City to hike property taxes

City of Plymouth residents will be paying 2.8 percent more in property taxes. That translates into $29.40 for a house valued at $100,000.

BY KEVIN BROWN
STAFF WRITER

City residents will pay 2.8 percent more in taxes during 1996-97, under the proposed city budget.

That means someone with a house valued at $100,000 will pay $29.40 more to the city in taxes, if the $5.05 million budget is approved as proposed.

A public hearing on the budget is scheduled for 7 p.m. Monday, June 3, at Plymouth City Hall, 201 S. Main. The city commission is scheduled to adopt the budget at that session.

An 11.76-mill rate is proposed for city operating millage and 1.25 mills for solid waste. Both rates are the same as current rates. It's because assessment increases can rise only as high as the inflation rate _ 2.8 percent _ that residents will see a corresponding raise in taxes paid to the city.

Under the proposed budget, city officials anticipate receiving $4.87 million in the budget period from property taxes, state-shared revenue and other sources.

The budget anticipates spending of $5.05 million. The city administration anticipates receiving nearly $2.9 million from property taxes, the same amount expected in budget year 1995-96; more than $984,000 in state-shared revenues, up $34,000 from the previous year; and $327,450 in charges for city services.

Other revenue categories include $95,300 from license and permit fees; $75,000 in federal grants, down from $80,000 in 1995-96; $327,000 in charges for city services; $121,500 in cemetery revenues; and $52,300 in parking revenues, up from a projected $44,250 this year.

Top spending categories include $319,360 for Municipal Services Department costs; $667,500 for Plymouth Community Fire Department costs, down from $732,150 in 1995-96; nearly $1.5 million for police

Crash aftermath

A FAMILY THANK YOU

We are blessed with friendship and caring. Our two lovely ladies, Donna and Kimberly Rennolds, were taken from us in the horrible crash of ValuJet Flight #592.

The astonishment, disbelief, pain, sorrow and scores of other human emotions we have experienced this past week have been undescribable.

However, we have been overwhelmed by the unbelievable number of expressions of sympathy and comfort received after this traffic accident.

Friends, colleagues, neighbors, and people we didn't even know have come forward to express their feelings at our time of grief.

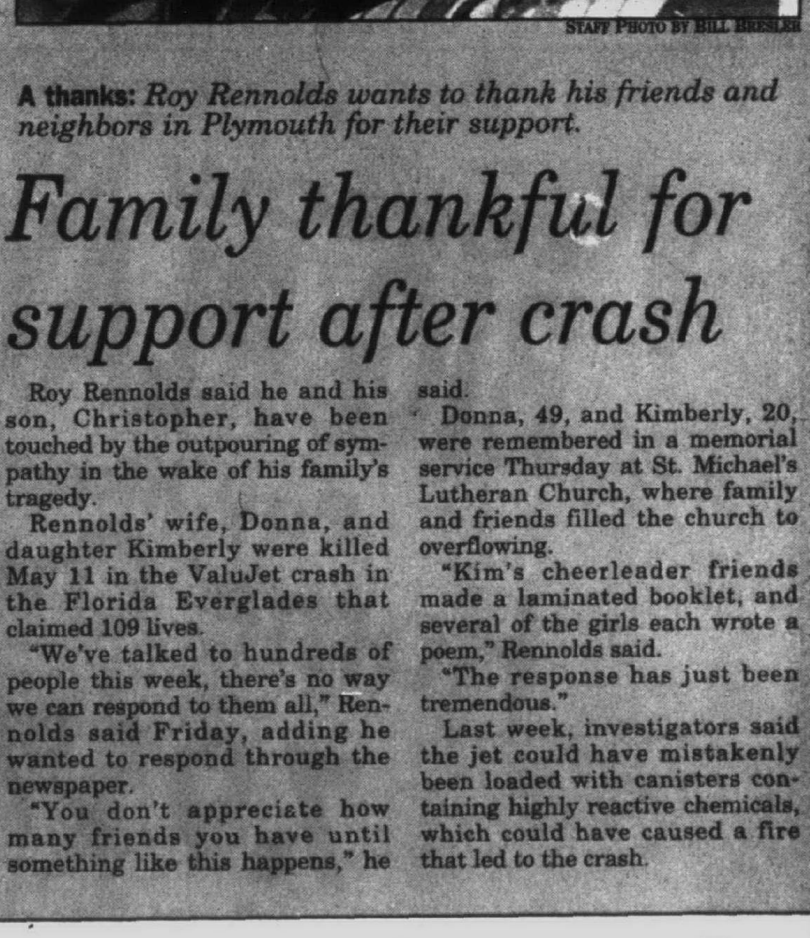

There have been so many (hundreds) that will take some time to respond to each one, but we want each of you who so openly expressed your feelings to know how much your actions meant to all the members of our family.

Without the strength provided by your support at this horrible time, the past week would have been unbearable.

You will be hearing from us personally real soon.

God bless you all.

Family thankful for support after crash

Roy Rennolds said he and his son, Christopher, have been touched by the outpouring of sympathy in the wake of his family's tragedy.

Rennolds' wife, Donna, and daughter Kimberly were killed May 11 in the ValuJet crash in the Florida Everglades that claimed 109 lives.

"We've talked to hundreds of people this week, there's no way we can respond to them all," Rennolds said Friday, adding he wanted to respond through the newspaper.

"You don't appreciate how many friends you have until something like this happens," he said.

Donna, 49, and Kimberly, 20, were remembered in a memorial service Thursday at St. Michael's Lutheran Church, where family and friends filled the church to overflowing.

"Kim's cheerleader friends made a laminated booklet, and several of the girls each wrote a poem," Rennolds said.

"The response has just been tremendous."

Last week, investigators said the jet could have mistakenly been loaded with canisters containing highly reactive chemicals, which could have caused a fire that led to the crash.

Victim: Kimberly Rennolds died in the crash.

Mother: Donna Rennolds lost her life in the crash.

Longtime band director to be honored

BY KEVIN BROWN
STAFF WRITER

You could call this Plymouth-Canton Band Alumni concert "Mr. Griffith's Opus."

That's because more than 100 former students of James Griffith will be on hand to salute the high school band director, who retired last year after more than 38 years teaching.

"They're coming from all over the country; Vermont, Georgia, basically from everywhere," said Susan Pocklington, who is helping to organize the concert.

It's scheduled for 8 p.m. Saturday, May 25, at the Plymouth Salem High School auditorium.

Spring puts chill on sales

BY KEVIN BROWN
STAFF WRITER

This cool, wet spring has been a downer for local businesses that count on warm weather.

"When the days are rainy and cloudy business is slow and when the sun is shining business is busy," said Val Saxton of Saxton's Garden Center on Ann Arbor Trail.

This spring, "There's been a general decline all around," she said.

"Every day they come in and say, 'When is spring coming?' People don't like to get out in their yard and work when its cool and its damp. People who were going to work on their lawns on weekends have to cancel the rental machines," she said.

"The germination of grass seed has been very slow this spring due to the cool weather. We keep telling them it will grow when it warms up," she said.

Getting ready: Spring sales have lagged due to cooler than normal weather. But things will start to move when it's warmer, according to Allen Saxton.

While they're getting some business from folks bringing in lawn mowers for start-of-season service, Saxton said, "It's not the wild flood we would normally get."

When warm weather hits, folks line up at the Penniman Deli at lunch time to buy sandwiches and more and head to the deck outside or Kellogg Park. Has the cold spring affected business? "Yes it has," said owner Russ Webster.

"We should be making the transition from soups to salads and we should be selling more cold beverages," he said.

"We should have a higher volume of people to enjoy the warm weather,"

Webster said, adding he schedules more employees for when weather is warmer to handle business.

At the Dairy King ice cream parlor on Main Street, owner Carol Laing also said the weather has kept business down. "I would say landscapers, construction people and us, we're waiting for some sunshine," she said.

"There just haven't been people walking around Plymouth, it hasn't been nice," Laing said, adding she's cut back on employees until the weather warms up.

"Everyone that has suppled me says the same thing, dairies are down, suppliers are down, it's a chain reaction," she said. While temperatures were supposed to rise over the weekend, Laing said, "I hope it isn't 85 and raining. I hope its 85 and sunny."

Plymouth Municipal Services Director Paul Sincock said, "We're running probably two to three weeks behind in our spring efforts."

"We obviously haven't planted all the spring flowers in barrels around Kellogg Park and in a variety of other areas we typically plant," he said.

department costs; and $343,111 for city finance department costs.

In a message accompanying the budget, City Manager Steve Walters said the primary focus of the 1996-97 city budget is the capital outlay program, for which $200,000 is being set aside.

"The city's aging infrastructure (streets and sewers) demands significant financial resources for renovations and replacements," Walters said.

"At the same time, the general fund is limited by the Headlee amendment to essentially the current tax levy. This means that much of the funding for capital improvements must be found within current revenue sources, by finding operating efficiencies such as the fire department merger and making hard priority choices about the funding levels of existing programs and operations," he said.

Walters said one budget area that officials are looking at is recreation. While commissioners have yet to decide, they're considering raising non-resident recreation fees by $30-$50 per activity.

The city manager said the city's cost to pay off past bond projects is declining, but real savings in this area won't happen until the 1997-98 budget year, when the debt will be reduced by $150,000 compared to the current budget year.

While the budget shows no surplus, the city administration maintains a $450,000 budget stabilization fund to deal with emergencies.

Parent honored by board

Don Fullerton, a Salem High School parent volunteer, received the Volunteer in Public Schools (VIPS) award at the Board of Education meeting May 13 at the E.J. McClendon Educational Center.

A volunteer in the testing center at Salem High School, Fullerton has tutored several students on a one-to-one basis, and assisted with math instruction in many invaluable ways, said Judy Evola, Plymouth-Canton schools' community relations director.

Tom Salbenblatt, Salem High School math teacher who nominated Fullerton, said Fullerton has volunteered as often as four times a week, assisting students with math assignments.

"Don gives selflessly of his valuable time, is dependable and pleasant to work with, and always shows concern for the social and academic atmosphere at the Plymouth-Canton Educational Park," Salbenblatt said.

There are still openings with the alumni band for interested alumni.

Pocklington, a 1976 Plymouth Salem graduate who played with the Traverse City Symphony Orchestra, said Griffith had a special ability to teach musical excellence.

"He has the ability to take a group and hone their skills, he really got us to perform beyond a level most people thought possible for high school," Pocklington said.

She played flute and piccolo in the band and still teaches part time. "We all remember the thrill of the sound that came from the band, there was nothing like it," Pocklington said.

"He got us to the point where we could feel that, at times it can give you goose bumps. He gave us the best he had and in turn we learned what excellence meant."

Former student Bill Lucas, a 1975 Plymouth Salem graduate, now plays trumpet with the Detroit Symphony Orchestra. "We call him Griff," he said.

"Basically he talked me into being a musician. When I left high school I wasn't sure what I was going to do. When you audition there are 170 other trumpet players and I'd have to beat them all to get my job, I didn't think I could do that," Lucas said.

He then studied engineering at the University of Michigan, but didn't do well. "He offered to talk to me about music and made a lot of sense, I decided to really go for it," Lucas said.

"I think the other thing about Griff that's really extraordinary, is a lot of musicians just play notes and there's no feeling behind it. I can look back to my early high school years and realize he was teaching music, not teaching notes. That's really rare," Lucas said.

Pocklington said the recent movie "Mr. Holland's Opus" could almost have been about Griffith. There's a similarity in the two, she said, "because in the movie his students were his composition."

"We really want people to come hear the concert," she said.

Crew has better idea for Plymouth, commercial

In spot light: A film crew turned Penniman in Plymouth into a Hollywood-like set on Friday. The site was a scene for a Ford commercial that deals with a family that has worked at the Ford Motor Co. for several generations. At right, a crew member sets up the lighting.

"What are they doing?"

That was the often-heard comment spoken by passers by Thursday along Penniman Avenue west of Harvey, as crews filmed a Ford commercial that will be shown nationally.

The crackle of a walkie-talkie brandished by location manager Tom Jacob also filled the air, as Michael and Mary Beth Soignet _ owners of the house chosen as the place to film the commercial _ smiled and chatted with curious neighbors and film crew members.

While the film crew was to take over the house for most of the day, Mary Beth Soignet said she and her husband were free to go inside and retrieve items, or even take a shower.

Jacob, who is based in the Detroit area, said he picked the Soignet's home after scouting several locations.

"We were looking for a home that had a beautiful old interior, wooden floors, a real classic all-American look," he said.

Lined along Penniman were dozens of equipment trucks and motor homes for the actors. There were 60 crew members on hand for the shoot, many of whom work for a Los Angeles-based film company.

The commercial, Jacob said, is called "Generations." "It deals with a family where four generations have worked for Ford," he said.

It features an actor portraying a grandson who looks through a family photo album, and recalls family members who worked for Ford.

"My job is the overall coordinator. I make sure people get fed on time, every aspect," Jacob said.

Among his responsibilities was having special lighting on hand to simulate sunlight _ something needed on the cloudy afternoon.

Improvements planned at Mettetal Airport in fall

BY RALPH R. ECHTINAW
STAFF WRITER

■ 'With (Big Beaver Airport in) Troy closing, I don't think we'll have any trouble filling a new hangar.'

Randy Coller
—Aviation official

Mettetal Airport's dilapidated, and in some cases waterlogged, hangars will begin to be replaced next year if all goes as planned.

Airport advisory board member John Vergona, state Bureau of Aeronautics representative Randy Coller and airport manager Doug Kitze met Thursday to discuss the future of hangars at the state-owned airport south of Joy and east of Lilley.

They were confident that space in a new hangar could be rented almost immediately.

"They'll all be full no matter what you build," Kitze said.

"With (Big Beaver Airport in) Troy closing, I don't think we'll have any trouble filling a new hangar," Coller said.

Vergona and Coller debated where the new hangar should go. Coller favored a spot of "beach-front property" next to the runway on the west side.

Vergona preferred the northeast corner of the airport behind an existing hangar.

The difference is that Coller's location could accommodate a "T-hangar" from which planes would come out on both sides.

In Vergona's location there isn't enough room for a T-hangar. They'd have to build a "box" hangar there with planes going in and out on one side only.

Because of the way airplanes are shaped, more of them can be stored in a T-hangar. So T-hangars are more cost effective than box hangars.

Coller estimated that a box hangar would cost one-third more to build than a T-hangar.

Vergona favors building the box hangar in the northeast corner because nothing else can be done with that area.

Once the new hangar is built, at least one of the most run-down existing hangars would probably be razed.

Kitze said he would lose some of his current tenants if box hangars are built because they couldn't afford the rents the airport would have to charge for box hangars. The hangars would be filled, but with corporate planes and planes owned by wealthy people, he said,.

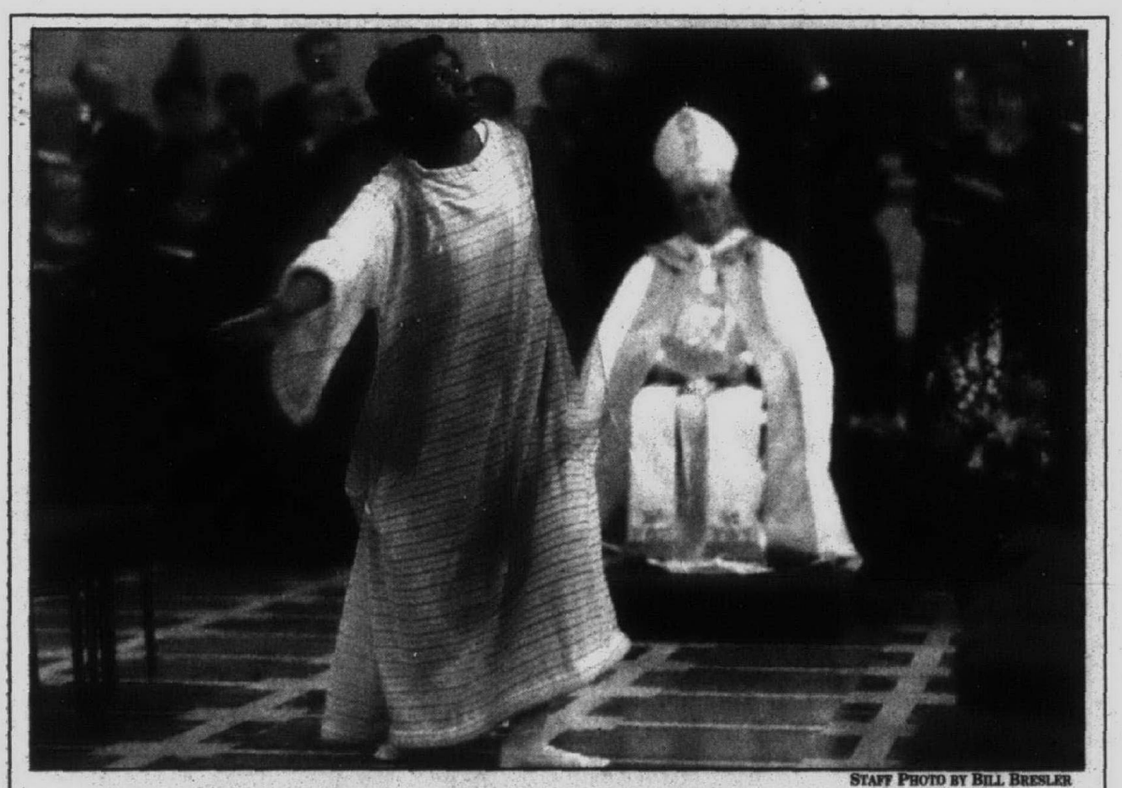

Coller predicts that a new hangar would cost at least $100,000, but not more than $200,000. The hangar would be paid for with airport revenue. Pilots planning to rent space in the new hangar would likely be required to pay six months rent in advance. The rent, Coller said would probably start at $250 to $300 per month.

"If you want a nice hangar, you've got to pay more money," Coller said.

The hangars targeted for demolition are Nos. 14 and 15, which together hold 21 airplanes.

"The hangars need to be replaced," Kitze said. "The walls don't come down to the ground. (The floor) is heaving. And you've got water in there."

Vergona suggested jacking up these hangars and pouring new concrete underneath, but Coller can't see spending that much money on them.

Formal opening: Sister Laura Marie Kendrick dances as a musical group sings during the reopening of St. John Center for Youth and Family.

St. John Center marks formal opening

This past weekend marked the grand reopening and dedication of the St. John Center for Youth and Family.

Formerly St. John Provincial Seminary, the center opened its doors to thousands of well-wishers for the gala that began Friday with a 7 p.m. ceremony and ended with a prayer service and open house Sunday afternoon.

Located at 44011 Five Mile Road just east of Sheldon in Plymouth Township, the center is being reopened as a retreat and conference center for teens, young adults, couples and families in the Archdiocese of Detroit.

The center also houses the Cardinal Maida Institute for Leadership Formation, which will offer programs and activities designed to develop and encourage young adult leaders in parishes and their communities.

Cardinal Adam Maida, archbishop of Detroit, dedicated the center Friday evening. In attendance were 500 invited guests including civic, business and religious leaders, members of archdiocesan advisory boards, and youth, school and parish leadership.

They were treated to refreshments, entertainment and tours of the newly-refurbished Italian Renaissance building.

Saturday's activities were geared toward teens, young adults and their families and youth ministers. Tours, entertainment and refreshments were provided.

Sunday's activities — for families, parish groups and interested individuals — focused on the programs, accommodations and activities available at St. John Center.

For more information about St. John Center for Youth and Family, please contact Fr. John West, director, at (313)237-4668.

St. John's educated and trained men from six dioceses for the priesthood from 1949 to 1988. It was closed and put up for sale several years ago after enrollment declined. The archdiocese considered a few purchase offers, but opted to instead keep and convert the seminary for the public's use. It has been open for several months on a limited basis for weekend Engaged Encounters and Marriage Encounters.

Commission OKs citizens ethics panel

BY BETH SUNDRLA JACHMAN
STAFF WRITER

The Wayne County Commission's approval Thursday of a citizens ethics board to replace the current county ethics board is drawing fire from other county officials.

On a 10-1 vote, the commission approved an independent citizens ethics board to replace the current ethics panel made up of county employees. Local commissioners Bruce Patterson, R-Canton Township, and Vice Chair Kay Beard, D-Westland, voted yes, while Michelle Plawecki, D-Dearborn Heights, and Thaddeus McCotter, R-Livonia, were out of the room and didn't vote.

It's part of the county commission's efforts to water down the ethics board, the county's deputy CEO Michael Duggan said.

"I know it will be vetoed," he said.

The current panel is made up of Duggan, chief deputy clerk Veronica Massey, chief deputy treasurer Leonard Remick, undersheriff Melvin Turner and chief assistant prosecuting attorney George Ward.

"I think it's more a matter of philosophy," Beard said. "We looked at it as strengthening it," she said.

If the board has people who are completely independent the members won't be instructed by anyone and it won't be viewed as an inside deal, she said.

"This is something we have looked at very carefully," she said. "We want to be sure we're doing the right thing."

She said the ordinance can always be changed if it doesn't work.

Patterson, who also voted yes, earlier this year proposed revamping the ethics board. He has said it's "absolute folly" to have county employees sitting in ethical review of county employees, and he questioned having an ethics board "made up of insiders."

The ethics board change passed Thursday was introduced by Commissioner Edna Bell of Detroit.

The current ethics board has worked very well, according to Duggan.

Since the ethics board was formed two years ago every county employee files disclosure forms, Duggan said. The board meets once a month and reviews all departments, he said.

"These commissioners do not want to be watched," he said.

"I think it was a mistake," Ward said of the disbanding of the current ethics panel. He called the action one of two "big blunders" the commission has made.

The other is the commission's approval earlier this year of an amendment to the ethics ordinance eliminating a requirement that county elected officials seek waivers for employment with county contractors.

Beard said, at that time, that the commission's rules address that issue and that a county commissioner only has to abstain from voting if there's a conflict of interest.

But Ward said commissioners are "falling into the trap of double dealing," adding he was a member of the county's charter commission in 1980 and one of the issues addressed at that time was county elected officials using public office to get better positions with county contractors.

County Executive Edward McNamara vetoed the waiver requirement amendment Feb. 19, saying in a letter that it "created a terrible appearance." County commission general counsel Ben Washburn told the commissioners the veto didn't count, however, because it came after the veto time had expired.

The independent citizens ethics board is also "terribly bad public policy," Ward said. All six countywide elected officials oppose it, he said.

Sheriff Robert A. Ficano said he was "disturbed to learn of attempts to disband the Wayne County Ethics Board," in a letter sent to the commission before Thursday's vote.

To establish effective policy recommendations, the individuals would have to be aware of the internal operations of each department within Wayne County, Ficano said in the letter.

"I recommend that the current board, which represents each elected official within Wayne County, be expanded to include a second citizen selection from these same elected officials and the Wayne County Board of Commissioners," Ficano wrote.

Plawecki, who was absent during the vote, said she thinks a mix of county employees and citizens would be a good blend and thought the issue was going to be sent back to committee Thursday. Plawecki also represents Redford Township and Livonia east of Middlebelt.

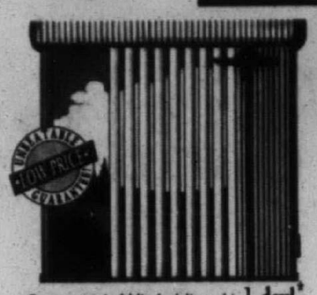

"I think it's important to have people who work in the county on the board," she said. "I wouldn't want to see it disbanded."

Duggan said he would support adding citizens to the current ethics board. "I think that's a reasonable solution."

How many reasons do you need to keep your communication service with Ameritech? Here's an abbreviated list. But hold the phone. We'll think of more.

1. Easy-to-use services like Call Waiting. So you never miss a call when you're on a call.

2. Caller ID. Tells you who's calling before you answer.

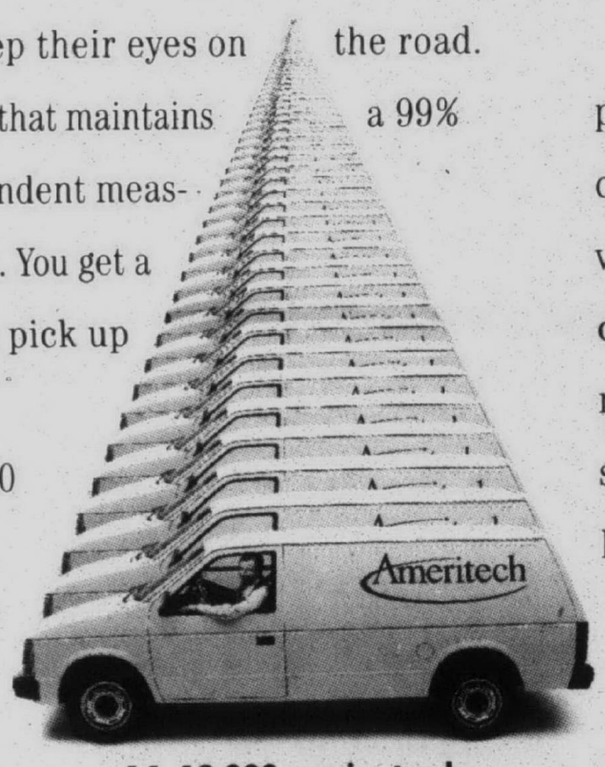

3. Multi-Ring Service. Allowing one line to receive calls on up to three different numbers.

4. VoiceSelect™. So Ameritech Cellular phone customers can dial numbers by voice, and keep their eyes on the road.

5. All backed by a company that maintains a 99% reliability rate. That's an independent measure of the reliability of our network. You get a dial tone 99.9% of the time you pick up the phone to make a call.

6. A company with 60,000 employees in the Midwest.

7. Ninety-three percent of all Ameritech employees are shareholders, so they are also owners who take a keen interest in keeping all of their customers happy.

14. 19,000 service trucks.

8. 4,900 of them are highly efficient operators who use the best database available nationwide and handle... 9. ...2.6 million customer calls every day,... 10. ...including operators who do so in English,... 11. ...and Spanish, as well as Polish.

12. 7,300 of our employees are technicians... 13. ...who make 3.9 million visits each year to provide service and make local installations.

14. And they drive the 19,000 service vehicles we have in the five-state area.

15. We maintain 600 permanent service facilities in the region.

16. We invest $2 billion yearly. To maintain and upgrade the network in your area.

33. Home security systems.

17. They've put in enough copper phone lines in our five-state region to stretch to the sun and back. (That's 186 million miles. Think we can make it out to your new house? Probably.)

18. We've also put in just over a million miles of fiber optic cable right here in the Midwest.

19. We're your next-door neighbor, not some big faraway company from New Jersey.

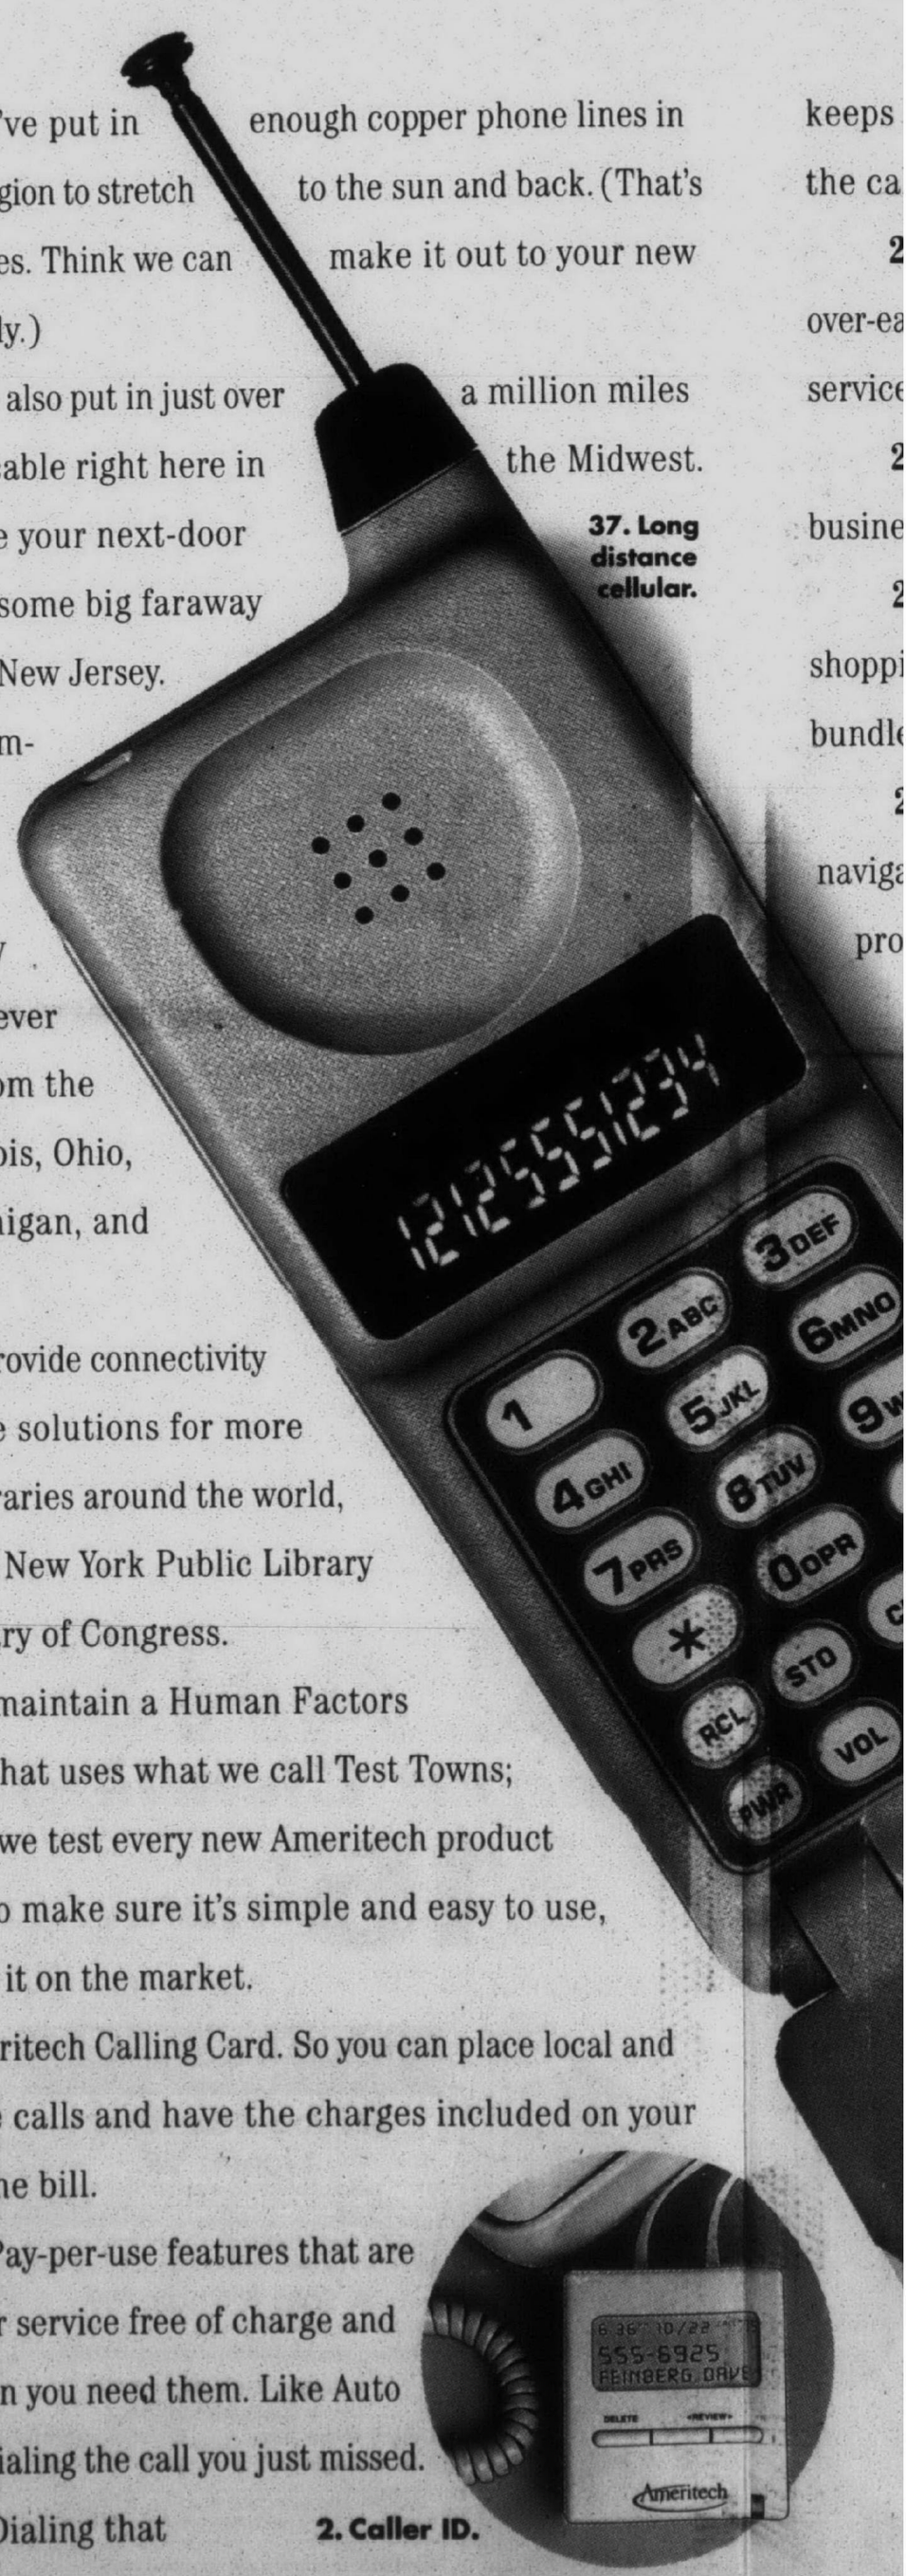

20. A company that has connected virtually every call you have ever made to or from the states of Illinois, Ohio, Indiana, Michigan, and Wisconsin.

21. We provide connectivity and software solutions for more than 3,500 libraries around the world, including the New York Public Library and the Library of Congress.

22. We maintain a Human Factors Department that uses what we call Test Towns; places where we test every new Ameritech product and service to make sure it's simple and easy to use, before we put it on the market.

23. Ameritech Calling Card. So you can place local and long distance calls and have the charges included on your monthly phone bill.

24-25. Pay-per-use features that are built into your service free of charge and are there when you need them. Like Auto Callback for dialing the call you just missed. And Repeat Dialing that

30. Distance learning networks serving nearly 400 local schools, colleges, and universities. With distance learning, students and teachers who are miles apart can interact with each other just like they were in the same room. All they need are computers, modems, and Ameritech's ability to link them together through a network.

31. Free cellular phones, pagers, and airtime for eligible neighborhood watch groups. Through our Cellular Patrol™ program, we help people take control of their neighborhoods.

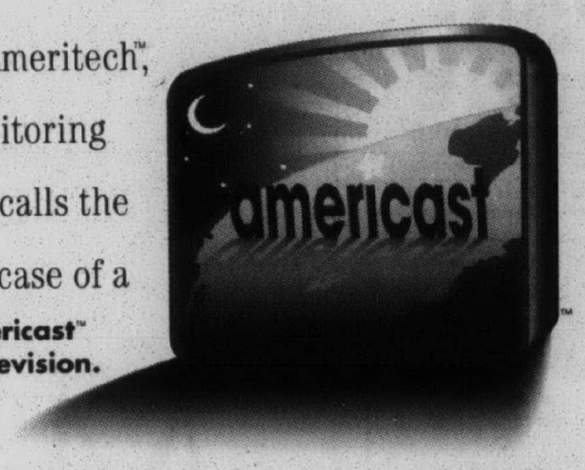

32. The Ameritech Complete Card. A no-annual-fee VISA® or MasterCard® offering a cash return on purchases and calls. It's also an easy-to-use calling card.

6. One of 60,000 employees.

33. SecurityLink™ from Ameritech™, our electronic security monitoring company that automatically calls the police or fire department in case of a break-in or fire, and gives you the ability to monitor or control 15 home functions like heating and lighting.

40. americast™ Cable Television.

36. The most experienced ISDN provider in the country. ISDN gives incredible speed and capability in voice/data/video communication.

37-38. Ameritech cellular service for local and long distance calling. (When you're ready to cut the cord and go mobile, Ameritech makes it as easy as calling 1-800-MOBILE1.)

39. Telephones. Yes, Ameritech actually sells phones, some with built-in screens for Caller ID. And you can even order them over the phone (1-800-650-LINK) and have it charged to your phone bill.

40. americast™ Cable Television service, which will soon be available featuring a remarkable programming device that gives you some control over the shows available to your kids.

41. New services we're developing, like Beeper Call that automatically forwards calls to your pager.

42. Oh, and paging, too. Ameritech's paging service has 800,000 customers. So as you can see, there are lots of reasons to stick with Ameritech. Enough to fill a phone book. (Another service we handle, by the way.)

Stick with the one that works.

Vote-by-mail issue prompts partisan debate

BY TIM RICHARD
STAFF WRITER

Sen. Alma Wheeler Smith, D-Salem, is trying hard to make a partisan issue out of her vote-by-mail bill.

"The Republicans have not only put their foot down against legislation that would both dramatically increase voter turnout and save taxpayer dollars," Smith said after taking a May 15 defeat, "but they have refused to consider the clearly expressed popular support for this bill."

Nonsense, said Republicans. The technology simply isn't ready.

"The whole process would be under the supervision of the Secretary of State," said Sen. Joanne Emmons, R-Big Rapids, who is holding Smith's bill in her committee.

"Chris Thomas, who is director of elections, is urging that this body not consider this (Smith bill) until we have a qualified voter file completed by the Secretary of State in 1998."

Vote-by-mail now would be open to fraud, said Emmons, because "around 20 percent of the over two million registered voters are thought either to be deceased or have duplicate voting registration files.

"We need a qualified state voter file first. A clerk right now must keep a voter on the roles practically forever. The entire thing needs to be looked at in committee."

The Senate rejected Smith's amendment with all 16 Democrats voting yes and 21 Republicans no.

Smith replied: "While the Senate majority rationalized its opposition to vote-by-mail until public hearings are held, they adamantly refuse to hold any hearings."

Voting by mail is a popular idea. The debate is over who will get credit. Secretary of State Candice Miller wants voting by mail soon as a qualified voter file is assembled by the state.

The public likes the idea, which increased voter turnout in an Oregon special election.

An Epic-MRA poll showed 64 percent of Michigan adults favor it, 32 percent oppose and 4 percent are unsure.

College-educated women are the most supportive because they are most likely to be working full-time and, if they have children, feel most pressed for time, the poll showed.

There's great controversy over whether voter turnouts in Michigan are declining. Smith points to the gubernatorial vote, which shows the portion of the voting-age population turning out has slipped from 52.2 percent in 1966 to 45.5 percent in 1994.

But the raw numbers show voter turnout increased from 2.46 million in 1966 to 3.18 million in 1994.

Why do voter turnout percentages look so bad? Here's what happened:

- In 1972 the U.S. amended the Constitution allowing 18-20-year-olds to vote. That increased the number of registrants. But young voters typically don't exercise their right in the same proportions that middle-aged voters do.
- In 1972 the Michigan Supreme Court ruled unconstitutional a Republican-passed law purging the voter lists of voters who had been inactive for two years. The suit was brought by the United Auto Workers union, backbone of the Democratic Party. Result: More voters on the books but not necessarily active ones who vote in every local, primary and general election.
- In the 1980s, Michigan amended voter laws requiring files to be kept five years after the voter had ceased to be "active."
- In 1975 Michigan began "motor voter" registration, allowing people to register to vote when they got their driver's licenses.
- This year a new federal law takes effect requiring the states to register voters in welfare, unemployment and public health offices. It's sure to swell the registration roles but not necessarily the voter turnout.

The Senate also rejected, 16-20, an amendment by Sen. Gary Peters, R-Bloomfield Township, that would require the state to reimburse local units for holding special elections for legislative vacancies.

The issue arose when Republican David Honigman of West Bloomfield resigned from the Senate in mid-March for health reasons.

Gov. John Engler scheduled a special May 13 primary and June runoff to fill the vacancy. Cities and townships in Honigman's district are required to conduct the election, for which they hadn't budgeted, from local budgets.

Supporting the Peters amendment were 15 Democrats and Republican Mike Rogers of Howell. Opposed were 20 Republicans.

Missing the vote was Democrat George Z. Hart of Dearborn.

Sheriff to use cable, online to fight crime

BY BETH SUNDRLA JACHMAN
STAFF WRITER

Crime doesn't pay, but helping to solve crimes will.

A nonprofit program called Crime Stoppers Inc. will offer up to a $1,000 reward for information leading to the arrest of felons and fugitives. The toll-free number is 1-888-SHERIFF.

"There is no question a relationship between the police, the public and the media can help in fighting crime," Wayne County Sheriff Robert Ficano said Thursday at a kickoff for the program.

In the wake of successful television shows such a "Unsolved Mysteries" and "America's Most Wanted," which present reenactments of crimes and seek viewer tips to solve them, the new Wayne County program will present a crime of the week and offer a reward for information.

The first crime spotlighted is the fatal shooting of off-duty Wayne County Sheriff's Deputy Steven Lucas. Lucas was killed in Detroit at about 4:30 a.m. Saturday, Sept. 17, 1994, as he sat in his red 1991 Toyota Celica in a parking lot near the Heaven Lounge at Larchwood and Woodward.

Cable viewers are shown a photo and given a short narrative on a crime. Viewers can call the hot line on a 24-hour basis. Informants are given a code to link them to a specific case and ensure anonymity.

The size of the reward is related to the value of the information supplied. A 12-member civilian board will review tips and reward up to $1,000 for them, Ficano said.

Local cable companies, including Continental Cablevision and Time Warner Cable, will air the spots four or five times daily. The Observer Newspapers are providing a website to Crime Stoppers. The program will be on-line beginning June 1. The home page address is: http://oeonline.com/crimestoppers.

Wallcomm Industries Inc. of Troy is providing data through fax on demand.

CC varsity team sweeps state academic championship

The Catholic Central Varsity Academic Team swept six games to win the Michigan Class A State Championship.

The state title was the fourth for CC in the past nine years.

The state championship capped the season for local senior players Clint McDonell of Garden City, Greg Van Hoey of Redford Township, Hernan Munoz of Canton Township and Scott Chemello of Livonia.

Coached by Howard Weinberg, a CC faculty member, the varsity team won seven earlier competitions while compiling an overall record of 147-13.

The CC team has received an expenses-paid invitation to compete in a national tournament at Disney World in June.

Grant targets teen drug abuse

Wayne County's Juvenile Detention Facility's Substance Abuse Treatment Program will receive a $65,000 grant.

The grant is part of the Hudson-Webber Foundation's grant program.

The foundation was established in 1943 with contributions from Mr. and Mrs. Richard H. Webber, other members of the Webber family and the J.L. Hudson Company.

Dentistry in the 90s

by Herbert M. Gardner, D.D.S. & Martha P. Zinderman, R.N., D.D.S.
UNDER SEDATION
When patients are very anxious or must undergo long or extensive dental procedures, dentists often supplement local anesthetics with sedatives. Administered intravenously to allow prolonged effect, I.V. sedation provides several benefits. First and foremost, it reduces awareness and anxiety, as the patient settles into a twilight consciousness between waking and sleeping. It also alters the perception of time so that the dentist can accomplish in one sitting what might have otherwise taken two or more visits to finish. (Some sedative produce amnesia to the point where the patient may even find it difficult to recall the procedure.) Lastly, although sedation does not directly block the sensation of pain, it alters and reduces it. All these benefits add up to a gentle and painless approach to comprehensive procedures that busy or anxious patients may find most helpful.
At LIVONIA VILLAGE DENTAL ASSOCIATES, we are committed to making you as comfortable as possible during any dental procedure. Patient education and awareness are keys to prevention and early detection of dental problems. We're located at 19171 Merriman Road, where our ultimate goal is your good dental health. Please call 478-2110 to schedule a convenient appointment. Smiles are our business. Hrs: Mon., Tue., Thu. & Fri. 8-5, Wed. til 9 p.m.

BEDWETTING
WHAT MY DOCTORS DIDN'T UNDERSTAND!
I am a 16-year old girl and happy to say, a former bed wetter. I had wet the bed for my entire life and had tried everything to stop. When I found out I couldn't I started seeing many, many doctors. I know there are people out there who believe that drugs can solve their problem. They can't. I tried everything from Tofranil, a strong anti-depressant to nasal spray. All the medication that I took in pill form either didn't work or gave me serious stomach pain. The nasal spray caused me to have more serious problems. It burned through nasal passages, causing me to have severe nose bleeds. Another thing I tried was a bed alarm. The only thing that did was wake everybody in the house every time someone sat on my bed. One of the last resorts I turned to, and probably the most embarrassing was the senior-adult diaper. I was afraid other kids would find out my secret and laugh at me. Countless doctor after doctor told me the only thing I could do was wait, "She'll grow out of it". When I came to ETC I was sullen and scared, every other doctor I had ever seen told me it was hopeless. I remember the hardships I had to go through to finally get cured. I am now sleeping better and I have a higher self esteem. It is very tough for bedwetters. They feel all alone, even though bedwetting is common. I would like to thank Barbara (my counselor) because she has saved me. To all those thinking about alternatives to stop bed-wetting, don't, there isn't one.
Love,
Sara

Find the swimsuit that's best for you

BY LINDA CHOMIN
STAFF WRITER

Every woman I know dreads shopping for a swimsuit. Most of today's skimpy styles fail to take into account the fact that real women have thighs.

In Carol Bross' 10 years of creating custom swimwear, she has yet to encounter a woman with a body built to fit a production swimsuit. At Beach Bound Ltd. in Birmingham, designers find solutions for problems such as long torsos, big thighs, small bosoms, and hips widened from child-bearing, not to mention bulges in all the wrong places.

By appointment only, clients in search of a flattering suit try on different styles to discover their best. Measurements are taken, then the suit is cut to fit them. Bross' shop offers more than 150 materials in a range of solid colors and patterns. Prices range from $70-150. Plan on waiting a week for a suit.

If you need swimwear in a hurry, Different Strokes in Livonia has hundreds of competitive and fashionable swimsuits for every member of the family. According to manager Jan Layrs, although the majority of suits made by Speedo, Tyr and Nike were designed for racing and diving competitions, many customers buy them for comfort and durability. The legs are not cut as high as the ones on fashionable suits.

"Competitive swimsuits fit a lot nicer and they're very stylish," said Layrs who advised shoppers to "buy a suit that's comfortable on you.

People who swim a lot for therapy, or are in water aerobics, buy competitive suits because they're looking for nylon or nylon/polyester, rather than lycra. These last longer in the chlorine."

Rinsing a swimsuit in clear water and hanging it to dry immediately after use will ensure a longer life for a suit. "A lot of people tend to throw them in a beach bag and that's the worst thing you can do," Layrs insisted.

Look for fashionable swimwear by Raisins, Point Conception, Radio Fiji and Leilani (cut for mature women) in brights and neon colors this season, also materials in splashy patterns or dappled with daisies. A Radio Fiji two piece suit in magenta with orange piping is $66. Prices for swimsuits from Different Strokes, $38 to $70.

In need of a little lift? Swimwear by Wonderbra provides engineering elements for dramatic cleavage with its push-up plunge bra. Introduced last year, the Wonderbra Swimwear collection boasts five figure enhancing styles for 1996 which incorporate new design elements including tummy control, fuller cut bottoms and specially selected Italian fabrics. Sizing is by bra cup. Prices range from $75-$90. Wonderbra Swimwear is available at JC Penney, Lord & Taylor or directly by calling 1-800-654-6122.

For the less endowed, Hudson's carries a wide array of bust enhancement suits. Some have full pads, removeable half pads, underwires and foam pads. Swimwear by Robby Len promises to extend the life of suits with chlorine resistant materials, and solve long torso problems with special fitting designs. Women's swimwear is priced from $25 to $80.

Here are a few tips from the experts at Hudson's to help deal with problem areas:

*To minimize a midriff or tummy, fool the eye with fabric or styling that pulls the eye away from the trouble spot. Look for wraps or shirring in one piece suits, a high waist on bikinis.

*Hide hips by avoiding tight belts and elastics that bind and create bulges. Choose styles to avoid strong horizontals with higher cut sides, side shirring or tied sides.

*Enhance the countours of a small bustline with dramatic textures, small ruffles, gathers, and print materials. Textured swimwear, in general, provides surface interest and camouflages certain parts of the body.

*To flatter a full bosom look for details (shirring, draping) to pull the eye away from the bustline. Be sure to pay special attention to support, comfort, and coverage.

*Women with longer torsos (the measurement from bustline to hip bone) require a suit designed to insure proper coverage.

See you at the beach.

Oakland Mall stays 'easy'

In the shadow of the soon-to-open Somerset Collection, Oakland Mall hopes to renew its position as "everybody's favorite mall."

BY SUSAN DEMAGGIO
STAFF WRITER

While lesser shopping centers might fret and frown about a new mega mall like Somerset Collection opening just three miles away, the Oakland Mall in Troy sees it as an opportunity.

Mall manager Joy Powell, celebrating her third year at the center, called Somerset a "lucky chance for Oakland Mall."

"We are very different malls," she pointed out. "We're the comfortable, casual, fun and friendly place for families to shop. Our new advertising campaign says it best: At the Oakland Mall, shop as you are!

"Sure, curious shoppers will want to check out Somerset when it opens in August, but our customers will return. We're the real mall for real people. We're taking advantage of all the publicity around Somerset as the chance for us to say who we are and what we're all about."

To remind shoppers what Oakland Mall is all about, the mall's landmark sign, visible from I-75, is being replaced with what is expected to be the largest internally illuminated sign in Michigan - if not the midwest. The "freeway sign" will rise more than 75-feet high, and the mall's other sign at John R and 14 Mile, will be more than 45-feet tall. The new signs carry a $200,000 pricetag.

"We're planning a September pylon lighting ceremony that will be out of this world," Powell laughed. "Stay tuned. It will be so bright you'll need shades."

By November, an all-new holiday program will be the center of attention - gone is the Sesame Street Christmas of years past. The Oakland Mall holiday, according to Powell, "is an exciting new concept featuring all the warm 'n fuzzies of holidays we remember as children."

Powell described a 1995 Scarborough report that named the Oakland Mall, "Michigan's Favorite," based on the volume of shoppers each year. "We get the most traffic of all the state's shopping centers," she said.

All retail space within the Oakland Mall is accounted for with the signing of three new leases: Bath & Body Works, Nineties Nails and Perfumania.

The recent establishment of two mall clubs (Club Tread for walkers, The Giggle Gang for children,) helped the center develop a frequent shopper base with more than 10,000 names.

Two exciting promotions are on the way - Disney's pre-Hunchback traveling exhibit May 31-June 2 and The Big Apple Performing Arts Circus, June 7-16.

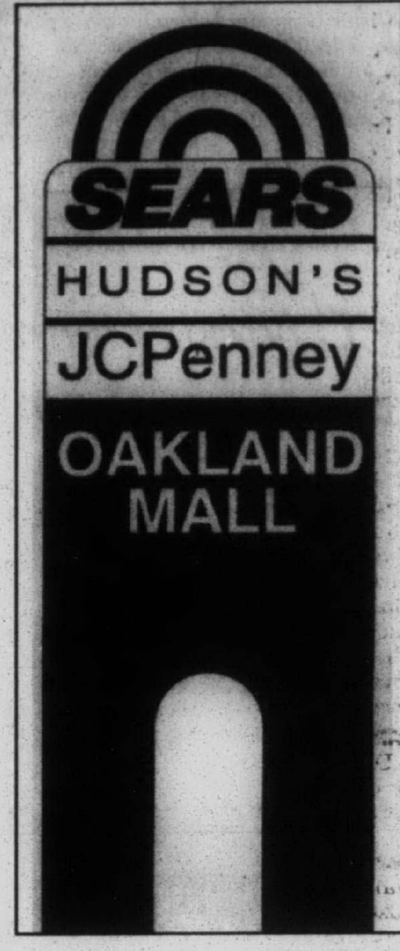

"We'd like to have more of such high-caliber family entertanment," Powell said. "It's just the kind of community fun Oakland Mall believes in."

Powell said the mall restaurants (Bruschetta's, Coney Island, Hudson's, Ruby Tuesday and Big Boy's) are among the most successful tenants at the center. Other bestsellers include the children's apparel shops and home stores seeing sales up 5 percent over last year's.

Oakland Mall opened in July 1968 and was expanded in 1979, adding 52 stores, plus JCPenney. The mall is owned by Oakland Mall Limited with Jay Kogan, partner and Douglas Mossman, an associate.

There are 140 stores at the center employing approximately 5,900 area residents.

"We are really thrilled over the new sign project," Powell said. "We're calling it a sign of the times. So many shoppers tell us the sign means "home" to them. On the way up or down I-75, when they see our sign, they know they're almost home."

Sign on: Oakland Mall is building a new banner - supported by a steel-clad base more than 75-feet-high.

Esther Williams dives into new career

BY SUSAN DEMAGGIO
STAFF WRITER

Surveys reveal that 80-percent of the women who buy bathing suits never get them wet.

"That's because they're not wearing an Esther Williams suit," the ex-actress/Olympic swimmer said during a phone conversation from her home in Beverly Hills. "I believe in containment and support. My suits are created for women with bosoms and bottoms who enjoy the water. And I am a big believer in enjoying the water."

■ "I believe in containment and support. My suits are created for women with bosoms and bottoms who enjoy the water. And I am a big believer in enjoying the water."
Esther Williams
—Swim Queen

Making underwater MGM musicals for 18 years in the 1940s and 50s, Williams wore bathing suits especially created for her by Hollywood's top designers. She planned on creating a swim wear line of her own "when they were done with me." But, because she lent her name to a New Jersey-based pool company in 1958, it wasn't until 1989, when she won a lawsuit reclaiming the right to use her name, that she was free to manufacture bathing suits with an Esther Williams label.

"And that's thanks to Vanna White's brilliant lawyer who specialized in "intellectual property defense," Williams explained. "I was born Esther Jane Williams and that name belongs to me. I just had to break the gridlock."

Williams' collection offers 96 different swimsuit styles in sizes to 20. They are designed in California and manufactured in Vermont, priced about $59 each. Williams will be the guest of Hudson's on Wednesday, May 23 from noon to 2 p.m. in the swim wear department of the Oakland Mall store in Troy.

She'll also make an 8:50 a.m, appearance on Eyewitness Morning on WJBK that day.

"When I met the fans who grew up watching my movies, there are always two things that they want to know," Williams said gaily.

"Yes, I still swim everyday, and secondly, my secret to success is staying busy and productive throughout life.

I'm not a lady who lunches. I'm not a charity committee gal. I have three children, three grandchildren, and I still have my businesses and my tours with Turner Classic Movies to keep me going strong."

Williams said swimming is the best exercise for strengthening the heart and relieving arthritis. She works out against a current machine in her pool, daily. She said she is most proud of the years she spent teaching the blind to swim, "and the moments people come up to me and say, I learned to swim because of you.

"Williams said she enjoys watching her old movies because she "likes the gal I played.""She was warm, capable, and cared about the feelings of others. I would want her for a daughter."

Fun and fit: Williams still enjoys a full life. She swims laps daily against a current machine and divides her time between two businesses - swimwear and pools.

Green: How to wear spring's hottest color

A wise frog once sang, It's not easy being green, and he was right.

According to fashion experts, green is one of the most difficult colors to wear and not look sallow. But, not since the 1970s, has there been so many shades of green appearing in every area of design -especially fashion for spring and summer.

"There are 400 greens in the Pantone Textile Color System," said color expert Lea Eiseman of Pantone, Inc. "And every designer has a favorite shade of green - from acid to mint to forest green."

To wear a shade of green successfully, fashion writer Sharon Mosley, of Copley News Service offers these tips:

1. Tie green on. Start with little dashes first. Opt for a scarf around your neck or with a raincoat. Bright green does wonders to spark up conservative black or navy wardrobes.

2. Wear a tee. Layered under a jacket or dress, one splash of green is all you need.

3. Accent on green. Add a green wristwatch or hang a green purse on your arm. Lime loafers for your feet are also fun.

4. Green giant. If green's good for you, try a silk stretch halter bodysuit with a lime leather skirt. Juicy!

5. Add black. Paler greens teamed with black are outstanding this spring. Toss a new lime-green tunic over slim, black trousers, or slice a little avocado under a black blazer.

6. Mix it up. Lemon yellow is another tangy partner for green this season, and green with powder blue is also a dynamic duo. How about a lime, ribbed knit, sleeveless top with a short, tangerine skirt?

7. Professional greens. Green doesn't have to scream at you , some green silk s jackets and softly pleated voile dresses are richly elegant. Likewise, jade wool crepe suits and celadon gabardine short jackets , complement small, gingham checks.

Wedding cake recipe
Magnificent mushrooms

TASTE BUDS

CHEF LARRY JANES

Brides say 'I do' to homemade cake

A wedding cake should be a creation of dreams, a delicious fantasy to sweeten the event and delight memories. So why would hundreds of really talented cooks trust their memories (and their pocketbooks) to a handful of bakers when they themselves can create the wedding cake of their dreams? Some halls and catering locations offer wedding cake as part of the "total package" and, in my opinion, it would probably be best to stay with a package.

However, with more affordable weddings taking place these days in fields, on decks, in backyards and other economical locations, it makes perfectly good financial sense to make your own wedding cake.

Plan ahead

First off, and probably most important, you'll need a plan for making and assembling the cake. You need to know how many guests the cake will serve, the choice of batter, and whether or not the frosting is conducive to the weather (I wouldn't recommend fancy butter cream frosting on a 103 F. day with 88 percent humidity). Should the cake be sheet-style, layered, or presented in tiers? Can the cake be transported and assembled at the reception? Try and think of all the "what ifs," because the more prepared you are, the better the cake will be.

Cake bakers and professional decorators abound and rely mainly on a bevy of support personnel here in the metropolitan area. You can save money by baking the cake and then having it professionally decorated. Your best bet is word-of-mouth recommendations; but many shops that sell cake and decorating equipment usually have a suggested reference list. The most venerable of cake and baking shops, which stocks a multitude of pans and equipment, is Kitchen Glamor with stores in Redford, Novi, West Bloomfield and Rochester.

Another is the Bakers Acre, 34918 Michigan Avenue, downtown Wayne, (313) 722-4110. Owners Jim and Linda Pratt own this notable cake decorating store, which in addition to selling a multitude of equipment, offers classes in everything from basic to advanced cake baking and decorating.

Linda Pratt, a professional cake baker and decorator herself, offers these tips for making a homemade wedding cake.

Tips for success

"First timers should begin by preparing cakes as simple as possible," said Pratt, "you'd be surprised how a basic cake can be made gourmet with a layer of mousse, fresh fruit puree, or a good soaking of liqueur." She also recommends "that regardless of how simple or extravagant the cake will be, it must be level or the entire cake will look crooked, no matter how elegantly decorated." Pratt uses a sharp serrated knife or a fine string to lop off those "bulges" every baker experiences. The professional baker also recommends that after the cake is removed from the baking pans, place the layers immediately on cake rounds (cardboard) and place them individually in plastic garbage bags. Pratt added "this will not only keep the layers incredibly moist with lesser crumbs for longer periods, but also allows the preparer an opportunity to clean up the area before decorating begins."

Budding wedding cake bakers and decorators can also take advantage of the many cake decorating videos that are available to rent or purchase anywhere good equipment and supplies are sold. Many highly touted equipment manufacturers such as Wilton Industries have cake decorating videos for the beginner, intermediate and advanced home baker. Videos include many state-of-the-art, and up to the minute tips, and techniques for making flowers, borders and decorating the perfect wedding cake.

As far as supplies are concerned, most wedding type cake pans can be rented. You will also need a good mixer, preferably heavy duty (Take it from this baker, nothing does it better than a Kitchen Aid). Basic equipment should include an icing spatula, cake boards, pastry bags, tips, couples, revolving stand and food colors. Professional bakers use baker's quality cloth decorating bags but disposable parchment paper bags can easily suffice for the beginner to help defray costs.

The industry average is about $2.50 per person for a purchased wedding cake. Having made three for family and friends, I easily kept costs at no more than seventy-five cents per person, and not being a decorator, used fresh flowers. Needless to say – quite a savings, especially with the cost of weddings these days!

Mushrooms

Hunting for fungi

BY PEGGY MARTINELLI-EVERTS
SPECIAL WRITER

"Hunt mushrooms," that phrase sounds like an oxymoron to me. After all, mushrooms don't run away and they won't attack you. They just sit there. You don't have to sneak up on them, use a special whistle, or a weapon. However, "hunting" is quite an accurate description, for after a long, cold winter and wet spring, these fungi shyly make their appearance. And although wild mushrooms look quite passive, as their caps peak through dried leaves and grass, they can be very dangerous – even fatal.

The Mushroom Council urges the public to be cautious when foraging for wild mushrooms in fields or forests because of potential health dangers that can be caused by some wild varieties. This caution is in response to a situation in Northern California where a mother and three children became seriously ill after they ate a poisonous wild variety they had picked while foraging.

Spring is the time of year when thousands of people head out in search of the elusive Morel mushroom, with its distinctive pitted cap. However, the Food and Drug Administration says there are two mushroom species that can be easily mistaken for Morels.

The edible Bell Morel "Verpa conica" and half-free morel "Morchella semilibera," and the poisonous early "false morel" "Verpa bohemica" all have caps that look like a partially closed parasol with vertical ridges and striations. The three can easily be confused by an inexperienced harvester, as their distinguishing features are not conspicuous.

So how do we satisfy our cravings for wild mushrooms? Hunt for your favorite varieties in specialty food stores and at restaurants. FDA regulates commercially grown and harvested mushrooms, which are cultivated in concrete buildings or caves. We are also fortunate here in Michigan, as wild mushroom growers and harvesters, which supply the retail trade, must be licensed.

Over the past two decades, various species of mushrooms have literally "mushroomed" in popularity. The Golden Mushroom restaurant in Southfield began serving Shiitake, Portabella, Oyster and other "exotic" mushrooms over 20 years ago. "At first, people viewed them tentatively," said Reid Ashton, owner of the Golden Mushroom. "Now our customers are very knowledgeable about different mushroom varieties and expect them on our dishes." The Golden Mushroom serves over 20,000 pounds of wild mushrooms each year.

Don Schneider of Plymouth, whose family has operated a stall at the Eastern Market in Detroit for 85 years, deals extensively in wild mushrooms. Actually, the Portabella, Oyster, Shiitake, Crimini, Wood Ears and Porcini varieties he sells are not really wild, they are usually cultivated in caves.

"Ten years ago people were very skeptical. Today, they are much more accepting," said Schneider. He said Morels purchased from commercial suppliers can cost from $15 to $50 per pound depending on their quality, and whether they were picked from the wild or cultivated, which is a very expensive process.

It is no wonder mushrooms are so popular. Their delicate flavor and texture complements many different dishes and cuisines. From a nutritional standpoint, fresh mushrooms fare pretty well. A one-half cup serving contains only 10 calories and is a fair source of potassium and riboflavin. They are also fat free, cholesterol free and sodium free.

Many times the low fat, low calorie aspect of mushrooms is negated in the cooking process. Because they are dry and tend to absorb liquid, mushrooms are often cooked in oil or butter and finished with a cream sauce. Although the taste is great, the added calories and fat are not.

As an alternative to cooking mushrooms in heavy sauces and oils, Steve Allen, Golden Mushroom Executive Chef, suggests grilling. He uses Shiitake or Portabella mushrooms, brushes them with a little olive oil, seasons them lightly with salt and pepper, and then grills them.

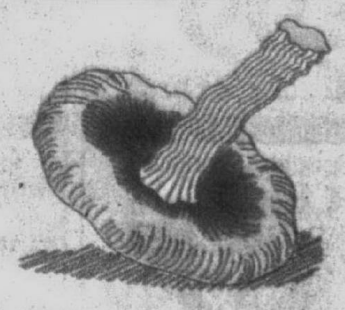

"It's the plainest, simplest cooking method, but it's also a great way to enjoy the natural flavor of the mushroom," he said. The seasonings accentuate the mushroom's delicate flavor instead of masking it.

So I wish you good luck in your pursuit of the elusive mushroom, whether the hunt leads you: through the woods and meadows, or if you're like me, to your local grocery store or favorite restaurant.

Peggy Martinelli-Everts of Clarkston, is a registered dietitian, and director of clinical services for HDS Services, a Farmington-Hills based food service and hospitality management company.

Fungi Facts

- Choose your texture: Short cooking time yields a more delicately textured mushroom; longer cooking time actually renders them denser and chewier.
- Rinse mushrooms quickly and thoroughly to remove dirt and debris. Never soak mushrooms in water or they will become waterlogged. Gently dry them with a cloth or paper towel.
- Refrigerate immediately at home. Fresh mushrooms should be used as soon as possible.
- You can eliminate fat and calories by microwaving mushrooms. Put eight ounces thickly sliced mushrooms in a microwaveable bowl. Cover and cook on high for two to three minutes, stirring once.
- One pound of fresh mushrooms yields about four servings.

Mushroom 101

Here are some varieties you'll find in stores and restaurants:

Agaricus (white mushrooms)
Our most widely available mushroom – this is the white mushroom with the smooth, round cap.
- Color: Ranges from creamy white to beige
- Flavor: Mild and woodsy when raw; delicately flavored when cooked
- Usage: Extremely versatile, raw or cooked. Use raw in salads and with dips. Cooked Agaricus are common as a vegetable, in sauces, soups, on pizzas and in just about any other kind of dish.

Crimini (Also known as Italian Brown)
These are closely related and similar in shape to the white mushroom, but with a naturally darker color.
- Color: Ranges from tan to rich brown
- Flavor: Deeper, denser, earthier than that of the white variety
- Usage: Use as you would the white mushroom, or in combination with them to add variety and color to a dish.

Portabella (Also known as Portobello)
The large-capped relative of the white and Crimini, Portabella caps can range up to six inches in diameter.
- Color: Tan to dark brown
- Flavor: A longer growing period gives Portabellas a very rich flavor
- Texture: Dense and meaty
- Usage: Serve whole or sliced; grilled, baked, fried, stuffed and in side dishes or stir-fry

Enoki
These are the mushrooms with the tiny button caps and long, thin stems. They grow in clusters, joined at the base.
- Color: Creamy white
- Flavor: Mild, light
- Texture: Slightly crunchy
- Usage: Best enjoyed raw in salads and sandwiches or as a garnish

Oyster (Also known as Pleurotus)
Unique oyster shell shape, fluted and graceful
- Color: Soft brown to smoky gray.
- Flavor: Delicate and briny
- Texture: Velvety
- Usage: Use as you would white mushrooms. Adds a uniqueness in appearance, flavor and texture to dishes.

Shiitake (Also known as Oak, Chinese or Black Forest)
These mushrooms are characterized by broad, umbrella-shaped caps, wide open veils and tan gills.
- Color: Ranging from tan to dark brown
- Flavor: Rich and woodsy
- Texture: Meaty when cooked
- Usage: Best when sauteed or grilled

Casa Lapostolle is best wine from Chile

BY ELEANOR HEALD
SPECIAL WRITER

Santa Cruz, Chile – Impressions after a week visiting wineries in Chile are numerous, but if you ask me as many have – what are the best wines you tasted? – my answer's the same, Casa Lapostolle.

Chile is a country of geographical contrasts and multiple landscapes – all different, all beautiful. It is geographically isolated with the magnificence of the Andes rising to the east and a coastal mountain range encountered to the west before arriving at the Pacific Ocean. Driving north from Santiago, there's semi-arid land, gateway to the Atacama Desert further north. The Central Valley, south of Santiago, is home to most of the country's wine industry and in just about any wine shop you can find Chilean wine with regional designations Maipo Valley, Maule Valley and Rapel Valley

Slightly northwest of Santiago is the Casablanca Valley, one of the finest homes for chardonnay in Chile. Currently, there is much foreign investment interest in this region, especially by some large California wineries. In Chile's deep south, closer to Antarctica, one encounters lakes, volcanoes, forests and cold winters from May to September.

Geographical isolation has kept Chilean vineyards from attack by phylloxera (the vine louse that decimated European vineyards in the late 19th century and most recently, a new strain has been the cause of extensive vineyard replanting in California). Because climate is temperate and dry, fungal infections are reduced and few pesticides are required to maintain vine health. Throughout the growing season, October to April, days are warm and sunny and nights are cool – just the ticket to ripen grapes slowly to maturity with full flavor profiles.

ELEANOR HEALD

Vineyard: Michel Rolland, winemaker and consultant at Casa Lapostolle and owner Alexandra Marnier-Lapostolle in the Quartel cabernet sauvignon and merlot vineyard near Santa Cruz, Chile.

If all producers have the same excellent conditions, why is Casa Lapostolle so much better? There are many reasons, not the least of which is the forward thinking Marnier-Lapostolle family from France and a marketing plan targeting U.S. consumers just like you, dear readers, who have come to expect high quality wines every time a cork is pulled.

The Marnier-Lapostolle family makes the world-renowned liqueur Grand Marnier. They produce handcrafted, Cognac Marnier and Armagnac Lapostolle. They are well known for their wine from Chateau de Sancerre in the Loire Valley. Seeking to expand their wine portfolio, they handed Alexandra Marnier-Lapostolle the challenge of locating a region of her choice and establishing a winery. After researching for several years with her winemaker-consultant Michel Rolland, owner of Chateau Le Bon Pasteur in Pomerol, she chose vineyard sites in the Rapel Valley, near Santa Cruz, about 100 miles south of Santiago.

In partnership with Chilean Jose Rabat, once sole owner of the vineyards and winery, Alexandra sought to upgrade the winery to state of the art with a multi-million dollar investment. The expenditure for 2,500 mostly French barrels, at a

PORCINI ASQUINI

1 tablespoon olive oil
1 pound boned and skinned chicken breasts
1/2 pound fresh Porcini mushrooms (or 3 ounces dried)*
1 cup coarsely chopped onion
1 cup diced celery
1 teaspoon minced garlic
2 cans (14 1/2 ounces each) Italian flavored stewed tomatoes
1 teaspoon salt
2 cups fresh green beans, trimmed and halved

Heat oil in a large, nonstick skillet. Add chicken and cook 3 to 4 minutes on each side, until brown. Remove from skillet. Add mushrooms, onion, celery, and garlic to skillet. Cook, stirring frequently, until tender, 6 to 8 minutes. Add tomatoes, salt and chicken. Top with green beans. Cover and simmer until chicken is cooked through and beans are tender, but still slightly crisp. If desired, serve over hot, cooked rice or pasta. Makes 4 to 6 servings.

*If using dried Porcini mushrooms, reconstitute first by soaking in water. Then drain and squeeze as much water out as possible before adding to recipe.

ORIENTAL MUSHROOM AND CUCUMBER SALAD

3 tablespoons rice wine vinegar
2 tablespoons soy sauce
1 tablespoon minced fresh ginger
1/2 teaspoon minced garlic
2 cups peeled and thinly sliced cucumbers
1 cup fresh, sliced white mushrooms
1 package (3.5 ounces) fresh Enoki mushrooms*
1 cup snow peas, cut diagonally in halves
1 cup thinly sliced radishes

In a medium bowl, whisk together vinegar, soy sauce, oil, ginger and garlic. Stir in cucumbers, white and Enoki mushrooms, snow peas and radishes. Toss. Serve, if desired on lettuce-lined serving plates. Serves 4 to 6.

cost of $600 per barrel, is staggering. There are separate temperature-controlled cellars for red wine barrel aging and chardonnay barrel fermentation and aging. All this has made a difference in wine quality. Harvesting mature grapes grown in established vineyards and the judicious use of oak for complexity, makes Casa Lapostolle wines head and shoulders above its nearest competitor.

Just as California and perhaps France's Pays d'Oc wines entered the U.S. market at the low end of the price spectrum, so did Chilean wines. That's certainly not the image California is portraying to the world today. And it won't be for the best wines from Chile, either. While you can get Chilean wine for $6 per bottle, you can't get French oak in chardonnay, merlot and cabernet sauvignon for that price.

Currently available in our market are the 1995 Casa Lapostolle Sauvignon Blanc, 1994 Chardonnay and Cabernet Sauvignon – all $9. The knockout and stylish 1994 Casa Lapostolle Merlot, Cuvee Alexandre is $16.

If you're not a fan of sauvignon blanc, try the Casa Lapostolle, it's sensationally fruity.

Wine Selections

- 1994 Alderbrook Chardonnay $12
- 1993 Rosemount Roxburgh Chardonnay $30 – a peerless wine that's powerfully fruity with intense oak complements

For fresh salmon on the grill:

- 1994 Morgan Pinot Noir $18
- 1994 Mueller Pinot Noir, Emily's Cuvee $20

With grilled meats and spicy red-sauce pastas:

- 1993 Antinori Peppoli $17.50
- 1993 Dry Creek Vineyard Reserve Zinfandel $20
- 1993 Louis M. Martini, Gnarly Vine Zinfandel $20

For grilled seafood and springtime salads:

- 1994 Quivira Sauvignon Blanc $11
- 1995 Chateau Souverain Sauvignon Blanc $8

Seductive merlots:

- 1993 Vichon Merlot $22
- 1993 Chateau Ste Michelle, Cold Creek $28 – outstanding
- 1993 Chateau Ste Michelle, Canoe Ridge Estate $28 – fabulous, but it will get even better with some cellaring.

Best buys at $10 and under:

- 1995 Geyser Peak Sauvignon Blanc $8 – first class!
- 1995 Columbia Crest Johannisberg Riesling $6 – fresh as springtime
- 1995 Geyser Peak Soft Johannisberg Riesling $7 – semi-dry
- 1995 Geyser Peak Gewurztraminer $7 – zesty and citrusy
- 1993 Librandi Ciro Rosso Classico $9.50 – great, light Italian red

The stellar, fruit-laden, creamy and toasty 1995 Casa Lapostolle Chardonnay, Cuvee Alexandre, 100 percent French oak barrel-fermented, will be available midsummer. Fruit for this wine comes from Casablanca. By fall, the reds from 1995 will be here. Don't miss them; they are opulently fruity, complex and rich with balanced oak and firm structure.

Grill fruits, veggies

Grilling has traditionally been associated with large slabs of red meat. But today's health-conscious outdoor cook can lighten the menu with delicious fruit and vegetables prepared in an ancient method — on skewers!

It's hard for even an avid meat-eater to resist a skewer of hot and juicy grilled vegetables. Try two-inch cubes of unpeeled eggplant; 1/2-inch carrot slices; small thin-skinned potatoes (two inches in diameter); one-inch zucchini slices; whole large mushrooms; red or green bell peppers; seeded and cut into one-inch squares; and onion, cut in wedges. Start by cooking the following vegetables in boiling water until slightly tender: eggplant (three minutes); carrots (six minutes); and potatoes (20 minutes).

Marinate the vegetables for at least two hours in a combination of 3/4 cup oil, 1/4 cup white wine vinegar, 2 cloves garlic (minced or pressed); 1 teaspoon each Dijon mustard, dry basil and oregano leaves; 1/2 teaspoon each marjoram and dry rosemary; and 1/4 teaspoon pepper. Drain and reserve the marinade. Thread the vegetables on sturdy metal skewers and place on a lightly greased grill four to six inches above hot coals. Cook, turning often and basting with marinade, for 10 to 15 minutes or until tender.

Try a mushroom medley using at least three types (such as white button, oyster, shiitake, porcini, or wood ear — marinated in a mixture of 1/2 cup olive oil, 2 tablespoons balsamic vinegar, 1 clove finely minced garlic, 1 finely minced shallot, 2 tablespoons each finely minced fresh chives and parsley, and salt and pepper to taste. Thread mushrooms on skewers; grill, turning often, until the mushrooms are cooked through (eight to 12 minutes depending on size).

Nothing tops off an outdoor meal like a fresh fruit kebob. Prepare one-inch chunks of banana, watermelon and cantaloupe and whole fresh strawberries. Brush the banana chunks with a mixture of one teaspoon lemon juice and two tablespoons water to keep them from turning brown. Then thread the fruit pieces on skewers and serve with a flavorful low-fat dip, such as Strawberry Dip.

AMERICAN INSTITUTE FOR CANCER RESEARCH

Dip: Serve Strawberry Dip with grilled fruits to top off an outdoor meal.

STRAWBERRY DIP

- 8 ounces part-skim ricotta cheese
- 1 16-ounce package frozen strawberries, sweetened
- 2 tablespoons plain non-fat yogurt
- 1/4 teaspoon dried, ground ginger

In a blender, food processor, or with an electric mixer, whip the ingredients until smooth. Refrigerate for 2 hours before serving. makes 2 1/4 cups, with 21 calories per tablespoon and less than one gram of fat.

BASIC SPONGE CAKE BATTER

Makes 1 each: 14-inch cake, 9-inch cake and 6-inch cake for a tier

2⅓ cups cake flour, sifted

1 tablespoon baking powder

3/4 cup milk

6 tablespoons unsalted butter, cut into pieces

2⅔ cups sugar

10 eggs, room temperature

7 egg yolks, room temperature

Preheat oven to 350 degrees F. Line the bottoms of a 14-inch, 9-inch and 6-inch round cake pan with waxed or parchment paper. Resift flour with baking powder twice; set aside.

Heat milk with butter in a small saucepan over medium heat until butter is melted. Reduce heat to low; keep warm.

In a 5 quart mixing bowl, combine eggs and yolks and beat with an electric mixer until mixed. Set pan over a bowl or pan of hot water. Whisk in sugar and whisk until dissolved and mixture is warm to the touch. Transfer bowl to a heavy duty mixer and beat at high speed using a whisk attachment until cooled, tripled in volume and the consistency of whipped cream.

Fold ⅓ of flour mixture into the batter and mix well. Sift remaining flour over batter and fold in gently using a spatula. Fold warm milk mixture into batter until completely incorporated. Pour batter into pans at an equal depth and bake in a preheated oven until cakes are browned and spring back lightly when touched in the center. (About 17 minutes for a 6-inch cake, 20 minutes for a 9-inch cake and 25 minutes for a 14-inch cake.) Cool completely on racks, then invert onto cardboard rounds. Prepare to decorate.

Chef's Note: These are single layer cakes. For optimum results, repeat the procedure for a dual layered cake. A dual layered cake with these sized cakes should easily serve 75-90.

BUTTER CREAM FROSTING

5½ cups sugar

2¼ cups water

1¼ teaspoons cream of tartar

9 eggs, room temperature

9 egg yolks, room temperature

8 cups (16 sticks) unsalted butter, room temperature, cut into pieces

Combine sugar, water, cream of tartar in a large saucepan and stir until sugar is moistened. Place saucepan over high heat, cover and bring mixture to a boil. Allow to boil until sugar is dissolved, about 5 minutes. Uncover, wash down sides of pan with a moistened pastry brush (not plastic) and continue cooking until sugar syrup reaches 242 degrees F. on a candy thermometer.

As soon as sugar syrup reaches that temperature, pour hot syrup slowly over eggs in a thin, steady stream, beating constantly until all the syrup has been added and the mixture is cool, about 10 minutes.

Transfer to a large mixing bowl and using a heavy duty mixer at high speed, gradually beat in butter into egg/syrup mixture and continue beating until butter cream is smooth and spreadable. Makes enough butter cream to frost above mentioned cake (about 16 cups)

Chef's secret: butter cream may curdle before recombining and becoming smooth, do not worry!)

Uptown Theatre opens Wednesday in Birmingham

The long-awaited reopening of the Birmingham Theatre is close at hand. On Wednesday, May 22, the new Uptown Birmingham Theatre, 211 S. Woodward, will open with a full roster of films.

For information, call (810) 644-FILM.

The theater will kickoff its film schedule 7:30 p.m. Tuesday, May 21 with a special advance showing of Paramount Pictures' "Mission Impossible."

Uptown Theatres has renovated and upgraded the theater, transforming it from a one-stage live theater venue to a multi-screen film house. Architect Victor Saroki drew the plans and restructured the theatre to house eight screens, varying in size from 430 to 65 seats. The marquee, ticket booths and interior colors replicating the theater's original decor attribute to the 1920s look and feel of the theater.

Some of the unique characteristics are love seats, two levels of theaters, escalators, state-of-the-art Sony Dynamic Digital Sound, stadium-style seating, a balcony in the largest auditorium, and changing tables in the men's and women's restrooms.

The concession stands will boast a selection of treats ranging from real buttered popcorn, gourmet pretzels, Gayle's Chocolates, gourmet coffees, pizza and traditional movie candies.

Parking is available in the Peabody Street structure, connected to the theater by a courtyard entrance, as well as in the Pierce Street structure. Parking at these structures will be free with validation for theater patrons and valet service will be available on weekends.

Local entrepreneurs David Trepeck and Carole Illitch Trepeck, along with partner Bill Herting, formed Uptown Theatres, Inc. Their first project is to open the new Uptown Birmingham Theatre, which is leased from Ted Fuller.

"We're excited to bring the magic of movies back to Birmingham," said Carole Illitch Trepeck. "We truly believe that the Uptown Birmingham will have a positive impact on the community."

Arts council offers summer activities

The Plymouth Community Arts Council is the place to go this summer for art, culture and drama classes for all ages.

A wide variety of activities are being offered, including drawing, cartooning, watercolor and pottery.

The Arts Council also offers some unusual classes including Parent and Child ARTventure – a class for parents with children as young as 2 years old. The popular Young Architects and Builders class for 8- to 12-year-olds teaches hands-on woodworking. Children's Creative Sculpture Studio will allow students to work with an unusual variety of sculptural materials including ice, wire, clay and wood.

There will be two, weeklong summer Performing Arts Workshops, June 24-28 and July 15-19.

Adults can enjoy classes in pottery, watercolor and drawing and sketching. There will also be open creative studio time where adults can work on their own among their peers.

Complete course descriptions and schedules are available at the Art Center, 774 N. Sheldon Road, Plymouth.

Registrations are being taken now for the 8-week summer session which begins the week of June 17. Call 416-4ART to register or for more information.

Wish You Were Here

Aloha: Chester and Maryann Smiatacz of Plymouth and friends Al and Irene Rachfal of Redford recently spent time in Hawaii celebrating the Smiatacz couple's 42nd wedding anniversary and the 40th anniversary of the Rachfals. They visited various islands and went sightseeing. They enjoyed the S.S. Arizona Memorial in Honolulu, Whalers Village and hiking through the Iao Valley State Park.

Seat belt use is stressed

Plymouth Township police took their zero-tolerance of seat belt violations message to the schools last week.

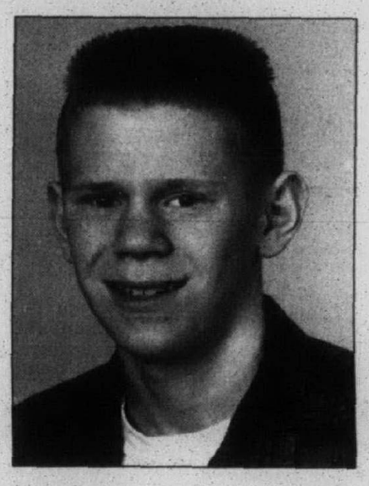

Officer Kevin Lauterwasser spoke to about 1,200 students at Bird Elementary and Pioneer Middle School, to stress the importance of wearing seat belts to promote safety.

"We tell them that two our of three people in their lifetime will be in one serious car wreck," Lauterwasser said, a message that stresses the importance of wearing seat belts.

CARRIER OF THE MONTH: PLYMOUTH

Steve Thomas, 16, of Plymouth, has been named carrier of month by the Plymouth Observer. He is a 10th-grade student at Plymouth Salem High School. He started his route in June 1994 and delivers to Ridgewood Hills. He is the son of Wane and Lina Thomas. His favorite subjects are math and public speaking. His hobbies are basketball, tennis and football. He was the student of the month two times in high school and won a varsity tennis match as a freshman.

If you want to be a Plymouth Observer carrier, please call 591-0500

Valassis fund-raisers to aid St. Jude Research Hospital

Valassis Communications Inc. of Livonia has launched a two-year partnership with St. Jude Children's Research Hospital, a childhood cancer center.

Valassis is responsible for conducting fund-raising efforts throughout 1996 and 1997. The company has set a corporate fund-raising goal of $44,000. Funds raised will go toward conducting basic and clinical research into catastrophic childhood diseases.

"We believe every successful company has a responsibility to get involved in helping others," David A. Brandon, Valassis' president and chief executive officer, said. "This partnership is just one way our employees can give back to the community."

"St. Jude Children's Research Hospital is thrilled that Valassis has agreed to become an active partner in our mission of treating and saving lives of desperately sick children," Paul Simon, national member of St. Jude's Board of Directors and former chairman of the board.

"Valassis' participation is essential because the children of St. Jude receive treatment at no charge to their families."

County parks tournament to benefit junior golfers

On Monday, June 10, the Friends of Wayne County Parks will host the Jack Berry Pro-Am Celebrity Golf Classic at Wayne County's Warren Valley Golf Club in Dearborn Heights.

Tickets are $100 for a morning of golf with Wayne Fontes, local PGA professionals and celebrities including present and former members of the Detroit Lions and Red Wings organizations.

The ticket also includes a continental breakfast and lunch provided by the Greektown restaurants Fishbones and Pegasus.

The scramble format will begin with a shotgun start at 8 a.m.

Celebrities and amateurs will play for a host of prizes while pros play for a cash purse.

"This is a great way to have a lot of fun and help the parks, too," said Wayne County Executive Ed McNamara, one of the celebrity golfers.

"The money goes to benefit Wayne County's Junior Golf Program and buy new equipment for the parks. Plus you can get free tips from the pros."

The public is invited to participate. To register, call Kathy Lewand at (313) 261-1990 or Ray Glenn at (313) 561-1040.

Salem golfer qualifies

Both Plymouth Salem and Plymouth Canton had creditable performances at last Friday's Class A state golf regional at Oakpointe in Brighton, although neither team made it to the state meet.

To do that, they would have had to place in the top three. Those spots were taken by Saline, which shot 351; Ann Arbor Pioneer, which shot 352; and Ann Arbor Huron, which shot 384. Salem finished seventh at 414 and Canton was 11th at 438 in the 17-team field.

It wasn't all bad news, however. The Rocks will be represented at state by junior Katie Murinas, who will go as an individual qualifier. Murinas placed third individually with an 85; the top five individuals advance to the state finals, which are May 31 at Michigan State University's Forest Akers West golf course.

Saline's Katie Nolan was first with a 77, followed by Emily Thielk of Pionner at 84.

The Rocks' remaining scorers at the regional were Katie Collins, 95, and Julie Licata and Jessica Hedges, both at 117.

Canton's top four were Kim Stafford, 102; Alyson Young, 108; Ann Alioto, 109; and Sandra Pavlo, 119.

"To be honest, I was pleased with that team score," said Salem coach Rick Wilson. "I thought we had a chance for one or two individual qualifiers."

Last Thursday, Salem met Canton in their rescheduled dual match at Hilltop. It went down to the wire, so to speak, and beyond - with the fifth scorer deciding the match.

Salem's Murinas shot a 45, followed by Collins at 50, Hedges at 66 and Chrystal Kapacz at 68. The Chiefs were led by Stafford, 49; Alioto, 58; Young, 59; and Pavlo, 63.

That gave each team a 229 total, forcing the tiebreaking fifth scorer. That gave the Rocks the win, with Licata scoring 70 to Amy Siegrist's 72.

Salem is now 6-3 in dual meets, with a match remaining Tuesday against Novi at Pebble Creek. The Western Lakes Activities Association final will be Thursday at Huron Meadows in Brighton.

SC cage recruit

Schoolcraft College men's basketball coach Glen Donahue announced the signing of Kevin Nelson, a 6-foot-6 swingman from the Detroit Communication and Media Arts.

"Kevin is a very versatile player," said Donahue. "He's a good passer and he rebounds the ball very well. He reminds me a little bit of Vernon Carr (whom Donahue coached to All-American status at Highland Park CC).

"He's very mobile and agile."

Nelson is the second recruit signed by Donahue. Earlier, he got a committment from Redford Catholic Central's Justin Hoener, a 6-2 guard.

Fishing Derby results

On May 11, the Canton Parks and Recreation Services sponsored its ninth annual Kid's Fishing Derby and, although the weather wasn't exactly cooperative, more than 600 kids participated.

All those who took part were presented a ribbon and a license. Each hour there were giveaways from the Detroit Sports and Rec store.

In the boys competition, there was a tie for first between Ryan Neu, age 6, and Adam Raymo, age 9. The divided the first-place prize of a $100 savings bond, each one getting a $50 savings bond. The girls' winner was Deborah Wilson; she took home a $100 savings bond.

Second and third place finishers - Brad Yertensen, Tony Vitale and Marcus Sylvester for the boys; Alicia Roman and Lauren Noyes for the girls - received a Canton Township T-shirt.

One other thing: There are still plenty of fish in the ponds, and all Canton residents are invited to go fishin'.

Recreation news

•The 16th annual Father's Day 3-person "scrambles" golf tournament is scheduled for, well, Father's Day: June 16, with tee times from 11-11:45 a.m. at Fellows Creek.

Cost is $90 per three-man team, which includes all greens fees, awards and a snack lunch. Prizes will be awarded for longest drive, closest to the pin and to the top three teams.

Registration deadline is June 14. There is no residency requirement. Call 397-5110 for more information.

•Tennis lessons - Session II will get underway June 17, and will run until July 3 at Griffin Park, on Sheldon just north of Cherry Hill.

There are three age divisions: Little Swingers (ages 4-6), Juniors (7-15) and Adults (16 and over). Each division is divided into four levels: beginners, advanced beginners, intermediate and excellent.

Cost is $30 for Canton residents, $35 for non-residents. Classes will be conducted by Kristen Harrison, a certified tennis professional, and her staff.

Registration deadline is June 14. For further information, call 397-5110.

Churchill stuns Salem in title match

BY C.J. RISAK
SPORTS EDITOR

SOCCER

Since reaching the state championship match in girls soccer last year, Plymouth Salem has been targeted as the team to beat.

Well, Livonia Churchill has done just that - twice.

The Chargers, who early in the season "surprised" the Rocks in a 1-0 upset, repeated their accomplishment when it mattered a great deal more.

Churchill overcame the loss of three pivotal starters for parts of the first half and scored the game's only goal to beat favored Salem 1-0 in the Western Lakes Activities Association's championship match Thursday at Salem.

The Rocks finished the regular season at 13-3. Churchill improved to 12-2.

The game's single goal came at the unlikeliest of times, at least for Churchill. When Lizz Szkrybalo went out with an eye injury before 10 minutes were played, Churchill lost one of its defensive stalwarts.

"Once Szkrybalo went out, they panicked," said Churchill coach Nick O'Shea of his defenders. "(Salem) owned the play for about 10 minutes."

Actually, it was longer than that. And yet, as dominant as the Rocks were, constantly pounding the ball deep into the Churchill end, there was something they couldn't do - get off a clean shot on goal.

Which was frustrating, sure. But making matters worse, Churchill took full advantage of one of its few first-half offensive thrusts into the Salem end.

A quick counter resulted in a great opportunity for the Chargers' Kirsten Conklin. The freshman pounded a hard shot at the Salem goal, but it banged off the post - straight out to senior midfielder Kerri Verardi, who punched it in to provide Churchill with what proved to be the game's only goal.

"It's tough, whenever you have all that pressure and then give a goal away," said Salem coach Doug Landefeld. "But we've been down before."

This time, though, the Rocks had no punch left. Instead of them taking it to Churchill in the second half, it was the Chargers who did the attack-

Chiefs, Rocks both shine

With Cass Tech as a competitor, it was going to be tough. But both Canton and Salem came through the regional with some impressive performances, good enough to get to the state meet.

BY BRAD EMONS
STAFF WRITER

Detroit Cass Tech still has that state track championship stride, just ask the mostly suburban field of schools that competed in Friday's Class A regional meet hosted by Plymouth Canton at Centennial Educational Park.

The Technicians, four-time defending state girls champs and two-time defending boys champs, ran away with their respective regional crowns.

The Tech girls finished with a team-high 108 points followed by three schools in the Western Lakes Activities Association - Plymouth Canton, 87; Livonia Stevenson, 73 1/2; and Plymouth Salem, 62 1/2.

The Tech boys scored 116 followed by Salem, 74; Dearborn, 53; Redford Catholic Central, 52; and Westland John Glenn, 50 1/2. See statistical summary.

The Cass girls won seven events, including three of four relays.

Most impressive was 800-meter runner Katie Chapman, who blistered the field in 2:15.476, nearly 10 seconds ahead of second place finisher Kristie Giddings of Salem.

"She's a junior, a good kid and a hard worker," Cass coach Bertha Smiley said of her star performer. "No matter what I ask her to do, she does. For instance, today I had her do the 800 relay, and she said 'no problem.' She can do it all."

Canton qualified in eight events for the state meet, slated for May 31-June 1 in Grand Rapids.

Steppin' to state: Canton hurdler Mary Anderson qualified for the Class A state meet in both hurdles events, finishing second in the region in both.

Nancy Hoffman was a regional champ in the 300-meter hurdles (47.45), while teammate Mary Anderson was runner-up (47.551).

"This is as many as we've ever qualified, I'd say it was about the same as we did in 1994," Canton coach George Przygodski said. "Two things were a surprise.

"First, Emily Moran (second place) qualifying in the discus was a pleasant surprise, and there was Nkechi (Okwumabua), who I was extremely pleased with after missing the last three weeks with a hamstring.

"And Becky Uryga had an outstanding day."

Stevenson sophomore Kelly Travis won both the 1,600 and 3,200 runs. She also teamed up with Jeannette Stojcevski, Danielle Harris and Kelly McNeilance to win the 3,200 relay, just two seconds off the school record (9:47.098).

The Spartans slammed the 3,200 run as Travis and the McNeilance sisters, Kelly and Kim, finished one-two-three. Kim, a freshman, just missed the state provisional cut-off by only a second, but Travis was upset she didn't push the pace earlier.

"I had Achilles tendinitis at the start of the season and I was out a month," Travis said. "That race (3,200) hurt. My legs hurt bad, but I wanted all of us to make state."

Kelly McNeilance, a sophomore member of Stevenson's state Class A runner-up cross country team last fall, was proud of her sister's effort despite missing the state cut.

"Nobody thought she'd be a runner," Kelly said. "I think we learned that we

Salem's Li, Burnstein win titles

The Western Lakes Activities Association boys tennis tournament came down to a two-horse race, but it was Northville's Mustangs winning at the wire in a photo finish.

In the final match of the meet held Wednesday at Farmington Racquet Club, Northville's Arjun Srinivasan held off North Farmington's Momit Shah for a 7-5, 7-5 victory at No. 4 singles.

That gave the Mustangs a team-high 25 points, one point ahead of North in the final standings.

It was Northville's fifth consecutive WLAA championship.

"Obviously we're disappointed, but we keep getting closer every year," North coach Dennis King said. "They (Northville) are tough, but we should be there right again next year. Both teams have most of their players back."

Seven of the meet's eight flights were decided Tuesday in the 12-school meet hosted by Livonia Stevenson.

Wednesday's No. 4 singles final, held indoors, pitted the top two seeds with Srinivasan beating Shah for a second time this season.

"There was a lot of pressure in that match with a lot of parents and players watching," King said. "I was glad to see that Momit was able to hang in there and play a good match."

In a regular season dual meet, Northville and North battled to a 4-4 draw.

The Mustangs won four flights to North's two and that was the difference.

At No. 1 doubles, North's Steve Lehrman and Peter Golaszewski, a pair of juniors won a three-setter in the finals against Ganesh Nayakwadi and Nick Sriraman, the top sees, 3-6, 6-2, 6-4.

The Raiders also won at No. 2 doubles as freshman Justin Street and senior Ronald Vedder upended top seeds Rohit Jha and Ryan Steinhauer in another three setter, 3-6, 7-6, 6-0.

At No. 3 doubles, a mild upset occurred in the semifinals as Walled Lake Western's Ryan Vicary and Ryan Klosky ousted North's Aaron Scheinfield and Jeremy Lewis, 1-6, 6-2, 6-3.

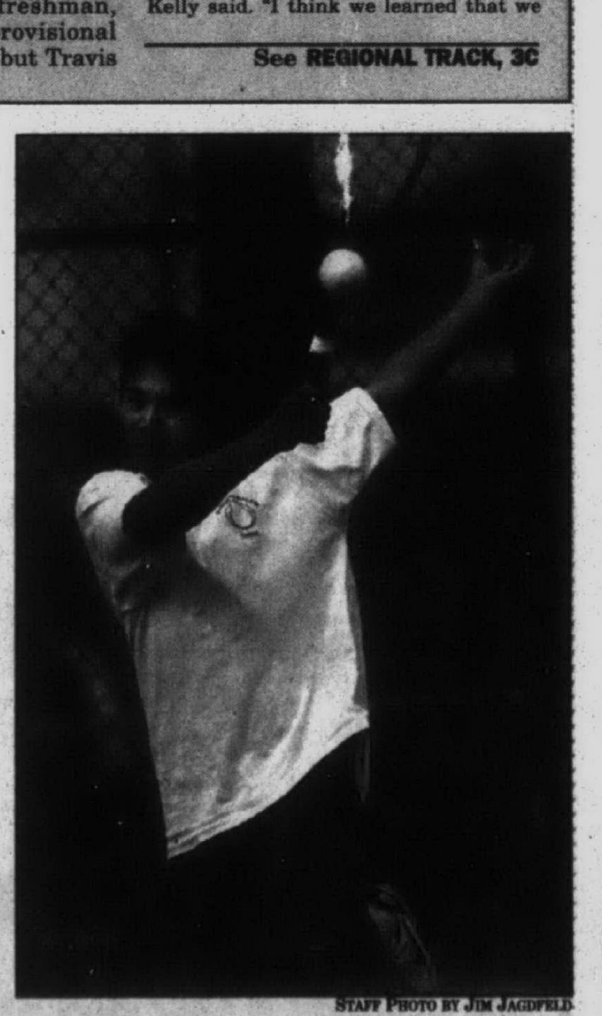

Plymouth Salem tied for third place with Farmington thanks to the efforts of its top two singles players Xinning Li and Gabe Burnstein.

Li repeated as WLAA champion at No. 1, raising his record to 26-1 (entering the regional) with a 6-4, 6-3 triumph over Livonia Churchill Matt Eszes, the No. 2 seed.

In the semifinals, Li dispatched Chad Crosby of Livonia Stevenson in straight sets, while Eszes ousted North's Seth Weingarten.

"He (Eszes) has gotten better since last year," Li said. "I beat him 6-0, 6-1 last year, but his

Rocks split with Falcons

BASEBALL

It wasn't all it could have been - no, Plymouth Salem didn't sweep a baseball double-header from Farmington Friday - but it certainly was a worthwhile experience.

At least Salem coach Dale Rumberger thought so.

"We only made one error in the two games," Rumberger said after his team's split. The Rocks won the first, 6-1, then lost the second, 5-4, at Farmington.

"The last time I remember enjoying myself more was when we played (Westland) John Glenn."

The Rocks swept a pair from John Glenn May 3. That was one of their season highs; their record is just 9-13, none too good by Salem standards.

A big reason for the losing record has been defense. On Friday at Farmington, that wasn't the case - Salem played two strong games defensively.

In the opener, Ryan Andrzejewski tossed a five-hitter in improving his record to 3-1. Andrzejewski did not walk a batter and struck out four. Nick Latra started and took the loss for Farmington.

Salem got started well, scoring three times in the third - two on Ryan Rumberger's home run. Andrzejewski and Dave Barker also had two hits each, with Barker driving in a run. Kirk Craggs added a run-scoring double in the fifth.

In the second game, the Rocks scored twice in the fifth to go up 4-3, then saw Farmington push across the tying run in the sixth and the winning run in the seventh.

Jake Siskosky's single scored Charlie Jaeger with the game-winning run in the bottom of the seventh.

The loss went to Keith Boughner, who allowed five runs on 10 hits and two walks, with five strikeouts. Wes Cornell was the winner; he did not allow an earned run, stopping Salem on five hits and three walks, with five strikeouts.

Rumberger again led the Salem attack, collecting two of the Rocks' five hits and driving in three runs - two on a double in the third and one on a single in the fifth.

Salem's overall record in the Western Lakes Activities Association is 6-6; the Rocks' Lakes Division mark is 5-3. Farmington is 5-5 in the Lakes, 11-5 in the WLAA and 12-8 overall.

Canton 7, Harrison 6 (eight innings): John Wright sliced a run-producing single with two outs in the eighth to give Plymouth Canton the win Friday over visiting Farmington Harrison.

Jason Bricker scored the game-winner for the Chiefs, who improved to 12-7 overall, 4-4 in the WLAA's Western Division. Both Bricker and Wright had two hits.

Marc Hazzard was the winning pitcher, in relief of starter Anthony Pastor. Hazzard pitched the final two innings.

Matt Derocher, who relieved starter Fisher Sullivan, took the loss for Harrison, which is also 12-7 overall and 4-4 in the Western.

Franklin 17, Salem 5: On Wednesday at Livonia Franklin, Salem and the host Patriots combined for 30 hits - in just five innings, due to the 10-run mercy rule.

Brian Goodell was the winner for Franklin; Tom Demetsenare took the loss for the Rocks.

Kevin Niemiec, Ryan Andrzejewski and Tim Sisler each homered for the Rocks, with Niemiec getting two hits.

serve is bigger. He's a quality player."

Li, a senior, also has improved on his game from a year ago. His only loss of the spring came against Class B state champ Ryan Tomlinson of Three Rivers in a tiebreaker in a tournament held in Bay City.

"I've tried to work on movement and strength," said Li, who is entertaining NCAA Division I scholarship offers from Eastern Michigan, Campbell (N.C.) and Missouri-Kansas City. "My serve-and-volley game is getting better and my forehand is stronger."

Li is ranked No. 58 in the Western Tennis Association (Boys 18s) and third in SEMTA.

Titles by Li and Burnstein are even more remarkable considering the Rocks don't really have any home courts. They played all of their matches away this spring.

Burnstein, a junior, won all three of his matches in straight sets. He came into the tourney as a co-No. 2 seed along with Ravi Mujumdar of Northville.

ing.

"The main difference," said O'Shea, "was the way we came out committed to winning the game in the second half. Both teams fought hard, but our girls came out fighting even harder in the second half."

Which was truly amazing. The Chargers should have been on their heels, backpedaling; instead, they were going full blast. After Szkrybalo went out in the first half, Churchill lost Verardi for 10 minutes to a yellow card and Marie Spaccarotella for nearly 20 minutes to an injured leg.

Verardi and Spaccarotella both returned for the second half, making the task facing Salem even more formidable. The Churchill low-pressure defense, anchored by its three-player, flat-back wall, proved impenetrable to the Rocks.

"I think we felt really confident going into the match," said Landefeld. "We just didn't do the things we needed to do to win.

"We were very tentative. We just haven't found a way to solve the numbers he has in the back (on defense)."

can't have others set the pace. Your still an individual, and you have to run your own race."

Other area girls regional champions included Franklin sophomore Danielle Wensing (shot put), Glenn freshman Nicolette Jarrett (long jump), Stevenson senior Jenny Dulz (discus), Salem senior Nicole Van Hees (high jump) and Livonia Ladywood junior Stacie Johnson (110 hurdles).

The Cass Tech boys, meanwhile, won seven races. but coach Thomas Wilcher, whose team competed last year at the Monroe regional, thought his team was slightly out of sync.

"It's unfair for the kids to have to run at night when they're used to running each day and then on Saturday," he said. "They're not fully rested coming out of class. Our performances were not off, but our timing was off. We ran well, and it was the first time we had good weather."

The top individual in the meet was National Foot Locker cross country champion Abdul Alzindani, who won two distance events comfortably.

The senior capturedthe 1,600 in 4:19.555, 4 1/2 seconds better than Stevenson's fast-improving Steve Warner; and the 3,200 in 9:21:575, nearly 21 seconds ahead of Redford Catholic Central's John Griffin.

Boys runner-up Salem captured the 3,200 relay as Jason Barylski, Scott Loewe, Scott Pengelly and Jared Biniecki made up the winning quartet. The Rocks also finished second in the 1,600 relay, splitting those two races with Cass Tech.

"I felt bad for our guys (Biniecki and Pengelly) for not qualifying in the 1,600 (individual)," Salem coach Geoff Baker said. "Biniecki missed by two seconds, and Pengelly by one. Jared also missed in the 3,200 by three seconds (state provisional). But otherwise, it was a great day for us because we ran second."

Other area regional champions included a pair of throwers from Livonia Franklin - sophomore Matt Lawson in the discus and junior Jay Myrand in the shot put. Pole vaulter Paul Terek also qualified with a second. Glenn's Jason Baker won the high jump.

The Patriots' 33 1/2 points, good enough for seventh, was the school's best regional finish since 1972.
