Students dive in to learn

Learning by doing: Scuba diving at Schoolcraft College, Canton High School ninth graders got an idea of what it would be like to work as an underwater welder or a diver.

Students learned about well paying jobs, such as underwater welding, that are open to divers.

Originally, he thought students would get only 20 minutes each under water, said Rainey. But it turned out they got additional air time. They had just as much fun as they did. It was fantastic.

Bills take aim at domestic violence

BY TIM RICHARD
STAFF WRITER

Police, prosecutors and judges would have greater force to fight domestic violence under a bipartisan package of bills in the Michigan Legislature.

There is a sense of frustration in the state that what happens in the home is the least prosecuted crime, said House Republican Perry Bullard, D-Ann Arbor, whose party, Tuesday, controls the House floor.

Denise Alexander, a Southfield lawyer and member of the state's Domestic Violence Prevention and Treatment Board, said intervention is the key.

Citing the recent murder-suicide of Linda and Michael Binder of West Bloomfield, Alexander said after reading news stories, "I saw four opportunities where there could have been intervention to save lives."

Alexander, key witness in the morning-long hearing, said the bills would make these changes:

• Easier arrest warrants. Magistrates were saying that if they don't have a victim's signature, they don't want to issue a warrant, she said. One bill would require a magistrate to issue a warrant where an information and belief was signed only by a police officer and not the victim.

• Swifter, surer punishment. Currently judges may twice defer a defendant's sentencing for assault while he undergoes counseling. One bill would allow only a single deferral. It would require the judge to revoke probation if the defendant assaults the victim again or violates a court order to receive domestic violence counseling.

Dogs do not get two bites in our state, Alexander said, adding, It's only the hammer of jail that keeps people (defendants) going through these counseling programs.

• Information sharing. It would be easier to get cases into the Michigan State Police LIEN (law enforcement information network) system. A judge would be required, before deferring proceedings, to contact State Police for records of prior assault convictions. "We (current ly) do not find out about prior offenses," Alexander said.

In a related bill, attorney Patrick McCullough, representing state probate judges, praised a bill allowing probate courts to order a parent or adult out of the house for abusing a child.

LANSING

There's some concern among judges about removing a wrongdoer without a finding that he's a wrongdoer, said McCullough, a former state senator from the Dearborn-Garden City district.

A companion bill would allow police to make a warrantless arrest of an adult who violated a removal order.

Mary Kay Newman, a social worker on the Oakland County prosecutor's staff, also praised the bill. Removing children from an abusive home environment causes trauma to the child. It's better, she said, to remove the abuser first.

Reps. Barbara Dobb, R-West Bloomfield, and Frank Fitzgerald, R-Grand Ledge, are sponsors of a pair of bills to allow injured spouses to seek injunctions prohibiting the other spouse from "threatening to kill or physically injure a named person."

Dobb's bill amends the Judicature Act; Fitzgerald's, the Divorce Act.

Bullard's contribution is a bill to increase marriage license fees to $30 from $20 with the requirement that county boards allocate $10 of the fee to contract with abused spouse shelters such as Haven for legal advocacy for victims. Another $15 would be required to be spent on family counseling services.

"Only eight counties are providing money to domestic violence programs," said Alexander, supporting the bill.

Local police would be required to have procedures for dealing with domestic violence calls under yet another bill.

An arrest is called "the preferred resonse," but the investigating officer would have to prepare a written incident report even if no arrest is made.

"We want police departments to have a preferred arrest policy in place," said Alexander.

Capt. Dan Branson of the Ann Arbor Police Department said the bill parallels his city's ordinance. "I don't think our focus is jail or arresting people for the sake of arresting. It's to prevent domestic violence, so when the person goes back to the situation there has been some impact," Branson said.

Ann Arbor, he said, has a coordinated system in which police, probation officers and counselors work together to change violent habits.

The idea of coordination was underscored by Mike Jackson of Catholic Social Services in Washtenaw County. "With a communitywide approach, there's a 60 percent cessation of battering. Without a communitywide approach, success rates are miserable," Jackson said.

As for employee contracts, the length of time a contract is signed for is not the highest priority. What's in the agreement is what is important. Both parties are locked into the agreements which may or may not be advantageous at one point in time. Right now, it would be nice if we weren't committed to time left in the contract.

On the other hand, if you're an employee and voter in the district, you're really in the middle. We need to talk ... the board needs to talk with all parties to resolve the financial problems of this district, not just with the union personnel.

Bollman added: Remarks by the superintendent about the union request that the 22 jobs be guaranteed if they accept a decrease in the agreed upon raise is penny wise and pound foolish. Their request was a legitimate negotiable agenda ... the purpose of a union is to preserve the jobs of its members. Dr. Holsen insulted those people which causes a lack of cooperation.

Canton resident was 'good Marine

In France in 1918, Marine Pvt. Frank Kaulsky ran 25 yards with a wounded soldier on his back under German machine gun fire.

He was decorated for that effort, and for sneaking into a German machine gun nest early that year and forcing the surrender of 26 Germans.

Kaulsky, 94, died May 24 in Canton.

"I never thought about being a hero," Kaulsky said. "I wanted to be a good Marine and a good American."

Kaulsky was one of the nation's most decorated veterans of WWI, as he was awarded the Croix De Guerre, a Good Conduct Medal, the French Militaire, Navy Cross and Purple Heart.

He lived almost 60 years in Detroit, where he worked for the city department of parks and recreation as a painter. Kaulsky painted the Belle Isle boat conservatory at Belle Isle and other city landmarks.

Kaulsky was born Aug. 1, 1897, in Warsaw, Poland. Survivors include his wife, Frances; daughters Doris Wiss of Waterford, Lorraine Schwartz of McKinley, Mich., Shirley Rahn of Detroit, Grace Buchanan of Warren and Victoria Pastor of Plymouth; daughter in law Mary Jane Kaulsky of Bethdale; stepchildren Edward Reiter of Texas, Ellen Klatt of Lincoln Park, Pat Reiter of Ann Arbor and brother Floyd Kaulsky of Madison Heights. A wife, Marie, died in 1985 and a son, Frankie, died in 1982.

Funeral services were scheduled for noon today at the Schrader Funeral Home, 280 S. Main, Plymouth, with pastor Robert Seltz officiating. Burial was to be in the Detroit Memorial Park West, Redford.

Stations pump gas for handicapped at self-serve price

More than 2,000 gas stations in Michigan, including 206 in Wayne County and 14 in Plymouth and Canton, are pumping gas for handicapped people at self-serve prices.

That's only 17 percent of Michigan's 6,500 gas stations, but Denise McCourt of the Associated Petroleum Industries of Michigan is pleased nevertheless.

"We thought the response was terrific," she said.

The participating stations are listed in a booklet called Pump Guide, published by members of the petroleum industry.

Participating stations in Plymouth are: Meadow's Shell, Hagerty, Dawn Donuts, Arrow at the Hop In on Michigan Avenue, Sheldon Amoco, Sunoco on Warren, Sheldon Mobil, Total Petroleum and Woodscene Amoco on Ford.

Participating stations in Plymouth-Canton are: Ann Arbor I-275 Shell, Car Wash and Total Petroleum on Ann Arbor Road, Hop In on Ann Arbor Trail, Meijer's on Ford and Total Petroleum on North Mill.

County seeks tax increase to support health services

BY WAYNE PEAT
STAFF WRITER

■ 'It's unclear who is going to receive these services, whether it's people who already receive CountyCare or whether this will be a new group.'

— County Commissioner Bryan Amann D-Wayne

Wayne County voters will be asked to approve a mill to support healthcare for the county's poor.

County commissioners voted Tuesday to put the proposal on the Aug. 4 primary ballot. It would raise money for health programs and mental healthcare.

Commissioners voted 9-6 to put the issue on the ballot. Among area commissioners, Kevin Kelley, D-Redford, and Maurice Breen, R-Plymouth Township, also voted no.

"We're the provider of last resort, but with the state cuts we just don't have the resources we once did," said county Commissioner Ken Beard, D-Westland who backs the proposal.

But the 10-year tax proposal has already run into trouble with other suburban commissioners.

"I'm campaigning against it," said Bryan Amann, D-Wayne. "It's too vague."

The 5-mill increase would raise an estimated $45 million. It translates to an additional $25 per year on a house assessed at $100,000.

Critics said they don't know who would be served and how.

"It's unclear who is going to receive these services, whether it's people who already receive CountyCare or a program for indigent county residents or whether this will be a new group," Amann said. "Plus Engler will probably cut our state aid by whatever we add."

Beard, though, said voted millages are rarely specific.

The money would be there and it would be up to the county executive to make proposals on how it would be spent during our normal budget procedure, Beard said, adding there's no guarantee the county wouldn't face cuts even without the millage.

Detroit Zoo schedules nighttime hours

This summer the Detroit Zoo will be open until 8 p.m. one evening per month to allow visitors the opportunity to see the Zoo's animals in a different light.

Late hours are Tuesday, June 16, Wednesday, July 22 and Thursday, Aug. 13.

"We wanted to give people who work 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. a few more opportunities to visit the zoo, other than during the weekends," said acting director Khadeijah Shelby.

Robin Barbiers, veterinarian at the zoo, said animals are more active later in the day. "During the summer, animals are more active when the sun is less intense," she said.

Detroit Zoo ticket prices are $6 for adults and children age 13 and over, $4 for senior citizens and $2 for children age 2 through 12. Parking costs $6. The Detroit Zoo is located north of I-696 at Woodward Avenue and 10 Mile Road in Royal Oak.

State Senate to reporters: Keep off Capitol's carpet

STAFF WRITER

"I wanted to let you guys roam the floor," an apologetic state Sen. David Honigman said to the press corps.

". . .improve communications, let you be watchdogs, all those good things."

But Honigman's effort fell apart when his proposed rule change was amended into oblivion last week while his attention was diverted on the Senate floor.

The rule is that the press corps must stay off the Senate floor, except to exit, while the body is in session and for five minutes afterward. Reporters may not talk to senators during session unless they leave the chamber.

Reporters sit in something resembling a jury box. They may not talk to senators from the box, even if senators approach them — as Honigman, R-West Bloomfield, frequently does. Sergeants-at-arms quietly but firmly enforce the rule.

Honigman sought to eliminate the rule, in effect giving reporters access to the floor, just like at a political convention. He ran into trouble in the Government Operations Committee.

■ 'I wanted to let you guys roam the floor.'
Sen. David Honigman
R-West Bloomfield

"They weakened it to let us talk to you," said Honigman. That was still an improvement, from the press corps' point of view. A senator would be able to walk up to the press box and conduct a whispered conversation as long as it didn't disturb Senate decorum.

The committee also would have eliminated the rule keeping reporters off the floor for five minutes following a session.

The rules change went to the full Senate May 14.

Honigman, like many senators, takes phone calls while on the Senate floor during session. He recalls being on the phone, perhaps discussing his congressional campaign, when Sen. Joe Conroy, D-Flint, offered an amendment gutting Honigman's rule. Conroy eliminated the section allowing senators to talk to reporters in the press box.

An embarrassed Honigman apologized to the press corps.

A supporter, Sen. Michael Bouchard, R-Birmingham, formally protested adoption of Conroy's version. "I don't think it would add huge disruption to allow a quiet conversation with those in the (press) box," he said.

Footnote: Lobbyists still are strictly prohibited from access to the floor or the hallway behind the Senate rostrum.

Improper remarks by prosecutor prompts new trial

STAFF WRITER

Dean Quinn will get a new trial for hammering another driver because an Oakland County prosecutor made improper remarks to a jury.

The state Court of Appeals said assistant prosecutor James J. Halushka "went beyond vigorous advocacy, inflaming the prejudices of the jury" and denying Quinn a fair trial.

Quinn, of Pontiac, was 21 in 1989 when Circuit Judge John O'Brien sentenced him to two to 12 years in prison for felonious assault and being a third-time habitual offender.

Appeals judges Joseph B. Sullivan, Myron Wahls and John Fitzgerald reversed the convictions and ordered a new trial.

"He's probably served his time by now," said Michael Modelski of the prosecutor's appeals division. "But our policy is to re-try. Even if he doesn't serve any more time, there collateral consequences. If he's convicted of something else later, he wouild be charged as fourth-time habitual and get a longer sentence with no 'good time'."

Quinn, after drinking half a fifth of vodka and sharing five or six joints of marijuana, was driving home April 16, 1989, when he got into a shouting match with another driver, George Grba, a physically imposing man on his way to a UAW function.

After they emerged from their cars at Baldwin and Montcalm, Quinn used a hammer to hit Grba two or three times in the head and neck area, drawing a lot of blood, witnesses said.

Halushka, addressing the jury in rebuttal where the defense lawyer had no chance to reply, said:

"Let's look at the defendant's (Quinn's) personal credibility. . . Now, character isn't alone enough to convict somebody, but it's something to consider. . .The defendant admitted on cross-examination that he thinks nothing of drinking and driving although he knows it's against the law. Not proof positive of anything, but we know he'll break the law when it suits his purpose.

"He smokes marijuana. He's admitted that he's tried cocaine. Again, it doesn't prove anything in itself, but it tells us a little bit about his characer. He'll break the law when it suits his purpose."

Michigan's second highest court said Halushka's remarks deprived Quinn of a fair trial because:

"It is not improper for the prosecutor to comment on the defendant's character when his character is not at issue.

"The prosecutor in this case constructed a grossly improper closing argument out of improper but unobjected-to cross-AM examination. . .

"It suggests that the jury may convict a person because of his character rather than because of specific conduct. It invokes likely prejudices of the jurors regarded drunken driving and drug use when defendant was charged with a crime unrelated to those transgressions."

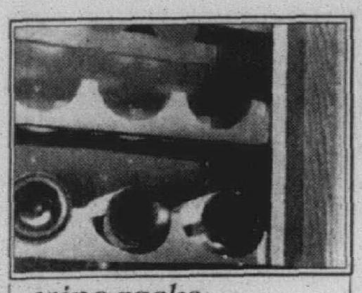

Quinn's appeal was argued by the state appellate defender's office. Students at the University of Detroit law school also worked on the appeal brief.

State debate: Who controls area water, sewage plants?

BY TIM RICHARD
STAFF WRITER

Regional control of southeastern Michigan's water and sewerage system will be a campaign issue if not a state law in 1992.

"It's unnecessary, contrary to democratic theory, overturns legal agreements and unjust because it expropriates Detroit's property," objected a Detroit official.

"It's an affront to Detroit, a home-rule city, and its people," added Dave Fisher, deputy director of the Detroit Water & Sewerage Department, which sells its services to more than 100 municipal neighbors in five counties.

But Bob Fredericks, deputy Oakland County drain commissioner, scoffed at the idea that Detroit "owns the system."

"These are public assets," Fredericks said of the water plants and sewage treatment plant. "There aren't any (Detroit) taxpayers funds in it. The customers put the money in. There is no Detroit equity in the system."

The exchange occurred Tuesday before state Sen. David Honigman's Local Government Committee.

Detroit officials blistered "politicians who harangue us" — a reference to Honigman's congressional candidacy.

Honigman, R-West Bloomfield, sponsored Senate Bill 936 requiring a multi-county assembly to elect members of two boards — nine members to a water board, seven to a sewerage board.

"Really, in fact, Detroit controls the rates for the system," said Honigman, who sponsored the bill at the request of Oakland Drain Commissioner George Kuhn.

Honigman's bill was discussed a week too late to be voted on by the full Senate prior to its mid-June break. So he will try an unusual step — a "friendly discharge." In an unfriendly discharge, supporters of a bill seek to force it out of an unfriendly committee. But in this case, Honigman is seeking to bypass a calendar rule.

Kuhn's 20-year battle with Detroit went over much familiar ground:

- Detroit Mayor Coleman Young appoints not only Detroit's four board members but three suburban members, too — and can fire them at will, though he has done it only once.
- Detroit denies information on whether suburban rates are high in order to subsidize bill-dodging by Detroit residents. The city also refuses to yield a copy of a contract with Detroit Edison Co. raising its the price of electricity it buys 5 percent.
- Detroit loads ever-increasing general government costs into the water budget — $831,000 for the mayor's office, $760,000 for the council, $200,000 for the city clerk, Fredericks said.
- Detroit issues 68 percent of its contracts without competitive bidding. "It's your own auditor who reported this," Honigman told Fisher.

But Detroit got support from one suburbanite — John Lamerato of Madison Heights. He called the Kuhn-Fredericks presentation "misinformation."

Lamerato has been on the Detroit water board 20 years and retired in 1989 as director of Southeastern Oakland Water Authority, which buys water from Detroit for distribution in Southfield, Birmingham and Royal Oak.

"There's no secret how the rate is set. If Oakland County has a problem, they should go to their representative," Lamerato said.

Asked Honigman: "Why isn't it fair to let others control the system?"

Answered Lamerato: "Detroit took the risk (of running a pipe to Lake Huron). It's their system."

Panel: Whose freedom comes first?

BY JUDITH DONER BERNE
STAFF WRITER

A First Amendment issue drew an audience of about 300 to The Community House in Birmingham recently where an impressive panel of jurists and journalists basically agreed to disagree.

The issue: the individual's right to privacy vs. the public right to know.

"If you want a truly free and uninhibited press, you're going to get some mistaken barking," led off Carl Stern, NBC national correspondent and twin brother of George Stern of Bloomfield Township.

But even NBC's Stern disagreed with press actions that forced Arthur Ashe to disclose that he has AIDS and the naming of alleged rape victims, such as in the William Kennedy Smith case.

"I do not defend the excesses," Stern said, "but I sorely doubt whether a kinder, gentler press is a good alternative."

Press freedom backed

He defended publishing the Ashe story, saying that when stories were written about Ashe's previous health problems, "there was no question of him being a public figure."

He saw it as the press's duty, but added: "Nobody feels very good about this."

Oakland Circuit Judge Hilda Gage addressed First Amendment Rights as they pertain to the judiciary. "When you go into office, you give up a lot of First Amendment rights," she said.

Former Michigan Supreme Court Justice Dennis Archer suggested that journalists be subject to a licensing board, which includes a disciplinary system to investigate when ethics violations or invasion of privacy questions are raised.

Bray strongly disagreed. "I think the press shows that we are part of the community. I don't think we need a licensing board, there are already mechanisms through the legal process."

"Don't personal disclosures detract from the real issues?" came a question from the audience.

Stern was on one side: "What's a real issue if not the character of the candidate. There's no way to separate these things."

"Then you end up with a Supreme Court candidate with no life experiences at all," Gage returned. "I think we're coming into new times. There's never been such flyspecking. We'll see what we get."

Added Archer: "If someone is an alcoholic, those things become relevant. But you are seeing outstanding men and women who are hesitant to enter into public service."

Jurors' privacy

Another issue raised from the audience was the privacy of jurors.

Gage said the court and the media have generally cooperated in keeping the names of jurors secret and leaving it up to the jurors whether they wish to go public.

"We have to be exceedingly protective of our juries," Archer seconded. Otherwise, our system of justice would break down."

Response was positive to this first public issues forum by The Community House with most of those interviewed favoring privacy over the public's right to know.

"I thought it was an excellent forum," said Beverly Knight, a Birmingham resident. "I'm kind of saddened by the media's insistence that we're really interested in whether they (public office seekers) smoked grass when they were 15 as opposed to their stance on substantive issues."

I USE CLASSIFIED
When my company transferred me and my family overseas, I was excited and sad at the same time. I had to sell my pride and joy—my TR7.
I knew I had to find someone who would take good care of it.
Where did I turn? The Observer & Eccentric Classifieds, of course. Within a short time my car had found a new home.

It comes with two doors and a rush.

Other standard equipment includes a 1.9-liter, 16-valve DOHC multiport fuel-injected engine that delivers 124 HP— all for only $11,875.* (Note: Adrenal gland kicks in at 5,600 RPM.)

AROUND PLYMOUTH

It's a parade!

The Plymouth-Canton Jaycees are looking for organizations interested in parading through town on the Fourth of July.

If your organization has not already been contacted, and you want to strut your stuff, call Scott Kappler at 464-4500.

New legislation

State Rep. James Kosteva, D-Canton, has introduced legislation to independently monitor services provided by the state's community mental health board.

Kosteva proposes to confiscate 1 percent of the board's budget and use the money to create a watchdog outfit under the civil rights department to monitor mental health services in Michigan.

He said the mental health board monitors itself, which is "sort of like the fox guarding the chicken coop."

Whose baby is it?

The Washtenaw County Sheriff's Department wants to know who abandoned a baby behind St. Ursula Catholic Church in Ypsilanti last Saturday.

Deputies dispatched to the scene found the white infant, with its umbilical cord still attached, dressed in pink baby clothes. The baby was taken to Beyer Hospital, where it was found to be in good health.

Anyone with information about the baby's mother is asked to call Detective Sgt. Dan Minzey or Detective Dieter Heren at 971-3911.

Lawn mowers wanted

Making a go: Despite some setbacks, Jack Sweeney is trying to drum up business for his limousine and sedan service.

BY KEVIN BROWN
STAFF WRITER

If the recession wasn't enough, fate has posed a few other hurdles for Jack Sweeney.

The Plymouth Township man, who operates Sweeney's Limousine & Sedan Service, developed Bell's Palsy after an ear infection in 1977.

The condition affects a facial nerve; he also has a speech impediment as Sweeney had a cleft palette at birth.

Still, he's in good spirits and is working to make a go of his limousine service, which began with offering rides to Metro Airport travelers.

"The recession has hurt that industry quite a bit," he said, from his home in the Plymouth Hills mobile home subdivision.

"The help that I need is from the community," said Sweeny, who is trying to drum up business.

He owns a dark blue Cadillac sedan and a white Cadillac stretch limo. "I do weddings with the limousine," Sweeney said.

"I'm also looking for corporate companies who need people picked up from the airport."

Sweeney avoided another potential setback a few weeks ago when a tornado touched down in the mobile home park not far from his home, but spared his home and cars.

"I've always liked driving, I know the Detroit area very well," said the northwest Detroit native.

Also, Sweeney's grandfather was one of the founders of the Checker Cab Co. and his father ran a cab business.

"I guess it's in my blood," Sweeney said.

Of the job, he said, "I enjoy talking with people, I enjoy that atmosphere.

"I'm a careful driver and I don't drink and I don't do drugs," he added.

Sweeney's business card states that his service is also available for proms, those attending concerts, or for others needing chauffeur services.

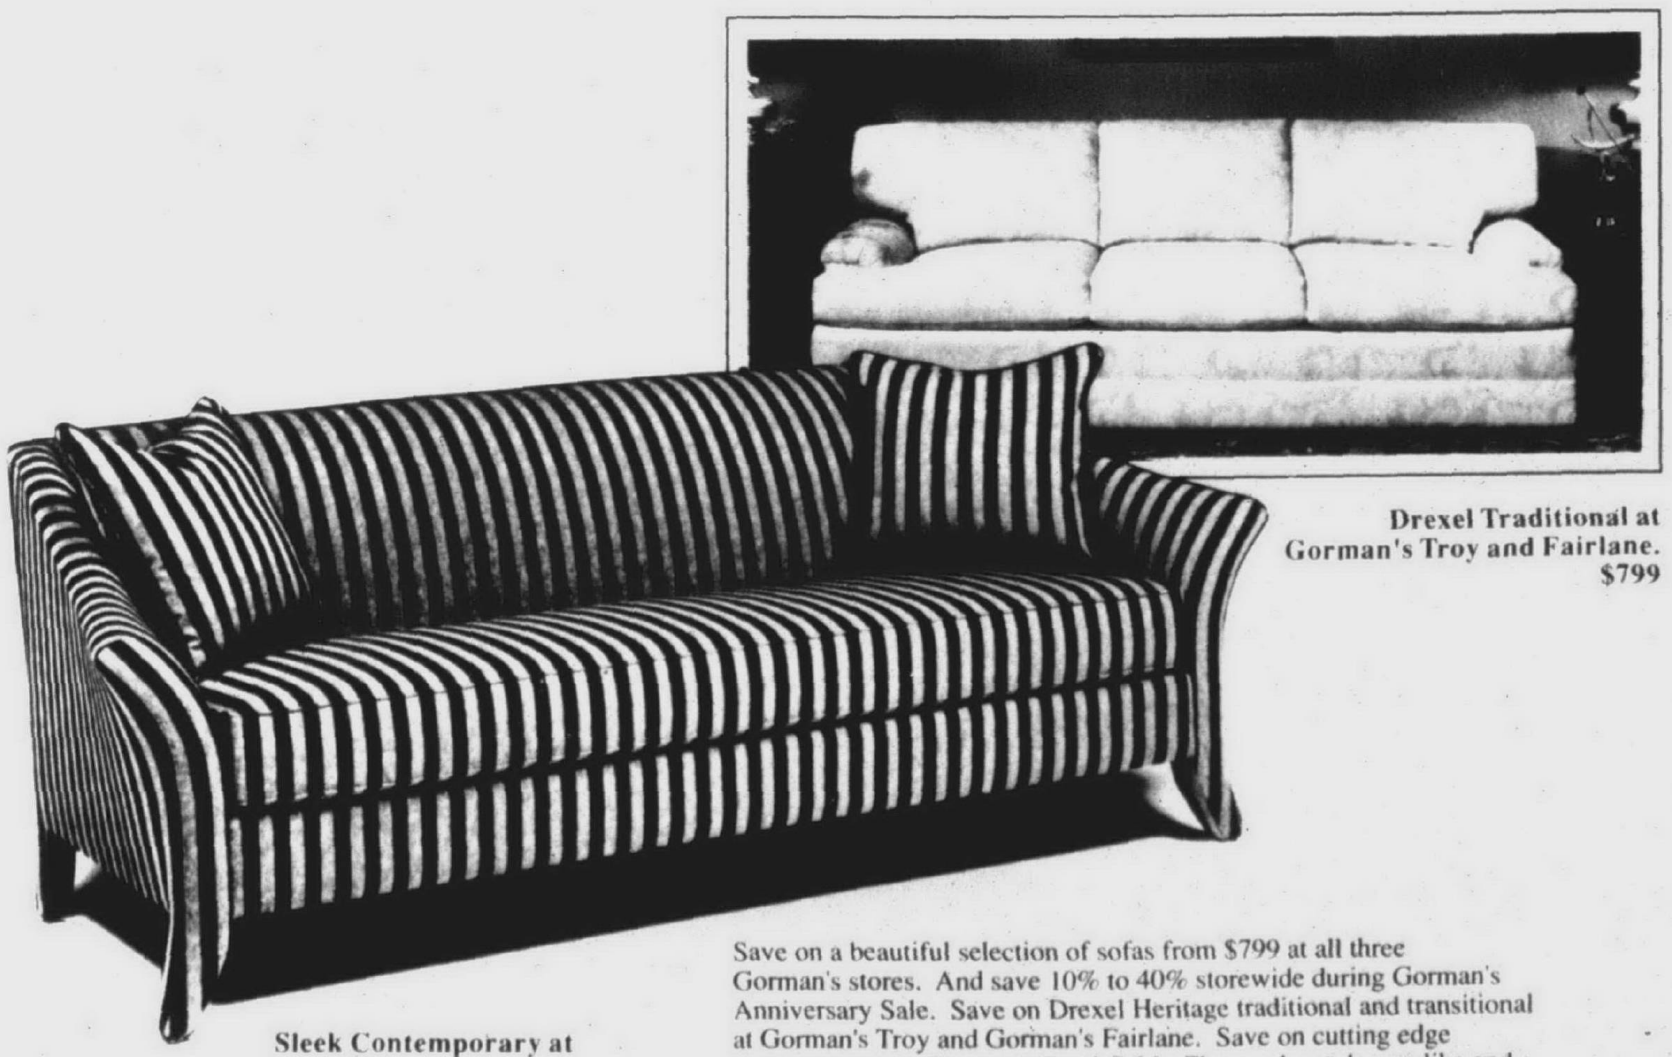

Sweeny said he sometimes has to overcome people's perceptions of a handicapped individual.

"There's a lot of companies that because people are handicapped, they do discriminate," he said.

Recognize America's Living Landmarks

From the towering 275-foot Giant Sequoia in California's Sequoia National Park to the relatively diminutive 20-foot Allegheny Plum in Virginia's Blue Ridge Mountains, America's living landmarks are an invaluable part of our nation's natural heritage.

That's why the American Forestry Association began The National Register of Big Trees in 1940. Today, as then, we encourage citizens across the country to find and recognize the largest tree of each species. With your help and participation, we can locate and protect these champions for future generations while fostering a deeper appreciation for trees and forests everywhere.

EMILY's List: A-list for female Dems

BY WAYNE PEAL
STAFF WRITER

EMILY's List is the list to be on if you're female, Democratic and a 1992 Congressional candidate.

"What we're doing is establishing a national fund-raising base for female candidates," founder and director Ellen Malcolm said. "Before, women candidates just didn't have the money."

Malcolm was in town recently to build that base, raising an estimated $50,000 during two fund-raisers at private Oakland County residences.

Already, 1992 has been tabbed as the year of women in politics and event attendees couldn't agree more.

"I've been on the ticket committee for a lot of events, and I've never seen tickets move this fast for anything," said Zina Kramer, host to a $1,000 per person EMILY's List event at her Bloomfield Township home.

Another event, at the Bingham Farms home of David and Doreen Hermelin, drew an estimated 400 people.

"Women are becoming active," said Judith Slotkin of Bloomfield Hills, who helped organize that event. "One of the nicest things was to see women of all ages at the events."

■ 'What we're doing is establishing a national fund-raising base for female candidates.'

Ellen Malcolm
EMILY's List founder and director

Slotkin, a self-described "forty-something," ties her own activism to last year's confirmation hearings for U.S. Supreme Court Justice Clarence Thomas.

"To see all those men up there questioning Anita Hill like that shows just how few women we have in government," she said.

No Michigan candidates can expect to receive EMILY's List money this year, Malcolm said, though Sen. Lana Pollack received support in her 1988 bid against Carl Pursell, R-Plymouth.

"When we supported Lana Pollack, there were contributions from Ohio, New Jersey and other states," Malcolm said. "Now, we're asking Michigan women to support candidates in other states."

That doesn't bother Slotkin, a self-described newcomer to big time political fund-raising.

"In order to effect change, you have to start where you can," she said. "Eventually, the money will filter down to local races."

Slotkin, Kramer and other politically active women have begun meeting to form a fund-raising mechanism of their own.

EMILY's List has been around for about a decade, though gained its greatest publicity with this year's upset win by Pennsylvania U.S. Senate nominee Lynn Yeakel.

EMILY — Early Money Is Like Yeast — had earlier been essential to the success of Texas Gov. Ann Richards, Maryland Sen. Barbara Mikulski and other liberal female candidates.

Like yeast, the number of eligible candidates is growing.

"We had six House contenders in 1990, there (are) five times that many this year," Malcolm said.

So are rivals. Glenda Greenwald, former publisher of Michigan Woman, recently formed the WISH List — Women in the Senate and House — a similar organization that backs female Republicans, after consulting with Malcolm.

While family and reproductive issues are a major part of the 1992 campaign, EMILY's List is primarily involved in getting female candidates elected.

A millionaire IBM heiress, Malcom first served as a volunteer for the consumer advocacy group Coommon Cause and directed media relations for the national Women's Polticial Caucus.

Before creating EMILY's List, the 45-year-old Washington, D.C. resident set up the Windom Fund, anonymously backing candidates with her own money.

The goal is to place as much money as possible, as early as possible, into a candidate's campaign, Malcolm said.

GROUP MEETING – WHAT THEY DO

Often the best advice for living with rheumatoid arthritis comes from others with arthritis.

It is with this experience in mind that doctors' offices provide patients with rheumatoid arthritis a monthly group meeting.

One benefit of such a group is to exchange ideas on ways to avoid joint wear and tear, or inform others of stores where you can buy practical shoes at a reasonable price.

A second benefit comes from group discussion on tension associated with arthritis, and how to combat anger and overcome the fatigue, upset and anger that follows in tension's wake. Often you feel better knowing that others face the same difficult emotions shadowing you, and have similar difficulties as you in resolving their feelings.

A third benefit of group meetings is their effect on people without arthritis. With good reason, participants require you to come accompanied by someone closely tied to your life and care. Often the person invited to look in, gains the most from the meeting. Discussion within the group bring out the pain and stress others feel that parallels what your guest sees occurring to you. The result is that skepticism by that guest that you are "really ill," ends.

In sum, group meetings give assurance that while you are different, you are not alone.

All about Indians

JIM JAGDFELD/STAFF PHOTOGRAPHER

Native art: American Indian enthusiast Edward Fuller spoke last week to students at Grandview Elementary in the Clarenceville School District about Native American heritage. Fuller fascinated students with a blow gun demonstration, with art and artifacts, samples of clothing and musical instruments. Much of his discussion was about how Indians make crafts, such as weaving and dying scarves. He explained that red dyes come from the blood root and that blue comes from the wild grape.

School millage

No vote urged on June 8 proposal

We're tired of our children being held hostage by a callous school administration, lackluster board members and greedy teachers.

That's why we're recommending voters reject the 1.5 mill proposal on the June 8 school ballot. It's not that we oppose education, it's just that school spending needs to get back on track. To do that, voters need a club to get the attention of all those involved in education in the Plymouth Canton schools.

There's also the state factor. Legislators seem to change their minds weekly, sending local school boards into fits. To us that's another reason to vote no on the millage.

The millage proposal has been mishandled from the beginning by every one in the schools who has come near it.

The first goof was made by the school board when it didn't decide until the last minute to put the proposal on the ballot. The decision on May 11 has left little time for voters to digest the complex situation of school financing in the district and in the state.

Then there was the teacher rejection of a deferred raise. It sent a message to voters that teachers only saw the school district as a bank vault that could be raided.

But school administrators share the guilt with the teachers. If they had volunteered to take pay freezes or cuts, selling a deferred pay raise to the teachers would have been a much easier task.

The numbers of the teacher pay raises are significant. The teachers will receive a 7-percent increase this fall. That's probably about double what most residents in the Canton and Plymouth area are receiving.

And what makes teachers look more greedy is the package they turned down. The school district offered teachers an extension of the three-year contract, with 5-percent raises over the next two years. It meant delaying 2 percent until the following year.

It's time to send the educational establishment a message: No new taxes for pay raises.

A millage defeat now would be best for the community. It would give the school board time to obtain salary concessions from school administrators and the teachers.

Then in the fall, another millage election may meet with more success.

But for now it's vote no.

School race

Farrow, Graham best for board

Jack Farrow is the best candidate of the crop in the June 8 Plymouth Canton school board election.

Farrow, the father of four, is not only the most realistic of the six candidates, but also, if elected, he would be the only board member with children attending schools in the district.

Six candidates are seeking two board seats.

Although Farrow is a newcomer, he is active in school affairs, attending most board meetings and working on the I Care Committee.

We're endorsing Farrow with no reservations, even though he supports the 1.5-mill tax increase proposal on the ballot. We oppose the proposal. But while supporting the new property tax proposal, Farrow acknowledges that the school board didn't put it on the ballot early enough for a public discussion.

The Plymouth Canton Board of Education and administration have become bogged down of late, complaining about what the state is going to do about education. The energy is wasted.

The state is getting out of the education business. And it's probably a good deal. Farrow starts out of the gate acknowledging the state's move, looking to the future instead of the gravy train past.

He realizes that if Plymouth Canton schools are going to retain their excellent reputation, it's going to have to be through local efforts. And that means local taxes.

But there's more to education than money. Farrow sums it up in the word "commitment." He contends a community needs a strong commitment to education.

He also wants a new superintendent of schools when John Hoben's contract expires at the end of the 1992-1993 school year. We agree.

His ideas on negotiating a contract with the district's teachers are also fresh and much needed. He wants to get rid of the us versus them mentality that hangs in the air. He sees union contracts as an alliance, not as a chance to "get as much from the other party" as you can affair.

Endorsing a second candidate is a problem. E.J McClendon, an incumbent, has accomplished much in his years on the school board, but we're opting to endorse Barbara Graham, an incumbent, with some reservations.

Graham seems suspicious of the teaching of sex education and AIDS in the schools. Such programs belong in schools. Graham thinks there is a link between the teaching of sex education and an increase in teen pregnancy. We wonder what the rate would have been without such courses.

But on to the bright side. Graham has been a forceful voice on the school board, questioning an administration that at best seems reluctant to explain programs and changes to the public.

Such questioning by Graham has helped the public understand the often complex education and financial issues facing the district. Such a voice should be retained on the board.

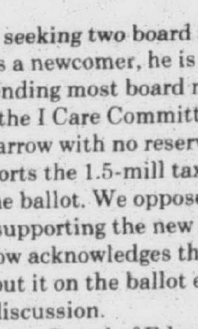

After interviewing the candidates and examining their responses to our written questionnaire on school issues, we recommend Farrow and Graham for the Plymouth Canton school board on June 8.

Oops, no signs

I am embarrassed and chagrined that my School Board Campaign Committee and I did not understand that there was an agreement among the candidates not to use yard signs. I was told by a citizen that no signs were to be used, but I understood he was speaking of some "I Care" activity. Had I known, I would have strongly supported the "no signs" idea.

Four years ago, I spent nothing on the campaign and came in second. I am strongly opposed to trying to buy a school election and will certainly spend less than $1,000. My committee discussed at length yard signs versus a campaign flier and decided signs were more feasible. Yesterday, I learned of the agreement and it is now too late to prepare a brochure and distribute it.

I must publicly apologize to the other candidates and the community for using the signs, but at this date we really feel we have no choice. My committee would much prefer this had never happened. We will seek to avoid violating any sign ordinance and will try to keep them on private property with the property owner's permission to the best of our ability.

Feeling the pinch equally

Many people have been asking recently why the school board seems to be so obviously mishandling the proposed millage ballot question.

Could it be that the board is deliberately acting in a manner calculated to defeat the millage, so that they can come back next year and say, "See, we told you we needed the money," and then ask for twice or three times as much?

I have never opposed a school millage increase; and I strongly advocate spending tax dollars for the education of our children. However, if the people in charge of administering those funds are not responsible enough to fully utilize the buidings and other resources they have, then I'm not very inclined to give them more money.

For the school board to blame this problem on the teachers is extremely unfair, when the superintendent is paid over $100,000.00 and makes no effort to reduce his pay, but asks those further down the scale to reduce their pay.

The current economic situation calls for "belt-tightening." Let's have everyone feel the pinch equally.

Police role needs challenging

Truth finally prevails.

Many Americans are deceived into believing that police departments are instituted to protect them. A look at various municipal budgets demonstrate that surburbanites are willing to pay big bucks for that protection.

But the honorable U.S. District Judge Nancy Edmunds has jerked our security chains good and hard. Ruling in the now legendary July 4 video romp civil rights case wherein Farmington Hills' resident Joanne Was, among others, was beaten, Judge Edmunds said that, constitutionally, the government isn't obligated to protect the public from crime.

While admitting that the failure to protect Was could very well be negligence on the part of good government, it is not a constitutional violation.

This ruling is tantamount to a 5-year-old's parents admitting to a naive youth that Santa Claus and the Easter Bunny are simple fictions, fabricated to amuse the parents and give the child a false sense of security.

This past year has been tough on those who believe in the infallibility of the law and order credo. From the scenes of government agents beating Rodney King senseless to a police department which was unable to protect families celebrating this country's independence, police agencies have taken a load of criticism.

But Judge Edmunds' decision gives us reason to pause and re-evaluate the role of law enforcement in America. Her ruling is extremely significant.

Edmunds is perfectly correct.

Police departments are instituted to protect the established order and property. If any person, no matter how well-intentioned, violates either, they are at risk of experiencing the sting of the nightstick, the force of the fire hose, the bite of the dog and even the fatal concussion of the bullet.

Police work is serious business.

Just ask the millions who have challenged the establishment over the years, from abolitionists and suffragettes, to civil rights advocates and anti-Vietnam War protesters, from environmentalists to the activists on both sides of the abortion issue today.

All, and more, have experienced the lash of law enforcement at one time or another.

STEVE BARNABY

Police in America never join in supporting the throngs in the streets. Never do you see them rushing into the corporate boardroom to bash some executive in the head.

America is schizophrenic about the role of law enforcement.

Many who cheered the protesters in Tiananmen Square in their efforts to rally the police and military to their side, are the same ones who would be mortified if our police and military joined street protesters.

A more basic example is that of the local traffic enforcement officer. Many taxpayers are under the illusion that police officers give out tickets to protect other motorists from speeding drivers. In fact, they do it to raise money for the district court system which would be bankrupt without the funds raised from such revenue enhancement.

If they really wanted to slow down traffic, they would ride up and down the expressway instead of hiding behind bridge abutments.

The vital lesson of the Edmunds decision is that if we want a law enforcement system which protects us from criminals, street or white collar, we must change the rules under which police operate in America. Otherwise we are just kidding ourselves and throwing away a lot of local tax dollars to boot.

POINTS OF VIEW

Lack of empathy widens gulf between races

It is impossible for me to empathize with the incredible ordeal being endured by the parents of Deanna Seifert, the girl abducted while sleeping over at a friend's house. With a daughter of my own approximately the same age as this young lady, I can sympathize with what they must be feeling.

I can imagine what it would be like to have worry for my child constantly gnawing at my insides, fear for her well being a constant hammering in my head, rage toward the person responsible causing a slow burn in my heart. I can imagine loss when I think of my child's warm smile, bright eyes and sense of comfort she gives.

I can sympathize with the parents's loss, but I cannot empathize. I cannot feel their pain.

It is impossible for me to sympathize with the four black men arrested for the savage LA beating of truck driver Reginald Denny. Two wrongs don't make a right, so the saying goes, and to me it was appalling and ridiculous to hear middled-aged black women on TV spouting inane statements like: "Why should our boys be charged for beating Denny when nothing was done to the po-lice who beat King?"

It is impossible for me to sympathize with these individuals, yet I can empathize. I have felt the crawl of fear that being the only black man in an area of white people brings. I've withstood blows from an outraged macho group of white cops intent on keeping me in my subservient place. My ears have been assaulted since the age of six by the hated six letter N word. I've known the shame of exclusion due to the color of my skin. I can empathize with the rage, but cannot sympathize, will not condone it. The outrage perpetuated against Denny and other passersby in LA is just as wrong as the outrage committed against the health and happiness of the Seifert family.

JEFFREY MILLER

I watched in awe as the 3 a.m. kidnapping of this 10-year-old girl grew first into a media circus, then became a focused, united effort to find the abducted child. Hundreds of volunteers, mostly white, searched every conceivable location. Missing posters sprang up in countless numbers. Thousands of dollars in reward money became available. Candle light vigils and church services were held to keep the flame of hope alive that Deanna Seifert would be found unhurt.

I watched in awe as the King verdict aftermath resulted in massive destruction of property, tremendous loss of life. I watched the wilding behavior of what seemed like thousands of mostly black individuals as they ran amok, looting and beating and burning. I watched as the President toured the area in pristine splendor and listened as political leaders and civil rights activists called for massive aid, financial help for the bleeding city, relief from poverty and despair.

As I watched the dramas of the kidnapped young lady and the lost hope of a generation unfold, I was struck by a sense of wonder that hundreds of individuals in the white community would mobilize a small army to find one little girl, while hundreds in the black community would wait for someone else to mobilize them, and it was then I understood the racial gulf.

Sympathy and empathy. Blacks say "Empathize with me. Feel my pain." Whites said "I sympathize, I see your problem, but I can't feel it."

I sympathize with the Seifert parents; however, that's not enough. If I cannot empathize with them, if I cannot share their pain, how can I expect them to feel mine?

Guv 'not committed' to improving education

Question: Because of Governor Engler's "Robin Hood" act, I am being laid off, even with my five years teaching experience. I am bitter! I have always voted for school taxes in the community I live in, both when I was home raising children for 10 years and since I have been teaching. Now the tax money I vote in as a citizen in my community where I teach is being given to other school districts while I sit home. Are there other spin-offs as bad as mine?

Answer: For those who are not aware, the Robin Hood Act takes money away from the wealthy school districts and reallocates the money to the poorer districts by cutting out the state's share of payments for categorical items.

This move reaches the highest level of legislative hypocrisy. Democrat and Republican Legislatures have gone on record as desiring to cut property taxes. What they have accomplished is shifting the school tax responsibility to the more financially sound school districts who now must seek tax increases to maintain their present educational programs.

You ask if there are any other spin-off as bad as your situation. The answer is an unqualified "yes." School tax vote increases will be much more difficult to achieve in poorer districts as always, but severely difficult in the "out of formula" district where money will be used to support not as affluent districts.

In Northville (my community) the last time a school millage vote was rejected was in 1979. Last week, in my own precinct there were 800 "no" votes and 200 "yes" votes. The vote went down 3-1.

Why? Many professional people I've known for years have not had a raise in two or three years . . . bonuses . . . are you kidding?

DOC DOYLE

■ School tax vote increases will be much more difficult to achieve in poorer districts as always, but severely difficult in the "out of formula" district where money will be used to support not as affluent districts.

Why? General Motors and "others" are downsizing from blue collar through management. My neighbor was recently laid off at General Motors at age 49, lost his home and is in tears. His commments about possibly losing football is I don't give a damn, I don't have a job.

The state is not recognizing its responsibility and, frankly, some teacher unions are not in touch with economic reality. The M.E.A., of which I was a very active member being part of the initial group that fought for teacher bargaining rights in the early '60s, has done a masterful job in improving the lot of educators. Both teachers and administrators have moved from poverty where I started to a decent wage.

However, in today's market, if a local teacher's union believes citizens are going to support seven percent and eight percent raises, their leadership may need a trip to fantasy island. These are different times.

Other impacts in an "out of formula" district I envision, if millages go down, include: massive teacher layoffs, which translate into huge increases in class size — probably 32 average in the elementary and 35 average in the secondary level as they were in the '50s, elimination of art, music and physical education in the elementary, pay for play athletic participation, no field trips, no para-professional help. It's pure doom and gloom, but a strong reality.

We desperately need some visionary leadership to address the situation. This piecemeal approach via the Robin Hood Act appears to be only one step by Engler to "gut" education to meet his major goal — balance the budget.

He is consistent and he is driven towards that goal. But, please John, please don't speak about any commitment to education.

ROLL CALL REPORT

House Dems approve keeping subs afloat

Here's how Observer & Eccentric-area lawmakers were recorded on major roll call votes in the week ending May 8.

HOUSE

Yes to lobbying with government aid: By a vote of 222 for and 196 against, the House enabled recipients of Legal Services Corp. funding to lobby governments when their views are solicited. The amendment was attached to an authorization bill (HR 2039) for the 18-year-old program that provides legal representation for the poor. It derailed an attempt to deny Legal Services funding to those who lobby Congress or state legislatures.

Supporter Howard Berman, D-Calif., said a ban on lobbying would put Legal Service recipients in "shackles."

George Gekas, R-Pa., said Legal Services offices should engage in lawyering, not lobbying.

A yes vote was to allow recipients of federal legal aid to lobby under certain conditions.

Voting no: Rep. Carl Pursell, R-Plymouth, and Rep. William Broomfield, R-Birmingham.

No to spending unobligated defense money: The House passed, 412 for and 2 against, a Democratic bill (HR 4990) returning to the Treasury $5.8 billion appropriated by Congress for this fiscal year but not yet obligated. This came after the House rejected President Bush's alternative "rescission" package.

A key difference is that HR 4990 eliminates only one of two planned Seawolf submarines, while the administration opposes both subs. Built at Groton, Conn., each Seawolf is projected to cost $1.8 billion. Overall, HR 4990 rescinds $4.95 billion in defense spending, $734 million for domestic programs and $124 million earmarked for foreign aid.

A yes vote was to pass the Democratic-drafted rescission bill.

Not voting: William Broomfield.

Dems back Seawolf submarine: By a vote of 150 for and 266 against, the House rejected a rescission bill sent to Capitol Hill by President Bush. Its savings were comparable to those in the competing Democratic-drafted bill (above). But in a clash of priorities, the White House wanted to kill the Seawolf submarine program that the Democratic bill kept alive at the cost of at least $3.6 billion.

A yes vote supported President Bush's reccission plan.

William Ford: Backs sub plan.

Carl Pursell: Backs Bush alternative.

By a vote of 61 for and 38 against, the Senate approved a rescission bill (S 2403) eliminating $8.3 billion appropriated but not yet spent for several defense and space programs.

The measure pulls back $134 million for a proposed space airplane, $1 billion for the B-2 bomber and $1.3 billion for the Strategic Defense Initiative (SDI). But it tempted a veto by retaining $2.4 billion for the Seawolf submarine program that the Pentagon wants to kill.

Supporter Robert Byrd, D-W.Va., said a presidential veto would be "a vote against reducing the federal budget by more than $8.2 billion."

Opponent Richard Shelby, D-Ala., said "I cannot vote for legislation that cuts $1.3 billion from the Strategic Defense Initiative."

A yes vote was to pass the bill.

Yes to Seawolf submarine: By a vote of 46 for and 52 against, the Senate refused to delete nearly $2.4 billion in fiscal 1992 funding for two Seawolf nuclear attack submarines. They are in addition to the first Seawolf under construction at the Electric Boat Co. in Groton, Conn. With the Soviet threat faded, the Pentagon says the Seawolf is no longer essential.

Supporter Dave Durenberger, R-Minn., said "the Seawolf is simply a jobs program for Connecticut, not a project that is needed to enhance our national security."

Majority leader George Mitchell, D-Maine, said "today, over 400 submarines are being operated by 40 nations throughout the world, including Iran, China and North Korea."

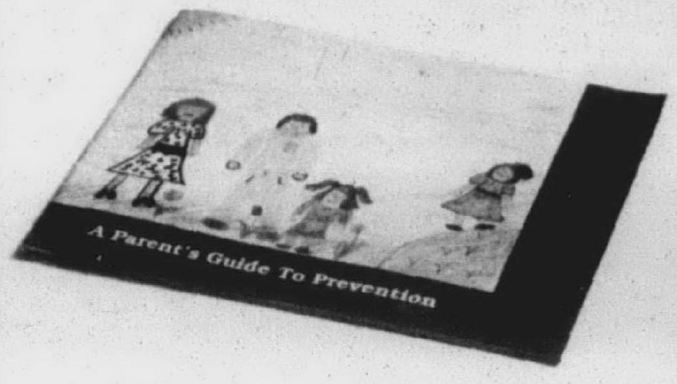

A yes vote was to kill the Seawolf.

Levin and Riegle both voted no.

SPORTS

THURSDAY, MAY 28, 1992

C J. RISAK

Here's an idea not yet on the books but . . .

We are in the midst of one of the most treasured times on the high school sports calendar.

Three times every school year, state tournaments take over. Joy and sadness mix as each progresses, teams tumbling from play while others advance toward that elusive goal of state champion, a label only four in each sport can wear.

But spring brings more than just statewide tourneys in baseball and softball, boys and girls track, girls golf and soccer, boys tennis and lacrosse.

It brings the real world into the realm of prep athletics. It forces kids to understand the ugly truth about American sports:

No money, no games.

Every year, school boards battle with ways to balance their budgets. The paths they take to that goal are always the same — first try to raise taxes and, if that doesn't work, cut something noticeable.

Like sports and drama and anything else they deem "extracurricular," a term which, when applied so indiscriminately, seems to indicate unnecessary.

A solution

I don't want to argue terminology or educational philosophy here. That won't solve anything. Our educators have been bouncing those back and forth for decades and nothing's been solved.

Instead, let's try and find another solution.

I found myself thinking about just this last weekend in the unlikeliest of places: Las Vegas, the domain of heathens.

DON'T TUNE THIS IDEA OUT! Not yet, anyway. Sure, it's a bit extraordinary, but so are the times.

Vegas is the gambling capital of the country. It's also rich. I was in a casino's sports book watching a basketball game, in awe. This is the part of the casino where bets are booked on all sorts of sports, from horse racing to baseball. Dozens of televisions monitor the different events.

The casino I was in was about the size of a Meijers. The sports book section could seat about 1,000 and was equipped with movie-size TV screens.

Creative fund-raising

So why not? Why not bring betting to high school sports?

If you think this outlandish, think again. Have you ever purchased a 50-50 ticket at your kid's basketball game? Or a state lottery ticket? Those are meant to finance a school's sports program and education.

So it really isn't so strange.

Each school could run its own sports book, providing jobs for kids. A certain amount would go to the athletic fund — say 60 percent — with the rest for prize payoffs and administrative costs.

If you're afraid the message of prep sports would get lost in betting on winning and losing, adjust the game. Bet on total score, or spread, or even draw numbers out of a hat.

The point is, it's a way to raise money without having to haggle over it every year with the school board, or face paying some exorbitant amount so your kids can play.

As for ruining the message delivered by prep sports — well, this may not be the best solution, but it's better than killing the messenger.

Chiefs advance to regional final

■ Plymouth Canton advanced to the Class A regional final with a 2-0 win over Dearborn Wednesday. Next up for the Chiefs: a third meeting with Livonia Stevenson.

BY C.J. RISAK
STAFF WRITER

What had to be done was done.

Which means that, however they managed it, Plymouth Canton's Chiefs — the state's top-ranked soccer team — reached Friday's regional final.

Their season continues, which is more than all but eight Class A teams can claim. That's the good news.

There's other news that isn't so good. Canton advanced by beating a mediocre Dearborn team 2-0 Wednesday at Canton, with what could best be termed an uninspired effort for most of the match.

"We get in a bad habit of playing to the level of the other team," said coach Don Smith, whose team — whatever its faults — remains unbeaten at 16-0-2. "We don't have that real intensity. We haven't the last few games."

It showed in the first half against Dearborn in particular. The Pioneers were no powerhouse; they play in the Northwest Suburban League, which can't match the Western Lakes Activities Association for quality of play. And they didn't dominate that circuit, either, losing twice during the regular season to champ Woodhaven before beating the Warriors in the districts.

And yet, Dearborn played Canton evenly in the first half. Not that the Pioneers threatened; fact is, neither team had many scoring chances.

Until the final five minutes. A foul against Dearborn for knocking down a Canton player — a call many Pioneers openly questioned after the game — resulted in a restart just outside the penalty area.

Although not happy with his team's first-half performance, Smith said nothing special at the break to get them going. Maybe nothing needed to be said. In the second half, the Chiefs' play was much sharper.

One reason: depth. Dearborn could not match up with Canton's starters. Smith's substitution pattern of five and six players at a time began to take its toll on the Pioneers.

Noune and Anderson teamed up again 11 minutes into the second half for Canton's second goal. This time it was Noune, who looped a pass from the left side into the middle of the box, 12 yards in front of the net. Anderson fought off a pair of Dearborn defenders for position, then headed the ball to the left corner. Dearborn's Crawford got a hand on it, but couldn't prevent the goal.

BILL BRESLER/STAFF PHOTOGRAPHER

Keeper Jori Welchans had just one difficult save in the half, deflecting a direct kick from Jill Wojewuczki over the net.

Scoring has been Dearborn's problem most of the season — which they concluded with a 9-6-1 mark — according to coach Jodi Nash. Still, she was pleased with her team's performance against the No. 1-ranked Chiefs.

"We had them frustrated throughout the first half," she said. "I think we took them out of their rhythm."

Canton tourney produces local champs

■ SOCCER

Plymouth and Canton teams distinguished themselves by winning five age-group titles Sunday in the 10th Annual Canton Invitational Soccer Tournament.

The Plymouth Kicks, the senior boys team among area winners, garnered the under-15 championship despite having seven new players on their roster at the start of the season.

"It's unusual for a new team to get into the finals of a tournament, but we've done it two times in a row," Kicks coach Paul Kogut said. "Normally, it takes time for a team to gel, but this one has quickly."

The Kicks, most of whom have been together for four years, have played just 14 games and lead the Little Caesars First Division. They were runners-up in the Midland Tournament in early May.

Jeff Knysz of Canton scored the only goal in the final, a 1-0 victory over the Genessee Star. It was one of six Knysz scored in five games.

"Two weeks ago he ran full speed into the goal post and put himself out of the game, so he's a 100-percent kid," Kogut said.

Dan Kogut tallied two tournament goals, and the Kicks got one apiece from Nick Deren, Kevin Hurley and Doug Swatosh.

The team allowed just one goal in its first game and then won its next four by shutout. The Kicks defeated the Sterling Heights Travelers 2-1, Maumee (Ohio) 1-0, Also Premier (Ohio) 2-0 and the Saginaw Heat 5-0.

Dustin Childers and Art Partain regularly share the goalkeeping duties but got help from Dan Schwartz, who played in the semifinal when the others were injured.

Ninety percent of the team members hail from either Plymouth or Canton. The Plymouth players are Partain, Swatosh, Ryan Thomason, Scott Warden and Joe Woochuk; the Canton players: Childers, Mark Garrett, Hurley, Scott Kahanec, Knysz, Kogut, Lance Pellow and Mark Szymanski. Deren and Doug Nash are from Livonia, Schwartz from Northville.

"The players stick together," Kogut said. "I think it's unique, having been around soccer so long, how well they get along and stick up for each other. You usually don't see that in the first year."

In the girls competition, the under-14 premier champion Canton Cosmos provided a glimpse of future Centennial Educational Park teams since all but one of their players live in either Plymouth or Canton.

Spartans sink Mustangs in regional

By BRAD EMONS
STAFF WRITER

Ragen Coyne had room to roam Tuesday, too much as far as the Northville High girls soccer team was concerned.

The All-State midfielder, headed for Notre Dame, scored a hat trick in leading Livonia Stevenson to a 4-1 semifinal win over the Mustangs at Plymouth Canton's regulation-size field.

"She's a dominant player and she had a good game," Northville coach Bobby Paul said. "You put those two things together and you're in trouble."

Stevenson, now 15-5-2 overall, will most likely get a third crack at rival Canton, 15-0-2 overall, No. 1 ranked in Class A, and the Western Lakes Activities Association champs. The next probable matchup is Friday's regional final, 7 p.m. at Centennial Educational Park (Canton's home field).

(Dearborn, a heavy underdog, met Canton in the other semifinal Wednesday.)

The Spartans' only two losses this season have come against the Chiefs, who won both meetings on the road against Stevenson by counts of 3-0 and 2-0.

But with a wider field this time, Stevenson coach Mary Kay Hussey is a bit more optimistic.

"It (the field) certainly helped us today," she said. "It gave us a lot of room to use our skill. It also opens up room in the middle."

Coyne certainly had a field day.

She scored on a direct kick, 18 yards out, tucking a shot into the corner of the Northville net with the game barely two minutes old.

At the 21-minute mark of the first half, Coyne struck again, another unassisted effort on an impressive 40-yard boot.

"Ragen had one of her best games," Hussey said. "She was just phenomenal."

Northville finally got on the board in the final two minutes of play when Krista Howe snuck the ball past Stevenson goaltender Karen Groulx, who had subbed in for the injured Alicia Smith with 17 minutes to play.

It was certainly a different outcome than the previous meeting between the two teams when Stevenson held on for a 2-1 win.

"The last time we were disappointed with our performance," Hussey said. "We felt we didn't play hard enough."

Northville, which bowed out with a better-than-expected 12-5-2 record, simply was no match on this brisk night for the Spartans.

"Stevenson has talent and we played a seasoned team," Paul said. "Today, they were a better team."

So what does Paul expect in the third meeting between Canton and Stevenson?

"After playing both teams recently, and the way Stevenson is playing right now, I'd give Stevenson the edge," said the Northville coach. "It will be a good game between two good teams."

Hussey, meanwhile, breaks down Friday's matchup down into simple terms.

"We have to come out and play hard, and play to win," she said. "That's what it's coming down to at this stage of the season."

"They will form the nucleus of very strong high school teams," Cosmos coach Gary Peltier said. "You're going to see their names a lot.

"They were rec players a few years ago and decided to become serious soccer players. They've played older teams and beaten them. For the last three years, they've been getting ready for high school soccer."

Other local winners were the Canton Wildcats, under-12 girls recreation; Canton Bullets, under-12 boys recreation; Canton Express, under-12 boys premier; and Michigan Wolves, under-11 boys premier.

The Cosmos, who reached the under-12 final two years, were unscored upon in five games, with Canton's Sarah Warnke and Westland's Katy Duncan sharing the role of goalkeeper.

The Saginaw Sidekicks had scored 14 goals in three games before losing to Canton in the semifinals, and the Toledo Pacesetters had tallied 17 until being blanked by the Cosmos in the final. Both games ended 1-0.

Peltier also credited defenders Amber Rabeau, Andrea Sudik, Julie Majewski and Becky O'Brien for the perfect record.

Beth Ostach scored three goals to lead the Cosmos, who defeated Maumee (2-0), Sterling Heights (2-0) and Kalamazoo (4-0) in earlier games.

Becky Vachow had two goals and Kelly West, Carah Best, Beth O'Brien, Jaime Marinos and Kate Gardner one each. Gardner's goal came in the final via an assist by Jenny Parviaines. Other team members are Elizabeth Peltier, Leah Retherford, Kristie Drinkhahn and Lisa Bacynski.

The Michigan Wolves, with a Canton-dominated roster, won the under-14 boys premier championship, prevailing in a shootout over the Chicago Football Club. The Wolves made all five penalty kicks as Taras Seniuch, Andy Makins, Matt Hucal, Matt Simons and Jeff Urbats accounted for the goals.

More than 400 teams applied to the tournament, one of the largest in North America with a record 287 competing this year.

In addition to other sponsors, Henry Ford Hospital stationed it mobile athletic medicine unit at the tournament headquarters, and five staff members provided instruction and on-site assistance in care of athletic injuries.

Kapla sends CC to Tiger Stadium

By Steve Kowalski
Staff Writer

The last time Scott Kapla played at Tiger Stadium he was used primarily as a pinch-hitter.

"I pinch-hit and got a double and I took infield practice — it's pretty exciting just doing that," said Kapla, Redford Catholic Central's ace pitcher. "But I can't wait to pitch there."

Kapla assured himself of that chance Wednesday after pitching CC to a 10-0 five-inning mercy rule victory over Riverview Gabriel Richard in a Catholic League semifinal playoff at Wyandotte Memorial Park.

The win sends the Shamrocks to the Catholic League A-B Division championship game scheduled for 1 p.m. Wednesday at Tiger Stadium. The Shamrocks will play Warren DeLaSalle, which beat Dearborn Divine Child 9-0 in another semifinal Wednesday.

CC (21-3 overall) defeated Harper Woods Notre Dame 19-2 in the Catholic League final two years ago when members of the Shamrocks' varsity included Kapla and current seniors Dan Gusoff, Matt Roney and Brett Walter.

"We feel we deserve to go back, we've had a real good season, and it was our goal to get to Tiger Stadium," Gusoff said. "It's a big thrill to get in and look around the stadium for our whole team, but above all else we've still got to win."

After a scoreless first two innings, CC scored one run in the third and seven in the fourth — despite getting only one hit off Richard's starting and losing pitcher Marc Wisniewski.

The Shamrocks scored an unearned run in the third after Walter walked, went to second on Eric Justice's sacrifice bunt and scored on consecutive errors by Richard's shortstop.

Wisniewski got into trouble on his own in the fourth, walking four of the first five batters he faced before giving up a double to the left-center field fence by Kapla. The double scored Walter, Justice and Pat Casey and gave the Shamrocks a 6-0 lead with one out in the fourth.

Gary Mroz replace Wisniewski on the mound but Richard coach Pat Sieszputowski knew it would be hard battling back against Kapla, who moved his record to 8-1 with the victory.

Richard, which came in second place behind Divine Child during the AA regular season race, fell to 19-6 overall.

CC took an 8-0 lead after four innings and scored two runs in the fifth on an RBI double by pinch-hitter George Charnley and RBI single by Kapla to end the game with the mercy rule.

"Marc is pretty consistent," said Sieszputowski. "He doesn't normally walk a lot of batters (an average of two per game), but today he got rattled and I don't know why. We knew Catholic Central had good hitters, so he threw a lot more curves than normal to try to keep them off-balance. We knew they were a good fast ball hitting team."

Kapla surrendered a hit to Gabriel Richard's second batter in the first inning but retired the next 10 batters before cleanup hitter Brad Affholter stroked a double with two outs in the fourth.

Affholter advanced to third on a passed ball but was stranded after Casey fielded a ground ball to second for the third out.

Kapla, who struck out five batters, including three on a called-second strike, also got help in the field when Justice made a diving stop of a possible double down the third base line to end the third inning.

"I felt strong," said Kapla, who pitched six days earlier in a 7-0 Class predistrict win over Livonia Churchill. "We weren't going to let down. We heard they were pretty strong, and we weren't going to take them lightly."

CC finished with only three hits but coach John Salter was pleased with the way the Shamrocks took advantage of Richard's three errors and six walks. Salter also was satisfied having Kapla throw only five innings to save his arm some for Saturday's Class A district at Southfield High School.

"After the first inning, coach (Al) Moran said this was going to be a one-run game," Salter said.

Roadrunners strike paydirt

With Saturday's Dexter-Ann Arbor Run came a nice pay day for two Redford Roadrunners: Doug Kurtis and Kim Bruce.

On a day Kurtis, a former all-state high school cross country runner and a 1970 graduate of Livonia Stevenson, planned a hard workout instead of a race, he ended up turning it on and pocketing $500 — $300 for second place and $200 for his masters win.

"It went great," said Kurtis, 40, who in recent weeks has run the Cleveland, Pittsburgh and Boston marathons as well as the Old Kent 25K. At Boston, he was the top American finisher. "I really went out there with the idea I was going to do a hard training run."

Kurtis, who finished in 1:07:3, ran in the lead pack with eventual winner Mark Smith, (1:06:54), masters runner Mike Fromant of Great Britain and Don Johns.

"Mark and I left those guys close to 10 miles," Kurtis said. "They dropped pretty quick. I picked up the pace, and Mark went with me. Then Mark picked up the pace at 11, and I couldn't go with him."

"I can't believe how much I hurt the last 600 yards," said Smith, 27 of Ypsilanti. "I honestly wondered if I could pull it in."

Smith's winning time of 1:06:54 was good for $500.

Kim Bruce, who also ran Boston, shocked herself with a third-place finish and a time of 1:21:36 on the course that meanders along the Huron River.

"I don't know what happened," she said. "I never run good on this course. My best time on this course until today was 1:29."

Bruce, edged by winner Ann Boyd of Ann Arbor (1:19:04) and Christine Nichols of Ohio (1:19:50), won $200.

Bruce didn't spend Memorial Day resting on her laurels. Two days after her Dexter run, she won the scenic Grosse Ile five-miler by two minutes in a time of 29:14.

The Dexter-Ann Arbor run — which drew 4,082 runners from 23 states, also included a 10K, and for the first time, a 5K.

NOTHING IMPRESSES AN EMPLOYER LIKE DROPPING OUT OF SCHOOL.
After years of intense study, a lot of college graduates finally learn something. They're not qualified for the job they want.
That's why there's a nationwide program for college students called Cooperative Education. It allows students to alternate studies at the college of their choice with paid, practical work experience in the career of their choice.
To participate, you don't need to fit into any particular socio-economic group. You don't need to be a straight "A" student either. All you really need to be, is smart enough to leave school.

Mercy students get service points

BY CASEY HANS
STAFF WRITER

LaShonda King learned the importance of community service work recently when a special friend died.

The Mercy High School junior and a fellow student were making weekly visits to the McAuley Center — part of the Sisters of Mercy complex in Farmington Hills — as part of the school's community service work which is now a graduation requirement at the school.

"We got personally attached to a couple of the nuns over there and I just had to deal with one dying," said the Mercy student, a Detroit resident. "She was like my good friend."

The experience not only gave her a taste of real life but "it made me stronger," she added.

Mercy's Class of '92 will be the first in the school's history to graduate with community service credit on their transcript this spring. A total of 177 seniors will have completed at least 25 hours of community service when they get their diplomas later this month, and most go far beyond the minimum.

Also, underclasswomen at the private, all-girls school have already put in numerous hours on the program, performed during each student's free time.

The experiences are as varied as the individual students. For example, Andrea Thibodeau of Farmington Hills has traveled to Appalachia to work on building projects, Leslie and Lynette Santiago of Plymouth have done hospital work at Annapolis Hospital, and other work like tutoring and volunteering for the Salvation Army and the American Red Cross has also been logged. Five Mercy students are volunteering to help build a playground at Gill Elementary School in Farmington Hills this spring.

Coordinator of Mercy's Community Action Program and former Mercy mom, Pat Atchinson of Plymouth, said some of the students have continued their efforts, logging between 50 and 200 hours on the effort, which she said has helped increase student self-esteem.

"I love it," said Atchinson, who herself has been a community volunteer at Manna Meals in Detroit for the past seven years. "I feel everyone has to take their turn to lend a hand. There certainly is a need."

The 1991-92 school year is the second year Mercy has done the Community Action Program. Although it was never a graduation requirement, community service work was always a part of Mercy' curriculum through it's religious studies program.

The new program has offered new horizons for a number of students.

Leslie Santiago said her hospital experience has encouraged a medical career. "I decided to go into pediatrics," she said. "It gives you a head start as to what it's like. And when you're volunteering, your're doing it because you want to do it — not because you're being paid.

Her sister Lynette, a junior, said she probably wouldn't have done the community service work if it wasn't required. Regardless, she put in more than 100 hours on the project this year. "I did enjoy it," she added. "It was a way to meet new people."

Mercy students have four years to complete the 25 hours of service work, but Atchinson said 70-80 percent of the students "go way above that — they do a lot and they don't stop." The program also gets parents involved by suggesting students talk with the parents about what projects they wish to do.

Atchinson also keeps a list of agencies and volunteer jobs available for students who are unsure of what they want. She also holds a Service Project Fair each year, where students can meet with 20 different agencies to get information about volunteering there.

Hospital aide files suit after assault

BY TEDD SCHNEIDER
STAFF WRITER

A St. Mary Hospital nurse's aide is suing her employers to force changes in security on the mental health ward.

Rita Biesteck of Dearborn filed a lawsuit May 18 in Wayne Circuit Court over a 1991 assault by a hospital patient.

Hospital administrators declined to comment on the lawsuit.

Biesteck, 56, is asking for damages in excess of $10,000 to compensate for injuries and distress she claims are the result of the incident.

But more important, Biesteck said, would be "for the hospital to realize they have a serious problem."

"If they would make the changes that would make it a safer place for the nurses there, that's what I really want," Biesteck said.

"They seem to think I'm blowing this out of proportion."

The lawsuit charges that Biesteck "suffered multiple, critical and permanent injuries" when she was attacked, apparently at random, by a mental health patient on May 9, 1991.

Biesteck had just reported for the afternoon shift as a nurse's aide when the incident occurred at 3:30 p.m. near the nurse's station.

But Biesteck said the patient — who held a metal bedcrank in one hand and choked her until she passed out — had been threatening staff members on the ward all day long.

"He said he was going to kill a nurse if he couldn't see this certain doctor," Biesteck said.

"Common sense would tell you to be on the lookout, but they (supervisors) couldn't take one minute to tell me about this."

Biesteck said her injuries didn't require hospitalization. A CAT scan proved negative and she was back at work two days later, she said.

After the incident, the hospital offered a class on how to get out of a confrontation and installed an alarm system on the ward.

But Biesteck said more should have been done to guarantee safety for staff members, patients and visitors.

Biesteck has worked at St. Mary for five years. She is currently on a 30-day medical leave not directly related to the incident, she said.

Talented cast in 'Damn Yankees'

Performances of the Birmingham Theatre production of "Damn Yankees" continue through June 21. For ticket information call the box office at 644-3533.

BARBARA MICHALS

Despite the best efforts of an energetic, talented cast, "Damn Yankees" at the Birmingham Theatre still seems a tired, outdated musical.

Shows older than this 1956 Tony Award-winner hold up because of unforgettable songs and/or stories that tell of age-old truths. "Damn Yankees" can claim neither of these.

The Richard Adler-Jerry Ross songs are mostly pedestrian, and the idea of an athlete "selling out" seems pretty ho-hum in today's world. The Yankees, once unbeatable, aren't even worth hating anymore.

Quick to oblige, the devil shows up in the form of the oily Mr. Applegate (Jonathan Beck Reed), who turns Joe into young baseball sensation John Hardy, (Robert Bartley).

Joe quickly regrets having to be separated from his longtime spouse Meg (Laura Kenyon), and eventually he decides that fame and glory are not worth the price. Even the temptress Lola (Charlotte d'Amboise) cannot make him change his mind.

The show's best-known songs are Lola's boastful claim that "Whatever Lola Wants," she gets, and the losing team's attempt to shore up their sagging spirits with a reminder that they've got to have "Heart."

The most amusing lyrics are when the ballplayers sing of their unflagging devotion to "The Game" and when Applegate recounts all the mischief he has caused throughout history and laments, "Those Were the Good Old Days."

Among the principals, d'Amboise is the most polished. She is a pert, sexy Lola with a fine voice and excellent dance skills. Director Ted Pappa's choreography strongly follows the original by Bob Fosse.

In supporting roles, Judith Moore is very funny as Sister, a middle-aged version of a giggly teenaged fan club leader, and Mark Manley's Smokey personifies the rough-hewn veteran ballplayer.

One sure-fine crowd-pleaser is using Ernie Harwell as the voice of the baseball announcer.

There is nothing specifically lacking in this production, but just as the Yankees eventually faded from glory, enabling other teams to come to the forefront of the league, it's time to retire "Damn Yankees" in favor of other old musicals more worthy of revivals.

Barbara Michals has been a theater critic for the last 17 years, she is an inveterate playgoer who regularly catches up on all the New York productions.

Player's Guild to present fairy-tale musical

The Player's Guild of Dearborn, in the face of overwhelming demand, is bringing back for one weekend the popular fairy tale musical "Once Upon a Time," 7:30 p.m. Friday, May 29, 2 p.m. Saturday, May 30, and 2 p.m. Sunday, May 31, at the playhouse, 21730 Madison near Monroe and Outer Drive in Dearborn.

Created and directed by Lisa Andres of Livonia, the play involves a storykeeper who takes three young children and the audience on a whirlwind tour of six poular fairy tales and children's stories — "Hansel and Gretl," "Rumplestiltskin," "Alice and Wonderland," "Goldilocks and the Three Bears," "Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs," and "The Princess Who Never Laughed."

There are about three dozen children involved in the show, including area youth, Brooke and Nicholas Andres, Nicole and Rachel Link, Molly and Mari Susami.

Box office opens 45 minutes before show, admission $3. For advance tickets, call 477-2176.

MOT apprentice joins chorus in upcoming show

Michigan Opera Theatre's production of "Lucia di Lammermoor" opens Saturday, May 30 and continues through June 6 at Masonic Temple in Detroit. For ticket information call the box office at 874-SING or TicketMaster, 645-6666.

MARY JANE DOERR

As the arrogant Pish Tush last fall in Michigan Opera Theatre's elegant production of Gilbert and Sullivan's "The Mikado," Scott Jussila found himself in an enviable position.

With rave reviews, opportunities opened up. The Livonia resident was soon offered an apprenticeship with MOT's sister company, Opera Pacific, in Irvine, Calif. He spent the cold winter Michigan months of January and February in sunny California, as the second Philistine in "Samson and Delilah."

Now the six foot two brown-eyed baritone is serving another apprenticeship with MOT and even though this University of Michigan master's graduate has starred in major roles such as "Don Giovanni" with U-M's opera program, and has studied with some of the country's top vocal coaches, he is thrilled to be singing in the MOT's chorus for "Lucia di Lammermoor."

"I think these three principals are the best young singers in the country in these roles," said the 26 year old Jussila between rehearsals for "Lucia" and "Samson and Delilah" performances.

"As a baritone I can sing Enrico's duet with Lucia, but this is a great opportunity to listen to how Mark Rucker performs it, and see how he paces himself during rehearsals. Rucker is a great baritone that I can look up to."

MOT has cast Metropolitan Opera stars soprano Ruth Ann Swenson and tenor Vinson Cole as the ill-fated lovers, Lucia and Edgardo in Donizetti's bel canto masterpiece "Lucia di Lammermoor." Rucker is the treacherous brother Enrico, the villain whose actions cause the story's tragedy.

Practicing: Scott Jussila gets a private vocal coaching with MOT Chorus Master and Assistant Music Director Suzanne Acton.

Between rehearsals, Jussila grabs a lunch break with "Lucia" soprano Swenson, the rising star who Jussila says will fill the shoes in the coming years of today's superstars. She shares with him what it is like to be an opera star, on the road much of the time, and how she deals with the loneliness.

"Sure there is that down side in this career, but the rewards of using your talent is greater," he said.

Jussila, who was on the dean's list for his high grade point average at U-M and Oakland University where he earned his undergraduate degree (also in music), had the opportunity to attend law school when he made his decision to pursue a musical career.

"I have learned so much about myself in the last few years," he said. "For now I know this is the right thing for me to be doing."

Concerts to benefit Sierra Club

Live at Meadow Brook Theatre on the Oakland University campus in Rochester Hills, "100 Years of Hope," 8 p.m., May 28, 29 and 30. Family matinee, 1 p.m. May 30. Tickets $12.50 adults, $5 children, students and senior citizens, at the door.

STEWART FRANCKE

World Music: Guy Sferlazza and Regina Harrison of Earth and the 21st will perform in three concerts commemorating the Sierra Club centennial, May 28, 29, and 30 at Meadow Brook Theatre.

Guy Louis (real name Sferlazza) and Reggie Harrison are performance artists, although their aesthetic is one of affirmation and continuance, not negation.

Well known, New York based performance artists such as Frank Costello and Karen Finley illuminate the grandeur of human values by embodying characters that are deprived of them. Their message is strident, political and controversial.

Louis and Harrison work differently, under the philosophical heading Earth and the 21st. The group presents multi-media theater involving children's choir and a number of musicians and instruments.

Their significant premise is concerned with the subtle procession of life, and man's relationship with the earth he inhabits. The music could be called a variation on new age, although it is done with more feeling and less pretension than much of the music in that genre.

Earth and the 21st will perform three consecutive nights, Thursday, May 28, Friday, May 29 and Saturday, May 30 at Meadow Brook Theatre on the campus of Oakland University in Rochester Hills. All the proceeds from the performances will benefit the Sierra Club, an environmental organization dedicated to protecting and preserving our natural habitats. Many of Earth and the 21st's musical themes are compatible with the Sierra Club's mission.

A previous Earth and the 21st show was titled "Sea Scenes," with its segments linked thematically by large, universal emotional responses and naturalistic images.

Theater presents children's classic

Hansel and Gretel wander once again through an enchanted woods and stumble on a witch's cottage in the Marquis Theatre of Northville's musical production of Hansel and Gretel, scheduled to run through June 13.

Several local children are in the production, which is co-sponsored by the Cotton Candy Theatre Kids. Performances are at 11 a.m. at 2:30 p.m. Saturdays, June 6 and June 13.

The theatre's production includes some interesting twists. The witch is comic rather than scary and the children's mother returns at the close for a happier ending.

"The children love it," said Inge Zayti, producer and artistic director. "Children do love to see children on stage. And the performers are polished children, with a lot of experience."

Among the local children performing are Kevin and Steven Leonard, 10, Farmington Hills; Janet Patton, 10, Farmington; Serena Rodgers, 11, Farmington Hills; Carla Freshwater, 10, Canton; Christina Price, 10, Plymouth and Laurie Bolovian, 9, Farmington.

Tickets, which are $4, are available at the door or from the Theatre Box Office, 135 E. Main St., Northville. Tickets can be purchased in advance by telephone (349-8110) or through Ticket-Master outlets (645-6666) with a Visa/Mastercard. Please do not bring children under 4.

If you call ahead, the cast will sing Happy Birthday to children in the audience celebrating a birthday.

Woman brings survivor's tale to school

BY CASEY HANS
STAFF WRITER

Aniko Szabo Roth was 7 years old in 1956 when Russians invaded her homeland of Hungary, causing her family to flee.

The Szabos walked 25 miles in bitter cold through swamps and ditches and bombs to escape to Andau, Austria. Along the way, her parents and younger sister were taken away at gunpoint.

She and two siblings escaped, finding Hungarian revolutionaries to help rescue her parents and sister and get everyone across the border. From there, they lived in various refugee camps in Austria and Germany for months before being allowed to emigrate to the United States.

"When you're trying to survive, you just do what you have to do," said Roth, recalling the events which brought her to the United States. "When we escaped, it was in the wintertime. They had marshes and that's how we hid."

Her story is one highlighting the 1956 Hungarian Revolution, the Russian invasion to control it, and the approximately 200,000 people who fled the country for their lives and their freedom. Roth, who said "she never wants to forget" has taken her childhood experiences and is sharing them with her community.

Roth said many of her neighbors were surprised when she talked about her experiences recently at an elementary school — a program she directed representing 16 different cultures.

To prepare for the program, she sewed costumes all summer, took classes to learn various folk ethnic dances, and learned and taught the song "It's a Small World" in different languages for the program's finale.

Although she is fluent in Hungarian and speaks some German, Russian and French, the project was still time-consuming and took her most of a year to put together. Other program highlights in May included students studying various countries and cultures, a parade of flags around the school, and a sampling of food from around the world.

"I have a deep love for my old country, for this country, and for children — that's why I did it. I feel so proud that I have this background and can share it."

In addition to her hard work here, Roth has another claim to fame: she adorned the cover of a January 1957 issue of Life Magazine, where she sat on then Vice President Nixon's lap as he visited her internment camp in Austria. She didn't know who Nixon was then, and didn't even know about the photo until someone pointed it out months later.

Roth is married and has two children, who she said appreciate her culture. "They know that I've been through a lot."

Although Farmington Hills is her home, she has never forgotten the beauty of her native country, where her brother still lives, and wants to eventually go back to visit. That might become more of a reality, as the country continues forming its democratic government.

"In communism, you couldn't trust anybody," she said, recalling the first time her family tried to leave Hungary. A friend who said he would help was actually a member of AVO — the secret police — who planned to turn the family in.

Eventually, they came to the United States, traveling on a naval battleship where the kids spent time playing on the ship's machine guns. With all the coffee and oranges the family ate on the trip over, she still cannot stomach them to this day.

"When we came, we came with nothing. No picture, no anything. We came with what was on our backs. When you escape, you can't carry a suitcase."

The family settled in the Delray section of Detroit, where many Hungarian families immigrated. It was there, as a fourth grader at McMillian Elementary, that a teacher encouraged her to do a Hungarian dance for the school's winter program which became a school tradition.

Roth became a U.S. citizen when she was 18. Raised as a Roman Catholic, she converted to Judaism after marriage. The Roths lived in Southfield before moving to Farmington Hills seven years ago.

THE CHARTER TOWNSHIP OF PLYMOUTH ORDAINS:

SECTION 1. AMENDMENTS TO UNIFORM TRAFFIC CODE.

The following section or subsection are hereby amended and/or added to the Uniform Traffic Code for Cities, Townships and Villages of the Charter Township of Plymouth, being Chapter No. 60. The subsequent section and subsection numbers used in this code shall refer to the like numbered sections and subsections of Chapter 60, the Uniform Traffic Code for Cities, Townships and Villages:

Section 2.5. Reports of Stolen and Recovered Vehicles.

A police agency, upon receiving reliable information that any vehicle registered under this act has been stolen, shall immediately report the theft through the law enforcement information network. Upon receiving information that a vehicle previously reported as stolen has been recovered, the police agency shall immediately report the fact of the recovery through the law enforcement information network.

Section 2.5a. Abandoned Vehicle Procedures.

(1) As used in this section, "abandoned vehicle" means a vehicle which has remained on public property or private property for a period of 48 hours after a police agency or other governmental agency designated by the police agency has affixed a written notice to the vehicle.

(2) If a vehicle has remained on public or private property for a period of time so that it appears to the police agency to be abandoned, the police agency shall do all of the following:

(a) Determine if the vehicle has been reported stolen.

(b) Affix a written notice to the vehicle. The written notice shall contain the following information:

(i) The date and time the notice was affixed.
(ii) The name and address of the police agency taking the action.
(iii) The name and badge number of the police officer affixing the notice.
(iv) The date and time the vehicle may be taken into custody and stored at the owner's expense or scrapped if the vehicle is not removed.
(v) The year, make, and vehicle identification number of the vehicle, if available.

(3) If the vehicle is not removed with 48 hours after the date the notice was affixed, the vehicle is deemed abandoned and the police agency may have the vehicle taken into custody.

(4) A police agency which has a vehicle taken into custody shall do all of the following:

(a) Recheck to determine if the vehicle has been reported stolen.

(b) Within 24 hours after taking the vehicle into custody, enter the vehicle as abandoned into the law enforcement information network.

(c) Within 7 days after taking the vehicle into custody, send to the registered owner and secured party, as shown by the records of the secretary of state, by first-class mail or personal service, notice that the vehicle has been deemed abandoned. The form for the notice shall be furnished by the secretary of state. Each notice form shall contain the following information:

(i) The year, make, and vehicle identification number of the vehicle if available.
(ii) The location from which the vehicle was taken into custody.
(iii) The date on which the vehicle was taken into custody.
(iv) The name and address of the police agency which had the vehicle taken into custody.
(v) The business address of the custodian of the vehicle.
(vi) The procedure to redeem the vehicle.
(vii) The procedure to contest the fact that the vehicle has been deemed abandoned or the reasonableness of the towing fees and daily storage fees.
(viii) A form petition which the owner may file in person or by mail with the specified court which requests a hearing on the police agency's action.
(ix) A warning that the failure to redeem the vehicle or to request a hearing within 20 days after the date of the notice may result in the sale of the vehicle and the termination of all rights of the owner and the secured party to the vehicle or the proceeds of the sale.

(5) The registered owner may contest the fact that the vehicle has been deemed abandoned or the reasonableness of the towing fees and daily storage fees by requesting a hearing. A request for a hearing shall be made by filing a petition with the court specified in the notice within 20 days after the date of the notice. If the owner requests a hearing, the matter shall be resolved after a hearing conducted pursuant to section 2.5e and 2.5f. An owner who requests a hearing may obtain release of the vehicle by posting a towing and storage bond in an amount equal to the accrued towing and storage fees with the court. The owner of a vehicle who requests a hearing may obtain release of the vehicle by paying the towing and storage fees instead of posting the towing and storage bond. If the court finds that the vehicle was not properly deemed abandoned, the police agency shall reimburse the owner of the vehicle for the accrued towing and storage fees.

(6) If the owner does not request a hearing, he or she may obtain the release of the vehicle by paying the accrued charges to the custodian of the vehicle.

(7) If the owner does not redeem the vehicle or request a hearing within 20 days after the date of the notice, the secured party may obtain the release of the vehicle by paying the accrued charges to the custodian of the vehicle and the police agency for its accrued costs.

(8) Not less than 20 days after the disposition of the hearing described in subsection (5) or, if a hearing is not requested, not less than 20 days after the date of the notice, the police agency shall offer the vehicle for sale at a public sale pursuant to section 2.5g.

(9) If the ownership of a vehicle which has been deemed abandoned under this section cannot be determined either because of the condition of the vehicle identification numbers or because a check with the records of the secretary of state does not reveal ownership, the police agency may sell the vehicle at public sale pursuant to section 2.5g, not less than 30 days after public notice of the sale has been published.

Section 2.5b. Abandoned Scrap Vehicle Procedures.

(1) As used in this section:

(a) "Registered abandoned scrap vehicle" means a vehicle which meets all of the following requirements:

(i) Is on public or private property.
(ii) Is 7 or more years old.

(iv) Is currently registered in the state of Michigan or displays current year registration plates from another state.
(v) Is not removed within 48 hours after a written notice as described in section 2.5a(2)(b) is affixed to the vehicle.

(d) Within 24 hours after taking the vehicle into custody, enter the vehicle into the law enforcement information network.

(3) Within 24 hours, excluding Saturday, Sunday and legal holidays, after taking the vehicle into custody, the police agency shall complete a release form and release the vehicle to the towing service or a used vehicle parts dealer or vehicle scrap metal processor, who shall then transmit that release form to the secretary of state and apply for a certificate of the title or a certificate of scrapping. Upon receipt of the release form and application, the secretary of state shall issue a certificate of title or a certificate of scrapping.

(4) The release form described in subsection (3) shall be furnished by the secretary of state and shall include a certification executed by the applicable police agency when the abandoned scrap vehicle is released. The certification shall state that the police agency has complied with all the requirements of subsection (2)(b) and (c).

(5) The secretary of state shall retain the records relating to the abandoned scrap vehicle for not less than 2 years. The 2 photographs taken pursuant to subsection (2)(b) shall be retained by the police agency for not less than 2 years. After the certificate of scrapping has been issued, a certificate of title for the vehicle shall not be issued again.

(a) Determine if the vehicle has been stolen.

(b) Take 2 photographs of the vehicle.

(d) Within 24 hours after taking the vehicle into custody, enter the vehicle into the law enforcement information network.

(e) Within 7 days after taking the vehicle into custody, send to the registered owner and secured party, as shown by the records of the secretary of state, by first-class mail or personal service, notice that the vehicle has been deemed abandoned. The form for the notice shall be furnished by the secretary of state. Each notice form shall contain the following information:

(i) The year, make, and vehicle identification number of the vehicle if available.
(ii) The location from which the vehicle was taken into custody.
(iii) The date on which the vehicle was taken into custody.
(iv) The name and address of the police agency which had the vehicle taken into custody.
(v) The business address of the custodian of the vehicle.
(vi) The procedure to redeem the vehicle.
(vii) The procedure to contest the fact that the vehicle has been deemed abandoned or the reasonableness of the towing fees and daily storage fees.
(viii) A form petition which the owner may file in person or by mail with the specified court which requests a hearing on the police agency's action.
(ix) A warning that the failure to redeem the vehicle or to request a hearing within 20 days after the date of the notice may result in the termination of all rights of the owner and the secured party to the vehicle.

(7) The registered owner of a registered abandoned scrap vehicle may contest the fact that the vehicle has been deemed abandoned or the reasonableness of the towing fees and daily storage fees by requesting a hearing. A request for a hearing shall be made by filing a petition with the court specified in the notice within 20 days after the date of the notice. If the owner requests a hearing, the matter shall be resolved after a hearing conducted pursuant to section 2.5e and 2.5f. An owner who requests a hearing may obtain release of the vehicle by posting a towing and storage bond with the court in an amount as determined by the court. The owner of a vehicle who requests a hearing may obtain release of the vehicle by paying the towing and storage fees instead of posting the towing and storage bond. If the court finds that the vehicle was not properly deemed abandoned, the police agency shall reimburse the owner of the vehicle for the accrued towing and storage fees.

(8) If the owner does not request a hearing, he or she may obtain the release of the vehicle by paying the accrued charges to the custodian of the vehicle.

(9) If the owner does not redeem the vehicle or request a hearing within 20 days after the date of the notice, the secured party may obtain the release of the vehicle by paying the accrued charges to the custodian of the vehicle.

(10) Not less than 20 days after the disposition of the hearing described in subsection (7), or if a hearing is not requested, not less than 20 days after the date of the notice described in subsection (6)(e), the police agency shall follow the procedures established in subsections (3) to (5).

Section 2.5c. Vehicle Removed from Private Property.

(1) When a vehicle is removed from private property at the direction of a person other than the registered owner of the vehicle or a police agency, the custodian of the vehicle immediately shall notify the police agency from whose jurisdiction the vehicle was towed. The custodian shall supply that information which is necessary for the police agency to enter the vehicle into the law enforcement information network.

(2) Upon receipt of the notification described in subsection (1), the police agency immediately shall do all of the following:

(a) Determine if the vehicle has been reported stolen.

(b) Enter the vehicle into the law enforcement information network.

(3) The owner of the vehicle removed as described in subsection (1) may obtain release of the vehicle by paying the accrued towing and storage fees to the custodian of the vehicle. Upon release of the vehicle, the custodian shall notify the police agency of the disposition of the vehicle.

(4) If the vehicle described in subsection (1) is not claimed by the owner within 7 days after the police agency has been notified by the custodian that it has been taken into custody, the vehicle is deemed abandoned and the procedures prescribed in section 2.5a(4)(c) to (9) shall apply.

Section 2.5d. Vehicle Removed by Police.

(1) A police agency or a governmental agency designated by the police agency may provide for the immediate removal of a vehicle from a public or private property to a place of safekeeping at the expense of the registered owner of the vehicle in any of the following circumstances:

(a) If the vehicle is in such a condition that the continued operation of the vehicle upon the highway would constitute an immediate hazard to the public.

(b) If the vehicle is parted or standing upon the highway in such a manner as to create an immediate public hazard or an obstruction of traffic.

(c) If a vehicle is parked in a posted tow away zone.

(d) If there is reasonable cause to believe that the vehicle or any part of the vehicle is stolen.

(e) If the vehicle must be seized to preserve evidence of a crime, or when there is reasonable cause to believe that the vehicle was used in the commission of a crime.

(f) If removal is necessary in the interest of public safety because of fire, flood, storm, snow, natural or man-made disaster, or other emergency.

(g) If the vehicle is hampering the use of private property by the owner or person in charge of that property or is parked in a manner which impedes the movement of another vehicle.

(h) If the vehicle is stopped, standing or parked in a space designated for handicapper parking and is not permitted by law to be stopped, standing, or parked in a spaced designated for handicapper parking.

(2) A police agency which authorizes the removal of a vehicle under subsection (1) shall do all of the following:

(a) Check to determine if the vehicle has been reported stolen.

(b) Within 24 hours after removing the vehicle, enter the vehicle into the law enforcement information network if the vehicle has not been redeemed. This subdivision does not apply to a vehicle that is removed from the scene of a motor vehicle traffic accident.

(c) If the vehicle has not been redeemed within 10 days after moving the vehicle, send to the registered owner and the secured party as shown by the records of the secretary of state, by first-class mail or personal service, a notice that the vehicle has been removed; however, if the police agency informs the owner or operator of the vehicle of the removal and the location of the vehicle within 24 hours after the removal, and if the vehicle has not been redeemed within 30 days and upon complaint from the towing service, the police agency shall send the notice within 30 days after the removal. The notice shall be by a form furnished by the secretary of state. The notice form shall contain the following information.

(i) The year, make, and vehicle identification number of the vehicle.
(ii) The location from which the vehicle was taken into custody.
(iii) The date on which the vehicle was taken into custody.
(iv) The name and address of the police agency which had the vehicle taken into custody.
(v) The location where the vehicle is being held.
(vi) The procedure to redeem the vehicle.
(vii) The procedure to contest the fact that the vehicle was properly removed or the reasonableness of the towing and daily storage fees.
(viii) A form petition which the owner may file in person or by mail with the specified court which requests a hearing on the police agency's action.
(ix) A warning that the failure to redeem the vehicle or to request a hearing within 20 days after the date of the notice may result in the sale of the vehicle and the termination of all rights of the owner and the secured party to the vehicle or the proceeds of the sale or to both the vehicle and the proceeds.

(3) The registered owner may contest the fact that the vehicle was properly removed or the reasonableness of the towing fees and daily storage fees by requesting a hearing. A request for a hearing shall be made by filing a petition with the court specified in the notice within 20 days after the date of the notice. If the owner requests a hearing, the matter shall be resolved after a hearing conducted pursuant to sections 2.5e and 2.5f. An owner who requests a hearing may obtain release of the vehicle by posting a towing and storage bond with the court in an amount equal to the accrued towing and storage fees. The owner of a vehicle who requests a hearing may obtain release of the vehicle by paying the towing and storage fees instead of posting the towing and storage bond. If the court finds that the vehicle was not properly removed, the police agency shall reimburse the owner of the vehicle for the accrued towing and storage fees.

(4) If the owner does not request a hearing, he or she may obtain the release of the vehicle by paying the accrued charges to the custodian of the vehicle.

(5) If the owner does not redeem the vehicle or request a hearing within 20 days, the secured party may obtain the release of the vehicle by paying the accrued charges to the custodian of the vehicle prior to the date of the sale.

(6) Not less than 20 days after the disposition of the hearing described in subsection (3), or if a hearing is not requested, not less than 20 days after the date of the notice described in subsection (2)(c), the police agency shall offer the vehicle for sale at a public sale unless the vehicle is redeemed. The public sale shall be held pursuant to section 2.5g.

(7) If the ownership of a vehicle which has been removed under this section cannot be determined either because of the condition of the vehicle identification numbers or because a check with the records of the secretary of state does not reveal ownership, the police agency may sell the vehicle at public sale pursuant to section 2.5g, not less than 30 days after public notice of the sale has been published.

SECTION 2.5e. ABANDONED VEHICLE, JURISDICTION OF COURT.

(1) The following courts shall have jurisdiction to determine if a police agency has acted properly in processing a vehicle under section 2.5a, 2.5b(6) to (10), 2.5c, or 2.5d:

(a) The district court.

(b) A municipal court.

(c) The common pleas court of the City of Detroit.

(2) The court specified in the notice prescribed in section 2.5a(4)(c), 2.5b(6), 2.5c(4), or 2.5d(2)(c) shall be the court which has territorial jurisdiction at the location from where the vehicle was removed or deemed abandoned. Venue in the district court shall be governed by section 8312 of Act No. 235 of the Public Acts of 1961, as amended, being section 600.8312 of the Michigan Compiled Laws.

(3) If the owner fails to pay the accrued towing and storage fees, the towing and storage bond posted with the court to secure release of the vehicle under section 2.5a, 2.5b, 2.5c, or 2.5d shall be used to pay the towing and storage fees.

Section 2.5f. Abandoned Vehicle, Duties of Court.

(1) Upon receipt of a petition prescribed in section 2.5a, 2.5b, 2.5c, or 2.5d, signed by the owner of the vehicle which has been taken into custody, the court shall do both of the following:

(a) Schedule a hearing within 30 days for the purpose of determining whether the police agency acted properly.

(b) Notify the owner and the police agency of the time and place of the hearing.

(2) At the hearing specified in subsection (1) the police agency shall have the burden of showing by a preponderance of the evidence that it has complied with the requirements of this act in processing the abandoned vehicle or vehicle removed pursuant to section 2.5d.

(3) After the hearing the court shall make a decision which shall include 1 or more of the following:

(a) A finding that the police agency complied with the procedures established for the processing of an abandoned vehicle or a vehicle removed under section 2.5d, and an order providing a period of 20 days after the decision for the owner to redeem the vehicle. If the owner does not redeem the vehicle within 20 days, the police agency shall dispose of the vehicle pursuant to section 2.5b or 2.5g.

(b) A finding that the police agency did not comply with the procedures established for the processing of an abandoned vehicle or a vehicle removed pursuant to section 2.5d. After making such a finding, the court shall issue an order directing that the vehicle immediately be released to the owner, and that the police agency is responsible for the accrued towing and storage charges.

(c) A finding that the towing and daily storage fees were reasonable.

(d) A finding that the towing and daily storage fees were unreasonable and issue an order directing an appropriate reduction.

Section 2.5g. Abandoned Vehicle, Public Sale.

(1) A public sale for a vehicle which has been deemed abandoned under sections 2.5a or 2.5c or removed under section 2.5d shall be conducted in the following manner:

(a) It shall be under the control of the police agency or agent of the police agency.

(b) It shall be open to the public and consist of open auction bidding or bidding by sealed bids. If sealed bids are received, the person submitting the bid shall receive a receipt for the bid from the police agency or agent of the police agency.

(c) Except as provided by sections 2.5a(9) and 2.5d(7), it shall be held not less than 5 days after public notice of the sale has been published.

(d) The public notice shall be published at least once in a newspaper having a general circulation within the county in which the vehicle was abandoned. The public notice shall give a description of the vehicle for sale and shall state the time, date, and location of the sale.

(2) The money received from the public sale of the vehicle shall be applied in the following order of priority:

(a) Towing and storage charges.

(b) Expenses incurred by the police agency.

(c) To the secured party, if any, in the amount of the debt outstanding on the vehicle.

(d) Remainder to the owner. A reasonable attempt shall be made to mail the remainder to the registered owner. If delivery of the remainder cannot be accomplished, the remainder shall become the property of the unit of government that the police agency represents.

(3) If there are not bidders on the vehicle, the police agency may do 1 of the following:

(a) Turn the vehicle over to the towing firm to satisfy charges against the vehicle.

(b) Obtain title to the vehicle for the police agency or the unit of government the police agency represents, by doing the following:

(i) Paying the towing and storage charges.
(ii) Applying for title to the vehicle.

(c) Hold another public sale pursuant to subsection (1).

(4) A person who acquires ownership of a vehicle under subsection (1) or (3), which vehicle has been designated as a distressed vehicle, shall make application for a salvage certificate of title within 15 days after obtaining the vehicle.

(5) Upon disposition of the vehicle, the police agency shall cancel the entry into the law enforcement information network.

SECTION 2.7. (RESERVED)

Section 5.82. Mandatory child restraints.

Post Office to reopen branch

BY TEDD SCHNEIDER
STAFF WRITER

The U.S. Postal Service Monday will reopen its former northeast Livonia station to serve personal and business patrons in the wake of the main branch shutdown.

The northeast branch, on Middlebelt north of Seven Mile, closed earlier this year when the post office opened the Greenmead station.

"We recognize that this situation has inconvenienced postal customers in Livonia," said spokeswoman Susan Moore. "We are going to increase the number of available retail outlets."

The main branch on Merriman was closed April 29 when workers repairing the building interior disturbed asbestos insulation. Asbestos levels were within acceptable standards, but postal officials said they decided to close the building as a precaution.

Home delivery to two affected zip codes was fully restored by May 1 but the closing has adversely affected some Livonia businesses.

Satisfying business users is a primary reason for reactivating the northeast branch, Moore said.

Several businesses in the 48150 and 48154 zip codes served by the main branch reported slowdowns in delivery of first-class mail, long lines at the Greenmead branch and difficulty in sending out second-class and bulk mail.

The northeast branch will offer bulk mail verification and increase the number of available postal boxes.

"We know there have been business customers with problems getting their mail into the mail stream. This should help," Moore said.

Moore said the mothballed station won't require a lot of preparation. Computer terminals and cash drawers will be reinstalled and "we'll have to clean it up a little, but that's about it."

The building has been for lease this spring and the post office will continue to seek an eventual tenant, Moore said.

The main branch will remain closed indefinitely.

Meanwhile, the mobile unit that has been selling stamps and accepting letters and small packages from the main branch parking lot will leave June 3-8 for a stint at the Detroit Grand Prix on Belle Isle.

The truck will return following the race.

Race track grant is partly restored

BY TEDD SCHNEIDER
STAFF WRITER

An intensive lobbying effort by city and state officials has resulted in the partial restoration of Livonia's racetrack grant money by Gov. Engler.

Mayor Robert Bennett said the city should get back about half the original reimbursement Engler removed in executive order budget cuts last fall.

That would mean a payment of about $400,000, probably sometime in September, Bennett said.

"We finally got the word across that we're entitled to this money," Bennett said.

The one-time payment won't account for any lost interest, nor will it guarantee grant money in future years.

But Bennett said the change in thinking by the governor's office "indicates maybe we can be a little more optimistic" about the appropriation for 1992-93.

The city had originally included $700,000 of racetrack grant money in its current budget.

The Livonia City Council approved an 11th-hour package budget cuts when Engler vetoed $3.9 million in grants to Livonia and other Michigan racetrack cities last October.

Livonia has received annual payments of up to $900,000 to defray expenses associated with Ladbroke Detroit Race Course under a program set up by the Michigan Department of Agriculture in the late 1940s.

The city provides police, fire, inspection and other services to the track.

The money was removed by Engler from a restricted agriculture department fund and placed into the general fund budget. It was then placed in a house account while officials haggle over its disbursement, Bennett said.

Bennett praised the "extensive work" of a five-community coalition to restore the money.

Officials from Hazel Park, Northville, Swartz Creek and Jackson worked with Livonia officials, as well as state Rep. Lyn Bankes, R-Livonia, and state Sen. Bob Geake, R-Northville, on the campaign.

The group met with representatives from the governor's office earlier this year.

It also helped draft separate legislation in the state House of Representatives to compensate for the loss of funds.

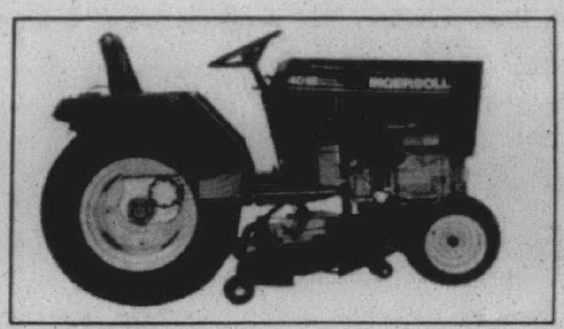

The city also approved a $20,000 contract with a Lansing lobbyist to work on restoration of the racetrack money and represent Livonia on other issues, a move which drew some criticism in March from dissenting council members.

The firm, James H. Karoub Associates, has represented the city in previous years.

June 5th is W·O·R·L·D Environment Day

When we've talked about protecting our environment we've been quick to point out that we're a hometown newspaper and while we don't cover the world—we care about it. We recycle office materials, everything from paper to computer ribbons and thirty-five percent of our newsprint we use is recycled.

We don't know the details of how June 5th got to be Environmental Day, but we think it's a good idea. Along with Earth Day—Every Day or anything that will get all of us thinking about preserving what we have. Like the T-shirt we saw that said, "She's your Mom, too." The earth is Mother to all of us and whatever we can do, or begin to do, that will help preserve her— whether it's looking at garbage with compost in mind, or simply recycling this newspaper—she'll be glad you did.

contributions)," Dodea said.

"(A common thought among corporate leaders) is you can put it in Washington's pocket or you can put it back into the community's pocket," she said.

But tax deductions aren't the only reason businesses contribute, she said. "There's what you would call enlightened self-interest."

Either by way of direct contributions or through charitable foundations, a corporation benefits by what it gives to the community, Dodea said. "A corporation has a larger role to play that just providing a service," she said.

An improved community, for example, makes it easier to attract employees and customers, Dodea said. An improved education system provides a better workforce.

Dayton-Hudson, for example, gives grants in the communities where it is located that helps women complete requirements for a high school diploma.

"That does three things: one, Hudson's wants to be located in an educated community; two, that the more educated woman is more likely to be a consumer at Hudson's; and three, the recipients of the high school degrees or general education diplomas may one day work for Hudson's."

Finally, businesses give because it's a reflection of the best aspect of human nature, she said. When a corporate leader talks about giving back to the community, it is not merely words.

"It's not something you learn in business school; it's something you learn at your mother's knee," Dodea said.

Community responsibility

Sidney Lutz, chief marketing officer and general partner of Lutz Data Systems in Farmington Hills, said the responsibilities of a corporation or business and individual are no different.

"I think any good corporate citizen should give regardless of their means, just as any individual should give regardless of his means," he said. "I think people give because we have a need to give — I can't imagine life without giving."

Lutz Data Systems has "adopted" Detroit Open Middle School, a magnet school. "It's kind of rare for a company of our size (150 employees) to do this."

Lutz said the commitment is not so much financial — although that plays a part — but "sweat equity."

Employees of Lutz associates act as tutors and mentors for the students in the district. The rewards have been many, he said.

Company morale is extremely high, people are motivated, and all that is reflected in the company. "We feel it's necessary for the greater good," Lutz continued.

Remember, he said, businesses are made up of people. "Corporations reflect its members."

If the people within the corporation feel a need to donate their time or money, it's natural to assume the business will take on some sort of philanthropic role.

Corporations can be altruistic, but contributing to a charitable effort also does something for people within the business. "In the process of giving, we meet people of like mind, of like quality — you meet people who are not dissonant to your own way of thinking.

"Those are the people you want to deal with in business," he added.

And finally, corporate giving's greatest reward is the satisfaction people receive out of being part of a worthy cause. "It makes you feel good about yourself."

Keeping it all hush hush

Lisa Lapides, president of Lapides Publicity Group in Birmingham, said most people would be surprised at how much corporations and businesses give to charitable causes.

Most acts of corporate philanthropy go unnoticed because the philanthropists are reluctant to publicize their efforts. There are worries that publicizing efforts will somehow detract from them, she said.

"They don't want to seem self-serving. I think it's a missed opportunity," she said.

"Even in the worst case, the effort is still going to good use," she said. "What's wrong with a little positive publicity?

"I think that consumers do care, and it makes a difference to them in where they buy," she said. A company that makes an impact should be rewarded for its efforts if the community sees value in its work, she said.

When tastefully done, publicizing philanthropic acts by business acomplishes a lot of good, she said. More people need to know about the philanthropy of corporations, she said, because it gives the company and its employees a chance to be proud.

Just as importantly, publicizing charitable efforts may spur further giving. "Giving is contagious," she said.

That same day, after arriving home, his son asked him for some money to go out with his friends. After giving him $5, his son asked for another buck.

"That got me thinking," Elliot said. To him or his son, $1 meant very little. "It's only a dollar, no one would really miss a dollar."

Why then, he reasoned, couldn't an organized effort among Michigan National employees take a little out of their paycheck — a dollar that most would never miss — and donate it to a charitable organization?

If every one gave a buck every other week — noting there are 6,000 Michigan National bank team members — that could make a big difference.

He approached Michigan National chairman and chief executive officer Robert J. Mylod with the idea, which quickly evolved from a metropolitan Detroit to a statewide campaign.

Elliot said sometimes all it takes is a gentle reminder. "(Other people's misfortunes) don't affect us because we don't see it," he said. "I think if you look at it, we're all not very far from living on the street."

It's also worth noting, he said, that giving — whether its through a corporate plan or individually — is a reason to take pride. "It makes you feel good about yourself and your company."

"I believe most people, deep down, are charitable, but they don't know how to give," he said. A voluntary payroll deduction plan like the one instituted at Michigan National is a simple, painless fund-raising method that can do a lot of good.

Homeless people are $20,000 better off today because someone cared. It may surprise people to learn that it was corporate America.

On April 15, Robert J. Mylod, Michigan National Bank chief executive officer and chairman, distributed the first installment of $20,000 to be divided among eight, tri-county, non-profit agencies that provide food and shelter.

In total, employees — including a 50 percent corporate contribution — will give $70,000 to 24 shelters during 1992.

It isn't a one-year contribution either — plans call for an opportunity for employees to re-up next year. The bank is also hoping other financial institutions can become involved in a friendly competition, challenging each other to contribute more.

Business lends a hand

R. Sue Smith Dodea, program director for Corporate Giving Initiative, Council of Michigan Foundations, said last year Americans gave away $122 billion dollars. "Corporations gave a substantial portion of that."

The Corporate Giving Initiative works with companies to help them develop organized giving programs. In addition to speaking engagements and individual assistance, the Corporate Giving Initiative also sponsors a yearly seminar designed to introduce businesses to the idea of corporate giving.

Business gives for several reasons, not the least of which is the tax benefit given to businesses that contribute to charitable causes. "Our tax system is structured so as to reward (charitable Concrete examples of corporate America making an effort to help the less fortunate are everywhere. And as is often the case, the efforts are the brainchild of one individual.

Walter C. Elliot, a senior community lending officer in Detroit was the catalyst, for Michigan National Bank's recent efforts in helping the homeless.

Elliot, who grew up in Detroit and has worked in Detroit much of his life, said he's used to seeing people struggling through hard times.

But last year, something changed.

"Most of the time, it's just male adults, but that one day I was driving home and I saw a woman with a sign that read: 'Homeless, need help.' That really struck me."

Opportunities for temporary employees leap significantly

BY R.J. KING
STAFF WRITER

Looking for a strong economic indicator other than factory orders, housing starts and stock prices, all of which can be influenced by such hard-to-predict anomalies as politics, weather and international turmoil?

Consider the recent history of the temporary services industry. When the economy sputters, as it did during the 1981-82 recession, temporary workers were the first to be let go. When the economy stalled, layoff notices were then issued to more permanent workers. By the same token, when work orders started to pick up in 1983, temporary workers were the first to be hired. Once the recovery was sustained, personnel departments begin attacking those huge piles of resumes.

If the pattern is valid, good times may soon be here again. According to the 1,000-member National Association of Temporary Services, the industry began to pick up in the fourth quarter of 1991, with 13 percent more people employed than at the beginning of the year.

Steve Wolfe, vice president for ADIA Personnel Services, which has offices in Farmington, Livonia and Southfield, said the firm has seen a 54-percent increase in profits in the first quarter of 1992 over the same period a year ago.

"Since January, we've seen a 30-percent increase in terms of hours our (temporary) employees are working," Wolfe said. "The increase has forced us to focus our attention away from seeking out new business clients to recruiting. Most of the increase is in clerical, administrative support, light industrial and light technical."

With a temporary-staff of 1,500 employees, Wolfe said the company has been running more newspaper ads to attract part-time employees. The list of likely candidates includes mothers with children age 2 or older, college students and people who lost their jobs in the last two years.

Carolyn Fryar, a senior vice president with Kelly Services in Troy, one of the nation's largest staffing support companies with 550,000 temporary employees, said 1992 first quarter revenues were up 14.2 percent from the same period a year ago.

History repeats itself

"It would appear as if the same thing that happened during the last recession is happening now," Fryar said. "Some companies are downsizing and going to managed services, and we're seeing some parts of the economy turning around."

From comments with area managers within the temporary-help industry, the Midwest and South have been leading the comeback.

In metro Detroit, where the biggest users of temporary help are automotive, banking and retailing companies, as well as law firms, between 10 and 30 percent more people were employed as temporaries in the first quarter of 1992 over the same period last year.

Bruce Steinberg, a spokesman for the National Association of Temporary Services, said traditionally the beginning of the year is marked by a decline in temporary help.

"The demand by firms like small-item manufacturers just mushroomed after the summer of 1991 — I mean in excess of 20 percent over the prior year," he said.

The temporary services industry supplies workers such as word processors, bookkeepers and machinists to companies on a short-term basis, often with only next-day notice, to handle employee absences, special orders and seasonal work overloads.

According to the National Association of Temporary Services, hourly wages for temporary workers range from files to $23.40 for a computer analyst, who comes with two or more years of formal training.

Outsourcing catches on

Mark Lancaster, director of sales and marketing for Employment Group Inc. in Troy, said in addition to solid growth for temporary employees, more and more Fortune 500 companies are outsourcing entire in-house departments, such as mail rooms, copying centers and word processing.

"For years, it was quite common for large companies to contract with security guard and janitorial firms. Now the trend is toward administrative services," Lancaster said.

Trip recalls memories of son's death

BY JULIE BROWN
STAFF WRITER

Elizabeth Donnelly, like many people, was horrified when she learned of the beating of Rodney King by police officers in Los Angeles. Donnelly, a longtime Plymouth resident, knows that their behavior doesn't represent all who work in law enforcement.

"It's a horrible situation, really it is," she said.

Her son, Mac J. Donnelly Jr., a Lansing police officer, was killed during a 1977 bank robbery in East Lansing. She recently went to Washington, D.C., to visit the National Law Enforcement Officers Memorial, where his name is inscribed. The trip was a Christmas present from her children.

She traveled with family members and brought back photographs of the memorial, a rubbing made from her son's name, and other mementos. The memorial includes the names of more than 12,000 policemen and women who have died in the line of duty.

The earliest name dates back to about 1774, said Donnelly, a retired teacher. "I've forgotten how many they put on every day."

The memorial, dedicated in October 1991, has blank space for additional names. It's different from the Vietnam memorial in the nation's capital; the law enforcement memorial is made of white marble and has a serene, peaceful atmosphere, she said.

Donnelly and her late husband, Mac, had seven children, of whom Mac Jr. was the oldest. He and his wife had five children, all now in college.

"Oh yes, we've been very close. She remarried, a delightful man."

Donnelly's husband, who had difficulty dealing with his son's death, died about three years after the shooting. "It was a terrible shock to him."

Small on size, but big on success

■ Dick Beals may be small in stature, but he has a "big" voice. Most folks might not recignize him, but they know his best line — "Plop, plop, fizz, fizz."

BY JULIE BROWN
STAFF WRITER

For Dick Beals, Speedy Alka-Seltzer's become part of the family.

For some 40 years, Beals, a 4-foot-6-inch actor, has been the voice of Speedy, one of the best-known stars of radio and TV advertising.

"Speedy was the very first product spokesman that was an animated doll." Beals has done voiceover work for cartoons such as "The Jetsons" and "The Flintstones" and for thousands of commercials, but Speedy still tops his list.

"It's the most important voice I've ever done."

His was the voice heard in such classic Alka-Seltzer commercials as "Plop, plop, fizz, fizz, Oh, what a relief it is." Beals recently traveled to Elkhart, Ind., to visit employees at Miles Inc., the company which produces the medicinal tablets. He toured company facilities, autographed copies of his book, "Think Big," and shook many hands.

"At the end of the week, I really needed some Alka-Seltzer," said Beals, who's been the only voice of Speedy all these years.

"I've never been happier as Speedy, especially last week, meeting all the people who make the product," said Beals, who visited Plymouth Thursday, May 21, to promote his new book. It's unusual for a product spokesman such as Speedy to last for 40 years and be so effective in boosting name recognition and sales, he said.

The Indiana-based company produces more than 1 million Alka-Seltzer tablets each day, he said, and if the tablets made in the past 60 years were stacked, they'd reach the moon and circle it 12 times.

"That's a lot of Alka-Seltzer tablets, and I'm pleased to say that Speedy has sold most of them."

Beals, who lives in Escondido, Calif., has had a long, rewarding career in radio, television and advertising. The Michigan native grew up in Birmingham, graduating from Baldwin High School in 1944.

"We're going to have our 50th reunion in two years, and we'll have a goodly turnout too." He no longer has family in the Detroit area, but still has many friends in Birmingham. "A lot of our class still lives there, but I was the only one who headed west."

He attended what is now Michigan State University as a radio major, graduating in 1949 with a bachelor's degree.

During college, Beals worked at WKAR radio in East Lansing. An MSU faculty member told him his childlike voice would be put to good use as a radio actor, "taking children's parts. He said 'That's what you've got to do, take children's parts.'"

Healthy skin means no tan

BY JULIE BROWN
STAFF WRITER

Dr. Arthur Gulick isn't exactly what you'd call a sun worshiper.

Gulick, a dermatologist with a Plymouth Township practice, realizes people can't and shouldn't stay inside 24 hours a day. He also knows that prolonged exposure to the sun can lead to premature aging of the skin and even to skin cancer.

"Sun avoidance is the most important thing," said Gulick, who also tells his patients to stay away from tanning salons. Any tanning "represents skin's attempt to protect itself from further damage."

Gulick was among area dermatologists who conducted a recent skin cancer detection screening. Dr. Ann Ammond LaFond and Dr. A. Craig Cattell also participated in the Wednesday, May 20, screening at Starkweather Center in Plymouth. All three physicians are Michigan Dermatological Society members.,

The program, offered for a number of years, was part of a statewide effort sponsored by that organization in cooperation with the American Cancer Society. As many as 100 people took advantage of the "free painless examination of things people want to show to us" at Starkweather, he said.

Changing attitudes have played a part in reducing the incidence of skin cancer, Gulick has found. Awareness of damage done by prolonged exposure to the sun has grown.

"People used to like to sunbathe. Now people are getting more sensible again and a paler look is more in fashion."

Evidence indicates that even isolated episodes of sunburn in childhood can damage skin, Gulick said, and it's important for parents to be careful about children's exposure to sun.

"Sunscreen lotions are a wonderful invention." Gulick recommends use of a product with a sun protection factor of 15 or more for an average person. Sunscreens with a higher SPF are often more expensive and aren't always needed, he said.

Other advice he offered includes:

- Wear a hat with a brim while outdoors.
- Be careful about spending time outside in the middle of the day, when the sun's rays are the strongest.
- Periodic self-examinations are useful in detecting skin cancer. Such an exam should cover the entire body and will require use of a full-length mirror, hand mirror and a brightly lit room.
- Malignant melanomas can occur on any part of the body, including non-exposed areas, and aren't always easy to spot. An exam by a dermatologist, including a biopsy if needed, can be a lifesaver.

Skin cancers fall into several categories, the most deadly being malignant melanoma. Danger signs associated with moles or pigmented spots include: asymmetry, in which one half is unlike the other; border irregularity; color variance from one area to another; and a diameter larger than 6 millimeters, approximately the size of a pencil eraser.

Detection the key

"We want to find them before they grow very big. That can be lifesaving, finding it early enough," Gulick said.

Such melanomas can be removed surgically, in some cases even in a clinic or doctor's office. Malignant

She remembers the difficulty of keeping the five children away from televised coverage of the bank robbery. Her son would have been 50 this year, and family members held a party in his honor.

The occasion wasn't a morbid one. Instead, they concentrated on having a fun time and remembering Donnelly.

Another memorial in Miami, Fla., includes his name, and she plans to visit that city to see it. The heliport at Lansing's airport is named in honor of Mac Donnelly, who grew up in Plymouth.

He graduated from St. Thomas High School in Ann Arbor in 1960, attended what is now Michigan Technological University, served in the U.S. Coast Guard and became a police officer.

The June 16, 1977, robbery involved the taking of a number of hostages. A banker and his pregnant wife were kidnapped. Donnelly helped to save the man's life; the banker was shot in the hand, and Donnelly was shot, dying immediately.

The painful memories came to the forefront for the family again in the fall of 1989. The man convicted of the officer's first-degree murder was one of two prisoners at the State Prison of Southern Michigan at Jackson discovered missing. The men, who'd been missing for nearly a week, were found inside the prison complex.

Elizabeth Donnelly remembers attending a memorial service about a year after the robbery and meeting the newborn child of the banker and his wife. She knows her son died a hero.

"We think he was, yes." With the passing of time, she feels more pride than sadness when she remembers her oldest son.

"I'm kind of getting used to the idea. It's always the last thing on earth you expect."

She was proud to see his name on the Washington, D.C., memorial, and even noted that it was spelled correctly, with no "k" in Mac.

troit, commuting from East Lansing during his senior year and continuing that radio and TV work after graduation.

Radio was live in those days, and he remembers being nervous about making even one mistake. He worked on such shows as "The Lone Ranger," "The Green Hornet" and "Challenge of the Yukon" before heading to Hollywood.

There's pride evident in his voice when Beals remembers auditioning for the role of Speedy in the early 1950s.

He has a Speedy doll back home on his desk. "I didn't have one until a couple years ago. A friend gave it to me." That friend had worked for many years as an executive at the ad agency that handled the Alka-Seltzer account.

Reaching goals

Overcoming obstacles is nothing new for Beals, now 65. He's 4-foot-6 and weighs 68 pounds. He was born at just under 10 pounds, but didn't grow to normal size.

"As we jokingly say, it was all downhill from there." Beals was raised in a positive-thinking family. His parents didn't consider him to be handicapped, and always emphasized that he should do his best.

In kindergarten, Beals became the mascot for the Baldwin High School football team and watched the players deal with winning and losing. "I then learned that winning is all there is. You just have to direct your life to winning. That caused me just to try harder."

That philosophy is the focus of his recently-published book, "Think Big." Beals, who is involved in MSU alumni activities, signed copies of the paperback book the evening of May 21 at Little Professor Book Center in downtown Plymouth. Many people stopped by to visit, including Mark Coulter, president of the Western Metro Detroit MSU Alumni Club.

"This is the friendliest town I've ever seen," Beals said. "I just love Michigan State. I love Birmingham. I love the Midwest. There's nothing like the Midwest."

Beals, who does motivational speaking throughout the country and is also a tournament bridge player, has no retirement plans. "Not a bit. I'm going to speed up, especially after signing 3,500 autographs last week. I found it could be done."

He's working on a new cartoon based on "The Addams Family," to be broadcast this fall. Beals will provide the voice of a next-door neighbor, and is working with such actors as Carol Channing and John Astin, who played Gomez in the original 1960s TV series.

"It's the best cast I've ever worked with."

melanomas can strike anyone, but generally are found among adults, he said. Those with a family history of skin cancer are at greater risk.

Less deadly forms include basal cell carcinoma, the cancer President Ronald Reagan had on his nose. It's the most common type, Gulick said, and can be treated effectively if found early enough. Surgical removal's the usual treatment and, in some cases, X-ray treatment is used.

Basal cell carcinoma can be locally destructive, but doesn't metastasize, spread to other parts of the body. Squamous cell carcinoma tumors will increase in size, developing in time into large masses. Such tumors can spread throughout the body, but if treated early enough squamous cell carcinoma has a high cure rate and isn't as deadly as malignant melanoma.

■ 'People used to like to sunbathe. Now people are getting more sensible again and a paler look is more in fashion.'

Dr. Arthur Gulick

Gulick knows that staying out of the sun when possible helps to prevent skin cancer, and has other benefits as well. Prolonged exposure can lead to premature aging of the skin, including lines on the face, changes in skin texture, and discoloration.

If a touch of such vanity helps to promote good health practices, Gulick doesn't have a problem with that. He knows that people can't stay under wraps all summer long.

"I think that's part of what life's all about. You can enjoy the outside, but you've got to be smart about it."

The skin cancer screening's been offered in previous years at Starkweather Center and has been well-received, said Mary Kay Frey, adult education coordinator/daytime programming for Plymouth-Canton Community Education. Medical assisting students helped with clerical work at the screening.

"It's a very popular event here. People come in throughout the day," said Frey, a Plymouth Township resident. "In my opinion, there's more concern for personal health than there used to be."

Frey's of an age to remember the days, not too long ago, when sunbathing was all the rage. She now uses sunscreen when outdoors.

Writer wants to have high profile

GRAPHOLOGY PROFILES

LORENE GREEN

Dear Lorene,

I am right handed and turned 50 in January. Although I receive compliments on my penmanship, I drove the nuns crazy. It was difficult for me to write 50 perfect M's in between the lines.

I have little patience with people who write illegibly. Anything worth doing is worth doing well.

I can also write upside down! A strange talent for sure!

Thank you.

S.M., Plymouth

I have not been able to uncover anything on writing that is done upside down. However, I found it interesting to see you did the same things whether writing right side up or upside down. Thank you for sending both samples.

Our writer today is a woman who very much wants to display a high profile. She is ever aware of the impression she is making on others. Behavior is often attention seeking. This desire for the limelight and people seems to be in direct contrast to her minimal need for any real sociability.

Many admirable traits can be found in her personality and handwriting. Ambitious, idealistic, productive and active describe her. She enjoys system and order in her life.

Perfection was expected from her as she was growing up. It continues as her modus operandi.

In many ways our writer is not free from her past. Seemingly, she does not perceive her parents united in the methods they used in raising her. Extremely inflated capital letters followed by smaller lower case letters tell us she is trying to cover feelings of inferiority.

She appears to be overly aware of herself and self-conscious in many situations. With the familiar, she is most comfortable and secure.

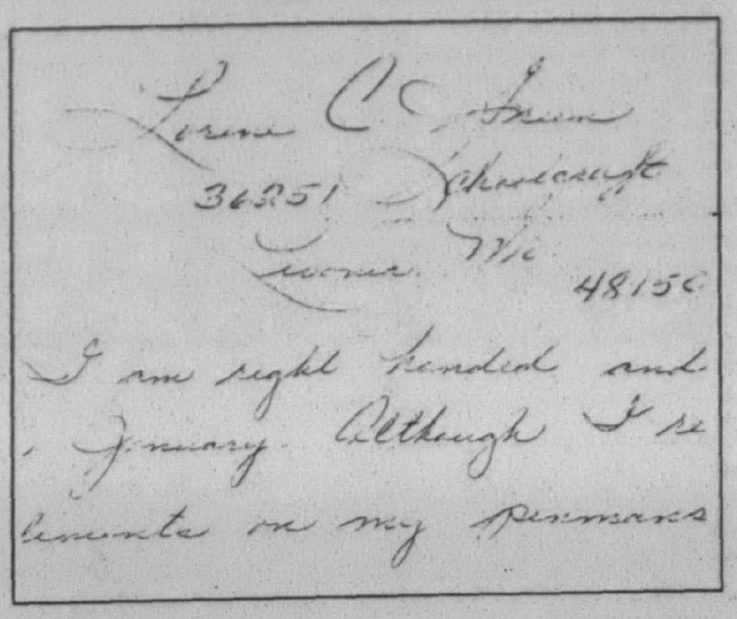

In the past, she has been hurt and has not been able to free herself totally from feeling resentful. This has a way of making her defensive. A ready retort is waiting for whomever she feels is a threat to her.

She is aware of what contemporaries and society in general expects of her and she can be counted on to abide by this. Her life, however, is not an open book. She is somewhat cautious about sharing her personal life with others. There are things she chooses not to reveal.

Her large, carefully written numbers suggest a good understanding of numbers and/or money.

I see a nice sense of humor here which allows her to laugh and receive pleasure from the lighter side of life. She enjoys the amusing little daily happenings.

If you would like your handwriting analyzed in this newspaper, write to Lorene C. Green, a certified graphologist, at 36251 Schoolcraft, Livonia 48150. Please use a full sheet of white, unlined paper, writing in the first person singular. Age, handedness and full signature are important. An objective feedback is always welcome.

Walks will benefit 2 health charities

If you're in the mood for walking and want to help someone, then the Epilepsy Center of Michigan and Southeast Michigan Chapter of the United Scleroderma Foundation Inc. have activities for you.

Both organizations are holding benefit walks in June to help raise money for their respective groups.

Local celebrities Charlie Sanders and Kristi Krueger will be on hand for the 12th annual Walk for Scleroderma 10 a.m. to 1 p.m. Saturday, June 6, at Ford Woods Park in Dearborn.

A barbeque lunch will be provided and there will be prizes for supporters who collect $25 or more in pledges. Two round-trip tickets to Los Angeles, donated by Northwest Airlines, will also be given to the winner chosen from a drawing of participants who collect a minimum of $1,000 in pledges.

Funds raised at the walk will be used for scleroderma research and patient services. For more information and a pledge form, call 443-0858.

The Epilepsy Center will holds its first Summer Stroll for Epilepsy Saturday, June 20, at Addison Oaks County Park, north of Rochester. Corporate teams and individual walkers will stroll along a five-mile course, also raising money through pledges.

Anyone interested in participating in the stroll as captain of a corporate team, as an individual walker or as a volunteer, can call the Epilepsy Center at 832-0500.

Church serves hospitality, good food for homeless

BY ARLENE FUNKE
SPECIAL WRITER

Neil Caldwell is exhausted but euphoric as he bustles in the kitchen of Aldersgate United Methodist Church in Redford.

Caldwell, 63, of Livonia, directs a corps of aproned volunteers serving ham and scalloped potatoes to 40 homeless people from Detroit.

Each afternoon last week, the homeless were brought by bus to Aldersgate for meals and overnight shelter. The next morning, after breakfast, the people were returned to Detroit.

"It's fantastic," said Caldwell, a retired director of pharmacy at Annapolis Hospital in Wayne. "It was a total church function. And our guests were so appreciative."

By taking on this project, Aldersgate joined several metro Detroit churches which have in recent months opened their doors to homeless people for temporary, one-week stays.

This program, called Inter-Faith Hospitality Ministry, relies on local congregations. It is coordinated through the Detroit/ Wayne County Union of the Homeless, located in the Cass Community United Methodist Church's homeless drop-in center near downtown Detroit.

"Shelters have more (people) than they can handle," said the Rev. Clem Parr, who has been at the 690-member Aldersgate for seven years. "Many denominations are helping."

According to the guidelines, all guests are expected to have made a reasonable effort to get into a shelter. Applicants are screened by the union. No alcohol or drugs are allowed.

Another chance

Today's group includes 28 men, 10 women and two children, ages approximately 10 and 12 years.

Some people have part-time or low-paying jobs. Others are attending job training. Some are "just helpless," said Parr, 59.

All are given a warm welcome.

"We try to serve them as we would in our own house," said Caldwell, who looks bleary-eyed from long hours overseeing the project at Aldersgate.

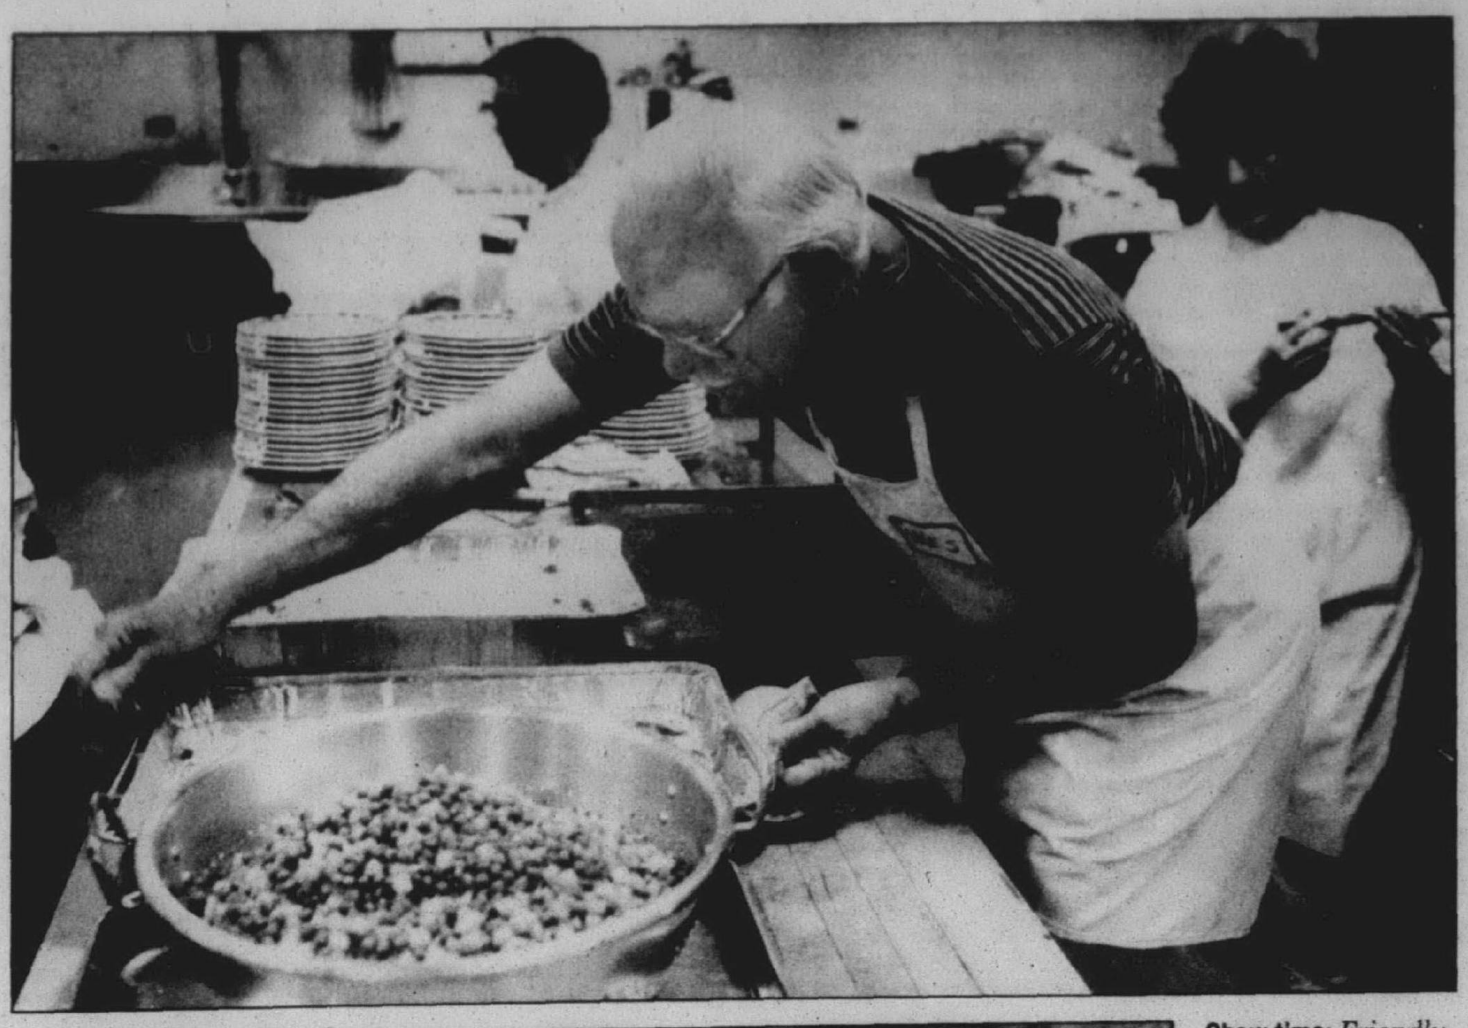

During the day, the guests are transported to school or job training. For example, two men must go to Hazel Park, where they are learning to become roofers and dry-wall installers.

"I'm hoping this has filled a need while they are trying to get on their feet," said Jean Holmes of Northville, co-chairing the project with Caldwell.

Holmes, 62, is a retired second-grade teacher at Fisher Elementary School in Redford and a former Redford resident.

A reporter and photographer come around 6 p.m., shortly after the guests have arrived for dinner. The instructions are clear: Respect the privacy of the guests.

Aldersgate volunteered to shelter the homeless after several members of its congregation assisted at a similar project at Newburgh United Methodist Church of Livonia last fall.

Chow time: Friendly chatter and good food were two things served with meals for the homeless at Aldersgate United Methodist Church in Redford. In the kitchen, Wes Webb used hot pads to get a tray of scalloped potatoes from the oven for dinner, while Marie Brownell wore a big smile while making sure glasses were filled with milk.

Can-do project

"In a nutshell, I thought if our church couldn't do something, who could?" Millerd said.

Once some initial misgivings were allayed, most of the church members got behind the idea.

"Let's face it, there but for the grace of God go I," said Betty Barget, 66, of Redford.

All of the church's groups, from youth to senior citizens, chipped in money and time to organize the meals, personal necessities and entertainment.

Caldwell estimates the cost for the week-long project at $1,500. Additional expenses will be incurred for bus transportation.

Many local businesses donated cereal, canned food and doughnuts. Garden City Hospital offered packets of personal care goods, including soap and shaving gear.

"I appreciate the opportunity to say there are people who care about the homeless," Parr said. "The spirit of generosity has been overwhelming."

The dinners, prepared by the various church groups, have included chicken and rice, sloppy joes and spaghetti, complete with salad, vegetable and dessert.

Friendly chatter

"Who wants seconds?" calls a volunteer, carrying a tray of apple pie wedges. "Save some room for ice cream."

There is an abundance of food. Any surplus will be donated to a soup kitchen or shelter.

During the evening, the guests watch TV and munch on snacks. Church members have arranged for special entertainment, including jugglers and singers.

Although there are no bathing facilities, a hair-washing station has been set up and furnished with towels and shampoo.

At 11 p.m. the lights go out. Men and women sleep in separate areas, using mattresses, sheets and blankets provided by the homeless drop-in center.

"I think it has brought the church members together," Holmes said.

Such projects can produce "enormous rewards" for a congregation, according to the Rev. David Church of Newburg United Methodist, which hosted two separate sheltering sessions last fall.

Bald eagle spottings rare, spectacular

TIMOTHY NOWICKI

Bald eagles are not a common sight in Michigan, especially in the lower third of the lower peninsula, but encounters with this species are increasing everywhere.

A few years ago one was spotted around Christmas time in northern Oakland County. A couple years ago two separate observers called the Detroit Audubon Society and indicated they had seen a bald eagle on I-75 near 12 Mile Road. Near Detroit Edison's nuclear power plant in Monroe, Michigan there has been a nesting pair of eagles during the past few years.

A few years ago, while watching my daughter at a playground in Livonia, I looked up and saw what looked like a bald eagle high overhead. Despite the altitude of the bird I could tell it was a large bird. It's white head and tail blended with the light blue of the sky, and all I could really define were the two large wings. It was undoubtedly a migrant heading south for the winter.

Just recently, while with a group at Ottawa National Wildlife Refuge east of Toledo on US-2, we got a chance to see three eagles within 45 minutes. One of our group spotted a "hawk" in the distance. When I looked at it initiallly I thought it was too large for a hawk at that distance. After a closer examination my suspicion was verified, it was not a hawk, it was an eagle.

By this time everyone in the group had the bird in their binoculars and noticed a second bird approaching the first one. There was a noticable difference in size between the two birds. Males are smaller and females are larger. These eagles were not adults, they did not display the white head and tail of the 4- to 5-year-old birds.

As we watched the two birds, they suddenly approached each other and grabbed talons. One bird was upside down and the other approached from the top. Once they grabbed hold of each other's feet they began to fall. They started high in the sky and then with tangled talons tumbled and tumbled downward out of control. They tumbled out of control for several seconds until they went out of sight below the tree top horizon.

Rally behind push for historic marker

A state historic marker should stand sentry outside the old Beech Road School in Redford Union. Why? Because a school building has stood at Beech Daly and Margareta, south of Seven Mile, since 1842.

"The site is the oldest school-designated property in the township," says Sybil Raeside, who chairs the Redford Township Historical Commission. "There's a lot of history behind that property — the existing bell tower dates back to the early part of this century."

Students as well as others will benefit from the historical snapshot provided by a wolverine-capped, green-and-gold state historic marker.

Says Dr. Lyle Kinsey, assistant superintendent for administrative services and Redford Union's unofficial historian:

"History is a bridge between the past and present. Unless you understand and appreciate where you've been, you really can't have enough understanding and appreciation of where you are right now."

A marker will give students, especially, "some sense of history of the school district and surrounding community," he added.

School's role varied

In 1842, the Minor family deeded land to Redford School District No. 5 for $1. Within 40 years, a white, clapboard school had replaced the original log cabin school. Both had one room.

Before World War I, the present Beech Road School was built. It boasted two classrooms and two storage rooms. An annex was added in 1954.

By 1965, Beech housed a program for disadvantaged students. In the '70s, it became an instructional materials center, a role that continues today.

"The fact a schoolhouse has sat on the same piece of property for well over 150 years ought to be marked," said Kinsey, who has written a history of the Redford Union schools.

Redford Union came about between 1909 and 1919, when several small districts formed a "union."

Both the township and the schools faced extinction when Detroit annexed two-thirds of each in 1926.

"'We were left without a high school," Kinsey said. "Detroit's Redford High School had been our high school. Look closely above that school's main entrance and you'll see 'Redford Union.' "

That name appears on at least six elementaries built in the '20s in Detroit's Old Redford area, Kinsey says. Redford Union's high school moved three more times before finding a permanent home at Kinloch and Curtis in 1961.

After the Detroit annexation, the Redford Union school board moved to Beech Road School, then to Volney Smith School and later to what's now Hilbert Junior High. In 1961, it moved to the Beech Road School annex.

Historians team up

Kinsey, who joined Redford Union as a junior high teacher in 1956, has teamed up with Raeside to apply to the state Bureau of History for a historic marker.

A marker could cost up to $2,000. The historical commission will host fund-raisers. The school board must approve any district expenditure.

Cost hasn't been discussed but the school board approves conceptually of marking this significant part of Redford Union history.

Says president Jack Daggs:

"The school board all responded positively to bringing the school some recognition. Too much of history is torn down. There's been a fight over the years just to keep the building. There's a lot to be learned from preserving part of a community's past on a historic marker."

Kinsey, who helped stock the school district's historical display in the school board offices, suggested the marker idea to Raeside after a similar marker went up outside the old Beech School in South Redford in 1991.

The suggestion excited Raeside:

"We don't have too many historical buildings left in the township. So we're trying to mark what few we have with some historical significance.

"I do think there's an interest in the markers. People do see them and stop. And when they do, they learn we do have some history, some interesting history, here in Redford."

Rosiness stems from a caring hand

■ Try growing roses for a summer of special beauty. But make sure you cultivate them with tender loving care.

By Marty Figley
Special Writer

There's no mystique to growing roses and the rewards are great, say Frank VonKoss of Birmingham and George Hartley of Redford Township, both of whom have been growing them for many years.

Now that it's May, both men recommend pruning out the dead wood immediately, although in April more severe pruning could have been done. Around the 10th of April is the time to begin uncovering roses, pruning and preparing for another season.

VonKoss says the beds should be cleaned at this time while Hartley prefers a fall cleanup. He also covers the bushes with bean hampers a couple of days to reduce plant shock after removing the Styrofoam cones. VonKoss agrees that gradual removal of winter protection is best.

"By removing the lower leaves of the bushes up to six inches from ground level," Hartley said, "the area will stay clean."

"Mulch may prevent blackspot by protecting the bush from splashing up under the leaves and spreading it," VonKoss added. "Mulches also insulate the soil from weeds."

"Roses are heavy feeders," Hartley said. "Each year the beds need humus (manure, compost and peat) added and worked well into the soil."

He uses a complete fertilizer the first of May, June and July and Aug. 15. "I apply it six inches away from the bud union and lightly cultivate it around the plant."

VonKoss prefers a water-soluable fertilizer. "Another booster is to apply about two-thirds cup of Epsom salts (magnesium)," he said. "Water it well, then repeat this treat-

Nature spurs him to put brush to canvas

■ WILDLIFE

From a pair of curious otters resting on a riverbank to a family of five raccoons living in a tree hollow, artist David Bollman steals the thunder from Mother Nature for a few fleeting moments with a dynamic display of artwork from his Southpaw Studio.

Bollman's 35-piece exhibition of oil and acrylic paintings, watercolors and prints presented by the Livonia Arts Commission and the city of Livonia continues through May 29 in the lobby of Livonia City Hall, Farmington Road at Five Mile.

"My childhood experiences (growing up in rural areas on the east side) instilled in me a passion for nature," Bollman said.

Visitors passing through the show, highlighting nature in all its splendor, become lost in the wonder of wildlife and wilderness. Timber wolves, snow geese, whistling swans, great egrets and mule deer revel in the silence.

"There's something about the spiritual aspect of nature. In my latest paintings with the light source, there's a sense of creation, of nature having been created by a being far superior to man," Bollman said.

Through his work, the nationally recognized artist hopes to teach children and adults the importance of having wild places.

"You have to look at nature. Nature is the root of all design," Bollman said.

Early experiences

At 13, Bollman learned about nature and animal anatomy firsthand through a taxidermy correspondence course.

"My philosophy with painting nature, I'm not trying to paint idyllic scenes," Bollman said. "Nature is very harsh."

Until a few years ago, Bollman said, he hunted because he believed it "necessary to manage game." After shooting a buck, he walked up to where the animal was and began to cry.

"I couldn't believe I'd killed this magnificent creature," Bollman said.

■ BUNGALOW DEDICATION

Re-opening of the Geer bungalow at a ceremony at 4:15 p.m. Sunday, May 31, will officially complete re-creation of the Newburgh Road/Ann Arbor Trail intersection, circa 1910-25, at Livonia's Greenmead Historical Village.

The crossroads village of Newburg once was a prosperous farming community with its own post office and daily mail service.

The Geer bungalow sits next to the Geer General Store. Alan and Hattie Geer sold dry goods, hardware, groceries and elixers during their ownership from 1912 to 1916.

The Geers and their two children rented the four room, 1½-story house, described as very ordinary, from 1913 to 1916.

The white-clapboard house cost $15,000 to move in 1979 and $85,000 to restore over the past three years. It will feature period furnishings, according to the Livonia Historical Commission.

■ FUTURE GROWTH

Three Observerland residents were among students at the Center for Creative Studies in Detroit exhibiting concepts for future growth and rebuilding of our cities.

Les Wiley and Robert Shapton of Livonia and John Gomez of Canton teamed up with fellow students in CCS's industrial design curriculum to fashion "Design for Detroit Riverfront from Belle Isle to the Renaissance Center."

The recent exhibition was in the South Atrium of River Place Apartments on the Detroit River.

FOCUS ON PHOTOGRAPHY

MONTE NAGLER

■ Here's a good rule to follow: Use your tripod when the shutter speed (as a whole number) is slower than the focal length of the lens on the camera.

A good tripod is a valuable piece of equipment every photographer should own. Without one, many photographic opportunities will be forsaken and many exciting shots missed.

Most tripods are constructed of light metals such as aluminum. These are fine because they are lightweight and easily fold for storage. For greater stability, always extend the "thickest" legs first. And, to increase sturdiness, place one of the legs pointed forward under the lens.

Two kinds of tripod heads are available. The most common has separate handles for panning and tilting. A second kind contains a single handle that unlocks a ball joint to permit turns and tilts in any direction. Which is best for you is a matter of personal preference.

When should you use a tripod? While a tripod will always produce a sharper picture, here's a good rule to follow: Use your tripod when the shutter speed (as a whole number) is slower than the focal length of the lens on the camera.

For example, the nearest shutter speed to your 50mm lens is 1/60 second. This means you can hand hold your camera at speeds of 1/60 or faster. But if lighting conditions demand a speed of 1/30 or slower, better get out your tripod.

When using your 200mm lens, it's OK to shoot at 1/250 second but with slower speeds, bring out that tripod.

Night is a great time for tripods. Beautiful photographs are obtained after dark not only of street scenes but also of floodlit buildings and monuments.

Another use of tripods is in shooting photographs that intentionally show motion.

It's common to "freeze" flowing water in a waterfall with a fast shutter speed, but what if that same waterfall is shot with a time exposure on a tripod? You'll get a totally different result with the water appearing as a soft blur that gives a feeling a movement and mood to your photograph.

Try it sometime. Keep in mind, you'll require a very small aperture and perhaps filtration in order to get the slow shutter speed you'll need.

One other reminder: A cable release goes hand-in-hand with a tripod. Use one every time you take a shot on your tripod.

What if you're out shooting and the situation arises where you should use a tripod, but you've left it home? Try to improvise by tucking your elbows in, spreading your feet apart, and bracing yourself against a wall or tree. Or you can set your camera on a fence post or car hood for steadiness.

Better yet, keep your tripod handy at all times.

Romantic falls: Use of a steady tripod enabled Monte Nagler to make this dramatic photograph of Oregon's Punch Bowl Falls. A six-second time exposure gives the water its milky, romantic look.

His work has graced the covers of Michigan Outdoors Digest and greeting cards of the Michigan Cancer Foundation and Hospice Foundation of Michigan. He was named Michigan Outdoors Artist of the Year two years in a row.

Acquiring discipline

After graduating with a bachelor of fine arts degree from the Center for Creative Studies in Detroit, Bollman worked as art director for a publications company. The 13-year stint in commercial art instilled in him the discipline necessary to meet deadlines and honed his design skills.

Bollman begins a painting by making thumbnail sketches. Study and research of the animal or bird and environment in which they live remain essential to creating a composition.

Preferably, Bollman studies them in their natural habitat, but if not possible, he seeks them out at zoos, nature preserves and museums.

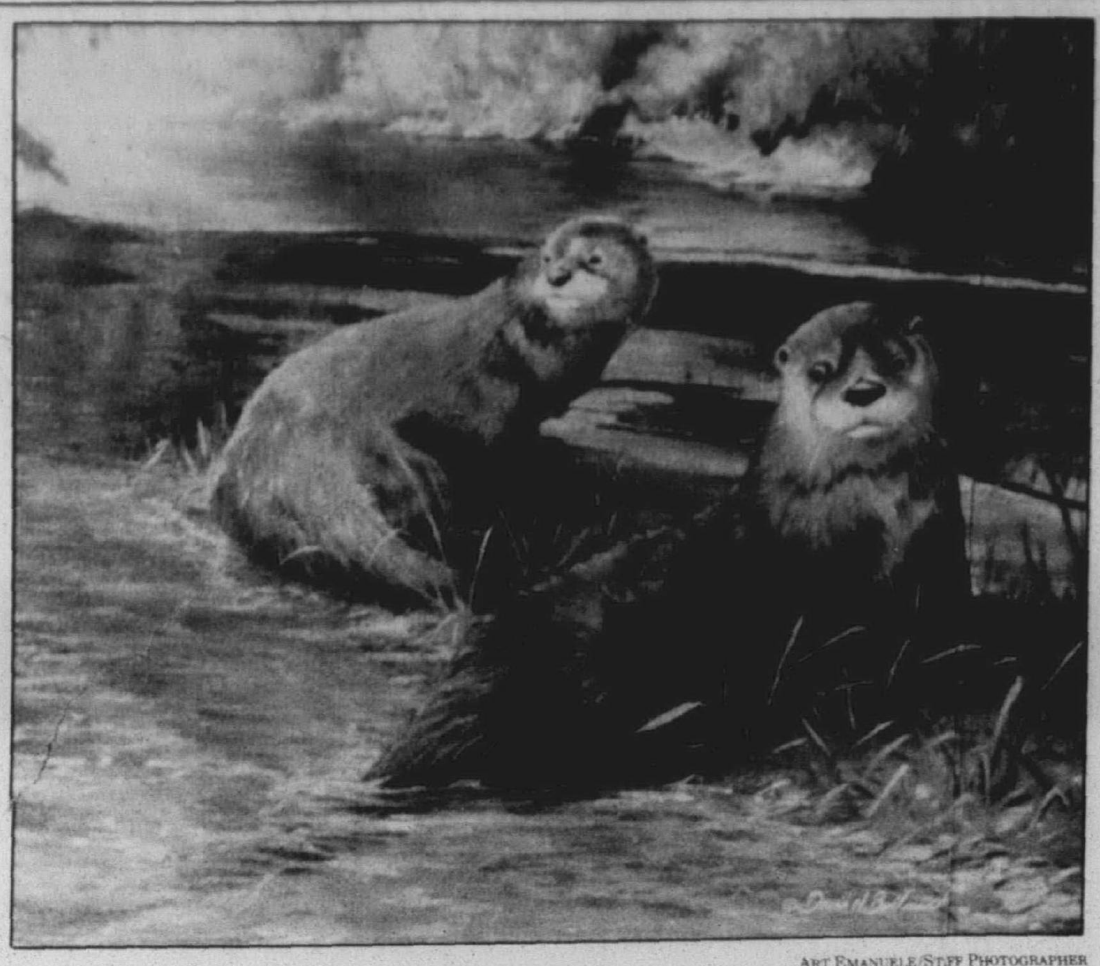

"I learned that in commercial art. I make several thumbnail sketches before I get the composition to where I feel comfortable with the gestures of the animals or birds. You want to capture the gesture or movement of an animal walking or a bird as it rides the wind," Bollman said.

Like the impressionists, Bollman prefers plein-air, or open-air, painting, working directly from life out-of-doors in oils.

A painting symposium held in Yellowstone Park last summer triggered changes in his palette. Michigan's muted tones of brown, gray and forest green were magically transformed into a refreshing light-filled spectrum of red, orange, yellow, green, blue and violet.

Oil's richness

"Shadow Play" by Bollman sparkles the sky and river with glints of red, yellow, blue and green. The oil painting focuses on two otters resting on a riverbank. On the alert for intruders, the usually playful pair gaze at the viewer with apprehension and subdued curiosity.

ART EMANUELE/STAFF PHOTOGRAPHER

Behind the otters, light plays through the trees to land in the shimmering water, revealing a rainbow of color. In the foreground, Bollman repeats the dazzling effects of light in a tributary and in the otter's fur coats.

"Acrylics dry faster, but what I like about oil is the creaminess of the paint and the texture I can achieve," Bollman said.

Undoubtedly, the incredible experiences in Yellowstone last summer left an indelible mark on him. While painting outdoors by the water's edge, Bollman heard splashing noises. He looked up to find a herd of buffalo headed straight for him. As the buffalo reached the spot where he stood, like the Red Sea, they parted, leaving him physically untouched.

With memories like these, it's easy to understand why Bollman is dedicated to raising money for wildlife organizations across the country by donating paintings.

Bollman's "Resplendent Duet," a limited-edition, signed print on display in the city hall show, can be obtained by making a $150 pledge to a Michigan public television station before Sept. 1.

"I like to return something to nature if I can to benefit what I paint. PBS's nature programming can't be found anywhere else. It's a real honor to be involved with PBS," Bollman said.

A drawing for "Bluebirds in Springtime," a limited-edition, signed print by Bollman, will be held May 29. Stop by the city hall to see the show and submit your name and phone number.

Show hours are 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. through Friday, May 29.

Make a note on your calendar for early April 1993 to apply one tablespoon amonium nitrate per gallon of water then. Both agree that watering before and after fertilization is a must. Those little feeder roots must not get burned.

When to spray

VonKoss sprays with a fungicide and insecticide in spring. Hartley says that early morning, after the dew evaporates, or evening, not during the hot part of the day, is the best time to spray. "In hot weather," he said, "cut the dosage by one half."

"Don't use dormant sprays in the spring because they will kill the 'eyes' (the place where the leaf attaches to the cane)," VonKoss said.

Dormant spray should be used about the 15th of November. The June 1990 issue of Greenhouse Manager magazine reports that Cornell University conducted tests with sodium bicarbonate (baking soda) mixed with water and found that this spray was effective in preventing an attack of blackspot.

"Soak the bushes once a week in normal weather to attain a minimum of one inch of moisture a week. Don't get water on the foliage. Morning or early afternoon is the best time to water," Hartley said.

"Be sure the soil is very moist if you water by hand," VonKoss added.

If three buds form on one branch, thumb prune (rub out) the smaller buds and leave the center one if one large rose is desired. Don't do this until after there is no possible chance of frost.

Harold W. Fish, of Cedar Rapids, Iowa, reports that the University of Texas and the University of Nebraska have conducted tests and found that the more leaves that are left on the plant when removing spent blooms, the more vigorous the growth and the greater the number of blooms. Less winter kill and earlier flowers was another benefit. Of course, weak stems must be cut farther down on the stem so new growth will be strong.

How to choose

When buying roses, look for a short shank (the area between the roots and the bud union). The bud union should be small and have at least three good unblemished canes growing from it.

Canes should be uniform, with the buds still dormant or just beginning to swell. The bud union must have no cracks or damage and the crown must be clean. Be sure there is no drying or darkening on the tips of canes beyond one-half-inch. Roses that are packed in bags should be solid, heavy and damp.

April 15 to May 5 is the best time to plant roses so that they can become well established, although potted roses can be planted any time during the growing season, VonKoss said. The ideal site is a protected area that gets six hours of sun daily. Roses like a soil pH of 6.5 to 7.0.

To plant bare root roses, dig a hole 12 inches deep by 18 inches wide, remove the soil and mix it with one-third each peat, perlite or vermiculite. Put one cup of bone meal in the hole and then mound the soil/organic mixture. Place the plant on the mound and carefully spread the roots evenly over it.

In this temperature zone, the bud union needs to be about one and a half inches below ground level after the soil settles. Add two-thirds soil mixture; apply water to ground level. After it soaks in, fill the hole with the rest of the soil and mound the remaining soil 8-10 inches around the bush. Water well. When buds swell, remove the soil mound.

The Metropolitan Rose Society welcomes members. Call VonKoss, president, at 646-0249. American Rose Society, P.O. Box 30,000, Shreveport, LA 71130; The All-American Rose Selection Inc., 221 N. Artist speaks for Mother Earth

As Garden City's Artist of the Month, Barbb's dark, foreboding acrylic paintings continue on display through May 31 at city hall, 6000 Middlebelt, Garden City.

"I like to give a message. That's all that's going to be left. The earth is disintegrating because of man. We're polluting the earth," Barbb said.

"February of the Year 2404" speaks of the future, a barren and rocky landscape lacking any vegetation.

"I did it for dramatics. It's where you want it to be," Barbb said.

PAUL HUSCHMANN/STAFF PHOTOGRAPHER

Gloomy forecast: "Mother Earth," an abstract acrylic painting by Ken Barbb forecasts a dismal future for nature and man. He gives a chilling message by using bleak images and an unusual palette.

REAL ESTATE NEWS

Unreimbursed moving expenses can be deductible

If you had to uproot your family to take a new job, don't assume you have to bear the financial burden of the move on your own. Uncle Sam may help you. According to the Michigan Associaton of CPAs, if your employer is not reimbursing you for your moving expenses, many of them may be tax deductible.

To take a deduction for qualified moving expenses, you must itemize on your tax return. Some moving expenses are deductible in full and others within limits. In either case, your moving costs are subject to a distance test and a time test for remaining in your new location.

To qualify for a tax deduction, Congress has ruled that the distance between your new job and your former home must be at least 35 miles more than the distance between your old job location and yor former home. To establish how far your home is from your new job, you must use the shortest route possible.

Your ability to take a tax deduction for unreimbursed moving expenses also depends on how long you live in the new location. Tax law requires that you stay in the new area and remain a full-time employee there for at least 39 weeks during the 12-month period following your arrival at the new job location.

What if six months after moving to accommodate a new job, you fall victim to an unexpected round of company layoffs? As long as you didn't voluntarily leave your position, your moving expenses will still be tax deductible. But if you voluntarily leave the job that required your relocation, you must find another full-time position in the same location or your tax deduction will be disallowed.

If you are self-employed, you are required to meet a stricter time test. You must work full time for at least 78 weeks during the 24 months immediately following your arrival and must work at least 39 weeks in the first 12 months.

For tax purposes, moving expenses are classified into two categories: direct expenses, which are fully deductible, and indirect expenses, which are deductible within limits. Direct expenses include those associated with moving your household items and personal possessions to your new home. Expenses that are fully deductible are fees paid to moving companies, insurance costs for the items being moved, as well as costs for moving or shipping an automobile to a new location. You may even take a tax deduction for the costs of connecting and disconnecting utilities.

The costs you and your family members incur to get your new residence are also fully deductible. These include expenses for transportation and lodging, and 80 percent of your meal costs. If you drove your car, you are entitled to deduct the actual costs of gas and oil for your car or nine cents per mile. If your old home was not usable the day before you moved, you may deduct costs associated with staying elsewhere for that day, as well as any lodging expenses you incurred on the day you arrived at your new home.

The money you spend looking for a new home, costs associated with selling your old home, and expenses from temporary living quarters are considered indirect expenses and are deductible up to specific limits. The maximum amount you can deduct for indirect moving expenses is $3,000. No more than $1,500 incurred for house hunting trips and for temporary living expenses is deductible.

Despite these limits, you still have the opportunity to take some tax deductions that can ease the financial burden of moving. Real estate agent commissions, attorney fees, transfer taxes, and any other costs necessary to sell your residence and buy a new one are deductible.

CPAs point out that high income earners face certain limitations on their itemized deductions. If your adjusted gross icnome is more than $100,000 (or $50,000 if your are married filing separately), check with a tax adviser to determine the extent to which your moving expenses are deductible.

Management company covers tracks by blaming others

CONDO QUERIES

ROBERT M. MEISNER

I am a member of the board of directors and am thoroughly disgusted with our management company. It lies to cover up its own misdeeds, blaming the association's CPA or the insurance agent, as the case may be. Some of the board members think the management company can do no wrong, but it has pulled the wool over the board's eyes" for many years. How can I expose the management company for what they are?

You may wish to elicit the support of the association's attorney to asist you. But if the attorney and the managment company have a "relationship," you may not be able to accomplish that result, particularly if the management company has been responsible for the attorney getting involved in this and other projects. I would keep a list of the alleged misdeeds by the management company and confront the management company directly at a board meeting with respect to these matters. If, in fact, the management company is undermining the other professionals servicing the association to cover its own tracks, the rest of the board should be apprised to that and should take action to remove the management company for what is clearly a breach of its fiduciary duty.

I am selling my home on a land contract with a balloon payment at the end. The land contract purchaser has been paying the monthly payments, but has not paid the taxes or insurance. I am concerned that he may default at the balloon payment because his monthly payments are very low. What can I do?

You should review the terms of the land contract with your attorney to determine what your remedies are. You may either declare a forfeiture or otherwise foreclose on the land contract. It may be that your purchaser is basically stringing you along with no intent to pay the balloon payment since apparently the monthly payments are relatively nominal.

To the extent that he may be preparing to walk, in which case you are probably better off pursuing him at this point to get your property back or sue him for the money that is owed. In any event, check to see whether you have a right to pay the taxes and insurance to preserve your rights to the property pending further legal action. You obviously do not want the property to revert to the taxing authority because of nonpament of taxes and you do not want a casualty to occur for which you do not have insurance. You should attend to these matters as soon as possible.

Top builders exchange ideas

Gilbert "Buzz" Silverman, co-chairman of Holtzman & Silverman Cos. of Farmington Hills, gave as well as received during the 10th annual Builders 100 Conference in Phoenix.

Builder Magazine, published by the National Association of Home Builders, sponsored the three-day gathering for the largest volume residential builders around the country.

Gilbert Silverman

Silverman, attending his seventh conference, spoke about a unique financing arrangement involving building trades pension funds for his Village Green of Troy East apartment development.

"They found it interesting," he said. "The general consensus of the group is that privately owned companies have an edge. They're more reactive. They can make decisions quicker."

"You meet formally and informally . . . to discuss concepts, issues, solutions, directions, product line," he said. "Everything from finance to executive compensation structure, from architecture to best-selling floor plans."

What specifically made an impression?

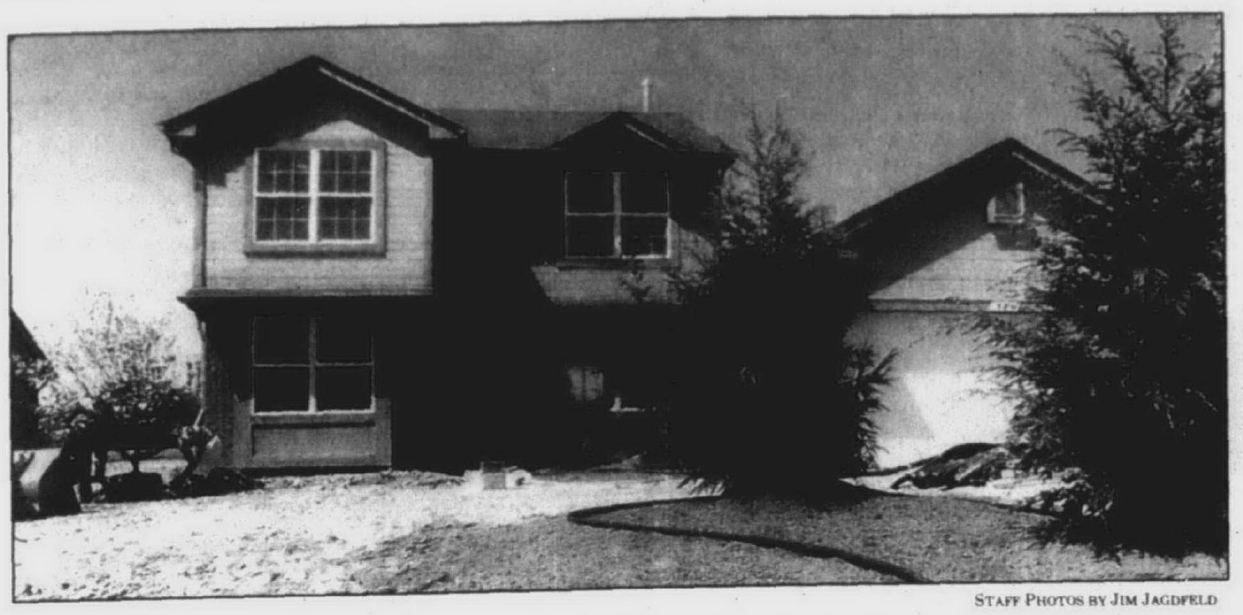

"A company's reputation has become more and more important to the buying public in terms of service, quality, length of time in business, track record," Silverman said. "Consumers coming into the '90s are much more product conscious and product knowledgeable.

"Another thing we found interesting is that more and more builders are doing something we learned about last year," he added. "They're spending more time designing exactly what buyers request rather than what the builder thinks is best.

"We do consumer preferencing. We put together a group who have bought or consider buying. What they say they want, we give them, generally," Silverman.

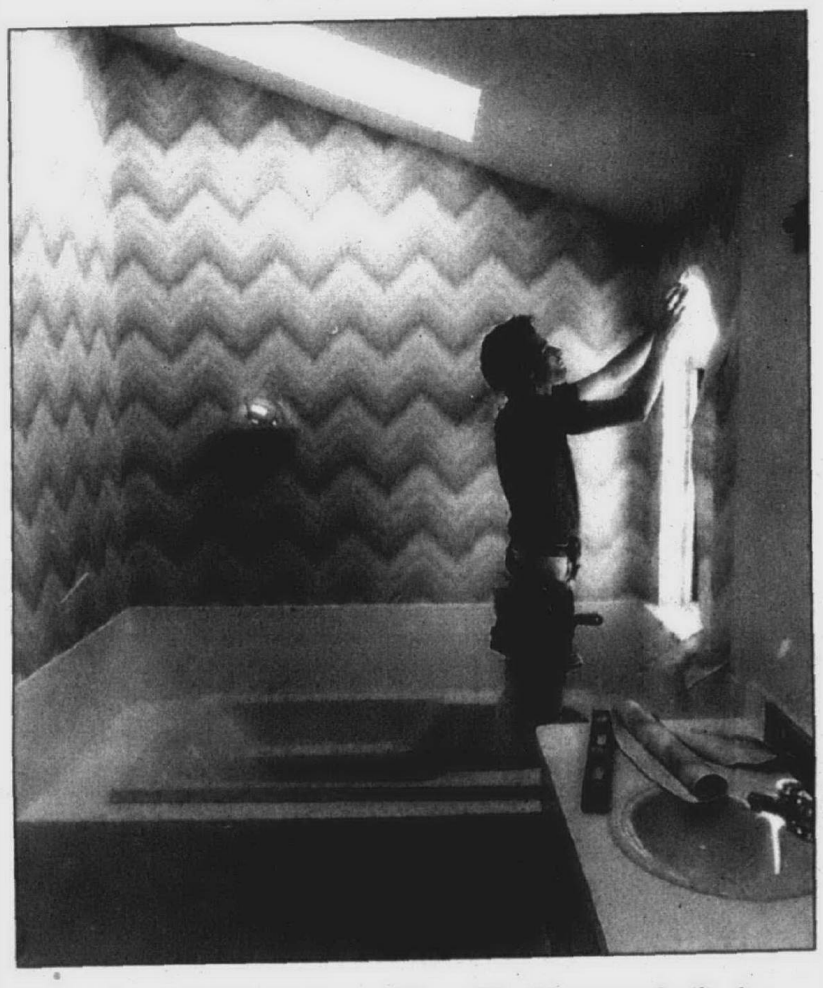

Two other area builders qualified for the Builder 100 Conference but didn't attend.

Pulte Home Corp., based in Bloomfield Hills, ranked second nationally with 6,686 units finished last year and Edward Rose Building Enterprises of Southfield ranked 48th with 845 units, according to Builder Magazine.

Suburban builders rediscover Detroit

'Unmet market demand' has piqued the interest of area builders whose homes will be open for viewing during June's Homearama in Detroit. Visitors will stroll through the first major subdivision built in the city in nearly 30 years.

Builders with ties to Observer & Eccentric communities continue to put finishing touches on more than half of the 25 houses under construction for the Detroit Homearama scheduled June 4-21 in Victoria Park Subdivision.

The second of three Homearamas sponsored this year by the Builders Association of Southeastern Michigan is the first nationally in an urban rather than suburban setting, promoters say.

BBC Group of Farmington Hills, Beneicke & Krue of Bloomfield Hills, Crosswinds Communities of West Bloomfield, Singh & Shapiro of Southfield and Biltmore Properties of Troy are building two models each for the showcase of idea homes. Janet Compo of Farmington Hills is constructing three.

"The city is my hometown," Compo said. "I am very much concerned about what happens. If we don't revitalize all American cities, we're killing ourselves."

Compo's three Homearama models, which include lot, landscaping and other extras, are priced at $96,500 to $110,000. All three already have been sold. Compo said she expects to build upwards of 20 houses in Victoria Park and 10 in the nearby Berry Subdivision starting at about $200,000.

She and her husband, James, normally build custom houses priced at several hundred thousand dollars.

"We've always built in all price ranges and have done a tremendous amount of remodeling," Compo said. "We can't put all things in (Homearama models), but we try to maintain our quality control."

Stephen Taglione, president of BBC Group, pointed out that the Homearama site is the first large subdivision to arise in the city in three decades.

Fewer concessions in office leasing

The office market in the northern and western suburbs showed signs of improvement during the first three months of this year, according to separate reports prepared by Cushman & Wakefield and Grubb & Ellis.

Generally speaking, office owners could be cheered that no new major projects are under way and fewer concessions are being offered to prospective tenants in existing buildings.

Grubb & Ellis and Cushman & Wakefield found a silver lining in every O&E submarket. Both firms, property managers/brokers/consultants, are based in Southfield.

- Effective rental rates in Southfield averaged 10 percent below asking rates for the first quarter of this year compared to 12 percent for the January-March period of 1991. — Grubb & Ellis.
- Troy topped all suburban markets in terms of leasing activity during the quarter with 264,000 square feet. — Cushman & Wakefield.
- Vacancy rates in Birmingham declined to 18.1 percent from 19.2 during the first quarter of 1991. — Cushman & Wakefield.
- Tenants are renewing in existing buildings and available space in the Birmingham/Bloomfield market is generally scattered except for the newly opened J. West Hunter Building. — Grubb & Ellis.
- Leasing activity tripled and weighted average asking rent in Farmington Hills, the second lowest in the metro area, remained stable at $16.50 per square foot. — Cushman & Wakefield.
- Overall absorption in Livonia, Farmington Hills and Novi during just the first quarter was 80 percent of total absorption for those three communities during all of 1991. — Grubb & Ellis.

"We're still in a digestion process taking in overbuilding of the late '80s," said Keith D. Sant, director and branch manager for Cushman & Wakefield of Michigan.

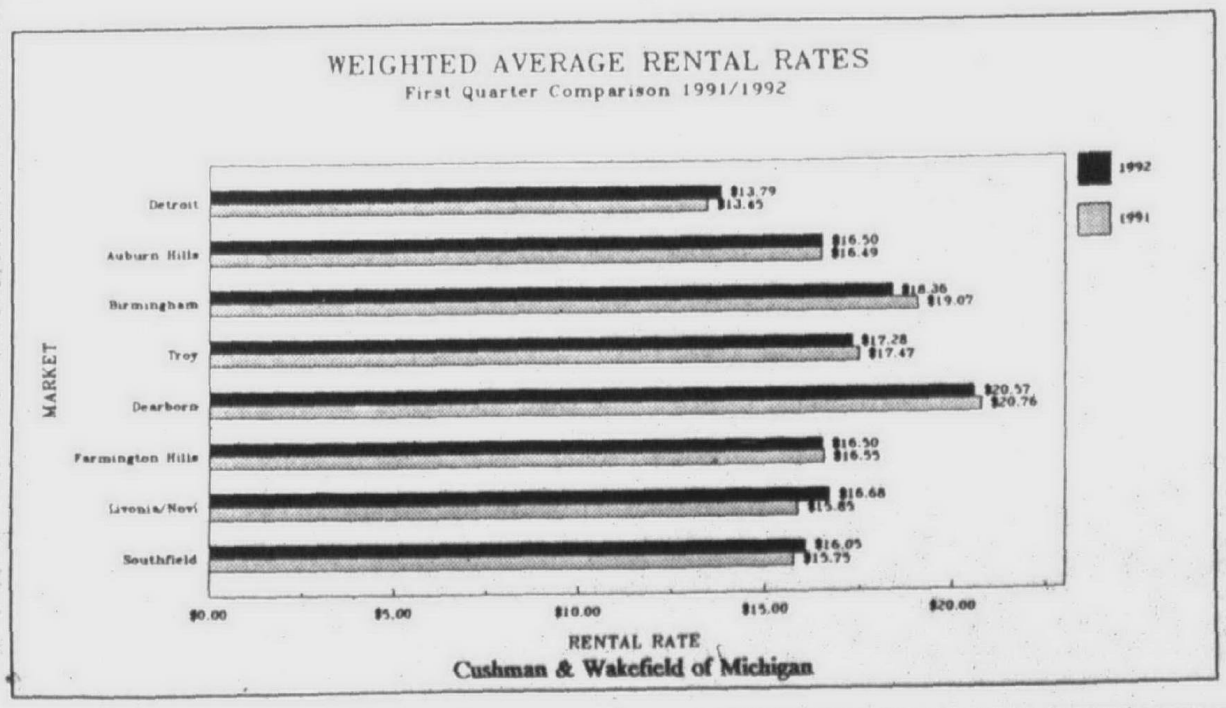

"We're getting through it and starting to see signs of firming in the market in terms of rents and vacancies," he added.

"I think . . . the fact that there's virtually no new construction being added, we're in a transition period going from a market with an awful lot of concessions to fewer concessions," said Dennis R. Burnside, senior vice president for Grubb & Ellis.

"Tenants will not see concessions of the late 1980s," he added.

"Deals so aggressive that landlords can't cover debt service could be a bad deal long term for tenants," Sant said. "They may not be able to satisfy building services."

Incentives needed

He sees good things ahead for residential construction within the Detroit city limits if several things fall into place — low-cost land, available mortgage money and property tax breaks for buyers in depressed urban communities.

"A builder's job is to seek out new markets," Taglione said. "We perceived an unserved market within the city limits and we went after it.

"We did find groups of people looking for new housing . . . generally professional types — engineers, teachers. People who would make great neighbors anywhere, any place, anytime," he said.

The value of lots made available to Homearama builders for $1 translated into a savings of about $30,000 for city buyers, Taglione said.

Both models — a 1,650-square-foot colonial priced at $102,990 and a 1,340-square-foot ranch priced at $111,000 — are still available. Buyers have options on nine other lots available to Taglione.

John Beneicke, president of Beneicke & Krue, said he may make money on his Homearama models. Then again, maybe not.

"Usually, when we get involved in a subdivision, we look at 100, 200 homes . . . to justify a concentrated effort. In our business, we see this (Homearama) as a great opportunity to put something back into the city," he said.

Savings realized

Beneicke usually prices his houses in suburbia at $250,000 to $500,000. His two models in Detroit are priced at $145,000 for four bedrooms and $135,000 for three.

Those Homearama models typically are half to two-thirds as large as his suburban houses, Beneicke said.

"We're passing along the free lot to purchasers," he said. "We designed homes for Homearama smaller. We haven't cut down quality, just the size."

Crosswind Communities jumped on the Homearama bandwagon fairly late, said David Eisenberg, a vice president. "When we saw what the demand was, we felt, 'Why not be part of it?' It makes sense."

Crosswinds, which offers models in Westland for less than $100,000, has priced a four-bedroom, 2½ bath colonial at Homearama for $98,990. Crosswinds has sold one model and several other lots in the subdivision.

Eisenberg anticipates that Crosswinds also will build in Victoria Park's second phase. Partnerships between financial institutions, the city of Detroit and builders is what will bring even more new housing stock to Detroit, he said.

"When something like that happens, everyone is willing to cooperate; it does work," Eisenberg said.

"We did it because the builder's association decided to do it and I'm on the board of directors," said Abe Ran, Biltmore vice president.

Building hubbub: Victoria Park, site of the next Homearama, receives its finishing touches before opening to visitors on June 4.

AIA awards at Cranbrook

Brendan Gill, author and New Yorker architecture columnist, will discuss the "Disneyization in Architecture" in his keynote address at the 1992 honor awards program of the American Institute of Architects Detroit on Saturday at the Cranbrook Academy of Art Museum in Bloomfield Hills.

For the first time, the AIA is inviting the public to attend.

"This is the first year the program has included daylong activities which highlight the beauty and importance of architecture," said Robert Ziegelman, president of AIA Detroit. "We wished to make our efforts available to the general public so they they too could see and appreciate the significant impact architecture has on our surrounding environment.

The program scehdule includes:

- A tour of Cranbrook Academy, starting at 1 p.m., and an architecture exhibit including the 1992 AIA Detroit winnning submission, rerpesentative work of local schools of architecture, winning projects of the Michigan Architectureal Foundation High School Design Competiton and a student competition that focuses ond eveloping shelters for the homeless. The art museum will also be open.
- Gill's speech at 2:30 p.m. in deSalle Auditorium.
- Discussion by representatives from the winning architectural firms on their projects at 3:30 p.m. in the lower gallery. Sketches, models, renderings, construction documents and drawing boards will be on display.
- Presentation of awards at 4:15 p.m. in deSalle.
- Reception from 5:30 to 7:30 p.m. in the gallery and gardens.

Honor awards will be presented to the following firms:

- Wiliam Kessler & Associates, formerly Meathe, Kessler & Associates wil receive the 25-year award. It will be honored for the Mr. & Mrs. Arthur Beckwith residentce in Franklin.
- Kenneth Neumann/Joel Smith & Associates, an interior architecture award for New Corporate Offices in Detroit.
- Harley, Ellington, Pierce and Yee Associates, an interior architecture award, for the private family chapel of Midwest USA.
- Luckenbach/Ziegelman & Partners, an honor award for the Chester Street Parking Structure in Birmingham.

The Gold Medal Award, the highest honor of the chapter, will be presented to Thomas Lucas Jr., former founder and chairman of the Argos Group, a Southfield facility management and architecture firm.

"It's expensive to move," Burnside said.

But all of the suburban office news isn't upbeat comparing the first three months of this year to last.

Weighted average asking rents in Birmingham declined by nearly 4 percent to $18.36 from $19.07 and the vacancy rate jumped by 4½ percentage points to 18.9 percent in the Livonia/Novi markets, Cushman & Wakefield reported.

Southfield's vacancy rate of 23 percent was the highest among all submarkets surveyed, according to Grubb & Ellis. Also, Class B and C buildings — older structures with fewer amenities in less desirable locations — account for 40 percent of all office space there.

Some 2.3 million square feet of prime Class A office space was vacant in Troy, much of it concentrated along the Big Beaver Road Corridor, Grubb & Ellis reported.
