Officials: 'Stadium' just word in resolution

By Kevin Brown
staff writer

Here comes a new round of speculation that Plymouth Township could be a new home for the Detroit Tigers.

That's because the word "stadium" appeared in a resolution before Plymouth Township trustees on Tuesday.

"Stadium" was included in a list of potential projects that a township building authority — created Tuesday by trustees — could pursue.

But township finance director Rosemary Harvey stressed that trustees passed a resolution last year saying they were against the building of such a stadium in the township.

"We're not interested in that kind of development in Plymouth Township," said supervisor Gerald Law. "The taxes that it would generate would not pay for the revenue it would produce."

SOME HAVE SPECULATED that because the former St. John's seminary property at Five Mile and Sheldon is near major freeways — the property is up for sale by the Catholic Archdiocese of Detroit — it could be a prime site for a stadium.

But Law said "stadium" appears in the document accepted by trustees because it is stock language.

"This is pretty much standard language that is prepared for any building authority — it's probably language from the state statute," he said.

"It's definitely not a stadium," Harvey said.

"We don't have a building authority. If eventually we want to build anything, you have to have one in place," she added.

"We're still in a position that if we wanted to bond for the (new) fire station, we could also do that," Harvey said, adding creation of a building authority allows the township to offer bonds to pay for equipment.

"I think the township board and the residents have indicated they should locate the stadium in Detroit if possible," Law said.

"We're not interested in big development. We've spent a lot of time developing zoning to create nice residential areas and small industrial parks.

"A stadium does not fit into the character of Plymouth Township," Law said.

The former St. John Seminary site in Plymouth Township has been rumored as a possible site for a new Tiger Stadium. While the word "stadium" appeared in a recent resolution creating a township building authority, officials are adamant that there will be no stadium in the township.

Not all Plymouth businesses are reporting doom and gloom. The Station 885 restaurant in Old Village is popular with folks, who line up to get in weekend nights.

Some downtown businesses boom amid economic gloom

By Kevin Brown
staff writer

It's been doom and gloom lately for some downtown Plymouth businesses, but not for others.

In fact, for some Plymouth merchants, business is great.

"We're doing very well," said Jerry Costanza, owner of the Station 885 restaurant in Old Village.

If you don't believe him, just check out the lines of customers waiting to get in on weekends. "We do well every day of the week, basically," he said.

That wasn't exactly true when he bought the former shot-and-beer bar in 1986. "I remember when my wife and I waited for our first customer to come in — everybody jumped up when one customer came in that evening."

WHILE COSTANZA COUNTED just three employees then, "Now we're in excess of 80 or 90 employees," he said.

Why is his restaurant doing well while other businesses are failing? It's not the location.

"I think we have a very terrible location — We're well off the beaten path," Costanza said.

Moms say retailers gouge public with pricey formula

By Diane Gale
staff writer

Retailers are milking consumers by tacking on excessive increases to the price of baby formula, according to a Canton mother.

Susan Baker and her friend Patricia Pate of Ann Arbor are tired of being pushed against a wall with few options about how to feed their children during the most important and formative year of their lives.

Mothers who can't nurse or decide not to nurse have no choice but to feed their babies formula. And retailers take advantage of that vulnerability by gouging consumers, Pate said.

IF THEY don't see prices fall in the near future, they're planning to picket local retailers.

"We can't boycott, but at least we can hold signs and let people know that we want to see some relief," she said. "When retailers say the manufacturer has raised their price that's only 10 percent true. The chain store is using the manufacturer as a scapegoat to increase prices and they're holding the baby hostage."

"They know you'll pay any price if you can afford it." Conducting an informal survey, Baker found that some manufacturers increased prices between 7-10 percent at the beginning of the year. And in some cases they didn't go up at all. For instance, a spokesman for Similac said Tuesday there wasn't an increase this year or in 1991.

But by the time it got on the shelves the price went up 20-35 percent.

Baker, who is 7 months pregnant, has a 22-month-old son, Matthew. Since he was a baby, Baker said, she's Old Village's Station 885 restaurant has expanded twice since 1986, and owner Jerry Costanza plans a third expansion.

Thief uses torch on pay phones

A thief took a blow torch to some vending machines and a pay phone inside a Plymouth Township warehouse during the weekend, police reported.

The vandalism-theft was discovered at 4 a.m. Monday at Federal Pipe and Steel, 41600 Joy Road. An unknown amount of money was taken, according to the report filed with police. The incident occurred between midnight Friday and early Monday, the report continued.

DEEP DENTS: A homeowner noticed several 4-inch deep dents in his garage door Monday and estimated the damage at $600.

The homeowner, on John Alden near Turkey Run in Plymouth Township, said he heard a loud noise at about 3 a.m. Sunday, but didn't discover the damage until he left his house at 3 p.m. the next day.

Nothing was stolen in the incident. Police closed the case for lack of suspects.

son Robert and son-in-law Nick Gurerrro, said, "There's always someone from the family here," adding dedicated employees and "treating your help right" have contributed to the restaurant's success.

Since opening, the restaurant has been expanded twice. "We're considering expanding for a third time," he said.

Sideways Gifts at 505 Forest downtown expanded in 1991, the businesses' 16th year, said owner Sharon Pugh.

"We've had a substantial increase in business since we enlarged, we're far and above where we thought we would have been," Pugh said, adding Christmas '91 business was up over the previous Christmas.

Why is her business doing well? While Pugh said service and quality are important, "Also you need to be constantly changing wall displays, the product mix," she said.

"You have to know your customer base. Everyone has to find their own niche with their customer," Pugh said. Sideways Gifts is open seven days each week, and Pugh said it's important to be available to customers.

"We'll probably be opening two more stores," Pugh said, "probably in downtowns in Michigan in the next year and a half."

At Country Charm, 884 Penniman, "Our worst year since we started was this past year — we were up 20 percent," reported owner Larry Bird.

Since buying the business in 1987, "We've probably driven the sales up to four times what it was," Bird said.

Like Costanza and Pugh, Bird and wife Jane plan to expand by moving the store to 322 S. Main — the former Dell's Shoes store "hopefully by April."

Bird said direct mailing to 7,000 customers has helped build the business.

"We are now committing ourselves to more customer service," he said. Through "niche marketing" customers interested in a certain collectible line are called when a new item in that line comes out.

"A lot of retailers don't have any marketing plan," Bird said.

Prof will talk about reading as a 'family affair'

Mary Bigler, professor of education at Eastern Michigan University, will speak on "Reading is a Family Affair" at Gallimore Elementary School on Monday, Feb. 6, at 7 p.m.

Bigler, a consultant and speaker in the area of motivation and reading, will share ideas on how parents can help children become better readers. The event is sponsored by the Hoben Elementary School Parent Support Group and the Farrand Elementary School Parent Teachers Organization.

A children's book display and sale will be held at the presentation. Included in the display are joke and riddle books, novels, poetry books, picture books, novelty books and resource books.

The event is free and open to the public. For more information, please call Joyce Deren, Hoben Elementary School principal, 451-6388.

Auto worker takes aim at Japan in song

By Diane Gale
staff writer

The U.S. trade war has a Belleville man singing the blues.

Pat Forchione wrote "Foreign Car Blues" six years ago and last week the Ford Motor Co.'s Livonia Transmission machinist decided it was time to record it.

He went to Talent Live productions in Canton, recorded the song and the rest, he hopes, will be history. Rick Young of Talent Live, played lead guitar, and Jesse Taylor, another performer, played rhythm guitar.

"I wrote it five or six years ago, but it wasn't timely to bring it out," Forchione said, adding that his newest songs is one of 35 songs he's written.

"Through Talent Live they make it so that a regular guy can come and record. You don't have to be a millionaire," he said.

Forchione wrote the lyrics, sang lead, as well as played the harmonica, piano and tambourine.

Strains of the song played while Forchione spoke.

"I used to buy a foreign car, but it's time to throw that sucker away."

"I want to get me a motor made here in the U.S.A."

"I used to buy a scrap bike that ran on sake and rice."

"I made that mistake one time. I won't make that mistake twice."

"Buy American workers. Buy union made."

'Through Talent Live they make it so that a regular guy can come and record. You don't have to be a millionaire.'

— Pat Forchione

Other lyrics refer to company loyalty and job security for some of his four brothers and one sister. Two of his brothers work at Ford Motor Co.

The union and company ties were deeply planted while Forchione watched his father, Daniel, serve with the UAW for 40 years while working at Ford.

He found just the right audience when he played the song recently at a party for the Wayne Assembly union local, and the flavor set the place on fire.

"I had this going in me for a long time," he said. "With the excitement generated around the country I thought if I don't get it out now I'll never do it."

Hopefully my song will get people to think to buy American in as many people as it can."

The song debuted on WLLZ radio station Monday, according to an operator.

Copies of the song aren't currently available at stores. However, copies can be purchased at Talent Live in Canton.

State rep blasts governor's actions on education

By Diane Gale
staff writer

One of the nicest things State Rep. James Kosteva, D-Canton, had to say about Gov. John Engler was that he talks out of both sides of his mouth.

Like most House Democrats, Kosteva slams the Republican for his policies outlined in a recent state of the state address.

"His words are that he wants to be the education governor, but his actions are less than positive," Kosteva said.

WHILE ENGLER added 4 percent to education programs, he also vetoed $200 million of proposed education programs, Kosteva said.

Engler has campaigned against the Michigan Education Trust fund, a college tuition prepaid program started during Gov. James Blanchard's administration, by refusing to open enrollment.

"I think it's pure political vindic-teness and he has not voiced any legitimate reason for opposing it," said Kosteva, who sponsored the MET bill.

On a positive note, Kosteva said, Engler's administration has balanced the budget "without a noticeable tax increase." And he's making up some of the shortfalls with increased fees in court costs, admissions to state parks and state fees.

Some of the cuts, like those made in social services, were made without enough evaluation, according to Kosteva.

"It makes sense to take able bodied people off of the general assistance rolls," Kosteva said. "But it doesn't make sense to eliminate job training at the same time."

IMAGINE SOME of these people, who have never held jobs before updating their resumes, he said.

He referred to Engler's property tax cut proposals as the business person's welfare that's unfair to the low and middle class.

Michigan needs property tax relief, middle class residents have to be targeted and the bulk could be paid for by "eliminating corporate welfare."

When asked whether bridges of communication will be built between Democrats and Engler, Kosteva said, "It's up to him. We have more than once offered an olive branch to sit down and discuss issues. This governor's style is confrontational and he has not offered a willingness for positive negotiations."

'It makes sense to take able bodied people off of the general assistance rolls. But it doesn't make sense to eliminate job training at the same time.'

— State Rep. James Kosteva

Wow!

"OWL Magazine," a Canadian publication, has honored Fiegel Elementary School students for their efforts to enhance the environment. Fiegel fifth-graders for the past three years have been cleaning a branch of Fellows Creek in Canton's Brookside subdivision. The students are the only winners in the U.S. awarded by OWL. Presenting the "Hoot Club" award was state Rep. James Kosteva, D-Canton, at Lowell Middle School Monday.

School trustee fears student violence is getting out of hand

By Darrell Clem
staff writer

Alarmed by rising student violence, Wayne-Westland school board member Leonard Posey wants a committee of community leaders to study the problem and seek solutions.

Posey stopped short of calling for immediate weapons sweeps on school grounds. But he indicated it may be necessary to consider such security measures if students continue to carry guns, knives and other weapons to school.

"I'm scared," he said. "I'm afraid somebody else is going to get shot or beaten to death."

Posey fears the number of violent injuries or deaths could increase as more and more students use deadly weapons to settle disputes. Police in Westland and Wayne also have noticed an escalation of school violence.

Posey's proposal to form a committee of school officials, district workers and parents came just four days after 30 students being driven home from Wayne Memorial High escaped injury when a projectile passed through their bus and pierced windows on both sides. It wasn't immediately known if it was a bullet.

Wayne police continued Tuesday its investigation of the incident that occurred at 2:40 p.m. Thursday, but John Colligan, deputy police director, said authorities may never know whether the projectile was a bullet. "All evidence has been inconclusive," he said.

'I'm scared. I'm afraid somebody else is going to get shot or beaten to death.'

sulted in murder charges against four teens, including three John Glenn High School students. Police accused the youngsters of arranging to buy drugs from a 20-year-old man and killing him as revenge for an earlier dispute. Their trial hasn't yet been scheduled.

● On Dec. 11, a seventh-grader at Franklin school in Wayne was caught carrying a loaded .38-caliber automatic handgun tucked in his waistband, though police said he apparently didn't make any threats. That same day, a female Franklin pupil was caught with an eight-inch knife.

● On Sept. 27, a clash between youths at a Westland Burger King resulted in a 35-year-old man being kicked and beaten when he tried to rescue a teenager being attacked. A police report cited racial tension in that melee.

● Within the last 15 months, a 17-year-old Ypsilanti male was shot in the face — but survived — in a clash that followed a basketball game at John Glenn High School. And a Schweitzer Elementary student was caught carrying a gun to school, Posey noted.

he said, adding later, "I'm hearing more and more and more about fights and what happens after ball-games."

Deputy Superintendent Thomas Svitkovich Monday noted that, despite the problems at schools, "For the most part I'm very pleased with what goes on. I believe they are safe schools."

Posey pledged to push to form a committee to study the problem and seek solutions. "I'm not going to let it die," he said. "I think it's something we should all embrace." It wasn't immediately known when the committee would be formed. But Posey wants input from teachers and residents in school neighborhoods, among others.

"I want to hear from teachers about what they're seeing in the classrooms," he said. "I want to know what people in the neighborhoods are seeing and perceiving. Are the people in the community seeing gangs? Are they seeing trouble when students get off the buses?"

POSEY APPEARED convinced that, as a minimum step, school officials should boost their efforts to educate students and parents about the dangers of weapons.

'WE'RE FINDING more and more kids bringing guns to school.'

watched the price of formula increase 100 percent. A 16-ounce can of powdered Similac ranges between $6.60 and $9.46, Baker said. When Matthew was a baby it cost $4.29.

THE PRICES could force some mothers to dilute the formula with water or replace it with homogenized milk, which are practices doctors strongly discourage, Pate said.

"When the price of cheese went up people were outraged. And here this is your baby," Pate said cradling her 4-month old girl, Madison. Her son, Benjamin, 2, played a few feet away.

Kroger spokesman Pat Burn claimed charges tacked on by the grocery chain are a result of manufacturer increases. Meijer spokespeople were unavailable for comment.

Kroger and Meijer will be the first stores targeted if they picket, Baker said, acknowledging however, that most retailers are charging similar prices.

"I think mothers have to rally together," Baker said. "Increase something else, but baby formula is their staple."

According to the manufacturers the retailer has the right to increase the price at any time, Baker said.

Parents criticize state health model

By Darrell Clem
staff writer

Worried parents demanded Monday night that school officials remove from Wayne-Westland classrooms a curriculum that teaches children about sex issues, child abuse, drugs, death and other controversial topics.

Parents blasted the Michigan Model curriculum, used in most school districts, and said it encourages anti-Christian behavior and hurts family values. Some concerned parents have moved their children from public to private schools.

"I'll work five jobs if I have to, to put my daughter in a private school and keep her there," Wayne resident Mark Bancroft said during Monday's school board meeting.

Some school officials and teachers — concerned that students aren't receiving the guidance they need at home — favor the curriculum. Some believe it can help combat teen pregnancy, drug abuse, the spread of AIDS and other problems.

Board president Sylvia Kozorosky-Wiacek has suggested a meeting between concerned parents and curriculum officials to discuss their differences.

The curriculum has sparked criticism in numerous districts. Although districts don't have to teach it, they could lose state money if they don't. Parents can opt to have their children sit out when the lessons are taught.

In the 16,000-student Wayne-Westland district, the curriculum became a pilot program five years ago in only two schools. It has been expanded gradually and this year is being taught in all 23 elementaries, four junior highs and two high schools.

CRITICS ARGUE that the Michigan Model usurps a parent's authority to teach children about moral issues. Parent Margie Henry called the curriculum "inappropriate and harmful" for youngsters.

Some parents have grown increasingly worried about classroom activities that encourage students to explore their feelings. Marilyn Estrada, a mother of five, said her first-grade daughter came home discussing a horror story that her class had been told.

When Estrada approached the school staff, she said, "I felt helpless — completely helpless. They looked at me like I was crazy."

She said school officials told her that most children see movies like "Friday the 13th" and "Halloween 3."

"Not my kid," she said, adding later that schools should "teach (students) how to read and write."

Board member Andrew Spisak said school districts are being called on increasingly to deal with social problems that have worsened as more parents shirk their responsibilities. Schools are being forced to provide basic necessities such as food and love, he said.

ALTHOUGH MANY children receive guidance at home, Spisak said. "We have to teach all the kids, and all the kids don't have the loving home life that (your) kids have."

Spisak added later, "If someone doesn't help the children who don't get that help (at home), they're going to infect your children."

Reps differ on Bush's plans

By Wayne Peal
staff writer

President George Bush is upbeat about Tuesday's State of the Union address, but local Congressmen disagree on whether their constituents will be equally upbeat.

"I know the president was upbeat when he met with us Wednesday morning," said Rep. Carl Pursell, R-Plymouth, a member of the House GOP caucus.

Pursell, a longtime Bush supporter, called the address a strong speech that shouldn't be overshadowed by unrealistic expectations.

"Expectations were very high, but one speech isn't going to turn the economy around overnight," Pursell said. "I'm pleased he addressed the (federal budget) deficit, but anything you do about the deficit is going to take time."

Pursell's district also includes northern Livonia and Plymouth Township.

Area Democrats were predictably less enthusiastic.

"STRONG WORDS, weak action," is how Rep. Sander Levin, D-Southfield, described the president's tax proposal.

Levin, who represents Southfield, said he was particularly disappointed that the president failed to address trade issues.

"It's as if he hadn't been to Japan at all," he said.

Rep. William Ford, D-Taylor, said the speech was stronger on image than specifics.

Ford also called the president's insistence on a cut in the capital gains rate a tax break for rich only.

"I'm not interested in passing any more tax dodges for people who don't need it," said Ford, who represents southern Livonia, Canton, Garden City and Westland.

The president's proposal also included reduced federal income tax withholding, an increased tax exemption for families with children and tax credits for first time home buyers, a freeze on new federal business regulations and defense cuts.

Residents lukewarm to Bush plan

If George Bush wants to find out how his State of the Union Address played on Main Street, he need only talk to David Pugh.

Pugh, a member of the Plymouth Downtown Development Authority, is trying to help rebuild a Main Street hit hard by the recession.

Despite a new series of proposals, Pugh said he was still uncertain the president understood the depths of the current recession.

"Are tax credits going to bring people to downtown Plymouth?" Pugh asked. "I don't know. But I do know the issue comes down to leadership and that means our own city council people, not just the president."

Lisa Diebel lists herself among those who thought the president's proposals didn't go far enough in offering help to recession-racked households.

The Westland mother of two said increased tax exemptions for children would help her household "minimally."

"IT'S A start, but if you look at where the exemption was 30 years ago, we're not even keeping up with inflation," she said.

Al Stone of Redford, an employee of an Oakland County-based automotive supplier, said the president should take a strong "Buy American" stand.

"The president really needs to get that message across," Stone said. "When it comes to that we're all on the same side."

John McIntyre, an area businessman, found an unexpected bonus in the at least one of president's proposals.

The $5,000 tax credit for first-time home buyers should help, said McIntyre who is trying to sell his Livonia home.

Still, the speech didn't make him any more or less likely to vote for the president.

"I don't have any more or less faith in him than I ever did," McIntyre said. "He seems to blow in the wind."

Program gets tough with first-time drug offenders

By Wayne Peal
staff writer

Casual drug users arrested in two local communities will face jail under a new Wayne County program.

Police in Canton and Westland are participating in "Do Drugs, Do Time," a new anti-drug program launched through the Wayne County Sheriff's Department.

Those arrested in those communities will be sent to the Wayne County Jail. There, first time offenders will be given the option of entering a drug treatment program or facing criminal charges.

"THESE ARE people who usually just get a slap on the wrist and sent home," Westland Police Inspector Emery Price said.

In the past, casual users had little contact, if any, with the criminal justice system, added Canton Public Safety director John Santomauro.

"Once they're arrested, they're going to realize they've got some hard choices to face," Santomauro said.

Though Wayne County Sheriff's Deputies will transport those arrested to jail, it is up to the local departments to determine whether suspects will be placed into the program.

Wayne County Sheriff Robert Ficano acknowledged the program represented a change in anti-drug strategy.

"Basically it's aimed at the recreational drug user," Sheriff Robert Ficano said. "Previously, most efforts were directed at drug pushers. We were going after supply now we're going to be going after demand, too."

Those arrested will be booked at the county jail and then screened for prior offenses. Small scale drug buyers without previous felony convictions will be given the option of entering a drug treatment program. Charges will be dropped, and the arrest record erased, for those who successfully complete their treatment program. Offenders will be billed $180-a-night for their jail stay, Ficano said.

Construction of the county's new 840-bed Hamtramck jail made the program possible, Ficano said.

"BEFORE, WE just didn't have the space available," he said.

The program is based upon a program begun two years ago in metropolitan Phoenix.

In that program's first 28 months, Maricopa (Arizona) County police officials reported 11,440 people were arrested for drug use with 5,333 eligible to have charges dropped by volunteering for treatment.

Of those eligible, 2,461, or 46 percent chose to enter treatment; 2,617, or 49 percent, either refused outright or did not respond to police notices about the treatment option.

Roughly 5 percent either became ineligible due to a subsequent arrest or were deciding whether to accept treatment.

Panel to discuss Japanese culture

"Solving the Japanese Puzzle," a panel on Japanese culture and behavior, will be the topic of the Feb. 5 meeting of the Metropolitan Chapter of the Society of Professional Journalists. The meeting will be held in the Livonia Marriott Hotel, Six Mile and I-275 (at Laurel Park Place Mall).

The meeting, which is open to the public, will feature Steve Myers and Akiko Sakuma of Suzuki, Myers & Associates, international business consultants.

Cost is $14 for members, $16 for non-members and $10 for students.

Social hour at 6:30 p.m., dinner at 7 p.m. followed by the program at 7:30 p.m.

For reservations, call (313) 446-0403 by noon Monday, Feb. 3.

For SPJ membership information, call (313) 547-1878.

Grants will improve Metro Airport

Detroit Metropolitan Wayne County Airport will receive $1.36 million in federal and state money for airport improvements, it was announced recently.

The airport will receive $1 million in federal money and $341,000 in local money for phase one of a project that will replace the terminal apron, a holding area for planes getting ready to enter the runway.

The airport also received $138,000 for an acoustical study at a nearby Romulus elementary school.

Projects money was approved through the Michigan Aeronautics Commission, a division of the state department of transportation.

In all, commissioners approved more than $5 million for 10 airport projects.

Other projects included a $1.78 million allocation to help the Oakland Pontiac Airport acquire land Airports in Alpena, Benton Harbor, Escanaba, Lansing and Niles also received federal and state grants.

All airports will also share in a $60,000 crack sealing program and matching program to mark runways.

Discounts stretch entertainment buck

You've worked or studied hard all week. The weekend's almost here. What's available in the way of discounted or bargain entertainment when you've got limited funds but crave a well-deserved break? Before you take out your credit card to order tickets, pick up the telephone and call that entertainment center to ask what discounts are available. Your hands on the money.

SOME AGE groups like senior citizens and students almost always can get discounts. They're not as readily available to the sandwich generation of middle-agers.

One solution is simple: Grab your friends and go for the group discounts. Savings are relative.

For example, start with second-run theaters. Terrace Cinemas, 30400 Plymouth Road in Livonia offers second-run films for $1.50-$2; The Farmington Civic, $2 anytime; the Livonia Mall Cinemas, Seven Mile and Middlebelt roads, $1 per person per flick at all times; Penn Theater in downtown Plymouth, $2 all times; Tel-Ex in Southfield, $1.50 everyday and $2 after 6 p.m.; the AMC Towne 4 in Southfield, $1 all times.

What's a second-run theater? It's a theater which runs movies that have been out for at least two to three months.

Compare the $1-$2 price range at second-run theaters to $6 for first-run movies. But even at these theaters you can sometimes find reduced prices for matinees or showings before 6 p.m.

At the Quo Vadis Theater on Wayne Road in Westland, senior citizens 60 and older pay $3.50 all times.

At the United Artist-West River in Farmington Hills, students can show their ID and get in for $4.50, said Jim Hayden, district supervisor.

HEADING NORTHEAST to the Palace of Auburn Hills and more discounts await.

The Palace is offering a special "Buy Two Shows - Get One Free" country series packages at $39 each. Included are tickets to the Randy Travis, Alan Jackson and Trisha Yearwood shows.

The series also includes the Conway Twitty/George Jones show at the Palace on March 26 plus a free lawn ticket at the Horizon show at the New Pine Knob on May 10. The Horizon show features Joe Diffie, Pirates of the Mississippi, Collin Raye and Lee Roy Parnell.

A food drive sponsored by Feed the Children, an international hunger relief organization, will accompany the Randy Travis show Feb. 14. Concert fans are asked to bring non-perishable food items.

"We're taking a close look at it as something we may use in the future," said Scott Heitman, Palace marketing assistant.

The Palace also hosts other affordable entertainment. For the World Championship Rodeo 2 p.m. Sun, Feb. 9, youth groups, no minimum size, receive $4.50 off the $12.50 and $10.50 tickets. Children, 12 and under, and seniors 62 and over receive $2 off.

The Wonderful World of Horses, featuring the Royal Lipizzan Stallions, a family show was just added for 7:30 p.m. Saturday February 15. Groups of 15 or more can receive $2.50 off $13.50 and $11.50 tickets.

YOU MAY HAVE seen the slime on Nickelodeon. Now selected area kids have a chance to be slimed at 1 p.m. and 5:30 p.m. March 1 in cable network's Double Dare Live Tour presented by The Palace. Participants make their way through goopy obstacle courses. Groups of 15 or more receive $2 off $10 tickets or "two-for-one" on the $8.50 tickets.

If you prefer more adult entertainment, the Fox Theater in Detroit is offering six shows for the price of three on its Michigan Bell Variety Series. The package: Englebert Humperdinck, Roger Whittaker, "The Magic of David Copperfield," Victor Borge, "A Chorus Line" and Liza Minelli. Series tickets begin at $30 and go up to $165.

The Birmingham Theatre offers special senior discounts on certain evening performances for the first three weeks of each performance.

"It's been in effect for three years now," said Shirley Harris, public relations director. Group discounts for 20 or more people can save $10.50 each for the $25.00 "Babes in Arms" ticket and $8.50 off the $22.50 Sunshine Boys ticket, she said.

Owners of Metro Passbooks and Entertainment books can also use their "buy one, get one free coupons" at some live theaters.

Meadowbrook Theatre in Rochester Hills offers discounts Tuesday,

Wednesday and Thursday evenings Wednesday, Saturday and Sunday matinees.

Students can receive 20 percent for advance sales on one or two tickets and 50 percent on the day of show on one ticket. Seniors, 62 and over, receive 20 percent on one or two tickets, as do Oakland University faculty, staff, alumni and retirees.

O&E THURSDAY, JANUARY 30, 1992

IN BRIEF

New judge

The five communities served by the 35th District Court — Plymouth, Plymouth Township, Northville, Northville Township and Canton — have each passed resolutions supporting creation of a third judgeship.

"The (state) legislation to add the judgeship will be introduced in February," according to a statement released on behalf of the court.

If approved, the election of a new judge would take place in November, and the judge would take office Jan. 1, 1993.

The communities have also approved a plan to add a third courtroom and offices to the current building, on Plymouth Road, at an estimated cost of $534,780.

Bids are to be let in the spring, for the six-month project. The architect is Carne & Associates.

Two named

Two Plymouth residents are among appointees recently named by Gov. John Engler to state boards.

Earlier this month, Engler appointed Claybourne Adams, president of Adams and Son Registered Land Surveyors Inc. to the state Board of Architects.

Adams has served on the state Board of Land Surveyors since 1986, and is past president of the Michigan Society of Registered Land Surveyors and former co-editor of The Michigan Surveyor.

He was appointed to the board to represent registered land surveyors for a term ending March 31, 1993.

The board provides for the registration of persons practicing architecture, sets qualifications for registration and prescribes penalties.

Also this month, Maria Stante, president of Maria Construction, Inc., was named to the executive committee of the Michigan Christopher Columbus Quincentenary Jubilee Commission.

Art contest

Artists in the Plymouth community are being asked to enter their work in a contest that could land their work on a Christmas card. The contest is being sponsored by the Plymouth Community Arts Council, which is looking for sketches, photography and watercolors of a familiar Plymouth winter scene. The five by seven art work will be reproduced on the card, which will be sold by the arts council to raise money. The contest winner will receive a $250 prize. The deadline is April 3. For more information, call 455-5260.

Old Hindu passes on family traditions

By Diane Gale
staff writer

BILL BRESLER/staff photographer

Ntvaral Harila Shah, 92, talks about the importance of working hard.

Aashish Shah, 16, has a live-in reference source when he does homework, especially if the subject is India.

His grandfather, Ntvarala Harilal Shah, is 92 and likely the oldest East Indian in Canton. And when it comes to remembering Indian holidays and cultural events, he's the one Aashish Shah turns to.

"He was my reference for an assignment at school, he said, pointing to the patriarch.

"And when the calculator miscalculates he gets it right," he added with obvious pride.

There are more than 450 East Indian families in Canton, which along with Troy, Sterling Heights and West Bloomfield has one of the largest East Indian populations outside of India.

NTVARALA SHAH'S memory dates back to the beginning of the century. He graduated as an accountant in 1918 from the London Chamber of Commerce.

Hailing from Bombay, Shah was a manufacturer of seamless chemical flooring for 55 years in India.

In fact, Ntvarala Shah said, his company laid flooring in the Orient Express. Some of his manufacturing techniques were patented, he said, and used worldwide.

"Throughout my country I was well known," he added.

His advice to younger generations: "Work. Never be idle. Think creatively."

He has been a great source of guidance to his son, Bharat, who followed in his father's steps by becoming an accountant. Bharat Shah works at Twin Pines and his wife, Charu, is employed as a social worker.

When they came to the U.S. in 1982, the family ran the American Grocery Stores in Pennsylvania. The long hours and tough working conditions forced them to sell their business and buy a hotel in Belleville. When that didn't work out as planned, Charu and Bharat Shah each got other jobs.

BUT THE ELDER Shah advises them that being their own bosses is the best way.

"He gives us real good moral support," Charu Shah said. "He always told us, 'Don't look at the past, but toward the future.'"

She emphasized the importance of the extended family living together.

Family pride is evident in Ntvarala Shah, too. His posture was firm and his voice lilting when he spoke of his other grandson, Bhavin, 19, who is attending the University of Michigan.

"I like this country," he said. "Creative work is important. It shouldn't be destructive work."

INSULIN IS NOT A CURE FOR DIABETES. IT JUST KEEPS PEOPLE ALIVE UNTIL WE FIND ONE.

There is no cure for diabetes. At least not right now. And until there is, millions of people have to live with the disease.

If you think that's easy, imagine living on a diet every day of your life; constantly monitoring your blood sugar level; and taking insulin injections several times a day.

But as hard as that sounds, not taking care of your diabetes makes it much worse. Because diabetes can lead to heart disease, kidney disease, blindness and gangrene.

And for 150,000 people each year, it leads to death.

Insulin is not a cure. But until we find one, it's all we have.

Downtown Longer store hours needed

DOWNTOWN PLYMOUTH is changing. Fred Hill announced the closing of two clothing stores in December, then the Mayflower Hotel filed for Chapter 11 bankruptcy earlier this month, and now a local gift store owner says she's headed for Laurel Park mall in Livonia.

While those three announcements don't mean downtown Plymouth will become boarded up at any point in the near future, they are an indication that there are problems.

The move by Land & Seas Gifts and a comment by Scott Lorenz that Plymouth is competing with the new mall should serve as an early warning system to the business community and the Plymouth City Commission that there could be more empty store fronts.

That warning should prompt the Plymouth Community Chamber of Commerce and the city to look at what retailing niche the city should go after. This comes at a perfect time, with the Downtown Development Authority looking at putting a new face on the business district with streetscape work.

BUT IT WILL take more than a face lift to improve the business climate in Plymouth, it will take the formulation of a philosophy.

To us, the basic tenet of that philosophy should be store hours. It's time to acknowledge that downtown is competing with surrounding malls for business, even when it comes to Plymouth residents.

To acknowledge that competition, merchants need to get together and establish consistent hours of operations, as is done in malls. It's difficult even for local residents to figure out if a store will be open at a given time, much less folks from other communities.

Joanne Hickson, supervisor at Little Professor book store which recently expanded its hours to 9 p.m., said it the best: "They (customers) keep asking, 'Why aren't the other stores open?' I honestly feel that if the stores were open earlier and later, they would probably notice more street traffic."

It's time for the city to acknowledge the changing winds of retailing. If it doesn't, the world could just blow past.

Enforcement Schools lax on smoking laws

THE PROPOSED ban on smoking at the two high schools by 1993 is an admirable goal of the Plymouth Canton schools, but it's going to be a tough job.

Keeping kids from smoking is the right thing to do, but such a campaign collides with people's rights. Teachers and students who are 18 years old have the right to smoke.

However, the school board should have acted quicker than it has. A ban on smoking has been discussed since 1989, that's four years since the first discussion and the proposed implementation.

That's plain old foot-dragging. During a discussion of the smoking ban, school administrators cited the cost of enforcing such a ban. As always, they contended it would be high.

WE UNDERSTAND the administrator's concentration. The two high schools at the Centennial Education Park are more akin to a community college than a high school or even two high schools.

Students often attend classes in both high schools and walk between the buildings. That means they're free to smoke, if they so chose, because keeping a security guard on each path on the campus would be too costly.

But while we acknowledge the district's plight, we don't understand how the school board can condone smoking by students under the age of 18. That's plain old illegal, and something that should be enforced right now, not in 1993.

A combination of teachers, school counselors and security guards could at the very least start cracking down on underage smokers, without adding to the cost of operating the high schools.

Still a crisis

End reasons for homelessness

TREES HAVE long ago been taken down, ornaments and colored lights packed away, wrapping paper discarded. The holidays are but a memory.

But homelessness continues. It continues for the people who spend the night at Birmingham Unitarian Church, at the South Oakland Shelter, Royal Oak, at the Wayne County Family Center, Westland and other shelters throughout the metro area.

In November, we asked area residents to be especially generous in remembering the homeless. We're gratified so many people responded, especially during a recession.

BUT WE ALSO asked people to remember the homeless, as best they could, throughout the coming months.

Despite some mildly encouraging signs coming out of Gov. John Engler's office, life appears to be getting worse for our area's homeless.

The long-running recession has put more people out of work, swelling the ranks of the needy. Cuts in government grants haven't helped, either.

"Demand is going up, but we have less to give," is how Bryce Denison of Wayne Metropolitan Community Services Agency described the dwindling food supplies at area soup kitchens.

This doesn't mean we should throw up our hands. There's plenty we can do and plenty of agencies that could use our help.

Wayne Metro, Detroit-based Gleaners Community Food Bank and Pontiac Rescue Mission are but three of the dozens of private, non-profit agencies that could use your support. Many area churches have also become actively involved in providing shelter or assisting area shelters.

Chances are, there's an agency or church right in your home town that could use a hand.

BUT WHILE we're encouraging people to be generous, we know our generosity will only get homeless people through the winter. We also need to mobilize our resources to assure that, in future winters, no one need go homeless.

It's important we provide food, shelter and clothing, but it's also important that we root out the problems that contribute to homelessness.

For too long, we've talked about the homeless as though they were one unified body of people with a unified set of problems.

While all homeless people have a major need

'Demand is going up, but we have less to give,' is how Bryce Denison of Wayne Metropolitan Community Services Agency described the dwindling food supplies at area soup kitchens.

— shelter — many have other equally important needs.

A portion of our homeless population is people with severe alcohol or drug-abuse problems.

Another portion includes people released from mental hospitals.

Still another portion, the fastest-growing segment, includes single mothers with young children.

Others include people, who for whatever reason — job loss, illness, bad luck — lose their homes.

THERE'S NO denying that more, and better paying, jobs would reduce the number of the nation's homeless. But jobs also require a renewed commitment to job training.

More available housing would also be a plus.

A quarter-century ago, we declared war on poverty and federal money flowed into housing projects. But federal money for low-cost housing has dwindled, causing that market to all but disappear.

Despite the noble efforts of Habitat for Humanity, few abandoned houses have been reopened for the homeless, either.

Even though jobs and increased housing would help, more work is still needed to break the back of drug and alcohol dependency.

More also needs to be done to keep families together, as well as preventing teenage pregnancies.

Let's make sure, too, that all mentally ill people receive decent, humane treatment and are not merely dumped into the streets.

Despite recent economic troubles, our nation and our region is still blessed with tremendous wealth and resources. What is lacking is the political will.

This winter, let's do what we can to help the homeless.

But in this election year, let's also make sure our candidates are dedicated to putting an end to homelessness.

The burden of being homeless is a year-round problem, and we need to abate the reasons that keep it so. For an editorial on the subject, please see the lower left article on this page.

Property tax plans pose risks to state

I'VE BEEN reflecting on Gov. John Engler's state of the state speech last week. The guy who wrote, "If you liked me in 1991, you'll love me in 1992," hit the nail on the head.

This was a political speech, as was the slick videotaped Democratic rebuttal afterward. Themes for the 1994 election are already coming into focus.

Education first. Engler pledged to continue to shovel money at K-12 schools, colleges and universities, despite cuts in other areas of state spending.

He gave some worthwhile statewide exposure to the idea of an "education warranty" that would require schools that graduate students who lack minimum skills to re-educate them without charge.

Premiered in Plymouth-Canton schools, the plan seems to be working fairly well, if only because it concentrates on outcomes — what kids actually learn — instead of process — how many years they sit in classrooms.

ENGLER EMPHASIZED his proposal to cut school property taxes by 30 percent and cap the rate of future annual increases in assessments to 3 percent. With 400,000 signatures in hand, it seems clear this proposal will join a competing Democratic one on the ballot this fall.

Most readers of this newspaper have seen the assessed value of their property — and, consequently, their taxes — skyrocket in recent years.

Trying to pay the taxes on a paycheck hard hit by the recession — or, worse, on a pension and Social Security — is very tough. On the surface, Engler's proposal will have a lot of appeal.

That will fade once people figure out just what it will cost. The proposed 30 percent tax cut will cost schools something like $2.25 billion per year by 1997. The plan requires the state to reimburse an equal amount to the schools.

So, other things equal, in a total state budget which will be something around $8 billion by 1997, the cut and cap proposal requires shifting $2.25 billion to schools from somewhere else.

THAT'S A BIG shift, with big political stakes attached.

First example: job training. Other than what's required by federal law (the Job Partnership Training Act, for example), there is no serious job training taking place in Michigan today.

Why? Because Gov. Engler wasted no time dismantling the job training system erected by his predecessor, Jim Blanchard. Gone are the Youth Corps, the Job Start anti-welfare program and the Michigan Opportunity Card.

Now that thousands of Michigan workers are being laid off, the need for job training has never been greater. Yet there is no state initiative in place. And even if the Engler administration gets around to developing one, there won't be any money to pay for it after the $2.25 billion is shifted to the K-12 system.

SECOND EXAMPLE: Reaganesque budgetary shenanigans. It now seems clear that the real reason lying behind our national deficit crisis is a political miscalculation made in the early years of President Reagan's administration.

Conservatives erected the following chain of logic: Federal spending is too high. Let's reduce government spending by reducing government income. Therefore, cut taxes.

What happened, however, is that the White House and the Congress got into a feeding frenzy of tax cutting. The resulting revenue slash was far larger than anyone ever intended. It was never balanced by expenditure reductions. Our towering national debt is the result.

Sometimes I wonder whether John Engler doesn't have a similar scenario in mind — and will force Michigan to face similar risks — with the cap and cut property tax proposal.

Phil Power is chairman of the company that owns this newspaper. His award-winning column will appear periodically.

Burley family is grateful to Plymouth

To the editor:
The family of Grace Burley will never forget the expressions of sympathy and the many kindnesses extended to us at the time of our loss.

The community of Plymouth, the many, many friends, the different groups in which she participated were her mainstay. Without you, her 96 years would not have been so meaningful.

Knowing she was with you, made it a little easier for those of us who did not live in the area.

We thank you sincerely and will never forget the many things you have done over the years for our beloved "Gracie."

Our deepest gratitude to Schrader's Funeral Home. You have helped our family through many difficult situations. Your reliability is

City workers made ice fest

To the editor:
I have had the opportunity to see all the hard work the Department of Public Works does before and after the festivities the City of Plymouth offers.

The weather seems to go out of its way not to cooperate with the city's activities, made vividly clear during Ice Festival time. If the warm January temperatures aren't causing a meltdown for the beautiful ice sculptures, it's a flash blizzard the day before the festival starts — the case this year, forcing the DPW the jump into action to clear the streets and the park before continuing the huge task of preparations for the ice festival.

The Department of Public Works could not do a better job than they do. The City of Plymouth should be very proud of them.

Settlements should be open to public

LYNN ORR, reporter and editor here from 1976 to 1981, was a tenacious firebrand who constantly inspired her older and taller colleagues.

She covered a case where Ms. Teacher, passed over for promotion, sued a Redford school district for gender bias. Embarrassed, the board settled out of court for a sum — on condition that Ms. Teacher not reveal the amount.

Orr thought — correctly — that the amount should be public because the school district (a) squandered human talent and (b) paid for it with tax dollars.

But the sly devils on the school board never wrote a check directly to Ms. Teacher. They lumped her settlement in the fees they paid their lawyer, and the lawyer paid off Ms. Teacher.

TWO JACKSON County prisoners, beaten in their cells by other prisoners, charged jailors were negligent. One asked damages of $50,000 to $100,000; the other, six figures.

The county paid up but demanded an agreement that neither side reveal the amount, covering up official ineptitude.

The Jackson Citizen-Patriot blistered the county and opined the deal may have been illegal because no law allows such confidential agreements.

Enter state Rep. Michael Griffin, D-Jackson. His House Bill 5436 says: "An agreement to settle a claim or lawsuit against this state or a local unit of government that prohibits disclosure of the agreement or any terms of the agreement is against public policy and is void."

Tim Richard

Strong words. It's now before the House Judiciary Committee.

I WOULD GO a step further and ban secret settlements by publicly traded corporations, too.

That would be fine with Stanford C. Stoddard, the Birmingham financier who was offered a settlement in five suits against Michigan National Corp. in return for a gag order.

Nuts, said Stoddard. Good for him. Stock in Michigan National is widely held.

Stoddard's publicist noted that a stockholder has filed suit in U.S. District Court against Michigan National for its 'failure to notify shareholders about extensive litigation and the potential large liability ($57 million) to the corporation and its directors.'

CORPORATE SECRECY over suits in public courts has been growing since 1986, according to Texas attorney Bob Gibbins, president of the Association of Trial Lawyers of America.

Gibbins' article, "Secrecy versus Safety," appeared in December's ABA Journal. He cites federal court gag orders that did specific damage to the public interest:

- Stern v. Dow Corning — a breast implant case where Stern won a jury verdict. A gag order "prohibited plaintiff's attorneys and expert witnesses from telling government regulators or anyone else what the discovery documents showed about safety tests." Even a medical school professor was gagged.

- Grundberg v. Upjohn Co. — a Halcion case. Plaintiff had killed her mother while under the influence of the sleeping medication. The gag order "leaves an unknown number of patients and doctors wondering what caused side effects."

- Turnberger v. Cessna Aircraft — "The widow of a police officer killed in the crash of a traffic-control airplane is denied discovery of evidence of the airplane's design defect because of a confidential 'agreement' in another case."

- Davis V. McNeilab Inc. — "A scientist who herself suffered a potentially fatal allergic reaction to a painkiller — later withdrawn from the market — discovers that other victims were similarly affected several years earlier but were sworn to secrecy." The gag orders "even prohibited discussion of adverse reactions in scientific journals."

Gibbins said Texas, Florida, North Carolina and Oregon have moved, either by court rule or legislation, to limit gag orders.

Michigan should be a leader. And thanks, Lynn Orr, for the idea.

Tim Richard reports on the local implications of state and regional events.

Suburban shake up a cold fact of economy

THE REALTY SIGNS are starting to multiply.

I think that's the clearest remembrance I have of the recession in the early '80s - for sale signs remaining, seemingly forever, on lawn after lawn of our part of suburbia.

A recession seems to shake all of our parts up, like the snowflakes in a glass paperweight, only to see where they fall when they resettle on the firmament.

No where is that shake up more obvious than on the streets of our suburban downtowns.

THE BAD news is that businesses without staying power are leaving — and their employees are out on the street. The good news is that storefronts aren't necessarily staying empty, and some new opportunities exist for those with flexible skills:

Judith Doner Berne

- In Birmingham, Birmingham Stamps & Coins on Woodward is building a new, larger building next to its present site.

- In West Bloomfield, empty storefronts originally built for retail are filling up with a variety of small, mainly ethnic restaurants.

- In Rochester, downtown merchants are now open on Sundays and Thursday and Friday nights. Downtown Birmingham adopted Sunday hours last fall.

- In Southfield, NBD is opening a new branch office featuring special services for senior citizens in a part of that city in which 70 percent of the residents are in this age group.

THE MESSAGE is as clear to the small retailer as it is to the banking industry as it is to the Big Three. We must change our ways of doing business.

We must become more efficient, more service-oriented and offer merchandise and services which are well-designed, well-executed and appropriate.

If that sounds like the way the Japanese do business, it is.

But it wasn't always. Not so many years ago, the label "Made in Japan" connoted cheap, inferior goods to Americans. Now, it seems, it's the reverse.

It can change. It means going back to basics and reacting to reality — not just in the short term, but for the long haul.

IF WE DON'T want our businesses, industries and storefronts vacant and workers left out in the cold:

- It's time for the American auto industry - the heart and soul of metropolitan Detroit - to make even fewer models. Throw out the ones which have been consistently shoddy and concentrate all efforts into a few - covering each price range - which have proven potential. And quit duplicating efforts. If the Ford Taurus and Mercury Sable are essentially the same car, just make one of them.

I would be happy not to have to decide among so many models - as long as I could pick quality.

- All car manufacturers should insist that their dealers be open on Saturday. It's truly amazing that even in this recession, many metro Detroit auto dealers are still adhering to the "Never on Saturday" rule.

It's no longer applicable - and hasn't been for many years. Close on Mondays, like the art galleries if you will, to work five-day weeks. You are retailers of a product which is the second most important and costly item most people purchase. Imagine if real estate salespeople insisted on not working weekends!

- BUSINESS and industry must lend their power to make sure that all of our children are literate. Otherwise, they, as individuals, can't be productive - and we, as a society, will not only lose their input but continue to pay for their frustration through the welfare, drug and alcohol rehab and prison systems.

Our public transportation system must not be abandoned, but improved with all local communities paying their way.

- The "me" ness of the '70s and '80s must give way to the "we" ness of the '90s if the Detroit area is to regain its spirit and quality of life.

We must acknowledge and act on our mutual dependencies - that the good and welfare of the entire metropolitan area rests on safe streets and the quality of schools, recreation, roads and transportation, goods and services.

When the recession is over and the snowflakes settle, I don't want us to have melted away.

Bell offers discount calling programs

Beginning Feb. 1, Michigan Bell will offer two new calling plans designed to cut costs for residential customers telephoning to and from the suburbs and rural areas.

Circle Calling 20 is available to residential customers who make frequent long-distance and zone calls within 20 miles of their homes.

Circle Calling 30, a plan that will be available in a few weeks, will offer savings on calls within a 30-mile radius.

"We estimate that nearly a million of our customers could save with these plans," said Laird Spencer, senior director of marketing and business development for Michigan Bell.

Circle Calling 20 will give customers seven hours of long-distance and zone calling up to 20 miles for $20 a month. As an added feature, a 30-percent discount will apply to calls that exceed the seven-hour limit. An average customer could save about $20 with this plan, Spencer said.

Circle Calling 30 will provide a 30-percent discount on toll and zone charges up to 30 miles, 24 hours a day, seven days a week, and includes one-half hour of toll and zone calling for $3 a month. It could save an average customer more than $5 per month.

Spencer said the new plans are a response to the change in calling patterns. Over recent years calling patterns have changed dramatically as the result of urban sprawl which has put more distance between people and their jobs, families and friends, Spencer said.

"And people who've moved away to the suburbs or rural areas have been demanding a way to reduce their bills for calls to family, friends and businesses back in their old neighborhoods," he added.

Circle Calling 20 is an expanded version of Metro Service, a plan in existence several years ago in the Detroit, Grand Rapids and Pontiac areas. While Metro Service was limited to those three areas, the new plan will be available to residential customers anywhere in the state. These discounts could provide savings totaling about $20 million a year for Michigan Bell customers and are in addition to more than $40 million in long-distance price cuts the company announced in December.

Spencer said the new plans are a result of the state's new telecommunications law which took effect Jan. 1, and which makes it possible for the company to bring new plans on line more quickly than ever before.

The Circle 20 exchanges covered for residential customers in western Wayne County include:

Hotline offers job information

A problem with the Michigan Job Fair Hotline has been corrected and the hot line, 554-0005, is now available for those seeking information on the 1992 Michigan Job Fair, Friday, March 6, at the University of Michigan-Dearborn.

The event is expected to be the largest job fair of its kind in the Midwest. The fair is designed for students, professionals with degrees and skilled trades workers.

Those attending are encouraged to bring resumes.

Representatives of banking, civil service, clerical, computer, engineering, finance, health care, insurance, manufacturing, petroleum, research and sales professionals will be on hand to discuss job opportunities with participants.

Communication and entertainment industry professionals will also be on hand. Columbia Pictures has confirmed it will be attending.

Fair hours are 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. at the university fieldhouse, 4901 Evergreen, Dearborn.

Advance tickets are $15 and are available at all area TicketMaster outlets. Admission is $20 at the door.

Rocks rule court

By Dan O'Meara
staff writer

Plymouth Salem continues to prosper in volleyball despite the absence of star hitter Julianna DeLaRocque.

Three days after she suffered an ankle injury in a match with Farmington Harrison, the Rocks won the Plymouth Invitational championship Saturday and went to 3-0 in Western Lakes Activities Association duels Monday by beating Livonia Franklin.

"I was happy to see how well the team handled the injury," Salem co-coach Allie Suffety said. "We were a decent team before she came along, and when she did it was like added cream."

"We've been banking on this team since the juniors were freshmen, when (co-coach) Brian (Gilles) and I took over the program. We've invested a lot of time in these players, and we're happy to see them being successful."

The Rocks, who won their own tournament for the first time in its 17-year history, won six consecutive matches without losing a game and defeated Harrison in the final (15-6, 15-7).

In pool play, Salem defeated Hazel Park (15-9, 15-4), Dearborn Heights Crestwood (15-2, 15-1) and Harrison (15-6, 15-1). North Farmington fell in the quarterfinals (15-4, 15-7) and Garden City (15-8, 15-10).

Martha Bol led the Rocks with 28 kills, Cyndi Platter put down 21 spikes for kills, Julie Thomas posted 16 and Shelby Carey chipped in 13.

Long-awaited Observer meet making debut

By Brad Emons
staff writer

The coaches demanded it, and now the participants are ready for the first-ever Observerland Wrestling Tournament.

Action begins Saturday at 10 a.m. at Garden City High's spacious new gymnasium.

Thirteen area schools will participate in the inaugural event, patterned after the long-standing Observerland Boys Track Relays.

"People are real excited," Garden City coach Phil Freeman said. "The coaches wanted it because it gives them a chance to see how their kids stack up against the rest of the schools in the area."

The field includes Class A, B and C schools. The only schools not entered — because of schedule commitments and conflicts — are Livonia Clarenceville, Churchill and Franklin.

The battle for the first-ever championship team trophy may boil down to three teams and perhaps a fourth. "I don't look for anybody to win by a wide margin," Freeman said.

THE FRONT-RUNNER could be perennial state power Redford Catholic Central with tests coming from Plymouth Salem, Farmington and possibly Westland John Glenn.

CC's 6-8 dual meet record is deceiving, considering the Shamrocks have loaded up on a difficult schedule.

"The only team in the area I've seen is John Glenn, and I think we can stay with them," said CC coach Mike Rodriguez, who has seven state championships under his belt. "From what I hear it will go down to the wire between Salem and ourselves. I'd venture to say Salem is a pretty good team, otherwise they wouldn't have ventured to Ohio to face (Lake-wood) St. Edward's.

CC is led by Shamrock Invitational champions Jason Krueger, a 160-pounder with only two losses, and 171-pounder Dan Kelly (21-2-1).

Kelly should get a stiff test in his weight class from once-beaten George Young of Plymouth Canton.

Salem, three-time defending Western Lakes Activities Association champions, could make a bid despite a broken leg suffered Saturday by 160-pounder Chip Barker.

"It's not one of our better years, but the kids have wrestled well," Salem coach Ron Krueger said. "We'll

Canton wins showdown for lead in WLAA hoops

By Bill Parker

And then there was one. The only two remaining undefeated teams in the Western Lakes Activities Association tipped it up Tuesday at Walled Lake Central. When the final buzzer sounded Plymouth Canton emerged as the lone undefeated team in the league as the Chiefs rallied for a hard-fought 69-60 victory.

"It's still early in the year, but this is a great win for our program," said Canton coach Dave VanWagoner, whose team improved to 6-3 overall and 4-0 in the WLAA. "We stepped into a hostile gym and beat a very fine team on their floor. I'm proud of the way the kids played."

THE CHIEFS, playing without leading scorer Derrick McDonald, took control of the game in the fourth quarter. Canton overcame a four-point deficit by outscoring the hosts 24-13 in the final eight minutes. The Chiefs used a patient passing attack to beat Central's press, and limited the Vikings to one shot at a time by dominating the boards.

Trailing by four, 49-45, early in the fourth, the Chiefs went on a 7-2 run to take the lead for good.

Senior Jon Paupore (14 points) canned a triple to pull the Chiefs to within a point and classmate Tony Coshatt (12 points) followed with an inside bucket to give Canton a 50-49 lead. Junior Chris McFarlane put Central back on top by a point with an inside hoop of his own, but a put-back by Canton junior Mike Stafford put the Chiefs ahead to stay, 52-51, with 5:41 remaining in the game. Stafford got hot in the closing minutes of the game, scoring 10 of his 17 points down the stretch, including three-of-four from the free-throw line. Senior Mike Brennan nailed four-of-four free throws in the final minute of play to help preserve the win for the Chiefs.

"We're fortunate," VanWagoner said. "This year we have a lot of good shooters on the team. We work on our free throws because free throws win close games. Today was a close game and the free throws played a big part."

THE LOSS WAS disappointing for Steve Emert, but the veteran Viking coach feels his team still has a shot at the league title.

"It was a tough loss, but there are a lot of games left," said Emert, whose team slipped to 8-2 overall and 4-1 in the WLAA. "We're at a tough part of the schedule. We played (Livonia) Stevenson Friday, Canton today and (Plymouth) Salem this Friday. We felt, as a staff, that we wanted to get two of the three so we still have a shot at it. I don't think anyone will go undefeated in this league this year."

Emert felt Canton's size advantage was a big factor in his team's loss. Canton's starters measure 6-foot-7, 6-6, 6-5, 6-5 and 6-1 while Central checks in at 6-5, 6-3, 6-3, 6-0 and 5-8.

"We wanted to make it a 94-foot game and force them to make the perfect pass every time," Emert said. "They made quite a few of them. We had difficulty with their size. They're so big. We pressed them, but they passed over the top of us."

THE VIKINGS had trouble finding the range early, hitting just 1-of-8 from the field in the first quarter as Canton rolled out to a 14-6 lead. Paupore canned six points on back-to-back triples late in the quarter.

Central's pressure bothered the Chiefs in the second as the Vikings rallied and took a 29-28 lead by the halftime break. The Vikings scored five points off three steals, and Canton committed four turnovers enabling Central to get back in the game.

Eric Leaf (11 points), Christian Emert (11 points) and Adam McCarthy scored five points each in the quarter to lead the comeback.

Steve Rabaut's triple with :38 remaining in the half pulled the Vikings to within a point, 29-27, and Leaf dishd off to Emert for an easy inside basket with time running out as Central took a one-point lead into the break.

"We started out real cold, and it took a lot out of us to come back like that," the Viking coach said.

CANTON'S HAL HEARD stepped up his game in the third quarter, scoring eight of his game-high 18 points. Heard's putback with 1:33 remaining in the quarter tied the game at 43-43 and his inside basket off the press-breaker tied the game at 45-45 with less than a minute remaining. Christian Emert's jumper beat the buzzer to give Central a 47-45 lead entering the fourth quarter.

"I felt we dealt with their pressure and didn't turn the ball over much," VanWagoner said. "I thought the kids played with tremendous poise under pressure."

Ron Thompson added 12 points for Central and Justin Cerfoli finished with nine.

The Vikings travel to Plymouth Salem on Friday while Canton plays at Walled Lake Western Chiefs triumph in gymnastics meet

Plymouth Canton used a diverse lineup Tuesday to defeat host Ann Arbor Pioneer and improve its dual meet record to 3-1 in gymnastics, 125.5 to 112.4.

"We put as many kids in as we could," Canton coach John Cunningham said, adding the Chiefs had six regional qualifying scores on floor, three on bars and two each on vault and beam. "All in all, it was a very good meet."

Canton's Kim Rennolds had the top scores on beam (8.85) and floor (9.2), and teammate Laura Anderson was first on bars (8.45).

The Chiefs were second in every event as Kari Jackson scored 8.05 on vault, Kim Lewke 8.2 on bars, Cara Stillings 7.95 on beam and Dawn Clifford 8.25 on floor.

Canton's Alicia King (7.7) was fourth and Michelle Cimeot sixth (7.45) on vault, Clifford third (8.0) and Adrienne Brenner sixth (8.6) on bars, Brenner fifth (7.05) and Kathy Tiffin sixth (6.65) on beam.

Tiffin also was fourth (8.0) on floor, Stillings fifth (7.9), Brenner and Kim Wagenschutz sixth (7.85).

WE'RE THE PLACE FOR SKIERS

Raiders repel Ocelot rally

By C.J. Rieak
staff writer

The point was made. In fact, several points were made Wednesday night at Oakland Community College's Orchard Ridge campus, where OCC held off Schoolcraft College to collect an 83-77 men's basketball victory.

- Point No. 1: Before you can score points, you have to get the ball to a spot where you can shoot from. SC found that out.
- Point No. 2: Never take anything for granted, no matter how many more points you have than the other team. OCC nearly learned that the hard way.
- Point No. 3: A man at the point always helps. SC didn't have a true point guard and, ultimately, that ruined the Ocelots (see Point No. 1).
- Point No. 4: Having a guy who can put a lot of points on the board is always nice. OCC's Rashe Reviere filled that role nicely, scoring 37.

THIS WAS a game that seemed decided by halftime. Even the most optimistic SC fans would have given up hope four minutes into the second half.

The Ocelots had managed to play OCC evenly through the first 11:30 of the game. Gemal Ahmed's basket with 8:42 left had tied it at 20-all, the fifth tie of the half.

Then the Raiders' full-court pressure began to shred SC. Seven-straight points resulted from five Ocelot turnovers in a 90-second span. A Tony Rumble jumper interrupted the streak, but didn't stop it; OCC scored the next 10 points, too, and with 2½ minutes left until intermission the Raiders had a 39-22 lead.

It was 43-28 at the break, and Reviere — he had 14 points in the final 8½ minutes, 20 in the half — and the Raiders' pressure — they forced 20 SC turnovers — were the reason.

"Their press killed us, no doubt," said SC coach Dave Bogataj.

The Ocelots "talked" it over at halftime, but in the opening minutes of the second half not much had changed. OCC was going through layup drills; two consecutive Bill Knight baskets, the last coming at 15:54, allowed the Raiders to go up 55-30.

THAT'S WHEN something weird happened. "They backed off," said Bogataj. "And that allowed our kids to settle down and get into their game."

OCC coach Lynn Reed called off his full-court pressure and began putting in his subs. It proved to be a mistake.

The Raiders have been involved in nothing but close games, and until Saturday's triple-overtime victory at Macomb CC they had lost all of them. Now they had a blowout on their hands, but they didn't know how to handle it.

"It was my fault, too," said Raider coach Lynn Reed, accepting the blame. "I went to my bench a little too early. I got my rotation out of sync, my substitutions, and then I didn't call a timeout."

The Ocelots started a comeback that at the time seemed as unlikely as Detroit having an 80-degree day in January. A Rumble three-pointer began it; after another Knight basket (his sixth-straight point for OCC), SC really got cranked up, outscoring the Raiders 26-4 in a 7½ minute stretch.

When Jermaine Burden buried a three-pointer for SC from the top of the key with 7:50 left, OCC's lead had been trimmed to 61-59.

"WE HAD people open, too," said Reed. "But it was like a comedy of errors — missed layups, the ball bouncing off the corner of the backboard."

The Raiders could thank the basketball gods for having Reviere. After Knight's basket with 15:10 left, only one Raider put points on the board for almost nine minutes — Reviere. He had all eight of OCC's points in that span.

Reed got the rest of his starters back into the game and the momentum reversed. After Jeff Wagner pulled SC to within 65-63 with 6:31 remaining, the Raiders ran off five-straight points. SC did manage to pull to within 71-67 on an Ahmed hoop with 4:12 left, but the Raiders answered with a 9-2 run, ending with Kevin Woodmore's three.

That made it 80-69 and sealed SC's fate. "At the end, they put the squeeze on again and we had problems," said Bogataj. "At least we made it a ball game. We played hard, we never gave up."

WHAT KILLED SC was its lack of a point guard. Rumble, Wagner, Burden and Shawn Benson all tried it, but none is suited to the position like Rahim Woodson — an academic casualty in January — was. Which wrecked the Ocelots' game plan: try to get the ball inside to Scott Meredith and Jarvis Murray.

"I thought we did a good job on their big men," said Reed. Indeed the Raiders did: Meredith and Murray, SC's top two scorers, were limited to 10 points apiece.

If SC had been as successful defending Reviere, the Ocelots might have won anyway. But Reviere was devastating: In addition to 37 points, he had 12 rebounds and six steals.

Knight was the only other Raider to reach double-figures in scoring, finishing with 14 (and 11 boards). Dale Craft, Darin Brandt and Woodmore scored eight each, with Brandt adding seven assists.

At least the Ocelots had more balanced scoring: Besides Meredith and Murray, others in double-figures were Wagner with 15 and Rumble with 13. Burden got nine and Ahmed eight.

SC finished the game with 33 turnovers; OCC had 22. The win evened the Raiders' Eastern Conference record at 5-5; they are 10-11 overall. SC slipped to 3-7 in the conference, 10-13 overall.

Meredith on fire

Schoolcraft sports

With only two wins in its first eight Eastern Conference games, Schoolcraft College's men's basketball team had little to boast about. But the Ocelots are making some noise; they've shown they can beat anybody.

They defeated highly regarded Oakland CC earlier this season, and last Saturday improved to 3-6 in the conference by knocking off second-place Highland Park CC 66-65 with a desperate finishing rally at SC.

SC had led by 12 with 6½ minutes left in the first half before a full-court press helped the Panthers narrow the gap to 40-35 at the break. Still, the Ocelots stayed in front until just seven minutes remained, when Highland Park took its first lead, 58-37.

It didn't look good for SC after that. The Panthers built a 65-59 advantage with 2½ minutes to go before the Ocelots rallied. Behind Scott Meredith's clutch play, SC scored the game's final seven points to escape with the win.

MEREDITH HAD two baskets in the closing run and Jarvis Murray added one. Meredith supplied the game-winner, hitting a short jumper after a pass from Chris Habitz with :13 left. Highland Park got off a shot at the game-winner, but missed and Meredith rebounded.

"If we keep playing like that," said SC coach Dave Bogataj, "we'll raise some hell (in the conference)."

Meredith finished with a game-high 26 points, making 10-of-15 from the floor. No one else reached double-figures in scoring; Gemal Ahmed had nine and Shawn Harrell netted eight. Both Meredith and Murray grabbed 11 rebounds, and Murray blocked five shots.

Highland Park got 20 points from Darnell Murphy. No one else reached double figures.

The loss left the Panthers at 5-4 in the conference, tied for second place with Macomb CC.

SC WOMEN: Free throws again worked to SC's disadvantage Saturday at Highland Park CC.

The Lady Ocelots were 6-of-8 from the line; their hosts made 17-of-31, which is why SC lost, 56-49.

Another reason: SC was without top inside threat Sis Guth, who sat out for unspecified disciplinary reasons.

The Lady Ocelots led 29-19 at the half, but the free throws and a lack of scoring balance was their undoing. Donna Galli led SC with 23 points, making 5-of-8 threes; Dana Hudson chipped in with 10.

Lakashia Allen's 17 points was best for Highland Park. Monique Hardeman had 13 and Tanya Dubose scored 11.

The win left SC with a 12-9 overall record, 2-6 in the conference.

Madonna women go cold

Madonna sports

A five-minute cold stretch led to Madonna University's downfall Saturday in a 76-68 women's basketball loss at Concordia College.

The defeat left the Fighting Crusaders at 4-12 overall, 2-4 in the NAIA District 23. Concordia is 8-17 overall, 4-2 in the district.

Madonna led 36-34 at halftime and increased its advantage to nine points in the second half before its cold streak, during which the Crusaders scored just one free throw.

Their inability at the line was also a factor: Madonna made just 19-of-32 free throws (59 percent). Concordia wasn't much better (16-of-26, 62 percent), but the Lady Cardinals made their foul shots down the stretch when they needed to.

Cheri Sangregorio's 16 points was best for Madonna. Lori Creten, who returned from a back injury last week, finished with 15 points and 10 rebounds, and Jill Burt added 11 points and eight boards.

For Concordia, Lisa Smith netted 19 points, Beth Cannon scored 13, Leslie Eggert had 12 and Melissa Phillips got 10.

After playing eight-straight games away from their own gym, Madonna will finally return home this week. The Crusaders host Grand Rapids Baptist at 7 p.m. tonight and Aquinas College at 7 p.m. Saturday.

MADONNA NOTES: Burt was honored as the district's player of the week last week, the first Madonna player to be so honored this season.

The 5-foot-6 sophomore sharpshooter from East Jordan HS poured in 57 points in three games for the Crusaders, two of which were wins.

'We had people open, too. But it was like a comedy of errors — missed layups, the ball bouncing off the corner of the backboard...'

— Lynn Reed
OCC coach

'At the end, they put the squeeze on again and we had problems. At least we made it a ball game. We played hard, we never gave up.'

— Dave Bogataj
Schoolcraft coach

OCC sports

OCC victory takes 3 OTs

Nothing has come easily for Oakland Community College's men's basketball team this season, so Saturday's outcome at Macomb CC should have been expected.

It took a Bill Knight basket with four seconds left in regulation to tie the game for OCC at 80-80 and force overtime. Then the Raiders had to withstand three extra sessions before they could finally emerge with their first Eastern Conference win in two weeks, a 107-106 triumph.

Rashe Reviere was the reason for OCC's victory. The 6-foot-3 sophomore poured in 47 points, making 8-of-9 three-pointers. He also grabbed 10 rebounds and dished out seven assists. "He was just outstanding," said coach Lynn Reed.

Macomb had gone ahead on two Terrence Walker free throws with :12 left in regulation, setting up Knight's big basket. Knight finished with 18 points and 23 rebounds for OCC; Walker led Macomb with 28 points.

Troy Coleman scored 26 for the Raiders, with Dale Craft getting 10 and 13 boards and Darin Brandt collecting eight assists. OCC's rebounding was a key factor: The Raiders had a commanding 59-34 edge.

The win improved OCC's conference record to 4-5; the Raiders are 9-11 overall. Henry Ford CC leads the league with an 8-1 mark, followed by Highland Park and Macomb at 5-4.

Salem gymnasts favored to repeat

Plymouth Salem will be heavily favored to repeat Saturday as gymnastics champion of the 17-team Plymouth Invitational.

The Rocks have been ranked No. 1 in the state after beating defending state champion Muskegon Mona Shores and winning the Midland Invitational Jan. 18.

"I would say Salem is working its way to being the favorite at the state meet, let alone the Canton Invitational," Canton coach John Cunningham said.

"If they keep improving, they have a strong chance to win the state, and I don't think anyone at this meet can touch them."

That's saying a lot since seven of the top 10 teams in the state will compete this weekend in Centennial Educational Park's Phase III gymnasium.

THE OTHER ranked teams are No. 3 Canton, North Farmington, Holt, Rochester Adams, Troy Athens and Freeland.

Other area teams include Livonia Clarenceville, Westland John Glenn, Farmington and Wayne Memorial. Northville, Walled Lake Western, Bloomfield Hills Lahser, Royal Oak Kimball, Fraser and Vassar round out the list of teams.

"Salem is the team to beat, and the other six are fighting for second place," Cunningham said, adding the Chiefs might be favored in the quest for runner-up honors but are not the "odds-on" favorite.

The reasons: Adams and Freeland finished ahead of Canton at the Athens Invitational, Holt and Northville have been scoring in the 130s, Glenn also can score that high if all its gymnasts are healthy and North defeated the Chiefs in a dual meet.

"You can call me the favorite, but there are four teams in the meet that I've lost to," Cunningham said. "If Canton continues at the pace it has been the last couple of meets, I'm comfortable saying we'll be second. If we have a bad meet, we could fall to seventh."

The meet also will feature some of the best individual talent in the state, including three recent all-around winners. Canton's Kim Rennolds won that title at the Rockford Invitational, Freeland's Sarah Kelly at Athens and Salem's Courtney Gonyea at Midland.

IN ADDITION, Salem's Stephanie Skeppstrom and Melissa Hopson were second and fifth at the Athens and Midland meets, respectively.

In anticipation of this year's state meet, the competition will be split into two levels — I for club gymnasts and II for high school gymnasts. Team scores will not be affected.

To qualify for Level I, a gymnast must have competed at the club level during the past two years. All others fall into the second category. Many high school gymnasts have a club background but have not competed for a club in the last two years.

A gymnast can move up but can't move down. Gonyea, for example, has the talent to be a Level I but has not competed in club gymnastics in the last two years.

"It won't be a matter of good kids and bad kids," Cunningham said, "but two sets of good gymnasts."

The purpose of the new rule is to give more girls a chance to compete and to prevent club gymnasts from forcing out those who are involved in the sport solely on the interscholastic level, Cunningham said.

The march-in will take place at 9 a.m. Saturday, and competition will begin at 9:30 a.m., continuing until 4:30 p.m. Instead of the day being split into warm-up time and then competition, teams will warm up immediately prior to competing in each event. Admission is $2.

Rocks keep pace with cage victory

Plymouth Salem remained one of the top basketball teams in the Western Lakes Activities Association by defeating Northville 66-56 at home Tuesday.

The Rocks are 3-1 in the league and tied for second place with Farmington Hills Harrison and Walled Lake Central. Plymouth Canton leads the WLAA with a 4-0 record.

Salem had balanced scoring with four players in double figures. Sophomore forward James Head netted 17 points and grabbed 12 rebounds to lead the Rocks, 6-3 overall.

Junior guard Mike Slone scored 15 points, senior guard Eric Stemmer 12 and junior guard Bob Schneider 10. Chris Lehr and Mike Mashek had 17 points apiece for the Mustangs, 2-3 in the league and 5-4 overall.

The Rocks led 25-23 at halftime and outscored Northville 41-33 in the second half, taking a 43-37 after three quarters. Salem made seven three-point baskets and the Mustangs three.

"We busted some shots from outside in the third quarter," Salem coach Bob Brodie said. "They played hard and kept us on our toes. They got the ball to their big guys quite well."

Salem has a big game Friday when it plays host to Walled Lake Central, which lost to Canton Tuesday.

PLYMOUTH CHRISTIAN Academy was outscored 16-9 in the fourth quarter Tuesday and came up a point shy against Lutheran Westland at Lowell Junior High, 49-48.

The visiting Warriors were down by six points with 6½ minutes left, but two free throws from Matt Grams with 14 seconds remaining won the game.

PCA never got a shot at the game-winning basket as Grams knocked the ball away from Jason Neal into the clutches of Lutheran teammate Jeremy Bohn in the final seconds.

The Warriors led 25-24 at halftime, but PCA outscored Lutheran 15-8 in the third quarter and moved in front 39-33.

Neal had 18 points, nine rebounds and five steals to lead the Eagles, 1-10 overall. Jeff Hess added eight points, Nathan Ledbetter eight rebounds and Ryan Thomason four assists.

Rick Mobley had 16 points and eight rebounds for the Warriors, 3-7. Kevin Roberts added nine points.

AGAPE CHRISTIAN of Plymouth rolled up a 13-point halftime lead, and the margin held up through the second half Tuesday for a 58-45 win over visiting Wixom Christian.

Agape is 5-3 in the Metro Christian Conference and 6-3 overall. Wixom is 7-2 and 12-3.

Senior guard Chuck Younkun scored 19 points for Agape, freshman guard Dion Dixon and sophomore center Brandon McKelvey 16 apiece. McKelvey also had 16 rebounds. Todd Sales scored 11 for the losers.

Agape lost 84-74 to Wixom last month when it was minus two starters, one being Younkun. Agape led 19-9 after one quarter and 34-21 at halftime. Wixom got within seven points in the third period but never any closer.

REDFORD CATHOLIC Central routed host Warren DeLaSalle 83-60 Tuesday and ended the first half of its Catholic League Central Division schedule with a perfect 5-0 record.

Setter Caryn Tatterton managed to get her swings, too. She had 14 kills in addition to 66 assists out of 158 sets.

Jenny Garvey and Thomas were the leading servers and defenders with 21 and 11 aces, respectively, and 21 digs apiece. Thomas and Carey also made nine blocks for points.

The Rocks, who won the six-team Plymouth tournament the previous Saturday, have done well in weekend competition. They were second at Madonna, fifth at Temperance Bedford and sixth at Portage.

"It's always a concern when you have a (good) tournament like Madonna and play well but still want to keep improving," Suffety said. "We're excited about the progress we've seen."

"The girls are not satisfied with sitting back and being content with the position they're in. They really want to make this a great season."

Salem dominated the Patriots in the dual match Monday (15-4, 15-6, 15-4) and improved their overall record to 21-5-7.

Bol recorded eight kills and Platter seven. Platter also served six of the team's 10 aces and 13 consecutive points in the second game. Carey and Garvey were perfect on defense with 6-of-6 digging. Thomas had five blocks and five digs.

Suffety is hoping DeLaRocque, a Brazilian exchange student, will be able to play again Monday when the Rocks play Walled Lake Central in a key WLAA match.

"When she comes back, we'll definitely welcome her," he said. "Juliana loves volleyball and it's sad for her, but it's nice to see the other kids playing well without her. We hope when she comes back it will be that much more of a positive."

PLYMOUTH CANTON saw its WLAA record dip to 1-2 following a loss to defending WLAA and state champion Livonia Churchill (5-15, 9-15, 15-11, 8-15) Monday. The Chargers are 3-0.

"I thought we played well at times," Canton coach Jacqueline Getz said. "When we played with intensity we won. In the third game, we were hitting and blocking aggressively and the defense picked up."

"Our serving wasn't real good. We missed some key serves and that led to our downfall."

The Chiefs were semifinalists Saturday in the Plymouth Invitational. They were 5-1 in pool play, splitting with Ann Arbor Gabriel Richard (9-15, 15-7) and beating Farmington (15-11, 15-9) and Redford Union (15-11, 15-8). Canton eliminated Richard in the quarterfinals (15-9, 15-12) but lost to Harrison (11-15, 12-15).

"I told them the girls played very similar to Monday," Getz said. "I told them when they play with intensity no one can stop them, but right now we're pretty inconsistent."

"We're getting better at putting teams away, and that has to do with playing together and getting some experience. The key Saturday was our intensity and communication."

Heidi Klæs and Tina Schaefer played well in the front row, and Colleen Connell was a standout in the back row, Getz said. Erin Olenech had some key hits, and Jenny Davis performed well on the service line.

CC avenges hockey loss

Redford Catholic Central turned the tables on host Southgate Anderson in a Michigan Metro High School Hockey League encounter, 6-4.

Anderson came away with a come-from-behind 5-4 win on the Shamrocks' home ice Jan. 18, but CC returned the favor Tuesday at Southgate behind two goals and one assist by junior Joe Blaznek.

Senior Pat Casey added one goal and two assists for the winners, now 9-3-1 overall and 5-3 in the West Division of the Metro.

Senior Scott Johnson and junior Mike Giordano contributed a goal and one assist each. Junior Vic Stesiak also scored for CC.

"I thought the line of Casey, Blaznek and Giordano worked well together," CC coach Jack Gumbleton said. "The last time we played them I thought we should of won, but after this game they (Southgate) were saying they played well enough to win. I didn't think we forechecked or hustled very well, but maybe we didn't play too bad after all."

CC netminder Jamie Ronanye, in place of starter Mike Brusseau, turned away 23 Southgate shots to post the win.

Chiefs record swim victory

Sophomore Jeff Clark set a pool record in the 50-yard freestyle Tuesday as Plymouth Canton defeated visiting Novi in swimming, 104½-81½. The Chiefs are 3-1 in dual meets.

Clark won the event in 23.02, breaking the record set by former Indiana University swimmer Paul Peterson in 1979.

Clark also anchored the winning 200 medley and 200 freestyle relay teams.

Bryan Lang, Mark Ealovega, Craig Steshetz and Clark posted a 1:46.53 time in the medley, and Steshetz, Mike Orris, Pat Lancaster and Clark swam the freestyle event in 1:35.07.

Orris won the 200 freestyle (1:51.72) and achieved a state cut in the 500 freestyle at 4:58.96. Ealovega was first in the butterfly (59.44) and Steshetz the breaststroke (1:06.37).

PLYMOUTH SALEM, despite only one first place, came close again to getting its first victory Tuesday but was unsuccessful. Brighton edged the host Rocks 96-90.

"It's getting pretty old, to tell you the truth," Salem coach Chuck Olson said. "We're right there. It seems we're in position every week and just can't quite get that little extra we need from somebody."

Aaron Berlin had Salem's lone first place when he won the 500 freestyle in 5:15.17.

The Rocks were second in every other event. Matt Erickson was on two relays and was runner-up in the 50 freestyle (23.99) and butterfly (1:00).

Scott Helmstader, Phil Hoffmeyer, Erickson and Fred Locke swam the medley relay in 1:47.77, and David Bracht, Locke, Brett Petroskey and Erickson comprised the 200 freestyle team (1:38.17).

Joe Ervin was second in the individual medley (2:17.12) and 100 freestyle (54.09). Bracht, Ervin, Berlin and Petroskey competed in the 400 freestyle relay (3:40.03).

Berlin was tops for Salem in the 200 freestyle (1:55.98), Steve Salhane in diving (232.45 points), Helmstader the backstroke (1:01.11) and Hoffmeyer the breaststroke (1:08.27).

Salem visits Westland John Glenn for a dual meet Thursday.

Slow Drains?

You'll never have a slow running, or clogged drain again!

The secret? Clean drains don't run slow. The "slows", or periodic clogs, are signals that a thick layer of "gook" is choking your pipes.

coats the entire length of your pipe from sink to sewer, or septic. Conventional drain openers cannot remove this build up. Even a small tunnel through the waste lets them flow through the pipe, leaving the gook behind!

Now, with just a few minutes each month, you can easily clean out your pipes like new... and KEEP them clean with Plumb Clean®. It clings, and penetrates deep into the gook. No other product has the Plumb Clean® formula. That is what allows it to liquefy even years of build up. Plumb Clean® will clean the entire length of your pipes. It will make your drains run like new, when used as directed. This penetrating action is so revolutionary. Plumb Clean® is money-back guaranteed! Don't be confused. Plumb Clean® is the brand with the guarantee right on the label.

Save Money. A 1 lb. jar of Plumb Clean® holds up to 41 drain treatments. It costs only about 35¢ per treatment.

Independent laboratory studies show Plumb Clean® more effectively breaks down organic waste than all other products tested. So, if your drains have the "slows", get safe, guaranteed Plumb Clean® today!

Bowlers assist charities

THE ANNUAL Bowling Charities Tournament is underway in bowling centers all over Oberon, and all league bowlers are eligible to enter. The $1 entry fee is donated to one of several worthy charities within Michigan. Entrants who qualify for the area roll-offs may advance to the finals and win some cash prizes.

EVEN THE Michigan state lottery has gone bowling. It is now possible to buy the "bowling scratch-off" tickets at lottery agents everywhere. I am not suggesting anyone buy these tickets — the chance of losing money is greater than your chance of winning — but it is an interesting play on the game, with three chances to beat your imaginary opponent's score.

NICK WITKOWSKI, president of the Wayne-Westland Men's Bowling Association, has been an avid bowler for 35 years. Wednesday, Witkowski rolled his first 300 game while bowling in the Tri-City Men's Invitational League at Westland Bowl.

Imagine how Aaron Staples must have felt with a 299 in the same league and not winning the jackpot.

YOU MAY have heard or read of a report last week that said Americans spend more of their leisure time knitting than any other activity. The survey was taken by Leisure Trends Inc., a Connecticut-based research firm that works with the Gallup organization to find out what Americans like to do in their free time.

Americans spend $600 billion on leisure-related activities every year. Michigan folks lead the nation when it comes to knitting, sewing and bowling.

"While others around the nation are golfing, shopping or walking, Michigan is bowling," the survey said. Idle thoughts: Do the knitters know their knitting average? Is there a knitting league?

AT THE AGE of 19, Kurt Pilon has already achieved many things: Six perfect games in competition, all kinds of championships in youth tournaments and a host of accolades from his peers.

Pilon may have achieved his greatest feat Wednesday in the Leo Wolak's Junior All-Star Classic league at Bowl One Lanes in Troy.

His three games, 278-287-299, added up to an incredible 862. This is probably the highest three-game total ever recorded in the metropolitan Detroit area in youth competition.

If compared to the local adult scores, it would be the fifth best adult total since records have been kept. Remember the name Kurt Pilon. This young man will be a standout wherever he bowls in the years to come.

CANTON'S JOHN SINKE rolled a 300 game at Town & Country Lanes in Westland, but it was during open bowling practice. Sinke would have liked to save it for his Sunday Mixers league, but remember, practice makes perfect.

Salem wrestlers 2nd in tourney

Nine wrestlers on the Plymouth Salem team finished fourth or better Saturday, helping the Rocks capture second place in the Romulus Invitational. Salem had two champions — Jeff Shumate and Tally Sny. In the finals, 145-pound Shumate pinned Leroy Prince of team winner Romulus in 25 seconds, and Sny (171) outscored Jason McKibbin of Essex (Ontario) 16-11. Don Bonnett suffered his first loss at 125, finishing second after losing a return match with rival Mike Scully of Romulus, who pinned the Salem wrestler at 3:08 in the final.

Salem's Phil Haynes and Jamie Breithaupt also reached the finals and took runner-up honors. Haynes lost a 10-7 decision to Birmingham Brother Rice's John McGuire at 189, and Barrey Chaurin of Essex pinned Breithaupt at 2:58 in the heavyweight contest.

The Rocks had a pair of consolation winners. Scott Martin (119) defeated Lansing Eastern's Richard Porco 11-2, and Doug Wind (160) whipped Monroe's Tom Foshag 17-7.

Salem's Pete Ten Broeck was fourth at 152. Don Gardner of Monroe won the consolation title at that weight with a pin (2:40) in the final. Romulus scored 157 team points, Salem 132, Grosse Pointe North 110, Essex 102, Monroe 85, Battle Creek Central 67, Lansing Eastern and Brother Rice 63 apiece.

PLYMOUTH CANTON won two of three dual meets Saturday in a round-robin tournament at Portage Northern High School. The Chiefs defeated the host team 48-25 and East Kentwood 37-31 but lost to Holland 43-21.

"It was probably our best performance in the last two or three weeks," Canton coach Jim Eddy said. "I think it was a matter of the competition being tougher and them stepping up to that level."

Only four weights were contested in the Portage meet, with the Huskies winning three. Canton's George Young (171) pinned Chad Price in 48 seconds, and teammates Andy Strahan (103), Pat Adams (112), Mike Borich (119), Dave Smith (125), Nick Spano (130), Jerry Flynn (135) and Joe Hunter (152) received forfeit victories.

The Chiefs won the East Kentwood match with wins from Hunter, Chris Christesen and Young. Hunter pinned Shane Conley in 1:52, Christesen (160) scored a technical fall over Aaron White and Young pinned Mike Gray in 1:40. Canton forfeited to the Falcons at 189 and heavyweight.

In other bouts, Strahan defeated Joe Warren 11-1, Borich tied John Tran 14-14, Smith tied Greg Fisher 13-13, Spano pinned Dave DeBore in 1:45 and Flynn pinned Adam Lett in 5:15.

Young (23-1) suffered his first loss in the Holland match, dropping a 10-7 decision to Rich Geiselhart. Canton winners in that contest were Strahan on a forfeit; Spano, 3:30 pin over Carlos Esteves; Flynn, 12-6 win over Juan Mata; and Hunter, 4:40 pin over Jason Hitchcock.

The Chiefs will be among 13 area teams competing Saturday in the first Observlerland tournament at Garden City High School.

"It will be interesting, depending on who shows up and whose head is in the right place," Eddy said. "We have some kids who should do well if they're concentrating. Young should do well."

ROLLER SKATING

Canton Parks and Recreation Services and the Skatin' Station are co-sponsoring roller skating lessons for beginners.

Children age 6-15 can take the lessons on Saturdays beginning Feb. 8, ages 5 or younger on Mondays or Thursdays beginning Feb. 3 or 6.

The cost of the eight-week class is $28 for those 6-15, $24 for those 5 and under. The fee includes skate rental.

Skaters must register in person starting today at Canton Parks and Recreation, 1150 S. Canton Center Road.

YOUTH HOCKEY

The Plymouth-Canton Hockey Association will elect officers for the 1992-93 season at 7 p.m. Monday, Feb. 10. Coaches will be selected for the 1992-93 season at 7 p.m. Wednesday, Feb. 19, at the Plymouth Cultural Center. For information on either events, call 454-9979.

Area teams in big meet

Continued from Page 1 show up and do the best we can. I don't know if we have the depth we've had in the past to take on a (13-team) tournament and be up among the top four at the end."

SALEM'S TOURNEY hopes rest on the shoulders of tri-captains Dan Bonnett (125), who sports a 23-1 record; Jeff Shumate (145), 20-4 overall; and Scott Martin (119), 20-6.

Doug Wind, an 160-pounder, and Phil Haynes, a 189-pounder, also have come on strong.

Farmington, meanwhile, has one of the area's most improved teams under coach Al Beyar.

"We hope to place as many in the championship round and the ones who don't we hope to put them in the consolation round," said the Farmington coach. "This (tournament) might be better than Oakland County (meet). We're going to see teams we don't normally see at all."

The Falcons are led by Oakland County champion Mike Pallo, a 160-pounder with a 16-2 record. Pallo will face tough tests against CC's Krueger and North Farmington's Jared Lawrence.

Farmington has several others with outstanding records including

Chamber style

Symphony features music from Corelli to Gershwin

Tickets $10, seniors/students, $6 and available at the Livonia Civic Center Library, Farmington Road at Five Mile, Madonna University, Schoolcraft and Levan, and Hammell Music, 15630 Middlebelt. Tickets will be available at the door. For information, call the Livonia Symphony hot line, 458-6575.

By Linda Ann Chomin special writer

Livonia Symphony Orchestra will open its 1991-92 chamber-style concert series with music from "Corelli to Gershwin" 8 p.m. Friday, Jan. 31, in the Livonia Civic Center Library Auditorium, Farmington Road at Five Mile.

"I'm really excited about the chamber music," said Francesco DiBlasi, conductor. "They'll hear most of the instruments of the orchestra as soloists. Any audience, musical or non-musical, can hear the instruments."

Featured soloists will perform selections ranging from Baroque to Broadway. Concertmaster Victoria Haltom and violinist James Kujawski begin the program with Corelli's "Concerto Grosso No. 8." Albinoni's "Concerto for Two Oboes" with oboists Kristen Williams and Barbara Grover follows.

Williams, a Farmington Hills resident and an orchestra member since 1987, enjoys the chamber-style concerts presented by the Livonia Symphony in the smaller library auditorium. Regular season concerts by the orchestra are held in the Livonia Churchill High School Auditorium.

"It's a completely different setting," Kristen Williams said. "It's more intimate. There's more exchange between the orchestra and audience."

Library concert repertoire consists of smaller pieces offering Williams a challenge. "The internal reward is what I like most about the music."

Principal oboe for the LSO, Williams attends Wayne State University. She will graduate in May with a second bachelor's degree, this one in nursing. Williams believes playing with the orchestra helps keep her upbeat and reduces stress incurred from nursing studies and three-day work weeks at Harper Hospital in Detroit.

Williams' orchestra experience as principal oboe includes the Farmington Community Concert Band from 1980 to 1990, the Scandinavian Symphony Orchestra, the Michigan Intercollegiate Honors Band, the University of Michigan Honors Band, and second oboe with the Dearborn Festival Orchestra. For the last two years, she has served as the Livonia Symphony's orchestra manager, and as a member of its board of directors.

"Although I play it a lot for other people, I do it a lot for myself," Williams said. "Music is so important to me, such an integral part of me."

BARBARA GROVER of Farmington Hills, the second oboe, joins Williams in Albinoni's concerto. Grover has played oboe 40 years and has taught privately for 20. She earned a bachelor of music degree at Michigan State University. She has performed 12 years with the Livonia

Symphony and remembers when it was called the Oakway Symphony.

"I find Frank very comfortable to work with, there's a comfort factor in there. I enjoy the repertoire and the others in the orchestra," Grover said. "When I was raising my family, my husband said I was a different person when I came home from rehearsal."

Grover has performed with the Rochester Symphony Orchestra, Birmingham-Bloomfield Symphony Orchestra, Southfield Symphony Orchestra, Detroit Metropolitan Orchestra and Farmington Community Band.

"Albinoni is an Italian Baroque composer. The concerto, it sounds exciting," Grover said. "What I particularly like about playing these performances is that so much of what we do is large works and the library gives us the opportunity to have more rapport with the audience. It's broadening, another mountain to climb."

FOLLOWING ALBINONI on the program is "Air for Strings" by Delio Joio, a sentimental short work for strings only DiBlasi said.

Soloists Victoria Haltom, Colin Lord and Dianne Lord will perform Bartok's "Contrasts for Violin, Clarinet and Piano."

Hindemith's "Quintet for Wind Instruments" features Williams and orchestra woodwinds.

"Hindemith is much more contemporary, not as melodic as Corelli's Baroque," Williams said. "With only five players, you have to match intonations and styles. The five have to be synchronized, otherwise the piece doesn't come together."

"Hindemith, he's one of the most prolific modern composers," DiBlasi said.

Following the quintet are "Prayer of St. Gregory" with Brian Moon, trumpet, and Gershwin's "Strike Up the Band."

"There's a lot of variety from the Baroque to the Gershwin so there should be something in there for everyone," Williams said. "Everything there is very listenable. I think it will be very enjoyable."

Plymouth Theatre Guild's 'Camelot' worth visiting

Performances of the Plymouth Theatre Guild production of "Camelot" continue through Feb. 8 at the Water Tower Theatre on the campus of Northville Regional Hospital, 41001 W. Seven Mile, wets of 1-275 between Haggerty and Northville Roads. For ticket information call 349-7110.

The Plymouth Theatre Guild skillfully presents a mystical story line, a royal love triangle, and song, laughter, color and sorrow in its current offering of the Frederic Loewe/Alan Jay Lerner musical classic, "Camelot." Director James R. Morisi has shaped the King Arthur/Excalibur myth into a satisfying theatrical evening.

THE CLASSIC tale features a strong and professional performance by Brent D. Billock as King Arthur. At turns confident, philosophical or confused, Billock's dimensional version of Arthur creates a rapport with the audience that commands attention.

Billock's character also goes through a smooth metamorphosis. His boyish "I Wonder What the King is Doing Tonight" while contemplating his own royal marriage contrasts starkly with a wiser Arthur's sensitive "How To Handle A Woman."

The woman Arthur is trying to handle is his queen, Guenevere, portrayed by Janis Bender. Although the talented Bender gives a fine performance, the wide appeal of

Sally Dubats

Guenevere is based on her innocence and down-to-earth qualities despite being the Queen.

Bender plays up the haughtiness in Guenevere which creates a less sympathetic yet more humorous interpretation of the character. Bender's voice is splendid while lamenting, "I Loved You Once In Silence" to Lancelot, and a consummate singing style is especially evident while leading the chorus in a colorful version of "The Lusty Month of May."

DIRECTOR JAMES R. MORISI also plays our hero, Lancelot duLac, the knight in shining armor who (with much agony to his virtuous soul) woos King Arthur's Guenevere. Morisi's tall stature combined with a sensitive face create a charming and chivalrous Lancelot. Morisi is possessed of a full and dynamic vocal talent. The famous "If Ever I Would Leave You" is sung by Morisi with confidence and tenderness, and comedy timing is absolute in his rendition of "C'est Moi."

Two villains in the show create intrigue. Michael Hammonds as the nasty and malicious Mordred is fun to watch as he wisecracks "The Seven Deadly Virtues." Spell-casting Morgan Le Fey is played with mischief by pretty Linda Piccoli.

Of particular note is a keenly talented supporting cast. Merlyn the wizard and mentor to Arthur is played well and with sensitivity by Ford Sutherland, and Russ Lamoureaux is wildly funny as he renders a low-key performance of a traditionally slapstick role and truly steals the show as King Pellinore.

Period costumes by Marsha Hinton and Tani Ann Mough provide a colorful backdrop of physical splendor.

JEFF HAMMOND'S ambitious set, while working extremely well during some scenes, provides awkward and long scene changes which slow the pace of the show as a whole.

The chorus as a whole does a fine job vocally and offers enthusiasm, but direction lacks grace during exits which are intended to show off beautiful costumes during various marches. Only the back of the costumes are seen by the audience, and this also slows the pace of the show.

Notwithstanding these minor pace problems, the talent-packed PTG production of "Camelot" is well worth visiting.

Actors believable in 'Broadway Bound'

Performances of the Avon Players production of "Broadway Bound" continue through Feb. 8 at the playhouse on Tienken Road at Runyon Road in Rochester Hills. For ticket information call the box office at 375-1390.

Sally Dubats

Bill MacNeill (left) and Debbie Weitzell of Rochester Hills, and Dianne Biernat of Troy in a scene from the Avon Players production of "Broadway Bound."

Neil Simon's life of luck and heartache unfolds in an authentic 1949 time machine as Avon Players presents the last of an autobiographical trilogy, "Broadway Bound." The highly stylized production depicts the simple days as being complicated, and director Jon Katz demonstrates to the last detail that times don't change.

THE CHARACTERS in Simon's play are based on those closest to him in real life, and this is the reason they are well-rounded and believable. The cornerstone of this production is Debbie Weitzell as Kate Jerome, the mother of two men/boys about to embark on their own. Weitzell's acting is credible and enhances Simon's finest writing, and she remains true to life at all times.

Her character, Kate, faces not only the loss of her boys to a successful writing career, but she also faces impending divorce. Weitzell produces a confused and heart-wrenching Kate, delivering lines with realism to her cheating stage husband such as, "How is it possible I could hate you so much after loving you all my life?"

Eugene Jerome (the "Young Neil Simon" part) is acted by Matthew Pagnani. Eugene sees humor in all of family life, although the family doesn't see humor in anything, and he uses these family lessons as grist for the writing mill. Pagnani plays Eugene with a very likable 1949 spunk and lots of energy.

Eugene's brother and writing partner is Stanley Jerome performed by Jay Hohauser. Stanley carries the business and management end of the young writing team.

The scenes between Pagnani and Hohauser work well and are believable. As brothers, they perform a gamut of emotions from friendly buddies to angry men in the midst of family conflict. Hohauser's comedy timing is much appreciated while praying, "Oh, God, give me an idea for a sketch that you're not using!"

ALSO PART of the family is funny Bill MacNeill as Ben Epstein, the Socialist grandfather who lives with the Jeromes. MacNeill is right on the money in his witty performance. The character calls for a grandfather who is gruff and cannot show affection, and MacNeill's effective style hints at a lovable man (when he's not being a Socialist).

Stirring up trouble in the house in Jack Jerome, the cheating husband, performed with excellence by Fred Shulak. Shulak offers a serious and frightened man that, despite ruining a family, the audience can pity.

Rounding out the cast is Dianne Biernat as Blanche, Kate's rich sister. Blanche defines the family struggle to stay in one piece, and Biernat pulls those pieces together well with sound acting abilities.

The solid and practical set by Gerry D'Ambrosio handles terrifically the two-story requirements of the play, and it is 1949 detail-dressed to the tea by Annie Williams.

Hats off to director Jon Katz for smooth blocking, scenes which have a spring-board effect for fast pace and relationships that are representative of true-life in this Avon Players comedy/drama production.

Pianists featured in 'Spanish Rhapsody'

By Linda Ann Chomin special writer

The Lyric Chamber Ensemble presents its Fourth Annual Piano Festival - "Spanish Rhapsody" 3:30 p.m. Sunday, Feb. 2 at Orchestra Hall, 3711 Woodward Ave., Detroit.

Internationally known pianist Flavio Varnal of Birmingham is one of six featured artists on the program with Fedora Horowitz, Louis Nagel, Joseph Gurt, Andrew Cooperstock and Michael Gurt.

The festival honors Spanish, French, South American, and American composers inspired by the rhythms and melodies of Spain including Villa-Lobos, Ginastera, Granados, Albeniz, deFalla, Debussy, Ravel and Gershwin.

Varani, artist-in-residence at Oakland University in Rochester Hills, will perform selections by Granados and Villa-Lobos.

"Granados wrote the 'The Maiden and the Nightingale' for his wife. This piece is dedicated to her," Varani said. "It's one of the most inspired pieces as far as love songs."

Varani will play two Brazilian pieces by composer, Heitor Villa-Lobos who wrote over 1,500 compositions.

"Most Spanish pieces are dance forms. These are not."

The program ends with all six pianists performing "The Ritual Fire Dance" by deFalla. Tickets, $22, $16 and $8. Call 357-1111.

Israeli actress presents play

Gila Almagor, named Israel's "Actress of the Decade," presents her autobiographical play, "The Summer of Aviya," 8 p.m. Thursday, Feb. 6, at Temple Beth El, 7400 Telegraph, Bloomfield Hills. Cited seven times as Israel's "Best Theatre Actress" and eight times as its "Best Film Actress," Almagor brings to the stage the story of her life based on her best selling autobiography and award winning film - "The Summer of Aviya." Hers is the story of a modern survivor. She was born in Israel four months after the death of her father. Her mother, a Holocaust survivor who never forgave herself for surviving, was to spend Almagor's childhood and the remainder of her life in a series of mental institutions. Raised in a series of children's homes, Almagor began to act at age 17, and at 25 she arrived in New York City to study with Uta Hagen and Lee Strasburg. She returned to Israel two years later to build a long and varied career on stage and as a leading actress in more than 40 films. Tickets may be purchased through the temple. Patron tickets $25 include a dessert reception with the actress. Advance tickets $10. Tickets may be purchased at the door for $15. Call 851-1100 for information.

W.B. Doner wins advertising accounts of merged banks

By Doug Funke
staff writer

The new Comerica Bank will need only one advertising agency when it merges with Manufacturers Bank. W.B. Doner & Co. of Southfield is the choice.

Doner has represented Manufacturers the past 10 years and developed campaigns like "Manufacturers, That's My Bank" and "Bank Where Business Banks."

Comerica, represented by Campbell-Mithun-Esty of Minneapolis since 1988, most recently has advertised as the bank "Where the Bottom Line is You."

Doner will be responsible for planning, developing and implementing all advertising when the merger is finalized by a July 1 target date.

"We believe our combined banks will be best served by a strong Detroit-area advertising agency," said Gerald V. MacDonald, chairman-designate of the new Comerica.

"The merger of our banks is good for Detroit and the decision to use W.B. Doner & Co. as our advertising agency will strengthen our long-standing commitment to Detroit and Michigan," he added.

Neither Doner nor representatives of the merger transition team would comment on the anticipated advertising dollar volume business the consolidation will generate.

BANK AND AGENCY officials likely will have to deal with such issues as branch closings, job losses and a perception of bigness when Comerica and Manufacturers merge to form the 25th largest bank in the nation.

"This is a great marketing and creative challenge, and we look forward to it," Steve LaGattuta, a Doner vice president, said in a pre-

"We believe our combined banks will be best served by a strong Detroit-area advertising agency."

—Gerald V. MacDonald
chairman-designate of the new Comerica pared statement. He was unavailable for further comment.

"Plans are being looked at and formulated. Certainly in a month or two down the road we'll be closer to talking," said Sharon McMurray, a spokesman for Manufacturers and a transition team member.

"We expect Doner to be a partner in developing an identity for the new Comerica which will differentiate the bank from its competitors and serve as the foundation for dynamic, cohesive advertising," McMurray said.

Pat Simpson, a spokeswoman for Doner, declined to discuss strategy.

"There's going to be a lot of what I call information advertising at the beginning to establish an image of the new bank," said Justin L. Moran, a banking consultant. "In the long run, they'll spend less than the two combined but more than any one would."

Leading National Advertisers, a company that tracks advertising expenditures, reported that Comerica spent $543,500 and Manufacturers $184,300 for spot radio, TV, newspaper and magazine ads, and billboards through the first nine months of 1991.

THAT DOESN'T include planning, research or creative fees.

Each bank spent more than $1 million to buy air time and ad space in 1990, LNA reported.

Only Doner and Campbell-Mithun-Esty were allowed to bid for the joint account, McMurray said.

"Doner's location in Detroit was a strong advantage, but it wasn't the deciding factor," she said. What impressed, too, was "just a review of their work and past performance."

A spokeswoman for Campbell-Mithun-Esty said her firm wasn't surprised that Doner won the account.

"I think it was very important to Comerica that they retain a Detroit-area agency and we fully understand that," said Paula Baldwin. "We understand working with Comerica the last few years their commitment to the Detroit area market. It was a very amicable parting."

Because no one in Minneapolis worked exclusively on the Comerica account, no one will lose a job as a result of losing the account, Baldwin said.

Eight to 10 employees in research, creative, media and supervision worked on the account on an as-needed basis.

You Only Need ONE Credit Card

A VISA Or Mastercard With Your Interest In Mind

Credit Union ONE has reduced the interest charged on its VISA/Mastercard to 14.8% A.P.R.* That's 2% lower than our previous rate, and more than 4% lower than the national average of 18.9%.

Pay Off Your Current Balance At A Lower Rate

If you don't have a VISA/Mastercard account at Credit Union ONE, you still can benefit from the low rate. Merely apply for a VISA/Mastercard and upon approval, pay off your current credit card balance. For example, if you owe $1,000 on your current card, which charges 18.9% interest, you can pay off your balance immediately with your Credit Union ONE VISA/Mastercard. Subsequently, your balance would remain $1,000, but you'd be paying 14.8% in interest. That's nearly 22% less in interest payments!

And, at Credit Union ONE, VISA/Mastercard holders also receive:

- One of the lowest annual membership fees in the financial marketplace - $10.
- $300,000 Travel Insurance at NO EXTRA COST (when travel via common carrier is charged to your credit cards).
- Credit Life Insurance up to an aggregate of $10,000 at NO EXTRA COST (for qualified members).
- An accommodating 25-day grace period with no interest on purchases if the balance is paid in full.
- Automatic Transfer Option - pay your monthly bill (minimum or balance in full) from your regular share or checking account.

Agencies market 'new' Prix

By Gerald Frawley
staff writer

JERRY ZOLYNSKY/staff photographer

Michael Hedge revs up for the Detroit Grand Prix.

From a national perspective, the Detroit Grand Prix is one of the most well known events in Detroit, but with all the changes this year — not the least of which is a move to Belle Isle — it's not surprising marketing the event could be a big challenge.

Hedge & Company of Southfield, a public relations, advertising and marketing services company specializing in promoting original equipment and after-market automotive products, has been named the national marketing agent for the 1992 Detroit Grand Prix.

Michael Hedge, company president, said being the national marketing agent for the Grand Prix requires a great degree of balance.

Sponsors of a race want their name displayed and identified with the car, driver and crew; at the same time, too many sponsors would detract from the overall value of each sponsor.

"The big trick of marketing is managing the program so it has value," Hedge said, adding his contacts in the automotive market should enable his company to bring in sponsors the Grand Prix has never had before.

Any possible advantage is going to come in handy. "It's already crunch time."

That's all the more true this year because several important details about the 1992 Grand Prix were resolved later than usual.

First, there was the question of where — and even if — there would be a Grand Prix, he said.

Moving to Belle Isle for the 1992 is big move for the Grand Prix, which has previously been run on the streets of downtown, Hedge said.

Although the decision has been marked by some controversy and criticism, Hedge said he believes the move is a good one. "It's bound to make it more interesting."

Another factor that could have canceled the Grand Prix was who was going to be in the race. Detroit Renaissance Corporation didn't complete negotiations with Championship Auto Racing Teams, Inc. (CART) until December. "Normally, that's all done in the fall."

CART, the racing association made up of Indy car racers — as opposed to the Formula One cars — took over the Grand Prix in 1989.

There was also the question of who would televise the event. Previously, the Grand Prix has been televised by CBS, but in 1992, ABC will televise it.

FROM A MARKETING standpoint and as a racing enthusiast, Hedge said the changes for 1992 are for the better.

As a racing venue, Belle Isle will be an impressive course. The 2.1 mile, 14-turn track offers a challenging course, better public race viewing, and a stunning backdrop in the downtown Detroit Skyline.

That helps his job, he said. "Advertisers want to be associated with positive things — the Detroit Grand Prix is an event that is strictly positive — there is nothing negative."

"Belle Isle puts Detroit's best foot forward for a national television audience of an estimated 9 to 10 million," he said. "Can you imagine how good (the race) is going to look from the Goodyear blimp?"

ABC's televising of the event will also be a big plus, mainly because the network is carrying the Indy 500 two weeks earlier, Hedge said. "I'm sure the announcer's will be saying, 'Be with us in two weeks for the Detroit Grand Prix.'"

KEITH KAMINSKY, director of media relations for Detroit Renaissance Corporation, said marketing is critical even for an event as well known as the Grand Prix.

Kaminsky said when Detroit Renaissance began looking for a national marketing agent — Detroit Renaissance handles local marketing — it wanted someone who knew the automobile racing business. "It's without a doubt that Hedge & Company has a great reputation in marketing, but even more importantly, he (Michael Hedge) has a great reputation in motorsports."

"He's a believer — he's a believer in the race and he's always been a big supporter of racing in general," Kaminsky said. "Hedge & Company was the logical choice."

"The Grand Prix is the type of event that accomplishes the goals of the non-profit organization — revitalizing the city of Detroit," he said. "It shows our city is a viable place to live and come and do business in."

Detroit Renaissance also sponsors the Freedom Festival and the Montreux-Detroit International Jazz Festival.

BRUCE SEDIK, senior account manager for Hedge & Company, said the first order of business is to line up a title sponsor. The title sponsor is the primary sponsor.

In past years, the title sponsor has been Valvoline, but the company won't be returning as this year's title sponsor.

After a new title sponsor is chosen — or more accurately, while the title sponsor is being chosen — the company begins contacting potential major and associate sponsors. "There really isn't a series of steps that we go through — many things are happening at once," Sedik said. Every national sponsor wants to make sure their name is displayed prominently, Sedik said, and one of the most important jobs he will have in the coming months is to make sure the sponsors' names and logos get placement during the race.

That means working with the track set up and television crews to make sure everything goes off without a hitch, he said. "Basically, you start with turn one, and go through to 14."

There is also a lot of work to be done with national sponsors who want to run special events, Sedik said. It's not unusual, for example, that a national firm will use the Grand Prix as a launch point for a local or regional sale or promotion.

Others use the Grand Prix for product demonstrations. Product demonstrations are important marketing tools for equipment and after market manufacturers.

"Some of the technology transfers from motorsports to everyday family cars of the future," he said.

Decade taste forgot

By Larry O'Connor
staff writer

Ask a dealer in retro-wear what he remembers most about 1970s fashion, he'll likely say leisure suits.

"They were hot," said Jay Kruz, 31, a 1979 Redford Thurston graduate and owner of Retro Image in Dearborn.

By that, Kruz doesn't mean the suits of comfort constructed of polyester were cool, hip, far-out or groovy. Nope. When he says "hot," Kruz is talking sweaty, scratchy and, if we may be frank, butt ugly.

The leisure suit has been laid to rest, like a good portion of '70s fashion, unclaimed in the darkest corner of the closet in our fashion consciousness.

And any talk of a '70s revival must be dismissed as pure folly. Kruz is an ardent archivist of styles of yore, but he doesn't see a wholesale re-emergence of print shirts made of Qiana knit (fake silk) with wide collars, plaid baggy bell bottoms and white belts.

"I think people looked really ugly then," said Kruz, who fesses up to having owned two leisure suits, one tan and one yellow. "Of all the times, people looked awful."

"In terms of fashion, everyone was in limbo. There was nothing really happening. It was bits from the '40s, '50s and '60s all rolled into one ball."

ART EMANUELE/staff photographer

Platform shoes and lava lamps are vivid reminders of a decade not known for great taste or elegance. The shoes and lamps are among items sold at Retro Image in Dearborn.

A tacky ball, might we add, to be drop kicked out of existence. Unlike the '50s and '60s, which have had an enduring run on the nostalgia scene, the '70s have been largely viewed as a fashion canker sore to be forgotten.

RESALE SHOPS specializing in retro wear concur. Heidi of Cinderella's Attic in Royal Oak said the '70s thing "has come and gone" in the blink of an eyelash.

Some feeble attempts have been made to rekindle the buzz. Those have come largely through music, namely bands such as Jellyfish and Dee-Lite and the Acid House scene in England who've incorporated remnants of gaudy '70s wear into their look. If it was supposed to be a new rage, it fizzled faster than an Alka Seltzer tablet doused with a fire hose.

Surprisingly, Kruz said there are still a few artifacts of the '70s experience people are willing to blow off the dust and incorporate into a '90s look. One, clomp, clomp is the platform shoe.

Remember them? The footwear where Danny DeVitos were turned into Manute Bols overnight.

"The more unusual the platform was the better," Kruz said. "I remember if you had high platforms, it was a symbolic thing."

To prove his point, Kruz pulls out three pair of the garish shoes. One is a women's open-toe model, prompt-

Looking back: It can be fun, educational

By Julie Brown
staff writer

Ray Browne's teenage years were long gone by the time disco appeared on the scene.

"I was old in the 70s," said Browne, chairman of the Department of Popular Culture at Bowling Green State University in Ohio. Throughout his 70 years, he's seen nostalgia associated with different eras.

"Twenty years is always a good span for people to look back," he said. "It's after a period of maturing."

When we're filled with troubles and worries, there's a tendency to look back for parallels, he said.

"It is always useful to look back. Sometimes, we look back with horror. Sometimes, we look back with a certain nostalgia."

Other times, we tend to look back with curiosity. Looking back to the 1970s involves both curiosity and nostalgia, Browne said.

"I find the 70s a much more enjoyable and useful bit of history than the 30s and 40s. The 30s and 40s were unbearable." The 1970s were more pleasant and understandable, he said.

THAT DOESN'T mean the view that we have of the 1970s is complete or 100 percent accurate, however.

"If it weren't distorted, we wouldn't do it," Browne said. "We do color the past, just as we dream about the future."

Bill Romanowski, who's on the faculty at Calvin College in Grand Rapids has also seen evidence of 1970s nostalgia. Romanowski, 37, is an assistant professor in the Communication Arts and Sciences Department.

"There seems to be a bit of that," said Romanowski, who earned a doctorate in American culture studies from Bowling Green State University in 1990. There was nostalgia associated with the 1950s during the 1970s and with the 1960s during the 1980s, so it isn't surprising to see 1970s nostalgia surface.

A variety of theories exist to explain that, he said. Some believe it's an indication of uncertainty in the present and a tendency to feel more comfortable or secure thinking of the past.

That past is, however, often idealized. Portrayals of greasers in the TV show "Happy Days" and the movie "Grease," for example, showed those young people as harmless.

"There's a tendency to idealize a bit. It's going to be hard to idealize disco," Romanowski said with a chuckle.

HE REMEMBERS the 1970s as being "a bit of a retrenchment" from the activism of the 1960s. The 1960s included the civil rights movement, the women's movement and protests associated with the Vietnam War.

In the 1970s, Baby Boomers began to be assimilated into mainstream consumer culture. The economic decline made job-hunting more difficult for young people.

Music of the 1970s, particularly disco, reflected those changes, Romanowski said. Music of the 1960s often focused on efforts to change society. In the 1970s, the emphasis was on changing oneself and finding solace and salvation through personal relationships.

That retrenchment from politics and social activism into personal life could reflect disappointment in terms of expectations and reality, he said.

"It could have been an escape too from a lot of those things." The current recession could tend to give 1970s nostalgia a boost, said Romanowski, who writes on American culture and the entertainment industry.

"I think people start to look back to a time when things seemed more certain." Such nostalgia can be enjoyable, he said, and can be commercialized for financial gain as well.

Most young people in the 1960s didn't burn their draft cards, but there was a greater sense of making a difference in the world. In the 1970s, there was more of a survival ethic, Romanowski said.

HE TEACHES a class on popular music at Calvin College and shows the 1977 movie "Saturday Night Fever" in that class. Students tend to laugh at the movie, which featured John Travolta and music of the disco era.

"Of course, they don't like "The Graduate" either, he said."

His students find "The Graduate" too slow; they have difficulty understanding why Dustin Hoffman's character, a college graduate who can't figure out what to do with his life, is the hero of that late-1960s movie.

He and Browne agree it's important to study movies, music and other works associated with the popular culture of a certain era.

"You learn a lot about how people felt at a particular time," Romanowski said.

Sometimes, people underestimate the value of studying and understanding popular culture, said Browne, who earned a doctorate in American literature from the University of California at Los Angeles and has been on the Bowling Green faculty since 1967.

Era's music wasn't an afternoon delight

By Larry O'Connor
staff writer

In a decade when Don McLean sang about the day the music died in "American Pie," the folk singer may have been a tad too prophetic.

Oh, music didn't buy the farm in the 1970s. Far from it, if you chronicle its successes.

But the art form slipped into a protracted coma in the latter part of the decade where the banality of disco and corporate rock'n'roll sought to suck the life right out of the radio.

The Bee Gees, Journey, Toto, Peter Frampton, Village People and such can be labeled as co-conspirators in an unintended effort to choke off and bury music forever.

Even seminal artists such as Rod Stewart, The Rolling Stones and Paul McCartney seemed to have hit the creative skids during the late '70s. And, as one local music aficionado summarized rather succinctly about the decade: "Even Sinatra sucked in the '70s."

The ultimate gauge for disdain of the '70s sound might be found at the used record store. While people scour the bins for '50s rockabilly, '60s rock'n'roll and '80s post-punk imports, the gaudy '70s stuff goes largely untouched.

"It happens once in a blue moon," said Tony Fusco, manager of Music Music in Garden City. "Once in awhile the kids will come in and buy a Village People album. They get some yucks out of it. They do it for comic relief."

"I THINK most folks are glad those years are long gone."

While disco is gone, and hopefully forgotten, corporate rock endures courtesy of AOR radio, which can't seem to put the unbearable, plastic sound out of its misery.

What tends to get blotted out in the heap, though, was some rather innovative, stirring music in the '70s.

The emergence of Bob Seger and Silver Bullet Band as a full-fledged rock entity certainly helped sustain a generation of music listeners. There was also some guy named Springsteen kicking up a ruckus in New Jersey and beyond.

R&B and soul produced a proliferation of first-rate performers, notably Al Green, Earth Wind & Fire and The Spinners.

Underground, as Fusco readily points out, Iggy and the Stooges were going full throttle as well as Johnny Thunders. Funkadelic, featuring George Clinton, trumpeted a vibrant urban sound in the '70s.

"There was good music in the '70s," Fusco said, "but they were hiding it from us."

So bad and so sterile was the music of the latter part of the '70s that it spawned an entire upheaval — for better or for worse — of virulent sounds leading the punk movement.

WHY IN light of that are people so willing to dismiss the '70s decade of music as wretched excess and endless futility? Simple. The answer is found in the debris of overblown and seemingly endless horrid songs.

"Disco Duck"?! If one hit title may indict and single-handedly tear down any musical achievement attained in one decade, Rick Dees' tribute to a dancing feathered quacker takes the bill.

Why leave it there? Here are 10 absolute stinkeroos that impaled our ears in the '70s (in no particular order of wretchedness).

1. "Kung-Fu Fighting," Carl Douglas.
2. "Love Will Keep Us Together," Captain and Tenille.
3. "Seasons in the Sun," Terry Jacks.
4. "The Night Chicago Died," Paper Lace.
5. "Having My Baby," Paul Anka.
6. "Billy Don't Be Hero," Bo Diddley.
7. "Indiana Wants Me," R. Dean Taylor.
8. "The Night the Lights Went Out in Georgia," Vicki Lawrence.
9. "Disco Duck," Rick Dees.
10. "Afternoon Delight," Starland Vocal Band.

Memories of their teenage years are staying alive

By Julie Brown
staff writer

When Melissa McLaughlin, 34, sees people wearing miniskirts, she remembers her own teenage days.

"I think to myself 'I'm far too old to wear them now,'" said McLaughlin, a Canton resident and 1975 Plymouth Salem High School graduate.

She enjoys hearing some music of the 1970s, although she wasn't as big of a fan as others that she knew were.

"It's fun to hear some of the old songs because you know the words." That's not true of the rap music she hears today.

McLaughlin believes it's her generation's turn to look back; 1970s nostalgia is a continuation of that experienced by earlier generations.

She and her husband, John, have two sons ages 18 months and 6. McLaughlin isn't particularly embarrassed to have the boys see photos of her as a teenager.

"THAT'S JUST part of growing up. We didn't seem to be as radical as some of the kids in the 80s seemed to be." Students in the 1970s didn't, for example, wear safety pins through their cheeks.

The Rev. Leland Seese Jr., 33, grew up on the other side of the country, but his teenage years weren't all that different from those of Michiganders in the 1970s. Seese, who graduated from high school in Seattle, Wash., in 1976, remembers wearing platform shoes and leisure suits.

"You look back on it fondly," said Seese, a Plymouth resident and associate minister of the First Presbyterian Church of Plymouth. "It was a pretty silly-looking era."

He and his wife, Lisa Konick, have two sons ages 8 months and 5. Seese isn't particularly concerned that their sons will see pictures of him from his teens and find those photos uproariously funny.

"I'm sure it will take some explaining." He can envision one of his sons going to a 1970s revival dance as a high school or college student, wearing the same clothing styles that Seese did as a teen.

Seese feels a little old when he sees ads on TV for such things as the Seventies Preservation Society. He believes his generation's era had its benefits and drawbacks.

THOSE WHO grew up in the 1970s missed out on the great music of the 1960s; on the other hand, they also avoided much of the turmoil associated with the Vietnam War.

He remembers listening to the music of The Staple Singers, a gospel group, in the 1970s. He also liked the music of The Spinners and The O'Jays as a teenager.

Seese doesn't think there's anything wrong with a little youthful silliness.

"I would even go so far as to say that's a gift from God." That silliness keeps us from taking ourselves too seriously, he said.

Some social commentators tend to give the 1970s a lot of bad press, McLaughlin said. She believes it was simply a natural continuation of society's evolving.

It's easy just to write the decade off as a polyester-clad one that taste forgot, but the 1970s had some significant achievements, McLaughlin said. Many of her former classmates are working as doctors, lawyers and other professionals; they're raising families and doing volunteer work in their communities.

"I think sometimes the radicalism is only a temporary thing. We didn't seem to be as different." The values of people who grew up in the 1970s weren't all that different from those of their parents, she said.

IN THE 1970s, women made considerable progress in achieving equality, McLaughlin said, although that process isn't done just yet. She remembers thinking in the 1970s that she could choose any career she wanted.

"I think that's healthy," said McLaughlin, who earned a bachelor's degree in special education from Eastern Michigan University in 1978. She serves on the Canton Township Planning Commission and the Canton Historic District Commission and is active in the Canton Historical Society.

Her interest in history isn't focused on the 1970s to any great extent, but McLaughlin knows the era had some historical significance. Large museums such as the Smithsonian Institution in Washington, D.C., "have already been collecting clothes from the 60s and 70s. They've been collecting memorabilia from that period."

Antique markets are already selling furniture from the 1950s. "Things like that sell for terrific prices." She doesn't doubt that that will eventually hold true for the 1970s as well.

Some collectors will look for such 1970s classics as bean bag chairs and waterbeds. McLaughlin prefers to decorate her Canton home in the styles of the 1870s, however.

"Everything is cyclical. I'm sure that the 70s era will have its contributions to the historic market," McLaughlin said.

SEESE AND his family recently gave away their Barry Manilow album at a garage sale, so they won't be able to sell it at a profit or donate it to a museum a few decades from now. He has fond memories of his younger days.

"It was as fun a time as any time, I think," said Seese, who earned a bachelor's degree in English from the University of Washington in 1980 and a master of divinity degree from Princeton Theological Seminary in 1988.

"If nothing else, I can say 'Gee, we've come a long way,' and there's some value in that," Seese said.

He imagines that there will eventually be 1980s nostalgia. "Nostalgia is just built in to us, no matter what decade it is."

He jokingly offers some advice to younger people. "Think twice before you ever put on platform shoes."

At the same time, Seese knows that those now in their 20s "will have to face telling people why they had pink mohawks in the early 80s. Then we'll see who laughs last."

BILL BRESLER/staff photographer

Women made progress in achieving equality during the 1970s, said Melissa McLaughlin, 34, of Canton.

Some people still wear platform shoes, said Jay Kruz, 31, owner of Retro Image in Dearborn.

ing the shop owner to produce a measuring tape. The heel checks in at 5 inches with a platform of 2 inches.

He also has a pair of space-age silver metallic leather clogs, which look like a relic from when Elton John was going through his "Benny and the Jets" phase.

ANOTHER PAIR is platform wedges made of natural woven leather. These retail between $30 and $35, though Kruz added he sold a pair of "beautiful" KISS-style platform boots like the rockers wore for "hundreds."

Such gems of '70s footwear are apparently few as in his store sits a cardboard box offering an array of vinyl platforms for $5 a pair.

Kruz said he tries to find "dead stock" in old stores and warehouses when excavating for resale shoes and clothes. With platform shoes, he's been able to buy thousands of them and, in turn, sell the lot wholesale to outlets in Los Angeles. They, in turn, ship the platforms off to the fashion ports in London and Tokyo.

Another '70s seller is lava lamps, which retail for $48 and bubble and gurgle in a multitude of psychedelic colors. Kruz can't keep enough of them in his store.

"I traced the company down on an old box. They were still in business and this was seven or eight years ago before this revival," Kruz said. "The company is starting to boom again."

While people might not buy '70s retro wear, Kruz said some are willing to rent it. His store offers a wide variety of wild outfits for rental, including leather suede jackets with long fringes and crushed velvet outfits.

Why they prefer to rent rather than own '70s nostalgia brings a simple answer from Kruz.

"Not all things in the '70s were good," he said.

Word power

Bee gives top-notch spellers a chance to show their s-t-u-f-f

By Julie Brown
staff writer

Adults who've been out of school a few years, or a few decades, will have a chance to demonstrate their spelling skills this spring.

The Canton Rotary Literacy Committee will sponsor the second annual community spelling bee 7 p.m. Thursday, May 14, in the Little Theatre of Plymouth Canton High School, on Canton Center south of Joy in Canton.

Proceeds from the fund-raising event will support the work of the Community Literacy Council, which provides one-to-one tutoring help for adults who can't read or who have limited reading skills.

"We're trying to increase awareness about our organization and about literacy efforts in the community," said Cheryl Laubacher, executive director of the Community Literacy Council. Last April's spelling bee was a success, so organizers decided to plan another one for this spring.

"It's fun. I think that it's different," said Laubacher, a Plymouth Township resident. "While they're having fun, they're still learning. So it's really relevant to what we're doing."

THE SPELLING BEE'S a few months away, but organizers are already busy. They're seeking financial support from businesses and organizations in the community.

Registration price is $100 for a three-person team. Team members don't have to be employees of the sponsoring business, and Community Literacy Council staffers and volunteers can help in finding good spellers to serve on teams.

Sponsorship isn't limited to larger businesses. Small businesses sponsored teams last year, as did such groups as the Canton Rotary and the Plymouth-Canton Education Association.

Last year's judges — Creon Smith of the Mayflower Hotel, Judge James Garber of the 35th District Court and state Rep. James Kosteva — will do the honors again this year. The event's designed with adults in mind, although some teens participated in 1991 and will be welcome again this year.

"That's fine. More power to them," Laubacher said. Last year's event featured 13 three-person teams, with the Spell Chicks from Starkweather Center in Plymouth taking the top honors. The word that caused some trouble for the opposing team was "fubby," meaning fat and squat or plump.

THE EVENT certainly has its humorous moments, but has a serious side as well. Organizers hope to increase awareness of the problems of adult illiteracy and of the need for literacy skills in the workplace.

Last year's participants have already been invited to participate in the Thursday, May 14, competition. Applications will be available to newcomers beginning Feb. 15. For information, call Cheryl Laubacher at Starkweather Center in Plymouth, 451-6555.

The fund-raising event is sponsored by the Canton Rotary Literacy Committee, and its members will decide how to use the money raised, said Laubacher, who serves on the committee. The Community Literacy Council, a volunteer organization, relies on such fund-raising efforts to buy materials, train tutors and increase community awareness.

"The challenge of the unknown" motivates many people to participate in the spelling bee, she said. Many of last year's participants were excellent spellers who hadn't been in a spelling bee since childhood.

Some were fine spellers as students, but didn't take top honors in school spelling contests. The community spelling bee gives those adults a chance to show their stuff once again.

IN LAST YEAR'S event, words became progressively more difficult and obscure. Spellers had lists of words to study for the earlier rounds, but faced the unknown when it came to the final round.

"Those are mystery words," Laubacher said. Not surprisingly, team members aren't allowed to use computer spell check programs during the event.

She knows some of the spellers may experience flashbacks and sweaty palms, remembering spelling competitions of their grade school days as they take to the stage at Canton High School.

"There's probably not as much pressure, actually," Laubacher said.

new voices

Salazar-Ramage

Lisa Gayle Ramage of Plymouth and Edwin Salazar of Detroit were married Dec. 28 at Calvary Baptist Church in Canton. The Rev. Carlos Liese, the Rev. Gregg Borror and the Rev. Josue Salazar performed the ceremony.

Parents of the couple are Richard and Annette Ramage of Plymouth and Josue and Sara Salazar of Detroit.

The bride is a student at Eastern Michigan University, where she is working on a degree in vocal music education. She is the teen choir director at Ward Presbyterian Church in Livonia.

Her husband served in the U.S. Army and attended the Center for Creative Studies for three years. He is employed with the Detroit Chamber of Commerce as coordinator for a new public school program.

Sister of the bride Laura Kennedy was the matron of honor. The bride's other attendants were Doris Iraheta, Shari Goodridge, Joni Pierce and Marci Schwartz. Alyssa Kennedy was the junior bridesmaid and Andrea Kennedy was the flower girl.

Brother of the bridegroom Edward Salazar was the best man. The bridegroom's other attendants were Hernando Escobar, Don Ramage, Jeff Ritz and Willie Iraheta.

For her wedding, the bride wore a form-fitting gown of white satin. The gown had lace on the bodice and a long, rounded train. Her bouquet included two large white orchids surrounded by white roses and greenery.

A reception was held at Calvary Baptist Church in Canton.

Spring-Glass

Herbert and Beth Spring of Plymouth announce the engagement of their daughter, Kay Elizabeth Spring of Livonia, to Donald Scott Glass of Canton. The prospective bridegroom is the son of Julius Glass and Marian Myers of Holland, Mich.

The bride-elect is a graduate of Kalamazoo College, where she earned a bachelor of arts degree, and of Middlebury College in Vermont, where she earned a master of arts degree. She is employed with the Plymouth-Canton Community Schools.

Her fiance is a graduate of Central Michigan University. He is a graduate student at Eastern Michigan University, where he is enrolled in a master's degree program, and is employed with the Plymouth-Canton Community Schools.

Friends elect officers, schedule jazz concert

Officers for 1992 are: Shirley Worpell, president; Shirley Reynolds, vice president; Evelyn Maddick-Ruiz, secretary; and Linda Garrett, treasurer. Other board members include: Patricia Bunnell; Marta McCabe; Wally Baker; Coy Sandrock; and Mary Feltz.

The Friends group held its annual meeting and potluck dinner Thursday, Jan. 16. Members presented a check for $3,600 to library representatives Dr. Jim Gillig, Bev Polcyn and Rebecca Havensteincoughlin. Funds, raised through used book sales, a musical variety series and the annual author brunch, will be used to buy Michigan law books and a camcorder.

As part of the musical variety series, a jazz concert will be presented 7:30 p.m. Friday, Feb. 14, in the Canton Public Library meeting room. It will feature The Dennis Tini Quartet.

Tini is a professor of music at Wayne State University in Detroit. The Friday, Feb. 14, concert will be the second in a series at the library, 1200 S. Canton Center, south of Cherry Hill in Canton. Refreshments will be served.

Ticket price is $5. Tickets are available at the library reception desk. For more information, call 397-0999.

Path leads pastor back to Plymouth

Serving at church is a family tradition

By Julie Brown
staff writer

The Rev. Peter Berg isn't exactly a newcomer to the Plymouth community.

Berg, 43, is the new pastor of St. Peter's Evangelical Lutheran Church in Plymouth, but this isn't his first time in Plymouth. He spent many of his growing-up years in the community and is following in the footsteps of his father, who was the pastor at St. Peter's from 1960 to 1968.

Berg, who previously served at a church in California, feels nostalgic about his return. "However, a lot of things have changed. The community has grown." He remembers Canton as being mostly empty fields.

He doesn't find that the people have changed all that much.

"I don't think so. They look pretty much the same. I had forgotten about dirt side roads and the trains," he said with a smile.

BERG ATTENDED the elementary school at St. Peter's in Plymouth, and then went to the Michigan Lutheran Seminary in Saginaw, Mich. Some worshippers at St. Peter's remember him from his younger days, but he hasn't found that they object to his presence as an adult and spiritual leader.

"I don't get a sense that they're uncomfortable." He was away at school some of those earlier years, so those worshippers also remember him as a theology student.

"My dad asked me to give the school in Saginaw a one-year try." Berg could have discontinued his studies in theology at that point, but decided to remain at the school. He followed his friends to college and to the seminary. At that point, part of his motivation came from the fact that his friends chose that path.

"But I'm glad I'm in the ministry," he said. He and his family appreciate the welcome they've received at St. Peter's.

Peter Berg grew up in Plymouth, where his father served as pastor of St. Peter's Church during the 1960s.

"A great congregation, warm people. They've gone out of their way to make us feel welcome."

Berg earned a bachelor's degree from Northwestern College in Watertown, Wis., and attended the Wisconsin Lutheran Seminary in Mequon, where he earned a master of divinity degree in 1974. He previously served at two churches, one in St. Louis, Mo., and the other in Thousand Oaks, Calif.

BERG HADN'T been back to Plymouth often. His family visited in the late 1970s when their oldest son was young. Berg's parents, the Rev. Norman and Eleanor Berg, now live near Dallas.

Serving as the pastor at St. Peter's is truly a family affair for the Bergs. Peter Berg's uncle followed his father as pastor at the church on Peniman in Plymouth.

These days, the new pastor is meeting as many of the approximately 1,000 church members as he can and trying to put names with the faces. Establishing himself in his new role will take a year or so, he said.

"I love preaching and my instruction classes." He teaches such classes for youths and adults, and finds that rewarding.

Church leaders would like to do more in the area of outreach to the community. Berg is working with the Rev. Daniel Helwig, the church's other pastor, and other staffers.

The church has a wonderful office staff, he said, and that's been a tremendous help to him. "So I've been freed from the typewriter."

Berg doesn't particularly mind Michigan winters, even though they tend to be harsher than those in California.

"I can't say I didn't know it was going to be this way. My kids were delighted when the snow came. I guess I'm a Midwesterner at heart."

BERG AND his wife, Susan, a former parochial school teacher, live in Plymouth Township. They have six children ages 4 to 13. Five of their children attend the school at St. Peter's and their youngest will enroll next year.

The children enjoy participating in a variety of extracurricular activities. They'd attended public schools in California. Taxation restrictions in that state have limited extracurricular activities and course offerings, Berg said. Their children couldn't, for example, take Spanish in their California elementary school, although Spanish classes are offered at St. Peter's.

The Bergs are looking forward to raising their family in the Plymouth community, which he remembers as a great place to grow up. Their children have been able to attach places to his stories, "all the exaggerated stories that dad has."

In their free time, Berg and his wife enjoy walking. They keep busy with family activities.

Berg hopes to remain at St. Peter's Church for some time. His previous pastorates lasted 10 and seven years. "I like longer pastorates. It helps the congregation in its stability."

What does he think about serving at a church named St. Peter's and having that as his own first name?

No, the church wasn't named after Peter Berg, nor did he demand the name change. The congregation's been around for some time with that name.

"I was born after 1856." In recent weeks, he's been reminded that many things in the Midwest are more established than is true in other parts of the U.S.

"Everything is a little older than it is in California."

By Larry O'Connor
staff writer

With discovery, there is often wonderment.

Detroit Archbishop Adam Maida made sure there were both Friday, opening Catholic Schools Week with a special Mass at St. Michael's Catholic Church in Livonia.

Expounding on the theme, "Discover Catholic Schools," Maida revealed a few things about being an archbishop. An audience of 850 students from five area parishes listened intently.

"Oh, let me tell you, first of all it's scary," said Maida, answering a question from a third grader. "Remember when I told you about St. Francis de Sales? He was a holy man who was always talking to God and praying."

Maida thanked the adults for their support of Catholic education, but made his real intended audience clear.

IN A WARM, fatherly tone, Maida sought to break down any barriers. He explained such things as why he carries a crozier (staff) and wears a large ring. And, of course, the reason he wears the "big, funny" hat.

"When your priest conducts Mass, does he wear a hat like mine?" Maida asked, pointing to his miter. "He better not."

Maida described his ascent in the Catholic Church, going from a parish priest in Missouri to a bishop in Green Bay, Wis. He discussed his arrival in Detroit nearly two years ago to replace Archbishop Edmund Szoka.

"How many of you here play Little League baseball?" Maida asked. "How would you feel if you were suddenly brought into Tiger Stadium to play? Coming to Detroit was like going to the big leagues."

Members attended from St. Damian's in Westland, St. Genevieve and St. Edith in Livonia and St. Valentine in Redford as well as a large contingent from St. Michael's.

The turnout spoke well for parishes and schools along the I-96 corridor. But it also underlines a pressing concern.

THE MOVEMENT of population from the city — where many Catholic schools are located — to the suburbs doesn't bode well for those institutions.

"There is a concerted effort in the archdiocese to put an emphasis on the Catholic schools," Maida said afterward. "We want to see them grow and we want to see them increase and we want to, in some way, see the whole archdiocese take responsibility for them."

"Catholic schools are one of our great assets in the church. We can't afford to lose them. We need them."

Maida suggests suburban churches can help by forming partnerships with city parishes. He believes children need to be sensitized to the plight of poor people and the scourge of racism.

Maida could have found optimism in the wide eyes of the children who swarmed around him. He pulled on a St. Michael's Gaels sweatshirt and greeted them.

During the service, Maida told children to tell teachers at parish schools the archbishop said they were entitled to a free day. That was a problem for Philip Sattler, 12, a seventh grader at Frost Middle School in the Livonia Public Schools.

"I asked him if it was all right if I had a free day," said Sattler, who played trumpet during the service. "He said yes, but it was the church and state problem. He said if you can work it out on that end, it's all right."

Attitude problem found among the condemners

The TV commercial is offensive and repulsive. A young boy rejects as inadequate a $1 allowance offered by his father. The father uses the dollar to buy a sandwich from a fast-food franchise the commercial is advertising.

He has a penny left over which he gives to his son as his allowance. The commercial ends with the father insisting that "the boy had an attitude problem."

The boy, indeed, may have an attitude problem. In some circles, a dollar is still a reasonable amount of money. But the father's attitude is simply unacceptable. A father like that is vindictive and vengeful. The father is the one with an attitude problem.

Last week, our governor, John Engler, insisted again that he was anxious to break the cycle of poverty and that dependency on the social welfare system continued as a major problem.

HE CLAIMED the existence of a young girl who wanted to "get pregnant, have babies and be on welfare like her mother." There was no mistaking his conviction that the girl had a serious attitude problem.

It really makes no difference to have the story about the girl be true or false. Gov. Engler's use of the model contained in the story illustrates an important feature of his public life. His judgment regarding source material is not only suspect, but his understanding of life and its features is simply defective.

Gov. Engler has experienced a broad range of benefits this culture and public order can provide. He has a good education. He has had many opportunities to participate responsibly in the public order. His individual worth has been accepted and acknowledged.

Gov. Engler wants to break the cycle of poverty. He wants to introduce a new model of life for those who are in limiting and limited conditions. He wants to end the restrictive experiences that stifle independence and freedom.

Unfortunately, Gov. Engler has demonstrated that he cannot serve as a model for the alternative to poverty and dependence. He is the one with a most serious attitude problem.

A YOUNG GIRL — any young girl — who wants to live a useful and sustaining life should not be condemned. Wanting to be a contributing participant in life and to be acknowledged with esteem is a universal desire.

Having babies and living on welfare like her mother is not our preferred choice, but our culture and public order has not offered many alternatives to her. Many young girls have neither been offered nor realized individual worth and self-esteem.

Education is an important feature in breaking the cycle of poverty and dependence. But it can't be restricted to the ones we have identified in that cycle. Equally important will be our understanding of what creates this cycle of poverty and the appreciation for the continuing efforts of all human beings to be responsible and contributing members of society.

Nature copes with winter in many different ways

Winter poses many challenges to animal and plant life in Michigan. Adapting to temperatures that may range as high as 100 and as low as -50 degrees with the wind chill, or a limited or non-existent food source has resulted in different techniques.

If an animal is not mobile enough to migrate from the area it may hibernate. Cold-blooded animals like frogs, snakes, and insects cannot keep warm by themselves. Their body temperature is basically that of the air temperature. Since most living things are made of water, they have to seek shelter where they will not get below 32 degrees, otherwise they will freeze.

Some cold-blooded animals actually produce their own anti-freeze to help them tolerate temperatures colder than 32 degrees. Painted turtles and some insects cannot get to an area sheltered from freezing temperatures, so their anti-freeze is very beneficial.

Mammals that do not hibernate, or remain active during the winter, are dormant during cold periods. Raccoons, opossum and skunk are not seen during the winter except on occasions when the weather is mild.

Timothy Nowicki

They will live on stored fat but will search for food if the opportunity arises.

Just before the snow fall of January 14 the mild temperatures brought out some animals that would not typically be seen in winter. Three different opossum came to the bird feeders at the Independence Oaks Nature Center to eat the seed on the ground. Since the snowfall we have not seen them again.

While some patrons at the park were walking the trails, they discovered a garter snake in the grass. It was not very active because the temperature was still pretty cold for a snake, but something must have triggered it to leave the shelter of its winter den. Animals, like the snake, that leave the shelter of their den are very vulnerable to predators. Those that do leave may not survive and thus we typically do not find snakes in winter.

TIM NOWICKI/illustration

Opossum are not seen during the winter except on occasions when the weather is mild. They will live on stored fat but will search for food if the opportunity arises.

Typically woolly bear caterpillars spend winter as caterpillars. They find a sheltered spot and wait for warmer temperatures in spring. Evidently the warm spell in January that caused the snake and opossum to emerge also caused a woolly bear to walk across the trail my family and I were walking on. We put it in the leaf litter so it would not be exposed to predators.

Walking the trails at all times of the year can allow you to encounter some unusual events in nature.

Tim Nowicki is a naturalist at Independence Oaks County Park in Oakland County. He lives in Livonia.

A public opening reception in Chinese style will be 2-5:30 p.m. Saturday, Feb. 1. Wong will give a watercolor demonstration using Chinese painting techniques.

The show is sponsored by the Detroit Chinese Culture Service Center and the Michigan Chinese Women Association.

Proceeds from the art sale will benefit the charity work of the Michigan Chinese Women Association.

Wong works in western watercolor using basic principles that have guided traditional Chinese painters since the year 500. The 5,000-year-old culture and philosophy of the Chinese is behind each of her brushstrokes, uniting Wong and the Sumi brush until they become one.

For more information on the show or Chinese New Year activities, call the Detroit Chinese Culture Service Center at 689-5667 or Dr. Robert Wong's office at 425-7888.

If you're interested in trying your hand at Chinese brush painting, the Livonia Civic Center Library invites you to attend an introduction with Lee Cheng Tan Monday, Feb. 3 at the library, Farmington Road at Five Mile.

The program, 6:30-8:30 p.m., carries a $1 materials fee. You must preregister. Call the library's adult services: 421-7238.

"Lee Cheng Tan will demonstrate how ink is mixed, what some of the different brush strokes are and what the different symbols mean," said Kathleen Monroe, who directs the library's adult services.

The Malaysian-born artist, a University of Texas graduate, presented the program for the first time last year.

Monroe, who was interested in learning more about Chinese brush painting, attended Chen's demonstration.

"It was fun to see someone demonstrate the brush painting and then get a chance to try it yourself," Monroe said.

Watercolor exhibition spotlights amaryllis

Exhibitions, 4D

By Linda Ann Chomin special writer

IT'S CALLED "Creativity — 21 Artists Paint an Amaryllis," a watercolor exhibition by Visual Arts Association of Livonia students of Farmington Hills artist Edee Joppich.

And it's on display through Feb. 26 in the Farmington Community Library, 23550 Liberty, at State, in downtown Farmington.

The 21 amaryllis paintings are the results of an exercise in creativity.

"I put the flower down, told them to personalize it, put it in a particular setting, give it an ambience, a contemporary, an Oriental feeling, then to create a border to create a theme," said Joppich in an interview in the library's quiet room. "Some chose a theme, some chose a mood."

Zebras, hummingbirds, stained glass, Matisse-like wallpaper, an Irish castle and countryside in the mist differentiate and individualize the 21 watercolors, and, in so doing, manifest the soul of the artist.

"I asked them to put a little bit of themselves into the piece," Joppich said. "It came together as to what creativity is all about. We're interpreting nature, not copying it."

THE WATERCOLORS, painted in Joppich's "Creative Approach To Watercolor" class offered through the Visual Arts Association of Livonia last spring, illustrate the artist's dedication to continual growth.

"The real motivation to create comes from within the artist's soul. They're all committed to their art and developing their talent. That's what characterizes our classes at VAAL," Joppich said.

Painting skills of Joppich's student artists range from 30 years' experience to those picking up a brush for the very first time.

Young artists lauded

Chamber concert series starting, 6B

By Linda Ann Chomin special writer

Vocalists and instrumentalists from Michigan, Maryland and Ohio competed for $3,000 in prize money in the Livonia Symphony Orchestra's 14th annual Young Artists Competition Jan. 11-12 at Madonna University, Livonia.

This year's 38 applicants, ages 16 to 27, competed every 20 minutes for two days in search of the Livonia Symphony's most-promising young artists.

Two first prizes of $1,000 and two second prizes of $500 were awarded to winners in vocal and instrumental categories.

Winners were:

• Vocalist — first, Dana Lentini, Harper Woods; second, Bonnie Pepper, Detroit.

• Instrumentalist — first, Jeremy Van Hoy, Detroit; second, Valisa Willwerth of Mount Pleasant.

Livonia Symphony conductor Francesco DiBlasi, LSO concertmaster Victoria Haltom and internationally recognized pianist Flavio Varani judged the competition.

"The vocal participants have impressed us tremendously. They were well prepared and developed, well on their way to a professional career," DiBlasi said.

Now all can enjoy grandeur of Nankin Mills painting

IT WON'T be raffled to benefit the Nankin Mills restoration and expansion effort, as the artist had envisioned.

Instead, the 1975 painting of Nankin Mills will hang inside the Westland historic site, once one of Henry Ford's village factories and now the Wayne County parks system digs.

In November, Westland artist Paul Maceri decided it was time to donate the large oil on canvas to Wayne County in hopes the painting would raise money in a raffle.

Maceri retired as a Ford Motor Co. engineer in 1980. He queried the county after reading about its $1.5 million restoration and expansion plans for Nankin Mills. Henry Ford, who had visited Nankin Mills as a child and had a yen for preserving history, operated the Civil War-era mill from 1920 to 1947.

After hearing about Maceri's query, the Friends of Nankin Mills formulated a better idea: hang the artist's bright autumn scene inside the mill so all could savor its splendor.

A SELF-TAUGHT painter who belongs to the Livonia Artists Club and Livonia Wood Carvers Club, Maceri calls the mill "a favorite building of mine" that "made a beautiful landscape."

"I've always liked it," he said. "It's historic for me since I used to work at Ford and I remember taking my kids there when they were little and it was a nature center."

The large painting is a perfect counterpart to Berkley artist Constance Powell's 1988 pen and ink drawing of the mill.

Built by Samuel Hardenbergh, the mill stands proudly by Nankin Lake at Ann Arbor Trail and Farmington Road, an area once called Pike's Peak. The painting shows the mill facing Hines Drive, the side Maceri saw driving to and from work.

During the Ford era, the mill's turbine generator produced enough electricity to power Pikes Peak homes.

Bob Sklar

"I JUST want to express our sincere appreciation that he thought enough of the Friends and the mill to want the painting to go toward our efforts," said Denise Mehelich, Friends vice president.

Expansion will double the size of the three-story mill by 1993. That'll allow the county to resurrect the once-popular nature center.

Since joining forces in 1988, the Friends and the county have restored the outside of the mill and a nearby 1840s Greek Revival tenant house to 1930s vintage.

A $750,000 state grant has been sought to complement the state, county and private funding already received to improve Nankin Mills.

IN 1918, Henry Ford, a master improvisor, began to buy 19th-century gristmills as part of a grand plan to operate small country plants to improve working conditions along the Rouge, Huron, Raisin and other small rivers.

He bought Nankin Mills from Floyd Bassett to produce engravings, carburetor parts, rivets and bearings. To oversee restoration work, Ford brought in Edward Cutler, chief architect for Henry Ford Museum & Greenfield Village.

During the slack season, the farmer "could work in the small plants in the farming communities, thus resulting in year-round work, providing the security of farm life with the increased income afforded by industry," the Plymouth Historical Museum quotes Ford as saying.

THE COUNTY acquired Nankin Mills in 1948.

From 1957 to 1979, naturalist Mary Ellsworth ran a popular nature center there. It boasted interpretive displays and live animals. It also provided a haven for sick or hurt animals, but it fell victim to a budget crunch.

In the basement of the mill, original machinery and a huge coal-fired furnace, with a striking cast-iron front, remain from Ford's era.

Plans call for a two-level structure atop the concrete framed annex at the rear of the mill and a new three-level addition to the south.

This new wing will house the county parks offices and a multimedia community room. It also will make the mill accessible to the disabled and clear the original part of the mill for a staffed nature center.

"The generator room and mill race will be made operational and the original equipment will be incorporated into exhibits that will interpret the history of the building," relates restoration architects Quinn Evans of Ann Arbor.

FRIENDS OF Nankin Mills formed when "those of us who remembered visiting the mill as kids recognized that it needed more than a coat of paint," Mehelich said. "It was falling apart at a time when the county had no money to free up for repairs."

"We were afraid the roof would leak and cause damage to the wildlife showcases, mounted animals and arrowheads stored there since the nature center closed."

Thanks to Thomas Edison, Nankin Mills was capable of producing electricity through the use of both water power and fossil fuel. This method served as a prototype for Ford's powerplant at Fairlane, his Dearborn mansion.

Bob Sklar is assistant managing editor for special projects.

Woods, placed first in the vocalist category. The student at Oakland University in Rochester Hills sang arias by Puccini and Mozart.

Wayne State University student Bonnie Pepper, 24, of Detroit, finished second in vocals. She sang arias by Strauss and Barber.

"It was wonderful to listen to all these kids that were so talented. It encourages them to grow. It gives them an opportunity to compete as well as perform," said Plymouth resident Marcy Trudeau, competition chairwoman.

"We had three vocalists who were students of Dr. Janice Fulbright at Wayne State. They were all excellent."

Detroit resident Jeremy Van Hoy, 19, playing the euphonium, took first in the instrumentalist category. The University of Maine student played Concerto in F minor by Bohne.

Violinist Valissa Willwerth, 20, of Mount Pleasant, placed second among instrumentalists. The Cleveland Institute of Music student played Brahms' Concerto for violin.

"The euphonium player was fabulous. He made music like an opera singer," Varani said.

AS COMPETITORS performed, the three judges made notes and followed along with scores provided by the contestants. Once the competitors finished, the judges wrote feedback and discussed the performance among themselves. All participants will receive copies of the feedback from the judges.

"It's very important, the posture, the stage deportment," Varani said. "Some had great musicianship. They were great musicians. They had excellent techniques, but were poor performers."

Besides winning the $1,000 top prize, the first-place finishers were awarded the opportunity to perform with the Livonia Symphony Orchestra.

Lentini and Van Hoy will join the Livonia orchestra in a Young Artists showcase concert Saturday, May 2 in the Livonia Churchill High School Auditorium. The evening program will feature Mozart, Shostakovich and Wagner's Prelude to Tannhauser.

William Jacobs of South Lyon competed but did not place in the grueling competition. He is a trumpet student at Schoolcraft College in Livonia.

He said before the performance, "Even if I don't win, it gives you experience."

CREATIVE CLASSES

The Center for Creative Studies-Institute of Music and Dance is now accepting enrollment for group piano classes. The winter semester begins the week of Feb. 1.

For information, call 831-2870.

Classes for children ages 6-10 consist of a one-hour group class per week, and two half-hour private lessons per month. Students learn basic musical skills including theory, rhythm, performance, musicianship and ensemble playing. A student-teacher ratio of 6 to 1 is maintained.

By studying piano in a group setting, children have the opportunity to learn with their peers. The additional private lessons offer young students the personal attention important to early learning.

A new class for instrumentalists and singers interested in developing basic keyboard technique has been added to the group piano program. The class is open to beginners ages 16 to adult.

The group piano program is headed by Marian Parkins. She studied at the New School for Music Study in Princeton, N.J., with renowned piano pedagogue Frances Clark.

The center is at 201 E. Kirby in Detroit, with suburban branches in Southfield, Plymouth, Grosse Pointe and Novi. A faculty of more than 300 artist/instructors provides high-quality visual and performing arts training to more than 3,000 students annually.

ARTS GATHERING

Garden City Fine Arts Association will meet at 7 p.m. Wednesday, Feb. 5 at the Maplewood Community Center, on Maplewood, just west of Merriam.

PHOTO FORUM

Cranbrook P.M., the continuing education and outreach arm of Cranbrook Schools, will present two of the area's most recognized professionals in the photographic world at 7:30 p.m. Thursday, Feb. 6, at Cranbrook House, 380 Lone Pine, Bloomfield Hills.

Speaking will be collector and lecturer Tom Halsted, director of The Halsted Gallery in Birmingham, and Professor Bill Rauhauser of Wayne State University and the Center for Creative Studies, whose photographs are exhibited at the Pierce Street Gallery in Birmingham through Friday.

In this slide-illustrated lecture, "Photographic Style in the 20th Century," they will discuss the esthetics of photography and include the works of artists such as Alfred Stieglitz, Paul Strand, Edward Steichen and Edward Weston.

Examples of various types of prints, including platinum silver prints and photogravure, will also be shown.

Cost for the lecture is $12.50. For information and registration, call Cranbrook P.M., 645-3635.

GALLERY BENEFIT

"Caught in the Act: Live from Detroit Focus III," an evening of art and entertainment to benefit Detroit Focus Gallery, will be 7-10 p.m. Saturday, Feb. 15, at The Loft in Trappers Alley in Detroit.

For information, call Detroit Focus Gallery, 962-9025.

The event will include refreshments, music and free valet parking for Benefactor ticketholders. State Sen. Jack Faxon, D-Farmington Hills, will be master of ceremonies.

All ticketholders will be eligible to win a work of art. They need not be present to win. Tickets are $25 (patron) and $50 (benefactor and five chances to win a work of art).

Featured artists will be Kiersten Armstrong, Stephen Goodfellow, Draper Hill, Jim Pallas and Lisa Spindler. The artists will create works of art during the evening.

For information, call Detroit Focus Gallery, 962-9025.

Every five years the academy publishes an anthology of selected prize winning poems, edited by a prominent American poet. The academy expects to compile its next anthology for publication in 1994.

For more information, call the English department at 577-2450.

"Sometimes there's a connotation of beginners because they're students. Some of them have been showing nationally. We're all students forever searching," Joppich said.

VAAL president Eileen Bibby of Livonia focuses on a Dutch theme in the "Bella Donna" watercolor resulting from Joppich's class. Her paintings, with some 30 odd years behind each stroke, were recently included in a watercolor show at the Scarab Club in Detroit.

"Since the bulbs are grown in Holland, I used a Dutch-influenced pot to individualize it. I personalize everything I paint," Bibby said.

BLUE WINDMILLS accent the off-white ceramic pot. The luminosity and delicacy of the pot's glaze mirrors the amaryllis's blooms. The upward thrusting lines of the leaves lead the eye to the brilliant flowers.

Joppich teaches students about color and composition in the VAAL watercolor class and gives demonstrations in innovative watercolor techniques. But to be considered art, the work needs to speak to the viewer.

"A lot of artists never get beyond technique. They're wonderful technicians but they don't have anything to say," Joppich said.

Livonia artist Barbara Stewart frames an amaryllis plant with an intricate graphic pattern contrasting the flower's petal and leaves of large, relatively simple shapes. An inner frame consisting of white doves in flight swoop around the edge of a black background, which brings the plant to the foreground, popping it out.

Livonia artist Laura Trantham gives her watercolor an Oriental look by using a graphic red and olive green border that provides contrast to the lyrical shapes of the olive and brown background. Bonsai trees and sword-shaped foliage further the Oriental theme.

JOPPICH HOLDS a bachelor of fine arts degree from Marygrove College in Detroit and did graduate studies at Wayne State University. She has 21 one-person exhibits to her credit.

Her paintings have been accepted into more than 100 juried exhibits. She has won 40 awards, including 22 best of show and first-place ribbons. Invitational exhibits include 30 major museums, art centers and galleries throughout Michigan.

Previously, Joppich taught at the University of Detroit and Marygrove College. She is co-owner, director and curator of the annual invitational exhibit of works by 50 Michigan artists since 1980 at Joppich's Bay Street Gallery in Northport.

"I think it's good for the public to see it's not the same amaryllis, each is different. This exhibit illuminates the splendor of life as seen through the eyes of the artist," Joppich said. "What was the artist trying to say? Each has something to communicate."

Lectures track Cranbrook art

"Sixty Years of Cranbrook Academy of Art: What it Was, What it Is, What it Will Be" is the name of a three-part lecture series presented by the Women's Committee of the Cranbrook Academy of Art and Museum.

The series will take place at 10:45 a.m. the first three Tuesdays in February in the deSalle Auditorium of the museum, 500 Lone Pine, Bloomfield Hills.

The final lecture will be followed by a luncheon (cost $10), for which reservations are necessary. The charge is $8 for each of the lectures, or $22 for all three lectures, payable at the door. For more information, call 645-3333.

THE FIRST lecture Feb. 4, "What it Was," will be given by Mark Coir, director of the Cranbrook Archives. He will focus on the Booth family, their reasons for building Cranbrook and the early years of the academy. His comments will generally cover the first 50 years of academy history.

"What it Is," the second lecture Feb. 11, will be moderated by Greg Wittkopp, curator of collections, Cranbrook Academy of Art Museum.

A panel of academy alumni will present their descriptions of their experiences as students at the academy, and how these shaped their careers as artists.

The focus of the presentation will then be their current work. Selected alumni include John Glick, ceramics; Hiroko and Eugene Pijanowski, metalsmithing; Susanne and John Stephenson, ceramics; and James Houff, design.

THE THIRD lecture Feb. 18, "What it Will Be," will be given by

The series will take place at 10:45 a.m. the first three Tuesdays in February in the deSalle Auditorium of the museum, 500 Lone Pine, Bloomfield Hills.

Cranbrook Academy of Art president Roy Slade.

Slade will discuss the international reputation of the academy, which has been furthered through exhibitions and publications throughout the world. A video and slides will be shown of this international activity, which will be sustained in the coming years.

Slade will also discuss exhibitions, activities and programs for the future, along with the new studios, renovation of existing studios and interdisciplinary activity. An overview and prediction for the future will be attempted to put the academy in the year 2000.

COIR HAS written several articles on the history of the metropolitan area and has published one book, "The History of the Detroit Racquet Club." He is active in local historic preservation circles, sits on the advisory council of Preservation Wayne and is a director of the Michigan Alliance for Cultural Heritage.

The Cranbrook Academy of Art with its contemporary art museum is a division of the Cranbrook Educational Community, which also includes the Cranbrook Institute of Science and Cranbrook Schools.

Nankin Mills

Westland artist Paul Maceri (left) presented his 1975 painting of Nankin Mills to the Westland Historical Society, on behalf of Wayne County, Monday night. He became interested in donating the oil on canvas to the county after reading last fall about the county's $1.5 million restoration and expansion plans for the historic millsite. Although Maceri thought the Friends of Nankin Mills might want to raffish the large painting as a fundraiser, they instead chose to hang it inside the restored 1863 mill, once one of Henry Ford I's village factories and now home to the Wayne County parks system.

ART EMANUELE/staff photographer

Schoolcraft College is accepting registrations for creative art classes that begin in February:

• "The Basics of Quilting" will present traditional and conventional methods of quilting beginning Monday, Feb. 3. Five projects will be completed, each incorporating different techniques. The six-week course will meet on Mondays 9-11:40 a.m. The fee is $51.

• "Advanced Photography" will start Tuesday, Feb. 4. Color theory, negative film, slide film, developing color film, calibrated contact sheets, printing color and composition will be presented 7-9:40 p.m. The fee is $94.

• "Beginning Photography (Black and White)" will begin Wednesday, Feb. 5. The 12-week course will provide a basic understanding of camera operation, black and white film, darkroom procedures and photographic composition. It will meet 7-9:40 p.m. The fee is $94.

• "Wallpapering — The Great Coverup" will explore how wallcoverings can be used to create an environment that maximizes space, creates a mood, and coordinates the interior of a room. Choosing and installing wallcoverings and solving design problems will be discussed. The four-week course will meet Thursday evenings 6-8 p.m. starting Feb. 6. The fee is $30.

• "Introduction to Art II" will explore painting techniques with various media, including watercolor, acrylics and oil paint. The class will be held 1:30-3:30 p.m. for 12 weeks beginning Thursday, Feb. 6. The fee is $66.

• "Cartooning for Adults" will explore the techniques of sketching, composition, and the drawing of animals, people, backgrounds and specialized letters. Art supplies are required. The eight-week course begins Thursday, Feb. 6, 7-9 p.m. The fee is $39.

To register or obtain further information, contact Continuing Education Services at 462-4448. Schoolcraft College is at 18600 Haggerty, between Six and Seven Mile, Livonia.

● NOW GLAHHN GALLERY
 Van through February — Originals, sculptures by Chapel and Sherry Sanders. Serigraphs by Jiang, Alvar, McKnight and G. Rodo Boulanger from Bolivia. 319 S. Main, Ann Arbor.

● ALICE SIMSAR GALLERY
 Friday, Jan. 31 — Recent work on paper and canvas by Don Wynn will be shown to March 7. Opening reception 5-7 p.m. Friday. Hours 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Tuesday-Saturday, 301 N. Main, Ann Arbor, 665-4883.

● GALLERY IV
 Beginning Jan. 31 — "Women in Art 1880-1970," running to Feb. 13. The gallery offers the collector, the decorator and the museum a potpourri of antiques and art, including vintage posters, oil paintings, watercolors, etchings, ceramics, glass, bronzes, estate jewelry, rugs, vintage watches, lamps, sterling silver flatware and rare coins. Hours are 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Monday-Wednesday and Friday, 10 a.m. to 8 p.m. Thursday, 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. Saturday, 6447 Inkster, one block north of Maple in Bloomfield Hills, 932-1888.

● SCARAB CLUB
 To Jan. 31 — Prizewinning sculptor Philip Newton Kellogg is featured in a one-man exhibit. The exhibit is a retrospective show of sculpture in wood, steel and bronze. Kellogg's work has been shown in many major museums throughout the United States and is in private collections in Rochester, Royal Oak and Pleasant Ridge. Hours are noon to 5 p.m. Wednesday-Saturday, 217 Farnsworth, Detroit, 831-1250.

● CITY ARTS GALLERY
 Friday, Jan. 31 — A print exhibition by Jacob Lawrence, curated by George R. N'Namdi, will continue to Feb. 21. Opening 5:30-8 p.m. Friday. Hours are 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday-Friday, 47 E. Adams, Detroit, 224-3482.

● HABATAT GALLERIES
 To Jan. 31 — Pavel Hlava, one of the most noted artists working in glass, will be exhibiting his fourth one-man show at Habatat. Hlava, who lives and works in Prague, has received worldwide acclaim for his constructed blown and cast glass sculptures.

Also at Habatat: The kinetic wall sculptures of Ricky Bernstein make light of mundane daily lives and artistically transform the "ordinariness" into an extraordinary occurrence. The cast glass by local artist and Center for Creative Studies instructor Albert Young will be on display for his second major exhibition at Habatat.

Hours 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Tuesday-Saturday, 32255 Northwestern Highway, Farmington Hills, 851-9090.

● BIRMINGHAM BLOOMFIELD ART ASSOCIATION

Saturday, Feb. 1 — "Love of Letters," the annual juried show of the Michigan Association of Calligraphers, will take place at the BBAA through Feb. 22. Opening reception 2-5 p.m. Saturday. The juror for the show is Diane von Arx, a noted calligrapher from Minneapolis. She has her own graphic design studio and has taught throughout the country. Her work has been exhibited in the United States, France and Germany. In conjunction with the exhibit, von Arx will teach a three-day workshop for MAC members, "Stretching your Italic," at the Bloomfield Township Public Library, Telegraph and Lone Pine.

Hours are 9:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Monday-Saturday, 1516 S. Cranbrook, Birmingham, 644-0866.

● HABATAT/SHAW GALLERY

Saturday, Feb. 1 — The exhibition "Sculpture and Drawings: Four Perspectives" will feature the work of artists Scott Chamberlin, Bruno Lavenderiere, Michael Lucero and Anat Shifftan. The show will focus on drawings and sculpture from each artist's current body of work. In each artist's case, equal emphasis and energy is placed upon their two- and three-dimensional bodies of work. The drawings are integral to the making of the sculpture, and the sculpture is integral to the making of the drawings. Opening reception 8 p.m. Saturday. Hours are 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Tuesday-Saturday, 32255 Northwestern Highway, Farmington Hills, 851-8767.

● HALSTED GALLERY

To Feb. 1 — An exhibition of photographs by James Balog continues. Balog's photographs portray members of threatened animal species in a setting removed from their natural habitats, resulting in starkly isolated and sometimes surreal portraits that change the way we look at nature. Hours are 10 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. Tuesday-Saturday, 560 N. Woodward, Birmingham, 644-8284.

● CRANBROOK ACADEMY OF ART MUSEUM

Sunday, Feb. 2 — "Vantage Point: Photographs from the Warren J. Coville Collection" and "Floor to Ceiling Surface to Edge Vista: An Installation by Winifred Lutz," will be shown Feb. 5 through April 5. Members' preview and reception 5-7 p.m. Sunday. Lutz's lecture and reception 7:30 p.m. Wednesday, March 11, in the deSalle Auditorium.

Between walls stained shades of blue, terra cotta and green, and on floors marked with gravel, soil and straw, Lutz transforms three galleries with a tower of brick, a basin of drying clay and a network of twine, paper and pebbles. The artist studied sculpture at Cranbrook in the late 1960s and currently teaches at the Tyler School of Art, Temple University, Philadelphia. Hours 1-5 p.m. Wednesday-Sunday, 500 Lone Pine, Bloomfield Hills, 645-3312.

● CLARE SPITLER WORKS OF ART

Sunday, Feb. 2 — "The Armchair

Traveler," a mixed media sculpture by Ann Savageau, opens with a reception for the artist 3-6 p.m. Sunday, Feb. 2. Through March 31. Hours are 2-6 p.m. Tuesdays and by arrangement (662-8914), 2067 Pauline Court, Ann Arbor.

● DETROIT ARTISTS MARKET

To Feb. 7 — The Detroit Artists Market announces its 60th anniversary with the "Select 5 Collect" exhibition by Michigan photographers John Carney, Joanne Leonard, Bill Sanders, Michael Sarnacki and Carl Toth. The exhibit is to honor the artists, inform the audience and encourage the collecting of Michigan photography. Pieced work by Dusty Fleming, Cynthia Greig and Carole Zak in the upper gallery. Gallery hours 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. Tuesday-Saturday, 1452 Randolph, Detroit, 962-0337.

● DETROIT FOCUS

To Feb. 8 — The gallery presents Group II from the Review Committee Selections. Two of these Michigan artists — Marcia Freedman and Jacquelyn Ruttinger — placed work on the wall. Works by the other two — Pi Benio and Tzufen Liao — were installed. Freedman's mixed media drawings are a personalized expression of grief. Using various textures and dark, introspective tones, she creates a somber, thoughtful mood. Ruttinger uses interweaving of form and space, along with airbrushed glazes of interference and iridescent pigments to create works that evolve with regard to the viewer's perspective. Benio created an installation using linen paper and life-size handmade paper figures. Her work is a response to her frustration with the spirit's ability to soar while the body is incapable of mobility. Liao sardonically juxtaposes fake fur and steel to create a tool whose presence speaks of a kind of illogic.

Hours are noon to 6 p.m. Wednesday-Saturday, 743 Beaubien, Detroit, 962-9025.

● DETROIT GALLERY OF CONTEMPORARY CRAFTS

To Feb. 15 — "Time Marches On," second annual show featuring unusual clocks, runs. Handcrafted in a variety of media including wood, copper, forged iron and papier-mache, the works range from traditional and architectural styles to whimsical animal heads by artists from across the country. Hours are 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Monday-Friday, 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. Saturday. Call for additional opening hours. 104 Fisher Building, Detroit, 873-7888.

● GALLERY BIRMINGHAM

To Feb. 19 — New works by Darcy Scott and Denis Rano are being shown. Scott won first prize for her watercolors at The Community House in Birmingham last year. Rano is an artist from Cleveland who works in acrylic, landscapes and abstractions. Hours are 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday-Saturday, 390 E. Maple, Birmingham, 540-8505.

● PARK WEST GALLERY

To Feb. 20 — The poetic landscapes created by American artist Robert Kipniss will be the focus of a retrospective exhibition. This exhibition begins the gallery's 1992 new acquisitions series. Hours are 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Monday-Wednesday, 10 a.m. to 9 p.m. Thursday-Friday, 11 a.m. to 6 p.m. Saturday-Sunday, 29469 Northwestern Highway, Southfield, 354-2343.

● MATRIX GALLERY

Friday, Feb. 21 — "Memory, Faith and Desire," an exhibit of image art by Wayne Meiggs, opens with a reception 7-9 p.m. Friday, Feb. 21, 212 Miller, Ann Arbor. Hours are 5-9 p.m. Wednesday, Thursday, Friday, 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. Saturday or by appointment.

● ROBERT KIDD GALLERY

To Feb. 22 — An exhibition of new paintings by Mary Vitelli Berti. Berti's figurative landscapes and interior scenes generate a sense of domesticity and timelessness. Her impressionist palette captures a rich, crisp quality of light. Hours are 10:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. Tuesday-Saturday, 107 Townsend, Birmingham, 642-3909.

● SUSANNE HILBERRY GALLERY

To Feb. 22 — The contemporary ceramics of a remarkable woman, Beatrice Wood, are exhibited. The artist, who will be 99 years old in March, continues to work in her studio every day. The exhibition includes figure as well as vessel work. Hours are 11 a.m. to 6 p.m. Tuesday-Saturday, 555 S. Woodward, Birmingham, 642-8250.

● O.K. HARRIS WORKS OF ART

To Feb. 22 — Mariano Del Rosario, working with cement, wax and acrylic, will bring his new paintings to the gallery, opening reception 2-5 p.m. Saturday, at which Del Rosario will speak informally about his fresh new body of work. The exhibition will run through Feb. 22. Also, a display of egg tempera paintings on lead by Tamara Carlisle. Hours are 11 a.m. to 6 p.m. Tuesday-Saturday, extended to 8:30 p.m. the first Thursday of each month, Mondays by appointment, 430 N. Woodward, Birmingham, 433-3700.

Art classes announced

Plymouth Community Arts Council announces the winter schedule of art classes to begin the week of Feb. 3.

The classes are taught by qualified art instructors and include a variety of media for children and adults.

Classes are appropriate for beginners and those who want to improve their skills. Participants can learn basic skills in oil painting, pottery, origami, drawing, cartooning, multimedia collage, painting, sculpture, and photography and darkroom work.

To register, visit the PCAC office, 332 S. Main, Plymouth, from 9 a.m. to noon weekdays. Or call 455-5260. Information on class locations can be obtained through the PCAC office.

REAL ESTATE NEWS

New presidents set board goals

By Doug Funke staff writer

Professional organizations generally are only as effective as their leadership. And if training, experience and motivation predict success, then members of area realty boards should be well served by their presidents this year.

Incoming presidents share those characteristics as well as an enthusiasm for their work and the ability to communicate to their peers.

The new presidents — Robert D. Gleason, Birmingham-Bloomfield Board of Realtors; Mary Moore, Rochester Board of Realtors; Gilbert L. Holliday III, South Oakland Oakland County Board of Realtors; and Ruth Clevers, Western Wayne Oakland Board of Realtors — also share some goals.

Several mentioned regionalizing multi-listing services. Combining forces, if that can be worked out, could cut down agency expenses and better showcase properties, they said.

"I see reorganization as the biggest thing we're going to try to accomplish," Holliday said. "Combining all adjacent boards to a single data base would enable us to work more effectively in cost and time."

SEVERAL OTHER objectives were mentioned.

"I'm looking at implementation of a dispute resolution system, enhancing our public image and coordinating education efforts with other boards," Gleason said.

Gleason, 43, president of Snyder, Kinney, Bennett and Keating in Birmingham, has served on his board's arbitration, professional standards and strategic planning committees. He has a GRI designation — Graduate, Realtors Institute — and has been in the business since 1978.

"My theme is Together for Success," said Clevers, vice president and sales manager at Ralph Manuel Associates-West, Farmington Hills. "My goal is to encourage more involvement for members, participation in association functions and educational programs. Belonging helps them network with their peers, learn ideas, selling techniques. It's getting to know each other that makes the industry strong," she said.

Clevers, 46, started selling real estate in 1969. Professional designations include Graduate Realtors Institute, Certified Real Estate Specialist, Certified Real Estate Appraiser and Leadership Training Graduate.

SHE'S SERVED on her board's professional standards, strategic planning, multi-listing, nominating and Realtor of the year committees.

"I'd like to see more education offerings to give sales people the opportunity to improve themselves, to become more professional and become more aware of the marketplace," Holliday said.

Holliday, 50, is sales manager and an associate broker at Century 21 Town and Country, Troy.

He's sold real estate for more than 20 years and has served as a director of the Michigan Association of Realtors and the state association's professional standards committee. He's also served on his board's professional standards, executive and bylaws committees.

Holliday is a Graduate Realtors Institute and Certified Residential Specialist.

"I would like to see us continue the very good service we provide for members. That's really the function of a board," Moore said. "Education, professional standards, political affairs, legislative affairs, political action committees — we're quite active in."

Moore, 46, is a broker associate at Real Estate One in Rochester. She's a Graduate Realtors Institute and has served on her board's education, membership, strategic planning and Realtor associate committees.

Association responsible for exterior upkeep of condo units

In 1984 we thought a condo that was built in 1979. At the time we were assured that the outside upkeep would be the responsibility of the association. During the first year, the exterior door was painted inside and out. It has been done once since then. Now we are told paint is available, but we must do it ourselves or pay to have it done. We have rough wooden patio fences that have not been painted since we bought. When we requested they be painted, the association told us that paint is available but we must do it ourselves or hire it out. Our association fees have gone up since our purchase, but services have gone down. We think all the fences should be maintained uniformly by the association. Your thoughts, please.

It is important to check your condominium master deed and bylaws to determine with certainty whether the association is responsible for the exterior maintenance of the condominium premises. More than likely it is, including the painting of the exterior and your door from the outside and wooden patio fence. If you can confirm that, you should advise the association that it has a legal responsibility to maintain these exterior extremities and that it should retain a contractor to ensure that the work is done uniformly, consistently and properly.

The fact that the association has done it in the past does not in and of itself make it an obligation on the part of the association if the condominium documents do not otherwise provide for it. It appears that the board is now attempting to cut costs and change maintenance responsibilities by placing them onto co-owners when they properly belong to the association.

Site planning: more than what meets the eye

By Doug Funke
staff writer

Developers today can't afford to gobble up every vacant piece of land they stumble across, then roll the dice, throw darts or consult the stars about when to break ground.

They do their homework. They personally talk with municipal planners, engineers, land use professionals. They study zoning maps and master plan documents. They walk the property.

They hire consultants. They do soil borings. They get a history of the parcel. They familiarize themselves with schools and other amenities. They scope out the competition.

Then, if they feel confident and can work out financing details, they forge ahead.

"I suggest that you put in more time, more effort," Larry Cohen, a West Bloomfield developer/builder told sales professionals and colleagues during a recent seminar on the site selection process.

Cohen recently has developed or plans to develop several subdivisions including Maplewoods and Stonebridge in West Bloomfield, Meadowbrook in Canton and Hillsborough in Wixom.

"AS A DEVELOPER, it's been enlightening to me how much information you need to make a decision. You can't necessarily assume what you see is what you get," he said.

Cohen outlined several steps that he believes developers should take themselves or with the help of sales professionals to evaluate vacant property.

Many of his ideas could be extended to home buyers considering a move to semi-developed areas or prospective movers to the country.

"The first thing I do is contact the (municipal) planner," he said. You're going to use that individual many times. They're a wealth of information.

"Look at zoning," Cohen continued. "Zoning defines what you can do with the property. Planners can give insight into what it means. A planner can give insight into what changes the community is going through."

Zoning classifications can mean different things in different communities. Cohen, for example, found that banks aren't allowed in the same zoning class in all communities when he bought a parcel in Canton for that purpose.

"THE NEXT step is to meet with the city or township engineer," Cohen advised. "A planner will give insights into how likely a section of the community will develop. An engineer will tell you the mechanics — how it will happen."

"Just because a site doesn't have what we consider to be a basic necessity — water lines and sewers — doesn't mean it (development) can't happen," he said.

"A lot of times if those things aren't there, there is opportunity. A hot spot with the utilities in, no one can afford. Community wells in the Hillsborough project proved to be an alternative to no city water lines, he said.

A history of the property, especially over the past five to 10 years, also needs researching, Cohen said. Brokers who are on the ball will have this information, he said.

"When you buy, you buy everything that has gone before it," he said. "You say you didn't do it, why not sue? Generally, if you get into a lawsuit, it's a losing situation."

After obtaining basic preliminary information, Cohen recommends that developers have a staff engineer or a consultant walk the property and sketch a site plan.

SIMPLE SOIL borings have become a necessity at the developer's expense.

"Do an environmental study. If the seller had one done, I'd have my own. I want an engineer on the hook to me," he said.

"You have to expect the unexpected. Most of these things can be learned in a morning with a planner and an afternoon with an engineer, Cohen said.

Beyond all of that, a little more work needs doing.

Check out the schools and other demographic information about the extended area under scrutiny, Cohen said.

"School systems are important. Years ago when I got started, that went over my head. Today, it has a tremendous effect on the value of property."

"Proximity to employment is important," he said. "One factor influencing development today is transferees. One thing that's spurred Canton on is proximity to Ann Arbor. It's very expensive to live within the boundaries of Ann Arbor. Canton is an easy drive."

BUILDERS AND prospective buyers also can avoid surprises by doing a little research into an area under development. Brokers, again, would be the best source for informational packets. Data is usually available with some digging at town halls.

"I like plat (lot configuration) maps, the identity, by name of the development. I want to know who the competition is. Other things I like to see in an informational packet is what products are out there — what size, what price.

"You want to look at the overall absorption of the community — permits issued versus spec houses available," Cohen said.

Surprises occasionally surface regardless of how well a developer prepares, Cohen said. He told a story about a Novi project to illustrate.

"In spite of all due diligence, as soon as we started putting shovels in the ground, we started digging up cars. We must have pulled up 500 parts."

'A farmer's field isn't always going to be a farmer's field'

By Doug Funke
staff writer

The land development/site selection game has changed during the last decade or so, Larry Cohen and other developers/builders agree.

"In the past, you had six to nine months from an idea to breaking ground," Cohen said. "Now it's so cumbersome, it's two to three years."

In addition to finding that perfect location, more is expected of developers from municipalities in the way of extending water lines, sewers and roads.

Then there are state and federal environmental hoops to jump through, stringent local requirements on everything from lot sizes to setbacks to landscaping and a tightening of screws by financing sources.

It costs big money today to make a mistake. So developers take more time to study proposals before committing.

"With the price of land and with the interest clock ticking, you can't sit," Dan MacLeish, a Troy developer/builder, said of getting stuck with a parcel.

"It's become much more regulatory, much costlier aside from standard annual increases on labor and material," said Robert Schwartz, president of United Homes of Farmington Hills.

Most people not in the business have no idea what's involved in analyzing and developing property.

"They would be appalled," MacLeish said of the selection and approval processes. "If you don't know the ropes, it's going to take an extra six months to get a house up."

Jim Clarke, land acquisition director for Robertson Brothers of Bloomfield Hills, said developers and individual buyers can get hurt if they don't do their homework in an area where development has started but still has a way to go.

"The worst thing they can do is buy without knowing what it (adjacent land) is zoned, who owns it and what his plans are," Clarke said. "A farmer's field isn't always going to be a farmer's field."

"I think what most people don't have a concept of is the time and effort to go through the approval process," Clarke said. "Even if you do what a township or city says, there's a lot of negotiation back and forth."

So it's better to be safe than sorry, developers said.

"One thing that's changed dramatically over the last 10 years is a level one soil (contamination) test," Schwartz said. "It's optional now, but you make a big mistake if you don't do it."

Clarke said he always pays special attention to what's happening around a vacant parcel he has his eye on.

"We also do a pipeline, what's coming, so you not only know what's there and so you don't get slammed by jobs you didn't know were in the works," he said.

The 16th annual survey prepared by Chicago Title and Trust Family of Title Insurers provides this breakdown of Detroit area house and condo buyers.

Buyers in the Detroit metropolitan market last year paid substantially less than the national median (half above, half below) price for their houses — $92,700 compared to $134,300.

Buyers here, on average, looked at fewer houses, 11.8, before making a purchase than the national average of 15.

The mortgage payments of home buyers here as a percentage of monthly income averaged nearly 30 percent compared to a national average of 24 percent.

Forty percent of all homes purchased in metro Detroit last year were by first-time buyers compared to 45 percent nationally.

Those are some of the figures gleaned from "Who's Buying Houses in America," the 16th annual survey prepared by Chicago Title and Trust Family of Title Insurers.

The survey encompassed the 10-month period January through October, 1991. The figures includes houses and condominiums, new houses and existing structures.

Nearly 20 percent of the 4.3 million houses purchased nationally last year were new structures while only 11 1/2 percent in metro Detroit were new.

First-time buyers here were younger — 28 1/2 years, on average — than first-timers nationally, 30.7 years.

Non-marrieds in metro Detroit accounted for 21 percent of home purchases, while nearly 24 percent of purchasers nationally classified themselves as single, widowed or divorced/separated.

THE NUMBER OF first-time purchasers nationally — 45 percent — was the largest percentage in that category in the history of the survey.

"Normally, the fixed rate mortgage interest rate decline from 10 to 8.5 percent during 1991 would be a powerful stimulus to the housing market," said John Pfister, market research director for Chicago Title.

"But a large number of potential repeat buyers, perhaps feeling vulnerable or more at risk on the job, elected to ride out the recession on the sidelines."

The result, Pfister said, is that the market essentially was left to first-time buyers and purchasers at the most affluent end of the housing spectrum.

Still, with mortgage rates down substantially and home price increases nationally averaging less than 7 percent, home buyers last year generally got more house for the money than counterparts in 1990, Pfister said.

Engler taps 3 area men for architects' board

Three area men were named to the state board of architects by Governor John Engler. They are:

Claybourne Adams of Plymouth, president of David C. Smith and Son Registered Land Surveyors Inc. He has been appointed to represent registered land surveyors for a term ending March 31, 1993.

Daniel Redstone of West Bloomfield, president of Redstone Architects, Southfield. He will represent registered architects for a term ending March 31, 1995.

Daniel Ryan of Redford, an associate at Plunkett & Cooney law firm. He will serve as a public member for a term ending March 31, 1995.

The board provides for the registration of those practicing architecture, sets qualifications for registration and prescribes penalties.

Edward W. Cicero, president of Parliament Co., with offices in Birmingham, is the new president of the Associated General Contractors of America, Detroit Chapter Inc.

Cicero became 59th president of AGC at its 76th annual meeting last week in Detroit.

Thomas A. Huff, executive vice president of R.E. Dalley & Co., was elected vice president, and Thomas H. Landry, president of A.J. Etkin Construction Co., was elected treasurer.

Elected to one-year terms on the board of directors were: Richard De Maria (De Maria Building Co.); Joe Gough (Joe Gough Construction); Michael Haller (Walbridge Aldinger); Edward Jarchow (Barton Malow); Dominic J. Maltese Jr. (D.J. Maltese Co.); R. Andrew Martin (F.H. Martin Construction); Michael J. Monahan (Edw. V. Monahan Inc.); and Richard M. Schiller (Schiller Construction Co.).

John D. Maas was reappointed executive director and secretary of the AGC chapter, one of 102 chapters in the United States and Puerto Rico making up the Associated General Contractors of America.

West Bloomfield resident Gary Jelin was promoted to senior associate at TMP Associates, a Bloomfield Hills architectural/engineering firm.

Jelin's field is educational facilities design.

Architect Dennis P. Robare has announced the opening of his firm RoHouse Planners at 8801 Oakview, building news

Plymouth. The firm will specialize in small commercial, interior design, space planning and construction management.

The Builders Association of Southeastern Michigan will conduct several seminars in February.

Tom Van Avery of Michigan Timber and Tom Koster of Truss Joist McMillan will speak at a seminar on trusses and other structural requisites from 8:30-11 a.m. Thursday, Feb. 6, at the Somerset Inn, Troy.

They will discuss how to prevent callback, current load bearing requirements, ceiling separations and the engineered I-joist.

How auctions can be used as real estate marketing tools will be discussed by Robert Roggeven and Kelly Frank of Sheldon Good & Co., a Chicago real estate auction company, from 8:30-11 a.m. Tuesday, Feb. 4, at the Radisson Plaza, Southfield.

They will speak on how builders can benefit from an auction and the "how to" of an auction: preparation, format and the types of real estate auctions available.

Case studies will include Orchard Place Condos in Farmington Hills.

Al Bostain of Corporate Services, Livonia, will discuss workers compensation — claims, defensive hiring practices and loss control — from 7:30 to 10 a.m. Wednesday, Feb. 5, at Italian Cucina Restaurant, Plymouth.

Representative from Catherine McAuley Health Systems and the law firm of Miller Canfield will discuss substance abuse in the workplace 8-10 a.m. Tuesday, Feb. 11, at the Radisson Plaza.

Darin Powers, president of the Powers Group, will address enhance-ing company growth and profitability by making the business customer driven from 6 to 9 p.m. Thursday, Feb. 13, at Penna's of Sterling Heights.

Construction procedures for single-family dwelling will be discussed by Chuck Breidenstein, director of construction technologies education for NCI Associates, 8:30-11

Forgers manufacture country look

AP — Anonymous craftsmen created the country furniture that today's collectors crave, but what they fashioned was neither crude nor primitive.

The carpenters and craftsmen who supplied furniture for 18th and 19th century settlers outside of Philadelphia, Baltimore, New York and Charleston, according to Country Living magazine, were quite familiar with preferred styles and construction techniques.

Exquisite carving, time-consuming inlay and delicate banding rarely appeared on what would come to be known as "country" furniture, but no apologies need be made for the construction techniques employed.

Unlike true primitive furniture, with its exposed nails, rough-sawn lumber, crude joinery and little, if any, finish, American country furniture was intended to be both functional and attractive and was built to withstand decades of use.

Pinned joints, mortise-and-tenon construction, carefully planed boards and adherence to basic principles of furniture design and construction are evident in the finest examples.

Most American country furniture was originally painted. Enthusiasts of the Colonial Revival that began shortly after World War I began stripping, sanding and scraping off original painted finishes on fine country furniture in their quest of a clear finish.

WHEN TRYING TO steer clear of forgeries, collectors should look for original paint. Keep in mind that not all of the paint will remain after 100 years or more of use.

In many instances, original paint will be worn through to bare wood around cupboard knobs, on the tops of chair seats and front rungs, along the edges of tables and on the arms and headrails of chairs.

Forgers are skilled in duplicating original paint finished on both old and new furniture. They know the difference between a piece of country furniture that still has its original paint and one that doesn't can amount to several thousand dollars.

Forgers also know it is more difficult to detect new paint than new wood, so they generally start by investing in authentic antiques rather than recent reproductions.

Naive buyers will assume that if the wood is old, the finish must be, too. In most cases, it is not.

The best way to identify a coat of paint that has been applied years after the piece was constructed is to inspect the chips, gouges and age cracks you would expect to find on an authentic country antique.

Presuming that the original craftsman would not have applied paint over damaged wood, we would not expect to find original paint inside these cracks and gouges.

If you find an age crack filled with paint, reason dictates the paint was applied after, not before, the crack appeared.

SIMILARLY, DEEP gouges and scratches should not have any paint in them. If they do, chances are the paint is newer than the wood beneath it.

Most authentic country furniture has been either repainted or refinished. If you suspect that you own a fine country piece that has been repainted, inspect the piece for indications of the original color.

Start by turning the piece over and looking for spots the more recent painter may have missed — beneath lower rungs, overhanging tops and chair seats. Check the back for runs or drips of a different color than the top layer of paint.

Occasionally, a non-original layer of paint should be left alone. Many examples of 18th century country furniture received their second and only additional coat of paint during the 19th century. If a piece has survived another 100 years without a third layer of paint, the second layer should not be removed. Most authorities will agree, Bruce

American country furniture was intended to be both functional and attractive.

E. Johnson wrote in Country Living, that this early top coat has earned its place on the piece.
