Graham 'non-entity'

Regarding Graham, MD said, "I think it's a shame. She is a leader in the community who has faith in me. The people who supported me before obviously have continued to support me. And I think my four years on the board earned respect for me."

Graham refutes the charges, saying, "The fact that I still represent a segment of the community who have faith in me. The people who supported me before obviously have continued to support me. And I think my four years on the board earned respect for me."

Graham said the election was a surprise. "I had no idea I was being called for. I was just trying to do my job and do what I could for the town."

"I had a good feeling about the election day," Graham said. "The turnout was good. I was glad to see that. And I was glad to see that the voters were making their voices heard."

Future plans

There are several things MD plans to pursue, including working on the board of directors of the Red Cross of Southeast Michigan. "I'm also very much interested in the AIDS project of Rotary International," said MD Graham, who has been asked to be a member of Rotary. "I'd like to serve as chairman of the organization's AIDS task force."

"I'd like to be able to give that someone I don't really know what other people I don't know know what work I'm doing. I have some work to do in the town. But it's not going to be. I'll try to do that. And I'll try to do that. And I'll try to do that."

'No new Robin Hoods' in school aid bill

By Tim Richard, Staff Writer

Robin Hoods are wanted in less than a year, but a law that would redistribute state funds to districts with the lowest per-pupil income.

The state House of Representatives Thursday passed a $1.5-billion school aid bill that would strip about $200 million from agricultural and non-agricultural districts the same as the current year. As proposed, the bill would strip about $200 million from the state.

There would be no Robin Hoods for the first time in six years, said Rep. Sam Simon, District 10, Oak Ridge, who introduced the bill. He summed up the bill as "a good example of what we can do if we have the right political support."

Working with the support with recent of EICAs (Social Security payments), said Simon, after viewed in the lobby outside the House chamber.

Bill approved

Representatives voted 41-10, with four absent to approve a bill that would strip the Senate passing the bill.

As usual, the bill would have to be stripped out in a conference committee of three senators and three representatives. The bill that really writes Michigan's public school aid bill.

The bill may also strip money from the existing Robin Hood provisions. Lyle Banker, Rep. Barbara Dorn, R-Plymouth, said that the bill would strip money from the existing Robin Hood provisions. Tax query drew more to polls than expected

BY M.B. DILLON
STAFF WRITER

Voter turnout in precincts in south Canton through north Plymouth Township was higher than anticipated in Monday's school election, precinct chairmen said.

A total of 8,788 voters, or about 44 percent of the electorate, cast ballots.

The relatively high turnout was a reflection of what happened statewide, said State Rep. James Kosteva, D-Canton. "The fact that turnout was higher than expected reflected a deep concern for the area's schools and for the property taxes paid," said Kosteva.

Plymouth Canton officials attributed the high turnout to anti millage sentiment. A number of precinct workers said a higher than usual number of senior citizens voted. Many young families visited polling places at Central Middle School and Bradford Elementary, said precinct workers.

"If I had a dollar for every baby we had, I wouldn't be here," said Wade Montgomery, precinct chairman at Central.

"We had just nine voters the first half hour we were open. But by seven and seven p.m., we had 109 voters," she said. "We expected a low turnout, but we're seeing more voters than last year."

Brad precinct inspector Jeanette Schriver said shortly before the polls closed that "turnout has been fantastic. We think it's great."

When precinct chairman Carolyn Penland announced, "Hear ye, hear ye, the polls are now closed," a total of 444 voters had cast ballots.

Turnout was above average at Field Elementary in Canton, as well. That was fine with second grader Brad Riss, as long as voters were saying yes to the millage.

"They should approve it so they can buy more stuff," said Brad, 8.

Fellow student Lisa Jasnowski, 10, agreed. "It's nice if they have the money for the future years," she said.

Canton parent Paul Varney took the time to vote Monday.

"I spend a lot of time with my kids in school, and their education is important," said Varney, at Field Elementary for an after-school activity.

"I'm voting because it's important to have a voice in the decision," said Plymouth Township's Janet Schultz, voting at Farrand.

"I have kids who will be coming up in the schools. I've heard pros and cons about the millage, so it's a tough one. We have a millage in the school district I work in, and I'm hoping it will pass. I guess I feel the same way about this one. I'll vote yes."

Carol Laskie of Canton was among the non voters.

"I didn't even know there was voting today until I came up to (Field) school to pick the kids up to go roller skating," she said.

Voting: School board member E.J. McClendon, left, watches as Cheryl Gill leaves Farrand School after voting. She is with children Matthew, 3, and Joseph 1.

Auto insurance compromise fails in state House

By TIM RICHARD
STAFF WRITER

House Speaker Lewis Dodak's battle lines held Tuesday as the Democratic chief refused again to take up a reform bill to cut auto insurance rates and benefits.

His Republican rival, minority leader Paul Hillegonds of Holland, denounced the Democratic-led House as "a lame duck" after losing a 54-50 bid to take up a compromise reform bill, two votes short of a majority. Hillegonds said Democrats are leaving the job to "interest groups," adding, "Paralysis has become ingrained in the legislative process.

Meanwhile, AAA of Michigan, the state's largest auto insurer, filed literally a truckload of petitions asking a referendum on its plan to cut costs far more than the compromise plan.

AAA vice president Bill Cilluffo, a one-time aide to Detroit Mayor Coleman Young, had announced he would file the petitions at 10 a.m. but held off until late afternoon to give the House one more chance to act.

AAA needs 205,000 signatures for a ballot slot but filed an estimated 630,000. The collection effort was done through its members who receive Michigan Living magazine.

If lawmakers fail to adopt AAA's plan within 40 days — which appears likely — it will go on the ballot.

Rep. James Kosteva, D-Canton, a co-sponsor of last week's compromise bill that had the backing of Republicans and disaffected Democrats, backed down Tuesday and supported Dodak's decision against debating it.

Supporting Dodak were Kosteva and all area Democrats except the absent John Bennett of Redford.

Backing Hillegonds were all area Republicans.

Michigan Insurance Federation president Doug Cruce, a former state senator from Troy, said the Kosteva-backed compromise was "a bad bill. We'd fight it tooth and nail. I'm surprised Dodak didn't accept it."

Chief sticking point, said Cruce, is that insurers want a $250,000 cap on "catastrophic claims" such as closed head injuries — the same as most other states. AAA's bill calls for a $250,000 cap.

Present law sets a $5 million cap, and Dodak won't go any lower than $3 million. Kosteva's group wanted to settle for a $1 million cap.

Kosteva thought his compromise was proper. "With (Tom) Hickner (D-Bay City), we laid H-4 (House Democratic plan) and S-10 (Senate-passed bill) side by side and split the difference.

"The trial lawyers are disappointed" with restricting the number of lawsuits.

"The insurance companies are unhappy about the loss ratio provision (required 70 cents payout for ever $1 of premiums for comprehensive and collision insurance and 80 cents for liability injury)," Kosteva said.

Child safety program set

The Wayne County Sheriff's Department will host free bike safety and child fingerprinting programs from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m. at the Nankin Mill Picnic Area (Edward Hines Drive and Ann Arbor Trail).

Parents are invited to bring their youngsters to have bicycles inspected. Clowns, free balloons and free refreshments, compliments of McDonald, 38015 Ann Arbor Road, will be available. In addition a drawing for bike accessories will be held.

THE LONG AND SHORT OF MAKING MORE ON YOUR MONEY, WHATEVER YOUR ECONOMIC OUTLOOK.

RIISING RATE CD FOR THE LONG TERM.

FIRST RATE FUND FOR THE SHORT TERM.

The economy is recovering. But even the experts can't agree on what interest rates will do.

So First of America has two shrewd ways for you to invest. No matter what your strategy.

The long view.

If you think rates will drop or stay flat, you should go with a longer-term investment and get a rate guaranteed to rise every six months over the next two years. The Rising Rate CD.

It starts at a bonus rate of 5 percent per annum. And you'll end up earning 6 1/2 percent for the final term. You can withdraw part or all of your money in the first ten days of every six-month interval without penalty. All it takes to get started is a $1000 deposit.

The short view.

If you predict rates will keep going up beyond this election year, invest short term with the FirstRate Fund.

You'll make a bonus return of 5 3/4 percent per annum from the day you sign up through July 31.

So the sooner you invest the more you'll make. After July 31, the per annum rate is based on the weekly Treasury Bill. So if the T-Bill goes up quickly, you'll continue to benefit from it.

A new deposit of $10,000² is required, and you can get your money seven days after notifying us.

It's a respectable rate of return plus liquidity in these uncertain times.

Of course, your investments are FDIC insured up to $100,000 per depositor. And bonus offers are good through July 31.

Call or visit the office nearest you. Because no matter what your point of view, you can't go wrong investing with us.

Local woman to become UAW veep

BY WAYNE PEAL
STAFF WRITER

Carolyn Forrest remembers her first job as a union officer back in the early 1960s and how she faced a six month probation because — horrors! — she was a woman.

"I think women today would blow up the union local over that," the Westland resident said with laugh. "There's been a lot of changes."

The 35-year UAW member faces some changes of her own, becoming one of the giant labor union's four vice presidents.

Confirmation is expected at this month's union convention in San Diego.

The convention has proved controversial. Some UAW members are staying in non-union hotels. But Forrest defends the union's decision.

"I'd be the first one screaming if we didn't make the effort," she said.

"But we did have to find hotels that were compatible, that could hold the delegates."

Forrest's skill as a negotiator — and her commitment to civil rights — were praised by no less an expert than former UAW president Douglas Fraser.

"One of great strengths is that she's not afraid to speak out and not afraid to take an unpopular stand," Fraser said. "Those aren't just good things to have as a union vice president, they're good things to have as a person."

Forrest served as Fraser's administrative assistant from 1977-83. She subsequently served current president Owen Bieber in the same capacity.

Though her specific duties as vice president aren't yet assigned, Forrest expects to be placed in charge of the UAW's aerospace wing. As such, she will oversee union activities at a variety of plants from southern California to eastern Pennsylvania.

A vice presidency is reserved for a female UAW member by union policy.

But while women are rapidly becoming a work force majority, they make up less than 15 percent of UAW membership.

That, too, will change, Forrest said. Nationwide organizing efforts directed a government workers and other white-collar types are expected to increase the number of female UAW members.

The change Forrest would most like to see — greater union power — is less certain.

"We're living through a period of hostility to unions," Forrest said and, in this year of presidential politics, blame starts right at the top.

"George Bush has done nothing for working people in general, let alone union members," she said.

Not surprisingly, a Bill Clinton campaign button holds a place of honor on her office shelf — resting among photos of her three children and beloved granddaughter and in the shadow of a bust of JFK.

"I think support for him (Clinton) is growing," she said. Ross Perot's growing popularity, however, has Forrest and other union leaders worried.

"He's telling people what they want to hear but where's his plan?" she said.

A Tennessee native, Forrest joined the UAW in 1967 after moving to Michigan with her family.

Two years later she became a local officer — receiving the now infamous six months probation — then advanced to regional office before becoming the union's first female administrative assistant.

Forrest's top goal in her new post? Helping bring about economic change.

JIM JAGDFELD/STAFF PHOTOGRAPHER

Part of history: Carolyn Forrest of Westland has recorded many firsts in her UAW tenure. This month she expects to become the union's highest-ranking female member.

Area man takes part in dedication of cruiser

Walter Schmidt of Redford was among more than 800 veterans of Anzio Beach who gathered recently at Norfolk, Va., to witness their heroism commemorated.

Anzio Beach is the site of a World War II engagement that resulted in 25,000 Allied casualties.

The occasion was not the dedication of a memorial but the commissioning of a new guided missile cruiser. The cruiser will carry the memory of Anzio beachhead into the 21st century.

For Schmidt the commissioning ceremony was fulfilling.

"It's terrific that the Navy has named a ship in honor of Anzio," said Schmidt, 67. "It perpetuates the memory of those of us who served in that historic battle.

During World War II Schmidt served as a private first class in the U.S. Army.

As Schmidt recalls, the Allied forces' invasion at Anzio Beach, almost 50 years ago in January 1944, was considered a turning point in World War II. Only 37 miles from Rome, Anzio Beach was secured by some 40,000 American, British and Canadian troops.

But after the initial success, the Allied troops were pinned on the beachhead by a superior force of 80,000 German troops.

"What I remember is waiting, for what seemed like an eternity, for reinforcements. Many good men were wounded and died," said Schmidt.

■ 'It's terrific that the Navy has named a ship in honor of Anzio.'

Walter Schmidt

Through sheer fortitude and bravery, the Allies held the beach for four months before breaking out in late May and ultimately marching victoriously into Rome in June 1944. One measure of the courage and sacrifice of those who fought there can be found in the 22 Medals of Honor awarded to Americans.

The awards represent the most Medals of Honor presented for any single battle of World War II. Copies of those citations now hang on permanent display aboard the USS Anzio.

The Anzio vets took advantage of the opportunity to be together by holding a reunion in conjunction with the commissioning.

On hand to express the gratitude of the people of Italy was a delegation of residents, led by the mayor, from the town of Anzio.

Schmidt said the thrill of seeing the Anzio commissioned was seconded only by the opportunity to meet the members of the crew who will take the cruiser to sea.

Sailors, like Navy petty officer third class Richard Cruz, said meeting veterans like Schmidt gave a sense of continuity to the Anzio crew, almost as if a torch had been passed from the aging veterans to the new generation of men now serving in the armed forces.

"It's a great honor to be a part of such a significant ceremony," said Cruz of Brooklyn, "having the Anzio veterans present made the ceremony special — it gives me goose bumps."

The USS Anzio is the 22nd Ticonderoga-class guided missile cruiser to join the fleet. She incorporates the newest and best of both ship design and weapons systems. The 567-foot-long ship can steam in excess of 30 knots.

Also known as an Aegis cruiser, Anzio can deploy such weapons as standard surface-to-air missiles, surface-to-surface cruise missiles, automatic anti-aircraft guns, and five-inch rapid-fire deck guns.

A veteran at the ceremony speculated about how much different Anzio Beach might have been if the new cruiser had been available in 1944 during those fateful four months.

Schmidt, while touring the ship, was told that ships like the Anzio will take on added importance in the new downsized version of the U.S. Navy that is being planned. Increased automation has reduced requirements for shipboard personnel. The Anzio has a crew of 24 officers and 340 enlisted men.

Senate bill gets MOST for job training

State Sen. Robert Geake, R-Northville, said his bill codifying the Michigan Opportunity and Skills Training (MOST) program will ensure its proper administration in future generations.

The bill also will enable Michigan residents to develop the skills needed to compete in today's labor market, said Geake whose 6th District includes Redford, Livonia, Plymouth and Canton.

The bill passed the Senate on June 3.

"The MOST program will provide chances for a brighter future for all of Michigan's residents by assisting them in continued education, job searches and community service," said Geake, who said he was able to incorporate into the bill several provisions from Gov. Engler's welfare reform address offered the day before.

Under the bill, the MOST program would be mandatory for all persons receiving Aid to Families with Dependent Children, and State Family Assistance. Women would be required to participate up until their third trimester of pregnancy and to resume participation 90 days after having given birth.

In addition to the services offered for the job-ready in the MOST program, additional public service training and job programs will be created.

For those not in an education program or who fail to find work after 90 days, they will report for work every day in the existing Community Work Experience program, which includes:

- Volunteer work at a charitable or nonprofit organization approved by the Department of Social Services;

- Adult home help and chore services provided by welfare recipients for those in need of this support.

- Day care programs to assist other MOST participants.

"The existing MOST program, by incorporating Gov. Engler's recently announced welfare reform initiatives, will provide services for those who are job-ready and need minimal assistance in making the transition to self-sufficiency as well as helping those in need of greater state assistance through job training, community services and the like.

"The MOST program has proven effective in giving individuals assistance in some of the most essential ways. This bill provides protection for the program so that future generations may avail themselves of the valuable services it provides."

Isn't It A Shame?

You had no idea, did you, that a seemingly harmless piece of plastic could become an implement of death to an innocent sea creature? Yet it happens, unfortunately, on a grand scale.

Tons of plastic material are lost or dumped into the oceans each year, imperiling the lives of hundreds of thousands of aquatic animals.

Plastic bags, six-pack yokes, fishing nets and other materials can trap fish, mammals, turtles and birds, causing death by drowning or strangulation. Sometimes animals get sick or starve when they eat plastic that they mistake for food.

But plastic's pollution is preventable. The National Wildlife Federation is dedicated to protecting America's precious resources — our land, our waters, our people, our wildlife.

You can be a part of the effort. Join the National Wildlife Federation, 1412 16th Street, NW, Washington, DC 20036-2266.

Unemployment down

Unemployment rates in Plymouth, Plymouth Township and Canton dropped in April last year, the most recent month studied by the Michigan Employment Security Commission.

The rates were also lower than those reported in April last year. Rates dropped as temporary and seasonal workers left local job markets, said F. Robert Edwards, MESC director.

"The smaller work force size resulted in lower unemployment rates in most areas," Edwards said. The MESC reported the unemployment rate in Canton for April at 4.7 percent with 1,050 unemployed and 21,250 employed. That compares to a 5.2 percent unemployment rate in March and 5.4 percent unemployment in April 1991.

In the city of Plymouth, the April unemployment rate was 3.5 percent with 175 unemployed workers and 4,650 employed. The unemployment rate in March was 3.8 percent. The rate reported in April 1991 was 4 percent.

In Plymouth Township, the April unemployment rate was 4 percent with 450 jobless and 10,550 employed. The unemployment rate in March was 4.4 percent, and the April 1991 rate was 4.6 percent, the MESC reported.

Lock outs

The timing of Tonquish Manor seniors who lock themselves out of apartments after business hours is being questioned by city commissioners.

Some said they hoped to meet with the housing commission to discuss the $25 fine started to reduce lock outs. While housing commissioners say they got the idea from other cities' housing commissions, city commissioners Jerry Vorva, John Vos III and Bill McAninch raised questions. "When you hit them with $20 or $25, that's a major impact on their budgets," Vorva said.

Anniversary year, 1825 or 1867?

■ Plymouth is having an anniversary, it's 125th. But it's not exactly sparking a lot of interest. The reason is that the community is much older than that. The 125th anniversary is of Plymouth becoming a city.

By KEVIN BROWN
STAFF WRITER

Should Plymouth be celebrating its anniversary this year? The answer depends on what year you deem appropriate for the city's founding.

The question arose at a city commission meeting in May.

Former mayor Jim McKeon told commissioners, while speaking on a topic related to downtown business, that this year marks Plymouth's 125th anniversary. Nothing, he said, was being done to commemorate the occasion.

"I don't think it's any big deal, I was just needling them a little bit," McKeon said.

True, the state Legislature acted to incorporate the village of Plymouth in 1867 — 125 years ago.

But Plymouth Historical Museum director Beth Stewart said a city's anniversary is more typically marked from the date the first European settlers arrived.

Plymouth historian Sam Hudson recalled the first arrival of settlers in his book "The Story of Plymouth, Michigan: A Midwest Microcosm."

Hudson wrote, "The first actual settlers in Plymouth Township were Allen and William Tibbits who bought 800 acres and settled on them in the latter part of 1824.

BILL BRESLER/STAFF PHOTOGRAPHER

Plymouth past: The Plymouth band posed for this photo in 1866 just northeast of Kellogg Park near Main Street.

"Others soon joined, but not until the spring of 1825 were there sufficient settlers to form a real community," Hudson continued.

Stewart said 1825 is the better date by which to mark Plymouth's founding.

"That's how we list it, because there's some discrepancy as to whether they just bought the land in 1824 or if they settled here then," she said.

That would make this year the 167th anniversary of Plymouth's founding. McKeon said, "I agree with Beth Stewart, we really ought to move it back to when the first settlers came."

Still, in 1967 Plymouth civic leaders celebrated the 100th anniversary of the village's incorporation.

"That to me is the date you celebrate," said city commissioner Jim Jabara, who was mayor that year and recalls a week-long celebration of Plymouth's incorporation.

"We sent letters to every Plymouth in the world. Plymouth, England was the only one that responded," said McKeon, who became mayor in 1969.

The lord mayor and an entourage visited Plymouth in 1967, and attended a banquet where U.S. Sen. Phillip Hart addressed the crowd.

But unlike Jabara, McKeon said he's all for marking the founding of Plymouth in 1825.

"That's what other communities do. That would certainly make more sense," he said.

"I'm glad to be at Oakbrook Common"

Thad Pearl wanted to be in control of his own future—so he moved to Oakbrook Common. "I know, if I ever need added assistance or skilled nursing, someone is nearby," he says. "This is very important to me because I want to keep the burden of my possible future health care needs from falling on my children."

Thad has found that "companionship, and the chance to make new friends are added benefits." Also, he smiles, are Oakbrook Common's "pleasant surroundings and friendly staff."

"Many of my friends also have moved to Oakbrook Common," remarks Thad. "That's because everything here is so good. I'm glad to be here."

Prevention is pollution's newest buzzword

Common sense is merging with environmental management efforts. The result is pollution prevention, a buzzword on the lips of industry environmental managers and government policymakers.

Simply put, pollution prevention means not making pollution in the first place, instead of making it and then cleaning it up. Industries are embracing this common-sense approach by rethinking how products are made and used.

Regulators are incorporating pollution prevention strategies into environmental policies. A critical review published in the May issue of the "Journal of the Air & Waste Management Association" provides an overview of material available on pollution prevention.

The article, written by researchers at the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency's Risk Reduction Laboratory in Cincinnati, defines pollution prevention, discusses its benefits and barriers, and outlines industry programs as well as initiatives by federal, state and local governments.

What's wrong with the old way? Many times, when an environmental problem is "cleaned up," it's actually just moved to another part of the environment.

Information is useful to industry managers who are implementing strategies to prevent pollution or who already have such strategies in place.

The article is also of interest to policymakers at local, state and federal levels, as well as educators, consultants and public interest group members.

What's wrong with the old way? Many times, when an environmental problem is "cleaned up," it's actually just moved to another part of the environment.

A closer look shows that these traditional "end-of-pipe" controls may not be appropriate for many environmental problems for several reasons:

- They may not be effective. An effort may have already been made to solve a pollution problem, but available controls are just not effective enough. Case in point: emission controls on cars have not solved the ground-level ozone problem.

- They may not be feasible. There may be no way to put a control on a pollution source. Case in point: many products may contribute to indoor air pollution. It's more feasible not to introduce potential indoor air pollution sources than it is to clean indoor air.

- They may be expensive. In many cases, it's cheaper to prevent pollution than to clean it up. Case in point: the costs and liability issues of using, generating or cleaning up hazardous wastes tend to outweigh the costs of finding less hazardous alternatives or modifying processes so less hazardous waste is created.

Solving problems

Why pollution prevention is preferable cuts across air, water and land pollution issues. It solves problems before they occur, and can be practiced by industries, schools, businesses and everyone in their homes.

Often, it makes economic sense because it can lead to improved production processes, afford the use of less-expensive and safer materials during production and lessen the liability issues associated with using, generating or disposing of hazardous wastes.

Pollution prevention helps to safeguard the environment, the surrounding community and workers. It requires changes in production and consumption practices that must become second nature to all. It must be factored into business decisions, just as economic issues are given consideration.

Areas where pollution prevention strategies can be incorporated are: product design, process design, plant configuration, information and control systems, human resources, research and development, suppliers' role and relationship and organization.

The Pollution Prevention Act of 1990 states that "pollution should be prevented or reduced at the source whenever feasible; pollution that cannot be prevented should be recycled in an environmentally safe manner, whenever feasible; and disposal or other release into the environment should be employed only as a last resort and should be conducted in an environmentally safe manner."

Undoubtedly, new environmental regulations will include pollution prevention practices as part of their overall goals. The Clean Air Act Amendment of 1990 is one such piece of legislation that already incorporates pollution prevention strategies.

Industries involved

The EPA has published a summary of 20 successful pollution prevention projects by industry. These projects have been implemented in many industries: metals fabrication, manufacturing of non-electric machinery, lumber products, electronics, textiles, petroleum fuel products, chemical products, printing and publishing, and transportation.

For example, printing companies are substituting water-based inks for oil-based inks to reduce solvent air emissions and ink wastes.

In many industries, organic solvents are being replaced with less harmful solvents. The life of waste oils from machinery can be extended by collecting, recycling and reusing them.

More companies will likely implement pollution prevention initiatives as they realize the economic benefits such programs can provide.

Green Lights is an EPA program that encourages major U.S. corporations to install energy-efficient lighting wherever profitable and where it maintains or improves lighting quality.

The idea behind the program is to reduce the demand for electricity, in turn reducing the level of pollutants emitted from power plants.

Companies participating in the program will lower electricity bills, improve lighting quality, prevent pollution, and be publicly recognized for their participation.

The Air & Waste Management Association is a non-profit technical and educational organization with nearly 13,000 members in more than 50 countries. Founded in 1907, the association provides a forum where all sides of environmental issues are considered.

This critical review on pollution prevention will be discussed during a session at the Air & Waste Management Association's 85th annual meeting and exhibition, to be held June 21-26 at the Kansas City Convention Center in Kansas City, Mo.

Greenpeace solicitors seeing red over fee charged for canvassing

BY SUE BUCK
STAFF WRITER

Greenpeace, the international environmental group known for its activist "Save the Whales" stance and its push for nuclear disarmament, is challenging the system locally.

Greenpeace is complaining about the new Farmington Hills mandate that requires each solicitor in a canvassing group to pay a $15 fee.

"No other community charges this much," said Lisa Hollingsworth, a Greenpeace representative who appeared before the city council Monday.

"Usually the fees are waived or greatly reduced," said Hollingsworth. "We do not have the financial resources to use our donors' money for $15 per canvasser."

She came to ask for an exemption. Otherwise, Greenpeace will pay $600 for 40 canvassers. Council will discuss the issue again next month.

Both City Manager William Costick and Clerk Kathryn Dornan said residents complain about canvassers.

"The council has adopted the fee structure in its recent ordinance," said John Donohue, city attorney. "At the time the ordinance was adopted, a (six month) survey was taken which revealed each community's fee structure."

He said that the fees were in keeping with those in surrounding communities.

Any change would have to be brought back to council, Donohue said.

Councilman Aldo Vagnozzi said that he questioned the fee set for groups such as Greenpeace, PIR-GIM and the Michigan Citizens Lobby when the ordinance was first discussed.

"Those residents who do not want to be solicited by any organization can post a 'no solicitors' sign," Vagnozzi said. "I guess it's difficult to strike a balance. I want (any ordinance) change to be fair and equitable to all groups."

Said Dornan, "At the time of discussion, it was felt that those groups who came from outside the community should pay the $15 fee, but that groups within three mile of the community would not."

Tuesday Dornan said the city receives the most citizen complaints about groups like Greenpeace, the Michigan Citizens Lobby and PIR-GIM.

"These groups cause the most trouble," Dornan said. "They bring in the kids who go all over people's lawns."

The new Hills ordinance requires that each solicitor be photographed along with a check by the police department. The photo is laminated and attached to a clip.

Why pollution prevention is preferable cuts across air, water and land pollution issues. It solves problems before they occur, and can be practiced by industries, schools, businesses and everyone in their homes.

Traffic tickets Fines getting out of hand

It's time to take a look at how police ticket folks and at how the fines get handed out. In recent weeks a Plymouth Township man received a $205 parking ticket in Hines Park, where he and friends were playing softball and drinking beer. It's the kind of thing folks do in parks.

Then there was the case of a Canton Township woman who stopped on the side of I-275 in an attempt to help a baby duck, part of a family that had been hit by cars. Because of her efforts, she received a $65 ticket from the state police.

In both cases, the miscreants were guilty of, at best, using bad judgment. However, the fines meted out by the cops were disproportionate to what the two had actually done. They weren't fines, they were taxes.

Let's face it, most traffic tickets are the result of a momentary lapse of judgment, not out of any question on the part of the individual to be a law breaker. In most cases a warning works.

That's especially true in the Hines Park incident. The man ticketed is a 25-year-old college student who certainly has better places for his money than in the coffers of the district court system. A $25 or $50 fine would have been enough. Again, when a traffic fine is more than $200, especially for parking, it's a tax.

In the case of the Canton woman, we can understand the state trooper's concern. The life of one person is worth more than 1,000 ducks. And keeping people from harming themselves on the freeway is a smart thing to do. But again, a warning and a lecture from the cop would have been enough. Instead, the court and cops took $65 away from a waitress who works hard for her money.

We have our suspicions about the 35th District Court anyway. Most of what they do is place a tax on the normally law abiding residents of Plymouth, Canton and Northville.

That tax money is being used to add space to the court house, and this comes at a time when the state's economy is in decline. It's time for police officers, judges and court workers who feed at the public trough to get real and realize that they're not enforcing the law, they're taxing people.

The entire subject of Hines Park is troublesome. The Wayne County Sheriff's Department, which patrols it, has made it nearly unusable by the public.

We're trying to tell our kids to say no to drugs, but we give them few alternatives. Kids are suppose to be in parks playing baseball, looking at members of the opposite sex or just fishing in the Rouge River.

It's time to re-examine the role of police and courts. They're not supposed to be the taxing unit of government they have become.

Things are out of wack and it's time for a change.

Ensure right to abort, educate

The Michigan Legislature finds itself in an enviable position: It has the opportunity to ensure not only the rights of women but to advance education for our young people to decrease the need for abortion.

The U.S. Supreme Court shortly will announce its decision in the Pennsylvania case that many agree will end the current federal protection accorded to abortion under the historic 1972 Roe v. Wade. While the Supreme Court probably won't make abortion illegal nationwide, the court will likely let the question of abortion rights rest with the states.

In Michigan, that's not such a hot proposition, since Gov. John Engler and the majority of the Legislature are openly pro-life. Without Roe v. Wade, the state reverts to its restrictive abortion law that allows abortions only in the event of the mother's health, rape or incest.

As it stands now, the state Supreme Court on Tuesday upheld Michigan's ban on Medicaid abortions for the poor, further suppressing what has already become the underclass in a growing de facto caste system.

Women should have the right to self-determination, and that includes family planning. Without that control, there is no control of relationships, careers and life plans. Reasons to end a pregnancy run the gamut — not wishing to raise a child alone, economics or refusing to bring another life into an already bad family situation.

There are the small number who use abortion as a means of birth control, rather than relying on pre-gestative methods. The latter may be a result of lack of information.

Michigan's Legislature should adopt a com-

Women should have the right to self-determination, and that includes family planning.

prehensive package that addresses all those concerns and, in the wake, perhaps even please those who vehemently oppose abortion.

The package should provide for:

- Access to abortion for all women. Let women choose what to do with their bodies. If abortion is banned in Michigan, rich women still have the option of traveling to other states for a safe, legal abortion while poor women must choose between a back alley clinic or an unwanted pregnancy.

- An updated adoption law that would make it easier for couples and singles to adopt. Children also would benefit from laws to trim red tape. Having difficult adoption procedures and a ban on abortion would force a glut of children into foster homes without showing a true regard for those new lives.

- Mandatory sex education in the schools. It's not a popular topic, but young people need correct information to keep them free not only from unwanted pregnancies but also from sexually transmitted diseases. Discussing sex is the role of the family, but statistics for teen pregnancy, abortion and sexual disease show the family isn't doing what is necessary to protect children.

The Legislature before its July 2 summer recess has time to plot out a comprehensive plan. Legislators are sadly mistaken if they believe pro-choice advocates will take the "old ways" lightly — or without a fight.

Help feed the hungry

Summertime, and the living is easy," according to a lovely song. But for every fifth child in the U.S., this is not so. Five and a half million children under 12 are hungry; and another six million children often may not have enough food to eat. Most of us in the Plymouth-Canton community have full cupboards and stocked refrigerators.

For many kids and their parents, hunger lasts 365 days a year. Please write to your senators and representative today and join Bread for the World, 802 Rhode Island Avenue N.E., Washington, D.C. 20018.

Jeanne Vicini, Plymouth

Mr. Bennett and the township caused the problems when the compost facility was dumped in an area with long-established homes all around it.

I have lived here 25 years and have found it to be quiet and peaceful and "odor free" for the first 24 years.

Ask Mr. Bennett why the compost wasn't put in the original site on Geddes Road.

The residents in that area must have put up a real big fight to keep it out of their doors.

We do not believe the township's closing of CSI was for our benefit, however, we hope we are wrong.

James and Mildred Mason, Canton

Raising a stink over grass

In response to your article on May 21, 1992 in the Canton Observer regarding the closing of CSI, I would like to make these statements.

I do not believe that Mr. Bennett is concerned with our "discontent." The nearby residents are not the ones who caused the problems.

Deficit breaks down the system

The careerists who inhabit the American political system have driven it to the edge of breakdown by:

- Hypocrisy: substitution and manipulation of symbols (the 10-second sound bite, the simplistic proposal, the trumped-up press release) for substance. The result is:

- Incompetence: Our government simply does not get the job done any more. Therefore, the system requires for maintenance in office:
- More hypocrisy.

The leading and most dangerous example of this vicious cycle is our federal deficit, now standing at $4 trillion and growing at the rate of $400 billion per year.

Annually for the past 10 years, the president and Congress have declined either seriously to cut spending or to increase taxes. Therefore, the deficit has grown. Therefore, the president and Congress have resorted to finger pointing and sham suggestions about fixing the deficit, both knowing full well that neither will work.

A small, bipartisan group of U.S. senators, including Michigan's Carl Levin, has proposed a sensible and imaginative way out of this deadlock.

On the "Nightline" show last week and in a resolution to be introduced into the Senate, the group urged all three presidential candidates to discuss in detail their plans for reducing the deficit in a novel prime-time TV format:

- Length and focus. The idea is to have the discussion entirely on the deficit for at least an hour. "This is a serious and complicated subject," said Levin, "and we need to go beyond simplistic non-proposals."

- Moderator. This year, two respected and smart members of the Budget Committee — Republican Warren Rudman and Democrat Kent Conrad — are retiring from the Senate. They would be the questioners. "These guys know too much to let the candidates get by with a sound bite," according to Levin. "They'd pin 'em down."

- Bipartisan risk. Republicans are scared of raising taxes; Democrats are frightened of cutting entitlements. But "the national interest in controlling the deficit takes precedence over partisan advantage," according to the forthcoming resolution.

Political realism. "The only way a presidential candidate can get a mandate to do something serious about the deficit is to discuss it in a detailed way during the campaign," said Levin. "Detailed proposals during the campaign are the precondition for presidential leadership."

Sounds too good to be true. Any chance of this actually taking place?

Levin is cautiously optimistic. He and his colleagues intend to force a vote on their resolution as soon as possible.

The reaction of the candidates gives slight grounds for optimism. Ross Perot attacked Congress for inaction, but didn't say "no." Bill Clinton said yes. The president talked about the balanced budget amendment to the Constitution, but hasn't turned down the idea.

What makes this suggestion so sensible is that it helps remedy what Levin calls the "tacit truce" between all the candidates not to get into detail about the budget deficit. The text of the resolution makes the point well: "The candidates, Congress and the media have ignored or trivialized the issue."

True. Maybe in this season of discontent, some sanity will prevail. I certainly hope so.

Column provided no insight into our education system

BY KEN KUBECK
GUEST COLUMNIST

Jeff Counts' writings reflect the result of education in the public school system, our public schools are in trouble. His "Points of view" article shows no insight into public school education.

The past, present and future of our country depends upon education provided in the best manner and highest quality possible, subject to available resources.

As far as putting every professional educator above the level of classroom teacher out to pasture, the same could be said of journalists like himself who become editors. They need to write about something and do so without facts to support their views.

Education is expensive, but what do you mean by twice as expensive? Twice as expensive as Jack Morris' salary? Too much money can't be spent on education and all children should have the same basic right to a quality education.

Is Counts aware test scores of U.S. students on college entrance exams which list scientific knowledge have climbed to their highest levels ever? If our country's educational program is so poor, why is the percentage of Americans with college degrees at an all-time high? Why do more foreign students earn their degrees in the U.S. than in any other nation? Does he know that during the 1980s American scholars won nearly 90 percent of the Nobel Prizes awarded in the fields of medicine, economics, chemistry and physics? Teachers and administrators must be doing something right.

The teacher work year is based on 180-plus days. It's not uncommon for professionals in the private sector to receive in excess of four weeks' vacation plus two weeks at Christmas.

In the event of a teacher strike, you indicated the state requires a certain number of school days that the teachers can make up in the spring. This isn't always the case. Several districts involved in strikes have chosen not to make up strike days, the penalty being loss of state aid for each day not made up.

The crisis in American education is not in school structure which you say "are empires for superintendents more interested in careers than kids," but rather the failures stem from family and financial inequities.

School finance reform must occur so all students have the same basic quality educational opportunity. This should not mean bringing districts, like Plymouth Canton, with excellent programs down to a lower level, but rather upgrading less fortunate financially strapped districts that are victims of inequitable funding.

Both Counts and Father John Zwiers, in his letter to the editor on April 23, 1992, indicate there's no correlation between class size and per-pupil spending. It's a fact that students in higher per-pupil spending districts have more opportunities.

Also, most Catholic schools don't provide transportation service, driver education classes and special education, which is mandated by state law. Public schools receive a small percentage of reimbursement for these programs from the state, but these programs are expensive. These services are provided by public schools for parochial school students.

As a former parochial school teacher, I attest that Catholic schools do a fine job. However, based on my experience and (that of) several of my colleagues, salaries were inadequate for individuals with a bachelor's degree/master's degree to sustain a family. Myself and other professionals had no choice but to seek teaching positions in the public sector or change professions.

I respect Mr. Counts' and Father Zwiers' points of view, but they should do a better job in researching the facts.

LETTERS

He didn't duck rescue

On Friday, May 22, an event took place that warmed my heart.

Ken Rieberger of Don Massey Cadillac was just leaving the bank on Ann Arbor Road near the dealership when he noticed a female duck and her five ducklings trying to cross Ann Arbor Road the hard way.

Not wanting to see a tragedy happen, he stopped to see what he could do. So he attempted to catch the young ones thinking that if he could catch them he could catch the mother. That was where myself, my son and several other people got involved in the chase to help capture this family of ducks and relocate them to a safer place.

Due to the kindness and joint effort (including the manager Mr. Briones of the K-Mart on Ann Arbor Road who loaned us a large fishing net to help capture the mother) of the people whose names I can't remember or did not get, we were able to capture and relocate this family to Hines Park happy and healthy.

With cruelties such as the shooting of a beautiful swan and the electrical shocking of a small kitten in the news, it's reassuring to know that there are perfect strangers who will come together to help save a life.

These people did not have to take time out to do this but it's nice to know they did.

New auditorium needed

I'm writing in regard to your article, "Group says schools lose by not renting facilities."

The public may think the school auditorium is just sitting there and the school is saying "No, you can't use it."

The auditorium is booked with school functions. The community would like to use the building, but the school functions come first. I feel bad that the Plymouth Symphony has only two of its six shows in Plymouth next year and that other community groups can't get the dates they want. But it's important to let the students be educated by their own functions.

Most other districts have more than one auditorium. Here you have two schools using one auditorium, a middle school using this auditorium, community education using this auditorium, and also Plymouth and Canton.

With the community getting bigger, there is more business coming to the community. The auditorium is busting at the seams. On an average auditorium day, acting classes are from 7:30 a.m. to 2:30 p.m., a booked in function 2:30 p.m. to 11 p.m., and weekends vary from 7 a.m. to 11 p.m.

Maybe it's time for Plymouth and Canton to think about building another theater. I'd be more than willing to discuss and help with this. Thank you.

Farrow wants new deal

Dear Fellow Citizens:
To the people who helped me by passing out brochures, thank you. To those who spoke in support of me to their friends, thank you. To those who gave me advice, support and encouragement in the campaign, thank you. To those who helped pay for the campaign, thank you. To those who voted for me, thank you.

I am deeply touched by the respect and trust shown to me by this community, my community. Next to love, the most valuable things anyone can have are the respect and trust of their peers. I promise you I will not forget that.

It is time to change the relationship between this community and its public schools. We need a closer, more active and more trusting relationship.

We also need more trust in the relationship between the employees of this school district and the school board.

Toward these ends, I offer the following promise: No one will ever be penalized in any way for being honest with me. I may not like what you say, but I will listen. I may not always be able to give you the answer you want, but I will always be honest with you. We have many problems to solve in public education. Without honesty between us, we can solve none of them.

I look forward to serving on Plymouth Canton Community School Board over the next four years.

Jack Farrow, Plymouth

Kosteva wrong

It is hard to believe the state Legislature has devised a ridiculous scheme to take the hard earned tax money from the residents in one community and transfer this money to another school district where it could very well be totally wasted.

The taxpayers in the Plymouth Canton community pay high taxes and work very hard, through their local governments, to create a safe, pleasant atmosphere and a productive, efficient educational system which is attractive to both business and residential sectors. After all, your community is only as good as your school system.

What bothers me is that James Kosteva, who represents Canton in the state Legislature has voted for this absurd tax base sharing plan. Maybe Kosteva thinks the Plymouth Canton schools should be punished for some reason.

The idea that this tax base sharing plan is better than a court ordered plan does not make sense to me because it seems the courts are the only hope we have to save our tax dollars. At least temporarily, this plan is tied up in the courts; also, I do not believe anything could possibly be any worse than what the State Legislature has come up with.

PLYMOUTH-CANTON SPORTS SCENE

Kennedy to stay in school

Scott Kennedy of Plymouth has decided to return to West Palm Beach Community College next year than sign with the Toronto Blue Jays, who drafted him in the 11th round of the recent free-agent baseball draft.

Kennedy, a former Plymouth Canton pitcher, was drafted out of high school by the Detroit Tigers last year but opted for school then, too.

He described the Toronto offer "as more than fair, well above the average for that round," he said. "Since I didn't get to pitch last year, I thought it would be better for me to go to school another year."

"They were trying to get me to meet them half way, and I was staying firm with my asking price. If they had come up with what I was asking, I probably would have signed."

Kennedy, who was 10-4 with five saves, 130 strikeouts and 47 walks in 84 innings at Canton a year ago, was academically ineligible at West Palm Beach and played only in intra-squad and scrimmage games. He is pitching for Hines Park Lincoln-Mercury in the Livonia Collegiate Baseball League this summer.

"We'll see what happens next year, whether I go to school or sign," Kennedy said. "My dream is still to play professional baseball one day."

Tigers draft CC's Kapla

The Detroit Tigers drafted Redford Catholic Central ace Scott Kapla of Canton in the 42nd round of the Major League Baseball Draft for amateur players.

The All-Observer and All-Catholic pitcher, infielder and outfielder has already signed with Eastern Michigan University.

"I'm open to discussions, but chances are I'll be at Eastern," Kapla said after Saturday's 5-4 regional semifinal loss to Westland John Glenn.

Major League draft rights have changed. As the rule stands now, the Tigers can retain the rights to Kapla for five years.

"Scott is a good kid and comes from a good family," Tiger scout Mark Monahan said. "I've been watching him since his sophomore year. He's progressed and we expect him to progress even more. I think he'll get even bigger and stronger. Scott has all the tools."

Mustangs win tourney title

The Mid-America Mustangs won three games and captured the 16-and-under championship of the United States Slow-Pitch Softball Association tournament at Canton last weekend.

The Mustangs defeated South Farmington 20-8 in their first game. Stacy Sinke (Canton) scattered 12 hits but didn't walk any to earn the victory.

Lisa Rozum (Canton) was 4-for-4 with three RBI, Heidi Wahl (Southfield) had three hits and drove in four runs and Colleen Wutke (Garden City) added two hits and two RBI.

The Mustangs won 28-2 over their Mid-America sister team, the Marvels. Amy Geary (Farmington Hills) was the winning pitcher, allowing just five hits and five walks.

Leslie Dickerson (Belleville), Sue Huber (Canton) and Stephanie Smith (Garden City) had four hits apiece. Huber hit a home run, had six RBI and scored three runs. Geary helped her cause with three hits, and Aimee Breil (Canton) added two.

The Mustangs clinched the title with a 26-9 rout of South Farmington as Sinke picked up her second pitching win. Wutke led the champs with four hits, Huber and Jones three each.

South Farmington, after the Mid-America Motion forced a second game with an 8-7 victory, won the 14-under title in a 20-6 romp.

Chiefs chase state title

Flint Kearsley will be the opponent Friday morning when sixth-ranked Plymouth Canton plays a semifinal contest in the Michigan High School Athletic Association softball tournament.

BY DAN O'MEARA
STAFF WRITER

Plymouth Canton's first appearance in the state softball semifinals was a long time coming for the veteran players on the team.

The Chiefs (31-3) have been an Observerland power for the last four seasons but never won district or regional championships until this year. Now Canton is on the verge of winning it all this weekend at Battle Creek.

The sixth-ranked Chiefs play Flint Kearsley (34-9) in one semifinal while No. 1 Jenison meets Grosse Pointe North in the other. Both games start at 10:30 a.m. Friday in Bailey Park. The final has the same starting time and site on Saturday.

"We're fired up about going, we've been waiting for this all year," said junior pitcher Kelly Holmes, the Canton ace for three years running. "No matter who we face I'm sure we're going to play our best ball."

"Working together the last few years is starting to pay off. We have great hitters and we're playing great defense, so maybe this is our year. It's about time."

If the Chiefs are to be successful, much will depend on the arm of Holmes, who is 22-2 with 270 strikeouts and 45 walks in 163 1/3 innings. Only nine of the 33 runs charged to Holmes have been earned, giving her an ERA of 0.39.

Holmes, who developed a riseball during the winter and combines that with the fast, drop and change, is 52-8 in three years with 10 career no-batters and 618 strikeouts.

While Holmes gets much of the notoriety on the Canton team, it hasn't affected her attitude or the team concept the Chiefs employ so successfully.

"She'll throw seven days a week," Canton coach Jim Arnold said, citing her dedication and desire. "She's a total team player. A lot of kids like that would get pretty big-headed but not her."

"Kelly does her job on the mound and keeps the score down, and the job of the other players is to score some runs. It's been a complete team effort. There is no one individual star on this team."

A good supporting cast in the field helps to make Holmes a better pitcher, and the Chiefs mesh the different aspects of the game well in that regard.

"She knows, if the other teams start hitting her, we have one of the best defenses around," Arnold said. "So she pitches with complete confidence."

The Canton batters will be challenged by a rare left-handed pitcher in Kearsley senior Christina Lee.

"We faced one left-hander this year and we're going to work on that this week," Arnold said. "I don't foresee any problems. This team has been hitting the ball well, and it's just a matter of seeing the ball from the other side."

Because it has an outstanding pitcher in Holmes, Canton's hitting ability has been overshadowed this year, but the individual stats tell a different story.

See related story, 3B

The starters and their batting averages are: senior third baseman Nicole Sequin (.422), junior shortstop Dani Mortiere (.406), senior first baseman Julie Nicastrì (.377), senior outfielders Holly Miller (.358) and Sarah Schimmelpfenneg (.355), senior catcher Renee Dory (.347), junior second baseman Kate Strahan (.297) and freshman outfielder Sara Rowe (.275).

Sequin also has scored 39 runs and batted in 27, Mortiere 38 and 20, Schimmelpfenneg 37 and 28, Nicastrì 31 and 31. The Chiefs are hitting .348 as a team and have scored 226 runs while giving up only 65.

"There was a rumor Canton had the pitching but didn't have the hitting," Arnold said. "A couple coaches said to me 'Man, whoever told me you couldn't hit was wrong.' It was a secret for awhile, but this is a good time to come alive."

Arnold believes a plus for the Chiefs is their relaxed but focused attitude, confident in their knowledge of the game and ability to play it.

"They don't get nervous or uptight," he said. "Nobody has intimidated us this year and I don't expect to be intimidated at this stage of the tournament."

"I think we're as good as anybody we're going to see. We'll just go out there and have some fun and play some ball."

Walter's, Hines Pk. post wins

Walter's Appliance of the Livonia Collegiate Baseball League won two games over the weekend, improving its record to 3-2.

Friday at Ford Field, Walter's defeated Tecumseh Green Giants, 8-0, behind solid pitching from Bryan Pfeifer and Dave Wood.

Pfeifer blanked Tecumseh for the first four innings, while Wood tossed the final three and struck out four.

Former Redford Catholic Central and Henry Ford Community College stand-out Paul Pirronello led the offensive attack with three hits, including a triple and homer. He had four RBI. Joe Brusseau (Borgess High and Madonna University) added three hits, including a triple.

On Sunday, Walter's split a twinbill with Wendy's of Ann Arbor, winning the opener, 10-2, before losing the nightcap, 12-6.

In the first game, Steve Ross (Redford CC and Henry Ford) was the winning pitcher, hurling the first five innings. Sean Henkel went the final two and struck out two.

Walter's belted 11 hits, including three apiece from Kevin Young (Farmington High and Central Michigan), Jason Gabel (Livonia Churchill and CMU) Jeff Schaffer (Livonia Franklin).

Wendy starter Rob Clem allowed seven runs in the first inning and took the loss.

In the second game, Wendy's tallied eight runs in the third inning en route to the win.

Mike Grahl (Madonna) was the winning pitcher, going the first four innings. Chad Grieve finished.

Grieve sparked Wendy's offensively with two hits and five RBI.

Mike Coleman was the losing pitcher for Walter's, allowing seven runs in 2 1/3 innings. Lou McKaig finished the game and gave up the other five runs.

Hines Park sweeps

Hines Park Lincoln/Mercury is coming off a solid weekend, winning three games and improving its record to 4-1.

On Friday, Hines Park edged Wendy's, 8-7, thanks to a three-run homer from Keith Bozyk (Redford CC and Adrian College). Wendy's collected four hits.

Jason McDonald (EMU) sparked Wendy's with a three-run homer.

On Sunday, Hines Park won the opener, 3-0, while dropping the second game 4-3.

In the first game, Brandon Endicotte suffered the loss for Caesars, going the distance and striking out three.

In the nightcap, Scott Rodgers (Plymouth Salem and Kent State) was the winning pitcher in relief of starter Scott Kennedy, the Toronto Blue Jays draftee out of Plymouth Canton High.

Delwal lacks offense

Delwal could only muster four hits Friday, losing to Caesars 9-2 at Ford Field.

Rockets roar into semis of Class A state tourney

BY BRAD EMONS
STAFF WRITER

It was mid-May and Westland John Glenn baseball coach Norm Hoenes admitted, "I was ready to put the bats and balls away."

The struggling Rockets looked anything but a state Class A semifinalist at the time, but Hoenes, now in his 27th season as varsity coach, watched in amazement, only a matter of weeks, as his club was transformed into a state contender.

Glenn's 17-7 record (after a 2-6 start) pales in comparison to Friday's semifinal opponent Lapeer West (36-4), or the other two final four qualifiers — Birmingham Brother Rice (28-10) and Jenison (34-5).

But the Rockets may well be the most dangerous after knocking off No. 1 Redford Catholic Central, 5-4, in last weekend's regional semifinal.

"I always feel confident if we play good defense and Aaron (Scheffer) pitches well," Hoenes said. "I feel that if we can beat CC, we can beat anybody."

Scheffer, a junior right-hander, has come on after a 0-3 start, winning six of his last seven decisions. Number two starter Chris Kirkey, a senior right-hander with a 6-0 mark, has been consistent all season.

"Our team ERA (earned run average) is around 2.00 and our team batting average is .298, that's usually good enough," Hoenes said. "And now our fielding percentage (as a team) is up to .908, but it was in the 70s for quite awhile."

That's when Hoenes made some late season defensive and lineup adjustments, moving senior Greg Tamas back to his original position at third, and bringing up sophomore Derek Besco up from the JV squad to fill in for the injured Bobby Hayes at short.

"Tamas has been a steady player," Hoenes said. "He's leads off and has been hitting around .385. He doesn't strike out much and always puts the ball in play."

"But he makes steady plays at third and he's a heady player. He's a 4.0 (grade-point) student in the classroom. We have a lot of players who are doing well in the classroom so you could say we're a smart team."

Senior center fielder John Ward, whose two-run homer provided Glenn with the final margin of victory over CC, is the team's second leading hitter at .350. Sophomore DH Mike Bint, meanwhile, hovering near .300.

"The rest of the guys are in the .280 range," Hoenes said. Glenn's road to Battle Creek actually started during the final stages of the regular season.

The Rockets blanked Western Lakes Activities Association champ North Farmington, 7-0, and smacked WLA Western Division champ Walled Lake Western, 9-2, in a makeup game.

Glenn then drew Ypsilanti in the predistrict qualifier as Scheffer outdueled Braves ace Chris Dessellier, 3-0.

"That was a tough opener," Hoenes recalls. "Our season could have been over on May the 14th."

Glenn added a predistrict win over Plymouth Canton (8-1), followed by district victories over host Ann Arbor Pioneer (6-1) and then Belleville (12-5).

At the regional, Glenn edged CC (5-4) and 10th-ranked Lincoln Park (2-1) to reach the semifinals at Bailey Park in Battle Creek.

Glenn plays Lapeer West at 1 p.m. Friday at Nichols Field at the Bailey Park Complex in Battle Creek, which is located off I-94 (take M-66, Exit 98 north and follow to complex.) The championship is at 1 p.m. Saturday at C.O. Brown Stadium. Tickets are priced at $4 each day for each sport, and admission is good for all games played in that sport all day. An all-tournament ticket (including softball) is $12.

Final Four coaches met once before on diamond

BY BRAD EMONS
STAFF WRITER

Coaches Tim Bradley of Lapeer West and Norm Hoenes of Westland John Glenn will have a reunion of sorts Friday in the state Class A baseball semifinals at Nichols Field in Battle Creek.

It's been 23 years since the two met on the diamond — but neither can recall the meetings.

Bradley was a player at Redford Thurston High in 1969 (under coach Emil Majeski) while a young Hoenes was in his fourth year as coach of the Rockets. That's when both schools were members of the Northwest Suburban League.

"We had a pretty good team that year and if they had a state tournament we might have done pretty well," said Bradley, now in his 12th season as head coach of the Panthers, who are making their first state semifinal appearance.

"My first good team was about '71 with J.P. McBride and that crew," recalls Hoenes, whose team is making their second semifinal appearance. "We were about 31-10 and made it into the regionals. I can't remember much about the

'69 season."

Through scouting reports, Bradley and Hoenes should get a little more familiar with each other.

Glenn has become red-hot at the right time, winning 13 of its last 14 games, including a 5-4 win over No. 1-ranked Redford Catholic Central in last Saturday's regional at Temperance-Bedford.

The Rockets (17-7) struggled early in the season, while Lapeer, the highest ranked team still alive in Class A (No. 3), has been on a roll since opening day, racking up an impressive 36-4 mark.

"This is the farthest a Lapeer team has gone and naturally the school and our community are excited," said Bradley, whose parents live in Livonia. "We're looking forward to Friday. If we play the way we're capable of, it's going to take an excellent team to beat us. And hopefully the team will play up to its capabilities."

The Panthers have a decided advantage over their opponents in games played, 40-24.

"We made up all our games that were postponed and I think we played just about every other day during a three-week period to get them all in," Bradley said. "We had eight different pitchers win games during that stretch."

Lapeer West captured the Flint Metro League championship with a 15-1 record and reached the semifinals of the 32-school Greater Flint Tournament, losing to Swartz Creek before avenging that defeat with a 1-0 win in the districts.

In state tournament play, West has come from behind to win four of six games. Last weekend, Lapeer West ousted host Port Huron (7-3) and Howell (10-5) to win the regional.

The pitching staff is led by juniors Mike Thayer (7-1, 2.25 ERA) and Brandon Reed (11-1, 0.41 ERA).

Reed went 6-0 in league play and did not allow an earned run in 37 1/3 innings.

Thayer, meanwhile, also plays third base and is hitting .388.

The team's top hitter is senior catcher Scott Bradshaw, who has 66 hits overall and a .574 average.

"Our strength is our defense and our pitching has been tough," Bradley said. "And we've had timely hitting. We've done that for the most part all year."

Royals win 3 games in row

The Trapp Building Royals won their third straight game Sunday, 8-0 over Total Travel in five innings at Jaycee Park in Pontiac.

Jim Collins was the winning pitcher and Mark Scharich was 3-for-3 with a pair of doubles and three RBI. Rob Zelinski also had three RBI.

The Royals edged Graham 3-2 on Saturday as Bob Trusty pitched a three-hit complete game, striking out nine and walking nine.

The winning run was scored in the bottom of the seventh when Jeff Rahn hit a bases-loaded, two-run single with Darin Bowers, Phil Trapp and Scharich aboard.

The Royals started the streak Friday, winning 12-3 over DeWitt Building. Collins pitched five innings and got the win.

Zelinski had two hits, including a two-run homer, and four RBI. Scott Hepinstall drove in two runs with a pair of hits. Brian Fehn had three RBI and Scharich scored three runs.

Cheers for Chiefs: Julie Nicastrì (left) and Tracey Ligner celebrate the Canton victory over Trenton in the regional tournament.

Canton semifinal opponent packs potent punch at plate

BY DAN O'MEARA
STAFF WRITER

Pitching and defense are Plymouth Canton strengths, but the Chiefs can expect to be tested on both counts Friday in the semifinals of the Class A softball tournament.

Canton (31-3) will play Flint Kearsley (34-9), which boasts a .413 team batting average and set a school record by scoring 339 runs, at Bailey Park in Battle Creek.

The other semifinal has top-ranked Jenison meeting Grosse Pointe North. Both games start at 10:30 a.m. The state championship will be played at the same time and site Saturday.

"It's probably the best hitting team I've ever had," said Chuck DeArmond, who has coached Kearsley since 1979. "One through nine — any one can come up with the big hit and they've done it all season."

Junior shortstop Sarah Princinsky, the cleanup hitter, leads the Hornets with a .474 average, has 18 extra-base hits (13 doubles) and has driven in 42 runs.

Danielle Manzano, a sophomore third baseman, is the leadoff hitter, but also power hitter who had an out-of-park home run in the regional. Her stats include a .397 average, 49 runs and 31 RBI.

Senior center fielder April Jones has what DeArmond calls a "volatile bat." She hit her own pitcher,

SOFTBALL

Kathy Taylor, in the forehead with a line drive and gave her a concussion and smashed the Waterford Kettering pitcher in the shin Saturday.

"The ball comes off her bat so hard it's really hard to react to it," DeArmond said.

Jones is hitting .411 with 39 RBI, freshman right fielder Jenny Dunbar .400 with 39 RBI.

But despite its offensive prowess, the biggest single factor in Kearsley's success is pitcher Christina Lee (25-4), according to DeArmond. The left-handed senior has 152 strikeouts and 36 walks in 185 innings with an earned run average of 1.14.

"She hasn't gotten the hype like a lot of other big throwers," DeArmond said. "But I've said it before and I'll say it now: Where are they? We've beaten them or somebody else has."

DeArmond also gives pitching coach Don Russell much of the credit. He has tutored three Division I pitchers.

"We probably throw very few of what you would call fastballs," DeArmond said. "We throw a lot of drops, a lot of riseballs and mix it with some change-ups."

"It's been successful and (Russell) calls an outstanding game. We make you hit it where we want you to hit it, which is either up or on the ground." The Hornets, who were ranked no higher than 10th and were unranked at the end of the regular season despite winning the Big Nine Conference for the sixth straight year, boosted their confidence by beating No. 2-rated and defending state champion Kettering 8-3 in the regional final.

"We had played them twice and lost by a run and 5-2," DeArmond said. "I said to the girls 'It's awfully hard to beat a team three times, so the odds are in your favor. They were relaxed and played well. We're typically a good hitting team and we just lit everything up.'"

Kearsley, which has allowed 126 runs this year en-route to its first semifinal appearance, is a young team with only three seniors: Lee, Jones and first baseman Jennifer Shock.

"I think they're unaware of what they're walking into," said DeArmond of his players. "They've never been there and I'm not sure they understand what the Final Four is except they've heard it on TV."

"But they're fired up from the standpoint it will be a positive thing instead of a negative. If they were a bunch of veterans who had been there before and knew what it was all about, they might clutch more."

"I think we'll be tough to beat, providing we maintain our concentration and play well."

10-PIN ALLEY

AL HARRISON

Sometimes I think bowling must have been invented by the brewers.

The "beer frame" has become a staple part of the game, and there is always a pretty waitress to take the drink orders. After the game, the cocktail lounge becomes the natural setting for the rest of the evening and the bowling talk is punctuated by the pouring of more suds.

But there's a change in the wind. With the tougher laws on drinking and driving, with more activity by MADD and a general reluctance to take a chance driving home, there is less alcohol consumption in the bowling centers. Now, along comes Thunderbird Lanes in Troy with something different.

It's called the "dry bar." In fact, the only thing about T-Bird Dry that sets it apart from other bars is the coffee and pop that are served in place of liquor.

T-Bird Dry, which opened in November, is the newest innovation on the bowling scene. Joe Stahl, the building manager, was instrumental in the project.

He recently quit drinking, and asked himself, "Where do you go from here?"

After consulting with Alcoholics Anonymous, he realized there were no AA clubs in the vicinity. Here was a seldom-used room, and the idea came to reality in a very short time.

Once the dry bar opened, its popularity increased steadily. It is now getting recognition from people outside Thunderbird Lanes.

Just recently, T-Bird Dry was awarded a $2,500 grant from the Troy community coalition for the prevention of drug and alcohol abuse. T-Bird Dry is not an exclusive club, anyone can come in, as long as they are at least 16 or accompanied by an adult and are not under the influence of alcohol, and do not bring drinks in from the other areas of the bowling center.

The funds from the grant will allow them to spiffy up the room and replace the donated tables and chairs. Stahl is not sure as to what extent the traffic through the bowling center will increase due to the exposure, but since the dry bar opened, two sober T-Bird Dry teams have been added to the bowling center. Maybe this is a sign of things to come.

The Wayne-Westland Men's Bowling Association held its 26th-annual Awards Celebration Dinner & Dance last week. Awards were presented for all "honor" scores, and there were many. There were 35 300 games, 14 299s and 14 198s and 14 series of 800 with the highest belonging to David Thomas at Westland Bowl with an 827.

One bowler, Frank Briscoe, had two 800s, both at Westland Bowl. Scholarships were given out to the top youth bowlers from the Scholarship tournament: $1,000 went to both Sheryl Tillman and Jim Walker, while the runners-up, Megan King and Bruce Kendrick each received $500. The city tournament winners were "Candyman" with a top score of 3,577 to win the team event. Bill Coffey, Captain and Bill Verla, Jim Lahousse, Will Lahousse and Mario Napolitano comprised the team.

Doubles champs were Bill Verla and Jim Lahousse with 1,506, singles was won by Glenn Jones with a score of 805, while all-events went to Glenn Coffey with 2,318. The highest league average was Frank Briscoe of the Tri-City Invitational League at Westland Bowl with a 225 average over 99 games. The awards were presented after the banquet, which was an excellent buffet dinner. After the trophies, the rest of the night was for dancing to the music of "Midnight."

The Greater Detroit Bowling Association announced the 1991-92 all-city teams. Leading all bowlers was Paul Grauser of Westland with 75 points. Ken Wyatt of Southfield also made the first team with 54 points. Ken Kossick of Canton had 44 points to get on the second team and Nunzio Marino of Livonia made honorable mention with 39 points. Points are awarded on the basis of winnings in the city and state tournaments as well as honor scores combined.

Grauser had 23 points for finishing 2nd in the state doubles with Ken Kossick, 25 for winning state all-events, nine for three 300 games, three for 800 series and 13 high averages of 223 (metro staff Hall of Fame Classic), 209 (Stroh's Beer all-star Classic) and 209 in the An-sara Big Boy Classic.

Ken Kossick of Canton was the winner in the Stroh's Beer — Michigan Majors Bowling Association Tournament held in Monroe. Kossick is only the second bowler to win two major championships. He first defeated Ron Byrd 226-223; 223-194. He then dispatched Jeff Rosas, Scott Weston, Brian Ziemba and finally Amos Mathis. Livonia's Nunzio Marino also had a perfect game during qualifying rounds. Paul Grauser finished in 7th place, Tony Stipeak of Redford, 10th, Mark Hammel of Westland was 20th, D.J. Hochstein of Garden City was 24th, Keith Kingston of Farmington Hills, 38th, Doug Demarolis of West Bloomfield, 39th, Marino 40th, Lee Snow of Farmington Hills, 46th, and Ryan Wilson of Garden City was 51st.

ALL-AREA GIRLS TRACK

Hot Wheeler paces '92 all-area track team

BY STEVE KOWALSKI
STAFF WRITER

Plymouth Salem's girls track team showed consistency throughout an undefeated dual-meet season, but coach Mark Gregor still found a turning point.

It came during Salem's 70-58 win last month over Plymouth Canton in the annual Mangan Invitational.

"If I could pinpoint a turning point it was when we swept the 200 meter dash against Canton; the girls really came together and believed in themselves," said Gregor, the Observer's 1992 Coach of the Year. "From then on they believed they could win the conference (Western Lakes) and do well at regional."

The Rocks, who won the WLAA with a 5-0 dual meet record, were 7-0 overall and took second at the Class A Belleville regional. Salem qualified 10 athletes for the state meet in nine events, and the 104 points scored at regional were the most ever by a Salem team.

Gregor just finished his fifth year at Salem and he was assisted in '92 by Tom Garrett and Jay Blaylock. The youthful Rocks were led by junior Tonya Wheeler, the 400-meter dash champion in Class A.

"This was the best season I ever had as a track and field coach, the most cooperative group I've ever been associated with," Gregor said.

The Rocks placed two individuals and two relays on this year's Observer first team. Farmington Hills Mercy, the Catholic League champion, and Canton each placed two individuals and one relay on the first team. North Farmington and traditionally strong Livonia Stevenson feature two first-team individuals.

FIELD EVENTS

Becky Washnock, shot put, Farmington: The senior was an Oakland County champion and leaves with the school's all-time best toss in the shot put at 36-feet, 2 inches. Washnock also took second places at the Class A regional and West Bloomfield Invitational and third place in the Western Lakes Activities Association meet.

"Becky is a dedicated athlete who has shown great improvement each year," coach Bruce Brown said. "Her hard work and determination have really paid off for her. She is great to work with."

Teresa Sarno, discus, Stevenson: The most accomplished athlete at Stevenson, Sarno is headed to the University of Virginia on a volleyball scholarship. She finished second in the discus and third in the shot put in Class A and was a regional champion in both. Sarno holds the school record for best toss in each event (135-2 in discus, 38-5 in shot put) and won each dual meet in which she competed. She also was a WLAA champion.

"Teresa is a gifted athlete who willingly worked as hard as necessary to achieve her goals," coach Paul Holmberg said. "She was named Stevenson's most outstanding all-around athlete, and rightfully so."

Catherine Bacile, long jump, Stevenson: Bacile, who had a personal best long jump of 16-6½ (the highest in the area), was Stevenson's leading point-getter. The sophomore qualified for the second time for the Class A meet in the long jump and 200-meter dash, finishing third at the regional in each event.

"Catherine is on her way toward setting an all-time scoring record for Stevenson girls track," Holmberg said. "In addition to long jump, she was one of the area's best in the 200 and ran on two relays."

Stephanie Gray, high jump, Canton: The junior has qualified for the Class A meet in the high jump three years in a row. Undefeated in six dual meets, Gray won the WLAA meet for a second time in a row and she finished third in the regional. Her best jump is 5-2. She cleared 5-0 or higher 13 times this season and made 5-2 seven times. She also has thrown the discus 91-2 and the shot put 34-10.

"Stephanie is a very dedicated and talented athlete," coach George Przygodski said. "Consistency is Stephanie's trademark."

RUNNING EVENTS

Theresa Giacherio, 100-meter hurdles, Salem: She is the school record holder in the 300 meter hurdles (46.6) and this spring she won the 100 hurdles in both the WLAA and regional meets. Giacherio is a two-time WLAA champion as well as a two-time state qualifier in the 300 hurdles.

"Theresa finished a great track career at Salem by helping to lead a young team to the Lakes Division and WLAA championships," coach Mark Gregor said. "She graduates with a long list of accomplishments and has definitely left her mark as a quality person and athlete."

Wendy Malecki, 300 hurdles, Redford Union: With a year of eligibility remaining at RU, Malecki already holds the school record in the 300 hurdles (46.6). She was ninth in the state meet in the 300 hurdles (46.82) and a league champion in the 100 hurdles. She also anchored RU's 1,600 relay team that was a champion at the Northwest Suburban League meet.

This was only the first year as a hurdler for Malecki, who last fall was a first-team NSL basketball choice.

"She's a fine athlete, very coachable," RU coach Bob Ouellette said. "She could be 45.5 next year (in the 300 hurdles) — watch out."

RUNNING EVENTS

Ndu Okwumabua, 100 dash, Canton: Okwumabua peaked at the right time, placing first in the WLAA meet and fifth in the regional. The sophomore's best time in the 100 meters was 12.7, second in the area. Okwumabua also scored for Canton in the long jump, placing fifth in Class A. Okwumabua, who has a 3.8 grade point average, might also find success down the road in longer distances, according to Canton coach George Przygodski.

"Although she has sprinter's speed, she does not have sprinter's stride," Przygodski said. "Her best races down the road will probably be in the 400 or 800 meters."

Nicole Pryor, 200, Farmington Mercy: The junior broke the school record that stood for 13 years, in the 400 meters (58.9), and she was a champion in both the 200 and 400 races in the Catholic League meet. Pryor was an Operation Friendship champion in the 400 meters and placed third in the same meet in the 200 dash. She placed second at the Oakland County meet in the 400 meters. Mercy coach Gary Servalis has had success shuffling Pryor in the lineup.

"Nicole hasn't achieved her best performance yet, and we're still trying to determine her best event," Servalis said. "We're leaning toward the 1,600 run."

Tonya Wheeler, 400, Salem: Wheeler already is the all-time leader in points scored at Salem, despite only being a junior. She was a regional and state champion in the 400 dash and also was league champ in each event. Her best times of 58.2 in the 400 and 26.2 in the 200 were also the best times in the area. Wheeler also was the state indoor 600 meter champion.

"Tonya combines speed, power and great determination to produce a two-year climb to become state champion," Gregor said. "Her potential to improve drives her toward even greater heights. Her hard work in the classroom and in athletics provides our school and team with a great role model. The best is yet to come."

Dawn DiPonio, 800, Farmington Mercy: A regional champion in the 800 run and a two-time state champion, DiPonio also was second in the Catholic League meet and third at Oakland County. She also was part of the 3,200 relay team that holds a school record. Her best time of 2:22.0 was tops in the area.

"Dawn is a leader and a joy to coach," Servalis said. "I wish I had 10 athletes like her."

Jenny Weh, 1,600 meter run, North Farmington: Weh's best time of 5:21.9 is a North Farmington record and the best time in the area. She ran less than 5:30 six times and was first at the Class A regional and first in the West Bloomfield Invitational. She was second at the WLAA, fourth at the Oakland County and 12th in the state tournament.

Weh also was instrumental in anchoring the school's 3,200 meter relay team that placed seventh at the Class A meet in a school record time (9:56.4).

"Jenny has worked hard for us all season and did what we asked her to do," North coach Bill Pinnell said. "She has been a team leader and excellent role model for our athletes. It was nice to see her get out of the season what she put into it."

Emily Shively, 3,200 meter run, North Farmington: Despite a nagging injury, Shively recovered enough to place second in the WLAA, fourth in the regional and sixth in Oakland County. Her best time was 11:48.9 (No. 1 in the area). She also was a member of the 3,200 relay team that took second at the regional and seventh in the state meet in a record time (9:56.4).

"She had to alternate running workouts with pool workouts (because of the injury)," Pinnell said. "Emily was dedicated to her varied way of training so that she could maintain some conditioning. She made some personal sacrifices for the good of the team and still ran within six seconds (of her personal best time)."

New restaurant caters to families

BY KEELY WYGONIK
STAFF WRITER

In many ways, The American Inn restaurant at 15800 Middle Belt between Five and Six Mile roads in Livonia is the American dream come true for co-owners Angeles Anastasiou and Christos Kanis.

The two met in Detroit's Greek Town at the Old Parthenon Restaurant where they worked together as waiters. "We planned it," Anastasiou said of the restaurant. "We are dreamers."

Anastasiou jokes he was born into the hotel and restaurant business. He started working at his uncle's restaurant at age eight. He studied hotel and restaurant management in Greece and has over 30 years of restaurant experience. He managed the Pegasus Restaurant in Greek Town, before opening a Dimitri Restaurant in Farmington six years ago.

New booths, partitions, color scheme and menu featuring daily specials, heart healthy and children's items, Greek and American specialties await diners at the 141-seat restaurant, formerly Nags Head Pub, which officially opens Monday, June 15.

"When this is finished it will be especially nice," said Anastasiou. The restaurant will only serve lunch and dinner. Hours will be 11 a.m. to 11 p.m. Monday through Thursday, 11 a.m. to midnight, Friday, noon to midnight, Saturday, and noon to 10 p.m. Sunday.

Prices range from $2.75 to $4.75 for sandwiches, luncheon specials like Yankee Pot Roast, stuffed cabbage, and baked pork chops start at $4.95 with the most expensive being Cajun-Style Prime Rib for $7.95. Specials served with soup or salad and homemade rolls and butter. Salad selection include tossed, Greek, Caesar, chef, Almond Chicken, tuna, honey mustard chicken and Cobb salad. Prices start at $1.45 for tossed salad served with dinner to $5.95 for a Cobb salad.

Dinner specials like Orange Roughy Parmesan Marinara and Chicken Cordon Bleu range from $5.95 for Yankee Pot Roast to $8.95 for a 12 oz. New York Burgundy Pepper Steak.

"You can have a glass of wine and a good meal without spending more than $10 per person at our restaurant," said Anastasiou. "Everything on the menu is made fresh daily, from the mashed potatoes to the orange marmalade."

House specialties include Avgolemono and Chicago Style Chicken Pie. Avgolemono is a deliciously blended Greek soup made with fresh chicken, rice, lemon and eggs. Chicago Style Chicken Pie is a special blend of white-chicken meat, sauteed onions, eggs and bechamel wrapped in phyllo, served with chicken gravy, rice and tomato.

"Our Avgolemono and Chicago Style Chicken Pie are homemade recipes and can't be found anywhere else," said

New restaurant: Angeles Anastasiou pours his partner, Christos Kanis a glass of wine at their restaurant, the American Inn in Livonia. Formerly Nags Head Pub, the restaurant has been renovated, and will feature Greek cuisine and American favorites when it opens June 15.

Anastasiou. "We also have one of the finest Greek chefs who has developed his skills for many years at several Canadian hotels."

Other Greek specialties on the menu include Saganaki (flaming cheese), stuffed grape leaves, and moussaka (baked eggplant). American Inn also offers salads, sandwiches, poultry, pasta, seafood, steaks, and barbecued ribs.

The children's menu features veal parmesan, kid's spaghetti, fish and chips and kid's burger. For those counting calories, there's broiled chicken breast, broiled orange roughy, and chicken breast stir-fry.

On Sunday's from noon to 10 p.m., the American Inn will offer a family feast featuring a choice of entrees with soup, salad, dessert and coffee for $7.95 to $8.95.

Reservations are accepted for parties of six or more. For information, call 522-5600.

Delightful cast entertains in 'Grease' squeaky clean like cheerleaders Patty (Kim Kozlowski) or let her ponytail down and turn into one of the "cool" Pink Ladies that Danny seems to favor?

The talented St. Dunstan's cast is as super-charged with energy as the gang's bright red hot rod "Greased Lightning." The latter, its body constructed over an electric golf cart, is a real stand-out among the many clever design touches in the show's sets and props.

Maneuvering the vehicle up and down a narrow ramp and turning it around without knocking over the orchestra merits applause in its own right.

All of the principals have fine voices, and "Grease" allows each a chance in the spotlight. White and Krill click with "Summer Nights." As Marty, (Teresa Ruth) croons "Freddy, My Love," Jamie Richards's Kenickie leads a spirited chorus through "Greased Lightning."

Amy Smith's Jan, and Ron Zate's, Roger shine in "Mooning." Leisa Pulido is wonderful as Rizzo, the tough cookie who ridicules Sandy with "Look at Me, I'm Sandra Dee." Janie Castagna's Frenchy laments she's a "Beauty School Dropout," and she's sided by her Teen Angel, Jim Andres in a flashy white suit and towering pompadour.

In supporting roles, Roz Basherian is hilarious as Miss Lynch, the elderly nonsense English teacher, David Rau as Eugene is the epitome of the brainy class nerd, and Pam Richards is very good as Cha-Cha, someone's sluttily blind date.

Duo inspires audience at Shaarey Zedek

AVIGDOR ZAROMP

Among the institutions of significant cultural and musical heritage, the Congregation Shaarey Zedek is one of leading forces. As the largest Jewish Conservative congregation in the area, its appeal goes far beyond those with the underlying religious background and philosophy.

For the past 13 years, it has featured an annual musical event, named after Peter and Clara Weisberg, who established this series in 1980.

The latest of these, on Wednesday, June 6, featured violinist Daniel Heifetz and pianist Samuel Sanders in a varied program of selections, ranging from the standard classical repertoire to the Jewish folklore.

This event, with only limited advertising, nevertheless attracted an audience comparable in size to that of Orchestra Hall for a major event. General admission to these events is free, with some of the costs being assumed by contributing patrons.

One aspiration of any artist is to establish his own artistic identity. With a name like Heifetz, the inevitable question arises in the mind of any listener. The subject of any relationship between Daniel Heifetz and the legendary Jascha Heifetz was never brought up in the speeches preceding the program or in the printed program itself.

One may rationalize that such an aspect shouldn't matter — each artist should be treated as an individual. This, however, is not enough to make one's curiosity go away. To put this issue to rest, I asked the question, and was told by Daniel Heifetz that there was a very remote, indirect relationship. Having this issue resolved, I am happy to conclude that Daniel Heifetz is, indeed, a gifted artist in his own right.

His partner that evening, Samuel Sanders, has collaborated with many celebrated artists. Here he appeared recently with the Kavafian sisters at Orchestra Hall. This duo is a powerful combination.

The audience consisted largely of people who were eager and enthusiastic to attend a musical event under these surroundings, but who are not among regular concertgoers.

Thus, there were several Jewish oriented selections, and some of the standard classical items were cut short. My biggest sense of loss was when the Franck sonata in A major had only its last move. The entire work, however, may have required too long of an attention span for many others in this audience.

Another classical selection which was cut short was from Prokofiev's Romeo and Juliet, of which only the march of the Montagues and Capulets was played. While one could hardly expect a more forceful rendition of this massive piece when given by a piano and violin, it still couldn't match Prokofiev's thick and resonating orchestration. Among the Jewish themes, the most pronounced was the Nigun by Ernest Bloch, which is seldom performed before a general audience, but frequently before Jewish audiences. Seldom, however, one could hear a rendition as musically and ethnically meaningful as in this performance.

Music can be applied to a certain audience with a specific heritage, as shown in this performance. Even the two pieces by Kreisler — "Praeludium and Allegro" and "Liebesleid" — given for an encore — sounded almost Jewish with some of the tonal inflections. Yet, paradoxically, it didn't detract from their authenticity. Gershwin, who himself was Jewish, captured the Negro soul in his opera "Porgy and Bess," which was featured with some of its popular melodies on this program.

An appeal to a specific ethnic group is but one of music's many faces. Its universal language was illustrated by Heifetz, who proved to be a capable storyteller as well as a musician. According to one of his stories, he and his colleague Samuel Sanders were able to move and inspire an unusual 'captive audience' in a New York State prison by performing some Soul Music — Not just of any kind — but Jewish Soul Music — before inmates who were mostly black and Hispanic. Indeed, only those who understand music's universal language can properly understand some of its ethnic dialects. Heifetz and Sanders are among those who do.

Avigdor Zaromp, born in Poland, educated in Israel and the United States, has a Ph.D. in math and has studied piano, music theory and history.

Bankes lauds gov's welfare reform plan

Gov. John Engler's welfare reform plan will strengthen families by changing the nature of the state's welfare system, said state Rep. Lyn Bankes, R-Livonia.

Responding to the governor's June 2 televised address in which he introduced a 21-point plan to restructure the state's welfare system, Bankes said Engler's proposals will change welfare from a hand-out to a helping hand.

"The governor's plan encourages employment and education, and targets support to preserve families, not punish them. His new 'social contract,' will encourage independence and self-reliance, and build self-esteem. This is a plan to break the cycle of dependency.

"I agree with the governor that change is the only cure to the cynicism and helplessness that grip so many families trapped in poverty by a failed system."

Engler's proposals will require most adults receiving Aid to Families with Dependent Children to work, attend school, or do volunteer work for at least 20 hours a week in exchange for their monthly assistance checks.

Reform initiatives also call for a crackdown on fathers who have defaulted on court ordered child-support payments. Under the governor's plan, the state would require that children be covered under an absent parent's health insurance, an errant parent's employer notified of overdue child support, and that state income tax refunds be garnished.

Bankes said the governor also is proposing a statewide expansion of the pilot program called Families First, a Department of Social Services program to preserve families and keep children out of foster care.

The neighborhood-based Communities First pilot program, targeted to four state sites, will be expanded. The community-driven, service-delivery initiative targets blighted neighborhoods by combining welfare, education, day care, and health programs all at one site.

Golf benefit aids low-income children

Northwestern (formerly Northwestern Guidance Clinic) provides treatment of mental and emotional illness for people under 18 who live in Canton, Garden City, Inkster, Livonia, Northville, Plymouth, Redford, Wayne and Westland. In addition, its Respite Care Program schedules temporary care for developmentally disabled people residing throughout Wayne County.

A lot.

Charlie Mouser is not only an international retail and advertising consultant, he's more. Much more. Charlie gives you the straight scoop. This isn't one of those seminars where you sit there and pretend you know what concepts are being discussed. You'll know because this man puts his ideas and advice in language that is fresh and dynamic with a chuckle thrown in for people who like to laugh.

Why is Charlie about to do four seminars in our hometowns?

Because we've asked him to come. Local chambers of commerce are also showing their support as co-sponsors. We're interested in the economic health of the communities we serve. We figure if a business person uses just one of Charlie's ideas and that idea leads to one more customer or one more sale, it was worth it.

And while we're on the subject of worth, you will be able to hear Charlie for little or nothing. All you need to invest is a few hours of your time. Some people are suspicious of "free" things. How often have you heard, "If it doesn't cost anything, it can't be very good?"

That's not the case here.

Charlie's good.

Darn good.

Come and find out how good.

look at thousands of pieces of merchandise and know it's one price." "Customers see that new merchandise is priced only at a dollar, and when they shop at other places, it's higher," said Jeffrey Bell, district manager for Dollar Tree. "They feel they get excellent value for a dollar."

While price point clothing stores have been around for a while, dollar outlets, a variation of the five and dime, are fairly new, said Frederick Marx, a Farmington Hills marketing consultant.

Shoppers profiled

"Generally, somebody who is a budget shopper, who has a tight pocketbook, will shop at a 13 Below," Marx said. "An affluent shopper may go to a dollar store. It's something to do. It's a penny arcade for adults."

Dollar Tree, now in its third year of business in Michigan, has stores in Troy, Rochester Hills, Southfield and Livonia. Dollar Bill$ first came to Michigan last July and now has stores in Livonia, Redford and Westland.

Variety stores generally are viewed as impulse rather than destination stops.

"We put them into plazas and malls basically because we have developers coming to us," Bell said.

"We kind of draw a lot of customers into those stores."

"We started 5½-6 years ago. We've had numerous people (competitors) come after us. We found it very challenging when we started. Some would say it's a junk store. It's quality merchandise at a value price," Bell said.

Merchandise varies

Customers never really know what they'll find in variety stores.

"We usually don't have the same merchandise for repeat buys," Bell said. "It's a surprise every week. Our main office is in Norfolk, Va., but each individual stores orders as per their needs."

Corporate provides a list of available goods, Bell added.

"It (concept) is real sexy now," Marx said. "You never know what's going to be there. People have fun with them."

Merchandise offered generally is of decent quality, he added. Supplies come from odd lots, remainders, over-shippments and canceled orders.

"All is first-run merchandise, no seconds, no damaged goods," Laski said. "We work with buying offices in New York. Probably at any point in time, we have 100-200 buyers looking for us. When a deal pops, we buy. We do a dollar figure. If we can't, we pass." Dollar Tree buys directly from manufacturers to save on shipping costs, Bell said. About 20 percent is closeouts, he added.

13 Below has stores in Troy, Redford and Livonia. "Sharp customers are dollar aware," Laski said. "They will shop better stores and end up buying from us."

Shoppers comment

Several shoppers were interviewed last week outside of a Dollar Bill$ and 13 Below store at Redford Plaza.

"I've seen the same cereal in grocery stores for $3 or $4 dollars. Here, it's a dollar. You can get real good bargains," said Angie Cruz.

"You don't have to pay that much money and they have nice clothes," said Jessica Montgomery.

But those sentiments weren't unanimous.

"Everything you buy in those (variety) stores is cheap," said Kevin Kulyk. "I don't think it's worth it."

Their stores are profitable, Laski and Bell said, declining to provide specific numbers.

Marx wonders whether the mushrooming of variety stores can be supported by the customer base.

"When you do it in only a couple of stores and they're hand picked, you do well. Buyers can't buy for hundreds of stores and keep people excited about the fun they had from the first time."

"Too many people are doing the same thing. There will be a shake-out," Marx predicted.

Buck paradise: Price point variety stores like Dollar Tree, where everything sells for $1, must do high volume business to turn a profit, said Frederick Marx, a Farmington Hills marketing consultant.

Price point shoppers seek bargains

■ There's no such thing as sticker shock at stores where all merchandise is the same, low price. Several stores that sell everything under the roof for less than $1, $10, or $13 have popped up in the area. One analyst, however, doubts they'll all survive.

How's this for a shopping adventure — everything in the store priced at $1 or less. Dollar Tree, Dollar Bill$ and Everything's a $1 have proliferated in Observer & Eccentric communities in recent years. The variety stores offer all kinds of knick-knacks, all for a buck.

You don't want to fuss with comparing clothing and accessories in a wide-range of prices?

Then go to a store like 13 Below, where the maximum price on any woman's fashion in the place is $13, or Dots, a competitor where the top price is $10. Those stores, too, have popped up in malls and shopping centers throughout the metro area.

The concept is called price point shopping.

"It makes it very simple for the customer," said Rob Laski, general manager for the 13 Below chain. "We find people are absolutely thrilled they can

Few waves seen in breakup of GMF Robotics marriage

BY GERALD FRAWLEY
STAFF WRITER

General Motors Corp. is getting out of the robotics business, and the industry is buzzing with speculation about whether this is good news, bad news or mere scuttlebutt around the water cooler.

General Motors announced last week that it was selling its half interest in the Auburn Hills-based robotics manufacturer to its venture partner Fanuc Limited, which already owns the other 50 percent.

Don Vincent, executive vice president of the Robotics Industries Association in Ann Arbor, said the news prompted calls from people throughout the industry.

"On the surface, it appears to not be a big deal," he said. General Motors is selling its shares to raise money and refocus its energies on its main business.

Vincent said robotics sales were down slightly last year to about $470 million in 1991 from $485 million in 1990, but overall capital spending by manufacturers was down.

Dave Conner, marketing manager at Bosch Automation Products in Plymouth Township, said although the news of the sale was a surprise, the actual sale isn't likely to have much of an impact on the automation industry.

Bosch Automation Products recently entered a partnership making GMFanuc an authorized integrator of its products.

There is no reason to expect a change in the relationship following GM's recent decision to divest itself of its interests in GMFanuc, he said.

As for changes in the way GMFanuc does business, Conner said despite the association, GMFanuc did and will continue to have customers other than General Motors.

"We're no less optimistic about our relationship this week than we were last week," he said. "We see the (divestiture) pretty much as a paper change."

Conner speculated that GMFanuc could become an even stronger force in the market, if for no other reason than it gaining its own identity from General Motors. "Total autonomy can only benefit the company."

When two companies join in a partnership, like Bosch and GMFanuc, they do so primarily for a business reason.

"Relationships are driven by the end user more than the two companies saying if we get into bed together we can really do something."

In the case of General Motors and Fanuc Limited, they got together for a purpose that is no longer needed and so the two are going there separate ways, Conner said.

"Does it even make sense for an auto maker to be in the robotics industry anyway?"

Thomas Getts, director of sales and marketing at the Farmington Hills-based laser processing motion systems developer Robomatic International U.S.A., said the sale could open up opportunities for other robotics manufacturers.

FILE PHOTO

Little difference: Players in the robotics industry see few changes occurring because of General Motor's pullout from GMFanuc.

Ties between General Motors and Fanuc Limited often precluded other robotics firms from doing business with GM, he said — and sometimes to GM's disadvantage.

Under the old relationship, it wouldn't be unusual for GM to spend millions of dollars on research and development for a particular application so GMFanuc could manufacture it for the automotive giant.

That isn't very efficient when independent firms already had the products General Motors needed and could provide them without the wait or cost, he said.

If another robotics manufacturer were to bid on a project for the car company, GMFanuc usually won. "GMFanuc always received the nod in a tie," he said.

In the short term, that could change with the sale. The sale may also have an impact on the new entity. "GM has put substantial amounts of dollar in R&D. Will Fanuc Limited do the same? I don't know but my guess is they will probably be more conservative."

A less well-funded Fanuc Limited may be a less formidable competitor, he said.

On the other hand, he wondered whether a Fanuc Limited unincumbered by the General Motors name will become a greater competitor for other automotive manufacturers like Ford and Chrysler.

Kazumasa Arima, president of VSI Automation in Auburn Hills, said his company won't notice any changes because he has never directly competed with GMFanuc.

"Our products are quite different from GMFanuc," he said. While that larger company devoted its energies to developing large manufacturing machines, VSI Automation clients are mainly automotive small parts suppliers.

Adult scouts get enthused at conference

You could say that Peggy Seery has been recharged. That's how the president of the Huron Valley Girl Scout Council came away from the recent national meeting of Girl Scout presidents and executive directors.

"It's always wonderful to get a chance to meet with your peers from all over the country," said Seery, a Canton resident. The organization has 333 councils throughout the country, "including Alaska, Puerto Rico and Hawaii, and they were all there."

Seery was joined at the conference by Gail Scott, the council's executive director. The meeting was for top volunteers and executives of the Scouting organization and was held in May in Albuquerque, N.M.

The keynote speech was given by the Rev. Bernice King, daughter of the late Rev. Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., the civil rights leader assassinated in 1968. "She was very inspiring," Seery said.

King discussed the power Scouting has as an organization to bring about change.

The conference also featured a panel of education and child development experts who discussed gender-related challenges girls face. The panelists included Dr. Myra Sadker of American University, Dr. Nona Lyons of Brown University, Dr. Heather Johnston Nicholson of the non-profit organization Girls Inc. and Maria Guajardo of the Colorado State Department of Education.

PSO says 'thanks' for the help

The Plymouth Symphony Orchestra has been making music for almost 50 years, much because of the effort of its fund-raising arm, the Plymouth Symphony League. The hard had not gone unrecognized with the volunteers receiving kudos for their efforts.

BY JULIE BROWN
STAFF WRITER

The Plymouth Symphony Orchestra's been a community fixture for nearly 50 years, and many people have helped to keep the musicians playing.

Some of those dedicated volunteers and supporters were honored by the Plymouth Symphony League, the PSO's fund-raising arm, during its annual meeting and luncheon Monday, June 1, at the Mayflower Hotel in Plymouth.

"We wanted to make it an appreciation, to thank all of the hard workers," said Sharyn Tidwell, league past president. PSO conductor Russell Reed attended, as did Symphony Society board members, "just basically showing support and thanking us."

Creon Smith, Mayflower Hotel general manager and co-owner, was among the honorees.

"It was a total surprise to me, really," said Smith, who was given a pen-and-ink drawing of the hotel. "I was very surprised and pleased that they felt the way they did. It was very nice. I really wasn't deserving of it."

The Mayflower's Ralph Lorenz was among those who worked with the late Wayne Dunlap, longtime PSO conductor, to establish the symphony in the 1940s.

"We've always been involved to some degree with the symphony," Smith said.

BILL BRESLER/STAFF PHOTOGRAPHER

High note: Creon Smith, co-owner and general manager of the Mayflower Hotel, was recently honored by members of the Plymouth Symphony League. Smith was given a pen and ink drawing of the hotel.

The PSO's a vital part of the community and such cultural activities enrich the quality of life for all, he said.

"The people of this town are just really unique. It's something that has existed for a long time. They made commitments so that we've got a nice place to live."

Smith works with league members throughout the year. "I'm just overwhelmed by their commitment. It's terrific." All league members should receive awards, he said.

"They deserve it, because they do all the work." They're busy raising families, doing other volunteer work, and in some cases work outside the home, but still find time to support the symphony.

The least others can do is attend PSO concerts, "enjoying the byproduct of the work these people are doing," he said.

Smith has in many cases donated use of Mayflower facilities for PSO functions, helping the group make a profit, said Tidwell, a Plymouth Township resident.

"He's just bent-over backwards and done so many things. He's just done everything he could do for the league."

Board members and league group chairwomen were also honored June 1. The league has seven different groups, with each responsible for at least one fund-raising project a year.

Between hospital, home, there's place called TCU

BY SUE MASON
STAFF WRITER

There was a time when you stayed in the hospital until you were well enough to go home. But such thinking has changed today, in part because of skyrocketing health care costs.

These days, an illness that in the past may have meant a minimum of a two-week's stay in the hospital has been pared down to four days or so as insurance companies make a move to contain costs.

But with all things not being equal, it is the patient about to be discharged from the hospital who isn't quite ready for home who's caught in the middle.

Enter the Transitional Care Unit.

Occupying a wing of University Nursing and Rehabilitation Center in Livonia, TCU is possibly the first of its kind in the state. It is part of a joint venture between the Health Care and Retirement Corporation of America and The Chi Group Inc., an Ann Arbor-based health care consulting firm. The plan is to open similar units at HCR skilled care facilities in Plymouth (Plymouth Court) and Bloomfield Hills (Georgian Bloomfield).

But TCU should not be confused with a nursing home. The latter offers continuing and rehabilitative care, the former offers transient care. It operates as a recovery center for patients who haven't quite recovered.

"This is a hybrid," said Harry Dalsey of The Chi Group. "And these are patients who would be sitting in the hospital waiting to go home. The intent here is to get the patient back home; the intent is not to institutionalize them."

Different style

To escape the negative images of a nursing home, the TCU has its own entrance and its own nursing staff. Doctors visit on a daily basis and the staffing is equal to what would be found in a hospital.

The rooms are set up like hospital rooms with electric beds, call lights, TV and telephones. Not found in the hospital are the couches and tables and chairs for visiting and meals sans bed pillows.

And like hospitals, the unit is capable of providing occupational, physical and speech therapy.

But what sets the hospital and TCU apart is how it is staffed. The TCU uses more aides and licensed practical nurses under a registered nurse's supervision.

The nurses work 12-hour shifts and HCR has made a point to hire nurses who are accustomed to the clinical challenges the patients

Sadker told conference participants that gender bias in many cases has become more subtle in recent years. Too often in school, boys are praised for their actions while girls are praised for having neat margins on school papers, Seery said.

"That was very informative," she added. Scouting officials are working with the American Association of University Women and other organizations to promote gender equity in education for girls.

Being involved in Scouting helps young women prepare for the future, she said. The East Coast has many high-quality women's colleges, but there isn't as much of that in the Midwest, so Scouting's contribution is tremendously important.

"An all-girl organization where all the leadership roles are open to women, where leadership skills are encouraged, where the role models are women for the most part" helps girls achieve.

"It does and has been for years." Scouts benefit from having a safe environment in which to try new things and, in some cases, to fail.

"Absolutely. We feel that we can help provide some of the opportunities," said Seery, a copy editor for the Ford Motor Co.

Participants also discussed topics related to managing Girl Scout councils, including marketing for demographic changes, fund-raising and others. New Scout cookie box designs were unveiled during the Albuquerque conference.

League members raised $25,000 for the PSO's 1991-92 season. The symphony hasn't been as dependent on public funding as some others are, Tidwell said, but such private support remains critical, particularly during tough times. Corporate giving has been down a bit, due to the recession.

"We just felt very lucky that we were able to raise that kind of money," Tidwell said.

The Michigan Orchestra Volunteers Association met earlier this year in Plymouth. In talking to other volunteers from throughout the state, she found many didn't get the recognition league members do.

"A lot of those groups don't get the same support. We really feel very fortunate here that we're appreciated."

Jane Martin, a Northville artist, was commissioned by the league to do a drawing of the hotel for Smith. She also did a drawing of Tidwell's home, which was presented during the luncheon.

Smith has a drawing at home of the Grand Hotel on Mackinac Island. "So this one will go on the opposite wall," he said.

Brian-Henderson

Bert and Sharon Brian of Canton announce the engagement of their daughter, Kimberly Elizabeth Brian of Canton, to Gordon James Henderson of Plymouth, son of Jerry and Casandra Henderson of Plymouth and the late Linda Henderson.

The bride-elect is a graduate of Plymouth Canton High School and attended Eastern Michigan University. She is employed as a full-time systems manager with Meijer Inc.

Her fiancé is a graduate of Plymouth Salem High School. He will receive a bachelor of science degree in electrical engineering from the University of Michigan-Dearborn in December.

A late August wedding is planned at Risen Christ Lutheran Church, Plymouth.

DiDomenicantonio-Passino

Mr. and Mrs. Mario E. DiDomenicantonio of Rensselaer, N.Y., announce the engagement of their daughter, Lisa M. DiDomenicantonio, to Michael Passino Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Michael Passino of Canton, formerly of Troy.

The bride-elect is a graduate of Columbia High School, Hudson Valley Community College and Albany College of Pharmacy. She is employed as a staff pharmacist at St. Clare's Hospital in Schenectady, N.Y.

Her fiancé is a graduate of Troy High School and Hudson Valley Community College. He is employed at Shop & Save Albany.

An early August wedding is planned.

Marygrove to offer Kids' College

You can send your children to college this summer, thanks to the popular Kids' College Summer Session, sponsored by Marygrove College's Division of Continuing Education.

A wide variety of courses in dance, music, drama, foreign language, reading, writing and mathematics will be offered, beginning Monday, June 22. The Kids' College will be on the Marygrove campus at 8425 W. McNichols at Wyoming in Detroit.

The summer program is designed to strengthen basic academic skills, such as reading, mathematics and writing, and/or to develop enrichment opportunities in the arts, computer, foreign languages, typing, sewing and athletics.

Certified instructors teach the more than 50 course offerings. Class enrollment is limited to 12-18 students to maximize teacher/student interaction.

Kids' College is a year-round program, offering a new series of classes each season. It serves close to 2,500 students age 2 through high school each year.

Children can attend Kids' College at Marygrove, Dominican Academy and St. Thomas Aquinas. To register for any location or for more information, call the continuing education office at 862-8000, Ext. 572.

Writer relates easily to people through friendship, caring

GRAPHOLOGY PROFILES

LORENE GREEN

Dear Mrs. Green, Thank you for reading my handwriting. I have always been fascinated with graphology. I truly believe it tells of the real person.

I am a right-handed female of 44 years. I love life and being a wife and mother. Your column is very much appreciated. Thanking you,

K.M., Plymouth

The handwriting we are studying today quickly points up a people-oriented young woman. She relates easily to other people by way of friendship, compassion and caring.

In addition, she is adaptable, natural, spontaneous and amiable. She tries to avoid conflicts as she interacts with others. Her kind heart is ever in sympathy with the underdog. These traits are gleaned from the combination of right slant, garland connections between letters and word endings that reach out to others. And they do, indeed, confirm her "love of life and being a wife and mother."

The maternal instinct is noted. She realizes how very important a mother's role is. She freely offers emotional support of her family and friends. She is also dependent upon others for their emotional support.

Her eye for aesthetics is probably put to good use in creating an attractive and comfortable home for the family.

A woman who is rather well organized in her daily routine is suggested in this handwriting. She plans and then carries out the planning.

But she can also become restless and needs diversion in her routine. She enjoys an active social life and is ever ready to lend a helping hand where needed. At times, she becomes overly involved and may need to extricate herself from some of these activities.

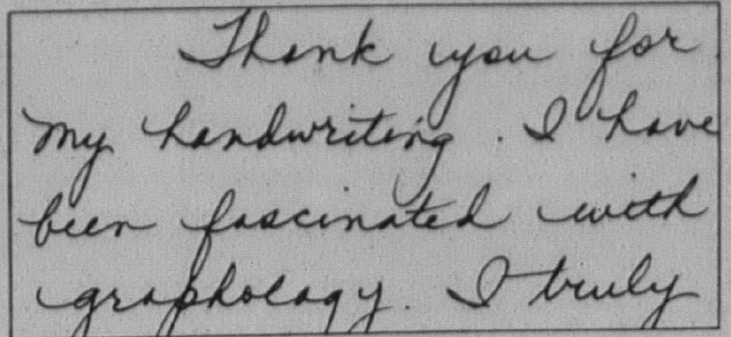

Determination rides on her goals. Seemingly, she has a subconscious need to achieve. She is dependable and a sense of pride influences all she does.

Criticism of her personal appearance seems to strike a sensitive note in her. Perhaps she received too much of it earlier in life. The sarcasm I see here is a defense mechanism. I suspect it is used to defend against criticism. However, when it is combined with the sprinkling of humor here it can make her entertaining and witty.

Her manner of thinking and problem solving is usually logical and less toward common sense.

Our writer tends to view life through rose colored glasses much of the time. She sees the cup as half full as opposed to half empty. This amount of optimism probably includes faith in a higher being.

If you would like to have your handwriting analyzed in this newspaper, write to Lorene C. Green, a certified graphologist, at 36251

Schoolcraft, Livonia 48150. Please use a full sheet of white, unlined paper, writing in the first person singular. Age, handedness and full signature are helpful. And objective feedback is always welcome.

ANNIVERSARIES

Lyle and LaVerne Nemeth

Lyle and LaVerne Nemeth of Lexington, Mich., returned to their old neighborhood, so to speak, when they came back to Garden City May 16 to celebrate their 58th wedding anniversary.

Pastor Luther Stanley of the First Baptist Church of Garden City officiated their renewal of vows. A reception was held at the church, following the ceremony.

The Nemeths lived in Garden City for 36 years. They moved to Lexington last year, where they remodeled a Victorian home.

On hand for the celebration were their children — Lyle of Richmond, Ind., and Elaine Navarre and her husband Mike of Wheaton, Ill. — and their three grandchildren — Nathan, Mandy and Beth Navarre. They also had another daughter, Kathy who died in an automobile accident at age 15.

He is a 1975 retiree of the Edward C. Levy Co. After his retirement, he continued his semi-professional career in magic and clowning under the stage name of Theman. He also was an active member of Christian Conjurers and the Fellowship of Christian Magicians.

She is a 1977 retiree of the Wayne County Department of Health. Her volunteer work included vacation Bible school, transcribing books to Braille and teaching adults to read.

present. In short, they are experienced like Judy Griffin.

Griffin has been in nursing for 28 years, working most recently in critical care at Beaumont Hospital in Royal Oak in addition to 15 years at Henry Ford Hospital in Detroit.

"We're a small staff so we get to know the patients and they get to know us," Griffin said. "They get to know us as human beings so we can take care of more of their needs. They need more intensive nursing than is available at home, but not quite what's available in the hospital setting."

The TCU has a family focus. There are no structured visiting hours. Children of all ages, even pets, are able to visit and if a family member is joining the patient for dinner, arrangements can be made to have a meal for him or her, Griffin said.

"A lot of patients tend to think of this as home," she said. "They verbalize that they have a good feeling about being here."

"We try to make it more open and friendly so the patient feels comfortable," added Dalsey, a West Bloomfield resident. "We try to smooth the transition from the hospital to home and make it easier on the patient."

A new step

What HCR is trying to do is build a new step in the health care continuum by working with the insurer, the patient, his or her family and the doctor, a step with an orientation toward wellness, recovery and quality of life.

Potential patients are screened, with a TCU nurse performing an initial assessment. The criteria for admission includes a stable condition within the parameters of the diagnosis, a reasonable expectation of the patient moving to a lower level of care, a care plan and an identified final discharge destination.

Because of its newness, the patient load at the TCU has been relatively small since its opening and HCR has begun marketing it to doctors, hospitals and insurance companies. The case it makes is the cost.

Basic care at the TCU can cost as low as $125 per day. More advanced care can run as high as $575, substantially less than the more than $1,000 per day charge at hospitals.

"On the average we can save an insurance company $7,500 per case," Dalsey said. "For one insurer, we saved them more than $125,000 on just one patient."

"People going to the hospital are sicker, so people leaving the hospital are sicker. If a patient is sick, it's not going to go away when he leaves the hospital. We need a place to care for these people."

William and Dorothy Rais

An open house will be held later this month in Denton, Texas, for William and Dorothy Rais in observance of their 50th wedding anniversary.

Formerly of Livonia, the Rais celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary May 9. They have two daughters, five sons and 13 grandchildren.

He worked for the City of Livonia Water Department for almost 20 years, retiring in 1979. They moved to Denton in 1980.

He prepares for his last sermon

BY JULIE BROWN
STAFF WRITER

Saying his goodbyes remains difficult for the Rev. Philip Rodgers Magee.

"You would think they'd be a little easier, having some experience with it," said Magee, senior minister of the First Presbyterian Church of Plymouth.

He'll retire this summer following 40 years in the ministry. He's been at the 1,200-member congregation since February 1972.

"I'm proud of this parish in a million ways." Worshipers are sensitive to the needs of others and are involved in a variety of community projects.

He'll preach his final sermon Sunday, July 26, and wrap up his duties at the end of August, being granted the title of minister emeritus "which means no responsibilities, no duties."

He graduated from Princeton Theological Seminary in New Jersey in 1952 with a master of divinity degree. Magee served at congregations in York, Pa., New York City and Baltimore before coming to Plymouth.

"I've seen a great number of changes in the community." Plymouth had become an honest-to-goodness suburb several years before his arrival.

"Canton, I think, was the greatest change. It became almost instantly built up." Some rivalry, primarily political, developed between Plymouth and Canton, "which I think is largely healthy."

"Plymouth itself has maintained its uniqueness in its shops." The community has a great deal of pride for itself, he said, as does Canton.

Magee, 65, has seen changes in the ministry as well. The photo in his office of his Princeton graduating class from the early 1950s is 100 percent male. These days, more and more women are becoming pastors, along with "what we call second career people going into the ministry. They decide, or are called, to the ministry."

He's pleased to see older people who've worked in other fields enter the ministry. Donation not duration to ministry is the key; age or length of service aren't what matter, "but what it is you can give."

He's also pleased to see denominational barriers break down. "There was such a sense of suspicion when I started in the ministry. The walls were very much up."

Greater cooperation between the Roman Catholic and Presbyterian churches began with Pope John XXIII. That cooperation continues to this day, and is found close to home. Members of the First Presbyterian Church of Plymouth and nearby Our Lady of Good Counsel Catholic Church have conducted joint vacation Bible schools and blood drives.

"I think the main thing is cooperation and lack of suspicion as we've gotten to know one another."

Preaching was very important

GUY WARREN/STAFF PHOTOGRAPHER

when Magee first came out of the seminary, and became somewhat less so with an increased emphasis on liturgy. Preaching is again becoming more important, he's found.

"There are all kinds of changes." Even ceremonial garments worn by pastors have changed. In the past, garments were typically black, but now can be multicolored, of red silk or even burlap.

He recalled going to hear great theologians at Princeton, who either served on the seminary faculty or gave guest lectures. In many cases, the 3,000-seat auditorium would be full.

"We treated them as giants too." He doesn't find there are such prominent theologians today.

Moving on

Magee, who was born in Seattle and raised in Butte, Mont., has enjoyed his years in Plymouth, but doesn't plan to stay following retirement.

"I think it's totally unfair to my successor to remain in the community." He wants the transition to be as smooth as possible. An interim minister will serve until a permanent successor is found.

He and his wife, Dorothy, are selling their Plymouth home. They're considering a move to Baltimore, where he served for nine years, or to Florida.

Magee was diagnosed with a form of sclerosis shortly after his arrival in Plymouth, and had been concerned he wouldn't be able to fulfill his duties.

"Twenty years later, nothing much else has happened, thank God," said Magee, who uses a walker. He and his associate, the Rev. Leland Seese, divide up responsibilities.

"So it's worked out rather well. We're Tweedledum and Tweedledee." He appreciates the support that staffers, officers and others at the church have provided, along with the support given by his wife.

Magee's proud of the recent completion of a renovation project to make the church accessible to disabled people. He has other reasons to be proud.

"It has always been a totally united congregation. There are no splits, major or minor." Attendance at services is excellent, and the church is in good financial shape, thanks to the generosity of worshipers.

New challenges: The Rev. Philip Rodgers Magee will retire this summer following 40 years in the ministry, the past 20 as senior minister at the First Presbyterian Church of Plymouth. He's seen many changes in the ministry and the community during that time.

Church members work every Thursday at Fort Street Presbyterian Church in Detroit, "to help in that exceptional food kitchen they have down there. They sometimes feed 400 people."

Worshipers provide financial support for such endeavors, along with conducting such practical Christianity with its "Put your money where your mouth is" focus.

He's pleased to see the congregation's mix as well, including more and more people in their 20s and 30s who "are discovering they want for their children something they didn't have." Those people are looking for a source of values.

Magee's retirement plans will depend somewhat on where he and his wife end up. He'll play some of the CDs he hasn't had a chance to hear "and read some of the books I have on the shelf but haven't read yet, which sounds dull, but if you bought the book you bought it for a reason."

As a thrifty Scot, Magee can't let those books go unread.

Senate's chiropractor bill is painful to state physicians

BY TIM RICHARD
STAFF WRITER

Chiropractors would be able to perform more therapy procedures under a bill passed by the state Senate.

But Republican critics say it will cost insurers and employers more, damaging Michigan's competitive status.

"It's a turf battle," said sponsor Mat Dunaskiss, R-Lake Orion, noting medical doctors fought it. "Physicians have always had an attitude against chiropractors."

"Chiropractic is a way to treat lower back pain in contrast to surgery and pain pills."

But Sen. Fred Dillingham, R-Fowlerville, argued unsuccessfully the bill should be set aside until companion bills can be prepared. These bills would amend the workers' comp and auto insurance laws, among others, so that chiropractic costs wouldn't be covered.

"Without them, we are increasing health care costs in this state," said Dillingham.

The Senate approved SB 305 on a 24-14 vote and sent it to the House.

Among area senators, only Robert Geake, R-Northville, backed Dunaskiss' bill.

Opposed were Republicans Michael Bouchard of Birmingham and David Honigman of West Bloomfield and Democrats Jack Faxon of Farmington Hills, William Faust of Westland and George Hart of Dearborn.

The main change from the 1978 law is to allow chiropractors to use massage, mobilization, electricity, traction, heat, cold, air, therapeutic ultrasound and rehabilitation — but not lasers.

Dunaskiss' bill, as first drafted, would have allowed chiropractors to diagnose and treat the entire "mus-culoskeletal" system.

The Health Policy Committee, however, narrowed it back to its present scope — the spine and adjacent tissue.

The bill also expands the number of diagnostic tests chiropractors may use.

"I don't see it as a cost increase," said Sen. Jack Welborn, R-Kalamazoo, defending the bill. "I see it as an option — a choice of treatments an individual may want."

Welborn said chiropractic treatments may actually be cheaper than MD surgery and prescription drugs.

The Senate's only physician member, John Schwarz, R-Battle Creek, was the bill's harshest attacker. He denied the "turf war" charge, saying "Chiropractors do their thing. Physicians do theirs. There's very little interplay."

"This bill has everything to do with keeping medical care costs down. An organization representing 90 percent of the employers (state chamber) is saying, 'Hey, don't do this to us.'"

The Senate rejected Schwarz's unusual amendment — to tie Dunaskiss' bills to workers' comp, auto insurance and four other bills that have yet to be introduced.

But floor leader Phil Arthurs, R-Whitehall, objected: "You can't tie-bar this to a requested bill. That (Schwarz) amendment stops this bill dead in its tracks."

Old house gaining a new lease on life

Squint at the old house in the morning sun and, for a fleeting moment, you're taken back to when families like the Bartletts and Traverses farmed the Canton Township countryside. But gaze too long and the house's sorry state — the chipped clapboard, sagging overhang, boarded windows and missing stairs — jolts you back to reality.

Portions of the Bartlett-Travis House, originally at Warren and Canton Center roads, date to Canton's frontier days in the 1830s.

The township rescued the house from the wrecker's ball in 1989 after code requirements thwarted a developer's bid to convert it to offices. For many years, it had been divided into apartments.

When the developer made the house available, the township moved it to a wooded, 20-acre site on Ridge Road in the Cherry Hill Historic District.

Local historians plan to furnish the house with donated heirlooms and open it for public viewing.

"After we moved the house, we discovered more about it," said Melissa McLaughlin, Canton Historic District Commission secretary. "These old houses are reluctant to give up their secrets. Often, they dictate what you do."

The two-story, 11-room house is two houses in one. When the Bartletts bought the land in the 1850s, they built a Greek Revival-style house next to a smaller post-and-beam construction house. About 1870, they joined the houses and added a second level to the smaller house.

By fall, the township hopes to spruce up the house's drab exterior.

Architectural delight

Structurally significant, the house boasts examples of four early architectural styles: 1830s post-and-beam construction, 1850s Greek Revival, 1870s Italianate and 1890s Queen Anne.

The Queen Anne wraparound front porch was too rickety to move but it'll be replaced. "We saved some of the columns as a guide for when we reconstruct the dimensions of the porch posts and reapply any capital details that might've been on them," McLaughlin said.

The ornate, Italianate iron railing around the small front porch was stolen a few days before the move, but McLaughlin hopes to find a reproduction.

"Four different eras of 19th-century life here in Canton come together in this one house," McLaughlin said. "As you go from room to room, we hope the different architectural and decorative styles will be evident."

McLaughlin underscores how the pioneering families who lived there "recycled, added on and combined — early forms of modernizing and home improvement — instead of tearing down and rebuilding."

Costly endeavor

The township matched a state grant to generate the $100,000 needed to move and stabilize the house in Cherry Hill. That didn't include site work.

It'll cost at least $85,000 to finish structural restoration. "Completion is at least two years away," McLaughlin said.

"We feel badly about that," she added, "but we're gung ho with Sheldon School's restoration. With grant money restricted these days, it's very difficult to work on two projects at once. The paperwork is mind-boggling."

Sheldon School, an 1868 one-room, brick schoolhouse, is on Michigan Avenue, west of Sheldon, at Sheldon Corners, a state historic site. The one-room schoolhouse is being restored for community-service office use. That three-year project, including land purchase, asbestos removal, architectural drawings and construction, will cost upwards of $300,000. Grants will cover the bulk of the cost.

Meanwhile, the Bartlett-Travis House restoration fund received a boost in the form of a $500 donation from Helen Hasselbach in memory of her husband, Freeman, a lifelong Canton farmer, who died this year.

Long-range plans call for the house to be the showpiece of a turn-of-the-century working farm, complete with livestock, crops, pasture, implements and demonstrations. Features will include the smokehouse, corn crib and barn siding from the Hasselbach farm. A capital drive will raise development money.

"The farm will provide 'a feel for Canton's agricultural past,'" said Marta McCabe, Canton Historical Society president.

"We see the farm not only as a source of cultural enhancement and family enjoyment, but also an educational opportunity, a means to experience a way of life that no longer exists," McLaughlin said.

"It'd be a way of life almost all of us can trace our heritage to."

Festival to color historic grounds

Walk the rolling land of a pioneer village setting while enjoying handmade pottery, blowing glass, jewelry and paintings as 180 artists and artisans converge on Greenmead Historical Village at the Livonia Fine Arts and Crafts Festival this weekend.

If you're tired of street and sidewalk art fairs, imagine yourself in the heart of a historic village, enjoying the outdoors as you browse through hundreds of booths filled with handmade crafts and fine art.

Imagine yourself at the 16th annual Livonia Fine Arts and Crafts Festival, Saturday-Sunday, June 13-14, at Livonia's Greenmead Historical Village, Newburgh at Eight Mile.

Imagine walking 104 acres of rolling land as Joshua Simmons did in 1826, at a time in Livonia's early history when "wild beasts were abundant and the only roads were Indian trails and new paths laid out by the settlers and marked with blazed trees."

Take in the handmade pottery, glass, jewelry, country crafts, photography and paintings by 180 artists and artisans from 10 states. Watch as nearly 30 of the exhibitors paint, or hand-craft their wares before your eyes.

"That's really a nice show. It's a nice setting," said potter Kathy Sandberg of Plymouth.

Exhibiting for the fifth straight year at this major art extravaganza hosted by the Livonia Arts Commission, Sandberg shares a booth with functional potter Ken Barnes of Northville.

Multidisciplined potter

Sandberg crafts functional and creative pottery, ranging from large bowls and porcelain platters to fish lounging on fins in a variety of sizes and poses. Hand-thrown on a potter's wheel, the fish, their mouths gaping wide open, hold potpourri, soap, candy or whatever your imagination allows.

"I like all the attributes of clay. With clay, you can go as deep as you want," Sandberg said. "I like to take a piece and play with it, work with it and ideas."

Sandberg works at the wheel in her studio, throwing 10 vessels at a sitting. Her imagination sparks objects in a variety of forms — whisk bowls with matching ceramic-handled

Alaska's beauty stirs painter's brush

BY LINDA ANN CHOMIN
SPECIAL WRITER

Alaska's natural lures beckon artist Virginia Janus Benda to return to where animals roam free and scenery remains untouched.

After a 3½-week trip to the rugged 49th state last September, the Farmington Hills resident returned home with a passion to paint "all of the scenery and vastness of it all."

With enthusiasm and energy levels zooming, she has created an outpouring of translucent watercolor, ink and dye on rice paper, oil, acrylic, and handmade paper assemblage.

The Livonia Arts Commission showcases 35 of these new works through July 3 in the first one-person show at the new art gallery, on the second floor of the Livonia Civic Center Library, Farmington Road and Five Mile.

"I've traveled all over the world — Mexico, Paris. Alaska is the only place that keeps haunting me," Janus Benda said.

"Alaska must be the only state left where nature is virtually undisturbed by man. It's undeveloped. There was so much raw nature there. I would like to be able to go back to Alaska, stay there awhile and paint on location."

Rising at 5 a.m., Janus Benda works 5 to 14 hours a day, six days a week in her studio. Her zeal impresses the viewer in the landscapes, florals and abstracts, all created within the last nine months. "I enjoy what I do. I love it," she said.

ARTIST CALL

Fine artists, photographers and jewelry makers may apply to be part of the first-ever Liberty Fest Fine Arts Show from Saturday to Sunday, June 27-28, at Canton Township's newly enlarged Heritage Park, 1150 S. Canton Center Road.

The juried 50-booth show will be part of Liberty Fest '92. The family fair will include a classic car show, music and entertainment, fireworks, youth sports, food and dedication ceremonies for the new recreation complex.

Original fine art will be showcased under large, lighted tents. There's a $5 jurying fee.

The $50 booth fee includes a hospitality booth for artists as well as hostesses who will provide relief for artists on break.

For an application, call co-juror Sharon Dillenbeck at D & M Studios and Gallery in Plymouth: 453-3710.

ON THE TUBE

Westland artist Sandra Weed will have two of her bridal gown designs featured on Kelly & Co. on Channel 7 at 9 a.m. Friday, June 12.

Her studio, Artistic Images, produces interchangeable fashions and jewelry along with the wedding gowns that she began designing 12 years ago.

SEASON'S CLOSE

Three Cities Art Club closed its season with a tribute to former club president Jim DeArmond, who is moving to Montana. The tribute came at a picnic at club member Betty Elliott's Plymouth home.

Club meetings will resume in October, 6:30-9 p.m. the first Monday of each month in Dunning-Hough Library, 223 S. Main, Plymouth.

Call Sue Argiroff, club president, at 422-8106, or Kay Fill, program chairwoman, 455-5805.

An architectural engineering graduate of the University of Detroit, Janus Benda worked 15 years in structural engineering of commercial buildings for the Southfield firm, Harley Ellington Pierce Yee Associates. In 1987, she decided to chuck the security for a full-time career in art.

"I've always had art in the back of my mind. I'm in this for a profession," Janus Benda said. "Since I only have one life to live, it's now or never."

On the Alaska trip, she made quick pencil and watercolor sketches and notations about color in a book she carries with her everywhere. Sketching allows her to capture flora and fauna native to a particular region.

"I usually do a series of sketches before I start a painting. I study the lights and shadows, figure out my focal point, how to achieve my goal. It's sometimes through pattern, sometimes through color," she said. "Then I study the colors."

Janus Benda considers drawing of the utmost importance to an artist. "In order to produce a good painting, you have to be able to draw — have a complete mastery of the medium. If design is good and balance, it has to have a message."

Beside watercolor, works in the show include inks and dyes on rice paper. Janus Benda used this method primarily to create architectural scenes of Europe and Mexico. She begins by taking pen and ink plus dyes to the paper, after which she adds wax where she does not want the bath to color the paper. After dipping it in the bath, she dries the paper and irons off the wax.

Janus Benda also studied at Center for Creative Studies in Detroit and Madonna University in Livonia. Her awards include one for "Vase of Roses," a watercolor monoprint that ranked among 20 finalists in the Detroit Institute of Arts poster competition, Arts and Flowers.

Last September, she began teaching watercolor in adult education programs in Livonia and Dearborn.

She admires the work of Van Gogh, Cezanne and all of the impressionists along with modern painter Peter Max and sculptor Henry Moore.

Gallery hours are the same as the library: 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. Monday-Thursday, 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Friday-Saturday.

V. Janus Benda will greet visitors to the gallery 3-6 p.m. Monday, June 15; noon to 3 p.m. Saturday, June 20; 5-8 p.m. Wednesday, June 24; or by calling 855-6707 to arrange an appointment.

Eye-catching: Translucent violet skies hover over "Ketchikan," an Alaskan watercolor by V. Janus Benda. Limiting the palette, she uses the darker value of the same hue to accent evergreens in the background. Tree tops and roof lines angle downward, leading the eye to a small red house resting on the water's edge.

whisks, wallhangings, abstract table sculpture, masks, earrings and pins.

"Sometimes, you have to go with the clay. The clay will tell you. If the clay's too soft, I couldn't throw anything this high," Sandberg said as a tall vessel spun almost hypnotically on the wheel in front of her.

Displayed on a table across the studio, curling ribbons of clay decorate a delicate-looking plate, otherwise known as coffee-table art. A porcelain water lily on a pad colors another.

"Different clays have different aspects. There might be specks in the clay that suggest an idea," Sandberg said.

Unique creations

Sandberg's one-of-a-kind glazes make her work stand out in the crowd.

Vessels glazed with her special formulations can only be found on Kathy Sandberg Pottery. Her latest glaze is an eye-catcher, a deep brownish black with the barest hint of metallic.

"I mix my own glazes. They're one of a kind, and when it's gone, it's gone," Sandberg said. "You'll never see another pot like it."

Sandberg threw her first clay pot 20 years ago, about the same time she began to paint landscapes in oil on canvas.

She briefly set aside her fascination for art to raise three children, returning to clay's tactile addiction with a passion.

"I'm having fun in clay," Sandberg said. "Tools are fun, too, like this cheese cutter."

Sandberg continued working steadily, almost methodically, peeling away the pot's upper edge with the traditional kitchen tool. All eyes remained glued on the grayish-brown form spinning on the wheel in front of her.

"I let this dry slowly till bone dry, then put it in a kiln, bisque then glaze them," Sandberg said. "Then it's back to the kiln one last time."

Sandberg's pottery ranges in price from $5 for a small bowl or piece of jewelry to $60 for a large bowl. "They really are quite durable," Sandberg added.

Cash prizes

The arts commission will award prizes totaling $2,700 for best of category in juried divisions that included country floral folk, glass, photography, textiles, pottery and ceramics, fine art, metal, wood and jewelry.

Jurors are Betty Jo Welsh, Livonia Public Schools, fine arts coordinator; Prudy Vannier, certified decorative artist with a bachelor of fine arts degree from the College of Great Falls in Montana; and Sandra Florek, Institute of Advancement director at Schoolcraft College in Livonia.

The Simmons/Hill House Museum, dating to 1841, is the focal point in the 23-building historical village. The village includes several other structures from the 1840s and 1850s as well as a re-creation of the Newburgh Road/Ann Arbor Trail intersection, circa 1910-1925.

Festival hours are 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Saturday-Sunday. Festival admission and shuttle service from the parking lot is free. On Sunday, the museum and village buildings will be open for tours 1-4 p.m. Admission: $2 adults, $1 seniors, children free.

FOCUS ON PHOTOGRAPHY

MONTE NAGLER

Too often, a photographer will quickly click off a shot that says little about the subject and results in no more than a simple snapshot.

But with some planning and creativity, you can take an ordinary subject and produce a photograph that is both exciting and impact-filled.

The photograph shown here is a good example of how applying thought and planning can reward you with a memorable picture. I'll explain exactly how, on a recent trip to Ireland, this photograph was made.

I was in the small village of Bunratty when I came upon these quaint, thatched roof cottages. I saw excellent photographic potential here. Rather than take just the quick, ordinary snapshot, I put my mind in the "plan a photograph" mode.

Setting the scene: Careful thought and planning produced this memorable picture for Monte Nagler on his recent trip to Ireland.

First, I began looking for nearby subjects that could serve as "framing" objects while still allowing me to place the cottages in a pleasing composition in the viewfinder.

Sure enough, I found a position where an overhanging branch and a hedge of tall grass worked perfectly.

I was also able to use the roadway as an effective "lead-in." This way, the viewer's eye is directed into the picture.

To place everything in the viewfinder, I chose a 28mm wide angle lens. This lens gave me the perspective I wanted as well as a three-dimensional appearance to the image.

It's very important in shots using "framing" techniques to have everything sharp and in focus from front to back. To accomplish this, I selected a small aperture of f-16 and verified on my lens's depth-of-field scale that all would be sharp. A sturdy tripod helped, too.

A look at the sky confirmed that a filter was needed to obtain tonal separation between the white clouds and the blue sky. A red filter works fine with black and white while a polarizer is in order with color film.

Honors Watercolorist brushes up

Observerland artists captured first place among their honors in the Palette and Brush Club's spring art exhibit, Point of View, running through June 20 at the Birmingham/Bloomfield Art Association.

Toni Stevens of Plymouth took top honors for "Le'Otis," a watercolor portrait named for the model.

"More than a just a portrait — mysteriousness is achieved by the sheerness of the scarf; the darkness and the placement of the flowers give a sinister look," said juror Mary Aro, a BBAA watercolor instructor and an accomplished painter.

In addition to a gift certificate, Stevens received from club president Dodi Sikevitz the Matie Robson Award, a traveling award engraved with first-place winners' names. The late Matie Robson was a past president.

Gwen Tomkow of Farmington Hills took third place for her watercolor, "Shadows." Said Aro: "Has energetic brushwork — visually a very exciting picture."

Mary Ehler of Livonia won an honorable mention for her watercolor, "Deer Isle, Maine."

Gladys Beall of Redford Township earned a special mention for her watercolor, "Cleopatra."

Aro based her selections on two aspects of art: basic formal art elements plus aesthetic qualities and other considerations. Fifty-five of 144 entries were selected.

The Palette and Brush Club dates back to 1934 in Detroit's Old Redford.

Today the 125 member artists from across metro Detroit take part in two major juried exhibitions a year offering cash prizes and other awards. The exhibitions not only showcase fine art by members, but also draws potential clients and commissions for the artists.

Monthly luncheon meetings are held the fourth Tuesday of the month, September through May. They feature art-related programs: talks by professionals, mini member exhibits, news of the art world. Prospective members and guests are welcome. Call 652-1064.

BBAA hours are 9:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Monday-Saturday. BBAA is at 1516 S. Cranbrook, Birmingham.

Home a high priority despite declining ownership rate

(AP) — Most Americans believe a single-family home with a yard is the ideal place to live, and they're willing to make large sacrifices to achieve that dream, a survey shows. The survey, conducted for the Federal National Mortgage Association, or Fannie Mae, suggested that 80 percent of Americans identify the "traditional single-family detached home with a yard as the ideal place to live."

The survey found that 77 percent of homeowners believe could sell their home for more than they paid for it. "However, reasons for owning a home extend beyond the financial," Fannie Mae said. The poll, conducted by Hart-Teeter Research, was weighted to reflect the 64-36 split between homeowners and renters. Fannie Mae is a congressionally chartered, but shareholder-owned company that finances one in every eight single-family home purchases. It buys mortgages from lenders, holding some in its own portfolio and packaging others for resale to investors.

The Census Bureau says Americans were less likely to own a home at the end of the 1980s than they were a decade earlier. A study shows 63.9 percent of households owned their homes in 1989, down from 65.6 percent in 1980. A major reason for the decline in ownership, according to the Fannie Mae survey, is affordability. Seven out of eight respondents identified that as a "serious problem."

The median means that half of the mortgages cost more and half less, or that half of the households earned more and half less. Despite the overwhelming desire to own a home, the Fannie Mae survey found there were some risks that most Americans would not take. "By a 4-1 margin, Americans say it is not worth it to financially overextend themselves to own a home," it found. "Only one in three thought it was worth it to place a young child in day care so the mother could work, even if this was a necessary step to become a homeowner."

For most Americans, home ownership provides a degree of financial, psychological and familial security, the poll found. "The feeling of financial security stems from the belief that owning a home is financially worthwhile, with 78 percent believing owning a home is a good investment, while only 2 percent consider it a poor one," it showed.

Old Glory an exception to rule banning exterior signage

Our condominium prohibits placing signs or any other attachments on the exterior of homes, but my brother-in-law told me that this rule does not apply to flags. Is this true? At the end of 1991, an amendment to the 1978 Condominium Act of Michigan was enacted that gives co-owners the right to display a United States flag, up to three-by-five feet in size, anywhere on the exterior of the condominium unit. This right supercedes any restrictions imposed by a condominium association but puts to rest the controversy that arose recently resulting in litigation. My husband and I own and operate a seasonal motel in northern Michigan. We heard that a new law may require us to make specific accommodations for patrons with disabilities. Can you tell us more about this law? The American Disabilities Act (ADA) now requires places of lodging, among other places of public accommodations, to provide persons with disabilities with accommodations and access equal to or similar to that available to the general public. As of Jan. 26, such public accommodations are required to remove architectural barriers and structural communications barriers by, for example, installing ramps, repositioning telephones, installing grab bars in toilet stalls, etc, but only if taking such steps is easily accomplished and able to be carried out without much difficulty or expense, which is determined on a case-by-case basis. As of Jan. 26, such public accommodations also must provide auxiliary aids and services to insure effective communications with persons with hearing, vision or speech impairments, provided that such actions do not constitute an "undue burden" on the public facility. These might include Braille or large print materials, or telecommunications devices for deaf persons. Any alternations that are made to such accommodations after Jan. 26, must be made in line with specific technical ADA requirements. Qualifying businesses are eligible for a tax credit for certain costs incurred in complying with ADA requirements, and the Internal Revenue Code allows for a yearly tax deduction for expenses associated with the removal of qualified architectural barriers. For further tax information, call the IRS at 1-800-424-FORMS and ask for IRS publication No. 907, "Tax Information for Handicapped and Disabled Individuals." Robert M. Time Never Runs Out! NOW... You can place an Observer & Eccentric classified ad 24 hours a day!

Here's how it works: First, you must have a touch-tone telephone. Then, all you do is call us - remember, it doesn't make any difference if we're not here - to place an ad, cancel one or change something on one you've placed earlier. Let's say it's eight o'clock at night and you've just realized that the cupid on the clock you're selling plays a tin whistle. It's a good selling point, so you punch up our classified number and wait for the operator to guide you through the steps for changing your ad. Have in mind the exact information you want to give us, speak clearly and a bit slower than you usually do. And that's it. If it's after 5:00 p.m. on Tuesday, your changes will be made for the next Monday paper. Or, if it's after 5:00 p.m. on a Friday or the weekend, your changes will hit the Thursday papers. Pretty neat, huh? Of course, our Classified Ad Takers are here every Monday through Friday from 8:00 a.m. until 5:30 p.m. But now, if you miss that, you can still do something about your ad - at your convenience.

Houses rate as the main event

As it's never been suggested that I attend an Optimists Anonymous meeting, I'll pass on promoting the potential "rescue" of the city of Detroit based on the construction of a new subdivision along Jefferson.

Yes, it's great to see houses going up instead of being demolished. And what former resident doesn't hold at least a bit of a soft spot in their heart for the old hometown?

But are any of these reasons for suburbanites to cross Eight Mile or Telegraph for a trip to the Detroit Homearama? Perhaps not.

Sentimentality aside, there is one good reason to go. And that's the houses. Perhaps more than any Homearama in recent memory, this parade of homes is one to which the average buyer can relate. Which is not to say that if you've seen one moderately priced house you've seen them all. Don't expect to see Plain Jane bungalows and ranches from the cookie cutter school of design.

Colonials, Victorians, split-levels, contemporaries, traditional, Cape Cods — all have been custom built, showing that a reduction in size needn't be a limiting factor for creativity. Features such as additional bathrooms, walk-in closets and game rooms that are missing in yesterday's housing stock are nicely incorporated in these houses. And extras that once were found only in pricey houses are available in the Homearama models. Ceramic fireplaces, skylights, master suites, cathedral ceilings, central vacuum systems, tray ceilings and whirlpools are some of the extras in Homearama models that builders say buyers want.

And they should know. Before the first crowds made the turn on Dickerson just about every model was sold. Builders like Janet Compo of Farmington Hills were signing up buyers for the next phase of the subdivision.

So should we expect to see future Homearamas with houses in the more affordable price range? Not necessarily.

Like auto makers, builders make more money on larger houses. But success feeds on success, and if there's anything builders have learned in Detroit, it's that buyers of smaller homes are interested in the whistles and bells found in larger homes. And it's those goodies that can spell profit for a builder.

Buyers who think of "affordable housing" as a euphemism for cracker box housing should demand more of builders. Innovative design need not be costlier to build than using the same dreary floor plan time after time.

Homearamas have always served as a showcase for the best work of builders, decorators and landscapers. The Detroit Homearama has placed parameters on the professionals in terms of size and expense. But it was those limitations that forced them to be more responsive to the average buyer.

Homearama continues through June 21. Hours are 3-10 p.m. weekdays, noon to 10 p.m. weekends. It is located at Jefferson and Dickerson, about four miles east of I-75.

Pastels and glass: Light colors, extensive use of windows and a gently sloping roofline give the Sizzler restaurant an upscale appearance.

Architects help put food on the table

■ Mention a restaurant, and the response probably will be about food. But restaurant architecture can influence the way patrons perceive their dining experience.

Architecture to a restaurant can be compared with spices to food. It definitely adds to the flavor, but exactly how much is open to individual interpretation.

"A restaurant is like a three-legged stool," said Tom Wilscam, owner of a Sizzler franchise that recently opened in Westland. "You have food, atmosphere and service. All three are equally important."

"It's difficult to say," said Gary Wright, design project manager for General Mills Restaurant Inc.

"If you consider Walt Disney World and the different restaurant designs there, can you say whether architecture brought people in — the atmosphere created — or were they hungry, a captive audience and they had to eat?"

Whet diners' appetite with visual excitement

BY AMY LIGHT
SPECIAL WRITER

One restaurant buzzword of the '90s is "casualization" in both food and restaurant decor. Fallen by the wayside are the power lunches that defined the '80s, chic and pretentious dining establishments, and the panache of the "celebrity chef."

In addition to food, restaurants must draw the public with visual appeal. "You eat with your eyes," says Baltimore restaurant consultant Diane Neas, who believes in identifying one umbrella concept for a restaurant and sticking to it, from the menu right down to the tablecloths on the table.

Baltimore interior designer Rita St. Clair agrees that people have become more interested in visual excitement as a backdrop to the dining experience.

"The old ideas of maintaining a quiet atmosphere have been all but thrown out," she said. "We're not as concerned with acoustics as we used to be. People want a higher noise and lighting level."

"They want to feel part of a crowd, and they want to see what they're eating. People don't want pretension . . . but to feel comfortable in a relaxed setting."

Inside look: High ceilings, large windows plus light carpeting and fabrics give the interior an airy look.

Top vote getter: The Essex by Singh and Shapiro.

Southfield builders win People's Choice acclaim

The Essex, a 1,700-square-foot contemporary style house by Singh and Shapiro of Southfield, was selected as the most popular model of the 25 on display last weekend by attendees at the Detroit Homearama.

nial by Beneicke & Krue of Bloomfield Hills, the priciest at $145,000, placed second in the People's Choice voting. The Regency, a 1,900-square-foot colonial by Brian Nicole of Detroit priced at Housing rebound takes a tumble

AP — The housing recovery stalled in April as construction suffered its steepest decline in eight years after helping lead the still-young economic revival.

Analysts suggested it was a temporary setback due to abnormal weather and higher mortgage rates.

The Commerce Department said housing starts plunged 17 percent from the month before to a seasonally adjusted annual rate of 1.12 million units. The drop was the largest since construction fell 26 percent, in March 1984.

Most analysts still are forecasting an increase in new single-family homes and apartments this year, but they say the pace of the housing recovery will be far slower than those following previous recessions.

Kent Colton, executive vice president of the National Association of Home Builders, forecast

1.28 million starts this year, up 27 percent from 1991. Starts jumped 70 percent during the year after the 1981-82 recession, he said.

Nobody is anticipating the kind of surge in activity in the course of 1992 that we saw in 1983 when the numbers took off like a rocket," said Richard Peach, an economist with the Mortgage Bankers Association.

Analysts had expected a slight drop in construction in April after four sizeable monthly advances, including a 6.9 percent gain in March. But the depth of the fall was unexpected.

Housing construction increased 15.8 percent during the first quarter, leading the overall economy to a 2 percent annual rate of growth.

The decline in housing starts, the first since September, was widespread. Construction was off 30.5 percent in the Midwest to a seasonally adjusted annual rate of 242,000 units.

Starts were down 16.7 percent to a 265,000 rate in the West and 10.7 percent to a 482,000 rate in the South. They fell 8.7 percent in the Northeast, to a 126,000 rate.

Nationally, construction of single-family homes fell 10.6 percent to a 963,000 rate after slipping 2.9 percent a month earlier.

Analysts said unseasonably warm weather in January and February apparently prompted builders to begin construction then that they otherwise would not have undertaken until spring.

They also noted that Congress was considering a tax credit for some first-time home buyers, leading many builders to boost construction in anticipation of increased demand. The credit was not enacted.

$130,000, was third. People who gave the nod to the Essex cited its decor, master bedroom, dramatic entrance and feeling of spaciousness, said Nancy Rosen, spokeswoman for the Homearama conducted by the Builders Association of Southeastern Michigan. The Essex is priced at $112,900.

The model has a 22-foot ceiling in the living room and foyer with a second-floor balcony overlooking the main living/entertaining areas.

The master bedroom on the first floor contains a private bath and walk-in closet. Two smaller bedrooms and a bath are upstairs.

The model also contains a two-car attached garage, first floor laundry, fireplace and basement.

"Everything is open in the house," said Singh Chhatwal, president of the building company. "It's actually a smaller version of other models we have in Farmington Hills."

"A lot of people like openness. It doesn't look like a small house. The whole living room you can see from the balcony upstairs. The kitchen has corner windows which is unusual for smaller houses. I design these houses. We interior design ourselves."

Allan Shapiro, Chhatwal's partner, tends to the construction end of the operation.

"Our houses are contemporary elevations for the outside and openness on the inside," Shapiro said. "We try to build a quality home at an equitable price and give them what they want."

"We used oak rails with Lucite spindles," he continued. "We tried to keep our quality very high. Wherever we can upgrade where the cost is minimal to us, we do it."

"It's a nice honor, a good feeling, I guess, to know we did something right. You happened to catch two builders who are laid-back. We're low-key people," Shapiro said.

Crowds were reported good for the first showcase of idea homes ever in a central city and in spite of Grand Prix activities downtown. More showgoers responding to a survey than at any previous Homearama, 50 percent, indicated that they were in the market to buy a new house now, Rosen said.

The exhibition continues through June 21 in the Victoria Park Subdivision on Dickerson south of Jefferson about three miles east of Belle Isle.

Hours are 3-10 p.m. Monday through Friday and noon-10 p.m. Saturday and Sunday. Tickets, which includes a program book and parking, are $6. Discount tickets for $5 good Monday through Friday are available at Standard Federal Bank and Detroit Edison offices.

Ceilings demand special treatment

(AP) — Rooms with a very high ceilings, or those with few useable walls such as a kitchen, bath, or screened porch, are particularly good candidates for special ceiling treatments.

Designer Barbara Ostrom of Mahwah, N.J., says that by decorating a ceiling in an assertive manner you can solve a major problem of a large room: How to unify it.

For a small, high-ceiling bathroom, try tenting it with fabric or trompe l'oeil or adding beams. All will visually lower the ceiling and improve the room's proportions.

CLARIFICATION

Last week's story incorrectly identified the Farmington Hills builder of one of the area's first permanent wood foundation homes. The builder is Joseph Blastic, president of B: Joseph & Associates.
