Leaders agree schools of future need retooling

Rep. Dan Baxter, R-[illegible], and Rep. Doug Pepper, R-[illegible], agree that the state's education system needs to be overhauled.

Rep. William Keith, D-Garden City, said, "We are facing in this state a drop-out problem. Forty percent of kids don't graduate from high school. Those who don't have options for technical skills. We're going to have to make it so we're going to compete in the global economy. The jobs that were not going to be in this nation."

Rep. Dan Baxter, R-[illegible], said, "If you're an engineer in a middle school, chances are your parents are going to encourage you to go to college. But if you want to go into an

"Everybody says 'change the schools but not me,'" said Daggett.

Keith and Bankes have videotaped copies of Daggett's hour-long presentation.

Advocates longer day

Daggett also advocated extensive teacher retraining to put a new world-of-work curriculum in place and then a longer school day and year.

"You've gotta put up the money to retrain them," he said, proposing 20-30 days a year for teacher retraining. New York made a partial step in that direction by cutting classroom days from 180 to 170 and negotiating five more days from teachers unions — a net of 15 days of retraining a year.

"We got the money by buying no new equipment," he added.

Once a more balanced curriculum is in place, then we can lengthen the school day and year, he said.

At the end of World War II, the U.S. had the longest school day and year in the world — 180 days, 5½ hours — while Japan had 120 days and 3½ hours.

Today the U.S. is still at 180 days and 5½ hours while Japan is at 243 days and 8½ hours and next year will go to 257 days and 9½ hours. Korea is at 270 days and 10 hours.

"It's not a case of longer, it's a case of different," Daggett said, noting manufacturing workers today use automated technology, technical manuals, and statistical numerical control systems rather than hammers, pliers and screwdrivers.

His favorite attention-getting story is a Carnegie Foundation study of who can most quickly link a VCR to a television set and program it to videotape a future show.

Kids aged 10-12 did best; high school dropouts did better than high school graduates; college graduates fared the poorest. Why?

"Reading a newspaper or novel is a different cognitive process than reading a VCR manual. The VCR manual is short passages, response, short passages, response. Newspapers and novels demand broad conceptualization.

"If you develop one skill (conceptualization) and not the other, you retard the other," he said.

Audience question: Should Michigan schools eliminate reading of novels and newspapers?

"American schools have an obligation for balance. Most of what you have in the curriculum has some value — for a citizen and family member," Daggett said. "You're in the third wave of school reform — business-pushed reform. 'You've got to look at the employment model to see what we have to do to schools . . . but not throw everything else out in the meantime.'"

SC accepts registration for summer music school

Schoolcraft College is accepting registrations for its summer music school July 6-31.

Session I is chamber music and will take place July 6-17.

Session II is solo piano and will be held July 20-31.

Students will participate in concertos accompanied by professional string quartets, create piano duets and trios, be instructed in theory, music history, sight-reading, keyboard skills and use new computer-assisted instruction.

The fee for each session is $200.

Auditions are necessary. To schedule an audition time or register, contact Donald Morelock at 462-4400, Ext. 5218 or 5225.

Schoolcraft is at 18600 Haggerty, between Six and Seven Mile roads.

County air show features aerobatic team

The Italian National Aerobatic Team, Frecce Tricolori, brings a new form of military jet formation demonstration to Willow Run Airport for the July 4-5 AirMichigan festivities.

It's the world's largest military jet team with 10 Aermacchi MB-339 trainers in formation.

Unlike American jet teams, Italian team members stay on assignment for more than a few years. Current team commander, Col. Alberto Moretti, started as third right wingman in 1981. Team leader Col. Gianluisi Zanovello began his assignment as third left wingman in 1983.

Frecce Tricolori is a descendant of Italy's first aerobatic school, established at Campformido in 1930, linked to Col. Rino Corso Fougier.

Fougier convinced the Italian Air Staff that a military pilot had to first be a sportsman if he was going to fly a plane in war assignments with maximum efficiency. Subsequently, Fougier started a five man aerobatic formation team.

Italian Air Force Aerobatic Teams achieved maximum fame — and travel — in the '30s, going all over Europe and South America. Its first and only U.S. trip to date was in 1986.

After the war years, two national teams existed, one to participate and one in reserve to plan for demonstrations the following year.

Frecce Tricolori was founded in 1960 as the one and only Italian Aerobatic Team with permanent headquarters at Rivolto del Friuli Airport. The name means Tricolored Arrows after the colors of the Italian flag.

The demonstrations will feature 10 ship formation flying and also solo demonstrations of the Aermacchi, a two seat trainer used for aerobatic flying and operational close air support missions against tanks and helicopters.

The formation breaks down into the leader, three left wingmen, three right wingmen, two slot pilots and a solo pilot.

Its support group includes a C-130 cargo plane from the 46th Air Brigade and Atlantique anti submarine aircraft, plus two spare MB-339s.

The appearance of Frecce Tricolori highlights a large card of performances and demonstrations at AirMichigan.

Advance tickets are available at the air show office at $9 for adults and $6 for children and reserved box seats are priced at $15. At the gate, general admission tickets are $12 for adults and $9 for children.

For a mail order form, call 482-8888. Advance sales end July 3.

S'craft to offer 16-week job-training workshop

Schoolcraft College is offering a 16-week manufacturing technologies program for individuals who are unemployed and want or need additional skills to find a new job. The program includes: machining skills, shop mathematics, algebra, machine trade print reading, computer numerical control, managing with statistics and CAD/CAM instruction.

Students must attend an orientation session at 10 a.m. Tuesday, June 30, in the Applied Science Building Room 375 at Schoolcraft College. Program instructors and representatives from the apprenticeship program, Wayne County Private Industry Corp., Schoolcraft's Career Planning and Placement and Women's Resource centers and the Michigan Employment Security Commission will be available to answer questions. A tour of the manufacturing technology labs will be available following the orientation session.

Free tuition is available for qualified applicants. Job search assistance will be provided upon completion of the program. The register for the orientation session, call Schoolcraft's Business Development Center at 462-4441.

Local host families needed now for summer exchange students

Area host families are needed now to host 48 French and Spanish boys arriving in the metro area July 1.

The students will spend four weeks in Michigan. Families need not speak a foreign language to host. Students have had from four to eight years of English language study.

The 48 boys without families are part of the 160 French and Spanish exchange students and chaperons scheduled to arrive next week. In addition, another 41 boys and 36 girls are unplaced from the group of French, Spanish and German students and chaperons arriving in Michigan at the end of July.

Evelyn and Julian Prince of West Bloomfield, state coordinators for Nacel Cultural Exchanges, match the 320 Michigan host families with students according to general interest and specific activities they would like to share with their guests.

Families interested in hosting a student or chaperon for either program, should contact the Princes at (313) 626-6641 or the national office of Nacel in St. Paul, Minn., at 800-NACELLE (800-622-3553).

The teens have a variety of interests including tennis and other sports, water activities, computers, camping and music.

Some American families take their guests on trips. Others share their everyday lifestyle. The students ages 14-18, bring spending money and their parents pay for their transportation and insurances. Teacher chaperones accompany the teenagers.

"Our recruitment of host families is in full swing, but we still need many more families," says Evelyn Prince. "After 16 years we still love letting families know that it is not too late to add excitement and learning to their summer and to do a wonderful service at the same time," she said. "What happiness when families discover which European son of daughter will be theirs for a month."

Hosts must supply three family references and are asked to provide the guests access to other teenagers. Children of host families get preferred acceptance as exchange students for the Nacel reciprocal programs to France, Spain, Germany and the Ivory Coast in future summers.

Nacel Cultural Exchange, a nonprofit organization, is the largest summer homestay program between Europe and the United States. Nationally more than 94,000 students and families have been served since 1969, while locally there have been more than 3,800 participants since 1980 when the Princes first brought the program to Michigan.

Fest features cars, art, music

Big things are happening in Canton this weekend. The event is the Liberty Fest, which kicks off on Friday and runs through Sunday. The location is behind Canton Township Hall. Music will include everything from country and western to jazz.

BY RALPH R. ECHTINAW
STAFF WRITER

As if you haven't been reminded enough already, the greatly anticipated, much vaunted and meticulously planned Liberty Fest is scheduled to touch down in Heritage Park Friday and spend the weekend thrilling, enervating, inspiring and tantalizing inhabitants from far and yon, but mostly from Canton and that appendage to the north, Plymouth.

Unlike the format of its predecessor, the Challenge Fest, where events were spread out over 10 days, Liberty Fest activities are crammed into a three-day span like cars on I-696 between Telegraph and Woodward at 5 p.m. on a Friday.

The emphasis for 1992 is on music. Perhaps it's just the irrepressible urge to show off the new amphitheater, but parks and recreation officials seem to have scheduled a concert for every piece of litter expected to be tossed on the ground in the park this weekend.

A short list of the acts includes The Laredos (a.k.a. "The Deacons of Doo-Wop"), The Huron Valley Express (a country and western band), a disc jockey, the East Middle School Jazz Band, The Reel Happy Swing and String outfit (reputed to play authentic Dixieland music), Rhythm (a two-man band) and the 70th Division Army band, to be accompanied by a bodacious fireworks display Saturday night.

Other Liberty Fest goodies abound like ants at a picnic. Paddle boats will be available for rent on Lake Canton. Something called KidsMania will keep your rug rats busy with clowns, magicians, balloon animals, face painting, Jello-slurping, cake eating and bubble-gum blowing.

While the kids are safely ensconced in that miasma of activities, parents can sample the classic car show, arts and crafts displays, chicken barbecue, and so on and so forth.

Don't forget to look for the Observer photographer while you're at the Liberty Fest.

New directions

One way: Motorists and pedestrians beware. Starting Sunday, Penniman Avenue in Plymouth will pull a switch and head east, rather than west. Workers will change the parking stripes on Saturday and Sunday according to Paul J. Sincock, director of Public Works. He said the street may be closed certain times during the weekend as work is being completed, but business traffic should not be disrupted too much.Once completed, Penniman will be one way eastbound from Harvey to Union. Sincock expects residents to catch onto the change fairly quickly.

AROUND PLYMOUTH

New bags

Bags are turning up on the doorsteps of Plymouth residents this week.

Each resident will receive 40 special trash bags to be used for recyclable items according to Assistant City Manager Paul J. Sincock.

One bag will be used for compostable items, while another type will be used for glass, aluminum and plastics.

"We estimate that people use 25 bags per year for recyclable items, so each household should have plenty to get through the year," Sincock said. The city will begin curbside recycling July 6. For more information, phone 455-1392.

Soccer club

Registration for the City of Plymouth Parks and Recreation Department Soccer Club's Fall season will take place through June 30. Boys and girls through between the ages of 5 and 18 are eligible to play. League play begins in September. Cost is $34. All new participants must bring birth certificates when they register, and all registrants must bring social security numbers. For more information, phone 455-6620.

Peace Corps address

Donations of money, vegetable seeds and school supplies are needed by Canton Peace Corps volunteer Bridget Marie Lynch who will be serving for two years in Africa. From July 8 through June, 1994, write Lynch at Corpo da Paz, Apartado 497, 1045 Bissau Codex, Bissau, Guinea-Bissau, West Africa. Lynch will be teaching English in Guinea-Bissau, one of the 10 poorest countries in the world.

Carriage rides

While enjoying the summer concerts in the park in Plymouth, visitors are encouraged to take a ride in a "Cinderella Carriage." Carriage rides will be available 7:30 to 9:30 p.m. Thursday evenings through July 30.

"Why second? The reason is simple. Walsh College offers the final two years of a bachelor degree giving us the ability to concentrate on doing what we do best...business education.

If you're a recent high school graduate or want to go back to school and follow a business career path, here is my advice: Make your local community college your first choice, then transfer to Walsh College for your last two years.

Over the years, I have been impressed with the quality of education that students receive at their local community college before transferring to Walsh. With the sound educational foundation they receive at the community college level and the specialized education at Walsh, they are equipped to achieve their goals."

Walsh College offers undergraduate degrees in:

- Accounting
- Computer Information Systems
- Finance
- General Business
- Management
- Marketing

Make Walsh College your second choice.
Make your local community college your first.

Compost center

Residents left holding the bag

There's a commercial playing on TV these days that depicts a homeowner trying to hand a bag of trash to a garbage collector. There's a dispute over who is going to take it. The homeowner loses.

It's cheap dramatics, but it sums up what's going on these days. The homeowner is left holding the bag.

That's happening to residents in Canton and Plymouth because of the closing of a composting center in Canton. The center accepted yard waste, handling it for $1.95 per cubic yard. The cost at a garbage dump is more than $10 a yard.

Now that the center is closed, residents are paying the extra $8 or so to have their grass, leaves and clippings handled like it was trash.

But the money isn't the only thing. There's also the harm caused to the environment by making dumps bigger. And then there's land use. Metro Detroit is going to be surrounded by dumps unless we do something to cut down on the amount of junk we put at the curb.

The Canton composting center made sense. It took tons of material out of what's called the waste stream and put it to work. The compost is turned into a useful garden compost after it decays.

But it didn't matter that the center made sense for thousands of people living in western Wayne County and for those unborn children who will face a trashed future. What mattered was that residents in about 10 homes smelled a little rotting grass and filed suit against the center, Canton Township, Plymouth Township and Farmington.

That sealed the center's fate. Now as it turns out, the residents could receive $50,000 to $250,000 because they were subjected to the smell of grass.

From what we understand, the smell resulted from not having the proper mix at the center. If that mix is correct, there is no smell.

It's tragic that a handful of people can stop an environmentally sound project. However, it has an up side. Like the homeowner in the TV commercial, we're stuck holding a bag of grass clippings.

But what we do with that bag could mean a lot. If we toss it in with the trash, it means we're voting for higher dump fees and more taxes.

We can vote another way. By dumping the grass clippings behind the garage and letting them decay in our own back yards, we can solve the problem without putting it in the hands of government and lawyers.

It's time to cut the middle men out of the process and empower ourselves. It would be cheaper, too

What to do: The state Legislature is kicking around a series of bills that would aid in prosecuting spouse abuse and offer training to government officials. For an editorial on the subject, see the lower left column on this page.

Aid in curtailing spouse abuse

Most police officers will tell you that spouse abuse, or "family trouble" calls, are among the most common and the most dangerously unpredictable they handle. Conversely, arrests and full-scale prosecution in such cases are about as rare as the calls are routine.

That paradox isn't just a "women's issue," and the state Legislature may be about to recognize it, none too soon.

A series of bills on domestic violence is winding its way through the Legislature. Taken as a whole, the proposed legislation places greater responsibility on police departments, prosecutors and judges in pursuing spouse abuse cases.

The bills propose these major changes:

- Easier arrest warrants, requiring a judge or magistrate to act on information from police — with or without the victim's consent to press charges.
- Stricter sentencing guidelines — cutting the number of "second chances" for a convicted spouse abuser from two to one before jail time could be assigned.
- Mandatory sharing of information between police and judges on previous assault convictions before sentencing.
- Allowing probate courts to order an adult out of a home where a child has been abused.

One of the bills even addresses the money needed to pay for the changes by bumping marriage license fees from $20 to $30 and allocating the difference to domestic violence shelters. That still leaves unanswered, however, where funding will come from for training of police, prosecutors and judges that should be a part of the package.

■ The bills would go a long way toward shifting the burden for pursuing these crimes away from the helpless victim and onto more socially aware and trained government agencies where it rightfully belongs.

And additional time spent on pursuing these cases will increase costs even further, but that's money well spent in a humane society.

We are uneasy over increasing unilateral power of government agencies and would prefer to see changes in this package that would make it easier for battered spouses to press charges.

Still, the new bills would go a long way toward shifting the burden for pursuing with these crimes away from the helpless victim and onto more socially aware and trained government agencies where it rightfully belongs.

The built-in disadvantages in the current system put victims, particularly women, at a loss. Many legitimate cases never see the light of a courtroom due to threats of additional violence. Many victims learn to "live with it" because removing a bread-winner from the home just isn't practical for financial reasons, or even possible because there is no place to go.

Spouse abuse crosses all racial, ethnic and economic strata. It could involve your neighbor; it could involve you. Remember, there are times when it is appropriate to be your brother's keeper.

Saving Miller Woods

Miller Woods is disappearing. It is going into homeowners' yards and gardens in the form of wildflowers, trees and wood chips. Someone even tried to take a heavy footbridge. The Woods has lost well over 75 percent of its trillium plants (an endangered plant protected by law) in the last five years. When the woods is gone we will not be able to recover it and our loss will be great.

Though signs posted around the perimeter of the Woods state what is environmentally acceptable, some of the neighborhood children, seemingly with parental consent, use the nature preserve as a recreational playground: breaking branches, sometimes whole trees, smoking and leaving cigarette butts, matches, pop and beer bottles, building caves and lean-tos and creating bridges and ramps for racing bicycles. Someone just recently has again maliciously destroyed a valuable hand-crafted sign identifying a special tree. Path liners have been disarranged or broken.

Even in midwinter we've had to patrol the woods as often as four or five times a week to keep it from being destroyed or damaged. Some weeks we've even gone by on a daily basis. This is very time-consuming. There has to be a better way to control the use of the woods.

A fence around the perimeter with limited access openings would certainly help. A fence proposed to be built two years ago by the Kiwanis Club of Plymouth is still the only hope that this special area of nature will survive. Join us and help get the fence installed and save what is left of Miller Woods.

Kmart's attitude wrongs kids

STEVE BARNABY

Censorship under any guise is a danger to our communities.

In the case of Kmart's decision to ban Earvin "Magic" Johnson's book "What you can do to avoid AIDS," the outcome could be fatal for teenagers.

Kmart, along with Walgreen drugstores, has decided the book is inappropriate for their shoppers. A Kmart spokesman cited the graphic nature of the book as the reason for the ban.

"We're not a bookstore," said the spokesman.

Kmart shelves are often lined with cheap Victorian paperbacks, decorated with covers of masculine rogues in the process of deflowering some innocent maiden.

Most refer to that as trash — trash without an ounce of socially redeeming value, trash written to titillate, trash which portrays a totally false image of relationships between men and women — but one which sells.

Apparently Troy-based Kmart, a leader in the American retail industry, thinks it's appropriate to mislead children but not so good to inform them about a disease which kills.

For years Johnson was a sports hero of monumental proportions. Corporate America paid him millions to hawk their products, mainly to children.

But all that changed when Johnson announced that he tested HIV positive — the precursor to a fully developed case of AIDS.

Young people around our nation were crushed. Johnson, more than anyone else, represented hope to millions of youngsters who otherwise had none. They admired and listened to Johnson because he had defied the odds, overcome racial and class barriers.

He was the American dream.

Now, short of a miracle cure, which all experts agree isn't even peeking over the horizon, Johnson will die of AIDS.

All the money, fame and fortune won't save him.

But kids still listen to Magic Johnson, and now it's corporate America's obligation to carry his very important and lifesaving message.

This message may not be as colorful or as profitable, but it is more important than any other Johnson has ever carried to his fans.

Johnson's book has been endorsed by several very credible organizations, including the American Medical Association, the Children's Defense Fund and the Pediatric AIDS Foundation, among others.

Other retail outlets, including Kmart's Waldenbooks subsidiary, carry the book.

Kmart executives need to remove their eyes from the bottom line and take a look at all the children in their stores. They, and their parents, deserve to have the message made available to them.

AIDS is a disease out of control. The number of victims increase and the only way, absolutely the only way to stem the tide of this modern-day plague, is education.

Kmart and other retailers who have decided to yank Johnson's book from their shelves should give it another chance. It could be one of their children who are saved from the death sentence offered up by AIDS.

Comments called childish

I read Ms. Dillon's article "Veteran trustee loses re-election bid" in the June 11 Observer and hope that Dr. McClendon was misquoted. I am not a member of CBE, and do not support what little I know of their beliefs about education. I did not support Mrs. Graham's re-election, but I do respect her as an individual, and her right to serve on our school board. I have attended many board meetings, and would like to say that perhaps those 63 voters who made the difference have also attended school board meetings.

Dr. McClendon's verbal and, sometimes more importantly, nonverbal communication toward those he disagrees with, gives the average parent the feeling that their opinions and concerns are not important.

Maybe those parents are the voters who chose not to re-elect Dr. McClendon.

The school board is elected to represent all citizens in our school district. A college degree is not necessary to "actively" listen to someone's concerns and opinions.

Although I don't always agree with Mrs. Graham's ideas, I have to say she is always willing to listen to people.

If Dr. McClendon truly made the remarks as quoted in the Observer, it seems sad that after all the good and intelligent work he's done in his years on the board, he had to end his tenure on such a vicious and childish note.

Patricia M. Wong, Plymouth

Comments out of line

The recent school election results were surprising. The many years of service E.J. McClendon gave to our community are impressive. Anyone who could give that many years of his life for his school district should be commended.

Reading the remarks made following the election, quoted in the Observer, I was disturbed. One would hope E.J. wasn't serious when he made the comments about Barbara Graham.

While educational leadership is to be esteemed, the possession of a college degree is not the only warranty of this leadership. Our community is made up of individuals who have attained all levels of educational achievements. The board of education should be representative of our community.

One would hope that E.J. is not prejudiced against all individuals who have not attained his own personal accomplishments.

Joan Noricks, Canton

Shaving cream wars

We were disappointed by the picture and article which appeared on the front page of the Plymouth Observer June 16, 1992. It showed students squirting shave cream in Plymouth on the last day of school.

Those children were identified incorrectly as Central Middle School students. The article alluded to the fact that this is a Central tradition and that Central officials hate it. The fact is that we were not consulted about this story, and it is not any more a tradition here than at any other school in the district. In fact, our students did not participate in any shave cream incidents on our grounds, or according to Plymouth Police, in the city either.

You need to know that there are three middle schools and two elementary schools within easy walking distance of downtown Plymouth, and to single out one is unfair. Our students and staff worked hard to have a safe and appropriate finish to our school year. The last afternoon was one of saying goodbye to teachers and peers, and leaving in a dignified manner rather than the wild scene often associated with the last day.

We are very proud of the way our students conducted themselves as the school year concluded and want to set the record straight. Actually, our last-day tradition has become one of appropriate and safe celebration, and we thank our students and staff for that.

Patricia Moore, principal
Lee Harrison, assistant principal

Bad bounce

It appalls me the news media has nothing better to report than petty complaints called in to the police.

We put a hoop up in our driveway. The 73-year-old woman was never asked where she wanted the hoop put, as she stated in the article, "despite requests to put it elsewhere." It was not her say to where it was to be placed.

She also stated she "feared her new sod would be damaged by people chasing errant basketballs." The fact is this sod has been in place for a year now so I don't believe it should be considered "new sod." Plus it should also be noted, my husband and I both work full time, so it's not like we are out there every day shooting hoop. I enjoy hoop and only shoot on occasion and on the weekends. I have yet to see where a basketball bouncing on grass would damage it. I do know that a dog crapping on grass does do some damage and they do have a dog which does crap on their grass all the time, so why doesn't she call the cops on her dog?

Her next statement states that "He (my husband), planned to plant shubbery where she suggested he put the hoop and that he didn't want his lawn damaged."

This is also a false statement because we walk, play and use our lawn all the time. Plus, again it was not her choice as to where this hoop was to be placed.

So tell me one thing why don't you print this story, too, so all the facts on both sides are told.

Catherine Cogo, Canton

Feeling empty

I read your article in the June 8, 1992 "Plymouth Observer" about the Plymouth-Canton Chiefs girls soccer team's loss to Rochester Adams Saturday, June 6.

I was wondering why I felt empty after reading it. You had the facts in the story and Adams was a good team and played very well. I sort of felt the story conveyed the message that the Chiefs were not worthy of playing such a fine team as Adams. But I thought no, that wasn't it, the score was only 1-0. Adams out-played the Chiefs for most of the first half, but things evened up as the game went on.

What was it about the story that left me empty? The Chiefs played their typical game against a good team; they usually made the other team look good except on the scoreboard. Naw, I was used to stories along those lines. I just could not figure it out and let it go as sour grapes on my part.

But guess what was delivered to my house today, "The Community Crier." Front page: picture of the emotional let down. Great picture by a "hometown" paper. Okay, so the "Plymouth Observer" is a big metropolitan paper and could not have such a picture on the front page. But I'll tell you what, the empty feeling sure disappeared. The picture summed up what the game was: skill, strength, determination and emotion.

Then I was directed to page 29 by the picture caption. What was there but a story by Anne Sullivan, a nice story, a good story. It had the facts, but it had something about the team, about the girls that went 18-1-2, the girls that went to the state finals.

There were two more pictures, but the picture was more than enough. It took until Wednesday but I wasn't empty any longer.

Since the "Observer" story was so generic I can assume the same "Observer" story played in Rochester's "hometown" paper, the "Rochester Observer." The Observer & Eccentric Newspapers got two stories for the price of one reporter and the Plymouth-Canton community hometown newspaper "The Community Crier" got the real story.

To finish off C.J., your paper's coverage during the season was good. But its final story on the finals was very generic, but cost efficient.

Lee J. Westerhold, Plymouth

Mock election

Today I began reading your paper and everything came to a stop. My throat closed up and I had to send you this response. Please forgive me.

I was reading a glowing report on teens in a mock school election. As a person would expect, the millage raise on which they were voting passed. Certain questions came to me. Were they, the teens, echoing their parents views? Were they crying out for the desires of a certain system? Or were they, indeed, expressing ideals and concerns of a majority in that System and of their own peers? Voting "yes"?

Education has its place: but this particular facet of it seemed to lose itself somewhere in its own morass. Were the citizens of Plymoth supposed to vote "Yes"? Were we supposed to take our orders from that system, via a mock election?

It appears to me that we, the Plymouth populace, are no longer in an old day. The day is now new. That day comes with higher prices, upped fees implemented by new laws and regulations, zooming-to-the-sky taxes, with rents daily rising, and a lower quality in our childrens' lives, as a result. Meanwhile the parents and providers of these pupils are ever struggling to give them things they need and demand, exceeding basic necessities and going to further outreaching goals set by a system, blinded by its own greedy consumption.

Now that the millage actually did not pass, I have to congratulate the citizens who did vote "no" who somehow got past the barriers of silence on this particular election day.

What horrors can we next expect from that system? Will we see teachers forcibly ejected? Will a vacuum result from cut programs? Will there be chaos and darkness delivered by an angry god of administration upon all peoples? Shall we see a continuing waste of people and talent?

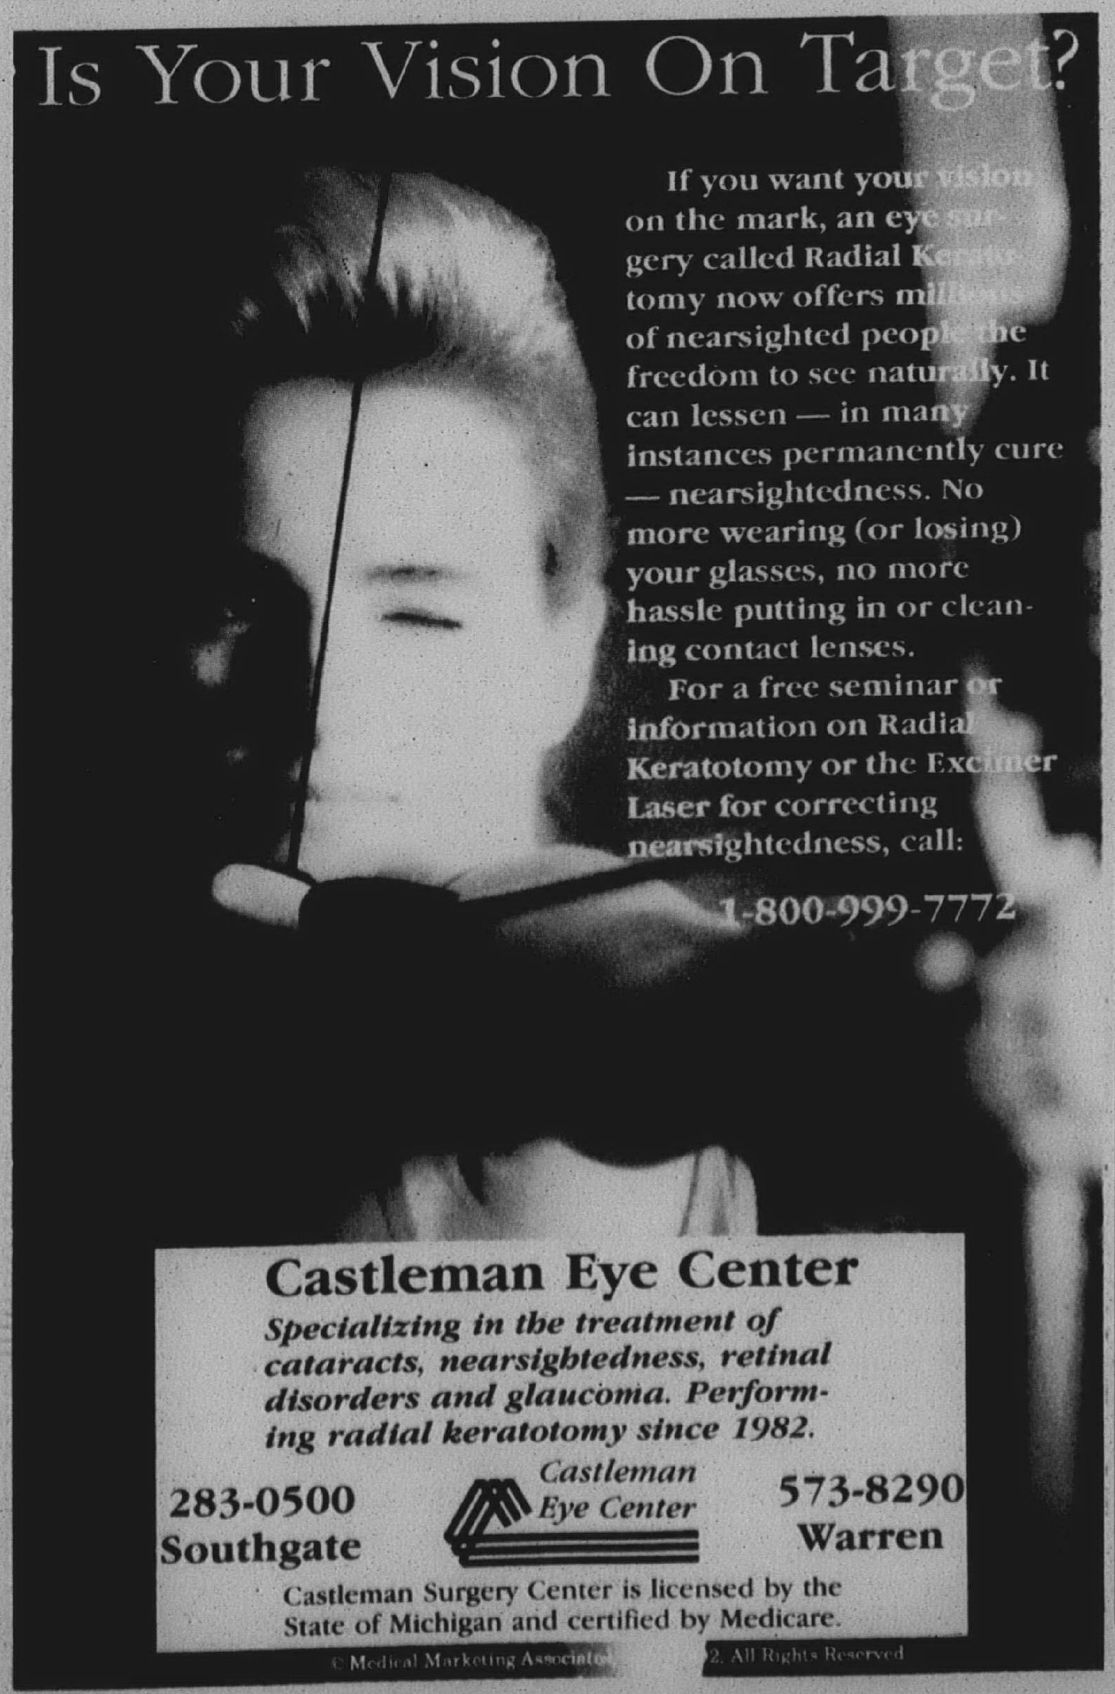

Can the system become less than a black hole?

We should now be asking: Will the luxuries of wasteful spending be dropped? Forever? Will any monies saved go toward a truly educational program for students and not to salaried persons in the system? Should we not give yearly and bi-yearly cars and other increments to Administration? (Why can't they drive their own cars, paid for out of their paychecks? I do.) Should they give themselves pay raises while Plymouth citizens go without?

What is the answer? Or will it be a statement? "We will have to fire teachers and cut programs. We will have to fire teachers and cut programs . . .

Betsy Knisley, Plymouth

Judge orders state to pay cost of trial court operation

BY TIM RICHARD
STAFF WRITER

State government may have to pay local units hundreds of millions to operate trial courts if the Michigan Supreme Court upholds a lower court ruling.

Ingham Circuit Judge James Giddings, sitting as the court of claims, ruled last week the state must pay the costs of circuit, probate and district courts — estimated at $1 billion by winning attorney Douglas Van Essen of Grand Rapids.

"We'd love to have the state pay the whole thing," said Larry Crake, R-Waterford, chairman of the Oakland County Board of Commissioners. "The attorneys will negotiate. It will not be $1 billion, and it will not be zero," he predicted.

Local units in Wayne and Oakland County, and Livingston County government, joined the class action suit in 1989. They could be reimbursed their court costs back to 1986.

Units that didn't join the class action — including Wayne and Oakland county governments — could file claims and collect one year back.

Local claimants

Wayne County units that joined are the cities of Garden City, Livonia and Westland and the townships of Redford and Northville. Van Essen said Northville Township tried to opt out but failed to meet an Aug. 19, 1989, deadline.

The city of Northville, the two Plymouths and Canton Township opted out of the case. They see their 35th District Court as a moneymaker, not a cost burden.

Judges have estimated the cost of running trial courts statewide at $250 million to $400 million. That cost, on top of Michigan's $800 million in budget cuts over the last two years, could break the state budget.

Van Essen's initial claim said the state owes Oakland County $16 million and Ann Arbor $1.1 million.

Van Essen has pursued the case for three years on behalf of 76 counties, 44 cities, 11 townships and a village. He said appeals could take one to two years at the Court of Appeals level and additional time at the Supreme Court level.

Supreme Court justices already are on record as demanding full state financing of the courts.

The late G. Mennen Williams, chief justice until he retired in 1986, advocated full state financing.

State funding sought

So did Dorothy Comstock Riley as chief justice in 1987. Riley, who is still on the bench, asked the state to pay not only for trial courts but juror and witness fees, court-appointed defense lawyers, appellate counsel and transcripts.

Legislators have said no to full state financing.

As part of its 1980 enforced reorganization of Wayne County, the state agreed to pick up costs of operating trial courts.

It started with Wayne Circuit Court, Detroit Recorders and Detroit District Court. But there the reform effort stopped.

All other 82 counties pay their local costs. So do Wayne County suburbs.

Van Essen said even Wayne County could be "the biggest winner" — $30 million for attorney fees for indigents. Wayne County Probate Court also has not been state financed.

Van Essen said the 1980 law "was enforceable as creating a monetary entitlement for those units of local government which fund trial courts.

"The Legislature had to offer some funding to the rest of the state. It passed a schedule to gradually reimburse the locals from 1983-88."

The schedule called for state reimbursement of 20 percent in 1983 up to 100 percent after 1988. Because of the statute of limitations, the local units may collect only up to 80 percent going back to 1987, plus 10 percent interest.

Attorney General Frank Kelley contends the 1980 legislature cannot bind future legislatures.

And when state officials claim the cost is "devastating," Van Essen argues "there's a devastating effect on local government," which, he pointed out, is hurt by a property tax freeze this year.

Another part of Van Essen's suit asked that courts be audited by the state.

Courts are considered exempt from the budget and accounting act. In some areas, judges insist local units appropriate a lump sum that they can spend as they wish, with no line items.

Canton girls win title for overall excellence

Plymouth Canton didn't win a state title in girls athletics during 1991-92, but the Chiefs came close more often than any other school in the state.

In the four sports which the Michigan High School Athletic Association conducts team tournaments, Canton was the only one to reach the Final Four in three — basketball, soccer and softball. The combined record for those teams was 71-10-2.

Grosse Pointe North, Williamston and Potterville in classes A, C and D sent teams to the semifinals in two sports.

Ironically, the Chiefs lost in the state finals of soccer and softball by 1-0 scores on consecutive Saturdays earlier this month.

If the MHSAA were to name an all-sports champion, Canton would have to be the girls choice (notwithstanding any bias toward the locals).

Thus, based on their performance of the last year, the Chiefs arguably have the best overall girls program in the state.

Ann Arbor Pioneer is possibly the only other school that could challenge that claim based on its success in cross country, swimming and track, but the Pioneers can't touch Canton in strictly team competition.

In addition to the above sports, the Chiefs are perennial powers in Observerland (if not beyond the area) in cross country and track, and the gymnastics team finished third in the state.

Can't overlook the Rocks

While my purpose here is to point to the extraordinary year Canton had, the total girls program at Centennial Educational Park is exceptional when the Plymouth Salem contribution is considered, also.

If the Chiefs had not gone to the Final Four, Salem would have in basketball and might well have again in soccer. Canton advanced at the expense of its rival each time by winning tough district games.

Furthermore, the Rocks were state runners-up in gymnastics, had the best Observerland track team and were greatly improved in softball.

Chiefs might do it again

The high standard Canton set for itself this year might not be repeated given the difficulty of reaching the state semifinals in one sport and especially three.

But then there is reason to assume the Chiefs will be just as good and do as well again in 1992-93.

Why? Canton accomplished so much with so few seniors. Only two of 11 players on the basketball team were seniors, four of 20 in soccer and five of 16 in softball.

Seniors Julie Nicastri and Renee Dory played basketball and softball. The other seniors — in this graduation season, I should devote space to recognizing them — were Christina Stansell, Danielle Meyka, Amy Tortora and Rebekah Raymor in soccer; Nicole Sequin, Sarah Schimmelpfenneg and Holly Miller in softball. All of them, I should add, were key contributors to their team's success.

Of the underclassmen, we can expect to see their names in print again in the future. Kelly Holmes, Britta Anderson, Alyson Noune, Amy Westerhold, Erica Anderson, Lisa Nicastri, Karrie Drinkhahn and Jori Welchans play basketball and either soccer or softball. Stephanie Gray and Christie Saffron excel on the basketball court and the track.

Chiefs boast most softball stars

The All-Observer softball squad features some of the best talent in the state, including three players from Plymouth Canton, nearly the best team in the state.

With the best softball team in Observerland, Plymouth Canton was accorded three berths on the 1992 All-Area team.

Junior pitcher Kelly Holmes, junior shortstop Danni Mortiere and senior outfielder Sarah Schimmelpfenneg represent the Chiefs, who reached the Class A final where they lost 1-0 to Jenison in nine innings.

Garden City and Westland John Glenn put two players each on the first team, which also includes individual stars from Livonia Churchill, Livonia Ladywood, Redford Thurston and Farmington Hills Mercy.

Some of the players have become regulars on the All-Observer team. Holmes, Mercy's Kathleen Berrigan — the Female Athlete of the Year in the Catholic League — and Glenn's Karen Olack made the honor roll for a third consecutive year.

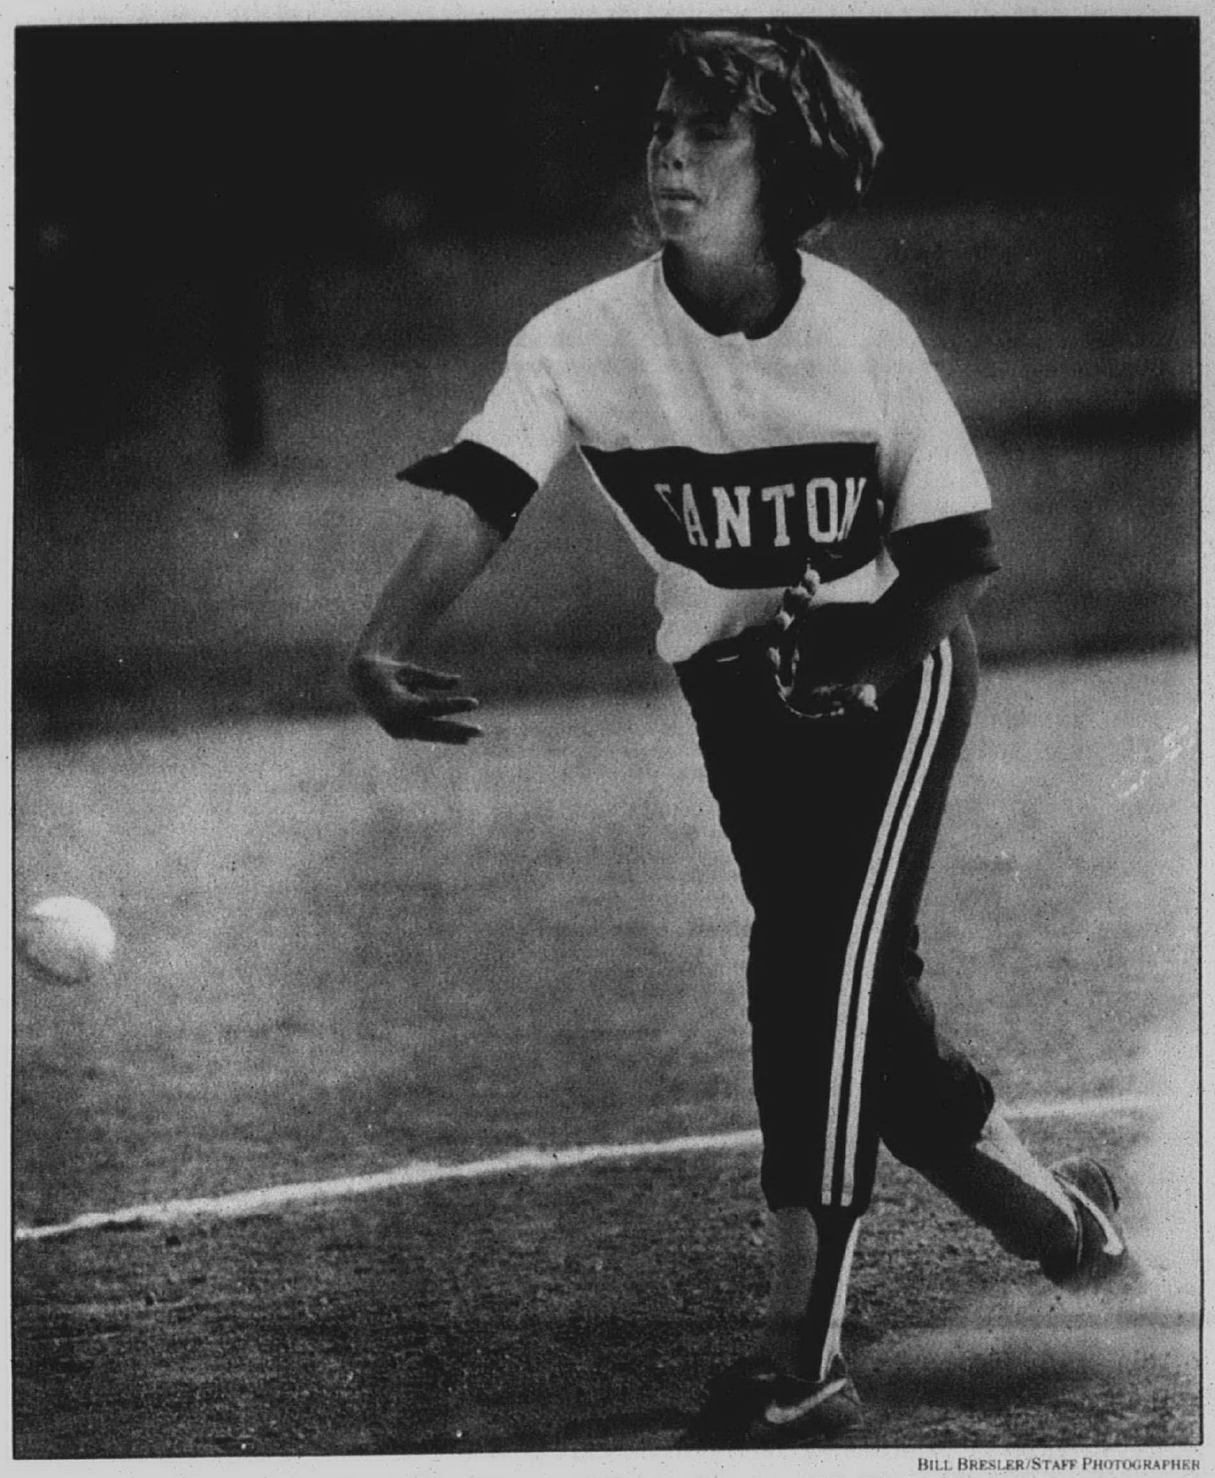

Garden City pitcher Sherry Harper, Thurston infielder Michelle Birchmeier, Glenn infielder Carrie Rachwal and Ladywood first baseman Allison Brenny were on the second team last year.

Five of the honorees also were members of the Class A all-state team: Holmes, Garden City catcher Jenny Horosko, Mortiere, Brenny and Berrigan.

Canton's Jim Arnold was selected Coach of the Year after guiding the sixth-ranked Chiefs to a 32-4 record. Canton is 52-9 in two years under Arnold and won the Western Lakes Activities Association championship this year.

"I thought last year's team was equal in talent, but the togetherness of this team made the difference," Arnold said. "It was very much like a family."

Walter's sweeps Delwal, ties for LCBL lead

Walter's Appliance gained a share of first place in the Livonia Collegiate Baseball League Sunday with a 9-1, 11-6 sweep of Delwal at Ford Field.

Walter's and Delwal were tied atop the league standings at 7-5 heading into Wednesday's games. Delwal was generous in both ends of the doubleheader, committing seven errors.

"We played poor defense," Peterson said. "You are not going to win many games playing that kind of defense."

In the first game, Walter's tallied six runs in the second inning, sparked by a bases-loaded single from Craig Overaitis (Livonia Franklin).

Walter's had eight hits. Joe Brusseau led the offensive attack, going 2-for-3 with a double.

Dave Wood was the winning pitcher, tossing five solid innings and striking out two. Louie McKaig hurled the final two innings and yielded Delwal's only run.

Gary Morris was the starter and loser for Delwal, allowing eight runs in two innings. Brian Feldman was superb in relief, pitching the final four innings and giving up just one hit.

In the second game, Delwal was plagued by five errors and a lack of pitching.

Andy Margolick (North Farmington) struggled through 3⅓ innings, allowing six runs. Todd Boike and Derek Wirebaugh finished in relief.

"Our pitching just wasn't what I had hoped," Peterson said.

Walter's tallied five runs in the fourth inning, led by a two-run single from Jeff Schaffer (Livonia Franklin).

Mike Coleman was the starter and winner for Walter's, despite a rough outing. He gave up six runs. Steve Ross (Redford Catholic Central) closed the door in relief, striking out four hitters in the final two innings.

"It's always good when you can win two games on Sunday," Walter's coach Mike Keller said. "That's tough to do."

Wendy's drops two

Wendy's managed just a total of nine hits Sunday, as they got swept by Little Caesars 9-3 and 5-3 in a doubleheader at Ford Field.

In the first game, Wendy's tallied only five hits. Mike Armstrong led the way with a double.

Caesars, meanwhile, belted 12 hits. Andy Gagne paced the offensive attack with three hits and two RBI. Jerry Shippe added two hits and two RBI.

Brendan Endicotte went the distance and earned the win for Caesars, striking out six.

Rob Clem was the losing pitcher, giving up five earned runs in five innings. He surrendered 10 hits.

In the second game, Wendy's rallied late, but stranded a pair of runners in its half of the seventh.

John Spoyler was the winning pitcher for Caesars, tossing six solid innings and allowing two runs and striking out four. Dave Roman recorded the save, pitching the seventh.

ALL-AREA FIRST TEAM

Kelly Holmes, junior, Canton: Holmes has played a major role in the Chiefs being 76-13 during the last three seasons. She has a 53-9 career record with 635 strikeouts and will add to those numbers next year.

In leading Canton to its best season, Holmes was 23-3 with 289 strikeouts as opposed to 47 walks in 178⅔ innings. Only nine of the 35 runs charged to her were earned, giving her an earned-run average of 0.35. Holmes allowed 48 hits and also had one save.

"A big reason for our success was Kelly Holmes," Canton coach Jim Arnold said. "I can't find any fault with her. She has an excellent attitude and a tremendous amount of desire.

"This kid can throw the softball. I tell other coaches they have to see our pitcher because she throws over 60 miles per hour. They can't believe anyone can throw that fast underhand."

Sherry Harper, senior, Garden City: Harper represented one half of Garden City's outstanding battery, stepping into the role of lead pitcher and guiding the Cougars to another fine season.

She was was 26-4 with 209 strikeouts and 54 walks in 171 innings. She posted a 0.98 ERA, with about half the 45 runs opponents scored being earned. Harper also was one of Garden City's top hitters, batting .421 with 40 hits in 95 plate appearances. She had six doubles, three triples, two homers and 38 RBI. Harper scored 40 runs.

"We were 29-4 as a team, and we wouldn't have been over .500 without Sherry," coach Barry Patterson said. "She not only was our No. 1 pitcher but also our top run producer."

Jenny Horosko, senior, Garden City: Horosko was on the receiving end of the Garden City battery and was known for her hitting prowess as well as her defensive ability.

She batted .429 with 48 hits in 112 chances. Horosko drove in 33 runs and had eight doubles, eight triples and two home runs. She also walked 17 times, scored 40 runs and had a .696 slugging percentage.

"Jenny is one of the finest workers I have ever coached," Patterson said. "Her intensity is unparalleled by most players. She does a great job offensively and defensively and, along with Harper, was one of the main reasons we did what we did."

Carrie Rachwal, senior, Glenn: Rachwal, who received a scholarship to play for Saginaw Valley State University, was a standout shortstop for the Rockets.

She batted .325, scored 27 runs and had 18 RBI. Rachwal had 28 hits and led the team with 25 singles. She also made 29 putouts and had 53 assists on defense. Her career batting average is .371.

"She's a base hit/line drive hitter," Glenn coach Linda Jimenez said. "She's a hard worker and a smart player. She has great range at shortstop and can get to the ground balls that most girls can't."

Vicki Lucas, senior, Churchill: Lucas, who will continue playing at Central Michigan University next year, played a key role in the resurgent Chargers winning a district title and finishing 17-5.

She batted .447 with 34 hits in 76 chances, belted seven homers and drove in 42 runs. Lucas also had five doubles and four triples as nearly half of her hits went for extra bases. She made only two errors in 22 games at shortstop.

"Vicki was one of the reasons for Churchill's success this season," coach Dana Hardwidge said. "She had a banner year offensively with the 42 RBI and provided experience and stability on defense."

Danni Mortiere, junior, Canton: Mortiere was a standout on a team that had an all-around solid lineup, playing shortstop and being among the top hitters with a .406 average.

She had 45 hits in 113 chances, walked 27 times, stole 25 bases, scored 38 runs, hit six doubles and eight triples and recorded 20 RBI. Mortiere also had an .875 fielding percentage.

"Danni helped us unbelievably at shortstop," Arnold said. "She was the sparkplug of the team. She keeps us together. She was thrilled to be all-state and deserved it."

Allison Brenny, senior, Ladywood: Brenny, who played first base, is one of the best players in school history and hopes to make the Michigan State University team next year.

She batted .391 and her 43 hits (110 chances) includes eight doubles, six triples and three home runs. Brenny also had 39 RBI and scored 29 runs. She had a .982 fielding percentage.

"She was very much a power hitter," coach Kim Linenger said, "but she's not the kind who either strikes out or hits a home run. She hits the ball hard every single time, usually for extra bases.

"She was a pressure hitter, too. She had key hits against some tough pitchers."

Michelle Birchmeier, senior, Thurston: Birchmeier excelled on a team that also included many good players. She demonstrated her versatility by pitching in the state tournament after teammate and regular pitcher Sue Drotar was injured in a car accident.

Birchmeier batted .455 with 41 hits, which included eight doubles, seven triples and five home runs. She also had 33 RBI and scored 39 runs. She was 9-5 as a pitcher with 97 strikeouts, 43 walks and a 1.40 earned run average.

"She's the best player to come out of Thurston," coach Tracy Lectka said. "She has a real strong, accurate arm. Her stepping in as our pitcher is an excellent example of that."

Sarah Schimmelpfenneg, senior, Canton: Schimme, as she is known to her coaches and teammates, roamed center field and solidified the center of the Canton defense with a .955 fielding percentage.

Schimmelpfenneg batted .337 and had 28 hits (three triples and one home run) and 28 RBI. She also walked 34 times, was 30-of-30 stealing bases and scored 37 runs.

"Schimme is going to be missed in the outfield," Arnold said, adding she accepted and adjusted to a move from right to center. "We needed her experience out there. She had a big influence on (freshman) Sara Rowe and her confidence."

Kathleen Berrigan, senior, Mercy: Berrigan excelled at finding ways to get on base and score runs. Her on-base percentage was .712 and she scored 47 runs.

Berrigan, a four-year starter in center field who plans to walk on at the University of Michigan, batted .593 (64-for-108), walked 17 times, stole 44 bases (including home eight times) and had 19 RBI.

"This year was by far her best," coach Suzanne Brown said. "The one thing we did this year that we didn't do in the past was have her go all the way to third from first and, if she was on second, go all the way home. We definitely utilized her speed. With her slap hitting, she just had to get the ball in fair territory and she was on base."

Karen Olack, senior, Glenn: Olack starred behind the plate for the Rockets and was an impressive hitter. She batted .384 with five doubles, five triples and one home run.

Olack also led the team with 29 RBI and scored 20 runs. She had 20 assists as the Glenn catcher.

"We haven't had a hitter like Karen in a long time," Jimenez said, adding Olack holds all the Glenn records. "She has been an asset in this program for three years."

The Hot-Shot Basketball Contest, sponsored by Canton Parks and Recreation Services, will take place at three sites on different days: Thursday, July 9, at Hoben Elementary School; Monday, July 13, at Eriksson; and Wednesday, July 15, at Hulsing.

Registration is at 11:45 a.m. each day. Competition starts at noon. Boys and girls (age as of Dec. 31, 1992) will compete in the following age groups: 9-11, 12-14 and 15-18. There is no entry fee.

Participants can enter and compete at one, two or three of the sites. Awards will be given to the winners in each age group. There are no residency requirements. For information call 397-5110.

■ FATHER'S DAY GOLF

The team of Earl Kent, Darrin Kent and Craig Klimczak shot an 11-under par 61 for a two-stroke victory Sunday in the Canton Parks and Recreation Father's Day Scrambles Golf Tournament at Fellows Creek.

Second place went to the team of Dave LeClair Sr., Mike LeClair and David LeClair Jr. with a nine-under 63. Fred Alcock, Dennis Alcock and Dan Alcock took third place with a 64.

The winning score in the coed division was a six-under 66 by Katherine Fulcher, Brett Barnes and Geri Hames. The long-drive award went to Leonard Weyrzyn and closest-to-the-pin award to Don May.

■ BASKETBALL CAMP

Concealed captures tourney trophy

The Concealed Security Systems Connie Mack baseball team on Sunday won the Chief Pontiac National Invitational in Waterford.

Concealed Security won six games during the four-day tournament, including two on Sunday, to improve its overall record to 7-4.

Concealed Security finished fourth last year in the same tournament but earned a shot at this year's title with a 6-3 win over Waukegan, Ill. in Sunday's semifinal round.

Concealed Security scored three runs in the top of the seventh inning to break a 3-3 tie and left-hander Charles Winters (Detroit St. Martin DePorres) pitched out of a bases-loaded jam in the bottom of the inning for the win. Winters was named the Most Valuable Player of the tournament after scattering nine hits, walking three and striking out five.

"Dwight Trammer was in the bullpen warming up, ready to close the door, but we had a lot of faith in Chuck (Winters)," coach Lou Pirronello said. "He was throwing great."

Craig Peterson (Madonna University), another MVP candidate who hit .474 for the tourney, had an RBI double in the first inning and an RBI single in the decisive seventh. Derek Fox drove in two runs in the seventh with a single and Cuba Gregory started the rally with a double.

Waukegan took a 3-2 lead with three runs in the third but Matt Green tied the score in the sixth with a solo home run. Gregory had the other RBI for Concealed, sending Dan Scutchfield home in the second with a sacrifice fly.

The championship game proved anti-climactic as Concealed scored eight runs in the second and bounced Detroit Mexican Industries 13-3.

Chad Zann (Madonna University) was the winning pitcher, allowing seven hits, no walks and striking out five. Fox was 1-for-3 with three RBI. Green had two hits, including a double, and an RBI; Gregory had two RBI, while Winters scored twice and had an RBI.

Concealed plays at 9 a.m. and 4 p.m. today in the Mayor's Invitational at C.O. Brown Stadium in Battle Creek.

Baseball from page 1B

Lance Sparks was the losing pitcher, hurling 4⅓ innings and giving up five runs and six hits.

Caesars also won Friday, beating Hines Park 8-5 at Ford Field. Tony Davey belted three hits, including a homer. Gagne chipped in three singles.

Bryan Pfeifer was the starter and loser for Walter's, lasting just three innings and giving up three runs, two of which were earned.

Shandell Currie, Schaffer and Eric Stover each had two hits in a losing cause for Walter's.

Each team committed four errors. Wendy's record is 5-8.

Wendy's takes one

On Friday, Wendy's received strong pitching from Rob Kangas and defeated Walter's, 9-6.

Kangas worked the first five innings, allowing four hits and a single earned run. He fanned one.

Wendy's had seven hits, paced by Jason McDonald's three hits and two RBI. He knocked in a run in the second and fourth innings.

Hines Park sweeps

Hines Park Lincoln Mercury improved to 7-6 overall Sunday with an 8-6, 10-0 sweep over Tecumseah Green at Plymouth Canton.

Geoff Allen (Canton) earned the win in the first game, pitching two innings of relief after replacing starter Keith Bozyk (Redford Catholic Central). Allen, 1-0 overall, allowed no runs on one hit, three strikeouts and one walk. Bozyk allowed six runs, four earned, and six hits in five innings of work.

Kevin Craggs (Salem) and Joe Weidenbach each collected two hits for Hines Park. Craggs scored two runs and drove in a pair. Weidenbach scored a run and also had an RBI.

In the nightcap, Adam Marano improved his personal record to 2-1 after tossing a two-hitter in a game called after five innings because of a mercy rule. Marano struck out five and walked five.

Hines Park scored in each inning. Weidenbach had two hits, including a home run, and a pair of RBI. Bozyk, Eric Nielson (Salem) and T.J. Raptis (Madonna University) had two hits each. Vince Sacco had two RBI.

Warner paces Michigan cage all-stars

BY STEVE KOWALSKI
STAFF WRITER

Livonia Franklin guard Dawn Warner showed over the weekend why she was deserving of the 1991-92 Miss Basketball award.

Warner, who finished runnerup to Flint Powers' center Lisa Negri in the Miss Basketball voting last fall, was named Most Valuable Player for team Michigan in a two-game series against Ohio.

Warner, headed to Western Kentucky on a scholarship, made a record five three-point shots and scored 27 points with five rebounds, six assists and three steals in a 90-79 loss Saturday at Grand Rapids' Welsh Arena.

Warner scored 18 points the night before in a 94-90 loss at Dayton, Ohio. Warner watched Negri pick up the Miss Basketball award at halftime of Saturday's game but winning the MVP award made some of the pain of not winning Miss Basketball go away.

Negri finished with eight points Saturday and no other Michigan player finished in double figures. Plymouth Salem's Darcie Miller was on the Michigan roster but was unable to play because she was suffering from mononucleosis.

"Lisa got what she deserved, that's what people thought, they voted for her," said Warner, Franklin's all-time leading scorer. "I'd rather have had that presentation at halftime — it made me kind of down — but we're friends and I clapped for her. It will always be a nightmare for me in the back of my mind because I always wanted to be Miss Basketball.

"But I'm happy I put on a good show. I came to play that day. It was fun to meet the all-stars. It was worth it, something to cap off my career."

Warner's mother, who is undergoing treatment for cancer, was able to watch from the stands and that served as special motivation for the younger Warner.

"She wasn't feeling good Saturday but she came and I really love her support," Dawn said. "She says she loves watching me play and that's an inspiration in itself. I just hope she stays healthy and well when I leave for school."

Warner leaves today with the Western-Wayne Wildcats AAU team to play in New Mexico for the Junior Olympic 18-Under national championship. In late August she leaves town for good, starting school at Western Kentucky.

'Albertine in Five Times' marvelous

Don't miss this story about a woman during five times in her life.

Performances of the Theatre Guild production of "Albertine in Five Times," continue weekends through July 12 at the Theatre Guild playhouse, 15138 Beech Daly, Redford. For ticket information call the box office at 538-5678.

BY BOB WEIBEL

Characters in the Livonia-Redford Theatre Guild's "Albertine in Five Times" remind one of a fine crystal that has fractured into ugly deformed pieces of glass.

As we learn about each piece, their rough edges seem softer. Indeed, the crystal slowly appears to become whole again. Not perfect to be sure. Stress cracks remain permanently etched. There is, however, beauty in understanding the life of a woman who has endured more than her share of pain. It is a show not to be missed.

Five actresses play Albertine at five different times in her life. Director, Jeffrey Nahan, does a fine job of staging playwright, Michael Tremblay's, challenging script. His cast interacts naturally as five visions of one personality. We see them as Albertine's memories, just after she enters a home for the elderly.

Shirley Hulet is marvelous as Albertine at 70. One moment she's a wise, smiling silvery-haired woman; the next she's conflicted with tearful, painful memories. At long last she has reached the age of understanding.

As crises develop, she tries to advise those playing herself in earlier years. As has been the case for centuries, they never listen.

Barbara Coven scores as a youthful Albertine of 30, whose natural optimism has been tempered by a wayward husband and troubled children. Unable to communicate, she takes out her frustration by nearly beating her daughter to death over a sexual encounter.

Cheryl Roy gives a mesmerizing performance as a bitter, joyless Albertine at 40. Her husband foolishly gotten himself killed; her daughter's a tramp, her son is mentally impaired. All she ever wanted was to be loved. To be understood. Instead life dealt her a deck of losing cards. No wonder she is an empty shell of a woman, full of rage, with a perpetual sarcastic smile.

Pat Varga very effectively shows another side of Albertine at 50. She chooses to set herself free. Her attitude: if you don't like something, make up a new past. She places her son in a home. Gets a job as a waitress. but there are memories, always memories.

Maureen Cook is most sympathetic as Albertine at 60. By now she is a pill-popping, bedridden recluse. Memories linger on. And she fears that one night the guilt will be too much — and she will take one too many pills.

Mary Vinette is very good as an ageless sister, Madeleine. She is a common thread in this tapestry of Albertine's life. Somehow, she married right, had lovely children, and endured few hardships — except jealously. Albertine would have given anything to have Madeleine's ability to communicate.

Outback Steakhouse opens in Canton

KEELY WYGONIK

If you like your food spicy, you'll love the newly opened Outback Steakhouse at 42871 Ford Road in Canton.

The menu features high-quality, uniquely seasoned steaks, prime rib, chicken, ribs, fish, chops and pasta. The famed "Bloomin' Onion," a colossal onion, dipped in batter, specially cooked and served with a spicy sauce, is a house specialty.

Located in a former Pier One, Outback Steakhouse has a comfortable Australian theme with blond woods, large booths and tables, Aussie memorabilia such as boomerangs, surfboards, maps and flags. Mark Wibel, formerly of Birmingham, Outback's joint venture partner for the Detroit area, said a second restaurant is scheduled to open at 15 Mile and Orchard Lake in West Bloomfield in the beginning of September. They are also looking at locations in Novi, Rochester and Ann Arbor.

According to Nancy Schneid Swensson, vice president-marketing, the key to their success is "It's not just a steakhouse. We offer quality food and moderate prices." Outback Steakhouse with 28 locations, is based in Tampa, Fla. The Canton restaurant is their first in Michigan.

Attentive, friendly, upbeat servers take your orders. "If a customer wants the seasonings adjusted, no problem," said Swensson. "We test our staff for team spirit. They work well with others. They know how to get the job done."

Outback Steakhouse welcomes children. There's a special Joey's Menu for kids under 12 which features Boomerang Burgers, $2.45, Kookaburra Chicken Fingers, $2.45, Grilled Cheese-A-Roo, $2, Junior Ribs, $3.75 and Spotted Dog Sundae, $1.75.

While you're enjoying dinner, the kids can learn about the Land Down Under in a free activity book designed just for them. There are puzzles and stories to show the little mates a good time.

At their grand opening on June 22, I tried a little bit of almost everything on the menu. The "Bloomin' Onion," $4.95, will appeal to crispy onion ring fans. They sell over a million pounds of them a year. Walkabout Soup, a thick creamy blend of onion, potatoes, and yellow cheese, $2.95 bowl, $1.95 cup, was delicious.

Try the Gold Coast Coconut Shrimp, six huge shrimp, dipped in beer batter, rolled in coconut, deep fried to a golden brown and served with orange marmalade sauce, $5.95 or the Grilled Shrimp On the Barbie, $5.95.

I tried the Chicken on The Barbie, seasoned grilled chicken breast served with barbecue sauce and fresh steamed vegetables, $7.95, The Outback Special, a 12-ounce center-cut sirloin, $10.95 and the Ribs on The Barbie, Danish baby back ribs, smoked and grilled, $10.95.

All were fabulous. If you don't like spicy food, ask them to adjust the seasoning. The steak, which was cooked medium rare, had a peppery taste.

Entrees are served with choice of house or Caesar salad, bread and choice of jacket (baked) potato, Aussie chips, or fresh steamed vegetables.

Leave room for dessert. Sydney's Sinful Sundae, vanilla ice cream rolled in toasted coconut, covered in chocolate sauce and topped with whipped cream, $2.95, cheesecake with raspberry sauce, $2.75 or Chocolate Thunder From Down Under, fresh-baked brownie, vanilla ice cream, hot chocolate sauce, and chocolate shavings, $3.95.

Drink offerings include The Wallaby Darned, a frozen wonder of Peachtree schnapps, champagne, rum and secret mixers, $3.95, Australian beer, wine, as well as, local favorites.

Outback Steakhouse is open for dinner only, 4-10 p.m. Monday-Thursday, 4-11:30 p.m. Friday-Saturday, 3:30-10 p.m. Sundays. Credit cards — American Express, Diners Club, MasterCard and Visa.

If you're looking for a place you can take your whole family to eat, look no further than Rochester Cafe. Owned an operated by the Aiello family, Rochester Cafe features home cooked breakfast, lunch and dinner in a comfortable, casual friendly atmosphere.

They've earned a reputation for their delicious Deep Dish Sicilian Pizza, savory homemade soups, and desserts like Dutch Apple and Milky Way pie.

"We want our customers to sit and relax and enjoy a good meal," said owner Anthony Aiello. His wife, Rosemary, and son, Mark also work at the restaurant. "We take care of things. One of us is always here," said Mark. Three years ago they remodeled the restaurant, formerly a Nugget.

Eatery details

Rochester Cafe
Address: 630 N. Main, Rochester, 652-0820
Hours: 6 a.m. to midnight, Sunday-Thursday, 6 a.m. to midnight, Fridays and Saturdays.
Type of food: Italian, pizza, steaks, seafood, soup, sandwiches, breakfast.
Details: Daily specials, children's menu, 10 percent discount for senior citizens age 55 and older, some vegetarian entrees, Heart Wise menu.

Floral tablecloths, paintings, and a graphic design on the windows help create the comfortable setting.

There's something for everyone on the menu. Rochester Cafe recently got a liquor license, and offers beer, wine and cocktails. House specialities include Anthony's Italian Favorites like veal piccata and Chicken Siciliano — breaded breast of chicken, scented with herbs and spices served with an authentic amoghio sauce, (fresh chopped tomatoes, Italian herbs and spices.) Dinners are served with soup or salad, vegetable of the day, choice of potato or spaghetti and homemade bread basket.

Some items you wouldn't expect to find on the menu are Mexican nachos, burrito, taco salad, and chicken chimichanga. If you don't have the time to dine in, there is an extensive carry out menu.

JOHN STORMZAND

Jazzy benefit to help Wayne State

Some of Detroit's best-known performers will take part in "Hot Jazz and a Cool Breeze," a fund-raising musical event 5:30-9:30 p.m. Tuesday, June 30, at Captain's Restaurant & Bar on the Detroit River, a quarter mile east of the Renaissance Center.

The benefit will help Wayne State University's College of Fine, Performing and Communication Arts raise money for a program that identifies and cultivates underprivileged students in the Detroit Public Schools who have strong artistic and creative skills.

The $25 benefit tickets include $10 contribution, hors d'oeuvres, parking, mini-auction and door prizes. All ticktes will be held at the door. For information, call 577-5448.

Committee members include Lorna Abraham of Bloomfield Hills.

Passion, raw energy in Stratford's 'Romeo and Juliet'

Performances of "Romeo and Juliet" presented at the Stratford Festival Stage through November 15. For ticket information, call the Festival Box Office at 964-4668.

BY HUGH GALLAGHER
STAFF WRITER

The Stratford Festival's production of "Romeo and Juliet" has all the youth, passion and raw energy that Shakespeare intended and the stage rarely delivers.

This production, which runs in repertory through Nov. 15 at the Ontario theater's Festival Stage, has two lovers who actually look the part of giddy teenagers and yet handle the magic of Shakespeare's language with insight, intelligence and clarity. Here are two leads that bring the youth of Franco Zefirelli's famous film version but handle the language with more vitality and understanding.

Megan Porter Follows, star of television's "Anne of Green Gables," is a young woman in her 20s who easily passes for the 14-year-old Juliet. She brings to the part the flushed look of a girl enraptured by the latest pop star, which is exactly the intensity Shakespeare had in mind for a love that is more girlish rapture than profound attraction. Follows moves comfortably and speaks the lilting verse with ease. She is Juliet and is well matched by her Romeo.

Antoni Cimolino has the larger role and has more opportunity to lose the thread, but he rarely does. Here is the perfect Romeo, not a wimpy, love-struck sap but a boisterous young man looking for love and adventure wherever he can find it. Cimolino handles the language with skill and gives vibrance to the impassioned speeches, but he is equally believeable carousing and jesting with his buddies.

"Romeo and Juliet" is not so much about the triumph of love over death as it is about the foolishness of adults who allow the young to suffer for their quarrels. The "love" of Romeo and Juliet is an ardent but superficial passion brought to boiling by the rivalry of their families.

Director Richard Monette suggests this theme by doing the props and costumes in the style of 1930s' fascist Italy. The idea of political tension and impending war is made but never forced and Monette doesn't make the mistake of altering the text or making obvious references to that period. Debra Hanson's props and costumes are brilliant from the playboy whites to the brown shirt uniforms to Juliet's soft girlish fashion. The clothes and props are close enough to our own time to emphasize the timelessness of Shakespeare's poetry and wisdom.

As always Stratford surrounds its leads with superb supporting actors. Barbara Bryne is funny as Juliet's garrulous and doting nurse, making every comment hilariously clear. Colm Feore, who a few years back played Romeo on the Stratford thrust stage, is an approriately rowdy and bitter Mercutio, Romeo's ill-fated friend. Lorne Kennedy is a tempetuous Tybalt proudly strutting in his Mussolini garb. Bernard Hopkins as Friar Lawrence brings sympathy to his role of a peacemaker who sees his plan go tragically awry.

The best thing about this production is that it offers a perfect introduction to Shakespeare for young and old alike.

Cranbrook hosts carillon recital series

Hear the bells, and relax at the Summer Carillon Recital Series at Christ Church Cranbrook and at the Ann Arbor Summer Festival.

Now in its 64th season, the Cranbrook series offers an opportunity for casual listening to recitals performed by carillonneurs from across North America and Europe. Recitals may include special arrangements of folk, popular, and patriotic tunes, music from Broadway and Hollywood.

The series begins 4 p.m. Saturday, July 4 with a special Independence Day program featuring the Detroit Brass Society and Philip burgess, Carillonneur and Associate organist at Christ Church Cranbrook.

Don Cook, University carillonneur and assistant professor at Brigham Young University, Salt Lake City, Utah, and former Christ Church Cranbrook Carillonneur performs, 4 p.m. Sunday, July 5. Concerts 4 p.m. every Sunday through Sept. 6.

The series is free and open to the public. The carillon is best heard from outside the church about 200 feet from the tower. To the west of the tower, a spacious lawn offers a cool, shaded, and quiet listening area for the traditional summer recital. Listeners bring lawn chairs and blankets for use on the grounds, listen from their cars, or stroll the grounds. Tower tours follow the recitals on July 4, July 26 and Sept. 6.

In Ann Arbor, you can hear the bells on the mall between the Tower, Rackham Graduate School, the Michigan League and North University, 7 p.m. Monday, June 29, July 6, July 13, July 20, July 27 and Aug. 3.

Looking for someone special?
A bowling partner, a travel companion or someone to share your life?

Every Monday and Thursday your Observer & Eccentric Newspapers will publish a PERSONAL SCENE directory—listings of people who are looking for people.

PERSONAL SCENE has five classifications—men seeking women, women seeking men, people who want to share sports interests, seniors who need companionship and people who need someone with whom to travel.

PERSONAL SCENE also takes advantage of our electronic age. When you've composed your five-line listing, which will run free for eight issues, call 591-0900 and our ad takers will be happy to help you record your message so that it can be heard by people who are interested in what you've said in your ad. You will never receive unwanted calls at your home; all responses will be recorded and left in your electronic PERSONAL SCENE message center. Note: It will cost $1.49 per minute to check the responses to your listing. Readers who wish to respond to a listing in our PERSONAL SCENE directory, may use a touch-tone telephone to call 1-900-454-8088 and the special number which will appear in each ad. The cost to do this is also $1.49 per minute.

TV drains imagination from kids' summer play

AUTO TALK

DAN McCOSH

The raging controversy over the recent spate of drive-by super soakings may not seem to have much to do with the auto business, but somehow a conversation that started out with how the super squirt guns got banned in Boston quickly drifted to the broader issue of what kids do with their time today.

I hate to admit it, but I spent a considerable portion of my childhood before TV — well, not exactly before the invention of the tube, but at a time when only one family on the block had a television set, and it wasn't mine.

This meant that there were lots of kids running around all summer with an average of five and a half hours a day (now devoted to watching television) with nothing much to do but figure out ways to get into troub . . . er, I mean, seek out creative activities.

Which is how we got the idea to build the tank. The tank was the logical extension of the war with the kids on the next block. (Creative activities always seemed to end up with a war with the kids on the next block.)

We had started with squirt guns and had escalated to water balloons, then buckets of water, and finally had taken up defensive positions with a garden hose. In this carnage, a super soaker would have seemed like a mild case of the sweats.

The tank was the ultimate — a fully canvas-covered monstrosity built of scrap lumber, with numerous gun ports and hatches for water pistols and water balloons — the idea being a way of attacking without getting wet. Nobody had told us about the Maginot line.

The tank ended up brutally heavy, with no wheels, so we had to carry it around the block to launch the assault. When we got there, the other kids spent about a half hour dumping water on the idiots trapped inside, who never got a shot off and couldn't run or move it very fast.

Anyway, the tank was followed by a series of scooters made from peach crates, perched on top of your sister's roller skates — the kind made of metal that could be taken apart, a thoughtful piece of engineering that obviously was meant to let you use you sister's roller skate wheels for higher purposes.

Like the tank, pushing the scooters around was a lot tougher than walking, but it seemed like a good idea at the time. In fact, I remember a considerable portion of my childhood spent sitting around with other mildly demented types scheming up another fort, scooter, or raft to be built out of some box or packing crate dragged home to be used as raw materials.

For some reason, adults seemed tolerant of all that junk, although maybe they mainly appreciated the silence when we were plotting. It seemed like most of these projects never got finished, or when they were they really didn't work very well.

Still, at least a few of us went on to make more stuff, and a few even ended up as engineers making cars. I figure the guys who worked on the tank ended up at Cadillac.

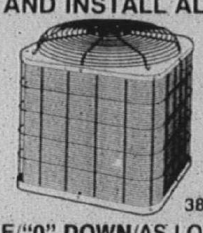

Anyway, with store-bought toys and television, where are the kids today scheming and dreaming about the ultimate machine?

I get the odd feeling that today's kid looks at an old pair of roller skates, and all that comes to mind is to throw them away.

they overlook potential income sources, he said.

The National Governors Association estimates that allowing states to collect sales taxes on goods bought via direct mail would raise more than $70 million a year for Michigan.Industry shakeout.

Steve Simons, president of Group SAA Limited, a Farmington Hills-based company specializing in the production and distribution of mail-order catalogs, said those who argue for new legislation may be missing a more subtle point.

"A lot of Michigan retailers are non-mail order and could care less if the industry succeeds or not," he said. Everyone should be concerned, however, because most mail order companies are small businesses, and it is the small business that truly drives the economy.

The level playing field traditional retailers are calling for would be a less populated one, he argued.

"What it will do is shrink the industry by 40 to 50 percent," he said.

While that might please larger mail-order companies that can cope with the new requirements and the traditional retailers, it would be bad news for consumers and entrepreneurs.

As corporate America continues to downsize, the government should encourage, not discourage entrepreneurs. Much of the mail-order industry's growth can be attributed to the ability of entrepreneurs to start and maintain businesses with low overhead.

"This means less competition and higher prices for the consumer," he said.Not a windfall.

Chet Dalzell, spokesman for the national Direct Marketing Association, said the notion that mail order companies collecting taxes would result in substantial revenues for states is just wrong.

Most of the figures he has heard — $70 million in additional tax revenues to the states — are from a 1987 update of a 1984 study by the Advisory Commission on Intergovernmental Relations.

Those figures are unadjusted and actually include revenue that is already being collected by direct marketers who have a presence in the state.

The figures are also wrong because they fail to factor in that a large segment of the direct-marketing industry is tax exempt (sales of insurance and investments) or largely exempt (sales of magazines, foods and pharmaceuticals), he said.

Dalzell said mail-order companies already collect taxes in states where they have a physical presence, but asking companies — the vast majority of which are small businesses — to keep track of 46 sales taxes and an untold number of local taxing districts is unfair.

Catalog merchants confident of a win

So begins the legislative tussle.

Just because the Supreme Court has tossed the political football to Congress doesn't mean that lawmakers will choose to run with it.

In one corner, retail associations and some state governments have already begun lobbying legislators to enact laws to amend the interstate commerce laws. In the other corner, direct marketers are already making plans to bombard the Congressmen should a proposal be made.

Chet Dalzell, spokesman for the Direct Marketing Association, said he believes the prospect that Congress will change the law and ask mail order companies to begin collecting and forwarding taxes to states and taxing bodies is remote.

"A bill proposing that was killed on its lack of merit two years ago," Dalzell said.

In 1989, Congress reviewed interstate commerce regulations and decided against any changes at the time, he said. "Any legislation is likely to be defeated until we have a uniform tax code — which isn't very likely."

If all states collected the same sales tax, then mail order companies would be able to collect sales taxes more easily, he said. Mail order companies would still be burdened by the task of transmitting the taxes to the respective taxing bodies, he said.

Steven Simons, president of Group SAA Limited, a Farmington Hills-based company specializing in the production and distribution of mail order catalogues, said those who argue for the tax collection as a way to tap new revenue sources might be surprised.

In order to collect the taxes, those same governments that see a potential windfall would be forced to set up an elaborate system to audit and monitor thousands of mail order companies.

"Most of those companies are probably making revenues of $1 million to $10 million," he said. Any revenues gained by the states would likely be eaten away by the bureaucratic system created to monitor it, he said.

"If they were to pass the law tomorrow, it would be better (to focus) on the larger companies."

Simons suggested that an exemption should be made for smaller companies. The government already distinguishes between small and large companies for other purposes, such as employment regulation and taxes.

Direct marketers face tax challenge

■ Individual states can't compel mail-order companies to collect sales tax from customers and forward the money to the various capitals, the U.S. Supreme Court has ruled. But Congress can. The battle lines are drawn and consumers are in the middle.

BY GERALD FRAWLEY
STAFF WRITER

For anyone who's ever bought something from a mail-order company, take notice — conventional retailers hope to set into motion legislation that would hamper direct marketers' way of doing business.

Recently, the U.S. Supreme Court ruled 8-1 in the case of Quill Corporation vs. North Dakota Department of Revenue that state laws charging mail order companies with the responsibility of collecting state taxes on merchandise sold and then transferring those taxes to the buyer's state are unconstitutional.

What sounds like a victory for mail-order companies, however, holds serious overtones for the industry. In its decision, the court advised that Congress, if it chooses to do so, can pass legislation requiring the collection.

Retailers and some state governments are lining up behind proposals to urge Congress to do just that.

Direct marketers are urging Congress to maintain existing laws.

Jeff Freedman, president of the Canton Township-based mail-order electronics distributor Planet Electronics, said requiring companies like his to collect taxes would be a burden — perhaps not an insurmountable burden, but it would surely create a hardship.

With the right computer equipment and software — and with constant updates — a mail order company could conceivably collect taxes from each of its customers and transmit them back to the respective state, but the result could mean some companies that are unable to cope with the changes would be forced out of business, he said.

Freedman said it's common practice for mail-order firms to inform customers they still have an obligation to pay a use tax — which is equivalent to a sales tax — to their state. "The consumer has the chance to tell the truth or not (on the yearly tax form)."

Regardless of the legalities of the issue, Freedman said the argument for a level playing field just doesn't stand up. "People don't buy from us because they hope to avoid paying sales tax; they buy because we sell products you can't get from a local store."

People also buy from mail-order houses for convenience' sake, he said. "It (avoiding sales tax) may be an added plus, but it's not the reason mail-order businesses succeed."Level playing field.

James P. Hallan, president and chief operating officer of the Michigan Association of Retailers, said the association of more than 3,400 small retailers is merely seeking a more level playing field."This is an issue of equity, of parity.

"If you have a small businessman in Michigan who has invested in the community and he is competing with a company advertising heavily in this area, why should (the small business) have to (collect) a sales tax and not the other guy?"

Calling the lack of sales tax for catalog and other direct-market merchandisers a "$3 billion a year tax loophole which enables out-of-state catalog and other direct-marketing firms to avoid collecting state taxes on the goods they sell," the Michigan Association of Retailers is urging Michigan's congressional delegation to enact and support legislation compelling mail-order houses to collect sales taxes.

Hallan said it is also an issue of revenue. In a time when many states are strapped for cash, they are remiss if

Restaurant chain competes for part of breakfast market

BY R.J. KING
SPECIAL WRITER

■ 'But knowing the level of competition out there, from fast food to sit-down diners, we felt the only way to compete was to offer something different.'

Michael Sadofsky
vp-marketing

As the backbone of a new campaign to generate more revenues at its non-mall restaurants, Troy-based Olga's Kitchen, Inc. has opened its doors to the highly competitive morning crowd.

Olga's breakfast menu is geared to heart-smart diners: smoked turkey hash, fresh fruit platters, natural granola cereal, a yogurt cooler with protein powder and three-egg omelettes prepared with a non-cholesterol alternative.

"Since we were traditionally open for lunch and dinner, the morning represented idle time for us, so it was a natural evolution to open for breakfast," said Michael Sadofsky, vice president of marketing and advertising for Olga's, which opened its first restaurant in 1970 in downtown Birmingham.

"But knowing the level of competition out there, from fast food to sit-down diners, we felt the only way to compete was to offer something different. That means fresh ingredients cooked to order in under five minutes."

Strategy questioned

Still, even healthy food served in a wisp of time doesn't guarantee success.

Jeff Gabriel, a chef and instructor within the culinary arts program at Schoolcraft College in Livonia, said if given a choice, he would never go into the breakfast market.

"A restaurant which opens for breakfast is basically breaking even," said Gabriel. "How many dollars can you bring in when the average customer spends only $3 or $4? If you have 100 customers each morning, that's $300 to $400.

"If you have six or seven employees making $5 to $6 an hour, you may make a little bit of money. Personally, I would never go into the breakfast market. The dinner market is where you make your money, because there people are spending $18 to $20 apiece."

Because Olga's already has an established lunch and dinner crowd, offering breakfast isn't likely to make or break the company. Last year, Olga's reported $50 million in revenues from 53 restaurants across the nation, 20 of which are in Metro Detroit.

What's more, since the morning represents idle time at Olga's, a break-even breakfast campaign could help boost its profit margin if the new money coming in is enough to pay the respective share of rent and utilities, which are costs generated whether a restaurant is open or not.

But Olga's doesn't plan on breaking even. To lead the breakfast campaign, which began in February, the chain brought aboard William Pickett, former executive chef and co-founder of the Beverly Hills Grill as well as executive chef at the Richard & Reiss Restaurant, both of which are located in Birmingham.

The game plan

"We didn't want to do just an omelette wrapped in a piece of Olga bread and call it breakfast," said Pickett, who left the former restaurants last December due to time constraints. "Knowing the level of competition we were up against, we had to make a statement and set ourselves apart from fast food and the $1.99 breakfast served at places like Denny's."

Enter the smoked turkey hash, which Pickett said was a healthier alternative to corned beef hash, which is often prepared from the fatty portion of a brisket. The chef also created a cinnamon coffee, fritters, muffins, french toast, Belgian waffles and a yogurt cooler made with honey, bananas, orange juice and strawberries.

Still, there are deep pockets to challenge. From the beginning, fast-food competitors like McDonald's and Burger King have offered breakfast with convenience and taste in mind, with little thought for nutritional value. The strategy has worked out well.

Breakfast brings in about 20 cents of every dollar McDonald's cash registers ring up, even as a recent issue of Consumer Reports found that fast-food egg sandwiches with cheese and meat like McDonald's Egg McMuffin and Burger King's Croissan'wich pack between 700 to 850 calories per serving. The Croissan'wich contains 40 grams of fat, close to two-thirds of a day's fat quota.

While convenience has always been high on the list of breakfast eaters on the go, only recently, with the advent of healthier diets, has nutrition been a consideration.

Pickett said his biggest challenges in bringing breakfast to Olga's was creating a healthier menu while working out time, logistic and training factors. Prices were also kept low.

"In preparing the menu, most of my time was spent measuring how long it took to prepare, cook and serve an item," said Pickett.

While Sadofsky declined to reveal how much Olga's spent bringing the breakfast campaign up to speed, he said the company hired over two dozen new employees to complement existing staffs. To date, breakfast is available 7 to 11 a.m. every day except Sunday, when hours are 8 a.m. to 1 p.m.

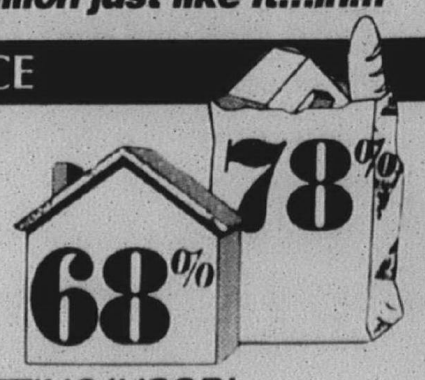

Only the Birmingham, Lathrup Village and West Bloomfield restaurants serve breakfast, though Sadofsky said the chain will expand portions of the menu to most of its outlets over the next few years.

FLAP takes on scales of justice

■ The legal system can be a scary proposition, if you've never had contact with it. But attorneys from throughout the metropolitan area are making it user friendly for the victims of domestic violence through a new program offered by First Step, western Wayne's domestic violence program.

By Sue Mason
Staff Writer

Jim Jagdfeld/Staff Photographer

Planning Session: Attorneys Rosanne Less (from left) and Gerard Mantese, First Step executive director Judy Ellis and attorney David C. Brown prepare for Saturday's training session for volunteers attorneys involved in the First Step Legal Advocacy Program.

Judy Ellis doesn't mind creating a FLAP. Neither does Gerard Mantese. In fact, they've found a number of attorneys in the metropolitan area that are of the same opinion.

FLAP, according to Noah Webster, is to become excited or confused. Ellis, Mantese and company are excited, but forget the confusion. There's none of that when it comes to the First Step Legal Advocacy Program, better known as FLAP.

Ellis is executive director of First Step, First Step, western Wayne County's project on domestic violence; Mantese is an attorney with the firm of Honigman, Miller, Schwarz and Cohn. Together with Kelly Machado, an attorney and president of First Step's board of directors, and advocate Kisa Kunitz, they came up with a three-phase program to provide legal assistance for battered women.

The program addresses an issue that surfaced in study by the Michigan Supreme Court two years ago. Women don't have equal representation in the courtroom.

"We've known for years that the victims coming to us need care and support in the legal system," Ellis said. "A lot of women don't know their rights; a lot only know what they hear from others.

"And let's face it, the criminal justice system is frightening in and of itself."

By placing ads in several legal journals, including the Michigan Bar Journal, Mantese, as the FLAP coordinator, lined up 53 attorneys from 33 law firms throughout Wayne and Oakland counties to provide pro bono (free) services to clients of First Step.

Overwhelming response

"The response was overwhelming," Mantese said. "Attorneys from small and large firms signed up. Most don't practice in the area, but wanted to help."

An expertise in family law wasn't a requirement to join the program; in fact, the attorneys' backgrounds are as varied as the areas they come from. Mantese, for example, specializes on commercial litigation, Machado in immigration and labor law.

Working with attorneys Rosanne Less and David Brown who are experts in family law, Mantese developed a training seminar for the volunteer attorneys to prepare them for the work. There also are 3-4 family law practitioners available to serve as mentors for the volunteers.

Oh, bits of life after death

By Taylor Lincoln
Staff Writer

When Ernest Hemingway was in an airplane accident in Africa in 1954, and was incorrectly reported dead, his survival gave him the unusual opportunity to read his own obituary.

Esther Searl

Joseph Bida

Few, if any, of us will share Hemingway's freak experience. And most like Hemingway won't have control over what their survivors say about them.

Chances are, our obituaries will reflect the way we lived. Some people prefer obituaries with reflections on their achievements, some want them to focus on their personalities, and some, such as Stephanie English, of Livonia, want both.

"She was tough-minded but tender-hearted. That's for being a single parent with two children," she said.

Many, such as Audrey Sommers of Redford Township, hope that they will be remembered for the messages that they conveyed to others.

"She was a person who set an example for others, and she proved that it's possible to become all you can be. I haven't reached my goals yet, but I hope I will soon," said Sommers, a reporter at Channel 50 who is aiming to get an anchor position on a Detroit TV news program.

Although a question about an obituary, with its implication about mortality and the morality with which we live, tended to elicit sober responses, some people had some fun with their obituaries.

"I would like (my death) to be at the age of 103. I took my last jump and the shoot didn't open," said Dan Krause of Livonia.

Krause recently went skydiving with his son, Jamie, who has enlisted in the U.S. Army and wants to be in an airborne division. Jamie escaped the jump unscathed, but Dan was nursing a sprained ankel.

Some people mentioned their own happiness as a quality they would like to be remembered for.

"As a happy fellow that loved everything he did in his past life, and as being the mayor of Plymouth and the director of the public works, and for being a fine person," said Joe Bida of Canton Township.

Others didn't think about their own past as much as the future of their survivors. "Don't forget all the good people like my good neighbors," said Esther Searl of Plymouth.

Lester Maiden of Westland said he wants to be remembered "As a sober man, remembered by my six children."

And Carol Krawczeyk said she'd like her obit to say, "She was a good mother, a great friend, and a loving wife." She is married with two children.

Val Martino of Farmington Hills would like to be remembered as a good person, but not for a while.

"As a good, decent, person. I've done the best I could to treat people the way they wanted to be treated. I'd like to live a good many years, another 30 or 40 at least," said Martino, who is 65.

Harry England, of Garden City, focused on his civic achievements.

"I'd like to be remembered for being active in Garden City, active in the schools. I helped Garden City to grow and be a little more successful in business. And I was on the school board for eight years in Garden City," England said.

One person from Redford Township, who looked to be about 18 years old, answered the question then departed in a blur without leaving his name.

He said he'd like his obituary to reflect "the truth."

here in Oakland County," he said, in a recent interview at the Birmingham office of the Observer & Eccentric. "There are 23 (public) bridge clubs in Oakland County. They run afternoon and evening bridge games almost every day."

Crouse is a gregarious guy with a big voice to match his size. He said, "I have been playing bridge since my mother taught me in 1935, and I've been playing seriously for the last 15 years."

At various times, Crouse has written bridge columns for the Oakland Press, Royal Oak Daily Tribune, Grosse Pointe News and the Macomb Daily. In his column for the O&E, he will concentrate on local players, talking primarily about games he has played with them.

Teaches bridge classes

Besides writing about bridge, Crouse teaches classes for beginner, basic, intermediate and advanced players throughout the year at the West Bloomfield Community Education Department. He has been teaching there for the last three years. Crouse spends three days a week teaching bridge, not only for community education but also privately, usually to groups of up to eight people.

Now working to be a life master, bridge's highest category of expertise, Crouse is active on the area bridge circuit. He said, "I play club tournaments and then go off to regionals two or three times a year."

He said he had never played a lot of duplicate bridge but because he decided to teach and write about bridge, he wanted to become a life master. "The master rating is a very important factor in bridge," he acknowledged.

Originally from Grosse Pointe, Crouse returned to the Detroit area in 1945 after spending three years with the U.S. Army — two and a half of those years serving with the 1st Infantry Regiment in the Pacific. In the advertising business, he worked more than five years at Campbell-Ewald and 18 years at BBD&O, where he produced TV commercials for major network shows.

Then, he was part-owner of a radio station in Port Huron before returning to metropolitan Detroit to work for Capital Cities-ABC for 20 years as a newspaper sales manager before retiring in 1988. "I spent my life in advertising in the Detroit market. My background is Grosse Pointe, but I've been here (in Bloomfield Township) 20 years," he said.

Joined top bridge club

During his working years, he traveled a lot on his job, especially to New York. "I joined the Regency Whist Club in New York City in 1959," he said. "It was 'the' bridge club — the premiere bridge club in the world. I got to know a lot of the great players and played with them."

To Crouse, greats of the bridge world such as the late Oswald Jacoby and the late Charles Goren are "Ozzie" and "Charlie." "Ozzie took me aside and really taught me how to play the game of bridge," he said.

Purposes of his new column are threefold: "To have fun, to teach bridge and to relate to good players who play the game. Two-thirds of the columns are personalized, to just your readership players."

Slant of handwriting shows she is a poised person

GRAPHOLOGY PROFILES

LORENE GREEN

Ms. Green,

I am 40 years old and right-handed. I am a senior at Eastern Michigan University, studying to become an elementary school teacher. I read your column every week and am very interested to see what my handwriting might reveal about my personality. I hope that you will choose my sample to analyze. Thank you.

P.G., Livonia

We will begin our graphology study today with the slant of this handwriting. Slant speaks to us about the writer's emotional make-up. This young woman writes with a vertical slant which is a deviation from American copybook. It suggests one who is poised and outwardly controlled. In addition, she is cautious and rarely impulsive. She will take time to assess a situation and how it is going to affect her personally before becoming involved.

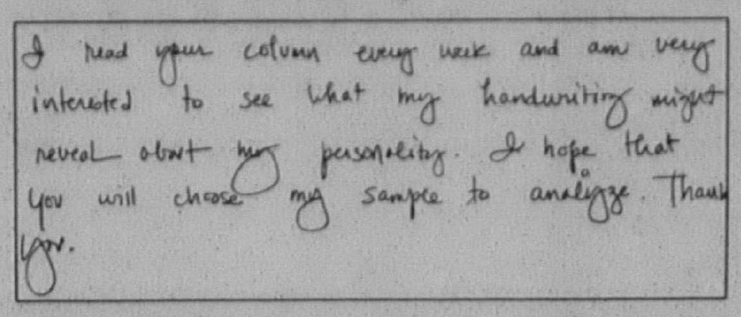

People who have a desire to express their individuality and hunger for freedom often break away from copybook and develop their own unique style. This suggests the courage of an independent mind and is certainly true of our writer.

We are analyzing an intelligent thinking type young woman. Augmenting this is a controlled, but inquiring mentality that thrives on facts. She tends to mistrust mental embroidery and subjective thinking.

Self-reliant with inner resources of strength, she has a need for status as well as stroking.

Seemingly, she has a built-in sense of order. Her daily routine is well organized. She is time-aware and does not waste hers on nonessentials. Efficiency is her hallmark. She also has a special ability for unique and creative problem solving. At times a little intuition furnishes some answer, I suspect.

Will power, determination and drive, all qualities for success, are much in evidence in this handwriting. She is realistic, practical and

I read your column every week and am very interested to see what my handwriting might reveal about my personality. I hope that you will choose my sample to analyze. Thank you.

productive with a keen interest in the material benefits.

Her well developed imagination should be a real plus in working with young children. However, at times it may distort what is sees and hears, probably without realizing it.

Pervasive in this handwriting are signs of irritation. Her patience is easily strained. Without seeing samples of handwriting done at other times, I am unable to say if this is a temporary condition or a life style. I can only hope it is temporary as young children need a teacher who has a great patience and strong empathy. I also detect some dissatisfaction with present conditions.

Our writer appears to be more goal oriented than social. Although at times she can be quite charming. She needs her time and space and does not like others intruding on this.

If you would like to have your handwriting analyzed in this newspaper, write to Lorene C. Green, a certified graphologist, at 36251 Schoolcraft, Livonia 48150. Please use a full sheet of white, unlined paper, writing in the first person singular. Age, handedness and full signature are helpful. And objective feedback is always welcome. (Thanks to C.W. of New Boston for her letter.)

Attorneys from page 1C

"The attorneys are sensitive to issue of domestic violence and their training is to help them understand what survivors have been through and what they face," Mantese said.

"We want the attorneys to identify with First Step; we want them to know our goals and believe what we doing and what the staff is doing," Ellis added.

Volunteers are asked to work a minimum of 10 hours a year. Cases are assigned on a rotating basis and volunteers work one case at a time.

In phases

In anticipation of a flood of requests from First Step clients for legal assistance, FLAP is being phased in. The first phase involved the set-up of walk-in clinics the first and third Thursdays of the month at the Church of the Holy Spirit in Livonia and First Step's office in Southgate.

Currently, the attorney provide legal counseling and help clients obtain restraining orders, injunctions and simple divorces — no children. Saturday they will be meet to discuss the start of the second phase — handling more complicated divorces, custody cases and related matters. Mantese would like to be in the position to assign more complex cases beginning in July.

The third phase is to work on changing the institutions and systems which deal with batterings and rape to increase the effectiveness of the criminal justice system's response to those crimes.

Anywhere from 5-10 women show up at the clinics on a given evening and the questions they field are "extremely varied," Mantese said.

"They point out the basic lack of information women have about their rights," he said. "They come in feeling powerless, but with the clinics they can ask questions without fear. They get solid information, feel they've been heard and empowered.

"And the legal knowledge they get from the clinic carries over into their lives. They feel more in control of their destiny."

Ellis and Mantese agree that business will boom with the start of the second phase and are hoping to attract more attorneys and financial support for FLAP. Currently, the program is absorbing the costs of such things and court filings and depositions.

Support needed

First Step has written some grant requests and the amount of money FLAP attracts will "determine how quickly and heavily we jump into the more complex cases," Ellis said. Ideally, she would like to have enough money to hire a staffer to schedule the clinics, track cases and recruit even more attorneys.

A step in that direction is coming from the State Bar, which has provided plenty of advice and guidance. The Bar is looking at FLAP as a model for similar programs in the state and is about to certify it as a pro bono association, Ellis said.

"This can be exciting for an attorney because you can help change a person's life and broaden your knowledge," Mantese said. "It's a way of having an impact, especially if you're looking for important litigation where you can get involved.

"I handle my first restraining order for the program and for me, it was very rewarding."

Attorneys interested in helping the First Step Legal Advocacy Program can call Ellis at 525-2230 or Mantese at 256-7705. And they'll get something in return.

"We can promise them a rewarding experience," Ellis said.

Does the Bible ever seem difficult to understand? What most men don't know is that the Bible was written so that those who don't love the God of the Bible will never appreciate the Book's true message (1 Cor. 1:17-31). GOD WROTE THE BIBLE. And GOD alone can give a man understanding in the Bible. If you really love the God of the Bible, then you're probably hungering to learn what the Bible really says. Come study the Bible with us.

The Ausbury United Methodist Church Youth Choir of Allentown, Pa., will perform in concert 7 p.m. Wednesday, July 1, at Covenant Community Church, 25800 Student, Redford, as part of its "Validation" Tour.

The youth choir is made up of 40 teens in the seventh through 12th grades, singing a variety of music, traditional to contemporary, blues, and rock and roll. They will be accompanied by the band, Inside/Out.

A freewill offering will be collected. For more information, call Ray Roberts at 535-3100.

■ YOUNG ADULTS

The Young Adult Ministries and Single Spirit of Ward Presbyterian Church in Livonia will welcome guest speakers for five Sundays this summer, beginning with Keith Edward Tolbert who will teach about cults, the occult and world religions Sunday, June 28.

Other topics will include "The Meaning of Mormonism" July 5, "Jehovah's Witnesses — A Biblical Understanding" July 12, "The Rage of a New Age" July 26 and "Sharing the Faith with the New Age Advocate" Aug. 2.

Young Adult Ministries is for people ages 20-35. For more information, call 422-1836. Ward Church is at Farmington and Six Mile roads in Livonia.

■ CELEBRANT SINGERS

Jon Stemkoski's Celebrant Singers will present a concert of contemporary Christian music 7:30 p.m. Saturday, June 27, at St. Edith Church, 15098 Newburgh, Livonia.

The free two-hour concert will be a blend of music, praise and worship, and preaching. The Celebrant Singers — 10 vocalists and a 12-piece orchestra — perform contemporary gospel songs, choral arrangements, liturgical music, praise songs and worship choruses.

The group also will perform at the 5 p.m. Saturday, June 27, and 10 a.m. Sunday, June 28, liturgies.

■ SINGLE SPIRIT

Single Spirit, a young adult ministry at Ward Presbyterian Church in Livonia, is sending a team of workers to Mensk, Belarus, formerly Russia. The team will leave Friday, June 26, to work with local people and teach English. Members will return July 11.

Ward's New Horizons, another young adult ministry, also will be sending a team to Alaska Friday, June 26. The team will work with Ward missionaries Tim and Sue Gillespie in the Victory Camp for Youth, returning July 12.

■ NEW STEEPLE

The congregation of Westland Free Methodist Church gathered June 7 to dedicate a new steeple and church sign. The Rev. Earl Habecker, the pastor, led the congregation in the dedication and the Rev. Bruce Meads, former associate pastor, gave the prayer.

The steeple is nearly 60 feet tall and with the sign cost $13,500. The project was possible because of gifts and memorials from 13 people.

Westland Free Methodist Church was organized in 1871, with the actual church constructed in 1958. With its growth, an addition was constructed in 1971. The church is at 1421 Venoy, Westland.

■ DIVORCE RECOVERY

Single Place Ministries of the First Presbyterian Church of Northville will offer a seven-week divorce recovery workshop Thursdays, July 9 through Aug. 20. Sessions will be 7:30 p.m. in the library/lounge of the church, 200 E. Main in Northville. Donation is $30, and scholarships are available. Single Place is also offering a six-week dance class for beginning and intermediate dancers. Donation is $39. For more information, call 349-0911.

■ FRIENDSHIP

Friendship Connection, a personal growth and support group, will meet 7:30 p.m. Thursdays at 13439 Marion, Redford, for discussion, questions and answers, fellowship and Bible study. For information, call 534-2065.

When door-to-door salespeople are bluntly told "we're not interested," they probably avoid returning to that house.

But Jehovah's Witnesses are not dissuaded by a polite "no thanks," or even by a door in the face.

"A lot of people who aren't interested always wonder why we keep coming back to the door," said Lisa Barton, a Jehovah's Witness from Westland.

"We come back because the situation might have changed. Somebody might have died or somebody might have lost their job — that affects the way people respond," she said. Then there's another possibility. New people might live at the address.

Witnesses might even approach a house with a sign requesting that proselyters stay away.

"I would probably knock on the door and ask if the sign is directed towards a particular religion," said Tom Kayfes, the presiding overseeer of the Plymouth congregation.

Jehovah's Witnesses make up a religious order which derives its philosophy from biblical prophecies that the world will one day become a single kingdom ruled by God.

"God's kingdom is going to do away with all earthly kingdoms," said Ernie DeCarlo, an elder in the West Livonia congregation. "Yes, there are some forms of government that are better than others but there are a lot of shortcomings."

Bearing witness

According to DeCarlo, the Jehovah's Witnesses religion was formed in the 1890s in Pittsburgh. The world headquarters have since moved to Brooklyn, N.Y., and the membership has grown to about 4.5 million people worldwide, about two million of whom live in the United States.

Jehovah's Witnesses are forbidden from heavy-drinking, smoking, promiscuity and using profanity.

They participate in five meetings per week, which take place on three different days. Four of the meetings occur entirely in the Jehovah's Witnesses' place of worship, the Kingdom Hall. Members break into small groups for the fifth meeting.

None of the members of the order are paid, and all must participate in "door-to-door ministry," in which Jehovah's Witnesses attempt to educate people about the Bible.

Although gaining converts is a possible long-term result of the visitations, Witnesses insist that their goals are purely educational.

"We don't solicit membership, but what we try to do is encourage people to learn about the Bible," said Glenn Wilson of the Garden City congregation.

"It's because we follow the acts of the apostles - they all went door-to-door."

Some opposition

Witnesses frequently meet people who are unwilling to listen, and occasionally encounter outright opposition.

"Some of them are very abrupt and rude. All we can do is go to the next door," said Wilson.

Barton has even experienced physical confrontation though not while going door-to-door.

"Sometimes we'll (approach) people when they are coming out of the grocery store and they will intentionally hit us with their carts or their bags," she said.

Despite the opposition, Witnesses report meeting a lot of willing listeners.

"You need to involve them in a conversation and find out what they think the (world's) problems are, and see if they think that man will be able to solve the problems or whether there will have to be divine intervention," said Kafes. "When you go with that kind of a message to the people, they are willing to talk."

Barton reports finding more attentive listeners in poorer neighborhoods than in wealthier ones.

"If you are working in an affluent town, some people may not be as interested because they already have what they need in life," she said. "They don't have to worry about violence, or drug dealers, or some of the other atrocities."

Although Witnesses are persistent in returning to houses, they say that they do not pressure people to listen to their message.

A Westland resident, who asked not to be identified and who has had numerous experiences with Witnesses knocking on her door, agreed. "I'd prefer they didn't keep coming back," she said. "They are very polite, they are not difficult, but they just do this."

According to local community representatives, Jehovah's Witnesses are allowed to go door-to-door as long as they are not soliciting money, and as long as they heed residents' requests to leave when asked.

What's the truth about Columbus?

MORAL PERSPECTIVES

REV. DAVID STRONG

■ The celebration of 1492 will be a sham unless there is a sensitive, critical reflection upon justice and the sins of the past.

Five hundred years ago, Europeans discovered the American continents. Specialty shops are creating all kinds of items to commemorate this event in 1492. Books and articles are being written about Christopher Columbus. What is our moral perspective upon all of this?

As children, we learned about Columbus. He was a man of adventure. He was the one, we were told, who made it possible for us to be here in this land of opportunity and plenty. Only now is the whole truth being revealed.

In reality, it was a very nasty business. Today's parallel would be a story of space invaders who came to this planet and said "We have arrived. Everything belongs to us, including all you earth beings. The laws of our empire allow us to do anything we wish with you on the planet earth."

Let's face it, 1492 was a business venture. It was also a desire for empire. The two went together. Money was invested in Columbus' voyage and the investors expected a large return.

Gold and silver were discovered among the peoples of the Americas. Soon African slaves were brought from Spain and north Africa to work in the mines. This was especially significant because Africans were resistant to several fatal diseases of European origin. These diseases, such as smallpox, killed a majority of the native peoples of the Americas.

As we know, slaves of color were brought to the sugar industry, and later to cotton production. The Portuguese, Spanish and English were the main benefactors of the slave trade. According to one account, the profit was often more than 100 percent on each trip of the slave ships.

The state churches paid no attention to this evil. First Quakers and then Mennonites opposed slavery. One hundred years later, in 1780, American Methodists opposed all forms of slavery as "contrary to the laws of God, of man, and of nature." John Wesley's anti-slavery manifesto of 1774, "Thoughts Upon Slavery," was inspired by a Quaker, Anthony Benezet.

What is our moral perspective upon the 500th anniversary of Columbus' arrival in the Americas? We must reflect upon this terrible chapter in our history. It is a story of slavery extending from 1500 until the 1830s and 1860s. We must ask ourselves what is the continued impact of this long and terrible history upon our society? What is its impact upon the lives of Native Americans and blacks? Asking this question connects us with the current struggles we see among blacks and Native Americans in our society.

We must speak the truth about 1492 and the agony that followed. We must be thankful for those who in the past and in the present speak and act on behalf of those who experience this injustice.

Today there are persons who would claim high office in our nation. They speak in high moral tones. Yet morality has no truth unless it addresses the contradictions of economics and justice. We must seek this truth in our leaders.

Observing the awful results of slavery, John Wesley stated "Better no trade than trade procured by villainy. It is far better to have no wealth than to gain wealth at the expense of virtue. Better is honest poverty, than all the riches bought by the tears, and sweat, and blood of our fellow creatures." This must be the truth today.

We must listen to the struggles of our brothers and sisters who are still seen as secondary to economics. They still live out the sad results of the Europeans who claimed to own the lands and peoples of the Americas.

The celebration of 1492 will be a sham unless there is a sensitive, critical reflection upon justice and the sins of the past. Above all, we must not trust those who would want to make our society an economic machine, disrobed of its moral justice and mercy.

New clubhouse set for Warren Valley

Wayne County Executive Edward H. McNamara hosted a groundbreaking ceremony Tuesday to begin construction of a new $2.5 million state-of-the-art clubhouse at the county's Warren Valley Golf Course.

The golf course is at 26116 W. Warren, just west of Beech Daly in Dearborn Heights.

The new facility will replace the existing clubhouse and banquet facility which was built in 1926. Demolition will occur in two phases, with the first beginning within the next three weeks.

Participating with McNamara in the ceremony were officials from the county board of commissioners, the city of Dearborn Heights and Friends of the Rouge.

Free employment services available

The Wayne County Job Connection provides free employment services to unemployed and low income residents of Wayne County (excluding the city of Detroit and the downriver communities).

For more information visit the office at 23400 Michigan Avenue at Outer Drive, in the Village Plaza Building Suite 300, Dearborn. Office hours are 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. weekdays. Call 274-3700.

SC offers summer TAG program

Schoolcraft College is offering Adventures in Learning for Talented and Gifted Youth for students ages 6-16 whose strengths and potential exceed their everyday learning opportunities.

The program offers a variety of two- and four-week courses that begin July 6 and July 20.

Courses include: Writing on the Word Processor, Computer Programming I, II and III, Typewriting, The Challenge of Math (with computers), Exploring Biology, Exploring Chemistry, Exploring the Sciences, Electronics, Communication Arts, Imaginative Writing, Creative Dramatics, Numbers and Algebra Topics, Ecology — Animals and Plants, Drawing II, Conversational Japanese, French and Spanish and Drawing from Life Memory/ Imagination.

Two courses — The Wonders of Science and the Rainbow of Literature — are offered students ages 5-7.

Walk-in registration will be 9 a.m. to 7 p.m. July 1-2 in the college's registration center.

For information, contact the continuing education services office at 462-4448.

Area golfers shine at camp fund-raiser

There were as many laughs as golf strokes at the 5th Annual Camp Sancta Maria Alumni Association Golf Outing at Bogie Lake Golf Club in Union Lake last week.

The annual fund-raiser reunites campers, counselors and supporters of the Christian boys camp, founded in 1933 near Gaylord. This year's event drew participants from as far away as St. Louis, Mo.

While the tourney's emphasis is on camaraderie and raising money to keep the camp afloat, it also sparks competitiveness.

Winners of the four-man scramble with a score of 61 were Father Michael Molnar of St. Theodore Church in Westland; Father Tim Babcock of St. Andrew Church in Rochester; and Mark Gable and Dave Thieman, both of Rochester.

Teaming up for the win with a score of 66 in the women's division were Gayle Smith of Bloomfield Hills; Ardath Huard of Orchard Lake; Jan Dillon of Redford Township; and Cathy Dinan-Dillon of Livonia.

Winning closest-to-the-pin honors were Father Ed Muir of Dearborn St. Clement and Gayle Smith. Winners of the longest drive contest were Mark Gable and Smith.

Chaired by Greg Campbell and Jeff Egan of Blooomfield Hills, the event drew 85 golfers and raised $4,000. The funds will go to the building fund and camp scholarships for low-income youngsters. Attended over the years by 23,000 boys, Camp Sancta Maria offers swimming, horseback riding, baseball and numerous other sports and activities in a Christian environment.

Honored with the Thomas Bean award recognizing outstanding achievement was Father Karl Hubble. Hubble, who worked at several metropolitan Detroit parishes before his retirement, served at Camp Sancta Maria as chaplain, director, board member and head counselor. Founder of Sancta Maria, Bean served as camp director for 50 years. The outing celebrated the camp's 59th year.

Anyone wishing to donate to Sancta Maria may send contributions to the Camp Sancta Maria Alumni Association, 2127 Bacon, Berkley 48072.

S'craft accepts fire academy registration

Schoolcraft College is accepting registrations for Basic Fire Academy, an eight-week course, to be held 9-5 p.m. weekdays beginning June 29 at Livonia Fire Station No. 6, 37876 Plymouth.

The course is designed to prepare the student to safely perform fundamental fire suppression skills and tasks. Upon successful completion of the course, the student will be eligible for Firefighter I and II testing and certification. The course complies with the requirements specified by both the National Fire Protection Association and the Michigan Fire Fighting Training Council.

Topics to be presented include: orientation and personal safety, state laws and departmental organization, protective breathing apparatus, rescue procedures and techniques, forcible entry, building construction, ropes and knots, ladders, ventilation methods and techniques, hose and hose appliances, fire suppression, salvage and overhaulapparatus and fire pumps, fire extinguishers, fire prevention and inspection, sprinklers and standpipes, first aid, utilities, communications and hazardous materials.

Course fee is $900.

He finds new career doing scenic artistry

He never met star Jack Nicholson.

But no matter.

Livonia artist David Messing relished the scenic art he did over eight weeks during Detroit filming for the Danny DeVito flick, "Hoffa."

A fine artist and sculptor for 25 years, Messing teamed with Aaron Dytyniak of Wayne about a year ago in a new venture: scenic art. They create sets for fashion shows, art shows, special exhibits and TV commercials. "Hoffa" was their first movie.

"Scenic art's a lot of fun. It's real creative," says Messing, who owns and teaches at Art Store & More in the Pierson Professional Center on Seven Mile.

For example, scenic artists buy inexpensive wood, then paint it to look like walnut. To age fake brick, they dirty it. To age a warehouse door, they add rust stains. To age fresh paint, they work in cracks.

Much of what Messing and Dytyniak did in "Hoffa" involved making objects look older so they reflect a desired time period.

Messing headed a crew of artists that helped create two key sets: the U.S. Senate chamber in the Detroit Public Library and the Hoffa residence in Indian Village, both 1930s vintage.

In Indian Village, the crew focused on four rooms in a large, old house — wood-graining the stairways, archways and hearth as well as furniture bought at the Salvation Army. "We had to make things look a deep, rich cherry wood," Messing said.

The crew made fake leaded windows by staining rope caulking on regular glass.

Outside, Messing said, they "dressed or dirtied up anything that might otherwise look funny on camera."

Just before filming, the powers that be decided to give the fake blacktop driveway, created from painted plywood laid over the lawn, a cement look. "We basically had one hour to match the tones on the nearby cement walk," Messing said, "but we managed to pull it off."

Crowning moment

Messing was proudest of the recreated U.S. Senate chamber on the third floor of the Detroit Public Library. Commercial artist Dino Polisena of Utica provided a big boost.

In the hallway, Messing's crew painted masonite panels to look like marble, then stapled them over the archways and wall murals. They wood-grained the two huge doors leading to the chamber to look like aged oak.

Inside the chamber, sculptor David Kozlowski of Redford Township plastered over the archways and wall murals and scored joint seams on the plaster. Scenic artists stained the plaster to look like the existing limestone and marble walls.

"Matching the limestone and marble was very difficult," Messing said. "But during teardown, the workers had a hard time finding the fake walls from the real walls. I found that a real compliment."

Scenic artists also helped design the Senate chair. "We carved two big eagles out of Styrofoam, attached them at either end and wood-grained them to look like dark cherry wood," Messing said.

Along the side of the chair, they scrolled ornate leaf patterns. In the middle, they attached a big, wood-strained Styrofoam crest.

Met Danny DeVito

Watch for "Hoffa" next winter. Messing said he saw a lot of Danny DeVito "checking out the sets before the camera rolled. But we never saw Jack Nicholson because we were always working a scene ahead of him."

Messing likes movies, but he's more into commercials — designing backgrounds, making props, creating special effects.

"In commercials, you paint just what the camera will see," he said. "But in movies, you paint everything because you don't know until he gets there if the director will change the scene."

In May, Messing and Dytyniak considered an offer from Disney's Fall Line Productions to do scenic art for the new movie, "Aspen." But they were working on an Elias Brothers Big Boy commercial so had to say no.

Says Messing: "I was glad they approached us. I can't believe we turned down Disney!"

Meanwhile, the Detroit Historical Museum has hired the duo to do background scenes and set aging for a major new exhibit, "Outpost Industry," tracing industry development in Detroit since 1701. "A lot of stuff I do gets destroyed within days of filming," Messing said. "This is a 10-year display so we'll have something up a long, long time."

Messing stills enjoys teaching at Art Store & More, but scenic art definitely has captured his fancy. "I'm the happiest I've ever been," he said. "There's plenty of work. It's never boring. I'm just having a ball."

Visitors feel a bit like Alice in Wonderland upon entering Dr. Jim and Lois Hardie's back yard, where a forest of blue spruce, ferns and woodland flowers thrive in the heart of Livonia.

Like an artist painting a northern Michigan landscape, Dr. Hardie has created a woodland paradise so authentic that ducks passing overhead become fooled and land on the family's in-ground swimming pool.

Canton Township will host its first fine arts show Saturday and Sunday, June 27-28, as part of Liberty Fest '92, a new community festival on the grounds of the newly expanded Heritage Park, 1150 S. Canton Center Road.

Oil and acrylic paintings, watercolors, pastels, clay, precious stone jewelry, marbling, handcarved wood and graphite sketches by nearly 50 artists will be exhibited in two lighted 60-by-90-foot tents.

"It's a real exciting venture for Canton. I think everyone who attends will be pleasantly surprised that we have so much talent in our own back yard," said Canton artist Sharon Dillenbeck.

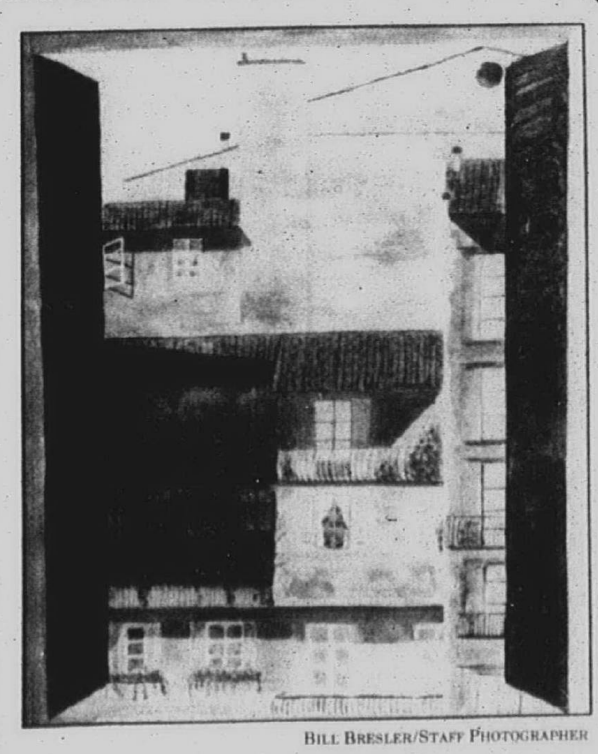

Co-sponsored by the Canton Parks and Recreation Department, the show was jurored and produced by Dillenbeck, owner of D & M Art Studio and Gallery in Plymouth, and Julie Giordano of J. Giordano Studio in Northville.

The homegrown artwork will range in price from $45 to $1,800 for framed originals.

As an added attraction, artists will draw and paint on site. "A good percentage of the artists will be demonstrating," Dillenbeck said. "Visitors are going to see how it's done."

Watercolorist Sherrie Moore of Canton will put brush to paper, executing tulips, irises, hibiscus, morning glories and daylilies in transparent pastel colors. "I'm really looking forward most to hearing people's comments," Moore said.

■ CLASSY CAR

If you like classic cars, stop by the Plymouth Historical Museum to see the Alter Motor Car.

More than 1,000 Alters were made in 1915 and 1916 in the Alter Motor Car Co. factory on Farmer Street in Plymouth, but few have surfaced over the years.

The 20-hp 1915 model that's on display boasts four cylinders and got 20 miles to the gallon.

At the peak of production in 1916, the company employed 100 men and produced 25 cars per week.

The 1916 model sold for $865, had a 27-hp motor, a 12-gallon fuel tank under the cowl and a wheelbase of 108 inches.

"It had the classy look and finish of the higher-priced cars," according to The Plymouth Mail on March 3, 1916.

Clarence Alter of Manitowoc, Wis., designed the sleek car, made of component parts shipped here by rail and assembled at the factory. Success was short-lived. By 1917, the company had gone into receivership.

The Plymouth Historical Museum is at 155 S. Main in downtown Plymouth.

■ WILDLIFE ART

In case you weren't able to make wildlife artist David Bollman's one-person show in May at Livonia City Hall, he's still offering a signed, limited-edition print of the painting, "Resplendent Duet," for a $150 donation to a Michigan public broadcasting station through Sept. 1.

The print spotlights a pair of loons swimming on a lake in the rose-colored light of dawn.

Bollman's oil and acrylic paintings of nature were hosted by the city of Livonia and the Livonia Arts Commission.

If you'd like to support the Public Broadcasting Service, call Bollman at his Southpaw Studio in St. Clair Shores: 778-3707.

Moore has worked as a technician for Michigan Bell 28 years. She paints to relax. "When I paint, time just stops totally. I'm having fun with it and that's what it's all about."

After working in oil for 15 years, Moore switched to watercolor four years ago. "I like the softness, the transparency of watercolor. I like how they merge when you put the pink next to the blue," Moore said.

"With watercolor, there's always surprises. You never know what's going to happen."

During the last 19 years, Moore has taken adult education classes in art and studied with Farmington Hills watercolorists Edee Joppich and Nita Engles.

"My morning glories, even though they're real, it's fantasy. I don't want them to be photographic. In art, you can be just as factual as you want or as imaginary as you like," Moore said.

A pair of white blooming hibiscus, their throats colored violet and gray, capture the viewer's attention in Moore's one-person show that began in April at D & M.

"I really like Georgia O'Keefe for her flowers and Monet for his colors," Moore said.

Moore's watercolors, priced between $35 and $110, are matted, framed and ready to hang. "I just paint what I like," Moore said. "I like flowers."

Dillenbeck and Giordano have designed T-shirts as part of Liberty Fest '92. A limited edition of 200 will be sold during the art show alongside a display spotlighting the original. The shirts are created with a flag design in red, white and blue. The words on the shirt read, "One Spirit."

Greenmead Historical Village, Saturday, June 27. Proceeds will be earmarked for the Alexander Blue House restoration.

From 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Saturday, ticket holders will be treated to Dr. Hardie's woodland sights and sounds along with six other gardens in Livonia, including the gardens at Greenmead.

Mounds of pink, white and red impatiens in Dr. Hardie's garden add color to the miniature forest, more than two decades in the making.

"It's an evolving design. In the last 22 years, I've re-landscaped it three or four times," said Dr. Hardie, principal of Dearborn's Snow Elementary. "I'm trying to pattern it after a forest, so there's different sizes of trees at various stages of development."

Dr. Hardie worked 2½ days this spring planting 65 flats of annuals and half a dozen pink and white dogwood trees. Annuals compose ⅔ of the garden, perennials ⅓.

"It's a tamed wilderness because it's a combination of woods and suburban garden — a mixture of evergreens, annuals, wildflowers, red bud, ferns as well as perennials," Dr. Hardie said.

At the entrance, a cement rabbit greets guests to the forest in the city. The focal point, a solitary red Japanese maple, accents the green-blue spruce drawing the visitors attention.

"It's nice at 5 a.m. in the morning," Dr. Hardie said. "There's a lot of birds and a decoy in the pool on occasion attracts wild ducks."

Goldfish swim in a pond built by Dr. Hardie. A smaller pool above it provides a spring-like waterfall into the pond. "I've had lake fish, blue gills and minnows swimming in there," he said.

"I'm trying to move toward a Victorian look with the goldfish pond, Victorian lamp post and lattice railing."

The forest is constantly evolving. In April, dirt was trucked in to create a hillside covered with flowers and rocks.

"He changes it all the time. The neighbors say they know it's spring when they see the truck hauling dirt go down the street," said Lois Hardy, a second grade teacher at Howard Elementary in Dearborn.

Pots of pink impatiens, Lois' handiwork, hang from the gazebo's framework. Lois planted all of the pots and redwood boxes gracing the deck and gazebo.

"We eat breakfast out here a lot; it's so peaceful. It gives me an on-vacation feeling like I'm away but I'm still home," Lois said.

Snow-on-the-Mountain, Pachysandra and Vinca Vines cover the grounds alongside woodland favorites like May Apples, Trillium and Jack-in-the-Pulpit.

"Once it's all growing after the end of June, there's very little maintenance because the plants are very thick," Dr. Hardie said.

Six of the seven gardens on the walk are new this summer.

Highlights include a weeping Siberian pea tree, herb and vegetable gardens, roses and old-fashioned hollyhocks, canterbury bells, foxglove, lupine, honeysuckle, hibiscus, a dahlia garden, terraced gardens on Bell Creek, decks, gazebos, fish ponds and fountains.

"A lot of people go on the walk to get ideas for their gardens," said Jan Bennett, Friends of Greenmead president.

Rudy Fedus' rock gardens will delight visitors again with more than 100 ornamental trees, 40 varieties of lilac, 35 different hosta and many varieties of iris and daylily as well as exotic plants.

Fedus is a volunteer gardener at Greenmead where he created the formal herb garden. He also gardened at Cranbrook 17 years. "Rudy is just a perennial. He has plants from all over the world," Bennett said. "He's so knowledgeable about plants. If people want to know about botany or the Latin name of a plant, they just have to ask Rudy."

Last year, 700 tickets were sold for the garden walk. Proceeds from the sales were used to buy a new furnace and make other improvements at the Alexander Blue House.

The 142-year-old Blue House was once home to a Livonia civic leader and is Greenmead's only example of Italianate architecture. The Livonia Historical Society hopes to see the Blue House used not only as a conference and meeting center but also a reception hall for Newburg Church at Greenmead.

Garden tour tickets are available at Greenmead's Cranson-Hinbern House, Eight and Newburgh; Livonia City Hall Community Resources Department, Farmington Road and Five Mile; and all Livonia libraries. Tickets are $5 in advance. They will sell for $6 at Greenmead only the day of the walk.

Self-timers save portraits

FOCUS ON PHOTOGRAPHY

MONTE NAGLER

Did you get back from Yosemite last summer only to discover that the friendly stranger who shot you and your spouse in front of Yosemite Falls "chopped off" your heads and the falls are tumbling at a hard-to-believe 45-degree angle?

Or did you just return from Europe to find that your tour guide had the jitters and all of the pictures he took of the two of you in front of the famous landmarks are blurry?

There's a lesson to be learned here. You can't always trust that eager-to-help stranger or your tour guide to get the shots you want.

Solution: Take the pictures yourself by using your camera's self-timer.

You'll need a tripod or solid ledge to do the trick. Just mount your camera on the tripod or set it firmly on a ledge or wall. Place your spouse in the viewfinder and allow room in the picture for yourself. If you're tall, give plenty of room at the top so that you don't "lose your head" when you see the final results.

As in all good photography, check your backgrounds to include subjects you want and to eliminate things you don't.

If the distant mountain makes a fine backdrop, make sure your aperture is small enough to capture it in the depth-of-field. Or if you want to zero in on just the two of you, use a wide aperture to blur an unwanted background.

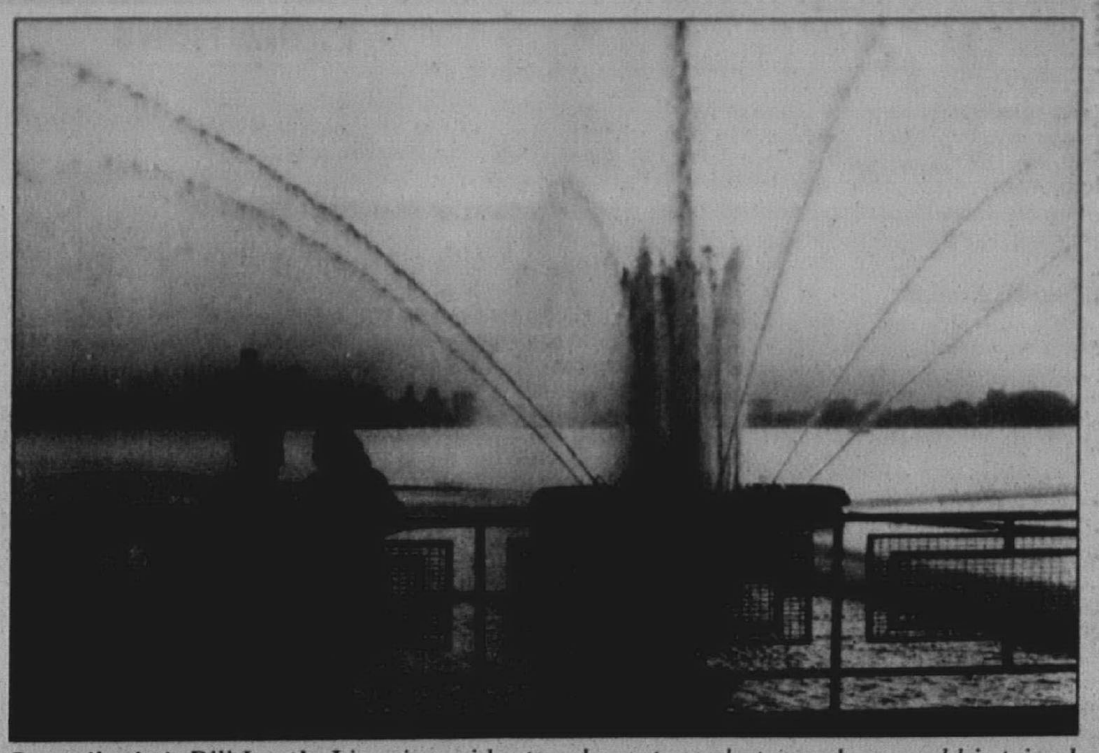

Once your exposure and composition are set, you're ready to go. Set your self-timer, trip the shutter and start moving into position. You'll usually have 10 seconds to get yourself situated. Count down the seconds silently so you'll know just when to spread that smile across your face. You'll hear and see the shutter trip so you'll know when the shot is over.

Another use for a camera's self-timer is when you forgot to bring your cable release for that scenic picture you're steadying on a tripod. The self-timer will assure a sharp, crisp picture.

Also, many new cameras don't have provisions for a cable release. Here, again, your self-timer will get you the shot.

Don't always trust your photography to the potential errors of a stranger or to a camera that may not have a cable release. Proper use of your camera's self-timer will guarantee you'll bring home the photographs you want.

Travel, history influence French cubist's palette

BY MARY KLEMIC
STAFF WRITER

The influences in Marcel Mouly's paintings are geographic and historic.

Geographic in that the artist's travels around the world inspire his colors. Historic in that he was born in Paris in 1918, when the artistic masters of the 20th century were living there. Picasso, Matisse and Braque were among those who inspired Mouly.

Works by Mouly, one of France's most important living cubist painters, are exhibited at Park West Gallery, 29469 Northwestern Highway in Southfield, through Saturday, June 27.

The show features 52 paintings and 39 hand-signed lithographs, including two paintings previously shown at an invitational, "The Salon of Comparisons," that took place at the Grand Palace of Paris in January. It is the largest and most comprehensive exhibition of his work in North America.

"I am influenced by all the masters who have painted before me," Mouly said at Park West, speaking through an interpreter.

In his art, Mouly features the vivid, powerful and exaggerated colors of fauvism, as well as the geometric and angular architectural structure of cubism. His paintings show flat panes of color, and wide and thin colored lines, arranged so they overlap and jostle each other on the canvas.

Mouly is a traditional painter but looks toward the future, he said. He adds his own touches. His think outlines and even the subjects themselves — a stringed instrument, fruit — look like the work of Picasso, but Mouly's glowing colors are his own signature. Sometimes, as in his sea scenes, Mouly makes images out of broad strokes of color. This can intensify the action, or bathe objects in a still scene in tinted light.

"I like the vibrancy and life. He's so full of life. His vibrancy shows in everything," said the gallery's Pepper Whitelaw.

Mouly's subjects vary, from an arrangement on a table, to a house in a forest, to boats at a dock, to a boat riding waves.

"I like to go from one subject to another. My art works out better in the big paintings. The small paintings prepare me for the bigger ones."

Mouly has traveled extensively in foreign lands, including Morocco, India, Africa and China. A journey can result in different colors, depending on his feelings when he travels and the different light.

"The country itself influences the future paintings."

Different colors came out of Mouly's trips to the United States, to New York and Las Vegas as well as to Southfield in the fall.

"When a painter travels, it comes into his focus. A painter takes in everything."

Mouly enjoys visiting the United States. When he was in Southfield for the opening of his exhibition recently, he said he planned to see all the museums.

"I'm very happy with the enthusiasm of the American public. They appreciate my paintings."

Inspiration and work are easy for Mouly.

"I don't see life without painting. It comes easily, without effort.

■ SUMMER SCULPTURE

Registration is now on for the Cranbrook P.M. summer sculpture course at Cranbrook in Bloomfield Hills.

The six-week course, meeting 6:30-9:30 p.m. Thursdays, July 2 to Aug. 6, will provide an introduction to basic and advanced clay modeling. Call 645-3635 for information, registration or a complete summer brochure.

The course will be led by Matthew Holland, assistant to the head of the Fine Arts Department at the Center for Creative Studies. The fee is $75. Clay cost not to exceed $7.

■ SCREENWRITING INSIGHT

Harvey Ovshinsky's weekend seminar, "Introduction to Screenwriting: A Survival Course," returns to Cranbrook P.M.

The award-winning writer and documentary filmmaker will lead the workshop Saturday-Sunday, July 11-12, at Thornlea House, the former home of Henry Booth, on Cranbrook's Bloomfield Hills grounds. Cost is $150. Call 645-3635.

Participants should look upon the seminar as an unusual opportunity to learn the craft of scriptwriting from a successful, working professional who will demystify the process.

Designed for college students, journalists, film and video producers, film and media instructors, and aspiring screenwriters, the course will provide a simplified yet complete approach to the writing process, along with information on many aspects of the business itself.

■ PEWABIC POTTERY
Friday, June 26 — Student, faculty and staff exhibition. To Aug. 8. Opening reception 5:30-7:30 p.m. Friday. The exhibit will showcase the work of students from Pewabic's children and adult community classes. It will also include work by faculty members David Ellison, Ruth Dorando Marcy, Daniel Robar, Jim Markley, Carolyn Wilson and Rick Pruckler and by Pewabic staff. Pewabic will host a mural building workshop with Winnie Owens-Hart in its classroom studios July 20-31. Ceramics by Owens-Hart will be displayed in the Stratton Gallery, on the second floor, July 21 to Aug. 31. Owens-Hart, a professor at Howard University in Washington, D.C., is known for her sculpture and wall pieces that explore her experience as a black woman, and for pottery inspired by traditional West African forms. Hours: 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Tuesday-Saturday, 10125 E. Jefferson, Detroit, 822-0954.

■ ANN ARBOR ART ASSOCIATION
Friday, June 26 — The exhibition gallery of the Ann Arbor Art Association will present the creative, visual talents of Alexandra Hirsch and Jeri Hollister to July 26. Opening reception 6-8 p.m. Friday. Hirsch expresses her creativity through large abstract paintings conveying the consistent theme of relationships between people and community, and through small "palm of hand" sculptures. Hollister produces ceramic works and various mixed media pieces on paper capturing the overall beauty, characteristics and behavior of the horse. The gallery is at 117 W. Liberty, Ann Arbor. Call 994-8004.

■ UNIVERSITY OF MICHIGAN MUSEUM OF ART

Artists sought for Our Town exhibit

Artists across the state are invited to submit their work for jurying for the seventh annual Our Town Art Exhibition and Sale, to take place Oct. 21-25 at The Community House in Birmingham.

Artists who haven't already received a Call to Entry Form may ask for one by calling The Community House at 644-5832, or writing The Community House, 380 S. Bates, Birmingham 48009.

Last year, 344 works of art from 219 Michigan artists were selected from almost 1,000 entries. Sixty-five of these works were bought by some of the 3,000 people who attended the four-day exhibition. At the artists' award ceremony Sunday, Oct. 25, $10,000 in prizes will be awarded to selected artists.

Artists may submit their interpretations of "Our Town," any hometown, and its meaning to them. Works may pertain to, but aren't limited to, the following: Michigan landmarks, architecture/city, nature/landscape, people/portraits and still life.

Art work may be two- or three-dimensional, prepared in any medium, ready for presentation, and must not have been previously shown in Our Town exhibitions.

Glen Michaels will be the 1992 Our Town juror. He is a nationally recognized artist and instructor and has his work displayed in many municipal, corporate and private collections throughout the country.

The Our Town Art Exhibition and Sale opens with a gala benefit Wednesday, Oct. 21. It is open to the public Thursday-Sunday, Oct. 22-25. Admission is free.

All works of art must be marked for sale. The artists receive 65 percent of the selling cost, with the rest benefiting The Community House, a not-for-profit center that provides a variety of educational, social and cultural programs and services.

The Southfield-based Franklin Bank is the sponsor of the 1992 event.

Down payment biggest obstacle to home ownership

(AP) — For many Americans, owning their own home is so important they'd commute an extra hour a day. Or take a second job. Or even put off retirement.

By a 3-1 margin, Americans would rather own a home than retire 10 years early, according to a survey conducted for the Federal National Mortgage Association, or Fannie Mae.

By a 4-1 margin they would rather own a home some distance from work than rent within easy commuting distance.

By a 4-1 margin they would rather own a home than take a better job in a city in which they could afford only to rent, the poll found. And, by a greater than 2-1 margin, they believe owning a home is worth taking a second job, if that's what's necessary.

Still, the Census Bureau says Americans were less likely to own a home at the end of the 1980s than they were a decade ago. A study shows 63.9 percent of households owned their homes in 1989, down from 65.6 percent in 1980.

The Fannie Mae survey found the biggest barrier to home ownership is affordable housing. Seven out of eight respondents identified affordability as a serious problem."

In fact, the survey added, by a 3-1 margin they identify it as one of the two or three most serious problems" facing the United States.

The major stumbling block is the inability to make the down payment and pay the closing costs, the survey showed. And that stumbling block was higher for minorities than for whites.

While 47 percent of whites identify having enough to make the down-payment and closing costs as a major impediment, that figure is 66 for blacks and 59 percent for Hispanics," the survey found.

Respondents said income, credit worthiness and job security were other barriers to home ownership.

The Census Bureau said that the median mortgage in 1990 was $737 a month, up 26.9 percent from 1980, when adjusted for inflation. At the same time, the median household income totaled $30,056 a year in 1989, down 18.5 percent from a decade earlier.

The median means that half of the mortgages cost more and half less, or that half of the households earned more and half less.

Despite the overwhelming desire to own a home, the Fannie Mae survey showed there were some risks that most Americans would not take.

By a 4-1 margin, Americans say it is not worth it to financially overextend themselves to own a home," it found. Only one in three thought it was worth it to place a young child in day care so the mother could work, even if this was a necessary step to become a homeowner."

The more unlikely a person was to have sufficient funds, the greater the desire for home ownership, the survey showed.

While owning your own home' was considered one of their most important long-term goals by 60 percent of those in the lowest income brackets, it was declared as such by only 31 percent of those in the highest," it said.

Blacks are more willing than either whites or Hispanics to make certain major concessions to become homeowners," it found. They are more prepared to take a second job or put a young child in day care, if that's what it takes."

The survey showed that 80 percent of Americans identify the traditional single-family detached home with a yard as the ideal place to live."

Uncooperative boater undermines board

CONDO QUERIES

ROBERT M. MEISNER

We have a co-owner in our dockominium who always parks his boat in the wrong dock. We have written him various letters but can't seem to get his cooperatiaon. The restrictions give us various remedies, but the board is reluctant to do anything because we are "weekend friends." What do you suggest?

If you have a professional management company, have the management company write a letter, presumably in accordance with the bylaw enforcement policy, which the association has implemented, with respect to this violation. Have the management company advise the co-owner that he is not only violating the documents, but infringing upon the rights of his neighbors, which can only create ill will for him and the rest of the community.

Advise him of the association's legal remedies and remind him that the association will turn the matter over to legal counsel should that become necessary. If you do not have a management company, either have the board sign the letter or run it over to your attorney immediately. You should not allow this co-owner to continue to impinge upon the rights of other co-owners because it will undermine the ability of the board to effectively administer the condominium project.

We just bought a home that was inspected by FHA and have found a number of electrical and other problems. Do we have any recourse?

You may have recourse against the seller, the real estate agent and the FHA inspector, depending on who it was. In the event that these defects were known or should have been known by the seller or were covered up, I would suggest that you contact an attorney to advise you of your rights.

Refinancing trims late house payments

(AP) — The percentage of Americans falling behind in their mortgage payments fell from January through March for the third straight quarter as homeowners found more jobs and income and lower interest rates, according to a new survey.

The Mortgage Bankers Association of America said that the proportion of homeowners at least 30 days late on their payments was a seasonally adjusted 4.52 percent in the first quarter, down from 4.78 percent in the final three months of 1991.

The decline resulted from an improved "job and income picture," and to the incredible refinancing boom" and lower adjustable mortgage rates that pushed monthly payments down, said Warren Lasko, executive vice president of the association.

MRS. JONES WAS INTOXICATED
with the charm of this three bedroom one and one half bath ranch so close to downtown Plymouth. She loved the inviting open floor plan, cozy fireplace, and private rear yard. This house has many more things on her wish list - dining room, oversized two car garage, and a large patio. If you ask her about this house she'll likely switch you to her own home... for if she can sell her own place, she'll be the buyer of this one at $133,500.

PLEASE LEAVE A MESSAGE
We'll likely be out showing this 4 bedroom, 2½ bath cape cod in distinctive Deer Creek. The customers will love the bright and airy great room with a view out paladium windows of a 35 acre nature preserve - home to chipmunks, squirrels, and a friendly raccoon named Franklin. The breakfast room bay window, first floor master suite, and court entrance garage may well influence their decision to buy. We'll be pleased to call you back either way. Thanks for calling. $279,900

Check every single detail, victim urges

By Gerald Frawley
Staff Writer

We've all heard the horror stories. Dr. Leonard Martin has lived one.

In 1985, he and his wife, Dr. Ruth S. Martin, contracted to have a home built in suburban Cleveland, Ohio. More than a year later, the two moved in. That's when the trouble began.

Their story was related in the book he researched and co-authored with his wife, "And They Built A Crooked House."

Problems resulted in a lawsuit that wasn't heard until October 1988. The judgment? The court ordered the builder to buy the home back for the price the couple paid — a rare phenomenon, he said.

That was the good news. The bad news was twofold; the price paid for the home could no longer buy a similar home in a market where housing prices had climbed, meaning they would have had to buy a smaller house; and legal fees rose above $100,000.

The response to their book has been an eye opener, Martin said — so much so they are writing a second book "Crumbling Dreams: What You Must Know Before Building or Buying a New House or Condo."

"Ours is not a unique experience," Leonard Martin said, adding that he and his wife have become a veritable clearing house for home-buying horror stories from all over the country.

That led them to review protections for home buyers. They found that although the house buyer is afforded the normal protections of contract law, with the exception of North Carolina, protections specifically for homebuyers do not exist.

In the new book, the Martins explain ways for home buyers to protect themselves. It begins with the cautionary preamble, "Unless you protect yourself ahead of time you can only lose if your house is built defectively."

In brief, those rules are:

- Check out everyone: builder, developer, architect. Inspect, don't look at, other houses and property developed, built, or designed by anyone involved in your proposed construction. Talk to people living in the houses. If the builder balks, walk.
- Make sure they are insured; they are anyone who signs a contract — the builder, architect or developer. The insurance should cover defects after the house buyer moves in.
- Hire a good real estate lawyer and inform him or her you want to be fully protected from the worst: totally defective construction.
- Insist on the tightest contract feasible for your circumstances. Every contract should be written as if you will end up in court. Never accept a standard contract offered by the builder. Include a statement involving financial solvency signers. Make the title transfer contingent on satisfactory and independent review by an architect and/or engineer hired by you.

Monster digs haunt buyers

The great majority of purchasers are delighted with their new houses. Occasionally, however, problems develop and battles rage between owners and builders. It may surprise people to learn that builders are just as concerned about shoddy building as house buyers.

By Gerald Frawley
Staff Writer

The American dream shattered.

Owning a house. People spend their lives saving money, planning, and dreaming about the day they can afford a new house.

Thousands of people every year buy houses and find their happily ever afters.

But sometimes, something goes wrong.

Buyers do all the right things. When they walk into that new house, it's not the American dream, but a nightmare.

Problems arise. Sometimes large problems, sometimes small — but, then, all problems are large if you've invested your life savings into a house that's poorly built.

A cursory glance at disciplinary reports of the state board of licensing and regulation, a division of the Michigan Department of Commerce, shows that there are a lot of unhappy buyers out there.

Royce Wills, acting director of enforcement for the department, said complaints against builders far outnumber complaints against other professionals. "We (investigators) will carry upwards of 500 open complaints a year — half of them are against builders."

The state board of licensing and regulation investigates complaints against builders and other professionals who are licensed by he state. Valid complaints can result in fines, restitution orders and even the revocation of a builder's license.

Builders are quick to point out that despite the horror stories that people hear, the number of houses that are defective compared to the number of houses built is actually very small.

Which isn't to say that even good builders with good reputations won't have problems. Any number of things can go wrong with a project as complicated as building a house.

Mike Garfalo, a partner at Cornerstone Building Inc. in Novi, said it's an inescapable fact of life that people make mistakes.

"In an imperfect world, you are going to have problems," Garfalo said. "If he comes back and fixes the house, then he's a stand-up guy and a good businessman."

Most builders, he said, are good people who are genuinely concerned about doing a good job. "What's important is that the builder returns to fix any problems."

Every builder has had his share of problems, and most people have heard stories about houses with serious problems, he said.

Building a house is a complex task. There are hundreds of things that can go wrong with a house, he said.

"It's not always that clear cut," Garfalo said. "We are a product of our subcontractors."

By that, Garfalo means that sometimes the people hired by the builder — or even the people hired by the people hired by the builder — are the underlying cause of many problems.

Garfalo said he advises patience and practicality. He has had buyers complain about things they requested, but later decided they didn't like, and then blamed it on the builder.

Recourse available through state board

By Gerald Frawley
Staff Writer

People who have bought a defective house can bypass the courtroom to get justice. The state board of licensing and regulation, a division of the Michigan Department of Commerce, can sometimes assist an unhappy buyer.

The procedure for filing a complaint is fairly straightforward, said Royce Wills, acting director of enforcement for the department.

COMPLAINTS

First, the home must have been built in the last 18 months and it must have been built by a licensed builder. Call 1-517-373-0678 to verify that a builder is licensed.

The 18-month limit is necessary to determine that for which a builder is responsible and what is wear and tear created by the owner.

The licensing requirement is necessary because revoking a builder's license is the state's biggest hammer.

After determining licensing and the structure's age, Wills said, a homeowner needs to call the local municipal building department for a complaint form and a building inspection report and fill them out.

The state requires a building official report to verify a complaint, he said.

"Then we'll ask for a copy of closing statement, building contract, (and other relevant documentation like the owner's pre-walk through punch list) — these reports are helpful in determining what the builder promised to provide and what he didn't," Wills said.

The homeowner, he continued, must do most of the leg work because the state lacks sufficient staff to investigate complaints.

Once all the documents have been collected, the complaint can take one of two courses — mediation or a hearing before the builders board of the licensing and regulation department.

Mediation is the preferred course because it's quicker and has been found to work better, Wills said. "If a case is mediated, it could be resolved in 30 to 60 days."

Getting the builder and homeowner together with a professional mediator is successful because a third, neutral person can objectively view all the circumstances of a case and help resolve any conflicts, Wills said.

The department has actually used mediation for many years, he said, but the practice had dropped off until four years ago. Mediation cases have increased because cuts in state government have slowed the processing of complaints.

If mediation fails — or if the parties elect not to pursue mediation — the builder will be formally charged. "Then we're in for the long haul — it can take up to two years," Wills said.

At this point the builder has several options:

- A settlement conference in which the builder attempts to resolve the matter with a licensing department investigator.
- A compliance conference in which the builder tries to convince an investigator that no violation exists.
- A formal hearing before an admin-

Checklist handy in old house buy

(AP) — It's fun to daydream about how a vintage home will look after the remodeling is finished. Be careful, though, not to overlook hidden problems that can make costs skyrocket.

• Jump in the centers of the rooms to check structural soundness. Springy floors may indicate sagging beams and joists. They can be strengthened, but the job can be expensive.

• Poke exposed joists and sills with a screwdriver or penknife to detect possible termite troubles. If extensive termite infestation is discovered, forget the house.

Damage caused by carpenter ants and powder-post beetles is usually less serious. An expert can determine the seriousness of the problem, whether insects are currently chewing away at the wood, and whether it's worth the money to exterminate them and make repairs.

• Check all surfaces for stains, peeling paint, and falling plaster. If moisture has ravaged large parts of the house, only extensive and expensive measures will repair the damage.

• Assess plumbing carefully. Older homes often have an array of patched-on pipes. Remodeling can involve replacing all the supply lines. Compared with other repairs, this is usually neither expensive nor difficult to do. But replacing drains can put a big dent in your budget. For a quick check, open faucets and flush toilets.

Check the water pressure and observe how fast the water drains. With one clogged drain, the location of the clog can be pinpointed. If only one fixture doesn't drain, the problem is near that fixture. If two or more fixtures won't drain, something is blocking a main drain.

Wiring causes concern

(AP) Q. — We bought a 13-year-old house that has aluminum wiring throughout. Can you tell me if the wiring is safe? We've read a number of horror stories about fires caused by electrical problems with it.

A. — The safety of aluminum wiring depends on whether corrective measures were taken by the previous owner. The U.S. Consumer Product Safety Commission says that houses with aluminum wiring are a potential fire hazard. During the period between 1965 and 1973, because of the shortage of copper and its high cost, aluminum was used to wire about 1.5 million houses. Although aluminum wiring was approved by the National Electrical Code, it was later found that there was dangerous overheating in 15- and 20-amp branch circuits at some of the connections between the aluminum wires and outlet receptacles, switches, fixtures and appliances. Anyone who has aluminum wiring should be alert for the following trouble signs: cover plates on outlets or switches that feel warm to the touch; sparks, arcing or smoke at outlets or switches; strange odors, especially the smell of burning plastic around outlets and switches; outlets, lights or entire circuits that don't work.

Even though you may not find any of these trouble signs, the potential for a fire may exist. It can occur at an outlet that has nothing plugged into it.

Correcting the problem does not require rewiring the entire house. The method recommended by the Consumer Product Safety Commission requires connecting a short piece of copper wire to the end of the aluminum wire by using a special compression-type crimp connector. The copper wire is then used for the connection to the outlets, switches, fixtures and appliances. The special connectors, called Copalum Compression Connectors, and the crimping tool are manufactured by AMP Special Industries, Valley Forge, PA 19482.

The corrections described should be made by a licensed electrician who has this equipment. Connecting the copper pigtail to the aluminum wire using a wire nut is not an approved method.

You can check your outlets and switches to see if the wire terminations were pigtailed prior to your purchasing the house.

FIRST FLOOR PLAN

SECOND FLOOR PLAN

House belies appearances

From outside, the Duchess looks like a basic country-style home, a little on the large side. But a closer look at the exterior, and a glance inside the lofty skylit foyer, tells you that this is no old-fashioned farmhouse.

The wrap-around front porch is country, but the wide custom door isn't. It's flanked by sidelights and crowned on the the second floor level by a huge half-round window.

This wealth of glass increases street appeal and combines with skylights to create a strikingly bright entry area. Add a few potted trees and you've got an atrium.

At the back of the foyer, a graceful polished wood balustrade curves up to reach the three bedrooms on the second floor, where a landing overlooks the foyer. Two bedrooms have walk-in closets. Linen storage is in the hallway, and the skylit bathroom has two basins in an extra-long vanity.

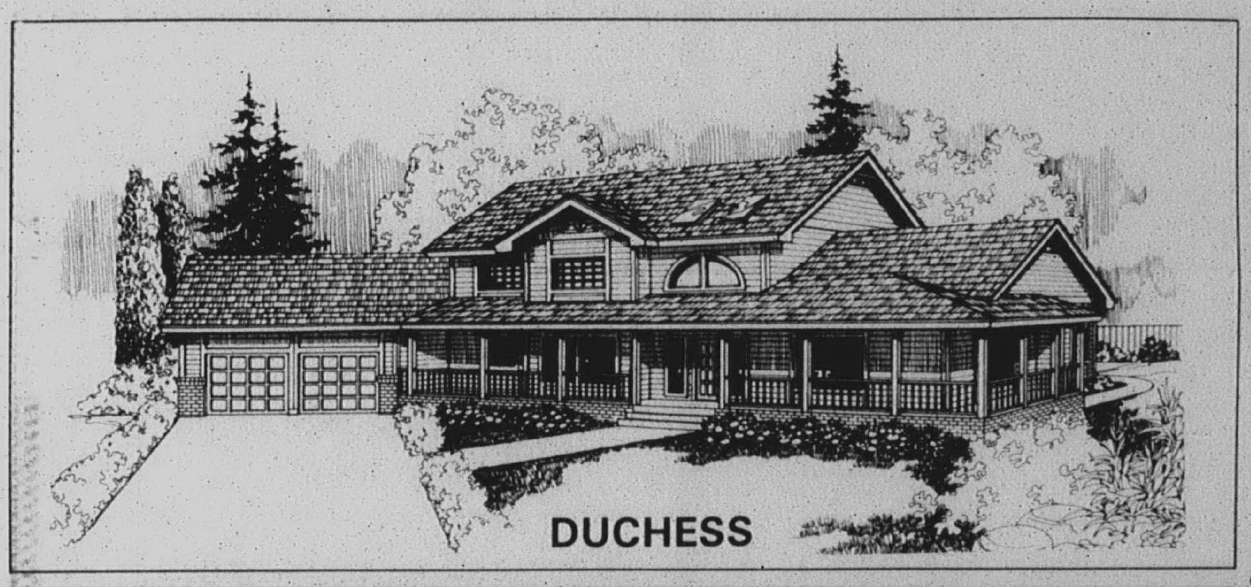

Following tradition, the formal dining room is on one side of the foyer and the living room, or parlor, is on the other. But the rest of the lower level is contemporary. A small bathroom and a long closet are close to both the entrance and the kitchen.

The kitchen is huge, expanded by a garden window and a sun-brightened nook with a sliding door that opens onto the deck. A raised eating bar wraps around three sides of an extended work island with a centrally located cooktop.

The utility room has everything — a deep sink, fold-down ironing board, closet, counters for folding clothes and space enough to handle a sewing machine. Its location between the garage and kitchen is handy for hauling groceries in from the car or shucking off messy footgear to avoid tracking carpets.

Skylights brighten the vaulted family room. A fireplace or woodstove nestles in the back corner. The master suite has a huge walk-in closet, two basins in the bathroom and another vanity in the dressing area.

"Unless you practice a little reality, you are never going to be satisfied," he said.

He once had a customer who was upset about the flashing on the house's roof at the skylights. "They (the skylights) were 100 percent right. There were no deficiencies (in workmanship, materials or design)."

In that case, there are only two options — live with the flashing or forget the skylights, he said. The customer would accept neither option.

Garfalo suggested that people who have questions should seek a second opinion if they are unhappy or have concerns.

Garfalo said he doesn't want to imply that all builders are good builders — indeed, some builders may even be bad builders.

"It's incumbent upon the homebuilder (the customer) to make sure the builder is qualified to build a home," he said.

Is the builder well-established? Does he have a place of business? Does he have a track record? A license? These are all questions the buyer should ask.

"I tell everyone who buys a home from me to take the contract to an attorney before they sign it," he said.

Bernard Glieberman, president of the Builders Association of Southeastern Michigan, said it's not surprising that the number of lawsuits and complaints filed against builders is so high. Buying a house, he said, is a very emotional issue.

If something goes wrong, people are naturally going to be upset about it, he said.

The key for any person who has a problem with a house, he said, is to remain calm.

Builders have systems in place to deal with construction problems. Pre-closing walk-throughs, follow-up visits, post-sale questionnaires — "we're asking people to be critical."

Above all, Glieberman said, try not to become hostile. He has had people come in screaming at the top of their lungs without even giving him a chance to fix any problems.

"If a person bought a bad house, the first thing they should do is send a letter explaining the problem," he said. With most builders, that's all it takes.

Too often, the first response of some people is to threaten a lawsuit — that leads to hostilities between the builder and buyer, he said.

Glieberman said there's no need to threaten lawsuits or become hostile; a calm, businesslike letter should get the results the homeowner wishes.

"Lawsuits are the expensive way to go — I don't think suing someone is the best solution," he said. "I've always believed that two adults, when they sit down together in a calm manner — they can work out their problems."

istrative law judge who will issue a report.

If the builder is still found to be at fault, a report from the law judge or investigator will be forwarded to the state Residential Builders and Maintenance and Alteration board — a commission made up of builders, building officials, state officials and regular people — who will render a judgment.

Judgment can result in dismissing the complaint, fining the builder or ordering restitution to the complainant in the form of money, or suspending or revoking the builder's license.

Fines assessed against the builders can be as a high as $10,000; restitution orders have no limits.

J.W. Eiserman, discipline action coordinator with the department enforcement division, said most builders comply with the orders.
