't be tempted to use it in your fireplace. It may give off toxic fumes.

- Use a carbide-tipped bit when drilling concrete. Wear safety goggles for this or any other drilling project.

- "Relative humidity" is the amount of moisture in the air compared to the maximum amount it can hold at that temperature. When the temperature changes even a tiny bit, the relative humidity changes, since warm air holds more moisture than cold air.

- If there are rust stains on the vinyl floor tile in your kitchen, you can remove them with a bleach, but sometimes it will bleach the tile a bit. It's best to test the bleach first in a small area that is inconspicuous.

"I finally found a townhome as large as a home."

"I looked long and hard to find a 2000 sq. ft., cathedral ceiling elegant three-bedroom townhome. (Of course, I could have chosen a two or three-bedroom ranch.) With my own two-car attached garage, my own private basement and patio. And—luxury touches like deluxe kitchens and whirlpool tubs plus landscaping that I love. Nothing could get me to move from Covington. Nothing."
