Mettetal issues to be aired next week

By Kevin Brown
and Diane Gale
staff writers

The controversy over the future of Mettetal Airport in Canton is scheduled for a full airing next week.

And one part of the controversy — the question of whether or not the city of Plymouth will join an effort to keep the airport open — is scheduled for a city commission vote Dec. 17.

PLYMOUTH AND PLYMOUTH Township officials announced last week that a public information meeting has been scheduled for 8 p.m. Monday, Dec. 10, at the city cultural center.

City Manager Gordon Jaeger will moderate the meeting. Elected municipal officials in Plymouth and Plymouth Township have been invited, along with representatives from the Michigan Department of Transportation, state Bureau of Aeronautics and Federal Aviation Administration, and a group opposing government involvement in running the airport.

Jaeger said the meeting will provide information to city commissioners before the Dec. 17 vote on whether to join the airport authority touted by Plymouth Township trustees.

The representatives of the state and federal agencies "will enunciate the interest of their agencies in the preservation of Mettetal Airport," said Plymouth Township Supervisor Maurice Breen. He is seeking creation of an airport authority to buy and run Mettetal.

Jaeger said the meeting will provide information for elected officials, and provide "an opportunity for the public to express views" on the future of the airport.

LAST SUMMER, Canton trustees rejected a plan to buy the airport. In August, Breen began investigating a plan to form an airport authority to buy the airport with state and federal money.

The plan, according to state and local officials, would leave Plymouth Township and other communities who could join the authority free from lawsuits over operations. Also by the plan, no locally collected tax money would go toward running the airport.

City of Plymouth officials have yet to vote on whether to join such an authority. But Canton Supervisor Tom Yack is strongly against the plan.

"An action like this is so self-serving I must question the wisdom of any present and future joint projects with those that would form an authority," he said.

Meanwhile, Tom Kennedy of Plymouth Township, a TWA pilot, has promoted saving the airport so it can be used to host an aviation school.

He said the school would train mechanics and other technicians in a field that has a high demand for employees and pays between $30,000 and $60,000.

The airport cost is about $5 million. While state and federal grants would pay about 95

Santa ridin' the rails

Santa will ride into town on the CSX Santa Train at noon Saturday, Dec. 15, on the track across from Bodie's Restaurant on Main Street. He's scheduled to stay until 5 p.m. Santa's visit is sponsored by the CSX Detroit District Safety Team and the Detroit Operation Red Block Team.

Puppet on a string

Friends of the Plymouth District Library are sponsoring the String Puppet Theatre performance of "The Snow Queen" at 7 p.m. Friday at the Plymouth Cultural Center. Parents and children are encouraged to attend. No registration is required.

Workers needed

Senior Alliance Inc. is looking for people who charge no more than $6 per hour to provide household chores, leaf raking and snow removal for seniors in Plymouth Township and Northville. For more information, call 722-2830 and ask for the referral program.

School's Extra Miler named

East Middle School student service center teacher Rick McCoy has received the "Extra Miler" award given by the Plymouth-Canton Board of Education.

"While I very much value this honor because it comes from my peers, I feel like the last runner on a relay team. I also have to accept this award on behalf of the staff I work with," he told the board.

McCoy, who pioneered the district's Alternative Education Program, works part time for the district. He works privately in consulting and counseling.

His colleagues describe McCoy as a wonderful role model who helps his students and follows their progress through recovery programs.

McCoy joined the district in September 1975 after graduating from Albion College. He earned his master's degree at Eastern Michigan University.

He moved from special education to a resource room project in 1977 before being chosen in 1981 for the newly formed Alternative Education Program.

McCoy has presented programs on substance abuse and chemical dependency to students, staff and parents.

Trustee E.J. McClendon presented McCoy with a framed "Extra Miler" certificate, a Flag of Learning and Liberty pin and a dining certificate for two donated by the Mayflower Hotel.

On the air

WSDP-FM, 88.1, is expanding its coverage of local high school basketball this winter.

WSDP will broadcast 18 season games involving Plymouth-Salem and Plymouth-Canton high schools. All but two of the school's home contests are included in the broadcast package.

Season highlights include the annual Canton-Salem clash Jan. 29.

WSDP also plans to participate in "March Madness" with live coverage of all state tournament games involving Salem and Canton.

Award-winning basketball announcer Sarah Kuhneck will do most of the play-by-play duties this year.

Army wages war on poverty

When folks think of Christmas, many think of the Salvation Army, says Lt. Jeffrey Beachum, who heads the Salvation Army Plymouth Corps.

"That's where (Christmas) we get most of our visibility," said Beachum. "It would be interesting to do a survey; what people think of first. I would bet people would think of Christmas or helping the poor."

LEADING SOME VISITORS down a stairway to the basement of the Salvation Army social work house on Main and Ann Arbor Trail, just south of downtown in Plymouth Township, one spots hundreds of canned goods stacked on plain wood shelves.

Besides collecting canned goods for the needy at Christmas, the army accepts or donations through the kettle drive to pay for year-round Salvation Army activities to spread

Fee increases included in plan to balance budget

By Kevin Brown
staff writer

Some fee increases, delays in replacing equipment and other savings are part of a city deficit reduction plan to be presented at a public hearing tonight.

City commissioners on Wednesday reviewed the budget balancing plan devised to make up a $300,000 deficit, much of it carried over from the 1989-90 city budget.

To find areas to save money, "We received input and very good input from each of the department heads," City Manager Gordon Jaeger told commissioners.

The public hearing is scheduled for the regular commission meeting at 7:30 p.m. at city hall.

"I know there are some tough cuts in here and they are going to hurt," said Mayor Dennis Bila as the commission began its review of the administration plan on Wednesday.

While the revised fiscal year 1990-91 budget shows a surplus of $64,000, Bila suggested nearly all that amount would go for raises for non-union city employees.

Highlights of the plan to reduce the budget include:

- Raising city cemetery grave opening and closing fees charged to non-residents from $425-$475 to $800, based on the average charges levied by private cemeteries. Resident rates would rise from $325-$360

to $425-$470

- Fee increases for men's and women's softball, women's basketball and hockey ice rentals and for rental of the arts and crafts room and card room.

- Cutting $30,000 by delaying repairs to some city buildings.

- Cutting $47,000 from the police department budget through lower estimates of sick time pay, delaying equipment purchases and reducing other expenses.

The adjustments bring the 1990-91 budget to just more than $5.8 million, with expenses at just more than $5.5 million. The balance would pay to make up for the current $238,212 deficit, and wage increases.

Also Wednesday, auditor David Williamson, in presenting a fiscal year 1989-90 city audit, told the commissioners, "We are pleased the administration has instituted new purchasing policies."

Entrepreneur of the Year to speak at economic club

By Diane Gale

When Michael Horowitz started his development company in 1983 he thought Plymouth and Canton were hot.

Seven years later after building a respected business and capturing the 1990 Michigan Entrepreneur of the Year award in construction and real estate, Horowitz says it was a good decision then and now.

THE FOUNDER and president of the Selective Groups, based in Farmington Hills, will be the guest speaker at the Canton Economic Club luncheon at noon Tuesday at Geneva Presbyterian Church.

Award-winning developer to speak at economic club

"We identified the Plymouth area as a good place to do business when we started our company and we still believe it's a good place," he said.

The most important ingredient is that all real estate tends to do well when there are strong and viable residential communities. Plymouth has the charm of a downtown, the quality of life makes for a strong residential community and translates into good development for industrial, commercial and office developments."

And Canton, by association with Plymouth, benefits from the city's identity, said Horowitz, 41, of Birmingham.

"Without getting into a Plymouth versus Canton thing, I think the whole region benefits from the heart of the Plymouth community," Horowitz said. "The problem with the suburban communities is the lack of identity."

The Plymouth-Canton school district is a plus for development, he added.

HOROWITZ DEVELOPED the $40 million Woodlore North, a subdivision under construction in Plymouth at Ann Arbor Road west of McClumpha. The houses start at $300,000.

Another Horowitz project is Huntington Falls, a 100 acre project including residential, recreation, commercial and industrial in Northville.

Moderately priced homes are mistakenly being rejected by many community leaders who are ignoring housing affordability issues by offering diversified housing stocks, he said.

"There's a tendency in communities to want $300,000 homes," he said. "My concern is the number of people who can buy and maintain a house like that is far less than the people who can afford $100,000 homes."

Horowitz describes himself as motivated. "Others might call me aggressive, some might call me obsessed," he said. "I do this because it's fun, and I have fun doing what we're doing. I enjoy the organization, my partners and my employees."

Horowitz will be introduced at the Canton Economic Club luncheon by Milt Mack, the Wayne County Commissioner from the City of Wayne who will take a judgeship post in early December. For more information about the luncheon call 454-5427.

percent of that price, an additional $300,000 is needed.

Breen has said the money could be raised from private sources. "We already have pledges of $550,000 from businesses," Kennedy said.

Yack has said he's appalled that other communities would consider deciding the future of property in Canton, that could be used as prime industrial land.

"Personally I am put off by Plymouth Township's attempts to pursue the creation of an authority to own and operate a facility in our community that we have already rejected," he said.

Cookies bring taste of home to troops

They're all team players at Pioneer Middle School. When Barbara Squires' eighth grade class was looking for a service learning project to do, custodian John Pappas came up with a suggestion that went over big: sending cookies to servicemen and women in Saudia Arabia.

Friday, 40 dozen Pioneer-made peanut butter and snicker doodle cookies, along with other goodies,

SQUIRES TOOK Pappas' idea, thought about it for awhile, and approached her class about doing it.

"The class had wonderful ideas of things we could do along with making cookies. They planned a project where we could involve the entire school. Students decorated bags to put in each homeroom to collect things to send to the troops.

"They put posters in the hallways, and wrote wonderful announcements - one was even in rap - about different things that could be sent to the troops, pre-sweetened K&Aid, music, tapes, books, magazines and zip-lock bags, because and gets in everything," Squires said.

ITEMS WEE collected from everyone in the school, she said.

"The Skills or Living seventh-graders got involved baking the cookies. Quite a few teachers had students send along letters and other things wehipped."

Plymouth hardasher Fred Hill and the Plymouth Merchants Association provide the postage.

Eighth graders involved in the project are inquest, a class sponsored by the Ions Club and Quest International that emphasizes developing responsibility, making good decisions and learning to get along with peers and family.

The Saudi project turned out to be more than a Quest assignment.

"I think the kids feel like they're making somewhat of a difference," Squires said.

3 school unions lack pacts; 2 others await vote to ratify

By M.B. Dillon
staff writer

Nearly five months after their contracts expired, three Plymouth-Canton employee groups are without new contracts.

Working under extended agreements are para-professionals (educational aides), and clerical and transportation workers.

Food service and custodial maintenance workers reached tentative agreements with the school district after a state mediator was called in.

Details of the proposed contracts should be released Dec. 10, when the school board is scheduled to ratify the pacts, said Michigan Education Association executive director Maryann Ligato-Freydl. She represented the employees in negotiations.

"The bargaining teams are recommending that their memberships ratify the contracts," she said.

WITH THE para-pros, a lot of contractual language items have to be addressed, said Walt Bartnick, chief bargainer for the district.

Little progress has been made, but a Dec. 10 mediation session is scheduled, Ligato-Freydl said.

"We'll have to see that day whether there'll be an impact (from the board's ratification of two other contracts) that will help bring the para-pros and the district closer together."

THE DISTRICT is calling in a mediator to help settle the clerical workers' contract.

Negotiators for both sides met for nearly four hours Tuesday, said Joyce Banks, president of the Plymouth-Canton Association of Educational Office Personnel.

"We didn't reach agreement, not on enough to say we resolved all the issues, but we're very, very close, which is frustrating. But I think at this point (executive director for employee relations) Mr. (Errol) Goldman wants to go to mediation," she said.

THERE'VE BEEN a few meetings with the transportation department, which is working under a contract extension, Bartnick said.

"There are a lot of language items we have to take a look at."

Transportation union officials were unavailable for comment.

CUSTODIA/MAINTENANCE workers settled with the district after a marathon session that began in the district at 8 a.m. Nov. 13. At 1:30 p.m., bargainer moved downtown to the Michigan Employment Relations Commission, where they reached an agreement after 12 hours of mediation.

Food service staffers and district bargainers also met with a mediator, but settled without one Nov. 20.

The district teachers settled their contract in March 1990. The pact calls for wage increases of 5 percent, 4 percent and 5 percent and an additional cost of living adjustment of a maximum 2 percent over three years.

Court exam set for township man charged in assault of boy

A 35th District judge entered a not guilty plea Nov. 26 for a 49-year-old Plymouth Township man charged with the first-degree sexual assault of a 12-year-old Westland boy.

The boy told police that while he was staying overnight in a motorhome at the man's Plymouth Township home, the man climbed into his bunk, then assaulted him. The boy told Plymouth Township police he was "too scared to talk" during the July 1 incident, according to the report filed with police.

Judge Kalem Garian set a Dec. 14 exam date for the suspect, who is free on $5,000 bond.

CAR STOLEN: A 1989 Ford valued at $20,000 was discovered missing late Wednesday from the parking lot at Vic Tanny's on Ann Arbor Road in Plymouth Township.

The owner, a Warren man, 23, reported the car missing at 10:42 p.m., according to the report filed with police.

WIRE MISSING: Four kinds of wire valued at $2,000 were discovered ered missing Wednesday from a construction site in Plymouth Township.

At 7 a.m., the wire was found to be missing from a locked addition to the American Koyo Co. building on Halyard, police said.

FLUTE GONE: A flute valued at $400 was reported stolen Wednesday from the band room at Pioneer Middle School, according to a report filed with Plymouth Township police.

A Plymouth Township mother told police her daughter left the flute on a rack at 9:15 a.m., but it was gone when she went to retrieve it at 2:45 p.m. Wednesday.

BAD CHECK: A Plymouth doll hospital is out $60 after a 26-year-old Birmingham woman wrote a bad check. The woman put a $17.95 deposit down on an item Aug. 18. She returned Oct. 6 to buy the item, paying the $60 balance by check. The check was returned recently marked "account closed." Attempts to reach the woman have been unsuccessful. Certified mail sent to her home was unclaimed.

LARCENY: Sometime between 5:30 p.m. Wednesday and 11:30 a.m. Thursday, someone stole an $800 AM-FM stereo radio from a 1987 white two-door Chrysler at Dick Scott Dodge on Ann Arbor Road.

The vehicle had been left at Dick Scott for repairs by its owner, a 20-year-old Plymouth man.

ENGINE GONE: Shortly after 6 p.m. Wednesday, a toy New York Central steam-switcher engine valued at $400 was taken from a Plymouth hobby shop.

The owner said the plastic train engine, made by Kalamazoo Trains, was removed from a display in front of the store.

Students orchestrate designs for symphony

Smokovitz, a Centennial Educational Park sophomore, recently won an art competition. He and other CEP students created designs for the Plymouth Symphony Orchestra's upcoming "Messiah" production.

"I thought they did a good job," said Graham Martin, an art teacher at Plymouth Salem High School. Students in his drawing and sketching class worked on the project.

The design created by Smokovitz, featuring a band of winged figures, was chosen for the Plymouth Symphony Orchestra poster. First runner-up in the competition was Brian Taylor, a junior. Julie Daoust, a junior, and Emma Cotter, a sophomore, were honorable mention winners.

MARTIN HEARD about the competition from Linda Alvarado, who handles promotion for the PSO. Martin and Alvarado go to the same church, and she asked if his students would be interested.

"We were doing pen and ink drawing at the time," said Martin, a Plymouth Township resident. Quite a few CEP art students opted to participate.

"Most of them turned out really well, a lot of creativity."

Some designs were more contemporary than others. Most students used angels or other images related to Christ's birth, to tie into the "Messiah" theme.

A number of students looked at examples of Renaissance art work in books to help them finish the project, said Martin, who didn't participate in the judging.

He was pleased to see students get involved.

"I think that was the exciting thing for me, to see them enthused by it." Success in art class is often good for a student's self-image, he said. That success can carry over to

Some students, including Smokovitz, are considering art careers.

"He's talking even now as a sophomore of going on," Smokovitz isn't sure yet just what he'll do after high school, but is interested in some type of additional art training.

Martin knows opportunities such as the PSO competition are important for art students. He remembers student shows from his undergraduate days at Wheat College in Illinois and graduate school at Eastern Michigan University.

"That was always a big job," said Martin, who earned a master's degree in fine arts from EMU. "It was kind of exciting too."

The Plymouth Symphony Orchestra will perform 8 p.m. Friday, Dec. 14, at the Plymouth Salem High School auditorium.

46181 Joy, west of Canton Center in Canton. The "Messiah Plus" concert will also feature a performance by the Plymouth Community Chorus.

Ticket price is $12 for adults, $8 for students in kindergarten through 12th grade. Tickets are available at: Bettner Jewelry, 904 W. Ann Arbor Trail, Plymouth; Evola Music Center, 215 Ann Arbor Road, Plymouth; Orin Jewelers, 101 E. Main, Northville; Bookstall on the Main, 116 E. Main, Northville; and Hammell Music, 15630 Middlebelt, Livonia. Tickets should be bought as soon as possible, as the holiday concert is usually a sellout.

The concert will include Handel's "Messiah" and other Christmas music. It is sponsored in part by First of America, the Michigan Council for the Arts and the Plymouth Symphony League.

Army has bigger mission than bell ringing tions to put together about 200 food baskets.

What's becoming a popular way to serve the needy at Christmas is the Adopt a Family program. Through the program, a family that adopts a needy family is provided information on clothing sizes for family members, and buys clothes, toys and food. "They can take it to them or leave it here for the family to pick up," Beechum said.

"Last year, we adopted 60 families," he said, adding that this year, around 300 local families — identified by the state department of social services — will receive clothing and food through the program.

"THERE ARE PEOPLE that are still going to be missed," Beechum said. That's why he encourages neighbors of needy families, seniors or others "to let us know, to make sure they have a good Christmas."

While the Army has that image of helping the needy at Christmas, and of helping rehabilitate people with alcohol or drug problems, Beechum stresses that people "should think of the Salvation Army as mainly being able to share the gospel."

At the Plymouth Corps headquarters, religious services are conducted every Sunday as well as Bible study sessions, activities for preschool and elementary school-age children and seniors during the week, among other services.

A drop box is provided for donated items behind the Plymouth Corps headquarters at 9451 S. Main.

Salvation Army activities are paid for mainly through kettle collections in front of area stores and by sales of clothing and other goods at Salvation Army stores. Some money collected through the annual kettle drive goes for needy families at Christmas, Beechum said.

People interested in donating money to pay for food baskets, or those wishing to "adopt" a family, should contact the Salvation Army Plymouth Corps by Friday, Beechum said, to make sure their donations will help needy families or individuals at Christmas. The Plymouth Corps phone number is 453-5464.

ALSO THIS YEAR, the Salvation Army is offering special gift mugs reading "Michigan Loves You" for men and women in the U.S. military. Those wanting to find a gift mug can provide the name and APO address to The Salvation Army, Project Christmas Mug, 16130 Northland Drive, Schfield, 48075.

County to hold hearings on airplane noise

By Wayne Peal
staff writer

By mid-December, Wayne County residents should know whether new flight patterns would put more or fewer aircraft over their homes.

By mid-January, they'll have their say on the new routes before county officials.

Airline routes, changed earlier this year, could be changed again in light of noise complaints from Dearborn and western Wayne County neighborhoods.

A report on noise abatement plans is expected within the next two weeks from the Federal Aviation Administration regional office in Chicago, according to county noise czar Bryan Amann. County and FAA officials finished noise abatement talks last week.

Plans include a "fanning out" of flight patterns from areas near the airport to other areas, Amann said.

"SOME AREAS that don't have airplane noise now may have it in the future, but we're looking at an equitable distribution of noise," said Amann, an assistant county executive who has overseen county efforts to curb noise at Metro Airport.

County residents will have their say on airplane noise during a series of public meetings in January. While dates, places and times have not yet been confirmed, members of the county commission's committee on airport noise said at least four meetings will be held. One meeting is tentatively scheduled for Livonia and would also include Plymouth/Canton residents. Another is tentatively scheduled for Dearborn and would also include Westland, Garden City and Redford residents. Other meetings are tentatively scheduled for Detroit and downriver.

David Esper, director of Citizens Against Airport Noise, said he was pleased the county would be holding hearings. "It's heartening to see that we can expect changes," said Esper, a Dearborn attorney whose group forced November's ballot issue on airport bonds.

Esper acknowledged that not all members of his group might be pleased with new flight patterns.

"OBVIOUSLY, WE represent people from all over the county. Some will be pleased; others might not. But we're trying to represent the interest of the county as a whole," he said.

Amann said the county had five specific goals in reducing the noise problem, but declined to be more specific pending return of the report by the Chicago FAA.

It is believed, however, that the county has conducted some neighborhood-by-neighborhood counts of airline flights.

From Chicago, the report will pass to county executive Edward McNamara's office, then to the regional FAA office for final approval.

While local FAA officials could kill any noise abatement proposals, county officials are hopeful local action will largely prove a formality after the regional office's review. Despite completion of county talks with the FAA, noise plans aren't yet set in stone.

Amann will be meeting this week with area mayors and township supervisors to gain their support.

January's hearings, which may also include comments from airline representatives, are also expected to have an impact.

Though the county executive's office has thus far handled most noise abatement work, the hearings represent a greater role for the county commission.

"We intend to be partners in this," said Commissioner Susan Hubbard, D-Dearborn, chairwoman of the committee on airport noise.

County budget battle heats up

By Wayne Peal
staff writer

Wayne County's budget battle is raging, but it's doubtful residents will feel its effect — at least initially.

County Executive Edward McNamara and county commissioners are at war over a budget of the executive claims is balanced with some $1.5 million of "phony money."

Commissioners, however, say the $1.8 billion county budget is balanced and sound.

The commission adopted the fiscal 1991 budget Thursday, though McNamara's office promises a veto.

Despite that, it's unlikely the budget dispute will cause layoffs or disruption of county services.

"THERE'S NO threat of that," deputy county executive Michael Duggan said.

A worst case scenario would include a $10 million fine levied against the county by the state if state auditors agreed the budget was out of balance. The balanced budget pledge — and fine — are part of the county's 1987 debt reduction agreement with the state. At present, the fine risk appears small.

New county hiring, however, is at risk.

While charges and counter charges have swirled around full size automobiles bought on behalf of four commissioners, the real issue centers on county hiring.

At issue is an additional $510,320 approved by commissioners for the county clerk's office and an additional $1 million the executive claims was approved for the commission itself.

"They don't have the money," Duggan said. "They're approving something they know isn't there and were told isn't there."

The clerk's office budget is based on a 15 percent fee increase "for inflation since 1988" but Duggan said no increase has been proposed nor would be.

The county fiscal year began at midnight Saturday. McNamara, however, has 10 days to officially receive the budget, giving both sides additional time to sit down and smooth out differences before the commission meets again Dec. 13.

The executive's office would issue an order blocking hiring by the clerk's office and commission in the interim, Duggan said.

But it's uncertain whether the executive could issue a hiring freeze because of revised wording in the enabling ordinance that allows the budget to take effect.

Commissioners stripped the executive of the ability to freeze hiring by executive order alone, instead tying hiring freezes to prior commission approval. McNamara, however, could veto the ordinance along with the budget.

In Wayne County's always-complex budget process, McNamara has already vetoed four preliminary budgets. Commission leaders said only one prior budget was submitted with the resulting confusion due to overzealousness in completing the budget on time.

"Sometimes in our haste to do our jobs things happen," said commission Chairman Arthur Blackwell, D-Detroit, who took full responsibility for all "errors and omissions." "The commission is not perfect."

The commission trimmed $200,000 from its $5.59 million budget before sending the entire budget package to McNamara. That figure is still some $800,000 above that approved by McNamara. (Commissioners, however, claim the $632,374 approved for the county auditor general represents a separate budget and shouldn't be included in commission expenses.)

County to continue pre-natal program

Prenatal care for high risk mothers will continue at several Wayne County sites, despite closing of obstetric services at Outer Drive Hospital, Detroit.

Outer Drive, the prime source of medical care for county prenatal patients, is closing its service on Dec. 3.

Care for the roughly 1,000 county patients will continue at Annapolis, Garden City Osteopathic, Hutzel, Oakwood, St. Mary and Michigan Health Center. Annapolis is in Wayne, Garden City Osteopathic Hospital is in Garden City, Hutzel Hospital and Michigan Health Center are in Detroit, St.

Mary is in Livonia and Oakwood Hospital is in Dearborn.

"Many others expressed an interest but were unable to participate at this time," said Assistant Wayne County Executive Vernice Davis-Anthony. "We will continue to work toward a long-term plan that distributes clients to all OB hospitals and expands access to care for these clients."

The county health department will continue to provide maternal support services, including transportation assistance. Additional information is available by calling the department at 467-3352.

MADD seeks participants for 1990 candlelight vigil

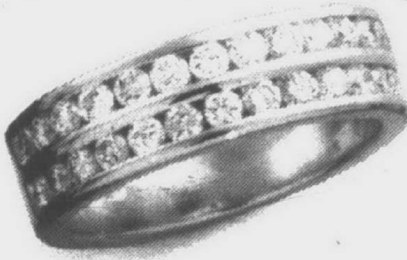

Mothers Against Drunk Driving, Wayne County Chapter, wants to contact area families who have lost loved ones in drunk driving accidents for their 1990 Candlelight Vigil, 7 p.m. Monday, Dec. 10 at Old Mariner's Church, Detroit.

At the ceremony, MADD members read the names of the deceased in an effort to encourage area residents against drinking and driving this holiday season.

Those who wish to have the name of their loved one read at the ceremony are asked to call MADD Wayne County offices, 422-6233 or send the information to 33521 Six Mile Road, Livonia 48152.

Charley's files for Chapter 11 reorganization

By Doug Funks
staff writer

Charley's Restaurant Group, headquartered in Farmington Hills, has filed for reorganization under Chapter 11 of the Federal Bankruptcy Code as part of a plan to reverse its sagging financial fortunes.

The privately-owned company operates Charley's Seafood Taverns in Bloomfield, Southfield, Livonia, Northville, Dearborn, Harper Woods and Toledo, plus Clamdivers in Farmington Hills and Meriwether's in Southfield.

According to published reports, the company reported assets of $5 million and liabilities of $8.5 million last week in filing for protection from creditors. A reorganization supervised by the court allows the chain to stay in business while working out a payment plan with creditors.

"Costs and cost controls got away from us, which wore away our direct operating profit," said Dick Sikoraki, president and chief executive officer for Charley's. "Moreover, we took money away from the restaurants to pay the bank debt too quickly."

The current ownership acquired the nine restaurants from the Muer Corp. about three years ago.

There will be no immediate layoffs of restaurant staff as a result of the reorganization, said Frank Fazio, vice president of marketing. "We already had got our labor in good position. We need to operate our business." The company employs about 900, he said.

"We need to put money in back into the business physically and from a marketing perspective," said Paul Yarmoluk, vice president and chief operating officer for Charley's. "It (bankruptcy filing) allows breathing room in one sense."

"WHAT HAPPENED over the years was a deterioration of the customer base," Yarmoluk said. "Basically, we had a collection of restaurants that was fragmented. They never acted as a whole. The restaurants were not quite keeping up with the times."

"The menu was dated, physical facilities began to deteriorate. It was getting more and more fragmented," he said.

Competition intensified. "As time has gone by in all of our locations, national chains have moved in... independents, mom-and-pops took a piece of the business," Yarmoluk said. "Everyone all over the country was fighting for business."

Charley's revised its menu Nov. 1 in an effort to attract a younger, family crowd while retaining its loyal following.

New appetizers include sweet potato fries, fried mushrooms and coconut fried shrimp. New Orleans meatloaf burger, grilled vegetarian melt and country fried chicken have been added to the sandwich ledger. All the pasta dishes have been reformulated.

"In the past, they (Charley's) had gone for the older guest," Fazio said. "We want to retain that guest. We want to go for the 25-plus with families. We have a new children's menu."

While it's too early to determine a trend, Fazio said, company officials are encouraged by interviews with customers and the timing of the changes.

Patient advocate bill passes

By Tim Richard
staff writer

Local senators gave strong support Thursday as a "patient advocate" bill cleared the Senate 29-2.

The measure, kicked around the Legislature for 16 years, goes back to the House for concurrence in one amendment.

If signed by Gov. James Blanchard, it would become law about April 1.

"We're pleased and relieved," said David Wiener, an aide to Rep. David Hollister, D-East Lansing, who met with the Observer & Eccentric editorial committee last week.

Until this year, House Bill 4016 had been dubbed a "right to die" measure. But supporters dislike that term.

THE PATIENT advocate bill says a person 18 or older may designate another adult to make decisions concerning care, custody and medical treatment if the person becomes incapacitated.

Supporting it were Sens. Jack Faxon, D-Farmington Hills, Richard Fessler, R-Commerce, Robert Geake, R-Northville, Rudy Nichols, R-Waterford, and George Hart, D-Deerborn.

Sens. Doug Cruce, R-Troy, and William Faust, D-Westland, had excused absences.

Right to Life, a group best known for opposing abortion, raised many objections over the years, particularly on the issues of treating pregnant women and withholding nutrition and water.

"We can say very clearly we are not opposed to it," said RTL president Barbara Listing.

Wiener said language in the bill is similar to the U.S. Supreme Court's decision this year in the Nancy Cruzan case. The high court held there had to be "clear and convincing evidence" in writing that Cruzan would have wanted to end medical treatment if she knew she might go into a vegetative coma. That case emanated from Missouri.

THE BILL was reported out of the Senate Human Resources Committee in mid-September. But committee chair Fred Dillingham, R-Fowlerville, held up the final floor vote to await good faith action by the House Judiciary Committee on a bill he wanted — outlawing assisted suicides.

"We held hearings on assisted suicides," said Wiener, "but we had opened up a can of worms. We said to Dillingham, 'We can't solve this in a month.' He said, 'Try.'"

Wiener said House staffers will work on the assisted suicide measure next session.

Dillingham fears Michigan will become the "suicide capital" of the nation because of the notoriety of a Royal Oak pathologist who linked a woman to a machine that allowed her to end her own life.

MEANWHILE, A related measure — called "living will" — is dead for this session.

House Bill 4174 was rejected earlier this year and sent back to the Judiciary Committee.

It would have allowed persons to designate the extent of medical treatment they wish to receive if they become incapacitated. Sponsor Perry Bullard, D-Ann Arbor, calls it the "medical self-determination" bill.

"We need living wills," Dr. John Finn of Hospice of Southeastern Michigan told the Observer & Eccentric editorial committee last week.

"It's very hard to die in peace in this state. There is an intense legal climate. Physicians have exaggerated concerns for liability. Physicians practice out of a sense of liability rather than what's ethical."

"We don't press for durable power of attorney," he said.

Senate kills tax sharing proposal

By Tim Richard
staff writer

Suburban power on a key state Senate committee has killed a plan to allow business property tax sharing among school districts.

The Senate Appropriations Committee last week split 5-5, thus failing to report the measure to the Senate floor.

"It's dead for this session," said an elated Sen. Jack Faxon, D-Farmington Hills. "It puts a little crimp in Dan DeGrow's sale. He couldn't get it out of committee."

DeGrow, R-Port Huron, was chief Senate advocate of having school districts with high commercial and industrial growth share it with residential, farm and no-growth districts.

VOTING AGAINST the bills were Faxon, Doug Cruce, R-Troy, Robert Geake, R-Northville, Lt. Gov.-elect Connie Binsefeld, R-Maple City, and Nick Smith, R-Hillsdale.

Binsefeld, though representing a northern district, spent 20 years as a

Voting yes were DeGrow, Harry Gast, R-St. Joseph, William Sederburg, R-East Lansing, Jackie Vaughn III, D-Detroit, and Lana Pollack, D-Ann Arbor.

Three members were absent: Phil Arthurs, R-Whitehall, David Holmes, D-Detroit, and Joe Conroy, D-Flint.

The Legislature is planning to wrap up this year's work Wednesday or Thursday. The Senate last week canceled all committee meetings except Appropriations.

cept Appropriations.

KILLED WERE House Bills 5885-6, sponsored by Rep. William Kerth, D-Garden City, and co-sponsored by members from Grand Rapids.

They were introduced at the request of the Kent County Intermediate School District and Grand Rapids Area Chamber of Commerce, whose business members wanted growth in commercial and industrial property to be shared among the school districts whose graduates they hired.

Auction help appreciated

To the editor:
We are writing on behalf of the Chamber Board of Directors, Members of the Auction Steering Committee and quite frankly our entire Plymouth Business Community.
We wish to extend to you a very sincere thank you for your most generous assistance and support of our recent Auction 1990.
So many people are responsible for the grand success we achieved. It was a pleasure watching a group become a team, pull together and make everything work.
Because of your generous assistance the Plymouth Community Chamber of Commerce is in better financial condition than we have been in a long time. Please accept a most sincere thank you.

City bag/tag called sneaky

To the editor:
Our taxes are supposed to cover rubbish removal. Why is this tag/bag nonsense being crammed down our throats? I am on the verge of being an old lady and don't see why I should have to suffer the inconvenience of running out to buy tags/bags.

Why should I have to pay extra to dispose of ads and other junk mail? Or the trash thrown on my lawn by other people? How many tags/bags will I need for the pick up of my old couch? Do I get a reduction in taxes because I use my garbage disposer instead of throwing out the garbage?

Why doesn't someone of authority get after the packaging people who in this era of rubbish removal mania still pack three screws or ten faucet washers on a 8 inch by 10 inch bubble pack card? Or the really elaborate packaging of toys? Or the grocery stores that pack so many items in a separate plastic bag?

I went to the recycle depot behind the police station one day and the loud rap music being played there gave me an Excedrin headache. If recycling is so important and provides such a prodigious amount of raw material for the commercial recycle company, why doesn't the city get paid for this valuable raw material and apply the proceeds to the rubbish removal program?

I would rather get my taxes raised again and get credit for a tax deduction than be subjected to this sneaky program.

Mack tricked the voters

To the editor:
Misrepresentation. No wonder there's voter apathy.
I was appalled and outraged when the news of Milton Mack's appointment for judgeship was made just four days after the election.
The voters and residents of Wayne County have been deceived. There was misrepresentation and dishonesty on Mr. Mack's part. Mr. Mack knew the judgeship was in the works. And now, there's talk of a special election which is going to cost Wayne County between $50,000 and $100,000 and Canton alone over $20,000.

It's a complete waste of the taxpayer's money to hold a special election. Our money should be used in areas where it is sorely needed. We are already being taxed to death. Thanks, Mr. Mack, for your concern for the citizens. The blame also lies with Mr. Blanchard and county government for their lack of integrity.

The newspapers bear the blame, too. They were aware of this appointment prior to the election but failed to print this information in the papers. It was their duty and responsibility to inform the voters before the election.

Mr. Gustafson ran a fair and untainted campaign, and it is he who should be appointed to the Wayne County commissioner's seat since he lost by a relatively small amount of votes — and let's stop this nonsense.

School story was biased

To the editor:
On Nov. 12 I attended a school board meeting in which the developmental approach to education was up for discussion. I was very happy to hear that other people feel the way I do — they are very happy with the approach that Plymouth/Canton schools are taking with educating our children.

Person after person stood up and extolled the virtues of the developmental system. One person said she and her husband would be happier with a blend of old and new. It was a very positive meeting.

On Nov. 15 I read an article in the Observer by M.B. Dillon. This article said that the board had "defended" its position. It implied that people felt that their children were, in fact, not being educated by the schools. It certainly did not report what had happened at the meeting that I attended.

On Nov. 16, I called Richard Egli to confirm if M.B. Dillon had in fact attended the school board meeting. She had not been there. Mr. Egli had spent time telling her the positive bend of the meeting.

Dillon has every right to an opinion. She also has every right to express this opinion. If she feels that there is a problem with our educational system, she should express that opinion — on the editorial page. If Dillon wishes to report events, then she has a responsibility to report them as they happen — not as she wishes they had happened.

Reporter responds

Here is some background on the developmental learning issue:

Parents upset about aspects of the developmental approach — which emphasizes hands-on, individualized learning — began raising their concerns at school board meetings several weeks ago. Other parents have praised the program, and Observer stories have reflected their viewpoints. In phone calls and letters to the editor, this newspaper has heard from numerous parents and teachers who oppose the developmental approach.

It wasn't possible for the Observer to be present Nov. 12 to hear all the parents you mention. For that reason, our story did not attempt to reiterate everything said by every parent that night.

Rather, the article reported both sides of the issue as presented by concerned parents, teachers and administrators. Executive director of elementary education Shirley Spaniel was interviewed at length, and told the Observer much the same thing she told parents the evening before. Spaniel addressed each of the concerns raised by parents and teachers who are critical of developmental learning. She also described positive aspects of the program.

In another interview with a source who has closely followed the issue, the Observer was told that only people in favor of the program were invited to speak at the meeting, which is why the session resembled a "love-in."

As for your contention that this reporter feels there is a problem with the educational system and that I reported on events as I wish they had happened, it's off the mark.

I've heard excellent points raised by both the opponents and proponents of developmental learning. If and when the Observer editorializes on the issue, we will examine the pros and cons and formulate an opinion.

The Observer doesn't "wish events to happen," nor does it have any stake in things turning out in a particular way.

We concern ourselves with reporting the news and all sides of issues so that readers can formulate their positions based on as much information as we can gather.

— M.B. Dillon

Thanksgiving event was appreciated

To the editor:
Congratulations to our downtown merchants. The Thanksgiving activities added a special experience for our family. The Thanksgiving dinner table was very well executed. The addition of the Indian dances and their presence in the community and the friendliness of the pilgrims on the street was great fun.

The stores with craft demonstrations and refreshments generated the warm spirit of the season. Thank you all.

I hope you will continue this festival another year. A wonderful idea. Thank you Fred Hill.

And to top it off we saw the loveliest rainbow I have ever seen.

Substance in judicial races 'unworkable'

To the editor:
As co-chair of the Oakland County Bar Association Public Advisory Committee on Judicial Candidates, which evaluates judicial candidates and their advertising, Tim Richards' Nov. 22, 1990, article concluding that Mr. Durant's Supreme Court campaign advertising gave that race needed "substance," was of interest. However, his well-intentioned plea for "substance" in judicial campaigns is unworkable in practice, as can be seen from the campaign advertising his article discusses.

First of all, "substance" as defined in Webster's Ninth Collegiate Dictionary (1989) is the "ultimate reality that underlies all outward manifestations." Since, as Mr. Richards concedes, Durant's ad left the "unfortunate impression" that the criminal defendant in the Cavanagh opinion Durant criticized "got off completely," when actually he was sentenced to 50 to 100 years, its "outward manifestations" were contrary to "ultimate reality." In short, the Durant ad lacked "substance," as that word is commonly understood. This is not to say Durant's sentencing philosophy lacks merit, but that his advertising obscured the "substance" of the argument.

Second, and more importantly, Durant's ad also created the "unfortunate impression" that a particular result could be expected in such a case if he were elected to decide it. A judicial candidate is forbidden to suggest this, as Michigan's Code of Judicial Conduct makes it clear:

"A candidate . . . for a judicial office should not make pledges or promises of conduct in office other than the faithful and impartial performance of the duties of the office . . ." (Canon 7B, 1 C)

A movie mogul once said about "message movies": "If you want to send a message, go to Western Union." In our political system, if you want to send a message, go to the Legislature. It is there, rather than the courts, that the "substance" of policy is enacted into law. Judges cannot impose "substance" contrary to that law in cases they decide. Otherwise, judges could ignore the will of the people revealed in statutes and constitutions and arbitrarily make their own law.

Therefore, if Mr. Durant had messages of "substance" in his Supreme Court campaign advertising, he used the wrong forum. If he did not, he used the wrong arguments. In either event, the injection of substantive policy arguments into judicial selection generally has been long rejected for both theoretical and practical reasons. This is not because of the merits or demerits of the substantive views advanced, but because it hurts the judge's ability to properly carry out judicial duties after election.

The above views are personal, not those of the Committee nor the Bar Association, nor the advocacy of any candidate's position.

Greed keeps stores open on holidays

To the editor:
You hear in the news about the breakdown of the family unit and how bad this is for our society. I walked into Kmart the other day and saw a sign that read "Open Thanksgiving Day" and I became livid.

Big business is taking away another one of our holidays. Just a few years ago all shopping centers were closed on New Year's day; now they are all open. Our family members must work on these days in order that the presidents of these stores and their stockholders can make the big buck.

How much longer until the stores and malls are open Christmas Day? It's not necessary for these stores to be open except greed.

A person said to me in defense of the stores, that if people did not go into them, they would be forced to be closed. However, the stores entice people with big sales and mark downs.

We must stop this stupidity in order to ensure that we may spend one or two days a year with our entire family.

Pressure cooking fast fun

O.K., I'll admit it. I'm a gadget freak.

Sitting down in the fruit cellar is a melange of crazy-culinary gadgets that do everything from infusing to freezing. Remember the hamburger makers of the late '70s? I've got two. Doughnut makers? I can make more varieties than Dunkin' Donuts. I have spiral cutters that can turn a cucumber into a two-foot Slinky.

In addition to crockpots, I've got clay cookers specially designed for roasts and for fish. There are Belgian waffle makers, rectangular waffle makers, round waffle makers, even a waffle maker for making waffle-type cones.

After receiving an advance copy of "The Joys of Pressure Cooking," Toula Patsalis' newest cookbook, I even went out and purchased a newfangled pressure cooker after failing to locate a rubber ring for Momma's old Presto pressure cooker. But rest assured that this is one gadget that won't find itself relegated to the bowels of the fruit cellar.

COOKBOOKS CROSS my desk faster than a Cuisinart shredding cheese, but never before has paging through a cookbook prompted me to go out and immediately purchase a new gadget. Last week for dinner, the Janes Gang scoffed down baked potatoes, made in eight minutes; Momma's barbecue beef that normally takes four hours to cook, made in less than an hour; a fabulous French onion soup with homemade beef stock, made in 90 minutes; and hummus, made with dried chick peas in 15 minutes. All these were done in my new T-Fal safety Pressure Cooker.

If you remember pressure cookers from yesteryear, there's a good chance that with them comes a story or two detailing either an explosion, a second-degree steam burn or a tale of how dinner was thrown out because a lid could not be removed, as a vacuum had formed inside the pot. Newer model pressure cookers have risen to new heights, almost threatening to show that food can be prepared with more intense flavors, up to 70 percent faster with more nutrients.

Toula Patsalis, cooking school director for the Kitchen Glamour stores, could be what one would call a pressure cooker addict. Her book is chock-full of great recipes and how-to tips for using this redesigned culinary miracle. In addition to recipes like bouillabaisse and Chicken Normandy, the book also reigns superior for the more intrepid cook, with recipes for cooking basic rice, stocks, chill, classic chicken stew with dumplings and even sloppy joes, all using the pressure cooker.

But what would prompt a woman of Toula Patsalis' character, one who is surrounded with French knives, stockpots, pastry bags and copper zabaglione pans, to author a book about a lowly old grandma-used device? Patsalis headlines the cooking school, which frequently features the likes of Jacques Pepin and Guiliano Bugialli, not to mention a force of other local culinary professionals. She manages three stores with husband, Chris, son Harry and daughter Julie.

This Renaissance woman was looking for nutritious and flavorful meals to place on the family dinner table, after a 12-hour day at the shop, with minimal effort and time consumption. Voila! Along comes a pressure cooker, and seeing the need for a good book to help novices like me, she finds the time to put it all together in 250 pages heralding "The Joys of Pressure Cooking."

Never before has this writer been excited about something so old. If you are into pressure cooking, or want to experiment with the pressure cooker, this is one book the family will thank you for. You will want to eat the pages.

Keep cozy with Yule Log

JIM JAGDFELD/staff photographer

Buche de Noel, which translates into Yule Log, is a traditional French dessert for the holidays. The Germans have a similar dessert known as Baumstamm, their word meaning log.

Family always uses recipe from Austria

By Larry Janes special writer

HOLIDAYS in the Janes Gang home just wouldn't be complete without the traditional log cake, otherwise known as a Busche de Noel or Baumstamm Cake. As familiar on the table as the sliced contents of an Ocean Spray cranberry sauce can, this luscious creation has always been the centerpiece of our dessert table. But the cake's heritage goes far beyond its calorie-laden nutmeat batter and artery-hardening frosting.

To call this dessert a simple cake would be like calling a Maserati a car. Steeped in European folklore, the creation of this cake brings with it many tales.

The term "Buche de Noel" is French. "Buche" translates into "log" while the "Noel" denotes "Christmas." It didn't take long for this holiday tradition to go beyond territorial borders, because research indicates the Germans have a similar cake dubbed "Baumstamm," also meaning "log."

Actual recipes are similar, but folklore has it that the cake was invented when holiday revelers, traveling from home to home, would carry a log that was presented to each homeowner. The log, signifying the friendship between the visitors, was promptly thrown on the fireplace, to bring forth warm wishes for a happy holiday.

THE TRAVELERS undoubtedly tired of carrying around all those heavy logs, and the cake was created as a delicious substitute. Tradition declares the cake must be rolled in the shape of a log, complete with frosting resembling the bark. Some purists go so far as include erstatz "knots," shaped from the frosting, coupled with edible candy mushrooms made from a merengue piping. The sliced, log cake filled with chocolate resembled the rings so often seen when cutting logs.

Depending on whose cookbook or culinary magazine you choose for a recipe, the cake itself is made with an egg-enriched chocolate batter spread thinly in a jelly-roll-type cake pan and baked to just the right moment so that once cooled, a filling of chocolate, butter and more eggs could be spread upon it. Then, tightly rolled to resemble a log, it was covered with the same rich chocolate frosting.

The Buche de Noel shown in the photograph accompanying this story was made from an old Austrian recipe provided by my oldest sister, Rose. Her recipe was brought directly from Austria from her immigrant in-laws. It was originally made using an authentic balance-beam-type scale to measure the ingredients and had to be transformed from metric to standard American equivalencies.

Sure, there are other recipes that call for box-mix chocolate batter and, if need be, you could even cheat a little by using a Betty Crocker chocolate frosting, but to quote my sister directly, "The cake and filling itself is rather simplistic, and when the recipe calls for unsalted butter and not packed but loosely measured nuts, for optimum results, don't cheat."

Personally speaking, I made the recipe and found it fairly easy, with the majority of time spent on the actual rolling and frosting. Once presented on a platter or cake plate, the creation can be bedecked with festive holiday paraphernalia such as Pointsettia leaves or holiday greenery.

If the festive season finds you visiting friends and relatives, or if you're looking for a scrumptious holiday centerpiece that will be fondly remembered by all, this holiday cake can be just what Santa ordered.

2 versions of classic

BUCHE DE NOEL OR BAUMSTAMM CAKE

Batter:
9 large eggs
1 cup plus 2 tablespoons granulated sugar
2 cups fresh ground nutmeats (walnuts or hazelnuts are best; loosely measured but not packed)
½ cup sifted flour

Separate eggs in two large bowls. Combine egg yolks with the sugar and beat on high speed of an electric mixer for 10 minutes, scraping bowl often. Add flour, a little at a time and continue beating for 5 minutes. In another bowl, using impeccably clean beaters, beat egg whites until they peak. Alternate the addition of the beaten whites and nuts into the yellow batter, folding mixture in very carefully and slowly as not to reduce volume.

Spread batter onto an unsalted buttered 11-by-15-inch jelly roll pan and level out batter as best you can. Bake in a preheated 325-degree oven until done. After 15 minutes, test for doneness with toothpick inserted in the center. If not completely cooked, check cake at 5-minute intervals. Remove from the oven and cool on wire rack for 5 minutes. Then gently remove and allow to cool completely on a flat surface while preparing the filling and frosting.

Filling and Frosting:
4 large eggs
1 ½ cups granulated sugar
1 teaspoon vanilla
4 squares unsweetened baking chocolate
½ pound unsalted butter, room temperature

Combine eggs, sugar and vanilla in a double boiler, stirring constantly over medium heat. When mixture is hot, add chocolate (it will melt as you continue stirring) and continue cooking and stirring until thick, about 20 minutes. Allow to cool and then beat in room-temperature, softened, unsalted butter, scraping pan often. If mixture is too thin to spread, refrigerate for 30 minutes or until it gets more firm.

Apply frosting to the entire surface of the cake, about ¼-inch thick. Roll up a long side, as you would a jelly roll. Place cake carefully on serving dish and frost the entire cake including ends and sides. With a fork, make bark designs resembling that of a log. Place cake in refrigerator and keep there until ready to serve. For best results when slicing, slice with a very sharp, thin knife that has been dipped in cold water, with excess water shaken off.

Holiday shopping, party planning and all the other extraneous holiday jobs got you calling "help"? If you think you don't have the time or effort to make the Buche De Noel in its regular state, how about trying this speedy version? Guaranteed to garner the same raving reviews as the complex recipe looks-wise, at least with minimal effort. Of course, set them side by side, and the regular recipe will win hands down.

SPEEDY BUCHE DE NOEL

1 box Betty Crocker Super Moist Devil's Food Cake Mix
1 ½ cups milk
¼ cup vegetable oil
3 eggs
1 cup finely chopped nutmeats (walnuts or hazelnuts)
2 containers Betty Crocker double chocolate frosting

Combine mix with milk, oil and eggs. Blend on low speed for 30 seconds. Then beat on medium speed for 2 minutes. Stir in nutmeats. Pour a little more than half the batter into a greased 15-by-10-inch jelly roll pan and tap lightly to spread. Then bake at 350 degrees for 20-25 minutes or until a

After 118 years, they're still baking bread

By Arlene Funke special writer

It was 1872 when German immigrant Anton Burghardt began selling his crusty sourdough rye bread in Detroit.

Down through the generations, family members carried on the baking tradition. They carefully guarded the recipe's "secret formula," which Anton Burghardt brought from Germany where he had been a baker's apprentice.

Today, Burghardt's Bakery is still going strong, with a plant and retail bakery in Livonia. Bob Burghardt, great-grandson of the founder, runs the 118-year-old family business.

"I started working at the bakery when I came back from Vietnam," said Burghardt, 47, of Northville. "I'm the fourth generation."

"Everything happened so fast," he recalled. "My dad had a heart attack. I was the only one available to keep the business going. After I got into it, I felt the tradition was still there."

BURGHARDT'S STOCK-in-trade is the sourdough rye, a hearty bread with no preservatives, oil, fats or sugar. The recipe has been known only to a handful of family members throughout the years. The company has prospered by catering to the tastes of people who relish hearty rye breads and Old World pumpernickels. Among the most loyal customers are people from German, Slovak and Polish backgrounds, Burghardt said.

Burghardt's stock-in-trade is the sourdough rye, a hearty bread with no preservatives, oil, fats or sugar.

"It's a hard-crust bread," he said. "It's different from ordinary bread. People who lived in Germany say this is the closest they can find here."

Burghardt learned to bake bread from his father, Robert. The elder Burghardt and a brother, Joseph, operated the bakery for many years. Both now are deceased. In 1978 Bob Burghardt moved the business in Livonia.

The sourdough rye, which lasts for several days if refrigerated, is versatile. Smear on butter and savor the slightly sour, chewy taste. Peanut butter is a simple, tasty accompaniment.

Or go all out with a stack of sliced ham, topped with sweet onion and slathered with hot mustard.

Around 4,000 loaves are baked each week. Most are sold through major supermarkets and independent groceries in areas with a large demand for European-style breads.

Burghardt also targets his market by advertising in the Detroit Abend Post, a German-language newspaper.

THE SOURDOUGH RYE is sold unsliced. It is wrapped in plastic and packed in a brown paper bag. The price ranges from around $1.50 for a one-pound loaf to around $2.50 for a two-pounder.

Burghardt's Livonia shop also sells a variety of other breads, including pumpernickel, French, white, wheat and cinnamon raisin.

During the holiday season Burghardt sells traditional German cookies called springerle and pfefferneuse. Both are flavored with anise, which has a subtle licorice overtone.

Both cookies are baked by outside vendors and available only at the Seven Mile Road shop.

"A little old man makes the springerle," Burghardt said. "The pfefferneuse cookies are made in Canada."

The pfefferneuse has a soft, fresh texture and a delicate anise flavor.

It is covered with fluffy powdered sugar. The springerle is stamped with quaint, old-fashioned designs. Both sell for $3.99 per pound, which yields 24 to 30 cookies.

Burghardt also sells stollen, a yeast-based Christmas coffee cake studded with candied fruits. This, too, is baked elsewhere.

Burghardt's Bakery is at 33309 Seven Mile Road, just east of Farmington Road. Hours are 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Tuesday-Friday and 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. Saturday. Closed Sunday and Monday. Phone 477-7153.

Pressure cooking fast, lots of fun

BABA GHANOUSHI (Middle Eastern Eggplant Dip)

- 1 large (1 1/2 pounds) eggplant
- 1 cup water
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 1/2 teaspoon pepper
- 1/2 cup lemon juice
- 1/2 cup tahini (sesame seed paste)
- 2 cloves garlic
- 2 slices bread, crusts removed and crumbled

Lay eggplant on its side. Cut a 2-inch slice from the top of the eggplant horizontally. Using a grapefruit knife or large tablespoon, remove pulp from the eggplant, leaving a 1-inch-thick shell. Place the pulp in the steam basket of a pressure cooker. Pour water in cooker and insert steam unit. Sprinkle eggplant pulp with salt and pepper. Secure lid. Over high heat, develop steam to high pressure. Reduce range heat to medium and cook 3 minutes. Release steam according to manufacturer's directions. Remove lid. Lift steam basket from cooker and drain excess water. Place eggplant pulp in food processor or blender container. Add remaining ingredients except shell and process until smooth. Spoon mixture into eggplant shell. Serve with pieces of pita or toast points. Dip does not freeze well.

Recipe from "Joys of Pressure Cooking" by Toula Patsalis, copyright 1990, Kitchen Glamour Inc., $16.95.

MOMMA'S BARBECUED BEEF (Sorry, Toula, maybe in the next printing you will want to include this recipe, adapted from Momma's collection but just perfect for the pressure cooker.)

- 2 tablespoons oil
- 1 clove garlic, finely minced
- 1 1/2 pounds stewing beef, cubed
- 2 large onions, chopped
- 1 large can (28 ounce) tomato sauce
- 1/2 cup Worcestershire
- 1/2 cup wine vinegar
- 1 cup sugar
- 1 teaspoon fresh ground black pepper
- Pinch salt

Heat oil in bottom of pressure cooker. Add garlic and stewing beef. Brown stewing beef over medium-high heat. Add remaining ingredients. Stir. Secure the lid and develop steam to high pressure. Reduce range heat to medium high and cook for 45 minutes. Release steam according to manufacturer's directions. Remove lid. With a fork, break up pieces of stewing beef. Stir and enjoy.

- ### SCALLOPED POTATOES
- 1 cup canned or fresh chicken broth
 - 6 medium potatoes, peeled and cut into 1/4-inch slices
 - 1/2 teaspoon salt
 - 1/2 teaspoon white pepper
 - 1 tablespoon chopped chives
 - 1/2 cup sour cream
 - 1/2 cup milk
 - 1/4 cup potato flour or starch
 - Dash paprika

Pour broth into pressure cooker. Add potatoes, salt, white pepper and chives. Secure lid. Over high heat, develop steam to high pressure. Reduce range heat to medium and cook for 5 minutes. Release steam according to manufacturer's directions. Remove the lid. Using a slotted spoon, transfer the potatoes to an au gratin platter or heatproof casserole. Pour sour cream, milk and flour into cooking liquid in cooker. Cook, whisking to blend, over high heat for 1 minute. Pour over potatoes and use 2 forks to gently mix. Sprinkle with paprika and brown under a broiler till golden.

FROM PRESTO
A line of new pressure cookers has been introduced by Presto. The models feature a handy guide printed on the handle listing cooking times for many popular foods. The cover locking system allows pressure to build only when the cover is closed properly, prevents the cover from being opened until pressure is safely reduced and shows at a glance when there is pressure within the unit. The pressure regulator maintains proper cooking pressure automatically.

Its two-stage system sharpens and hones kitchen knives, sporting knives and almost any non-serrated knives.

Another of the company's new products is the Presto EverSharp electric knife sharpener. Its two-stage system sharpens and hones kitchen knives, sporting knives and almost any non-serrated knives — carbon, alloy or stainless steel. Three suction feet on the bottom secure the unit to the countertop for a one-hand operation.

All that sparkles is not champagne

All champagne is sparkling wine, but not all sparkling wine is champagne.

French wines are frequently given a place name such as Bordeaux, Burgundy or Champagne. The French jealously guard these place names for their wines. And rightly so.

A wine made in New York State or California would not be called a Michigan wine. Sparkling wines made in these states should not be called champagne.

It is possible, however, to make a sparkling wine anywhere in the world by the methode champenoise, the same method used in the Champagne district. The words methode champenoise are important words to look for on the label.

In the methode champenoise, both white and black grapes are harvested and pressed immediately to give a white juice that is fermented to a still dry wine. Many producers reserve a portion of still wine for extended aging.

These still base wines are then skillfully blended to produce the cuvee (blend), which undergoes a second fermentation in the bottle to produce a sparkling wine. A tradition of blending with reserve wines improves the young wines, ensures consistency and provides greater fragrance, elegance and balance.

FERMENTATION IN the bottle traps carbon dioxide gas. It dissolves in the wine to produce a naturally sparkling beverage. A lengthy second fermentation in the bottle produces a smoother wine with smaller bubbles.

Blending is the key to achieving a balanced, complex champagne or sparkling wine. If only one wine was used, the result would be one-dimensional and uninteresting.

The classic champagne grape varieties are chardonnay (white skinned, light, delicate), pinot noir (black-skinned, full-bodied, robust) and pinot meunier (black-skinned, fruity, early maturing).

The style of champagne is controlled, to a large degree, by the composition of the cuvee in the wine. Even when a single grape variety is used, as in a Blanc de Blancs made only from chardonnay, it is desirable for the grapes to be sourced from multiple sites.

Each of the base wines that become part of a champagne blend makes a small contribution to the overall taste and complexity of the

WINE SELECTION OF THE WEEK

After a long absence in this market, the House of Billecart-Salmon champagnes are again available. The Billecart-Salmon Brut ($25) is a blend of 41 percent pinot meunier, 34 percent pinot noir and 25 percent chardonnay. Its toasty, creamy entry is complemented by a well-balanced finish. The emphasis on pinot meunier offers a uniquely styled pour.

A LIGHT, DRY Blanc de Blancs is the ideal aperitif. Its lean, crisp character refreshes the palate and piques the appetite.

Emphasis on black-skinned grapes in the cuvee makes a champagne near the full-bodied end of the champagne taste spectrum. The traditional proportions are two-thirds black grapes and one-third white.

A full-bodied champagne made with a high percent of pinot noir, such as a Blanc de Noir or Rose, is a wine that can be enjoyed throughout the meal.

"Chardonnay provides elegance while pinot noir gives body — analogous to skin and flesh," said Christian Pol Roger, the renowned producer from Epervay in the Champagne district.

wine. This is why champagne producers claim that the whole is greater than the sum of its parts.

Medium-grain rice is good for risotto

AP — The USA Rice Council says risotto can be used as an entree or side dish. Medium grain rice will result in a texture most like imported Arborio rice, the council says.

QUICK RISOTTO

- 1 1/2 cups chicken broth
- 1 cup uncooked rice
- Vegetable cooking spray
- 1/2 cup thinly sliced carrots
- 1/2 cup thinly sliced yellow squash
- 1/2 cup thinly sliced zucchini
- 1/4 cup wine
- 1/2 cup chicken broth

- 1/4 cup grated Parmesan cheese
 - 1/4 teaspoon ground white pepper
- Combine 1 1/2 cups broth and rice in a 3-quart saucepan. Bring to a boil; stir once or twice. Lower heat to simmer. Cover and cook for 15 minutes. Coat a large skillet with cooking spray; place over medium-high heat until hot. Cook vegetables for 2 or 3 minutes, or until tender crisp. Add wine and continue to cook for 2 minutes. Set aside and keep warm. Add remaining 1/2 cup broth to hot rice, stir until broth is absorbed over medium-high heat. Stir in cheese, reserved vegetables and pepper. Serve immediately. Makes 6 servings.

Drink has both honey and apple

AP — Here's a honey of a hot beverage for a cold-weather get-together. Kids love the spicy, not-too-sweet taste. For a group of adults, add rum, if you wish.

If you like the flavor of honey-sweetened foods, look for the honey bear symbol on any honey-sweetened food, indicating that real honey was used in making the product.

HONEY-APPLE GROG

- 4 cups apple cider or apple juice
- 1/2 cup orange juice
- 1/4 cup honey
- 2 tablespoons margarine or butter
- One 2-inch stick cinnamon
- 1 teaspoon finely shredded orange peel
- 1/4 teaspoon ground nutmeg
- 1/2 to 3/4 cup light rum (optional)

In a large saucepan bring all ingredients except rum to boiling; reduce heat. Simmer, uncovered, for 5 minutes. If desired, stir in rum just before serving. Makes 9 to 10 servings.

Bake Springerle, Pfefferneusse cookies this season

See related story on Burghard's Bakery on Page 1B.

2 eggs
1 cup sugar
2 1/4 cups all-purpose flour
Anise seed

Beat eggs and sugar about 5 minutes or until thick and lemon colored. Mix in flour. If dough is dry stir 3 tablespoons milk, 1 tablespoon at a time, into mixture. Cover and chill at least 2 hours. Roll dough 1/4-inch thick on lightly floured cloth-covered board. Press well-floured springerle form over dough to emboss designs. Cut out cookies and place on lightly floured board sprinkled with anise seed; let dry at least 10 hours. Heat oven to 325 degrees. Place cookies 1/2 inch apart on ungreased baking sheet. Bake 12 to 15 minutes or until light brown. Immediately remove from baking sheet. Makes about 8 dozen cookies.

PFEFFERNEUSSE

Sift together:
2 cups plus 2 tablespoons sifted all-purpose flour
1/2 teaspoon double-acting baking powder
1/2 teaspoon baking soda
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon freshly ground black pepper

Add:
1/2 teaspoon each nutmeg and ground cloves
1 teaspoon cinnamon
1/2 teaspoon anise seeds or 1 teaspoon crushed cardamom seeds

Cream together:
1/2 cup butter or shortening
1/2 cup sugar

Add and beat well until light:

Add:
1/2 cup finely chopped almonds
1 tablespoon finely chopped citron
1/2 cup finely chopped candied orange peel

Add the flour mixture to the above ingredients in thirds, alternately with:
1/2 cup molasses

1 tablespoon corn syrup
1/2 cup brandy
1 teaspoon grated lemon rind
1 tablespoon lemon juice

Beat well, then set aside overnight. Preheat oven to 350 degrees. Shape into 1-inch balls and bake on a greased cookie sheet 10 to 15 minutes.

Roll while warm in confectioner's sugar. Makes 180 1-inch balls.

"When you're as active as we are, you need a health plan that helps you stay that way."

"Our family likes to keep busy. We go camping, skiing, canoeing, swimming... you name it and we probably do it. We also do all we can to stay healthy. After all, nothing can spoil a weekend more than if one of us gets sick.

"So when it came to choosing a health benefits plan, we picked one that would fit our lifestyle. One that realizes the importance of staying well, not just getting better once you're sick. We chose Care Choices HMO.

"With Care Choices, our family is covered for many kinds of preventive care, like lab tests, immunizations, x-rays and doctor visits. Everything's so convenient, with a minimum of paperwork.

"Of course, we wouldn't belong to Care Choices if we couldn't get our care from some of the best doctors and hospitals around. And comprehensive coverage for hospitalization and emergency care worldwide are important features, too. But Care Choices even goes beyond that, offering members discounts on various health-related classes and programs. Now, that's a health plan!"

Gulledge of Canton; daughter, Nancy A. Hurley of Canton; three grandchildren; and three sisters, Marguerite Krebs of Gulfport, Miss., Ruth Hulan of Biloxi, Miss. and Maxine West of Biloxi, Miss.

Reverend Alexander A. Kuras officiated the service. Arrangements were made by Lambert-Vermeulen Trust 100 Funeral Home.

JOHN J. MATESTIC SR.

Services for John J. Matestic Sr., 79, of Canton Township were Thursday, Nov. 29, at St. Thomas a Becket Catholic Church, with burial in Holy Sepulchre Cemetery, Southfield.

Mr. Matestic was born April 1, 1911, in Dupont, Pa. He died Tuesday, Nov. 27, in Annapolis Hospital, Wayne. He retired from Chrysler Corp. as an automotive foreman.

Mr. Matestic is survived by son, John J. Matestic Jr. of Detroit; one daughter, Vivian A. Cook of Canton; four grandchildren; one brother, Tony Matestic of Beaverton; one sister and Agnes Mack of Redford.

The Rev. Ernest M. Poccari officiated at the service. Arrangements were made by Vermeulen Memorial Trust 100 Funeral Home.

LAURENCE NAGY

Services for Laurence Nagy, 84, of Superior Township were Saturday, Dec. 1, at Lambert-Vermeulen Trust 100 Funeral Home, with burial in Woodmere Cemetery, Detroit.

Mr. Nagy was born July 2, 1906 in Austria, Hungary. He died Wednesday, Nov. 28, in St. Joseph Mercy Hospital. He was a retired tool and die maker for General Motors.

Mr. Nagy is survived by one son, Dr. Laurence W. Nagy of Plymouth; six grandchildren; two great-grandchildren; two brothers, William Nagy of Newaygo and Frank Nagy of Stanwood and one sister, Anna Anderson of Canton.

The Rev. Otis T. Buchan, of Fairlane West Assembly of God in Northville, officiated the service.

RETIREMENT COMMUNITY OPTIONS CONFERENCE

Never before held in the state of Michigan, the nationally popular preretirement/retirement living conference will be presented by the author of RETIREMENT LIVING ALTERNATIVES USA: THE INSIDE STORY, H. Wilson Worley. Mr. Worley's book (a $9.95 value) will be presented without charge to each household along with other copyrighted material.

Thousands have highly acclaimed this conference for its dissemination of information not available from any other source. During the two-hour session, participants will review full-service preretirement and retirement living concepts through a color slide series of communities from the east to the west coast.

In addition, a new and different concept in active retirement/preretirement living being considered for Farmington Hills will be discussed to determine its potential for active adults desiring a full menu of services from home and yard maintenance to security and health/fitness programs. The concept offers options not found in lifecare, entrance fee, expensive rental packages, or resort communities. Each participant will be asked to complete a simple written survey to provide direction for the development and the public's acceptance of this community.

The conference is free of charge. However, seating is limited and will be by reservation only.

Please call Nancy Fees (313) 442-9860, Monday through Friday from 8:30 a.m. to 5:00 p.m. or write for reservations for you and your friends to RETIREMENT CONFERENCE, 30405 Folsom Road, Farmington Hills, MI 48336 for one of the times and locations below:

King crowns Salem with 60-38 defeat

A reporter asked Plymouth Salem basketball coach Fred Thomann to pinpoint the source of his team's trouble Friday night in a Class A girls semifinal game.

Thomann didn't have to ponder the question.

"Too much Markita," he said after watching Markita Robinson — the winner of this year's Miss Basketball award — lead Detroit Martin Luther King to a 60-38 victory at Battle Creek Central High School.

The 5-foot-10 senior scored 17 points and, perhaps more importantly, had 10 assists. Her pin-point passing was just as damaging, especially in the first half when the Crusaders (21-2) took control of the game.

Six-foot-2 center Gemetrice White was on the receiving end of Robinson's sharp passes to the post, scoring 18 of her game-high 21 points before halftime.

"(ROBINSON) DID a great job splitting our defense and delivering the basketball at the basket for scores," Thomann said, "and their inside players did a great job catching and scoring."

"I think that's the best part of her game. Her ability to deliver the basketball off the move is the best I've seen in a long time in this state."

King's pressure defense was as much responsible for the one-sided outcome.

Trailing 13-10 in the first quarter, the Crusaders began to apply back-court pressure and threw Salem out of sync. The Rocks (23-4) had trouble getting the ball past half court and made 11 first-half turnovers after King turned up the heat.

The Crusaders began playing just a half-court game, falling back to their regular zone defense. That was to Salem's liking as the Rocks showed an early flare and took a 13-10 lead behind the scoring of Yolanda Jackson, who led Salem with 13 points.

"That was the tempo and style we wanted to play at," Thomann said. "They entice you to play a little faster than you want and suddenly they come with the pressure."

ONCE THE Crusaders did, they scored the last eight points of the first quarter and the first 10 of the second for an 18-0 run that put King on top 28-13.

"He did the same against Regina and Murray-Wright," said Thomann of King coach William Winfield. "He kind of lulls you in. There's no pressure, no pressure, and all of a sudden there's pressure — and we got caught."

Winfield said he didn't use the press from the outset, because he had seen Salem use a good sideline play in those situations last summer and wanted to test the waters first.

BILL BRESLER/staff photographer

"I decided to back off a little bit," he said. "If you've got a quick whistle, you have to back off, so we had to take the officials first anyway."

King got some transition baskets because of its press, but the Crusaders also were sound in the half-court game once they got rolling.

White was a force in the first half, and Robinson hit an assortment of shots for 10 first-half points. Tiffany Mitchell and Tamika Rhodes, a pair of post players, added eight and seven points, as well as rebounding strength.

"OFFENSIVELY, we took what they gave us," Winfield said. "I knew we could pack it inside. We wanted to take every shot in the paint."

"If we move the ball enough, somebody is going to get relaxed out there. The defense is going to break down and that's what happened."

The Crusaders were patient running their half-court offense, reversing the ball well and trying to pull Salem out of its zone. But abandoning the zone could have made the situation worse, according to Thomann.

"I didn't want to extend our defense any more, or it would be a 40-point game," he said. "I wanted to give our kids as much chance to be successful by compacting the defense. We had to hope they missed and we got the rebound."

King didn't miss many shots, however. Once they got the ball inside, the Crusaders were too strong to be stopped. They made 10 of 14 shots during their first-half run and 24 of 47 overall for 51 percent.

"We got hurt big time on the boards," Thomann said. "They've got nice sized players. They put the body on you, seal you and don't give you much room to operate."

At the other end, King's quickness and size made it difficult for Salem to make the good passes that had been a hallmark of its tournament run.

"THE PLAYS WE were able to make against lesser teams we couldn't finish, because they're quicker and more athletic than those teams," Thomann said.

Salem got within 30-20 just before the intermission. But King expanded a 33-20 halftime lead by converting turnovers at the start of the third period, and the Crusaders led 49-31 at the end.

Betsy McAllister and Sarah Ruete, the only seniors on the Salem team, added nine and six points, respectively. Christy Parmucha also scored six.

"I'm extremely proud of the team, considering how young it is," Ruete said, adding the Rocks had a senior team in 1987 when they lost to Detroit Cass Tech in the semifinals.

"We started two seniors, two juniors and one sophomore and made it this far to play against an extremely good basketball team, and I thought we played with extreme emotion and heart."

Cage challenge Much expected of talented Rocks

By Dan O'Meara
staff writer

Plymouth Salem had the most successful boys basketball team in Observerland last year, being the area's first public school in 15 years to win a Class A regional championship.

The Rocks finished that banner season with a 23-3 record and a No. 8 ranking, losing to Battle Creek Central in the quarterfinals.

And many believe Salem has the talent to equal last season and possibly get that far in the state tournament again.

"That's one of the team goals," Salem coach Bob Brodie said. "We've been there and know what it's like, so the players are hungry to get there again. It's a possibility, but it surely won't be an easy possibility."

Brodie warns last year is last year, but the consensus is the Rocks, with six lettermen returning and plenty of height, should be the foremost power in the area this season.

"WE HAVE TO do quite a bit to surpass last season," Brodie said, "but we've got some people coming back who are going to make us strong."

"I feel this team has the ability to be every bit as good as last year. The neat thing is it's a challenge, and we're ready to accept the challenge."

Salem returns two starters: seniors Jake Baker (8-5, 205) and K.C. Kirkpatrick (6-6, 180). Baker is rated the top player in Observerland and signed early with Central Michigan, and Kirkpatrick is among the area's top 10.

"I don't have to worry about personal stuff as much since I'm already going to Central," Baker said, "but it would be nice to go as far as we did last year if not further."

"Last year our team goal was to get 15 wins and win the district. We have the confidence to do it this year. It's a matter of concentrating and doing it."

Baker begins his third year as a varsity regular, and he again will be marked by opposing defenses

after averaging 18 points and 11 rebounds as a junior.

HE FEATURES A total game, being able to shoot from the perimeter or play inside, rebound and handle the ball. His only personal goals are to increase his shooting percentage from the mid 50s and play better overall.

"I told Jake 'You're almost like a player coach you've been around so long,'" Brodie said. "You'll have your work cut out for you, because defenses are going to concentrate on stopping you."

"But he's been around the block a few times. He's smart enough to handle those situations. He will because the people around him are pretty good, and they'll have a field day if they concentrate too much on Jake."

Certainly, the strength of the Salem team is its imposing front court. In addition to Baker and Kirkpatrick, the Rocks return seniors Cliff Lee (6-5, 185) and John Hoffmeyer (6-4, 175).

"That's where the veterans are," Brodie said. "The neat thing about the big guys is they have the ability to run the floor. Usually, you get big guys who are pretty one-dimensional, but this group is three-dimensional and can do a lot more than one thing inside."

Kirkpatrick complements Baker well and would be the main post player on most other teams. A possible college player, he became an inside force as the season went along last year, averaging 10 points and nine rebounds.

HOFFMEYER AND Lee developed into key players late last season, coming off the bench to relieve either Baker, Kirkpatrick or Ryan Johnson.

"(Kirkpatrick) is a little bit stronger this year, and I think he's also increased his shooting range," Brodie said. "He's more sure of himself inside. Last year he was a little timid at times."

"John gave us some great time last year. I call him our garbage man. The ball always seems to end up in John's hands. He just hustles. I like the way John Hoffmeyer plays."

"Cliff is all arms and legs, and he jumps out of the gym. He started coming on at the state tournament time. He also has gotten stronger and more confident."

A missing component, however, will be the emotional ingredient Johnson brought to the team. He just finished his freshman year of football at Eastern Michigan.

"We're going to miss his toughness inside," Brodie said. "I think some of them have that capability, but it's not something you can coach into a player. I see it in some of the players at times, but I want to see it in game competition."

SALEM ALSO HAS juniors and former JV players Mike Abraham (6-4, 165) and Mike Homes (6-6, 150) up front, as well as freshman prospect James Head (6-5, 180).

Brodie plans to have Head practice with the varsity but get sufficient game time with the JV. Kirkpatrick has a pulled hamstring, so Brodie expects to use Head in the season opener Tuesday at Trenton.

The Rocks must replace guards Tom Noonan and Jeff Gold, but seniors Chris Tebben (5-11, 180), the quarterback of the football team, and Mike Mulder (6-1, 155) are capable replacements.

"I feel they're pretty comparable to Gold and Noonan," Brodie said. "Tebben is a strong, bullish player who hustles like Gold did. Mulder is the floor leader who can shoot the three like Tommy."

"People automatically figure we have two rookies there. We two-platoon last year, and Mulder and Tebben got a lot of time in the heat of

Canton stands tall in post

By Dan O'Meara
staff writer

In sizing up area boys basketball teams, Plymouth Canton appears overshadowed by cross-campus rival Salem at this preseason stage of the 1990-91 campaign.

But the Chiefs will certainly never physically stand in another team's shadow, not with the height on this year's squad.

Canton boasts one of the tallest teams in Observerland, possibly the state, with players like 6-foot-8, 250-pound junior Tony Coshatt and seniors Rob Wilson (6-7, 220) and Kevin Holmes (6-4, 180).

And the Chiefs won't be just a big team.

While neighboring Salem, the first area team to reach the Class A quarterfinals in 15 years, is considered the team to beat, Canton should not only be competitive but a contender in the Western Lakes Activities Association.

THE CHIEFS were 10-11 overall and fifth in the Western Division, but second-year coach Dave VanWagoner anticipates better with six lettermen (including all five starters) returning.

"We are going to be a better team," VanWagoner said. "I don't know if our record will show it. We have a much tougher schedule and the league will be stronger, but I like our chances."

"We've got a bunch of tough kids, and these early games (at Monroe in the opener Tuesday, Ann Arbor Huron, Wayne, Dearborn, Farmington, Ann Arbor Pioneer and Ypsilanti in the first seven) are going to prepare us for the league. We think Salem and Harrison are the favorites, but we're setting our goal to win the league championship."

190) at forward and senior Karl Wukie (6-1, 170) and sophomore Mike Stafford (6-0, 160) at guards.

Howell and Wukie were key offensive players on the Canton football team that was 9-2 and became the first in school history to qualify for the playoffs.

"This football thing has helped Karl and Brett. It's helped the whole team. Their success in football helped bring a winning atmosphere to the program."

VANWAGONER LIKES the progress Coshatt has made in the last year. He's trimmed down from 270, developed a firmer and stronger body and increased his mobility.

Though he has two years of high school ball to go, Coshatt, who averaged six points and six rebounds, has drawn some early attention from college recruiters.

"He stepped in the gym every day since the beginning of summer, and he's probably improved more than any player in the program," VanWagoner said.

"He runs the court better, he's physically stronger and he's learning how to play the game. This really is only his third year of organized basketball."

Coshatt will be only one link in the chain, and the Chiefs will have a lot more depth than last year, VanWagoner said.

Howell was the most valuable player, averaging 12 points and nine rebounds, and he gives Canton a solid swing player.

"BRETT IS A real strong kid," VanWagoner said. "He gets a lot of garbage baskets inside, and he's a good rebounder and defensive player. He's the kind of kid coaches love."

Holmes contributed eight points and seven rebounds per game last year, and Wilson, who averaged five

BILL BRESLER/staff photographer
Brett Howell was the MVP last year with a 12-point average.

Wukie returns to run the team at point guard after averaging eight points and three assists.

"Karl was just an average basketball player last year," VanWagoner said. "But he's raised his game a couple levels, and I think he's going to have a good year."

"It's Karl's year in the sun, you could say. Karl told me he doesn't care how many points he scores; he just wants to win."

IF VANWAGONER wants a smaller lineup and more perimeter offense on the floor, he has Stafford, who came up from the JV late in the season and averaged 14 points in seven games.

"Mike is probably one of the best shooters to play at Canton," VanWagoner said. "He's improved other areas of his game, too. He's probably the best on the team for passing into the post."

"One of our themes is 'Let the big dogs eat,' which translates into 'Pass the ball inside and take advantage of our size.'"

The Chiefs have other perimeter players in 6-foot juniors Jon Paupore and Derrick McDonald and 6-3 sophomore Owen Crosby. Paupore was on the varsity at the end of last season, too, and scored 12 fourth-quarter points against Salem in a district game.

"I don't think we have the front-line talent of a Harrison or a Salem, but we have a solid group of kids with a lot of depth," VanWagoner said. "The thing I like about this group is they play as a team."

"We really worked hard this summer and played the best competition available. We got great experience in Detroit, and it's going to help this team."

BILL BRESLER/staff photographer
Kevin Holmes, one of six returning players, averaged eight points and seven rebounds.

S'craft women 3rd in tourney

The Schoolcraft College women's basketball team settled for third place in its own Thanksgiving Invitational Tournament.

In the consolation game Saturday (Nov. 24), Schoolcraft defeated Jamestown, N.Y., 53-45.

The Lady Ocelots, who beat the New Yorkers 55-54 earlier this season, held on after opening up a 39-21 advantage at intermission.

Tricia Lucas, who made the All-tournament team, paced Schoolcraft with 13 points. Lee Anne Lightfoot and Julie Sawicki added 12 points apiece.

Lansing Community College won the championship on Saturday, routing Southwestern, 91-55.

Southwestern upended the Ocelots in the tourney opener (Nov. 23), 87-70.

After leading 45-38 at the halftime, Southwestern pulled away in the second period of play, connecting on six 3-pointers.

Tricia Lucas led three SC players in double figures with 25 points.

Sophomore forward Mo Merritt scored 18 points, while Lightfoot contributed 12.

RERA THIGPEN of Lansing CC was named Most Valuable Player for the tournament, scoring a total of 40 points.

In other action last week, the Lady Ocelots used a 34-15 halftime lead to defeat Michigan Christian, 65-46.

Schoolcraft improved its record to 4-1 overall.

"I think I'm pleased with what's going on considering we only have one starter returning and Donna Galli hasn't played a game yet," Coach Jack Grenan said.

Galli, a sophomore transfer from Oakland Community College, is out with a sprained ankle.

battle. I have no question about their competency on the floor."
With the talent up front, Mulder and Tebben should mesh well with the post players, according to Brodie.

"THE THING THAT will make them better players is having four horses inside," he said. "If they do well, it will make the guards more confident."
"If I'm on the floor, I wouldn't hesitate to shoot the ball if those big guys are going up for it every time, or give it up to them knowing they can finish with it."

Junior Eric Stemmer (6-3, 160) will provide back up at guard with fellow juniors Ed Gundry (6-1, 170), Leon Hister (5-10, 170) and John Flynn (6-2, 175) in reserve.

"We should be solid... but again it's a different season," Brodie said. "Hopefully, we can continue on where we left off last year."

Canton's Lee on fight card

By Ray Seflock staff writer

"Jab, jab, hook, jab, hook, hook."
Those are just some of the words that can be heard on a normal evening at the Livonia Boxing Club.

Located in the basement of the Livonia Fire Station, young boxers gather almost nightly to work on technique and form.

On Thursday, some of these fighters and others from around the country will take to the ring at Canton's Center Stage in what is sure to be a rare event for local boxing fans.

(The card starts at 7 p.m. Tickets are $35 ringside and $25 general admission. For ticket information, call 722-4553.)

Stacey McKinley, promoter of the event, coaches many of the boxers who will be fighting on Thursday's card. He said the card is significant because it gives the boxers a good chance to expose their talents in front of a local audience.

THE FIGHTERS usually don't get many opportunities to appear in public, other than occasional events at the Palace of Auburn Hills, McKinley said. "There are some very good boxers in this area and an event like the one we're putting on at Center Stage will give these talented fighters good exposure."

One of the boxers who will headline the card is Canton native "Big John" Lee.

Lee, 26, won a Tough Man contest in 1985 in Memphis, Tenn., and has been boxing ever since.

McKinley, who coaches Lee, says that the 6-foot-3, 235-pounder needs to work on his finesse.

boxing
'Big John is such a large guy, he likes to just go into the ring and throw his weight around. We need to get him to box a little more.'
— Stacey McKinley fight promoter

"Big John is such a large guy, he likes to just go into the ring and throw his weight around," McKinley said. "We need to get him to box a little more."

LEE TAKES a 13-0 record into Thursday's match with Paul Times (16-4). Lee has knocked out all 13 of his opponents.

If Lee wins his match against Times, McKinley is confident that his pupil will be able to book a match against Tommy Morrison

JOHNSON, WHO ranks second in the IBC, is 23-2 with 17 knockouts. Cruz is 26-4 with 12 knockouts.

In other matches, Jamie Howie (16-3) from Ohio will dual Arthur Putt (18-4) of Illinois for eight rounds and Tom Schriber (3-0) of Ohio will fight James Jackson (8-1) of Illinois in a four-round bout.

"We hope to have one of these cards every month at the Center Stage," McKinley said. "It's good for the fighters. I am already booking fights for a January card."

THERE IS NOTHING MORE I CAN DO

What if your doctor has no therapy appropriate to treat your arthritis.
In some instances you have such advanced arthritis no medicine can help. At other times, either drugs didn't help or side effects such as dizziness, upset stomach or uncontrollable bleeding necessitate stopping the medication. In such circumstances it may be best to cease trying rather than face the risks of life threatening hazards.
Another possibility is that you have emphysema or a failing heart. If so, the risk of surgery could be such as to preclude operative intervention.
What can you do if neither new therapy nor operation is possible? First, return to the basics of heat, cold and rest. By juggling these options you may be able to gain control over pain. Second, look hard at scheduling your day. See when activity is possible and make the most of what is your "best" time.
Third, you may have to reconsider your independence and enter an arrangement that compromises your privacy, but gives you assistance in return.
What you should avoid is feeling helpless and lost. Medicines may fail, but if you have the spirit, you will find a way to minimize the hardships you face and accept what you cannot overcome.

PLYMOUTH CHARTER TOWNSHIP
ORDINANCE NO. 83.55

AN ORDINANCE TO AMEND THE ZONING ORDINANCE OF THE CHARTER TOWNSHIP OF PLYMOUTH BY AMENDING THE ZONING MAP.

THE TOWNSHIP OF PLYMOUTH ORDAINS:

Part I. The Zoning Ordinance No. 83 or the Plymouth Charter Township, is hereby amended by amending the Zoning Map, by changing those areas indicated on the Amended Zoning Map No. 60, attached thereto, and made part of this Ordinance.

LEGAL DESCRIPTION
That part of the Northeast 1/4 of Section 20, T. 1 S., R. 8 E., Plymouth Twp., Wayne County, Michigan, described as: Beginning at a point on the East line of said Section, distant due South 659.31 ft. from the Northeast corner of Section 20; thence proceeding due South along said East line of Section 20, thence N. 89° 46' 40" W. 1341.17 ft.; thence N. 00° 59' 20" E. 816.34 ft.; thence S. 89° 46' 40" E. 1327.08 ft. to the point of beginning, except the East 60 ft.

ORDINANCE NO. 83
AMENDED ZONING MAP NO. 60
PLYMOUTH CHARTER TOWNSHIP
WAYNE COUNTY, MICHIGAN ADOPTED BY THE TOWNSHIP BOARD OF TRUSTEES ON 11/27/90
EFFECTIVE DATE 12/27/90

Part II. CONFLICTING PROVISIONS REPEALED. Any Ordinance or parts of Ordinance in conflict herewith, are hereby repealed.
Part III. EFFECTIVE DATE. The provisions of this Ordinance are hereby declared to take effect on December 27, 1990.
Part IV. ADOPTION. The Ordinance was adopted by the Township Board of Charter Township of Plymouth by authority of Act 184 of the Public Acts of Michigan, 1949, at a meeting duly called and held on the 27th day of November 1990, and ordered to be given publication in the manner prescribed by law.
Adopted by the Township Board of Trustees on November 27, 1990.
Effective date December 27, 1990.
Publish: December 3, 1990

To SIDS parents, this is music to the ears.

Imagine you're a parent, checking on your baby in the middle of the night. You wait for the sound of breathing. A cry. A coo. Anything.
When SIDS (Sudden Infant Death Syndrome) takes a victim, there is only silence.
It's commonly known as "Crib Death." The death of a seemingly healthy baby for no apparent reason.
SIDS is the number one cause of death in infants from one week to one year old... causing more deaths than cystic fibrosis, childhood cancer and heart disease combined.

Over 7,000 babies each year.

This killer strikes quickly, quietly, with no warning. A SIDS baby dies within seconds, usually while he's sleeping. He suffers no pain. He doesn't cry out.

One of the most disturbing facts about SIDS is that there's no way to predict it. No way to prevent it. Not yet.

But there is hope. With your help we can find the cause and the cure.
Donations of your time and of your dollars will make a difference. You can help save a life. Then we can all hear the sweet sounds of a baby's cry.

Marie Snell's artistry includes everything from a woman screaming "What?" to a super sluth style detective.

A marriage made in ink pad heaven

By Greg Kowaleki
staff writer

Marie Snell got a stamped and unwrapped head in the mail. Pat Baccari occasionally sends plastic fish. Russell Bloch often gets cards from The Bag Lady and The Unmuzzled Ox.

Snell's head, incidentally, was plastic. And it was an example of an art form that is sweeping... well, slipping through the postal system.

Mail art is a relatively new style of expression founded by artist Ray Johnson, a graduate of Cass Technical High School. Since 1960, it has attained somewhat of a cult status as an alternative art form.

Mail art takes many forms, but it has one consistent goal — to express the artist's feelings and perhaps make a statement.

And contrary to the popular image, the postal system is usually accommodating. Just about anything can be mailed so long as it is not outlawed, and is addressed and stamped.

Creating mail art "is strange," said Snell. "Things just pop into my head. Doing it gives me a real strange feeling. It's like sitting, watching myself at work."

Snell gets about 10 letters a day from mail artists. Some are gloriously decorated. Others make political statements, such as the stylized skull and crossbones boycott stamp crafted from the Exxon logo by Chuck Welch.

SNELL PREFERS to be non-political. She has been an artist for many years, working in different mediums, including stained glass. About four years ago, she was introduced to a new medium that was a natural for mail art — rubber stamps.

"My daughter was stamping and she got me caught up in it," Snell said.

It was during a long, boring drive through the flatlands of the Midwest that she began to think about the potential for creating mail art with rubber stamps. Her daughter received a magazine, called Rubber Stamp Madness, and from that Snell gathered up the names of people to write to.

One person in Japan apparently misread her name and sent a reply to "Maxie." That's been her artistic name ever since. (Mail artists, like the CB radio fans of a decade ago, prefer to use "handles" instead of their real names.)

Snell corresponds with mail artists around the world, even in the Soviet Union.

"When people send things, it's as if they are sending a little bit of themselves," she said.

BLOCH'S ARTISTRY is rooted in music. He and his wife perform classical music professionally under the name, "A Classic Pair," a title he has adopted for his mail art.

"I've always been interested in mail art," Bloch said. And rubber stamps give him the ability to create fascinating pictures without having the technical skills of a draftsman.

That, in fact, is a major appeal of rubber stamps. There is seemingly an endless variety of stamps, ranging from simple designs, such as fruit and eggs, to complex figures of angels and buildings.

Mixing and matching different designs allows the artist to create patterns as complex as he or she wishes.

Work can be done in colors by using different colored ink pads or by applying colored ink directly to the stamp with a felt-tipped pen. Bloch keeps his colors subdued, preferring to work mainly in black and white. "Stamping allows me to express myself," Bloch said. "Even if I did paint or draw, I'd still do this."

Baccari agrees that stamps allow anyone to become an artist. But that's not surprising. As owner of The Stamping Grounds (228 W. Fourth St., Royal Oak) she has a vested interest in seeing mail art prosper.

HER STORE carries hordes of stamps in a huge array of designs. There are cute critters and fantastic elves. Flowers, letters, cars, fruits, vegetable, religious symbols abound. Some are simple; others are ornate. Here is everything a stamp artist could want.

STEPHEN CANTRELL/staff photographer

A little of this, a little of that

As part of "Une Paire Classique (A Classic Pair)," Russell Bloch's mail art has a classical flavor. Here's how he makes a typical work:

A blank piece of paper is his canvas on which he stamps a group of figures. Over that, he'll place a neatly cut-out sheet of paper and with that stencil in place, he'll stamp a row of buildings.

The effect is a parade of man walking out of a building in the background.

More figures are added. Angels here and there. A set of hands, placed horizontally, one above one below. In between is a set of figures of men as if they were floating delicately between the palms.

More figures are placed — stars, bubbles, planets, and finally, a stream of neatly designed stars that give the work continuity. These stars are colored blue and purple to give the scene a hint of color.

The work looks like a cohesive piece even though it is made up of more than a dozen separate images.

And according to Bloch, similar works can be done on letters and postcards to be sent out as mail art.

STEPHEN CANTRELL/staff photographer

DAN DEAN/staff photographer

In her studio, Marie Snell cuts out pieces she'll use in her mail art.

Baccari has been in the stamp business since 1984 when she bought her first stamp. One quickly led to another and she soon opened her first business in Tally Hall. Later, she moved to Trapper's Alley in Detroit.

Along the way, business grew steadily and she acquired a staff of three — Roberta Robson, Marta Lightfoot and Wendy Scarfos.

"Typically, our customers are female between 25 and 45 years of age," Baccari said. "They're fairly well educated."

But they don't have to be well off. Stamps usually cost between $2 and $10.

"We also service schools," Baccari said. "We supply stamps for Latchkey programs and to entertain and help educate kids."

Baccari has more than 500 designs in stock and she can — and often does — custom make designs on the premises. She also is now involved in another facet of mail and stamp art — an exhibit.

for her show, which had the theme, "How I Spent My Summer Vacation."

Along with decorated letters, envelopes, paintings and drawings, Baccari has received diverse items, such as a set of keys from California along with a note that basically said: "Here are the keys to my home. I was away on vacation. If you had these then you could have robbed me. Too bad."

Such is the quirkiness of mail artists. Mail art shows differ from traditional shows in many respects. For instance, all works submitted are exhibited.

There are no fees and everyone who participates receives "documentation," a list with addresses of all participants. That's vital for networking with other mail artists.

Displayed works art not for sale. It's not a question of quality. Most works are impressive, many done by professional artists. It's just that they're different.

"I'm not sure that anyone would want to buy them," Baccari said candidly.

MOVING PICTURES

Kathy Bates stars as Annie Wilkes, an obsessive fan who rescues romance novelist Paul Sheldon, played by James Caan, and later holds him captive in "Misery."

Caan's good, 'Misery' isn't

"Misery" (C+, R, 100 minutes) is exciting on occasion but there are too many lose ends and too many predictable sequences for the film to measure up to its accomplished cast and production staff. The film waffles back and forth between psychotic thriller and slasher epic without ever coming to grips with either genre.

Renowned romance novelist Paul Sheldon (James Caan) — writing as his custom in a lodge in the Colorado mountains — has just finished the latest volume in his extremely successful "Misery Chastain" romance series. While driving to town he is caught in a terrible blizzard, flips off the road, is badly injured and trapped inside his car.

But not to worry, help is on the way. Or is it?

Annie Wilkes (Kathy Bates), a reclusive nurse living in an isolated house in the mountains pries open Paul's car with a crowbar and carries him back to her house to care for his injuries. It also turns out that she is Paul Sheldon's number one fan — an extreme beyond the usual meaning of the term.

It quickly becomes apparent — at least to the audience — that she intends to keep Paul as her very own prisoner.

CAAN'S PERFORMANCE is excellent, conveying great fear and emotion despite the considerable restraints of splints and bandages in the bed Annie has designated as his prison.

Yet something is missing in his ready acceptance of her psychotic behavior. He never attempts to reason with her and that would seem to be a normal inclination along the road to discovering the extent of her mental derangement. But then he must have read the script and realized he'd be able to walk in the end despite the terrible tortures she inflicted.

There are problems as well with the film's sense of time. What may have been a normal winter thaw appears as spring, followed by another winter without summer. Rather confusing as is the title — not of the film but of the books Sheldon is writing. Seemingly such a romantic heroine as Misery Chastain should be called Desiree or Monique. If Stephen King's book explained that, the film is remiss in not doing so as well.

It also seems rather strange that such a celebrity as Paul Sheldon could disappear without any significant search being mounted. One might also question why it took such a canny old sheriff like Buster (Richard Farnsworth) so long to become suspicious about a suspected murderer living in the neighborhood. Of course, it isn't clear how long that actually did take, but it seems unreasonably long.

BUSTER AND HIS WIFE Virginia (Frances Sternhagen) bicker amiably and provide a pleasant counterpoint to Paul and Annie's harsh relationship.

Some of Annie's treatment of Paul and her psychotic behavior is effective thriller stuff, some of it clearly of the slasher genre. The two don't mix well, especially the predictable fight sequences and the exaggerated camera angles.

Such is a life of "Misery" in the rough mountains of Colorado where director Rob Reiner slipped on some psychotic ice. He should stick to the heat of humor where he has had so much success in the past.

STILL PLAYING:

"Avajan" (A+, PG, 126 minutes). Excellent film chronicles an immigrant family's successes and failures in America.

"Child's Play 2" (*, R). "Clucky" returns.

"Dances With Wolves" (A, PG-13, 180 minutes).

Kevin Costner's magnificent ode to brotherhood and brutality on America's western frontier during and after the Civil War.

"Fantasia" (A+, G). Excellent restoration of Disney's 1940 masterpiece.

"Ghost" (A-, PG-13, 116 minutes).

Banker's ghost (Patrick Swayze) hangs around after life to protect loved one (Demi Moore). Spiritualist (Whoopi Goldberg) helps him and this romantic/comedy/thriller.

"GoodFellas" (B+, R, 145 minutes).

Martin Scorsese's intense, compelling saga of three mobsters. Fine production techniques and excellent performances by Robert DeNiro, Joe Pesci and Ray Liotta, notwithstanding, they are bad guys.

"Graffiti Bridge" (*, PG-13).

Written and directed by Prince who also stars in another production for his fans and his pocketbook.

"Henry and June" (C-, NC-17, 135 minutes).

Boring, repetitious discussions of sexuality complemented by darkly lit sexual scenes.

"Home Alone" (B-, PG, 100 minutes).

"Jacob's Ladder" (A, R, 115 minutes).

Sensational, riveting film experience redeems and rewards with its story of Jacob Singer's (Tim Robbins) re-entry to civilian life after Vietnam trauma.

"The King of New York" (R, 103 minutes).

Violent return of recently paroled drug lord.

"The Krays" (*, R).

Twins run vicious underworld empire in London.

Lynn introduces 'Cootie'

By John Monaghan
special writer

Marcy Hedy Lynn grew up in Detroit, behind a wig store on Seven Mile and Livernois. So inspired by these instruments of instant glamour, she has made a weird little film about them, called "Cootie Garages."

Lynn, now a film student at New York University, returns to her hometown to introduce three of her films during a special screening at the Tele-Arts this Saturday. The evening will also include a performance by Goober and the Peas.

"My dear, you must never be afraid to acknowledge your wig," says Wella Della Dondola, the wig store owner from "Cootie Garages." "False hair is an ornamental extension of the human psyche."

Wella's latest creations are so powerful that they totally transform their wearers. One woman becomes the Empress Dowager of China, Clara Bow, Medusa, Angela Davis

In interviews, Lynn comes off as a hair historian.

"Hair is something vital," says Lynn, who has found herself on the cutting edge of a minor wig revival. "Look where Samson was before DeBlah took him to the barber."

VIDEO VIEWING

By Dan Greenberg

Cloning successful theatrical feature films seems to be the name of the game for videopic producers these days, but a number of them have scrambled their genetic materials in the process.

Earlier this fall, the 1957 French film, Clouzot's "Wages of Fear" — remade in 1977 by William Friedkin as "Sorcerer" (PG, color, 122 minutes) — was released on video. It's the story of some second-rate, down-and-out mobsters in Latin America who attempt to redeem themselves by driving a truck loaded with nitroglycerin over rugged mountainous roads.

As with so many remakes and videopic clones, something is lost in the translation and the remake lacks the original's impact.

A Rambo-clone, "Kill Crazy" (1989, R, color, 94 minutes) hit the stands Nov. 21, with David Heavener as Grady Puckett, a Vietnam veteran out to avenge his friends who have been murdered by a local white supremacist group.

How to win at the numbers game.

The game is newspaper advertising — and the rules are changing. Rates are up in the Detroit News and Free Press. Suburban circulation is down. And all around town, advertisers are wondering what numbers to trust — and where to place their media dollars. What should you do?

Beware of smoke and mirrors.

Right now, the News and Free Press circulation is unstable at best. On the other hand, SPRING's network of 39 Detroit suburban newspapers delivers to more than 500,000 households — and that's a real number.

How do we know? All SPRING newspapers are audited. Every year, the circulation figures for each SPRING newspaper are verified by either CAC or ABC — two of the industry's most highly-respected independent auditors.

No slippery stuff here. SPRING's numbers are tested, tried, and true.

Place your bet on SPRING.

Once you've studied the numbers, we're sure you'll agree: SPRING is a sure winner.

SPRING's circulation is solid and stable. It's audited. And it represents more than one million readers who have the means to buy what you sell.

No matter how you figure it — those are very good odds, indeed.

See what's behind the numbers.

OK — so dazzling numbers can be misleading. And, when it comes to newspaper circulation figures, you want more than quantity. You want quality.

We've got it. SPRING's one million readers are some of the most affluent consumers around. SPRING newspapers go to suburbs with the spending power to buy more cars, condos, boats, bikes, appliances, apparel, gizmos, and gadgets than most other Michigan communities combined.

Best of all, SPRING delivers this upscale suburban market at a lower cost per thousand than either the News or the Free Press.

Connells: Moody musicmakers

By Larry O'Connor
staff writer

Pull down the shades, cuddle up in the corner. The Connells' music is so dark Barnabas Collins should be the lead singer.

"Oh, I'm so depressed right now," said the band's lead singer, Doug MacMillan.

He's kidding. Really, The Connells hardly represent the brooding cauldron of manic music some concert pre-hype has painted. The Connells are a guitar pop band, a darn fine guitar pop band.

The group's fourth album, "One Simple Word (TVT)," is streamlined and refined pop with a canopy of crashing guitars and laid-back vocals. To their credit, the Connells don't go full throttle with the happy-as-sunshine leitmotif.

Mike Connell's guitar can scratch the underbelly of pop's far-reaching corners while still retaining an enjoyable melody. For example, the exploratory verve of "Link," a cut off the latest album, is something to behold and delves into Sonic Youth wall-of-sound territory.

That may be construed as being murky and obscure. Also, the band's first LP was titled, "Darker Days."

But dark is relative term, isn't it? After all, there is the refusing-to-look-at-life-through-rose-colored-glasses meaning of the word. Then there is the Bob Mould definition, which blots out the sky and kills vegetation.

"I DIDN'T notice it (the tone of the LP) until we went into the studio and Hugh (Jones, producer) brought it up," MacMillan said. "To me, it's just the collective mood of a few songs. I don't think it's a growing trend."

The Connells embody the complete non-image image, being neither fashion plates nor followers of hip trends. Band members are like cut-out dolls, ripe for some big record exec to dress them up in his own way.

Some music critics had a jump, painting the band into several corners.

First, there were the R.E.M. comparisons, undoubtedly due to the group's Raleigh, N.C., roots and the prevalence of guitars in the music. Then came the Morrissey/Smiths associations, perhaps brought about by MacMillan's vocals.

MacMillan shrugs these off as "lazy journalism." Comparisons would be difficult for "One Simple Word," which finds MacMillan in his most relaxed, confident state as a vocalist.

"I WAS just bad," said MacMillan, referring to the Connells' first LP. "Our first album — those were supposed to be demos, and they ended up being an album."

MacMillan is more self-assured. He wrote "One Souvenir" on "One Simple Word," playing guitar in the studio for the first time. The band also spent a good deal of time preparing for the LP.

After working with an all-star line-up of producers such as Don Dixon, Mitch Easter and Gary Smith, the band hired Hugh Jones for this effort. His past credits include slick pop outfits such as Modern English and Del Amitri, hardly groups considered on the cutting edge.

But Jones has also worked with more-obscure bands, such as Dump Truck and Tear Drop Explodes. He was also scheduled to produced what would have been Husker Du's last LP before the band broke up.

The Connells were more impressed with Jones' Dump Truck production work. So much, in fact, that band members asked him to produce their album without meeting him.

"I think his angle was to retain the power of the guitars and the performance," MacMillan said. "I think we really performed well on this album. The atmosphere was great."

REVIEWS

JUST IN TIME FOR CHRISTMAS — various artists

'Tis the season to be greedy. Or at least it would seem so, judging by the number of compilations, greatest hit packages and Christmas albums that have been arriving daily from the record companies.

So far, the worst of these is Barry Manilow's collection of seasonal faves on the wretched "Because It's Christmas." Luckily, we aren't dealing with that album, we're reviewing "Just in Time for Christmas," which is an entirely different matter.

This album of traditional Christmas ditties (and some not-so-traditional ones) is so good that you may find yourself still listening to it — or parts of it, at least — next July. The various artists on it range from the not very well-known (like Molly Johnson) to the sort of well-known (Jules Shear) to the pretty darn well-known (Squeeze).

All of them — surprise, surprise — are artists on I.R.S.'s roster of talent. We told you greed was involved.

Anyway, Squeeze's song "Christmas Day" kicks off the CD and finds the band at their usual level of excellence. The song features trademark Squeeze harmonies and a typically catchy melody.

"All I Want For Christmas Is My Two Front Teeth" by reggae-style

Elvis/Led Zeppelin impersonators Dread Zeppelin is another standout. Of course, the Dreads' interpretation of the traditional song is interwoven with bits of the Elvis song, "Viva Las Vegas."

Other stand-outs include Timbuk 3's typically dead-pan version of their song "All I Want for Christmas (it's not the 'All I Want for Christmas')," the dB's excellent "Home for the Holidays," and Wall of Voodoo's bizarre "Shouldn't Have Given Him a Gun for Christmas."

Unlike on some of the other Christmas compilations, the proceeds from this release aren't headed for any charitable cause — unless you consider the I.R.S. record company to be a charity. Anyway, charity begins at home, doesn't it? So buying this album for yourself is a charitable act, right?

RECYCLER — ZZ Top

You might think, with ZZ Top's last two platinum album releases ("Afterburner" and "Eliminator") that this band has done everything from A to ZZ. Well, you're probably right.

The latest album from these good ole' boys from the Lone Star state is called "Recycler," and for the most part, it is just an extension of their last two albums.

So... if you've got a good thing why change it, right? Wrong. ZZ Top has a proven track record of no-nonsense, hard hitting blues/rock talent. But, variety is not a strong point with this tenacious time-tested trio.

"Recycler" does emphasize the bluesier side of the band. They're calling the album "Polyrhythmic Perversity." That is to say that it has a broad diversity of styles, in a perverse sort of way.

I WOULD have to disagree with the diversity part of that claim. Set the needle down in almost any groove of this album and you might think you're listening to one long song.

There are some catchy tunes in this compilation of down home rock, done up southern style. It's just not something new or innovative.

"Recycler" has 10 new tracks, at least the titles are new. Some of the best rockers on the album, "Concrete and Steel" and "Decision or Collision," are classic tunes delivered ZZ Top style. But, as I've warned, they're nothing new.

HEART STILL BEATING — Roxy Music

At first glance, "Heart Still Beating" looks like another attempt to cash in again on the same old songs with a Christmas-time "Greatest Hits" package. But, look a little closer at the cover and, in infinitely tiny letters, you'll see the important words "Recorded Live 1982 in Frejus, France." A live release! And it's not a gratuitous re-issue. Roxy Music hasn't put out a live album since "Viva!" more than 10 years ago.

Back in 1982, Roxy Music teamed with Bryan Ferry, Phil Manzanera and Andy Mackay. It was a period when they had moved away from the harder sound of their early years and had just finished making the smoother-sounding album "Avalon."

Of course, this "smooth," studio-created sound is the reason many people are attracted to Roxy Music and a live album is not the best way to capture that made-in-a-vacuum Roxy sound. My brother describes that particular sound as "the sort of music you listen to while putting on a tuxedo before a date," which explains it as well as anything.

Anyway, if that's why you like Roxy Music, you'd be better off buying one of their fine old albums like "Siren" or "Avalon" or a Bryan Ferry solo album like "Boys and Girls," because this live album lacks the seamless quality of their studio efforts. Nonetheless, certain songs like "Avalon" and the John Lennon cover "Jealous Guy" come across well and lack the usual rough sound of live songs.

"Heart Still Beating" is a strong mix of Roxy Music at various points in their career, showing the band both at their "rockers" stage and their later, more mournful, love-gone-wrong stage. There are songs from "Siren" like "Editions of You" and songs from "Avalon" like "India" and "While My Heart Is Still Beating." So, if your unsure of which era of Roxy Music you enjoy best, this live album is a good way to sample all of them.

STREET SENSE

Search for biological father requires some basic info

Dear Barbara,
I am 36 years old, and I have just learned I was adopted by one parent at the age of 5. My adoptive father has passed away, and I found out about my adoption through questionable dates recorded on my birth certificate.
Since my adoptive father is no longer alive, is there a way I could find out whether he was indeed my paternal father, or is there any way for me to find out who my paternal father is?
My adoptive father was the absolute best father any child could ask for, and a replacement is not what I am looking for. I would just like to know who my paternal father really is. Realistically, maybe there are no answers, but for myself, I would like to know.
The information I have been able to obtain is where and when I was born, my paternal mother, the year of my adoption and that at the time of the adoption I had a half brother, also that the adoption was a closed adoption with no information of my father.

I would really appreciate any help you could give me in this matter.
Elizabeth
Dear Elizabeth,
Your letter is a little confusing. First, I will assume that by "paternal" parent, you mean biological father. Also, since you say you know who your "paternal," i.e. biological, mother is, I assume she has died and cannot help you.
Wanting and, indeed, needing to know your biological history is natural. It is becoming increasingly common for teenage and adult adoptees to search for knowledge about their biological parents. The fears that they cite most often are of hurting their adoptive parents. You probably have begun your search now because your adoptive father's recent death makes such a search "safe."
ADOPTees SAY that without knowledge about their biological past, they feel like jigsaw puzzles with pieces missing. Most claim, as you do, that they are not interested in new or different parents but in completing themselves.

There are many agencies, support groups, registries and books that can help you with this process. Some are listed below.
A Birmingham man, who has been on a quest to find his biological parents for four years, advised me for this column. He said you should begin by gathering as much information about yourself as you can.
Get a birth certificate from the state you were born in. Get a copy of your biological mother's marriage certificate. Ask relatives what they can tell you about what happened when you were born.
FIND OUT what religion you were born into or the religion your mother was married in. There may be military records that could be helpful.
The man said you don't know how information can be helpful until you get it. He cautioned that the anxiety he felt when asking for this information often thwarted his ability to understand and he needed to ask again.

He doesn't want his name printed in the newspaper, but he has offered to help you with your search. If you will send me your telephone number, I will forward it to him.
You also can get help from the Adoption Identity Movement, P.O. Box 20092, Detroit 48220 (443-0666); Michigan Department of Social Services, Office of Children and Youth Services, Adoption Central Registry, P.O. Box 30037, Lansing 48909 (517-373-3513); and Post Adoption Resources, 20700 Greenfield, Suite 600, Oak Park 48237 (968-1700).
BOOKS THAT can be of help include "The Reg Niles Search Book for Adult Adoptees" by Reg Niles, "A Handbook for Adoptees and Birth Parents" by Jane Askin, "The Adoption Search Book - Techniques for Tracing People" by Mary Jo Rillera and "The Adoption Triangle" by D. Sarosky.

Try the International Soundex Reunion Registry, P.O. Box 2312, Carson City, Nev. 89702-2312. Support groups and other registries can be found in these resources.
While searches for genetic backgrounds are valid, there is another side to the issue. Michigan law protects the rights and privacy of those involved in the adoption process. The worry is that an adoptee could show up at his biological parent's home without warning. The rights of biological parents is a sensitive issue.
Barbara
Dear Readers,
In my Thanksgiving Day column, I neglected to name Elizabeth W. Bauer, executive director of the Michigan Protect and Advocacy Service, and to thank her specifically. Thanks to her and, again, to all of you.

shorter films gives you a good idea of Lynn's kitschy sensibilities. The clothes, music and overall look provide a '50s and '60s resale shop fantasy.
"Shortin' Bread Rock" lampoons early TV commercials with a pair of children in cowboy outfits making bread out of Crisco. It's shot in black and white, as is the spooky "Whether Willed," which mixes David Lynch-type characters with background music from low-budget horror movies and "The Twilight Zone." Actually, the two shorts are much more entertaining than "Cootie Garages," a minor marvel technically that loses its appeal pretty quickly. Lynn, who wrote, directed and edited the film, proves herself an expert behind the camera, but not with performances and dialogue, which are equally flat.

What "Cootie Garages" really needs is a snip, snip, snip of the hair-dresser's scissors.
But don't let this keep you from Saturday's screening. If for no other reason, you should come to see what living in New York has done to Marcy Hedy Lynn's hair.

Connells shun comparisons

THE ATMOSPHERE he speaks of was the Welsh countryside, where MacMillan did some fishing and some singing. The Connells recorded their LP at Rockfield Studios the same time The Pogues were putting down tracks for their recent album.
Band members chatted with Pogues producer and former Clashmate Joe Strummer and with the Pogues' alcohol-guzzling frontman Shane MacGowan.

"I had a drink with him (MacGowan). He's really out there."
The Connells have been out there, too. The band is considered one of the hardest-working outfits around — they tour constantly. "Boylan Heights" and "Fun Games" reached the Top-10 in the Gavin Report, which charts college air play. The grassroots approach has paid off as the group has built a solid collegiate following.

Surprisingly, "One Simple Word" is showing up on some AOR play lists. MacMillan likes it, despite being lodged between the likes of Journey and Foreigner.
"For us, a lot of what we do is going out and getting fans in different pockets. We're uncomfortable with putting on rock regalia, dressing up and that type of stuff."
"I don't think it hurts. I think people like us because we don't."

STREET CRACKS

New Yorker's humor hits close to home

By Julie Brown
staff writer

Comic Dan Wilson does some traveling, but his frequent flier miles would only entitle him to an extra bag of almonds.

"There's plenty of work out there. I don't like to go away for too long or too often," said Wilson, 31. "I'm just a home guy, obviously."

Wilson, who's from Tarrytown, N.Y., about a half hour outside New York City, is looking forward to an upcoming performance at Joey's in Belleville. He's been to Michigan for earlier shows and remembers making fun of the Detroit area's numbered mile roads.

He grew up in Tarrytown and still calls it home.

"I was absolutely the funny guy all through school." He brought a ventriloquist's doll to school to entertain his classmates, and the teachers didn't protest.

"I wasn't rude with it, either."

WILSON ENTERTAINED at the senior prom when he was a high school sophomore. He wrote his own material, but remembers performing in the style of George Carlin.

"He was funny." Wilson had heard Carlin's material and based his performance on that because he hadn't yet developed his own style.

"I'm in my sixth year of comedy," Wilson, who's single, attended the State University of New York at Buffalo for one year.

"When I came home, I started working for the General Motors people." He was an autoworker for about four years before moving on.

"I actually did theater for a long time, I was a musical theater guy." Wilson was hosting a talent night in Port Jefferson on Long Island when he met comics Joey Kola and Steve O.

"Those were the guys who really got me involved with comedy. They just walked in one night. They're two very fine comics."

Wilson writes his own material and rarely watches other comedians perform. He avoids watching David Letterman's show, so he won't pick up Letterman's mannerisms or style.

"It's very hard to describe because I certainly don't tell jokes," Wilson said of his work. When he first started in comedy, he was asked to come up with a nickname. Wilson thought of Bob Newhart's image.

HIS MATERIAL comes from a variety of sources.

"It all just kind of pops into my head," he said. "Things just pop into my head that I think are funny. I like to think of myself as a clean act. There's a little spice here and there."

He's performed at clubs on the East Coast and in the Midwest and South, and does some shows on the West Coast. Wilson frequently performs for college audiences. His work took him to Aquinas College in Grand Rapids.

"We had a great time. It was a wonderful show." He's never had a bad show in Delaware or North Carolina and likes performing in those states.

Wilson hasn't found audiences are all that different from state to state. Attitudes vary some and if he stays in an area for some time he's more aware of that.

Stage fright isn't a problem for Wilson, who's performed at Joey's in Livonia.

"It's amazing. I don't get nervous before a show like I used to." There's still some anticipatory nervousness, but that helps Wilson prepare for his time on stage.

WILSON HAS also done TV work. He recently appeared on the syndicated program "Star Search" and lost to a man in a wig.

"I do make jokes about being a 'Star Search' loser." He jokes that following that loss he was roughed up and then forced to wash Ed McMahon's car.

In 1989, Wilson performed at the American Comedy convention in Las Vegas, Nev. He has opened for Dana Carvey, Richard Belzer, Soupy Sales and others.

In his free time, Wilson exercises, collects comic books and draws cartoons. He likes to read horror novels and watch scary movies, "all of them, the good ones and the bad ones."

He has some thoughts about what the future holds for him.

"All in all, what I really want is to have good shows." The respect of his fellow comics is important to Wilson.

"Of course, we'd all like to do 'The Tonight Show.'"

Dan Wilson will perform Wednesday through Saturday, Dec. 5-8, at Joey's in Belleville. Performances will be 8:30 p.m. Wednesday and Thursday, 8 p.m. and 10:30 p.m. Friday and Saturday. The club's at The Roxy restaurant, I-94 and Haggerty in Belleville. Price is $5 Wednesday and Thursday, $9 Friday and Saturday, and reserva-

Fanning interest in the pigskin

By Debbie Sklar
special writer

To be or not to be a football widow. That is the question you ladies out there have to ask yourself.

You see, if you haven't noticed, it's definitely time to store the white shoes, bathing suit and sun-tan oil. It's the time of year you either love or hate. It's called football season.

What's worse is "bowl" season is just around the corner. And we're not talking about thoroughly cleaning the bathroom. We're talking about some 20 college games spanning much of the Christmas season and capping off with six, counting 'em six, on New Year's Day.

But before you try and steal your significant other's remote control, listen up. A real expert on the subject has some good news. As the adage goes, "If you can't lick 'em, join 'em."

Donna Poole Foehr, author of "Football for Women" ($9.95 from National Press Books) is a woman and, yes, an avid football fan.

"I love the Detroit Lions, always have," she said. "Personally, I think baseball is a more brutal sport than football."

Foehr's way of thinking? "Monday night football! Sunday football! Professional football and college football! Ladies, Face it. From late summer through mid-winter football is king of TV," she said. "But if you feel left out because the sport seems so complicated, I have something to help you."

Her book has 191 pages, including a back glossary, that explains the complicated game in simple terms so every woman, and every man for that matter, can quickly learn and understand the game.

THERE'S THE complete rules of football and what each player does, diagrams of the field and alignments, offensive and defensive fundamentals, referees, penalties, signals and much more.

Everything you'll every need to know about the game is clearly explained. You'll learn how points are scored, how and why penalties are handed out, the difference between offensive and defensive teams, plus the roles each player has on the field and the way referees control the game.

From the unique viewpoint of a woman, football suddenly seems so easy . . . and uncomplicated. Maybe that's why Football News said Foehr "has done a remarkable job . . . of making all aspects of football understandable."

How and where in the world did she get this idea of writing a book to show and tell women about football?

"It's not my intention to coerce you into liking football because it's the 'in' thing to watch and talk about all fall," she said. "But I'll bet the more you learn and understand what's happening on the field, the more fun you'll have, and you'll see how the game can be addictive."

As for herself, Foehr "could sit and watch three NFL games — just ask my husband — and never be bored."

AN INSATIABLE football fan since her days at Ohio University, Foehr got hooked on the NFL when she and her husband Donald began attending Detroit Lions games, using his company's tickets. When the Lions moved to the Pontiac Silverdome, the Foehrs bought season tickets. Foehr hasn't missed but one home game in 15 years.

"We would always take another couple with us because we had four tickets," she said. "It usually was so obvious that the other woman did not know much about the game. She was mostly people watching or bored to death. I was having such a good time."

She later taught a football class for women at the Birmingham Community House. In addition to meeting with rousing popularity, it gave her a chance to stockpile her football knowledge.

Four years ago, she took a course on writing for publication and hit the word processor. It took her book about nine months to hit the 10,000 copies sold mark.

"Let's face it, football is a game you're either going to love or hate," she said. "If you read the book and still feel that you don't like the game, then forget it. But at least you tried."

So break out the munchies — and don't forget the dip — cuddle up to your significant other and watch the game(s). But, one thing. If at all possible, get control of the remote control. That way you'll get to see an entire game, instead of part of the game, some of a Winston Cup stock car race and a smidgeon of a movie.

From electronic board games to the real thing at the Pontiac Silverdome and her football autographed by members of the Detroit Lions, Donna Foehr is a football fan. STEVE CANTRELL/staff photographer

You can help spread the message of a safe and happy holiday season for all. For the second year, The Observer & Eccentric Newspapers have joined efforts with the Mothers Against Drunk Driving (MADD) by distributing red ribbons in all of their newspapers during Thanksgiving week. The red ribbons are a reminder for all not to drink and drive. An extra supply of red ribbons were ordered this year.

If your group would like a supply of red ribbons to distribute, call our Promotion Department at 591-2300 Ext. 441. Supplies are limited.

Let's work together to change the meaning of "Tie One On." The Observer & Eccentric Newspapers are proud to help deliver the message about the dangers of drinking in the communities we serve.

Life photos document turbulent 60s decade

With a 200-print exhibition by more than 100 photographers, the exhibition "Life: Through the Sixties" documents the years when every event became a media event. Photo opportunities abounded, from the installation of a young new president in his Camelot-on-the-Potomac to the technological triumph of man's first moon walk. The exhibition, made possible by United Technologies Corporation with the collaboration of Life magazine, is free at the Detroit Institute of Arts, DIA, through Sunday, Dec. 30.

Selected from the picture magazine's archives, it begins in 1956 where an earlier exhibition, "Life: The Second Decade" (at the DIA in 1986/87) concluded, and extends through the 1972 finale of Life as a weekly magazine. It is the first in the Life exhibitions to include full-color photographs, reflecting the magazine's pioneering use of color. The turbulent 60s were a decade of police actions and flower power, bus boycotts and acid trips, Woodstock and Watts. The 60s were a time of unprecedented change in culture and politics in the United States and throughout the world. Among the staff and freelance photojournalists who recorded these events for Life were Eve Arnold, Larry Burrows, Ralph Crane, Alfred Eisenstaedt, Carl Mydans, Gordon Parks, Philippe Halsman, Gjon Mili and John Loengard. Epic events, flamboyant personalities and political struggles were plentiful: the nation's African-Americans found their vote in Rev. Martin Luther King, Jr., and began their march toward civil rights. What started as a trickle of news from the jungles of Vietnam grew to a torrent of disturbing images, a shocking massacre of unarmed civilians was discovered at My Lai, stirring protestors to violence on college campuses across the country. Liberalism was crushed in Prague, Castro seized control in Cuba, and Kennedy and Khrushchev narrowly averted nuclear disaster.

On the lighter side, the Beatles arrived, heralding an invasion by British rock-and-roll bands, while Americans such as Bob Dylan, Janis Joplin and Joan Baez strummed anthems for the hippie culture. Psychedelia became high fashion as miniskirts, bellbottoms, Afros and dashikis blossomed across the nation.

Artist Georgia O'Keeffe sits beside the chimney on the roof of her desert ranch in New Mexico. Photograph by John Loengard, 1968.

The exhibit was curated by Doris O'Neill, director of Vintage Prints at Life magazine, and was organized and circulated by the International Center of Photography. The exhibition is free to the public during regular museum hours: 9:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m., Wednesday-Sunday, closed Monday, Tuesday and holidays. "Life: Through the Sixties" a fully illustrated catalog is available in hard ($39.95) and soft ($25) cover at the DIA Museum Shop.

Dear Readers: Today's column is based on an excellent article in the Dec. 15 issue of 'Bottom Line - Personal' newsletter, a magazine designed to help busy people manage their personal lives more effectively, free from the influence of advertising. According to Martin Edelman, publisher of the fast-growing newsletter, management consultant Peter Drucker once asked him "How are the meetings at your company?" After receiving the answer he no doubt expected - "Pretty bad, but meetings at all companies are..." Drucker made a suggestion. "Have everyone who comes to the meeting prepared to give two ideas for making his/her own work or his department's work more productive - or ideas for helping the company as a whole," he said. According to Edelman, that simple suggestion had an amazing effect on the productivity and effectiveness of their meetings and corporate operations. More importantly, it changed the way their employees think about saving money without reducing the quality of their product, improving customer service, organizing the work flow and helping each other. Their company is now saving hundreds of thousands of dollars as a result of putting into practice literally thousands of suggestions over the last two years. These include everything from providing better coffee, to improving the phone system to delivering improved products and service to their customers. As part of this program, employee ideas are written on Post-It notes in order to keep down wordiness. Six notes are then placed on a page and photocopied. Each week these ideas are reviewed and ranked A, B or C by the president. All ideas are taken seriously, all useable ideas are tracked regularly, and each and every suggestion receives a response. Pending files are maintained, with notes on who is working on which ideas, progress made and comments about obstacles until the idea becomes an accomplishment. In addition, special luncheons are held regularly to focus on particular functions of the company. Reports are distributed monthly and small monetary rewards are issued for every "A" idea. The person with the highest number of "A" ideas in a month gets an additional $50, and the best idea each month earns tickets to a show or concert of the winner's choice. Special cash awards are made for big money-saving ideas. It now takes about 20 hours per week to keep track of their system, with the number of suggestions actually growing. This has resulted, Edelman reports, in an intensely positive spirit and great cooperation among team members. Their turnover rate is nearly 0 and they enjoy an "envious record" of absenteeism and lateness. This idea is working for big and small companies, groups of professionals and families. "It works," Edelman reports enthusiastically. "Try it. If at first it doesn't succeed, study the flaws, come up with ideas to avoid or correct them - and try again." "Bottom Line - Personal," is published twice monthly. Their address is 330 West 42nd Street, New York 10036. Copies of the original article can be obtained by sending a stamped self-addressed business envelope to the attention of Kim Penney.

Who cares what time it is? Now you can place your Observer & Eccentric Classified Ad 24 hours a day! Here's how it works: First, you must have a touch-tone telephone. Then, all you do is call us - remember, it doesn't make any difference if we're not here - to place an ad, cancel one or change something on one you've placed earlier. Let's say it's 10 o'clock at night and you've just realized that you forgot to include the fact that the car you're selling has air conditioning. It's a good selling point, so you punch up our classified number and wait for the operator to guide you through the steps for changing your ad. Have in mind the exact information you want to give us, speak clearly and a bit slower than you usually do. And that's it. If it's after 5:00 p.m. on Tuesday, your changes will be made for the next Monday paper. Or, if it's after 5:00 p.m. on a Friday or the weekend, your changes will hit the Thursday papers. Pretty neat, huh? Of course, our Classified Ad Takers are here every Monday through Friday from 8:00 a.m. until 5:30 p.m. But now, if you miss them, you can still do something about your ad - at your convenience.

The Hotel Baronette, under construction in Novi, is one of only a handful of new hotels scheduled to open next year in an overbuilt southeast Michigan market.

3-year hotel construction halt predicted

By Doug Funke
staff writer

Occupancy rates and average daily room charges for hotels in metro Detroit are expected to decline during 1990 for the third year in a row, according to a study compiled by the accounting/consulting firm of BDO Seidman.

That's good news for business travelers heading here and locals who enjoy getaway weekend packages. Oversupply generally leads to change between this year, $63.18, and last, $63.86.

Since 1986 available hotel room nights here have soared from just under five million to more than 10.2 million annually.

Occupancy in Troy/Madison Heights is projected at 59 percent this year compared to 65 percent in 1989. It was 71 percent in 1987.

Average daily rate this year is expected to decline to $55.55 from $59.84 and from $63.02 in 1987.

OCCUPANCY IN hotels along the I-696/Lodge corridor, which includes Southfield and Farmington Hills, is expected to decline to 49 from 48 percent. It was 58 percent three years ago.

But average daily rate is projected to rise to $64.25 from $63.50 in 1989. The rate was $62.12 in 1987.

Occupancy along the I-275/I-96 west corridor, which includes Canton, Plymouth, Livonia and Novi, is expected to slip to 58 percent this year from 60 percent in 1989. The rate was 77 percent in 1986.

Average daily rate along that corridor also is expected to increase from last year — $53.86 compared to $53.64. The rate in 1987 was $56.30.

The Seidman study projects an occupancy rate of 56-60 percent and an average daily rate of $56-60 for the metro Detroit area as a whole in 1991.

Occupancies in the range of 60-65 percent are considered to be acceptable in the industry, Carlson said.

A report prepared by the consulting firm of Pannell, Kerr and Foster indicated an occupancy rate of 62 percent for hotels in the north central part of the U.S. last year.

SEVERAL HOTELS have opened in the suburbs this year.

They include the Troy Marriott with 350 rooms, Comfort Inn in Livonia, 112 rooms, a 250-room Marriott at Detroit Metropolitan Airport and Hampton Inn, Dearborn, 119 rooms.

Scheduled to open next year are Hilton Suites in Auburn Hills, 224 units, Hotel Baronette in Novi, 149 rooms, and the International Hotel in Grosse Pointe, 180 suites.

William McLaughlin, president of the Metropolitan Detroit Convention and Visitors Bureau, acknowledged the irony of oversupply in the suburbs with the metro area's inability to attract more major conventions due to lack of hotels downtown.

"No doubt there's a frustration," he said. "It has been for many years."

Buyer backs out

What recourse does a seller have when a buyer at closing does not want to go through with the sale? The seller, after notification that the mortgage was approved, started packing, took time off to move and lost income from his activities. What if the seller already had a commitment to buy another place? Is the credit rating of the defaulting buyer affected? Must the defaulting purchaser compensate the seller other than just deposit monies?

You have asked a number of questions, the answers to which depend in part on the terms and conditions of the purchase agreement. Generally, in the event of a default by a buyer, the seller is entitled to foreseeable damages that could be expected under the purchase agreement. Generally, the purchase agreement provides that the seller may maintain the earnest money deposit as liquidated damages, which basically means that the parties have agreed that in the event of a default, the amount of earnest money is deemed to be the measure of damages sustained by the seller.

But in a carefully worded purchase agreement, the seller also retains the right to pursue specific performance, that is, to make the buyer purchase the unit (which is not usually a viable remedy) or to seek actual damages incurred by the seller because of the buyer's breach. Those damages may include expenses incurred by the seller regarding the sale, potential loss of income from his activities, the difference in the marketability of the property, and perhaps mortgage interest and the like, depending upon whether the seller committed to buy another home and must close.

It is questionable whether the credit rating of the buyer would be affected by this decision on his part unless he ends up being sued and a judgment is obtained against him. Obviously, to the extent that the parties in drafting a purchase agreement contemplate these or other situations arising, adequate provisions should be placed in the purchase agreement providing both the seller and the buyer with adequate and varied remedies in the event of a documented default by to the other party.

I would like your comments on the following set of circumstances that has come to my attention as a board member. The other board members don't seem to be too concerned. Our managing agent has been given the discretion to let certain contracts, the price for which being set by the board. What apparently is happening is the managing agent is going out and obtaining a contract, which he signs on his own behalf with a contractor, collects the amount which we have authorized for the contract, and then apparently renegotiates the contract with the contractor and keeps the difference. Somehow I think this is wrong. Your comments?

It depends on what the management company has disclosed to the board. If the board believes that the contractor is involved in going to work for the price as initially represented to the association board, which resulted in the board providing authorization for the contract figure, and the management company then changes that figure through negotiations or duress on the contract, that is obviously an abuse of the management company's discretion and it may well be improper.

If in fact the management company is being offered a financial incentive to get cheap contracts, it is not necessarily helped by the fact that the management company is able to negotiate a cheaper contract without the association gaining the benefits of it. It looks like the management company has found a way to pocket additional money, perhaps while low-balling the management fee to the association to get itself in the door. I think this is an extremely questionable practice and would suggest that you have your association's attorney write an opinion letter regarding the propriety of same assuming, of course, that the attorney does not have a proprietary or financial arrangement with the management company. In that case, you had better consider new legal counsel and a new management company.

But the decline isn't especially good news for hotel operators and, perhaps down the line, for those who work in the hospitality industry. As revenues shrink, profit margins tend to decrease and belt tightening could lead to job cutbacks. A mediocre market has evolved at the dawn of a new decade due to tremendous overbuilding in the tri-county suburbs and Ann Arbor/Ypsilanti.

Since 1986, according to the BDO Seidman report, available hotel room nights here have soared from just under 5 million to more than 10.2 million annually.

"PROBABLY FOR a good three to four years, at least, there won't be any substantial new development of hotels," said Wanda L. Spencer, senior manager for the hospitality consulting group at BDO Seidman.

A look at Seidman's numbers tells why.

• For the entire metro area including the central business district of Detroit, occupancy rate for 1990 is estimated at 57 percent, down from 58 percent last year and 66 percent in 1987.

• Average daily room rate for the metro area this year is estimated at $56.94, down from $57.49 last year and $60.46 reported in 1987.

"I think the report is disconcerting," said Haydn Kramer, general manager for Residence Inn by Marriott, Troy. "It's obvious our industry is in for some difficult times, I would guess, at a minimum for the next five years."

Russell Carlson, general manager of the Berkshire Hotel in Southfield, was a little more optimistic about a recovery, though he did acknowledge the problem.

"I THINK demand will catch up to market supply in another year or year and a half," he said. "There is definitely an oversupply of hotel rooms in the area."

Even most suburban submarkets are expected to show slight declines in occupancy and room rates this year.

Occupancy in an area designated North Woodward, which includes Birmingham and Bloomfield Hills, Rochester Hills and Auburn Hills, will slip to 54 percent this year from 56 percent in 1989, Seidman projects. The figure was 69 percent just three years ago.

Average daily rate — $69.57 in 1987 — is expected to show little

WRITE IT AND REAP!

1. Give the reader specific information. Pretend you are someone reading the classifieds. What would you like to know about the item, service or job you are advertising? Be sure to add details such as color, size, condition, brand name, age, features and benefits. Be accurate! Don't embellish your ad with misleading information. Stick to the facts and reap the rewards!

2. Include the price. Don't waste your time or a potential buyer's time. If you advertise the price of the item or service you offer, the people who respond to your ad will be those who are genuinely interested. Surveys show that readers are more interested in those items and services they know are within their price range.

3. Avoid abbreviations. Don't make a potential customer work too hard! Although you may be tempted to cut down on the cost of your ad by using abbreviations, surveys indicate that many people don't understand such abbreviations as EIK (eat-in kitchen) or WSW (white side wall) tires and won't take the time to figure them out. A confused reader is a disinterested reader. Get the most for your money and use complete words.

4. Include phone number and specify hours. Be sure to let potential customers know when and where to call. Surveys show that even if a person is very interested in your item or service, he or she will not call back after the first attempt. Stay near the phone during the hours you indicate you will be available. Don't risk missing a sale!

5. Run on consecutive days. Your ad will not get results if people don't see it! Therefore, it is important to set up a consistent and consecutive ad schedule with your telephone salesperson or outside sales representative.

HOROSCOPE

December 2 through December 8

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21)
A better understanding of co-workers will help work go more smoothly. A greater good is to come from a difficult situation.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19)
An old friend contacts you toward the end of the week. Spend quality time with young people; they need your attention and guidance.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18)
There are some situations that you should handle alone, and you will come across one this week. Don't involve others unnecessarily.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20)
Control your hostile feelings toward those in authority. Use that energy in a more positive way, and you will achieve great success.

ARIES (March 21-April 19)
Communication with loved ones could be strained. Listen to their side of the story, and don't assume you are automatically right.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20)
Don't let office gossip get to you. Don't try to dispel rumors; it will only make things worse. Something good is coming into your life soon.

By C.C. Clark

GEMINI (May 21-June 20)
Friends will surprise you with wonderful gifts of love. A short trip may be in order. A new attitude toward finances will be rewarded.

CANCER (June 21-July 22)
You will make definite gains where finances are concerned. Look after the elderly. A well-meaning relative could cause confusion.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22)
A person from your past wants to rectify a mistake made many years ago. Use your talents for organization to straighten out a serious situation.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22)
It will be easier than usual to stick to a schedule. A youthful person brings joy to your life; take some time to encourage them to do their best.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22)
Your many talents will shine this week. A mate or relative could change your plans. A business opportunity is just around the corner.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21)
Though finances are tight, don't be all work and no play. Just make sure playing doesn't cost you too much. Rely on your intuition.

STAR NOTES

A man, a woman and 'a magic adage'

By Amy Schmidt

No boxes, no props, no glitter. These are not things which make the act of magicians Jonathan and Charlotte Pendragon. The avant-garde couple who describe their magic act as "sensual," "gothic," "physical" and "theatrical," will appear on Jonathan Winters: Magic and Comedy, Saturday, Dec. 8, on Showtime.

The Pendragons are becoming more and more widely known. The duo won the "Best Illusionists" award this year at the International Magic Awards; Charlotte Pendragon won the highest award any woman ever has — Magician of the Year. Additionally Time-Life's forthcoming book Vanishings, will include a two-page color pictorial of them, making them the only living magicians in the book.

What makes these magicians different? For one thing, the two are equally matched on stage. Jonathan performs illusions on Charlotte and vice versa. "You have a feeling of a very tight relationship between two people," said Jonathan Pendragon.

Part of their routine involves the illusion of Charlotte coming through Jonathan's chest. Another illusion, "Metamorphosis," is a classic trick, but the Pendragons do it faster than anyone has ever done before. "Like a magician uses his hands to manipulate cards, we manipulate our bodies to present an illusion," said Pendragon.

Cable Comments

By LARK L. SAMOUELIAN
Executive Director,
SW Oakland Cable Comm.

The Archdiocese of Detroit has a Pastoral Telecommunications Center in downtown

Detroit. They formed the Parish Video Team Ministry as an evangelical tool for the Parish Community.

Sixty-five Parishes throughout the Metropolitan Detroit Area have begun grassroots teams. There are about twelve people on each video team. The Ministry uses outreach programs, training, equipment skill expertise and sharing of resources accomplish its mission.

To consolidate this information, an Association for the Parish Video Team Ministry has been formed. The participants share problems, concerns and success stories. As a networking group they decide criteria for training and certification. The last portion of each session is dedicated to training on equipment. The training began with work on the Panasonic Industrial Grade Equipment and has progressed to include the 8mm and High 8 VHS options. The teams are encouraged to purchase industrial grade equipment so that the groups will be uniform. This is the same concept that most cable companies follow.

Most people who become involved, already have an aptitude for video. They also have a natural reverence for the liturgy being celebrated. The spokespersons and directors of these projects include Monsieur Humitz and Mr. Mick Rizzo. They also encourage interested people to take the local cable company's television workshops. This instruction will help fine tune their skills and make them aware of the requirements necessary for quality cable casting,

St. Fabian Director's Board

Ed Buatti
Joe Bruetsch

John Apouri

and the idiosyncracies unique to television.

If this is news to you and you have friends or family in other areas who may be interested in these programs they should contact their parish or cable company to begin television workshops. The cable companies in the area are:

- Barden — Detroit, Inkster.
- Booth — Birmingham, Beverly Hills, Franklin, Bloomfield Hills, Bloomfield Township.
- Cablevision of Dearborn — Dearborn.
- Columbia Cablevision of Michigan — Ann Arbor, Ypsilanti.
- Comcast — Pontiac, Sterling Heights, Warren, Waterford.
- Continental — Dearborn Heights, Hazel Park, Keego Harbor, Westland, Southfield, Sylvan Lake.
- Greater Media — White Lake, Highland Twp., Milford Twp., Milford Village, Lyon Twp., Wixom, Wolverine Lake, Commerce Twp., Walled Lake.

MetroVision — Farmington, Farmington Hills, Novi, Livonia, Redford.

Omnicom — Belleville, Canton, Northville, Northville Twp., Van Buren Twp.

United — Pleasant Ridge, Royal Oak, Troy, Rochester and Twp., Oakland Twp., Auburn, Berkley, Clawson, Ferndale, Huntington Woods.

Wyandotte Municipal Cable — Wyandotte.

Parishioners of St. Fabians of Farmington Hills have formed a Parish Video Team of Ministry. The group began when Joe Bruetch and Frank Bennis went to the Parish Video Team Sessions and St. Fabians agreed to contribute video equipment. The group covers Communion, Baptisms, Confirmations, Lent Series and Advent Series along with other events. Frank moved to England, so other people such as Ed Buatti, John Akouri and Bryan Warras became involved.

"I had never held a camcorder in my life!" exclaimed Jo Bruetch. "I just had an interest in helping the parish in some way and Father Norbert Kendzierski and Principal Sister Loretelle have been very supportive," he said.

The video programs are stored in the Parish Library so that anyone may take them home if they missed an event. They are anticipating projects involving the youth in Appalachia and a history of the St. Fabian's Parish. Joe is now incorporating slides and film along with the video. We look forward to seeing these programs someday soon on our community channels. People who are unable to leave their homes would welcome the programming which would bring all aspects of their church to them.

'The Trials of Rosie O'Neill' has a 'fortysomething' appeal

Sharon Gless now sits on opposite bench

By Amy Schmidt

From a good family and well educated, Rosie was an overachiever. But her middle-aged husband left her, anyway, for a younger woman. Such are "The Trials of Rosie O'Neill," CBS' drama about a lady lawyer who exits her ivory tower in the corporate sky to defend the poor and the indigent here on earth.

Although the show is really about Rosie, Sharon Gless, who plays the part, says the public-defender aspect makes it even more interesting: "Playing a public defender you meet some odd clients. Some are very tragic and some are very funny." In an early episode she defends a rapist and gets him acquitted. Not funny. How could Rosie (and Gless) defend a person like that? "Everybody deserves the best defense possible," said Gless defending her character and the American way.

So where has Gless been since she won two Emmys and a Golden Globe for her role as Christine Cagney on "Cagney & Lacey?"

"I took two years off after 'Cagney & Lacey,' saying that I didn't want to do a series again," said Gless. "I started becoming sort of a hermit. I didn't want to go into town. I didn't want to work. I bought a house at the beach—I must say, it was the best two years of my life. But then I thought, 'I better go back to work if I'm going to keep my beach house,'" she laughed.

Gless decided she wanted to do a one-hour show with her former "Cagney & Lacey" producer, and current boyfriend, Bernie Rosenzweig. But Rosenzweig was reluctant to mix business with pleasure. "Fine. Then I'll have to go to somebody else," Gless told him when push came to shove. "Someone else will be my mentor, and I'll have to talk to someone else about my work." Bernie got the message.

A slew of scripts crossed Gless and Rosenzweig's desks, including a lot of comedies. "Everything was a sitcom," said Gless. "But I wanted to do a show where I could talk to women."

A social worker? A cop? A doctor? What role would Gless play? The social worker bit didn't work for her or Rosenzweig, she said, "and Bernie just laughed at the thought of me playing a doctor."

The two settled on "The Trials of Rosie O'Neill" and took their idea to CBS. The network never even saw a pilot. They bought the show based on Rosenzweig and Gless' track records.

Like "Cagney & Lacey," "The Trials of Rosie O'Neill" is designed to appeal to women ages 35 and up. "We call our show 'fortysomething,'" kidded Gless. There are differences though. "Christine was more like superhero—'Go ahead. Make my day.' Rosie is much more real."

Gless said her character is going to grow and get over the hurt of her divorce during the course of the show. Rosie's ex-husband has already remarried.

"Rosie wanted to change herself because of what happened to her," said Gless. "What she's going to eventually learn is that his infidelity had nothing to do with her. It was all about him." Gless, herself, has never been married.

"Women who go through it don't know that. They think they did something wrong," said the husky-voiced, matter-of-fact actress. "So I'm gonna show 'em. I'm gonna show 'em that they're all gonna make it."

How is it dating the producer of your own show? "He's my best friend," said Gless. "We don't have time to date, but we certainly know where the other person is."

Instead of busting suspects, Sharon Gless now gets them off the hook. The actress plays the title role on "The Trials of Rosie O'Neill," CBS' drama about a corporate lawyer-turned-public defender. The show airs Mondays.

Q: I appreciated so very much the information you put in the paper about my special hero, Eric Pierpoint. Would you please tell me how Duncan Regehr (Zorro) got started in show business, his credits, how old he is and is he married?
—Vivian Pollard, Lenox, Iowa

A: Duncan Regehr was born Oct. 5, 1954, in Alberta, Canada. He had his own television talk show when he was 14. He became an actor after pursuing careers as a figure skater, Olympic heavyweight boxing hopeful and an artist. He has played a variety of dramatic roles at the Stratford, Ontario, Shakespeare Festival and has done voices for cartoon characters. He made Canadian films and starred in a Canadian TV series before arriving in Hollywood in 1981. He and his wife Catherine, a writer, are happily married. They reside in Los Angeles, where Regehr has been in demand by casting directors since his performance as the gladiator in Pompeii. His other credits include the television movies The Blue and the Gray, Goliath Awaits, My Wicked, Wicked Ways and Earth Star Voyager. His feature films include The War Is Over, The Newcomers and The Monster Squad.

BITS AND PIECES

Pernell Roberts to portray doctor, but it's not Trapper John Pernell Roberts will return to television in the cast of Donor, a dramatic new motion picture-for-television also starring Melissa Gilbert and Jack Scalia and set for broadcast Dec. 9 on CBS. Roberts plays Dr. Martingale, the chief of staff in a hospital where a horrifying cover-up involving human experimentation and murder is taking place.

Family Dog, a new half-hour animated comedy series which explores the life of a family's pet dog, has begun production in Los Angeles for future broadcast on CBS. Steven Spielberg, Tim Burton and Dennis Klein are executive producers. The series centers on the day-to-day concerns and dog-sized adventures of a nameless family dog, looking for a sunny place to nap, digging up and burying bones, avoiding confrontations with larger neighboring dogs and relating to his human family, the Binfords. The Binfords are aware of the dog but are mostly wrapped up in their own concerns. The series is based on an episode of Amazing Stories.

Jerry Lewis, the comedian actor, is currently in demand as a TV director. He has been signed to direct an episode of Viacom Entertainment's weekly series Super Force. He most recently directed episodes of CBS' Wiseguy.

Pernell Roberts

After 50 years of playing the game of cat-and-mouse in more than 200 cartoon shorts, Academy Award-winners Tom & Jerry will hit the big leagues when they star in their first feature-length film. The film also offers the duo another first: the chance to finally speak their minds!

Keenen Ivory Wayans, creator and star of the comedy series In Living Color, will host the 18th annual American Music Awards. The three-hour prime-time special will air on ABC, Monday, Jan. 28.

Miguel Ferrer stars in CBS' new action cop drama Broken Badges, Saturdays.

'Dallas' has developed rich history in 13 years

By Steven Alan McGaw

Dallas is now in its 13th season. Here's a chance for avid viewers to test how closely they've paid attention.

Questions:

1. Let's get this out of the way first: Who shot J.R.?
2. Over the years, two actors have played Digger Barnes. They are...
3. Early on, Pam and Sue Ellen were rivals. What was the nature of the competition between them?
4. You may not remember this at first, but name the two actors who have played Gary Ewing.
5. J.R. has been married four times. The question is, to whom?
6. Name the two stars who have stuck with the show since the beginning.

Answers:

1. At the end of the '79-'80 season, J.R. was shot by Kristen Shepard.
2. Keenan Wynn and David Wayne.
3. Each of them was eager to produce the first Ewing heir.
4. David Ackroyd and Ted Shackelford have played Gary.
5. J.R. married Sue Ellen, divorced her, remarried and divorced her again. He's married (ally twice) the first time at gunpoint. Their second, more formal nuptials took place at Southfork.
6. Only Larry Hagman and Ken Kercheval have never strayed from Big D.

FAMILY FAIRE

Mary Poppins pops on to Disney Channel

By Lee Irby

The holiday spirit is in the air at The Disney Channel.

On Sunday, Dec. 2, Julie Andrews becomes the "practically perfect" nanny who comes to live with the Banks family in 1910 London. She enjoys a jolly holiday with her friend Bert the chimney sweep and the two Banks children in the time-honored classic Mary Poppins.

Then on Thursday, Dec. 6, Disney exclusively premieres A Hobo's Christmas, starring Barnard Hughes and Gerald McRaney. With Christmas only a week away, hobo Chance Carson has decided to visit his only son, Charlie, whom he has not seen in more than 25 years. The son is not enthusiastic about the visit, but Chance's two grandchildren are delighted by his colorful stories about life riding the rails.

Also premiering this week is the ABC Afterschool Special, "Stood Up." The story focuses on a teenage girl, Becky, who is stood up by a senior class hunk for the school prom.

LET'S TALK

Morgan Fairchild hails from the Lone Star State

By Polly Vonetes

Q: I want to know, is my favorite actress, Morgan Fairchild, married? And where was she born? I read in Star Magazine that she is from California. Is this true? — "Anthony," Lufkin, Texas

A: Texas has the honor of claiming the beautiful Morgan Fairchild. Born in Dallas (Feb. 3, 1950), she is proud to call Texas her home state. As of this writing, she is single.

Q: I would appreciate some information about Kate Jackson and Bruce Boxleitner. I really enjoyed the show Scarecrow & Mrs. King. Are they married to each other? If not, who are they married to, and are they making any new movies or TV shows? — Nancy Goodwin, The Woodlands, Texas

A: Both Kate Jackson and Bruce Boxleitner have been married to others; neither is married at the present time. Both would like to do another series and are considering scripts for the future. Both are coming on the small screen in movies. Kate just starred with Rick Schroder in the CBS movie The Stranger Within. Bruce is starring in a Judith Krantz miniseries, Wait Until Tomorrow, scheduled to air in the spring.

Q: When I was 9 years old, I would listen to The Lone Ranger on the radio. I sent for an autographed picture of him that was offered for 50 cents. Well, I have kept it all these 51 years, and it looks just like the day I got it. I would like to know how I could write to Mr. Clayton Moore (The Lone Ranger) and tell him about my picture. — Eleanor Fish, Machias, N.Y.

A: I hope this address will work for you. Write to: Mr. Clayton Moore, 4720 Park Olivo, Calabasas, CA 91302.

Send your questions about the world of entertainment to: Polly Vonetes, Let's Talk, P.O. Box 17748, Fort Worth, Texas 76102-0748. Because of the volume of mail, only questions of general interest can be answered.
