3-D deer appears in living color

BY KEVIN BROWN
STAFF WRITER

To get into Plymouth's Penn Theater, it takes two bucks.

Or just a little doe.

It happened July 4th, just after a special showing of "Yankee Doodle Dandy." James Cagney's dancing in the film earned him a reputation as a real "hoofer," as they say in show biz.

But on Saturday, he was upstaged by the real thing.

A woman patron took six stitches in the arm from flying glass, but no other injuries were reported, theater manager Lloyd Oliver said.

The deer arrived at about 4:20 p.m., Covington recalled.

He had just bought some popcorn and was waiting with his wife Theresa and daughter Beth for the 4:30 p.m. show.

"The deer crashed through the door spreading glass all throughout the lobby," Covington said.

"At first I thought it must be a dog, then I saw it was a small deer, a doe.

"It had to struggle to work its way through the broken glass, but it didn't appear to be cut up bad," he said.

A Detroit woman, 29, was coming into the lobby from the theater as the deer entered. She screamed after the glass cut her right forearm, Covington said. The woman was treated and released from McAuley Health Center.

Running the projector upstairs, Oliver had just turned the house lights up as the film credits finished.

Schools lose asset; Buckman steps down

BY M.B. DILLON
STAFF WRITER

It's no accident that at age 80, Ray Buckman, newly arrived in Plymouth Township from Detroit, volunteered his services to Plymouth-Canton Community Schools and students, quickly becoming indispensable. A lifetime of rich experiences and hard work prepared Buckman for just such a role.

Now 84 and stepping down due to health problems, Buckman was instrumental in forming the I CARE Committee that worked to pass a four-mill, two-year tax increase when the district was experiencing financial difficulty.

EDUCATION

His activities earned him the title of "the father of I CARE," and a subsequent post as the district's legislative liaison.

His recent retirement hasn't gone unnoticed.

"An asset to the community, Mr. Buckman has distinguished himself as an extraordinary intermediary to the Plymouth-Canton School Board and state legislators and is well deserving of the highest recognition," said state Rep. James Kosteva, D-Canton. "Hardworking and energetic, Mr. Buckman has touched many lives, both spiritually and educationally. He considers himself 'grandpa' to the first-graders at Bird and Field Elementary Schools, and tutored a troubled second-grader in math and English. That young student recently passed into the fourth grade with honors," he said.

Early years

Honors came Buckman's way from the time he was a kid, growing up on a farm in Sterling Heights. He was 12 when he won a 4-H Club state championship for excellence in growing corn. The award netted him $6,000 and the chance to attend Michigan Agricultural College (now Michigan State) for two weeks.

Buckman graduated from Utica High School and was offered a job as a bank teller. But neither the banking business nor farming were for Buckman.

"Engineering always attracted me," said Buckman, who enrolled in Northwestern University in Chicago. "I felt I could do more good for the community at large that way than I could farming. Farming was too much of a gamble."

When Buckman was a senior, he had to quit school.

"My father's death demanded that I come back to the farm to take care of mom. However, I took night school to complete my degree at Wayne State University."

Buckman, who worked on a second degree in accounting, was hired by Briggs Manufacturing, a body designer for the Plymouth corporation.

"My experience resulted in me working on the Model A; we made bodies for Ford," said Buckman.

"I had the pleasure of working with Edsel Ford. It was through my persuasion that Briggs was given the contract for making Ford bodies."

Buckman said his success in designing a metal door to replace a wooden door resulted in the savings of "approximately 10 cents a door. Ford came over to discuss the difference of 40 cents." Until that time, Briggs' competitor was making wooden doors for Ford, he said.

Commissioners vote until they get it right

BY KEVIN BROWN
STAFF WRITER

This is the story of how Plymouth's city commissioners voted to rescind a vote to rescind a vote.

It all started in Febuary.

That's when the commission voted to grant a developer an easement over a driveway off of Harvey Street. The driveway is used by trucks occasionally serving the Tonquish Creek Manor, a seniors home owned by the city.

The action was suggested by the city planning commission, partly to accommodate developers Michael and Mary Gladchun who wanted to turn a house at 350 Harvey into offices.

City officials say the Gladchuns had proposed putting a horseshoe like driveway around the house, which would have created two driveways on Harvey in addition to the nearby drive serving the manor.

"The planning commission felt that because the city driveway was next to the proposed exiting driveway, and the city driveway was hardly used anyway, it was desireable to have the landscaping area remain and for the existing driveway to be shared," said City Manager Steve Walters.

Former Tiger plans to 'bear' talents at tavern

BY RALPH R. ECHTINAW

CANTON

Just when the economy was supposed to be perking up, saloon owner John Sassak is getting bearish on Canton.

Sassak, owner of the Urban Cowboy Saloon (a.k.a. Center Stage) on Ford Road, has hired a wrestling bear named Caesar to take on all comers next Thursday. Doors open at 6:30 p.m.

Anyone who pins the 7-foot, 6-inch tall, 1,000-pound black bear will win $1,000, Sassak said.

The first contestants are slated to be Eli Zaret and Denny McLain of Channel 2's "Eli and Denny Show." They plan to film the action for an upcoming program.

"I think it will be a fair fight," said producer Art Regner of McLain's impending bout.

Told that the rules say bear wrestlers can't weigh more than 260 pounds, Regner said McLain might have to skip the fight. "Finally his weight is doing something good for him," Regner said.

Following the Eli and Denny match, Urban Cowboy manager Roy Jean has lined up "the biggest bouncers in Michigan" to take on Caesar. He had recruited eight as of Tuesday, all at least 6 foot, 5 inches tall. "They're jumbos," Jean said.

Then, providing the bear is still game, he'll wrestle anyone brave enough to challenge him.

Sassak said that 20-30 percent of the cover charge that night will be donated to charity.

Although excited about the upcoming event, Sassak might be a little nervous too. "I just wonder what they feed him," he said. "I hope it's not my customers."

"I saw the deer down in front of the stage. The minute the light came up, it scared it," Oliver said.

There were 30 or 40 people in the theater. Oliver said that from the projection booth, he couldn't hear if the deer's appearance was causing a commotion.

The deer passed back and forth in front of the stage, and one man helped herd it toward the opened back door, witnesses said.

"There could have been a lot more damage if people had really tried to corner it," Oliver said. "It could have jumped on stage, could have gone through the screen."

After running out, the deer was seen on River Oaks Drive, said Plymouth Police Sgt. Wayne Carroll who was called to the scene.

Once the incident was over, most folks reacted with a sense of humor.

"Some people made the comment that 'Bambi' was coming next week," Oliver said.

"I made the comment, 'We like to show our previews in 3-D.'"

The next showing of "Yankee Doodle Dandy" was delayed several minutes. "We had to delay it to clean up the glass and the blood," Oliver said.

Damage to the door was estimated at $100. The next day, a glass panel was installed to replace it.

Reports of deer crashing through large glass windows are not unheard of.

"It's basically escape," said Rosemary Ayres, analyst with the Department of Natural Resources. "She's in town already and is starting to panic. Sometimes they don't see their reflection, or they see it and head toward it as a source of safety," Ayres said.

Plymouth Township police chief Carl Berry said the deer could have been the same one that earlier in the day charged through a group of kids in Hines Park, damaging one of their bikes.

Carnival runs through Saturday

The Plymouth Family Carnival, presented by Plymouth Community Chamber of Commerce and Straight, Inc. will be held through Saturday in the parking lot of Ford Motor Sheldon Road Plant at Sheldon Road and M-14.

Featured are the Pugh shows.

Ride specials are: Thursday, pay one price wristband, 2-11 p.m., $10 per person, wristband sold until 9 p.m. (individual ride tickets also available); Friday, pay one price wristband, 2-6 p.m., $5 per person (wristbands sold until 4 p.m.), individual ride tickets also available, 6-11 p.m. regular price for all rides; and Saturday, noon-11 p.m.

1,000 expected at school reunion

"We're estimating close to 1,000, but we don't really know how many are coming," said Pat Bunyea.

She's organizing the reunion of all classes of the former Plymouth High School, scheduled for 7:30 p.m. Friday.

Plymouth High School's last graduating class was in 1970. Canton students then attended high school in Plymouth. The building housed Central Middle School the next year, as high school classes moved to the centennial education park.

"I graduated from Flat Rock in '57," she said.

So why organize the reunion? "My husband (Guy) graduated from Plymouth in '57."

"It was his idea to do this. And of course, that means the wife has to organize it," she said, dryly.

Bunyea started by contacting representatives of all classes, to ask them to tell classmates the reunion was on.

Bunyea said fliers and signs have also been put out, and ads run in newspapers and TV.

Since getting the word out, "We've talked to people from all over the country," she said, who are coming — from Central America, Africa, Texas, Tennessee, Wisconsin and elsewhere.

"Everybody is supposed to bring their own snacks, whatever you want to eat or drink, bring it with you," Bunyea said.

Buckman in 1942 took a job with the Hudson Motor Defense Department in purchasing. Hudson supplied the government with equipment including parts for 40-millimeter guns. "We modified them so that they were more effective for aircraft," said Buckman.

His next stop was International Detrola in 1944 designing land mine finders and radio direction equipment for guiding B-29's over the ocean. While at Detrola, Buckman traveled with the staff of General Montgomery to England and into German-occupied France "to go to Italy for a trial of this so-called bomb locator. After two days in Italy, we were successful in bombing out four of the main bridges upon which Germany depended.

A member of the Signal Corps, Buckman was drafted back into government service on special assignment during the Persian Gulf War to work on applications of the Patriot missile. In recognition of his work, he was presented with an engraved gold Binz watch by Gens. Colin Powell and Rodger Dorothy.

"I've had a lot of experience; it's amazing," said Buckman, who's received awards too numerous to mention.

"I've been constantly tied up."

Family time

Family occupied him as well. When he was 20, Buckman met Mary Lega, a 22-year-old woman who spoke nine languages fluently and worked as an upholstery inspector at Briggs.

"She was very kind, and always had a smile on her face. She always had a helping hand for everybody. She was a real, real pal," said Buckman, who married her three years later.

The Buckmans had a son, Robert, and a daughter, Shirley.

Buckman, who has five grandchildren, cared for his wife when she was ill with Alzheimer's Disease until her death in 1989. They were married 59 years.

After the war, Buckman worked at Ford Motor, estimating costs for new models. "I met Henry Ford. I knew him as Henry," said Buckman, who recalls working with him on the Mustang.

After that came a job with the MASCO corporation as director of corporate purchasing. The year 1947 saw Buckman buying steel from the Japanese because of its superior quality, and being visited by Chrysler, GM and Ford who wanted to know more about his pricing system.

When Buckman moved to Plymouth in 1988, he began attending board meetings because of his interest in education. Before long, he'd been recruited to work as the district's liaison in Lansing. In that post, he earned high marks from both Superintendent John Hoben and Associate Superintendent for Business Ray Hoedel as well as the school board.

Senior center hosts 1st family fun festival

By M.B. Dillon
Staff Writer

Ginny Hauck, Canton Place manager, can't take time to think about it, because she gets a little weepy.

What's blossoming into the first annual Canton Place Family Fun Festival was sparked by a quick meeting Hauck had with volunteer Carol Hay. Brainstorming ways to say "thank you" to the community for its acceptance and support, Hauck and Hay thought a lunch would be appropriate.

To their amazement, offers for help came from everywhere. Now, calling their event a lunch would be like calling Andrew Lloyd Weber's "Phantom of the Opera" a backyard skit.

The festival will be from 1-6 p.m., Sunday, at Canton Place on the south side of Ford, just west of Sheldon. Tickets — priced at $6 for adults and $3 for children (kids under 5 are admitted free) — will entitle the bearer to Italian sausage, shish kebab or hotdogs, fresh corn on the cob, salads, vegetables, rolls and butter, homemade pies and beverages.

Tickets are available at Canton Place, Canton Township Hall, the Canton and Plymouth chambers of commerce, the Canton Senior Recreation Center, Carriage Park Senior Apartments, and the Observer.

Among those working the grill in chefs' hats will be Canton Supervisor Tom Yack and Clerk Loren Bennett.

■ 'We are sitting here with a whole building of history and talent that we can offer back to the community through schools, children's groups and churches. We want to be a vital part of the community, and this event is one of our ways of saying that.'

Ginny Hauck

Dancers perform

A "Christmas in July" performance by the Plymouth Canton school dancers will kick off the free entertainment at 1 p.m.

At 2 p.m., Jan's School of Dance will showcase its talents.

The crowd will have a chance to get into the act at 3 p.m. at the karaoke sing along to be taped for delayed broadcasts on Omnicom cable TV.

Urban Myth will entertain at 4 p.m., followed by the renowned Canton Seniors Kitchen Band, and a 6 p.m. songfest staged by local church choirs.

Flutterby the Clown — just returned from Washington, D.C., where she performed at the White House on the Fourth of July — will make a special appearance. "She's excellent. The kids really enjoy her," Hay said.

DARE (Drug Abuse Resistance Education) representatives also will be on hand to fingerprint children.

Tuesday morning, a group of staffers, residents and volunteers took a short time-out from their preparations to reflect.

Center's history

Bennett was on the township board in the mid 1980s that worked to obtain a Housing and Urban Development grant to build Canton Place, which is privately owned by National Church Residences and sits on acreage donated by the township.

"The need was definitely here, and that's been borne out by the waiting list," he said. Currently, there's an eight year waiting list to get into the eight story, 117 unit facility.

Despite some early mistaken impressions, Canton Place has been well accepted by residents and receives tremendous support from individuals, groups and the township, Hauck said.

"The community really had the impression this was going to be a warehouse, and not a good-looking situation for the community," she said.

It's been anything but, as the neatly kept Canton Place boasts a welcoming, clean and friendly facility where the door is always open, cheerfulness comes in heaping helpings, and there's plenty of activity. Scout and church groups are frequent visitors, and residents stand ready to return the favor.

"We are sitting here with a whole building of history and talent that we can offer back to the community through schools, children's groups and churches. We want to be a vital part of the community, and this event is one of our ways of saying that," Hauck said.

Financial needs

While HUD holds the mortgage for Canton Place, the building is privately owned. Residents are liable for all their costs, she said. Residents often find themselves in financial need, and Hauck would like to be able to help them with bills.

Also on her expense list are fire alarm strobe lights for the apartments of hard-of-hearing residents, capital improvement projects, including a roof over the patio, and down the line, medical staff. Residents at the nonprofit facility are responsible for getting their own meals and medical attention.

"Even though this is a fund-raiser, we hope we are supplying quality family time," Hauck said. "A lot of families in Canton don't have grandparents in their immediate community. I think we have quite a nice atmosphere here for them to feel good about the aging process and see someone who reminds them of their grandma or grandpa. The family unit has fallen apart in our society; we'd like to see that come back into focus.

"Part of the philosophy in doing this is that this isn't just a place to sleep," Bennett said. "We want to make Canton Township a community. We are concerned about quality of life and activities like this are what makes a house a home. That's what we're striving for."

"It's working, it really is," said Hay, whose mother lives at Canton Place.

The residents back her up. Helen Barnard and her husband, Jack, were among residents baking chocolate chip and sugar cookies Tuesday morning for the festival. "We'll be baking apple pies, cherry pies, blueberry pies, peach pies, all kinds of fruit pies," Barnard said. "They're good, I'll tell you. We have some good bakers in this building. I should know. I've gained 10 pounds since I moved here."

CRIME

The manager of an apartment complex on N. Mill told police that between 6:30 p.m. July 5 and 8:30 a.m. July 6, someone damaged his Ford pickup truck by pouring white paint over it.

The 37-year-old victim suspects a resident of doing the damage, estimated at $325.

It appears that someone poured over the top of his vehicle white flat house paint, which ran down the side of the vehicle. The suspect also slashed the sidewall of the right front tire to the point where it can't be repaired, police said.

Police found a nearly empty can of white latex house paint in a dumpster nearby. They seized the container for a possible latent print exam.

The manager suspects a fellow resident due to previous threats against him and his truck. The manager has tried to evict the suspect, who lives with his girlfriend in violation of a Department of Social Services ruling because of numerous problems.

The manager was awakened by his dog at about 5 a.m. July 6. Looking out of the window, he saw the suspect going in and out of his apartment. The suspect had left by the time police arrived.

Smokin'

A 34-year-old manager at Danny's Foods told police that shortly after midnight July 5, a 17-year-old Livonia resident came into the store with a friend.

The youth, who's about 5-feet-9 and 155 pounds, was smoking a cigarette. He was advised three times that he couldn't smoke in the store. The third time he was told, he had words with the manager and came at him, pushing him out of the aisle.

The manager pushed the man away, at which time an employee grabbed the suspect and held him until police arrived. Officers said the suspect and his friend were intoxicated.

The manager, who was given a victim's rights card, said he will prosecute.

Break-in

A 32-year-old Plymouth man told police that sometime between 4:30 p.m. and 7:25 p.m. Thursday, July 2, someone broke into his apartment and stole a 19-inch color TV and $400 VCR from his living room.

The suspect is a 25-year-old male the complainant met about three weeks ago. He is about 15-feet-11, with brown hair and two tear-drop shaped tattoos under his right eye.

Police officers spoke with the suspect at a nearby motel. The suspect told police he'd been at the motel pool from 11 a.m. until 3 p.m. that day.

The suspect said his sister would vouch for him. She is a prostitute who live at the motel and was at the pool at the same time, he said.

A witness told police he saw two white males in a dark-colored vehicle parked the victim's residence at about 4 p.m. The suspect's sister drives a black car, police said. A second witness told police he saw two males in a black car in the vicinity at the time in question.

Hot car

A 1992 Mustang valued at $11,800 was discovered stolen July 2 from Blackwell Ford, 41001 Plymouth Road.

According to the report filed with police, someone damaged two cars and took the locked Mustang from the parking lot of the Plymouth Township car dealer. The theft was discovered at 7 a.m. Police are investigating.

Missing items

Water skis and two life jackets turned up missing Friday from a boat stored at Travel Trailer Storage, 41980 Ann Arbor Road.

According to the report filed with police, the loss was estimated at $250. A canvas cover to the boat was ripped, apparently by thieves, the report continued. The case was closed for lack of evidence or leads.

CD player

A portable CD player and 80 CDs were reported stolen Friday from a car parked on Pinehill Drive near Hillcrest in Plymouth Township.

The owner said he wasn't sure if the car had been locked. There was no sign of forced entry to the car. Police closed the case for lack of evidence or suspects.

So in February, the city commission voted to approve the plan pending the working out of fine details by Tonquish Manor director Sharon Thomas, the developer and the city.

An easement agreement for the 75-foot-long, 30-foot-wide driveway was presented to the city in April, and signed by Walters, Mayor Robert Jones and the city clerk.

But at the June 15 city commission meeting, city commissioner Bill McAninch expressed concern that a final agreement on the issue had not been brought back to commissioners. The group voted to rescind its earlier action.

That sparked a letter one week later from the developer's attorney, Wilfred Brunk, who also appeared before the commission on Monday.

"We're here asking you to keep the agreement you've already entered into," Brunk said, adding his clients had already spent money on construction.

"What we did last meeting we have no legal right to do," commissioner John Vos said, adding "We screwed up" by granting the easement."

McAninch suggested that commissioners consider doing something. "I don't think it's right for the citizens of Plymouth to have that property turned over to a developer," he said, adding some previous commissions have wrongly turned over city property to developers.

While city attorney Ron Lowe was to review what further action could be taken, commissioners voted unanimously to rescind the June vote which rescinded approval for granting the easement.

In other words, the easement is granted again — at least for now.

BY RALPH R. ECHTINAW
STAFF WRITER

An 18-year-old Canton man was arraigned in Washtenaw County Circuit Court Tuesday on two counts of negligent homicide in connection with the deaths of two Canton teenagers in a one-car accident on Napier Road March 28, 1991.

Walter Erwin Guenther III drove the 1984 Mercury Cougar that went out of control on Napier just north of Warren and struck a tree, killing Tamara Carlson and Michael Fullerton, both 18.

Two other teens, Raymond Carlson and Christopher Demey, were injured in the accident. Guenther received minor injuries.

Circuit Judge Melinda Morris is expected to hear testimony in the trial from Carlson, who recently remembered details of the events leading up to the accident, according to David Lady, a Washtenaw County assistant prosecutor who is handling the case.

• Tom Williams Scholarship is provided by the Roamin Club. The Rock and Mineral Club of Livonia. The scholarship assists students who plan to study geology or science. Preference is given to geology majors, however, any science major will be considered.

• Lloyd and Elka Wilkie Endowment Scholarship is available to students who are Livonia residents and have earned a minimum 3.0 grade point average in high school or at Schoolcraft College. Any curriculum will be considered.

• Walter Greer Memorial Scholarship was created in the memory of Greer, a Northville resident, who was an active college volunteer and advocate of life-long learning. The scholarship is available to students in the culinary arts or electronics curriculums.

• Cindy Lee Polley Memorial Endowment Scholarship was created in memory of Polley, a culinary management student who died as a result of an automobile accident. The scholarship was established because of Polley's enthusiasm to finance her college education through winning scholarships.

All scholarships have different criteria. The application deadline is July 27. To receive an application, contact Schoolcraft's financial aid office at 462-4403.

'Walk Michigan' fitness event offered at Wayne County parks

Walkers of all ages are invited to participate in Walk Michigan, an annual fitness program organized to promote good health and highlight recreational facilities in the state.

Walks scheduled this month by the Wayne County Park system include:

• 9 a.m. Friday, July 10 at Nankin Mills.
• 9-11 a.m. Saturday, July 11 at Nankin Mills.
• 6:30 p.m. Monday, July 13 at Nankin Mills.
• 6:30 p.m. Wednesday, July 15 at Warrendale.
• 9 a.m. Friday, July 17 at Nankin Mills.
• 9-11 a.m. Saturday, July 18 at Nankin Mills.
• 6:30 p.m. Wednesday, July 22 at Nankin Mills.
• 9 a.m. Friday, July 24 at Warrendale.
• 6:30 p.m. Monday, July 27 at Nankin Mills.

The Nankin Mills site is at Ann Arbor Trail and Edward Hines Drive in Westland. The Warrendale site is in Dearborn Heights just east of Telegraph and north of Warren Road.

Walk Michigan started in 1985 as a cooperative effort between the Michigan Recreation and Park Association and Blue Cross & Blue Shield of Michigan. Today, more than 15,000 walkers from across the state participate in the program.

For each sanctioned Walk Michigan event, participants can register to win an all-expenses paid trip to the Governor's annual Mackinac Bridge walk on Labor Day morning, compliments of the Michigan Recreation and Park Association, Blue Cross & Blue Shield of Michigan and Blue Care Network. There is no charge to participate.

For more information on Walk Michigan or any other Wayne County Parks event, call 2261-1900.

MHS product takes away cats' scratch, but keeps claws in tact

The Michigan Humane Society veterinary staff is making a new product called Soft Paws available to cat owners.

The protective caps are designed to cover the cats individual claws to prevent unwanted damage to furniture, carpet, woodwork and other areas where cats like to scratch.

Soft Paws is an alternative for those cat owners wishing to have their pets' claws permanently removed. The protective caps are applied by the pet owner using a special adhesive.

Science classes being offered for girls

Openings remain available in the summer Labcoats and Microscopes program, sponsored by the Michigan Metro Girl Scout Council at the University of Michigan-Dearborn.

The program, designed for girls 12-14, runs July 27-31. Girls need not be Girl Scouts to enroll.

Classes are offered in biology, chemistry, microbiology and environmental field work. Presenters are female UM-D scientists.

To register, or for more information, call 964-4475.

Retiree saw cities bloom where farms stood

By Tim Carvell
Staff Writer

When Edward Hustoles started work 40 years ago, Farmington was still a farming town and Southfield consisted mainly of fields.

Hustoles' first day of work was Monday, June 13, 1952, three days after his graduation from the Illinois Institute of Technology. From then until his June 12 retirement from SEMCOG, he worked almost nonstop, watching and helping the expansion of the Detroit area.

"I never missed a paycheck, and I had three two-week vacations," said Hustoles, a Southfield resident.

Hustoles' devotion could be attributed to a simple fact: "I can honestly say that I've never been bored. Never."

Indeed, Hustoles still will act as a consultant at the Southeastern Michigan Council of Government in Detroit, where he worked for the 16 years preceding his retirement. Although Hustoles intends to keep busy — he's currently helping the Catholic diocese in Detroit draw up a master plan — his wife will have first claim on his retirement time.

■ DEVELOPMENT

Before SEMCOG, Hustoles served as vice-president of the Southfield community planning firm of Vilican Leman & Associates for 19 years and served on the Detroit and Chicago planning commissions.

In those jobs, Hustoles helped design communities both around Detroit and throughout the Midwest. He was the project director for the I-696 Corridor Joint Development Study, and helped draw up plans for cities when they weren't even townships.

"When Troy was farmland, we marked that it would be a corporate center, but we never expected 25-foot office buildings," Hustoles said.

Although Hustoles has often been surprised by the massive expansion of the area, there was one development that proved particularly jarring.

"We never expected Detroit to empty out," he said.

In the 1950s, Hustoles said, the 1990 population of the Detroit area was estimated at 8 million. The projections, however, failed to take into account the decline of the auto industry, the shrinking size of the family and the rising crime rate. There are now 5 million people in the Detroit area, and the errors made in planning Detroit have provided costly lessons.

"All the mile roads were zoned commercial. Detroit had enough mile roads for 11 million people," Hustoles said. "Businesses became scattered and we had empty lots. Now, commercial strips are sequestered."

During his time in Michigan, Hustoles has studied firsthand the effects of the exodus from Detroit, which began in the 1960s — in particular, the continuous expansion of suburbs. The trend of replacing old suburbs with new ones, he said, has damaged both city and suburb.

"We can't keep building the way we used to," Hustoles said. "The golden age of building and expansion is over."

This is no idle speculation; Hustoles arrived at his conclusion while working on a massive Regional Development Initiative at SEMCOG, which predicted trends in land use for the next 20 years. The study's results indicate that the cost of suburban expansion will soon outweigh its perceived benefits.

"You can't keep moving out, creating new infrastructures while you abandon the old ones. The old ones still have to be maintained. You can't build roads and spread out and live on a big lot and keep building and have low taxes. They're incompatible."

If anything, Hustoles foresees a rebirth of Detroit.

"I don't think, in the long run, we're going to see Detroit abandoned. As a planner once said, trend is not destiny. Things can change."

Hustoles acknowledged that some don't share his rosy outlook. "You don't get into planning," he said, "unless you're an optimist and believe things can happen."

THINKING OF GETTING A PET? THEY CAN MAKE YOU HAPPIER AND HEALTHIER

by Kenneth Pitts, M.D.

For years, scientific studies have proven that pet owners are generally healthier and happier than those who remain petless. Why? Probably because animals provide that elusive gift we all long for: unconditional love.

Relationships can come and go, but pets remain

Without friendship and love, the world would be a lonely place. Many studies have shown that married couples are more healthy, physically and mentally, than single and divorced individuals. But for people who find themselves alone — whether single, divorced, childless, or widowed — a pet is the perfect companion.

Pets offer the healthy advantage that any relationship offers. They reach out to their owner with love and affection, and need to be taken care of and loved in return. This gives lonely people a sense of worth and responsibility, which helps enhance their overall well-being.

Pets help ease depression/shyness

Individuals who suffer from depression tend to be self-occupied and moody, which makes it difficult to establish a healthy friendship. Pets, however, won't let an owner's depression get them down. They reach out in a safe, friendly, and non-threatening way.

For people who have difficulty establishing relationships, a pet is a wonderful way to learn and grow. Animals are affectionate, loyal, and accepting, no matter what a person looks like or how well they relate to other people. Many times, extremely shy people have been able to open up to other individuals and establish friendships after bonding with a pet.

Pets teach children responsibility

Children benefit in a special way from pets because they learn early on about unconditional love and acceptance, and how to be responsible for another living creature.

On a more somber note, the death of a pet teaches the child how to work through the experience of loss. Although it is sad, a child learns and accepts that death is a part of life.

Pets are more than cuddly and cute. They'll be your friend to the end!

The Senior Alliance will have its third annual golf outing for people of all ages Wednesday, July 29, at Fellows Creek Golf Course in Canton.

The tournament, a four-man scramble, will begin 8 a.m. One ticket, which includes use of a golf cart, luncheon and prizes, is $75. The luncheon only is $25.

The Senior Alliance is seeking hole sponsors ($180 each) and door prizes for the tournament. Door prizes donated so far consist of dinners for two and theater tickets, said spokeswoman Amy Parrent. Hole sponsors will receive two free tickets and admission to the luncheon.

■ There will be a hole-in-one contest on the seventh hole. The prize is a new Pontiac automobile, but the model hasn't been decided on yet.

There will be a hole-in-one contest on the seventh hole. The prize is a new Pontiac automobile, but the model hasn't been decided on yet, Parrent said.

Also, a longest-drive contest will be held to find winners in men's and women's categories for donated car rentals.

The Senior Alliance is a private nonprofit corporation serving senior citizens in southern and western Wayne County. It provides support services such as home-delivered meals, minor home repair, adult day care, legal assistance and others. The tournament is designed to raise money to support the organization's work.

Area teens win boating scholarships

Gerald Solensky of Troy, Jeffrey Bobo and Daniel Mykols, both of Canton Township, were among 23 Michigan students awarded a total of $19,750 in scholarships through a foundation set up by the Michigan Boating Industries Association and First of America Bank.

The foundation, founded in 1984, is a support program for students interested in professional careers in the recreational boating industry. Scholarships are based on merit and financial need.

Van Snider, MBIA executive director, said more than 50 students applied. The foundation works to coordinate work study during the summer months and permanent employment after graduation. It is working with Macomb Community College on a course emphasizing marine dealership management leading to an associate's degree.

Private school proposal stirs local debate

By Tim Carvell
Staff Writer

EDUCATION

First, Christopher Whittle prompted a debate among educators by suggesting that students should watch TV in school. Now, he's building his own schools, and local educators are arguing again.

Whittle, best known for his controversial in-school Channel One television broadcasts, announced recently that he had created the Edison Project, a for-profit chain of 1,000 private schools.

The schools, under the guidance of Yale University president Benno Schmidt Jr., will charge the same amount the government spends per student each year, approximately $5,500; Whittle said he hopes to make a 15% profit on the venture.

Project representatives said they have not yet chosen the sites for the initial 200 schools, which are scheduled to open in 1996.

Whittle's plan has not won many proponents among local public school administrators, many of whom see the proposed schools as another setback for state-funded education.

Citing recent tax and aid cuts and the property tax freeze, Jay Young, supervisor of public relations for the Livonia School District, said he felt the Edison Project plan only intensifies the problems facing the public school system.

"Currently, Michigan schools are suffering from various measures passed by the state Legislature and the governor . . . We need to re-look at the way we finance education around the state. I don't feel the way to solve educational problems is through entrepreneurial projects," Young said.

Some administrators took a more favorable view of the Edison Project. Michael Flanagan, superintendent of Farmington schools, saw the schools as a testing ground for new teaching techniques.

"I have to admit, my first reaction was skeptical, but I think it could be a research laboratory for us in public education. We don't have anything to lose, and we have something to gain," Flanagan said.

Richard Egli, administrative assistant for community relations in the Plymouth-Canton school district, said he doubted the new schools could compete with the public school system.

"We charge $4,878 per student, and we would stack our system up against anyone else's. I think we offer unparalleled educational opportunities. If he can do better, more power to him," Egli said.

Still, Whittle's decision to sell commercial time on Channel One to advertisers made some public school administrators leery of the Edison Project.

Like many administrators, Dr. Robert Docking, superintendent of Bloomfield Hills schools, said he felt Whittle was "a good salesman without a lot of substance."

The quality of the schools was the primary concern for two private school administrators, whose high school tuitions are slightly above $11,000 per year.

Whittle's previous attempts at education reform made Dr. Daniel Behring, director of schools for the Cranbrook Educational Community, doubtful that the education provided by the Edison Project would benefit the student.

"I would put my bet on education that pays attention to all dimensions of a child's life instead of the technological, cerebral focus which Whittle seems to favor . . . It certainly isn't the kind of education I believe in," Behring said.

Gerald Hansen, headmaster of Birmingham Detroit Country Day School, said he did not foresee an Edison Project school posing a threat to DCDS. "Will they be able to offer full sports and full activities? There are a lot of dimensions to a school, and the dimensions they will be able to implement remain to be seen," Hansen said.

Still, Hansen said he supported the idea of having as many educational options as possible.

"I think school choice is wonderful," Hansen said. "The more competition there is, the more the consumer will benefit, because it will raise educational standards."

Administrators at parochial schools, where tuition is usually between $2,000 and $3,000 per year, said they did not think Whittle would have trouble running a well-rounded school while making a profit.

The Rev. Al Gensa, associate principal for academics at Detroit Catholic Central, said he thinks the plan "sounds like a good idea." "The price seems pretty high. He's charging $2,200 more than us," Gensa said. "If people can pay for it, it should be a good school."

Gensa's remarks were echoed by Will Gervais, associate principal at Farmington's Mercy High School. "That's a fairly substantial tuition, but if he's got a good product, priced and marketed correctly, it will probably be a success," Gervais said.

Area Army recruits eligible for college benefits

More than $1.8 million for college expenses are guaranteed to young people from the suburban Detroit who joined the U.S. Army and Army Reserve during the 1991-92 school year.

The Dearborn Recruiting Company reports that 126 high school seniors from communities west and south of Detroit have made the decision to join the Army and Army Reserve. Collectively they have qualified for $1,879,540 to use for college expenses after they complete their enlistment terms.

The new enlistees are all scheduled to depart for Basic Training within 12 months after their graduation.

Twenty-five of the enlistees qualified for the top guarantee of $25,200 which is available with a four-year enlistment in selected Army jobs. The guaranteed college monies include $14,400 from the Army College Fund (ACF) and $10,800 from the Montgomery GI Bill. The average per-student guarantee for the 126 area enlistees is $14,917 each for college.

Roosevelt High School has six graduates, five males and one female, who collectively qualified for $174,000 in college benefits. Other area schools which had high levels of guaranteed college monies for their students included: Truman High School with 13 students qualifying for $167,2; John F. Kennedy has eight qualified for $134,400; Wayne Memorial with eight guaranteed $133,400; Plymouth Salem with six getting $123,760; John Glenn has six totaling $113,600; Woodhaven has six at $96,000; Romulus has five sharing $92,000; Taylor Center has four getting $73,400 and Melvindale with three guaranteed $59,200.

Both of the soldiers from Belleville High School qualified for the maximum, totaling $50,400 in college benefits for the two male enlistees.

On the average for the 55 area high schools, the Army is guaranteeing more than $34,100 per school in scholarship-type benefits to recent graduates.

"Though the Army is getting smaller each day, the soldiers leaving are at the mid-management and higher levels," said Capt. Alan Farrier, commander of the Dearborn Company. "There is still a need to fill entry-level positions. The bottom line is that the Army is still hiring, and we offer money for college to those individuals who qualify.

"In addition to guaranteed money for college," said Farrier, "many of these enlistees have already applied through their recruiter for admission to local colleges, such as Eastern Michigan University, under the Concurrent Admissions program. As veterans these young people will return to Michigan and invest their college funds in a quality education in their home state.

"This is a win-win situation for everyone. The Army gets a highly motivated, intelligent young person to fill entry level positions, the soldier gets money for college and the local colleges and economy get a boost when that college money is spent on a quality education," said Farrier.

The southwest Michigan seniors enlisting for three years qualified for up to $22,800 each, and two-year enlistees $17,000 in college funds from the ACF and GI Bill. Soldiers qualifying for Army College Fund monies contribute $1,200 of their own funds during the first year of their enlistment. "Only those who have at least a high school diploma and score in the upper half of the aptitude tests, can qualify for the Army College Fund," said Farrier.

All Active Army enlistees qualify for the basic $10,800 GI Bill benefits and Reserve soldiers qualify for $6,120 in college benefits.

Plymouth Canton High School was guaranteed $45,920 for four male and one female graduates qualifying for the Army College Fund.

Five Star Chambers event set

■ The group comprises the Canton, Westland, Garden City, Wayne and Dearborn Heights chambers of commerce.

The Five Star Chambers will hold a lunch and Expo at 11:30 a.m. Tuesday at the Hellenic Center, 36375 Joy Road, Westland.

The speaker will be Esther Shapiro, director of the city of Detroit Consumer Affairs Department, which carries out broad program of consumer education, information, research and the enforcement of city consumer ordinances.

She was appointed by two previous Detroit mayors to consumer advisory councils and has served on advisory boards to the FDA and a number of other State, Federal and business agencies.

She writes a weekly column for the Detroit Free Press. Shapiro has lectured at many Michigan universities, hosted a weekly radio show, and conducted seminars for teachers of consumer education. Reservations are required. Tickets are $13. Call 453-4040.

Canton man gives a hand to Perot run

■ Brandis, a 36-year-old Republican, was personally responsible for 150 of the Perot signatures.

Michigan supporters of Henry Ross Perot's unannounced run for the White House will present more than 200,000 signatures to the state government in Lansing Friday to put their man on the November ballot, said organizer Jeff Freeman.

And Canton resident Joe Brandis helped.

Brandis, a 36-year-old Republican, was personally responsible for 150 of the Perot signatures, yet says, "I didn't do too well."

But Brandis reported that at least 10 people contacted him wanting to help after an article about his activities appeared in the Observer last April.

Only 26,000 signatures are required to put Perot on the ballot in Michigan.

Candidates forum scheduled for next week

The Candidates Night has been arranged for those who have filed to run for the 19th and 20th District seats in the Michigan House of Representatives.

A Candidates Night for the Aug. 4 primary has been announced by the Livonia League of Women Voters.

The forum will begin at 7:30 p.m. Thursday, July 16, in the auditorium of Livonia City Hall, 33000 Civic Center Drive, east of Farmington Road and south of Five Mile.

The Candidates Night has been arranged for those who have filed to run for the 19th and 20th District seats in the Michigan House of Representatives and for the 10th Wayne County Commission district.

On the Aug. 4 primary ballot are Thomas R. Augustyn, Lyn Bankes, and John Tatar for the 19th District; Ronald Ambrose, Robert Bernard, Georgina Goss and Jerry Vorva for the 20th District; Michael J.Caffery, Maurice Breen, Patrick Downes, Thaddeus McCotter, and Clayton Stacey in the 10th District.

Roberta Young from the Livonia League of Women Voters will serve as moderator.

As in past Candidates Nights, verbal questions from the audience will be accepted. Members of the audience will be invited to either read their own 50-word limit question or submit it to be read by the moderator.

The candidates will respond to the questions and at the end of the program will give a summation of their candidacy.

Men, if you're about to turn 18, it's time to register with Selective Service at any U.S. Post Office.

It's quick. It's easy. And it's the law.

Funeral home, casket firm join fight

ANTI-DRUGS

An area funeral home has joined with the largest casket making company in the world an effort to keep people alive.

Thayer-Rock Funeral Home of Farmington has joined with the Batesville Casket Co. of Batesville, Ind., in a three-pronged drug awareness program. Thayer-Rock said it draws a significant proportion of its customers from Livonia and Redford.

The program, which was initiated by the Batesville company, consists of a poster, a public service announcement, and a five-minute video, all of which are intended to discourage drug use.

Intended for mass distribution, particularly in schools, the poster depicts a casket with a headline reading "Another Buried Treasure." A caption below the casket says "James was a bright student. He wanted to be a teacher . . . English, science, or math. But one day he tried crack cocaine. Now he's history . . ."

Previously, Thayer-Rock participated in another Batesville drug awareness program, which involved distributing a poster which said "Grounded at age 16."

"We try to encourage communication and activism, regarding community education, making people aware of death," said Bruce Lantto of Thayer-Rock. "This is just another step. We feel there is a real need to talk about the problem of drugs."

Lanto said Thayer-Rock is contacting superintendents of all area school districts to see if they are interested in receiving the poster and the five- minute drug awareness video.

He has contacted the Metrovision cable television group to air the 30-second public service announcement.

"I think it's important that business does get involved in community issues. We're here to do more than just serve the needs of the family when a death occurs."

Customs officers confiscate bogus goods

BY JOANNE MALISZEWSKI
STAFF WRITER

U.S. Custom's officials seized approximately $65,000 worth of alleged counterfeit designer merchandise from a Farmington Hills bulk food store Tuesday morning.

"There were no arrests. This was a custom's civil seizure warrant," said Richard Hoglund, special agent in charge.

Agents seized 150 watches, 500 flat good, including wallets and purses, 50 items of clothing, including T-shirts from Bulk Food Warehouse, 27885 Orchard Lake Road, at about 9:15 a.m., Hoglund said.

Items that were seized featured trademarks of Fendi, Gucci, Channel, Louis Vuitton, Rolex, Coach, Movado and Cartier. "Trademarks are of significant concern to fashion designers. They register them with the custom's service," Hoglund said.

"We have one item, a Cartier watch, that says it was made in Japan. Cartier doesn't make watches in Japan," Hoglund said.

The civil search warrant stemmed from an investigation that began with a citizen call to the custom's service about three weeks ago. The citizen complained about the sale of counterfeit designer merchandise, Hoglund said.

"The merchandise was made outside the country and it was of a reasonably sizable commercial amount," he added.

While retail value of the merchandise seized tops $65,000, Hoglund said the items are counterfeit. "In reality we don't consider it to have any commercial value," he added.

Hoglund said a decision has not yet been made whether to take the information and evidence to the U.S. Attorney's office. "We will move forward, however, to forfeit the merchandise and then dispose of it," Hoglund said.

In recent weeks, the U.S. Customs Service had conducted three similar types of actions and all based on citizen complaints. Hoglund urges anyone who believes they are being sold counterfeit designer merchandise to contact the U.S Customs Enforcement at 226-3166.

Reservations are limited to the first 160 golfers, and participants are encouraged to register now. Call 453-1540 for more information.

BY M.B. DILLON
STAFF WRITER

Since 1979, the Michigan DNR has been frustrated in its attempts to get Amoco to clean an underground oil spill at the site of a closed service station at Ann Arbor Trail and Main Street.

Now, a second Plymouth site has been added to the list, Colony Car Wash, which operates a Mobil gas station, formerly Amoco, at 302 W. Ann Arbor Road.

A underground storage tank release there came to light in 1989, said Ben Mathews, DNR environmental quality analyst. Amoco and the owner both have been advised that the underground contamination must be removed. There's a dispute as to whether Amoco or the owner is responsible for the clean up. As a result, the abandoned tanks and polluted soil and groundwater have yet to be removed.

"I have no qualms indicating that we've had a lot of problems with Amoco. They're certainly being reviewed," said Karen Kligman, spokeswoman for the DNR's enforcement unit in Lansing. "It's substantial. There are several hundred Amoco sites in the state that have had releases."

Plymouth City Engineer Ken West is another person who'd like to see more progress. "The basic reason you want to clean this up is that eventually, it will get to the groundwater and contaminate our source of drinking water. Petroleum isn't something that can dissolve and dilute itself. It just exists forever, and builds up as more is added to it," he said.

Also, said West, "if it ever did find its way into the sewers and there was a spark or something, it could be ignited. The sewer would act just like a rifle barrel; it just shoots right down the sewer and finds its release through the manholes." West said a college friend doing an inspection in a manhole ended up with burns over 70 percent of his body in a similar incident.

The DNR is still waiting for Amoco to submit an acceptable clean-up plan for the Ann Arbor Trail/Main Street

Plymouth man dies in crash

■ Cameron moved to Plymouth in 1983, from Canton, and graduated from Plymouth Salem High School in 1990.

A Plymouth man died Friday from multiple injuries after the pick-up truck he was riding in flipped after veering off of Ridge Road in Plymouth Township.

Michael Cameron, 20, was pronounced dead at St. Mary's Hospital in Livonia at 1:25 a.m. Friday, about an hour after police were called to the scene.

Another passenger in the truck, Jeremy Wagner, 18, refused medical attention at the scene, police said. While the truck belonged to Cameron, police say they have not determined who was driving.

Plymouth Township Police said the 1986 Ford F-150 pickup was headed south on Ridge just south of North Territorial when the truck veered off the right side of the road at a hill.

The driver tried to get the truck back on the gravel road, but the truck apparently flipped upon hitting the edge of the road and landed on its wheels, police said.

Police said they are still investigating the cause.

Police also declined to say whether the two riding in the truck were wearing seat belts, pending the outcome of the accident investigation.

Cameron was born Nov. 30, 1971 in Ypsilanti. He was a plumbing assistant for his father's company, Cameron Plumbing.

He moved to Plymouth in 1983, from Canton, and graduated from Plymouth Salem High School in 1990.

Funeral services were Monday at the Schrader Funeral Home with pastor

Amoco has been given interim approval to proceed with clean up, expected to take two-to-five years, pending submission of the final corrective action plan.

The hold up, says Amoco spokesman Howard Miller, is a water discharge permit from the city of Detroit. "The city of Detroit reneged on our discharge permit to discharge treated water into the sanitary sewer," he said.

That's forcing Amoco's contractors to haul contaminants off-site by truck. "It just makes the job more tedious and expensive for us," Miller said, adding that thus far, Amoco has spent $700,000 on clean up. It's too soon to say whether Amoco eventually will try to sell the land or re-open a station, he said.

■ 'We're pursuing with the owner and Amoco an investigation to define the extent of the contamination at that site (Colony Car Wash).'

Ben Mathews
DNR environmental analyst

As West describes it, Amoco's clean-up plan involves "leaving the soil particles in place and giving them a bath with oxygen and water." There's also a vapor extraction system in place.

"We have part of our enhanced vapor recovery system in the ground while we're doing our pumping and treating," Miller said. "We've done three performance evaluation tests and we're finalizing the testing to optimize the enhanced vapor recovery."

A full report is expected next month, he said.

Housed in what used to be the station's service bay are automated catalytic oxidizers for off-gas treatment, pump-and-treat collection tanks, and a vacuum pump that's removing hydrocarbons from the ground. Amoco has removed the old tanks.

Mathews of the DNR said the tanks at Colony Car Wash were to have been removed by now. "We're pursuing with the owner and Amoco an investigation to define the extent of the contamination at that site," he said.

Complicating the process is the dispute as to "who the exact owner is. Because of different lease agreements, Amoco's lawyers have used the argument they are not the owner. The way the law is written, whoever has owned or operated the tanks is responsible. We sent a letter of responsibility to both the owner and Amoco. Both state it's the other's responsiblity.

"It's been our position that we'd hope they would negotiate between themselves and reach some type of agreement," he added. "To my knowledge, that hasn't happened yet. We wish we could get better cooperation from the responsible parties."

Cops train to join motorcycle patrol

By Ralph R. Echtinaw
Staff Writer

Three Canton police officers are training this week in the Salem High School parking lot to join the township's growing motorcycle patrol force.

"I enjoy (the training)," said officer Scott Hughesdon. "It's a lot harder than what you'd expect. It builds your confidence, but shows you how easy it is to come off (the bike)."

Indeed, the three Canton officer (and one from Farmington Hills) who are training this week dumped their 1340cc Harleys at least five times in a one-hour span Monday afternoon.

"They put 'em down quite a bit," said officer Brian Darrow, who supervises the training along with Wayne County Sheriff's Department Sgt. Joe Miri. "They play around and have a lot of fun, and this is the place to do it. You've really got to be careful (on a bike). That's the reason behind this course."

The 600-pound training motorcycles are provided by Harley-Davidson, which sends the bikes around the United States to train police officers. "We (the police department) don't have enough bikes, and plus, the training bikes go through a heck of a beating," Darrow said.

Canton Township owns two Harley police bikes, and four officers are qualified to patrol on them: Officer Dan Newman, Detective Davey LeBlanc, Sgt. Ed Tanner and Darrow.

Darrow said he hopes the department buys some more motorcycles, and township Supervisor Tom Yack said that sounds like a good idea. "The board members see the bikes as a real positive and necessary tool," he said. Yack suspects that Darrow might get his wish in 1993.

The safety course is designed to teach officers to control the motorcycles much more assiduously than the average rider.

AVOCADO, TOMATO AND RED CABBAGE

Serves 4 as a first course

1 cup shredded red cabbage
1 tablespoon red wine vinegar
Salt
1 ripe avocado
1 teaspoon freshly squeezed lemon juice
1 cup diced seeded tomato (about 1 large cut in ½-inch dice)
2 tablespoons extra-virgin olive oil
Freshly ground black pepper

1. Combine the shredded cabbage with the vinegar. Season with a pinch of salt and toss well. Let sit for 30 minutes to 1 hour.

2. Cut the avocado in half lengthwise and remove pit. Cut each half into 6 to 8 strips. Remove skin from each strip, and cut each into ½-inch segments. Carefully place in a mixing bowl (do not crush pieces). Sprinkle pieces with lemon juice.

3. After the cabbage has marinated, drain it and add to the avocado. Add the diced tomato. Drizzle olive oil over ingredients in the bowl. Season with additional salt and several grinds of pepper. Fold together gently and serve.

Madonna will offer classes in Brighton

Madonna University will begin holding satellite courses at Brighton High School in September.

The classes are for students who have completed their first two years of college and plan to pursue a bachelor of science degree in business administration.

The fall term classes include contemporary literature, computer information systems for decision making and organizational behavior. All offerings are structured so that the entire baccalaureate program can be completed at the Brighton center. Some students may also choose to take alternative courses at Madonna University's Livonia campus.

"Our courses may also be taken by guest students from other colleges, current Madonna students who find the Brighton location more convenient, or by people who are not business majors but need to fill various requirements and want to do so closer to home," Charlotte Neuhauser, dean of the school of business.

For those interested in learning more about this program, an advisor from Madonna University will be at Brighton High School's community education trailer on Wednesday, Aug. 19, Tuesday, Aug. 25, and Wednesday, Sept. 2 from 5:30 to 7:30 p.m. to answer questions, work with students and evaluate transcripts.

For more information, contact the Madonna University School of Business at 591-5117.

March raises $40,000 for humane society shelters

More than $40,000 in pledges was raised at the Michigan Humane Society's fourth spring Mutt March held June 21 in Grosse Pointe Shores, according to MHS spokesman Ron Blauet.

A total of 383 participants with pledges walked a five-mile course to raise money for the animals at the Michigan Humane Society (MHS).

Many walkers were accompanied by their favorite canine friends. Each dog waking in the event received a neckerchief with "I walked 5 miles for the Michigan Humane Society" printed on it.

The final Mutt March for the year will be held Saturday, Sept. 19, at Nankin Mills Station on Edward Hines Drive at Ann Arbor Trail in Westland.

Pledge sheets and walk information can be obtained from any of the MHS shelters or by calling (313) 872-3400.

Madonna dean to head state group

Mary Wawrzynski, dean of the college of nursing and health at Madonna University, has been elected president of the Michigan Association of Colleges of Nursing effective in September.

Currently there are 15 collegiate/university based bachelor of science in nursing programs in the state that belong to MACN.

Since her appointment as dean in 1990, Wawrzynski has been instrumental in promoting Madonna University's BSN program, the graduates of which have had a 97.7 percent passing rate on the state nursing board examination for the past four consecutive years. She has also cultivated nursing articulation agreements with five area community colleges whereby nurses with an associate degree can earn a BSN at Madonna with a minimum of class repetition and greater savings in education costs.

"As president of MACN, I plan to work closely with the colleges and schools of nursing at all levels to encourage educational mobility for students. I will also seek to promote the nursing field's agenda for health care reform."

Wawrzynski earned her bachelor's and master's degrees in nursing and a doctorate in educational psychology from Wayne State University. Her clinical specialty has been high risk and basic maternity nursing.

Novi Expo Center to host new boat show

Novi will be the site of a new boat show in 1993, the Michigan Boating Industries Association said.

Its new Novi Boating Expo will be at the Novi Expo Center, west of Novi Road and south of I-96, March 31 through April 4, 1993.

"The location of the new show will complement the success of the Detroit Boat Show, giving us a broader reach to the north, south and west," said Van Snider, MBIA executive director.

"With 200,000 square feet of exhibition space, we're expecting a very impressive event and a great turnout."

The facility is set up to handle boats that can be displayed within the limits of a 13.6-foot ceiling-to-floor area. "This will be an easy move-in, easy move-out show for exhibitors and probably limited to trailered boats under 30 feet," said Snider.

Host families needed for foreign exchange students

Host families are needed for foreign exchange students who will arrive in August from Europe, South America and Asia.

More than 900 students still await American host families through the American Institute for Foreign Study Scholarship Foundation. Students have their own medical insurance and spending money.

To volunteer, or for additional information, call Gideon and Lynne Levenbach, 453-8562, or Scott Willson, 1-800-322-4678.

Parking credits

It's time to scrap them

The city's old, outmoded parking credit system should be scrapped immediately.

The Byzantine system forces new businesses or those expanding to pay up to $10,000 per parking space when locating or expanding downtown. It's like a Mafia shake down.

Downtown Plymouth businesses need foot traffic, not auto traffic, to make a go of it. And the tragedy is that the parking credit system is keeping out businesses like medium priced restaurants which operate on large volume and low profit margins.

Such restaurants help produce the much needed foot traffic that's wanted by other types of stores. Let's face it, most folks like a bit of a walk after lunch or dinner. And if that walk takes them to shops, so much the better.

Doug Miller, a city commissioner, has been pushing for reforms to the parking credit system for more than two years, ever since he was chairman of the Planning Commission.

He and members of the parking committee have put together a report on easing the restrictions. That report was presented to the city commission this week.

The bottom line of the report is this: There is no parking problem in downtown Plymouth and requiring significant on-site parking just doesn't make sense.

The report compares Plymouth with other nearby cities, which don't require individual businesses to provide as much parking as is required in Plymouth.

It recommends that Plymouth bring the city's parking requirements in line with those in other communities.

While we agree with the report, we think it should go further. Malls are the popular place to shop these days, despite the often long walk from the parking lot to the entrance.

One reason for this is that folks know exactly where to park. This is something Plymouth could remedy with better signs and information systems.

The large parking structure behind the Mayflower Hotel on Main Street and Ann Arbor Trail is one example. From all appearances, it looks as though it's a private parking structure for the hotel. It isn't. It's public.

But back to the malls. Downtown Plymouth in a sense is a shopping mall and should be promoted and managed as such. The reason for the success of malls is that the management plans for and seeks out diversity in business. They know that a coney island or small record store helps attract shoppers.

It's time for Plymouth to junk the old parking system and get on with looking at itself as an outdoor mall. Times have changed.

Court ruling becomes burden

The right to choose is dangling by a thread. A 5-4 Supreme Court decision has left women with the right to an abortion, though states can impose a myriad of restrictions as long as it doesn't present an "undue burden."

While the ruling is nebulous, the future is clear: States will pass one restriction after another and then pro-choice proponents will make challenges in the courts.

Even more dangerous is that two Supreme Court justices voting on the choice side (Henry Blackmun and John Paul Stevens) are both past 70. Chances are, the person who is president in January 1993 will most likely appoint at least one Supreme Court justice.

For those who want to see the Supreme Court keep abortion as a legal option, the answer is to vote for a pro-choice presidential candidate.

Legislatively, federal representatives and senators can circumvent any future erosion of abortion rights by enacting the Freedom of Choice act. The act would restrict states' ability to set limitations more so than the current Supreme Court test allows.

States don't have to restrict abortions, and Michigan's Legislature shouldn't.

Individuals who feel strongly that a right to privacy in matters relating to reproduction should not only tell their friends how they feel but should also let the candidates know during the campaign. Then use pro-choice as one of the deciding factors when casting ballots in the August and November elections.

Already one group has emerged to support candidates who are clearly pro-choice. Women in Politics, a loosely-organized bipartisan coalition of pro-choice Oakland County women, is recruiting pro-choice voters to actively campaign for candidates of their ilk. It's more than lip service, it's sending out letters and knocking on doors. It's also giving financial support.

No one should doubt that individuals who are pro-life will use the same methods to get candidates elected who mirror their beliefs.

While the heat is off the Supreme Court for the moment, the temperature should rise in state and federal campaigns. Candidates are abundant this summer. They're out looking for supporters. Don't allow a candidate to waffle on this issue — or any issue. Ask direct questions and don't settle for less than a direct answer.

Too many issues of individual rights are at stake, and sound bites and slick campaign literature aren't going to change that. It's time for candidates and voters to stand up and be counted.

There is no shame in telling either voters or candidates that a person favors having a choice, which is not the same as being pro-abortion. It should be up to the woman to decide her fate, without having governmental interference in possible options.

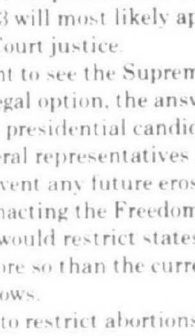
Pro-choice voters have to speak up or the freedom to choose will disappear right along with the confetti swept from floors of election night celebrations this November.

COMMUNITY VOICE

QUESTION:

What do you think of professional basketball players being allowed to play in this year's Olympics?

We asked this question at the Plymouth Post Office.



'They should give some amateurs a chance because the pros are making fools out of the other nations.'

Sign thefts

On July 1 after 11:30 p.m., someone stole the "John Stewart for Supervisor" sign from our front lawn. Also I have been informed that other Stewart campaign signs have disappeared in the township. This behavior is disgusting and I hope it will not continue with John Stewart's campaign or with any of the other candidates running for office in the township. Removing the Stewart sign apparently was no prank as evidenced by an opposing candidate sign next door not being disturbed.

I have no knowledge of who might be doing this sign stealing. However, I do know that once I sided with Stewart on Mettetal Airport in 1990 and we both asked the question, Why does Plymouth Township want to buy an airport? Bad things started to happen to the Dusbibers. During the heat of debates on Mettetal last year our car radiator hose was slashed, our car tire punctured and I was physically assaulted in the Wayne County Building after an airport related hearing by an airport supporter. To all of this childish behavior I say lets stop such tactics and be open. Lets talk and debate the issues in a fair and rational American way.

Dirty politics it seems has filtered down from the highest office level and appears now in our local election. I have the impression that there are a few candidate supporters who fully believe in the saying that "the end justifies the means."

Yes, my convictions are with John Stewart because I believe in his high character, his governmental experience and his dedication in trying to bring representative government back to the people. That is why I have a Stewart sign in my front lawn.

MEA losing leadership clout

DOC DOYLE

Question: A few weeks ago, you wrote that the MEA leadership can't expect teacher raises of 7 percent (or more) next year.

We have worked for years to get salaries, working conditions and fringe benefits to a decent level. What do you see happening?

Answer: Bluntly, I believe the MEA, the strongest and most powerful union in the state, may soon become an artifact in the Smithsonian Institution. That's a bold statement, not an angry one, inasmuch as I was one of a group of teacher union presidents who fought for the right to negotiate in the mid-60s.

Nevertheless, there is no doubt in my mind that the MEA is a target in Gov. Engler's commitment to fiscal solvency.

Look at the facts! Unions, teachers' or otherwise, are losing the battle at an alarming rate, i.e. the air controllers, Caterpillar, Krogers, GM's Willow Run plant.

Shifting money from the wealthy district to poorer districts (the Robin Hood Act) does not generate citizen support for school tax increases in the wealthy (out-of-formula) districts. Dumping FICA payments onto the local districts and freezing property taxes is all money that went into teacher salary agreements in the past. Not anymore. That money is gone.

Let's look at an example, the Plymouth Canton district in which I was once president of the teacher organization.

In two years, that district lost a total of about $6.8 million from the property tax freeze, the Robin Hood Act, state FICA cuts and entitlement money for such items as transportation and vocational education. That translates into a loss of 56.5 positions so far. This scenario is being played out in other Observer & Eccentric communities as well as outstate.

And this is just the tip of the iceberg. If Engler's "cut and cap" plan is approved by voters in November, property tax assessments will be rolled back by 30 percent over three years and assessments will be capped at 3 percent or the rate of inflation, whichever is less. That translates into less money for books, salaries and fringe benefits.

The 7 percent raise received by teachers in many districts is only for those at the top of the salary schedule. All others receive an additional 3 to 5 percent raise as they move up each rung in what some cases can be a 12-step schedule. Add on fringe benefit increases, and the actual total is about 12 to 13 percent a year, or approximately 37 percent over the life of a three year contract.

Educators have been getting good raises for the last 20-plus years, and I believe they have deserved the raises. But there is only one source for money, and that is to lay off even more teachers and administrators and increase class sizes.

If Engler's "cut and cap" measure is approved in November, I envision:

- Few teacher strikes, more districts working without a settled contract. As one board member told me, "They can walk 'til they wear their shoes out. There is no money."
- The great, committed teachers will still be doing a great job.
- The angry teachers will still be angry.
- There will be more buyouts, more teachers getting out.
- Many teachers will start asking for what we are paying $400 to $500 in MEA annual dues.

The MEA has done an outstanding job for Michigan teachers, and I am proud to have been part of that effort. But if Engler's "cut and cap" bill passes, the MEA, as it is presently structured, will have lost much of its power.

Poor judgment

Your front-page story on Canton's first Liberty Fest offended and angered me. With a wide choice of exciting, spirit-lifting, community-building events and exhibits to report on, why did you choose to lead with a description of "road kill" and animal skulls?

I think your journalist used extremely poor taste, and your editor(s) extremely poor judgment to feature such an obnoxious item.

Your readers would have been far better served by a description of the concerts, or the car show, or the fine arts exhibition, or the glorious fireworks.

What a poor impression you made!

George R. Beeker, Canton

No sense of fun

As one of the creators of the Challenge Festival, the precursor to the precursor to the Liberty Festival, I want to congratulate all the people involved in making this event a success. The Festival will go a long way toward providing area residents with an activity full of fun and excitement. Canton should be proud of this outstanding event.

Having worked on Festivals for over 20 years I know the feeling of exhilaration when all the work is done, the activities are over and the feedback of praise has started. Many will rush out to the news stand on Monday to see how the event has been reviewed, what pictures have been run, and what others have said about the event that has taken up much of their time for many months.

Imagine the dismay of Canton supporters when the article highlighting the Liberty Festival is read. The article gave no sense of the fun, the excitement or the enjoyment that many families felt. The writer, in a rather weak attempt at humor, instead pokes fun at people and as a result directly ridicules the people that put on the Festival.

I was most pleased with the advance coverage given the event. The special insert section was outstanding. The awareness created of a new Festival coming to town was well done. But the article after the fact was an insult.

I have never written a letter to the editor commenting on poor coverage, as one cannot and should not expect that articles will always turn out the way one wants. However, I feel compelled to ask that the writer apologize to the dozens of Township employees and Township supporters that created and then put on a fine and outstanding Festival.

Thank you, Canton Township, for an excellent weekend.

MEAP test concern

My sadness deepens as the propaganda regarding MEAP testing continues. Our children will have to pass all sections of the MEAP test to graduate from high school.

Child advocates have encouraged changes that include building of self-esteem, the creation of a safe classroom environment, discipline with dignity and respect, a cooperative atmosphere, and on and on; all of those things that help children to realize their fullest potential.

Now, we have reduced ourselves to putting all of our effort into raising MEAP scores. MEAP was not created to be an exit test from high school.

All children will never by able to pass this test. Many children work hard, but have difficulty passing a test. Those children may benefit from the emphasis on beating the state test. But, what about those children who have struggled with their reading and math since they started school? What about those children who work hard every day of their lives but cannot read the MEAP test? What about those children who can read, but read at a very slow pace?

I challenge the legislators, the teachers, the parents, the board of education members, to take the test (an old one, of course). Find out how good you are. Is this test really appropriate for our children.

Not Big Brother

Your editorial on the "Informed Consent Bill" in our Michigan legislature gets much disagreement from me. It is not a so-called "Big Brother" intrusion.

Most of the so-called "women" whom you say have already made up their minds about abortions when they enter an abortion chamber, are actually teenagers who are scared and nervous and very ill-informed about abortion. Many of them have been coerced into abortion by their just as ill-informed parents, boyfriends, or peers.

These young girls need sound counseling about the risks of abortion. They need to know exactly what an abortion is — and it is not like having some "tissue" removed. They need to have support from a friend or relative who cares for them, not some abortion chamber worker whose salary depends on doing the abortion.

You say it is "hassle, hassle, hassle." It shouldn't be considered a hassle when a young girl's future health is at stake or when an unborn child's life is at stake. On the contrary, every effort should be made to fully inform the female patient of her options and of the true facts about abortion.

Does the Observer have the guts to print this letter?

Canton not safe

I have been a Canton resident for only two years. I thought when my family and I moved here from Wayne that things would be a little more safer. But I was wrong. On early Monday morning thieves broke into our storage compartment in our apartment complex, cut off two locks, took expensive tools that were hidden very well in the back of the storage compartment. Others in my building were also victims but not hit as bad as I was.

What was really degrading after waking up and finding all my tools taken is going down to the office and speaking with the managers of Stoneybrook Apartments. Instead of getting some kind of compassion, they became defensive and said nothing could be done, not even a sorry this happened, nothing. They will not allow us to contact the owners of the complex. They would not even come down and look to see what the damage was.

Nobody has any idea what goes on here at Stoneybrook and Canton Crossings (alias Honeytree). Every time there's a crime here or over at the Crossing's it's like hush hush. This is Canton. We're not supposed to have crime here then sweep it under the rug. I'm writing this letter in hopes someone will listen to our story, and let everyone else know what's going on around here.

Thank you for your time.

Leonard A. Dingman, Canton

Stop the bashing

Who appointed Kathleen McCarthy to be spokesperson for the citizens of Plymouth Township? How does she know that we are tired of the present administration? We have no reason to be embarrassed as a community.

How many township meetings has she attended?

I have lived in this community for 13 years. The township organization knew who I was the first six months of my residency here. Since then periodically I have attended the township meetings. I always was granted time to present my view. The reception was not always cordial, however, never was I denied the opportunity to express my opinion.

The sewer problem is an expensive undertaking, however it must be constructed. We know from past experience that Detroit has not faced up to that challenge. We are at their mercy. We are allowed little if any input. Our water and service rates go up every year.

Let's resolve our problem and stop bashing one another.

Martha C. Suchanski, Plymouth

Dare lauded

I recently attended DARE graduation at Gallimore School as a teacher paraprofessional who participated in the 17-week class conducted by Officer Leonard Schemanske. Everyone in the community should be very proud of what the fifth-graders learned and shared with their parents and teachers, and most of all we should be very proud of the DARE program being conducted in our community. Considering the prevalence of drugs in our society it is of enormous importance to educate our young people about the dangers of becoming involved in the drug culture.

Secondly, I want to commend Officer Schemanske for doing such an excellent job. He has the ability to communicate with the students in such a way as to make them feel responsible for making good decisions in their personal anecdotes and discipline in just the right amounts to keep the students attention and discussion on track in class. He is an educator in the true sense of the word. Plymouth-Canton Community schools should be very proud to have such an effective and caring officer as a member of this DARE team.

Louise Modson

Home schooling

Let's go back to the 1600s. Back then very few children went to school. Most children would stay home to help on the farm, or would do school work at home or at a private school. Now almost everyone goes to the public school, just because of the price. They would have to pay for the public school when their kids were going to a private school. That's the only reason they send their kids to a public school.

Mental health agency expects to stay open

BY TAYLOR LINCOLN
STAFF WRITER

■ 'We made big progress. We are not going to go bankrupt in the middle of August. We still have a lot of issues to resolve, but I'm optimistic we can work things out.'

— Thomas Herzberg, director
Suburban West Community Center

Suburban West Community Center, an agency responsible for providing out-patient mental health treatment throughout western Wayne County, has apparently survived its current budget crunch, and may have improved its relationship with its chief source of funding — the Detroit-Wayne County 258 Board.

"We made big progress. We are not going to go bankrupt in the middle of August," said Thomas Herzberg, director of Suburban West, in reference to a meeting held earlier this month between Suburban West and the Detroit-Wayne County Board.

Suburban West entered this year with a $134,000 debt, and is projecting a $116,000 deficit this year. Herzberg had threatened to close the operation for several weeks at the end of the 1992 fiscal year to reduce expenses, until the Detroit-Wayne County Board promised to advance money to Suburban West.

"We still have a lot of issues to resolve, but I'm optimistic we can work things out" Herzberg said.

One of the key issues concerns the Detroit-Wayne County Board's expectation for individual agencies to increase the amount of money they can raise by billing Medicaid for their services.

The Michigan Department of Mental Health has pressured local boards (such as the Detroit-Wayne County Board) to supplement their budgets by increasing Medicaid receipts, because Medicaid expenditures are partially reimbursed by the Federal government.

The Detroit-Wayne County Board has held its allocations to Suburban West at $1.05 million per year over the past three years, with the expectation that Suburban West would increase revenues by billing Medicaid.

Although Suburban West has nearly tripled its Medicaid revenues since 1989 ($83,000 to $203,000), the increase has not kept pace with expenses.

Herzberg contends that Suburban West has been given an unreachable Medicaid expectation because only 25 percent of its clients are eligable for Medicaid.

"They're maintaining the position that we are not maximizing our Medicaid billing, which we accept to some degree, but they did say they would review our expectation," he said.

Suburban West officials believe the agency has been underfunded by the Detroit-Wayne County Board since it opened in 1978. Herzberg, who has run the operation since its inception, has complained the agency has not received an equitable amount of funding in relation to other agencies.

Although the Detroit-Wayne County Board would not offer an opinion on Suburban West's efficiency, Pat Hauser, chairwoman of the Suburban West Board of Directors, said the Detroit Wayne County Board "has not been happy with Suburban West."

"We have not had a strong administration," she said. "The people who set up the agency — Tom (Herzberg) and the rest of them — are program people. They didn't have good organizational skills.

She believes that the problem has been solved. "We are much better now. We have our books in order. We can easily show them what our problems are."

Herzberg agreed. "We've gone from being a mom and pop organization, in terms of records, to a highly detailed computer system," he said, attributing much of the progress to the fact that the agency hired an accountant 18 months ago.

Although it has survived its current crisis, Suburban West is not equipped to make substantial gains against the mental-illness problem in the area. Merely to be eligable to receive services, people must have either been hospitalized or be on the verge of doing serious damage to themselves.

People who are eligable for services can only visit a therapist once every two-to-four weeks. "That's not a whole lot of face-to-face contact," Herzberg said.

"There are a lot of programs we would like to work with, but there just isn't enough money," Hauser said. "The pressure is on the bottom layer. You try to provide the services, but you can't provide the services for free.

Former Michigan Department of Mental Health Director Tom Watkins, a member of the Detroit-Wayne County Board blames the state for disregarding the plight of mentally ill people.

"I think that what you're seeing is that times are tough and that vulnerable people are not a priority," he said. "We cannot continue to ask more and more of providers (mental health agencies) and provide less and less.

"We're not talking about throw-away people, we're talking about real people with real needs."

For its part, the state points out that it increased the number of dollars it put into mental health in 1992, including to the Detroit-Wayne County Board.

"When the statements come out and say the state mental health budget has been cut and we know we put additional millions into mental health in a tough year, that draws a reaction from us," said Department of Mental Health communications director Tom DeLoach.

According to DeLoach, the Detroit-Wayne County Board is projected to receive $268 million in 1992, up from $260 million last year — a 3 percent increase. He did concede that the increase will do little more than act as an inflation adjustment.

Vocational ed a major part of Suburban West program

BY TAYLOR LINCOLN
STAFF WRITER

Suburban West Community Center's vocational training program is one of several approaches to mental illnesses which hope to eventually stabilize or reduce the need for mental health treatment in Michigan.

The vocational training program, which is located at Suburban West's Partial Day Center on Schoolcraft near Inkster Road in Redford Township, aims to help psychiatrically disabled people become independent members of society by providing simulated job training, placing them in jobs, and lending them support in their employment.

"People who are mentally impaired are made to feel like they're losers, that they have nothing to contribute, and they lose their sense of self worth," said Frank Verdejo, director of the partial day program.

"When people have work and have an identity, those problems are solved. We don't have to get into psychiatric and medical treatment and terminology," Verdjo explained.

Suburban West's vocational training program differs from some of its predecessors because it focuses soley on patients with psychiatric problems, as opposed to developmentally disabled people.

People with psychiatric problems frequently have normal intelligence and competence levels, but have difficulty sustaining jobs. Developmentally disabled people have functional limitations.

"For many years, these two populations were lumped together and given the same services," Verdejo said. "In the past 10 years the system has realized that they are under the same umbrella of mental illness, but really need to be treated differently."

With the proper treatment, people with psychiatric problems can frequently become independently functioning members of society. Because the vocational-training program is directed toward this population, the program trains its clients for jobs which will challenge them.

Typical job-training programs for mentally ill patients teach them to do menial work, which can be insulting to intelligent psychiatrically troubled people.

Rather than teaching clients to do janitorial and dishwashing jobs, the Suburban West program teaches clerical skills and potentially higher-paying maintenance skills, such as carpet cleaning.

Verdejo cites one client who got a job as a tour director at Greenfield Village and now works as a conservation consultant for Detroit Edison.

"This is a client who had a chronic history who was not expected to do well," he said.

The partial-day program offices include a clerical-skills room, which is equipped with computers and a color copy machine, a simulated restaurant kitchen, an industrial cleaning supplies room (clients use the supplies to perform paying jobs for area businesses), and a mock apartment to help teach living skills.

The computers have up-to-date versions of Microsoft Word and Word Perfect word processing software.

"If you told people that we'd have computers in here a couple of years ago, they'd laugh at you," Verdejo said. "These were supposed to be things that the normal population couldn't handle, much less disabled people."

According to Verdejo, the results have been excellent. The program was designed to place eight people per year into jobs, and has succeeded in placing at least 10 people per year.

As with many mental health programs, the vocational training program lives under constant economic uncertainty. The program is in the final year of a three-year grant from Michigan Rehabilitative Services (MRS) and the Suburban West Center, which operates the partial day program, has an uncertain financial future.

The partial-day program is further hampered by the fact that many of its patients, although they are disabled adults, are ineligible for Medicaid due to the incomes of their parents. The state Department of Mental Health has leaned on agencies to help sustain themselves by increasing Medicaid revenues.

Former state Department of Mental Health director Tom Watkins, who currently sits on the board of the Detroit-Wayne County Community Mental Health Board, regards the vocational training program as one of several underfunded, innovative programs which could eventually reduce the state's mental health costs as well as enhancing the lives of people who suffer from the illnesses.

"These are tough, tough times, but there are also some excellent programs and services available. There just aren't enough dollars to meet the need," he said.

Area teams fare well in Wolverine

Chip shot: Rick Allio scored twice in this semifinal victory, but Canton Juventus settled for runner-up honors in the under-17 division.

The Canton Hornets, an under-13 boys premier soccer team, won an age-group title Monday in the finals of the annual Wolverine Tournament at Schoolcraft College.

When the final net was taken off the goal posts Monday at the Ford-Wolverine XIII Soccer Tournament, it was hard telling who was more exhausted.

The players had plenty of reasons to be tired with a three-day schedule of games — but the volunteer workers endured a grueling schedule as well. Saturday and Sunday games were played at both Schoolcraft College and Bicentennial Park in Livonia and Monday's premier division championships were decided at Schoolcraft.

Also, this was the first year the Wolverine has had championships for recreational teams. The total count of teams reached 142.

"We keep growing (in number of teams attending)," said Irene Saucedo-Smith, president of the Michigan State Youth Soccer Association and chairman of the Wolverine. "But we have all volunteers and it gets to the point where you wish you had a full-time staff (at the MSYSA)."

Eight boys teams and four girls teams were crowned champions on Monday.

Canton Hornets champs

The Canton Hornets, coached by Phil LaJoy and managed by Michael Wright, won the Under-13 boys premier championship with a 3-2 shootout win Monday over the Milwaukee Kickers at Schoolcraft.

Darrin Thompson (Canton) and Jacob Rea (Canton) scored one goal each in regulation as the Hornets went into overtime tied at 2-2. After two scoreless five-minute overtimes, the Hornets outscored the Kickers 4-2 in the shutout for the one-point victory.

Thompson, Rea, Chad Doan (Dearborn) and Jason Bennett (Belleville) scored goals in the shootout. Goalie Andres Lopez (Plymouth) earned the win by coming up big in the shootout.

The Hornets won 4-0, 6-1 and 10-2 the first two days and advanced into the final with Monday morning's 2-0 semifinal win over the Livonia Youth Soccer Club's Wings.

Two other Canton teams — the Under-12 Express and Under-17 Juventus — lost in the finals on Monday. Each team lost 1-0.

LYSC United again

Once again, a Livonia Youth Soccer Club United team coached by Pat McCaul prevailed at the Wolverine. This time it was the 16-Under girls team which won a championship, the fifth such one for a McCaul-coached team.

United beat the Milwaukee Kickers 4-0 in the final game played Monday and for the second straight year was unscored upon in the Wolverine. Lindsay Bryant (Northville) was the goalkeeper and defenders included Lisa Bernardo (Northville), Lenay Truchan (Livonia), Kris Mahon (Farmington), Jamie Colliton (Livonia), Jean Loy (Livonia), Wendy McCaul (Livonia) and Emil Lawrence (Northville).

Soccer playoffs on tap

The Great Lakes Men's Soccer League will complete its regular season this weekend in all three divisions. In the First Division, four of the eight playoff berths are secured, but the remaining seven clubs still have a mathematical chance at the final four spots.

For the first-place Redford Marauders, there will be a lot at stake at 7 p.m. Friday when they take the field at Livonia's Bicentennial Park against the Ann Arbor Hattricks. The Hattricks (11 points, two matches left) are one of three teams with a chance of overtaking the Marauders (14 points, two matches left).

The playoffs begin July 26.

In the Second Division, the African Stars are first (7-0-2) with 16 points, followed by Palermo (6-1-2) with 14 and the Chillers and SFC 92 (both 5-1-2) with 12 apiece. The Plymouth Blast (6-2-0), with 12 points, top the Third Division.

Pair tied for hockey lead

After two weeks of play in the Metro Summer Hockey League, the Falcons and Wolves are tied at the top with 3-0 records (six points).

The Falcons on Sunday beat the Bulldogs 3-1 on the strength of a goal and assist by forward Rich Bernard. Kevin Beals was the winning goalkeeper and Rick Nagy was in net for the Bulldogs, who are 1-2.

The Wolves kept pace with the Falcons after rallying for a 10-8 win Monday over the winless Wildcats. The Wolverines trailed 7-5 after two periods.

Tim Osborn led the Wolves with four goals and three assists, and Joe Burton added three goals and four assists. Rob McDonald, Jack McCoy and Sean McAlister scored two goals apiece for the Wildcats.

The Canadiens improved to 1-1-1 with a 6-5 win Monday over the Broncos. Brian Cronan's goal with 17 seconds left was the clincher. Joe Bonnett had two goals and two assists for the winners and Cronan contributed two goals and an assist.

The Huskies beat the undermanned Lakers 16-3 on Monday. Pat Hultman, Tony Guzzo and Mark Chappelli each scored hat tricks. Doug Stromback had a goal and six assists.

The Lakers (1-2-1) were without four of their better players.

The Huskies lost to the Spartans 10-8 on Sunday. The Spartans (1-2) got three goals from Josh Wiegand and two goals, three assists from Scott Lock. Guzzo, Stromback and Hultman had two goals each for the Huskies. Stromback added three assists.

The Lakers played to a 9-9 tie Sunday with the Kings. The Kings rallied after falling behind 4-0 after one period.

Wildcats try to survive in AAU hoop tourney

The Western Wayne Wildcats started well but suffered a setback Tuesday in the 11-and-under AAU girls national basketball championships in Salt Lake City, Utah.

The Wildcats were pool-play champions and advanced to the Round of 16, but their first game at that stage ended in a 50-48 overtime loss to Oklahoma.

Coach Gary Schwan's team trailed by 15 points (34-19) in the third quarter but rallied to tie the score at 44 with 55 seconds left in the game.

"The good thing was how our kids fought back," Schwan said. "The sad thing is we didn't make some shots at the end. We could have won it in regulation, but we missed a jump shot right at the end."

Laura Schneider (Canton) and Kristin Lukasik (Canton) paced the Wildcats with 16 and 10 points, respectively. Schwan also acknowledged the defensive effort by Amanda Abraham (Plymouth).

"She did a nice job on defense and, believe me, there are some really good players here," he said. "One player made five threes against us. The skill level in girls basketball is really growing."

The Wildcats gave away a height advantage at every position against Oklahoma and were further disadvantaged when post player Lauren Metaj (Northville) played only a half after she re-injured an ankle.

"Everybody we have played has been bigger," Schwan said, "so it's kinda neat that we could hang in there. The girls really played hard."

Western Wayne lost a crossover game to New York 59-56, but Schneider was unable to play because a broken wrist suffered prior to the tournament was "puffy," according to Schwan. She is able to play with a protective cast, however.

The Wildcats had an important game early Wednesday against Texas, fighting for their survival in the double-elimination tournament, which concludes Saturday.

Other team members are Rachel Lukasik, Cassie Moore and Angela Sillmon of Plymouth; Jenny Newsone and Anne Kijek of Canton; Julie Warner of Livonia, Heather Davis of Northville and Carissa Gizicki of Taylor.

"The neat thing is our team is a local team," Schwan said. "The big bombers out here all have players recruited statewide. We could do that, but that's not why we (have the team). We want to improve our school teams."

In the 18-and-under AAU national tournament played last week in New Mexico, the Wilcats reached the quarterfinals but were eliminated after losses to North Carolina (91-79) and South Carolina (78-74).

All-stars to play Canadians

Team Canada is coming to town.

The Canadians, not to be confused with Montreal's pro hockey team, will take on the Livonia Collegiate League (20-and-under) All-Stars, beginning at 1 p.m. Saturday at Ford Field. (Admission is free.)

"We've had 39 in camp and we'll be down to 20 players by the weekend," said Team Canada general manager Bernie Soullierre. "Right now we're identifying talent and building our team for the future."

After going 2-6 in last year's Pan American Games (held in Cuba), Team Canada failed to qualify for the upcoming Barcelona, Spain Olympics.

Coached by former Chicago Cub and Philadelphia Phillies minor league pitcher John Upham, Team Canada is gearing up for next week's exhibition series against Team USA, which includes stops in Millington, Tenn., Louisville and Philadelphia. Prior to Saturday's game against the Livonia League, Team Canada will play an exhibition Friday in Eastpointe.

The Canadians feature pitcher Daniel Brabent, a 19-year-old from Longueuil, Quebec. The 6-foot-1, 210-pounder right-hander was voted MVP of the World Youth Tourney last summer in Brandon, Manitoba after leading the Canadian Juniors to an upset of Cuba.

Ryan Duffy, a 6-3, 185-pound lefty from Sombra, Ontario, is another pitcher with pro potential. The team's top slugger is John Cann, a 6-4 switch-hitting first baseman from New Castle, New Brunswick. The 22-year-old Cann attends the National Baseball Institute in Vancouver, B.C.

The Livonia Collegiate All-Stars counter with several area players including starter Scott Niemiec, a catcher who plays for the University of Michigan. Niemiec also helped Plymouth Salem High win the 1991 State Class A championship. He plays for Hines Park Lincoln/Mercury in the summer circuit.

Niemiec will be joined in the starting lineup by Jeff Pendell, a shortstop who normally plays third for Walter's Appliance. Pendell is a Livonia Churchill High product who plays for Madonna University.

Yet another starter is Westland John Glenn High product Jerry Shippe, who will open at second. He plays for Little Caesars.

Kevin Young, also of Walter's, will start in the outfield. He enjoyed an outstanding freshman season at Central Michigan after starring at Farmington High.

Key reserves include Tom Davey, a first baseman from Hines Park who played for the '91 state champs at Salem; second baseman Joe Brusseau of Walter's, who prepped at Redford Bishop Borgess before going on to Madonna; and outfielder Paul Pirronello, a Redford Catholic Central grad who recently completed a stellar season at Henry Ford Community College. Pirronello is headed for the University of Detroit-Mercy.

LCBL manager Mike Keller (Walter's) will also have his own right-hander Steve Ross, formerly of Redford CC and now with Henry Ford CC, as part of the pitching staff.

Hines Park shares LCBL lead

Hines Park Lincoln/Mercury moved into a first place tie with Little Caesars in the Livonia Collegiate Baseball League with a doubleheader sweep against the Tecumseh Green Giants Sunday at LaCass Park in Windsor.

Hines Park, which won the opener 3-2 and second game 11-5, is deadlocked with Caesars at 13-7, just three points ahead of second place Walter's Appliance (11-7-1).

In the first game, Jeff Paluk hurled a complete game, striking out nine and allowing just two runs, none of which were earned. He scattered five walks.

"Jeff struggled with his control," Hines Park coach Dave Carroll said. "But I think Jeff said to himself that there was no way he was going to lose that game. He fell behind a lot of the hitters, but when he needed to make a good pitch, he did."

Hines Park tallied all three runs in the third inning. T.C. Raptis paced the offensive attack with a 2-run homer.

In the nightcap, Hines Park scored seven runs in the sixth inning thanks to a pair of RBI doubles from Keith Bozyk (Redford Catholic Central/Adrian College) and Tom Davey (formerly of Plymouth Salem High).

Hines Park collected 15 hits, including three apiece from Davey and Joe Weidenbach.

Geoff Allen (ex-Plymouth Canton) was the winning pitcher, going the first six innings and fanning five. He allowed three runs and five hits. Raptis came on and pitched the seventh, giving up two runs.

Walter's struggles

It wasn't the way Walter's coach Mike Keller wanted Sunday's twinbill with Delwal at Ford Field to turn out — a 10-2 loss and an 8-all deadlock.

Ironically, Walter's entered the weekend in first place, one-half a game ahead of Hines Park and Caesars.

"Those were a couple of tough games," Keller said. "You like to at least split on Sunday, but we're still in the hunt."

In the opener, Delwal outhit Walter's 11-6 thanks to three hits apiece from Jason Valente and Mike Pesci (ex-Farmington Harrison). Valente contributed a pair of triples, while Pesci nailed two homers.

Steve Ross (Redford CC/Henry Ford CC) struggled for Walter's giving up all 10 runs and 11 hits in just five innings.

Craig Overaitis (Livonia Franklin/Madonna University) provided the lone spark for Walter's, blasting a two-run homer in the third inning.

In the second game, Walter's blew an 8-1 lead by allowing Delwal to tally seven runs in the seventh inning. The game was halted after eight innings due to the 2½ hour time limit rule.

Tom Kretschmer and Pesci each had two-run singles to pace Delwal in the seventh.

"Delwal showed a lot of guts," Keller said. "We were outplayed. It's too bad we let the game get away."

Overaitis suffered the loss for Walter's in relief of starter Sean Henkel (Livonia Stevenson/Madonna).

Each team tallied 11 hits. Overaitis, Jason Gabel (Livonia Churchill/Central Michigan) and Chris White (North Farmington/Henry Ford CC) had two hits apiece for Walter's. Pesci led Delwal with three hits and two RBI.

Derek Wirebaugh threw a two-hitter Monday as Delwal won a rescheduled game over host Tecumseh, 7-0. Wirebaugh, who struck out 11 and walked one, is 4-1 on the mound.

Kretschmer was 3-for-3 with a homer (his fourth of the season) and an RBI single. Chad Chapman and Bill McCaig each had two hits. Valente scored two runs and stole four bases.

Caesars sweeps

The wins put Caesars in a first place tie with Hines Park at 13-7.

Roman, the Franklin product now at Henry Ford CC, was the winning pitcher in relief of starter Brandon Endicott. He came on with the bases loaded in the fifth and fanned the side. He struck out five of the six batters he faced.

Roman also excelled offensively, belting two triples and a double as Caesars rallied from a 10-2 deficit.

Gary Pierce (ex-Westland John Glenn) had the game-winning RBI single in the seventh. Jim Solak added two hits in four trips.

Lance Sparks was the losing pitcher. Chad Grieve tallied a two-run homer in a losing cause for Wendy's.

In the second game, Mark VanAmedeys was the winning pitcher for Caesars in relief of Andrew Margolick (North Farmington/Southern Cal).

Caesars trailed 4-3 going into the bottom of the seventh. Margolick scored to tie the game and then Solak (3-for-4 and three RBI) delievered the game-winning RBI triple. Derek Grove added two hits for the winners.

Rob Clen took the loss for Wendy's.

Consecutive losses sideline Mustangs

After winning its first game, the Mid-America Mustangs 16-Under softball team lost two straight last weekend and was eliminated from the All-American National Invitational Tournament in Cincinnati.

The Mustangs beat the Louisville Swingers 8-7 in the first game behind the nine-hit pitching of Stacey Sinke (Canton) and some excellent defense by second baseman Amy Yocum (Belleville).

With the Mustangs ahead 8-5 in the sixth inning, Yocum fielded a ground ball, tagged a Louisville runner between first and second base and threw to first baseman Sue Huber (Canton) for a double play. The play stranded a Louisville runner at third base and kept the Mustangs ahead 8-5.

Sinke helped her own cause with two hits in three at-bats and two RBI. Huber was 1-for-2 with a run scored, an RBI and a sacrifice. Leslee Dickerson (Belleville) was 1-for-2 with an RBI and a run scored, while Tricia Kesner (Garden City) had one hit and one run scored.

The Mustangs met Wilson Plasters (Hutchinson, Kan.) in the second round and the outcome was a 13-3 loss. Wilson Plasters, the No. 1 team in the nation last year according to the Mustangs' statistician Ron Movinski, pounded out 16 hits against Sinke, the losing pitcher.

The Mustangs collected nine hits and were led by Julie Jones (Belleville) with three hits in three at-bats. Huber and Colleen Wutke (Garden City) each were 2-for-3 with an RBI. Heidi Wahl (Southfield) and Nikki Wiesniewski (Canton) had one hit and one run apiece.

Endless Summer (Middletown, Ohio) ended the Mustangs' stay in Cincinnati in the third round. The Mustangs surrendered 22 hits in a 16-6 loss.

Amy Geary was the starting and losing pitcher, allowing 10 hits and eight runs over four innings before being relieved by Sinke.

The Mustangs' collected 16 hits. Jones led the way with three hits, an RBI and a run scored. Huber, Dickerson, Jennifer Jacek (Livonia) and Wiesniewski collected two hits each.

DRC ready to run its 'Super Bowl'

By Steve Kowalski
Staff Writer

Sam McKee, the track announcer at Ladbroke DRC, has missed work once in about 13 years behind the mike.

Because of laryngitis, of course.

"I only missed one day and the only reason I wasn't there is because I couldn't talk," said McKee, the voice at Ladbroke DRC since 1989.

Even if he couldn't call Saturday's 44th Michigan Mile at Ladbroke DRC, McKee wouldn't want to miss watching the state's richest race. Saturday's program begins at 1 p.m. and the Michigan Mile (actually a 1⅛ mile course) is scheduled to begin at 5:15 p.m.

"This is our biggest race of the season, like our Super Bowl," said McKee, who is recovering from a cold but plans on calling the Mile. "There's excitement, the best horses, jockeys, purse, prestige."

For the second-straight year the purse will be $250,000 with $150,000 going to the winner. Black Tie Affair won last year's Mile by 2½ lengths and was the first winner of the race to go on and be named the North American Horse of the Year.

Eleven horses were entered in last year's Mile and as of Tuesday, Ladbroke DRC publicity manager Michael Tanner expected at least 13 for Saturday's race.

Whiz Along, who entered last year's race with 52:1 odds to win, placed second. Tanner expects long shots to have as good a chance at the winner's circle this year.

"Last year most of our 'long shots' were genuine 'long shots,' " Tanner said. "This year, even our 'long shots' will have a real good chance. It will be a good betting race."

Opening odds weren't posted Tuesday but the favorite figures to be Chief Honcho, according to Tanner. Chief Honcho has eight wins in 23 career starts and will be ridden by hall of fame jockey Pat Day.

Other early favorites, according to Tanner, include Discover and Cozzene's Prince.

McKee won't bet on the Mile and when calling a race doesn't have a favorite horse. He lives in Fenton with wife Chris and their three daughters (2½ year-old Meagan and 15-month old twins Melissa and Lindsey), who already are race fans.

PASS television regularly shows Ladbroke DRC races and McKee's voice can be heard announcing the races. His children watch the PASS reruns with as much interest as Sesame Street.

"I tape PASS all the time for them," said McKee, "they get on their rocking horses, hop on them and pretend they're racing. The oldest one walks around the house sometimes saying, 'And they're off.' "

To find who 'they' are, read on:

MILE FAVORITES

Chief Honcho: Will be ridden by Pat Day, the hall of fame jockey who rode Black Tie Affair to victory in last year's Mile. A 5-year-old, Chief Honcho is a versatile horse, according to Tanner, that can lay off the pace or be on or near the lead. Chief Honcho has won about $900,000 in his career.

Discover: Won the June 20th Stephen Foster Handicap, a 1⅛ mile race, by 2½ lengths. Bred and owned by famous Claiborne Farm in Lexington, Ky. The 4-year-old has won seven of 24 starts and finished in the top three 13 times. "Discover races off pace, but will make one run," Tanner said.

Cozzene's Prince: Last raced July 1 at the Woodbine Dominion Day Handicap in Toronto where he was second. Has won races up to 1¼ miles so "stamina won't be a problem," Tanner said. "This will seem like a sprint." The 5-year-old has nine wins in 34 starts, 12 times finishing in place or show.

Alyten: Placed fourth in the Stephen Foster Handicap at Churchill Downs. Sire is Alydar, the former Triple Crown winner. Tanner said this fast starter might be ridden by jockey Ricardo Lopez, the former leading jockey at Ladbroke DRC who rode Beau Genius to victory in 1990. The 4-year-old has four wins in 23 starts.

Stalwars: The oldest horse in the Mile at 7. Stalwars was scheduled to run in the '88 Kentucky Derby but, an injury while training prevented the start. Nine wins and 15 seconds in 49 lifetime starts for the horse which has earned $799,797 total.

Classic Seven: Placed third at the Stephen Foster. A 4-year-old with six wins, one place and four shows in 20 starts. "When he's good he's very good, he's also capable of a real clunker," Tanner said.

Michelle Can Pass: The 4-year-old mare has won five of his last six races and has seven wins in 20 starts. The best-looking horse in the field. "If looks could win the race he'd be the winner," Tanner said.

LONGSHOTS

Dancing Jon: Was impressive the last time out, passing nine horses in the last ¼ mile to win the June 7th mile and one 16th Board of Governors race in Nebraska. The four-year-old has three wins in 11 career starts.

Katahaula County: The 4-year-old not only is listed as a "long shot," he also is a "maybe" entree according to Tanner. Finished a disappointing 10th place at the 1⅛ mile Stephen Foster race but won his previous four races. Katahaula County has never won a race longer than one mile.

Perfectly Proud: Trained by Jack Van Berg who trained Alysheba, the 1987 Kentucky Derby and Preakness winner. Edged by Dancing Jon in the Board of Governor's race June 7th in Nebraska. "Has got to show speed early," Tanner said. Five wins in 25 starts.

Zig n' Zag: The only horse entered who has raced at Ladbroke DRC, winning two stakes races earlier this spring. The 4-year-old has 10 wins in 28 career starts. But "he has never run against this kind of competition at this distance," Tanner said.

Sunny Prince: Has never posted a win on dirt. The 5-year-old who was bred in Canada won seven races on grass turf in Italy.

Irish Swap: A sprinter, the 5-year-old has won nine times in 25 starts.

"I wouldn't say we get better, we have a good team and good practices and that means a lot," McCaul said. "We have one or two changes but I don't go out looking for players. When I have tryouts, whoever I think is capable, that's who I pick."

United is headed to Friday's regional at Canton, Ohio.

In the Under-14 final, the '79 Livonia Hawks lost to the '78 Blazers 5-1. The Hawks had advanced to the final on Monday morning with a 4-3 shootout win over the Milwaukee Kickers. The Hawks' only goal in the final came from Katherine Kobylak of Troy.

John Boots enjoyed coaching the Hawks, who were 10-0 during the league play. The Hawks beat their first three Wolverine opponents by a combined score of 20-2.

"It's a good team, a good bunch of kids — and we're a year younger than the Blazers," Boots said.

The Northville Crusaders Under-19 team lost to Beadling (Pa.) 1-0 in Monday's final. The Crusaders beat Windsor 5-0 in the semifinal after beating three opponents by a combined score of 12-1. The Under-12 girls crown was won by the Milwaukee Kickers, who beat the Centerville (Ohio) Magic, 3-2, in the final.

Varder finds success

The Vardar III soccer club, based out of Livonia, but with players from all over southeast Michigan, found the most success among state teams.

The Vardar III Boys Under-19 and Under-15 teams each won championships and the Vardar III Under-17 team was a runner-up.

The U-15 team, coached by Mike Lupenec, beat the Michigan Wolves 2-0 in the final. Vardar III U-15 won its first three games of the tournament by a combined score of 13-1 and beat Rochester's USL Travelers 1-0 in the semifinal.

Steve Tramontia and Jeff Fliss (Canton), both Olympic Development players, scored in the championship game for Vardar III, which is undefeated (32-0-1) in its age group this summer. The goalkeeper was Alex Garn, another Olympic Development Player.

"And the Lightning bolt will strike again next year," Lupenec predicted. "The kids are showing up (on Vardar III) because of the coaching staff. We're all ex-players and we can relate to the kids better than old parents. We're serious about our program. Our goal is not to win the state, in particular, but to get national recognition."

The U-19 Vardar III team had an even easier time, taking the championship with an 8-0 win over the Dearborn Strikers. The U-19 Vardar III won three earlier Wolverine games by a combined 11-0 score and beat the USL Travelers 4-1 in the semifinal.

Travis Roy (Livonia Stevenson) proved to be a fine first-year addition, scoring eight goals and two assists for coach Matt Paukovits. And to think, Vardar III U-19 did it without five of its best players who missed Monday's championship game for various reasons.

"Last year's team was tough to beat," Paukovits said. "We've had some shoes to fill after losing some key people but we've made some good additions like Mike Gentile and Jeff Cassar (both from Livonia Churchill)."

The Vardar III U-16 team reached the final before losing to Chicago Pegasus 1-0. It was the first loss of the year for Vardar III U-16. Dave Ambroziak (Redford Catholic Central and Livonia) had a chance to send the game into overtime but was stopped on a penalty kick late in the second half.

"In order to win you have to put the ball in the net," Vardar III U-16 coach Vince Dusevic said. "We split halves. They won the first half, we won the second half."

"I go to the right side every time," said Ambrosiak, who was perfect in six previous penalty kicks with Vardar. "On the rebound, I saw the ball, went for it, got hit from behind and they cleared the ball out."

Ocelots add women's hoop recruits

BY C.J. RISAK
STAFF WRITER

It's awfully nice to have a large group of returning players, which is what Schoolcraft College women's basketball coach Jack Grenan will have this fall.

But there are drawbacks: The five players coming back are from a team that was 14-15 overall, but just 4-10 in the Eastern Conference. And while three were starters, the Lady Ocelots' big gun — guard Donna Galli, who led the conference in scoring with a 22-point average — has departed. And so has 6-foot-1 center Nicole Dapprich.

What it adds up to is more talent is needed if SC is to return to the prominence it displayed a few years ago, when it was constantly in the hunt for the conference title. Grenan has committments from several top-notch athletes, to be sure, but the Ocelots won't have the size they had previously.

"This will be a different type of team to coach," said Grenan, who obviously was looking forward to the coming season. "It's fun when you have talent to work with."

Athletically inclined

That is something the new recruits will furnish. "This team is more talented," he said. "There are a lot of (high school) point guards, so they can handle the ball. They can take care of the ball."

Indeed, five of the 11 players on SC's roster played at the point extensively in high school. That doesn't include center/forward Sis Guth, who led the Ocelots in rebounding last season with over nine a game and was the team's second-leading scorer at 18 points per game. While at Taylor Center, the 5-10 Guth did play some at the point.

The list does include Jen Audet, the team's returning starter at point guard and a Livonia Stevenson grad. Others coming back include Dana Hudson (from Birmingham Marian), a starter at small forward at the end of last season; Lori Murphy (Waterford Mott), the team's first substitute at guard (she, too, has played at point); and Michelle Ernst (Wayne Memorial), a small forward/off guard.

Among the six newcomers are three more point players: Lynette Moore, a 5-5 Detroit Southwestern graduate who will have sophomore status after playing at a Kansas junior college last season; Becky Piotruckowski, a 5-7 St. Clair Shores South Lake alumna and the only 1,000-point scorer in school history, male or female; and Angie Cerne, a 5-8 three-sport star from Allen Park.

Fast, but smaller

While that should make SC far quicker, more athletic and better defensively, it doesn't provide much size.

As Grenan noted, the team's strengths "should be quickness and pressing. Our ability to pressure the ball and run the court will be much better than last year."

But, he added: "We'll have to because we don't have the inside players we've had in the past."

He has added some size to help offset Dapprich's departure. Carolyn Nagel, a 5-11 forward from Redford Thurston, should help. Nagel certainly fits the "athletic" description Grenan applied to his recruits; she was also a standout at softball for Thurston.

"She's a lot like Sis (Guth), but a little stronger," said Grenan.

There's also 5-11 center Alisa Wechter from New Boston Huron. She averaged 16 points a game but, "more importantly, led her team in rebounding," said Grenan. "She could play center for us. She's used to playing against bigger people."

The third somewhat sizable recruit is 5-10 forward Chris Nichols, from Dearborn Heights Annapolis. "She's a good post player," said Grenan. However, Nichols suffered a knee injury last season, then aggravated it six weeks ago. She'll wear a brace throughout next season.

"She'll have to have a lot of rest because of her injury," said Grenan, adding that Nichols was about "90 percent" recovered.

Who plays where?

Grenan faces some decisions between now and the start of the next campaign. He has no true center or shooting guard, although he has people who could fill both positions. If Guth plays power forward, either Wechter or Nagel will have to fill the center spot.

Hudson is more of an off guard than small forward; Piotruckowski could also fill either spot, and will have to. Moore and Cerne will both push Audet for playing time and, should Grenan opt to, they will give SC a formidable four-guard lineup.

Due to their lack of size, rebounding will be the key factor for the Ocelots. Grenan believes the loss of Galli won't be a major problem: "What's going to be nice is we won't have to rely on one player scoring 20 or 30 points a game. I think we'll have four or even five players in double figures."

Defense, particularly with pressure, will be important. "The idea on defense will be, 'Don't let them get across half-court.' "

The problem for Grenan will be finding the right combination to accomplish all of the above — and one that can win consistently.

Franklin has 2 new basketball coaches

BY C.J. RISAK
STAFF WRITER

The philosophy may be old, but it's proven:

If it's not broken, don't fix it.

That kind of thinking seems to have been instrumental in the hiring of Livonia Franklin's new girls varsity basketball coach — Mary Jarvis.

Jarvis succeeds Dan Freeman, who stepped down as coach to become athletic director. Freeman was well acquainted with Jarvis; she'd been Franklin's junior varsity coach the past four years, and prior to that served as freshmen coach for three years.

If those ties to the program Freeman developed the past six years aren't strong enough, consider that Jarvis graduated from Franklin in 1984 (as Mary Pollard). She went to Henry Ford CC for two years and played volleyball before attending Eastern Michigan to complete her degree as a special education instructor.

She was first recruited to coach Franklin's freshmen team by Tim Newman, who coached Franklin's varsity before Freeman. "He felt I always had a leadership ability," said Jarvis.

She said she never had deep-rooted hopes to be a varsity coach. "I really didn't plan on doing that," said Jarvis. "I did want to move up to junior varsity after coaching the freshmen."

Her thoughts on taking over the varsity changed when Freeman moved up to AD a month ago, replacing George Lovich. "I wanted to make sure the program continued with the excellence it had under coach Freeman," said Jarvis.

Certainly, Freeman was thinking along the same lines. Said he of Jarvis: "She's very strong in terms of teaching fundamentals and skills of the game. Our philosophies are very similar; there are no major changes there. And she lives near the high school. She knows the kids and community well."

Indeed she does. As Jarvis noted, some of this fall's team will have played for her for two years already. "The girls know me," she said. "They know there won't be a lot of massive changes. There will be stability."

What there won't be is a Dawn Warner to elevate Franklin to the upper echelons in Class A. Warner, runner-up in the state's balloting for Miss Basketball, is headed for Western Kentucky this fall. With her leading the way, the Patriots were 18-4 last year.

Possible problems could arise. For one, Freeman will still be close to the program as AD, although he wants to maintain his distance. "I'll have to stand back a little bit, which will be hard to do," he admitted. "But I'm sure she'll make it her program, and she should. She'll have to step in and put her signature on the team."

Another potential problem is the new pay-to-participate program being implemented. Due to a budget crunch, all players, whatever their level (freshmen, JV or varsity), will have to pay a flat rate to join a team.

Jarvis believes it could have a more adverse affect on the freshmen and JV teams than the varsity, adding she was taking a wait-and-see attitude.

As for her shortened summer — practice officially opens Aug. 10 — Jarvis said, "Who cares? I'm really excited. I'm looking forward to this."

Redford Road Runner member Robyn Frankowicz repeated as the overall women's champion winner in the 8K run, coming in at 32 minutes, 18 seconds. Chuck Block, a Livonia resident, won the overall men's title in 26:47.

There were seven other race divisions for both women and men and several local runners finished among the top three.

Livonians Jeff Martus (28:02) and Jon Curry (29:53) finished one-two in the men's 19-Under race. AJ Koritnik of Livonia won the women's 19-Under (32:40), Kathleen Landelius of Plymouth was second (35:19) and Livonia's Tracy Parker was third (35:33).

David Peterson of Livonia won the men's 20-29 (27:14) and Livonian John Bagley was second (28:07) in the same division. Farmington's Kim Moran placed second (35:16) in the women's 20-29 and Livonia's Charlotte Garry took third (35:35).

Steve Lenawan of Canton took third (29:46) in the men's 30-39 and Canton's Barb Basinski was first (33:23) in the women's 30-39.

Meet The Faces Behind Most Medical Advances.

Before any medical project can break new ground, it has to get off the ground. And that takes money. We urge you to contribute to the hospital of your choice. Your help could mean a solution to many of today's most pressing medical concerns. The first of which is, quite frankly, funding.

Friendly service, good food at T.S. Martin's

KEELY WYGONIK

If you're looking for a friendly neighborhood place, that serves good food, T.S. Martin's Restaurant and Tavern is it.

"This is Cheers. We know our regulars. There's a Norm, a Cliff, we have everybody," said Heather Spitler, 26 who owns the restaurant at 27189 Grand River, Redford Township, with her husband Todd, 27. "People just melt in here," adds Todd. "Everyone is laid back."

In business for a little over a year, the Spitlers are surprising neighbors who gave them 60 days. They've turned the former Driftwood Lounge into a comfortable restaurant with booths that offer privacy. Local groups including the Redford Chamber of Commerce and Rotary Club hold their meetings in the restaurant's banquet room which seats 50 people. The Spitlers also sponsor area softball teams, and participated in the recent Livonia Spree.

Todd graduated from Farmington High School, and earned a bachelor's degree in hotel and restaurant management from Ferris State University. He met Heather in the library at school.

They've been married for two years. Both worked in restaurants while attending school. "Todd takes care of the kitchen, I work up front and oversee the service," said Heather. The two worked together at a restaurant in Chicago before opening T.S. Martin's. Three of the cooks moved with them to Michigan to work at the restaurant.

T.S. Martin's
27189 Grand River, Redford Township, (313) 537-6610
Hours: 11 a.m. to 11 p.m. Monday-Thursday, 11 a.m. to midnight, Saturday. Closed Sunday.
Entertainment: Jazz 8:30 p.m. to 12:30 a.m. Fridays and Saturdays.
Credit cards: American Express, Diner's, Visa and Master Charge.

T.S. Martin's specialities are Chicago Style ribs, and pasta dishes. But, as Heather says, "there's a little bit of everything for everybody on the menu. We have a nice wine list too."

"We get daily deliveries of meat and produce," said Todd. "We went back to basics. The quality is always there, everything is fresh. We don't have a microwave oven. A baked potato is baked."

Daily specials include 10 oz. New York strip steak for $7.50 and blackened Mahi Mahi, $8.95. Prime rib and porterhouse steaks are sometimes featured on weekends. For lunch, there's a choice of daily specials, house salad, Cobb, Greek or Taco salad. Prices range from $1.50 for a house salad to $4.95 for the Taco salad. There's a variety of sandwiches, including the TLT, turkey, lettuce, tomato and mayo on white or whole wheat bread for $3.95. Dinner items include Chicken Parmesan, $5.50, Todd's Spaghetti, $4.50, Chicago Style Ribs, full slab, $13.50 or half slab, $8.50, pork chops, $7.95 and Chicken Vesuvio, a half chicken, marinated and grilled, $8.95. For dessert homemade pecan pie, $2.75 or cheesecake, $2.75.

A band performs jazz 8:30 p.m. to 12:30 a.m. on Fridays and Saturdays. The lead singer works at the restaurant as a dishwasher when he's not peforming at area clubs.

Plymouth Theatre Guild to present benefit show

SALLY DUBATS

Plymouth Theatre Guild presents "Something Peculiar" 7 p.m. Thursday, July 16, at Genitti's, 108 East Main Street, Northville. Tickets $25 per person. Call 349-1800, Ext. 2351. Cocktails 7 p.m., dinner 7:30 p.m.

The Plymouth Theatre Guild will present a variety show called "Something Peculiar" at Genitti's Hole in the Wall restaurant, 108 East Main, Northville, 7 p.m. Thursday, July 16.

The event will feature impersonations, Fanny Brice skits, Dorothy Parker humor and comedy sketches, new and old.

"The show is a cross between 'Oh, Calcutta,' without the nude scenes, of course, 'Saturday Night Live,' and 'Who's on First'," said director Francine Hachem. "As a result, we have 'Something Peculiar.'"

Hachem added that some of these skits helped put Bob Hope and Eve Arden on the map in early theater and radio. Some pieces are recent Off-Broadway works, and just about everything else that this talented PTG cast could throw in.

"Something Peculiar" is a hodgepodge of lighthearted vaudeville and contemporary comedy. "I would love to do more community oriented things," said Karen Groves, four year president of PTG. "We've come a long way in the five years since leaving Central Middle School in Plymouth. A lot of positve things are coming out of working with the Northville Regional Psychiatric Hospital. They've been extremely pleasant to work with."

Original Romano's offers giant pizza

BY KEELY WYGONIK
STAFF WRITER

What's round and weighs eight pounds? Give up? Would you believe the Original Romano's 24-inch round pizza?

Billed as the largest pizza in the city, this 24-inch culinary wonder is made with 46 ounces of dough and topped with three pounds of cheese, 16 ounces of sauce, and ¾ pounds of pepperoni. It sells for $13.99, and is available this month at The Original Romano's.

"We've been celebrating our 20th anniversary," said Joseph Mannino Jr. whose parents, Joe and Pietrina founded the pizzeria at 30930 Grand River in Farmington. The business has grown to five carry-out pizzerias, and a catering business.

Scott Herskovitz, owner/operator of the pizzeria on Grand River thought of the idea. "At first I thought we'd make a 20-inch pizza in honor of the 20th anniversary," said Herskovitz, 24 a marketing major in his senior year at Wayne State University. "When I found out we could make a 24-inch pizza, we decided to try it."

Other anniversary specials this month include an eight-piece chicken dinner for $9.99 and two medium round pizzas with cheese and one item for $9.99.

Popular items on the carry-out menu include lemon and barbecue chicken, salads, pasta dishes and barbecue ribs.

There are five locations, some are open daily for lunch others aren't — 30930 Grand River at Nine Mile, open 11 a.m., 474-7600; 29275 W. 14 Mile at Middle Belt, open 11 a.m., 626-6333; 4200 Orchard Lake, north of Lone Pine, open 4 p.m., 681-6000; 31134 Haggerty at west 14 Mile , open 11 a.m., 661-2400; and 6525 Commerce Road at Green Lake Road, open 4 p.m., 363-8800.

For catering information, call 471-0500, weekdays, 10 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Area students cast in 'The Great White Hope'

The Performing Arts Department of Henry Ford Community College in Dearborn is presenting "The Great White Hope" through July 19 in the Adray Auditorium of the Mackenzie Fine Arts Center on campus.

Written by Howard Sackler who won a Pulitzer Prize for the play, "The Great White Hope" is based loosely on the life of the first black heavyweight champion of the world who encountered racism and hatred after winning the title in 1908.

The play recounts the struggle of boxer Jack Jefferson whose life is ruined after he wins the championship.

Performances 8 p.m. Thursday, July 9 through Saturday, July 11 and Thursday, July 16 through Saturday, July 18. Matinee performances 2 p.m. July 19. Tickets $7 general admission, $6 students and $5 senior citizens. The school is at 5101 Evergreen Road in Dearborn. To reserve tickets by phone, call 845-6478.

Looking for someone special?
A bowling partner, a travel companion or someone to share your life?
Every Monday and Thursday your Observer & Eccentric Newspapers will publish a PERSONAL SCENE directory—listings of people who are looking for people.
PERSONAL SCENE has five classifications—men seeking women, women seeking men, people who want to share sports interests, seniors who need companionship and people who need someone with whom to travel.
PERSONAL SCENE also takes advantage of our electronic age. When you've composed your five-line listing, which will run free for eight issues, call 591-0900 and our ad takers will be happy to help you record your message so that it can be heard by people who are interested in what you've said in your ad. You will never receive unwanted calls at your home; all responses will be recorded and left in your electronic PERSONAL SCENE message center. Note: It will cost $1.49 per minute to check the responses to your listing.
Readers who wish to respond to a listing in our PERSONAL SCENE directory, may use a touch-tone telephone to call 1-900-454-8088 and the special number which will appear in each ad. The cost to do this is also $1.49 per minute.

Dance troupe set to perform

A Mexican folkloric dance group from the Technological Institute in Oaxaca will perform Saturday, July 18, at Madonna University.

Called Guelaguetza (translation: to give a gift without expecting anything in return), the 38-member group is made up of men and women between the ages of 15 and 21.

Tickets are $5 for students and senior citizens and $8 for adults.

For more information, call 591-5170.

Klein named UM-D interim chief

Bernard Klein, professor of political science at the University of Michigan-Dearborn, has been appointed interim chancellor of the campus effective Sept. 1.

Klein will succeed Blenda J. Wilson, who will become president of California State University, Northridge, in the fall.

"I have great confidence in professor Klein, and I appreciate his willingness to postpone his Fulbright year in Hungary in order to serve the university as interim chancellor," said James Duderstadt, University of Michigan president.

"He has the support of the U-M-Dearborn faculty, as well as strong ties to both Detroit and Lansing."

Klein said he hopes to "keep up the momentum Blenda Wilson started. I will work hard to do my best so that we don't lose that momentum, particularly our greater visibility in Lansing and Detroit. I'm interested in continuing full speed ahead in that area," he said.

Klein holds degrees from Brooklyn College, the University of Missouri and Michigan State University.

He was interim chancellor of the Dearborn campus once previously, in 1979-80, and was director of UM-Dearborn's Center for Urban Studies in 1971-75.

He has held other administrative posts, including that of vice president for urban, labor and metropolitan studies and interim provost, Wayne State University (1980-81) while remaining on the faculty at UM-Dearborn, and vice president for administration, Wayne County Community College (1970-71).

John Lennon art exhibition visits Detroit

BY DARRELL CLEM
STAFF WRITER

It's summer in New York City. At 9:45 Wednesday morning, Yoko Ono's soft, soothing voice comes over the telephone, describing the blue, shimmering sky that hovers over the Manhattan skyline.

The widow of slain rock legend John Lennon couldn't be in rainy, dreary Detroit for the opening of the "Imagine Exhibition," some 70 drawings created by Lennon between 1968, when he was with The Beatles, and 1980, the year of his death.

But Ono's enthusiasm for her late husband's art work becomes clear as she talks about the black humor, political satire and "honest love feelings" depicted in the pen and ink drawings on display 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. every day through Sunday at the Omni International Hotel in Detroit.

"The common theme is honesty. He believed in it," she said of the exhibition that's on a 50-city U.S. tour. She often refers to Lennon in the present tense, as if he were still alive.

Unquestionably, Lennon is better known for his music than his art work. But his drawings — relying primarily on a single, sweeping line that reflects a minimalist approach — have gained increasing attention since his death.

A student at Liverpool Art College from 1957 to 1960, Lennon continued to draw even as The Beatles crashed the '60s rock music scene and defined the future of music.

"John's songs and art work really parallel each other," Ono said. "The only difference is that the art work is visual. His art work confirmed that he's a truly talented person, kind of a renaissance man."

Often, Lennon's animated-type drawings have been snubbed by the high-brow art world, which Ono said couldn't seem to reconcile that a rock musician could produce meaningful art work. Many attitudes have since changed, however.

Eroticism and peace

A controversy in 1970 illustrates the furor over some of Lennon's works. A portfolio composed of images of his marriage to Ono — and his romantic and erotic love for her — was partially seized by Scotland Yard after an opening at the London Art Gallery.

"Obviously John wasn't very happy about that," Ono recalls. She admits she's a little embarrassed now by some of the drawings, but they were done at a time in life when she "didn't think twice" about the subject matter.

The exhibit also showed scenes from the couple's "bed-in for peace," their plea for world peace.

"That bed-in is a legend now," Ono said.

Despite the AIDS epidemic and a general just-say-no mentality that has become widespread, Ono said she still believes that today's teens understand — and can relate to — the free lifestyle of the '60s.

"A lot of 17- and 18-year-olds are into the '60s. They know more about the '60s sometimes than I do," she said.

Lennon's humor

The intense, serious nature of much of Lennon's music sometimes overwhelmed him, but his humorous side occasionally emerged in his drawings — even though is was sometimes black humor.

"Because his music was so serious, he was telling himself in his drawings to have a sense of humor," Ono said.

"Nothing Is Impossible" shows Lennon walking on water. He apparently wanted to humor the fans who often saw him — and perhaps his fellow Beatles — as somehow beyond human, larger than life.

Serious art

Ono has a difficult time choosing a favorite drawing from among Lennon's works, but she remains fond of "Bag One," which, with a one-brush stroke, shows the couple intertwined. They appear as one; their figures form an almost circular sketch.

"It's me and John, the yin and yang. And it represents man and woman, harmony," she said.

When he first drew "Bag One," Lennon was disappointed and wanted to discard it. Ono convinced him to keep it. To her, the drawing could have been a Picasso.

"I believe I saved it," she said.

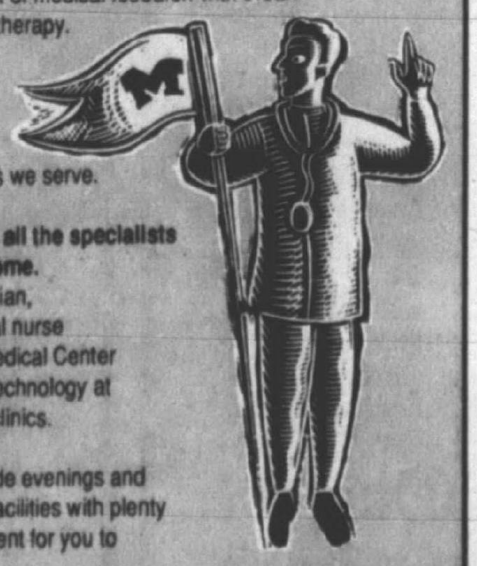
5 YEARS IN THE COMMUNITY • 150 YEAR TRADITION

U of M expertise in your neighborhood!

Although we're celebrating our fifth anniversary, the University of Michigan has been around for 150 years! It set the standard of excellence for health care in this country. The U-M was the first college in the nation to establish a University-owned and operated teaching hospital, and was one of the first universities to admit women and minorities for medical training. The vaccine to prevent paralytic polio was perfected here by Dr. Jonas E. Salk, and in 1989 Michigan physicians pioneered the use of 3-D radiation therapy in treatment for cancer. And we remain at the forefront of medical research with breakthroughs in many fields including cancer and gene therapy.



At the U-M Health Centers we are proud of our affiliation with such a comprehensive health care system. But we're even more proud of the relationships we've developed with the communities we serve.

The University of Michigan Health Centers have all the specialists your family needs, at a location close to your home.
You can see a family practice physician, a pediatrician, an internist, an obstetrician/gynecologist and clinical nurse specialists, all credentialed members of the U-M Medical Center staff. This gives you access to the state-of-the-art technology at the University's seven hospitals and 110 specialty clinics.

For your convenience, our appointment times include evenings and Saturdays. We have on- site laboratory and X-ray facilities with plenty of free parking. Call the health center most convenient for you to schedule an appointment.

New economic club president sets goals

■ Support of member-owned businesses will be a major focus of Hellen Walker in her role as the new president of the Women's Economic Club. At one time, almost all members were employees of large corporations.

Hellen Walker, director of technical systems for Michigan Bell and a Southfield resident, recalled how thrilled she was to attend her first Women's Economic Club luncheon 15 years ago.

"I remember being very, very impressed and feeling very good about the experience," she said. "When I go to a meeting today, I come away with the same feeling. I feel motivated, feel charged up and say 'I'm ready to conquer the world.' "

Walker, 43, now president, has some big plans for the organization, which is open to men as well as women.

"One of the goals I have for the club this year is to encourage support of member-owned business.

"Thirty years ago at the inception of the club, the vast majority of members were employees of major corporations. That's still true, but we're finding that increasing numbers own their own business.

"The reason some join is it's a place where they can sell their wares, if I can be so blunt, and we want to encourage that.

"We also want to extend ourselves to take a more pro-active role in linking up with other organizations — women in sales, advertising groups — that share our goals."

"There are a number of opportunities to share resources. The first thing, I think, is opening dialogue. Where that takes us, I'm not sure . . . but I'm sure opportunities will come from those dialogues.

"The Women's Economic Club is the largest organization of its kind in Michigan. We are a fairly influential organization. It's our intent to maximize that influence at every opportunity."

While the economic club doesn't endorse candidates, it can take positions on issues, she said.

The organization of 1,200 members, it holds monthly luncheons featuring local and national speakers. The group was founded 30 years ago because women weren't allowed to join the Economic Club of Detroit.

Newsletter targets needs of homebased business owners

BY GERALD FRAWLEY
STAFF WRITER

Buntele, president of the Accon Group in Farmington Hills, a homebased distributor of computer-based purchasing, receiving and inventory control software, started her own business three years ago.

But that career decision has had some drawbacks in addition to what one might expect (ie. the hard work, long hours, struggling to make ends meet) — it has brought a feeling of isolation.

There are no associations, few resources and little help for the homebased business, she said.

That is changing.

Grace Smith and Toni Bonner, partners in a new venture called the GT Group, are beginning to reach out to the segments of the homebased business industry.

After more than a year of planning, and even more time in the idea stage, the two have launched HomeBiz PRO, a newsletter for the homebased business owner.

"It's surprising someone hasn't done something like this already," Bonner said.

Both she and Smith are veterans in the homebased business world; she as a marketing consultant and Smith as a communications and sometime desktop publishing professional.

"More people want to become their own bosses today because of lifestyles and income," she said. Also, with the downsizing of corporate America, more middle managers are finding themselves out of work and with an unexpected opportunity to start a business.

Businesses vary from computer-related, general contracting and photography to calligraphy and catering, she said. "They aren't just arts and crafts anymore."

Setting up

The goal of the newsletter is to inform people on the legalities of what is required of home businesses and ways to market and improve business.

"Just because they could work in corporate America, doesn't mean they can market their business, balance the books or any of a number of tasks," she said.

While in the business world, these people had subordinates doing many of the jobs they must now do themselves, she said.

"They have the expertise in one or two areas, but not in all areas."

Practical information

Smith said each HomeBiz PRO will include information on the industry, resources, marketing hints, features on topics like health care and retirement, guest columnists, suggestions on improving professional image, and tips on business etiquette.

Smith said the HomeBiz PRO is designed to meet the needs of everyone from the person thinking of starting a home business to the person who is already established.

Smith said most of the feedback on the first issue has been positive, and suggestions from readers will help the newsletter to evolve.

"People think it's practical, but they want more how-to articles — how to start a home business, how to market it, how to keep books.

"They want to learn as much as they can as quickly as they can," Smith said.

Setting goals

The newsletter is only part of the GT Group's plans for homebased businesses. The company also provides consulting in marketing, communications and training assistance for homebased businesses.

The duo's long-term objective is to launch a statewide association for homebased businesses. "We're thinking about conferences, trade shows and workshops," Smith said.

Future goals for an association could be working toward providing group health insurance, education seminars and maybe even lobbying.

Bonner said the immediate plans are to keep working on the newsletter and provide subscribers with practical information that can help them operate more efficiently.

"It isn't the only thing a person starting a business needs, but it's a good start," Bonner said.

All of that sounds fine to Pat Buntele who, after three years of working out of a bedroom of her home, said she was beginning to rethink the idea of a homebased business.

She may still set up shop in an office, she said, but the biggest advantage of a newsletter devoted to the needs of the home-based business person is it helps to reinforce that she is not alone.

A newsletter may not have all the answers she needs, she said, but it will help spark her imagination and think of things that she might not have thought of otherwise.

"It's something we (in homebased businesses) have been lacking."

To obtain more information about HomeBiz Pro, contact the GT Group, P.O. Box 1762, Troy, MI, 48099. Phone: 463-2281. Subscription rate: $79/year, although a special introductory rate of $50 is being offered through the end of July.

al issues. We think we provide a forum where a lot of alternative views are heard. We've had some speakers that might not grace other platforms."

Those include Les Brown, a motivational speaker, and Deborah McGriff, superintendent of the Detroit Public Schools. "Their message is different — that's what we hope to offer."

Speakers during the recently concluded 1991-92 season included Nina Totenberg of National Public Radio, Gerald McDonald, chairman of Manufacturers National Bank, Faith Popcorn, chairwoman of BrainReserve, and Patricia Thomas, editor of the Harvard Health Letter.

"There is a great opportunity for networking. Some of our members take full advantage. It's an opportunity to hone leadership skills in a non-threatening manner."

Ester Yager, immediate past president of the Women's Economic Club and a vice president with United Community Services, expects that Walker will serve the organization well as president.

"She's a persuasive, articulate, thoughtful, intelligent lady," Yager said. "She has an open mind. She doesn't come with any closed-out feeling to membership. Another aspect of Hellen that is so great is a wonderful sense of humor."

"She's always been the type of person that has high standards, a very strong work ethic," Dunny said. "Her style of management is participatory and supportive. She's got good analytical skills."

Gerry Barrons has served as executive director of the Women's Economic Club for three years.

"The first thing that comes to my mind about Hellen is her clarity of a sense of direction for the organization," Barrons said. "Her thinking is precise, and she has a good sense of what being a leader is.

"We had a meeting last Saturday and people were energized at how she kept focusing attention on the task at hand," Barrons said.

Walker, raised in Detroit, worked in the computer area at General Motors and taught in the Detroit Public Schools before moving to Bell where she's worked the past 16 years. Now, she's responsible for the operation and maintenance of mini computer systems for the phone company.

Walker earned a bachelor of arts degree in speech/English and a master of business administration degree from Wayne State University.

She enjoys golf, tennis and reading when not involved at work or the club. She also serves on the board of directors of the Friends of the International Institute in the Cultural Center.

To obtain more information about the Women's Economic Club, call Gerry Barrons at 963-5088. Annual dues are $85.

AUTO TALK

DAN McCOSH

Toyota is launching a new pickup truck in the U.S. market in a couple of months, one of those events peculiar to the auto business — one that ranks in the minds of most people only slightly ahead of a sale at New York Carpet World in the ho-hum category, but is guaranteed to give sleepless nights to more than a few Bloomfield Hills executives.

One of the lesser-noticed aspects of the car business is the profound shift to light trucks as a replacement for the family automobile in the past few decades. Both Ford and Chevy currently sell about as many light trucks as passenger cars, and overall, about 40 percent of all light vehicles sold today are trucks, not cars.

If this brings to mind a lot of hound dogs, gunracks and bags of lawn fertilizer, it misses the point. The two vehicle types that grew fastest and account for most of that shift in taste are sport utilities — typified by the Jeep Cherokee, Ford Explorer, et al, and the minivan, already so ubiquitous on the suburban scene that your daughter probably wouldn't be caught dead in one.

Even the good 'ol pickup has a secret life, led mainly by the fact that it is cheap, insurable, and California teenagers think it's hip, or whatever California teenagers say these days.

Oddly enough, light trucks have another inscrutable side — they so far have been more or less immune to Japanese competition, and hence are carrying a disproportionate share of whatever slim profits are left in this market. The tooling seems to go on forever, the engines are standardized and inexpensive to manufacturer, and single-model volume is as good as a Chevy sedan was in the good old days before niche marketing.

There are some strange reasons for this lack of success of the Japanese. One being that there is virtually no Japanese home market for a U.S.-style truck — the engines and chassis are too large for Tokyo roads. A few cynics follow this up with the observation that without a Japanese manufacturing base to flood the U.S. market, the Japanese simply aren't interested. Similar logic applies to the notion of making a high-volume vehicle solely for the U.S. — something no Japanese company has succeeded at yet, instead being content to nibble away with dozens of lesser successes.

In an odd sort of way, domestic trucks have managed to out-engineer the Japanese as well, providing more power, durability and overall improvement from year to year. It's also worth noting that some imported light trucks are slapped with a 25 percent tariff — the only such protective measure in the U.S. marketplace.

For all these reasons, Toyota has up to now stayed out of direct competition with U.S. light pickup manufacturers, even while it was quietly developing a mid-size pickup of its own.

Toyota seemed to be waiting for a signal from Washington that the anti-Japanese sentiment was changing. Last week, the U.S. Trade Commission's decision to rule against the U.S. manufacturers on the anti-dumping case opened the gate, and now Toyota is charging in. The end result is not easy to predict, but it's clear that the last profitable enclave for the U. S. industry is now under attack.

Book is must when quality care counts

BY REBECCA HAYNES
STAFF WRITER

Making a decision on long-term care for a loved one may be one of the most difficult decisions a family faces.

But some of the burden has been lifted from concerned shoulders, thanks to a new book put out by Citizens for Better Care. "The Michigan Long-Term Care Reader" 1992 edition helps to answer questions on how to choose a nursing home, home for the aged or adult foster care program, as well as explaining the differences among the three.

"This is the first time we've actually published a book," said CBC assistant director Bob Gordon. "For years, we've been publishing booklets that are essentially the different chapters of what is now the book.

"It just kind of dawned on us that together this would make an excellent book on long-term care."

Although Gordon said there are many publications on long-term care, others provide national information but can't get specific about programs, rules or regulations in Michigan. "The Michigan Long-Term Care Reader" does, he said.

"A lot of professionals are telling us that to have all of this information between two covers is invaluable," he said. "The regulations we refer to are changing all the time. We update the material, and wherever it's at next January, that will be the 1993 edition."

Topics such as Medicare and Medicaid, long-term care insurance, discrimination, admissions contracts, guardianship and options, dementia care and hospital discharge planning are some of the other areas touched on in the book.

Readers will also learn how to appeal official decisions, what facilities are and aren't required to provide, how to get better care and how to file complaints about bad care.

"One of the nice things about the 'Reader' is that it contains information for people across the income

Music doesn't stop in summer

■ High school Marching Band members have some free time during the summer, but still keep busy. The Centennial Educational Park students are raising money for a Christmas vacation trip to the Fiesta Bowl in Tempe, Ariz.

BY JULIE BROWN
STAFF WRITER

Things slow down a bit in the summer for Centennial Educational Park Marching Band members, but the students don't sit around and watch soaps all day.

"Some work. Some join the drum corps in the summer," said Nicole Montgomery, 16, a trumpet player and Plymouth Canton High School senior. Students who join drum corps travel throughout the U.S. to compete in the summer. Some band members perform with the Plymouth Fife and Drum Corps when school's out.

Lauzon, a Plymouth Salem High School senior, recently returned from a trip to Hawaii, Hong Kong and China as part of the Michigan Lions All-State Band.

A number of area Lions Clubs, including those in Canton and Plymouth, assisted by sponsoring her June 16-29 trip. She and other student musicians performed for club members at an international convention in Hong Kong.

"Hawaii was all free time," said Lauzon, who got to do some sightseeing in addition to performing.

These days, Marching Band members, their parents and other supporters are raising money for a trip to the Fiesta Bowl in Tempe, Ariz., during Christmas break. The trip west will cost about $1,250 per student, said Rose Grzeskowiak, Cheryl's mom, and the band hopes to cover about $1,000 of that with fund-raising activities.

"We're going to be having car washes. We're going to be selling pizzas," said Grzeskowiak, a Canton resident. In addition, a car will be raffled off during the Plymouth Fall Festival in early September.

(Contributions for the trip or other band expenses, payable to the Plymouth-Canton Music Boosters, are welcome, and should be sent to the Boosters, P.O. Box 87026, Canton, Mich. 48187-0026.)

Teens face tough times

BY SUE MASON
STAFF WRITER

Dr. Henry Woodworth sees it as the "streeting" of America's youth, the wholesale withholding of mental health services from teens.

Strong talk from a man who is dedicating his life to helping mentally ill children and adolescents, but for Woodworth, it's part of the reality of dealing with today's health care system.

"It's a tough population (teens) because they don't have their own power structure," he said. "And unless parents are active in getting them care, they don't get it until they fall into the public sector."

Cindy Schroeder agrees with Woodworth. She sees today's troubled teens being treated like "throwaways." Society doesn't know what to do with them or for them.

"What gets me is the kid with a behavior problem; because it's considered a conduct problem the kid can end up falling through the cracks," Schroeder said. "What we need to say is that legally we need to work with these kids and legally say that the medical system needs to get involved."

Woodworth is a child adolescent psychiatrist and Schroeder director of adolescent services at the Ardmore Center in Livonia. The 105-bed private psychiatric hospital provides in-patient and partial-day treatment programs for adults and adolescents.

Like other treatment facilities, Ardmore has been under pressure to reduce the length of in-patient treatment. Where treatment once lasted up to three months, the average today is 17 days. As a result, the staff has learned to be creative, stretching available resources as far as possible.

■ 'Society is very competitive and the disenfranchised teenager feels that he failed in the competition. When a teenager drops out, he's not challenged.'

Dr. Henry Woodworth psychiatrist

A new way

Teens coming into treatment find there is little, if any time, to sit around and do nothing. That old notion that psychiatric treatment as checking out of the world and into the Holiday Inn is passe.

"We keep the patients very busy; we help them develop coping skills and a new lifestyle," Woodworth said. "We have patients who come on the unit who want to go back to the old place because it's too hard here and two weeks later they're talking about the new skills they've learned."

The staff looks on what they're doing as prescriptive care, very focused and direct in addressing the problems of the teen, whether it is a mental illness or dual problem of mental illness and chemical dependency.

By utilizing non-addictive anti-depressant drugs, support groups and a very structured setting, the staff works to reconnect the teen with his or her family and society. They work to "empower" the teen, to give him or her the coping skills to control their problems.

"Society is very competitive and the disenfranchised teenager feels that he failed in the competition," Woodworth said. "When a teenager drops out, he's not challenged. He needs to talk to about it, get support and be challenged.

"We need to engage the person where he's at then and there."

Ardmore has been innovative in dealing with shrinking health care payments. One innovation has been the care continuum. The same therapist follows the patient through in-patient treatment into the partial day programs, giving stability to the treatment program.

Helping themselves

It also has tapped self-help groups, putting the teens in touch with people who have the same problems. It "destigmatizes" the illness and shows that the illness needn't keep the patient on the outside looking in.

"People can and do recover from their illnesses, so we try not to label these kids as sick," Schroeder said. "That label is indication of what you think of people. We look on their problems as roadblocks to a healthy lifestyle."

"While some (treatment programs) try to find out what's wrong with a person, we try to find the roadblocks that keep them from being responsible," Woodworth added. "In treatment, we peel away the layers of behavior and then it's in partial care when a lot of the critical issues come to a head.

"When they pull through they feel good about themselves. It becomes real to them and they take what they have learned here and put it into practice."

The teens spend at least two weeks in the in-patient program before being moved to the partial program where they attend school for most of the day, reporting for treatment from 1 p.m. to 6:30 p.m. According to Woodworth, it as important that the teens get in as much school as possible. School is like their job and they have to keep connected with it, he said.

Healthy family

Family therapy is a necessary component of the treatment program. Recognition, understanding and acceptance of each person's role in necessary for restoring a healthy family life, according to the staff.

Band members are looking forward to performing during the Plymouth Fall Festival. The week before school begins, all will attend band camp near Traverse City to start working on their basic show for competition.

"They work awfully hard during the fall season for all the competitions they go to," Grzeskowiak said.

Lauzon, Montgomery and other band members will defend their national championship title this year, having attained that honor during the previous two seasons. For seniors who will graduate next June, the final season of competition will have a touch of sadness.

"Band is your family," Montgomery said. Both she and Lauzon have older siblings who were in the band in high school.

"I could tell they really missed it when they got out. You have to be real dedicated to be in it," Montgomery said. "It takes a lot of your time, but after it's done it's well worth it."

Both girls have been in the CEP Marching Band since ninth grade, and are considering playing with a college band. Lauzon's thinking about studying accounting, and Montgomery's interested in an art field, although not necessarily music.

Parents need to intervene early and take aggressive action dealing with their child's problem but many hesitate to because they are "ashamed of what has happened," Woodworth said. They like their children feel like "failures."

But the realization is this: today's teens can be out and about without someone knowing what they're doing. The nice suburban teen can have crack-dealing friends in the city and vice versa. That teen can connect very quickly and be in deep trouble very fast.

In therapy, the team tries to let the family know that how they responded to the problem "is because they love their child not because they ignored it," Woodworth said.

"When they come here, they realize that we're not here to place blame but to help their child recover and help them deal with the problem," he added. "Afterward, the family does better; it has the means to address the problem better and will resolve it down the road."

The staff likes to think the programs are on the cutting edge, but admit that what is happening in this area is behind the rest of the country. They do know that because of the center's size — it is licensed for 25 adult beds, 25 adolescent beds and 55 beds for both the adult and adolescent partial programs — they are able to make changes more quickly.

"Because we're small and and because we have input, we have a feeling the program belongs to us," Schroeder said. "We feel pride in ownership and our ability to work as a team."

spectrum," Gordon said. "For people on the lower end, it talks about Medicare eligibility, and for middle-income families it gives information about when you can become eligible for Medicaid.

"And long-term care insurance, which is usually associated with people in the upper levels, is also in there.

"We printed 5,000 copies and 1,000 have been sold," Gordon said. "They're into Borders and they should be in Waldenbooks very soon. You can also find them in other independent bookstores in Rochester, Livonia, Southfield and Birmingham."

Next year's edition will include a section on in-home care, he said, adding that the '92 edition just touched on this much-needed option.

Founded in 1969 by the Detroit City Council, Citizens for Better Care was originated as a group to monitor nursing homes. In the early 1970s, the Detroit program became part of a pilot federal care ombudsman project, later signed into law by then President Richard Nixon, Gordon said.

"Basically, we're an office where people can get questions on long-term care answered, and can have their problems addressed," he said.

CBC has groups involved with the Department of Health and the Department of Social Services. They fight Medicaid discrimination in nursing homes and are currently involved in legislation that would increase staff at nursing homes.

"We have 1,200 members and 100 volunteer advocates," Gordon said, adding that each volunteer is assigned to visit a specific nursing home a few hours each week. "We now have six offices statewide and 18 staff ombudsmen."

CBC statistics show that 75,000 Michigan residents enter nursing homes, homes for the aged or foster homes each year.

ANNIVERSARIES

Howard and Ruth Strebbing

Howard and Ruth Strebbing of Plymouth will celebrate their 40th wedding anniversary by renewing their vows at the Old Village gazebo in Plymouth. They also plan to take a vacation in Canada.

Howard Robert Strebbing and Ruth Elaine Scherer were married July 18, 1952, at St. Paul's Lutheran Church. He is a lifetime resident of Plymouth Township, and she moved to the community following their marriage.

They have three children: Sharon Strebbing of Westland; Michael Strebbing of Plymouth Township; and Elaine (Michael) Julian of Detroit.

Howard Strebbing is a 1935 graduate of Plymouth High School. He retired from the Plymouth-Canton Community Schools and enjoys gardening on their farm-like acres.

Ruth Strebbing is a 1943 graduate of Chadsey High School and a 1947 business college graduate. She also retired from the Plymouth-Canton school district and has been involved in many volunteer projects over the years. She enjoys playing bingo.

WEDDINGS

Cygan-Moriarty

Martin and Linda Cygan of Plymouth announce the engagement of their daughter, Michele Ann, to Dennis Moriarty of Columbus, Ohio, son of Michael and Pat Moriarty of Columbus.

The bride-elect is a graduate of Plymouth Salem High School and of Bowling Green State University in Ohio. She is employed as a marketing assistant at Donato's Pizza Inc.

Her fiance is a graduate of Bexley High School and of Ohio State University. He is employed as a sales representative at BFI Waste Systems of Ohio.

GRAPHOLOGY PROFILES

LORENE GREEN

Hello, I am 29 years old and right handed. Usually my handwriting is somewhat messier since I write a lot during the work day. I have always found handwriting analysis very interesting and am wondering where to take a class or if you could recommend any good books on the subject.

Sometimes I even try to determine other people's personalities by looking at their penmanship. I have always prided myself on my penmanship.

A.P.,
No city given

First, I will analyze the handwriting and then answer her questions.

This is the handwriting of a young woman who chases rainbows. Her sunny disposition makes her popular with all who know her.

Our writer is also upbeat, spontaneous, friendly and generous. She enjoys amicable relationships with people. She empathizes with others and can be counted on to lend a helping hand when needed.

Loyalty can be observed in her legible handwriting. This includes loyalty to the things in which she believes as well as to her friends.

Early in life she learned that the judicious use of time was a major contributor to success. She can distinguish between the essential and the extraneous and then move right on to the nitty gritty.

This is an intelligent young woman. She probably enjoys anything that is a challenge to her mind. Some intuition can also furnish answers and insights.

In her work, she is thorough, conscientious and organized. Many of her goals are set at a level of challenge and she is not afraid to work hard to accomplish them. Details may be a bit bothersome, however.

The ability to articulate and express ideas and feelings is natural to our young writer. I suspect she is seldom at a loss for words. A little habit of rationalizing when things don't work out is noted.

Signs of a mature-29-year-old are evident. Cultural awareness is also present.

Some resentment is contained in this handwriting. Although it is not a large amount, I feel it is worth mentioning as it can waste emotional energy if not checked.

When her legible, up-slanted signature is considered with the text it tells us she presents herself as she is. She does not feel a need to hide behind a facade.

Now to your questions. Oakland Community College offers classes in graphology (handwriting analysis). Since I do not know the city you reside in, I suggest you call your local board of education and inquire about classes.

Two of my favorite books on the subject are "Handwriting Analysis" by Karen Amend and Mary Ruiz and "You and Your Private I" by Jane Green. Additional information may be obtained by writing the American Association of Handwriting Analysts, care of Edward Jackson, P.O. Box 1242, Huntsvill, Ala. 35807.

If your would like your handwriting analyzed in this newspaper, write to Lorene C. Green, a certified graphologist, at 36251 Schoolcraft, Livonia 48150. Please use a full sheet of white, unlined paper, writing in the first person singular. Age, handedness and full signature are also helpful. And objective feedback is always welcome.

Have confidence in your partner

The Bridge Crowd
By Woody Boyd

"Trust your partners and they will be true to you. Treat them greatly and they will repay you." — Emerson

Within the seven levels allowed a partnership to describe high-card content and shape, exemplary technique and judgment are mandatory if maximum bidding effectiveness is to be achieved. The consequences if you're not precise are most often consequential. Many of "the old school" of standard American devotees argue that complex systems used by the modern stalwarts have smothered the use of judgment. Not so, but recognize that abuses can destroy bidding systems and ultimately the partnership.

If you have total confidence in your partner's ability, a series of well-founded bids tells much. Here are two examples of what I mean.

♥ Q	–	–	1♦	–
♦ Q 10 9	1♠	–	2♥	–
♣ 8 7 6 4	3♠	–	4♠	–

After North's third call, you know this about partner's hand: (1) At least 17-plus H.C.P.; (2) Shape is 3451 or 3460; (3) None of your points is wasted. Slam should be investigated by asking for aces.

Sitting south you hold:	The bidding
♠ A 9 7	S	W	N	E
♥ A 4	1NT	–	2♦	–
♦ A 8 6	2♥	–	3♦	–
♣ Q J 10 9 5	3NT	–	4♦	–

After North's third call, you know this about partner's hand: (1) He transferred you to hearts and bid diamonds twice. He must be at least 5-5 in the red suits with strong interest in slam as he passed up a no trump game; (2) Your three aces should guarantee 12 tricks. If you bid six diamonds, you may be missing a grandy. 4NT in this sequence would be ace asking.

Barbara Frank of Southfield is a very trusting partner whose wonderful personality is supplemented by many fine attributes. She is a lady in every way who is well trained and disciplined with an exceptional 40-some years of playing experience. Add to all of that she is a grandmama of a pretty famous Michigan bridge family. Both her husband and celebrated daughter Judy Rankin of New York became life masters in '69, just a few months behind Barbara. Today she holds the enviable total of some 1,700 master points, which places her high on the Michigan list. Of course, daughter Judy has gone beyond her mother's fondest dreams, nudging the 10,000 mark. In fact, Judy is classed as a world master and certainly is one of North American's foremost women players.

Here's a hand from one of our games that epitomizes the garlands I have laid at Barbara's feet.

Four no trump by North on his third turn to bid was unusual for the minors as it was obvious from the bidding that there was a strong possibility of such a fit. Barbara's six club call was aggressive but motivated by confidence that North had something. Unfortunately, not much. True, she was lucky to find the diamond honor on side, but West might have bid again with that card in his arsenal. With clubs behaving, declarer had no trouble getting to dummy twice which won for her two hearts, a heart ruff, five diamonds and five clubs.

Much can be said for the defense cashing its spade ace against a slam, but West had visions of defeating the contract and abstained from that play.

WHO KILLED GOLIATH IN YOUR BIBLE?
Most modern Bible versions deny that David killed Goliath! That's right, see 2 Samuel 21:19 to prove the above. But we want to help you identify which Bible version is the true Word of God. On Thursday evening, July 9, 1992 at the Comfort Inn our church is offering a free Seminar in the Scriptures to study this important issue. This is YOUR invitation.

■ DIVORCE RECOVERY

Single Point Ministries of Ward Presbyterian Church in Livonia will offer a summer edition of its divorce recovery workshop 7-9:30 p.m. beginning Monday, July 13.

Paul Clough, minister of adult singles, will conduct the six sessions, offering practical guidance to a healthy divorce recovery. The workshop will run through July 17 and conclude with a July 18 picnic.

The $25 fee covers the workbook and additional materials. Scholarships are available and child care will be provided for children through sixth grade. For more information, call 422-1854. Ward Presbyterian Church is at Farmington and Six Mile roads, Livonia.

• Single Place Ministries of the First Presbyterian Church of Northville will offer a seven-week divorce recovery workshop Thursdays, July 9 through Aug. 20. Sessions will be 7:30 p.m. in the library/lounge of the church, 200 E. Main in Northville. Donation is $30, and scholarships are available.

Single Place is also offering a six-week dance class for beginning and intermediate dancers. Donation is $39. For more information, call 349-0911.

■ SEMINARS

Are you confused by the many differing Bibles out today? The Farmington Hills Church, an independent Baptist church, will have a "A Comparison of Modern Translations" seminar at 7:30 p.m. Thursday, July 9, in the Mackinaw Room of the Comfort Inn, 12 Mile and Orchard Lake Road at I-696, Farmington Hills. For more information, call 539-8016 or 553-4994.

■ ACTIVIST NETWORK

The Christian Activist Network will have a regional meeting 7-9 p.m. Thursday, July 9, at Highland Park Baptist Church, 28600 Lahser, south of 12 Mile in Southfield. The meeting will be in the Activity Building Room 12 A and B, behind the church. The speaker will be Jane Boswell, director of the Home School Support Network.

Boswell's husband, Gary, is associate pastor of the New Life Christian Church in Southgate. The couple's children have been schooled at home for nine years. For more information, call (313) 293-1616.

■ RETIREMENT

Dr. Bartlett Hess will preach for the last time as senior pastor of Ward Evangelical Presbyterian Church Sunday, July 12. Hess will retire July 15, ending 36 years of involvement as founder and senior pastor of the Livonia church.

An ecclesiastical service is planned for 7 p.m. July 12 to mark the occasion. Dr. John DeWitt of Second Presbyterian Church in Memphis, Tenn., will speak. A reception will follow the service.

Ward Church is Farmington and Six Mile roads in Livonia. For more information, call 422-1150.

■ WOMEN'S AGLOW

Betty Bjurman will be the guest speaker when the Farmington Chapter of Women's Aglow Fellowship meets 7:30 p.m. Monday, July 13, in the Farmington Hills Library, 32737 W. 12 Mile, between Orchard Lake and Farmington roads.

Married 46 years, Bjurman has worked as a science and math teacher, Sunday school teacher and volunteer probation officer. She teaches family life to fifth and sixth grade girls in Flint. She also has a puppet ministry, "Say No to Drugs."

■ MISSON WORK

Twenty-two single adults, sponsored by Single Point Ministries of Ward Presbyterian Church, Livonia, will leave July 18 for Jamaica where they will construct a foundation for a deaf village. The self-contained village will include a factory, housing units and a church.

Ward's Single Spirit, a young adult ministry, also is sending a team of 22 singles to Barva, Costa Rica July 25 where they will help build a new church. The group also will conduct a vacation Bible school with three established congregations in the town.

■ PRAYER GROUP

St. Edith Church, 15089 Newburgh, at Five Mile in Livonia, hosts charismatic prayer group meetings 8 p.m. Wednesdays. There also will be prayer group meetings 6-7:30 p.m. Sundays in Patio Classroom 1 of Madonna University, Schoolcraft and Levan. Singing will be included. The meetings are open to the public.

■ ACTION

Good news

She shares message of joy and hope

By Julie Brown
Staff Writer

Talking about sex probably isn't the first thing in Marj Carpenter's job description, but she found herself doing just that last year.

As national news director for the Presbyterian Church (U.S.A.), Carpenter handles a variety of media questions, including many related to the denomination's 1991 report on sexuality.

"It got tiresome, very tiresome, but it was healthy for the church," Carpenter said. The report, which had advocated changes in church stands on homosexuality, extramarital sex and other areas, was turned down by the largest General Assembly vote in denominational history.

That vote made people realize the Presbyterian church hadn't died and gone into oblivion, said Carpenter, who recently visited Plymouth for a National Federation of Press Women tour, followed by the organization's annual conference in Lansing.

Carpenter's been on the job with the Louisville, Ky., -based denomination for 14 years. She began with the southern church, and became news director for the entire denomination with the merger of the southern and northern churches.

"I've always liked to write. I've written since I was in high school," said Carpenter, who worked on Texas newspapers for 28 years.

She covered the swindling scandal of Texas financier Billie Sol Estes in 1962. She's proud of that reporting and of the coverage of the 1991 church report on sexuality. Carpenter, National Federation of Press Women president, was involved in reporting of two top-ranked stories nearly 30 years apart, one in the secular press and one in the religious press.

Her duties include running the newsroom for the denomination's General Assembly, held this year in Milwaukee in early June. During that annual meeting, she and other staffers put out a daily newspaper, handle media relations and coordinate press conferences.

During the rest of the year, staffers put out a weekly news brief packet for church leadership, along with a monthly tabloid for pastors and elders.

Carpenter handles all press inquiries, and contributes articles to the "Presbyterian Survey" and "Presbyterian Outlook" magazines. She coordinated the TV appearances of former Middle East hostage Benjamin Weir, a Presbyterian minister who'd been teaching in Beirut.

She takes one month out of the year to travel to a global missions area. Carpenter's visited 83 countries, and will add Thailand, the Philippines, Indonesia, Singapore and Bangladesh to that list in November.

The denomination has some 3 million members in the U.S. and 169 million worldwide. "That's because we've been real strong in global missions for more than 150 years."

Her work has given Carpenter, a fifth-generation Presbyterian, a chance to see what the church does around the world. She speaks at many churches, and appreciates that opportunity "because we don't impart the good information very well in news anymore."

Carpenter was 51 when she made the move from newspapers into public relations.

"I thought I might be doing a really dumb thing." She hated her first two months on the job, but then got to enjoy it and tried to make it better, by adding such things as overseas reporting.

Covering issues: Marj Carpenter, national news director for the Presbyterian Church (U.S.A.), likes to see religion writers deal with issues, "not just 'We should gather at the river.'".

No regrets

"I really am glad I made the change." Her travels have taken her to such places as Sandinista headquarters in Nicaragua, a small church in Cuba, the former Soviet Union, eastern Europe and elsewhere.

"Some of the toughest trips I've made have been in Africa." Often, the people she meets in remote African villages have never even seen a water faucet, let alone such inventions as television.

She's found that in many cases, U.S. newspapers, particularly smaller ones, give short shrift to coverage of religion. Some larger publications, such as The New York Times and The Wall Street Journal, recognize the importance of in-depth religion coverage.

"They address issues, not just 'We should gather at the river.' I sure like to see them address issues."

Many major news stories, such last year's war in the Middle East, are religion stories, but some journalists assume religion coverage is by definition dull and dowdy, she said.

"If we don't have sense enough to realize that, there's something wrong with us. The ones who have really gotten into it know better."

The survival of the Orthodox Christian church in Russia's a story that hasn't been told well yet, she said. Eskimo Presbyterians are starting to move into Siberia to establish churches, and she'd like to see that covered.

"Most clergy, at least ours, are very well-educated and can answer tough questions." In many cases, it's simply a matter of asking.

"You have to learn it, like any other beat. There are just some fantastic religion writers in this nation and I highly respect them." She appreciates the fact that the 1991 sexuality report was covered to its conclusion.

Carpenter, a widow with three grown children and two grandsons, rarely misses church on Sunday, often worshiping at different congregations during her travels. She's been involved in church youth work, taught Sunday school and participated in women's activities.

Carpenter has served as an elder at three Presbyterian congregations, and was one of the first women elders in western Texas. That experience wasn't always pleasant, and some other women were the most resistant to change.

Discrimination: It hurts us all

MORAL PERSPECTIVES

REV. ROBERT SCHADEN

Is it possible that focusing too much outrage on the humiliating sexual harassment of a group of female naval officers is to miss the boat? Certainly the treatment they received at the hands of some drunken navy chieftains is to be deplored. However, this was only a symptom of something much larger, even larger than the United States Navy.

It is always easier to deplore symptoms than it is to treat diseases and admit to problems at their source. One cost of such a focus is that we fool ourselves into thinking that we have solved a problem that we have not even touched. It is also true that in focusing on symptoms we run the risk of being very inconsistent, thereby losing whatever credibility we might have had.

Thus we can decry specific sexual harassment situations while feeding, or at least turning our backs, to so many more subtle forms of sexual harassment, forms that give rise to the very behavior we condemn. By the same token, we can become incensed at blatant and violent racism while ignoring the fact that institutional and widespread racism is still very much in place.

Some choose to carry banners for the unborn while ignoring the rights of the already born around them. Others can shout their slogans for pro-choice while ridiculing the choice of those who follow a different drum than their own. Consistency does not seem to be a virtue among those who focus on symptoms.

It is certainly sad when a woman in the Navy is treated by fellow officers in a way that would provoke national outrage if the officers were of another navy holding the woman captive in wartime. But again, we don't get many medals for consistency. What kind of credibility can we expect to project if while decrying specific acts of sexism, we wink at more acceptable brands of sexism?

In churches, we may do it in the name of God. In corporations, we do it in the name of policy. We do it in advertising by making women into objects for the purpose of selling everything from toothpaste to tools.

Often we are satisfied to separate it into degrees. "Soft porn" and "hard porn" are no less than degrees of the same thing. Soft sexism and hard sexism are still sexism. They both carry the same message. Sexism, racism, ageism or any other brand of human disrespect is always hard on those toward whom it is directed. When people are victimized, there is no such thing as "soft."

It has been said that if any one person in society is enslaved then we are all enslaved. Discrimination, and the prejudice which fuels it and gives it permission, has many faces, but in the end it is the same thing. It is the willingness to dehumanize the human for our convenience or amusement.

One form is destined to spill over to another. When people of a given race are victims of discrimination, then women will be at risk. Where women are the brunt of harassment, any race is in jeopardy. Where the unborn are denied their rights, the born are already in trouble. The fact is that in a society where excuses can be found for continuing discrimination at any level, discrimination at all levels is not only possible, but inevitable.

I remember a young woman once telling me that she was a little bit pregnant. As ridiculous as that statement is, it is no more ridiculous than believing that we can have a little bit of sexism, or a little bit of racism, or a little bit of ageism, without eventually giving birth to full-fledged inhumanity.

Sexism does not begin with a few drunken naval officers. It begins with a society that creates and then perpetuates discriminatory attitudes. Until we can get at those, no matter the cost of behavioral change on the part of all of us, the names will change but the game will continue.

VACATION BIBLE SCHOOL

■ ST. MATTHEW

St. Matthew United Methodist Church of Livonia will have its vacation Bible school 9:30 a.m. to noon July 13-17 for children age 3 through the sixth grade. There is a $3 per child fee. "Festival! SUMMER EVENTS

JULY 1992

AMERICANS WATCHING the 1992 U.S. Olympic Team compete can now share in the race for the "gold," with the U.S. Olympic Jewelry Collection in 14K gold by Unoaerre. A portion of the proceeds from sales supports America's Olympic athletes.

Go for the gold and support the 1992 U.S. Olympic Team

When Americans watch the Olympic Summer Games in Barcelona, Spain, all eyes will be on those U.S. athletes striving to win a gold medal. To show their support and enthusiasm for the U.S. Team, many will want a lasting memento.

Fortunately, every fan can own a piece of the "gold" today. Unoaerre, the world's largest fine jewelry manufacturer, has introduced the U.S. Olympic Jewelry Collection in 14K gold, with items that blend the universally-recognized USA/5-ring logo with modern fashion elements.

Gold has had a long tradition with the Olympic Games. Starting in 1904, it became customary for top winners to receive a gold, silver or bronze medal in addition to a small oak tree. (The acorns from these trees have since been planted around the U.S.A.) Winning the gold medal signifies the highest achievement.

Wearing karat gold jewelry has winning appeal to those who wear it. According to the World Gold Council, "There is an intrinsic value in real gold jewelry that is virtually unmatched by any other product. Our research shows that gold actually makes one feel confident and special."

The U.S. Olympic Collection will have great appeal to those who can appreciate these well-known Olympic symbols: the USA/5-ring logo, antique Greek coins, and the U.S. Olympic Team torch, as well as active sports figures.

There are items for every lifestyle as well: 14K bracelets, necklaces, lapel pins and commemorative charms. In addition, a portion of the proceeds from sales supports America's Olympic athletes.

That's the word from the experts at Eastman Kodak Company, Official Photographic Consultant to the 1992 Olympic Summer Games. They point out that tennis courts tend to fill with would-be champions after any major tournament. Rinks, pools, tracks and courts come alive with those who want to participate in — not just watch — great sports action.

The Olympics, of course, ranks as the tournament of tournaments. Those who wish they could be there competing, realizing a dream, achieving a much-worked-for result, populate the planet. All of which is good news for the photographer looking for an action subject.

Sure, children have been running through sprinklers as long as there have been hot days. But, this summer, the little runners may be adding a few cartwheels and handsprings, thanks to the spunky gymnasts they've seen perform at the Olympics.

Adults, who previously jogged on a regular basis, suddenly may start running again and checking out "fun runs" in the area. Bicyclists may take their two-wheelers for a spin more often, look for a local bicycle club to join, or even start looking for a nearby race or bike hike. Swimmers may work harder at perfecting a particular stroke in the backyard pool. Volleyball players may gravitate toward the beach, basketball players to the nearest hoop, and soccer players to any surface that will accommodate their scrambling.

If you are a picture-taker intrigued by all this action, be advised: you, too, should take action immediately, because the Olympic afterglow only lasts a little while. Kodak experts recommend a high-speed film like Kodak Gold Plus 400, the same film recommended for picturing Olympic athletes.

• If you don't need to move your camera to follow your action subject, don't. It may mean the action is so far away that it's barely moving in the camera's eye. Or, it may mean the action is vertical, which means you should wait to take the photograph until the athlete is at the highest point.

• If the action is moving directly toward you or away from you, just shoot when you see what you want. Or, take a series of pictures to show your favorite athlete's approach.

• If you need to move your camera to keep up with the action, center your subject in your viewfinder and pivot from your waist.

When you see the picture you want, squeeze the shutter release, while continuing to follow the action. If, like the Kodak Star 835 or 935 camera, your camera has automatic film advance, you easily can click off a series of pictures as you pan with the action.

• If the action will be taking place on a beach or in a pool, you may want to leave your primary camera home and bring along a single-use camera suited to less-than-ideal weather conditions. The Kodak FunSaver Weekend 35 camera permits you to take 24 pictures anywhere outdoors — even eight feet underwater. So, you can jump right into the pool and take pictures of a swimmer's stroke from below.

Sports toys can enhance your child's development

For many years "no pain, no gain" was the motto of the sports world. For adults, it meant enduring grueling physical pain and for kids it meant both skinned knees and hurt feelings. Even today, the fear of failure still outweighs the fun of participation for many kids — and when it does, sports activities are left to the "athletes."

All too many of today's children are content to assume the role of inactive spectators. As a result, they are more likely than any other generation in history to be unhealthy, inactive and overweight later in life, and to forever feel threatened by sports.

"Despite the dismal prospects, all children can learn to overcome their fear, develop sports skills and see themselves as successful, if given the chance to learn at their own pace," says Michael Cookson, president of Aviva Sports, Inc.

Aviva Sports, Inc. designs and distributes a line of sports-toys that are scaled to child size, so that kids are not afraid to use them. Aviva Sport-Toys promote confidence and fun with equipment that is just the right size and weight. The Aviva Sports line includes equipment for baseball, football, basketball, golf, tennis, soccer, volleyball, and even horseshoes.

As an additional benefit, these toys are designed to encourage interaction between parent and child, and to increase the amount of quality time parents can spend with their children. Says Cookson, "Aviva sport-toys provide parents with a fun, active, wholesome way to enjoy time with each other and with their children."

TENNIS is sure to be a sport kids will love — especially with child-scaled sport-toys by Aviva Sports.

The Salvation Army is asking for monetary donations to restock its 15 food pantries located throughout the metropolitan Detroit area.

Each week The Salvation Army, through its food pantries, distributes hundreds of bags and boxes of groceries or food vouchers to metro Detroiters who do not have the resources to purchase staple food items for themselves or their families.

In the first six months of this year, the Army distributed approximately 50,000 emergency grocery requests to families in need.

"We are asking for money to purchase food directly from our sources in order to maximize the amount of food available for distribution to the needy," said Lt. Col. Clarence W. Harvey, Eastern Michigan Divisional commander for The Salvation Army.

For the amount of money a consumer spends purchasing one can of tuna at a retail store, The Salvation Army can buy three cans of tuna through its suppliers for the same price.

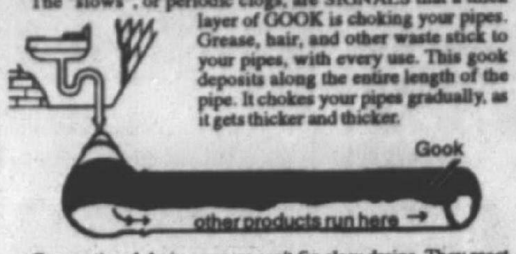
"The Salvation Army is also calling on its friends in the food and beverage industry to assist in this effort to feed those in need by donating any surplus products they may have," Harvey said.

The Salvation Army maintains food pantries at its facilities located in the following cities: Dearborn Heights, Detroit, Farmington Hills, Livonia, Mount Clemens, Roseville, Royal Oak, Southfield, Warren and Wyandotte. Checks can be made out to The Salvation Army Food Drive and sent to:
The Salvation Army 16130 Northland Drive Southfield, Mich. 48075.

Drains Run Slow?

You'll never have a slow running, or clogged drain again! The secret? Clean drains don't run slow.

The "slows", or periodic clogs, are SIGNALS that a thick layer of GOOK is choking your pipes. Grease, hair, and other waste stick to your pipes, with every use. This gook deposits along the entire length of the pipe. It chokes your pipes gradually, as it gets thicker and thicker.



Conventional drain openers can't fix slow drains. They react chemically on the surface of the gook. To be effective, they must remain in contact with the waste. Even a small tunnel through the gook lets them flow out to the sewer, leaving the gook behind. In the past, the only way to remove this build-up was to rooter your pipes. An expensive, temporary measure.

Now, with just a few minutes each month, you can easily clean out your pipes... and KEEP them clean with Plumb Clean®. It clings, and penetrates deep into the gook. No other product has the Plumb Clean® formula. That is what allows it to liquefy even years of build-up. Plumb Clean® will clean the entire length of your pipes. It will make your drains run like new, when used as directed. This penetrating action is so revolutionary, we stand behind Plumb Clean® with a money-back guarantee! Don't be confused. Plumb Clean® is the brand with the money-back guarantee right on the label.

Saves Money. A 1 lb. jar of Plumb Clean® holds up to 41 drain treatments. Even if drain openers could fix slow drains, it would take over 10 quart bottles to get the same number of treatments. Plumb Clean® costs about 35¢ per treatment. We don't know of anything that cleans drains for less.

Independent laboratory studies show Plumb Clean® more effectively breaks down organic waste than all other products tested. So, if your drains have the "slows", act now. Get safe, guaranteed Plumb Clean® today! Available only at: 8211

Predators hunt nests for young

TIMOTHY NOWICKI

Throughout the years animals and plants have come to rely on things that are consistent. Sunlight is always available and is used to activate the production of food in plants.

As the seasons progress daylight duration varies consistently. Animals and plants have modified their behavior to accommodate these expected changes.

So as the sunlight begins to warm the earth and days lengthen, animals begin their season of reproduction. It is a time to replenish losses, but it is also a time to feast. Birds choose a nest site so that it is well hidden. Squirrels build a nest high in the trees far from most predators. Burrowing animals keep their young underground, which makes them safe from many predators.

Though nest sites are carefully selected, adults are committed to returning to the site to care for the young. This fact is well known by predators. They intentionally hunt areas with a high concentration of nest or young. If they cannot catch the adult, they will take young instead.

A couple weeks ago, this process was verified. Along the shore of Crooked Lake in Oakland County, small bluegills were defending small shallow depressions that will serve as nests. Males defend them from other males and at the same time try and attract a female to their nest. When one male gets too close to another's nest, it is chased away. This chase causes disturbance in the other surrounding nests and several males scatter in all directions.

In one bed of 10 nests was a northern watersnake lying underwater waiting for the fish to return to their nests. Though the fish knew the snake was there, they still returned — cautiously. Some of the fish would hover right in front of the snake's head. But the only time the snake tried to catch a fish was when they scattered for one reason or another. During the several strikes by the snake it never caught a fish.

Then later that same day, in the same lake, only in deeper water, I saw three bluegill beds that were larger. The owners were hovering below the surface and not next to their beds because inbetween the three beds was a large snapping turtle. Undoubtedly, taking advantage of the fish as the northern water snkae had been.

This kind of hunting technique must be successful or else it would not be evident in two different species. It is interesting how two very different kinds of animals have selected the same hunting technique.

He remembers the calling well. It came in late 1990, while he headed advertising and public relations for Sibley Shoes.

"I became overwhelmed by something inside of me," said Ferguson, whose surrealistic and abstract work is done mainly with acrylic on canvas.

"My whole life I'd been telling people I was an artist, yet I had nothing to really show them. It kind of all swelled up. I talked to my wife, then went out and started painting."

Two abstracts from Ferguson's new "Affairs of the Heart" series are part of the Mid-America Invitational. The show, featuring 60 Michigan artists, runs to July 31 at The Artists' Gallery in Southfield.

Ferguson was invited to take part even though he's not a member of that artists' cooperative. "I feel very honored," he said. "There are some very skilled artists represented in the show."

Ferguson belongs to the Livonia and Farmington artist clubs as well as the Scarab Club in Detroit.

'Audience of my heart'

Last month, Ferguson moved to a Franklin studio.

He's perhaps best known for his nine-part "Habitat" series, meant to prick social awareness. He says he "reaches the audience of my heart" by tackling environmental and social issues.

"As an artist, the whole reason I do things is to try to involve people in my beliefs," he said. "Both my wife, Beverly, and I are involved in environmental causes. We're concerned not only for our future but also our daughters' future and, eventually, their children's future."

"Habitat" themes include rainforest destruction, killing of harp seals, homelessness, domestic abuse, world peace, urban violence and industrial pollution.

He first met almost exclusive resistance to the stark paintings. Then their power took hold.

"As an artist," he said, "sales are wonderful but when somebody says an image of mine is so powerful they can't turn it out of their mind, that's probably the ultimate compliment."

Ferguson's two-part "Silhouettes" series boasts an environmental theme but with spiritual overtones.

"It's more surreal because of the presentation of some things that aren't real at all, like a multicolored eagle's head or green hands entering a desertscape," he said. "People are expected to look and wonder what's going on. I'm taking situations people can relate to and understand and presenting them in such a way that I hope promotes new thoughts."

Moving into abstract

Ferguson will explore movement, composition and color in "Affairs of the Heart," his new abstract series, now at five pieces.

"Using the heart as a takeoff point, I use splattering and other techniques to loosen the painting up and produce something that'll fulfill a niche my art hasn't so far — something folks are more apt to hang in their house."

His intent is for the viewer to pause and give thought. "I still want to maintain use of a powerful presentation. But I don't try to explain the pieces. I just try to do an explosion of color, with shapes associated with joy but also sadness. I'm not even sure where the series is going."

"Heartfelt," one of Ferguson's two pieces at The Artists' Gallery, seems to portray the expansiveness of life. Upward streaks of red, orange and yellow draw the eye to two hearts: a large red, upbeat heart representing joy and a small blue, protruding heart representing gloom. Different hues of green, symbolizing life, circle each heart.

"There's still a lot of black, darkness, starry-sky effect in 'Heartfelt' but there's a lot more optimism, too," says Elaine Redmond of The Artists' Gallery.

"The streaks are like a fountain of joy ascending. Ed's 'Habitat' pieces aren't heavy in color but are heavy in content. These newer pieces of the heart almost turn that rage into a celebration of life."

Since moving into art full time, Ferguson has sold more than a dozen pieces either on commission or at showings.

Says Ferguson: "It's the scariest rollercoaster ride I remember having in my adult life, but it probably has been one of my best years — personally, mentally and physically."

Sculptor to be honored at benefit for gallery

- At its annual fund-raiser Monday, July 13, the Detroit Artists Market will salute sculptor Silvo Barile and his concrete and iron artworks in the historical sculpture garden behind his Redford Township bakery.

BY LINDA ANN CHOMIN
SPECIAL WRITER

As you enter the garden of sculptor Silvio Barile, concrete figures like Christopher Columbus and Julius Caesar beg you to enter a land long lost in time, a space created from honesty by this humble Italian immigrant.

The Detroit Artists Market pays tribute to Barile at its annual fund-raiser from 5:30 to 9 p.m. Monday, July 13, in the fruitful gardens behind Barile's Redford Township bakery.

Tickets are $15 for this one-day exhibition, sale and celebration of Barile's concrete artwork in the garden from which they were created.

DeGiusti is co-chairing the event with Hope Palmer and Tom Phardel. Event sponsors include prominent local artists and collectors.

"This is classic stuff that deal with history, deal with his vision of history," DeGiusti said. "It's a free-for-all. It's his property. He does what he wants."

Connie Zotos

"It feels good. You can never imagine how much this means to us," said Cathy Zotos, Connie's mother. "I'd like to give (Livonia arts commissioner) Dorothy Wilshaw a special thank you. It's real nice, especially having the painting here in the children's section."

"It brings nice memories of my sister," said Gregory Zotos, Connie's older brother. "I think it's a fitting memorial."

"Cathy's family was cut in half that night," said Wilshaw, who still lives

■ SPOONING IT

An exhibit of turn-of-the-century teaspoon holders continues through July at the Canton Historical Museum, S. Canton Center Road at Proctor, south of Cherry Hill.

"These were popular items in a Victorian table setting," said Marta McCabe, Canton Historical Society president.

The American-made spooners are made from Victorian pressed glass in a variety of patterns — some clear, some colorful. The patterns are named after states.

"A lot of people come in and spot these things and say they didn't know that's what they were," McCabe said.

Museum hours are 1-3 p.m. Tuesdays and 1-4 p.m. Saturdays. Admission is free.

■ WILDFOWL CARVER

Denver Rocker of Plymouth placed third in the Ward World Championship Wildfowl Carving Competition in Ocean, Md. He competed in the bufflehead category.

■ CARS AND FLOWERS

Classic car paintings and prairie flower photographs adorn the Livonia City Hall lobby, Farmington Road and Five Mile, through July. Hours are 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. weekdays.

Sculptor

The Roman Coloseum, Michelangelo's David, Leonardo da Vinci, the Lincoln Memorial, the Statue of Liberty, John F. Kennedy, Pope Paul II and Caesar Augustus stand proud, built with simple honesty.

"I love art but it's got to do good to us," Barile said in an interview in his historic sculpture garden. "When it comes to art, it has to be honest. I'm a simplist. I see things as they are, the honest reality."

Barile pointed to the words inscribed in concrete on the monument: "The Unity and Spirit of America."

"It's so simple and beautiful. It's honesty," Barile said. "The word honesty is very powerful. Honesty is very crucial in business, in life. Courage is important and virtue is its best reward."

Barile begins a sculpture by digging a hole in the ground, a negative that he fills with Quikrete. His current project is the Leaning Tower of Pisa. Beneath the cement, he lays a skeleton of ironwork.

"The Greeks would actually carve them on the ground," Barile said. "When I was a little boy in Italy during the war, I used to make my own toys out of clay: motorcycles, trucks. I like to do historical figures, people I respect. I like people who have done good for humanity."

Barile embellishes the work with bronze horse sculpture, marble from bowling trophies or anything recyclable from the Salvation Army store. He inscribes Latin and English on the sculptures along with names of the two places close to his heart: Ausonia and Detroit.

GUY WARREN/ STAFF PHOTOGRAPHER

Art as reflection: Silvio Barile on the sculpture, "The Unity and Spirit of America," inscribed the gown of the Statue of Liberty with the words honesty, courage and virtue. The little Native American boy on the right is clad in a Detroit Tigers uniform.

Barile was born in the southern part of Italy, in the small town of Ausonia, half way between Rome and Naples.

He came to this country by way of the Statue of Liberty at age 17 in 1956, after spending several years with his family in a German concentration camp during the war.

Barile moved to Redford Township 20 years ago. Fifteen years ago, he began to build sculptures and the "Path to Freedom" through his garden.

Barile holds his own set of ideas on history and art. He believes Michelangelo's David is not accurately portrayed, that David is too anatomically beautiful and sensual.

"David was just a little shepherd boy," Barile said.

Visitors to Barile's garden will never hunger spiritually or physically. Cluster of grapes grow on vines throughout the garden alongside fig trees, apricots, cherries, pears and plums. Ten almond, 20 carpathian walnut, and 20 chestnut and filbert trees attest to Barile's love of nature.

"In my simple way, I hope to help with the examination of our inner thoughts," Barile said.

He also hopes to help the Detroit Artists Market, which, as DeGiusti said, is "hanging by threads."

For information about the benefit next Monday, call 962-0337.

across the street from the Zotos'. "Connie was a big user of the library, a big reader. The painting was just getting moved around and didn't have any meaning at Hoover Elementary. Now it's going to have a permanent home."

Connie was on summer vacation, about to enter Dickinson Junior High in Livonia after seven years at Clay Elementary.

Her father, 43, held bachelor's and master's degrees in education.

He taught foreign language at Central High in Detroit, Spanish at Wayne County Community College and modern Greek at Wayne State University. He was active in local Greek organizations and manned booths at the Greek ethnic festivals in Detroit.

After their deaths in 1979, Wilshaw assembled a committee to collect money for a painting in Connie's memory. Wilshaw, together with Helen Chanko, Jean Houston, Pat Wisecarver, Sharon Luttermoser, Marie Nilson, Sandy Plakas and Reggie Caprara raised close to $700.

"It was kind of nice the way the community pulled together. We got money from people we didn't know," Wilshaw said.

John Wagner, who now teaches at Livonia Stevenson High School, was commissioned to create the memorial painting.

"I was Connie's art teacher at Clay," he said. "I knew her as a youngster. She was a very talented youngster. We did some talking and I did some sketching. I wanted to highlight Connie's talents and the universality of children. The daisies depict the love of children."

In 1980, the painting was hung at Clay as a memorial to the years Connie spent there. After Clay closed a year later, the painting was moved to Hoover Elementary, where it remained before moving to the library.

"The painting had been presented to Clay in memory of the little girl. We have accepted the painting to display in the children's area. We're pleased to have it here," Deller said.

"She was so vibrant, so full of life," her mother said. "Sho loved art and she loved reading. She was exceptional in math. Any time you'd see her, she had her head down working. The painting's so well done. It depicts all of her talents and her love of reading."

Historic hall open for tours

Now through Sept. 5, Oakland University's Meadow Brook Hall in Rochester Hills will be open for viewing every day.

Meadow Brook Hall was given with all its furnishings as a gift to the people of Michigan by Alfred and Matilda Dodge Wilson, founders of OU. It is now maintained as a self-supporting cultural institution of the university.

The hall is an easy drive, right off I-75, the OU exit. Hours are 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday-Saturday, 1-5 p.m. Sunday. The last tour is at 3:45 p.m.

Admission is $5, adults; $3, children 5-12; free, children under 5. Admission to Knole Cottage is $1 for all ages. Call 370-3140.

The architecture for a Tudor-style home the size of three football fields was the best that tax-free auto baron money could buy — $4 million back in the 1920s.

Knole Cottage is a six-room, three-quarter-scale playhouse built with fully operational appliances and plumbing. It was the first all-electric kitchen in Michigan.

Among the mansion's features are 24 fireplaces and 39 chimneys, handcarved wood paneling, Tiffany and Waterford chandeliers, stained-glass windows, stone archways, silk-covered walls, gold bathroom fixtures, hand-wrought hardware, a library, a ballroom, a games room and beamed ceilings.

FOCUS ON PHOTOGRAPHY

MONTE NAGLER

Today, I'm going to give you some more tips on how to capture those precious times of childhood on film.

Children are made for candids, so let's begin here. The unplanned and unexpected provide the opportunity for that exceptional photograph of your child.

Candids allow your child to be spontaneous and do his or her own thing, resulting in positions and facial expressions that are a reflection of their own personalities.

I used a 135mm telephoto lens to keep my distance yet still fill the frame. My shutter speed was fast enough to stop any sudden motion and the aperture was large enough to blur out what could have been a distracting background.

I let Brooke do her own thing, peering through the rails on her deck. Her attention span with me was short, so in a matter of seconds she wasn't aware that I was there and a natural expression resulted.

Notice how I positioned myself on her level for a more pleasing perspective. Too often, people shoot down on children, resulting in unflattering angles. By getting low, you'll greatly improve your pictures.

Try pre-determining exposure and even pre-focusing so that you won't be fussing with the camera controls when that magic expression crosses your child's face.

If it should be sunny, position yourself so that the child's back is to the sun and use fill flash to brighten the face.

If indoors, try natural light from a window. You may need a faster film but window light is beautiful and you'll capture a special mood in your shot.

By photographing children properly, you'll be able to record the spirit of youth that your family and friends will enjoy for a lifetime.

■ CAMERA MART

Thousands of photographers — beginners and professionals, shutterbugs and snapshooters – and camera collectors from all over the Midwest will meet Saturday-Sunday, July 11-12, in the Southfield Civic Center for "Photorama USA," one of the largest used camera shows in the country.

Hours are 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. July 11 and 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. July 12. The center is at Evergreen and 10 Mile. Tickets are $5. Children younger than 12 will be admitted free with a paying adult. For more information, call Photorama USA at 884-2242.

This year will mark the 10th anniversary of Photorama USA at the center. More than 150 stores and camera dealers from all over the country will fill the 22,000-square-foot exhibition space.

Live models in a studio setting, with studio lighting and backdrops, and free shutter check will be offered by Mid-West Camera.

■ MICHIGAN ART FEST

State pride will take different forms at O.K. Harris Works of Art in Birmingham, beginning Tuesday.

The gallery, at 430 N. Woodward, will present its second invitational of Michigan artists. Works by five artists — Robert Berry, Gilda Snowden, Tom Terry, Paul Bridge and Kiersten Armstrong — will be exhibited July 14 through Sept. 19.

The first exhibit, July 14-25, will feature Berry's paintings involving Captain America and classical portraiture. The opening reception will take place 6-8 p.m. Tuesday.

Berry is deeply involved in the Detroit art scene. He helped create the Artists Cooperative and curates shows at non-profit galleries. His work is a synthesis of pop art and history painting.

Snowden's paintings and drawings will be featured July 28 through Aug. 8. She is an assistant professor at the Center for Creative Studies and gallery director at the Detroit Repertory Theater.

Terry's wall sculpture, done primarily in bronze, will be displayed Aug. 11-22. Terry has been a past instructor at several colleges and an assistant gallery director.

Bridge's show of paintings will run Aug. 25 to Sept. 5. His art is a bold array of geometric shapes and primary colors. A graduate of the University of Michigan School of Art, he works and lives in Ann Arbor.

The often humorous installations of Armstrong will be presented Sept. 8-19. Currently the coordinator for the Fine Arts Department at the CCS, she has been commissioned as a video technician and cinematographer.

Show hours hours are 11 a.m. to 6 p.m. Tuesday-Saturday, to 8:30 p.m. the first Thursday of the month. Monday by appointment. Call 433-3700.

■ VAAL CLASSES

Callie Thomson will teach tissue collage 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. Thursday-Friday, July 16-17. Lily Dudgeon will teach monotypes 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. Saturdays, July 25 and Aug. 1. Sandra Steed will teach relief printing using linoleum 9:30 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. Friday, Aug. 7, 14 and 21.

VAAL is dedicated to advancing the knowledge and appreciation of the creative arts by offering studio classes, workshops and twice-yearly exhibits. Supporters include the Livonia Arts Commission, the city of Livonia and the Livonia Cultural League.

Enrollment is open to everyone. Members, however, receive reduced tuition fees, the VAAL newsletter and reduced exhibit entry fees. Meetings are held the third Thursday night of September, October, February and April.

■ LILY SHOW

The Southern Michigan Hemerocallis Society annual daylily show will be 1-5 p.m. Saturday, July 18, at Birmingham Congregational Church, 1000 Cranbrook, off Woodward between Long Lake and Lone Pine.

Anyone may enter their daylilies for judging. The flowers must be brought to the church between 8 and 10 a.m. to be included in the judging.

Admission is free. Daylilies will be sold during the show. Growers and hybridizers will be available to answer gardening questions and offer advice on the different varieties.

■ PHOTO FLASH

Monte Nagler, a student of the late Ansel Adams and a full-time photographer/teacher/writer, who writes a photography column for the Observer & Eccentric Newspapers, will conduct a Cranbrook P.M. weekend seminar on photography.

The program will be 12:30-5 p.m. Saturday-Sunday, July 18-19. Fee is $48. For information, to register or for a complete summer brochure, call Cranbrook P.M. at 645-3635.

The indoor lecture July 18 will consist of a thorough, easy-to-understand explanation of depth-of-field and exposure so important to improving photographic abilities. It will include discussion of different films and filters.

During the July 19 session, class *members will sharpen their photo*graphic skills on Cranbrook's grounds. Needed for this session are a camera (any kind), a tripod with cable release and daylight film (any kind, color or black and white).

■ THE ARTISTS' GALLERY
Continuing — "Mid America Invitational," provides a showcase of works by Michigan artists, including Livonia artist Ed Ferguson. To July 31. Hours: 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday-Saturday, 10 a.m. to 8 p.m. Thursday, in Applegate Square on Northwestern Highway, between 12 and 13 Mile in Southfield, 353-4707.

■ THE ART GALLERY
Continuing — Ten watercolors by Russian artist Elana Bogdanova, a costume designer in Moscow. Seven of the artworks priced at $80 were watercolors for costumes from different districts of Russia. To July 18. Three watercolors priced at $70 were of entertainers. Artworks by 12 Michigan artists also are on display. Hours: noon to 5 p.m. Thursday-Saturday, 30116 Ford Road, Garden City.

■ LIVONIA CITY HALL
Continuing — A two-person exhibit featuring the photography of Livonia resident Max Nemazi and classic car paintings by Roger Hardnock of Westland. Nemazi presents 20 photos of prairie flowers on loan from Matthaei Botanical Gardens, Ann Arbor, where he coordinates the wildflower gardens. Rendered in gouache, Harnock's paintings feature Porsches, Packards, Bentleys and Thunderbirds. To July 31. City hall lobby, Farmington Road and Five Mile. Hours: 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. weekdays.

■ LIVONIA CIVIC CENTER LIBRARY
Continuing — Livonia Wood Carvers Club shows work by its members in the Livonia Arts Commission showcases on the second floor of the Livonia Civic Center Library, Farmington Road and Five Mile. To July 24. Hours: 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. Monday-Thursday and 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Friday-Saturday.

■ MADONNA UNIVERSITY
Continuing — A Czechoslovakian collection of folkloric and embroidery art dating as far back as the 17th century. On display are antique embroidered costumes, aprons and headpieces depicting the various villages' cultures in Czechoslovakia as well as bobbin-lace, framed items. Sponsored by Sokol Detroit. To July 31. The art collection is in the Exhibit Gallery in the library wing at Madonna, I-96 and Levan. Hours are: 8 a.m. to 9 p.m. Monday-Thursday, 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Friday, 1-5 p.m. Saturday.

■ MATRIX GALLERY
Thursday, July 9 — Mixed media painting and computer-assisted video and multimedia installation work by Timothy Allen Jackson. Reception 5-9 p.m. Friday, July 10. To July 26. Hours: 5-9 p.m. Wednesday-Friday, 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Saturday, 1-5 p.m. Sunday. 212 Miller, Ann Arbor.

■ SOUTHFIELD CIVIC CENTER GALLERY
To July 10 — Works by Joseph Zitka. Zitka, who died at 41 in 1971, was a true Renaissance man. Not only did he paint, but he learned to play seven instruments, of which drums were his forte and wrote more than 200 poems. He took courses at what is now the Center for Creative Studies in Detroit. He accomplished the equivalent of a life's work between the ages of 34 and 41. His love of art drove him to complete 40 paintings in various media and more than 1,000 sketches. A native Detroiter, he became a pharmacologist and worked as a research chemist with the Burroughs Corp., but art was always his first love. Hours: 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. Monday-Friday, 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Saturday, 26000 Evergreen, 354-4717.

■ PARK WEST GALLERY
Friday, July 10 — A rare Park West exhibition and sale will focus on five decades of creativity by four 20th century masters will run July 11 through Aug. 11. Private opening 8 p.m. Friday. More than 60 works by Picasso, Chagall, Miro and Dali will be featured. The collection, representing more than five years of work by the gallery in gathering art from around the world, includes large-scale color lithographs and rare biblical subjects by Chagall; several major aquatints, lithographs and a gouache painting by Miro; an early pencil drawing and a collection of wood engravings from the 1960s by Dali; and a range of works by Picasso, from a set of drypoints in an edition of only 11 to the monumental lineoleum cuts of the last years of his life. Hours: 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Monday-Wednesday, 10 a.m. to 9 p.m. Thursday-Friday and 11 a.m. to 6 p.m. Saturday-Sunday, 29469 Northwestern Highway in Southfield, 354-2343.

■ ROBERT KIDD GALLERY
To July 11 — Paintings by Maxine Snider of Chicago and sculpture by Muriel Castanis of New York. Hours: 10:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. Tuesday-Saturday, 107 Townsend, Birmingham, 642-3909.

■ DONALD MORRIS GALLERY
To July 11 — An exhibition of recent reliefs and sculpture by David Barr. Hours: 10:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. Tuesday-Saturday, 105 Townsend, Birmingham, 642-8812.

■ SUSANNE HILBERRY GALLERY
To July 11 — Photographs by Hiroshi Sugimoto. 555 S. Woodward, Birmingham. Also included in this exhibition, Sugimoto's first at the gallery, are photographs made in 1980 of the Palms and Fox theaters in Detroit. Call 642-8250.

■ OMNI INTERNATIONAL HOTEL
To July 12 — "Imagine Exhibition: The Art of John Lennon," gives a tender, humorous and candid account of Lennon's personal and creative life. Part of a 50-city U.S. tour. Seventy images created by Lennon between 1968, when he was with the Beatles, and 1980, the year of his death. Artwork available for purchase. 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. each day. 333 E. Jefferson, Detroit.

■ NATIVE WEST
July 17-19 — Becky and Doug Dodson present a Native American jewelry and Navajo rug show with internationally known silver trader Bing Crosby. Crosby, who has 30 years' experience in the jewelry trade, will bring a large selection for Navjo, Hopi, Zuni and Santo Domingan jewelry. Navajo rug weaver Sarah Natani will demonstrate the art of weaving. Tom Wheeler will bring an outstanding selection of prize-winning Navajo rugs. Wheeler is the fourth-generation owner of Hogback Trading Post in Waterflow, N.M. Native West is at 863 W. Ann Arbor Trail, Plymouth. Hours: 10 a.m. to 8 p.m. Friday-Saturday, July 17-18, 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Sunday, July 19.

■ CENTER GALLERIES
To July 17 — "The Home Show: Objects For and About the Home," a multimedia extravaganza that reveals the importance of the home as an enduring subject for many artists. Hours: 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Tuesday-Saturday, closed July 4, in the Park Shelton Building, Suite 107, 15 E. Kirby, Detroit, 874-1955.

■ ART IN THE PARK
July 18-19 — The 12th annual Art in the Park, one of the largest arts and crafts fairs in the state with more than 300 exhibitors, hits the streets and sidewalks in and around Kellogg Park in Plymouth. Strolling musicians, mimes and clowns add to the festive air. Hours: 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. each day.

■ HABATAT/SHAW GALLERY
To July 18 — Sculpture and drawings by Thom Bohnert. Also exhibited June 20 through July 18, the work of Adriana Baler and Diane Dawes, recent master of fine arts recipients from the University of Miami. Hours: 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Tuesday-Saturday through June 30. Summer gallery hours, which begin July 1, will be 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Wednesday-Saturday, 32255 Northwestern Highway, Farmington Hills, 851-8767.

■ ANN ARBOR ART ASSOCIATION
To July 26 — The exhibition gallery of the Ann Arbor Art Association present the creative, visual talents of Alexandra Hirsch and Jeri Hollister. The gallery is at 117 W. Liberty, Ann Arbor. Call 994-8004.

Students show art

Hours are 1-5 p.m. Wednesday-Sunday. Guided tours are available with advance notice. Call 645-3312.

REPRESENTATIVES

When you drive the success of a $17 billion insurance leader, you deserve a strong support system and unlimited growth potential. Accept this challenge and receive a fixed salary, a draw, and a bonus — plus extensive support and respect. This is how we demonstrate our commitment to a team built of independent go-getters. People who are excited by unlimited income and advancement potential, total independence, and the opportunity to sell the most important product in the world — security. Assisting us in this important endeavor is mass merchandising, an exciting marketing vehicle that involves the sale of our products through payroll deductions for participating companies.

If you have the ability to turn professional freedom into goal achievement and solid results, you are an ideal candidate. Self-motivation, excellent people skills, and unwavering determination are also essential. College degree and retail or business experience preferred.

These positions are for our offices in Waterford and Troy. Please send resumes to: Liberty Mutual Insurance Group, PO Box 8001, Novi, MI 48376-8001. Attn: Mike Koressel, Personal Sales Manager.

BUILDING SCENE'S NAMES & PLACES

Shopping center board

Rebecca Maccardini, director of operations for Forbes/Cohen properties, has been elected to the International Council of Shopping Centers board of trusteess. She will serve as the vice president of committees.

Maccaradini

Based in New York, ICSC is a 25,000-member trade association of real estate developers, retailers and members of the financial community that services shopping centers.

Maccardini is an ICSC certified marketing director and was the first female trustee named to the eight-member board when she served in the early 1980s.

Kelly Services expansion

Kelly Services will expand its Troy headquarters by approximately 60,000 square feet. Kelly is renovating the former Kimberly Scott building, which it purchased, and which is just east of the present building.

A conference center and enclosed link are being built to join the two buildings. The exterior on both sides of the link will be landscaped to provide a courtyard, patio and walkways.

Employees are expected to move into the former Scott building in August. Construction of the conference center and link is expected to be completed by fall of 1993.

Luckenbach/Ziegelman and Partners of Birmingham designed the conference center, annex renovation and the link. Ford and Earle Associates of Troy is designing the interior of the facilities. John Grissim and Associates of Farmington Hills is the landscape architect and site planner for the expansion project. Contractor is Jonna Construction and Co., based in Bloomfield Hills.

Jensen Group forms

Birmingham builder/developer David Jensen has announced the creation of the Jensen Group with the addition of architectural and interior design services. The new units are called Woodlyne Architecture and Woodland Interiors. The original Jensen business units, Kitchens by Jensen and the David Jensen Corp., specialize in renovation and luxury house building respectively.

Jensen Group offices are open during their redesign at 595 S. Eton.

Design firm expands

Snyder Szanter & Peters is expanding its Farmington Hills office at 27260 Haggerty. The firm opened in 1990 as Snyder Szantner Architects by Clifford Snyder and Robert Szantner. Gerald Peters joined the firm in 1991 as a principal.

2 join Wade-Trim board

John Walsh and Daniel Alstott were recently appointed to the board of directors for Wade-Trim.

Alstott served as president and treasurer of Wade-Trim/Edmunds, a member firm of Wade-Trim, for 17 years before retiring in 1987.

Back to the past with reproductions

■ Those interested in living in a home with all the charm of yesteryear but without the maintenance headaches can relate to a subdivision full of traditional houses and historical replications.

"I wanted to do something really different," he said. That something has turned into Briar Haven, a 15-acre site of 37 historic replications and houses that harken back to Victorian days nestled in the historic city of Howell.

Belew, of Cambridge Partners, Inc. in Ann Arbor, said although some builders build historic replicas, to his knowledge, no one in this area has attempted an entire development of historically inspired houses.

And to be honest, some of the houses in this development will not be historical replications either.

"We would like to do as many historical reproductions as feasible, but we won't jeopardize the financial health of the project. The building contract requires that builders construct "traditional homes," so some may be less historical than others.

"We have one, a Cape Cod, that is not your typical historical home — it's authentic, but not historical," he said. He noted that some embellishments have been added to make it more in keeping with the development.

Still, the idea behind the development is to get as many historically inspired homes as possible.

"I don't think the other homes will hurt the project," he said.

Part of the charm of older communities like Farmington, Clarkston and Milford is the mix of architectural styles. "I think the same can be said here."

But he believes such a development just couldn't happen anywhere. "We wanted to recreate a small town streetscape," he said.

Belew said if the project is as successful as he thinks it will be, he would like to try it again elsewhere, providing he is able to find the right land.

"Remember, this is basically an infill development," he said. Howell happened to have a fairly large parcel of property that had sewer and water services.

"Howell has become quite well known for paying attention to its historical past," he said.

Builder Paul Eisele, owner of Specialty Woodworks Inc. in Howell, said his only regret about the project is that it isn't more strict in its architectural controls. He wishes all homes were required to rigidly adhere to historical standards.

"That way, we could have ended up with a mini-Greenfield Village," he said.

Eisele said he thinks a development of historical homes could be a very successful project. "We seem to have had pretty good response so far. People like old houses," he said.

Eisele ought to know; he's been selling replicas of historical homes for 25 years. "Almost everything we do is historical," he explained.

Eisele said he spends a great deal of time researching building plans of old homes. All of the structures he's building are based on the original blueprint designs with minor modifications for today's building standards such as plumbing and electrical.

"When I build a Queen Anne (a style of architecture) I build a Queen Anne," he said.

"This type of architecture is very difficult to do."

He has his own millwork shop, which is what allows him to build the historic renovations.

See HISTORIC, 2G

Cape Cod: Although not strictly a historic-style home, this Cape Cod built by J.F. Endebrock Ltd. fits in with the development because of its special attention to detail. The idea behind the Briar Haven development is build historically inspired homes in keeping with Howell's efforts to maintain its historical roots.

Realtors suggest lawyer involvement before sale

BY R.J. KING
SPECIAL WRITER

No one wants to get burned when buying a new home, especially when prudence proves to be the better part of hindsight. If after moving in, the basement leaks, the furnace blows up and the staircase gets a bad case of the shakes, a buyer may rush out to hire the nearest attorney.

But in a new push, the National Association of Realtors (NAR) maintains that an attorney should be consulted before a buyer ever takes possession of a house. Under state licensing laws, real estate agents are required to recommend that buyers retain a lawyer from the outset to protect their rights.

"Like the vast majority of real estate agents, I recommend to the buyer that they get an attorney," said Alan Nelson, real estate associate for Snyder, Kinney & Bennett in Birmingham. "But most people don't use them because it's an expense they'd like to avoid."

Whatever the motive, potential buyers may want to condition their offer to purchase a home with both a home inspection clause and an attorney review clause, if only to avoid structural or other problems that may arise after a home is sold and occupied.

In most real estate transactions involving a home, once a buyer decides to make an offer, the real estate agent will ask the buyer to sign a standard document outlining the offer and the terms and conditions, and present it to the seller.

Since a buyer may not have time to hire an attorney to review the document before the offer is made, he should insert in the offer a home inspection clause and an attorney review clause, either by typing or writing the information in by hand.

Over the last five years, the use of home inspection clauses in offers has become fairly routine, though not universal. But attorney review clauses are more rare than random.

The NAR maintains that both a home inspection and legal review can be accomplished, on average, within five business days.

Home inspections often takes three or four hours, depending on the size of the home, and are generally priced under $400.

An attorney review, a service available at most law firms, generally takes one or two days to complete, depending on the work load of a respective firm. Costs range considerably, but most are priced below $300.

"The residential real estate industry is a seller-orientated business," said Paul McKenney, a partner and head of the real estate group for Raymond & Dillon in Southfield, which opened more than 40 years ago and has 24 lawyers on staff.

Deborah L. Reginek Builder of Howell is constructing a New England colonial, a two-story traditional home that remains popular. "Some builders are still building them today."

Like the other builders in the development, Reginek said she has built historically inspired homes before, but never within a development before.

"Why put up another subdivision of modern homes — there are enough of them already," she said.

"I think if you ask people what they like, they like this," she said, referring to old-style homes. "It's not for everyone, but people are getting back to the family."

Reginek said she lives in an older home and tries to instill the charm she is attracted to in her own houses. She believes that the projects that do the same will be those to succeed in the future.

"These are the types of homes that require a family. That's what I think this development is trying to do."

The contemporary homes that became popular in the 1980s and appealed to the young upwardly mobile generation are beginning to lose their luster for the new generation of homebuyers, she said.

"There are still some people who like the modern look, but you're going to have to have places where families can live," Reginek said.

"If a buyer agrees to buy a home, the seller will say: 'Here's the keys. Do you have the money?' The buyer will say: 'Wait a minute. Let's talk about a few items first.' And if nothing is written on paper, when a problem does develop, you get into an I-said-you-said debate."

To avoid relying on oral agreements, which are much tougher to prove in a court of law than the written variety, McKenney strongly recommended that potential buyers get all points of contention and agreements with a seller on paper.

"Before you sign any document involving a real estate transaction, have it examined by an attorney," McKenney said.

Meanwhile, in the case of a home inspection, a buyer should plan on meeting an inspector at the home to review structural and maintenance concerns. Following an examination of the roof, foundation, heating, plumbing, electrical and other systems, most inspectors will submit a written report within 72 hours.

"For a new or existing home, we check everything from the grading of the property to insuring that materials in the building contract were not substituted," said Doug Hurt, director of marketing and a licensed builder for Total Check International in Southfield.

"For instance, does the ground slope away and down from the home to prevent water build-up along the foundation? If not, you're likely to have water problems almost immediately."

Open interior spaces by removing, repositioning walls

There is nothing carved in stone about the position of interior walls in your home.

These partitions were built where they are either to perform some structural duties that would have been too costly to accomplish another way or to suit the interior design fashions of the day.

But, as times change, tastes also change, and building methods change, too.

What was considered convenient and attractive in the 1950s — to say nothing of the 1850s — is often cumbersome when matched with present-day lifestyles.

The clearest example of this is seen in the Great Room concept, where a designer extends the boundaries of a particular room so it becomes multifunctional.

The most popular candidate has been the kitchen, where home buyers seem to feel that bigger is not only better, it's essential. They want plenty of room for food preparation as well as dining and entertaining.

While this is all well and good for new home buyers, owners of older homes can achieve similar results.

This may sound a little too simple, and in some ways it is. It's true that any wall can be moved or removed. The real issue is how many problems you are willing to overcome, and this usually means how much money you are willing to spend.

■ The most popular candidate has been the kitchen, where home buyers seem to feel that bigger is not only better, it's essential. They want plenty of room for food preparation as well as dining and entertaining.

To decide, you have to discover a couple of things. The first is what, if any, structural purpose the wall serves. The second is what, if any, mechanical systems (plumbing, heating, electrical wiring) run through the wall. Solving the structural problem is usually much easier than rerouting plumbing, heating and electrical systems.

To figure the wall's structural duties, you'll have to go exploring. This is best done by removing a 16-inch square section of ceiling next to the wall.

Shine a flashlight into this access hole to see how the ceiling joists above the wall are positioned. If they run parallel to the top plate of the wall, then the wall you want to remove bears no weight on its own. It can be removed without disturbing the structure of the house.

If, however, the joists are perpendicular to the wall, you have a load-bearing wall and must replace the support provided by its studs with a new header. Some walls may not be load-bearing even if the joists do run across them, mostly short walls defining closet spaces.

If you must install a header, you have two options: A dropped header can be installed by a competent do-it-yourselfer but a flush header is a contractor job. A dropped header spans the width of the opening end and is supported on both ends by jack studs like the headers over windows or doors.

Mechanical systems inside the wall usually show on the surfaces in the form of light switches, radiators or registers, and faucets or drains. If there are none visible, you could still have lines leading upstairs.

Electrical changes are easier than plumbing or heating. You can take a peek by removing the trim baseboard and wallboard behind it. Use care on quality trim so it can be reused.

If you find plumbing or ductwork, call in a contractor for an estimate. If you find nothing but dust and dead air, you can remove it without problems.

Drywall makes less dust and debris, but lath and plaster construction calls for sealing off the room to protect the rest of the house. Use polyethylene sheets and masking tape to seal all doors. Wear gloves and a respirator. Carry out the debris and vacuum up the mess as you go.

Regulate Fannie Mae, Freddie Mac?

(AP) — The Senate approved legislation aimed at preventing massive taxpayer bailouts of two government-backed enterprises that together stand behind $900 billion worth of home mortgages.

The measure, approved 77-19, would tighten federal oversight of the Federal National Mortgage Association, called Fannie Mae, and the Federal Home Loan Mortage Corp., or Freddie Mac.

The bill would create a new office within the Department of Housing and Urban Development charged with regulating the two enterprises, and require the two firms to retain capital to cover potential losses. It would also require them to increase their business with low- and moderate-income families.

Critics said the measure did not go far enough. They complained that Fannie Mae and Freddie Mac should be required to hold more capital to protect themselves against losses, and questioned whether HUD was too close to the enterprises to aggressively regulate them.

But Fannie Mae and Freddie Mac both supported the measure.

Another would make it easier for lenders to avoid having to pay for environmental cleanups on foreclosed property they obtained, if the lender learned of the pollution problem after taking over the property.

FIRST FLOOR PLAN

One novel feature is a small balcony that overlooks the living room. Two dormer windows bath the balcony, living room and entry area in natural light. A fireplace with a wide tile hearth spans the corner directly under the balcony.

The only other room that faces the street is called a swing room, so named because it can swing from one use to another. Brightened by a stack of windows with an arch at the top, it could be an art studio, home office, sewing room or media room. Add a closet, and you have a guest room or fourth bedroom.

Four skylights and a wealth of windows combine to make the sun nook even brighter than the rest of the house. And because it's separated from the kitchen and family room by half walls, light spills over into these areas as well. Sliding glass doors open onto a deck that is also accessible from the master suite.

The kitchen is large enough to handle two or three cooks at a time. A central work island does triple duty by combining extra counter space with a cooktop and eating bar. Other kitchen amenities include a dishwasher, a pantry and double sink that faces into the sun nook.

For a study plan of the Crown Jewel (332-010), send $7.50 to Landmark Designs, P.O. Box 2307, Eugene, Ore. 97402 and include the plan name and number.

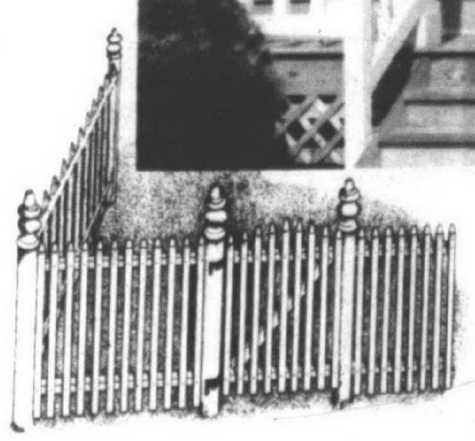
New neighbors?



Maybe they're a young couple like this one, who have just moved in down the block, or maybe they're an older couple who bought the house next door.

It's always fun to get acquainted with new folks when they move into the neighborhood and sort of exciting to welcome them with plate of cookies or a bunch of flowers from your garden.

It's a good feeling to let them know what days the trash is picked up on your street and that you can be counted on to keep an eye on their place.

Neighborly stuff. Like the paper you're reading right now. They'd probably like to know about it, too. The fact that it has a lot of hometown news that they'd enjoy reading. Along with classified ads for buying things they'll need and selling things they don't need in their new home.

So if you should greet a new neighbor before we do, say "hello" for us and tell them to give us a call at 591-0500 for home delivery.
