Sunny Sunday revives festival

BY JEFF COUNTS

Plymouth's annual Fall Festival got off to a rainy start, but ended on a sunny note on Sunday.

But things didn't look very bright on Saturday morning.

"Hopefully the weather will get better by Sunday," said Paul Sincock, assistant Plymouth city manager, who was clad in a yellow rain slicker.

It did. By late Sunday afternoon the Plymouth Rotary Club had severed 12,000 chicken dinners as sunny skies and temperatures in the 80s chased away the rain.

However, the chilly weather on Saturday didn't deter folks from standing in line for more than 20 minutes to get into

The Gathering for the Kiwanis Club pancake and sausage breakfast.

And it didn't stop pet lovers from showing off their best friends at the Optimist pet show at the bandshell.

The show attracted everything from a goat to an iguana, with a few bird hunting dogs in between.

Sandy Leone and Rita Ingel, both of Plymouth, braved the rain in an attempt to show off their sisters, the dog kind.

The two women are proud owners of springer spaniels, Kattie and Mandy. The bird hunting dogs are from the same litter.

The women weren't able to enter the contest because it's only open to children.

Music, arts next event on tap for Plymouth

Plymouth will have the blues weekend of Sept. 27-28, but post-Fall Festival depression won't be the reason.

Some of metro Detroit's finest blues entertainers are coming to town for the annual Plymouth Music Celebration, held along with Friday night's "Taste of the Town" at the Gathering in Kellogg Park in downtown Plymouth.

Weekend activities will wrap up with the ARTageous festival on Sunday, Sept. 29. ARTageous features a walking tour of 11 Plymouth art galleries.

Music-lovers will hear the likes of Mud Puppy, Mimi Harris and the Snakes, and the Chisel Brothers with Thornetta Davis - and it won't cost them a dime. The Watta Up Inc. musical extravaganza is free.

Taste of the Town, scheduled for Friday evening only, is modeled after taste festivals in cities including Detroit and Chicago. Restaurants serve strolling customers from outdoor booths small portions of their biggest sellers.

Restaurateurs interested in partaking are urged to call Mike Watts, who is staging the festival, at (313) 459-6969.

"We have openings for a few more restaurants. We like to put the Plymouth area's best foot forward," said Watts.

"The Taste of the Town in the park is one of the more popular events of the year."

Watts is excited to be hosting guitarist Robert Noll. "Noll is a former side man for Albert Collins, one of the icons of Chicago blues. So we'll

New Mettetal Airport runway to improve safety

BY RENEE SKOGLUND
SPECIAL WRITER

"The biggest project you can do is to replace your runway," said Doug Kitz, airport manager at Canton-Plymouth Mettetal Airport.

On Aug. 13 Mettetal closed operations to begin a month-long project of widening its runway from 45 to 75 feet.

The runway is 2,556 feet long. It will be blacktopped and, like the old runway, have an aircraft weight limit of 12,500 pounds.

"It just gives us a little more width for landing. It seems there's always a crosswind from the west. This gives us a little more of a safety factor," Kitz said.

Besides widening the runway, improvements include:

- Two runway turnoffs to aid traffic flow. Aircraft approaching from the south can exit the runway a third of the way down rather than taxing all the way to the end. A new north-end turnoff will allow for easier access to the hangers.
- A hanger taxiway will be redesigned into a right angle to allow better northern visibility.

In addition, the airport will receive a new beacon and a pilot-activated runway lighting system. "A pilot flying in at three in the morning can just click the microphone in the airplane and the lights will come on," Kitz said.

The new runway lights, which are color-configured to guide pilots to proper locations, can be intensified by two or three clicks. Presently, the old lights - described as "just baby food jars and wire" - stay on all night.

Randy Collier, manager of the Licensing and Enforcement Section of the Michigan Department of Transportation, said the project cost is approximately $450,000. That figure can be broken down as follows:

- $324,000 from the Federal Airways Trust Fund.
- $63,000 from the State Aeronautics Trust Fund.
- $63,000 from airport users.

According to Collier, the project is completely financed by people who use the aviation system.

They pay into the federal and state funds. "It's not general tax dollars."

Collier said the state, which has owned the airport for three years, has a five-year plan that includes improving existing hangers and building new ones. Only a few of Mettetal's 110 planes remain unleased, but there's a waiting list of 40 or 500, according to Collier.

Kitze said the airport presently has 108 tenants. Hanger fees range from $106 for an older unit with no door to $231 for a newer corner unit. Kitze also said there are no plans to raise hanger fees once the runway project is completed on Sept. 12.

"The only fees the airport charges are for commercial operators," Kitze said. Commercial operators, rare at Mettetal, are charged $15.

Collier said the state has no plans to lengthen the runway at any time in the future. That would be a community decision. The airport has an advisory board that works with the state on planning matters.

Mettetal, which occupies approximately 60 acres, is defined as a "reliever" airport. It accommodates small-aircraft traffic overflow from Detroit Metropolitan, Willow Run and Oakland-Pontiac Airports.

Mettetal houses 108 aircraft and experiences 71,000 "movements" (take-offs and landings) a year. When asked how Mettetal compares to other area airports, Collier provided the following statistics:

- Port Huron houses 105 planes and has 37,000 movements yearly.
- Jackson County Airport, which has a control tower, houses 103 and has 69,000 movements yearly.
- Muskegon County Airport houses 75 planes and has 71,000 movements yearly.
- Detroit Metropolitan Airport houses 122 small aircraft and has 508,000 movements yearly (total for all aircraft).

One factor that will remain the same at Mettetal after the runway is widened is the traffic pattern. "Our traffic pattern here is 1,000 feet above the ground," Kitze said.

Planes enter the pattern from either the east or the west at a 45-degree angle, descend on northward or southward parallel and make two left turns onto the runway.

Kitze doesn't anticipate that the widened runway will translate into heavier traffic. "It's more user friendly and safer. Just the runway alone I don't think will increase our traffic flow," he said.

Collier said the state is pleased with Mettetal's development. "We want it to be a good community airport. We've worked very hard to make it neat, give it a good appearance. It's something the community can be proud of."

Mike Wall of Plymouth stood in the rain waiting for the pet show to start.

"My daughter is going to handle Gus here," said Wall of his bird dog.

Kathy Mount, who was helping to run the event, summed up the situation best, telling the crowd that was sitting in the rain: "It's just like Plymouth. Everybody shows up for everybody else."

However, after the pet show, the weather deteriorated, with the rain coming down in a steady drizzle.

It forced the cancellation of the entertainment events in the bandshell.

The food booths on Main Street stayed open, but business was down.

"We did about $200 on Saturday," said Gene Hammonds who was manning the Plymouth Theatre Guild booth. "We usually do $2,000 on Saturday. It's a real blow. I'm a past president of the Fall Festival Board and the festival loses on days like that."

The rain forced many of the people who did show up to the craft show at Central Middle School.

"We had crowds, but they were down. The crafters with booths outside hung in there, but didn't do real well because of the flow of people. They were coming from the parking lot and not from Main Street," said Stella Greene, a Plymouth City commissioner who helps run the craft show.

But when the good weather returned on Sunday, the crowds came out. Sincok estimated that more than 80,000 people showed up.

"We had 27 entered in the pie eating contest. That's a good number," said Greene.

And in contrast to Saturday when the few folks who did show up were wearing rain coats and sipping coffee, on Sunday teenagers were dancing in the fountain at Kellogg Park as the bands played on in the bandshell.

"There was a real pent-up demand," said Sincok. "It's been a gang buster of a Sunday."

Hot cars: Main Street was lined with everything from a 1929 Ford to a 1972 MG and everything in between. It was a hot attraction on Sunday when the weather improved.

have a taste of Chicago," he said. Mimi Harris and the Snakes are expected to play tunes from their new CD. Friday's entertainment will close with a set from the popular Chisel Brothers and Thornetta Davis.

From noon to 3 p.m. Saturday, there'll be entertainment for children hosted by the Plymouth YMCA. Headlining the session is Katie Cavalieri, whose voice is familiar to sports fans.

"There's a young lady, about 9 or 10 years old, we're real excited about bringing in. She'll be performing all kinds of different songs for kids," said Watts. "Her name is Katie Cavalieri, and she sings the National Anthem at Tiger games and at Joe Louis Arena. She'll also be singing at the new arena in Plymouth. She's a really wonderful young lady who has a great voice."

Saturday's country entertainment will kick off with the Forbes Brothers. "They had the most successful country CD ever released by a local group last year. They also did four songs for the soundtrack of a new movie that was locally produced," said Watts.

Plymouth's own gospel-singing police chief, Bob Scoggins, and his group, the Chapels, will follow the Forbes Brothers. Storm Rider and Hot Walker, popular bands in Canton, will also play Saturday afternoon, Watts said.

Adult contemporary entertainment lined up for Saturday evening will include performances from Garden City guitarist Lemon James. "She is an aficionado of Jimi Hendrix, so we'll hear some of her Hendrix material," said Watts.

INO/UNO, a contemporary jazz group, will take the stage before the festival closes with Black Market.

The well-known Detroit-based reggae band, Black Market recently released a new CD, "with a whole bunch of new material. They just got back from Jamaica where they performed in the Jamaican Reggae Festival in Kingston. That's quite an honor for a group from Detroit," said Watts.

The Plymouth Music Celebration also will feature "food concessions, rides, games, and fun stuff for kids on Friday and Saturday," said Watts.

BY M.B. DILLON
STAFF WRITER

Not everyone is thrilled with the prospect of the Plymouth Music Celebration returning to Kellogg Park in downtown Plymouth the last weekend of September.

Lifelong Plymouth resident Jack Wilcox, who lives in the large white house across from the park, told city commissioners last week that amplifiers at the Celebration are excessively loud.

"The amplification could be heard three blocks away. This is overkill, and it isn't fair to people who live in the neighborhood," said Wilcox. "If communists or Nazis want to come to the park, they can, and they do. But I'd suggest that the city look into it and see if it couldn't put some limits on them."

Wilcox said he "considered bringing in my own sound equipment and playing it for you at high volume, which you'd object to. Interest and support for the music festival is diminishing, I'm not convinced this is the kind of activity Plymouth wants," he said.

The Music Celebration, featuring top local blues, jazz and reggae talent, has been shortened from three to two days. In his application to the city, festival organizer Mike Watts said the change is due to "business and sponsorships not attaining expected levels. Therefore, the associated funding dictates this move."

In addition, he said, "the organizers of Plymouth ARTrageous suggested that this might enhance their program on Sunday, and we are always more than willing to be good citizens and have decided to allow them this opportunity."

ARTrageous is a walking tour of 11 art galleries in Plymouth set for Sunday, Sept. 29. It's bad enough dealing with cruisers "rolling boom boxes and super woofers" that can be heard until very late on summer nights downtown, said Wilcox. "I don't think it's fair to people who have to get up and go to work."

An added annoyance, he said, is "young people who use my yard for sanitary purposes."

"They pee on my peonies, and I'm not happy with that. A little more police presence might deter some of these activities," said Wilcox, adding that many beer bottles and cans are thrown over his front fence.

Wilcox also objected to free parking privileges requested by Watts for the festival.

The commission, however, granted permission to Watts Up Inc. to hold the Celebration as requested.

"I would ask that this request be approved as applied for," said Commissioner Dennis Shrewsbury. "As far as the noise, it's what police monitor in the cause of normal duties. I don't think we should second guess them at this time based on something that can't be enforced. The festival happens once in 51 weeks, and we have lots of people who come into Plymouth and enjoy it. We can put up with the noise and minor inconvenience. I don't think it's worth regulating when it draws hundreds and even thousands of people."

Watts said festival organizers want to keep everyone happy. "We want to do whatever we can to make it right."

Watts acknowledged that "we had a band on last year that shouldn't have been playing as loud as it did. I'm happy to admit that. But that was at 4 o'clock in the afternoon."

It's difficult to please Wilcox, an individual "who only wants to hear classical music," said Watts. "This is his thing."

"We'll cancel this event and cancel the Ice Spectacular, and Jack will be the only one left in town. We've received complaints from only one person, and that person is Jack."

Watts said he's disappointed beer and wine tasting can't be part of Friday night's Taste of the Town. "I would not be interested in serving alcohol throughout the festival area, but a small quantity in conjunction with food items being served. Those individuals being restricted to the Gathering might improve the event and create a larger revenue base so that we could expand the program to include regional and national talent in the future."

Pursell will lead fight to defeat county tourist tax

Former U.S. Rep. Carl Pursell has kicked off a campaign in opposition to a proposed tax to fund the Detroit stadiums project.

And Bill McMaster, state chairman (volunteer) of Michigan Taxpayers United, said Thursday he is seeking legal counsel to fight the tax being placed on the Nov. 5 ballot.

Carl Pursell

Proposition S, which is being called a tourist tax by some and an excise tax by others, would impose a 1 percent tax on hotel room rentals and a 2 percent tax on car rentals to raise money to help fund a baseball stadium in Detroit for the Detroit Tigers.

The proposal is part of a plan for the county to enter a project that would result in building two stadiums side-by-side in Detroit. Besides a new Tiger stadium, a domed-stadium would be built to house the Detroit Lions football team.

Pursell said he will begin this week organizing a group to campaign against the tax and is planning to set up an office at a to-be-determined site on Telegraph Road.

Called CAPS, Citizens Against Proposition S, the group will organize to begin fund-raising and then launch a "David and Goliath type of war," Pursell said.

The group doesn't oppose building new stadiums, but objects to the use of tax money, Pursell said. The county is asking people to support a tax that goes to a millionaire, he said.

The proposed tax and stadium authority have "all the connotation of more bureaucracy and more taxes," he said.

The group will do mailings and have a speakers bureau, he said.

Meanwhile, McMaster put the Wayne County Commission on notice Thursday that he thinks the special meeting held Aug. 22 to approve putting the proposed tax on the ballot was in violation of the Open Meetings Act.

The public was not notified properly of the special meeting and the minutes were not made available in eight days after the meeting, McMaster said.

Notices were posted and mailed as is usual for a commission meeting and the minutes were available within eight business days, with Monday counted as a holiday, Al Montgomery, clerk of the commission, said.

After McMaster's statement, Commission Chairman Ricardo Solomon defended the meeting, saying he resented the implication of wrongdoing.

Municipal group to decide stand on issue

The members of the Conference of Western Wayne plan to vote Sept. 13 on whether to support or oppose a proposed tax to help fund a Detroit baseball stadium.

Members of the consortium of 18 western Wayne County communities met with deputy county executive Mike Duggan and Chuck Schmidt of the Lions on Wednesday, Aug. 21, to discuss the plan.

That was one day before the Wayne County Commission voted to put Proposition S on the Nov. 5 general election ballot.

And that meeting came about a month after the conference met with members of the Downriver Community Conference and the Conference of Eastern Wayne in July to vote on a regional position concerning county millages, before the Aug. 6 vote on the countywide parks millage.

There weren't enough votes to approve a regional position, but community leaders expressed their displeasure at not being consulted before county millages are placed on the ballot.

If approved by voters Nov. 5, a 1 percent tax on hotel room rentals and a 2 percent tax on car rentals would raise money to help fund a baseball stadium in Detroit for the Detroit Tigers.

The proposal is part of a plan for the county to enter a deal to build two stadiums side-by-side in Detroit. One for the Tigers and the other a domed-stadium to house the Detroit Lions football team.

The proposal has raised some concerns among western Wayne County leaders. Thomas Yack, Canton Township supervisor and chairman of the Conference of Western Wayne, said there are parts of the proposal he doesn't like.

"The county will be pledging its full faith and credit," he said. Also, the county is putting in $100 million while the city of Detroit is putting in less, $85 million, and none of it from new taxes, he said.

The resolution the CWW members voted on in July said that it would "officially oppose any and all future county millages that are not brought before the conferences prior to their placement on the ballot. The conferences will require that, at a minimum, they be given time to study the proposals and the opportunity to provide input and direction to county officials on these matters. Failure by Wayne County officials to comply with this request will result in a public position of opposition to the millage request in question."

"It's always a source of irritation that these things are always done at the last minute," Yack said. The county satisfied the requirement to meet with the conferences a day before the vote. "That's not to say the conference wouldn't still oppose the tax," Yack said, calling it good government to meet beforehand with elected officials in Wayne County.

Woman charged with stabbing boyfriend

BY M.B. DILLON
STAFF WRITER

A 39-year-old Plymouth Township woman faces a preliminary examination Friday, Sept. 13, on charges of assault with a dangerous weapon.

Dania Nuccilli is charged with stabbing her boyfriend in the thigh with a kitchen knife.

Nuccilli pleaded not guilty at her arraignment Sept. 3 before 35th District Judge John MacDonald.

Assault with a dangerous weapon is a felony punishable by four years imprisonment.

The victim, Dave Macie, 34, of Plymouth Township does not want to press charges, according to Plymouth Township Investigator David Hayes.

Under the state's new domestic violence law, however, the state automatically becomes the complainant and police must prosecute domestic assault cases.

Hayes said police responded to a call from an Eckles Road residence about 1:50 a.m. Sept. 2. Responding officers found the complainant sitting on a picnic table in front of his Eckles Road residence.

He had a towel bound around his left thigh and said his live-in girlfriend had stabbed him after a brief argument.

The man refused medical treatment for the two-inch laceration in his leg.

Police recovered the weapon, a kitchen knife with a 12-inch blade.

Hayes said officers "made contact with the suspect, who was found in house sleeping. The incident happened somewhere around 1:45 a.m."

The man and woman are believed to have been intoxicated.

The woman was arrested without incident and taken to the police station for booking.

Hayes said police had no previous contact with the couple, who recently moved to the area.

Auditions slated for children's theater production

The Whistle Stop Players open their third season of children's theater productions with a trio of Christmas classics.

Auditions are Sept. 17-18-19 at the Plymouth Community Arts Council, 774 N. Sheldon.

Children 5-15 years old are welcome and should plan to arrive at 6:30 p.m. and stay until 8 p.m. No experience or preparation necessary.

The 50-minute production includes delightful and dramatic vignettes from these immortal stories: "The Shoemaker and the Elves" by the Brothers Grimm, "A Merry Christmas" from "Little Women," and "Little Cosette and Father Christmas" from Les Miserables.

Director, Jennifer Tobin said that, in doing three separate plays with different casts there are so many good parts to offer young people with busy fall schedules.

"We can really explore and refine these great works because each of the three cuttings are about 15 minutes in length," she said.

"Scheduling is a dream for parents on this one. Each actor will rehearse once a week on the same night for 10 weeks, on either Sunday, Tuesday, or Thursday from 6:30-8 p.m.," she said.

Public performances for children of all ages, are slated for Dec. 6-8 at the PCAC.

The production is also available to tour to schools, companies, or organizations for $350.

The Whistle Stop Players will audition for their Spring '97 production of James and the Giant Peach, Jan. 14-16.

The production will be presented mid-April to May.

For information on the Whistle Stop Players, call Jennifer Tobin at 453-5212.

Plymouth paving project sparks commission debate

BY BETH SUNDRLA JACHMAN
STAFF WRITER

It was a bumpy ride for awhile as Wayne County commissioners debated funding part of a road paving project in Plymouth Township.

After more than an hour of discussion, commissioners Thursday approved paying 25 percent of the cost of paving Ridge Road from Powell to North Territorial and Powell from Ridge to Beck. The vote was 9-2 with three commissioners abstaining and one absent.

Local commissioners Thaddeus McCotter, R-Livonia; Michelle Plawecki, D-Dearborn Heights; Bruce Patterson, R-Canton Township; and Vice Chair Kay Beard, D-Westland; all voted yes.

The county will pay $331,110 of the $1,257,330 project, while Plymouth Township will pay $926,220. The project also includes widening the intersections of Powell and Ridge, North Territorial and Ridge and Powell and Beck.

An angry McCotter, who also represents Plymouth and Plymouth Township, pounded his fist on the table in frustration after some commissioners questioned paying any of the cost of paving gravel roads in Wayne County.

Calling it a rare example of different levels of government working together, McCotter said the county's refusal to help fund the project would only reinforce views in western Wayne County that residents don't get their money's worth from county taxes.

McCotter defeated his opposition in the Aug. 6 primary from Jeff Schroder who ran on a platform of leading a secession movement in western Wayne County, saying taxpayers in that area aren't getting a return on their tax money.

If the county says 25 percent is too much, "I tell you, this time I may have to agree with them (the secessionists)," he said.

But some commissioners questioned funding the project, saying it would be setting a precedent. The county hasn't paid to pave mile roads in the past, said Alan Richardson, deputy director of the engineering division of the county's Department of Public Services. Residents along the roads have agreed to a special assessment to pay for most of the cost of the project, and the funding breakdown for the county is similar to what it would be if it were a state or federally funded project, he said.

A similar project is being looked at in Brownstown Township, and this is part of a change in county policy adopted by the department several years ago, Richardson said.

Commissioners were told they will be given a copy of that policy by the next regular meeting.

Patterson pointed out Plymouth Township is getting different treatment than Canton Township, in which the township and developers had to pay 100 percent of the cost of paving Beck Road recently. "The vast majority of unpaved roads are in my district," he said.

The Plymouth Township project was included in a project list approved by the commission during budget talks last year, Richardson said.

"This project is under way. They felt our word was good and went ahead with the project," Richardson said.

Some commissioners questioned why the county dollars would be used for paving, when many rough, already paved roads are going unrepaired.

"We try to assess all of our needs," Richardson said. "We try and mix and match these funds for our needs," he said, pointing out money is used for a range of projects including resurfacing, road widening, railroad crossing improvements and paving.

"We discussed this almost a year ago," Plawecki said in defense of the project. "I too represent a township that has gravel roads. I don't want to go through this every time a township comes to us with a project," she said.

After a motion to send the project back to committee failed for lack of support, McCotter pointed out that the real issue is policy. "Commissioners with gravel roads should welcome this," he said. "We all have road needs in our districts."

GOP aims for middle road on 'dignified death' bill

BY TIM RICHARD
STAFF WRITER

Republicans on a state Senate panel intend Thursday to report out a "dignified death" bill, probably on a split vote, and send it to the full Senate.

A Democrat served notice he will seek to amend the bill to allow doctor-assisted suicide, subject to approval by voters.

"I will support the bill. It's well written," said Sen. Robert Geake, R-Northville, a member of the Senate Committee on Families, Mental Health and Human Services.

Senate Bill 1102 is intended to assure that doctors tell terminally ill patients their rights to accept or refuse treatment; are given immunity when they prescribe narcotics as pain-killers; and tell patients that Michigan case law prohibits anyone from assisting in a suicide.

Sen. Joel Gougeon, R-Bay City, also seemed pleased with the bill. Sen. Michael Bouchard, R-Birmingham, missed last Thursday's meeting and public hearing but is expected to vote yes.

But Sen. Gary Peters, D-Bloomfield Township, will offer a substitute "which provide a process to allow a terminally ill individual to request from a physician a prescription to end his or her life in a dignified manner." The Peters substitute would require voter approval to become law.

Sen. Virgil Smith, D-Detroit, said, "The best determinant of the state's interests is a vote of the people," indicating he will support the Peters substitute. Peters is likely, however, to wind up on the short end of a 3-2 vote.

The "dignified death" bill that will get majority support steers a course between two polar views.

Right to Life spokesman Ed Rivet supported it but would prefer a bill that provides criminal penalties for a physician who assists in a suicide. "It should create a felony offense for coercion of a patient to commit suicide," added Rivet, citing the abused woman who was assisted in her suicide by Dr. Jack Kevorkian.

"Theological tyranny," said Howard Simon, Plymouth resident who is executive director of the American Civil Liberties Union of Michigan. "You're forcing some people to live by someone else's theology," said Simon, referring to a section that prohibits anyone from assisting in a suicide.

In many Christian sects, suicide is a sin that bars the sinner from Heaven and burial in consecrated soil.

Both sides agreed the bill, sponsored by Sen. Dale Shugars, R-Portage, was good in requiring a physician to fully inform a terminally ill patient of alternative treatments, risks, the right to court-appointed guardian, and the right to end treatment.

"Everybody's in favor of more dialog," said ACLU's Simon.

"The bill is a catalyst for patient empowerment," said RTL's Rivet.

Critics found the bill ambiguous in a subsection that allows a patient to order the withdrawal of life support systems.

"It's a desire for an earlier death," said Shaw Livermore Jr., Lansing, representing Hemlock of Michigan. "If it's respiratory (support), death occurs in minutes. They know absolutely what the consequences will be. It's no different than asking a doctor to prescribe something to cause death. Nobody's fooling anybody."

But Shugars, the sponsor, said there's a clear difference between taking one's own life artificially and allowing nature to take its course in time.

Kenneth Shapiro, Lansing, of Merian's Friends, blistered the bill as "hot air... a mirage... a smokescreen. You're removing the most potent pain reliever of all (suicide). Two to 20 percent of terminally ill patients don't respond to pain management except by a drug-induced coma. If you want to stop Kevorkian (assisting in suicides), you would legalize and regulate it."

"Sen. Peters had a substitute to put before the people," Shapiro said. "But I would probably be shocked and need resuscitation if that got out of committee."

Merian's Friends is an Ann Arbor and Northville group that takes its name from Merian Fredericks, one of Kevorkian's late patients.

Dr. Ed Pierce, a former state senator from Ann Arbor, asked the panel to legalize restricted assisted suicide. Pierce, also active in Merian's Friends, would limit it to mentally competent adults diagnosed twice as facing death within six months, require a psychiatric evaluation and impose a seven-day waiting period.

Lisa Gigliotti, staff attorney for Michigan Protection and Advocacy Service, supported the Shugars bill as leading to "better patient-doctor communication."

Sue Homart, of Michigan Hospice in Lansing, gave the bill "strong support" because it will "provide good deaths and dignified deaths." She asked that the bill include hospice in its list of alternative treatments because "physicians occasionally forget to tell patients about hospice care."

Sen. Geake promised to offer amendments to include hospice.

The Shugars bill is one of a four-part package of bills designed to alleviate patients' desires for assisted suicide. Other parts include a hospice licensure law (sponsored by Rep. Gerald Law, R-Plymouth); a "do-not-resuscitate" bill (sponsored by Sen. John Schwarz, R-Battle Creek); and pain management legislation (sponsored by Rep. John Jamian, R-Bloomfield Township).

Refer to SB 1102 when writing about the Shugars bill. Refer to SB 1102 (sub 1) when writing about the Peters substitute. Your senator's address is: State Capitol, Lansing 48909.

SIGNS THAT SEALANTS DELIVER

According to surveys conducted between 1988 and 1994 by the National Center for Health Statistics, 55 percent of American children and adolescents between the ages of 5 and 17 are cavity-free. Along with increased use of fluoride, part of the credit for this lessened cavity rate can be attributed to the use of sealants. These are the plastic coatings that dentists apply to molars, which are the most decay-prone teeth because they have grooves and fissures in their surfaces that trap food and bacteria that cause decay. Sealants form a protective barrier that shuts out these decay-causing elements. As effective as sealants are in preventing decay, however, their full potential is not being utilized. While twice as many youngsters are having sealants applied as compared to ten years ago, still only 19 percent of children and adolescents avail themselves of sealants. As good as sealants are, they cannot work if they are not used.

Fall legs: Color and texture rule!

BY LINDA ANN CHOMIN
SPECIAL WRITER

The New York Times reports that between 1987 and 1995, the number of women with memberships at gyms in the U.S. rose 108 percent to 7.58 million. It's no wonder shapely legs take on high voltage looks this fall!

"Burgundy mixed with red is a hot hose color this season as well as bottle green, plum and eggplant. Wear these colors as an accent if you have a black suit," said Anne Clark, owner of Fogal at the Somerset Collection South in Troy.

"There's a mixing of texture today; women are wearing a tweed suit with fishnet hosiery. The nude leg is still big. This summer women got used to experimenting with different stocking styles." Fogal, a Swiss hosiery manufacturer since the 1920s, offers more than 130 colors and 100 different styles of leg wear. Even their nude hosiery has a little shimmer. To accent a black suit try layering a fishnet over an opaque color of your choice, preferably to mirror your blouse. Or how about adding pizzazz with black hosiery hand-embroidered with a red and gold floral pattern ($269)?

"A lot of women are focusing on hosiery now because there's more to choose from. If you can't find your color here, you probably won't find it anywhere," boasted Fogal manager Cherie Cunningham. "Show your skin a little. For day, it's nude with lots of shimmer, for evening it's black with Swarovski crystals running in a seam down the back ($210)."

For anytime, Cunningham recommends lambswool tights in a tweed pattern ($105) to wear with a bulky sweater. Beige cashmere tights ($301) make a great gift from yourself or someone else when matched with a cashmere bodysuit ($550).

"It's a total look. You just add your suit and that's it. It's easier dressing," said Cunningham.

Fogal's new fishnet thigh high called Can-Can ($22) brings to mind Henri de Toulouse-Lautrec's posters of Moulin Rouge dancers. Garter belts and stockings are growing in popularity after declining with the invention and perfection of pantyhose. Many soon-to-be brides are buying the ivory all-in-one garter belt and stockings for $75, said Cunningham. Fogal's Limoges ($63) is the finest matte finish sheer I've ever felt. It not only feels good on your leg but looks great.

"Fogal's mentality is - it's makeup for your leg," Cunningham said.

Conservative takes a walk on the wild side at Saks Fifth Avenue. Rows of suntan, taupe and black dominate the Wolford, Calvin Klein, Ellen Tracy, and Ralph Lauren hosiery bins because clientele demands it, according to assistant manager Nydia Lund. Socks are classic angora, Icelandic, wool and chenille. However, hosiery and socks in New York designer Donna Karan's lines go wild with color.

"Donna Karan's new colors for fall are citrine green, zircon orange, sapphire and mahogany. Remember how popular these colors were in the 70's? She follows through with socks. They're fun. Classic ribbed shorties by DKNY in red, muscat, orange and peabody yellow, can be worn with a patent leather shoe or classic chocolate loafer. The nice thing about adding the latest hosiery or socks is you don't have to buy a whole new outfit," Lund beamed.

Nudes ($13.50-$17) are also hot at Saks. "We have to pull people out of Donna Karan. The nudes continue to be very strong. They come in seven different colorations to match them up to your skin. They're the lightest and finest sheers. They premiered last summer. I sold 19 pairs while I was stocking the shelves."

Anne Clark offers a few tips for extending the life of hosiery: "Wearing cotton gloves (while putting on your stockings) is the best way to preserve your hose. Wash stockings by hand or put them inside a lingerie bag before hanging them to dry."

Basic black: Still a wardrobe staple, dark hose adds panache to fall outfits. These are by Honors at Target, $2.49.

Oakland Mall dedicates two new signs

Then and now: The 30-year-old sign at left had become an eyesore for the mall, the city, and passersby. Everyone's thrilled with the new version featuring a bronze-finished steel clad base with illuminated store names, and a series of concentric circles that repeat the architectural motif of the mall's curved entrance.

I-75 motorists can relax once again - Oakland Mall launched its new sign on Aug. 29, and folks can resume setting their watches and noting the temperature as they pass the 75-foot high electronic pylon near 14 Mile.

Troy Mayor Jeanne Stine threw a switch illuminating the $300,000 landmark, while hundreds of youngsters from the mall's Giggle Gang placed a time capsule full of 90's trinkets into the base for posterity. Their names are being etched into a plaque that will hang near the bottom of the pylon.

Music and refreshments fueled a parking lot tent party until 10 p.m.

One of the tallest signs in Michigan, Oakland Mall's pylon was created by Warren Sign Systems. It stands 75-feet, 2-inches high and is 25 feet wide. Its sister, a mere 45-foot tall, sits on the other end of the mall facing John R. The 1965 original sign by Acme-Wyley Signs of Chicago, marked the first time Sears and Hudson's ever appeared together on a shopping center beacon.

The new signs will "help reflect the mall's vitality and its responsiveness to customers," according to consultant Ken Smith of the Key Marketing Group of Waterford. He said the mall's emphasis on being a family-oriented center means Oakland Mall may be immune from niche competition that emphasizes only the affluent shopper.

City's fashion show benefits cancer stars

BY SUSAN DEMAGGIO
STAFF WRITER

It's important to attend downtown Birmingham's fashion benefit Wednesday night and John Telles can tell you why.

The 24-year-old chemistry major at Wayne State University owes his upcoming junior year in part, to the scholarship money he received as a pediatric cancer survivor. The scholarship funds come through Beaumont Hospital from Birmingham's annual Fall Spectacular.

"There was a time when we thought we would lose John," his mother said during a pre-benefit party, "but he made it and we're elated. We're so happy to have him now. The scholarship is so wonderful. It came as a blessing."

Birmingham retailers adopted the pediatric oncology ward at Beaumont Hospital years ago and work long and hard to produce the fall scholarship benefit which includes a silent auction of donated goods and services, entertainment, tastes of the town's 20 restaurants, a hour-long fashion production and a desserts and coffee afterglow.

Ticket tips

Tickets are $25 each presale, $35 at the door, patrons $100, sold in shops throughout the business district. The Wednesday, Sept. 11 event gets under way at 6 p.m. "under elegant tents behind the Townsend Hotel."

Chairpersons Richard and Debbie Astrein of Astrein Jewelers, said the event is an outpouring of generosity from independent merchants who donate from the heart.

"It's one thing when a major company underwrites an event, or a mall spends marketing funds to host a benefit, but it's quite another to go to individual businessmen and women and ask for merchandise and cash donations. Yet that's what happens here," Astrein said.

Dr. Charles Main, chief of Pediatric Hematology/Oncology at Beaumont Hospital came up with the idea of a cancer survivors scholarship noting that due to frequent hospitalizations for chemotherapy and treatment of infections, it is very difficult for young patients to maintain their grade point averages during high school. Working to earn college tuition is almost impossible.

"They deserve a break," he said. "They're wise beyond their years because of what they've been through. And they're mature. They make excellent students."

Main said he expects to award 11 scholarships at the Fall Spectacular thanks to the sponsors and guests of the Birmingham Fall Spectacular.

All Star line-up

Jim Harper, of the Breakfast Club on WNIC radio, will emcee the event. Fashions will be provided by Jacobson's, Adamo/Nicole Miller, Basic Goods, Caruso Caruso, Ceresnie & Offen Furs, Edward Dorian, Fittigues, Frankie & Debbie's Furs by Robert, Hansel & Gretel, It's The Ritz, Kathryn Scott, Kiddyworks, Linda Dresner, Lisa Parks Knits, Maxwell, R. DeLaura Clothier, Shades Optical, Sherman Shoes, Tender, The Claymore Shop, Thom Leffler, Timbuktu, Urban Walker. Hairstyles by Antoni, Kennice Bashar, Salon Sydney and 90th Floor.

Auction action

Some of the 150 auction items include an XJ6 Jaguar Sedan for one year (owner's choice of color); a sheered beaver fur by Robert Grosvenor, two-round trip tickets to anywhere in the U.S.

"It takes tons and tons of time to produce an event of this quality," said Tracey Toepp of It's The Ritz, "but we do it for the kids, always the kids. And with me, it's also very personal. My nephew, now in remission and entering the second grade, was a patient at Beaumont. Before he could walk, he was in the fashion show. When he was three, he became a patient. You just never know."

Last year the Fall Spectacular raised $60,000 for the cause. The town hopes to surpass that record this year.

GI Joe History

Collector's Edition: Target Stores have brought back a reproduction of the original 1964 male action figure along with a book about his beginnings by Don Levine, father of the famous play toy. The "Masterpiece Edition" sells for $49.99. Illustrations were made by collector/author John Michlig. According to a Target spokesman, last year's limited edition series became such a hot topic, Internet surfers had to wait up to four hours to chat on-line about GI Joe. Levine, a Korean War veteran-turned toy designer, came up with the figure after watching the 1945 World War II film "The Story of GI Joe" with Burgess Meredith and Robert Mitchum. Levine said boys should have something to play with that resembled Barbie, but wouldn't "carry the stigma of playing with dolls."

"We already have a good size number of walkers each day at 7:30 a.m., this way they can enjoy their climate-controlled walks on a more regular basis." Walkers are asked to use Entrance G for the Walkers Club Program.

Cookbooks help college students tackle 'home' work

My kids aren't old enough to be sent off to college, but I helped my best friend last weekend in the ritual send-off of his first born son to Western Michigan University in Kalamazoo. It was a lesson for me not only in economics, but also in ergonomics. We attempted to cram a 1,000-watt stereo system and a mini kitchen into an 8- by 12-foot dorm room common area already occupied with necessities from three other guys.

Homework

Before the send-off I did a little research and found two books to help my friend's son make the culinary transition from home to college. I wanted him to know there are options besides ticketed dorm food, pots of coffee, and Ramen noodles, which can be cooked in a clean coffee pot or a microwave in less than 5 minutes.

My first foray was a rather fast fly through of "The Campus Survival Cookbook #2" by Jacqueline Wood and Joelyn Ghilicrist, (copyright, 1981 Morrow Quill Paperbacks, $8.95). Although this book offers some fairly in-depth ideas and suggestions, it's somewhat outdated. I don't know any college dorm student who is willing to cook "Braised Italian Chicken Hugo" or "Survival Bone Soup," which calls for nothing more than water, soup bones and a couple of pigs feet.

The list of items that the authors suggest to put in a "minimum" kitchen is six pages long and lists some things that I don't even own! (i.e. a potato ricer). What the book does offer is some outstanding tips on cooking all the basics like rice, pasta, meatballs and lentils.

But if you continue to search for something small that should be considered a "must have" for any college student or person venturing off into their first apartment, it's a copy of "Where's Mom Now That I Need Her" by Betty, Kathryn and Kent Frandsen, (copyright 1983 by Aspen Publishing, $21.95). The Frandsen kids put together this cumulative effort. It's one of the best books on the market for folks who had a momma like me who ironed towels, used a mannequin on my sheets, shopped and did everything a 1950s My Cleaver would do while wearing a mumu instead of a perky dress, and curlers instead of pearls. This book is fun to read. There are chapters on "conquering the grocery store" and "how to" purchase everything from avocados to zucchini, how to read food labels, recipes for things you can't eat (cheap cleaning supplies), and all sorts of meat charts, cooking charts, measuring charts and so forth. All of the recipes serve 2-4 people and each chapter offers a few pages that are lined for inserting "mom's old favorites." Like the Campus Survival book, it also explains how to do everything from poach an egg to remove laundry stains.

If I were moving out of the house, I would feel very confident with a copy of "The Joy of Cooking," and this book, tucked neatly between my pressed underwear and momma's old crock pot (that I still use). Both books were available at all Kitchen Glamor stores.

Cooking programs

For those going off to school or wherever with nothing more than the clothes on their back and a computer, I recommend two good basic cooking programs.

The first is dubbed "Mangia!" and is available for around $35 wherever computer programs are sold. The second, called "Master Chef" is a more advanced collection of great recipes and how to food tips that also includes a nutritional value program for every recipe. Expect to pay around $40 for the Master Chef program. It is available for both Mac and IBM formats.

Now if money is of little concern, one of the hottest holiday gifts to be unwrapped this season will be a color television with a programmable CD Rom player built in called the Kitchen Coach. Initial reviews show this promising video alternative to be an upscale way of incorporating personalized, private cooking lessons right in your own kitchen. The remote control can take you anywhere in a recipe with just the push of a button. Sounds high tech but fun! The only place I've seen it is at Kitchen Glamor stores. Although it retails at $999.95, the folks at Kitchen Glamor tell me they sell out fast. Call (313) 537-1300 for details.

Fall is crunch time in Michigan

To me, fall means apple season. Biting into an apple straight off the tree is a simple pleasure that just about everyone in Michigan has experienced. As a kid, I remember hiking in the woods with some friends. After going quite a distance, we came upon a clearing with a big apple tree. Boy did those apples taste good! Never mind that they had a few holes and blemishes, we just ate around them. Fresh, crisp and tart, they satisfied our hunger and thirst all at once.

Everyone has heard that "an apple a day keeps the doctor away." But whether that is folklore or not, it is true that apples are juicy, sweet and just the right size for a snack. They have been called "nature's toothbrush" because they cleanse the teeth and exercise the gums.

As far as nutritional content goes, apples contain a little bit of lots of nutrients including vitamins A and C, iron, thiamine, riboflavin, phosphorus, magnesium and potassium. Apples are fat, cholesterol and sodium-free, an excellent source of fiber — five grams per medium (154 gram) apple, and contain only 81 calories.

Everyone likes apples. This could be because apple juice is one of the first tastes experienced by babies, and applesauce is one of their first solid foods. This is because apples are low in acid and easily digestible.

Apples are grown in 39 of the 50 states, and are probably one of the most popular and versatile fruits around. Apples are available year-round, but are at their peak in Michigan in August, September and October.

Visiting a cider mill is a fall ritual for many people. Watching the apples being pressed into cider, along with the combined smell of apples and fresh hot doughnuts delight the senses. Learn to slowly enjoy one doughnut, then have an extra apple and your waist and heart will thank you.

One area of controversy involving apples is pesticide residue. Apple processors have developed methods to remove pesticide residue before processing. They use scrubbers, sprayers, brushes and cleansing solutions. Thoroughly scrub and cleanse in warm or hot water before biting into them.

Apples are also part of the Jewish New Year celebration, Rosh Hashana, which begins this year at sundown on Sept. 13. According to the authors of "From Generation to Generation," a kosher cookbook published in 1993 by the Sisterhood of Congregation Shaarey Zedek in Southfield, Rosh Hashana marks the 10 Days of Awe and is the time when hope springs eternal for the year to come.

"Like all Jewish holidays, food contributes to the celebration. It is customary to partake of apples dipped in honey, honey cake and delicious taiglach (cookies coated in honey). Eating these foods symbolize a wish for sweet new year."

The custom of eating something sweet, and avoiding sour foods during Rosh Hashana prevailed throughout the ancient world because of the belief that what one

Tips for selecting and storing apples

- Select firm apples that are free of bruises.
- Handle apples gently to prevent bruises.
- Refrigerate apples to keep them crisp longer.
- Store apples in a ventilated plastic bag away from strong-odored foods.
- Coat apple slices and dices with apple or lemon juice to prevent browning.

An apple a day

- Whip a frozen applesauce "slushy" in your blender for a breakfast beverage.
- Stash dried apples in your glove compartment or desk for a quick pick-up.
- Slice an apple onto your sandwich for a crunchy treat.
- Dice an apple into salad for extra zip.
- Spoon canned apple slices onto low-fat pound cake for a tasty yet elegant dessert.
- Mix apple chunks into hot cereal or put them on pancakes to energize your breakfast.
- Drink apple juice instead of coffee during your morning commute.
- Pack an apple into your backpack or briefcase for a snack on the go.
- Dip apple slices in vanilla low- or no-fat yogurt for an easy snack.
- Microwave a cored apple in a little juice or cider for a quick, low-calorie dessert.

Substitutions cut fat to the core in apple coffee cake

BY LAURA SYKES
SPECIAL WRITER

Apples are at their best this time of year, and September is a wonderful month to take advantage of the bargains that can be found at local farmer markets, fall fairs, and festivals.

While apples make fabulous snacks, desserts containing apples tend to be very high in fat. Let's look at an apple coffee cake recipe to see how we can reduce the fat and calories.

The original recipe requires one whole egg. If we substitute egg whites from two large eggs, we can easily reduce the fat by 5 grams, eliminate 213 mg of unnecessary cholesterol and 58 calories.

Milk is the next ingredient. Because this recipe contains a very small amount of milk the benefits are not as noticeable. Yet, if we compare one cup of whole milk to one cup of skim milk you'll see the difference is significant. One cup of whole milk has 8 grams of fat and 150 calories. Skim milk contains only 0.4 grams of fat per cup, and 84 calories. Skim milk can almost always be substituted for whole milk in a recipe without causing any problems.

The original recipe calls one-half cup of shortening. Here is where fat can really pile up. One-half cup of vegetable shortening contributes 102.5 grams of fat and 922.5 calories. If we replace the shortening with one-half cup of fruit flavored non-fat yogurt the change is dramatic. We now are only adding 50 calories and no fat.

Blend the cinnamon and sugar together in a small bowl. Pour the cake batter into the pan and then sprinkle the cinnamon and sugar mixture

Easy dishes help students survive without mom

See related Taste Buds column on Taste front.
I didn't think it would be a good idea to print basic cooking instructions for rice but after paging through the "The Campus Survival Cookbook #2," I found this great recipe that can be made in an electric skillet and has all the tastes of what my momma used to call "comfort food."

MARION'S PORK CHOP DREAM

- 2 medium onions
- 2 tablespoons butter or margarine

6 thick center cut pork chops
1 (14 1/2 ounce) can brown gravy
1 (14 1/2 ounce) can water
4 ounces canned sliced mushrooms
1 cup raw white rice (Uncle Ben's Converted)
Salt and pepper to taste

Peel and chop onions. In an electric skillet, melt butter or margarine over 375° F. heat. Add onions and stir and cook for 2-3 minutes. Add pork chops and brown 2-3 minutes on each side. Reduce heat to 300° F. Add gravy, water, mushrooms and rice, mix well. Cover and cook for 30 minutes. Season to taste with salt and pepper. Serves 6 or 3 if you're really hungry.

Recipe from "The Campus Survival Cookbook #2" by Jacqueline Wood and Joelyn Gilchrist, (copyright, 1981 by Morrow Quill Paperbacks, $8.95).

Here's another recipe that can be cooked in anything from a hot plate to an electric skillet. I made it and it was just as good as it sounds! It also made great leftovers and was outstanding as a sandwich the next day!

PORCUPINE MEATBALLS

- 1 pound ground beef
- 1/4 cup uncooked rice
- 1 (10 1/2 ounce) can condensed cream of chicken soup
- 1/4 cup minced onion
- 1/4 cup minced green pepper
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 1/4 teaspoon pepper
- 1 egg, beaten
- 1 cup water

Thoroughly combine the ground beef, 1/4 cup of the creamed soup, rice, onion, pepper, salt and egg.

Mix well and shape into meatballs. Brown in a skillet for 2-3 minutes on each side. Mix remaining soup with water; pour over meatballs, cover and allow to simmer for 30-40 minutes or until rice is tender. Serves 3-4.

When was the last time you found a recipe for homemade drain cleaner that doesn't consist of the things you would find at a toxic dump? Here's one from the book:

DRAIN CLEANER

- 1/2 cup salt

- 1/2 cup baking soda
- 2 tablespoons cream of tartar

Mix dry ingredients in a bowl and store, covered. Label. To use, spoon 4 tablespoons of the mixture into a slow drain and slowly pour in 1 cup hot water; the mixture will bubble. When bubbling has stopped, repeat, then run cold water down the drain. Use this mixture once a month to keep drains running free.

CHICKEN APPLE CURRY

- Serves 8
  - 2 tablespoons olive oil
  - 3 cups chopped apple
  - 1 cup chopped onion
  - 2 cloves garlic
  - 4 tablespoons flour
  - 4-6 teaspoons curry powder (amount & strength to taste)
  - 2 teaspoons salt
  - 2 cups low fat milk
  - 2 cups no fat, low sodium chicken broth
  - 4 cups cooked, cubed chicken breast
- Heat oil in non-stick pan. Sauté onion, garlic and apple for 5 minutes. On low heat, stir in flour, salt and curry. Slowly add milk and broth, stirring gently.

Sometimes more flour is needed to thicken sauce. If needed, remove some of the sauce and stir a little flour into it, then return to the pan while stirring. Add chicken last. To make ahead of time: make sauce and leave chicken separate until time to serve. Serve over white rice.

This dish is traditionally served with chutney. Other condiments that complement it are chopped tomatoes, raisins, shredded coconut, chopped peanuts, finely chopped parsley, and green onions.

These root veggies can't be 'beet'

BY LOIS THIELEKE
SPECIAL WRITER

Burgundy, red, black, orange-yellow and ivory are the colors, miniature to massive, round to flat or cylindrical, they are all beets. Bunch beets have the green tops still attached, trimmed beets are loose packed in plastic or canned, whole, sliced, diced or pickled, these are some of the available forms of beets.

Beets have the highest sugar content of any vegetable so are noted for their sweetness. However, they are still low in calories, 44 calories in three-fourths of a cup sliced.

Beets purchased early in the growing season are generally smaller in size and the leaves are more tender and flavorful. Some of the very large beets can be woody and tougher in flavor and texture, besides taking longer to cook. Always look for beets that are smooth, hard and have a healthy color. Attached leaves that are bigger than eight inches or yellow in color are bitter and less palatable.

After purchasing beets cut off the green tops before storing to help reduce moisture loss. When cutting the tops off, leave about two inches of the stem attached or they "bleed" and will be pale in color when served. Store separately and use the greens as soon as possible. The beets can be stored for up to three weeks, but make sure they don't become soft. They can also be stored in a root cellar for up to six months.

Beets can be baked very similar to a potato. Instead of trying to pierce a beet so it doesn't explode, wrap it tightly in foil and set in a roasting pan and bake 45 to 60 minutes. Don't peel beets before baking, you'll lose the red juices and they will turn a very unappealing brown. Scrub beets well (just like a potato) before baking or cooking. Dry heat seems to lock in the nutrients and intensifies their natural sweetness.

When cooking, prepare extra for another meal. Cooked beets keep very nicely in the refrigerator for use later. Beets can be served hot or cold, whole, sliced or diced. Raw beets can be peeled, shredded or grated for salads or added to salsa. Strong flavors such as vinegar, lemon juice, horseradish, ginger, or curry compliment and make beets more colorful and flavorful. Pickle beets quickly by adding peeled, cooked beets to simmered red wine vinegar, onions and spices such as cinnamon, whole cloves and anise, bring to a boil, cool and chill in the liquid. These will keep in the refrigerator for several days if covered with the liquid. Uncovered, beets will dry out.

Other ideas for beets:
■ A relish tray isn't a relish tray until pickled beets are added.

■ Add pureed pickled beets to plain yogurt seasoned with minced red onions, salt and pepper. This is a perfect dip for any vegetable.

■ Shred cabbage with diced pickled beets and fresh parsley, this makes a beautiful salad.

■ Sliced chilled beets, oranges and onions make a refreshing salad.

■ When adding beets to a salad, wait until the last minute to mix so the beet juice doesn't run all over the greens.

■ Great seasonings to add to beets are: fresh ground ginger, orange or lemon zest, caraway seeds, cloves, nutmeg and cinnamon.

2 cups oats (quick or old-fashioned, uncooked)
1 1/2 cups all-purpose flour
1/2 teaspoon baking soda
1/2 teaspoon salt (optional)
1 cup (2 sticks) butter or margarine
One 7-ounce jar marshmallow creme
1 cup (6 ounces) semisweet chocolate pieces
Heat oven to 350°F. Lightly grease 13 by 9-inch baking pan.

In large bowl, combine oats, flour, baking soda and salt; mix well. Add butter; blend with electric mixer on low to medium speed until crumbly. Reserve 1 1/2 cups oat mixture for topping; set aside. Press remaining oat mixture evenly onto bottom of pan. Bake 15 minutes.

Remove pan from oven to wire rack. Drop spoonfuls of marshmallow creme in rows across crust. With knife or spatula, carefully spread creme to within 1/4-inch of edges. (If marshmallow creme is difficult to spread, place baking pan in warm oven about 1 minute to slightly soften the creme). Sprinkle chocolate pieces evenly over marshmallow creme. Crumble reserved oat mixture evenly over chocolate pieces.

Bake 25 to 30 minutes or until topping is light golden brown around the edges. Cool on wire rack 30 minutes. Cut into bars while warm. Serve warm or cool completely and store tightly covered. Yield 2 dozen.

'The Fan' has moments to cheer, and boo

BY DAVID GOODMAN
ASSOCIATED PRESS WRITER

NEW YORK (AP) — San Francisco knife salesman Gil Renard (Robert De Niro) lives for baseball.

With an ex-wife who despises him and a career in freefall, the hallowed confines of Candlestick Park are a happy, green haven. For Renard, it's a place where time stands still, where he can connect with his idealized boyhood.

"Baseball is better than life," he says. "It's fair."

Fourteen years ago, Renard began following the career of high school center fielder Bobby Rayburn (Wesley Snipes). Now a swaggering superstar, Rayburn has been lured back to the San Francisco Giants in a controversial deal worth 40 million dollars.

When the beleaguered Rayburn falls into a no-hitting slump, the salesman casts himself as the white knight who will defend Rayburn from his critics and earn his undying friendship.

Renard only "knows" Rayburn through the newspapers and a brief exchange on a sports talk radio show hosted by Jewel Stern (Ellen Barkin). But he's just crazy and desperate enough to picture Rayburn and himself as comrades in victimhood.

And when he thinks Rayburn's terrible form may be due to teammate Juan Primo (Benicio Del Toro), Renard's obsession turns to thoughts of murder to restore his idol's reputation.

The movie's virtues are centered in its first two-thirds, where De Niro and Snipes get the space to unreel their subtle, mixed characters.

REVIEW

Another big plus from director Tony Scott ("Crimson Tide," "Top Gun") are the right-there-at-the-plate baseball sequences, which include an appearance from ex-major league infielder John Kruk and technical advice from baseball legend Cal Ripken Jr.

There's also a superb, thumping soundtrack featuring The Rolling Stones, Nine Inch Nails and Santana, among others.

But "The Fan" has drawbacks, too. Considering the amount of action, the latter part of the 120-minute movie is strangely plodding as De Niro's character, so shaded at the beginning, is allowed to turn into the standard, cardboard stalker.

The movie reaches a peak in a scene where Renard gets to hang out with Rayburn at his beach-house after rescuing Rayburn's son from drowning.

But the carefully cherished, idealized image of his hero is blown to pieces when the straight-talking Rayburn dismisses die-hard fans as "losers." The fan's fragile adoration switches all too easily into the hate of a spurned lover, and Renard kidnaps Rayburn's son.

From this point on, it's all downhill. With a plot line that manages to be both cliched and unlikely, the movie's final 20 minutes start to resemble an expensively filmed but vacant made-for-TV movie.

Until that moment, the screenplay by Phoebe Sutton does a nice job giving Rayburn some dimension. We see him struggling to conquer a crippling neurosis — the belief that he can't play without the number 11 on his shirt — and working through his simmering dislike for Primo.

De Niro's Renard initially seems normal enough — just a guy going through a bad patch — but Scott keeps introducing little clues to show that everything's not as it seems.

At the opening day Giants' game with his young son, for example, Renard treads on the boy while clambering to catch a ball that's flown into the stands. Later, he tries to make amends by buying the kid a pizza, but seems unaware that his son hates mushrooms.

The movie has Renard a peddler of knives — which creates an air of menace around his character and provides excuses for much ghoulishness later on.

Not surprisingly, De Niro seems to have perfected his routine from "Taxi Driver" and "Cape Fear." The now predictable repertoire of psycho moves are all here — the twitches, the cold stare, the curled-down lip, the crazy smile where the eyes crinkle sinisterly.

The overly familiar performance is also lessened by some annoying, intrusive camera work. There are a few too many jump-cuts and extreme close-ups used to create tension. It's like the camera is the star here.

Considering the film's collection of talent, that's an odd choice.

"The Fan" is produced by Wendy Finerman. The screenplay is based on a book by Peter Abrahams.

'The Spitfire Grill' engrossing, soul-searching saga

BY LINDA DEUTSCH
ASSOCIATED PRESS WRITER

At the end of this long summer of loud, hyperkinetic, violence-riddled action movies, "The Spitfire Grill" may be the kind of quiet respite longed for by exhausted viewers.

A film about neither alien invaders nor pumped-up cops, "The Spitfire Grill" is a small story about people, set against the backdrop of a staggeringly beautiful new England landscape. It is by no means a perfect movie, nor one that can be embraced without realizing its glaring flaws. But its intentions are so honorable that much can be forgiven.

First, let's explain that weird title. "The Spitfire Grill" is a small-town restaurant that serves as the hub of gossip and socializing in the tiny burg of Gilead, Maine. It's where a young woman named Percy Talbott (Alison Elliott) comes to work after serving time in state prison. And it's where Hannah Ferguson (Ellen Burstyn), the crusty, aging restaurant owner agrees to take a gamble on Percy with surprising results.

Writer-director Lee David Zlotoff painstakingly sets the stage in the film's first half, showing Hannah's desire to sell the restaurant, her lingering grief over a son who disappeared into the Vietnam War and hints of a mystery that haunts her and the rest of her family.

Percy, the mysterious newcomer, is a subject of intrigue and suspicion.

It's a long, slow climb before we arrive at the center of the story — Percy's unique idea to help Hannah sell the restaurant.

The ex-convict, who helped operate the Maine Tourist Bureau while in prison (a neat little twist taken from a true story) recalls that someone once sold a cafe by running an essay contest. Bidders would send in $100 and an essay on why they wanted the restaurant. (Again, Zlotoff says this is based on a true story.)

What happens as a result of the contest is predictable, but there are enough new twists to keep it from falling prey to cloying Hollywood cliches.

Percy's character, as developed by Elliott, is the movie's heart and soul. Although Elliott is likable enough, she falls short of the depth needed for a tragic heroine. A shockingly aged Burstyn creates a woman of many dimensions and even carries off the cornball ending with aplomb.

REVIEW

But perhaps the most fully developed character is Hannah's daughter-in-law, Shelby, a touching portrayal by Marcia Gay Harden of a woman discovering her own capabilities in adversity.

Will Patton and Kieran Mul-oney provide able male support, but this movie clearly belongs to the three strong women in control.

The flaws marring this effort are the subplots. The tale of the hermit who comes out of the woods to collect canned goods from Hannah is carried on far past the point of interest, and the solution to his mystery is telegraphed early on. The history of Gilead, a town destroyed by deforestation and seeking rebirth, seems superimposed on this human interest tale.

That said, "The Spitfire Grill" remains an engrossing, soul-searching saga in a time when such films seem in danger of extinction.

Commission OKs stadium appointments

Wayne County commissioners approved the appointment of the members of the newly created Stadium Authority Thursday.

Michael Duggan, county deputy CEO, David Katz, county chief of staff, and Archie Clark, county deputy economic development director, are the County Executive Edward McNamara's appointees.

Nettie Seabrooks, deputy Detroit mayor, Roger Short, deputy city finance director, and C. Beth DunCombe, president of the Detroit Economic Growth Corp., are Detroit Mayor Dennis Archer's appointees.

The authority's first meeting is set for today (Monday, Sept. 9). It will begin the land acquisition process immediately, Duggan said.

Duggan, a Livonia resident, is credited with playing key roles in Wayne County's financial recovery plan and, as interim general manager of the Suburban Mobility Authority for Regional Transportation, with getting a millage increase passed to support the bus system.

Katz, a Grosse Pointe Farms resident, has served as chief of staff since 1991 and serves as executive director of the Wayne County Building Authority.

Clark, an Ecorse resident, has served as deputy director of Jobs and Economic Development since 1995.

Commission Vice Chair Kay Beard, D-Westland, questioned why none of the county appointees are financial officers. The county's chief financial officer and deputy financial officer are not residents of Wayne County, Duggan said.

Local commissioners Thaddeus McCotter, R-Livonia, and Bruce Patterson, R-Canton Township, voted no on the appointments. Commissioner Michelle Plawecki, D-Deerborn Heights, and Beard voted yes.

OBSERVER SPORTS SCENE

ODP regional qualifiers

Michigan once again was a leader in placing players on the Olympic Development Program regional girls soccer team, and Observerland was well-represented.

The ODP regional camp, which was at Northern Illinois University last July, consisted of nearly 300 players in each age division, from which 30 were chosen for the regional teams. From that group of 30, teams will be selected to compete in various interregional competitions.

In the 1977-78 division, chosen from the Observer area were Mari Hoff, a Plymouth Salem graduate, and Marie Spaccarotella, a Livonia Churchill grad. Both are now freshmen forwards playing at University of Michigan.

In the 1979 division, qualifiers from Observerland are Sara Kloosterman, a keeper from Farmington Hills Harrison; Emilie Meier, a midfielder from Plymouth Canton; and Kristah Manteuffel, a midfielder from Redford.

Mia Sarkesian, a midfielder at Plymouth Salem, was the only choice in the 1980 division.

In 1982-83, those picked were Robyn Anne Morrell, from Plymouth, and Andrea Sied, from Livonia.

Cruisers excel

Ben Dzialo paced the Plymouth-Canton Cruisers swim team by finishing first in the 10-and-under boys age group at the state's USS long course state swim meet, held at the University of Michigan pool.

Dzialo won the 50 and 100 meter butterfly events, placed second in the 50 and 200 freestyle, was third in the 100 free, sixth in the 100 backstroke and 200 individual medley, and eighth in the 50 back and 100 breaststroke.

The Cruisers placed 10th out of the 42 teams that scored points.

Other point-scorers for the Cruisers were: 10-and-under boys division -- Kyle Silbernagel, fourth 50 fly, sixth 50 free, sixth 100 free, seventh 50 back, eighth 100 fly; Dzialo, Silbernagel, Nick Dixon and Billy Horgan, 4th 200 free relay, fifth 200 medley relay;

11-12 boys -- Adam Sonnanstine, Garrett Stone, Bobby Keith, Matt Wisniewski, fourth 200 free relay, fifth 200 medley relay;

13-14 boys -- Brian Mertens, Brad Nilson, Aaron Reeder, Jason Rebarchik, fifth 800 free relay; Paul Perez, Nilson, Reeder, Rebarchik, sixth 400 free relay; Reeder, Perez, Nilson, Mertens, sixth 400 medley relay;

10-and-under girls -- Alicia Dotson, sixth 100 free, seventh 50 free; Amy Mertens, eighth 50 breast; Dotson, Mertens, Allison Goldsmith, Stephanie Lamar, third 200 free relay, third 200 medley relay;

15-and-over girls -- Yvonne Lynn, first 100 back, seventh 200 back.

Based on their state-meet times, Dzialo and Dotson qualified for the Michigan Zone Team at the Central Zone Championship Meet at Miami (Ohio) University a week later.

Dzialo was sixth overall in the 10-and-under boys division, finishing second in the 100 fly, third in the 50 fly, fourth in the 50 free, sixth in the 100 free and 10th in the 200 free. Dotson was 13th in the 100 free.

There are no residency requirements. Call 397-5110 for further details.

Salem opens with stunning upset

The stuff dreams are made of? A perfect way to describe it -- not much was expected of Salem this season, while a lot was anticipated from Belleville as it gunned for its third-straight state playoff berth.

What a reversal!

A year ago, Plymouth Salem opened its football season at home against Belleville, and it was embarrassing. The Rocks were routed, 42-0; the Tigers went on to win eight more regular season games and qualify for the state playoffs, while Salem finished 3-6.

This year, the Rocks opened at Belleville, and predictions were for another rout. After all, Salem was down in numbers, and the Tigers -- with 25-straight regular-season wins -- were expected to have another state qualifier.

So much for expectations. The Rocks pulled off a major upset, and it was quarterback/defensive back Nate Gray who orchestrated it. Gray did a bit of everything as Salem shocked the Tigers 20-7 Friday.

"Right at this point in time, this was a big one," Rocks' coach Tom Moshimer said after recording his 198th career win. "Our kids played great. They played better than I thought they could."

Gray did a lot of it himself. The senior drove Salem 84 yards following a Belleville turnover -- the Tigers lost two fumbles and threw two interceptions -- with Doug Kinney diving in from four yards out for the touchdown. The key play in the drive: Gray's 19-yard pass to Mike Rodriguez on fourth-down-and-five.

The Rocks made it 13-0 at half-time when Gray finished a 10-play, 64-yard drive with a 1-yard keeper with 10 seconds left before intermission.

Belleville narrowed it to 13-7 on Von Cerichten's 24-yard run in the third quarter. A missed field goal gave the Tigers hope, and they drove deep into Salem territory in the final quarter.

But Gray, who also had two interceptions and a fumble recovery on defense, stepped in front of a flat pass and picked it off, then returned it 70 yards for the game-clinching TD in the final seconds.

Gray was 4-of-8 passing for 55 yards and carried the ball 10 times for 62. Kinney had 54 yards rushing on 20 attempts. Salem outgained Belleville, 229-219.

"They stepped up and played tonight," Moshimer concluded. "I think you've got to respect every team you play. But on the other side of the coin, you can't fear them."

Salem showed no fear against the Tigers, but they may have given cause for some.

Monroe catches Canton

BY C.J. RISAK
SPORTS EDITOR

Nothing's more frustrating than knowing the impossible is attainable -- and yet it still slips away.

It seems to be a lesson Plymouth Canton's football team is doomed to keep retaking.

The Chiefs were within reach of the state playoffs last season with two games left. But they lost them both and ended up a mediocre 5-4.

On Friday, they opened a new season against a team that did qualify for the state playoffs in '95, and is expected to qualify again this year: Monroe. And they had a shot at beating them.

Canton forced three first-half turnovers and had a 7-0 lead, but mistakes and the Trojans superior size eventually took its toll, wearing down the Chiefs in a 15-7 win at Canton.

"Our kids did well," said Chiefs' coach Bob Khoenle. "We were pleased with our kids. In view of the fact we were supposed to get killed . . ."

Then, after a moment of reflection, Khoenle added, "I know we had a chance."

That they did. Monroe started slowly, with quarterback Aaron Moran fumbling snaps twice in a row in its opening possession. The Trojans recovered the first, but Canton's Pat Nelson fell on the second at the Chiefs' 48.

Eleven plays later they were in the end zone, with quarterback Rob Johnson plunging in from a yard out for a 7-0 lead with 4:42 remaining in the first quarter. Key plays in the drive were a pair of pass completions from Johnson, for 19 yards to Nelson and for 15 yards to a diving Jason Pennebaker.

A long return (49 yards) by Thomas Collett on the ensuing kickoff eventually led to poor field position for the Chiefs -- they started at their own 11 on their next possession. On first down, Johnson was called for intentional grounding in the end zone, an automatic safety.

Still, Monroe continued to struggle offensively. Jovan Johnson, the Trojans' 6-foot-4, 240-pound full-back/linebacker and a major college prospect, fumbled the ball away at the Canton 20, with Brian Musser recovering late in the opening quarter.

"Our fumbling concerned me coming into the game and it still concerns me," said Monroe coach Ralph Carducci. "But give Canton credit -- they played a good game."

The Trojans finally got on track in the waning moments of the first half. After two Johnson carries gained six yards, Collett broke loose around right end and romped 68 yards for the go-ahead points with 3:02 to go. A two-point conversion try failed, but the Trojans had an 8-7 lead.

And they never lost it. Carducci opted to pound the ball more in the second half, behind the blocking of his impressive book-end tackles: Brian Sharrow (6-5, 245) and Craig Beaubien (6-3, 305). With Johnson lugging it, the Trojans powered 61 yards in 11 plays, Johnson accounting for 58 of those -- including the final three for the TD.

Canton could get little going offensively. Monroe limited the Chiefs to 74 yards on the ground and, more importantly, bottled up Johnson effectively. The senior quarterback finished with 10 completions in 26 pass attempts for 179 yards, throwing an interception on Canton's final offensive play of the game. He also had just seven yards rushing on seven tries.

"Our defense did well," said Carducci. "Our objective was to keep (Johnson) contained. He's pretty dangerous, and the kids knew that. They put a lot of pressure on him, made him throw it out of bounds or throw it away."

Fiorenzi sparks Chiefs to 5th Mercy Hoops basketball title

Salem rolls over Borgess, 2c

BY DAN O'MEARA
STAFF WRITER

As a four-year varsity player on the Plymouth Canton girls basketball team, senior Kristi Fiorenzi was ready to assume a leadership role this year.

She was a take-charge player Saturday in the Mercy Hoops Classic, leading the Chiefs to their second straight title with a 47-43 win over the host Marlins.

Canton has won four of the last five championships and a total of five since 1988.

Fiorenzi scored a game-high 15 points in both games, including a 47-34 defeat of Rochester Adams in the first round Thursday, and was named the most valuable player in the tournament.

"I remember when I was a freshman on the varsity, we had the best leaders," Fiorenzi said, citing former players Alyson Nounne and Britta Anderson. "They just helped me so much and were a positive influence. I feel it's my turn this year to give back, to be a leader and to help my team."

Also named to the all-tournament team were Canton junior Melissa Marzolf, Mercy senior Mary Jane Valade, Mercy sophomore Jessie Brennan and junior Dianna Sorrentino of third-place Adams.

Fiorenzi, a 5-foot-10 post player, scored eight points in the second half Saturday to lead a Canton comeback and help rally the Chiefs from a 24-23 halftime deficit.

"We knew we didn't come out strong, and the big thing for us is playing with intensity," Fiorenzi said. "We knew we weren't doing our best, and (coach) Bob (Blohm) let us know that. We came out (in the third quarter) with the attitude we didn't want to lose this game."

The Chiefs (3-1) scored the first seven points of the second half, taking the lead with a pair of Fiorenzi baskets and three points by Marzolf, who finished with 10 before being injured midway in the final period. Canton also forced the Marlins into five early turnovers (seven for the quarter and 23 overall).

"I think we got better ball pressure," Blohm said, adding senior guard Mary Anderson helped in that regard and with post defense. "I think we got (Mercy) a little tentative and thinking 'what should we do here?'"

"We did a better job taking away the drive to the basket. In the second half, we stepped up as a team, and that's how we have to play to survive."

Mercy (2-1) didn't score in the second half until 2:44 remained in the third quarter. Brennan and Valade tried to keep it close, 32-28, but the Chiefs scored the last seven points of the period.

Kristin Lukasik and Fiorenzi extended Canton's lead to 43-30 in the fourth. That was the score when Marzolf fell hard on her left elbow. The Chiefs went to a spread offense but didn't score for almost five minutes. The Marlins got within five but the clock was the enemy.

"If I had to do it over again, I wouldn't do that," said Blohm of the spread offense. "(The Chiefs) were playing pretty well as they were, and I should have left them alone. I just wanted to see if we could open the floor and get to the basket."

Valade had 12 points to lead Mercy. Brennan finished with nine and Ashley Schumacher eight. Anderson and Tiffany Williams added eight apiece for the Chiefs.

"They played some fine half-court defense, and we were hoping to make it a full-court game,"

Lane prevention: Canton's Melissa Marzolf cust off Adams' Mari McClure on Thursday.

Mercy coach Larry Baker said, "I had a bad sense as to how the game was going at halftime. I urged them to be patient, but some individuals wanted to go one-on-one against a team that wasn't going to give them any easy first shots. Our kids played with terrific intensity at the end. We just weren't as self-disciplined as we needed to be to execute the win in this game."

Mercy was 19-41 from the floor, 4-5 at the free-throw line. The Chiefs made 13-22 free throws and 17-48 field goals. "I thought the second half was our best half of ball this year," Blohm said. "We were consistent on the defensive end; we caught and passed the ball well which this team has to do to be successful."

SOCCER

Eagles soar to victory over struggling SC

When was the last time this happened?

Certainly not in recent memory -- or even in the last decade. But Schoolcraft College's men's soccer team has never played a schedule like this, either.

The Ocelots ran their winless streak to three-straight to start the season with a 3-0 loss at Eastern Michigan University Wednesday.

One might say SC has only itself to blame: defenseman Tim McCarley (from Livonia Stevenson), forward Victor Rodopoulos (Livonia Franklin) and defender Dave Binkiewicz (Franklin) all played at SC before joining the Eagles.

Mike Kley, a sophomore defender from Plymouth Salem, scored one goal for EMU. The Eagle defense was led by freshman defender Brian Zawislak (Livonia Churchill), with freshman keeper George Tomasso (Plymouth Canton) recording a shutout in his first collegiate start.

Vesa Virtanen, a sophomore forward from Helsinki, Finland, accounted for two goals and an assist for EMU.

SC has now gone three matches without scoring, but fear not -- the Ocelots have played two of the best teams in the NJCAA and an NCAA Division I squad.

"Such experience should serve them well in the weeks ahead."

EMU 3, SC 0 (women): One team playing a full game, one team playing half a game.

That about sums up what happened to Schoolcraft College's women's soccer team against Eastern Michigan Wednesday at SC. The Lady Ocelots slipped into a "defensive shell and we struggled to get out of it the whole game," coach Nikki Johnson said.

The loss was SC's first after two wins. EMU is 1-0.

The Eagles led just 1-0 at the half, and that goal -- scored by Cynde Henning -- came just two minutes before halftime. Andrea Zawislak (Livonia Churchill/SC) scored one of EMU's second-half goals; the other came from Tara Bilouous.

Johnson lauded the play of sweeper Susie Parrish (Plymouth Salem) and keeper Janelle Baldwin, who faced 36 shots. SC did not get a shot on goal.

NOTE: The Lady Ocelots picked up a pair of players who will help them immediately -- especially considering their short roster (just 12 players before).

Lisa DeShano and Kelly Sexton, both from Livonia Franklin, have joined the team, swelling the roster to 14. DeShano was an all-Observersland selection as a defender last spring.

Salem rolls past N'ville; Canton crushes Central

Andres Lopez was in goal for Salem.

Nothing seems to have followed the script for Ed McCarthy in his first year as Plymouth Salem's soccer coach.

The Rocks lost a game they should have won (to Redford Catholic Central), played Ann Arbor Pioneer to a scoreless tie -- and then, last Wednesday, thumped what was expected to be a tough Northville team, 7-2 at Salem.

"After the CC game, I've been real pleased with our play," McCarthy said, his team now 2-1-1. "We played terrific against Pioneer, and against Northville we really finished well."

The scoring for Salem was "well-distributed, and I was pleased about that." Andy Power led the Rocks with two goals and an assist, both his scores coming in their four-goal first half. Brett Konley and Ryan Konley also netted first-half markers.

Salem led 2-0 before Northville scored, Andrew Weyer narrowing the deficit to 2-1. But any hopes for a rally died quickly; the Rocks got three more goals, by Matt Sarkesian, Chris Konley and Tim Makins, in the first seven minutes of the second half to increase their lead to 7-1.

Josh Fair collected three assists for Salem; Sarkesian also had an assist. Adam Tibble got Northville's second goal.

Chiefs outduel Salem

BY C.J. RISAK
SPORTS EDITOR

If this was any indication of what was in store for this girls' cross country season -- well, put in for a pacemaker now.

Plymouth Canton's runners outmaneuvered those from Plymouth Salem, allowing the Chiefs to edge the Rocks, 26-29, in the dual-meet opener for both teams Wednesday at Cass Benton.

"It was a great race," said Canton coach George Przygodski. "It was extremely hot, so our strategy was to go out easy and then to run people down."

"They followed that exactly. The last 500 meters of the race determined the outcome."

Salem's Nicole Bolton was the overall winner (20:28).

Canton runners finished second (Beth Knight, 20:59), third (Becky Wolfom, 21:28), sixth (Angkana Roy, 22:13), seventh (Christiana Bradford, 22:16) and eighth (Jamie Vergari, 22:17).

The other Salem scorers were Kristie Giddings, fourth (21:32); Evelyn Rahhal, fifth (22:06); Ellen Stemmer, ninth (22:28); and Sarah Pratt, 10th (22:47).

"We're definitely ahead of where we were last year," said Przygodski, noting that he had "everybody back from last year" and had added Roy, who won the 800-meter run at the Western Lakes Activities Association league meet last spring. This is her first time in cross country.

CROSS COUNTRY

"She's making a huge impact," the Canton coach said, adding that others -- such as Lori Schmidt -- will also make an impression this season.

Salem, which edged Canton at the WLAA championship meet last fall, has the talent to challenge the Chiefs again, according to Rocks' coach Dave Gerlach.

"We came out on the short end of it this time," Gerlach admitted. "(Przygodski) packed them in, like he's supposed to."

"We'll see Canton five times this year, so we'll see."

As strong as Canton and Salem may be this season -- Salem was third at the '95 WLAA finals and Canton finished fourth -- they still may not be quite good enough to catch the top two teams.

Both Livonia Stevenson and Farmington have nearly everyone back, and they placed one-two in the WLAA last year, with Stevenson getting edged by Troy Athens and placing second at the Class A state championship meet. Farmington was fifth at state.

"This is a tough league and a tough regional," said Przygodski, noting that both Stevenson and Farmington will be in Salem's and Canton's region. "Our intention is to move up, and to do that we're going to have to pass some people."

Among those people are the Rocks, and that's something Gerlach is not willing to let happen. Salem has lost three key performers from last season -- Leah Retherford, Kim Sheldon and Liz Peltier -- but there is plenty of depth to draw from.

Gerlach can also call on seniors Vanessa Bodnar and Kathy Jost, junior Erin Lang, and sophomore Becky Phelan. And there are four freshmen who are keeping the pressure on, too.

Asked if this season's team could match or surpass last year's, Gerlach replied, "I would hope so. I think we had a bad day (against the Chiefs). They underestimated what Canton could do. We just had some kids who didn't come ready to play ball."

With teams like Stevenson and Farmington on the schedule, such lapses in the future could cost dearly.

Canton routs the rebuilding Rocks

BY C.J. RISAK
SPORTS EDITOR

The future is -- well, down the road a bit for Plymouth Salem's boys cross country team.

The Rocks lost their top three runners from last year, and it showed against a superior Plymouth Canton team in both teams' season-opening dual meet: a 17-43 Canton victory Wednesday at Cass Benton.

"We got waxed," said Geoff Baker, Salem's coach. "We're young this year, and we're not in the best of shape right now, but we hope to be. We just have to run into shape."

The Chiefs captured the top three places and five of the first six in dominating the dual. Sean Moore was the meet winner (18:01); Sanjay Sharma was second (18:16), with Robert Mayer third (18:42). Jason Vergari was fifth (18:52) and Jason Diamond finished sixth (19:00). Canton's Adam DiGeorgio was also seventh (19:18).

Salem's best was sophomore Jon Little, who placed fourth (18:46). Ian Searcy, a junior, placed eighth (19:24); Adam Barbara, another junior, was ninth (19:27); sophomore Justin Draplin took 10th (19:33); senior Greg Mitchell finished 12th (19:48); and junior Dave Rowe finished 13th (19:51).

"There's going to be some other guys who'll break in there, that'll be heard from," said Baker. Other runners on his youthful team -- just one senior -- are freshman Jeff Chrzanowski, sophomore Jake Gray, and junior Andy Briggs.

None can match those lost to graduation: Scott Pengelly, Jason Barylski and Jared Biniacki. Barylski is running track at Eastern Michigan and Biniacki is running cross country at Central Michigan.

Baker is hoping to get help from a pair of junior varsity soccer players who will compete in both sports: Nick Allen, a sophomore who was the Rocks' No. 3 runner last year; and Mike Shull, another sophomore who was the team's fifth- or sixth-best runner in '95.

One of the newcomers could emerge as Salem's No. 1 runner. "It's possible," agreed Baker.

"In two years, I hope to make some noise at the state level if I don't lose any of these guys."

It could be a bit of an uphill road until then for the Rocks.

SPORTS ROUNDUP

Salem doubles up Bishop Borgess

BY RICHARD L. SHOOK
STAFF WRITER

The giant continues to grow. Good news for Plymouth Salem fans. Bad news for the rest of the Western Lakes Activities Association.

Undeclared Salem (3-0) doubled up on winless (0-3) Redford Bishop Borgess, 36-18, Saturday night in a game that showed how far the Rocks have come this season while at the same time displayed they still have a few things to work on.

"Our whole thing is to prepare for the season," Coach Fred Thomann said after his Rocks rolled to leads of 9-4, 16-8 and 23-13 at the first three quarter stops en route to the victory.

It's one of the reasons Thomann likes scheduling tough opponents such as Bishop Borgess. Not to mention Thursday night's foe, two-time defending Class A champion Flint Northern.

You don't get better playing the Sisters of Charity. Not if you have state ambitions.

"As you work on the stuff you're working on," Thomann said in a bit of a Sparky Anderson-ism, "it's a great opportunity to find out if you're any good."

We know the Rocks are good. The question is, how good?

Never mind the Spartans' record. They could compete in any league in the state. They might be Class C in enrollment, but they're Class A in talent.

"He'll get there," Thomann said. "He's a good coach. And they have talent."

The Rocks played very good defense against the Spartans. Merritt Walker did an excellent job of pushing Aisha Smith, the key Spartan post player, out or fronting her down low. Smith had problems all night getting the ball.

Smith and center Candice Finley scored just two points apiece for Borgess, which should happen just about as often as McDonald's runs out of burgers or fries.

Guard Christine Anderson scored seven points and Regina Respert five for the Spartans, who also got two from Tiffany Simon.

"Walker and Angie Sillmon keyed our defense," Thomann said. "Everything we did came off that."

Salem played minus starter Andrea Pruet, who had a lower back strain, and freshman sub Tiffany Grubaugh, who has a broken little finger on her right hand.

The Rocks did, however, show they need work against a good zone, which Bishop Borgess used with some success.

"It was as hard-fought, well-played a game as you're going to find this early in the season," Thomann said.

Amanda Abraham (13) and Sillmon (9) combined to outscore the entire Bishop Borgess team. Heather Guerin scored six, Walker five and Janelle Sterling three.

Guerin put in a rebound to start the scoring at the 6:53 mark. Respert tied it at 6:34 by driving the left baseline.

After that, though, the game had about as much suspense as a mystery novel does after you peek at the last three pages.

Abraham knocked one down from the right wing at 6:10 to make it 4-2 and Sillmon converted a turnover into a layup at 5:55.

The scoring during the next four minutes was a lot like the rainfall in August -- very sparse.

Walker hit a free throw with 2:31 left, Anderson hit a shot from the left wing with 1:33 to play and Abraham drove the left baseline with 25 seconds to go to make it 9-4.

The Rocks now have Ann Arbor Huron to play Tuesday before getting Flint Northern in a continuation of its tough schedule.

"We want to continue to grow," Thomann said. "It's more important for long-term growth than the immediate gratification of winning. So far, we've been fortunate to be able to do both."

Shamrocks heal quickly; Rockets battle back to tie

Redford Catholic Central recovered in a hurry from its 8-0 boys soccer loss on Tuesday to Ann Arbor Pioneer.

The Shamrocks came back on Thursday with a 3-1 victory over Dearborn Edsel Ford.

Tony Mucoulis, David Nemes and Larry Schmid scored for the Shamrocks, now 4-2 overall.

In the loss at Pioneer, the Shamrocks allowed eight unanswered goals in the second half.

Corey Woolfolk and Pat Finn each tallied two goals and one assist for victorious Pioneer, now 2-1-1 overall.

JOHN GLENN 3, THURSTON 3: On Friday, host Westland John Glenn erased a 3-0 halftime deficit to earn a non-league tie with Redford Thurston.

In the 33rd minute of the second half, junior Ken Taylor tied it on assists from Thiago Costa and Jeff Shelby.

SOCCER

Shelby, a freshman, started the Glenn comeback with a goal from senior captain Danny Keats, a defender, in the 25th minute.

Two minutes later, senior captain Mike Stacy scored on an assists from Costa, the Brazilian exchange student.

Glenn is 1-0-1 overall, while Thurston is 0-0-1.

WAYNE 2, KENNEDY 2: Wayne Memorial opened its season Friday by tying visiting Taylor Kennedy.

Junior Chris Daves and senior Matt Michels, an exchange student from Germany, each tallied unassisted goals for the Zebras, who carried a 2-1 lead until Kennedy tied it with 15 minutes remaining.
