Cancelled Apple Fest is on again

By Kevin Brown
staff writer

They'd actually cancelled the Old Village Apple Fest this year.

But when Sherry Bush and some other Liberty Street store owners talked of going with a street fair instead, some other Old Village business people wanted to join it.

SO THEY decided to bring back the Apple Fest.

"I've got over 50 vendors coming in and approximately 45 shops are going to set out," said Bush, adding those numbers are bigger than last year.

The Apple Fest is scheduled from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Saturday and Sunday.

New this year are a baby contest and the selection of an Apple Fest king and queen.

The contests are scheduled for Saturday. Registration is from noon-3 p.m., and judging will start at 3 p.m.

Babies will be judged in two categories, one-year-olds and two-year-olds. Winners in the four contests will each get a $50 savings bond.

On Sunday, kids 5-10 can enter a "Decorate Your Wagon" contest. "Decorate grandma and grandpa, the family dog or cat, or whoever, as long as they're in the wagon," Bush said. "Let your imagination run wild."

Registration for the contest is from 1-2 p.m. Sunday, with a wagon parade and judging at 3 p.m.

Musical entertainment at this year's Apple Fest takes a turn toward country, with Ms. Lee and the Country Classics and the Wolf Creek Band scheduled to perform, among other entertainers.

The Apple Fest will offer antiques, crafts, auctions, quilting demonstrations, face painting, a used book sale, a moon walk, a variety of food and more.

GIFT CERTIFICATES from Plymouth merchants will be given as prizes.

Serving as judges for the contests are Mayor Jack Kenyon, City Manager Steve Walters, Acting Police Chief Robert Scoggins, Mayflower Hotel co-owner Creon Smith, funeral director Win Schrader, and other prominent business people.

Auctions are scheduled from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m. and 3-5 p.m. both days, on Liberty Street.

Bush said this year, they plan to have the Apple Fest pay for itself. "We're not likely to make a profit this year," she said. The event will be a success "if people come and everybody's happy."

She said promoters of Old Village are trying to key on the area's historical heritage, to draw interest in the Apple Fest and street fairs promoters plan to schedule.

The Old Village area was founded in the 1870s near the railroad tracks between Mill and Starkweather, and served as Plymouth's first downtown.

Candidate debate

The League of Women Voters of Northville-Plymouth-Canton is sponsoring a Candidates Forum for the seven candidates for Plymouth City Commission.

The forum will be at 7:30 p.m. on Wednesday, Oct. 23, and will take place in the City Commission Chamber at Plymouth City Hall, 201 S. Main.

Candidates will make two-minute opening statements on topics related to their candidacy. Written questions will then be accepted from the audience. The moderator for the forum will be Linda DePoorter from the Oakland Area League. Omnicon will be taping the forum for presentation at a later date.

Miller Woods

Preserving Miller Woods in west Plymouth Township is the goal of an ordinance approved by township trustees Tuesday.

The natural preserve ordinance prohibits transplanting or damaging plants, climbing trees, injuring animals, dumping trash, bringing in domestic animals, or building fires in a township-designated nature preserve.

A group of residents, the Friends of Miller Woods, sought such an ordinance, as plants had been damaged by youths on motor bikes and people who've dumped appliances and garbage in the woods. The Plymouth-Canton Community Schools, owners of the property off Powell Road east of Beck, backed the ordinance.

Goss appointments

Newly elected State Rep. Gerogina Goss, R-Northville, has been appointed to three House committees for the rest of the 1991-92 legislative session.

Goss officially began her legislative duties last week, as she was named to the education, towns and counties, and economic development and energy committees.

The newly elected lawmaker welcomes letters and phone calls from residents of the 36th District, which includes Plymouth, Plymouth Township, and much of Canton.

"I encourage everyone to contact me with their opinions and concerns about government issues," Goss said. "In order to be an effective legislator, I need to have extensive input from the people who elected me."

Her Lansing phone number is 517-373-3816. Her address is the state capitol, Lansing, 48913.

Volleyball league

A coed volleyball league is now being formed. Teams may register at the Canton Parks and Recreation Office or the Plymouth Parks and Recreation Office.

Returning teams from 1990 may register Oct. 1-11; new teams, Oct. 14-25.

The league will meet at West Middle School on Friday evenings, beginning in November and will meet for 14 weeks. Sixteen teams may register.

Fee for the league is $175 per team, plus $15 for each player who lives outside the Plymouth Canton school district.

For information call the Canton office at 397-5110 or Plymouth at 459-6620.

Schoolcraft board member resigns post

By Wayne Peal
staff writer

For the second time this year, there is a vacancy on the Schoolcraft College Board of Trustees.

Trustee Wendell Smith of Plymouth resigned from the board Wednesday to pursue business opportunities in another state.

Smith is moving to Ohio to head up Superpetz, a Dayton, Ohio-based pet supply chain.

"They're going to be giant stores — 35,000 square feet," Smith said. "We're going to be for pets what Toys 'R Us is for children."

His resignation became effective at the conclusion of Wednesday's board meeting.

Trustees last filled a board vacancy in April, appointing Plymouth resident Stephen Ragan.

As with that appointment, board members will conduct face-to-face interviews with applicants before selecting the new board member.

APPLICANTS MUST live within the Schoolcraft College service district. The district includes the Livonia, Plymouth-Canton, Garden City, Clarenceville and Northville public school districts, as well as a small portion of the Novi Schools.

Bruce Patterson, runner up to Ragan in June's board election, said he was considering applying for Smith's seat.

"I'm going to consider it," the Canton attorney said.

Ronaele Bowman, who finished third in the June election, said she would also apply.

Bowman criticized this spring's nominating process, saying she believed board members decided upon Ragan before interviews were completed.

"I hope the process will be handled better this time," she said. "I know I'm still interested in serving."

Smith was elected to a six-year term in 1987. The appointee will fill out the balance of that term, serving from Nov. 20 until June 30, 1993.

Smith had been commuting from Dayton to Plymouth over the past year, while the chain's flagship store was established. He had missed several board meetings in the past year.

A trustee since 1986, Smith was most heavily involved in college financial matters.

He was a booster of the Seven Mile Crossing office complex, built on college land leased to a private developer. Later, Smith proposed a follow up project that would have added retail stores on college land near Six Mile.

That plan, however, received only lukewarm support from his fellow trustees and opposition from Livonia officials concerned about area over development.

At Wednesday's farewell board meeting, however, Smith encouraged the board to continue exploring alternative financing methods.

"IT SEEMS the rich are getting richer, the poor poorer and the middle class is getting squeezed," he said. "It's a dangerous position we're in, especially since we can't count on state aid."

Newly-formed Superpetz plans to expand throughout the Midwest, Smith said, though it currently doesn't plan on expanding into Michigan.

A Michigan State graduate, Smith had been active in establishing a

No honeymoon New state rep tackles school reform bill

By M.B. Dillon
staff writer

For newly elected State Rep. Georgina Goss, R-Northville Township, there was no honeymoon period in the state Capitol.

A few weeks ago on Goss's first day, Gov. John Engler announced sweeping educational reforms at a joint House-Senate session. His "Michigan 2000" pronouncements will affect Goss directly, she's on the Education Committee.

ON THE HOUSE floor Friday, Goss was immersed in the battle to come up with a budget before the imminent end of the fiscal year. Legislators were prepared to remain in session indefinitely. "We might go all night; you just never know," she said during an afternoon recess.

Goss spoke briefly about her vote a few days earlier on the controversial tax-base sharing plan. The legislation, which Engler said he would sign, captures future increases in commercial and industrial tax revenue from affluent school districts and gives it to needy districts.

The former Northville Township supervisor said she made up her mind on that one in minutes.

"That decision was very easy. I didn't have to think

Local readers stricken with 'Scarlett' fever

The book can also be rented for 10 cents a day at the Plymouth library. Among Plymouth readers, "Gone With the Wind" remains popular, said Healy. "It goes out periodically. I always wonder if they've seen Civil War movies and decided they'd like to read it again," said Healy. "We have a lot of Civil War buffs."

"I think the recent Civil War series on television has spurred a lot of interest in that period," said Darlene Ursel, adult reference librarian.

AT CANTON'S LIBRARY, 27 people are on the waiting list for the Warner book. "For a book that has just come out, I would say that's high, and it probably will get worse," said Carol Kuchta, head of reference. "For Danielle Steele books, we have had twice that, but it could happen with this too." Libraries are having a difficult time obtaining the book, Kuchta said. "Right now it's hard to get, because not only libraries, but bookstores are trying to get it. We ordered it a few months ago, so we didn't have a hard time."

"We haven't had mobs of people camping outside our doors, but we have had people calling, asking if we have it," added Kuchta. How good is "Scarlett," which finds the heroine in war-ravaged Ireland? "As far as what I've heard, reviewers and critics say it's not 'Gone With the Wind,'" said Kuchta. Kuchta isn't all that enthused either. "Margaret Mitchell didn't want a sequel. When she was alive, she was constantly asked to write one. She'd say there is no point.

"She felt she'd said everything that needed to be said, and I sort of can see that," said Kuchta. "But her estate decided a sequel could be written. It's written, and people will read it."

Kuchta and fellow librarian Ophelia Lo agree a movie shouldn't be made based on "Scarlett" — and they're adamant about it. "I DON'T THINK they should make a movie. I agree with Margaret Mitchell — leave it the way she wanted it. I don't like sequels for the most part," said Kuchta.

"I don't think there should be a movie," said Lo. "Gone With the Wind" was so visual that filming it with other actors wouldn't be the same. The images of Vivian Leigh and Clark Gable are so ingrained, having someone else play their roles isn't a good idea. If you could get the same actors, that would be fine. But that can't be done."

Joan Bolling, the manager of Metro News in Canton, said 'Scarlett' is selling well in the Canton-Plymouth area.

New state rep sees many challenges ahead

five minutes," she said. "I feel it is unfair to both school districts in the 36th district."

"Northville stands to lose a great deal of money, and so does the Plymouth-Canton district."

Plymouth-Canton Community Schools will lose $982,057, while Northville Public Schools will lose $546,093, according to the House financial analysis office.

The tax-base sharing vote went along district, not party lines, said Goss. "The poor districts of either party pushed through the tax-base sharing," she said.

Revenue sharing in Goss's view is taxation without representation.

"I feel it is the beginning of the end for school millages," she said. "I feel in our particular districts, with assessments being as high as they are, our residents in both school districts have supported their schools heavily. The education of their children is one of their top priorities. However with tax-base sharing, I think most residents will think twice before they vote for millages."

LEGISLATORS INCLUDING State Rep. James Kosteva, D-Canton, support the legislation because it begins to narrow the large gap in per-pupil spending among Michigan school districts.

Goss acknowledges that disparity in per-pupil spending is a problem.

"I understand there is a per-pupil gap, and believe it should be addressed. But I believe the least effective way is to 'Robin Hood' the districts that are doing well."

Goss says she looks forward to tackling educational issues.

"I'm delighted to be on the educa-Georgina Goss tion committee. It's an issue that greatly interests me. One of the issues I ran my campaign on was quality of education in the 36th district. "I believe the Education Committee is going to be facing some important issues dealing with education and Gov. Engler's recent educa-

James Kosteva tional Michigan 2000 address. It contained many exciting new concepts. I really look forward to discussing those in the House Education Committee." Goss also will serve on the Towns and Counties Committee and the Economic Development and Energy Committee.

"I represent Northville Township, Plymouth Township and Canton Township, and because I was supervisor of Northville Township for so long, I believe I fully understand township government and can represent my district well," Goss said.

The Economic Development and Energy Committee formulates energy policy and economic development policy, so I feel it will be an exciting committee, and I think it will benefit the district," she said.

GOSS PREDICTED a "major floor fight" and an "uphill budget battle" for many departments. "It would be better perhaps to have Engler veto line items rather than raise taxes, but I don't believe that will happen. I believe there will be a major floor fight.

"I came in at a difficult time," added Goss. "Sorting through the budget process is challenging and exciting, to say the least."

At times, female newcomers to the Legislature have been mistaken for non-lawmakers and treated accordingly. It's a syndrome sometimes called "the secretary treatment." Goss hasn't experienced it.

"I have had no problems," she said. "Everyone has been gracious and helpful. They've all worked to make this transition easier for me. I love it... I'm delighted to be here."

Pet walk raises money for kids

By Kevin Brown
staff writer

There were big dogs, little dogs, shaggy and short-haired dogs — even some cats and two turtles.

And their owners came in all sizes and ages, from Plymouth, Canton and other area cities, to walk their pets through downtown Plymouth. The occasion was a fund-raiser for Mott Children's Hospital, in the name of a poodle who for years performed for sick kids.

BRANDY THE POODLE died in May — he was nearly 18 years old — but the spirit of his good works was alive in downtown Plymouth on a warm sunny fall Saturday, for the first ever Brandy Memorial Pet Walk.

Dogs and their owners flocked to Kellogg Park prior to the 2 p.m. pet walk registration. Among them was Tasty, a cocker spaniel, with owner Jodi Grambaud of Taylor sitting on the rim of the fountain.

Like other pet walk participants, Grambaud got at least 10 donations to participate. And like several participants, Grambaud got more than was required, 20.

The donors, she said, "thought it was a good thing."

"They thought it was good, it's for children," echoed Debbie Brozovsch of Canton, a student at Plymouth Salem High trying to manage two dogs, Bennington and Dunkin, an apricot poodle resembling Brandy.

Along one side of the gathering, volunteers from Mott's hospital, Eastern Michigan University and Cavalry Baptist Church of Canton registered kids and adults in various age categories.

As his son Eric registered, Dan Packer was telling their dog K.C., "Sit, sit!"

"We're just glad to be here, hopefully they'll have a big turnout," said Packer, of Plymouth. Eric collected 16 donations.

Wally Schram of Canton, registration coordinator, said 172 families registered for the pet walk.

AS BRANDY'S "MOM" Kathy Mount signaled the start of the pet walk," Schram commented, "This looks like a lot of fun."

"A merchant said he was going to be walking a goldfish, I haven't seen him," Schram said laughing.

Sandy Young of Plymouth, and her daughters Alison and Lindsay, grouped around a wagon with two pet turtles. "I think this is just wonderful," she said.

From a stage set up near the Penn Theater, Dianne Baker was leading a group of Girl Scouts through a song she'd written for the occasion: "Brandy, We'll Always Remember You."

Margene Coulter of Plymouth, with her golden retriever Chili, got 39 donations, many from co-workers. "They were just happy to give to the Mott Children's Hospital," she said.

Top donation getters in the various age groups were Jordan Falcusan, 5, of Plymouth, in the 1-9 age group; Char Petersen of Plymouth, in the 10-13 category; Kelly Quashnie, 17, of Canton, in the 14-18 group; and Shirley Vergara of Canton, 22, in the 19-99 group.

Tiffany Bench of Northville brought along her dog Cricket for the walk, but the pooch couldn't keep up so Bench carried him.

Man with mission

Native American works to dispel Indian myths

By Diane Gale
staff writer

The upcoming Columbus Day is a holiday Mickey "Two Eagles" Bulmer would rather ignore.

"We didn't even know we were missing," in 1492 when Columbus "discovered" America, the western Wayne County man said sarcastically.

BULMER'S FATHER was 100 percent Ottawa Chippewa and the elder was taught as a child not to talk about his ancestry. Bulmer, whose mother was German, is making up for lost time.

And his mission is simple: dispel myths about American Indians.

"Everything you see on TV shows Indians as no good: They drank too much and they didn't want to work," Bulmer, 39, said.

The bad image is rampant, he said, especially among children.

To prove the point, he told a story about how he asked a third grade class who thought Indians still scalp. He was shocked when 90 percent said "yes."

"College students aren't much better," he said.

"A lot of them think we live in teepees. And I tell them I have a teepee with a color television and air conditioning."

Bulmer worked one year coordinating a pow wow to celebrate last weekend the Ninth Annual Michigan Indian Day Celebration at the University of Michigan-Dearborn.

BILL BRESLER/staff photographer

Mickey "Two Eagles" Bulmer rejects the idea that Columbus discovered America. He says American Indians were here and weren't lost.

"And I was always sure I didn't lose, no matter what it took."

Bulmer is trying to get more people to speak about American Indian heritage to show people that what you see on television isn't a true representation.

"Native people are the lowest people on the totem pole," he said. "We're so low that we have to reach our hands up out of the ground to let people know that we're here."

"We're not asking for all our land and money back," he said. "Just some respect."

'Native people are the lowest people on the totem pole. We're so low that we have to reach our hands up out of the ground to let people know that we're here.'

Disaster drill

Students play victims; rescuers practice skills

By Diane Gale
staff writer

Wouldn't it be great if we always knew when a disaster was about to strike?

Police, fire and rescue units would be ready and waiting to respond.

And in our make believe world, seconds after the havoc takes place the dead and injured rip-off their fake wounds and go for lunch.

THAT'S WHAT happened last Friday in the soccer fields behind Canton's administration building during a mock disaster drill.

The planned disaster went like this:

Plymouth-Canton Close-Up students were the victims supposedly attending a soccer tournament when a funnel cloud touched down east of Beck Road and north of Newton Road.

The path of the tornado was 300 yards wide. The funnel tore down the Canton Recreation Complex gazebo and the building at the baseball field. Vehicles overturned, trees uprooted and the Canton Historical Museum was demolished.

Still strong, the tornado turned a few degrees north and entered the Glengarry Village subdivision across the street.

Three homes were destroyed. Rooftops were ripped off and the electricity went out for residents and businesses in the area.

Finally the tornado was gone leaving five people dead and 16 injured.

THE ELABORATE drill is a federal safety requirement mandated every four years.

"We're going to check our response time to a major disaster," fire Lt. Donald Adams said early Friday morning before the tornado struck.

"We'll see how prepared we are and the recovery process."

And it gives the high school students a glimpse at how township emergency units would respond to a disaster, Adams said.

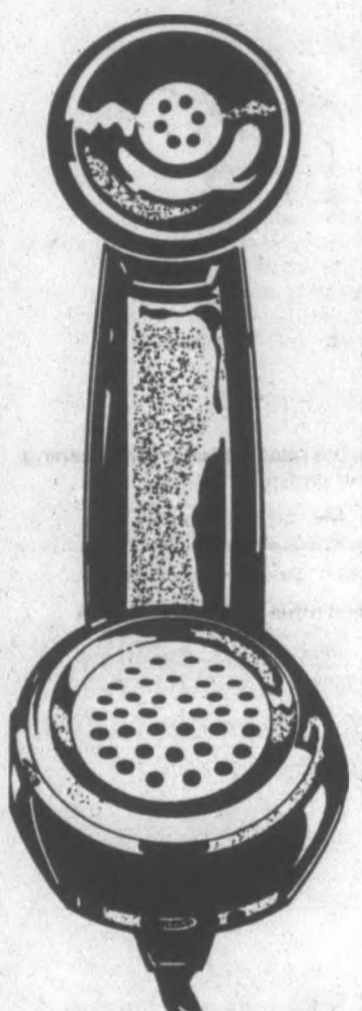

Beth Berger, a sophomore at Plymouth-Canton, laid on the ground with boards strewn on her body. A classmate, Suzan Dauost, had a plastic red glob, representing a wound, attached to her neck.

"Fortunately, we've never really had anything major hit in Canton," Adams said.

Philip Daley, a Canton firefighter, checks the extent of injuries in mock drill done to John Mogelnicki.

Ruling may give benefits to area children

More than 500 western Wayne County children will receive another chance for supplemental Social Security income.

The Social Security Administration is notifying more than 450,000 people nationwide, telling them they are eligible to appeal their denial of supplemental Security Income.

Those notified include children denied benefits between January 1980 and February 1990.

Notices are a result of a recent court agreement. In the case, Sullivan vs. Zebly, the U.S. Supreme Court ruled previous SSA guidelines were too strict in determining disability in people under 18.

Notification informs children of their right of review and asks for a reply within 120 days.

SSA will then set up an interview, though the review process is scheduled to take several months.

Those asking for review will have their claims re-examined under new rules determining disability in children.

Children will receive back benefits if they are deemed eligible for supplemental income under the new rules.

Children who previously denied benefits who haven't receive notification can call SSA at 1-800-234-5772.

Persons who are 65 and older, blind or disabled are also eligible for supplemental income benefits. Benefits are reserved for those with limited income and resources.

People who believe they are eligible can send their name, address and telephone number, birth date, Social Security number to:

Social Security Administration, Field Unit, 26840 W. Seven Mile, Detroit, 48240.

Flu shots are available at several county sites

Flu shots are now available, at nominal cost, for Wayne County residents.

Shots are recommended for people 65 and older and for people with chronic heart and kidney disease, as well as those with diabetes, anemia or impaired immune systems.

A $2 donation is requested, though indigent people may obtain a waiver. No one will be turned away because of a lack of ability to pay, county officials said.

Vaccinations are given at Westland Health Center, Merriman Road, north of Michigan Avenue. Shots are given 8-11:30 a.m. and 1-3:30 p.m. weekdays and 4-7 p.m. Wednesdays. Appointments are required and can be made by calling 467-3319.

Shots will also be given at these sites:

- Redford Community Center - Shots will be given 1-3:30 p.m. Monday, Oct. 7 and 9 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. Tuesday, Oct. 8. Appointments can be made the day of the clinic. Additional information is available by calling 534-6624. The center is at 12121 Hemingway, Redford.
- Plymouth Cultural Center - Shots will be given 9 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. Friday, Oct. 11. Appointments are required and can be made by calling 455-6627. The center is at 525 Farmer, Plymouth.
- Canton Recreation Center - Shots will be given 1-3:30 p.m. Wednesday, Oct. 30. Appointments are required and can be made by calling 397-1000. The center is at 44237 Michigan Ave., at Sheldon Road.
- Sheldon Park - Shots will be given 9 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. Thursday, Nov. 7 and Friday, Nov. 8. Appointments are required and can be made by calling 422-5010. The center is at 10800 Farmington Road, Livonia. The clinic is sponsored by Livonia Senior Citizens.

O&E readers to see 'Our Town' at Stratford

Twenty of the 167 readers who entered the Observer & Eccentric "Our Town" contest have won two tickets to Stratford Festival.

The winners will receive round-trip transportation by bus, lunch at the Church Restaurant and two tickets to the Oct. 5 performance of "Our Town."

The winners are Anne Bennett, Garden City; Bernard Britzys, Farmington Hills; Sonia Fedak, Rochester Hills; Eileen Greenberger, West Bloomfield; Polly Khanna, Orchard Lake; David Lindow, Farmington Hills; Christine Priest, Livonia; Susan Schoen, Livonia; Thelma Walker, Plymouth; Cynthia Burnstein, Plymouth; Mercedes Derbin, Canton; Maureen Hanley, Livonia; Mary Kay Hill, Novi; Linda Kates, Farmington Hills; Dolores Miller, Livonia; Margaret Pehrson, Rochester Hills; Roger Stutesman, Westland; Rose Tome, Plymouth; Phyllis Wilson, Livonia, and James Ayers of Troy.

One hundred five readers qualified for a final drawing by correctly answering the three questions asked. The correct answers were:

- Editor Webb runs the newspaper in Grover's Corners.
- Grover's Corners is a small town in New Hampshire.
- Stratford Festival's first season was 1953.

MAGIC meeting explores science for kids

A potpourri of hands-on science ideas to share with children will be presented by Susan Rushman at the Oct. 8 meeting of Metro Area Gifted Information Consortium (MAGIC).

Rushman is a middle school science teacher at Gibson School in Redford Township. The meeting will be from 8:45-9 p.m. in Gibson, 12925 Fenton, west of Telegraph and one block south of I-96.

MAGIC is a non-profit support group for parents of gifted children. The group sponsors monthly meetings, discussion groups and information exchanges. There is adjunct children's group open to the children of MAGIC members. All meetings are free to members.

A $3 donation is requested of non-members. Refreshments will be served. Those planning to attend should call 451-0623 for reservations.

October sky features clear view of Saturn's rings

Highlights for October, the first full month of autumn, include the best conjunction (grouping) between Venus and Jupiter we will see in many years, the year's best display of Saturn's rings and a meteor shower.

The planets Venus and Jupiter are visible in the predawn sky this month. Saturn is in the evening sky, and Mercury and Mars can not be seen.

The amount of sunlight we receive decreases by one hour and 22 minutes. On Oct. 1 the sun rises at 7:30 a.m. and sets at 7:15 p.m. (Eastern Daylight Time), allowing for a possible 11 hours and 45 minutes of sun. On Oct. 31 these times are 7:05 a.m. and 5:28 p.m. (Eastern Standard Time), for a possible 10 hours and 23 minutes of sun.

Face southeast, about 45 minutes before sunrise, on Oct. 1 and find the moon. It is located in the constellation of Gemini the twins. The bright star 12 degrees to the east (left) of the moon is Castor, five degrees below Castor is Pollux (POL lux). Each star represents the head of each twin. It takes the moon 27 1/2 days to complete an orbit around the earth, so 27 1/2 days from now we will find the moon near this same part of the sky.

Notice Venus, Jupiter and the star Regulus (REG u lus) in the morning sky as well. Venus and Jupiter are the second and third brightest objects that can be seen in a dark sky. (What do you think is the brightest dark-sky object?) Regulus, the brightest star in the constellation of Leo the lion, is nearly midway between the two planets. Venus and Jupiter will be closer together each morning, and be in conjunction on the 16th.

KEEP TRACK of them from morning to morning. On the 2nd, they are nine degrees apart.

Mercury is at superior conjunction on the evening of the 3rd. It is located behind the sun and can not be seen from the earth.

The three brightest dark-sky objects form a nice grouping on the mornings of the 4th and 5th. On the 4th, the waning (fading) crescent moon is immediately adjacent to brilliant Venus. On the next morning the moon, Jupiter and Venus form a large triangle. (Notice how Venus has shifted its position, with respect to Regulus, in just the past three days.)

Saturn is stationary on the evening of the 4th. It has been slowly drifting westward through the stars of Capricorn since May. After the 4th, Saturn will resume eastward motion. (Planets don't really change direction and go forward or backward. The motion is an optical illusion caused when the faster moving earth passes a slower orbiting planet like Saturn. After a period of time, depending on which planet is involved, the illusion ends.)

Saturn is easy to locate; just look toward the south about 45 minutes after sunset and you will see a fairly bright "star." In fact, it will be about the only object you'll see; the stars of Capricorn are very faint so you can be fairly certain that any bright object in this part of the sky is a planet.

skywatch

Saturn's rings are tilted 21 degrees in October, presenting us the best view we will have of them until 1999! As Saturn makes its slow way around the sun (29.5 years for a single orbit), its rings appear differently to us. In 1987 Saturn's north pole was tilted at its maximum toward the sun (and the earth) and the rings were tilted 26.75 degrees. This allowed for an excellent view, but after 1987 the angle began decreasing.

The rings will be edge on in 1995 and disappear from sight. (This last occurred in 1980.) It will be eight years before the rings (having passed the 'edge-on' period) are tilted 21 degrees again. So enjoy the view while you can!

VENUS PASSES 3.3 degrees below Regulus on the morning of the 7th. Venus is now only six degrees from Jupiter.

New Moon is at 5:39 p.m. Eastern Daylight Time, on Oct. 7. The moon is located between the earth and the sun and is not visible.

The waxing (growing) crescent moon is approaching the star Antares (an TAR ees) on the evening of the 11th. Orange-red Antares is the brightest star in the constellation of Scorpius the scorpion. On the following night the moon has passed Antares.

Venus, Jupiter and Regulus still form a nice triangle on the morning of the 12th. Now Venus is three degrees from Jupiter and still closing.

The moon is in Sagittarius for several evenings beginning with the 13th. The moon is above three stars that form the 'spout' of the 'teapot' that marks the constellation of the archer. To the left of the moon is the star that marks the top of the teapot's 'lid.' On the evening of the 14th, the moon is above four stars that represent the 'handle' of the teapot. The 'teapot' is pouring toward the right.

Exec builds case against new county districts

By Wayne Peal
staff writer

The residence of Wayne County's deputy clerk is expected to play a role in the challenge to new county commission districts.

Wayne County Executive Edward McNamara will challenge the districts before the Michigan Court of Appeals — in part because deputy clerk Marya Sieminski, who helped draft the districts, is an Oakland County resident.

Sieminski, an Oak Park resident, replaced county Clerk James Killeen on the five-member county apportionment committee during much of the debate over the new districts.

"WE FIND it interesting that an Oakland County resident had that much influence over Wayne County districts," deputy county executive Michael Duggan said. "It's a point we're going to make."

Sieminski said she doubted whether state appeals court judges would consider her residence an issue.

"State law makes it clear that county clerks can appoint deputies who can fulfill their duties," she said. "And when Mr. Killeen was ill, he wrote a letter to the commission authorizing my participation."

At the time, the veteran clerk was being treated for cancer. A full recovery is expected, Sieminski said. New county commission districts would go into effect for the 1992 election.

'We find it interesting that an Oakland County resident (deputy county clerk Marya Sieminski) had that much influence over Wayne County districts.'

A court challenge could come as soon as this week, Duggan said, though the executive's office is still preparing legal briefs.

Despite concerns about Sieminski's residence, McNamara is primarily upset because the districts appear to weaken his supporters on the commission.

Commissioner Bryan Amann, D-Wayne, would be placed into a district that also includes Maurice Breen, R-Plymouth Township. Kevin Kelley, D-Redford, would see large numbers of GOP-leaning Livonia voters added to his district. Democrats Susan Hubbard of Dearborn and William O'Neil of Allen Park, two additional McNamara supporters, would also be placed in the same district.

"We think the process was tainted from the beginning," Duggan said. "These districts revolve around politics, not fairness."

CONTROVERSY OVER the new commission districts is seen as another example of the rift between McNamara and the United Auto Workers wing of his party.

McNamara has long been at odds with the UAW — Amann's primary challenger received heavy UAW backing — while Killeen has enjoyed strong UAW backing. Sieminski is married to a UAW official.

Apportionment commission members could have revised the districts last week. County Prosecutor John O'Hair, also an apportionment commission member, called for revisions in a letter to commission chairwoman Juliette Okotie-Eboh of Detroit.

Other commission members, however, said they believed the districts were already as fairly drawn as possible.

"I've seen districts for other counties, and these are the best districts I've seen in terms of election law," said Wendy Lamb, the Republican Party nominee to the apportionment commission.

"They're roughly equivalent in terms of population, they don't split many communities and they protect minority districts," said Lamb, an aide to state Sen. Mat Dunaskis, R-Lake Orion.

WHEN MEDICINE CANNOT DO MORE OR BETTER

In the care of your arthritis, you may reach a point where all reasonable therapies failed. Either medication did not work, side effects necessitated stopping the drug, or you noted some relief, but not enough to keep you reasonably pain-free.

If you have rheumatoid arthritis, the experience can be as follows: You started on aspirin, but pain continued in your hands or feet. Other drugs did no better, and caused an upset stomach. You returned to aspirin and your doctor added gold. You improved, but protein in your urine required you to stop gold. You went on methotrexate but your blood count dropped too low to continue the drug. Your physician tried other compounds but these drugs did not help.

Now your feet hurt all the time despite pads, injections and careful choice of shoes. Your fingers are painful, but the hand surgeon recommends waiting because you are too young for hand-joint transplants and your fingers are "not bad enough" for salvage surgery.

At this point your choices are anger accompanied by suffering, or acceptance with the goal of accommodation. Medically, your only choice is accommodation. Evaluate your general health, assistance from others, and the possibility of work. Then set a course that makes best use of these assets.

Results.

An open letter to N.Y. robber

Dear Sir. Or maybe it's "Dear Madam," although I didn't see any women on Crosby Street north of Houston when the thieves struck.

You were fast. You had my suitcase, camera bag and raincoat out of the locked trunk of that black 1990 Mazda in a flash, and you didn't even pop the trunk lock out.

Sorry your screwdriver and hammer didn't work on the driver's side. I guess we rounded the corner too fast. When Eric said "heads up, be alert!" out of the corner of his mouth, you were already drifting away.

It was the first time I had been in New York City for a couple of years. I enjoyed the theater, saw the Seurat exhibit at the Metropolitan Museum and had just finished dinner at K Paul's when you struck. The big room with the small wooden tables was almost empty at 7 p.m. on a Friday night.

There was lots of action on Broadway. No place to park under the bright lights, of course. Nobody ever parks in a dark street by choice, even half a block from the bright lights, but this is New York City.

You weren't very menacing looking men: 30s, poor, baseball caps, a shuffling gait. One beside the Dumpster, two on the driver's side of our car, a third on the opposite side. You saw us and drifted away.

We were eager to get into the car without confrontation so the only thing we noticed was that the key wouldn't go into the driver's door, obviously somebody had tried to get in. We didn't notice until we opened the trunk an hour later that my suitcase, camera bag and raincoat were gone.

We reported the theft to the Ninth precinct. I called the airline to notify them of the stolen ticket and to ask the procedure for replacing it. Common sense suggested that if you didn't show up with my ticket, and I could identify myself as the traveler who bought it, I could use the seat that I reserved and paid for on my flight home. Not so.

The agent told me that I would have to buy a new ticket home, submit a lost-ticket report, and the airline would then consider refunding me the cost of the second ticket minus $50 for the trouble they had taken to replace it.

I objected. It was obviously a great deal more trouble to me than to them.

"I don't make the rules," she said.

I arrived early for my Sunday flight and went through it again. The only ticket available was first class for $315, despite the fact that my seat, bought on a non-refundable $198 round trip ticket, was presumably still aboard.

"If you find your ticket . . ."

"The ticket is not lost, it's stolen . . ."

I bought the $315 return ticket with the one credit card that I still possessed. I am home, waiting for my refund.

You robbed a reasonably affluent business traveler with more than one credit card, friends in New York City and Detroit. I'm lucky. I still have keys to the car was waiting for me at the airport and money to pay the parking fee.

The question I would like to ask you, and the airlines, is what would I have done if I didn't have all those good things going for me? No credit cards, money, friends, car. Would I be sleeping now on the airline terminal floor trying to figure out how to get home?

Getaways close to home — Ohio parks

By Iris Sanderson Jones
special writer

QUESTION: Can you recommend some good weekend getaways now that it is too cold for camping in Michigan? We love the state parks, but we would be interested in any natural setting where we can vacation without spending too much money.

ANSWER: I suggest you go south of the border. Not across the U.S. border to Mexico but across the state border to Ohio, where there are 72 state parks, eight of them with resort lodges and cabins.

It is not exactly summer in Ohio, but it is still a little warmer than it is in Michigan, and of course it gets warmer as you go south.

Most of us don't think of Ohio as a destination except during the theme park season. We drive through it on the way to Florida, but we usually don't stop until we get south of Cincinnati. You may have explored the state park resorts in Kentucky, Tennessee and even Indiana, but have you explored the state park resorts in Ohio?

You can trick or treat from campsite to campsite on Halloween. Dig for fossils in Hueston Woods. Walk through the fall colors from Old Man's Cave to Ash Cave at Hocking Hills. Stay in a horse camp at Malabar Farm. Rent a cabin or a lodge room at Maumee Bay near Toledo. Camp in downtown Cleveland.

Ohio state parks don't turn out the lights and go to sleep for the winter, like Rip Van Winkle. They launch one of their busiest seasons, with festivals and other events on the calendar through the fall and into winter.

Go fishing at one of the 13 state parks reserved only for day use. Reserve one of the 600 cabins or one of the 600 lodge rooms at the eight Ohio State Park Resort and Conference centers. They don't just call them lodges anymore, because they want you to hold meetings, play golf, buy gift certificates, reserve for dinner and otherwise find a new way of looking at a state park resort.

Several pieces of state land, including land surrounding canal feeder lakes, came under the jurisdiction of the Department of Natural Resources when the DNR was formed in 1949. Now they run 72 parks, each with its own personality.

There are 358.5 miles of bridle trails, 500 miles of hiking trails in 64 of the parks, and dozens of things to do that only the insiders know about.

Have you ever hiked Hope Lake, walking the trail into the middle of Zaleski State Forest? You hike past the old Hope Furnace smelters. "If you go far enough, you'll stumble over an old whiskey still, see beaver dams, turn a corner and startle a flock of wild turkeys."

That's Cindy Gates, information specialist at the DNR, who grew up in Maumee, site of the newest Ohio state park, Maumee Bay, and has had a love affair with almost all of the state parks.

"Southeast Ohio is the most scenic area. The lay of the land is gorgeous so there are vistas year-round. In the southwest, you can get permits to dig for fossils in Hueston Woods, Stone Lick and Caesar Creek.

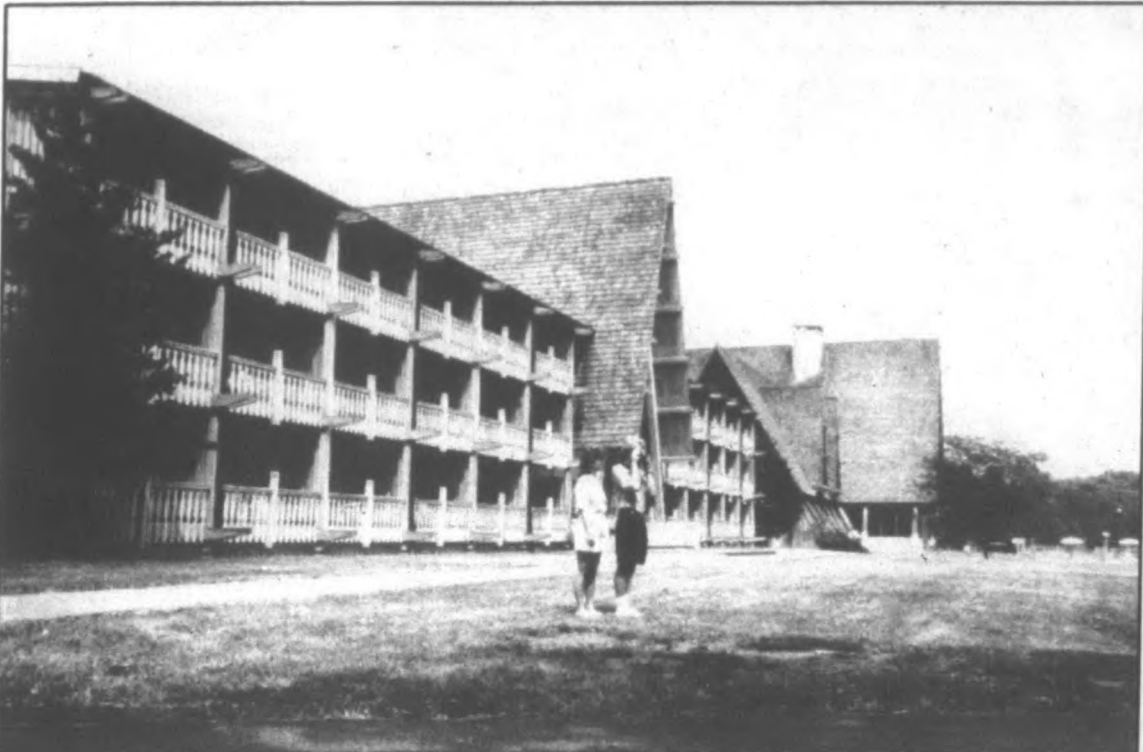

"Hocking Hills State Park is geologically unique. You can hike past the outcroppings, the waterfalls, formations like Devil's Bathtub and Sphinx Head, Old Man's Cave and Ash Cave, which is 770 feet around and the largest rock shelter in Ohio."

Some other favorites: Shawnee, in the Little Smokies. The picture postcard lake tucked into the hills at Pike Lake. A campsite on Lake Erie at Geneva on the Lake, or in downtown Cleveland in Cleveland Lakefront State Park. Kelly's Island in the South Bass islands.

Fishing at Burr Oak or Punderson. Touring Malabar Farm, where author Louis Bromfield made a show-

"Southeast Ohio is the most scenic area. The lay of the land is gorgeous so there are vistas year-round."

— Cindy Gates

Visitors can get permits to dig for fossils in Hueston Woods, Ohio, near Oxford. This is the view from the path to the lake.

Ohio State Park scene

Ohio State Park resorts have lodges, cabins, golf courses and swimming pools as well as the usual campgrounds, hiking trails, etc.

- Punderson State Park, Newbury
Boasts an English Tudor mansion with views of a glacier-carved lake. Located in northeast Ohio, it is minutes from Sea World, antique shops and Amish farms.
 - Maumee Bay, Toledo
Features indoor racquetball and other spa facilities on the shore of Lake Erie. It's 15 miles east of Toledo. Located near Toledo
 - Salt Fork, Cambridge
Has a lodge in a secluded, hilly setting in eastern Ohio.
 - Burr Oak, Gloucester
Nestled in the hills of southeast Ohio, lures visitors with its meadows and crystal clear lake.
 - Shawnee, Friendship
Ninety minutes southeast of Cincinnati in the "little Smokies."
 - Hueston Woods, College Corner
Ohio, is near Oxford and popular during Miami of Ohio football games.
 - Deer Creek, Mount Sterling
Has a contemporary hotel in a country setting. If you're looking for a heated indoor pool, sauna and ping-pong table, this is the place. Located south of Columbus.
- These seven Ohio State Parks Resort and Conference Centers can be reserved by calling toll free (800) AT-A-PARK.
- Mohican State Park, Perrysville, Ohio, is run by another concession and can be reached toll-free at (800) 472-6700. The park has 96 units and offers guests an indoor pool, sauna and table tennis.

More Detroit suburban savers and investors

The SPRING Newspapers' circulation more than doubles the daily suburban circulation of either The Detroit News or Free Press.

In fact, SPRING's suburban circulation is greater than the two metro dailies' combined.

And that's not all. According to the 1991 Belden study, SPRING reaches more of the affluent suburban shoppers who have more—and spend more.

▶ 151,800 more suburban savings account users than the daily News (68,100 more than the Free Press).

▶ 109,000 more suburban NOW account users than The News (41,000 more than the Free Press).

▶ 121,700 (and 31,900) more suburban investors.

Not to mention more suburban buyers of new cars, boats, jewelry, $200,000+ homes, etc.

Simply put, one order in SPRING delivers more.

Shouldn't you be advertising in SPRING more?

There's only one thing wrong with the perfect family.

Nobody's perfect.

A little counseling can go a long way toward keeping families together.

With twenty-five percent of all marriages ending in divorce — 16,000 in the tri-county area last year alone — chances are you know of a family in need of counseling.

Now more than ever, the United Way needs your donation to help provide counseling and support. Your contributions fund more than 150 local agencies that are doing vital work in our community. Like teaching the illiterate to read, providing care for the elderly and fighting substance abuse.

So when you give, give generously to the United Way Torch Drive. It's the perfect way to get yourself into the picture.

New pizza bases loaded with flavor

Rarely does a new food product come along that really gets me excited, and tastes good at the same time. Food products come and go, often to the tune of 40,000 times per year, and they all jockey for valuable floor space in the supermarket.

Bringing a product to market requires big budgets, not to mention tons of information and regulations.

Labeling requirements, packaging, health department rules, transportation, marketing, in addition to consumer surveys, escalate the basic cost of a product sometimes as much as 50 percent.

So when I see a new product at the grocery store, especially when it's coupled with a cents off coupon, I'm a sucker to buy it. Frequently, I'm less than satisfied, but occasionally I get my socks knocked off.

And so it happened last month when I tried my first Boboli bread. I couldn't help but pick up the 89 cent trial package, especially because pizza is such a staple around the Janes Gang home.

The circular hunk of bread resembling a Frisbee with zits proved to be tasty and time saving even though it seemed a bit over-priced.

My next trip to the store brought a bundle of the larger sized Boboli's ringing in on the express lane at $3.19 each.

"What's this?" I ask the startled checkout clerk, "six-fifty for two pizza bases? Figure in the Mozzarella, veggies and pepperoni and I'm spending over $12 to make two medium pizzas at home!"

I mean, hey, the stuff tastes good, even though one major daily said it tasted "a little yeasty" but convenience certainly has it's price, doesn't it?

THE SCENE changes now to a recent cooking demonstration for the Women's Guild at St. John Newman Church in Canton and lo and behold, I hear that Boboli can be bought at some thrift bakeries, like Entenmann's on Newburgh south of I-96, for half price! Saints be praised!

If you have a one dimensional mind, and think that Boboli can be used solely for a pizza base, dream on.

SINCE I found a new, lower price, I'm using them for garlic bread, meat pie crusts, and vegetable tart bases.

The Boboli folks claim on their packaging that the rounds make great garlic-cheese bread and pizzas. Yours truly has used the bread as a deep dish pie shell, and has slathered on everything from taco-scented beef to quickly sauteed seafood bits, in addition to shredded cheese and steamed vegetables.

At a recent tailgate party of a University of Michigan football game, I loaded up a base shell with assorted luncheon meats, cheese and vegetables, and topped it off with another shell.

Elongated toothpicks held the filling securely while the rounded "submarine" was cut into fingerable sandwiches, then wrapped in foil and heated, just enough to melt the cheese.

Yesterday, I topped them with paper thin slices of tomato from the garden, drizzled on a little olive oil and some fresh chopped basil and a sprinkling of parmesan cheese.

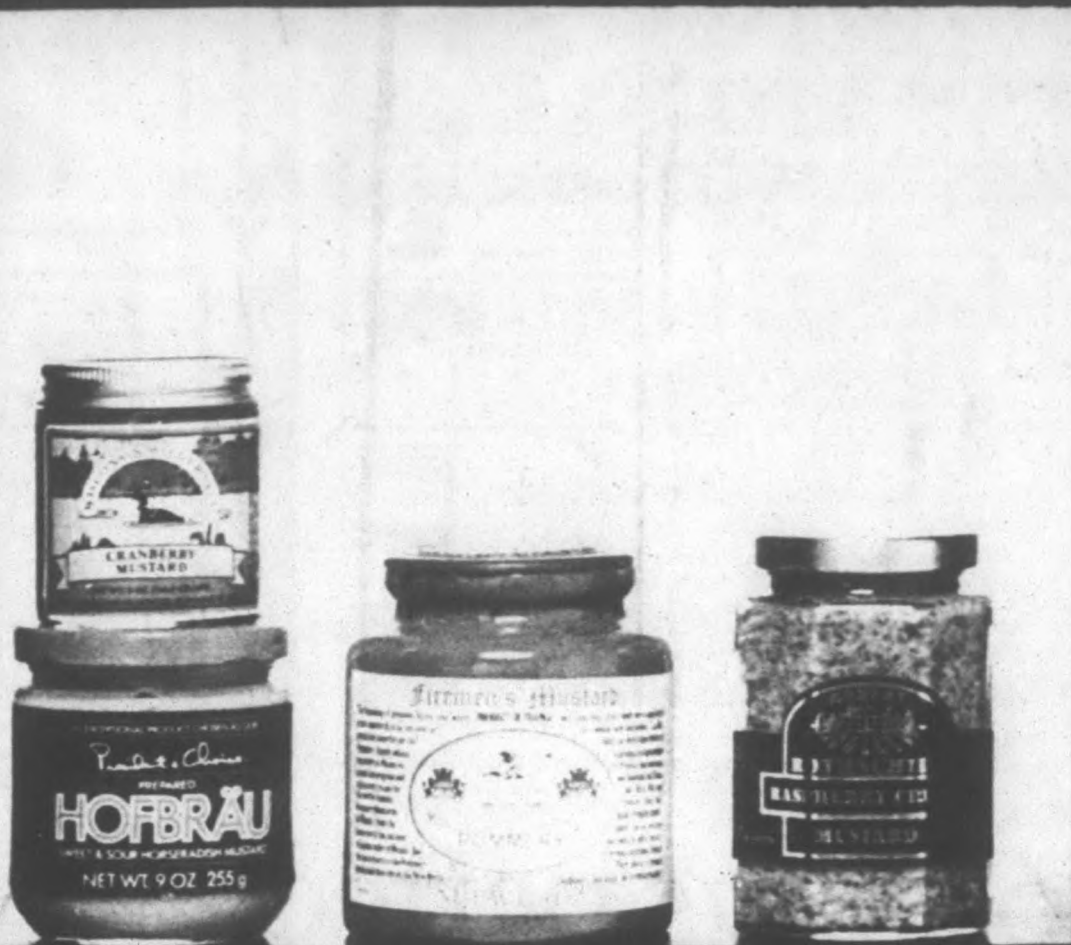

Popped that baby under the broiler for a few minutes and wow! You'll never want to use that refrigerated poppin fresh stuff again!

MY ONLY complaint? In a recent letter to the manufacturer, I expressed my concern about the missing nutritional data and requested a nutritional breakdown for my files.

There's little doubt that Boboli bread will be the hottest thing this holiday season, especially with the rage for pizzas.

Boboli is available at all major grocery stores in the bread department, usually hung on display pegs.

The bread freezes well, and if prolonged storage is called for, about an hour of defrosting is all that is necessary before use.

With over 100 varieties to choose from, picking the perfect mustard can be a chore. Here are a few favorites.

Ham: mustard's perfect mate

By Kathleen Sheridan
special writer

There is nothing more delicious and classic than a big ham sandwich, piled high on your favorite bread, smothered with mustard and accompanied by a sour quartered deli pickle.

Hams have been around for a long time, and we don't mean comics. Ham was a part of 15th century menus. Early Christians celebrated all of their feasts with ham. It was a mainstay for medieval monks.

In the metro area, Winter's Sausage company in East Detroit has been manufacturing sausages and German ham since 1959.

Rose Mary Winter-Wuerz took over the family business in 1964 when her father, Eugene Winter, died.

Born in Germany, he learned his craft while working as an apprentice to a butcher. He immigrated to East Detroit in 1924 and established a butcher shop on Gratiot. The business grew into a manufacturing plant with 40 employees.

"OUR CREDO is pure old fashioned quality," said Wuerz. Team effort among our employees makes our company strong. Sausage and ham making is more than just a formula, it's an art."

A honey cured ham has to undergo many steps before it is ready to be shipped to your neighborhood store.

The ham is de-fatted, de-boned, and then cured, massaged, and stuffed into a casing. It is then put in ham forming molds, cooked in water, placed in the smokehouse, dipped in cottenseed oil, chilled and packaged.

What distinguishes the Winter's ham from the others is the taste, and that they use no monosodium glutamate and less fat, said Wuerz.

"The ham gets its distinct flavor during the smoking process. A slow, hickory-smoked process makes our hams different from other hams. It brings out the flavor."

SHE IS passing on the tradition of German sausage and ham making to her two sons. Her oldest son, Eugene, 30, has been studying the art of making sausages and hams in Munich, Germany, for three years. Her other son, 21-year-old Steven, is working at the plant and studying business in college.

Mustard magic!

Cooks can muster up a spread of varieties

By Geri Rinschler
special writer

THIS IS the "right mustard," she proclaimed in her distinctive, warbled voice. "Dijon mustard, not hot dog mustard" as our beloved Julia demonstrated a favorite salad dressing recipe with co-host Joan Lunden on TV's "Good Morning America," recently.

MOST PROFESSIONAL chefs will agree a Dijon mustard is by far a better choice when preparing salad dressings and sauces. Why? Most Dijon and Dijon-style mustards are prepared with white wine (or traditionally, made in France with the juice of unripe grapes known as "must").

On the other hand, those mustards which fall into the category of hot dog mustard or the so-called ballpark mustards are made with a mild flavored mustard seed, lots of vinegar, and lots of turmeric in order to achieve that brilliant, yellow color.

Ah, now if there were only two varieties of mustard to choose from this story would come to an abrupt halt. The fact is that after a recent, gastronomic tour of specialty food shops in Ann Arbor, Birmingham and Detroit, the last count was just over 100 different jars of prepared mustard to delight (or in some instances, revolt) your palate.

THERE IS a plethora of mustards readily available from a piquant Dusseldorf from Germany to a creamy Wisconsin mustard blended with crushed cranberries.

There are strong, full strength English mustards blended with whole mustard seeds, vinegar, chillies and black peppercorns, and some made in the mountains of Maine or the lake shore of Wisconsin enriched with beer, ale or imported Guinness stout.

Honey mustards, herb mustards from Provence and others blended with lemons, limes are all packaged attractively in painted crocks or in glass jars with fancy fabric covered tops and cutesy labels designed to confuse all of us.

Shopping for a few good mustards can be quite a chore. So before venturing out on your own here's some advice from the experts, and some personal recommendations after extensive tastings, lots of discussion and more tastings.

BRYAN SMITH who is responsible for the huge array of mustards at Birmingham's Merchant of Vino, said Mucky Duck which is made right here in Sylvan Lake Michigan, "is our best mover." With 89 other mustards to choose from Michele Marshall's Mucky Duck outsells them all.

"When I first started the business, eight years ago, there weren't many gourmet mustards on the market, said Marshall. Mucky Duck is made from a family recipe. "I used to give it for presents during the holidays. Then, my friend Beverly Boos who later became my partner suggested we market it and see if anyone Hofbrau mustard spread over slices of Winter's ham, sandwiched between two slices of Burghardt's German sour dough rye bread makes a delicious lunch.

Lead content of wine too low to be harmful

Since early August, there has been significant misinformation in the press about lead levels in wine. Together with totally misleading statements, there have been insinuations that leave the reader questioning.

"Even the lead capsules on bottles are under scrutiny," one writer remarked. This is poor journalism because the issue was not explained in the story.

As a health-conscious consuming public, you should be aware of the facts that put the lead issue into perspective.

NEARLY ALL foods contain trace amounts of naturally-occurring lead introduced predominantly from ground water, soil and the atmosphere.

The Food and Drug Administration is concerned about levels of lead in food products, but has yet to establish specific standards for regulating lead content.

The FDA Total Diet Study lists fresh and processed foods that contain lead. These include green leafy vegetables, legumes and root vegetables, focus on wine

Eleanor and Ray Heald

tables, fresh fruit, grain and cereal products.

Studies currently in progress suggest that California wines have less lead than many commonly-consumed foods and much of the nation's drinking water. The Environmental Protection Agency standard for drinking water has been 50 parts per billion of lead, based on the consumption of one-half gallon of water per day over a 70-year period.

California wine contains about 21 parts ppb of lead, about the same as an average-size chocolate chip cookie! By comparison, a navel orange contains 33 ppb and fresh or frozen spinach has 39 ppb.

THE BUREAU of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms, the national regulatory agency for wine, beer and spirits, has performed tests on over 500 foreign and American wine samples over the past two years.

The agency released its study findings in August with a disclaimer (that we rarely saw in press commentary) stating that the survey was incomplete and no inference should be made about a product because it was selected to be analyzed.

Consumers do not risk ingesting harmful amounts of lead from wine. A wine drinker is exposed to less lead from wine than from many other foods and drinking water. Wine is not consumed by infants and children - the groups thought to be at greatest risk from excessive lead exposure.

The last element of the lead and wine issue is the tin-lead foil capsules. As part of the traditional wine package, tin-lead foil (lead sandwiched between thin layers of tin foil) has been used on fine wine bottles throughout the world for decades.

Governmental and public concern over the disposal of heavy metals, such as lead, in solid waste sites has led to legislation and proposals in several states to eliminate these elements from the waste disposal chain beginning in 1992.

Currently, tin-lead capsules are being phased out.

WINE SELECTIONS OF THE WEEK

1990 Benziger Fume Blanc ($11) is one of the most appealing renditions of sauvignon blanc we've tasted. It has attractive, tropical fruit aromas and flavors with vanilla oak accents. The solid palate is designed for food, yet makes a delicious pre-meal sipper.

1989 Kenwood Vineyards Jack London Vineyard Zinfandel ($17) is always in the winner's circle. Ripe, balanced black raspberry aromas and flavors abound in this approachable red wine. Place it with grilled chicken or beef - it's most versatile.

1990 Riverside Farm Chardonnay ($7.50) Each vintage, it gets to be the exception rather than the rule, that a lower-priced California chardonnay has good flavor. This gem, produced by Poppiano Vineyards, has toasty notes over tropical fruit with gentle touches of vanilla. The flavorful marriage of fruit and oak is exceptionally attractive at its price.

1989 Robert Pepi Colline di Sasi, Sangiovese Grosso ($30) represents one of the best wines in California's new Italian varietal craze. Expensive, due to its rarity, it will be released on Columbus Day, Oct. 12. If you are a collector or just inquisitive, get your request in with your favorite retailer now. Bright fruit is the dominant feature of the wine that receives solid structure from 12 percent cabernet sauvignon in the blend.

Italian circus family shares recipes

Upon leaving their native country of Italy to become part of the 129th Anniversary edition of The Greatest Show On Earth, the Togni family brought along all that was necessary to perform with Ringling Bros. and Barnum & Bailey Circus — a rare white rhinoceros, three rings of liberty horses and an entire herd of elephants — but that's not all!

Those things most essential for life in America were hand carried to the United States by the Togni family from their home in Verona, Italy — cases of olive oil and a plenitude of Italian meats, pasta, wine and cheese.

For the Tognis, which boast five generations of circus performers, food is an item closely linked to performance. In a land of fast-food restaurants and TV dinners, this close-knit family remains dedicated to preparing their own meals.

"After a long day of performing and practicing, I look forward to sharing good food and good conversation with my family," said Falvio Togni, "head" of the Togni family. "It gives us time to enjoy one another — cases of olive oil and a plenitude of Italian meats, pasta, wine and cheese."

The family is making their American debut with The Greatest Show on Earth, Oct. 1 through Oct. 6 at the Joe Louis Arena in Detroit. For ticket information, call 567-6000. To charge tickets, call 645-6666.

Here are some Togni family favorites:

LASAGNE PRIMAVERA

Julienne: 4 medium carrots
4 medium zucchini
4 medium squash
4 green peppers
1 medium head of broccoli
lasagne sheets
Bechamel sauce
Parmesan cheese

Bechamel sauce:
3 oz. butter
3 oz. flour
1 qt. of milk
1/4 teaspoon nutmeg
salt
white pepper

Melt butter in a saucepan, add flour and cook. In a separate pan, bring milk to a boil. Add the boiling milk to the flour mixture with the salt, pepper, nutmeg and stir. Cook bechamel for 5 minutes until very thick. Cool sauce for at least 2 hours.

GYPSY CHICKEN

2 tablespoons olive oil
3 lbs of chicken breast
1 large onion, chopped
1 teaspoon fresh garlic, minced
3 medium sized carrots, sliced
1 large fresh tomato, chopped
1 red pepper, chopped
1 tablespoon mustard
1/2 cup sour cream
1 cup white wine
2 bay leaves
salt and pepper to taste

Heat oil and brown chicken. Add the onions and saute with the chicken. Add carrots, tomato, garlic, red pepper, salt, bay leaves and cook for 10 minutes. Add 1 cup of white wine and cook another 2 minutes. You may add extra if needed. Remove the chicken and put the sauce in a blender with the sour cream and mustard. Pour sauce over chicken and serve immediately. Serves 6.

HAM DI PARMA

8 oz. spaghetti noodles
1/2 cup parmesan cheese

1/2 cup butter
6 oz. sliced mushrooms
2 tablespoons grated onion
1/2 cup flour
1/2 cup cream
1/2 cup dry white wine
1 pound ham, stripped julienne
1/2 cup sliced olives
1 pimento, stripped
1/2 teaspoon oregano
1/2 cup green pepper

Cook 8 oz. spaghetti and toss with 1/2 cup parmesan cheese. Keep warm.

Melt 1/2 cup butter in large skillet and add 6 oz. sliced mushrooms and 2 tablespoons grated onion. Saute for five minutes. Remove the mushrooms with slotted spoon and set aside.

Blend 1/2 cup flour in skillet and gradually add 1/2 cup cream. Stir constantly and bring to a boil. Then stir one minute.

Blend in 1/2 cup dry white wine, mushrooms, one pound ham (stripped julienne), 1/2 cup sliced olives, 1 pimento, 1/2 teaspoon oregano, 1/2 cup green pepper. Pour over hot spaghetti and sprinkle with 1/2 cup parmesan. Bake 'til bubbly, about 10-15 minutes at 350 degrees.

Experts take the chore out of mustard shopping would buy it," Marshall added. Today, Mucky Duck is available in 600 stores in Michigan and in 15 states.

BESIDES HONEY mustard, Smith suggested Rothschild, Raspberry Crunch, a whole grain mustard made at the Rothschild Berry Farm in Urbana, Ohio, and Southwest, a creamy, red chile and honey mustard made in Phoenix, Arizona.

The Big "10" party Store in Ann Arbor has sold 90 cases of Honeycup mustard in the past six weeks according to Theresa Montag, the shop's manager.

"Honeycup has been our No. 1 seller followed by Grey Poupon and then Mucky Duck," she said. The trend is going away from the simple or bland mustards toward the more exotic mustards. Big "10" carries a large selection (over 90) of mustards from England, France, Sweden, the Virgin Islands, the United States and Germany.

"We have a big German community here and when we run out of Dusseldorf mustard we really hear about it, Montag added. Among the exotic favorites at the Big "10" Party Store are Bech's Rum Flavored Mackinac Skipper, Luzianne Creole and Fawcett's Creamy Lime mustard from the Virgin Islands.

Although it may appear overwhelming, all mustards can be divided into varieties. Generally, they're either English or English-style (made with mustard flour and water such as Colman's).

Dijon or Dijon-style (a smooth mustard made with wine or vinegar and ground mustard flour from brown or black seeds), Coarse-grained (made as it was before the invention of smooth mustards in 1702, with vinegar, salt and other seasonings).

German (a mild, creamy mustard made from the flour of yellow seeds) or Bavarian, a bit sweeter taste made from brown seeds, or Flavored mustards (generally made from a mild, smooth base to which herbs, fruit or onions have been added).

All the mustards sampled for recommendation were tasted alone with a spoon. A good tasting mustard should taste good, on its own. The ingredients should blend nicely and one flavor should not overpower the others and above all be palatable. Most of the herb mustards sampled did not resemble the herbs listed as an ingredient.

Generally, herbs which have been sitting in mustard for more than a week lose their freshness and become acidic. It's quite easy to prepare an herb mustard at home by adding either fresh or dried herbs to a small amount of basic, smooth Dijon or French champagne mustard.

Two of the fruit flavored mustards sampled, Wisconsin Wilderness Cranberry Mustard and Middlesex Farm Orange and Hot Mustards were surprisingly pleasant although neither had a distinctive, fruit flavor.

Again, fruit flavored mustards can be made at home by adding finely chopped orange or lemon peel or zest to a basic Dijon, French champagne or honey mustard. Two tablespoons of grated peel to 1 cup of mustard should do it.

Although mustard never goes bad in the refrigerator, its flavor and zest diminish. A shelf life of six months is recommended.

When cooking with mustard there are no rigid rules, just a little advice. Since the pungency of mustard intensifies with heat, you may want to add it toward the end of the preparation.

The smooth, mild prepared mustards are recommended for salad dressings sauces and soups. The coarse-grained mustards usually contain a high vinegar content and should be reserved to accompany ham and sausages.

Mucky Duck adds zest to soup

MUCKY DUCK FRENCH ONION SOUP
From the Mucky Duck Cookbook by Michele Marshall

- Serves 6
- 1/4 cup butter or margarine
 - 6 onions, sliced thin
 - 6 garlic cloves, peeled, sliced
 - 1/2 cup dry white wine
 - 3 1/2 cups chicken broth
 - 3 1/2 cups beef broth
 - 1 rounded tablespoon Mucky Duck mustard
 - 6 slices toasted French bread
 - 6 tablespoons grated Parmesan cheese
 - 12 tablespoons grated Swiss cheese

Melt butter or margarine in a heavy, heavy pot. When hot add sliced onions and garlic. Saute 45 minutes over low heat until tender. Stir in wine and simmer additional 3 minutes. Add chicken and beef broth. Stir in mustard and simmer 20 minutes.

Ladle into individual broiler proof bowls. Top each with toasted French bread, grated Parmesan and Swiss cheese. Broil until bubbly.

CLASSIC VEAL SCALLOPS IN A CREAMY MUSTARD SAUCE

- Serves 6
- 2 tablespoons olive oil
 - 6 veal scallops, 1/4-inch thick, flattened
 - 1/2 cup finely chopped onion
 - 1/4 cup dry Madeira wine
 - 1/2 cup veal or chicken broth
 - 1/4 cup finely minced parsley leaves
 - pinch dried thyme
 - 1/2 cup heavy cream
 - 1 tablespoon orange zest
 - 2 tablespoons Dijon mustard or Orange and Hot mustard by Middlesex Farms
 - Salt, pepper, ground allspice

Heat oil in a large skillet, add veal slices and saute quickly over medium high heat. Remove veal slices and keep warm. Add onion to skillet and saute until soft. Add Madeira, broth and zest and simmer 5 minutes. Add cream and thyme, simmer additional 5 minutes until sauce begins to thicken and lightly coats the back of a spoon. Whisk in 1 tablespoon mustard. Add remaining tablespoon mustard, salt, pepper and ground allspice to taste. Return veal to skillet and rewarm over medium high heat, 30 seconds. Remove and serve.

PROVENCAL HERB MUSTARD

(Use 1 teaspoon to basic vinaigrette recipe using 4 tablespoons, olive oil and 1 tablespoon wine vinegar)

Ingredients:
1 cup Dijon mustard
1 and 1/2 tablespoons Madeira or dry white wine or lemon juice
1 tablespoon Provencal Herbs
(To prepare Provencal herbs mix: 1 tablespoon each dried thyme leaves, dried chervil, dried tarragon and dried marjoram. Add 1 teaspoon oregano, 1/2 teaspoon each dried mint and rosemary. Store in a small jar tightly closed and use when needed).

Combine 1 tablespoon Provencal herbs with wine in a small bowl and steep for 20 minutes. Whisk into mustard. Store in small jar with tight lid. Refrigerate. Makes 1 cup.

Photographer Jean Lannen took a series of photos of a then upstart musician named Chris Isaak. Those photographs will be used in books and magazines. Some of her more poignant hand-colored portraits (below) have been displayed at art galleries around San Francisco.

A sharp focus Photographer brings out the 'stars'

By Larry O'Connor
staff writer

JUST GIVE JEAN Lannen an idea. A notion, a sketch or a snippet of philosophy, she'll take things from there and put them into razor-sharp focus. Ask Todd Rundgren, whose album, "2nd Wind," prominently features the former Birmingham resident's artwork on its cover. Or Chris Isaak, whose early days in San Francisco club circuit are chronicled in Lannen's photographs. She's done photography for local outfits, such as Rhythm Corps, Map of the World and the Shouting Club as well.

Yet, while amassing concert photo passes and seeing her work splashed across album covers in store bins seems to be the most ideal of positions, Lannen wants to be more than a shutterbug on the star-gazing trail.

"I see myself going into two different directions — documenting and seeing real people staying in seniors homes . . . opposed to just working with rock'n'roll artists."

LANNEN'S PHOTOGRAPHS of real faces contrasts with the glitzy business of rock'n'roll. Some of her most poignant photos have been displayed at art galleries around San Francisco and she has done work for the YMCA and the Red Cross.

The graduate of the Center for Creative Studies in Detroit is also adept at making hand-colored portraits, in which she paints the photo in the darkroom and later hand-paints the colors.

This artistic inclination reveals itself well in capturing the faces and feel of rock'n'roll, even in the realm of the often-clichéd band photo. Instead of the generic pose of four guys in leather jackets with pursed lips holding up a wall, Lannen's group photos often take on a surreal look.

Like most rock photographers, Lannen started out the usual way. She worked at a record store, Record Market in Southfield, and would often go to concerts. And whenever possible, she would take her camera.

The time was the early '80s at the height of the post-punk explosion when bands like U2 were playing accessible places like Harpo's.

"It's satisfying to me to go and experience things," she said. "Then I react to it. That's the way it is at live shows. I see something on stage and react to it."

SHE TOOK photos at one of Todd Rundgren's concerts at the Royal Oak Music Theatre and showed them to his management. They were suitably impressed.

Eventually, Lannen's snapshots of one of rock's most experimental artists began finding their way into concert programs and a Rundgren fanzine, Utopia Times.

Things progressed from there. She later moved from Birmingham to San Francisco with her husband, Chris Snider, who is from Southfield. Her candid photos of Rundgren and his band members were used on his 1988 release, "Nearly Human," and with his latest, "2nd Wind," she was asked to do the complete cover artwork.

Lannen's photographs of musician Chris Isaak were shot while he was performing in small clubs and fairs around the San Francisco area.

She basically had two pieces of art to work with.

On the front of "2nd Wind" is a small statue Rundgren obtained in Mexico, symbolizing rejuvenation. On the back is a skull box Lannen adorned with Christmas lights.

"He kind of gives you an idea of what he wants," said Lannen, who attended Birmingham Seaholm High School until her senior year before her family moved to New York. "That's about it. To get real specific, he leaves that up to you. He said I could do anything I wanted."

"When I showed him the photos from the first sessions he said, 'You don't have to shoot anymore. You got it.'"

FOR LANNEN, doing the artwork on the Rundgren cover was akin to a dream. She's a big fan of the artist, who is best known for mid-'70s hits such as "Hello, it's Me" and "Saw the Light."

Lannen has become a friend of Rundgren and the band. In fact, she says one of the songs, "I Love My Life," on his "Nearly Human" album stems from a conversation between her and the former leader of Nazzy.

"There was a bunch of us joking around in his kitchen and I just yelled out, 'I love my life,'" Lannen said. "He said, 'I suppose you want me to write a song about that.'"

Seeing her artwork in record stores didn't faze her much, though. "I thought it would be more exciting than it was," she said. "You're always thinking about what's next."

More than anything, her association with Rundgren has opened other doors. She took a series of photos featuring an upstart musician named Chris Isaak who performed in small clubs and fairs around the San Francisco area. Those will be used in books and magazines, she said.

"It's a good thing to put in your portfolio . . . but you have to show other work."

Blues live on 'Blues'

By Larry O'Connor
staff writer

What Eric Clapton raved about and Jimi Hendrix once skipped a gig for is finally here — a Buddy Guy studio album capturing all the surges and wonderment of his live performances.

"Damn Right, I've Got the Blues" is the Baton Rouge-born and Chicago-based guitarist's first studio album in 10 years. Buoyant, brimming with both soul and energy, the 10-song effort on Silvertone springs out like a cobra from behind a dandelion patch on its title track opening cut.

This LP is something of a celebration, if not a long overdue one for those who consider Guy one of the best blues guitarists around. The festive nature of this effort, though, is tempered by an emotionally aching Guy instrumental called "Rememberin' Stevie."

See, Stevie Ray Vaughan always wanted to be on any album Guy recorded and kept reminding him about it. Vaughan died on Aug. 27, 1990, after performing with Guy at a Wisconsin blues jam session. The helicopter carrying Vaughan crashed.

"I had lyrics that I could have put to that," said Guy in a telephone interview, "but I did that because Stevie was such a great musician and I wanted people to know how good he was."

"We had four choppers up there that night. They had pledged to help me and get me into the studio. He (Vaughan) said he would be there."

MARK KNOPFLER, Jeff Beck and Clapton appear on "Damn Right, I've Got the Blues," which might be classified as something of an all-star blues session along with being Guy's guitar manifesto.

Along with his own material, Guy does a rave-up version of Wilson Pickett's "Mustang Sally" and his rendition of John Hiatt's "Where Is the Next One Coming In" is a solid offering. More importantly, the album does justice to Guy's work as a live performer.

Guy credits the help in the studio from "his friends" but also the location of the recording — London, England.

"I started thinking of Hendrix," Guy said. "He played as well here as he did there, but he could never get that thing out here. Then he went to England and, 'boom bam,' there it was."

"Damn Right, I've Got the Blues" is Guy's first LP since "Stone Crazy," released in 1981. But those are only two entries in a recording and performing career that spans four decades.

On his first studio album in 10 years, guitarist Buddy Guy has come up with a 10-song effort, brimming over with soul and energy.

The son of sharecroppers, Guy left his Louisiana home in 1957 and went north in search of work. Unsuccessful in finding a job, he was only in Chicago for a couple of months when he ran out of money.

GUY WALKED the streets and hadn't eaten in three days when a stranger asked him if he could play the blues. After an informal audition, he was promptly escorted to the 708 Club and was put on stage with Otis Rush.

One person in the audience was so impressed, he invited the young guitarist to his Cadillac to talk about the blues. Muddy Waters also offered Guy the best salami sandwich he's probably ever tasted.

After working as a sideman with Waters, Guy released a pair of albums on Vanguard in 1968 — "Man and the Blues" and a live LP "This is Buddy Guy." Both earned four-star ratings in "The New Rolling Stone Record Guide."

Some of his later recordings have been termed uneven, mainly due to a lack of technical resources in the studio that afforded many commercially successful artists.

Whereas this is a source of bitterness with many old-time blues performers, Guy has faced his trials with stoicism and humbleness. While the likes of the Rolling Stones and Clapton reaped the financial success playing music Robert Johnson, Lightin' Hopkins, Howlin' Wolf and Guy himself helped define, grudges don't fuel his passion to play music.

"I think those guys did it the same way we did," he said. "I think the British people got more exposure than we got. I think it's just a part of life. I think those things just happen. Those people had respect for the music. If they didn't maybe, I'd feel different."

"CLAPTON AND the Stones along with Ike and Tina Turner helped America find who Howlin' Wolf and Muddy Waters were."

Major labels have taken heed. Silvertone, which is distributed by R.C.A., has signed Guy and Virgin has started a blues' label Point Blank.

A passing fad? Or, an attempt by the industry to recognize the rich blues talent in this country? Guy said he's not good at predicting the future. He's just glad to have an album out.

"At least more kids will know who I am," he said.

Buddy Guy will perform Saturday, Oct. 5, at the Majestic Theatre, 4120 Woodward Ave., Detroit. Doors open at 8 p.m. Tickets are $12.50 in advance. For information, call 99-MUSIC.

STREET SENSE

Did advice strike a chord?

Dear Ms. Schiff,

Your advice to Broken-Up was WAY off base. "Stick to your guns" is like saying "stick to your neuroses." I thought you were supposed to help people overcome emotional traps and insecurity?

The question in this case is: Does Broken-Up love her fiancé and is she willing to accept the fact that he engages in activities that millions of other American males engage in? Masturbation in our society is a "private" act, a lot like going to the bathroom. We all go to the bathroom, but it isn't something we need to make public or dwell on.

Broken-up's fiancé wasn't "forcing" pornography on her, or masturbating in public. A sign of growth on her part would be to accept the fact that her fiancé is a human being — with shortcomings and preferences.

Have you seen "The Doctor" with William Hurt? Doctors don't have to fall in love with their patients, but they should show respect for them as human beings and respect for their feelings and emotions regarding their illnesses, in spite of how petty they may seem.

Your definition of respect is inaccurate and inappropriate. Respect is more a product of acceptance and flexibility than it is of "compatibility." Broken-Up, based on your advice, will continue to jump from relationship to relationship because she doesn't approve of "this" or "that" in her partner.

I would guess that almost every man she will every date has masturbated and has probably seen a pornographic movie? These men will have a choice: Tell her the truth and end the relationship, or lie about it and end up living a false relationship. My wife knows I masturbate occasionally. She accepts it and I don't flaunt it. It doesn't mean I don't love her and that she isn't satisfying my needs.

The fact is Broken-Up's never

going to find the "perfect" mate based on your advice about "respect yourself." As Joanne Woodward once pointed out, everyone has an idealized vision of Paul Newman, but they've never seen him crashed out on the sofa in his underwear.

Your observation that a recent TV program emphasized the fact that "compatibility" makes a marriage work seems incredibly naive. Was that on Geraldo or Sally Jesse? A real relationship is built on respect and acceptance. Sometimes the different strengths that people bring to a relationship create a more powerful "whole."

Once again, I emphasize that the solution for Broken-Up isn't to "respect herself" and stick to her guns. The solution is that she must decide whether or not she loves the man and is willing to show the emotional maturity to work at making her relationship a success? Flexibility and a spirit of give-and-take is the key to a successful relationship, not compatibility!

Mike from Birmingham

P.S. Your advice was equally wrong to "Bunny." You're suggesting that she is demonstrating "high self-esteem" by giving her fiancé a TWO-WEEK ULTIMATUM? Utterly ridiculous! On the contrary, I would suggest that giving an ultimatum in an otherwise healthy relationship is a sign of desperation, insecurity and, ultimately, LOW SELF-ESTEEM. Even the most inexperienced negotiators understand that an ultimatum is the least effective way to get what you want out of a relationship. But that's another letter!

Dear Mike

I'm sure you enjoyed writing your letter and look forward to sending your next. Please feel free to write again.

Perhaps you would be willing to consider that my advice to Broken-Up struck a chord in you that it caused you to respond so vehemently. If you could recognize this over-reaction, you might learn something important about yourself that would be beneficial.

It may be difficult for a man to understand how a woman feels under either of these circumstances. The self-love these men exhibit makes these particular women feel unloved. Both show emotional maturity and strength by being able to trust their instincts and by knowing what they can live with and what they can't live with.

Marriages in which the partners feel as if they settled for less or compromised deep values have little chance for true success.

GARAGE SALE

HOW TO DO A LITTLE BUSINESS ON YOUR OWN...

Holding a garage sale is a fun way to do a little business on your own . . . but it takes a bit of planning. Like you'll want to decide what to sell and how much to charge for each item . . . and then you'll need price tags so other people will know what you're charging.

And you'll have to be able to make change for all your customers . . . so that means you should have lots of one dollar bills and an assortment of coins.

Then you'll want to advertise your sale to attract that crowd. You can do it with a sign or signs in your neighborhood . . . but you'll want a bigger crowd than that . . . so you'll run an ad in Classified which tells the time and place of your sale to a host of potential buyers.

Have fun with your little business adventure!

Pick up your free Garage Sale folder in our office when you place your ad! (Contains two signs, two arrows, a handy ledger, 14 tips for a successful sale and nine tips for a successful ad)

'Newton's Apple' looks at Olympic training

By Steve Paschal

Newton's Apple, the Emmy Award-winning PBS family science series, begins its ninth season this week with an informative and entertaining half-hour special, "The Science of Olympic Sports." The episode airs Saturday, Oct. 5, on most PBS affiliates.

Host David Heil and field reporter Peggy Knapp take viewers to the United States Olympic Training Centers in Colorado Springs, Colo., and Lake Placid, N.Y., where each year between six and eight thousand athletes combine training and technology in pursuit of the single-minded goal of representing the United States in the Olympic Games.

In the opening segment, Knapp lumbers around a running track while physiologist Jay T. Kearney explains how a volume-of-oxygen mask measures the chemical efficiency of a runner's lungs. Then, Heil takes a turn in a swimming flume to demonstrate various ways cameras and computers are used to dissect and analyze a swimmer's technique. In quick succession, the show touches on training advances in weightlifting, racewalking, softball and the luge.

Despite all the technological advances, it is mental preparation that most often decides which competitor takes home the gold medal and which is just an "also-ran." Heil and Knapp address this aspect in a conversation with Olympic Training Center psychologist Shane Murphy. TV Listing Inc.

J. Edgar Hoover: Hollywood snoop

By Dan Rice

When busybodies are laid to rest, skeletons are safe in their closets. On Friday, Oct. 4, A&E's Time Machine With Jack Perkins sheds new light on old dirt. "The Secret Files of J. Edgar Hoover" features star dossiers on John Wayne, Marilyn Monroe and the Kennedy brothers, made accessible by the Freedom of Information Act. The FBI chief's obsessive curiosity about famous Americans called for the use of illegal wiretaps and blackmail to gather incriminating information.

Continuing the themes of megalomania, power-lust and back-door politics, the overdue miniseries Iran: Days of Crisis tells the story of the 1979 U.S. Embassy takeover and the suspiciously drawn-out negotiations for the hostages' release. The TNT original movie premieres in two parts, Monday and Tuesday, Sept. 30 and Oct. 1.

NBC's 'Babe Ruth' takes a swing at a legend

Small-screen effort hits the high points

By Suzanne Gill

"The book on Babe," says actor Stephen Lang, "is that he was a simple man, but I've never really met a simple man." First and foremost, George Herman "Babe" Ruth was a giant among baseball players. He shook the game to its foundations, and he personified the era in which he lived. Often, the forces that drove him sent him out of control. A man of lesser strength would have succumbed.

Born six years before the century, young George Ruth was left by his father at a Baltimore orphanage, and he never stopped being a kid. When he left Baltimore, his one thought was to play baseball, or, as the script of NBC's "Babe Ruth" puts it, to "have fun." His exuberance spilled over into his private life, which was largely unreported in the press at the time. He ate, smoked, gambled and womanized. And when he went to the ballpark, he hit home runs.

Lang's task in portraying Ruth in the movie, which airs Sunday, Oct. 6, began with the challenge of learning to paly ball like Ruth. Ordinarily a right-handed hitter, Lang spent four weeks at Hall-of-Famer Rod Carew's California baseball camp, perfecting his Babe Ruth swing, as well as the patented Ruth trot as he circled the bases.

"The job was not to turn me into a left-handed slugger," Lang says with an ironic grin. "The job was to turn me into the greatest ballplayer that's ever played the game.

"Hitting seemed to me to be the central metaphor for his life. When the hitting began to fall into place, then playing the role began to fall into place." (Ruth himself modeled his swing after that of Chicago White Sox slugger "Shoelless" Joe Jackson. "He had the perfectest swing I ever saw in my life," Ruth said.)

With Ruth, everything must be raised to a higher order of magnitude. He was not only physically big (Lang gained 35 pounds just to play the young, relatively slim Ruth), but he had a big heart as well. And, while many of his records have since been broken, no one player has equaled his performance on the field. As he said of himself, "I swing big, I hit big, or I miss big, and that's the way I live my life, as big as I can."

"Babe Ruth" paints its hero in broad, quick strokes. Lang gives the part his all, but he can't overcome the glibness of the script, which catches the flavor of the era, yet makes the movie a series of tableaux. Too many scenes are set up simply to shoehorn in a famous quote, either by the Babe or about him. Screenwriter Michael de Guzman apparently expects the viewer to come into the living room with a checklist in hand. At that, "Babe Ruth" offers nothing of his seasons with the Boston Red Sox, when, as a pitcher, he set a shut-out record that still stands.

The film's finest moments come when Ruth is with child: en (the apocryphal hitting-the-home-run-for-Johnny scene is not here, thank goodness) or with his own hero, Yankee manager Miller Huggins (Bruce Weitz). Pete Rose appears, in a much-publicized cameo, as Detroit Tigers player-manager Ty Cobb. Due to the producers' licensing agreement with Major League Baseball, Rose, who is currently banned from the game, was not allowed to appear in uniform.

Also starring are Lisa Zane ("Freddy's Dead") Ruth's second wife, Claire; William Lucking as Brother Matthias, the monk in charge of the Baltimore orphanage; Yvonne Suhor as Helen Ruth; and Neal McDonough as the up-and-coming Lou Gehrig.

CBS head hopes for more 'Murphys,' signs contract for four new series

CBS is so pleased with its ratings-reaper Murphy Brown, Entertainment head Jeff Sagansky has recruited producers Diane English and Joel Shukovsky to produce no less than four more as-yet-undeveloped series for the network.

"Besides a dozen Emmys and all the critical acclaim," says Sagansky, "Joel and Diane have helped to give the CBS prime-time schedule a new sensibility.

Needless to say, we can't wait for their next show, which we're hoping can do for another night of the week what Murphy Brown has done for Mondays."

Murphy Brown, starring Candice Bergen, was the most-honored series at the 1991 Emmy ceremonies, receiving five statuettes.

bell, adopting the stage name "King A.J.," is the winner of Pepsi Cola's "Rap Up the Summer" rap-music contest after being selected from a field of over 10,000. Hopefully M.C. Hammer and Dee Barnes (Fox's Pump It Up) served as hosts.

Performing on the Star Trek sound stage at Universal Studios in Hollywood, King A.J. rapped to his anti-drug song "Stand Up for Life."

He'll receive $25,000, a demo-record contract and a contract to perform in a Pepsi Cola commercial.

Shining Time Station, a PBS series for kids, has a new conductor aboard — versatile comedian George Carlin. "We know children will love George Carlin's inventiveness, playfulness and imagination, which are the primary ingredients of the magical Mr. Conductor character," say creator-producers Britt Allcroft and Rick Siggelkow.

HOROSCOPES

By C.C. Clark

LIBRA (Sept. 23 - Oct. 22)
This is a very positive time for you and you'll surprise yourself with how much you actually accomplish. Delegate the responsibilities you're able to.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 - Nov. 21)
Don't judge a certain person too hastily, because there may be extenuating circumstances of which you are unaware. Look on the bright side.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 - Dec. 21)
Children will figure into your life this week. You'll get a positive response when they understand what you have been trying to tell them.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 - Jan. 19)
Keep your temper in check or be ready to face the consequences. Family members will only take so much of your verbal abuse.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20 - Feb. 18)
Let yourself just go with the flow. Staying away from troublemakers. A wonderful surprise will present itself on the domestic front.

PISCES (Feb. 19 - March 20)
Those close to you are weary from your constant criticism. Accept them as they are, and everyone will be happy with the results.

ARIES (March 21 - April 19)
A new dimension will be added to your life, and you will profit from it spiritually. Discuss your differences on the domestic front.

TAURUS (April 20 - May 20)
Follow your instincts when dealing with financial matters. You should concentrate on working things out with loved ones.

GEMINI (May 21 - June 20)
Health matters should still be a top priority for you. Take preventive health measures for yourself and your family.

CANCER (June 21 - July 22)
This time to be too self-isolated. Friends feel alienated, although you may not realize it. This is a terrific time to help a friend.

LEO (July 23 - Aug. 22)
Solve your new dilemma and don't hold back. You know what you want and how to get it. So go for it. An authority figure is watching you.

VIRGO (Aug. 23 - Sept. 22)
Set aside some time this week to get yourself together. You've felt an urge and now it's time to take a deep breath and get on with it.

"Lights! Camera! Music! Have you ever stopped to think why you feel a certain way while watching a soap?"

"We get a script, and it's like choreography," says music supervisor Sue Beth Markowitz of Another World. "I determine what the music should be enhanced, and I select music cues that will enhance that emotion and the coloring it will give a particular scene."

"We produce most of the music utilized on the show ourselves from our own library, except for some outside music we select. We have about 420 music cues in our library that we can use, running the gamut of emotions in time frames anywhere from 20 seconds to four minutes."

"The fact most of us don't realize music is even playing means Markowitz is successful at her job. The music's sole purpose is to help us feel more intense about what's happening on the screen. There are special moments like montages and love scenes in which case the music should be more dramatic," says Markowitz.

Markowitz' supervisor job is never easy. The week I spoke with Markowitz, she was working on Dean's musical debut and she had to herself to arrange the rap and lay the tracks for the song "I Do, Ancho'ring for You" from Robin Hood, the summer film release. Another World has given the rights to use the music as the love song for the characters Frankie and Cass.

"I heard that song and it was so perfect for Frankie, Cass Barrett, and Cass. Scripter Schatzman and as they have been going through. They have truly made their relationship better," says Markowitz.

Purchasing of the rights to "I Do, Ancho'ring for You" and other songs is a long, expensive process. Consequently, most of the music used on the show is expressly written for it by staff artists.

The song used in Dean's Robin Hood video, "Lady Kuller," was specifically written for the show by John Deffer and John Spector. "We don't have the time to do a music video the way it's really done, but considering the time involved, that we have, I think they are really doing a superb job on it," says Markowitz.

Viewers would like to think what you brought of the "Lady Kuller" video and if you would like to see more of this kind of thing.
