Coat purchase sparks dispute

BY KEVIN BROWN
STAFF WRITER

Plymouth Township Police Chief Carl Berry is being accused of possible malfeasance by his police officers' union, over the April $86.81 purchase of a raincoat and boots.

"I bought them for another township employee who was doing a lot of outside work," Berry said. The items were bought for maintenance employee Joe Bida, as he needed the rain gear when supervising work-release prisoners during a rainy stretch in April, Berry said.

In a Oct. 22 letter from the Police Officers Association of Plymouth Township to members of the township board of trustees, the union wrote, "The chances that these items are-were for department use is very questionable."

"Our member took the action required of him by department policy, Plymouth Township ethics policy and his sworn duty, by informing a township trustee of the information."

"It is our hopes that this information will lead to a complete independent investigation being conducted by an unbiased authority, such as the township ethics board, the Michigan State Police or even the Wayne County Prosecutor's Office."

The letter is signed by union President Steven Mann, Vice President Jeff Felts, Secretary Edward Gauthier and Secretary David Hayes.

In the letter, the union also objects to Berry's investigation of department employees, to determine who made an initial charge of possible malfeasance to a township trustee.

The union alleges the investigation "is so he

Township eyes police cuts

Plymouth Township officials are looking at budget cuts and the police department could be a target. Consolidation with the City of Plymouth Police Department is a possibility.

Cost cutting could be coming in the Plymouth Township public safety area.

That's what Township Supervisor Kathleen Keen McCarthy said last week, after Plymouth Township trustees on Tuesday approved the 1997 township budget.

To meet expenses, officials approved reducing the township's $1.49 million budget surplus by nearly a third next year. It follows a similar action last year, when officials used $300,000 from budget surplus money to meet costs.

Why is budget surplus money needed to balance the budget? Officials say the effect of the state ballot issue Proposal A which cut property taxes has also reduced the township's share of property tax revenue.

But McCarthy said the key reason the budget surplus is being reduced "is the cost of public safety relative to the millage we as residents are paying for."

Township residents are assessed 2.5 mills for police and fire. But that raises $2.5 million, only half of what those services really cost. So township officials get the rest of the money from the township general fund budget.

"We're going to have to reevaluate what level of public safety services we want," she said.

"I have already asked the police department to present statistics for me," McCarthy said, adding trustees will review the matter at a study session Nov. 19 at Plymouth Township Hall.

The public safety area also includes police and fire dispatch. After city and township officials worked out an agreement in 1994 to merge the city and township fire departments, there have been some discussions about merging the two separate dispatch operations.

As with the fire talks, the goal is to save money while maintaining

City, township get leaf pickups going

BY KEVIN BROWN
STAFF WRITER

If you've got questions about leaves and how to get rid of them, read on.

Here's how to get rid of leaves this fall, whether you live in the city of Plymouth or Plymouth Township.

First, homeowners should seriously consider not raking at all, according to lawn care authorities.

While some longtime lawn-rakers tend to scoff, running the lawn mower over fallen leaves provides a great mulch for your grass — really.

"I was one of those people. Despite all the studies that said that's a good thing, I was a doubter," said Paul Sincok, director of city municipal services.

But Sincok said he's ground up his leaves the last couple of years. "I've put out maybe two small piles at the curb," he said.

Starting today, city crews are picking up leaves raked to the street. The city has been divided into four sections for leaf collection, and each section has been assigned two separate weeks for collection.

The areas and times for collection are:

- South of Ann Arbor Trail and west of Main, leaves will be collected both this week and the week of Nov. 18.
- North of Ann Arbor Trail and west of the railroad tracks during the weeks of Nov. 4 and Nov. 18.
- The Old Village area — north of Ann Arbor Trail and east of the railroad tracks — during the weeks of Nov. 4 and Nov. 25.
- South of Ann Arbor Trail and east of Main during the weeks of Nov. 11 and Nov. 25.

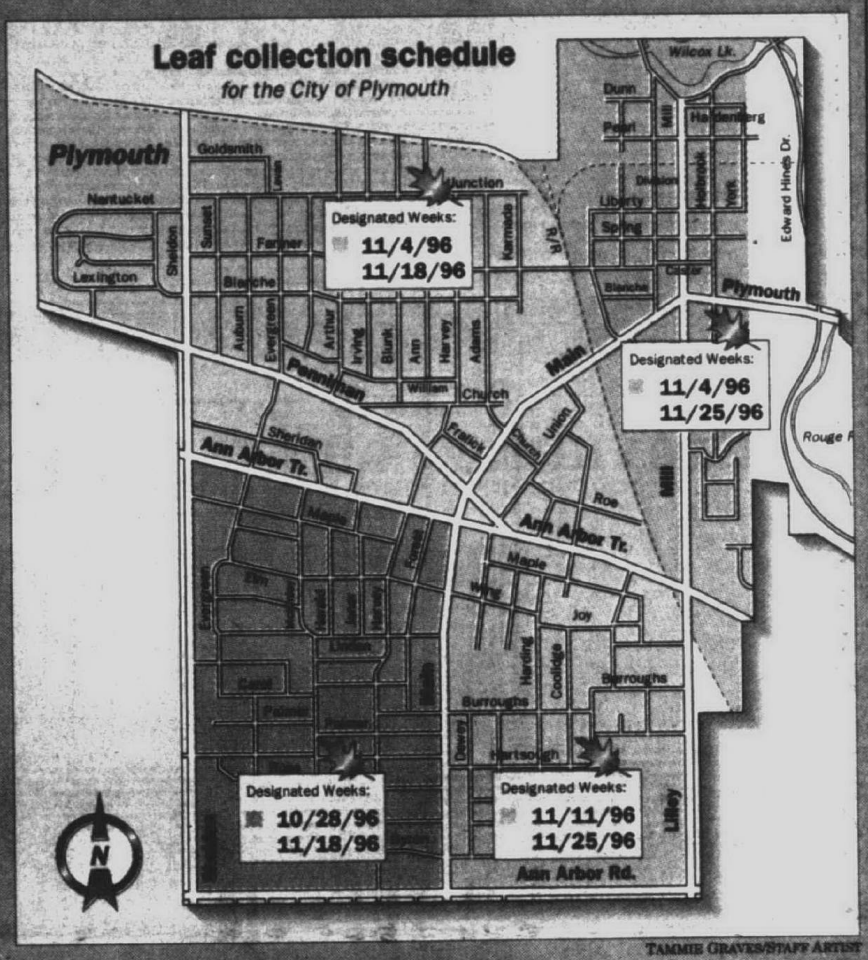

City residents who rake out to the street should not cover storm drains, should not park cars over leaf piles and should form narrow, neat piles of leaves in the street.

Have city crews ever found anything unusual after the vector has sucked up leaves?

"The occasional ear-boys, a Walkman, those kinds of things," Sincok said.

The leaves are collected near

Road tax opponent switches sides at forum

BY JEFF COUNTS

Todd Wilson was all set to argue against a proposed 2-mill property tax increase to finance road improvements in the city of Plymouth.

But on Thursday he changed his mind and told a public forum at Plymouth's city hall that the millage on the Nov. 5 ballot is the best way to pay for streets.

"I intended to represent the opposition," Wilson told the nearly 20 residents at the gathering.

"I'm a testimonial to the fact that this is a better idea, a better way," said Wilson, who added that he has been studying the issue since May.

The 2-mill bond proposal, really a property tax for 20 years to raise $12 million, is on the ballot so that residents can decide how to fund roads.

"It really makes no difference to the city," said Steve Walters, city manager.

Currently the city uses an assessment system to pay for road improvements and reconstruction. Under that system, residents pay for work done on the streets upon which they live.

However, residents who live on county roads never have to pay those special assessments. Those roads include Mill, Sheldon, Ann Arbor Road and Plymouth Road east of Mill.

Under the special assessment system, a resident over a 20-year period could pay from $3,300 to $7,900. During that same time, the cost of the 2-mill levy would be between $3,000 and $4,000.

Walters said that the work will be done under either system. The city

Residents push for bill to set speeds

BY VALERIE OLANDER
STAFF WRITER

Time is ticking for a group of Morton Taylor residents who, in an effort to get a bill passed in Lansing, have been gathering signatures and sending letters before the end of the legislative session.

The proposed bill would give school districts a bigger say in speed limits along routes students walk to school.

The bill, introduced by Rep. Deborah Whyman (R-Canton), must be passed this session or residents must start all over again when a new House of Representatives convenes in January. The bill is now in the House transportation committee.

"We're pushing for it to come out of committee and get on the House floor," said resident Kristy Engle. "Otherwise we'll have to start from scratch."

The legislation wouldn't affect the residential strip along Morton Taylor, between Ford and Saltz, where 24-year-old bicyclist Jeffrey Franken was killed Sept. 9, but it would affect another stretch of Morton Taylor from Joy to Warren. The speed limit in both areas is 40 mph.

Since August of 1995 residents living near the northern section of Morton Taylor have attempted to enhance the safety of students walking to nearby Hulsing Elementary School. Students cross Morton Taylor at Candlewood Street from the Mayfair Village subdivision and at Arlington from the Windsor Park subdivision.

Attempts to get a light installed at Arlington by the Wayne County Road Department failed. However, the township and school district chipped in to buy a speed trailer in hopes of reducing the traffic speeds. Yellow striping also was painted on the street with the words "school" to warn motorists.

For the past 15 months residents have patiently watched the state capitol in anticipation of the bill becoming law. Time is running out, said Engle.

"The death at Morton Taylor kind of stirred things up again. Sometimes it takes something like that before things get moving," she said.

The legislation would allow the superintendent of schools to order a traffic light or implement a 25 mph speed limit for times extending 30 minutes before and after school hours, said Whyman.

Candidates to debate Tuesday in Plymouth

BY KEVIN BROWN
STAFF WRITER

Bob Dole didn't make it to Plymouth, but U.S. House candidates Rep. Lynn Rivers, a Democrat, and Republican challenger Joe Fitzsimmons are scheduled here Tuesday.

They'll join long time Republican State Rep. Gerry Law and his opponent Democrat Deborah Hoadley in a Candidates' Night put on by Plymouth VFW Post 6695 at 7 p.m. Tuesday at 1426 S. Mill.

Also scheduled to attend the forum are incumbent Wayne County Prosecutor John O'Hair and County Sheriff

Robert Ficano, both Democrats seeking re-election.

Doris Feisser, president of the VFW Ladies Auxiliary, said U.S. Senate candidates Sen. Carl Levin, a Democrat, and Republican challenger Ronna Romney have said they'll send representatives to the forum.

In the 20th District state House race, Democrat Hoadley has an uphill battle trying to unseat Republican Law, as Republicans tend to cruise to easy victory in the overwhelmingly Republican 20th District which includes Plymouth city and township.

But all is not grim. "I'm having fun campaigning," Hoadley said Thursday.

Asked to state his qualifications as compared to his opponent, Law said, "Probably the key difference is experience." Law said that experience includes work for Ford Motor Co. and banking institutions, more than five terms in the state Legislature.

He also cited his service in the Legislature as a member of the majority party. "People say a lot but when you're in the minority you can do almost nothing," Law said.

He also stressed his 100 percent attendance in the current term. "I've introduced over 80 bills, 14 have become law, two or three are going through the process," Law said.

In citing her differences with Law, Hoadley said, "I would never vote against funding for adult education, that needs to be addressed."

"For youths and adults who have made wrong turns in their life this is needed," she said, adding such education can keep individuals from seeking welfare.

"I'm very concerned with what happens with the environment. I'm tired of seeing trucks coming from Canada and other states dumping in Michigan," she said.

"We can have growth in business and still protect our environment in Michigan," Hoadley said.

Fisher's murder trial delayed

BY M.B. DILLON
STAFF WRITER

The fourth murder trial of Dr. Charles Fisher, formerly of Canton, will be delayed because Fisher has fired his court-appointed attorney.

The trial was to have begun Nov. 4 in the courtroom of Wayne Circuit Judge Cynthia Stephens.

The case, thought by some to be the most protracted and expensive in Michigan history, will now be scheduled sometime in early 1997.

Fisher is charged in the 1984 asphyxiation death of his wife, Ella Maria Mercado Fisher.

A microbiologist, Fisher decided he didn't want to be represented by Dawn Ison, who has her own practice in Detroit.

His request for a new attorney was granted by Judge Stephens Monday.

"They're being careful so that there isn't any grounds for another darned appeal," said Canton Detective William Keppen, who with Wayne County Assistant Prosecutor Robert Hood has been contacting dozens of witnesses all over the U.S. and overseas. "It's a ridiculous situation."

Detroit attorney Paul Curtis represented Fisher in his third trial, which ended last spring with a hung jury. Jurors were unable to decide whether Fisher was guilty of first- or second-degree murder.

Mercado Fisher, a nurse, was suffocated with duct tape in the living room of the couple's home on Thornwood near Warren and Napier.

Fisher was found guilty of first-degree murder by two juries. The first trial was ruled "in error" because of a comment made by a prosecutor.

In late 1991, the state Supreme Court reversed a second conviction, ruling that a diary kept by Mercado Fisher should not have been admitted as evidence. The high court later ruled that certain evidence regarding the victim's state of mind is admissible.

Judge Stephens delayed the fourth trial to allow enough time to appoint a new attorney, and give him or her adequate time to prepare. The Fisher file now fills several boxes which lawyers wheel into court on luggage carts.

"The case is long, complicated and drawn out," said Keppen. "The court has to give the new defense attorney a substantial amount of time."

Keppen is growing weary of the 12-year-old case. "It has to be done sooner or later. I'd just as soon get it over with," he said. "Thirty-six people have said the man is guilty. That is the case," yet Fisher will be tried a fourth time.

"Our system seems to be lacking when something like this can happen," said Keppen, who extradited Fisher from St. Thomas in the Virgin Islands after the murder.

Fisher claims that unknown intruders bound and gagged him in his bedroom before his wife got home from work around midnight on a July night in 1984. He testified that after he succeeded in freeing himself, he found his wife bound and gagged in the living room and was unable to save her.

The prosecution contends that Fisher was jealous of a relationship Mercado Fisher had with a male cousin, and that he acted to prevent her from taking a trip to Germany to meet him.

Girl helps fellow dancer with collection for transplant

BY M.B. DILLON
STAFF WRITER

Robin Kendall's heart must be nearly as big as one of her stuffed animals. The 9-year-old from Canton has collected nearly $1,400 for a fellow dancer who needs a bone marrow transplant.

Robin, who takes lessons at Masters of Dance Arts in Canton, raised the money in a single day at Miller Elementary School.

Robin and Stephanie Smith, 8, of Belleville met last summer at a national dance competition in Arlington, Va.

"When I saw her dance, she had one-and-a-half legs," said Robin. "I knew she was kind of sick, but I didn't know she was very sick. She's funny. She seems to be happy no matter what she does."

Robin, her parents and others at the competition learned that Stephanie needs a $500,000 transplant not covered by insurance. The girl's parents have been told that unless the transplant takes place within the month, "she is in God's hands."

Stephanie - a T-ball player and winner of both ballet and national beauty pageant titles - has a rare auto-immune disorder for which there is no name. The disease eats away at bones and joints, causing extreme pain and stiffness.

When Stephanie was 3, her right ankle had swollen to four times its normal size. Doctors were forced to amputate her leg below the knee. Chemotherapy has taken its toll on Stephanie's organs.

Her parents say that if the operation is paid for in advance, several hospitals are willing to perform the experimental transplant.

"The chances are nine out of 10 that if she has the transplant, she will get better," said Jill Kendall, Robin's mother. "If not, it will turn into leukemia and she may die."

Jill said Stephanie's tragedy "kind of hit Robin. She said, 'Mommy, I wish I could do something more to help Stephanie.'"

Said Robin: "I was sad. I thought they (Stephanie's parents) wouldn't make that much money. I wish Stephanie could live."

Mother and daughter went to work. With the permission of Miller principal Peggy Brooks, they distributed 600 fliers to students and staff explaining Stephanie's situation. After lunch the next day, Robin sat outside the cafeteria and accepted donations.

"One family gave $250, and another one gave $200," said Robin, who spends lots of time reading when she's not practicing hip-hop, jazz, or ballet. "Four of my friends and one of their friends raised $110."

Robin gave the money to Stephanie at a pizza party that night at Masters of Dance. "Stephanie was surprised," said Robin. "So was her mom. Her mom started to cry."

Dance parents have donated funds raised at their concession booth at the Palace in Auburn Hills. Stephanie's friends gave what they earned at a dance benefit they staged last Sunday in Belleville. Dancers and instructors flew in from as far away as Pennsylvania to help.

So far, $150,000 has been raised.

Jill and John Kendall are understandably proud of their daughter, and at the same time dismayed that such a fund-raiser is necessary.

"I can't believe people can be turned away like that," said John. "They can let people get sicker and sicker, and not give them the half million. But they can launch a missile that costs $1.2 million, and a company like Ford can pay $40 million to put their name on a new stadium."

"It's horrible to think she didn't even meet the experimental guidelines," said Jill.

Robin is thinking positively. "Stephanie's mom promised me since I raised all that money that one day if Stephanie got better and had the transplant that I could go to the park and play with her. I thought that was really sweet."

Greg Kendall, 6, a young man of few words, has been a supportive brother. Asked what he thinks of his sister's efforts, he said, "good."

Anyone wishing to help may make checks payable to the Friends of Stephanie Smith, and send them to P.O. Box 258, Bryn Mawr, Pa. 19010. The fund is administered by the National Transplant Assistance Fund, a non-profit tax-exempt organization.

needs to replace 32 miles of roads over 10 years. Wilson said the 2-mill road proposal is fair, and took note that he lives on a county road and would never have to pay a special assessment.

"I drive on all the roads in Plymouth, so I should pay for them," Wilson said.

Del Templeton, a Plymouth resident who has been campaigning for the road millage, conducted the forum. He said he had invited Wilson to speak, thinking that he would represent the opposition.

"I didn't know what he was going to say until tonight," said Templeton.

The move to put the millage issue on the ballot started in the spring when special assessments were sent out.

"They were large ones," said Templeton.

After several hearings, the city commission decided to put the issue on the ballot.

One benefit of the millage plan, said Templeton, is that it allows the city to do much of the work early and having the money up front allows for more competitive bidding.

In Plymouth Township, leaf collecting is a different story. The main thing to know is township residents do not rake leaves to the street.

Instead, township residents should put leaves in paper compost bags or in containers marked with a large "X" or "C."

Leaves in containers or compost bags should be put at the curb no earlier than 6 p.m. the day before collection day and no later than 7 a.m. on collection day.

Township residents should put leaves in paper compost bags or containers marked with a large "X" or "C."

Plastic bags are banned from the township's compost program. Brush should be tied in bundles with branches no longer than 3 feet and no thicker than 6 inches in diameter, weighing no more than 35 pounds.

City residents seeking to get rid of brush should neatly stack limbs no more than 5 inches across neatly at the curb for pickup, and not cross-stacked. No vines should be mixed with limbs, and these are picked up every 14 days. Very small twigs can be bagged with regular yard waste in paper compost bags.

Burning leaves and yard waste is prohibited by township and city ordinance.

The township compost collection program runs through Nov. 30. After that, yard waste is collected with regular trash.

Police probe break-in at deli

1349 Ann Arbor Road. Sometime between 3-6 a.m., a thief or thieves smashed the

"We have a couple of leads we're following up on," said township police Sgt. Steve Rapson.

Police are asking anyone who may have spotted activity at the deli during the break-in to call the department at 453-3869.

the same level of service. McCarthy said joint dispatch talks could resume, as the township government seeks to save money.

Could merging the two police departments be discussed? "That has not been officially pursued. I think we'll look at everything," McCarthy said.

According to the $8.36 million 1997 township general fund budget, the budget surplus will stand at $1.03 million — about 12 percent of the budget — at year's end.

McCarthy said that's not an uncomfortably low surplus, as financial advisors say a surplus that's anywhere from 10-20 percent of the budget is acceptable.

Top projected 1997 budget revenue sources include $3.27 million in property tax revenue, $1.9 million in state revenue, and $1.1 million from licenses and permits.

Top spending areas are public safety, $5.02 million; and general township government, $2.4 million.

The 1997 budget also calls for a 36 percent increase in money spent on the township supervisor's office, from $198,686 to $270,917. McCarthy said she plans this year to hire a full-time administrative aide. Duties would include putting out the township newsletter, helping to resolve citizen problems and keeping tabs on activities that effect the township in Lansing.

She said the position will likely pay $35,000-$40,000 per year. The supervisor position pays $64,000 per year — a figure that has remained unchanged for four years.

Berry said Friday he is interviewing all 30 police department employees to determine who made the initial charge.

"They're charging we're going after this person to do some kind of punishment," he said, adding this is not so.

"This is a rumor, there's misinformation out there," Berry said, adding such a rumor "attacks the honesty and integrity of this department as well as the chief of police."

The four questions being presented to employees are written. They ask if the employee has

In the letter to township trustees, the police officers' association states, "We are asking for your immediate assistance in ceasing this unlawful, ill-intended department investigation which the chief has begun, and in assuring that a complete independent investigation is made into the chief's purchase of the boots and rain gear."

Berry has sent the union letter and a copy of the questions being posed to employees to the Wayne County Prosecutor's Office.

PLYMOUTH CHARTER TOWNSHIP ORDINANCE NO. 83.80

AN ORDINANCE TO AMEND THE ZONING ORDINANCE NO. 83 BY AMENDING ARTICLE XXI, SIGN REGULATIONS, OF SAID ORDINANCE RELATED TO OFF-PREMISES DIRECTIONAL SIGNS

THE TOWNSHIP OF PLYMOUTH ORDAINS:

Part I. The Zoning Ordinance No. 83 of the Plymouth Charter Township, is hereby amended by amending

A. Article XXI, SIGN REGULATIONS: Section 21.1, DEFINITIONS, presently contains no definition for off-premises directional sign. Section 21.1 DEFINITIONS, is hereby proposed to be amended to add subitem 10., as follows:

10. Off-Premises Directional Sign: A monument sign, the sole purpose of which is to direct traffic to one or more commercial businesses which are located on premises without frontage on or visual exposure to a major thoroughfare. Such businesses shall front on a road or easement which is used for their primary public ingress and egress from the major thoroughfare. The purpose of the off-premises directional sign is to facilitate the flow of traffic, encourage the concentration of commercial uses, discourage strip commercial development, and not to advertise the business or products or services offered.

Section 21.1, DEFINITIONS, is hereby proposed to be amended renumbering the remaining items 11 through 25.

B. Article XXI, SIGN REGULATIONS: Section 21.3.2, SPECIAL SIGNS IN A C-1 AND C-2 DISTRICT: DIRECTIONAL SIGNS INTENDED TO ASSIST VEHICULAR TRAFFIC FLOW, is hereby proposed to be amended to read as follows:

2. Directional signs intended to assist vehicular traffic flow subject to the following:

(a) On-Premises Directional Signs may be permitted in the C-1 Neighborhood Shopping District and in the C-2 General Commercial District.

The numbering of the subsections is changed from (a), (b), (c), and (d), respectively to (1), (2), (3) and (4); the wording is unchanged.

(b) Off-Premises Directional Signs may be permitted only in the C-2, General Commercial District in order to encourage the clustering of businesses, and minimize strip commercial development in accordance with the Township Master Plan, while still allowing necessary and reasonable identification of businesses, facilitating the orderly flow of traffic, and avoiding unnecessary proliferation and excessive size of signs on major thoroughfares.

(1) Off-premises directional signs are permitted only upon review and approval of the Planning Commission, subject to compliance with the following conditions:

General Conditions

a. Approval of the sign would serve to further the purposes and intents specified in subsection (b), above.

b. The Planning Commission shall determine that the C-2 zoned business has no frontage on the major thoroughfare from which it takes primary access; the premises of said businesses are within one thousand two hundred (1,200) feet of said thoroughfare; said business is not visible from the major thoroughfare, or is visible from the major thoroughfare but with no clear indication of how to access the business; and that adequate identification of the business and direction of traffic to the business would not be possible without an off-premises directional sign.

c. No off-premises directional sign shall be permitted without a recorded easement or executed agreement that accomplishes all of the following:

1. States that the owner of the parcel on which the sign is to be placed grants permission for the off-premises directional sign to be located on the parcel,
2. Stipulates which parcel(s) are entitled to use of the off-premises directional sign, and
3. Specifies how the sign is to be maintained and establishes a means to assure that maintenance that runs with the life of the sign.

Sign Location

d. Off-premises directional signs shall be located only on land zoned C-2 and direct traffic to only land also zoned C-2.

e. Off-premises directional signs shall be permitted only at the intersection of the access road for the business and a major thoroughfare, and only one such sign is permitted at each intersection. The business access road may be a public street, private road, or recorded access easement over which the general public has ingress/egress rights.

Said sign shall be in reasonable proximity to the intersection to enable the sign to direct traffic to the site of the business being identified by the sign.

f. Off-premises directional signs shall be located entirely on private property and no closer than thirty (30) feet from the center line of the street, private road, or recorded access easement which provides access to the business. The sign shall be located a minimum of sixty (60) feet from the centerline of the major thoroughfare. The sign location shall comply with the requirements of Section 23.11, Corner Visibility.

Sign Design

g. Off-premises directional signs shall be monument signs with the minimum dimensions necessary to accomplish the purpose of direction traffic; however, in no case may the sign height exceed four and one-half (4.5) feet or its area exceed twenty-five (25) square feet. These maximums apply to signs for several businesses as well as for single businesses.

h. If multiple businesses served by the same access road require the use of the same intersection for an off-premises business directional sign, the same sign shall be used.

i. Space shall be allocated on the sign to allow identification of all businesses which use the same access road to use the off-premises directional sign. A common lettering size and style and no more than one uniform background color and two colors of lettering shall be used. The sign shall state only the name of the business(es) being identified. A directional arrow may also be included on the sign. The sign base shall be of brick or decorative masonry block.

j. The ground within five (5) feet of the base of the off-premises directional sign shall be landscaped in low shrubbery, ground cover or flowers, and said landscaping shall be maintained in presentable condition.

k. Off-premises directional signs may be illuminated in accordance with Section 21.2.4, provided the illumination creates no perceptible glare on private property at a distance greater than ten (10) feet from the sign and on public streets and the access drive.

(2) The off-premises directional sign shall be maintained in sound and presentable condition. If a business that is identified on the off-premises directional sign ceases to exist at its location or changes its name, the appropriate deletion or change to the copy of the sign shall be made within thirty (30) days of the change in the business.

(3) The existence of an off-premises directional sign shall not affect the permission of any other signage that is otherwise permitted by the Zoning Ordinance (including the permitted number of "items of information"), including the following:

a. Any other signage on the same parcel as the off-premises directional sign.

b. Any other signage on the same parcel as the business identified by the off-premises directional sign.

C. Article XXI, SIGN REGULATIONS: Section 21.5, SIGNS PERMITTED IN SPECIFIC ZONING DISTRICTS, presently does not regulate off-premises directional signs.

Section 21.5 hereby proposed to be amended to add "(e)" after "yes" in the table, referring to GROUND SIGNS in C-1 and C-2;

Footnote (e) is proposed to be added and to read:

(e) Off-premises directional signs may be permitted in the C-2 district only, subject to the provisions of Section 21.3.2 (b).

Part II. CONFLICTING PROVISIONS REPEALED. Any Ordinance or parts of Ordinance in conflict herewith, are hereby repealed.

Part III. EFFECTIVE DATE. The provisions of this Ordinance are hereby declared to take effect on November 22, 1996.

Part IV. ADOPTION. The Ordinance was adopted by the Township Board of Charter Township of Plymouth by authority of Act 184 of the Public Acts of Michigan, 1945, at a meeting duly called and held on the 22nd day of October, 1996, and ordered to be given publication in the manner prescribed by law.

Adopted by the Township Board of Trustees on October 22, 1996.
Effective Date November 22, 1996.

Reports: Political climate polarizes suburban lawmakers

State representatives in Michigan were more polarized this year than usual, according to ratings from three organizations. This was particularly true of suburban lawmakers. Republicans scored low on liberal scales, Democrats high.

The most comprehensive rating was done by Inside Michigan Politics, a Lansing political newsletter edited by former Republican legislator Bill Ballenger. In its system, a perfect conservative voting record received a zero, a perfect liberal 100.

IMP considered 29 roll call votes on everything from bills to conference reports to amendments. For example, it considered a bill to tighten requirements for written consent for payroll deductions to unions — favored by liberals, opposed by conservatives. A vote to lower the minimum age for waiving juveniles to adult courts was considered conservative; a vote against, liberal.

Ballenger said state representatives were more polarized than usual this year because of Republicans' razor-thin (56-54) control of the House for the first time in three decades. IMP made the same finding as this newspaper did in the school reform bills — that freshmen in each party were either more conservative or more liberal than senior members.

IMP said Democrats had an overall score of 69, Republicans 9. Here is how Observer area lawmakers were rated:

Lyn Bankes, R-Redford, 11.
Eileen DeHart, D-Westland, 67.

Tom Kelly, D-Wayne, 83.
Gerald Law, R-Plymouth, 15.
James Ryan, R-Redford, 14.
Deborah Whyman, R-Canton, 11.

On the Michigan Chamber of Commerce's index, 100 was a perfect pro-business score.

The chamber used 23 roll calls, three of them on Senate Bill 344, a reform of product liability laws that, in general, would make it tougher to sue manufacturers. The chamber also included cuts in the single business tax and repeal of the intangibles tax.

Here's how the chamber rated Observer area lawmakers:

Bankes, 86.
DeHart, 21.
Kelly, 18.
Law, 86.
Ryan, 86.
Whyman, 90.

Clean Water Action, a Democratic-leaning environmental group, generally deplored the Legislature's performance. CWA also noted the House was "dramatically split along party lines," Democrats averaging 81 percent, Republicans 4.

The results "emphasize business interest over environmental protection, allow state environmental agencies to conduct business behind closed doors without public accountability, dump cleanup costs for pollution caused by known polluters on the state's taxpayers, and encourage polluters to keep secret from communities information about environmental crimes they have committed."

Here is how CWA rated Observer area lawmakers:

Bankes, 25.
DeHart, 100.
Kelly, 88.
Law, zero.
Ryan, 25.
Whyman, 38.

Play it safe for kids, pets on Halloween

Parents who are concerned about the treats their children bring home on Halloween can ease their fears.

Mission Health Medical Center, 37595 Seven Mile Road, in Livonia, will X-ray children's candy free of charge from 6-9 p.m. Thursday.

Children aren't the only concerns for parents to watch during Halloween. Pet owners also should watch their little companions around the house.

Dr. Sharon Lawrenchuk, of Westland Veterinary Hospital, reminds pet owners that they should keep pets away from Halloween treats.

Lawrenchuk had these tips:

■ Keep the goodies out of reach of the pet.

■ Dispose of candy wrappers, sucker sticks or other discarded candy items in an inaccessible receptacle.

■ Keep all pets away from the door to prevent it from frightening or injuring itself or a child.

Chocolate contains a natural occurring alkaloid called theobromine which can cause vomiting, restlessness, heart disturbances, and in some instances even death in a pet.

The lethal dose of theobromine is dependent on the size of the animal and the type of chocolate.

Estimates of the smallest amounts that can be fatal are:

Small dogs (chihuahuas, toy poodles) 4 to 10 ounces of milk chocolate or 0.5 up to 1 ounce of baking chocolate.

Medium dogs (cocker spaniels or dachshunds) 1 or 1.5 pounds of milk chocolate or 2 to 3 ounces of baking chocolate.

Large dogs (collies, Labrador retrievers) 2 to 4.5 pounds of milk chocolate or 4 to 8 ounces of baking chocolate.

Cats have different eating habits and are seldom poisoned by chocolate.

Awards honor efforts to revitalize the Rouge

By KEN ARRACZYK
STAFF WRITER

Eight people received awards Thursday from the Friends of the Rouge to honor their commitment to the revitalization of the Rouge River.

About 150 people attended the award ceremony at Warren Valley Golf Course. The award recipients were recognized in eight different categories in the public and private sector. The Observer & Eccentric Newspapers won an award in the media category.

Friends of the Rouge is a volunteer group of officials and citizens dedicated to cleaning up the Rouge River and promoting public awareness of the river.

The following people and organizations were recognized:

nizations were recognized:

■ Jim Bugg, a middle school teacher in Southfield, educator category: In 1970, Bugg was a biology teacher, and one of his students had an idea to clean up the Rouge behind his house.

■ Jim jokingly said he'd have to clean the whole river to get credit," said Jim Graham, executive director of Friends of the Rouge.

But the student persisted and soon Bugg and his students in that class initiated a cleanup effort of the nine miles of river in Southfield that grew to include city officials and residents.

■ Bill Craig, president of the Holliday Nature Preserve Association, volunteer: Craig organizes the annual cleanup at Tonquish Creek, a tributary into the Rouge. It brings about 500 people from high schools in the Livonia and Wayne-Westland school districts.

"That cleanup always has the most activity," Graham said. "In addition to doing these cleanups, he is active in the nature preserve."

■ Farmer Jack, business/industry, for help with bottle and can collection for Friends to raise money for an education program for 100 schools.

The supermarket chain also printed special publications for shoppers about the Rouge. Paul Coleman, vice president of marketing and advertising, accepted the award.

■ Observer & Eccentric Newspapers, media. The Observer published a special section on the river earlier this year and has been "particularly diligent in watching the effects of day-to-day activities and how they affect the Rouge," Graham said. Banks Dishmon, Observer publisher, received the award.

■ Jack Smiley, individual: Smiley is one of the founding members of Friends of the Rouge and an active member with the Southeast Michigan Land Conservancy. He was executive director of the Detroit Audubon Society.

Today he is active in protecting undeveloped land along the Rouge, Graham said. "He has participated in the cleanup of the Rouge since he was in college at the University of Michigan-

PROBING ANSWERS

Fairly recently, the American Dental Association and the American Academy of Periodontology standardized a screening test for gum disease called "periodontal screening and recording" (PSR). It involves the insertion of a thin, metal probe under the gumline around each tooth until the tool meets resistance. The depth of the pocket is then measured and assigned a code number. These numbers are then averaged to give the patient an overall score, ranging from zero (healthy) to four (advanced gum disease). It is hoped that Americans will come to know their PSR scores much in the same way that they now know their cholesterol and blood pressure numbers. In addition, another recent diagnostic improvement makes use of DNA testing to identify the genetic makeup of the bacteria causing a patient's gum disease, permitting the dentist to select an appropriate antibiotic.

Gum disease is one of the most common reasons for tooth decay. At LIVONIA VILLAGE DENTAL ASSOCIATES, we encourage new research and treatment for all health care. Regular checkups and cleanings are the best protection against expensive dental treatments and surgery. We are located at 19171 Merriman Road, where we can help you find the right solution to your problem using the most modern treatment available. Please call 478-2110 to schedule an appointment. ■ City of Westland, governmental unit: James Gilbert, housing and community development director in Westland, received the award.

Gilbert and Robert Patterson, a member of Gilbert's staff, spearheaded that city's efforts to promote the cleanup, Graham said.

Graham said the award ceremony helps Friends show its appreciation.

State board OKs compromise on character ed policy

BY TIM RICHARD
STAFF WRITER

Michigan public schools will get the compromise "character education" policy drafted by State Board of Education member Dorothy Beardmore — plus a three-page preamble by Clark Durant stressing religion.

The board spent three months arguing it in public hearings and back rooms before giving it 6-1 approval on Oct. 24. Dissenting was Kathleen Straus, D-Detroit, who objected that "I want to be sure we don't inject religion."

Straus said the preamble by Durant, R-Grosse Pointe, "sounds like someone giving a speech. I don't know if it belongs in this policy statement. It's three pages of verbiage."

The one-page policy statement, which had Straus' support, said the state board "empowers and encourages public schools to provide character education in a safe setting conducive to learning, based on the principles of our governing documents, including principles of the First Amendment (freedom of speech, press and religion), and maintaining the separation of church and state."

It was drafted by Beardmore, R-Rochester, a moderate who sometimes sides with Straus in resisting Durant's frequent efforts to inject religious quotations from the Founding Fathers into public school policy.

The policy says there are principles "which transcend religious beliefs" for an orderly and civil society. They are:

- Respect.
- Responsibility.
- Caring.
- Trustworthiness.
- Justice.
- Civic virtue.
- Citizenship.

There won't, as Straus said, be "a special class called character education where you put down your math and take up this." Rather, it will be inserted in school curricula as appropriate.

Beardmore's compromise eliminated Durant's call for committees of parents, business and religious leaders to help make character education policy at the local level. Critics feared such committees would be stacked with religious zealots. The policy leaves each district free to implement it.

Voting yes were Republicans Durant, Beardmore, Marilyn Lundy of Grosse Pointe, Louis Legg of Battle Creek, Gary Wolfram of Hillsdale and Sharon Wise of Owosso. Leaving the meeting early was Barbara Mason, D-Lansing.

Several speakers, such as Cindy Hughey of the East Lansing board of education, chastised Durant and Wise for trying to insert sectarian religion into public schools.

Wise was quoted in the Oct. 23 New York Times as saying: "To completely erase the Word of God from our system of education is doing a tremendous disservice to our children."

"I didn't speak to that reporter," said Wise, who didn't deny the accuracy of the quote.

Robert Brown, vice president of the Jewish Community Council, said his group of 200 metro Detroit organizations had "no problem with values" but didn't want "the intrusion of religion" into schools. "Religious values are best left to the home, church, synagogue or mosque."

Mike Washburn, superintendent of Forest Hills schools and former Garden City superintendent, said "parents and guardians are the primary teachers," but character education "can't be left to chance."

Dearborn superintendent Jeremy Hughes said his district culled opinions from 800 people and came up with a poster advocating five principles: "honesty, integrity, respect for self and others, responsibility, and courtesy."

"More and more students are coming to school without a set of values," Hughes said. "Schools can no longer sit on the sidelines. We are so fearful of teaching religion that we have treated on values."

"It is not the place of public schools to advance religious values," said Wendy Wagenheim of the American Civil Liberties Union. The Birmingham resident cited the U.S. Constitution and Bill of Rights as governing documents — leaving out Durant's favorite, the Declaration of Independence with its references to the Creator. She said Durant's unfocused preamble will "muddy the waters."

Durant's three-page preamble says the board is "alarmed with the deterioration of civility in some of our schools."

It quotes George Washington's farewell address on "religion and morality," with two references to Heaven; Abraham Lincoln's Gettysburg address with a reference to the Creator; Susan B. Anthony's championship of women's suffrage based on "immutable principles of equal rights to all"; Martin Luther King's citation of the Constitution and Declaration of Independence; and Thomas Jefferson's inaugural address, which said Americans are "enlightened by a benign religion. . . practiced in various forms, yet all of them inculcating honesty, truth, temperance, gratitude and the love of man."

Seven Mile closed

Seven Mile Road will be closed this week in both directions between I-275 and Newburgh Road while contractors work on drains.

John Roach, public information manager with Wayne County's department of public services, said the road was closed Friday. It will remain closed to all but local traffic.

"We would advise people to either use Six Mile or Eight Mile roads," Roach said.

The work should be completed Friday (Nov. 1), Roach said.

WAYNE COUNTY CIRCUIT COURT

Voters will select two candidates from this field of four on Nov. 5 to fill two partial terms ending Jan. 1, 1999. Voters also will choose 12 out of 19 circuit court candidates, who will be featured in the Observer Thursday.

What is your position on court reform?

Should judges be elected or appointed? Why?

Who is the jurist you admire most? Why?

What do you consider your most important case? Why?

Sean Cox, Judge, 3rd Judicial Circuit (Wayne County); former partner with Cummings, McClorey, Davis & Aho in Livonia. I had a very active trial practice for 13 years before becoming a Wayne County Circuit Court Judge. Education: Detroit College of Law, JD, 1983. University of Michigan, BGS, 1979.

Our court system has evolved over several hundred years. District, circuit court and probate court have distinct functions. They provide distinct services to the community. I am not in favor of a unified court system. As society becomes more complex, we see more specialization. Specialized courts serve an efficient and important function.

I am opposed to a purely appointive process for the selection of judges. The process does not allow for accountability. The current process of electing judges fails. Too many judges are elected because they have "judicial names." In other words, their fathers and/or grandfathers were judges and the voters have been habitually voting for the name.

The jurist I admire the most is Wayne County Circuit Court Judge Kaye Tertzag. He is a very bright, hard working judge who treats all people before him with courtesy and respect.

The cases I consider the most important are the child custody cases where the judge's decision can have a dramatic impact on the future of the children involved.

Jane Ellen Gillis Attorney. Fifth year of practice in probate, criminal, collection, appellate and family law. Trial experience includes over 100 bench and jury trials. Appointed special assistant attorney general in May 1995. Law clerk for the Third Judicial Circuit Court from 1987 to 1991.

Although there are numerous court reform concepts to consider, I especially support the concept of one family court, where everyone involved, including judges, have some specialized training or background that would enable them to deal effectively and efficiently with this highly sensitive area of law.

I believe in the current process of allowing Wayne County voters to elect their judges. However, changes could be implemented which would assure a more dignified election process for both candidates and voters. Elections provide Wayne County voters with the most direct means of expressing their preferences.

It is difficult to choose from the many admirable local jurists. However, I especially admire Judge Leo Cahalan's style. Most judges feel empathy towards person's appearing before them, however, Judge Cahalan is particularly gifted in his ability to convey a deep interest and compassion for the people that appear in his courtroom.

All of my cases materially affect the lives of my clients. Therefore, all are equally important and equally deserving of the best legal expertise that I can provide.

Kenneth Hylton, Jr. (Photo not available) Attorney Detroit.

A trial lawyer for 16 years. Tried every type of criminal case from simple assault to murder one. Tried many plaintiffs' personal injury cases. Defended the state of Michigan in high-way negligence cases as a special assistant attorney general.

Until I see a reasonable plan that deals with the assignment of Detroit's criminal cases throughout the circuit court system following the merger I shall remain skeptical. I am concerned that, absent a sound plan, a case backlog will occur.

Judges should be elected. The people must be able to select those individuals whom they believe will be just and fair in the resolution of legal disputes. Educated, informed voters are capable of discerning whether a particular lawyer has the proper qualifications and temperament to sit as a judge.

I admire Wayne County Circuit Judge Edward Thomas. Judge Thomas was an experienced trial lawyer before being appointed to the bench. He treats lawyers, litigants, jurors and court personnel with respect. He is always prepared and he works hard.

At this time my most important case is Cebreo v. Music Hall, which I recently won before the Michigan Court of Appeals. The opinion clarifies the appropriate legal standards for the application of the Michigan Handicappers Civil Rights Act in determining whether a theater has made appropriate accommodations for handicapped individuals.

Kirsten Frank Kelly Wayne County Circuit Judge. Nine years judicial experience on the municipal, district and circuit court levels. Was a practicing attorney for over 13 years, practicing in all areas of the law. I currently serve on the Circuit Court Executive Committee, the Tort Reform Committee, and the Michigan Judges Association Domestic Relations Committee.

The recent legislation establishing a family division was a much needed reform. Previously, a family was torn between different courts and different judges. Under the new legislation, there will be one judge assigned to handle all issues facing a family.

Elected, but there should be minimum requirements for individuals running for judge. I support the passage of Proposal B which requires that judges have a minimum of five years of practice.

Court of Appeals Judge Maura Corrigan. She is a respected scholar, hard working and always prepared. Her opinions are well reasoned and based upon sound principles of law. Each person appearing before her is treated with professionalism, respect and courtesy.

The most important cases are those that impact families and children - whether it be divorce, domestic violence and/or custody issues. These cases have the most significant and lifelong consequences on the individuals involved. They are the most difficult because they go to the very heart of the family.

BEAUTY AND THE BEST

Jeffrey Bruce

Find the real you but stay current in look and style

BY JEFFREY BRUCE
SPECIAL WRITER

Autumn is different in the beauty and makeup world... it is the beginning of the season.

After the summer where minimal make-up, simple hairstyles and relaxed fashion are the routine, fall is time to get the children back to school, reassess the wardrobe, figure out the up coming social season, and plunge into make-up again.

This is the first of, I hope, of a new monthly beauty column in the Observer & Eccentric Newspapers for both men and women.

Together we will try and wade through the minefield of the beauty business sorting out trends from trendiness, facts from fiction, and perhaps having some fun along the way. You can't take fashion too seriously — well, you can, but that is another story.

Historical perspective

Let me introduce myself to those of you who haven't seen me on the old Kelly & Co. television show, or national programs where I made guest appearances performing "makeovers." My training in the business was similar to being thrown into the deep end of a swimming pool. The first two positions I held were with Estee Lauder and Revlon — an intense learning experience, where I quickly figured out that I was not destined for the corporate beauty world. My next move was to freelance with a number of Hollywood names, and as much as I enjoyed that experience and gathered a lot of great stories, it was also soon time to move on.

In 1980, I introduced my own line of cosmetics and skin care, and I have been working consistently in Detroit-area salons ever since. I enjoy the one-on-one connection with clients who care about putting their best foot forward.

With years of experience behind me now, everything old is new again. I have seen styles change, designers come and go, the natural look come and go... and come again.

There are only so many colors, only so many ways to wear your hair, despite the photos you see each year from the Hair Shows. The real trick is to sort through all the sound-bites and find which look works for you, a style that is relatively simple, sophisticated, flattering and not dated!

The real you!

Best of all, is a look that will stay with you and with just the smallest of adjustments, work for you through the decades. Yes, we all fell for the Dorothy Hamill Wedge and the Farah Fawcett Flip, but in the search for classic beauty, it is not great to look at photos more than 10 years old and wince!

There are as many definitions of beauty as there are women. It would be easy to just give you a list of names, probably the same ones that are on every year-end list, but if you want to understand what I am happiest recommending, just look at two — Candace Bergen and Lauren Bacal.

Their beauty is timeless, yet there is no mistaking their ages. They look as they should, and they look great, (especially since Candace's haircut.) Neither is stuck in a time-warp, their hair looks contemporary, and their fashion sense is classic.

Examples of fashion disasters are all too easy to come upon, and I don't want this to turn into a column ala Mr. Blackwell. But I also have no intention of being a public relations extension of the cosmetics industry. If you want to read an objective opinion, that is what you will get here. I will look at the realm of beauty on both a local and national level, and it should make for must-read copy.

If you have any beauty questions, or suggestions for upcoming columns, I welcome your input and I will answer your concerns.

Write me, send your photos, c/o Beauty & The Best, Malls & Mainstreets, 805 East Maple, Birmingham, MI 48009.

In November, I will be appearing at a number of locations in the metropolitan area — Livonia, Grosse Pointe, Clinton Township and Waterford, to name a few.

To find out the location nearest you, please call 1-800-944-6588.

The Perfect Gift

Do you remember the best holiday gift you ever received? Was it a pair of ice-skates when you were 10? The four-slice toaster the year your fourth child was born? Be sure to include your name and phone number in case there are questions. Stories selected will be based on the gift's uniqueness and impact on your life. Published stories will win for their author, a special gift from the newspaper.

So... Now do you remember the best holiday gift you ever received?

Alexandra Stoddard mixes fashion and fun at Nordstrom event

A feel-good morning gave Nordstrom shoppers a smile.

BY SUSAN DEMAGGIO
STAFF WRITER

Mixing philosophy and fashion inspired the 400 women who arrived at Nordstrom early last Saturday morning to hear author Alexandra Stoddard, and see the retailer's collection of fall and holiday designs.

The joyful mood was set by a very trim, energetic Stoddard who took to the runway in a lavender suit with matching hose and shoes, a multi-colored scarf tucked under her collar.

She talked about the popularity of her 20-some books, and reminded the crowd of her message: happiness lies in celebrating the routine moments of life, of finding joy in rituals like taking a hot bath, writing a letter to a friend, or reading a good book in bed between satin sheets.

Stoddard opened her speech to feedback from the audience. Testimonial after testimonial praised the impact of her thoughts and ideas on the lives of others.

Many guests were pals who thought the morning a perfect way to celebrate their friendship. Sue Sadler of Waterford invited Linda Patten of Orchard Lake. Teri Nottoli of Rochester invited Susan Barnett who drove in from Lebanon, Indiana just to see "Alexandra."

"We wanted to meet her, see her in person," said Nottoli. "What great energy she has."

Nordstrom's Terri Rose explained that the Breakfast Series is offered "to provide a venue for informing our customers about what's going on with lifestyle and fashion, in an intimate setting."

Last month's guest was news-woman Paula Zahn. On Nov. 9, CNN's fashion editor Elsa Klensch visits. Tickets are $10.

Classic styles

A 45-minute fashion show featured very Town and Country looks presented to tunes like Frank Sinatra crooning "The Way You Look Tonight," Tom Jones wailing "She's A Lady," and Eartha Kitt singing "Hey, Daddy, You Ought To Get The Best For Me."

This later segment saluted the basic black dress, turned out in lace, satin, and velvet. For the glamorous who dare, Nordstrom offered gloves and suits with cuffs trimmed in Maribou feathers.

Layering garments of polar fleece got a new twist from the pairing of bold-colored vests, sweaters and jackets with black leggings.

RETAIL DETAILS

Retail Details features news briefs from the Malls and Mainstreets beat. To be included, send information to: Retail Details, Observer & Eccentric Newspapers, 805 E. Maple, Birmingham, 48009. Or fax (810) 644-1314.

Gas and Grins
When customers pull up to the Mobil Station at Maple and Adams in Birmingham, manager Linda Chapman has a surprise for them. Instead of advertising the price of an oil change or windshield washer fluid, she uses the electronic display on the pumps to tell jokes and riddles.

"I've been doing it for about six months and customers love it," she laughed. "I pull the jokes off the Laffy Taffy candy wrappers and theme them to the time of year."

This month in honor of Halloween, Linda asks, "What kind of eggs does an evil chicken lay?" Deviled eggs, of course. What do you call two bananas? A pair of slippers.

Save the holidays!
Unlike most other retailers who see no problem in displaying witches and pumpkins along with turkeys and snowmen, Nordstrom will save their holiday merchandise and decorations for after Thanksgiving Day.

According to spokeswoman Terri Rose, shoppers won't see any trees or Santas until after Nov. 28. "On the night before Thanksgiving when the store closes, the staff, their and families and some community groups show up like elves to decorate the whole store in about eight hours. It's a party. We put up 1,500 poinsettias, more than 65 trees and 3,000 ornaments. It's a tradition at every store."

Toy Traders opens
Westland Center welcomes the second Michigan location of Toy Traders, a used toy store where customers can sell outgrown toys and buy different ones at half-off the original price. Owners Marion and Bill Harbin of Rochester, opened the first Toy Traders in Utica at Shelby Corners in July. The store is on the lower level of the mall across from an area designated "Just For Kids."

Organizational changes
Due to the merger of Parisian with Proffitt's that was completed Oct. 11, several management changes were announced. Donald Hess continues as chairman of Parisian's and has joined the board of directors of Proffitt's.

The formation of a merchandising group to be headquartered in Birmingham, AL, will coordinate merchandise planning, marketing, visual and brand development for the various department store chains - Younkers, McRae's, and Proffitt's under the direction of Younkers CEO, Robert Mosco.

The company hopes the new group will "facilitate the execution of our marketing strategy to run separate divisions with regional merchandise assortments and execution, while enjoying "chain store" vendor relationships and economics."

The combined divisions operate 141 stores in 20 states with annual revenues of $2 billion.

New book sheds light
Two East Lansing women have penned "Ways You Can Help: Creative, Practical Suggestions for Family and Friends of Patients and Caregivers." Margaret Cooke and Elizabeth Putnam combine experiences with a child's leukemia and living with multiple sclerosis to shed light on helping loved ones through difficult times. The book is $9.99 and available through most book stores.

Breast feeding boutique opens
Diane and Jim Mulanos have opened their third breast feeding boutique, Maternal Expressions, at 9619 Newburgh at the corner of Ann Arbor Trail in Livonia. The pair have two other locations in Troy and Roseville. For more information call (810) 462-4820.

Hudson's debuts shops
"Distinguishing accents for the home" are presented in a "lifestyle environment" at all Hudson stores this week, except Woodland Mall in Grand Rapids.

Etcetera Collections will feature several themes which will change every three months.

Store expands operations
Paulson's Audio & Video moved to a larger store within the Halstead Village, 12 Mile and Halstead in Farmington Hills. The new location provides space for five home theater rooms with televisions varying in size from 40-inches wide to 10 feet tall. Hear the latest home theater sound systems and see audio/visual furniture.

For more information call (810) 553-4100.

Mall hosts "Jackie" photos
The Somerset Collection will host "A Tribute to Jackie" with 75 intimate photos taken by Jacques Lowe during the White House years, Oct. 30-Nov. 8.

The exhibit was produced by the Leukemia Society of America. Onassis was stricken with non-Hodgkins lymphoma. She died four months later.

Santabear 1996

Collector's note: Hudson's 12th Santabear is dressed as a fire fighter with a fire safety tips book and a First Alert Smoke Detector. Santabear ($37.50) and his companion Miss Bear ($22) are available while supplies last.

TASTE BUDS

CHEF LARRY JANES

Readers call for salad, soup recipes

Requests for hot and hearty soups, coupled with other seasonal requests, have made this month one of the busiest ever recorded on my voice mail.

I've been writing for the Observer and Eccentric Newspapers for more than ten years, and have never received so many requests for a recipe mentioned in my column. I'm referring to the October 7 column where I talked about my good friend Jane Brown from Canton, and her Oriental Salad recipe. As of this writing, my voice mail recorded more than 115 calls from readers requesting Jane's recipe. This is a definite clipper folks, and if Jane Brown (who doesn't cook very often) can make it, you can too.

JANE'S ORIENTAL SALAD

- 4 cups cooked chicken breast, chopped (about 8 half breasts)
 - 1 (16 ounce bag) colorful coleslaw mix (Jane says to use the one with carrots and purple cabbage)
 - 8 green onions, chopped fine
 - 1 cup slivered almonds
 - 4 tablespoons sesame seeds
 - 2 packages Ramen noodles (Oriental flavor)
- Dressing:
- 1 cup vegetable oil
 - 6 tablespoons rice vinegar
 - 2 seasoning packages from Ramen noodles
 - 2 tablespoons sugar
 - 1/2 teaspoon each salt and pepper

In a large bowl, combine chicken breasts, coleslaw mix and green onions. Mix well, set aside. Lightly toast almonds and sesame seeds in a heavy skillet over medium heat, shaking constantly, until fragrant and golden. Cool. Sprinkle on top of salad mix. Crush Ramen noodles and add to salad mix. Toss gently to mix well. Set aside.

In a separate bowl, combine oil, rice vinegar, seasoning packages from Ramen noodles, sugar, salt and pepper and whisk until combined. Just before serving, pour dressing over salad and mix well.

Serves 10-12. (Recipe can be cut in half)

Bill Juddawckes of Livonia said nothing warms his heart more in the fall and winter than a bowl of spicy Cuban Black Bean Soup.

Well Bill, I've tasted quite a few, and nothing gets better than a recipe from "The Joys of Pressure Cooking" by Kitchen Glamor maven Tola Patsalis. (copyright, 1990, Kitchen Glamor Inc. $16.95)

SOUTH OF THE BORDER BLACK BEAN SOUP

- 3/4 pound dried black beans
- Water
- 1/2 pound smoked bacon, cut into 1/2 inch pieces
- 1 cup minced onion
- 1 tablespoon minced or crushed garlic
- 1/3 cup olive oil
- 1/4 cup chopped cilantro
- 1 1/2 teaspoons coarse sea salt
- 2 bay leaves
- 2 teaspoons chili powder
- 1 teaspoon dried oregano
- 1 teaspoon crushed red pepper flakes
- 1/4 teaspoon dried cumin
- 5 cups canned or fresh beef broth
- 2 tablespoons tomato paste
- 2 tablespoons brown sugar
- 2 teaspoons Worcestershire sauce
- 1/8 teaspoon hot pepper sauce
- 1 cup (4 ounces) grated Monterey Jack cheese

Place beans in a bowl. Add water to measure 2 inches above the beans. Soak for 6 hours, drain. In a pressure cooker or heavy saucepan, saute bacon, onion and garlic in hot olive oil for 3 minutes. Add beans, seasonings, broth mixed with tomato paste, brown sugar and sauces. Stir until thoroughly mixed.

Secure pressure cooker lid. Over high heat, develop steam to high pressure. Reduce range heat to medium and cook for 18 minutes. (If cooking conventionally, bring to a boil, reduce heat to medium and cook, stirring occasionally for 2 hours or until beans are tender.) Release steam according to manufacturer's directions. Remove lid. Stir soup. Remove bay leaves.

Either serve soup chunky or pour soup into a processor or blender and puree. Serve hot, garnished with grated Monterey Jack cheese. Prepared soup may be frozen. Serves 6.

Flavorful dish: Savory Pork with Potato-Pepper Medley is an easy, weeknight dish for the whole family. Saute pork chops seasoned with oregano and garlic powder in olive oil. Add pre-sauteed potatoes and peppers, heat through and serve.

Introduce 'HERB' to entrees

We can probably thank primitive man for showing us the magic of herbs in cooking. One day, he decided to wrap his meat in the leaves of a nearby plant. To his surprise, what resulted was flavor like never before. What early man discovered, later created a flavoring frenzy 'round the world. Famous explorers and traders endured "rough waters" to bring precious herbs and spices from the faraway East to their homelands and then to America.

Today, there's never been a more diverse array of herbs to choose from to please the palate. Just peruse the spice section of your local supermarket, and you'll find easy-to-use herbs that can transform ordinary entrees into meals with pizzazz and style.

Unlike salty, high-fat creams and sauces, herbs combine with foods to enhance flavor, never mask or overpower it. Herbs are also a great low-fat way to add taste without adding fat and calories.

Though they share many of the same qualities, herbs have distinct differences important to note when planning and preparing your favorite meals. According to McCormick/Schilling, makers of a wide variety of dried herbs and spices, the most common herbs used today are basil, dill weed, oregano and parsley.

For best results, follow these hints

- In stews and sauces, add herbs in the last 20 minutes of cooking to retain the greatest flavor.
- In microwave recipes, more herbs may be needed due to the reduced cooking time.
- Store dried herbs and spices in airtight containers in a cool, dry place like your pantry and away from heat and sunlight.
- Herbs lose strength over time so it's a good idea to test for freshness: Crush herbs in your hand. If you don't smell the aroma, it's time to buy fresh product.

Popular flavor enhancers

Here's a quick look at other popular herbs and their uses:

Bay Leaves

Robust and aromatic. Use to flavor meats, vegetables, soups, sauces and custards.

Chives

Milder than its cousin, the onion, chives enhance fish, veal, pork and chicken. Great for soups and, of course, a terrific topping for baked potatoes.

Cilantro

The indescribable flavor in Mexican dishes and salsas. Known as "Chinese parsley," it adds pungent taste to Asian soups, fish and noodle dishes.

Rosemary

Fresh, sweet with a piney aroma, rosemary's distinctive flavor blends well with lamb, pork, potatoes, fish, poultry and breads. Especially good on grilled meat and in roasted potato dishes.

Sage

Distinctly fragrant with piney and bitter flavors. Sage is perfect for pork, especially pork sausage, other kinds of meats and stuffing.

Thyme

A warm, pleasant herb used to flavor chowders, meat, Creole seafood dishes, stuffing and vegetables. It's dynamite in vegetarian dishes, especially bean soup.

The basic big four:

Parsley

Parsley was used to flavor and garnish food as early as third century B.C. The curly-leaf variety, grown primarily in California, is the source of parsley flakes. This highly versatile herb brings out the flavor of other herbs and seasonings. It adds flavor and visual appeal to everything from salads, soups and pasta to shellfish, meats and poultry. Parsley's mild flavor and form are perfect for rice dishes.

Dill Weed

Dill Weed, a member of the parsley family, has a subtle, sweet flavor. Dill, believed to have magical properties, was used to ward off witches, cure hiccups and help people sleep. Dill is native to Europe but is now grown commercially in the U.S. Use Dill Weed in salads, sauces, egg dishes and especially to flavor seafood — salmon is at its most scrumptious when flavored with dill.

Oregano

Oregano is native to both the Mediterranean and Mexico. The Mediterranean form has a slightly bitter, minty taste and is used primarily in Italian dishes. Mexican oregano is more potent and used in chili powder and Mexican cooking. Oregano can be used in a wide variety of dishes and is fabulous in fresh salads, egg dishes and quick breads. Oregano is a must-have for pork.

Basil

Basil, a member of the mint family, is native to India. Ancient Hindus believed basil served as their passports to heaven. Basil is certainly heavenly when married with tomatoes and tomato sauces. Basil is essential in Italian sauces and pastas.

Michigan chili cooks earn hot reputation

BY KEELY WYGONIK
STAFF WRITER

Michigan cooks are earning a national reputation for good chili.

Georgia Weller of Bloomfield Hills took the first place, $25,000 grand prize, in the 30th annual World's Championship Cook-off at the Reno Hilton on Oct. 6.

Weller credited luck and her blend of spices for earning top honors. "My chili is not real hot, but I'd say it's on the stronger side. It has a good overall flavor — no one spice stands out."

She competes in about 20 cook-offs a year and won the New England regional title to qualify for the Reno event. This was the seventh straight year she had competed for the world title. She out cooked 114 other regional and state winners from 46 states and six foreign countries, including Australia, West Germany and South Korea.

Marilyn Frederick of Farmington Hills, who competed in the semifinals at the World Cook-off, on Oct. 5, placed first in Plymouth's Great Chili Cook-off Oct. 13 to win $500 and a trophy. She's now eligible to compete in the 1997 Michigan State Cook-off to be held in September at Five Lakes Grill, Milford.

Her husband, Ray, who won the state cook-off on Sept. 8 to qualify for the finals at the World Cook-off, placed second in Plymouth winning $200 and a trophy.

Third-place winner Leonard Swartz received a trophy and $50, Ken Brundage, placed fourth, and Dave Tennant, fifth. Leo Buk of Corey Smithfield of Rochester Hills called, and said she's getting ready to send her relatives in South Africa a holiday package, and was hoping I could supply her with an easy fudge recipe that travels well.

Here's an easy recipe, and when packed in a tin, should have no problem traveling anywhere.

NUTTY MILK CHOCOLATE FUDGE

- 1 1/2 sticks (3/4 cup) unsalted butter
- 1/3 cup evaporated milk
- 1/4 cup sugar
- 6 ounces milk chocolate, finely chopped
- 6 ounces semi sweet chocolate, finely chopped
- 1 cup marshmallow cream
- 1 cup peanut butter chips
- 1/2 cup unsalted, roasted peanuts, coarsely chopped

Line an 8-inch square pan with foil. Lightly butter the foil. In a heavy medium saucepan, combine the butter, evaporated milk and sugar. Bring the mixture to a boil, stirring constantly to dissolve the sugar.

Reduce the heat and boil gently, without stirring for 5 minutes. Remove from heat and stir in the milk chocolate, semisweet chocolate and marshmallow cream; whisk until smooth. Set aside to cool to lukewarm.

Stir in the peanut butter chips and peanuts. Pour the mixture into the prepared pan and refrigerate until set, about 3 hours. Cut into squares. Makes about 2 pounds.

Steve Kneidel of Farmington Hills called requesting a recipe for an "easy" corn chowder.

Well Steve, all I had to do was call momma — here's a recipe she made for the family, and it

CHICKEN CORN CHOWDER

- 3 strips bacon
- 1 small onion, chopped fine
- 1 chicken bouillon cube
- 1/4 cup boiling water
- 1 (10 1/2 ounce) can condensed cream of chicken soup
- 1 (1 pound) can cream style corn
- 2 cups milk
- 1/4 teaspoon thyme
- 1/2 teaspoon celery salt
- 1/8 teaspoon ground sage
- 1/4 cup chopped parsley

Fry bacon until crisp in a heavy 2 quart saucepan. Drain and crumble. Set aside. Sauté onion in bacon drippings until tender, about 2 minutes; drain of drippings. Dissolve bouillon cube in boiling water; combine with remaining ingredients and stir into onion mixture. Bring to a boil, reduce to a simmer and enjoy. Makes 6 servings.

Jan Hemmering of Garden City said we should try to offer our readers more healthy recipes. Well Jan, we hear you loud and clear. Here's a hearty, healthful vegetarian chili that will surely take the chill off a fall day!

VEGETARIAN CHILI

- 1/2 cup bulgur wheat
- 1 cup boiling water
- 1 tablespoon olive oil
- 8 green onion, thinly sliced
- 3 cloves garlic, minced
- 2 green bell peppers, seeded and cut into 1/2 inch squares
- 1 pickled jalapeno pepper,

- seeded and minced
- 2 large carrots, thinly sliced
- 2 teaspoons chili powder
- 1 teaspoon ground cumin
- 1 teaspoon dried oregano
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 2 (19 ounce) cans black beans, drained and rinsed
- 1 (14 1/2 ounce) can no salt added stewed tomatoes, chopped with their juices
- 1 (8 ounce) can no salt added tomato sauce
- 1/4 cup reduced fat sour cream

In a small bowl, combine the bulgur wheat and the boiling water. Set aside to soak while you prepare the rest of the chili. In a Dutch oven or large saucepan, heat the oil until hot but not smoking over medium heat. Add half of the green onions and the garlic and cook until softened, about 2 minutes. Add the bell peppers and jalapeno and cook, stirring frequently until the bell peppers are tender-crisp, about 4 minutes. Add the carrots and cook, stirring frequently until they are tender crisp, about 4 minutes. Add spices, black beans, stewed tomatoes and sauce. Bring to a boil. Drain the bulgur and add it to the pan. Reduce heat to a simmer, cover and cook until the chili is lightly thickened, the flavors blended, about 7 minutes. Serve with the sour cream and remaining green onions. Serves 4.

Each serving has 8 grams fat (20 percent of calories from fat) 360 calories, 1.6 grams saturated fat, 62 grams carbohydrate, 17 grams protein, 5 mg. cholesterol and 840 mg sodium.

Juice bars gain in popularity

BY LOIS THIELEKE
SPECIAL WRITER

Trendy...yes. Good for you...yes. It's the era of juice bars.

Coffee bars are still popular but gaining are the juice bars. They began on the West Coast and are slowly moving this way. Juices made from beets, carrots, spinach, cabbage, pineapple, banana, papaya, apple, pear, etc. are truly a nutritious cocktail.

Health experts still prefer you get your fruits and vegetables by eating rather than drinking them, but this is a good alternative. Drinking juice is an easy way to meet the daily goal of five to eleven servings. You lose the fiber in juice extraction but not the nutrients. Actually there are more nutrients in a glass of juice because it takes more fruit to make a full glass. For example, one eight-ounce glass of orange juice has twice the folic acid as one medium orange.

Some of the more popular and familiar fruit juices such as apple, cranberry and orange have been around for generations. One eight-ounce glass of apple juice has 295 milligrams of potassium, more than a half of a banana. Apple juice does not cause heartburn because of its lower acid content.

Cranberry juice is a powerhouse of vitamin C. Since the cranberry is so tart, lots of sugar and water have been added, but the calories are comparable to other juices. Commercial cranberry juice is usually made from concentrate with bottled sweetness. Many health experts believe that cranberry juice contains a substance that keeps bacteria from causing bladder infections.

The most popular American juice is orange juice. One cup provides up to twice the daily requirement of vitamin C. Orange juice also contains folic acid, a must for pregnant women to cut down the risk of premature delivery and birth defects. Orange juice also has lots of potassium, which is important in controlling high blood pressure.

Tomato juice is low in calories but rich in vitamin C and other antioxidants that may lower the risk of stomach cancer. One small problem is the sodium content of tomato juice, so read the labels to purchase a lower sodium product. Buy the lower sodium canned tomato juice, then pour into a glass bottle and add one green onion and one stalk of celery (but cut up). This improves the flavor immensely.

Carrot juice is gaining in popularity. This juice contains vitamin C, potassium and carotenoids (vitamin A), so it has many health benefits. A tall glass of any of these juices certainly beats drinking alcohol, sugar or caffeine-loaded beverages.

There are costly juice machines, but at home many just use a kitchen blender, which makes the juice more like a thick puree. It can be served that way or diluted with orange juice, apple juice or another vegetable juice.

Juices tend to take on strange flavors when stored carelessly or in warm temperatures. Canned juices taste better if they are transferred to a glass container after opening. After opening juice and letting it sit for a couple of days, it may taste stale. Revive any juice by aerating it. Just swish the juice until a little foam appears or pour it back and forth from container to container.

Fruit juices are a nutritious way to quench your thirst, but be careful - too much of a good thing can cause some children stomach problems. Young children may develop diarrhea, cramps or bloating from too much juice.

The juice bar may not be here yet, but you can make juices yourself or buy them in a store. Juices may be the smartest and easiest way to get plenty of fruits and vegetables.

Mighty good: This mushroom and broccoli bugur is a delicious way to combine mushrooms with wholegrain and a nutrient rich vegetable.

Mushrooms are elegant

Mushrooms have been used for centuries as an elegant addition to daily dining. The mushroom mystique remains, but now we have many more varieties readily available and many more ways to incorporate them into our daily diet. Mushrooms can be eaten raw as a crudite, baked on pizza, sauteed in a sauce, marinated in antipasto, or stuffed as an hors d'oeuvres. Try them cooked in soup, tucked in a sandwich, folded in an omelet, tossed in pasta, sprinkled on meat, or cut up in a salad. In all shapes, sizes and flavors, mushrooms can add panache to nearly any food.

Americans eat three-quarters of a billion pounds of mushrooms per year. While much of that is domestic white mushrooms, the use of more exotic kinds is also on the rise. Full-bodied shiitakes have a meaty flavor that is the perfect complement to stir-fries, pastas or soups. The soft texture of oyster mushrooms makes them ideal to serve sliced raw in salads, or lightly cooked in chicken and seafood dishes.

Try the light, mild flavor and crisp texture of raw Enoki mushrooms tossed in a salad, or used as a garnish for soup. Morels are the best-known wild mushroom in America, with a distinctly nutty flavor that's delicious in soups and stuffings. Wood ear mushrooms are often found in dried form and retain their crunchiness even after reconstituting with water. They add great texture to complex dishes like stir-fries and casseroles.

The popularity of saucer-sized Portobello mushrooms has made grilling a popular method for cooking mushrooms. Simply cut off the stem, gently rub the cap with olive oil and accent their earthy, flavor with a bit of salt, black pepper and a pinch of dried thyme. Grill the mushroom over medium heat on each side for two to three minutes, until tender. Top the Portobello with a fresh fruit salsa for a spicy sweet flavor and a bright dash of color.

Tips on how to buy juice

If you're buying juice, read the label to make sure you're getting exactly what you want.

■ No added sweetener means no sugar, corn syrup or artificial sweeteners have been added. However, apple or grape juice may have been added as the sweetener.

■ 100 percent juice means the drink contains whatever fruit is featured on the label plus other juices. It could have as little as 5 percent of the featured fruit, so it may be a combination of fruit juices.

■ "Not from concentrate" means it has been freshly squeezed, preserved by heat pasteurization.

■ "From concentrate" means the fruit had been partly dehydrated and needed to be rehydrated to regain its normal strength later.

Trenton placed first in the best booth/showmanship category.

In the salsa competition, which drew 29 entries at the Plymouth cook-off, Judy Thomas placed first to win $50 and a ribbon, Debbie Walter, second, and Chris Hibbard, third. They were anywhere from pureed to chunky and from barbecue to excessively hot, one of the more unusual sweet barbecue to taste to on fire-mayor Ron Loiselle

"I was really surprised," said Marilyn about her victory in Plymouth. "I made a good pot of chili, but I've made better."

"My pot was good," said Ray. "It was right on, but there were a lot of good cooks here."

"Georgia's chili was incredible," said Pat Wilhite of Wixom, former office manager of the Lark restaurant in West Bloomfield who judged the semi-finals at the World Cook-off on Oct. 5. "For the first time in the World Cook-off there was a 16 point spread between the first and second place winners."

Canton man pleads guilty

BY VALERIE OLANDER
STAFF WRITER

Jerry R. Mitchell, 35, of Canton pleaded guilty last Monday before Recorder's Court Judge Robert Evans to a reduced charge of manslaughter in the 1994 death of 2-year-old Becca Meloche, the daughter of his reported girlfriend.

Mitchell was set to go to trial the same day on a charge of second degree murder in the "shaken baby" case.

The guilty plea came after prosecutors agreed to drop two separate counts of second degree criminal sexual conduct for the alleged assault of two girls under the age of 13, said Wayne County Assistant Prosecutor David McClory.

The cases were pending before

Recorder's Court Judge Michael Callahan.

"In shaken baby-type cases it's hard to prove intent to kill, usually it ends up in a jury finding them guilty of manslaughter anyway. This spares the family the emotions of going through a trial," said McClory.

A jury would have had the choice of second-degree murder, manslaughter and involuntary manslaughter if the case had gone to trial, according to court records.

Mitchell is scheduled to be sentenced Dec. 11 by Judge Evans. He will likely serve five to 10 years in jail for the crime, which has a maximum penalty of 15 years, said McClory. Mitchell is scheduled to undergo a psychological evaluation before sentencing, he said.

New conference, old rituals are next for Madonna

Now the real fun begins.

On Friday, representatives from the six current members of the Wolverine-Hoosier Athletic Conference -- Aquinas, Concordia, Cornerstone, Siena Heights, Spring Arbor and Tri-State -- gathered at the newest member's pad to both welcome them into the fold and to talk briefly about the upcoming basketball seasons.

Madonna University isn't a WHAC member yet. Won't be 'til July of next year. So for now, everything is cordial.

But let's be honest. It's like that at all pre-season preview meetings. Coaches heaping praise upon both their fellow coaches and their conference -- it's quite the norm.

Of course, when the season rolls around and they're on the sidelines, they'll bait and banter and blather at each other relentlessly, vying for the attention of the striped shirts -- and their intent? To get a break for their team, of course, one they believe may make the difference in winning the game.

That's what basketball coaches do, whatever the level of competition. Which means the WHAC is no different.

At least not in that respect.

Another likeness to other conferences: the off-the-court (in basketball terminology) intrigue.

Madonna's joining our league, a WHAC coach repeats to himself over and over. What's that mean to me?

Start preparing now

If you're Siena Heights men's basketball coach Fred Smith, it means there will be increased competition for players in your area of recruitment. Sure, Madonna covers the area already, but now as part of a conference -- the same conference, for that matter -- the Crusaders' success rate should climb.

Smith knows what to expect. He's been through all this before, remember. A decade ago, his team ruled the NAIA District 23, making annual trips to Kansas City for the NAIA Tournament.

Then along came Glen Donahue and his St. Mary's College team in Orchard Lake. Within a few years, St. Mary's owned the top spot in the district and was making those trips.

Smith pledged his friendship to Donahue at Friday's meeting -- and why not? The former St. Mary's coach is now an assistant coach at Central Michigan, his tenure at St. Mary's severed when the school cancelled the program.

When they coached against each other Smith was respectful, it's true. But after losing in the district playoffs, it was a grudging respect.

Let's face it: Basketball games are often won in the months, and sometimes years, before -- the time spent recruiting. If a coach brings in enough talent, wins will follow.

Which means recruiting wars can be more vicious than anything on the court. Ask anyone in the Catholic League or the private school district -- or even better, the public schools that compete against them for talent.

Madonna poses a threat

At present, Madonna's men's team is nothing to be feared (or at least it hasn't been). But with Bernie Holowicki, formerly of Redford Catholic Central, entering his second season, that could change rapidly.

For now, the coaches are content to bury Madonna and its programs with accolades, insisting how the Crusaders' addition will strengthen the WHAC.

Privately, however, plans to stick Madonna into the league cellar and keep it there as long as possible are already in the works. It isn't a league-wide plot, mind you; coaches from Aquinas and Spring Arbor aren't placing conference calls to coaches from Concordia and Cornerstone to formulate some sort of strategy.

It's neither that organized nor quite that devious, although there are coaches who firmly believe such stuff does occur (a paranoid clan, aren't they?). It's more individual than that.

More like: "We can't lose to Madonna. They just joined the league, for God's sake."

So it simply becomes a similar goal for every team in the league -- don't dare lose to the newcomer. And Madonna becomes the common enemy.

In public, they'll say what a great program Madonna has. In private, they hope the Crusaders will be a team they can bounce around and beat up on.

It's what they do. It's how they think. So expect it. When Madonna plays any of its soon-to-be WHAC brethren in the upcoming season (when the Crusaders are still a non-WHAC

Canton's triumph earns title share

Not for naught.

That's what Plymouth Canton's girls basketball team can tell anyone and everyone who asks: We did not lose everything when we gave away that game at Northville 18 days ago (six varsity players were suspended).

Northville ended up getting upset by Walled Lake Central last Tuesday and Canton, with Thursday's 60-26 thrashing of Livonia Franklin Thursday at Franklin, was able to lay claim to half a title.

Both Northville and Canton finished 10-1 in the league. Northville, based upon its regular-season win over Canton, will get the No. 1 seed in the upcoming Western Lakes Activities Association Tournament. But officially, they are co-champions.

BASKETBALL

Salem (14-3, 9-2) is the No. 3 seed, since it beat Central (11-5, 9-2), which is No. 4.

The Western Division team hosts the first-round games, which breaks down like this: No. 1 Northville entertaining Livonia Stevenson (7-10) Thursday at 7 p.m.; No. 2 Canton (15-2 overall) hosting Farmington (7-10) at 7 p.m. Thursday; and No. 3 Stevenson playing at Walled Lake Western (7 p.m. Thursday).

Central travels to Farmington Harrison Thursday (7 p.m.).

The second round of the WLAA Tournament is on the Lakes' teams' courts (or, if both are Lakes teams, the higher seed) on Tuesday, Nov. 5.

The WLAA semifinals will be on the higher seed's court Thursday, Nov. 7. The WLAA championship is Friday, Nov. 8 at Walled Lake Central.

"We're pleased to come out with that," Canton coach Bob Blohm said of the title-tie. "They've been a great group. I'm glad they were able to hang in there and do that."

The Chiefs had little trouble hanging in there against Franklin Thursday. They led 18-6 after one quarter and 32-13 at the half, which meant that -- barring a second-half Patriot miracle -- the game was over.

Canton did not let up much in the second half,

Chiefs survive a scare

BY C.J. RISAK
SPORTS EDITOR

Get used to it, Plymouth Canton.

If you plan on making a long run in the state soccer playoffs, if you plan on equaling what your predecessors -- like the 1994 Chiefs -- accomplished and win a state championship, understand it will never be easy.

Every opponent will know your legacy. They will have no trouble getting mentally prepared for you.

You might as well wear targets over your red jerseys.

There's been talk that Canton isn't well-respected. That may be true, but only among some of their Western Lakes Activities Association rivals.

But don't expect that kind of attitude from your foes at this time of year.

The first lesson in tournament soccer came Saturday, when the Chiefs hosted Novi in the district final. No big deal, right? So where are the regionals?

Wrong. It doesn't take a long memory to recall what happened to the Chiefs last year. And in 1993.

Novi eliminated them. Both times. In the districts.

It was not to be repeated this year, but Canton's victory did not come easily. The final was 1-0, and right down to the end the Wildcats fought, putting the ball into the Canton box in the closing seconds, a goal just one good foot away.

"I'll tell ya," said Don Smith, Canton's coach. "They came to play. Right down to that last touch, down there."

The game's only goal came with 23:23 remaining in the first half, off a corner kick initiated by Justin Fishaw. His hit was perfectly placed, right where Mike Bennett could drive a header at the net -- which he did, into the goal to make it 1-0, Canton.

It was not the only scoring chance the Chiefs (now 14-2-4) would get. Novi, too, came close on several occasions. But it was the only goal of the match.

The attitude of first-year Novi coach Brian O'Leary provided some insight into what Canton should expect in upcoming tournament games.

"I thought we played well," he said, his team finishing at 15-4-1. "I'm not disappointed at all. They were supposed to win, but we played them real tough."

Understand, O'Leary was smiling during most of the above conversation. Sure, he was looking forward to next year (he has 10 sophomores on his team), but he knew this year's team came very close to reaching the next level in the tournament.

Which is exactly where the Chiefs are now headed, a position not entirely unfamiliar to them. They travel to the Brighton regional to play the host team at 5 p.m. Tuesday. Livonia

Head headers: Canton's Matt Ammons (19) battles Novi's Alan Lyskawa for a head ball, something both he and teammate Mike Bennett (3) are adept at. Both have scored pivotal goals for the Chiefs in district games on headers.

Stevenson goes against Walled Lake Central at 7 p.m. Tuesday, with the winners meeting in the regional final at 1 p.m. Saturday in Brighton.

Canton met Brighton once earlier this season in Brighton, playing the Bulldogs to a 2-2 tie. "They're scrappy," Smith said of his first-round regional opponent. "They'd just as soon kick you as the ball -- and they often do. We'll need good officiating."

Johnson propels Rocks to a 2nd win over N'ville

So who needs a charm for the third try? Who needs a third try?

Plymouth Salem struggled with Northville the first time the two Western Lakes Activities Association foes met on the football field. It took an end-of-the-game field goal for the Rocks to prevail.

It wasn't nearly so dramatic Friday, when the two met again in the WLAA crossover game at Northville. The Mustangs tied it once and managed to keep it close most of the time, but they could never catch Salem and ended up losing 28-14.

The win guarantees the Rocks, a team that prior to the season was expected to struggle through perhaps its toughest campaign under coach Tom Moshimer, a plus in the record column. They are 5-3 as they head into Friday's season-closer against Plymouth Canton.

A combination of efforts by seniors Matt Johnson and Nate Gray, together with an offensive line that cleared the way for 364 rushing yards, made the Rocks winners.

Johnson, a running back, was nearly unstoppable. He riddled Northville's defense for 238 yards on the ground on 26 carries, including two touchdowns.

Gray, a quarterback, kept the Mustangs guessing, gaining 60 yards on the ground on 16 tries (with one TD) and completing 4-of-8 passes for 52 yards.

Still, it wasn't until the second half that Salem's offense really got into gear. The Rocks scored on their opening drive of the game, thanks in great part to a 52-yard run by Johnson to the Northville 5-yard line. Johnson eventually plunged in from the one, and James Brian's placement made it 7-0.

Chris Whittington tied it for Northville, finishing a second-quarter drive with a 4-yard run. The score was set up by a Scott Vigh Rob Johnson is smooth as butter and twice as slippery.

Johnson displayed his versatility again Friday night while leading Plymouth Canton to an easy 42-0 victory over overmatched Farmington.

"Rob Johnson makes that team," declared Coach Lauri Niskanen of Farmington. "He's a big-time player. He makes them go."

Johnson completed five of his first six passes for 52 yards (his receivers dropped or he misfired on his final five of the night) and also ran seven times for 69 yards including a two-yard touchdown.

"You always hope to do better," Canton coach Bob Khoenle said after his Chiefs squared their overall record at 4-4 while the Falcons dropped to 2-6. "Our four losses were to good football teams."

"Of the four, in reality, in truth,

Falcons are overwhelmed in hammering by Chiefs

we had a chance to beat one of them."

"We're not of the calibre of these teams," said Niskanen, whose team plays Milford Lakeland to end its season Saturday. "We've got to win for our seniors."

"So they can head into the offseason with a win -- like we've done for the last two years. They run a wing-T, so we have to make sure we've got all the things covered."

Canton faces Salem on their mutual home field Friday night.

"Our new season starts this week," smiled Khoenle. "We'll do what we do, just do it a little bit better."

"I don't think we'll put any new wrinkles in at this stage. It's a little late in the season for that. We'll just do what we do but try to do it better."

'G' is the right stuff, but 'D' is dangerous

OUTDOOR INSIGHTS

BILL PARKER

The phone has been ringing off the hook lately - both at home and at the office. As election day 1996 approaches it seems everyone wants to know "what the deal is" about the two proposals dealing with Michigan's wildlife.

Actually, nearly everyone I've talked with, hunters and non-hunters alike, is in favor of Proposal G. Proposal G gives complete authority to manage Michigan's wildlife resources to the Natural Resource Commission - the policy-making arm of the Michigan Department of Natural Resources - and mandates the opportunity for public input in the management process.

The DNR has successfully managed Michigan's wildlife for 75 years and its record speaks for itself. Because of professional wildlife management we currently have more deer, bear, elk, and turkey in Michigan than we had at the turn of the century. We have seen the return of moose, fishers, martens and peregrine falcons, and enjoy thriving populations of Canada geese, wood ducks, loons and bluebirds, just to name a few. Proposal G insures that Michigan's successful professional wildlife management continues.

"D" is dangerous

Most of the questions I've been asked have to deal with Proposal D - the proposal sponsored by Citizens United for Bear (CUB) - which would eliminate baiting and hound hunting for Michigan black bear, the way 96-percent of Michigan bear are taken.

Proposal D is dangerous for humans and wildlife in Michigan and is based on half-truths.

CUB is not the grass-roots organization it wants us to believe, and it is not attempting to save Michigan's black bear.

CUB was formed by a disgruntled Upper Peninsula landowner who had a trespassing problem. Rest assured, there is no major trespassing problem with bear hunters in the Upper Peninsula. The DNR has received less than 50 complaints about trespassing bear hunters over the past five years. That's less than 10 complaints per year, across the entire Upper Peninsula, over the course of a 47-day hunt. Certainly that's 10-per-year too many, but hardly reason to seek an end to scientific wildlife management.

According to reports filed with the Secretary of State in late August, 96 percent of the $800,000 CUB had raised at that time came from two wealthy land owners and the East Coast-based animal rights group The Fund For Animals.

Michigan's legislature wanted nothing to do with CUB's idea to outlaw the use of hounds and bait. It realized the danger of a burgeoning population of a carnivorous predator. So, CUB solicited some 350,000 signatures to get Proposal D on the ballot. It paid a solicitation firm to collect many of those signatures.

"They bought and paid for this election," said Rick Jameson, executive director of the Michigan United Conservation Club. "It's just a travesty. All they've got is two millionaires and an animal rights group."

A nation-wide effort

Proposal D is part of a nation-wide strategy by the animal rights activists to eventually achieve their ultimate goal of ending all hunting. It's not about baiting and hound hunting in Michigan, that's just a smoke screen. In a letter to its members, The Fund For Animals stated: "The Fund is now undertaking the biggest and boldest, and perhaps, the most dangerous campaign in our history. A campaign to stop sport hunting in America."

The Fund For Animals launched and won similar anti-bait and anti-hound campaigns in California, Utah, Colorado and Oregon.

In California, where The Fund For Animals successfully ended bait and hound hunting for cougars at the ballot box, the state now pays officials to kill more "nuisance" cougars each year than hunters ever killed. Another frightening aspect of California's cougar ban is that two female joggers were killed by cougars last year - the state's first deadly cougar attacks in over 100 years.

Since cougars are no longer hunted in California, the population is exploding and the animals have lost their fear of man. Is that what we want to happen with black bear in Michigan?

Some of the Proposal D television commercials are even misleading. One commercial shows the graphic killing of a treed bear. The problem is, the footage is of a poaching ring in Oregon some 20 years ago, not law abiding hunters in Michigan.

Bear population thriving

Proponents of Proposal D say it will save Michigan's black bear from unethical trophy hunters. The fact is, Michigan's bear population is thriving and has doubled to over 10,000 animals since 1990. Michigan currently employs the tightest bear hunting regulations in the nation.

To eliminate the way 96-percent of the bear are killed will put the bears and humans in danger as the population will explode within a few years. Nuisance complaints, bear-car accidents, human injury and even death will likely occur before Mother Nature steps in and controls the population through starvation and disease.

CUB claims the use of bait and hounds is unsporting and inhumane. In reality, the success rate for killing a black bear in Michigan is a mere 26 percent. That means just 26 out of every 100 bear hunters return home with meat for the freezer. Hunters certainly do not have an unfair advantage.

Tell your non-hunting neighbors and friends the truth about Proposal D. Urge them to do something good for Michigan's bear population and vote "No" on Proposal D.

Anglers and hunters are urged to report their success. Questions and comments are also encouraged. Send information to 805 E. Maple, Birmingham, MI. 48009. Fax information to (810) 644-1314 or call Bill Parker evenings at (810) 901-2573.

member), almost anything can be expected.

The opposing coaches could take it easy, lulling the Crusader coaches into a false sense of security. Or they could paste them, the message being, "This is what you have to look forward to."

If a WHAC team loses a lot in the off-season, I'd look for the latter. After all, there's still the recruiting wars to consider. And a player would rather go to a winner than a loser.

See what I mean by intra-conference intrigue? And this is only the initial stages; wait'll Madonna's been a member for a while, and the WHAC grows older (it's only been around since '92).

Then it'll really be fun.

Bowlers to the rescue.

Traditionally, the bowlers from our area have supported many worthy causes with fund-raising events.

This help has been overwhelming for those in need of funds, those less fortunate and those who have been dealt a bad hand, so to speak.

Now, bowlers and any other concerned people have an opportunity to help Evergreen Children's Services, a foster care and adoption agency with their fund-raising event for abused children.

It will be the third annual Strike Out Child Abuse Bowl-A-Thon, beginning at 1 p.m. Saturday, Nov. 16 at Cloverlanes in Livonia.

Registration starts at noon.

There will be some great prizes for those individuals who raise the most money through pledges; first prize is a Las Vegas trip for two, second prize is a Bayshore Resort golf weekend package for two; third prize is a weekend for two at the Bavarian Inn at Frankenmuth.

A free T-shirt goes to everyone who raises $100 or more and there will be trophies for high series. A nice buffet for all participants will follow the bowling.

To do your part, get up a team for this event, get out and bring in the pledge money from friends, relatives, neighbors and co-workers.

For entry forms and pledge sheets or more details, call Carol Eschbach at (313) 862-1000, Ext. 107.

If you want to be on my team, phone me at (313) 422-1609.

The Evergreen event is a typical example of how ludicrous the Michigan Liquor Control Commission's recent actions have been regarding placing jackpot restrictions on bowling leagues.

There is no other group that has given so much to charitable causes such as this. The Old Timers Tournament, which will take place on Nov. 30 at Thunderbowl raises scholarship funds.

Some leagues have adopted needy families over the Christmas holidays by donating their proceeds from 50-50 drawings.

When will these bureaucrats wake up and realize that they are wrong in their decision to enforce these rules against the bowlers? The upcoming session in the state legislature should resolve the issue for once and all.

Jason Johnson of Farmington Hills won the "King of the Hill" last week at Merri Bowl in Livonia with an amazing series of 817 on games of 280-269-269.

It was due in part to his natural ability as a bowler, and in part to his new ball, a Lightning by Storm Products. This is a relatively new ball on the market, and it lived up to its name, as lightning strikes again, and again and again.

Strong finish clinches a title for Canton

Plymouth Canton's swimmers needed something special if they were going to get something special Thursday in their final Western Lakes Activities Association dual meet of the season against Northville.

The Chiefs were in a situation just like the one they had been in two nights earlier at Brighton. They had to not just take first in the last event, the 400-yard freestyle relay -- they had to take second, too.

But this wasn't the Brighton meet. For one thing, more was at stake: Like the WLAA's Western Division title.

The Chiefs responded. They swept the top two spots in the final relay, giving them a 96-91 victory at Canton.

Angie Frost, Andrea Cizewski, Meagan Dowd and Megan Van Coevering teamed for a first in the 400 free relay (4:02.88), and Sue Fanning, Kristen Kalyon, Donna Logsdon and Amy Sonnanstine finished second (4:05.35).

Other wins for the Chiefs went to Teri Hanson, who won twice: in the 200 freestyle (2:01.5) and in the 100 butterfly (1:01.19). Sonnanstine also captured top honors in the 500 free (5:41.31).

Canton finishes with a 5-6 overall dual-meet record, but the Chiefs are 5-0 in the WLAA's Western Division.

"It was very exciting," said Canton co-coach Sarah Eubanks. "It went down to the last race -- we came out with a first and a second, and that's what we needed to do."

Salem 113, N. Farmington 73: Plymouth Salem concluded its WLA dual-meet season with just one blemish -- and that came against one of the state's best teams (Livonia Stevenson).

Thursday's lopsided win at Lakes Division foe North Farmington assured the Rocks of second place in the division. They are 7-1 overall and finish 4-1 in the division.

Coach Chuck Olson was concerned about the Raiders prior to the meet. As it turned out, there was no need; the Rocks won the first five events and nine of the first 10.

Both Audrey Hala and Yvonne Lynn won two individual events apiece. Hala's victories came in the 200-yard (2:05.11) and 500-yard (5:32.38) freestyles; Lynn was first in the 200 individual medley (2:19.82) and the 100 backstroke (1:01.91).

Other individual winners for Salem were Carrie Dzialo in the 50 free (26.46), Michelle Wallon in the diving (176.80 points) and Kellyann Williams in the 100 free (56.98).

Lynn, Katie Bonner, Lori McKay and Kathy Kelly teamed for a first for Salem in the 200 individual medley relay (1:56.87); and Dzialo, Williams, Kelly and Hala combined for a win in the 200 free relay (1:45.74).

Ocelots tied for top spot

Michelle MacRae finished with 14 kills and eight blocks Thursday, leading Schoolcraft College to a 7-15, 15-7, 15-5, 16-4 women's volleyball triumph at Oakland CC.

The Lady Ocelots, ranked No. 18 in the latest National Junior College Athletic Association poll, finished 8-2 in the Eastern Conference, tied for first with Henry Ford and Flint Mott.

Jamie Clark (Livonia Churchill) contributed 11 kills, and 21 digs for Schoolcraft, now 20-9 overall.

Other standouts were Hermina Angeles, 10 kills and 27 digs; Yvette Sixbey (Garden City), 9 kills/300 hitting percentage; and Stacy Sailus, nine blocks.

Crusaders superior

Three players recorded kills in double digits Thursday as Madonna University, ranked No. 16 in the National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics, ran its women's volleyball record to 31-3 with a 15-9, 15-7, 13-15, 15-5 victory over visiting Lake Superior State.

Seniors Kelly McCausland (Redford Union) and Julie Martin (Livonia Stevenson) led the way 18 and 17 kills, respectively. Erin Comment added 11.

Senior setter Meg Paris was the Lady Crusaders' assist leader with 53.

Defensively, three players finished with 12 digs apiece including Karin Sisung, Comment and McCausland.

scrimmage but the Chiefs couldn't get another first down and had to punt.

They got the ball right back and had four plays of 10 yards or greater on the way to Johnson's two-yard score 8:23 into the game.

"He's a good athlete," Khoenle said of his quarterback. "Rob can run, throw and he's fast. He makes it all click."

Eric Sarrault returned a punt nearly 60 yards to set up his own six-yard scoring run on Canton's next possession and on their next, Jason Pennebaker reeled off a 46-yard touchdown that made it 22-0.

The Chiefs rounded out their fourth straight successful possession when junior Byron Miller capped a 73-yard drive with a nine-yard scoring run.

Canton got some good line play from Brian Sinischo, Greg Giniel, Jason Tallant, Pat Krause, Scott McLane, Rob Proctor and Nick Kanaan.

In the second half, Sean Fallon blocked a Farmington punt and recovered it in the end zone for a touchdown. Pennebaker returned an interception 15 yards to set up Qwaku Dunkwa's three-yard TD.

Canton held Farmington to 53 yards rushing and 86 passing yards while rushing for 250 yards itself.

The Falcons nearly scored in the fourth quarter under the direction of sophomore quarterback Scott Kneller, who showed some poise under fire.

Kneller completed 4-of-6 passes for 50 yards, all to junior Bryant Bronner, but time ran out with the Falcons on the Chiefs' 16. Kneller's final throw was deflected at the line of scrimmage by Brian Dascenzo.

Canton spread the rushing yards around and Khoenle noted "our fullbacks do a good job, Tony Ziegler and Nick Allen, of running up in there and keeping them honest."

The Chiefs inserted Eric Frazier in place of Johnson in the fourth quarter. He completed both passes he threw for 18 yards and also ran three times.

interception of a Gray pass, which he returned to the Salem 30.

Turnovers favored the Rocks in the second half. Johnson scored first, capping a 65-yard drive with a 13-yard run with 8:37 left in the third quarter. Johnson had 57 yards on seven carries in the march, which made it 14-7 Salem.

The Rocks got the ball right back when Teono Wilson wrapped up Northville quarterback Rob Reel, forced the fumble, recovered it and returned it 8 yards to the Mustang 24. Three plays later, Doug Kinney took it in from 4 yards out and Salem had a 20-7 advantage.

A little trickery backfired on the Rocks on the ensuing kickoff. They tried an on-side kick, but Northville recovered at their own 43. After nine plays, Whittington powered in from 5-yards out, trimming Salem's lead to 20-14 heading into the final quarter.

Northville got another drive going early in the last period, reaching the Salem 30. But that's where the Mustang hopes died; Whittington fumbled, and the Rocks' Jim Chapman recovered.

Salem quickly constructed a 70-yard drive, with Gray doing most of the work. He gained 48 yards on nine carries, including the last one into the end zone. His two-point conversion run boosted the Rocks' lead to 28-14 with just 3:05 left.

Salem outgained Northville, 416-229, and forced three turnovers while making just one. Whittington was the Mustangs' main weapon, gaining 88 yards on 25 attempts, and scoring both TDs.

outpointing Franklin 28-13.

Kristi Fiorenzi's 16 points paced the Chiefs. Nkechi Okwumabua added 15 and Melissa Marzolf had 12. Tera Merrill, a freshman, topped Franklin (4-13 overall, 2-9 in the WLAA) with seven.

Salem 45, Farmington 29: It was Senior Night at Plymouth Salem Thursday, and the Rocks celebrated (in particular their seniors: Merritt Walker, Laurel Weinman and Janelle Sterling) by not giving Farmington much of a chance.

Salem led by 10 (14-4) after one quarter and by 15 (23-8) at the half in cruising to its 14th win of the season (14-3, 9-2 in the WLAA).

With the double-barreled point-production provided by Angela Sillmon (15 points) and Amanda Abraham (11), the Rocks stayed in command throughout. Their lead grew to 37-17 after three quarters.

Abraham also had seven rebounds and two assists, while Sillmon contributed three boards and two assists. Amanda Porter's 13 points paced the Falcons (7-10 overall, 5-6 in the WLAA).

New-look Talon digs in for another strong year

By Anne Fracassa
Avanti NewsFeatures

It's been more than a couple of years since I've driven the Eagle Talon. First introduced in 1990, the Talon was Chrysler's little bitty sports car and sister to the Plymouth Laser and Mitsubishi Eclipse.

Seven years later, they're still all built at Mitsubishi Motors' assembly plant in Normal, Ill. It was re-engineered and restyled just two years ago, but the Talon enjoys even more freshening of its skin and added interior comforts and features for 1997.

This year, the exterior of the Talon has been slightly freshened to make it even more distinctive. There's a new front treatment that makes the front fascia, front fascia grille and new fog lamps look really aggressive. Even the new front emblem is large and stamped in between the headlamps.

The rear is also new and changed are the rear fascia, dimensional rear fascia badging, and a new rear spoiler for the ESi and TSi all-wheel-drive models.

Also new for 1997 are 17-inch VR-rated tires mounted on 17-inch cast aluminum wheels (on TSi AWD models) new 14-inch wheel covers for the ESi models, availability of "sparkle silver" wheel covers, new bodyside appliques, quarter window, high-gloss black drip rails, new black and tan interior colors and AC outlets.

There's one thing that's certain on this little number: It's a lot of fun to drive. And I drove the ESi with the standard 2.0-liter dual overhead cam sequential multipoint electronic injected in-line four cylinder engine with the 4-speed automatic attached. Horsepower is rated at 140.

The engine performed well, got me going in a hurry and was great in passing on the freeway. It would be really easy to go very fast and get very caught in this pretty sports coupe.

Also available but standard on the TSi and TSi AWD models is a turbocharged 2.0-liter dual overhead cam 16-valve in line four cylinder that gives you even more oomph with 210 horsepower.

Eagle bills the Talon as a 4-passenger vehicle, but it really isn't. If you're anywhere over 5-foot-6, the rear of the front seat will touch the front of the rear seat. That means zero leg room in the rear.

This is really a two-seater with a couple of back seats. I gave up on trying to put a tod-ler booster seat back there for my 3-year-old.

One thing I do remember about the last drive is that the car was really small on the inside. That's not true anymore. I'm not saying the interior is like an LHS or anything, I'm just saying that the interior is a little more roomy than before.

What I liked most about the Talon is that instrumentation is wrapped around the driver's seat. Everything is tilted and geared toward the driver. Everything is within easy reach, easy to operate and even easier to see.

Instrumentation includes a 150-mile-per-hour analog speedometer, odometer, trip odometer, tachometer, fuel, coolant temperature and on the TSi and TSi AWD models, there's also turbo boost and oil pressure gauges.

And, there are about a hundred — okay, I'm exaggerating a bit — warning lamps. They include one for the battery, oil pressure, driver's seat belt, door or liftgate ajar, brake fluid, air bag, high beam headlamps, low fuel, low washer fluid, anti-lock brakes, turn signals, parking brake and check engine.

Safety equipment is all there including the driver and passenger air bags, knee bolster, side impact protection, 5 mph bumpers, and 3-point active seat belts both front and rear. Anti-lock brakes and 4-wheel disc brakes are optional.

Providing comfort and wonderful handling characteristics are a multi-link fully independent front and rear suspension and speed sensitive steering. This thing can fly around a corner with the ease of a full-size luxury sedan — but with nimble and quick handling.

Another feature I appreciated was the driver's left foot rest. It was really comfortable during longer drives. What I didn't like was the exterior mirrors. They were manual remote mirrors. It's so hard to adjust that passenger side mirror all by yourself. It's even harder when someone else is helping you. Power is available as an option on ESi and standard on both TSi models.

The base model is really base. It has hardly any extras on it. The ESi is a decent value. But if you really want a really fun sports coupe, bank on getting the TSi or TSi all-wheel-drive. Where there's snow, the all-wheel-drive will get you out of a mess or two. There's better handling on the AWD model as well.

Whatever model you choose, the Eagle Talon will please you.

It's fun, it's fast and it gets your attention.

Anne Fracassa is senior editor of Avanti NewsFeatures.

1997 Eagle Talon

Vehicle class: Sporty subcompact.

Engine: 2.0-liter DOHC in-line 4-cylinder.

Mileage: 20 city / 32 highway.

Where built: Normal, Ill.

Let's Be Thankful

(NAPS) - As the holidays draw closer, we should be thankful for well-built roads, bridges and airports that let us travel to our family and friends with reasonable ease and safety.

But we can't count our blessings forever - America's infrastructure is rapidly decaying from poor maintenance, underfunding and overwork.

• Bad roads are a factor in nearly one of three highway accidents. Traffic delay on aging roads will cost America $50 billion in lost wages and wasted fuel by the year 2005.

• Nearly one of every five miles of interstates remains in poor or mediocre condition. Repairing the backlog of decaying roads and bridges will cost taxpayers $290 billion.

• The number of severely congested airports may rise from seven to 17 by the year 2002, which would cause serious delays in your flights in air traffic.

Civil engineers are working hard to find solutions. Concerned citizens should ask their state and federal lawmakers to support bills that seek greater investment in vital infrastructure.

Support efforts to prevent government from raiding the federal highway and airport trust funds. Urge Congress to protect these funds - so that all Americans can have an infrastructure for which we can be truly thankful.
