Fred Hill trades briefcase for mallet

Fred Hill said he doesn't know what he'll do for an encore.

Last weekend, he organized a croquet tournament in Kellogg Park just for the fun of it.

Last fall, it was a half-mile run benefit for the United Fund in which competitors wore shirts, ties, jackets, shorts and running shoes and stopped for food along the way. The winner was determined through a raffle.

This year will be the fifth season for the Fred Hill Haberdashers Briefcase Drill Team — precision marchers in full business regalia.

Before that, there was the dapper Walking Haberdasher, complete with tails, derby hat and cane passing out promotional fliers in an effort to attract business when times were slow.

Graham wants to bring fight to pulpit

By M.B. Dillon
staff writer

Plymouth-Canton school board member Barbara Graham hopes to address every church congregation in the community about issues she feels could "split the churches and split the community" over the next several months.

Graham will speak on a "yet-to-be-decided date, hopefully in the near future" at Geneva Presbyterian Church USA in Canton, said the Rev. Kenneth Gruebel, pastor at Geneva.

Graham is supported by Citizens for Better Education, a group of Christian conservatives opposed to the classroom use of R-rated movies and teaching materials dealing with the occult, witchcraft and satanism.

Fourteen area ministers signed an open letter to the community recently, stating that they "deplore any vigilante mentality which would lead our community on witch hunts and book burnings."

Several area clergy have given sermons addressing Citizens for Better Education and the role of family in education.

Thus far, Graham has contacted Geneva Presbyterian and Our Lady of Good Counsel in Plymouth.

"I am not starting a crusade, I just want to have the opportunity to speak with the ministers who've come out (against Citizens for Better Education)," said Graham.

"I'm trying to get to all of them when time allows. I don't know if I will visit all the congregations; if they feel it would be beneficial, I will.

"I just feel an issue has to be dealt with that is bothering people.

"Rather than attack each other on the outside, why don't we start some dialogue?"

CBE is supporting Robert Anderson in the June 12 school board election. Six non-CBE candidates also are vying for the four-year term.

CBE has taken a neutral stance on the 8-mill renewal to appear on Monday's ballot. It has taken no position on the 4-mill property tax increase, also to be decided in the school election.

Area clergy who signed the letter "want to continue communication . . . and would like someone who represents that particular point of view to speak to the issues we raised regarding the concerns the clergy had for censorship, establishment of a parochial system within the schools and the whole area of non-Christian minority students in the schools," said Gruebel.

Gruebel's wife, Sue, is a teacher with a neighboring district's continuing education program. Their daughter attends a Plymouth-Canton elementary school.

DIANE DASKALAKIS, CBE chairman, favors Graham's plan.

"There's been an awful lot of talk about us without anyone knowing about us," said Daskalakis, who said she's licked so many envelopes containing pro-Anderson literature it's made her sick to her stomach. "We're trying to let these people know who we are. If they won't come to us, we will go to them.

"They will have to look at this material we are objecting to," she added. "At some point in time, they will have to endorse it, or agree with us

Parking lot dispute may end up in court

By Doug Funke
staff writer

Plymouth officials, tired of waiting for Stahl Manufacturing to comply with city code and fix its parking lot, say they plan to take the auto parts manufacturer to court to get the job done.

Residential neighbors have complained for almost a year about noise, dust, litter and drainage problems at the facility on Junction.

Stahl, which renovated its plant and expanded a parking lot without permits when consolidating operations in Plymouth, city officials said, failed to meet a June 1 deadline to fix the parking lot.

The company initially said the work would be done last fall.

Permits have since been obtained for work to the factory and site plan approval for the parking lot. Yet, the lot remains a mess.

"I don't think they've been fair to us and they're not being good citizens," said Mayor Karl Gansler II.

STAHL EXECUTIVES couldn't be reached for comment.

Ron Lowe, city attorney, said he plans to file a complaint in 35th District Court on alleged code violations at Stahl. The company could be fined up to $500 per day for noncompliance if found guilty.

Lowe also said he's exploring the possibility of asking for an injunction in Wayne County Circuit Court that would prevent Stahl from using the parking lot until it meets code.

Stahl's lawyer has expressed a desire to meet with city officials about the parking lot, Lowe said, but the parties have yet to get together.

SPECIAL SECTION IN TODAY'S ISSUE

Business booming:

Elections clerk is swamped by absentee ballot requests

By M.B. Dillon
staff writer

Staffers at the Plymouth-Canton school board office have been doing a land office business, staying open as late as 9 p.m. to keep pace with the demand for absentee ballots.

As of Tuesday, 1,089 voters had picked up ballots, "more than double the number we normally have," said elections clerk Bernice Nichols. Absentee ballots are available through 2 p.m. Saturday, June 10.

"It's been so busy we haven't been able to answer the phone," said Dick Egli, district community relations director. "There's been a constant stream of people."

Voters will decide one of the most heated elections in school district history Monday, June 12.

On the ballot are an 8-mill renewal, and a 4-mill increase. Both proposals are for two years.

Seven school board candidates are vying for one four-year term. Candidates include school board president David Artley; Robert Anderson, who is backed by Citizens for Better Education, a group of Christian conservatives; Carl Battishill; Mary Buti; Brian Kidston; Joan Kotcher; and Robert Turner.

Superintendent John Hoben predicts "we will see the largest turnout ever," based on absentee voter activity. "Normally we have 200 to 300 (people voting absentee). Hoben predicts more than 15 percent of registered voters will cast ballots. Average turnout is between nine and 10 percent.

"I'd say a general awareness of the public about this election has caused the increase," said Hoben.

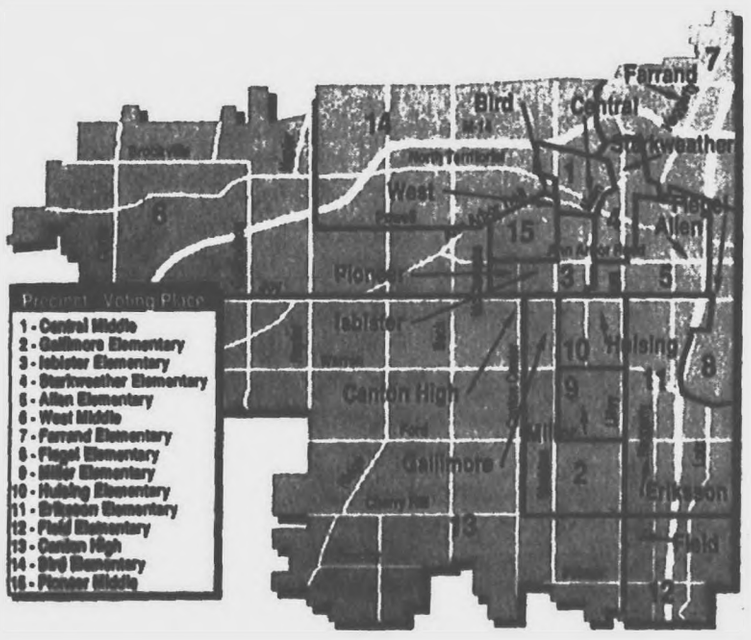
Candidates have been picking up lists of absentee voters daily at the board office, said Nichols.

Artley is sending literature "to each and every one. I would expect absentees to be a lot of seniors. But I can tell by addresses. It seems like a lot of people are going to be out of the district who want to exercise their franchise.

"I think this shows there will be more voters. The message is getting out about the need for the millage. So people are taking a stand, one way or the other," Artley said.

"I think there are more people aware and so there will be an increase in voters."

Plymouth-Canton schools voting precincts



Outlined in this map are precincts to be visited by voters in the June 12 school election. A 15th precinct has been added at Pioneer Middle School to accommodate the overflow at West Middle School, the 6th precinct. Voters who need additional information may call 451-3138.

Absentee ballots are still available

Need an absentee ballot for the upcoming school election?

Applications for absentee ballots are available through 2 p.m. Saturday at the Plymouth-Canton Board of Education office, 454 S. Harvey in Plymouth.

Office hours are 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. weekdays. Ballots are available through the mail, by calling 451-3138.

"Anyone who will be absent from the community or unable to vote in person on June 12 may vote in the office and vote by absentee ballot during office hours any day before June 12," said Dick Egli, administrative assistant for community relations.

Special absentee voting hours at 454 S. Harvey will be from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. Saturday, June 10. Anyone unable to vote by regular absentee ballot or at the polls June 12 may vote then.

The registration deadline for non-absentee voters is past.

For more information on the election, call 451-3138 or 451-3138.

City may go to court

Stahl's lawyer has indicated that the company is experiencing cash flow problems, Lowe said.

"MY ADVICE to the city is to be aggressive at this point," Lowe said. "We had a deadline blown off last year. We're not going to put it off any more."

Lowe said he doesn't expect immediate action in either court. He hesitated to project time frames.

"The court is not a quick fix," he said. "If they would sit down with us and come up with a reasonable alternative and implement it themselves, it would happen quicker. Use of the court, in my opinion, is a last resort."

Bill Dolinski, who lives next to Stahl on Ann Street, again appeared before the city commission Monday to complain about conditions at the plant.

"Noise is unbearable. It rattles my entire house. It goes on and on," he said. "Also, the dust coming off this parking lot is tremendous. Something has to be done soon. I'm at the point of retaliation."

City officials indicated that they would check out the complaints.

Vandalism and thefts keep police hopping

Windows on three vehicles were broken and the hood was dented on a fourth, apparently with a pellet or BB gun, late Saturday or early Sunday, according to reports filed with Plymouth Township police.

All of the vehicles were parked on the street in the northeast corner of the township. Nothing was taken from any of the four. Two of the incidents happened on Ivywood, one each on Russett and Crestwood. Damage estimates ranged from $75 to $300.

"It certainly looks like it may be the same person," said Erik Mayernik, the police investigator. There are no leads, he added.

A fifth incident — a window that was shot out of a car on Tavistock in the southeast corner of the township — also was reported over the weekend.

STOLEN VEHICLES: A 1987 Oldsmobile reported stolen from a driveway on Canterbury Court early Monday morning was subsequently recovered in Grosse Pointe Park with the steering column punched.

The vehicle hadn't been locked.

A 1987 Jeep stolen from Birmingham man was recovered by township police Monday on the shoulder of M-14 west of Sheldon. That vehicle's steering column was also broken.

SPRINKLERS TAKEN: Fifteen sprinkler heads with an aggregate value of $330 were reported stolen from model homes at the Quail Run development, Hillcrest and Ann Arbor Road.

The theft occurred between 3 p.m. Saturday and 5 p.m. Monday.

DRUNKEN DRIVING: Three motorists were arrested by township police for drunken driving.

A 32-year-old Northville man was stopped at 2:06 a.m. Monday at N. Territorial and Glenview. A 29-year-old Dearborn man was pulled over at 9:15 p.m. Sunday on Haggerty and Massey Drive. A 22-year-old Plymouth Township man was stopped at 3:18 a.m. Friday at Joy and Haggerty.

UNLAWFUL ENTRY: A Plymouth resident reported that someone forcibly removed a board that was securing a door on the north side of his home at 676 Penniman sometime Monday night. The man was unsure whether anything had been removed from the home. The homeowner had evicted a tenant the previous day.

These are just some of incidents recently reported to and by Plymouth police. Township police can be contacted at 453-3869, city police at 9-1-1 or 453-8600.

Suspect in arson case will stand trial July 11

By M.B. Dillon
staff writer

Guy Zukowski, 25, of Plymouth Township will stand trial July 11 in connection with a fire that gutted the Heritage Square Apartments at 300 N. Mill near Main in Old Village last November.

Zukowski, charged with arson, will be tried by Detroit Recorder's Court Judge Craig Strong.

Arson of a dwelling is a felony punishable by up to 20 years in prison.

Zukowski, owner of a janitorial business, was freed on $10,000 personal bond at his preliminary examination before 35th District Judge John MacDonald in February.

THE FIRE, set off by an explosion resulting from a gas leak, began in Zukowski's apartment. The blast shook the neighborhood and could be heard more than a mile away.

Two of Zukowski's neighbors saw Zukowski, on fire, dive through his picture window shortly after the explosion. Robbie Perrin said he and another resident threw Zukowski down and rolled him on the ground to extinguish the flames.

Zukowski suffered burns over half of his body and was hospitalized for three weeks in the University of Michigan Burn Center. A second person sustained minor injuries, and 10 people were left homeless.

Several pets died in the fire. Eight of 18 units in the single-story complex were damaged or destroyed. Structural loss was estimated at up to $175,000 and content damage at $30,000. None of the tenants was insured.

The apartments have since been rebuilt by owner Joseph Dylag.

ZUKOWSKI TURNED himself in at the Plymouth Police station Jan. 30.

His arraignment capped a three-month investigation by the Plymouth Fire Department and the Michigan State Police.

Guy Zukowski

Detective Sgt. Gary Mihalek of the Michigan State Police testified at Zukowski's preliminary exam that a gas line in Zukowski's apartment was severed and that a flammable liquid was used to accelerate the fire.

City tax rate may go up in Plymouth

The city tax rate would rise to $17.20 from the recently approved $16.43 per $1,000 of state equalized valuation (half of market value) if the Plymouth City Commission were to accept the recommendations of its finance director and city manager.

That means an increase of about 17 percent for the average homeowner — about 1 percent for commercial and industrial property owners — from what was paid this year with a tax rate of $17.05.

Soaring assessment increases on residential property, the base to which rates are applied to determine tax due, and no increases in the value of commercial and industrial valuations produces that outcome.

The city commission adopted a tentative millage rate of $16.43 last month for the upcoming budget year after getting preliminary figures on property values from the county to apply to tax limitation formulas.

Revised figures, which will be verified by William Graham, finance director, when he returns from vacation, apparently allow for the increase.

The commission has scheduled a special meeting for 7:30 p.m. Monday at city hall, 201 S. Main, to consider revising the tax rate to $17.20 from $16.43.

A truth-in-taxation hearing to allow an increase in the tax rate from $17.05 in effect for the budget year ending June 30 to $17.20 has been set for Monday, June 19.

A tax rate of $17.20 as opposed to $16.43 would generate upwards of $150,000 to $171,000 in additional revenue, projected City Manager Henry Graper.

Potential uses of that money, Graper indicated, are to shore up a dwindling surplus fund account, expected to be at about $60,000 on June 30, to install a different traffic signal at Main and Ann Arbor Road and for city signs.

Group gathers for croquet in park

Jim Rawlinson, a photographer, was grand champion of the initial Plymouth Croquet Invitational, contested for ladies and gentleman of distinction and polite society last Sunday in Kellogg Park.

Michael Gardner, commander of the city constabulary, and Bill Ventola, a sales manager for a brewery, were runners-up.

All three won croquet sets for their prowess taking mallet to ball.

About 34 competed in the event sponsored by haberdasher Fred Hill.

Contestants and spectators, many dressed to the nines, sipped pink lemonade and munched on ginger snaps and other old-time favorite cookies on a delightful afternoon.

The Pulkowniks — Pat and Larry — got into the spirit of the occasion by arriving on a bicycle built for two.

A brunch and explanation of the rules preceded the competition.

"It was just a scream," Hill said. "People had so much fun. It looked just right for Kellogg Park."

The civilized game of croquet.

sion to remove themselves from their staid role."

HILL, 46, who operates three clothing stores in downtown Plymouth, said he always seemed to have a flair for promotion.

"I always had the best lemonade stand on the street, the best comic book stand," he said.

Good public relations is not only good for business, but good for the individual psyche and good for Plymouth, Hill said.

"It feels good to make people laugh and have fun," he said. "Sure, boredom can settle in, but it doesn't happen here. It doesn't have a chance."

Hill, born in Michigan, raised in Ohio — and a die-hard OSU Buckeye fan — moved to the community 21 years ago after working a couple of years at J.L. Hudson.

A Hudson's colleague introduced him to Plymouth and two former mayors, Jim Houk and Harold Guenther, provided the financial backing for his store, Hill said.

Hill said he has since learned the value of community spirit and involvement.

"A BUSINESS that derives income from a community has to be a good citizen and that's what we try to do," he said.

"Whenever we do anything, we try to use Plymouth as often as we can. If the community doesn't do well, we don't do well. It really does go hand in hand.

"The thing I really like best is selling," he said. "I think everybody buys things because it makes them feel good. We do more than sell. That's certainly something I hope we do — make people feel better about themselves.

"It's certainly better than hustling clothes. In the retail business, probably more than anything else we're in the entertainment business. It has to be fun," he said.

Hill, who speaks quietly and is given to understated humor, said knowledgeable staff and personalized service are crucial for smaller, owner-operated downtown stores.

HILL ADMITS that it's been a struggle at times getting prim and proper folks to participate in some of his zany stunts.

Take the briefcase drill team's maiden voyage for example. It was hot. The guys had been standing around for an hour and a half in blue business suits, white shirts, red ties and handkerchiefs. They were getting nervous.

"As we started out, some people yelled and applauded," Hill recalled. "Suddenly, I had 16 stars."

Hill's flair for promotion apparently has rubbed off on son Chris, 24, and daughter Jenny, 18. He works for an advertising agency. She's studying commercial art in college.

R. Scott Lorenz, owner and general manager of the Mayflower Hotel and an outstanding promoter in his own right, minces no words when talking about Hill.

"He's a brilliant man, a creative genius in marketing," Lorenz said. "It would be nice if we had about 10 more Fred Hill types in here."

Hill, however, had to reflect a bit to consider how he's perceived in town.

"A community-minded, energetic, good, honest retailer," he said. "That's what I hope it is."

Graham takes to pulpits

that it doesn't belong in the classroom," she said. Daskalakis was scheduled to give a talk at St. Michael's Lutheran Church in Canton last night entitled "Taxes, Tolerance & Turmoil."

Graham decided she'd like to speak at Geneva after hearing about a sermon Gruebel gave in April.

"It seemed to me to be kind of an invitation for someone who is involved — either myself as a board member or CBE — to give their side," said Graham.

Gruebel said he had so many requests for copies of the sermon he typed it into his computer and made printouts.

In part, the sermon said, "I feel compelled to speak to you about issues being raised by Citizens for Better Education — a neo-fundamentalist group that is causing havoc in our community and in our schools."

Gruebel spoke about Jesus and the Pharisees, saying, "Time after time, Jesus locked horns with them. He became increasingly intolerant of their intolerance.

> 'Rather than attack each other on the outside, why don't we start some dialogue?'
> — Barbara Graham

"I find myself in the same position with the Citizens for Better Education. I support their right to believe as they do, but I will not now, nor will I ever be tolerant of their intolerance.

". . . I find the voice of the Christian faith, which speaks of tolerance, openness, understanding, trust, mutual respect and sensitivity is not being heard. Instead, I hear angry voices, and self-righteous voices, and misguided voices; but no mainline theological voices," Gruebel said.

While Graham said she isn't a member of CBE and isn't speaking for them, "I guess I have a little kinship here.

"CBE has a right to do what they are doing, but they are being chastised. I don't understand. If they have the right, and if they feel what they are doing is correct, why are they being chastised?

"I need to know some things too," said Graham. "My feeling is that we are wasting precious time and money on these kinds of things, using the R-rated movies and other materials. If other school districts that are financially equal or better than Plymouth don't use the materials, they must have a reason for it, and they don't call it censorship."

Testing for fuel oil

Amoco has been ordered by the Michigan Department of Natural Resources to drill more observation wells to determine the extent of fuel oil contamination in downtown Plymouth. Years ago, fuel oil seeped from an underground storage tank at the Amoco service station at Ann Arbor Trail and Main. The tank has been removed, but fuel oil and gasoline have contaminated groundwater and soil. The area is on a DNR list of contaminated sites.

Off road vehicle?

Walter Pierre's troubles started Monday afternoon when his car stalled at the drive-through window at National Bank of Detroit on Ann Arbor Road and Harvey. Pierre said he got out of the car and started pushing it backward out of the way. "I didn't realize how steep the hill was and it got away from me," he said. "I tried to jump in and put the brake on, but I couldn't do it. I fell over the curb and it kept going." Right into Tonquish Creek. The car was pulled out by a tow truck. Extent of the damage wasn't immediately known.

ATTENTION

TO PLYMOUTH CANTON SCHOOL CITIZENS VOTING ON THE MERITS OF THE 8 MIL RENEWAL AND 4 MIL INCREASE ON MONDAY, JUNE 12, BE ADVISED THAT DATA COLLECTED FROM SOURCES BOTH PRO & CON IS EVALUATED & LISTED AS FOLLOWS:

YEAR	STATE EQUAL VAL	MIL	OPERATING REVENUES	STATE AID
85-86	$1,005,136,260	37.00	$37,190,039	$9,434,200
86-87	1,055,622,136	37.00	39,058,018	10,704,262
87-88	1,152,915,155	36.02	41,528,002	9,785,196
88-89	1,329,458,129	34.17	45,427,412	3,860,520
89-90	1,566,151,000	24.94	39,059,806	-0-
	8 mil renewal	32.94	51,589,014	-0-
	4 mil increase	36.94	57,858,618	-0-

Above data from Michigan Department of Education, Bulletin 1013 and information provided by Plymouth Canton Schools.

From the school years of 85-86 to 88-89, total revenues, excluding debt retirement, have increased from $46,674,239 to $49,287,932 due to increased property valuations, not withstanding the data put out by the schools that $22,342,000 was lost from 86-89 due to the Headlee & State Aid rollbacks. Can it be truefully stated that funds were lost, when there is no legal claim or right to these funds? We think not.

A NO vote on the 8 mil renewal would reduce the funds to the schools over the 88-89 school year by $10,228,126, or a 20 percent reduction.

A YES vote on the 8 mil renewal would increase the funds to the schools over the 88-89 school year by $2,301,082, or a 4.7 per cent increase.

A YES vote on the 8 mil renewal and the 4 mil increase would provide the school district additional funds over the 88-89 school year of $8,565,686, or a 17 percent increase.

YEAR	NO. OF STUDENTS	NO. OF TEACHERS	AVERAGE SALARY	TEACHER/STUDENT RATIO
85-86	15,715	591	$34,758	26.59
86-87	15,933	711	33,103	22.41
87-88	15,547	756	35,412	20.56
88-89	15,316	773	37,733	19.81

Above data from Michigan Department of Education, Bulletin 1013 and information provided by Plymouth Canton Schools.

Not withstanding the decrease in the teacher student ratios, the quality of education is near average when compared nationwide as documented by ACT scores of the Plymouth Canton students. By comparison, the National Council on Education rates United States students dead last compared against the leading six industrialized foreign countries for reading, writing and math skills. Are our students being short changed for the dollars spent?

All voters are encouraged prior to June 12th, to review the Program of Studies for high school students, available at the administration offices. Are taxpayers willing to continue to fund costs for providing curriculum i.e. pottery, jewelry, sculpture, Gregg shorthand, consumer skills, science fiction, poetry, acting, pantomime, Latin, needle arts, child care, parenting, single living and many other suspect courses, or should the student rely on adult educational programs at the appropriate time in his or her life? Is the curriculum stacked against obtaining reading, writing and math skills?

YOUR VOTE CAN SEND A MESSAGE TO THE SCHOOL ADMINISTRATION. ARE GOOD MARKS FOR FISCAL RESPONSIBILITY ENOUGH, OR ARE WE NAIVE IN BELIEVING THAT WE COULD RECEIVE HIGHER QUALITY EDUCATION FOR THE DOLLARS SPENT? SHOULD USA NOT BE FIRST INSTEAD OF DEAD LAST.

David Clevinger of Redford takes a ride along Hines Drive in preparation for a 150-mile bike tour, which officials hope will raise $260,000 for the Michigan Chapter of the Multiple Sclerosis Society.

Hit the road

MS bike tour is read to roll

By Tom Henderson
staff writer

About 1,000 bicyclists, including many from Wayne and Oakland counties, will ride for those who can't next weekend in the Michigan MS 150 bike tour.

Though the tour is just in its fourth year, officials for the Michigan chapter of the Multiple Sclerosis Society are hoping to raise $260,000, which will make it the group's most successful fund-raiser ever.

"I heard about the tour last year through the bike shop where I bought my bike," said David Clevinger of Redford Township, who got the word from Bob's Cycle Shop in Redford. And a good word it was.

"I enjoyed it so much, as long as I'm capable I'll probably do it every year from now on," said Clevinger, 25, a real estate salesman for Century 21 Nada Inc. in Farmington Hills.

Clevinger raised nearly $1,000 in pledges last year and is shooting for $2,000 this year, including a commitment of $1,000 from one pledger, alone.

THE MS TOUR, which involves 150 miles of riding split over two days (June 17 and 18), works this way: Riders pay an entry fee of $28 and must raise a minimum of $150 in pledges. Some riders leave from Schoolcraft College in Livonia and head west via scenic, low-traveled secondary roads; others start in Grand Rapids and head east, with a rendezvous Saturday in Lansing.

The next day, the combined group heads down to Jackson.

In return for their fees and pledges, the tourists are supported in a manner befitting kings of the road. Food is abundant, with water, juices, fruit and other snacks every 12-15 miles. A smorgasbord dinner and dormitory accommodations are provided in East Lansing.

Sunday, a party awaits finishers in Ella Sharp Park in Jackson, with buses and trucks provided to return participants home. For information on entering or pledging, call 350-0020.

"The thing you have to realize is it isn't a race," said Clevinger, who this year will be accompanied by his wife, Pam. "You have to do it at your own pace and enjoy yourself. The thing that amazes you are the kids out there on the BMXes. That's a long way to go on a BMX."

THE TOUR RAISED $55,000 its first year. Last year, 475 riders raised $185,000; with 1,000 riders this year, the goal of $260,000 should be met easily.

Pledgers are rewarded by more than just a sense of satisfaction — a generous prize structure for participants includes a trip for two to Hawaii for the top fund-raiser, and a cellular phone for the runner-up.

Last year, Dick McQuade of Plymouth, was the top fund-raiser with $8,900 in pledges. Other prizes, depending on amounts raised, include telephones, clock radios, luggage, disc players, 10-speed bikes and VCRs.

Voters to elect 4 SC trustees

Voters in the Livonia, Clarenceville, Plymouth-Canton and Garden City school districts will have an opportunity to cast ballots for Schoolcraft trustees at Monday's annual school election.

Two challengers seek to upset incumbent Schoolcraft College trustees in the race for three six-year seats on the college board while six candidates are vying for a single four-year term on the board.

Voters in the Livonia, Clarenceville, Plymouth-Canton and Garden City school districts will have an opportunity to cast ballots for Schoolcraft trustees at Monday's annual school election.

Challengers David Tatman and Lawrence Whitmarsh seek six-year terms. To get one, however, they will have to unseat board chairwoman Mary Breen or incumbents Harry Greenleaf or Jack Kirksey.

Ronaele Bowman, Thomas Davis, Richard Hayward, Thaddeus McCotter, Patricia Sacha, and M. Andrea Taylor are running for a four-year term. The name of Jeffrey Theodore, a Canton Township resident and an assistant prosecuting attorney with the Wayne County Prosecutor's office, will also appear on the ballot but he has withdrawn from the race.

CANDIDATES RUNNING for the three six-year terms are:

● Mary Breen, 55, lives in Plymouth Township. A retiree, she taught in the Wayne-Westland and Dearborn schools and was assistant principal of Livonia Stevenson High School. She was first elected to the board in 1983 and was leading votegetter in that year's race. Breen holds a bachelor's degree in business education from Wayne State University and a master's degree in administration from Eastern Michigan.

● Harry Greenleaf, 52, is a Livonia resident. He was first elected to the board in 1977 and is currently board vice chairman. He is a management supervisor with Ford Motor Co., Dearborn. A member of Michigan Republican state committee, he is also active in local party activities. He is also active in Newburg United Methodist Church and has taught at Henry Ford Community College, Dearborn. Greenleaf holds a bachelor's in engineering and management from Rensselear Polytechnic Institute, Troy, N.Y.

● Jack Kirksey, 60, lives in Livonia. He was appointed to the board in January 1988. He is director of community education for Livonia Public Schools. A state House member from 1977-84, he was also a 1987 Livonia mayoral candidate. He serves on the board of directors of Livonia Chamber of Commerce, Livonia Family Y, Michigan Human Services and Schoolcraft College Foundation and is a lieutenant colonel in the U.S. Air Force reserves. Kirksey holds holds bachelor's, master's and education specialist degrees from Wayne State University.

● David Tatman, 31, is a Plymouth resident. He is a superintendent with GM Hydra-Matic, Ypsilanti. He is active with Washtenaw United Way, the Boy Scouts of America, Washtenaw Council, and First United Methodist Church of Plymouth. Tatman holds a master's in business administration from the University of Michigan and a bachelor's in industrial and systems engineering from Ohio State University.

● Lawrence Whitmarsh, 42, lives in Livonia. He is an engineering manager with GM Hydra-Matic, Ypsilanti. He is a member of Schoolcraft's quality management advisory committee and is active with PTA, Boy Scout activities and is a past deacon at Ward Presbyterian Church, Livonia. Whitmarsh holds a bachelor's in business from Madonna College, Livonia and earned 62 credit hours at Schoolcraft. He is enrolled in the master's of business administration program at Central Michigan University.

CANDIDATES SEEKING a four-year term are:

● Ronaele Bowman — Bowman, 47, is a Livonia resident. She trains youth assistance volunteers for the Michigan Training and Resource Center, Northville. Her community activities include Livonia Youth Assistance, Friends of the Homeless and Homes for Black Children, where she serves on the board of directors. She holds a bachelor's in liberal arts, with a major in sociology, from Marquette University, Milwaukee. Bowman's unusual first name is Eleanor, spelled backward.

Medical group opposes 2 incinerator ash bills

The American Lung Association of Michigan is urging Gov. James J. Blanchard to veto the recently passed incinerator ash legislation, House Bills 4304 and 4311.

'With a veto you can make the landmark decision signaling a commitment that public policy regulating incineration must protect health and environment,' said Merrill Clark, chairwoman of the association's environmental and occupational health committee.

The state Senate passed the bills last Thursday and House concurrence came the same day. Blanchard has until about June 12 to either sign the bills or veto them.

In a letter to Blanchard on May 30, the lung association expressed concern about the legislation's effect of terminating the applicability of certain occupational health regulations for exposed workers and its failure to require effective toxic fugitive dust controls on ash landfills.

"Michigan's current dust controls on gravel roads and non-toxic material piles in certain urban areas are much more strict than toxic dust controls for ash landfills under HB 4311," said Clark.

"HB 4304 eliminates the designation of incinerator ash as a hazardous waste and terminates the applicability of waste-related occupational health regulations," said Clark.

Special homecoming delights 102-year-old woman

BILL BRESLER/staff photographer

Dora Wood gets affectionate birthday greetings from former neighbor Ethel Douglas. Wood, who lived in her home on Ann Arbor Trail in Plymouth for many years, recently turned 102. Now a Plymouth Court resident, she returned to her former home Monday afternoon for a birthday celebration.

By Julie Brown
staff writer

A homecoming was held Monday for Dora Wood.

Wood, who turned 102 on May 29, enjoyed a birthday celebration that afternoon. The party was held at her former home, on Ann Arbor Trail in Plymouth.

"I think it's gorgeous," Wood said of the home, was built in the 1880s. She and her husband, Romeo Wood, moved into the home in 1918 and lived there for many years.

"I lived here after Mr. Wood passed away," she said. "I lived here until I could no longer keep house." She moved to Plymouth Court, a nursing home, in late 1986.

Her former home is now owned by Craig and Mary Mauro. Wood is glad it's owned by someone who "is making a wonderful home of it."

Wood said she asked Mary Mauro if she likes living in the home, and Mauro replied, "We don't like it, we love it."

MONDAY AFTERNOON'S celebration was held in the backyard at the Mauro home. Wood had the chance to make a wish and blow out the candles on her birthday cake. She and her guests enjoyed lunch after Wood listened to rousing renditions of "Happy Birthday" and "For She's a Jolly Good Fellow."

Guests included several other Plymouth Court residents. Wood and those guests arrived in a limousine, courtesy of Don Massey Cadillac.

Wood wasn't the most senior member of the party. Fellow Plymouth Court resident Ora Bristow, 106, was among those helping Wood celebrate.

Another guest was Paul Sincock, assistant to the Plymouth city manager. In his younger days, Sincock was the paper boy for the Woods, who, he recalled, always paid their newspaper bill promptly.

Sincock presented a proclamation from Plymouth Mayor Karl Gansler, honoring Wood and proclaiming May 29 as "Dora Wood Day" in the city. Wood received several birthday gifts from well-wishers.

Former neighbors helped Wood celebrate, as did Plymouth Court staff members. Mary Mauro was pleased to have Wood and her friends as guests.

Mauro and her husband, the parents of one daughter, have lived in the home for 19 months and are renovating it. Mauro got a call from Plymouth Court, asking if she'd help with the birthday celebration.

HAPPY TO do so, Mauro took time off Monday from her job as site manager of the Plymouth Adult Day Care Center.

"I'm not going to miss a party at my own house," she said.

Mauro has visited Wood at Plymouth Court and tried to keep her up-to-date on what has happened with the home. Still, that wasn't quite the same as having Wood back to visit.

"A lot of the stuff in there is hers," Mauro said. "When we bought this house, we bought it lock, stock and barrel."

Wood, the guest of honor, didn't have any advice on what it takes to live a good, long life.

"No, I think they'd better use their own judgment, because they might prefer things I would not suggest."

Wood was born in Plymouth, but when she was a child, her family moved to East Jordan, in northern Michigan's Charlevoix County. Her family returned to Plymouth in 1901.

She's lived in town ever since. Her late husband worked as a professional photographer. They located their photo studio in their Ann Arbor Trail home, where she worked as her husband's assistant. The Woods had no children.

Staff members from Plymouth Court said they try to make birthday celebrations special. The birthday party held for Dora Wood, an avid Detroit Tigers fan and the second oldest resident at the nursing home, was no exception.

"She's always curious," said Patti Moore, activities director at Plymouth Court. "This is her dream come true, to come back to see her home."

Bennett wants to ban cow growth hormones

By Tom Henderson
staff writer

'We have the most chemically polluted food chain in the world. It'll take Congress 25 years to clean up the mess. European countries won't accept our meat because of hormones and antibiotics.'
— State Rep. John Bennett D-Redford

State Rep. John Bennett, D-Redford, is afraid that the use by the dairy industry of growth hormone in cattle will bring new meaning to the slogan that milk helps build strong bodies.

Afraid that such hormones may work their way into cows' milk and pose a danger to children, Bennett, whose district includes Redford and part of Livonia, said he will may introduce a bill in the state legislature banning such hormones in Michigan cattle.

The use of the hormone in dairy cattle — which the drug companies that produce the hormone say increases a cow's milk production by as much as 40 percent — is expected to be approved by the U.S. Food and Drug Administration late this year or early next year. The FDA already has approved the sale of milk from cows being tested with the hormone, whose scientific name is bovine somatotropin.

BENNETT SAID if one of the state representatives from a farming community doesn't introduce legislation by next fall banning the hormones in Michigan, he will.

"We have the most chemically polluted food chain in the world. It'll take Congress 25 years to clean up the mess," said Bennett. "European countries won't accept our meat because of hormones and antibiotics."

In a letter he wrote to fellow legislators, Bennett said: "What will milk laced with growth hormones do to our children and grandchildren?"

Bennett said he will also introduce legislation requiring fruit and produce growers to label their crops with a list of pesticides, sprays and waxes they treat them with.

DRUG COMPANIES, who spent $100 million to develop the hormone and who predict $500 million in annual sales, say the hormone does not get into the cows milk. They say that the trace levels of growth hormone that are found in milk are naturally produced by cows and appear in the same levels in cows whether or not they have been injected with additional levels of hormone.

Both the FDA and the U.S. Department of Agriculture have said the use of the hormone is safe for humans. The testing underway by drug companies is to determine if there are any side effects to the cows injected with hormones.

Sweden has banned the use of bovine growth hormone and Wisconsin, the nation's largest dairy state, has introduced two bills — one to ban the hormone and the other to require labeling on milk produced by cows injected with it.

The hormone is being marketed by U.S. drug companies in the Soviet Union and Czechoslovakia and has been approved though is not yet available in South Africa.

The Upjohn Co. in Kalamazoo is one of the drug companies making the hormone. Upjohn is so confident of the hormone's approval that it broke ground more than a year ago on a $21 million production facility in Kalamazoo, which it will complete late next year.

"From a public relations standpoint, we're real comfortable with it. It's a safe product," said Upjohn spokesman Phil Sheridan. He said that although the generic term of growth hormone is used even in the industry, the description is something of a misnomer. Unlike anabolic steroids, bovine somatotropin does not cause growth, he said, but aids the cow's digestive process, which speeds milk production.

The other drug companies testing the hormone are Eli Lilly and Co., Monsanto Co. and American Cyanimid Co.

CRITICS SAY that not only do they fear the growth hormone will make its way into the cow's milk, but that it is economically unnecesary, too.

They point out that the federal government already pays billions of dollars a year to keep dairy farmers afloat in a market swimming with surplus milk.

The market, say the critics, simply doesn't need cows that produce 40 percent more milk.

Officials from the drug companies, as well as spokesmen for such industry lobbyists as the Michigan Milk Producers Association, said the use of growth hormone won't result in more milk on the market, but that it will make it more efficient to produce the same amount of milk.

"The bottom line is it doesn't make any difference in production. It's a matter of efficiency," said Gary Trimner, director of member services for the MMPA. Though he also said such things about the growth hormone as "it has no harmful side effects," and "the composition of the milk is unaffected," Trimner said his association's position regarding its use "is absolutely neutral."

A study by the University of Wisconsin said that the use of the hormone will have a dramatic effect on supply and demand. The study said that most farmers would benefit initially as output rose, but that Wisconsin dairy farmers would ultimately lose $100 million a year as federal price supports dropped in relation to output.

Trimner said he fears a consumer backlash similar to what happened with apples over the use of Alar. "Anytime you don't have a natural product, you're going to have an adverse reaction to it," he said.

Commission won't argue veto of cash to jail site runner-up

By Tom Henderson
staff writer

The Wayne County Board of Commissioners decided last Thursday not to try to override County Executive Edward McNamara's veto of a $30,000 consolation prize to the city of Highland Park.

The payment had been voted on by the commission after Hamtramck was chosen, instead of Highland Park, as the site for a new county jail.

A veto requires 10 votes from the 15-member commission. Eleven commissioners were in attendance Thursday.

Commissioner Arthur Blackwell, D-Highland Park, who proposed the consolation payment, moved that McNamara's letter of veto be accepted and filed without further action.

Commission observers speculated that since Blackwell both sought the consolation prize and moved to accept the veto without a fight, his original proposal may have been made knowing it would not come to pass.

"That's very astute," said one commissioner when it was suggested that the proposed consolation prize was never intended to become reality.

In his letter to the board, McNarama said: "The bulk of Wayne County's purchasing is through the bid process and our resources are too limited to allow expenditures to losing bidders, especially when we would receive no tangible goods or services in exchange."

The commission had voted for the consolation prize in April after Hamtramck was chosen as the site of the new jail.

IN OTHER BUSINESS, the commission voted to adopt an ordinance requiring county jail prisoners or their insurers to pay for medical and dental treatment while in jail.

A similar ordinance is in effect in Oakland County.

Commissioner Milton Mack, D-Wayne, whose district includes Canton Township, said that up to 95 percent of jail inmates are indigent and uncollectible.

But commissioner Bernard Kilpatrick, D-Detroit, responded: "We're going after the other five percent."

Money for care could be deducted from an inmate's in-jail account, if the inmate has one, or billed to the inmate.

served on the Livonia Chamber of commerce and Livonia Hockey Association boards. He has also active in St. Aiden Parish, Livonia. Davis holds a bachelor's degree in business administration from Madonna and has received the college's distinguished alumni award.

• Thaddeus McCotter — McCotter, 23, is a Livonia resident. He is a law student at the University of Detroit and recipient of the U-D law school's Jerome P. Cavanagh Scholarship. McCotter is also a law clerk at the Livonia firm of Brashear, Tangora and Spence. The son of Livonia councilwoman Joan McCotter, he was active in recent Livonia-area GOP campaigns. He is a member of the Schoolcraft College Foundation, Livonia Symphony League, Livonia Cultural League and Livonia Jaycees. Lead guitarist and singer for a rock band, McCotter has had six of his compositions copyrighted.

Two challengers seek to upset incumbent Schoolcraft College trustees in the race for three six-year seats on the college board while six candidates are vying for a single four-year term on the board.

• Patricia Sacha — Sacha, 61, lives in Livonia. A retiree, she taught in the Detroit public schools and spent 20 years in supervisory positions with the Birmingham public schools, reassessing the district curriculum and creating programs for learning disabled students. She also served as a district media specialist. Sacha holds bachelor's and master's degrees in education from Wayne State University.

• M. Andrea Taylor — Taylor, 43, is a Livonia resident. A food service manager for the Plymouth-Canton Schools, she also operates Andy's Cakes and Catering, a Livonia-based catering company. This month, she received an associate's degree in culinary management at Schoolcraft.

School finance issue may extend legislative session

By Tim Richard
staff writer

House Speaker Lewis Dodak hasn't given up hope, but things look grim for the so-called "Harden plan" of state school finance reform.

Dodak is threatening to keep the House of Representatives in session all summer, despite extensive renovations that are planned for the State Capitol in Lansing.

The plan, endorsed by Gov. James Blanchard and many business and labor groups, asks voters to raise the state sales tax a penny to 5 percent. In return, they would get $300 million more for public schools, residential property tax relief of $380 million and business property tax relief of $88 million.

"It does not limit future school millage rates or property assessments in any new manner," said freshman Rep. Jan Dolan, R-Farmington Hills, summing up the opposition's view.

THE HARDEN plan fell four votes short of a simple majority, 52 yes and 56 no, last week. Except for a few crossovers, it was supported mainly by majority Democrats.

A two-thirds majority, 73 yes votes, is required in both chambers to put a constitutional amendment before voters.

If that's difficult in the House, it will be even more difficult in the Senate, controlled by Republicans and offering its own $266 million in new school money with no tax hike.

Area lawmakers voted along party lines except for Rep. James Kosteva, D-Canton, who voted no.

OFFICIALLY, the plan is known as House Joint Resolution I. Chief sponsor is Rep. Wilfred Webb, D-Hazel Park, a former school superintendent whose district includes part of Troy.

Cosponsors, all Democrats, are Michael Griffin of Jackson, Ted Wallace of Detroit, Perry Bullard of Ann Arbor and Charlie Harrison of Pontiac.

Here, according to the House Taxation Committee, are the main changes affecting taxpayers:

- A constitutional amendment would be submitted to voters in a special election Sept. 12.
- The sales and use taxes would increase from 4 percent to 5, about halfway through the school fiscal year and one-fourth of the way through the state fiscal year. Electricity and heating fuel would be taxed.
- Homeowners would have the first $5,000 of homestead state equalized valuation ($10,000 market value) exempted from school operating taxes. For an average millage rate of 33.5 mills, the relief would be $168 a year, or about 14 percent. Relief would start with the July 1990 bills.
- Beginning in 1991, the homestead exemption would be indexed to the growth in the school aid fund.
- For business, 16 percent of personal property would be exempt from school operating taxes, leading to a reduction of 5.6 percent business taxes for school operations. The 16 percent would be indexed for growth of the school aid fund.

SCHOOL DISTRICTS would see these changes:

- They would be fully reimbursed for lost revenue. But all existing rate limitations and caps would remain in effect.
- Future reimbursements are indexed to the growth in property valuations.
- Richer districts — those in the upper 10 percent of property values per pupil — will have their state payments for Social Security and pensions reduced by up to 10 percent. This will affect most out-of-formula suburban districts.
- New school money from Lansing will amount to $300 million the first (partial) year and $400 million thereafter.
- They will get $265 million of that in the state aid formula and $135 million in quality-related categorical aid.

THE PLAN is named for Edgar Harden, retired president of North Michigan and Michigan State universities, now a Lansing businessman.

It was put together by a group of business, education, labor and governmental interests — the groups which Blanchard said will be depended on to sell the plan.

Besides Republicans, the plan is opposed by the Michigan State Chamber of Commerce.

Firms vie for county land development

A real-estate firm owned by famed golfer Jack Nicklaus is expected to make a bid Thursday to develop 550 acres of Wayne County-owned land in Northville Township as a golf course community.

The county has set Thursday as the deadline for bids on developing part of the 1,000 acres it owns between Five Mile and Six Mile, east of Beck at the site of the former Child Development Center.

The site, which has not generated tax revenue for years, has been the subject of several proposed projects over the years that never got off the ground, including a state prison and senior-citizen apartments.

The county has set today as the deadline for bids on developing part of the 1,000 acres it owns between Five Mile and Six Mile, east of Beck Road in Northville Township.

Another bid to develop the land as a golf course is expected to be made by a consortium that includes another famous golfer, Lee Trevino.

Nicklaus' firm, Nicklaus/Sierra Development Corp., was founded six years ago and designs exclusive golf communities around the country, with one-acre lots typically selling for up to $800,000.

Nicklaus/Sierra reportedly will propose developing the property with the Farmington-based development firm of Holtzman and Silverman, Southfield-based LoPatin and Co. and Duke Associates, which recently built two office buildings known as Seven Mile Crossing at I-275 and Seven Mile in Livonia.

Trevino's partners reportedly include R.A. DeMattia Co. of Plymouth Township, Alexander Hamilton Life Insurance Co. of Farmington Hills and the Selective Group Inc. of Farmington Hills.

According to Dewitt Henry, Wayne County's director of economic and job development, other groups are expected to make proposals to develop the site.

Millage issues

Increase, renewal merit support

WE'VE LOOKED AT THE financial problems faced by the Plymouth Canton schools and believe the district needs the money that would be generated by the 4-mill increase.

Without that money, the district won't be able to provide a quality education for its students.

Also, we urge voters to approve the 8-mill renewal that is on Monday's ballot. Without it there would be a disaster in the schools.

SCHOOL MILLAGE elections are a war of numbers and emotions.

Here are the numbers: Approval of the 4-mill increase would cost the owner of a $100,000 home approximately $200 a year.

But emotions come into play, too. Pro-millage groups play on the student angle. Don't be anti-student, vote for the millage.

Also, there has been the emotionalism of Citizens for Better Education, a conservative Christian group that said the school district encourages devil worship and allows teachers to show R-rated movies.

Because of that, we urge voters to look at the financial facts when going to the polls Monday, June 12, to vote on the millage questions and a school board candidate.

IN THE seven-person school board race we recommend David Artley, the incumbent. We find Artley a solid board member and the only candidate with the ability to beat Robert Anderson, who is backed by the CBE.

We don't want to see Anderson or any other CBE member or fellow traveler on the school board. The board's job is to oversee the education of the 15,697 students in the district and not chase devils.

There has been plenty of criticism of the Plymouth Canton schools during the past several years during which four millages and/or Headlee Amendment override attempts have been rejected by voters.

One of the constant criticisms against the school district has been that too much is spent on administration.

WE FIND that to be an unfounded charge.

According to a recent look at area schools by the Observer & Eccentric Newspapers, Plymouth-Canton has 54 school administrators. In nearby Wayne-Westland, there are 92 administrators for the 17,489 students. Livonia, which is approximately the same size district as Plymouth Canton, has 57 administrators.

However, the number that strikes us the most is the per pupil spending. At $3,523, it's near the bottom of the scale of those districts in western Wayne County.

In the O&E comparison, only Inkster at $3,345 spends less. Ann Arbor spends $5,325; Livonia, $5,046; and Wayne-Westland, $4,373.

BUT WHILE we're endorsing the millages, we have some reservations.

One is the teachers' contract, which comes up in a year. We don't want to see the gains in money for education eaten up by a teacher contract.

Also, school administrators say that the millage increase is a temporary measure to get the district through its move from in-formula to out-of-formula. When the district goes out-of-formula it will lose state aid, but it will be able to collect more property taxes.

The administrators say approval of the 4-mill increase will ease that transition and that when it has expired, the district would consider dropping it.

However, administrators couldn't promise that the 4-mill increase is temporary. They wouldn't say that the district wouldn't seek its renewal in two years.

We find that worrisome. Rarely does a bureaucracy give money back.

That shouldn't happen and we think it's the board's job to make sure it doesn't.

Come Tuesday, June 13, we hope to see voter approval of the millages and Artley retained as a school board member. That would give the school district a couple of years to heal its financial wounds.

But we hope that that time won't make the district too fat, sassy and unresponsive.

Flag day

Observe it with pride, patriotism

WHEN DID IT become uncool to be patriotic?

Why is turning toward the flag and singing the Star Spangled Banner at a ceremonial or sporting event uncomfortable for many of us?

The Vietnam War was damaging in many ways. And one was that it shook the faith in our government so profoundly that it has never been completely restored.

Flag Day is a legal holiday only in Pennsylvania. And for most of us, when it rolls around next Wednesday, June 14, it will go relatively unnoticed.

Yet the flag stands for the land, the people, the government and the ideals of the United States. Its colors and pattern mean something. Red: hardiness and courage; white: purity and innocence; blue: vigilance, perseverance and justice. The stripes represent the 13 original colonies; the stars, our 50 states.

This Flag Day when the Stars and Stripes flies in front of public buildings in our suburban communities, take a minute to remember back when patriotism was cool — or to think about what it would be like if it were.

WHAT ABOUT UNLEASHING the feeling that comes when you hear Pomp and Circumstance at your child's graduation, the fight song from your alma mater, the Wedding March.

The United States isn't perfect. But people in many other places have and would trade places with any of us in a minute. The brave Chinese students, for example, who set such an example of non-violent revolution — only to be gunned down in the end.

They only want a piece of liberty.

We have it all. We have the most diverse, free society anywhere. We are a tapestry of colors, races, creeds. As a result we have the ability, ingenuity and resources to deal with the problems within our country — and without.

It's time we got over Vietnam.

Send a message this Flag Day. When you pass the flag at town or city hall, your child's school, your neighbors's home, salute it with pride. And sing, if not aloud, then in your heart: "It's a grand old flag. It's a high-flying flag. And forever in peace may it wave."

Pepper's legacy

Seniors stay active, involved

TRIBUTES POURED IN last week with the passing of Rep. Claude Pepper, leader in the House of the rights movement for senior adults.

Some tributes were from politicians out to please their constituencies, but the most eloquent came from seniors themselves who are living testaments to what Pepper tried to teach: That seniors have rights and those include the right to be as active as they want to be.

Take Westland for example. Seniors in that city used to be aided by something called the Department on Aging. It did a fine job, but the name placed emphasis on age instead of ability.

Now it is known as the Senior Resources Department, a location for seniors to gather for enrichment classes, help with special needs like tax preparation, counseling and special holiday parties.

THE STORY OF seniors today is much the same in other communities.

Southfield has the city-owned McDonnell Towers and a satellite site for seniors at John Grace Community Center. A variety of trips, classes and club meetings are held every year. Lunch and breakfast are served at special prices. A "Friendly Visitor" program keeps in touch with homebound seniors.

The Birmingham Area Senior Coordinating Council, sponsored by the school district and the city, is known for its successful inter-generational programs meshing youths with seniors.

ALL OF THEM are benefitting from Pepper's fight for Social Security, minimum wage, medical assistance, prohibition of forced retirement.

Our area seniors, like Pepper, don't need to be patronized. But now they have another mission added on to their roles as court watchers and political party volunteers — demand that your local legislators protect the rights that Claude Pepper fought so hard for.

VOTERS IN the Plymouth Canton School District will also elect four members to the Schoolcraft College Board of Trustees.

We find Ronaele Bowman stands out from among the half dozen candidates running for a four-year term on the Schoolcraft board.

We also recommend retaining incumbents Mary Breen, Harry Greenleaf and Jack Kirksey in the race for a trio of six-year board seats.

Though truth hurts, students must know

Steve Barnaby

Every so often someone comes along who sorts through all the cobwebs and makes some sense out of our eternally confused planet.

The other day, Michigan Supreme Court Justice Dennis Archer did just that.

Hopefully, his message will get around. Today's column is an attempt to aid the endeavor.

Archer's audience was Birmingham Seaholm students who live in a district which of late has been singled out for its incidents of racial intolerance. Archer was frank and pointed in his remarks.

THE SUBSTANCE of his remarks — we have been lying to ourselves and our children about the history of this country and it's about time we stop. Oh, the justice wasn't quite that harsh. He is a politician. Columnists aren't.

"Unless there is a change in the direction this country is taking, the lifestyle that many of you take for granted will not the be same. Unless you, beginning today, invest in your future, many of you, as professionals, will face a bleak future," he warned.

The change, he notes, must be based on a school system that teaches the history of all peoples in our country. Without that, racial, ethnic and class intolerance will continue and, so too, will the growth of the underclass — black and white — which provides the majority of labor in our country.

"The principal reason for racial problems," he said,"is a lack of education." And the majority in this country must learn about the history and heritage of minorities.

BUT WE rarely do.

The other day, I gazed through my daughter's eighth grade history book to see what she was learning — or should I say what she was missing out on.

The text did deal rather frankly with some of the very major social problems we have experienced in the U.S. But in other areas I was saddened.

Check out your child's history book to see what they're learning.

For instance:

- We, too smugly, gaze at the turmoil in China. But too few of us remember the fate of the bonus marchers who encamped on the lawns of Washington, D.C., When President Herbert Hoover had enough of the World War I veterans, he called in the troops, led by General Douglas MacArthur and assisted by Dwight D. Eisenhower, who brutally evicted them.
- Thousands of American citizens were forced into concentration camps during World War II by order of President Franklin Roosevelt. The internees lost houses, businesses and bank accounts. The only reason for their internment was because they were Japanese. German-Americans weren't imprisoned.
- Every history book has a photograph of beautiful Mount Vernon. But few, if any, show the massive slave quarters behind it where blacks were forced to live in cramped quarters at night after laboring in the fields during the day so George Washington could live like a king.
- Not satisfied with decimating the American Indian population in the 19th century, the federal government, through the FBI, led a concerted effort to destroy the Indian political movement of the 1960s, even though the federal law forbids the FBI from meddling in politics.

The stories are endless. But the point is obvious. Sometimes the truth hurts. But it needs to be told.

More sports coverage

To the editor:

The Plymouth Canton community is a very sports oriented area. This newspaper devotes a whole section to the subject of sports. Or does it? The section in this newspaper deals only with high school sports. For example the May 11 edition of the Plymouth Observer had an eight page section on high school sports.

I am 14 and attend East Middle School and am in the 8th grade. Earlier this school year I participated in the school's softball and volleyball programs and now I am active in track program. I also play soccer during the fall, winter, and spring sessions for Plymouth Parks and Recreation and play softball for the PCJBL during the summer. What about these teams? Do they count? I feel that we who are not on the high school teams deserve at least a sentence or two on our achievements.

If you might devote just a page, or even a half of a page, to middle school and recreation sports a lot of young people might feel better about what they have accomplished as a team.

We only hear about what young people are doing wrong, but this is a great opportunity to share with the community some of the activities of youth who do right. This would promote a positive attitude in many young people, and as we say at East "Attitude is Everything."

If this newspaper decides to continue to exclude middle school and recreational sports from its sport section that's how it will have to be. But others deserve recognition too!

New York trashed

To the editor:

I am an eighth grade student at East Middle School in Plymouth. We have just completed a unit on waste management. While working on this unit, I took the time to notice the garbage along our highways, especially in Michigan. On a recent trip, I went through four states, and among them, Pennsylvania, the cleanest, was still quite littered. At least two rest areas in New York were ankle deep in garbage. I know many states already have fines for littering, but they don't seem to work. America must wake up today, or tomorrow will be buried in garbage.

Environment needs help

To the Editor:

With our environment, many problems in the last decade have resulted from human interventions: CFC's and the ozone layer, greenhouse effect, landfill space depletion, radon, and now the Alaskan oil spill. In all cases, these should have never happened. Reckless in our ways, we have primitive knowledge of our planet Earth in terms of understanding. We were once the greatest nation in the world, but now appear worse than many nations in environmental problems. All of us need to help out our planet, she alone cannot solve today's mess. The ozone layer, threatened by CFC's is a prize that cannot be restored for many millions of years, yet can be wiped out in 150. The animals of this planet must subdue to our recklessness of the oil spill, but didn't ask for it. In conclusion, we need to help our environment out by preventing more unnecessary damages to the planet, Mother Earth.

Ken Anderson,
Plymouth

Change needed

To the editor:

I hope every residential property owner in the city of Plymouth and Plymouth Township reads the two front-page articles featured in the May 4th issue of this paper. One article stated how city services are provided free of charge to businesses within the city. Then a second article stated how businesses in Plymouth have not been reassessed for property taxes since 1973. However residential property is assessed and raised every year. Seems like we need a change in how the city is operated and managed.

Media: history's eyewitnesses

Hugh Gallagher

THE LAWN is a battlefield. The clover is beating the grass and showing no mercy.

A mother raccoon and her eager cub have taken residence in the garage. No doubt she heard we have a good school system.

I have two teenagers with new driving permits and an unsettling tendency to rush up on yellow lights.

At work the managerial and administrative side of the job has been steadily pushing everything else to a back burner.

At home the typewriter is collecting thick layers of dust.

I wish I was in China.

This is not a suicidal wish but a journalist's Walter Mitty dream of being where the action is. When you become a journalist you want to be an eyewitness to history.

And what history this is. Democracy and freedom in a life-and-death struggle with entrenched and corrupt power.

Hearing CBS' Richard Roth describe the advancing troops even to the point when his cameraman was attacked and he was clubbed gave me chills. I can only imagine having that much courage, presence of mind and dedication to duty.

Roth and others are there as witnesses to the struggle for freedom. They have shown by example what a free press is and what it does. Chinese dissidents have over the last few weeks wrested brief control of radio and television studios and actually practiced the methods of a free media. They will not forget the euphoria of freedom.

IT SEEMS like the most important thing a journalist could do. A former colleague went on to get a doctorate in Chinese studies. I would like to think that he is there. I am certain that as a scholar and journalist he would want to be.

When the dream of standing in Tiananmen Square in my trench coat fades away, I come back to my reality.

In addition to the ragged lawn and the pesky raccoons, life in the suburbs is also about the struggle for freedom and democracy and social justice.

In the United States we haven't had the high drama that is going on in China since the civil rights demonstrations of the '60s. We take our democracy for granted. It's there and we're PROUD TO BE AMERICANS.

But most of us don't work at it. For most elections, Americans stay home. It's even a struggle to get a majority out for a presidential election. And fewer people still participate in the public debate over issues.

We have to fight constantly to preserve the liberty we have. It is not the government that poses the greatest threat in this country, though it has often been an agent for special interests. It is small groups whose members live in fear of freedom and ideas and who want others to conform to their narrow view of life that pose the greatest threat to our liberty.

It is constant debate, an open press, a free flow of conflicting ideas that allow people and civilizations to grow.

AS JOURNALISTS we have a responsibility to be eyewitnesses to history at all levels and be guardians of freedom and democracy.

Covering city hall and the school board isn't as thrilling or deadly as watching a battle between tanks and stones, but it is as important in preserving the democratic process.

I remember in 1968 when the Chicago Police advanced with clubs on the demonstrators outside the Democratic Convention, the students began to chant "The whole world is watching." As long as a free press survives, the world will continue to watch the never-ending struggle for freedom at every level.

Let's restudy class honors

Doc Doyle

Q: My son, who is graduating this month, is going to receive his second B grade in the four years of his high school education. He will not be valedictorian or salutatorian. One of his Bs was in a one semester class. He will get no recognition. It doesn't make sense.

Many school districts are revisiting the valedictorian/salutatorian issue; some are hanging onto tradition. The question: Is there any major difference in a 4.0 average, all As for a valedictorian and a 3.958 average or all As one B for the student who didn't make valedictorian?

Consider further a hypothetical situation in which a student took all semester courses and received all As except one B in a one semester course; over four years his/her point average would be 3.979 (which rounds off to 4.0); this student probably would not be a valedictorian. Compounding the issue is that many students take honors or accelerated courses, competing against strong academically disciplined students, while others — have taken an easier curriculum route through school.

Following is an example of how ridiculous this can be. One student with a 4.0 becomes valedictorian in a school district. One student is salutatorian with a 3.960, all As with one B in a one semester course. One student with all As but with one B in one year long course ends up with a 3.958. The later student with the 3.958 average (which can be rounded off to 3.96) doesn't make salutatorian because some districts do not round off at the thousands spot, 3.958 and therefore the 3.960 becomes the standard cut off point for salutatorian and 3.958 which rounds off to 3.96 doesn't cut the mustard. Give me a break — no teacher ever grades that precisely.

Several school districts are taking a chapter from some of our state universities. Michigan State University grants summa cum laude (Latin for — with highest distinction) to those with a grade point average of 3.7 to 4.0 and cum laude (with distinction) for those with a 3.4 to 3.69 grade point average.

University of Michigan grants summa cum laude to the top three percent of the class, magna cum laude (with great distinction) to the top 10 percent of the class and cum laude (with distinction) to those above 3.5. Obviously, many more students are recognized for their achievement under this system.

However, if local school districts should decide to consider a "cum laude" procedure, it may be wise to phase out the present system to protect the integrity of the present system and the students who entered high school in that system. A dual system is somewhat more logical. A valedictorian and salutatorian system alone, to me, does not consider factors beyond some students' control.

The pressure and stress placed on some students to achieve valedictorian is healthy in some cases but devastating for many. Indeed, years ago when I was a high school counselor, a counselee of mine had a nervous breakdown over a B that resulted in her not making valedictorian. Incidentally, the teacher was known to be a "tough" grader, giving few if any A's; yet this student knew the teacher was excellent and believed she could get an A. This teacher's grading system was 96 percent to 100 percent for an A; other teachers teaching the same course used 90 percent to 100 percent for an A.

Some would argue that world records are set in tenths of a second and there in only one winner. Yet, this is an athlete competing against the clock and other athletes. The variables in the grading styles of teachers and relative difficulty of honors vs general education courses negates this argument. We should and must recognize academic excellence. The question is: should we recognize scholarly students who may have been tripped-up by the system and make them a part of a larger "cum laude" group in which 1/100 of a decimal point doesn't negate recognition for four years of disciplined study.

Legislature: schools top priority

Tim Richard

YOU ALWAYS have more questions than Jim Blanchard has time to answer, which is too bad because I have a great new catch phrase for him.

Tim Skubick was able to squeeze in, "Do you think legislators are spending like drunken sailors?"

"No," replied the governor, trying to sound conciliatory, compassionate and conservative. He wasn't looking to offend the remaining 147 lawmakers.

Blanchard said 28 states and the feds are having budget overrun problems.

"The good news is that we (his administration) are on top of it. The bad news is that we can't meet all constituent needs."

THE NEXT LOGICAL question should have been, "Do you think legislators are spending like Novi Yuppies?"

Novi Yuppies don't spend money on booze, tattoos and floozies. They spend it on big houses, landscaping, their kids, designer jeans, stereos, VCRs and, of course, on education.

Those are good things, not the things drunken sailors spend on. And Novi Yuppies spend big.

That is the point Blanchard was trying to get across: The Legislature has over-appropriated his $6.99 billion budget by $600 million on the Senate side and $350 million on the House side. It didn't spend wildly on pork barrel projects, but it did spend too much, in his view.

And after announcing he would apply his veto to one of liberalism's sacred cows, social services, the governor departed.

THE SHORT TERM question is: Whose revenue figures do you believe?

Treasurer Bob Bowman, Blanchard's appointee and economics guru, says the Senate is wrong in estimating a surplus. With a straight face, Bowman said his estimates are honest and objective while economist Gary Wolfram, who works for Senate Majority Leader John Engler, concocts what he's told to concoct.

A couple of us newshounds couldn't keep straight faces at that rationalization.

The latest unemployment figures tend, however, to support the Blanchard-Bowman prognosis — continued growth but slower. Our conservative governor doesn't want to repeat the optimistic notorieties of Gerald Miller, budget director in his predecessor's administration.

POLITICS HAS a major role in this debate — substantive politics, major issues, not mere posing.

Engler, Blanchard's probable 1990 rival, is joined by Senate Republicans and a big gob of suburban Democrats in wanting to allocate more of the budget to education.

They took what they perceived to be the surplus and shoved every penny into K-12 education. Their argument: For 20 years the state has been bleeding its education budget to pay for other services, first social services and more recently prisons.

The Democratic-led House rejected those bills. The matter will be compromised in conference committees, backed up by Blanchard's announced readiness to use his veto.

BUT ENGLER and the suburbanites are making their point: Education is the priority. Everything else is in second place.

And they're saying the first line of attack should be reallocating present revenues before looking for new taxes.

Are they spending like drunken sailors? Nope — more like Novi Yuppies, and now you know what the chief 1990 issue will be.

Bridal gowns from this century and the last are featured in the exhibit. Museum hours are 1-4 p.m. Thursday, Saturday and Sunday.

Elegant touches of lace enhance the appearance of this dress, one of those featured in the "Here Come the Brides" exhibit at the Plymouth Historical Museum.

Finery's changed with times

By Julie Brown

Modern-day wedding gowns don't bear much resemblance to the dresses worn by Victorian-era brides.

'So we're getting more all the time. They're a nice collection to have because of the variety, I think.'

—Beth Stewart
museum director

Many bridal gowns worn in the 19th century weren't white. Those gowns were designed to be practical in an era when transportation wasn't what it is today; a bride often wore a darker-colored gown for the ceremony and for traveling afterward.

Wedding dresses from this century and the last are featured in an exhibit, "Here Come the Brides," at the Plymouth Historical Museum. All but one of the 12 or so dresses featured come from the museum's collection.

"We're getting more all the time," said Beth Stewart, museum director. "They're a nice collection to have because of the variety, I think."

Brides from more modern times wore their white or ivory gowns just one time. That meant the dresses didn't wear out, so many brides have opted to give their gowns to the Plymouth Historical Museum. Museum staffers and volunteers know who wore most of the gowns, although the history of the older dresses isn't known with certainty.

BRIDAL FASHIONS have mirrored the styles popular in different eras. One 1929 lace and silk dress on exhibit was designed in the flapper style. A 1930 pale pink gown is form-fitting, a 1915 wedding gown has a hobble skirt, as does a 1912 gown with a high collar.

One 1882 gown in the exhibit, made of dark fabric, was worn by Mrs. Edgar Harlow (Belle Brown). A gown from 1883 or so was most likely used both as a wedding gown and as a graduation dress, Stewart said.

Two other gowns from the 1880s are on exhibit on the dressmaker's shop in the museum's Main Street area. The dresses of that era were designed to be worn with a bustle in the back.

A cream shantung wedding dress featured in the exhibit is from 1956. The most modern dress in the exhibit is from the 1960s.

Silk, satin and lace have been perennial favorite fabrics for wedding gowns. All the gowns exhibited were handmade and the older gowns were handsewn as well. Even after sewing machines came into widespread use, much of the detailed work on delicate fabric had to be done by hand.

No gowns from the 1970s — an era when some brides chose to go barefoot and wear non-traditional dresses — are featured.

"Nobody's given us any of those yet, muumuus or whatever," Stewart said with a smile.

THE EXHIBIT isn't limited to wedding gowns. Victorian-era wedding gifts are featured as well.

Staff photos by Bill Bresler

"We've got just a bit of everything in here," Stewart said. The exhibit includes silver, cut glass and specialty pieces of china. As with the gowns, most items are from the museum's collection.

Condiment sets are included. Those sets were used on tables to hold salt, pepper, oil, vinegar and spices.

Walk raises funds

THERE WERE a few sore feet after the "Walk/Run for Literacy," but no major disasters.

"Everyone came and left healthy," said Carolyn Burns of Canton, a participant in the Sunday afternoon event. There were a few water hazards on the course, courtesy of Saturday's heavy rain, but walkers and runners did just fine.

The event was presented by the Canton Rotary Literacy Committee and sponsored by McDonald's of Canton. Proceeds will support the work of the Community Literacy Council, a non-profit organization providing free reading help.

The "Walk/Run for Literacy" gets under way. Proceeds from the event will support the work of the Community Literacy Council.

LAST YEAR'S walk was the first one sponsored by the Rotary literacy committee. This year's event was held in conjunction with the Canton Challenge Fest.

"We have more participants this time," said Burns, literary council president. Holding the walk/run during the festival helped increase the number of participants, with about 50 signing up.

Martha Krisciunas (left) and Denise Legault move right along during the "Walk/Run for Literacy." The event was presented by the Canton Rotary Literacy Committee and sponsored by McDonald's of Canton.

"And the book sale has brought more traffic here, so the awareness has been better," she said. The Friends of the Canton Public Library held a used book sale Friday through Sunday at the library.

Walk/run participants raised pledges of so much per mile. The course started and ended at the Canton Public Library, with participants walking or running around Canton Recreation Park.

McDonald's characters were there to help get the walkers and runners started. All participants received at least one prize.

"Our participants have been all different ages, youngsters through seniors," said Burns, also a Rotary literacy committee member. Most participants walked or ran five miles; some chose the one-mile or three-mile option.

MONEY RAISED will be used to buy materials for tutor training sessions to be held this fall, she said. Tutoring is provided for children and adults learning English as a second language and for basic adult education students.

Materials for students will also be bought, Burns said. There's a constant need for high-interest, low-level books for adult students.

The event was held to publicize literacy concerns and to raise money, said John Schwartz of Canton, chairman of the Rotary committee. The committee's primary role is making people aware of assistance provided by the literacy council and Plymouth-Canton Community Education.

Schwartz and Burns participated in the walk/run, in addition to helping organize the event. They also participated in last year's fund-rais-

Workplace offers new challenges

By Julie Brown

BRIDGING THE gap between high school and the work place isn't easy. Some students from the metropolitan Detroit area are getting help in making that transition.

Two programs offered by Focus: HOPE, MTI Prep and Fast Track, are designed to help young people improve their skills and get ready to enter the work force.

"Many of them want to get involved and take advantage of the opportunity to sharpen some skills," said Charles Brantley, adviser for the Fast Track program. Brantley, a business planner with IBM, is working through his employer's community service program, assisting with the Focus: HOPE effort.

Both MTI Prep and Fast Track are geared toward people in their late teens and early 20s.

Fast Track is a six-week, eight-hour-a-day program designed for recent high school graduates who have reached at least eighth grade levels in math and reading.

THE PROGRAM'S been in the planning stages since last year and started operating last January. So far, four six-week sessions have been held, with the next session to start June 19.

Fast Track participants work on computers, concentrating on improving math and reading skills. Communication ability, reasoning skills and work place discipline also are emphasized.

Fast Track, offered to students free of charge, prepares participants for employment, military service or further education, Brantley said. Some enter Focus: HOPE's Machinist Training Institute, while others attend colleges, universities or other training institutes.

Students discover how technology affects their lives and how they can deal with that impact.

"I think that in itself is quite an advantage," Brantley said.

Dorothy France of Detroit, a 1988 Denby High School graduate, is a Fast Track participant.

"So far, there's a lot more to it than I thought it was," she said. She'd been considering a career in nursing, but discovered she had other interests.

"I found out that I really like computers." Math isn't as difficult for France as she thought it would be. "At least now I have some idea of what I want to do."

SHE PLANS to study math and computers at a four-year college or university, most likely Wayne State University. After that, France plans to pursue a career in the U.S. Air Force.

France heard about Fast Track on the TV news and through her sister, who went through the program. Her sister now works at Michigan National Bank.

"She found it very beneficial," France said.

Michigan National Bank and IBM Corp. have provided financial and technical support for the Fast Track program. Primary funding was provided by a grant from the Kellogg Foundation.

"I think it's a good program," said Fast Track participant Terence O'Neal of Detroit, a 1987 Henry Ford High School graduate. The program brings students to the skill levels needed for entry level positions, he said.

O'Neal plans to pursue a bachelor's in a creative field, possibly journalism, and will most likely attend Wayne State. He worked on his high school newspaper and yearbook; O'Neal would eventually like to write music criticism.

"It's a good program," he said. "It helps you in areas, even if you don't have any intention of pursuing machinist training."

MTI PREP is designed to prepare students to enter Focus: HOPE's Machinist Training Institute. MTI Prep is a six-week, five-hour-a-day course for high school graduates, those with GEDs or others with at least eighth grade levels in math and reading skills.

MTI Prep, like Fast Track, is designed to raise student reading and math levels at least two grades. Graduates will be able to enter the eight-month program at the Machinist Training Institute.

The Machinist Training Institute has been operated by Focus: HOPE, a civil and human rights organization, since 1981. More than 500 people have graduated from MTI since 1981, said Kevin Robinson, manager of video education for Focus: HOPE.

The program's placement rate is close to 100 percent; there's a great demand for machinists, and participants come from throughout the metropolitan Detroit area.

MTI participants study blueprint reading, shop theory and operation of such equipment as lathes, mills and grinders. Automation has had an impact on the work done by machinists; they must know how to program machines to change tools and to cut to certain widths and depths.

Traditionally, the field has been dominated by white men, Robinson said. The Focus: HOPE program is designed to help women and minorities enter the field as well. Starting salaries for machinists are in the area of $8-$8.50 per hour, making the field an attractive one.

"You can't just walk off the street and get in." Extensive training is required.

Machinists don't just work in the auto industry. They help manufacture other durable goods, such as furniture, as well.

"That's what makes the job so secure, because they're not dependent on just one industry," Robinson said.

(For more information on Fast Track or MTI Prep, call 883-7440 between 8:30 a.m. and 5 p.m. weekdays.)

This gown from the 1880s was most likely used both as a graduation dress and as a wedding gown. Bridal gown styles through the years have mirrored the fashions popular in each era.

"Everyone had one in some form," she said. "It was like the toaster."

No wedding would be complete without a wedding cake, so there's one included in the exhibit. The white cake with a bride-and-groom adornment on top was made by Helen Hopping, a Plymouth Historical Society member and former caterer.

One exhibit case includes wedding shoes from 1890 to 1910 or so. Purses, hatpins, gloves, combs and other wedding accessories are exhibited.

In setting up the exhibit, Stewart and the others found it interesting to learn about wedding traditions. Many modern-day traditions have their roots in ancient times.

The custom of wearing a wedding ring, for instance, is thought to date to ancient times "when brides were captured instead of asked," she said. In that era, vines were wrapped around the arms and legs of brides, to keep them from escaping.

WEDDING RINGS are worn on the ring finger because it was believed a vein ran from that finger straight to the heart. Veils date back to ancient Roman times when brides were shrouded with cloth.

In the 19th century, Queen Victoria chose to wear white at her wedding to Prince Albert, Stewart said. The queen's white dress was made with lace from Spain; orange blossoms were attached to the dress.

Orange blossoms remain a favorite flower for brides today. White and ivory dresses are popular, too, although that didn't happen until the later 19th century in the United States.

(The Plymouth Historical Museum, 155 S. Main, is open 1-4 p.m. Thursday, Saturday and Sunday. Admission price is $1 for adults, 50 cents for students ages 12-17 and 25 cents for children ages 5-11. For more information, call 455-8940.)

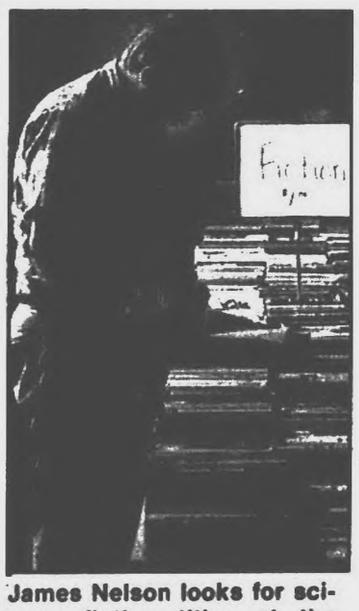
Friends meet at book sale

PLENTY OF book lovers found food for thought at the book sale sponsored by the Friends of the Canton Public Library.

"We've had a tremendous reception from the community," said Wally Baker of Canton, chairman for the sale. "We're very pleased."

This is the first year the Friends of the Canton Public Library decided to have a sale. The event was held Friday-Sunday, June 2-4, at the library.

Proceeds will support the homebound book program, the gift and memorial book program and other Friends projects.



James Nelson looks for science fiction titles at the sale.

A preview sale was held Thursday, June 1, at the library. Those attending had the opportunity to join the Friends group that evening, and many did so, Baker said.

His son came in from Kalamazoo for the sale, and joined the Friends group.

FRIDAY MORNING when the regular sale got under way, people were waiting in line for the doors to open.

"People have been most pleased with our pricing policy," Baker said. "They consider it a bargain, which it is."

Hardcover fiction books were priced at $1 each for most of the sale hours. Late Sunday afternoon was bargain time; books were priced at $1 per bag for the final hour.

Fiction books were particularly popular choices for sale visitors, although many were looking for non-fiction. Crafts books, other how-to books, religious titles and others were selling just fine.

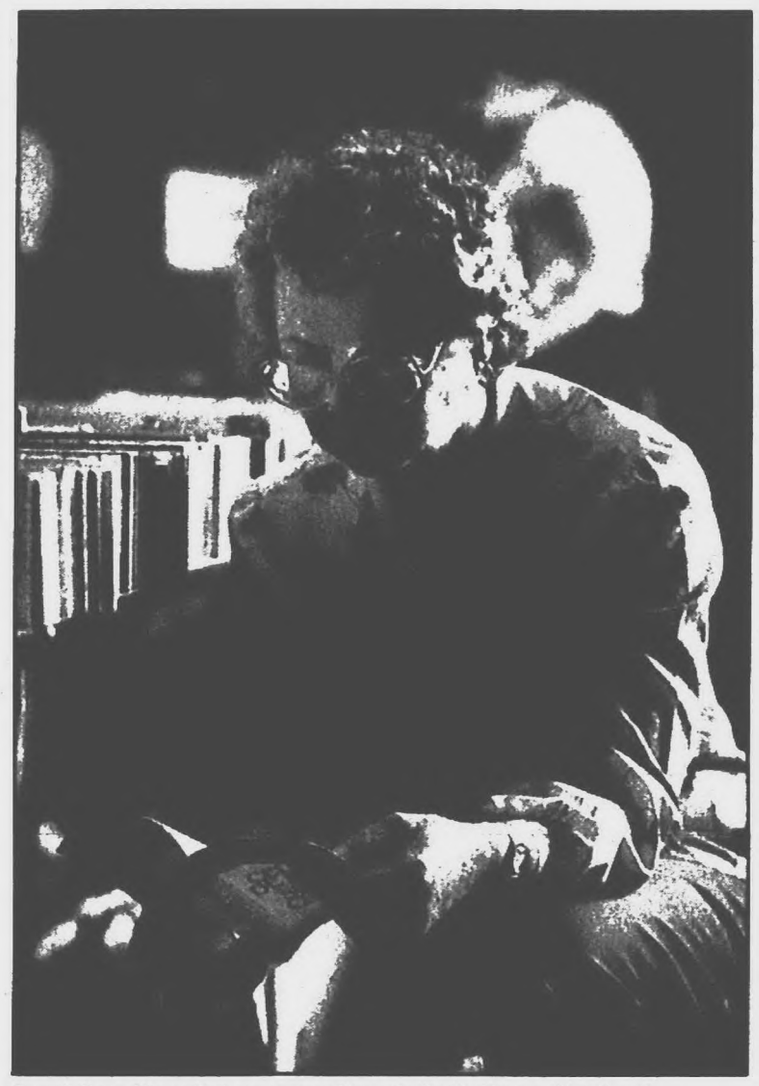
"We've had everything under the sun," Baker said. "They've all been moving."

Baker was busy at the sale, but still found time to do some book shopping.

Many of the books bought at the sale will be recirculated, he said. People will read them and then give them back for a future sale.

"If future ones are as this, we would be most happy," he said of the sale.

A book sale most likely will be held next year, although no date has been set.



Geraldine Clore takes some time to look through a book.

"This is much better," said Schwartz, owner of John Schwartz Greenhouse, Canton. "We have more people involved. We don't make the same mistakes twice."

Being part of the challenge fest was fun, he said. Walkers and runners had the opportunity to view a number of festival activities during their Sunday stroll or run.

The Rev. Michelle Gentile of Denton Faith United Methodist Church and her husband, the Rev. Randy Whitcomb of Cherry Hill United Methodist Church, have found being a clergy couple has its benefits and drawbacks.

The Revs.

Couple shares a love for the clergy

By Julie Brown
staff writer

The Rev. Randy J. Whitcomb and the Rev. Michelle A. Gentile have a pretty good idea of what each other's workdays involve.

Gentile, 35, is pastor at the Denton Faith United Methodist Church, on Michigan Avenue just outside of Canton. Whitcomb, 33, is pastor at the Cherry Hill United Methodist Church, on Ridge south of Cherry Hill in Canton.

They'll celebrate their fifth wedding anniversary this September. The two met as graduate students at the Methodist Theological School in Ohio, where both graduated in 1985 with master's degrees in divinity.

They've found that being a clergy couple has its benefits and drawbacks.

They moved to their current churches about a year ago, and had served previously as associate pastors, Whitcomb at Aldersgate United Methodist Church in Redford and Gentile at the First United Methodist Church of Dearborn.

WHEN THE pastor at Aldersgate became ill, Gentile was able to help her husband with church work.

"And Randy was able to do the same thing at my church a couple times, so that was helpful."

A drawback is that they can't worship together on Sundays. They try to attend functions at each other's churches and have participated in pulpit exchanges between the churches.

Both live by their calendars; scheduling vacations was difficult when they worked as associate pastors. They now have more control over their schedules, but still face the unexpected at times.

"That's just a part of being in the ministry," Whitcomb said.

Both Gentile and Whitcomb have an interest in theater and other performing arts and have incorporated that into their ministry; that interest also helped bring them together. Gentile had been cast in the lead for a one-act play at the Methodist Theological School in Ohio.

She recruited other cast members, and asked Whitcomb's roommate if he would participate. That young man said no, but Whitcomb agreed to be in the play.

"It just grew out of friendship," she said of their relationship.

WHITCOMB LATER returned to his home state, Minnesota, and worked in the chaplain program at Rochester Methodist Hospital. Gentile was doing volunteer church work in Maine; they decided to get married.

They were married on Labor Day weekend 1984 in Ohio at a church where Whitcomb had served. About a year later, they moved to their churches in Dearborn and Redford.

The backgrounds they bring to their work are varied.

"I grew up on a dairy farm in Minnesota," Whitcomb said. That farm was in Eyota, in the southeastern part of Minnesota.

After high school, Whitcomb started at Minnesota Bible College, planning to go into the ministry. A new minister came to his home church and had some difficulties there; Whitcomb was discouraged by that experience and dropped out of school.

He and his brother bought a dairy farm in Minnesota. Whitcomb worked there about five years, and became active in the church as a certified lay speaker. A young woman he dated at that time encouraged him to return to school.

Whitcomb returned to Minnesota Bible College and earned a two-year degree. He went to Westmar College in LeMars, Iowa, completing his bachelor's degree, and then went to graduate school.

HE'S FOUND his ministry enjoyable.

"For me, I find that the things I enjoy far outweigh the things I'm not all that thrilled about."

Gentile grew up in the Detroit area. She earned a bachelor's degree in elementary education and theater from Central Michigan University, where she concentrated in special education.

She did graduate work in children's theater at Penn State, and has worked for about 10 years as a professional puppeteer and as a clown.

Gentile taught preschool and elementary school for 5½ years, including time in the Rochester and Oxford schools in Michigan and in the Ozark Mountains of Missouri. She has worked on teaching programs for gifted students and on recreational programs for youngsters.

When she was 17, Gentile became seriously ill. She was able to graduate from high school, but her deteriorating health prevented her from starting at CMU right away. She stayed home to work and took classes at Oakland Community College.

Gentile prayed; she was ready to go with God if that was his plan. If not, she would work to share God's love with others.

SHE WENT into the hospital and had major surgery. A family friend with the same illness was in that hospital at the same time. Both were released from the hospital on Good Friday.

Her doctor told her she was well enough to go to school. The family friend's health deteriorated, and he knew he would soon die.

"He told me to live each day of my life to the fullest and to share the gift of God's love," Gentile said.

She started teaching, and became active in the Methodist Church. She knew that teaching wasn't her final place; soon after her father died, she decided to go into the ministry.

"It's a gift to be part of people's lives," she said. They're able to share critical times, both happy and sad, with others.

Whitcomb and Gentile meet regularly with six to eight other clergy couples in their conference, the Detroit Annual Conference of the United Methodist Church. They find that support tremendously helpful.

They don't consider their circumstances all that unusual.

"I think there's going to be more and more" clergy couples, Whitcomb said. "They're out there. We're not all that rare."

Women have been ordained as pastors in the United Methodist Church for many years, and many women are enrolled in seminaries.

Whitcomb and Gentile would like to have a family at some point. They'd like to stay in the area and continue with their ministry.

"It's just a wonderful place to live and we have two wonderful congregations," Gentile said. "I think people are really super about it."

moral perspectives

Rev. Robert Schaden

The beauty of nature should be preserved

Having trekked the trails of the north woods on numerous occasions, I have become accustomed to noticing the ever-changing face of the wilds. A tree that stood last year has been felled by lightning. The water line on the grass along the bank gives notice that the river is lower this year. A stand of birches has given way to the sharp teeth of some busy beavers.

But this year I encountered another change, a quite unexpected one. Among the last things I expected to see in the north woods was a string of no-parking signs. But there they were, looking like transplants from a suburban street.

Somehow these metal poles with their slashed-out letter "P's" seemed inexplicably out of place. Only the notice tacked to a nearby stake shed light on the invasion. It warned the eagle was not to be harassed. No one was to go beyond this point. What was this all about?

The naser sat approximately 100 feet in the air on one of the biggest bird nests I ever did see, and what a bird! For some time I stood enchanted at the majesty portrayed in her brilliant white head offset by a golden beak and an eye that left no doubt she watched my every move. When she finally flew off her nest, her eight-foot wing span proved far more awesome than her pictures.

Needless to say, I have not seen many eagles, and never so close up. Unfortunately, they are only one of a number of species of life that are seen by fewer and fewer people every year. The rate of extinction of one species after another would even leave Darwin aghast.

YOU SEE, there is a sad difference between natural extinction and the kind of extinction brought on by the one species of the Earth that is supposed to have "the power of reason." In the one instance, we are talking of things dying out and in the other, it is a case of being killed off.

Some studies, for instance, have suggested that the Peregrine falcon (you don't see many of those these days either) can become infertile through the consumption of so much as one contaminated duck.

Imagine, if you will, a world council. Each species on the planet is allowed one representative to the council and each representative is allowed one vote.

In dealing with the problems of the environment, it is decided that a vote be taken as to which species should be allowed to continue on the planet. Considerations include contributions to the welfare of the environment as well as responsibility for its demise.

With one vote per species, our chances of retaining our right to be here may be slim indeed.

As little children we were supposed to have learned that what brings instant gratification is not always best in the long run. We were also taught that in considering the right or wisdom of an behavior we must look to its effect on other people.

PERHAPS THOSE two lessons need relearning. That which is immediately convenient can spell eventual doom. And that which is pleasing to the few can in the long run cause more than eagles to disappear.

As wonderful as our technology may be, its unbridled use today narrows the options of people who will inhabit the planet tomorrow. The rain forests that fall to grazing land for North American burgers deprive us of more than a means to feed about. They produce the very oxygen the burger eaters need to breathe.

Can we begin to feel as much concern for the environment a cause for a few to debate in? Or is it possible that it is too late in this hour? I wonder what endangered species the no parking signs will seek to protect when our grandchildren go to the woods.

The Rev. Robert Schaden is with Newman House campus ministry at Schoolcraft Community College in Livonia.

1st jobs serve as career launch pads

CEOs' advice: 'Work hard'

By Peggy Aulino
staff writer

Some of them inherited the companies they now run. Others started in the stockroom and now they hobnob with stockholders.

Area company presidents and CEOs all went through the school of hard knocks to some degree. Some attained academic degrees along the way; some did not.

They were asked recently where they started out, what they learned and what sort of advice they would offer those who are just now entering the work force.

Steven Jackson
Hungry Howie's

"There's really no school you can go to to learn how to be the president of the company. You've just got to make decisions and hopefully you make more right ones than you do wrong ones," said Steven Jackson, president of the Livonia-based Hungry Howie's Pizza and Subs.

Jackson, like some other executives, changed career tracks since entering the work force. He was studying elementary education during college in the mid-1970s, but looked around and saw that lots of teachers were getting pink slips, he said. He quit school and opened a Hungry Howie's, the second in what is now a chain of at least 40 outlets in the Detroit area alone.

As a newcomer to the business world, Jackson had a lot to learn. But at that stage in the game, ignorance was bliss, he said.

"(When you open a business without much experience) you really don't realize when you're making mistakes. I think it's sheer basic energy and willpower," he said. "I guess I didn't realize what the numbers meant. I just kept trying to do better than the last week."

Jackson didn't have any advice for recent graduates.

"It's hard for me to answer that question. I was never in the job market," he said.

Carol Quigley
Quigley Cos.

Carol Quigley was a special education teacher before her father died and left the Quigley Cos. to her and her sisters. Quigley, the Southfield company's president, said her classroom background helped her when it was time to take the reins of manufacturing truck and auto parts.

"Teaching helps you understand people. Basically people are people, whether they're kids or not," she said. "A lot of running a business is the people aspect of it — the people you work with, your customers."

Quigley's advice to up-and-coming top executives: "Just work as hard as you can and always remember that the customer is the person that you're there for."

Robert Awrey
Awrey Bakeries

Robert Awrey has been there for his customers since he was 15.

"I've never really worked anywhere else but here," said the president of Awrey Bakeries of Livonia.

He started out mopping floors and doing other chores in a downtown Detroit retail outlet that was part of the business begun by his grandparents.

"I learned to relate with and get along with people. That's the biggest lesson in life and business," Awrey said. And, he said, "I learned to work hard. I learned a pretty good work ethic."

Awrey suggested young people in the market for a job follow "the old saw — work hard and keep your nose clean.

"You get ahead by doing whatever job is assigned to you — excellently," he said. "Work a little harder, do a little more than the next guy."

James Eckl
Gray & Kilgore

That's the same sort of advice offered by James Eckl, president of Gray & Kilgore Advertising in Troy. But Eckl calls it being aggressive.

"I don't mean cutthroat, just a willingness to learn and take on a little bit more than the job definition requires," he said.

Eckl's first job after he got his degree was as an auditor.

"Probably what I found out most was I didn't want to be an auditor," he said.

But understanding the "internal workings" of a business helped him succeed.

"I truly believe . . . if you don't understand the numbers game you're lost. I think that's true in most businesses," Eckl said.

Besides being aggressive, Eckl thinks people trying to break into advertising should be unique. That's because on a typical week, his company receives 20 to 30 resumes. Being unique will help get someone a job interview, he said, and being aggressive could land them the job.

Donald Blue Mutual of Detroit

Donald Blue, president of Mutual of Detroit Insurance in Plymouth, agreed that choosing work that is personally suitable leads to job satisfaction.

"I think it has to do primarily with their aptitude and interest," he said of young people seeking jobs in which they'll prosper. "They should try to do something they like to do. Go that direction, as opposed to simply taking a job here and there."

Blue worked in Mutual's legal department after earning his law degree but "became more and more involved in management" over the years, he said.

"Many years ago I made a decision to do this as opposed to practicing law," he said.

Blue suggested young people "try to get into something they enjoy doing because they will do well if they have the interest."

Brian Connolly
Providence Hospital

Brian Connolly, president of Southfield's Providence Hospital, agreed that the first job is important, but he thinks some people waste time by looking for the perfect first job.

"What's important is that they get the first job. Once you're in, if you work hard, a lot of doors will open," Connolly said. "Their first job isn't going to be perfect. It's just a learning opportunity, a chance to grow."

Connolly started out as a management engineer, visiting hospitals throughout the state to conduct studies on productivity and long-range planning. That put him in touch with several hospital presidents.

"It really helped me kind of pick and choose a (management) style I thought was most effective and the one I was most comfortable with," Connolly said.

Florine Mark
Weight Watchers

Florine Mark said her first job — selling doughnuts at age 11 — led indirectly to the career into which she has since settled.

"I went in and applied and they could tell I liked doughnuts. I was very much overweight," said Mark, who is president and chairwoman of the Farmington Hills company that operates Weight Watchers franchises in nine states, Ontario and Mexico.

"I think that added to my career," Mark said.

"Everything you do in life is a learning experience if you open your eyes and learn," she said in a more serious vein. "You have to be receptive. A lot of people go through life learning nothing."

Mark had a long list of advice for job seekers.

"They should believe in themselves and have a good sense of humor," she said. "Know what you want and decide what you're willing to give up to get what you want. Be enthusiastic about what you do, and if you're not enthusiastic find something else that gets you excited about what you're doing. Don't expect perfection from yourself. Allow yourself to make mistakes. I make dozens of them. That's how I learn and grow."

And finally: "Always take time to smell the roses."

Jack Casey
Casey Communications

Jack Casey, president of Casey Communications Management in Southfield, was interested in journalism at the beginning of his career. Though he has worked for newspapers and politicians and now is in public relations, "I still think of myself very much as a reporter," he said.

"I figure my several careers have really been an evolution of the first one," Casey said. "It's all communications."

His first job, as a copy boy at a Toledo newspaper, was secured because a friend's mother was the publisher's secretary. The lesson he took from that position was: "Listen and observe; don't just talk. Good public relations can not work without the listening component."

His advice to those seeking their first job was "take it at any cost.

"Getting the first job in the Detroit area is very tough," he said. "I would urge people to take internships." That way, "you have demonstrated that you've not only studied the field but you've worked in it."

Area company presidents and CEOs all went through the school of hard knocks to some degree.

Pat Gray
Uniforce

Pat Gray makes her living helping people get jobs, albeit temporary ones. She is president of Uniforce Temporary Services of Birmingham, Livonia and Southfield. But she started in the field as a permanent placement counselor.

"I acquired a knowledge of people by dealing with individuals who had many and varied skills," Gray said.

That helped her when it was time to hire people to staff her offices, and it gave her an understanding of the personnel needs of large corporations.

People just getting out of school are not at the end of their education, Gray said.

"I would remind them that the world of academia is part of their education and the next step in their education is becoming acquainted with the real world, where they apply what knowledge they have and then, at the same time, continue to grow," Gray said.

She also suggested that young people "recognize that each opportunity is a learning experience and extract from that experience the most knowledge that they can.

"They will find in later years that everything they have learned will be applicable in some situation," Gray said.

Walsh College conference aimed at business couples

By Marilyn Fitchett
staff writer

Frank and Sharan Barnett are capitalizing on helping others like themselves: partners in life and partners in business.

The Barnetts are looking to spread the "copreneurial" gospel when they lead a weekend conference June 16-18 at the Guest Quarters Suite Hotel in Troy, presented by Walsh College.

Frank and Sharan Barnett

They define "copreneuring" as "not only a commitment to a particular enterprise but also a lifestyle that incorporates both work and personal worlds" that is based on "trust, equality, sharing and intimacy between partners."

The conference, called "Working Together: Entrepreneurial Couples" hopes to attract couples who now own their own business and those thinking about it, or the "doers and the dreamers," according to Sharan Barnett.

Statistics from the Small Business Administration indicate the list of doers is growing. From 1980 to 1985, the number of sole proprietorships, excluding farms, that were jointly owned by a husband and wife rose 82 percent to 442,993.

Authors of "Working Together: Entrepreneurial Couples," the Barnetts believe that sharing a business with a person with whom you share the rest of your life results in a "synergy" that does not evolve between partners solely in business. Their book is based on their experiences running their advertising agency and on interviews with 24 couples operating their own businesses. Last year they dissolved the ad agency to concentrate on developing the National Association of Entrepreneurial Couples, which they founded in 1988.

"There is a difference between partners (who are not part of a couple relationship)," Frank Barnett said. "What we find (with partners who are couples) is a high degree of cummunication, a very clear shared vision for where their enterprise is going, a lack of competition between them because they have learned to merge their respective egos into what we call a 'wego.' Conference will focus on couples in business

The "wego" focuses on the couple, "placing the emphasis on the relationship and the enterprise rather than on the individual."

FRANK BARNETT traced the movement back to agrarian America.

"For people to take a serious look at their life's partner (as a business partner) is quite logical. It wasn't that many years ago that we were more an agrarian nation that necessitated that the family be viewed as an economic unit," he said.

"(Since then) this is something that has been discouraged in this country. We are fiercely individual as a nation. It's very isolating. We go off and live our separate lives with separate agendas. We're now predominantly made up households of two income-producers who live very separate lives. And this is really a movement that is rediscovering the strength and values of viewing the family as an economic unit."

The conference fee is $295 per couple. Registration deadline is Friday. For more information, call 689-8282, Ext. 260.

Those interested in receiving more information about the National Association for Entrepreneurial Couples can contact the Barnetts in Oregon at 503-341-6444 or by writing P.O. Box 3238, Eugene, Ore. 97403.

Section 89 rules govern employee benefit plans finances and you

Sid Mittra

It is no longer possible for me to pick up a financial planning publication and not be exposed to the new Section 89 rules. Here is a reproduction of these rules by Couzens, Lansky, Fealk, Ellis, Roeder & Lazar.

Qualification rules

Under the qualification rules, each covered benefit plan must meet the following requirements:

1. The plan must be in writing by the first day of the plan year, beginning in 1990.

2. The plan must be enforceable by employees.

3. The employer must disclose the essential features of the plan to employees by Oct. 1, 1989, or the first day of the plan year beginning in 1989, whichever comes later.

4. The plan must be for the exclusive benefit of employees.

5. The plan must be established with the intent to be maintained for an indefinite period of time.

If a plan fails to meet any of these five requirements, a portion of the value of each employee's employer-provided benefit received (rather than the coverage provided or insurance premium) is included in his or her gross income, subject to certain limitations based on each employee's compensation.

If the sanction applies, all employees, regardless of their pay level, must include in their gross income a portion of the value of the benefits received.

Anti-discrimination rules

The second set of rules deal with the anti-discrimination testing requirements.

A discriminatory employee benefit plan is one that does not meet the complex eligibility and benefits tests set forth in Section 89. These tests are detailed and will require significant effort to analyze and to apply.

To the extent a plan does not pass the eligibility and benefits tests, a "highly compensated employee" must include in his or her gross income the so-called "excess benefit."

This excess benefit is based upon the value of the employer-provided coverage, not on the benefits received. The penalty also applies only to "highly compensated employees."

The term "highly compensated employee" generally means any employee who, during the year in question or the preceding year:

1. Was at any time a 5-percent owner;
2. Received compensation from the employer in excess of $75,000;
3. Received compensation from the employer in excess of $50,000 and was in top-paid 20 percent of employees for such year; or
4. Was at any time an officer and received compensation greater than 50 percent of the defined benefit pension plan limitation (currently 50 percent of $98,064 or $49,032).

To determine whether a plan discriminates, the following employees are generally excluded from consideration when performing the eligibility and benefits tests:

1. Employees who have not completed one year of service (or in the case of benefits under a core health plan, six months of service);
2. Employees who normally work less than 17½ hours per week (for employers with fewer than 10 employees, this number is 35 for 1989 and 25 for 1990);
3. Employees who normally work during not more than six months during any year;
4. Employees who are not yet 21;
5. Certain union employees; and
6. Certain non-resident aliens.

Clearly, Section 89 rules are highly complex. Consult your personal financial planner or attorney to guidance.

Be a good listener if you want to be a good salesman

Mary DiPaolo

It has been said that successfully selling a product or service can be best summarized by the phrase, "selling is telling." If this were true, sales training would not have to involve much more than building presentation skills.

But the truth is that more than 50 percent of selling involves the ability to listen.

According to Kerry L. Johnson, author of "Salespeople: Are You Listening?. . .", eight steps should be followed to improve both individual listening skills and sales performance.

"Many salespeople are never adequately trained to listen," Johnson said. "Most people view listening as the passive side of the conversation. To a majority, being in control means being the speaker."

THE FIRST step in becoming a good listener is developing the ability to repeat, clarify and summarize information.

"A great deal of information is lost through one-way communication," Johnson said.

As a result, achieving "congruency" through the communication process becomes important.

"Congruency provides two-way communication through the interaction between the speaker and the listener because the listener learns to listen to emotions to reach a point of trust with the speaker."

To achieve congruency, Johnson said that repeating, clarifying and summarizing information is crucial.

"It lets the client know that you are paying attention and have reached the same level of understanding in the conversation."

NEXT, A good listener listens to a client at the optimal tension level.

Stress can be measured, with 0 being a very relaxed state and 100 an anxiety state where some people experience difficulty in thinking logically. The optimal listening tension is in the 30 to 40 range where enthusiasm thrives.

By keeping attentive and alert, a person will be able to be a better listener and retain more information. Johnson suggests some simple techniques, including standing up when possible and periodically tensing the muscles in the arms or legs while sitting.

KNOWING WHAT questions to ask represents the third step in developing good listening skills. Successful salespeople know they can't sell unless they find a need or a group of needs they can best attempt to satisfy. By asking the right questions, the chances of getting the right information will be greatly enhanced.

Next week, we will cover the remaining steps used to develop positive listening skills for improved sales performance.

New investor has built solid stock portfolio

I started investing when the market had its big sell-off in October of 1987. I guess I was lucky in waiting to start when I did. I don't have a big profit, but I am ahead. I wish you would comment on the stocks I have bought.

For a beginning investor, you have done an excellent job as far as I can see. Your portfolio would be a good starter for just about anybody.

Baxter has been showing good earnings gains, but investors have been reducing the multiple that they will pay for it. The company is well-managed and growing. I would not worry about the loss you are showing at the present time. It is my guess the stock will recover and them some.

ConAgra is a leading producer of branded frozen foods and meats. It is expected to recover from the adverse chicken cycle and show a good increase in earnings per share this year to as much as $2.50. That would be 2½ times earnings just four years ago. The stock price also has doubled in the last four years.

McDonald's has the best figures of all the fast-food companies. Its profit margins and earnings on invested capital mark it as a well-managed company where the investors' money is likely to be well rewarded.

Merck is often called the best-managed drug company and usually sells at a premium price. Your purchase was well timed and should continue to be profitable.

Nordstrom is a Seattle-based retailer now expanding into a national chain. Its growth rate is excellent. Precision Casparts recently has experienced a slowdown in its growth rate, but orders for planes suggest its future will continue to hold much promise.

Walt Disney continues to grow and looks good to me. As a beginning investor, you have done an excellent job selecting top quality companies with good growth possibilities. My guess is that your portfolio will attain the goal that we set for investment clubs of doubling in value every five years.

Birmingham man turns best-seller into movie

By Kevin Teevens
special writer

IT'S LATE MORNING and the President has just addressed the nation. Nuclear war is imminent.

What would you do?

An all-out nuclear war — WW III, or just a limited nuclear conflict — an atomic argument, would change life as we know it, forever. Could we initially survive and rebuild in the aftermath? This is the premise of "Jenny," a feature film being produced by Birmingham writer Charles Berk.

Based on the widely acclaimed British best seller, "Jenny — My Diary," a short, haunting novel about life in a fallout shelter and on the outside after nuclear war, "Jenny" is different from other nuclear apocalypse dramas.

"There is hope," said Berk, 42, in an interview at the Birmingham office of Omni Pictures, his production company. "The screenplay, which I co-wrote with the author, Yorick Blumenfeld, ultimately reveals there is hope. That you can survive if you're willing to start over. Research indicates this is possible, but obviously the theory hasn't been tested."

BERK DOESN'T OWN a bomb shelter and isn't a survivalist. He just knew a good story when he read "Jenny — My Diary" back in 1983. "It's a real story, certainly contemporary, concerning real issues about the world, people and relationships. It has universal appeal, which is important in today's global movie market. It's not about basketball in Indiana."

Academy-Award-winning actress Julie Christie ("Darling," "Dr. Zhivago," "Heaven Can Wait") is slated for the lead role of Jenny Downing. "Yorick, who lives in England, visited Christie at her home in Wales. She read the story, which takes about an hour to read, and she said she was defintely interested in the role of Jenny," Berk said.

Director Donna Deitch, who recently was behind the camera of the number-one-rated mini-series "Women of Brewster Place," is committed to the film also. And producer Rene Dupont ("Turk 182," "From the Hip," "A Christmas Story") is interested in co-producing with Berk. Credits aren't contractual, yet.

Berk began screenwriting in 1980. His involvement in film has been primarily as a writer and associate producer. Currently, he's moving into producing with "Two Hot to Handle" — a screenplay he rewrote — starring Peter Fonda, Isabella Rossellini and Jimmy Buffet. Two other films, "Prodigy" and "Scorpion Lady" are in pre-production. And of course, "Jenny," which has become for Berk somewhat of a pet project.

" 'Jenny' is a story that reaches out and grabs you, makes you think. We want to preserve this quality in the film," Berk said.

Berk had a difficult time reading the original novel again before he wrote the screenplay.

"IT WAS TOUGH because I knew where it was going. It's difficult because of the subject matter. A lot of people couldn't read this. But the fact the book is a diary — hand-written, so short and to the point — makes it easier to read," he added.

Author Blumenfeld is very concerned about the nuclear question. Twenty years as an Eastern European correspondent for Newsweek made him intimately aware of the political workings, on both sides of the Iron Curtain, that could lead to a nuclear confrontation. Blumenfeld is a distant relative of Anne Frank, whose legacy also was in diary form.

Although originally the story takes place in England, in the screenplay the events occur in Arizona.

Berk said that filming in the United States is more of a marketing move than anything else. "People overseas don't want to see a U.S. version of a story about them, filmed in their country. But they have a great curiousity about the U.S. Films made in the U.S. always do well abroad because people go to see these films to learn about life here."

Berk meets this week with the former head of Warner Bros. Acquisitions, to discuss distribution of "Jenny." The cameras will be rolling soon on a picture whose message shouldn't be ignored.

Holding a copy of the novel "Jenny — My Diary," Charles Berk of Birmingham works on his project of bringing the book to the screen. Berk is producing the film and also co-wrote the screenplay with the book's British author, Yorick Blumenfeld.

' "Jenny" is a story that reaches out and grabs you, makes you think. We want to preserve this quality in the film.'

— Charles Berk

Tocco brings new insight

Avigdor Zaromp

In the right hands, even music of the lighter variety can become noteworthy. This happened recently with the Detroit Chamber Winds and guest pianist James Tocco.

Detroit Chamber Winds, created in 1982 by Detroit Symphony Orchestra musicians, programs seldom performed works that are too small for full orchestra and too large for small chamber groups.

Many such have high entertainment value but may be lacking substance when compared to the heavy stuff. It takes artists of the highest capability to make a case for including such works on a program catering to discriminating audiences.

This program was virtually sold out. There were long lines outside Orchestra Hall hours before the performance. It was necessary to delay the start of the program until most of those in line could be accommodated. It would be far better to open the box office earlier in anticipation for such a response.

TOCCO, BORN in Detroit, is one of the formidable talents from this area who is leaving his imprint on the world at large. He has appeared with many of the world's great major orchestras, including the DSO and is one of a few artists capable of giving a profound touch to music that is seldom taken seriously.

The program consisted of music by American composers, with the exception of the Sextuor by Poulenc. This opening work for piano and winds is full of Poulenc's satirical, cheeky style, augmented by shades of flavor that are hard to resist.

The rest of the program was works by Copland, Joplin and Gershwin. The Four Piano Blues by Copland, dedicated to various personalities, are among his lesser known pieces. Under Tocco they became living, breathing entities. The Bernstein arrangement of "El Salon Mexico" provided a fresh experience of the familiar music.

The three rags by Joplin, with Craig Rifel at the piano, proved to be entertaining and of short duration. Small doses are best for this music, whose sparkling and nostalgic style tends to become overly predictable in a short while.

Gershwin's "Rhapsody in Blue" is, of course, one of the most popular works of American music. On this occasion, it became much more than a cute piece of popular entertainment. The orchestra, under conductor Robert Reynolds, presented this work in a manner that commanded respect, with Tocco mixing his virtuosity with sparks of genuine, convincing art.

Gershwin may not win a contest against the three B's, at least not in my mind, but this performance offered a view of Gershwin that was more complex and less frivolous than usual. Behind the syncopated rhythms and the crafty blues harmonies, one could detect a creation of a most thoughtful human mind. Only seldom can something so popular become something so special as well.

Harpist's style matures well

Mary Jane Doerr

Kirsten Agresta is only 18, but for 13 years, she has been capturing the public's eye as a harpist.

Her technical skill has impressed judges and musicians. In those 13 years she has won first place in the American Harp Society National Competition in 1984 and the National Foundation for the Arts Award in 1987. She has studied with this country's greatest harpists, Nancy Allen of Juilliard School of Music and Susan McDonald of Indiana University.

Her next challenge is to compete in July against a field of 35 harpists from all over the world, including professionals such as Maria Casals, in the World Harp Competitions at Indiana University.

To prepare for the July competition, she performed music she will play during the competition's four stages last Thursday evening at Oakland University.

SINCE AGRESTA toured the British Isles with the Michigan Festival Chorale in 1985, her playing has matured. She elicits the audience's attention now, not as a little girl who plays the harp, an oddity in itself, but for her romantic and exciting approach.

Unfortunately she has been plagued with the tendonitis in both arms, a problem with many musicians. She was forced to drop Alvars' Introduction, Cadenza and Rondo from the Thursday evening recital and shorten the first half of her concert.

Despite this, her program was awesome. Rarely do we hear harp recitals. Seldom are we treated to this literature other than on recordings.

The "Variations sur un theme dans le style ancien" by the French-born harpist Carlos Salzedo, who taught at Curtis Institute, was the selection she played to win the Concerto Competition in February at Indiana University. It is sensational, especially the way Agresta performed it. She wove the countless number of two handed trills into the melody and tempo to make the work exciting.

The other major piece was the 1985 Israeli work by Juan Orrego-Salas, Variations on a Chant. In this, she attacked the sudden changes in volume and shocking harshness with a vibrant interpretation. The piece even demands that the performer tap the sounding board for further dynamics.

Other works on the program were the classical Francisque "Pavane et bransles." With its stately melody and flowing chords, this piece is always appealing on the harp. Agresta always seems to bring out the strong melodies in her selections. She was even doing that at 14 in the Wales concerts.

Gabriel Faure's "Une chatelaine en sa tour" was given a particularly sensitive treatment, an indication of the developing romantic style in her approach. It was most appealing as was Etude No. 7 by Wilhelm Posse.

Nature rewards keen observers

nature

Timothy Nowicki

The reproductive cycle of animals in southeastern Michigan is timed so that young animals are born in spring or early summer. Young born at the beginning of the warm season when food is abundant, will have several months to grow and mature before winter. Cold temperatures and a lack of food make winter a very trying time for all animals, especially young of the year.

Though great horned owls, which begin nesting in late January and early February, may seem like an exception to the rule, their young leave the nest in May just in time for the mild temperatures and abundant food of summer.

White-tailed deer drop their fawns in late spring and early summer so they too will grow strong on mothers milk and lush vegetation. Rut activities in fall allow time for the 200 day gestation period to be complete when food is more available. Winter can be hard on pregnant females, but it would be devastating on fawns.

Animals such as snakes, squirrels, and frogs seen in spring, that appear smaller than usual, or expected, are often thought to be baby animals. But many people are not aware of the diversity of species that can be found in our area, and thus mistake new species for the babies of others.

Many people that see a red squirrel for the first time think it is a baby squirrel. Red squirrels are only 12 inches long, compared to the familiar fox squirrel that is 20 inches long. There are several features that help separate one species from another, but size is the most striking first clue.

Those who walk along shallow pools of water in spring and are observant enough to see a small chorus frog or spring peeper, will often call them baby frogs. This is a reasonable deduction because they are only about one and a half inches long, far smaller than the commonly seen 5-inch long leopard frog.

Small species are never seen, or so infrequently seen that they are not readily recognized. A small brown snake that is not much bigger than a large earthworm is often mistaken for a baby snake. Little brown snakes have a black collar line behind the head, are generally no more than 12 inches long, and are about ⅛-inch in diameter. Since garter snakes are much larger and are most commonly seen, people do not associate an adult snake being so thin and short.

There is a great deal of diversity in the natural world, and walking through the fields and forests with a watchful eye will reward you with the seldom seen, but do not become confused because of its size.

'Living will' bill appears dead

By Tim Richard
staff writer

State representatives recently rejected "living will" legislation. But senators Tuesday wouldn't let a similar measure come to a vote.

"How many years does this have to sit in committee?" complained the sponsor, Sen. Jack Faxon, D-Farmington Hills.

He called his SB 135 "more conservative" than a so-called "right to die" bill, which has also failed to pass.

And he blamed Right to Life of Michigan for squelching debate on his bill, which would allow a person to execute a declaration to withhold life-sustaining procedures in the event of incurable injury, disease or imminent death.

IN A QUICK procedural move, the Senate voted 25-9 to ship Faxon's bill back to the Senate Judiciary Committee. All Observer & Eccentric area senators supported the move except two absentees — William Faust, D-Westland, and Richard Fessler, R-West Bloomfield.

Judiciary Chairman Rudy Nichols, R-Waterford, said it was the right move because Faxon had announced plans to amend his own bill. Faxon wanted to lift a requirement that a family member must make a decision about life support when a patient is dying.

"Why should the attending physician have more authority than the immediate family?" Nichols asked.

He said Faxon had accepted the committee substitute prior to offering his amendment. Nichols said the amendment deserved committee discussion before coming to the full Senate.

FAXON ASKED for the floor and proceeded to denounce Right to Life, the anti-abortion group, for pressuring senators to hold up his "right to natural death" bill.

"Right to Life wants to go to war with the seniors. Right to Life wants old people to have a painful, suffering death for weeks and months," he said.

In a shorter and less heated speech, Sen. Lana Pollack, D-Ann Arbor, agreed, calling it a "political fact" that Right to Life is "holding hostage" such measures as the living will and durable power of attorney until it can win anti-abortion measures.

"I don't understand why people in the last weeks of life are subjected to pain because others have a view on when life begins," she said.

But Sen. Fred Dillingham, R-Fowlerville, called their speeches "totally abusive and totally political." Dillingham said the "very technical and involved subject" in Faxon's amendment should be returned to committee.

RIGHT TO DIE is a major topic among senior citizens because medical advances allow the vestiges of life to be preserved when patient recovery is apparently impossible.

Faxon's bill would permit such procedures to be withdrawn under terms of the patient's "living will" if two physicians certify death is imminent.

It also would give civil and criminal immunity to medical personnel who withdrew life-sustaining procedures.

Give yourself a hand against breast cancer

Breast self-examination is easy, takes only a few minutes and can be performed in the privacy of your own home. It's an important way you can detect early and highly curable breast cancer. Through monthly breast self-examinations, you will learn how your normal breast tissue feels and will be able to recognize a change if one occurs. In fact, most breast lumps are found by women themselves.

Take control of your body and your life.

Make breast self-examination a part of your monthly routine. And see your doctor regularly for clinical exams and advice on mammography.

For a free pamphlet about breast self-examination, call your local American Cancer Society.

We're here to help.

Timothy Nowicki

The reproductive cycle of animals in southeastern Michigan is timed so that young animals are born in spring or early summer. Young born at the beginning of the warm season when food is abundant, will have several months to grow and mature before winter. Cold temperatures and a lack of food make winter a very trying time for all animals, especially young of the year.

Though great horned owls, which begin nesting in late January and early February, may seem like an exception to the rule, their young leave the nest in May just in time for the mild temperatures and abundant food of summer.

White-tailed deer drop their fawns in late spring and early summer so they too will grow strong on mothers milk and lush vegetation. Rut activities in fall allow time for the 200 day gestation period to be complete when food is more available. Winter can be hard on pregnant females, but it would be devastating on fawns.

Animals such as snakes, squirrels, and frogs seen in spring, that appear smaller than usual, or expected, are often thought to be baby animals. But many people are not aware of the diversity of species that can be found in our area, and thus mistake new species for the babies of others.

Many people that see a red squirrel for the first time think it is a baby squirrel. Red squirrels are only 12 inches long, compared to the familiar fox squirrel that is 20 inches long. There are several features that help separate one species from another, but size is the most striking first clue.

Those who walk along shallow pools of water in spring and are observant enough to see a small chorus frog or spring peeper, will often call them baby frogs. This is a reasonable deduction because they are only about one and a half inches long, far smaller than the commonly seen 5-inch long leopard frog.

Small species are never seen, or so infrequently seen that they are not readily recognized. A small brown snake that is not much bigger than a large earthworm is often mistaken for a baby snake. Little brown snakes have a black collar line behind the head, are generally no more than 12 inches long, and are about ⅛-inch in diameter. Since garter snakes are much larger and are most commonly seen, people do not associate an adult snake being so thin and short.

There is a great deal of diversity in the natural world, and walking through the fields and forests with a watchful eye will reward you with the seldom seen, but do not become confused because of its size.

'Living will' bill appears dead

By Tim Richard
staff writer

State representatives recently rejected "living will" legislation. But senators Tuesday wouldn't let a similar measure come to a vote.

"How many years does this have to sit in committee?" complained the sponsor, Sen. Jack Faxon, D-Farmington Hills.

He called his SB 135 "more conservative" than a so-called "right to die" bill, which has also failed to pass.

And he blamed Right to Life of Michigan for squelching debate on his bill, which would allow a person to execute a declaration to withhold life-sustaining procedures in the event of incurable injury, disease or imminent death.

IN A QUICK procedural move, the Senate voted 25-9 to ship Faxon's bill back to the Senate Judiciary Committee. All Observer & Eccentric area senators supported the move except two absentees — William Faust, D-Westland, and Richard Fessler, R-West Bloomfield.

Judiciary Chairman Rudy Nichols, R-Waterford, said it was the right move because Faxon had announced plans to amend his own bill. Faxon wanted to lift a requirement that a family member must make a decision about life support when a patient is dying.

"Why should the attending physician have more authority than the immediate family?" Nichols asked.

He said Faxon had accepted the committee substitute prior to offering his amendment. Nichols said the amendment deserved committee discussion before coming to the full Senate.

FAXON ASKED for the floor and proceeded to denounce Right to Life, the anti-abortion group, for pressuring senators to hold up his "right to natural death" bill.

"Right to Life wants to go to war with the seniors. Right to Life wants old people to have a painful, suffering death for weeks and months," he said.

In a shorter and less heated speech, Sen. Lana Pollack, D-Ann Arbor, agreed, calling it a "political fact" that Right to Life is "holding hostage" such measures as the living will and durable power of attorney until it can win anti-abortion measures.

"I don't understand why people in the last weeks of life are subjected to pain because others have a view on when life begins," she said.

But Sen. Fred Dillingham, R-Fowlerville, called their speeches "totally abusive and totally political." Dillingham said the "very technical and involved subject" in Faxon's amendment should be returned to committee.

RIGHT TO DIE is a major topic among senior citizens because medical advances allow the vestiges of life to be preserved when patient recovery is apparently impossible.

Faxon's bill would permit such procedures to be withdrawn under terms of the patient's "living will" if two physicians certify death is imminent.

It also would give civil and criminal immunity to medical personnel who withdrew life-sustaining procedures.

Man, woman sought in area store robbery

By Bill Casper
staff writer

A Redford Township party store owner, knocked down by a robber, escaped Sunday night with the help of two customers, who took him to safety and called police.

Misak Dermenjian, 49, of Livonia was assaulted shortly before 9:30 p.m. as he was working in an aisle in his Pick and Go store at 9210 Telegraph, south of W. Chicago, he told Redford Police.

He saw a man and a woman enter the store and one of them hit him on the head from behind, possibly with a bottle, Dermenjian said. The blow knocked him to the floor but Dermenjian managed to get up and get to the door that the woman was trying to lock as two customers arrived, he said.

The woman told them that the store was closing but as she was trying to lock the door, Dermenjian pushed her aside and escaped out the door, he said.

THE CUSTOMERS — a Redford man, 23, and his wife, 24 — helped Dermenjian into their car in front of the store and drove to a gas station at Telegraph and W. Chicago to call police, he said.

Dermenjian suffered gashes to the back of his head, where he was hit, and to the front of his head, where he struck the floor after being felled by the blow, Redford police Lt. William Russell said.

He was taken by ambulance to Garden City Hospital, where he received eight stitches to close the cut to the back of his head and six more stitches to mend the other cut, Russell said.

DERMENJIAN'S ASSAILANTS took 90 cartons of cigarettes in three boxes and left before police got to the store, Russell said. The Redford couple heard a car start up and drive away from the back of the store as they were placing Dermenjian in their car, he said.

"That was probably the suspects fleeing after leaving the store through a back door," Russell said. "They probably would have taken more but they had to hurry after the store owner got away and they didn't have time to go into the cash register."

Display stands in the store had been knocked over and merchandise strewn about on the floor, police said.

RUSSELL THINKS the culprits, in their hurry to flee, left behind a new water pump in a box that was found on the hood of Dermenjian's car in back of the store.

The pump may provide police with a little more information about the suspects' getaway car, which no one saw leaving the store, Russell said.

"We found a receipt for the water pump that was purchased for a 1981 Plymouth Volare," Russell said. "The receipt shows the pump was purchased the day before the incident at Murray's Ace Hardware store in Redford.

"We think the pump was purchased by the suspects, who left it behind in their hurry to load their car with the boxes of cigarettes. They shop locally, so maybe they live in the area and someone, who may know them, could help us.

"MELVINDALE POLICE reported a similar incident that occurred recently in their city, involving a man and a woman, who drove a white Volare," Russell said. "They may be the same people we're looking for.

"We don't have a real good description for the man, other than the one given for the suspect in the Melvindale incident," Russell said. "We do have a description of the woman involved in the Redford incident."

The man involved in the Melvindale incident is described as white, approximately age 30, weighing approximately 180 pounds, with brown hair, Russell said.

The woman is described as white, age 20 to 25, thin, approximately 5 feet 6, weighing approximately 115 to 120 pounds, with straight, light, sandy-colored hair, Russell said. She wore a turquoise or pink T-shirt and a pair of jeans, he said.

Anyone who may know someone fitting the descriptions of the suspects or the owner of the Volare — especially if it needs or has a new water pump — should call Russell during the day Monday through Friday at 537-3710. Information can be given to police any time at 537-3030.

These carriers care. They care enough to turn in their collections accurately and on time. They care enough to go out in all sorts of weather to deliver your hometown news.

And we care, too. In fact we have awarded each of them a 10-speed bike for caring enough to do their very best.

If you know a potential carrier that you think could manage an Observer & Eccentric newspaper route —someone responsible and reliable—call us at one of the numbers below.

Chiefs capture district championship

ART EMANUELE/staff photographer

Derek Humphries of Plymouth Canton comes racing home to score the tying run Monday on Mikio Tanaka's bases-loaded, suicide squeeze bunt. Tanaka's bunt tied the score at 3-3, and the Chiefs went on to win 5-3 over Livonia Stevenson in the district final at Northville. Canton will play Redford Catholic Central in the regional tournament Saturday at Centennial Educational Park.

Canton defeats Spartans, 5-3

By C.J. Risak
staff writer

Between now and the state finals in baseball, the greatest obstacle a team may face is itself.

Plymouth Canton overcame such a test when it captured the Class A Northville district championship Monday with a come-from-behind 5-3 triumph over upset-minded Livonia Stevenson.

The Spartans reached the finals of the district with a rain-delayed 5-3 victory over Livonia Churchill Monday. Canton defeated Farmington 8-2 Saturday before the rains came, stopping the Stevenson-Churchill game in the second inning with Churchill up 2-0.

By almost any standard, the Chiefs should have won Monday's final with ease. After all, Stevenson had a meager 9-14 record and had to concentrate on beating Churchill before considering Canton, while the Chiefs entered the game well-rested, boasting a 20-8 mark.

IT DIDN'T turn out that way, however. "I was just disappointed with the way we played," said Canton coach Fred Crissey, who guided the Chiefs to their sixth Class A district title in 15 years. "But the key was we came back and hit the ball when we had to. That and Tanaka's bunt."

Mikio Tanaka delivered his tide-turning bunt with one out and the bases loaded in the fifth. Stevenson was clinging to a 3-2 lead entering the inning, but when pitcher Doug Wasserman walked Canton lead-off man Derek Humphries, Spartan

Woods got off shakily, walking Jeff Kugelman and giving up a bunt single to Jason Dembny to load the bases. Woods then hit Mike Culver with a pitch, but the umpire, ruling Culver made no effort to dodge the pitch, refused to award him first base — which would have forced in a run. Woods followed by striking out Culver.

That brought Tanaka to the plate, with one out and the game-tying run at third. Tanaka bunted the first pitch down the first base line and Humphries scored. "He got it right where he wanted it," said Crissey of Tanaka's bunt.

FROM THAT point on, the game belonged to Kugelman. The all-Western Lakes Activities Association star dominated the final innings, both in the field and at the plate.

Lefthander Brian Paupore started for Canton, but departed after four innings trailing 3-2, victimized by three errors and two mental mistakes. Paupore walked Dan Piergentili to start the second. Errors by Humphries and Geoff Allen — Paupore picked Piergentili off at second base inbetween — and a ground out by Rob Chanko left runners at second and third with two out.

Prep sports at risk in P-C millage vote

By Dan O'Meara
staff writer

When a school goes a year without sports, it spends the next five trying to rebuild what was lost, according to Paul Cummings, athletic director for the Plymouth-Canton School District.

That's why Cummings hopes to see Monday's millage vote pass. He hopes to see what is recognized as one of the most successful athletic programs in the state remain strong and competitive.

"Our people put a lot of time into their programs and developing them to what they are today," Cummings said. "And to see that go out the window would be devastating to everyone."

The district is asking for an eight-mill renewal and an additional four mills for the next two years. Without the additional money, sports would be reduced to only varsity teams, and without the renewal sports would be eliminated.

Cummings oversees a program that includes two high schools — Canton and Salem — five middle schools and 90 athletic teams. Each high school offers 10 sports for boys and girls, and each middle school sponsors five sports for both.

But Cummings is not only concerned about athletics but the total extra-curricular picture.

"I WANT A radio station as bad as I do a football team," he said. "I think all kids should have the opportunity they want.

"Why should a youngster be penalized because of the year he was born and the fact he happens to be in school now? Why shouldn't they have the opportunity to participate like others before them?"

Cummings estimates that 2,300 high school students are involved in either athletics, music, drama, debate and radio, and he figures they spend a total of 515,200 hours participating in those activities. Of approximately 8,000 students in the middle and high schools, about 2,500 compete in sports.

In terms of just athletics if the total millage package passes, Plymouth-Canton will have a full complement of sports teams, and the athletic department can eliminate the pay-for-play system that currently supplements its budget.

'Our people put a lot of time into their programs and developing them to what they are today. And to see that go out the window would be devastating to everyone.'

— Paul Cummings
P-C athletic director

The school board supplied $290,000 to pay for salaries, officials and transportation in the 1988-89 school year, but Cummings would have had to cut an additional $90,000 if not for the pay-for-play alternative.

There is no budgetary provision at the present time for such things as equipment reconditioning, equipment purchases, dues and fees to the Western Lakes Activities Association and invitationals, etc.

Under the present operating procedure, the $50 each high school athlete and $35 each middle school athlete pays covers the cost of those things.

If voters agree to renew the current eight mills but deny the additional four, Cummings said the district would be forced to cut sports at all levels except the varsity. That would mean the elimination of 50 teams.

"That would be devastating," Cummings said. "When you take the foundation out of any program, the program starts to crumble.

"If there isn't the opportunity for these young people to participate and grow in their areas, then we're going to lose them.

"When you lose athletes like that, you lose positive students; you lose positive parents," he added.

A good many students and athletes from the Plymouth-Canton area attend parochial schools now, most notably Redford Catholic Central, and Cummings was asked if a millage defeat would mean an increased exodus.

"I would really hate to see that, because I think we have more to offer than other school districts around, especially the private schools," he said. "Because of the curriculum we have here, I feel we're second to none in academic standards and academic offerings."

A complete millage defeat would be the equivalent of the NCAA's death penalty for those college programs that are placed on probation. There will no sports in that case.

The district now levies 34 mills, which is low compared to others in the area, according to Cummings, and taking eight out of that "would leave such a drastic school district I can't see athletics being part of the 1989-90 school year," he said.

Cummings added the $3,400 the district spends per student ranks low in Wayne County. Livonia, Northville, Garden City, Wayne-Westland and Redford Union all spend more.

Cummings said the response he has received while stumping for the millage has been favorable, and he is optimistic about the outcome of the vote.

"Our parent groups have been really supportive," he said. "I feel real good about the way they have backed our programs and the way they support us totally."

Salem was a Class A football power in the 1970s but did without freshman football in the early '80s, and coach Tom Moshimer said it took several years to recover from that setback.

Canton and/or Salem also are annually among the best in the area, if not the state, in baseball, boys and girls basketball, wrestling, swimming, soccer, track and tennis.

"We ought to take pride in our program and provide the best possible experience youngsters can have in an educational environment," Cummings said, "and we've been offering extra-curricular activities for almost 100 years."

It's official! Falcons win meet

ADs support original decision

'People say it's a tainted championship, but 10 years from now they'll come down to the trophy case and it will be in there. I certainly don't feel ashamed to have won it, that's for sure.'
— Bruce Brown
Farmington track coach

Athletic directors from the Western Lakes Activities Association schools did what Farmington coach Bruce Brown believed was only the thing they could do.

That was to recognize the Falcons as the WLAA champions in girls track and field.

The athletic directors met Monday to discuss the outcome of last Wednesday's league meet, which was suspended because of threatening weather with two events remaining. Farmington was ahead at that point and was awarded the title when the 12 coaches and referee Ed Gabrys voted to let the results stand.

Livonia Stevenson, which was second after the 200-meter dash, questioned the right of coaches and the meet official to make WLAA policy and requested the special ADs' meeting.

PAUL CUMMINGS, the athletic director for the Plymouth-Canton School District, which was host for the meet, said the ADs voted to accept the decision made at the site, thereby making Farmington the winner.

Cummings cited two factors in the decision:

- The Michigan High School Athletic Association rule that says a season cannot be extended beyond the state meet. The state finals were Saturday.
- The games committee, consisting of all the head coaches and the referee, voted to terminate the meet and let the results stand.

"I thought we had done that the other night, and the ADs substantiated that," Brown said. "I felt good the ADs went along with it. We were the ones who had to stand out there in the rain.

"People say it's a tainted championship, but 10 years from now they'll come down to the trophy case and it will be in there. I certainly don't feel ashamed to have won it, that's for sure."

The Falcons finished with 108 points, Stevenson 103. Plymouth Salem was third and Walled Lake Central a distant fourth. Defending champion Plymouth Canton got fifth place.

The runner-up Spartans led 103-98 following the 800 run, but Farmington pulled ahead after Angie Forge scored 10 points by finishing second in the 200.

"I'd like to think if you're ahead by five going into the two-mile you've got a shot at winning it," Brown said. "Jennifer Kiel is pretty good money to have in the bank."

FORGE, BY virtue of her high finish in the 200 dash, had in effect the game-winning hit, and she also was third in the 100 and anchored Farmington's winning 800 and 400 relay units.

"Anyone who has watched her get the baton on the anchor leg of a relay knows they're in trouble," Brown said. "She's one tough competitor.

"She has a hip problem that hurts her when she comes out of the blocks," he added, "so we don't usually run her in open events."

The Falcons have enjoyed continued success despite the loss of three outstanding sprinters in Amy Trunk, Carrie Maier and Sue Gibson. They are members of Farmington's top-rated soccer team, which had conflicts with the track schedule as the Falcons chased a possible state championship in soccer.

In their absence, Mariko Usuba filled in and helped keep the sprint relays strong. Jennifer Reed, who took first in the 100, Usuba, Nicole Tocco and Forge won the 800, and it was Reed, Shelli Gaul, Usuba and Forge taking first in the 400.

"We used her against Stevenson in the dual meet and got away with it, and I thought we could do it again in the conference meet," Brown said.

FARMINGTON'S other victories came from Julie Lawton in the high jump and Gaul in the 100 hurdles. Gaul's victory was gratifying because it proved her first place at the regional was not a fluke, Brown said.

"She went head-to-head with all of them and beat them, and there were some pretty good hurdlers there," he said.

"There's always that question. (The regional time) was the fastest time she had ever run. In the dual, she screwed up her steps, and (Stevenson's Lisa Christensen) beat her. There had to be a question in her mind, but she put the hammer down and beat them."

Stevenson's 3,200 relay team of Suzanne Moore, Jennifer Knapp, Jennifer Pfander and Tracey Clark supported coach Paul Holmberg's faith in them by winning that event with the only sub 10-minute time of the race, 9:52.4.

"If there was anything you could bet on, it was the two-mile relay, and they went out and got the best time in the area," Holmberg said. "They wanted to be the number one team in the area, and they did it that night."

Jessann Martin gave the Spartans first place in the shot put and second in the discus, and Christensen rebounded from a disappointment in the 100 hurdles to win the 300 contest.

CHRISTENSEN had a slim lead in the 100 hurdles, according to Holmberg, when she hit a hurdle late in the race and stumbled, dropping to third and ending up fourth.

"Lisa has won other races when someone else stumbled," Holmberg said. "Maybe it was her time. Coming back and win the 300 helped her go away from that meet feeling positive."

Clark also finished second in the 800, and Holmberg said he was glad he decided to put Pat Bagley in the 1,600. She usually runs the 3,200, but that and the 1,600 relay were the events that were not contested when the meet was stopped.

"It was one of the few times she was doubling," Holmberg said. "As it turned out, we didn't run the two-mile, and that would have meant, as a senior, she wouldn't have run in the league meet.

"I'm awfully glad I did put her in the mile. Otherwise, she wouldn't have had a chance to compete."

Salem had two individual winners in Tracey Livermore and Nikki Wygonik, who won the long jump and 200-meter dash, respectively. Livonia Churchill's Alyssa Belaire captured first place in the 400-meter run.

North's Cunmulaj state champ

By Dan O'Meara

Zaim Cunmulaj saved his best for last.

In the most important meet of the year, the North Farmington senior outdid rival Corey O'Brien of Rochester and won the state championship in the discus throw Saturday.

In the Class A finals at Eastern Michigan University, Cunmulaj threw the discus a career-best 163 feet, 11 inches. O'Brien, the runner-up at 163-2, had beaten Cunmulaj by two inches at the West Bloomfield Invitational and eight inches at the Oakland County meet.

"We figured, if he got off a good throw, he had a great chance of winning," North coach Mark Bechard said. "Actually, he threw less than I thought he would. In practice, he's been hitting 170.

"I thought, if he threw close to 170 he'd be tough to beat, and it so happened 163-11 was enough to win it."

CUNMULAJ, who was third in the state as a heavyweight wrestler last February and will pursue that sport next fall at Grand Rapids Junior College, made his winning throw on his second attempt in the preliminaries. In the finals, he was in the 150s consistently.

"I think he was just nervous about being on top," Bechard said.

As the state champion in Michigan, Cunmulaj has been invited to compete in the annual Tri-State Meet Saturday in Indianapolis, and that will give him one more opportunity to break the school record, Bechard said. Mark Biehl set the standard in 1978 when he threw the discus 171-4.

"He has the potential of throwing that," Bechard said. "He throws that far in warmups, but once he gets in the circle he gets nervous and doesn't settle down. When he's relaxed he gets it out there."

Cunmulaj's first place also made North the highest finisher among Observerland teams at the state meet. The Raiders were 21st with 10 points, and the closest were Livonia Churchill and Redford Union, both of whom tied for 51st with three points apiece.

Plymouth Salem senior Roger Parry was one of six who leaped 6-6 and finished sixth in the high jump. Churchill's Jason Belaire didn't place in the high jump but was sixth in the 300-meter hurdles with a 39.4 time, and Redford Union's Eric Sheppard was sixth in the discus at 154-1.

IN THE CLASS A girls meet, Farmington's Jennifer Kiel was eighth in the 1,600 run with a school-record time of 5:17.5. She competed but didn't place in the 3,200.

Julie Lawton twisted an ankle and went out at 5-1 in the high jump, but she has been invited to the Tri-State Meet, too. Sprinter Jennifer Reed and hurdler Shelli Gaul made it as far as the semifinals.

Reed and Angie Forge were chosen co-most outstanding trackwomen on the Farmington team.

Farmington Hills Mercy's Kathleen Gerigk, named that team's most outstanding runner, was ninth in the 1,600 at 5:17.9 but only the top eight in each event score points and receive medals.

Teammates Charese Sanders and Jeanette Turner, the team's most improved performer, were 11th in the shot put and discus, respectively. Carrie Walton and Heather Noll were 14th and 15th, respectively, in the 3,200 run with personal-best times of 11:49.

Plymouth Canton's Heather Spencer didn't place in the high jump. She made the opening height of 4-11 on her first jump, cleared 5-1 on her third attempt and failed to make the next step to 5-3.

Athens trips up Falcons

By Dan O'Meara
staff writer

The desire to win was about all that Troy Athens had left. Time and hope were nearly gone.

With less than a minute left in the semifinal game of the Class A girls soccer tournament Wednesday, the Red Hawks appeared to be headed for defeat and Farmington the state final.

But the opposite was true when the game ended as Athens stunned the top-rated Falcons with a 2-1, overtime victory at Fraser High School.

The Red Hawks take a 21-2-1 record into the championship game at 1 p.m. Saturday at North Farmington against Northville, which edged Kalamazoo Central 1-0 in a shootout. Farmington suffered its first loss during a 16-1-4 season.

"I've been to six other state finals and won three," Athens coach Tim Storch said, "but I don't remember feeling as much emotion at a point when things seemed so hopeless."

RANDY BORST/staff photographer

Carrie Maier of Farmington (rear) and Kerrigan O'Brien of Athens were off just a little as they missed the ball on attempted headers.

IT LOOKED as if Farmington would hang on for a 1-0 victory, but that changed quickly and dramatically when Christie Stevens scored the tying goal with only 45 seconds left in regulation time. Beth Huck got the winning goal in the first 10-minute overtime period.

Stevens was alone on the left side, and teammate Jacqie Silagyi spotted her and placed a crossing pass right in front of her. Stevens booted a solid, left-footed shot into the corner of the goal.

"She turned and looked left, and I was wide open," Stevens said. "It was the perfect angle to shoot, and it was a good looking on Jacqie's part.

"I think that made us come out pumped up (for the overtime) and ready to go again. We knew we had to score again. We couldn't let it go that long."

The Red Hawks didn't as Huck scored the go-ahead goal midway in the first overtime.

She rolled off a defender as the two made contact in front of the Farmington goal and, as the defender went down, took a centering pass from Michelle Koby. Huck had a free shot at the goal and knocked it past Falcon keeper Deb Westerkamp.

"MICHELLE PASSED it through, and I was running to it, turned and shot," Huck said, adding she was surprised to get such an open shot against a physical team like Farmington.

The Falcons dominated the first half and kept the pressure on the Athens defense, but the Red Hawks surrendered only one goal to Carrie Maier.

As the half neared the midway point, it began to rain hard, making the ground slick. Maier had an uncontested shot from point-blank range when the Athens goalie appeared to slip and was unable to recover in time.

The Falcons didn't have as many chances in the second half, and the Red Hawks did a commendable job throughout of keeping track of Maier and teammate Amy Trunk, a pair of speedsters at the forward positions.

Athens frequently sent the ball into Farmington territory with long kicks out of its end, trying to catch the defense off guard and let its forwards, especially Lisa Grace, go 1-on-1 with Westerkamp.

The Falcons countered by shooting the ball deep to their goalie and thwarting the attempted charges, but it also had the effect of wearing down the opposition, according to Storch.

AT THE 20-MINUTE mark, the Red Hawks went with three forwards and, as a last-ditch, desperation move, put four into the game with 10 minutes left, he said.

"Because of our speed up front, we're quick and tenacious, and I thought we could force our own breaks," Storch said. "I was really confident when we tied it because our conditioning is superior, and we substituted a lot. They didn't substitute.

"I was confident if we got them in a situation where it would be decided late in the game we'd win. But when you're down one with 45 seconds to go, that's cutting it awful close."

Storch added he has been encouraging Stevens, a freshman, to take more shots. He was quite pleased with the one she attempted Wednesday.

"She couldn't have scored a bigger goal — unless, of course, she scores the winning goal Saturday," he said.

Franklin's Allen wins district duel

By Dan O'Meara
staff writer

Even when the Patriots struggled early in the season, Livonia Franklin coach Joe Epstein thought his softball team had the talent to win a district championship.

And since the Patriots were eliminated by Farmington Hills Mercy last year, senior Lisa Allen wanted to be the winning pitcher when Franklin won that district title.

Both got what they wanted Monday as Franklin defeated the Marlins 4-1 in eight innings at Claude Allison Park in Redford. The game was postponed from Saturday when rain washed out the tournament finale.

"At the beginning of the year, I sat down with my coaches and said, 'We can win a district,' and that's why I'm so happy today," said Epstein, whose team has won 10 straight games and takes a 19-8 record into the regional Saturday at King Boring Field in Dearborn.

The Patriots, who won the Class A title in 1986, play Detroit Cass Tech at 10 a.m., and No. 1-rated Taylor Center faces Westland John Glenn at noon. The final is scheduled for 2 p.m.

Allen, who pitched in the late innings last year when Franklin lost in the district semifinals to Mercy, tossed a two-hitter Monday and had possibly the best performance of her career.

"SINCE THE beginning of the year, our goal was to beat Mercy and win the district," Allen said. "We had to play good defense, and I couldn't have done it without the infield and outfield behind me.

"The coaches have been real supportive and have helped me work on my pitches," she added.

Allen also struck out six and, with a history of walking batters, limited that number to five. After watching her dominate the Marlins, Epstein couldn't say enough good things about the way Allen pitched.

"She was on today," he said, emphatically. "She said she was going to do it and she did.

"Lisa was a controlled pitcher today. She had maybe one wild pitch, and she's averaged eight or nine throughout the year.

"The second thing is we played real good defense behind her, and it takes those two things to win in fast pitch," he added.

Mercy pitcher Amy Edward was just as tough for seven innings during which time Franklin had only two hits, also. But the Patriots got to her in the eighth, deciding the game with three straight hits to start the inning.

SHERRY WEISS led off with a single, and Leslie Szaflarski's double put runners at second and third. A fly ball off the bat of Emily Skura fell in short right field, scoring Weiss with the winning run. Szaflarski and Skura later scored when Mercy made two errors on a ground ball hit by Jenny Mayle.

"We felt we could hit (Edward)," Epstein said. "We did it last year, and we put it into their heads 'She's good but she puts the ball over the plate, and if she does that she's hittable.

"In fairness to Amy, when they play that 3-2 ball (in the Catholic League), the first pitch has to be a strike. I tell the girls, 'When you go up there against a parochial team, you have to swing at the first pitch.' I thought it was just a matter of time."

Mercy's Kathleen Berrigan drew a leadoff walk in the eighth and worked her way over to third but was left stranded there as the Marlins saw their season end at 24-12.

"If we could have put the second batter on, that would have brought Amy Edward up, and maybe she could've put one out there," Mercy coach Suzanne Brown said. "If she could have gotten herself to second, we would've had a ballgame."

While the Patriots made three errors, Mercy made six in the last two innings. In the seventh, the Marlins committed four on one play that allowed Franklin to take a 1-0 lead.

Edward, who struck out five and walked four, bobbled Trish Vasseliou's grounder and threw wildly to first. Vasseliou raced to third, and the throw to that bag went into left field. The run scored when the ball rolled between the outfielder's legs.

THE MARLINS answered with the tying run in the bottom of the seventh, however. Moe Paulin was at third when Amy Miller put down a squeeze bunt. Weiss, the third baseman, checked the runner and threw to first, but Paulin raced home before Franklin could get the double play at the plate.

"I felt once we scored the tying run we had momentum going our way," Brown said, "but we just couldn't bring (runners) around. We had second and third (in the third), which was especially frustrating.

"I don't feel teams beat us as much with their hitting as they do by us throwing the ball around and giving them runs.

"And it seems teams have had a day with us all year," she added. "They play the best they ever have. That's how it's been all year long; we never get the breaks."

Epstein, however, was confident, if Allen had a good day and held the Marlins in check, Franklin would fare well.

Livonia Stevenson's No. 3 doubles team of Scott Ceru and Bob Holycross played spoiler in last weekend's state Class A boys tennis championships at the Midland Community Center.

Unseeded, Ceru and Holycross toppled No. 5 seeds Pete Bourke and Chris Schilling of Grosse Pointe South in an opening-round match, 3-6, 6-0, 6-1.

They upended Scott Dykstra and Rich Samdal in the next round, 7-6, 6-2, before upsetting the No. 4 seeds from Birmingham Brother Rice, Tony Kostello and Jim Millar, 0-6, 6-3, 7-6.

Reaching the semifinals, Ceru, a junior, and Holycross, a senior, lost to East Lansing's top-seeded duo of Dave Helfer and Dan Meara, 7-6, 6-0.

Okemos' Mike Noud and Nick Tsai went on to take the No. 3 doubles crown, one of four flights captured on the day by the newly crowned state champions, who piled up 29 points in the team standings.

Ann Arbor Pioneer was second with 21 and Rice third with 20. East Lansing and Grosse Pointe South finished tied for fourth with 15 each.

REDFORD CATHOLIC CENTRAL was the top area team finisher, tied for eighth with Bloomfield Hills Lahser with 9 each.

Stevenson tied five other schools for 14th with five points. Ceru and Holycross tallied four of the Spartans' five. The Spartan tandem played their best tennis of the year after failing to this year's Western Lakes Conference finals.

The two, however, rebounded in the regional to finish second.

"The kids played well and we're very proud of them," said Stevenson coach George Croll. "It's the first time that had a chair umpire and they had people from Okemos and Pioneer cheering for them. It showed our team had some depth."

Stevenson's other point came from its No. 1 doubles team, Jeff Wiegel and Alan Paterson, who defeated University of Detroit-Jesuit's Henry Choie and John Monnich, 6-3, 6-2, in the opening round before losing to Monroe's Matt LaJune and Jeff Rayce, 6-4, 6-4.

'(Scott Ceru and Bob Holycross) played well and we're very proud of them. It's the first time they had a chair umpire, and they had people from Okemos and Pioneer cheering for them.'

— George Croll
Stevenson tennis coach

Among those losing opening-round matches for the Spartans were: Roland Wolff (No. 1 singles), Mike Berens (No. 2), Joel Soper (No. 3) and Bob Dimitriou and Matt Downer (No. 2 doubles).

CC'S NO. 1 doubles team of Shawn Matthews and Paul Bozyk also reached the semifinals before losing to East Lansing's No. 2 seeded team of Rob Black and Troy Close, 6-4, 6-3.

No. 1 singles player Tony Mikulec won by a first-round default, while No. 2 player Marko Haberkovic, No. 3 Scott Hazlett and No. 4 William Shade each won their openers before falling in the second round.

CC's John Sheridan and Paul Thieme (No. 2 doubles) advanced two rounds before falling to Pioneer's Bill Higgins and Oliver Medzihradsky, 6-3, 6-4.

The Shamrocks No. 3 team of Kevin Kennedy and Jason Torres also captured their opener before being eliminated by Traverse City's Brent Maitland and Jeff Tang, 6-2, 6-2.

Rockets beat Garden City in final

By Ray Setlock
staff writer

Christina Hoffman's double in the bottom of the seventh inning proved to be the difference, as Westland John Glenn defeated Garden City, 5-4, in the Class A district softball finals Monday at Garden City Park.

Hoffman's two-bagger scored Tracy Martin from first and provided the Rockets with the victory.

"It was an alert play by Tracy that enabled her to score from first base," said John Glenn coach Linda Jimenez. "She watched the ball during the entire play and judged the play well."

The victory improves the Rockets record to 21-6, while the Cougars conclude the campaign with a 20-8 mark.

John Glenn held a commanding 4-1 lead until the sixth inning when Garden City scored a pair of runs, thanks to a single by Cindy White, which scored Kim Falkowski and Krystal Matesic.

Kim Reith added another in the seventh, when she stole home, deadlocking the game at 4-4.

JENNIFER MASSEY pitched 6⅓ innings for John Glenn, but Sara Morey got the last two outs in the seventh inning to earn the victory.

"Both Sara and Jennifer pitched well," said Jimenez. "They did a terrific job."

Masey struck out three Cougars and gave up nine hits, while Morey was perfect in her third of an inning.

Tracy Thompson pitched the entire game for the Cougars, as she gave up nine hits and struck out four.

Garden City coach Barry Patterson felt there were no excuses for his team's loss. It was just a well-played game and the team that got the key hits won.

"John Glenn just flat out hit the ball," said Patterson. "They got the big hits when they needed them and they won."

THE ROCKETS' nine hits included three doubles, two of which scored runs.

"We hit the ball well today," said Jimenez. "It was a team effort. We took batting practice before the game and I guess it just paid off."

Martin, Hoffman and Kowtko all had two hits apiece for John Glenn.

Chiefs win district

Jim Baumbick lofted a short fly ball into left, but Humphries made no effort to retreat and catch it. The ball dropped and both runners scored, putting Stevenson up 2-1.

Allen drilled a Wasserman pitch over the leftfield fence for a game-tying solo home run for Canton in the third, but Stevenson recaptured the lead on some poor field play by Paupore in the fourth. With Paul Namel at first and one out, Paupore's pickoff attempt ended up in right field and Namel sped to third.

Paupore struck out Jason Cotton, but Piergentili's two-out tap down the third base line froze the Canton pitcher. Paupore could have tried to get Namel at home or Piergentili at the plate; he did neither, and Stevenson led 3-2 on the infield single.

KUGELMAN TOOK over on the mound in the fifth, a move Crissey insisted was planned whatever the score was. He responded by setting down nine Spartans in order, striking out five — including all three batters in the sixth.

Kugelman was no less effective at the plate, but that's hardly surprising. On Saturday against Farmington, he belted two homers. On Monday, his first-inning double delivered Canton's first run.

With the game tied in the sixth, the Chiefs — who had managed just five hits in the first five innings — got their attack in gear. Jamie Sisler and pinch-hitter Chris James singled to start the inning and DeVries brought in ace pitcher Mike Dalimonte. He got Ron Groh to fly out, but Humphries singled to load the bases for Kugelman.

"We were trying to be careful with (Kugelman), but with the bases loaded you have to go after him," said DeVries. The result was predictable: a ground single to right, scoring two runs — which Kugelman made stand up as game-winners when he went to the mound.

It was not an easy victory, by any means. But as Crissey said, "We got a little shook, but we came back and when we had to have it, we had it.

"Hey, we're only four (wins) away from the whole thing."

The next step towards "the whole thing" — the Class A championship — is 11 a.m. Saturday at Salem, where Canton meets Redford Catholic Central in a first-round regional game. The winner faces the survivor of the Trenton-Taylor Center game at Canton at approximately 1:30 p.m. Taylor Center is ranked No. 1 in the state.

STEVENSON'S WIN over Churchill was sparked by Dalimonte's pitching and big mistakes at bad times by the Chargers.

"He had an outstanding game," said DeVries of Dalimonte's pitching. "He's the guts of the pitching staff."

The rain-prompted layoff, according to the Stevenson skipper, benefitted his team. "Our guys' concentration was much better today. We didn't take Churchill for granted at all. That was the game we wanted to get — then we played Canton even, until the sixth inning."

Stevenson tied Churchill in the second on Scott Kosikowski's two-out, bases-loaded infield single. The Spartans took the lead for good in the third, scoring twice on Churchill mistakes.

Scott Kenny walked Dan Piergentili to start the inning. Piergentili went to second on a passed ball, to third on a fly out to right field, and scored on Kenny's balk. Kenny then walked Cotton and wild-pitched him to second; a ground out let Cotton take third and another Kenny wild pitch brought him home.

Churchill pulled to within one on Jason Gabel's run-scoring single in the fourth, but the Chargers ran themselves out of a potential rally when Kenny was out trying to take third on Gabel's hit. Jim Stoitsiades' double play ended the inning.

The Spartans got an insurance run in the sixth on Piergentili's run-producing single. Churchill bowed out at 9-12; Stevenson's final mark is 9-15.

Catholic Central whips Blue Jays

By Ray Setlock
staff writer

Despite threatening early in the game, Southfield proved to be little trouble Monday for Redford Catholic Central, as the Shamrocks whipped the Blue Jays, 9-3, in the Class A baseball district finals at Southfield High School.

Southfield scored two runs in the first inning and one in the third, but that's the best they could do off the Shamrock pitching staff, as Keith Bozyk, Paul Pirronello and Leo Hutchinson combined for the CC victory.

Bozyk, hampered by arm trouble, started for the Shamrocks, but was relieved following a first inning which saw the Blue Jays tag Bozyk for three hits, a walk and two runs.

"Keith's arm has really been bothering him," said Catholic Central coach John Salter. "We wanted to try and see if he could give us a few innings, but it just didn't work out."

With Southfield leading 3-0 in the top of the fourth inning, the Shamrocks began to rattle Southfield starter David Held. CC scored two in the fourth when Tom Hill's double scored Pete Elezovic and Hill scored on Kevin Wheeler's two out single to left field.

THE SHAMROCKS took the lead in the fifth inning, as they sent 10 batters to the plate and managed to score four runs on five hits, thanks to Elezovic's triple which scored Chris Johnston from second.

CC added three more runs in the sixth inning to add a cushion and preserve the 9-3 victory.

Hutchinson shut down the Blue Jays in his 3⅔ innings of relief. He struck out seven of the 11 batters he faced, including the side in the fourth.

"Leo pitched real well," said Salter. "He throws strikes and that's the key to his success. Last year, Leo had trouble throwing the ball over the plate and any time that happens your not going to do well. He pitched real well for us today."

Held suffered the loss for the Blue Jays. He pitched 4⅓ innings, giving up four hits and striking out two. Sean Allen, Orlando Austin and Jason Bridges combined on the final 2⅓ innings. They gave up eight hits and allowed five runs.

"David Held is the only good pitcher we have and a lot was riding on his performance," said Southfield coach Cliff Dubowski. "I knew once he got knocked out of the game we were in trouble."

SALTER KNEW if his team could knock Held out of the game, they would be in prime position.

"I was aware that Held was their only good pitcher," said Salter. "When we started hitting the ball off him, I knew we were in good shape."

The victory improves the Shamrocks' record to 23-9, as they head to regionals Saturday at Plymouth Salem. They will face the Plymouth Canton Chiefs.

Hawks faces tough foe in regional

By Dan O'Meara
staff writer

Farmington Hills Harrison didn't get much of a test from Warren Mott's pitching ace Monday in the Class B district final at Madison Heights.

Actually, there is another kind of test that has Harrison baseball coach John Herrington concerned.

The Hawks, who defeated Mott 9-2, will play Harper Wood Bishop Gallagher in the Allen Park regional tournament at 10 a.m. Saturday, but five of Herrington's players are scheduled to take the ACT exam that morning.

Harrison ace Craig Murray, Mill Coleman, Brian Ellison, Eric Wiesner and Jon Schaeffer signed up to take the test. Murray, however, has since committed to Henry Ford Community College and won't need to take it, and the other four are juniors who can wait until the fall if they so choose.

"I hope we can work something out," Herrington said, adding the test will be given at Allen Park High School, also. "That will put us down to 10 players."

IN THE OTHER game Saturday, Melvindale faces Southgate Aquinas at 12:30 p.m., and the final will be at 3 p.m. The winner plays the Alma regional champion at 9 a.m. Friday, June 16, at Michigan State University.

The Hawks, who have won eight straight games and have a 20-5 record, led 4-2 after four innings in the district final when Mott brought in pitcher Pete Moceri, who compiled a 26-5 record over the last three seasons.

Harrison broke the game open when it scored five runs off Moceri, who is considered the best pitcher in Macomb County, according to Herrington.

The Hawks had four hits and three walks in the decisive inning. Dave Najarian hit a two-run single, Rob MacDonald knocked in one run with a double and Jeff Skinner added an RBI single. The fourth hit was a double by Tim Horton, who was 4-for-4 and scored two runs.

Skinner, who gave the Hawks the lead with a two-run double in the first inning, was 2-for-5. MacDonald also scored twice.

"We hit the ball real hard, and that made me feel good because we hadn't been hitting the ball last week," Herrington said.

The Western Lakes Activities Association co-champion Hawks were unranked but beat a pair of rated teams in the district. Mott finished with a 21-7 record.

HARRISON WAS a 1-0 winner over Bloomfield Hills Cranbrook (2-3-2) in the first round. The Cranes tied Harrison in the top of the seventh Saturday before the game was suspended because of rain. But the teams learned Monday the score should have reverted to the sixth inning, and there was no need to continue that game Monday.

"Cranbrook was even better," Herrington said. "Both were rated in the top 10, but we felt, with an 18-5 record against 'A' competition, we'd be very comparable in talent.

"Cranbrook had five guys hitting over .400, and Murray was able to shut them off. They only got two hits off Murray."

Murray, who boasts a 9-1 record, pitched three innings Monday in relief of starter and winner Jason Lichtman, 5-3. Both allowed only two hits and two walks. Murray also struck out six of the nine batters he faced.

Murray and Lichtman will have key roles Saturday when the Hawks expect the competition to get a shade tougher.

"With Murray throwing, I think we've got as good a chance as anybody in the first game," Herrington said, "and in the second game we'll have to hit the ball and hope the second pitcher throws as well as Jason Lichtman did today.

"We'll have to make some good fielding plays, too," he added. "You can't strike everybody out at this level of competition."

Craiger sweeps pair

Craiger, the defending Plymouth-Canton Babe Ruth champions, opened the 1989 season with two impressive victories over Groose Pointe Farms last weekend.

On Saturday, Craiger's Chris Tomas got the win after allowing only four hits, while striking out four in the team's 9-3 victory over the Yankees.

Sammy DiPrima picked up the save with three strikeouts. He allowed only one hit in two innings of relief.

Craiger's 13-hit attack was led by Scott Kapla's three hits. Matt Horn and Steve Leiger had two apiece for the winners. Leiger hit a home run in the third inning.

On Sunday, Craiger rode the 13-strikeout pitching of Kapla to defeat the Grosse Pointe Farms Red Sox, 5-2.

Kapla led the Craiger offensive attack with two hits. Tomas, who had two RBIs, and Kevin Goff added one apiece.

Also on Sunday, The Dry Clean Co. of Canton defeated the Yankees 4-3, thanks to the pitching and hitting of Rob Eyre. He had two hits — a double and a triple — while allowing just five from the mound.

Scott Bailey was 3-for-3 for the winners, and teammates Brian Tiell and Brett Romack had two hits apiece.

Bill Parker

HER EYES opened wide and the sweet little grin turned into a full-fledged smile. "A fishy, daddy! A fishy!"

It was her first. Daddy's little girl was hooked.

We were enjoying a barbecue at my brother's house last week when I decided to take my 3-year-old daughter, Jenelle, for her first boat ride in our 14-foot flat-bottom fishing boat.

After a couple trips around the bay, which she totally enjoyed, we anchored the boat so dad could take a few casts. (It would have been a sin not to take a cast or two since we were out on the lake, wouldn't it?)

Anyway, it only took about a minute for our first bite. I set the hook and handed the rod to Jenelle. Now obviously, this task was a bit confusing for a 3-year-old (actually she won't be 3 until July). So with mom bracing the rod, Jenelle began cranking the handle, which in itself was confusing for her since clockwise and counter-clockwise are not yet in her vocabulary. We finally got everything (and everyone) working correctly and Jenelle reeled in a big, healthy crappie.

MOMENTS LATER, another fish hit and after dad set the hook she hauled in a nice 14-inch largemouth bass.

"Can I touch it," she asked, eagerly reaching out with her little hand. I attempted to show her how to hold a bass by reaching in and grasping the lower lip, but she'd have no part of that. "He'll bite me if I put my finger in his mouth, daddy," she exclaimed. How could I argue with logic like that? She settled for touching the fish's back.

We released the fish, since I really didn't think she was ready for a lesson on cleaning, and headed back to shore.

I don't think I'll ever forget the thrill and excitement that little girl experienced when she reeled in that first fish. Now I have a hard time getting out the door when I go fishing because she wants to go with me.

IF YOU'VE NEVER gone out fishing, or never taken your kids fishing, this weekend is the best time of the year. On June 10-11, in conjunction with National Fishing Week, the Michigan Department of Natural Resources is offering Free Fishing Days. On these two days, Michigan residents and non-residents can fish the state's waters without a fishing license or a trout/salmon stamp. The DNR will also waive the $2 car and $4 car/trailer entry fees at the 44 public access boat launching sites (not state parks).

Fishing clinics, workshops, tournaments and derbies are being held over the weekend throughout the state, including some right here close to home.

Lakeside Fishing Shops in Farmington and St. Clair are holding a state-wide walleye and perch tournament (473-2030); Stony Creek Metropark is holding a Beginners Family Fishing Clinic (781-4242); the Oakland County 4-H Club is holding a Take A Kid Fishing Workshop at the Nature Center in Drayton Plains (858-0894); a bass tournament is being held in Rochester Hills (656-4673); the City of Wyandotte is holding a fishing derby (246-4505); there is a walleye tournament in Grosse Isle (676-7157); and there is a fishing derby in Riverview (283-2660).

For a complete statewide list of Free Fishing Days events contact the DNR at (517) 373-1280 or (517) 373-1214. For an update on fishing conditions and fishing hotspots, call the DNR's fishing hotline at (517) 373-0908.

Church's LUMBER YARDS

Church's has the only "weather-resistant" lumber in town!

It really weathers the elements!

Water beads right off Wolmanized EXTRA Weather-Resistant Lumber because it's got something "extra" — it's pressure treated with a special water repellent to prevent moisture penetration from rain and snow. All wood swells and expands when it absorbs moisture. As it dries, it releases moisture and shrinks. Constant expansion and contraction causes grain raising, checking, splintering and warping. Spray or brush-on water sealers just can't repel water like Wolmanized EXTRA Lumber — in laboratory tests Wolmanized EXTRA Lumber shows almost two-thirds more moisture resistance than pressure-treated lumber protected with a leading water sealer. Of course, this fantastic lumber is also pressure treated with chemicals for lifelong protection against termites, rot and decay. Don't settle for ordinary treated lumber. Insist on Wolmanized EXTRA for your 2x4, 2x6 & 5/4x6 decking.

And If You're Building a Cedar Deck... Don't settle for common Cedar- Church's has Select Tight Knot Cedar!

Better quality for your outdoor projects! We now stock a premium grade Western Red Cedar. Our Select Tight Knot Cedar lumber is lightweight, stable and easy to work with. Western Red Cedar weathers naturally or it can be stained with a semi-transparent stain to allow its natural beauty to show through. We carry complete cedar deck kits, cedar accessories and all the hardware you need to build a Beautiful Cedar deck.

Designed for family living

By Corinne Abatt
staff writer

While Herman Frankel says his new single-family homes in Woodcliff, West Bloomfield are "definitely designed for families with children," he's introducing a new level of sophistication into his designs.

They are among his largest and most lavish, from approximately 3,500-4,200 square feet, with a base price of $359,900. Interior designer for the model, Richard Daniels of Birmingham-based Brian Killian & Company, brought a fresh, dynamic approach to the model and worked with the Frankel Organization on the planning.

Frankel has built extensively in West Bloomfield, and his style in both condos and single-family homes is well-known. Woodcliff, like many of his other developments, has winding roads, scenic lots, trees and rolling terrain.

THE EXTERIOR of the houses is a combination of brick, cedar siding and fieldstone. In the model, the Meridian II, the interior space is clearly defined, but an open feeling is created by the two-story great room and foyer, the many palladium windows, the curved edges of the archways, the soaring marble detailing of the great room fireplace and the pleasant, efficient, traffic pattern.

On the second floor of the model are four bedrooms, counting the spacious master suite, and a total of three baths.

Daniels chose to showcase the furnishings in wonderful shades of teal, blue and muted green in combination with black against warm cream walls and carpeting.

The floors are partly carpeted and partly hardwood with a light pickled oak finish. A large alcove in the family room with a large closet/storage space on one wall is left uncarpeted. This would make a nice play area for small children that could double as a dance floor for teens and adults.

THE COLORS and appointments in the kitchen and adjacent nook with the studio ceiling are a refreshing change from the prevailing sterile, white, high-tech look.

Eating area adjacent to the kitchen continues the urban/rural blend. It is a chic, sophisticated interior with a lovely view of the woods beyond.

Daniels chose a soft pastel shade called lindenwood for the countertops and used black as an accent color. The wallpaper in the nook is a gray background with a small contemporary print.

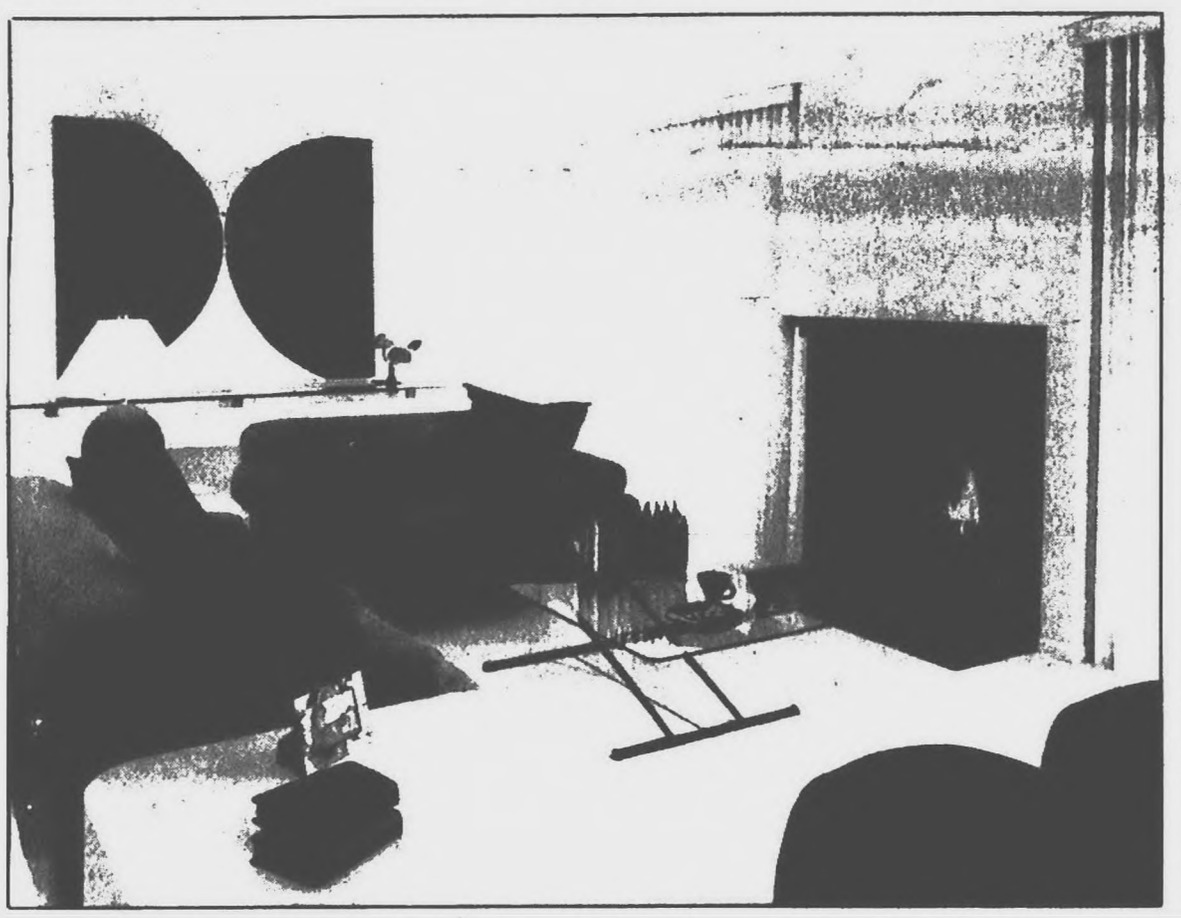
The frame of an old screen door is mounted as a wall sculpture, and two classic fruit prints add touches of interest. The lighting fixture over the table is totally contemporary. It's a provocative mix of colors and styles that works well.

The flow of color and style, from the sleek contemporary approach in the dining room, to the ultimately comfortable master bedroom is natural, not too tightly structured and pleasing to the eye.

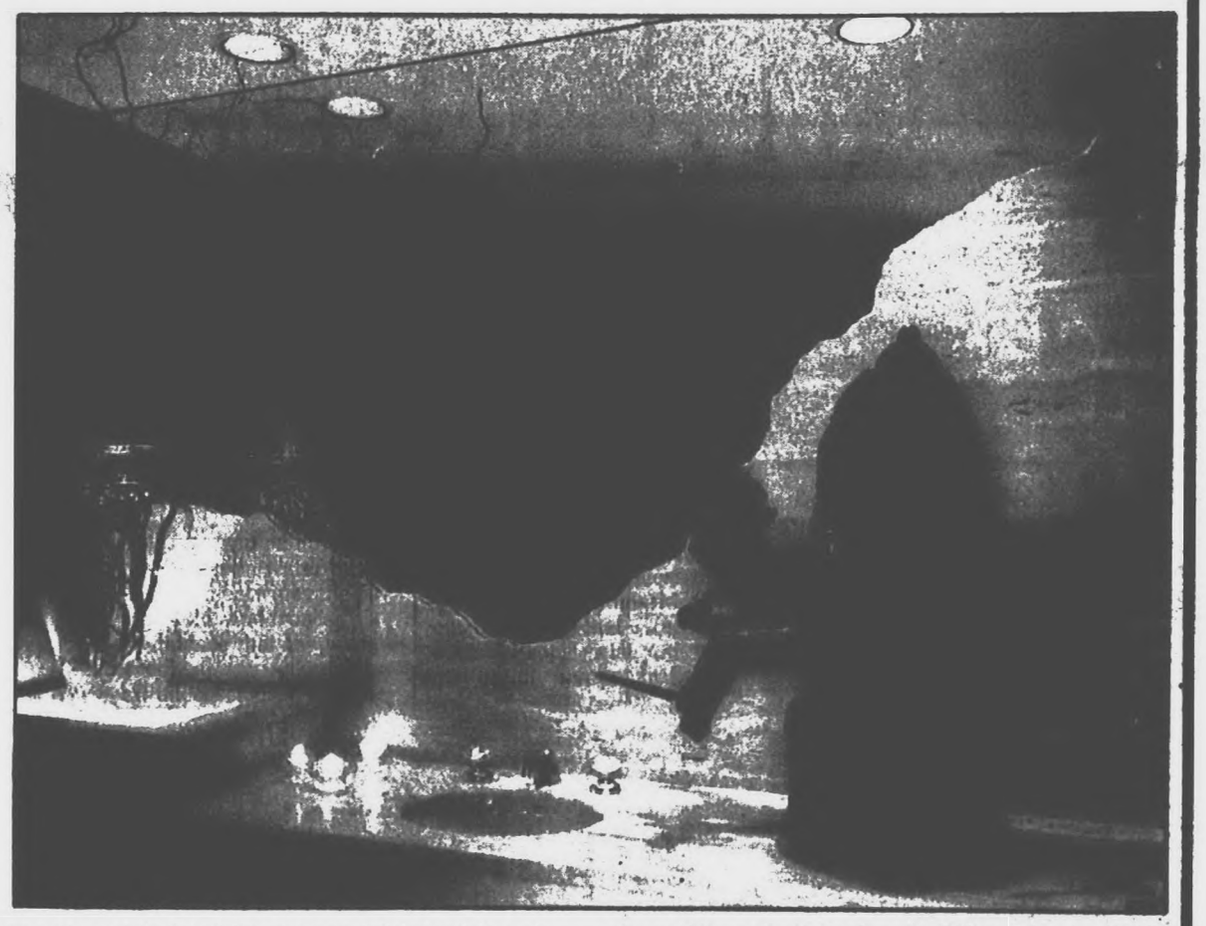
There's lots of drama in the line of the marble firteplace in the living room and the windows which soar two stories.

In both design and look, the house is impressive without being ostentatious. It is well planned with many details that should contribute to a comfortable family life.

The model is open from noon to 6 p.m. every day but Thursday. To reach the model, stop at the Woodcliff on the Lake models on West Bloomfield Lake Road, north of Walnut Lake Road, 1½ miles west of Orchard Lake Road. For information, call 683-3500.



Corner of the family room shows the beautifully detailed tile fireplace. The room includes an alcove and storage area.



Designer Richard Daniels heightened the drama of the first floor powder room with a sculpted marble splash in front of the mirror and a provocative work of art.

Paper artistry celebrates life

By Arlene Funke
special writer

LIVONIA ARTISt Gloria Valentic calls her stark, paper-relief art a tribute to the "beauty of the survivor."

Valentic creates unusual, intricately layered abstract works of art that look weathered and time-tested. She feels excitement — and discovery — as she shapes her paper into an image.

"I have to be surprised," said Valentic, a 55-year-old self-trained artist. "That's what art is — searching. It goes into your unconsciousness."

Valentic, who has been working with paper for around five years, soon will have her first public exhibit. Approximately a dozen of her pieces will be on exhibit in the Livonia City Hall from June 12-30 as part of public art shows sponsored by the Livonia Arts Commission. (An interview with the artist will be aired at 8 p.m. Monday on Metrovision's Channel 8.)

Valentic finds inspiration in nature, classical music and poetry. Her work salutes the power of hope in the face of hardship, illness or deprivation. One of her heroes is writer Elie Wiesel, champion of peace and a spokesman for the millions of victims of the Nazi Holocaust.

"EVERY MOMENT is precious," Valentic said. "people are worth everything. We are part of something very big. We shouldn't waste it."

Valentic's technique is to take thin, oriental paper and paint it with gouache, an opaque water-based paint. Valentic then entwines the paper into layers, folds and fronds.

It's no coincidence that the pieces look weathered.

"It was all unconscious," Valentic said. "They are survivors. They are a celebration of life."

Valentic likes to hike and collect rocks. She especially enjoys sitting in her yard watching birds and looking at trees.

"Nature humanizes us," she said. "It makes us feel we are part of something big."

Valentic is aware people interpret her work in many ways.

For example, her "Creature with One Horn" was named because it appears to have a shaft, or horn, jutting upward. Another person may look at the delicate layers of sandy colored paper and see an image of gnarled, brittle leaves lying in a dimly lit forest.

THAT, IN TURN, may trigger a deeper response, and "that's the whole idea," said Valentic.

Her "Cocoon in Burgundy, No. 2," is similarly muted in color and subtly shaped. Valentic's paper relief pieces, mounted on black mat and enclosed in a black frame, are priced from $800-$1,000.

"I'm very optimistic, but the human tragedy — illness and grief — is there," Valentic said. "It's what you do with that tragedy (that counts). People who run from the emotion of human tragedy won't grow."

Valentic's current work is the culmination of a longtime search for artistic expression.

In the early 1980s, after her three children were grown, Valentic enrolled at Henry Ford Community College. She originally had hoped to teach English at the college level. But after transferring first to Eastern Michigan University and later to the University of Michigan-Dearborn, she concluded she wasn't "compatible" with classroom life.

"It is a free spirit that propels my work," Valentic said.

She began working in clay, but became dissatisfied.

"I loved it, but I couldn't take it far enough," she said. "I wanted more."

She finds paper "maddening," but exciting. Many of the thoughts and feelings which she enters into her journal eventually find their way into paper relief.

"I CAN EXPRESS myself totally in this medium," Valentic said. "Oriental paper is thin. It's difficult to work with. You can't be afraid of it."

Valentic waves away questions about brushes and paints. The key, she said, is to go into the personal "cave" and search for feelings.

"It is something that takes place between you and your creation," she said. "You have to concentrate and do what (the art) is telling you."

Currently Valentic is looking for a gallery to exhibit and sell her unusual pieces. She has made peace with the reality that some people reject her style.

"It will always pinch a little," she said. "As long as I have my mind and soul, I'm alive. I thank God all the time for what he has given me and to be able to share it with other people."

artifacts
David Messing

FRUSTRATION can happen in any medium, but only in pastel is the frustration of mind and hand so graphically displayed on face and body. In other words, it gets all over you.

In order of my lesson plans, pastels are usually the first stumbling block.

First of all, what are pastels? Color is often referred to as pigment. Pigment in an oil base is known as oil paint. Pigment in a resin or plastic base is known as acrylic. Pigment in a casein or tempra base is known as watercolor. Pigment in a gum base is known as pastel.

The quality ranges according to the amount of pigment in the glue. Less expensive pastels have an addition of chalk to the glue base. These are most common (even though they are dusty) because they are economical. A set of 48 colors costs less than $15.

PURE PIGMENT pastels are my favorite, and they are a pleasant step up after you have used the lesser-quality pastels. A 30 half-stick assortment of pure pastels costs around $16.95.

It is still best to start with a lower-quality set because when you begin artwork in color, it is best to have a wide range of colors.

Start with a paper that has some tooth to it. Now you can make background colors with pastels or use colored paper.

First, line draw the basic shapes of your subject in vine charcoal and make correction with a kneaded eraser. Vine charcoal is merely a charred piece of wood, and it makes a warm, gray line.

A KNEADED eraser is an artist's best friend — and my dog's favorite treat. It is soft and pliable and when it gets dirty, you stretch or "knead" it until it becomes clean.

After your line drawing looks complete, begin "blocking" in the main colors. Blocking means putting in large areas of color with a minimum of care or accuracy.

Then mix your colors by stroking one over the other. The back of bluebird, for example, is a rich blue to make a base color of a similar blue.

To lighten the area, simply strike a lighter blue over the base color. This is similar to painting.

Dark colors shade the base color, and light colors tint or lighten the base color. All in all, the most difficult stage in a pastel drawing is not the beginning structure or the finishing details, but the middle. This stages looks messy, is somewhat confusing and most often arouses fear of failure.

I TELL my students that this stage should look like a "paint-by-number" picture. Don't try to blend colors, just place them where they should be. Blending will come with the finishing.

Entertainment a plus at arts festival

A highlight of area art events occurs this weekend when the annual Arts and Crafts Festival is presented Saturday and Sunday by the Livonia Arts Commission.

The two-day event will again be held at Greenmead, Livonia's historical site at the corner of Eight Mile and Newburgh. There is no admission charge or parking fee. Hours are 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. both days.

Approximately 200 exhibitors will be featured in all areas of art work, including fine arts, textiles, pottery, wood, metal and glass. Country arts will also be represented in the festival that awards cash prizes to winners selected in the various categories by a panel of judges.

Judges include Jean Gralley, a former member of the arts commission and an illustrator/writer for Cricket magazine for children; Roger Cereszyne, art instructor for the Wayne-Westland Community Schools and a past president of the Michigan Art Education Association; and Sue Price, also a past president of the Michigan Art Education Association and a past board member of the Michigan Art Train.

FAMILY-TYPE ENTERTAINMENT will be expanded at this year's festival, according to chairman Betty Ward. Some of the performers scheduled include Gemini, a popular duo who will be in the spotlight from 3-4 p.m. Saturday. Sammy's Clown Band will precede them at 1-3 p.m.

Other entertainment includes a dulcimer group, 2:30-5 p.m. Saturday and folk singer Neil Woodward.

Several community groups who will sponsor refreshment booths with proceeds benefiting their respective organizations. Participating will be the Livonia Cultural League with pizza and ice cream booths; Metropolitan Youth Symphony, with cookies, honey-glazed nuts, soft drinks and other hot food items; and the Rosalyn Bryant Memorial Fund with a food concession.

As in previous years, prizes, donated by the exhibitors, will be given away hourly to fair-goers.

Shuttle service will be available from the parking lot, on Newburgh Road, to the main festival grounds.

Learn from photographs of others

There's a lot to read in this photograph by Monte Nagler and many questions to ask yourself about it. Study it closely and see what answers you come up with. It was taken at Emerald Pool Falls in Zion National Park.

photography

Monte Nagler

Did you know that one of the best ways to improve your photography is by closely looking at the photographs of others?

Whether it's browsing through a gallery or leisurely thumbing through a good photography book, many benefits can be yours from a good, hard, critical look and analysis of the photographs. It doesn't matter whether you prefer landscapes, street scenes, abstracts, people pictures, color or black and white.

The important thing is to start looking at pictures and to begin to understand not only what the photographer is trying to communicate but, more importantly, how he or she is doing it and what the picture is doing to you.

By tuning into your own emotions and asking yourself some important questions as you "read" a photograph, you'll gain insight and technical skills that will certainly help you in making your own photographs.

Begin by asking what the subject or main theme of the photograph is. Does it move you and how do you respond to it? How do you suppose the photographer felt about it?

Study the lighting. Is it harsh or soft? What direction is it coming from and what time of day do you think it was? Ask yourself what might happen to the picture if the lighting were different.

What camera position was used — near or far, low angle or high? Why do you think the photographer used a particular camera position and what does it do for the picture? How might another camera location affect the photograph?

What lens do you think was used and why? Was it a wide angle, normal or perhaps a telephoto?

As you know, a lens' focal length and aperature greatly affect depth-of-field. Is there a lot of depth-of-field or little in the picture? How would a change in depth-of-field alter the final image?

What about shutter speed — slow or fast? Is the subject blurred in motion or caught at the peak of the action? Look for use of filters or any other special effects, too. Of course, you should study the composition carefully. How are the elements of the picture arranged and does it all make sense to you?

Is the photograph telling a story? If so, tune into your feelings about it. Try to interpret what the photographer is saying and what your responses are.

Stirring message

Livonia Historical Society member Harriet Larson will be cooking up something special from noon to 3 p.m. Saturday in Jacobson's Livonia store cook's galley to help promote the society's Heritage Cookbook. Larson will prepare three salad recipes she has in the cookbook — one using the unusual combination of spinach and strawberries. Larson edited the book, the proceeds of which are earmarked for the restoration of the Alexander Blue House in the historical village at Greenmead. The cookbook is $12.95 and is available at Jacobson's, Greenmead and Civic Center Library.

'Dramatic Sounds' is Friends' offering

The Friends of the Opera will hold a special spring concert, "Dramatic Sounds" at 8 p.m. Saturday in Kresge Hall of Madonna College, Livonia. The concert will feature dramatic arias and duets performed by local professional singers accompanied by piano, harp, flute and violin.

The dramatic voice is characterized by a large, resonant sound, often dark in timbre, as opposed to the lyric or coloratura voice which is light leggiero. Typical of this repertoire are pieces such as "Vissi D'Arte" from "Tosca,"which will be performed by dramatic soprano Julie Rose, and the "Sequedilla" from "Carmen," to be sung by mezzo-soprano Claritha Buggs. Tenor Phillip Hawk will perform the beloved aria "Una Furtiva Lagrima," and baritone Quinto Milito will offer "Nullo, Silenzio" from Puccini's powerful one-act opera, "Il Tabarro."

Other highlights include the beautiful duet from Bizet's "Pearl Fishers" and "Spirito Adorator" with Phillip Hawk accompanied by his daughter Erin Hawk on the violin. Also featured are instrumental numbers specially arranged for this concert and some lighter fare such as "O Mio Babbino Caro" and "If You Believe" from "The Wiz."

MEZZO-SOPRANO BUGGS is a guest artist who joins Friends of the Opera for this concert. She made her professional debut in 1983 with Michigan Opera Theater as Siebel in Goundod's "Faust." She received her bachelor's in music and master's in voice performance from the University of Michigan and has won several competitions, including the 1983 Metropolitan Opera District Competition. She received third prize in the 1984 Great Lakes Regional Met competition, and first prize in the Leontyne Price vocal competition of 1984. Her roles include Suzuki in "Madame Butterfly," the title role in Monteverdi's "The Coronation of Poppea," and the Third Lady in Mozart's "Magic Flute."

Also in her first appearance with the Friends of the Opera will be dramatic soprano Julie Rose of Redford. She has appeared as a soloist with many local orchestras, including the Warren Symphony ("Messiah"), the Macomb Symphony (Bach "Magnificat"), the Oakway and Scandinavian symphonies (opera selections), and the Dearborn Chamber Orchestra (Mozart's "Exultate Jubilate").

She is also a regular soloist with Detroit's World Class Chorale, Cantata Academy, and will tour Germany, Austria, Czechoslovakia and Poland this summer in that capacity. She is a leading soprano with the Michigan Lyric Opera and has sung with the Piccolo Opera Company, the International Opera Theater, the Dearborn Choral Art Society, the German Masters Chorus, and many others as a featured soloist and chorus member. She is currently soloist at Christ Church Cranbrook and teaches out of her own studio.

AS A POWERFUL dramatic tenor, Phillip Hawk, also of Redford, is blessed with a rare voice type. He is soloist at Central Woodward Christian Church in Troy and has performed with the Dearborn Civic Opera, the Italian Opera Theater and the Michigan Lyric Opera, the Cranbrook Summer Chorale, the Colonial Bank of Williamsburg, Va., Cantata Academy and Northville's Marquis Theater.

He has been recitalist at Lansing and Oakland Community Colleges and has appeared on television and made several recordings.

Baritone Quinto Milito is familiar to the Italian community, having appeared in numerous concerts both here and abroad. He received his training at the G. Rossini Conservatory in Italy, which boasted such well-known alumni as Mario Del Monaco, Franco Corelli and Renata Tebaldi. He has twice won the Metropolitan Opera Regional Competitions and was also awarded a special prize by conductor Martin Rich of the Metropolitan Opera Company.

He has performed under the baton of the internationally known conductor Thomas Schippers, in the lead role of Mercadante's "Il Giuramento" at the Spoleto Festival in Italy.

Admission is $5. Tickets will be available at the door. For more information, call 582-0997 or 845-9634.

LIVE AMONG THE RARE AND BEAUTIFUL.

Aldingbrooke—West Bloomfield's premier rental community—has always attracted its own special flock.

Our magnificent estate-like grounds are home to a collection of geese and swans. And to many of metropolitan Detroit's most discerning individuals and families.

Set in a gated community, residents appreciate Aldingbrooke's world of privacy and custom options, with all the services they've come to expect from a luxury apartment community.

Residences up to 2800 square feet include such desirable features as private entryways, split-level or ranch-style designs, dens, breakfast rooms, cathedral ceilings, fireplaces and attached garages.

All for much less than you'd expect to pay for such luxury. From $650 to $1650 per month.

Whatever your mind can imagine in luxurious living, you can discover on your first visit to Aldingbrooke.

It is indeed rare and beautiful.

"I finally found a townhome as large as a home."

"I looked long and hard to find a 2000 sq. ft., cathedral ceiling elegant three-bedroom townhome. (Of course, I could have chosen a two or three-bedroom ranch.) With my own two-car attached garage, my own private basement and patio. And--luxury touches like deluxe kitchens and whirlpool tubs plus landscaping that I love. Nothing could get me to move from Covington. Nothing."

Now Renting:
A landmark address.

Since its completion, the elegant Shore Club Apartment Tower has been a landmark for ships and boats cruising Lake St. Clair. But it's also been a landmark in luxury living.

You can choose from highrise, garden apartment or townhouse lifestyles. All provide the same convenient, luxurious, environment.

Shore Club is situated in a park-like atmosphere. Here we combine the peacefulness of the lake with stately old shade trees. Our community-by-the-lake is conveniently located near major expressways and surface routes, leading to most every part of the Metropolitan area. As well as close to Grosse Pointe Shopping districts.

What's more, because Shore Club is on the water, renters have first priority on our available boat wells.

We're now renting apartments. So come and see why Shore Club is the most prestigious address on the waterway. We're sure you'll find everything about it is of landmark quality.

ANNOUNCING
LOCATION-LOCATION-LOCATION
The (3 most important ingredients to Business Success) is no longer as simple as this common saying. In today's complex, information & service-driven economy, your office space needs more ... especially for the small Business Executive or the expanding Corporation opening a remote office. At International Business Centers, we don't compromise on the above proven formula but we add more ... much more: individual offices from 150 sq.ft., furnished or unfurnished, with shared reception areas, conference & meeting rooms, and kitchen facilities; full-time Secretarial Staffs with the latest office equipment, P.C.'s, and communication systems (some IBCs even have Satellite Teleconferencing facilities with access to regular professional & industry seminars broadcast live to large screen TVs.
To adapt to the uncertain economy, IBC offers flexible, short-term leases & growth options to conventional space. IBC has options for all budgets including part-time office users or traveling executives.
Perhaps the (3 most important ingredients) has changed from
to:
SERVICES-SERVICES-SERVICES
but don't take a chance - at IBC, get both the services & the address you need at one of 6 prime locations:
- Birmingham - Woodward, dwntwn.
- Farmington Hills - N'western Hwy.
- Novi - 9 Mile & Novi Rd.
- Ann Arbor - Avis Dr. & S. State St.

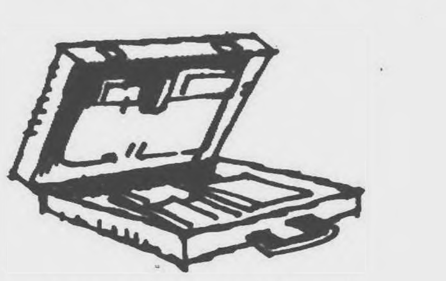
WRITE IT AND REAP!

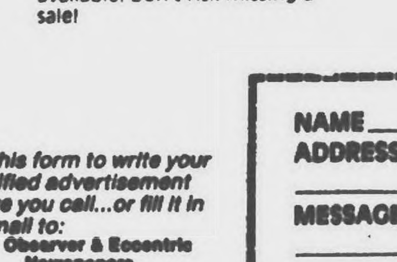
Writing a classified ad that gets results— whether it be for real estate, employment, the personals, transportation, or merchandise— is easy if you follow the guidelines below.

1. Give the reader specific information. Pretend you are someone reading the classifieds. What would you like to know about the item, service or job you are advertising? Be sure to add details such as color, size, condition, brand name, age, features and benefits. Be accurate! Don't embellish your ad with misleading information. Stick to the facts and reap the rewards!

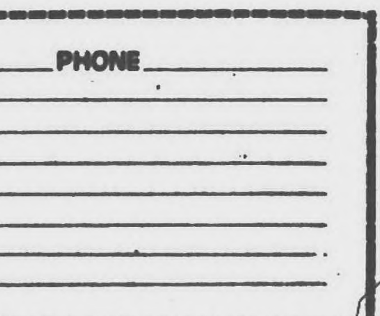


2. Include the price. Don't waste your time or a potential buyer's time. If you advertise the price of the item or service you offer, the people who respond to your ad will be those who are genuinely interested. Surveys show that readers are more interested in those items and services they know are within their price range.

3. Avoid abbreviations. Don't make a potential customer work too hard! Although you may be tempted to cut down on the cost of your ad by using abbreviations, surveys indicate that many people don't understand such abbreviations as EIK (eat-in kitchen) or WSW (white side wall) tires and won't take the time to figure them out. A confused reader is a disinterested reader. Get the most for your money and use complete words.



4. Include phone number and specify hours. Be sure to let potential customers know when and where to call. Surveys show that even if a person is very interested in your item or service, he or she will not call back after the first attempt. Stay near the phone during the hours you indicate you will be available. Don't risk missing a sale!



5. Run on consecutive days. Your ad will not get results if people don't see it! Therefore, it is important to set up a consistent and consecutive ad schedule with your telephone salesperson or outside sales representative.

Detroit Grand Prix History

The origin of the Detroit Grand Prix dates back to November of 1980, when the directors of Detroit Renaissance, a non-profit urban development organization, voted to study the feasibility of a world-class motorsport event in downtown Detroit.

The study assessed the logistical and financial impact such an event would have on the City of Detroit and its people. The study sought the interest of international Grand Prix sanctioning bodies and meetings were held with state and local officials to determine what legal hurdles had to be cleared.

A welcome was found in London and Paris, capitals of Formula One World Championship racing. The hurdles in the Michigan State Capitol, however, were more formidable.

Fortunately, the Detroit Grand Prix idea quickly found an advocate in Lansing, David Callanan, special assistant to William Faust, majority leader of the Michigan State Senate.

The legislation was drafted to permit the street race to be held, but not before hard questions of spectator safety and sufficient economic benefit to the city and state were answered.

The safety question was foremost in legislators' minds. Extensive engineering studies, however, demonstrated the Formula One Grand Prix race for Detroit could be accomplished without incident. The Detroit Grand Prix was "on the road."

With the support of Detroit's Mayor Coleman A. Young, no fewer than 11 City departments and offices played important roles in planning the race and construction of the street circuit. The result was a 20-turn, 2.5 mile downtown race course, which provided spectators with a superb view of the high-tech racing machines at full speed.

At the end of the 1988 race, the City of Detroit, Detroit Renaissance and Formula One organizers agreed in principle to relocate the Detroit event to Belle Isle, due to development projects slated to take place on the downtown course. Detroit Renaissance was also authorized to proceed with contract negotiations, as the current contract had expired with the conclusion of the 1988 event. In the ensuing months, downtown development plans shifted, which allowed the 1989 race to continue on the streets of downtown Detroit. However, facility changes demanded by the Formula One governing bodies for 1989 were not physically possible.

At that point, Detroit Renaissance broke off negotiations with Formula One officials and contacted CART (Championship Auto Racing Teams, Inc.) to discuss the possibility of an Indy Car race in Detroit. In less than a week, the announcement was made: Detroit would host a CART Indy Car race on the downtown course in 1989.

The 1989 Valvoline Detroit Grand Prix will hit the streets of Detroit on June 16, 17 and 18. Friday, June 16 is Free Prix Day.
