Bond election decision due

The Plymouth-Canton school board will decide this week on putting a $79.7 million bond issue on the ballot this week. There are some questions about the need.

A sweeping plan to raise $79.7 million to build new schools in the Plymouth-Canton district drew plenty of reaction when it was unveiled last week.

The Plymouth-Canton Board of Education is expected to vote on the proposed 25-year bond issue Tuesday. The meeting is set for 7 p.m. in the band room in the Phase Three building at Canton Center and Joy Roads.

The proposal is the result of brainstorming at three community forums. Participating were "stakeholders" including residents, parents, school board members, administrators and employees.

If voters approve the plan, proposed for the March ballot, a new high school would be built at Joy and Beck roads on school-owned land. Acreage would be purchased in southwest Canton for an elementary school, and elsewhere in Canton for a future middle school.

Remodeling at existing buildings would ensure equity in programs. Other priorities include art and music rooms in elementary schools; more computers in classrooms; a return to neighborhood schools; and lower class sizes. The new high school would not include a football stadium, pool, auto shop or auditorium.

Salem High School junior Kristen Whalen said a new high school is sorely needed. "If we don't build one, the value of education will be severely affected. Class sizes steadily increase, and the quality of education decreases. There's a lack of supplies and time, and there's extreme congestion to the point where students sit on the floor to eat lunch."

Former Plymouth Mayor Bob Jones asked about projected elementary enrollment, which a district consultant said will drop by 100 students by 2001-02. "How can we prove we need an elementary if we

Kids spread holiday cheer to seniors

BY M.B. DILLON
STAFF WRITER

For senior citizens, the holidays can be trying times.

"It's a tough time of year, which is why any interaction with younger people is very, very good therapy," said Sharon Thomas, director at Plymouth's Tonquish Creek Manor, which is home to 108 seniors.

Eighty second-graders from Fiegel Elementary provided just that, as part of the schools' Peacemaking and Quest programs. Along with their teachers Beth Heller, Amy Montgomery and Sue Beaufait, students sang Christmas carols, read books with the seniors, and performed skits.

They even had a singing contest, splitting the room in two to see who could sing the loudest. "We had a judge who decided both sides won," said Thomas.

"The seniors loved it," she said. "They had a ball. They loved the kids."

Today's society is so mobile that children with grandparents living nearby are in the minority, said Thomas. "Most kids have to get on an airplane or drive a long way to see a grandparent. I really think grandparents are important for grandchildren, and grandchildren are important to grandparents. Any type of interaction between grandparents and children is always a good thing."

The seniors had a surprise for the students as well. "They made up bags with treats – candy canes, a drink box and potato chips," said Thomas.

"The kids, especially at that young age are so cute. Half of them don't have front teeth. They're so cute when they talk."

The students were very good singers, Thomas added. "The seniors loved their singing, and it seemed like the teachers enjoyed it. And I know the children got a lot out of it."

"The residents invited them back at any time. We told them we'd love to have them back for a spinach-and-tuna-noodle casserole lunch sometime.

"They decided they preferred pizza. But they have an open invitation to come back here at any time to entertain, read with a grandparent, or anything they decide would like," she said.

Tuning up: Randy Thomas and Helen Clinansmith sing "Rudolph the Red-Nosed Reindeer".

Police help spread MADD message at holidays

The police departments in Plymouth and Plymouth Township have launched their annual "Tie One On for Safety" holiday campaign.

The public awareness campaign is sponsored statewide by Mothers Against Drunk Driving to combat drinking and driving during the holiday season. It runs through Jan. 1.

As community sponsors, local law enforcement agencies are asking Plymouth-area residents to tie a red ribbon to their auto antenna, side mirror or other visible location on their vehicles. The MADD red ribbon is a symbol of the motorist's commitment to drive in a safe and sober manner during the holiday season, and to remind other motorists to do the same.

"We have supported that program at least for the last five years that I'm aware of," said Plymouth police Chief Robert Scoggins.

"The campaign against drunk driving seems to be a never-ending battle. If you can at least bring some awareness to it with people out there – and keep issues in front of them by using red ribbons a visual kind of thing – it's an excellent opportunity for the community to stand up and say, 'We are opposed to drinking and driving.'

"We have had a no-tolerance policy for a long time as others have had, and we'll continue to do that," the chief said.

Plymouth Township police have a similar philosophy. "We have participated every year," said Sgt. Robert Smith. "People can come into the station and get red ribbons. It's a recognizable symbol for people as soon as they see it. The campaign has had such great exposure

Law would make health insurance language clear

A plan to simplify health insurance information has been approved by the state legislature, according to State Rep. Gerald Law, R-Plymouth, who is a sponsor of the measure.

■ 'This is a giant step forward for patients and consumers.'

Gerald Law
—State representative

The legislative package need's the signature of Gov. John Engler to become law.

He said the legislation promises plain English explanations of health insurance benefits including prescription drug coverage, co-payment responsibility and grievance procedures. The measurers would also end discrimination based on pre-existing conditions.

"This is a giant step forward for patients and consumers," said Law. "The more policy holders know about their plans, the more comfortable they will be calling insurers with concerns or problems."

He contends the legislation would give patients full access to information about their insurance plan. They could request anything from information about financial arrangements between insurers and health care providers to a specialist's professional credentials.

The bills would also improve the grievance process for denial of treatment by establishing a response time limit of 90 days and expedited procedures for emergency cases.

"In life-altering situations, patients do not have months to wait for a response," said Law. "They deserve speedy answers and a grievance process they can understand."

The legislation also prohibits denial of coverage due to pre-existing conditions, except in limited instances.

"More residents will be insured in the future thanks to this plan," said Law. "We're requiring insurers to be up front with consumers and health care providers."

Morton Taylor speed limit declines

BY VALERIE OLANDER
STAFF WRITER

Tomorrow morning you may hear a radio traffic report sounding like this: "Steer clear of Morton Taylor between Ford and Saltz where driving conditions are a political nightmare."

Residents have succeeded in getting the speed limit lowered from 40 mph to 25 mph — not once, but twice within the past month. Three different governmental agencies are involved and two different laws are being used to set the speed limit.

Canton Police are abiding by the 25 mph speed limit set by the Michigan State Police following a Dec. 9 meeting, according to Public Safety Director John Santomauro. State police set the speed limit by designating the road as a "residential district."

"An aggressive and strict enforcement program will begin immediately," Santomauro said.

The other 25 mph speed limit was set by concurrence of Wayne County Executive Ed McNamara and the Canton Township Board, which approved a resolution Nov. 12. It was never made official because the county didn't rescind the 40 mph traffic control order, according to state police Sgt. Bill Brandt.

According to Wayne County Deputy Corporate Counsel William S. Noakes the 25 mph speed limit set under the parks provision was effective Dec. 9, the same day state police met and agreed to lower the limit under the other law. Dec. 9 is the day the traffic control order was stamped by the county clerk.

The parks provision says the county and township can set the speed limit not less than 15 mph on roads adjacent to a park. The street dead-ends at Morton Taylor.

But at issue are threats by the Michigan State Police to take the issue to the Attorney General's Office. Brandt also said the speed limit will likely be increased to 40 mph when Morton Taylor is extended from Ford north to Warren in the fall of 1997.

Resident Mary Gerard summed up the situation this way: "I don't know why everyone has to have their knickers twisted over a half-mile stretch of road."

The residents of Morton Taylor will be going to McNamara's office today at 4:30 p.m. to present him with a banner of the neighborhood childrens' handprints "because we feel he saved the lives of our children," Gerard said.

Writing help available

Students aren't the only ones taking advantage of Plymouth-Canton Educational Park's Writing Tutorial Centers.

While the main focus is to help the student body, "The WTC staff also works with teachers from all disciplines to help integrate writing across the curriculum, and to help them add meaningful writing assignments to their curricula," said teacher Susan Welker.

The Salem writing tutorial center is in Room 1337.

Help provided to grieving pet owners

BY KEVIN BROWN
STAFF WRITER

■ 'A lot of people feel it's just a dog, just a cat, you can get another one. But people don't say it's just a husband or just a wife, get another one.'

Kathy Diehl
—Psychologist

Your pets never question you. They don't talk too much and are always glad to see you.

Some will tell you sincerely they've preferred the company of a particular dog or cat to most people they've known. So when the pet dies, grief can be real.

Plymouth's First Presbyterian Church has been home for eight years to a pet loss support group, the first formed in Michigan.

"We started it just as a six-month pilot program, through the Southeast Michigan Veterinary Medicine Association," said Kathy Diehl, an Ann Arbor psychologist with a background in grief counseling who heads the group.

"I've been through pet loss myself. Just because you facilitate a group doesn't give you any edge," she said.

The group meets 7:30-9 p.m. the second and fourth Mondays of each month at the church at Main and Church streets.

"People who are strongly attached to their pets have feelings of grief very similar to losing any family member," Diehl said. "Our society seems to always be in a hurry. We try to rush people through the grieving process."

"A lot of people feel it's just a dog, just a cat, you can get another one. But people don't say it's just a husband or just a wife – get another one. The intensity of grief seems to be correlated to the intensity of the relationship," she said. "Some people will say I didn't feel this bad when my brother died."

Four to eight people show up for each meeting. The group is free.

How do those attending help each other? "It's not a therapy group. It's a group that offers support and understanding, they'll say, 'I've felt that way too, they will help each other,' " Diehl said.

"They will say this is the process I went through, and that they're not unusual or weird."

Diehl said it's typical for grieving pet owners to express guilt. "Sometimes accidents happen. They say I wonder if I had gotten a second opinion, or I wonder if I euthanized too soon. It seems to be a real relief for people to share those things," she said. "It's real relief to hear you did do a good job with the information you had."

Some people who come mourn birds or horses that have died, but most mourn dogs or cats. Diehl is the group facilitator, and she often has a local veterinarian on hand to answer medical questions.

It's typical for those attending to do so for a few weeks. But Diehl said a few have attended for several months. "The people who tend to get a lot of benefit from the group live alone, or have children grown and out of the household," Diehl said.

"We tell them it's OK to grieve. Sometimes that's all they really need to hear. I tell them it is a legitimate sadness, pets fulfill a lot or roles in life – a family member, confidant, court jester. For some people the healing process is facilitated by talking about it."

"Everybody who comes to the group had a pet that was the most outstanding, smartest, most wonderful, most talented, everyone has some wonderful and memorable stories," Diehl said.

"One retired woman who came to the group for a while felt she owed her life to her dog. She was assaulted in her carport. The dog was in the house, and while she was being assaulted her dog was going crazy, the neighbors called the police," Diehl recalled. "She felt her life had been saved."

For more information on the group, call 397-1119.

Coffee's hot, firm to expand

BY KEVIN BROWN
STAFF WRITER

When Tom Isaia started selling and serving espresso machines in Ann Arbor in 1974, there were no coffeehouses.

Now, with the growing popularity of coffeehouses and specialty coffees, his expanding Coffee Express Co., which distributes its products to more than 300 retail outlets in Michigan and northern Ohio, has outgrown it's Ann Arbor building.

That's why the company is moving to a new Plymouth Township facility, in April or May.

Isaia said that now, 75 percent of his business is roasting and selling coffee beans, to markets and coffeehouses including the Plymouth Coffee Bean Co.

In the mid-70s, Isaia owned the Blind Pig tavern in Ann Arbor, where an espresso machine sat behind the bar. To expand his espresso machine business, "We did some yellow page advertising, some word of mouth," he said.

After selling the Blind Pig in 1979, he took a booth at a coffee-related trade show in 1980. "We were actually calling on different restaurants, the word spread that I knew how to fix espresso machines," Isaia said.

Then, the machines could be found mainly in finer restaurants, and occasionally in Italian restaurants. By 1982, Isaia was also roasting coffee for the retail market.

That business grew to include coffeehouses that began springing up in Ann Arbor in the late 80s. "All it takes is a popular place to begat other places," Isaia said.

Coffee Express Co. will be leaving its current 3,000 square-foot site at 1342 N. Main for an 8,000 square-foot facility at 47722 Clipper Street in the Metro West Industrial Park. The company currently employs nine. Isaia said that number could grow by four.

Has the coffeehouse trend peaked? "I don't think so," Isaia said. He points to the TV show "Friends." Several scenes typically take place in a coffeehouse. "The underlying reason for coffeehouses, is it's a social place, all people can go there," he said.

While coffee drinkers may start out with flavored coffee with lots of milk and sweetener, Isaia said they typically move toward coffee "stripped away from some of the trappings."

His company specializes in non-flavored beans. Isaia stresses that coffee grown in different regions of the world has its own characteristics. For example, coffee grown in the Americas "has a kind of dependable taste, it's not acidic or lively," Isaia said.

"East Africa is more of a walk on the wild side, it's sweeter. Sumatra has a lot of body, it's a much different tasting coffee," he said. And there is a big difference in flavor between light roasted and dark roasted beans, wherever they're from.

Saying he's anxious to get involved in the Plymouth community, Isaia is helping to sponsor the Plymouth ice festival and will donate coffee to ice carvers.

"It's a big thing for us to move, but in the end we're closer to the larger market area we deal with," Isaia said.

The company's new building was designed by the DeMattia Group of Plymouth and will be built by the Dowler-Ronnisch Co. of Southfield.

that there is almost universal understanding of what the ribbon means.

"It's a nice reminder. People see it driving by, and it puts back into their minds each time they see it the idea of promoting a safe and sober holiday," said Smith.

"There are so many tragic stories that occur at Christmas time. We don't need traffic fatalities at all."

For the 11 years since the inception of the traffic safety promotion, law enforcement has been instrumental in getting the red ribbon message out to local communities.

The winter holidays remain a time of high risk for drinking and driving. Last year in Michigan during Christmas, five of the 16 traffic fatalities involved alcohol. Over the New Year holiday, six of the 14 crash fatalities involved alcohol.

Of the 1,537 traffic crash fatalities in the state in 1995, 566 involved alcohol, or 36.8 percent.

are going down 100 in enrollment? We're not going with a new middle school, yet enrollment is going up by 347. I'm concerned about the numbers and whether we can justify this."

Jones also questioned why employee benefit increases of 5 percent are factored into the five-year financial projection.

Jeff Phillips of Plymouth asked why there was a big hurry. "I was taught that if a salesman tries to sell you something and says 'You have to do it now,' you don't need it." Phillips said he'd like to see the district do projections for bus maintenance and operating funds.

"Otherwise, it's like refinancing your mortgage so you can run up your charge cards. Pretty soon, we will have taxes that will drive property values down."

Superintendent Charles Little said, "I don't hold out any hope that there's going to be a way to rearrange funds to cover capital improvements. Repeatedly, we will need bond issues because of the limitations of funds."

Salem teacher Pat Barry said staff and students are concerned about the extent to which "they haven't been heard."

Sixty-two percent of teachers surveyed internally believe a new high school should be built off-site, he said.

Facilities, technology, and computers at the high schools are "woefully inadequate," added Barry. "We ought to close the libraries instead of furthering the pretense that we are serving students."

If the new school doesn't have a pool, auditorium or robotics lab, "you are going to have to transport kids between buildings," he added. "The 10-minute passing time is not going to work."

Canton parent Barb Murlowski said Bentley Elementary is so crowded that guest speakers have to be brought in for two days, and not all parents can be accommodated at events. "This wasn't foreseen two years ago. I'd really like to believe your numbers, and I wholeheartedly support the bond issue. I just believe it's going to be woefully short."

Resident Ted Bohlen said it's hard to participate when the public packet doesn't include any figures. "I'd like to see a breakdown on the $79 million and where it all goes. We owe it to shareholders to have that on the table."

Bond steering committee member John Stewart said he supports the proposal. "I can't see private and charter schools taking significant population away from Plymouth-Canton." Stewart asked for an "avalanche of information. Let's have full disclosure."

Of the five-year financial plan, Plymouth parent Judy Mardigian said, "I don't like the idea of deficit spending." Mardigian wants to swap district-owned property for land in southwest Canton. She also asked whether money is budgeted to lower class size in middle and high schools, and learned the answer is no.

Archer promotes cooperation between Detroit and suburbs

BY ZACHARY GORCHOW
STAFF WRITER

■ 'It's not Detroit vs. Canton, or Detroit vs. Novi, or Detroit vs. Auburn Hills. It's more Detroit vs. Chicago — our region vs. their region.'

Dennis Archer
—Detroit mayor

Detroit Mayor Dennis Archer spoke at the Canton Economic Club Thursday, promoting further cooperation between Detroit and suburbs in an effort to boost southeast Michigan's economic prowess.

Speaking with a hoarse, but enthusiastic, voice, Archer listed Detroit's accomplishments and laid out future goals before a packed room at Summit on the Park, Canton's new community and recreation center.

Archer said his priorities include having southeast Michigan cities work in cooperation to turn the region into an economic powerhouse that can compete on a national level.

"The region has not come together to maximize our collective strengths," he said. "It's not Detroit vs. Canton, or Detroit vs. Novi or Detroit vs. Auburn Hills. It's more Detroit vs. Chicago — our region vs. their region."

Henry Cisneros, Housing and Urban Development secretary, recently visited Detroit to observe how a federally awarded "empowerment zone" is impacting the city. The zone has created 1,750 jobs, which is more than 1,000 ahead of the next city, Archer said.

Archer said the zone's success could mean that the federal government designs a pilot program for cities based on Detroit's system — a possibility that suburbs like Canton could help make a reality.

"This area — this region — can be really, really strong — Detroit and Canton working together," he said.

Archer compared Canton's economic growth to Detroit's.

"Canton Township has significant new developments — an industrial park, technological center and 13 new office products," he said. "I'm pleased to be able to say that several of these developers have invested in the city of Detroit."

A region requires a viable central city to succeed, Archer said.

"If Detroit is not well, then the whole region suffers," he said. "When people come to Detroit, they're not just going to stay there. They're going to go to Canton — the waterworld of America."

Terry Bennett, Canton Township clerk, said she agreed that what happens in Detroit affects surrounding suburbs and recommended that southeast Michigan form a regional committee to address common concerns such as infrastructure.

But despite Bennett's desire to work with Detroit, she said limits do exist, referring to some Canton officials' opposition to a recent Wayne County tax proposal to help finance the construction of new sports facilities in downtown Detroit.

"If you have to make a choice where our dollars are going to be used, you want them to be used in Canton," she said.

Ron Lieberman, a retired Canton resident and township Planning Commission member, said he likes that Archer is reaching out to suburbs, a move that Lieberman would like to see the city's surrounding communities reciprocate.

"He's building the bridge that the area needs," he said. "We'd better start believing (in Detroit). We can't let that thing die."

Deborah Nesbit, a Canton resident and social worker, said she enjoyed Archer's theme of cooperation.

"The suburbs and Detroit need each other in order to survive," she said. "We may have disagreements, but I think the main focus should be how we can provide a positive future for our young people."

Dentistry in the 90s
by Herbert M. Gardner, D.D.S. & Martha P. Zinderman, R.N., D.D.S.

TAKING GUM DISEASE TO HEART

As researchers embark upon a study to substantiate a possible link between periodontal disease and heart disease, patients should bear in mind that dental health is an integral part of one's overall health. That is to say that, by paying close attention to the health of the teeth and gums, people may be able to avoid disease in other parts of the body. In the case of the research begin done to uncover a link between gum disease and heart disease, scientists at the University of North Carolina were spurred on by data that indicated that people who have more severe periodontitis are more likely to develop heart disease than those who do not have severe gum problems. It is theorized that the bacteria that cause plaque may also be responsible for causing white blood cells to release clotting factors and proteins that contribute to heart disease.

Please let us know if there have been any major changes in your life such as a change in medical history. This will help us serve you better. Also, at LIVONIA VILLAGE DENTAL ASSOCIATES we are currently accepting new patients. If you know of anyone in need of quality dental care we would appreciate your referrals. We're located at 19171 Merriman Road, where our purpose is to help people reach and commit to the highest level of dental health personally appropriate to them. Please call 478-2110 to schedule an appointment. Smiles are our business.

Home hides past's secrets

BY VIRGINIA BAILEY PARKER
SPECIAL WRITER

Most people drive past a particular house on Michigan Avenue and never realize it's one of Canton's oldest landmarks.

The two-story residence was once the Sheldon Inn, built in 1825 by Timothy and Rachel Sheldon. The one-story east wing served for a time as its tavern. The Mortons, of Morton Taylor Road fame, later owned the domicile.

It is this part of the house's history which comes down to us through Helen Morton Crichton Parks' stories.

Parks' grandfather, Charles Morton, moved his family of nine children into the former inn in 1886. Thirty-two years later, his youngest child, Alfred, moved his family into the home, which then sat at the end of Geddes Road. The old Detroit Urban Railway (DUR) street car line ran directly in front of the house. When Michigan Avenue expanded into a double road, Geddes was cut short to end, as it does now, at Sheldon Road.

In those earlier days, Michigan Avenue, Geddes and Sheldon bordered a large green. "This green in the summertime was filled with chicory," Parks said. "We liked the smell of it. We used to get down in it as children. We had our own little paths ... In the late evening, especially, we liked to be out there roaming around. We thought it was a lot of fun."

The walk to school

Childhood memories also included walking to school with Gertrude Sitlington, who was a little bit older. "When I started school, I was afraid to walk to school alone, and my mother made arrangements with Gertrude for me to walk with her to and from school."

Parks noted that a stretch of present-day Morton Taylor, north of Michigan Avenue, was then known as Sitlington Lane.

Describing her girlhood home, Parks recalled it was heated with coal stoves and the kitchen had a small sink and pitcher pump. "After priming, you could pump water from the cistern located in the wood shed," she said. "The kitchen also had very few cupboards, and large table substituted for modern countertop work areas. "The aroma of fresh baked bread often filled the air."

Preserving food involved a lot of canning. "To this day, I don't care much for pork because that was our mainstay in the winter. We'd butcher and then the pork was canned. I don't care what you do with it; it all tasted the same."

She said that along with canned pork, they stored all their fruit and vegetables in the basement. "Some of the later things, like carrots, could be kept in sand in the basement," Parks explained. Asked if any other vegetables were stored in sand, she recalled that beets were too, although they were more perishable. "Mother always tried to keep those things as long as she could because when it came to winter, we just didn't have greens of any kind."

A different method proved effective for another food. "I can remember we used to pick tomatoes – the green ones – wrap them in paper individually and put them in the basement. Lots of times, you'd have tomatoes ripening up as far as Christmas."

People in Sheldon Corners shopped at Frank Winsor's general store for their staples and a few foods. "They used to have pickles in the barrels," she said. "The flour, of course, was sold in 25-pound sacks. You didn't think about buying a five-pound sack, because every farm woman baked her own bread."

Modern lighting

In 1928, the Morton home was wired for electricity. This was such an exciting event that Parks' uncle returned from California just to see the house illuminated for the first time. "One night, as soon as it was completed, every light in every room was turned on," she recalled. "We all stood outside and admired the lights coming from every room in the house."

Parks' mother, Alta, grew geraniums in her bay window. It was filled with tiers of the flowers. "She always figured to have them come into bloom for Decoration Day because the people coming to the cemetery always had to get off (the DUR) at Geddes Road right in front of our house. She sold the geraniums, and usually lilacs were in bloom. She sold bouquets of them to people who took them to the cemetery to put on the graves."

First librarian

Stories included memories of Zehra Palmer who was one of Alta's best friends. On the running board of her Ford coupe, Palmer had a big trunk. She'd fill it with books and set out for Canton, but she'd stop along the way to let Alta take her choice first. Palmer also lent books out of her personal library.

Legislation allows university boards some secrecy in presidential searches

BY TIM RICHARD
STAFF WRITER

House Republican whips had to work an extra day to win approval of the season's most controversial bill – partially cloaking the hunt for university presidential candidates.

On Dec. 10 Senate Bill 211 appeared to have been beaten when only 40 green (yes) lights appeared on the House of Representatives' voting board, with 56 needed for passage.

But House GOP floor leader Ken Sikkema shouted "clear the board," stopping the voting until leaders and university lobbyists could convert more lawmakers.

Ironically, although Sikkema's tactic saved the bill from certain defeat, he personally voted against it.

A day later, the House passed the measure on a 66-38 vote. It will allow the 15 state university boards to set up search committees that can meet secretly to recruit and screen presidential candidates.

A companion measure, SB 212, allows some of the finalists' records to be kept secret under the Freedom of Information Act. But boards will have to interview the finalists in open meeting and wait 30 days between the time the names are released and the hiring takes place.

As passed, the bills provided far less than the total secrecy sought by the sponsor, Sen. John Schwarz, R-Battle Creek. His original bills would have allowed boards to close the door on both interviews and voting.

But even the watered-down bills brought lengthy and vehement protests from opposing lawmakers.

"Passage of this bill creates a slippery slope. Local governments will be asking for the same exemptions the universities have," warned Rep. Deborah Whyman, R-Canton. "If they (applicants) don't want to apply for a $260,000-a-year taxpayer-paid job, they can apply elsewhere."

"This legislation attacks the very concept of open government by reducing the amount of information available to citizens," said Rep. Greg Kaza, R-Rochester Hills. "It undermines the state Freedom of Information and Open Meetings acts.

"Politically, these bills will only increase the Republican Party's gender gap in metropolitan Detroit. It reinforces the notion among voters that there is a good ol' boy network in Michigan government that

Director: SMART reduced its deficit

BY KEN ABRAMCZYK
STAFF WRITER

The Suburban Mobility Authority for Regional Transportation has cut its deficit substantially, according to SMART's executive director.

Richard Kaufman told members of the Conference of Western Wayne on Friday the deficit — originally at $20 million — fell below $15 million for the 1995-96 fiscal year. Next year Kaufman expects it will fall below $8 million.

Kaufman also reported that the new bus routes on Telegraph and 15 Mile Roads were doing well. The Telegraph Road route from Michigan Avenue to Eight Mile showed an average per weekday of 314 riders in September, up from its rider count in May of 217.

"Although the ridership numbers aren't where we'd like to be, the new routes have significant growth," Kaufman said. He was confident that SMART will have record riders by next year.

Kaufman gave the update to CWW to show how SMART was doing to meet the campaign promises of the 1995 millage vote. Those promises included eliminating the deficit, adding more routes and providing more municipal credits.

Several communities are using a partnership with SMART to use the municipal credits. Livonia and Dearborn Heights recently approved such agreements.

"We're starting to be able to show that in cities where we only could afford two or three buses before, we can double those numbers," Kaufman said.

Kaufman told the CWW that SMART distributes $3 million annually in municipal credit allocation to cities, villages and townships in Wayne, Oakland and Macomb counties. Municipal credits cannot be used for capital projects.

SMART receives the funds as a grant from state Act 51 discretionary funds. About $1 million or one-third of the municipal credit allocation is distributed with no requirement for local match.

The remaining $2 million is dependent on a 60 percent local match as required by Act 51. That local match requirement is automatically met by municipalities that elect to pay the 1/3 mill property tax, which makes those cities "opt-in" communities.

"Opt-out" communities that do not provide the balance of the required local share will receive its portion of the $1 million that does not require the local match according to population.

For the remaining $2 million, a 60 percent local match is required.

"If the (opt-out) community cannot come up with matching money for the $2 million, that money would be lost and sent to the authority in Wayne or Oakland counties," Kaufman said. "That authority will decide where to spend that money."

Those municipal credits must be spent within that county.

prefers the secrecy of private councils to the sunshine of public disclosure," Kaza added.

He blistered the Legislature's 1993-96 record in shutting down meetings and information about the Department of Natural Resources, pollution audits, and the Public Service Commission – "more than a trend; a frontal assault on open government."

"Sunshine is the best disinfectant," added Rep. Dave Jaye, R-Utica.

University officials argued during earlier hearings that sitting presidents wouldn't apply for highly visible jobs like the University of Michigan if their names became public in their home bailiwicks.

Walter Harrison, a University of Michigan vice president, argued that open meetings and interviews actually decreased the amount of information governing boards could obtain.

Wayne State University President David Adamany argued in hearings that fellow presidents simply wouldn't apply at Michigan universities if their applications became public information. The day after the bill passed, Adamany announced his retirement after 15 years as president.

Here is how area lawmakers voted on SB 211, the bill closing down search committees under the Open Meetings Act:

OBSERVER

YES – Lyn Bankes, R-Redford, Eileen DeHart, D-Westland, Tom Kelly, D-Wayne.

NO – Gerald Law, R-Plymouth, Jim Ryan, R-Redford, Deborah Whyman, R-Canton.

ECCENTRIC

YES – Barbara Dobb, R-Union Lake, Jan Dolan, R-Farmington Hills, David Gubow, D-Huntington Woods, John Jamian, R-Bloomfield Township, Tom Middleton, R-Ortonville.

NO – Maxine Berman, D-Southfield, Penny Crissman, R-Rochester, Shirley Johnson, R-Royal Oak, Greg Kaza, R-Rochester Hills.

FOIA expanded

The Senate voted 37-0 to strip a House bill of a change that would have shut down information about public school teachers.

As passed by the lower chamber, HB 5726 would have tightened a section of the Freedom of Information Act exempting release of information of "a personal nature" only where public disclosure "would constitute a clearly unwarranted invasion of an individual's privacy."

The bill went back to the House for concurrence of an amendment.

Bill OK'd to make public police list of sex offenders

POLICE

After a brief, sharp debate, the state House of Representatives approved a Senate-passed bill making police lists of convicted sex offenders public records.

The House gave 90-12 approval to SB 959, sponsored by Sen. Michael Bouchard, R-Birmingham, and sent the bill to Gov. John Engler for signing.

Rep. David Gubow, D-Huntington Woods, predicted the law would backfire. "The idea of registration is a good one. Law enforcement can watch them.

"But this bill raises the question whether they (convicted sex offenders) would register or not. It will have a chilling effect. It will force them to go underground.

"These people have done their time. They've won the right to go back to society. The legislation is well-intentioned, but it will have a chilling effect on registration," said Gubow.

The 1994 Sex Offenders Registration Act, sponsored in 1994 by Sens. Bouchard and Lana Pollack, D-Ann Arbor, required convicted persons to register as sex offenders with State Police.

As amended, it will require the State Police to publish and make available the list for public inspection at local law enforcement departments.

Here is how area lawmakers voted:

OBSERVER

YES – Eileen DeHart, D-Westland, Gerald Law, R-Plymouth, Tom Kelly, D-Wayne, James Ryan, R-Redford, Deborah Whyman, R-Canton.

ABSENT – Lyn Bankes, R-Redford.

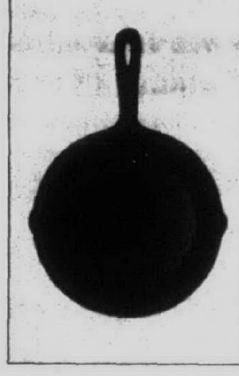
Cookware is safe when you take care

In with the new cookware, out with the old! The best choices for new cookware depends on who you ask. Everyone has a favorite type of pan or kind of material they think is the very best for cooking.

The number one consumer cookware choice is aluminum, number two is stainless steel. There are also other materials available such as copper, anodized aluminum, non-stick coatings, cast iron, and ceramic, each having advantages and disadvantages.

Tips

- Always follow the manufacturers directions for care and cleaning of cookware.
- Avoid hard abrasives on cookware.
- Always transfer food into plastic or glass containers after the cooking or heating is completed.
- Do not store food in any cookware.
- Avoid scratching the surfaces with metal utensils.



Aluminum cookware gets attention, not for cooking reasons, but health reasons. Research continues for the possible link between aluminum and Alzheimer's disease. The National Institute of Health has all but ruled out any connection between these two. The Institute has said that many of the over-the-counter drugs such as antacids or buffered aspirin contain more aluminum than can be attained from cookware. Do not store highly acidic foods such as tomatoes, sauerkraut, or applesauce, or salty foods in aluminum cookware. It can cause pitting of the cookware surface, and may affect the taste and color of the food.

Aluminum is an excellent heat conductor, it heats evenly and quickly. A mild abrasive cleanser or coarse salt will clean this cookware. If it has darkened, fill the pan with water and vinegar or lemon juice and boil 15 minutes. The aluminum cookware will look just like new again.

Stainless steel

Stainless steel is durable, won't corrode, is hard, tough, and resistant to wear. Stainless steel is a poor heat conductor so usually the bottom is coated with copper or aluminum. Do not allow acidic or salt foods to remain in stainless steel for long periods of time. There is no apparent health problem, but this will pit the steel surface. Generally, hot soapy water and a nylon scrub pad will clean stainless steel cookware.

Copper is an excellent conductor of heat and most cooks have at least one copper pan to make delicate sauces.

Food barely sticks to anodized aluminum which has been altered so it cleans better. The "darling" of the cookware department has combined hard anodized aluminum with a nonstick coating. The non-stick surface on cookware is coated with Teflon or Silverstone and is not toxic, any chips that flake off and are ingested will pass harmlessly through the body. However, if these pots and pans start peeling seriously, replace them. Most can be wiped clean with a sponge and hot soapy water. The advantage of these pans is that food can be cooked with little or no fat.

Cast Iron

Cast iron absorbs heat slowly and evenly, and are good for baking, browning or frying. New cast iron pans need to be seasoned with unsalted cooking oil before using, follow manufacturer directions. Retain the seasoning by wiping cookware clean with a paper towel, scrub gently and let thoroughly dry after using and before storing.

Ceramic is a poor heat conductor, but a good heat retainer, suitable for baking. Glass ceramic cookware can go from the freezer to the oven without breaking. Most ceramic pans are dishwasher proof and easy to clean.

CHAMPAGNE ADDS HOLIDAY SPARKLE.

STORY BY
ELEANOR & RAY HEALD
SPECIAL WRITERS

Iron Horse Vineyards in Sebastopol, Calif., began producing sparkling wines in 1980. Today's superior sparklers under the Iron Horse label bring great satisfaction to founder-partners Audrey and Barry Sterling, Iron Horse winemaker Forrest Tancer and his author wife Joy Sterling, who is winery sales, marketing and public relations director. The Iron Horse project was initiated in 1976 after the Sterlings searched for a winery site in Europe for many years. It's on a roll today with both still wines and sparklings.

Of the seven Iron Horse sparklings produced, five are available locally. They include 1991 Brut $26, 1993 Wedding Cuvee (Blanc de Noirs) $28, 1990 Blanc de Blancs $28, 1989 Brut LD $53 and 1991 Brut Rose $28. It's impossible to pick a favorite from this stellar line up, but we're impressed with the elevated quality of the 1991 Brut, as it compares to previous vintages.

An inquiry brought this response from Tancer. "In the early years, we followed the French model where grapes are picked at lower sugar levels. We left the wine on the lees after the second fermentation in the bottle about the same length of time as French champagne makers. What we've discovered is that it's important for us to pick grapes at higher sugar levels and allow the wine to rest in the bottle on the yeast lees for a longer time before we disgorge. Grapes picked at high maturity offer more flavors and they gain greater complexity and creaminess by longer time on the yeast lees. It's as simple as that."

Iron Horse does something that no other California sparkling producer does. Tancer puts the disgorging date on the label. Therefore, when you pay a lot of money for a wine of excellence such as Iron Horse's top-of-the-line 1989 Brut LD (Late Disgorged), you can tell easily whether the wine has been on the store shelf for a long time or whether it's fresh. Champagnes and sparkling wines are released by the producer when they are ready to drink. With Iron Horse, recently disgorged wine can be in the hands of consumers within four or five months after disgorging. That's about as perfect as it gets.

In Joy Sterling's recently-published book "Vintage Feasting," (Pocket Books, 1996, $24, a great gift for any wine lover) she says she doesn't get hung up on the use of "champagne" as a synonym for sparkling wine. She discusses sparkling wine styles and their food matches and writes, "Most people do not think of sparkling wine with food. They think of it as an aperitif or an after-dinner drink, something to be enjoyed standing up. I drink sparkling wine with almost everything. Brut is rich and creamy, which is the reason it goes so well with clear soup. The taste and mouthfeel of sparkling also seem to respond to ginger and lemon grass. Ironically, it works with everything you can think of that goes with beer — peanuts, popcorn, anything salty, sushi, deep-fried and hot, spicy food, sweet-and-sour dishes, and all the cuisines like Caribbean and Chinese that feature a melange of different flavors."

She also says that Blanc de Noirs is one of the few sparklings that's delicious with chocolate, provided the chocolate isn't too sweet Going on to Rosé, she refers directly to Iron Horse and writes, "Ours is actually the driest of our sparklings and my favorite food with it is steak. I love to serve it in a big burgundy glass— it is primarily pinot noir — so you get a bath of bubbles down your throat. It makes me feel like I'm Diamond Jim Brady."

Domaine Chandon's Chef de Cuisine Philippe Jeanty recommends smoked fish, foie gras, lamb shanks, roast pork tenderloin and deep-fried foods such as spicy onion rings or vegetable tempura especially with Chandon's newest release Cuvée 490 $18.

Champagne Bollinger

Champagne Bollinger, rooted in France's Champagne region since the 15th century, is one of the few remaining family-owned and managed Grandes Marques houses. Bollinger is singular in several ways. Fruit is sourced exclusively from grands and premiers crus vineyards with an overall rating of 98 percent on the famous eschelle (ladder) ranking of Champagne vineyards. Family-owned vineyards contribute 70 percent of the grapes. Vintage-dated champagnes are exclusively made from chardonnay and pinot noir (other houses also include the lesser red grape pinot meunier). It is one of only two houses (the other is Krug) that continues to ferment all vintage-dated champagnes and some non-vintage in small oak barrels. In the dosage, Bollinger uses reserve wines that are impeccably stored in cork-finished magnums.

Bollinger Special Cuvee Brut $35 represents the house style which Guy Bizot, great-nephew of Lily Bollinger and company marketing director, described as "consistently styled and determined by the grapes. The backbone, richness and body stem from 60 percent pinot noir." The wine has a "touch of age" coming from the reserve wines in the dosage. Acidity in this wine is perfect and makes it a superior food accompaniment.

Rolled out in time for the holidays is one of Bollinger's best. Grand Année 1989 $65 was 100 percent barrel fermented and is a blend of 61 percent pinot noir and 39 percent chardonnay.

"This vintage had excellent maturity and very ripe grapes," Bizot explained. "In this wine you have both the Bollinger style and vintage character. If a person wants to age one of our champagnes, this is the one I'd recommend. Under good storage conditions, it will retain its freshness for one or two more years."

Bollinger RD $120 is made exclusively from the 1982 vintage. The bottle sampled was disgorged November 7, 1995. Its aromatic and toasted sourdough bread notes portended richness that was delivered on the palate. Recently disgorged (RD) champagnes don't get better than this. To savor its toasty richness and finesse, we recommend a light fish course such as sole with a delicate, creamy sauce.

Treat friends and family to no-guilt sweets

The holidays are a time of delicious temptations – buttery homemade cookies and candies, creamy eggnog, salted nuts and other once-a-year treats. This season you can make the gifts you bake for friends and family just a little bit healthier without sacrificing their great flavor.

The secret to healthier holiday baking is a simple one: Use more healthful ingredients and keep portions reasonable in size.

Healthier baking ingredients include: low-fat and skim dairy products; egg whites; unsweetened cocoa powder; canned pumpkin, applesauce and other fruit purees; vegetable cooking sprays; whole wheat flour, rolled oats and wheat germ. Wheat germ, for example, can be substituted for up to one-half cup of the flour in recipes for cookies, cakes, muffins and quick bread loaves for a boost of nutrition.

In addition to using healthier ingredients, keep portions small. Instead of jumbo muffins, bake mini muffins. Individual quick bread loaves encourage smaller tastes, and a small cookie can be just as satisfying as a large one. After all, part of the fun is trying several cookies from a cookie assortment, and smaller cookies let you do that without feeling guilty.

Chocolate Caramel Cheesecake Bites are miniature treats with all the goodness of a full slice of cheesecake. Light cream cheese, unsweetened cocoa powder and egg whites trim fat and calories but not flavor, and the wheat germ "crust" is easier to make than a traditional crumb crust. Simply coat the inside of the mini muffin pan cups with margarine and sprinkle with wheat germ until evenly coated. The crunchy wheat germ crust complements the creamy, chocolatey filling.

To give as a gift, arrange 10 or 12 mini cheesecakes on a plate (shop garage sales for interesting, inexpensive plates) and add a small, decorative glass jar filled with fat-free caramel topping from the supermarket. Wrap in clear cellophane, top with a festive bow and be sure to include storage instructions and a copy of the recipe.

A spicy ginger cookie is another gift from the kitchen that's sure to be enjoyed. Molasses, ginger, cinnamon and cloves impart a spicy-sweet holiday flavor to chewy-crisp Ginger Crackles. Unsweetened applesauce replaces some of the fat while wheat germ adds an appealing crunch. For a festive, sparkly topping, the dough is rolled in granulated sugar and wheat germ. To make the cookies ahead, cool them completely, wrap airtight and freeze. Thaw at room temperature before packing in tins or gift bags for giving.

Chef Larry Janes moves on December brings endings and beginnings. We celebrate the end of the year, and get ready to greet the new year, full of optimism and enthusiasm.

You'll be seeing lots of changes in the Observer & Eccentric Newspapers as 1997 dawns. The first is a new column on the front of Taste.

Chef Larry Janes has moved on and is no longer writing for the Observer & Eccentric Newspapers.

Lois Thieleke of Birmingham, a home economist for the Michigan State University Cooperative Extension Service, Oakland County, will be featured on the front of Taste in a new column called "Home Sense."

Look for Focus on Wine by Ray and Eleanor Heald on the first and third Monday of the month, and a new column focusing on locally produced specialty foods, and gourmet markets, on the fourth Monday of the month beginning in January.

February will bring more change. The Observer & Eccentric Newspapers will launch a new Sunday paper, which includes Taste, and Arts & Entertainment.

We appreciate your support, and look forward to serving you in the new year.

Please feel free to call or write to Keely Wygonik, Taste and Entertainment Editor, Observer & Eccentric Newspapers, Inc., 36251 Schoolcraft, Livonia, MI 48150. Call (313) 953-2105, or fax your comments to Wygonik by calling, (313) 591-7279.

We're currently looking for easy, after work recipes. How do you get dinner on the table in a hurry after working all day? Send us your recipes and ideas.

We'd also like to hear from market owners, and specialty food manufacturers. Our new column will introduce readers to the many "Super" markets in our coverage area, and the people behind the counter. We'll also be talking to people who turned a favorite recipe into a "Recipe for Success."

■ Here are two more superior sparklings for the holidays recommended by Eleanor and Ray Heald — Champagne Mumm Cordon Rouge Brut $25, and 1989 Champagne Mumm Cordon Rouge $30.

CHOCOLATE CARAMEL CHEESECAKE BITES

- 1-1/2 tablespoons margarine, softened
- 3/4 cup wheat germ, any flavor
- Two 8-ounce packages light cream cheese, softened
- 3/4 cup sugar
- 1/3 cup unsweetened cocoa powder
- 1 teaspoon vanilla
- 4 egg whites
- 36 small pecan halves (optional)
- 6 tablespoons fat-free caramel topping

Heat oven to 350 degrees F. Generously coat the inside of 36 mini muffin cups with margarine. Divide wheat germ among muffin cups; rotate cups to completely cover insides with wheat germ. Set aside.

Beat cream cheese on medium speed of electric mixer until smooth. Blend in sugar, cocoa powder and vanilla. Beat in egg whites, one at a time, until well blended.

Pour into prepared muffin cups, dividing evenly. Bake just until set, about 12 to 15 minutes. Let stand in pan 10 minutes.

To remove from pan, run small narrow spatula between crust and edge of each cup to loosen; lift out cheesecake. Cool 30 minutes on wire rack; cover and chill.

To serve, top each cheesecake with small pecan half, if desired. Microwave caramel topping on HIGH about 10 seconds until spoonable. Spoon 1/2 teaspoon topping in center of each cheesecake. Refrigerate leftovers promptly. Yield 3 dozen

- 1/2 teaspoon ground cloves
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 1/3 cup sugar

In large bowl, combine 1 cup sugar, melted shortening, applesauce, molasses and egg; mix until well blended. In medium bowl, combine flour, 1/2 cup wheat germ, baking soda, spices and salt; mix well. Add molasses mixture; mix well.

Chill 1 hour. (Dough will be soft.) Heat oven to 375 degrees F. Spray cookie sheets with nostick cooking spray.

Combine remaining 1/3 cup sugar and 1 tablespoon wheat germ in small dish. Drop dough by level measuring tablespoonfuls into sugar mixture.

Don't let this merry season weigh you down

'Tis the season for having family gatherings, hanging decorations, lighting candles, giving gifts and, of course, eating. It's estimated that many of us will gain five to seven extra pounds during the holiday season.

You can enjoy the holiday spirit without getting the dietary fat that can add extra pounds and that can also contribute to obesity and other chronic health problems.

A healthy holiday goal is to eat healthy foods the majority of the time, and not necessarily to avoid every special dish that may be high in fat or calories. Balance out a few traditional high-fat food favorites with some new lighter holiday ideas, such as fresh cranberry spritzer instead of eggnog.

Avoid eating marathons so common at this time of the year by making activity and not food the focal point of your holiday events. Play games, go on sing-alongs, or take a hike in the woods to burn extra calories and get away from the dining table.

If you think holiday baked goodies have to be high in fat and calories, try anise honey bites, strawberry rice pudding, Mandarin kabobs or poached apples with cranberry-cinnamon sauce.

ANISE HONEY BITES

- 1/2 cup sugar
- 1/2 cup honey
- 1 egg
- 1-1/2 teaspoon anise seed
- 1 teaspoon baking soda
- 1/8 teaspoon salt
- About 2 cups flour (enough to form a soft dough)

Mix ingredients. With floured hands, shape dough into 1-inch balls and place them 2 inches apart on cookie sheets sprayed with nonstick cooking spray. Bake at 350 degrees F. for 4 to 8 minutes or until the cookie bottoms are golden brown. Remove the balls from cookie sheets, cool completely and sprinkle with powdered sugar.

STRAWBERRY RICE PUDDING

- 2 cups water
- 1 cup brown rice
- 2 eggs
- 2 tablespoons honey
- 1-1/2 cups skim milk
- 1 teaspoon vanilla extract
- 1 cup fresh, quartered (or thawed) strawberries

Bring water and rice to a boil in large saucepan. Reduce heat, cover and simmer until rice is soft (about 40 minutes.) Meanwhile, in a medium-sized bowl, beat eggs, honey and skim milk. Mix the liquid into the rice and continue cooking, stirring constantly, until the mixture thickens, about 15 minutes. Remove rice from the heat and stir in vanilla extract and strawberries.

MANDARIN KABOBS

- 2 tablespoons honey
- 2 tablespoons water
- Mandarin oranges
- 1/4 cup sesame seeds
- Mint leaves

Mix honey and water. Coat 24 mandarin orange sections with the mixture and roll them in sesame seeds. Put 6 orange sections on each of 4 skewers, alternating each one with a mint leaf. Chill the kabobs several hours before serving.

POACHED APPLES WITH CRANBERRY-CINNAMON SAUCE

- 4 medium baking apples
- 1/2 cup plus 1/3 cup sugar
- 1 cup fresh cranberries (about 4 ounces)
- 1/4 teaspoon cinnamon
- 2-1/2 plus 2/3 cups water

Wash and core the apples. Place them in a large saucepan with 1/2 cup sugar and 2-1/2 cups of water. Bring to boil, reduce heat to low, cover and simmer 10 minutes, or until apples are just tender.

Baste them with the syrup in the pan occasionally. Meanwhile, in a medium-sized saucepan, heat the cranberries, cinnamon, 2/3 cup water, and 1/3 cup of sugar over medium heat. Simmer gently for 10 minutes. Cool the mixture slightly and puree in a blender or food processor until smooth. To serve, pour sauce on apples and into cored centers.

Treat yourself to lemony tart

AP — Cookbook author Jeanne Jones says fat-free is here to stay.

LIGHT LEMON TART

- 9-inch frozen deep-dish pie crust, thawed
- 2-3rds cup sugar
- 3 tablespoons cornstarch
- 1 tablespoon butter-flavored sprinkles
- 1 cup nonfat liquid egg substitute
- 2 teaspoons grated lemon rind or 1 teaspoon pure lemon extract
- 1/4 cup fresh lemon juice
- 1 cup nonfat milk
- Fat-free whipped topping

Preheat oven to 450 degrees F. Carefully remove the thawed pie crust from the aluminum tin and place it in a 10-inch tart pan with a removable bottom or a 10-inch pie plate. Spread the crust up the sides of the pans, using your fingers. Bake in a 450-degree F oven for 6 to 8 minutes, or until a golden brown. Cool on a rack.In a large saucepan, combine all remaining ingredients, except the milk and whipped topping; mix well. Gradually whisk in the milk until smooth. Cook over medium heat, stirring constantly until bubbly. Continue cooking until thick, about 3 more minutes. Remove from the heat and allow to cool for 20 minutes, stirring occasionally. Spoon the lemon filling into the cooled pie crust and refrigerate until chilled. Just before serving, top each serving with 2 tablespoons of the whipped topping. Makes 8 servings.

'Ransom' entertaining, suspenseful

By Ted Anthony
AP National Writer

Since he first went behind the camera, Ron Howard has shown an adeptness at making movies that tap into relevant themes. But his craftsmanship usually comes with a foible: He never goes far enough.

This happened in "The Paper." It happened in "Backdraft," and, earlier, "Cocoon" and "Gung Ho." And, sadly, it happens in Howard's latest offering, a Mel Gibson suspense thriller called "Ransom."

That doesn't mean "Ransom" isn't an entertaining, satisfying piece of roller-coaster filmmaking. It is. Dark, slick and brooding, with spectacularly adroit camera work, it pushes all the right buttons _ too well, it seems.

In anybody else's hands, "Ransom" would never transcend mediocrity. In the hands of Howard and his extremely competent cast, it becomes something more. It's still suspense schlock, but it's meaningful suspense schlock, at least much of the time.

The story, based on a 1956 Glenn Ford-Donna Reed vehicle of the same name, follows painfully sincere millionaire airline CEO Tom Mullen, who built his company from the ground up and now finds himself accused of paying off a machinists' union to avoid a strike.

Gibson fits easily into the role of Mullen, a well-meaning, easily rich New Yorker who moves in the highest social circles, has an apartment overlooking Central Park and is adored by his wife, Kate (Rene Russo), and their son, Sean (Brawley Nolte, Nick's remarkably expressive son).

But then Sean is snatched, and an e-mail appears on Tom's PowerBook _ complete with digitized video of Sean chained to a bed and blindfolded _ and the story is off. The ransom is $2 million, and the rest of the film is consumed with how to pay, whether to pay and why not to pay.

Lorey Sebastian/Touchstone Pictures

Riveting drama: Mel Gibson stars as fiercely independent business tycoon Tom Mullen, who masterminds a daring countermeasure to get his son Sean (Brawley Nolte) back from kidnappers in "Ransom."

Gary Sinise, as cop-turned-kidnapper Jimmy Shaker, makes a worthy adversary for Gibson. At first, it is difficult to picture the good-natured Sinise as an archvillain, and the movie exploits this _ for about 30 seconds. But it soon becomes clear Shaker is a force to be reckoned with, a cop with his own set of morals and an assortment of mental tools to back them up.

"Why you?" Shaker, his voice eerily disguised by a scrambler, tells Mullen as the men are communicating via cell phones in moving cars. "Cause you buy your way out of trouble."

This idea _ that Gibson is something less than a legitimate protagonist because he uses people, too _ is fascinating, but never pursued adequately.

Later, when Kate confronts Tom after he refuses to pay the ransom, she lashes out at him: "You paid off to save your airline; why won't you pay off to save your son?" He mumbles something about not wanting to compromise any more, and the subject is again dropped.

Other elements that could have enriched the film are dropped midstream as well.

Former New Kid on the Block Donnie Wahlberg plays a snuffly, sulky young kidnapper named Cubby with moral ambiguousness. Cubby's willing to snatch the child, but also wants to make Sean comfortable by feeding him chocolate and keeping him from permanent harm. But Cubby disappears early.

Sinise's relationship with his cohort-girlfriend, Maris (Lili Taylor), and the conflict between Tom and Kate are abandoned just as quickly.

What's worse, it never becomes clear why Jimmy Shaker is so single-minded in his desire to get the ransom. It's obviously more than just money; he has a grudge against everything Mullen stands for. But we never get the story behind the grudge.

Russo, sadly, is forced into the background. She's a device, relegated to anxious looks and occasional angry outbursts.

In the end, "Ransom" is a competently told tale about compromise, bullheadedness and the divisiveness a couple faces when a child is in danger. It works best when it hones itself into a psychological drama and puts Sinise and Gibson at direct loggerheads.

But it ultimately comes down to guns, anger and whether Tom Mullen is brave enough of heart and head to take care of Jimmy Shaker for good. And that, considering the many meaty themes that went unexplored, isn't quite resonant enough to provide complete satisfaction by the time the credits roll.

"Ransom" is directed by Ron Howard from a screenplay by Richard Price and Alexander Ignon. It was produced by Scott Rudin and Brian Grazer.

Win tickets to preview of 'Shine'

All of us have special talents. Some are good artists, others musicians, or cooks. Tell us about someone who helped you "Shine," and discover your talents to win a CD soundtrack from the movie "Shine," opening Christmas day at metro Detroit movie theaters, and two tickets to a preview screening of the movie 7:30 p.m. Monday, Dec. 23 at the Star John R. Twelve prize packages will be awarded.

Send or fax your entry to Keely Wygonik, Arts & Entertainment Editor, Observer & Eccentric Newspapers, Inc., 36251 Schoolcraft, Livonia, MI 48150 by Friday, Dec. 20. Winners will be notified by phone. To fax entries, call (313) 591-7279.

"Shine" is an extraordinarily moving story inspired by the life of David Helfgott, a brilliant young pianist whose very genius drives him to the edge of madness. Armin Mueller-Stahl delivers a powerful performance as Helfgott's father, a Polish Jew who escaped the Holocaust, whose protective adoration represses his son in every way but musically.

The film also features John Gielgud as David's teacher at London's Royal College of Music, and Lynn Redgrave as Gillian whose redemptive love finally rescues David from his demons and enables him to return to his career as a concert pianist.

Noah Tyler and Geoffrey Rush star as the young and adult David Helfgott. "Shine" had its world premiere at the 1996 Sundance Film Festival.

The film was produced by Jane Scott from a screenplay by Jan Sardi, and is directed by Australian filmmaker Scott Hicks.

"This is a story that has fascinated me for years," said Hicks. "This was a story about a winner," Hicks states, "an unlikely hero who achieves one thing we all desire: he finds his own place in the world and someone with whom to share his life, love, and music. His story is very uplifting and compelling."

■ If you believe in miracles, the power of angels and have a story to tell combining the two, New Line Cinemas and The Observer & Eccentric Newspapers have an opportunity for you. Send in an essay, 100 words or less, describing your miracle to win passes to the preview screening of "Michael," starring John Travolta Tickets for the 7:30 p.m. Dec. 18 showing can be picked up at the Star Theatre John R box offices. Winners will be notified Dec. 16. To fax entries, call (313) 591-7279. Address all entries to the attention of Keely Wygonik, Taste and Entertainment Editor.

Game inventors make you think

BY LINDA ANN CHOMIN
SPECIAL WRITER

Shelley Littman likes to stock the shelves of her Birmingham toy store with games to stimulate the old thought processes. That's why she decided to offer Adventures in Toys' customers Tisby, a board game by local inventor Greg Schindler.

A distant cousin of Scrabble, the game challenges players to create a connected crossword puzzle. For ages 8 and up, Tisby can be played by 1-4 players on levels from novice to master. A different set of rules allows it to be played solitaire.

"I like new inventors and try to encourage them to think a little bit differently than mass market toy companies. There's nothing like games to make you think, and good games are hard to come by," said Littman.

The first time Schindler approached Littman with Tisby, she applauded the game's concept but was hesitant to carry it because of the packaging. Since the 50-year old Macomb Township resident developed and produced the game himself, it was back to the drawing board. So far, Schindler's lost one dollar on each game published. He funded the venture with $4,000 borrowed from his retirement account. But he isn't discouraged because Littman bought the improved version (also available at Wunderground in Royal Oak).

"Shelley was right. It doesn't matter what you put in the box if the label isn't interesting people won't want to play the game," said Schindler who has decided not to quit his day job as a case worker for Wayne County's Family Independence Agency (formerly DSS).

In addition to Tisby, Adventures in Toys carries nearly 100 other board games including several by Aristoplay, Ltd. The Ann Arbor-based company, specializing in educational children's games, is nationally recognized for making learning fun. While many of the concepts grow from staff brainstorming, Aristoplay also publishes games by local inventors. In Hives Alive designed by Julie Fisher of Ypsilanti, players try to capture their opponent's bees by comparing the values of fractions, decimals and negative numbers. A former middle school math teacher, Fisher used the game to motivate her students.

"You can drill them to death with problems and worksheets but the kids really loved this game," said Fisher.

Moneywise Kids, the idea of Karen Godfrey of Ann Arbor, provides youngsters with lessons on how to make change, budget for life's necessities, and still save money.

"One of the more unique aspects of our games is that children can play at more than one age level. The games grow with the child and allow multiple ages to play together," said marketing coordinator Rhonda Foxworth.

Aristoplay games are available at The Teacher's Store in Livonia; Noodle Kidoodle, Troy; Christine's Hallmark, Plymouth; Mermel Gifts & Toys, Farmington Hills; Toy Wonders, West Bloomfield, and Your Toybox, Rochester.

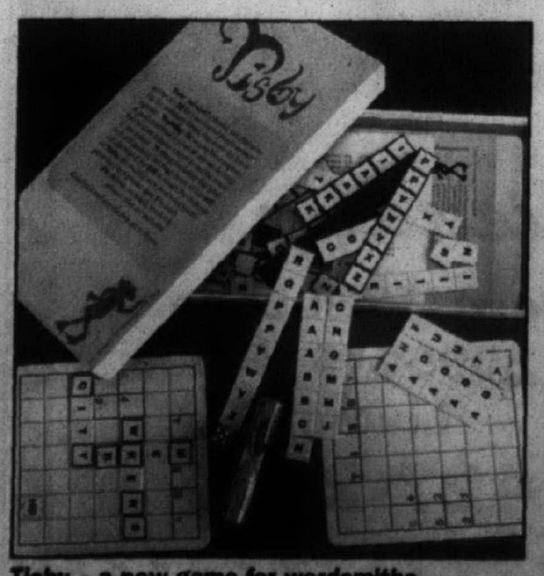
"My two favorites are Somebody, an anatomy game, and Where in the World, a nifty geography game updated to include non-Soviet countries like Georgia," said Bruce Weiner, owner of Your Toybox. "Aristoplay games are a lot of fun but also educational. They're not predicated on luck. They expect you to do more."

At Toy Wonders of the World in West Bloomfield owner Tom Fields offers 11 different Artistoplay games including True Math, The Play's The Thing (a dramatic introduction to Shakespeare), and Pollution Solution, which tackles the issues of pollution in the 90's.



Tisby – a new game for wordsmiths.

Deck the hair with curls and holly

Holiday headturners are a blast from the past with the return of tendrils, wiglets and waves. It's all about romance and a return to a more elegant age.

BY SUSAN DEMAGGIO
EDITOR

The recent films "Emma" and "Sense and Sensibility" are the inspiration for this season's holiday hair designs as many local salons are discovering.

At Sharp Looks Salon in West Bloomfield, owner Donna Sharp said "big hair just isn't big anymore."

"What women want is softness and understated elegance," she said, quoting her clients. It's a return to the Empire Look of the Napoleonic era, even in fashion where shoppers are finding sleeker, closer-fitting designs than in recent collections.

Sharp trained at London's Vidal Sassoon Academy and has been a stylist for more than 20 years. She's watched the hair biz closely over the years, concluding that the current trends may be the most exciting.

She explained that the Empire Look is achieved by pulling the hair back from the face, adding hairpieces that give variations on a sleek pulled back look, or softness with curls. Flowers that match the dress, ribbons or pearl strands are popular adornments.

Because so many busy women sport shorter hair these days, the upsweep styles requiring longer hair have brought hairpieces back into vogue. They are attached with either a metal clip that slides in and snaps shut like a barrette, or with a banana clip.

"Twenty-three years ago, a hairstylist had to wash, set and style the piece. Now, because they're synthetic, they are pre-set and styled. It's just shampoo, shake and go," Sharp explained.

At Salon Kennice Bashar in Birmingham, Kennice Hoffman said her clients are also after the romantic look with upstyles and hairpieces and curls.

"We are doing a lot of waves," she said suggesting that the film "Evita" might be having an influence on hairstyles. "We're using the wave irons to add curls in the back and front.

Women with dark hair are interested in adding jeweltone hairpieces to their holiday styles. It's easy, you just snap them in. But there's no doubt that the look everyone's after is Romantic."

Holiday glamour means snap, sparkle, shine

This year, with the return of cigars and martinis, you can bet social gatherings will be luxurious and elegant.

"There is such a sense of glamour in fashion right now with rich jewel tones and splendid fabrics like velvet, tulle, satin and tapestries," said Mariana Keros, Hudson's trend director. "The fashions evoke memories of a bygone era."

She showed off what's new from the Hudson's holiday closet:

For her, the must-haves include:

* Cocktail dresses; velvet oblong scarf; velour mock turtleneck in jewel tones; long column dress or slip dress; shawl or evening stole; beaded jackets, ballgown skirts, narrow satin pants; tuxedo jackets, strappy evening shoes, gemstone or rhinestone jewelry.

For him, the must-haves include:

* Tuxedo with notched or shawl collar; black suit; dress shirt with curve spread collar; vest: velvet, tapestry or zip-front; solid ties in shiny colors or silver/black combinations; French cuffs and cuff links; banded collar shirts; bow ties and cummerbunds; dress pants.

Hot accessories:

* Metallic silver or gold shoes the neutral, instead of black;
* Men's shoes in suede, patent or velvet slip-on styles
* Belts: velvet, satin, chain link with rhinestones or metal buckles
* Hosiery with back seams or metallic shimmer
* Vintage marcasite jewelry
* Cigar accessories
* Cheek and eye makeup highlighted with colors of plum and pearl

For kids:

• Dalmatian-mania inspires clothing in key colors red and black; shiny fabrics; faux fur; animal prints; chenille, velour and velvet separates; vests and blazers for boys; velvet or organza party dresses for girls.

For glamour on a budget Hit or Miss stores have long skirts and mock-neck velvet tops at $24.99 each. Other holiday separates include black crepe pants, knits with velvet collars and buttons, long gently-fitted jackets, and velvet cigarette pants, all priced under $40.

Shawls and capes that add panache and warmth over sleeveless gowns and short-sleeved sweaters can be found in a variety of fabrics, colors and trims at Saks Fifth Avenue, Lord and Taylor and Crowley's.

Neiman Marcus suggests topping a skirt or slacks with a festive cardigan by Michael Simon featuring a champagne glass with sparkling beads, $130.

Signing Santa visits

Last year, when a 3-year-old deaf child who expected Santa's visit to be interpreted by his older sister, watched Santa sign 'Merry Christmas', Santa said "the expression on his little face stole my heart." So the Signing Santa is back at it again this year, welcoming hearing impaired children and their families Thursday, Dec. 19 from 1-5 p.m. and Sunday, Dec. 22 from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. to his throne at Fairlane Town Center in Dearborn.

Santa will be assisted by his sister, Valerie Nordstrom, 15, of Sterling Heights, who is also well-versed in American Sign Language. "After all," said mall manager Aj Jemison, "Santa speaks every language."

Where can I find?

Thanks to the readers who have phoned in locations for hard to find items!

• We found the Perez Prado recording of "Cherry Pink and Apple Blossom White" at Jukebox Junction, Wayne (313) 722-0643.

• Mary Laubert, Barbara Swanson, Pat Owen, Peggy Knudsen (plus a dozen others) report seeing the musical Tiger Stadium tin in both the Michigania (1-800-443-9284) and Miles Kimball (414-231-4886) catalogs. A "Santa's helper" said he recently bought one from the gift shop of the Detroit Historical Museum downtown.

• A good source for typewriter ribbons according to one caller is S & R Office Supply on Ford Rd. west of Venoy in Garden City (313) 261-6860. Another good source, according to another caller is Audette Office on Michigan Ave. in Dearborn.

• For a company that will "recoat" old cooking pans with non-stick materials like Teflon, a caller suggested Pan-Glo on sherwood in Detroit. "They do commercial work, but they may do a project for an individual."

We're still looking for:

• A caller suggested the Sam Miller Bag Co. of Minneapolis as a source for laundry chute hamper-bags. But a call to the Sam Miller had the bag maker laughing. "We haven't made that product in years," he said. "I didn't think people still needed the product."

• A dry bar, 3-feet wide by 15-inches deep with a cover that lifts up to replace one that is 20 years old. The caller said furniture stores only seem to carry wet bars.

• A grocery store that sells Magic Baking Powder made by Nabisco of Toronto. The caller doesn't want to travel to Canada to buy it.

• Math To Go, Math Tutor by Texas Instruments.

• Almay hypo-allergetic all-over body splash.

• A gag gift – a baseball cap with two cup holders and two straws that make it possible to drink from the cap.

• A Strollachair highchair tray; Inkor stainless steel cookware.

• An April 1945 edition of Ford Times magazine.

Hunting, fishing license hikes approved

BY TIM RICHARD
STAFF WRITER

On second try, a bill to raise hunting and fishing license fees made it through the state House of Representatives on a 63-38 vote.

It will take effect as soon as Gov. John Engler signs it later this month. It will increase basic hunting and fishing license fees from the current $9.85 to $14 over four years.

Most controversial part of the detailed bill was an optional fishing charge of $2 for youngsters aged 12 to 16.

Under it, the Department of Natural Resources would sell a "Michigan fishing patch" to kids 12-16 but allow them to fish without an adult license. DNR would be forbidden to sell the patch list.

"Kids like to fish. They don't use trout streams or charter a boat," objected Rep. David Anthony, D-Escanaba, in the Dec. 10 debate.

"We also charge youngsters to hunt," replied Rep. Tom Alley, D-West Branch. "There's a reason for this fee. For every single license we sell, we get back $4.85 from the federal government from its tax on sporting equipment. If we don't take advantage of that, we're losing X number of dollars."

Without the increases, supporter say, the Department of Natural Resources budget will be short $2 million, forcing the layoff of 10 conservation officers and delay in hiring 10 more officers after Jan. 1.

A week earlier, the bill was shot down on a 45-56 vote after an argument over the firearm deer kill in the Upper Peninsula versus the rest of the state.

Opponents said DNR seriously overestimated the size of the deer herd. The kill during the Nov. 15-30 firearm deer season was down 13 percent overall from 1995, but in the Upper Peninsula it was down 37 percent, opponents said.

DNR said Michigan hunters' 1996 harvest was fifth largest on record with 177,000 antlered and 102,000 antlerless deer taken during the firearm season, a total of 279,000. DNR said the southern Lower Peninsula saw a record harvest while the UP kill was down.

Here is how area representatives voted on the final 63-38 roll call:

Report alleges stores scanned prices incorrectly

BY ZACHARY GORCHOW
STAFF WRITER

A report released last week by state Attorney General Frank Kelley that targets stores for allegedly charging incorrect prices with electronic scanners is sparking local reaction.

The survey, conducted between Nov. 24 and Dec. 3, names several metro area stores, including Montgomery Ward and Co., 29501 Plymouth Road in Livonia, and the new Hudson's at Somerset Collection North in Troy.

Investigators from the attorney general's Consumer Protection Division bought about $150 in merchandise from 5 stores in Wayne and Oakland counties, five stores in Flint and six stores in Traverse City, said Chris De Witt, Kelley's spokesman.

After purchasing 374 items from these stores, the division found that scanners charged an incorrect price 19.8 percent of the time, according to the study.

Of the 21 items purchased at Montgomery Ward in Livonia, the scanner incorrectly charged four items — two were overcharged and two were undercharged, the survey said. Montgomery Ward did not return phone calls.

Investigators purchased 13 items for about $179 at Hudson's. The scanner erred with eight of the products, resulting in the goods costing almost $33 more than they should have, according to the study.

In response to the investigation, Kelley's office has filed charges against Hudson's for "persistent violations" of the Consumer Protection and Item Pricing and Deceptive Advertising acts, De Witt said. Hudson's has 10 days to respond to the allegations. If found in violation, the store faces a maximum fine of $25,000.

De Witt said most of the allegedly erroneous prices occurred with goods that stores had marked as sale items. He doesn't believe malfunctioning scanners have caused customers to be incorrectly charged.

"I don't believe it's a technical problem," he said. "The problem is with the humans operating the scanners. Sometimes it may be a human error or it may be intentional."

Although De Witt said investigators used a large enough sample, he said the study may not be 100 percent accurate.

"We have never claimed that this is a scientific survey," he said.

Chris Morrisroe, Hudson's spokeswoman, said she couldn't comment on whether any branch stores have charged incorrect prices because of legal issues. The report also listed branch stores in Flint and at Fairlane Mall in Dearborn for incorrectly charging goods.

"It's unfortunate that it does come at this time," she said. "The dollar amounts are minimal although these kind of things shouldn't happen at all. Our goal is to have 100 percent accuracy at the checkout."

Morrisroe said Hudson's has not received any complaints about overcharging from its customers.

"This is not a problem that was brought to our attention by our guests," she said.

Morrisroe said she has confidence in the Hudson's system. "Every merchandise group in the store is manually entered," she said. "If our guests felt we weren't being open and honest, they wouldn't come back. It's something that's very important to us."

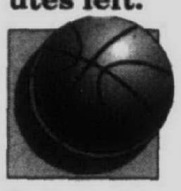
Buzzer shot beats Salem

There was no denying Plymouth Salem Friday. The Rocks battled Ann Arbor Huron throughout their game, even when faced with a 10-point deficit with just three minutes left.



BY NEAL ZIPSER
STAFF WRITER

Plymouth Salem basketball coach Bob Brodie could only watch as the final two seconds slowly ticked off the game clock Friday.

The two seconds seemed like eternity for Brodie as Ann Arbor Huron got three chances to score off a missed free throw. Finally, Luke Ravlin tipped in his own miss as the horn sounded to give the visiting River Rats a thrilling 68-67 victory.

Some controversy followed the winning basket as questions were raised by angry spectators if the clock had started on time. There was no question in Ravlin's mind, however.

"If it counted, then it was good," said Ravlin, who scored 13 of his 20 points in the second half.

The Rocks (1-1) came back from a 10-point deficit with 2:53 remaining in regulation with an 11-0 run. The final two points of the rally were two free throws by Andres Lopez to give Salem a 67-66 lead with 35 seconds left.

The rally was a result of three missed one-and-one free throw attempts by Huron and three Salem triples (two by Andy Power and one by Matt Mair).

Huron had its chance to win when Mike Brown was fouled driving to the basket with two seconds on the clock. Brown missed both free throws , but the rebound on the second miss was kept alive by Rotolu Adebiyl.

Ravlin tipped Adebiyl's miss, and then tipped in his own miss for the win.

"It was one of the longest two seconds of my career," Brodie admitted. "But what killed us was blocking out. If he had blocked out just once, the time wouldn't matter."

"It seemed like a good length of time for me," Huron coach Harold Simons said. "It was too bad it came down to that. If we don't miss free throws down the stretch, it may have been different."

Huron improved to 2-0 after an impressive first week that included wins at Salem and Westland John Glenn -- two teams expected to contend for the Western Lakes Activities Association title.

"It feels good to be 2-0, but we still have a lot to work on," Simons said. "We began 5-0 last season but then struggled (eventually losing to a poor Ann Arbor Pioneer team in the district opener)."

The game was exciting from start to finish as the teams combined for 17 three pointers. The lead changed hands 23 times.

The Rocks made nine-of-13 shots in the first quarter, but only led 19-18 due to Brown's hot shooting. The guard hit four of his six triples in the quarter, en route to a 20-point performance.

Salem missed only three shots in the second quarter and scored the final six points before halftime to take a 38-33 lead.

A jumper by Lopez to start the third quarter gave the Rocks their biggest lead. But the River Rats countered with a 17-9 run to take a 50-49 lead into the fourth quarter.

Mair opened the fourth with a triple. The junior had 10 points off the bench. But Salem's hot shooting disappeared for the next five minutes as Huron held a 66-56 lead with 2:53 left.

Treys by Power and Mair cut the deficit to 66-62. With 1:03 left, Power pulled up from seven feet behind the three-point line and hit another triple to close the gap to one.

A turnover gave Salem the ball back. Lopez was

Trip to Monroe proves no problem for Canton, 75-48

■ BASKETBALL

Plymouth Canton notched its first victory of the season Friday with a convincing 75-48 win at Monroe.

Leading 19-12 after the first quarter, the Chiefs (1-1) took control and a comfortable 40-21 lead into halftime.

"We played extremely well and rebounded well," Canton coach Dan Young said. "They shot fairly quickly and that got our running game going. It was kind of a wide open game and we got a lot of layups on breakaways."

Nick Hurley led a balanced Canton attack with 19 points, six assists and three steals. Rob Johnson also played well, netting 14 points while grabbing 10 rebounds and dishing out five assists.

In addition, the Chiefs received 10 points apiece from Donte Scott and Matt Ammons. Ammons added five assists and six steals.

Mike Elsner and Eric Larsen chipped in with nine and eight points, respectively.

Observer's best on court

Both Plymouth Salem and Plymouth Canton enjoyed outstanding seasons in girls basketball, which is reason enough for both schools to be well-represented on the 1996 all-Observer team.

Salem's Amanda Abraham (right) was the heart of the Rocks' offense. She was virtually a 6-foot-1 point guard, and a very good one. She also led Salem in rebounding, assists and blocked shots.

Canton's Kristi Fiorenzi (left) was a team leader, both in attitude and on the floor. She led the Chiefs in scoring and rebounding, playing a significant part in their reaching the regionals.

Coach of the Year

Fiorenzi, Abraham among Observer's best

BY C.J. RISAK
SPORTS EDITOR

There is one word which best describes this year's all-Observer girls basketball team: depth.

Several teams — Redford Bishop Borgess, Plymouth Salem, Plymouth Canton, Farmington Harrison, Wayne Memorial, Farmington Hills Mercy, Redford Thurston — put together strong seasons. Each had something in common: star-quality players.

Indeed, there were so many good teams with good players, no one put two players on this season's all-Observer first team.

The person chosen to coach this elite group is familiar to anyone who knows basketball in Observerland: Bob Blohm of Canton.

Blohm constructed a team as strong any in the area, even though the Chiefs were smaller (no starter taller than 5-foot-11) than most teams and lacked consistent outside scoring.

They won — 19 of 25 games — because they outrebounded their bigger foes, played suffocating man-to-man defense and used Blohm's patient, pass-it-around style of offense to great effect.

And when they needed to step up, the Chiefs did. After losing their last two regular-season games, Canton regrouped. In the state playoffs, the Chiefs beat both Salem and Northville, two teams that had beaten them during the regular season.

Canton lost in the Class A regional finals to eventual state champion Birmingham Marian.

Still, there's no denying that Blohm once again did a superb job teaching the game and getting the most out of his personnel, trademarks of his throughout his coaching career.

FIRST TEAM

Amanda Porter, 5-7 Sr. guard, Farmington: When coach John Verdura took charge of the program four years ago, he knew he had a player in Porter, who started every game for four years and excelled in all phases of the game.

Porter averaged 16.3 points, eight rebounds, three assists and four steals this year. She shot 38 percent from the field and 65 percent at the free-throw line.

In 87 games during her high school career, Porter scored 1,129 points and had 412 rebounds, 311 steals and 261 assists. She also made 302-of-504 free throws (60 percent).

"Amanda has been our best basketball player for four years," Verdura said. "Because she's so versatile and has such great vision on the floor, she has the ability to make the players around her better.

"She's more than just a scoring threat, "She's a good rebounder for her size; she's a one-player press offense in herself. She helped give our program some respect. Because teams had to give so much attention to Amanda, it allowed other players to play better."

Amanda Abraham, 6-1 Jr. forward, Plymouth Salem: Although listed as a forward, Abraham was actually more of a point guard — a point forward, if you will. In that role, she was counted on to supply a lot of everything.

And she did. "She was instrumental in breaking pressure," said Salem coach Fred Thomann. "She had to give up a bit of her game for us to be successful. She's got a nice post-up game, but we didn't post her up."

Instead, Abraham distributed the ball — and scored when needed. She averaged 10.5 points (second on the team), 7.5 rebounds (first), 2.5 assists (first) and 1.3 blocks (first) a game for the Rocks, who finished 17-4 and won the WLAA Tournament.

An all-WLAA Lakes Division choice, Abraham was at her best going to the basket. "She's got a great take-to-the-rim," said Thomann, "and a good finish when she gets there, right- or left-handed."

Kristi Fiorenzi, 5-11 Sr. forward, Plymouth Canton: The best word to describe Fiorenzi is adaptability.

She's been on Canton's varsity for four-straight years, playing in 92 games, and each season she's been asked to supply something a bit different.

"The big thing with her is she's always been able to adjust her game to the team needs," said Canton coach Bob Blohm. "She did what she needed to do to make the team successful.

"She was the consummate team player."

Fiorenzi was asked to be the leader this season and she was, registering team-highs in points (14.5) and rebounds (5.6) per game.

The Chiefs replied to Fiorenzi's leadership by reaching the Class A regional finals, where they lost to eventual state champion Birmingham Marian.

MaryJane Valade, 5-8 Sr. forward, Mercy: Valade was a four-year varsity letter winner. She played in 73 games over four years, starting every one as a junior and senior.

She led the Marlins in scoring with 14 points per game and averaged 6.7 rebounds. Valade scored in doubles figures in the last 13 games in which she averaged almost 18 points.

She had a career high of 27 points in a district game against West Bloomfield and 23 against Plymouth Canton in a regional tournament contest.

Valade is 12th on Mercy's career scoring list with 635 points and 11th in rebounding with 395. She also shot 46 percent from the field (115-of-285) and 53 percent at the free-throw line (61-of-116) this year.

"She really kicked in the second time through the league season," coach Larry Baker said. "She really delivered clutch performances in the state tournament. It was exciting to see a senior player step up like that.

"MaryJane has been a terrific player to coach. We considered her our best passing forward as a sophomore; she gradually improved her offensive game and was our most consistent inside and outside scorer this year."

Yalanda Holt, 5-11 Sr. guard, Wayne Memorial: Holt is making her second straight appearance on the first team.

She averaged 20 points, seven rebounds, four steals and three assists as the Zebras finished 18-6, including a district championship and a co-share of the Mega-Red Division title.

Bound for Bowling Green (Ohio) University on a basketball scholarship, Holt is one of the area's most versatile players, adept at handling the ball and running the point.

"We played her at the point spot out of necessity," Wayne coach Chuck Henry said. She has great floor visition and is a very good offensive player who can drive to the basket or pull up for the perimeter shot."

Holt started out her career at Redford Bishop Borgess where she was a contributing member of the Spartans' 1993 state Class C championship team before transferring her sophomore year to Wayne.

Amy Roble, 5-7 Jr. swingman, Harrison: Roble has been a varsity starter since the middle of her freshman year, and she helped lead the Hawks to the Western Lakes Activities Association championship game this year.

She averaged 14.4 points, 5.2 rebounds and 2.5 steals. She shot 39 percent from the floor (103-of-264), 25 percent from three-point distance (25-of-102) and 69 percent at the free-throw line (89-of-123).

In 53 varsity games during her career, Roble has scored 588 points and reached 213 rebounds. She also has made 57 of 226 three-point attempts for 25.2 percent.

"Behind her humble demeanor lies a tremendous competitive spirit," coach Pete Mantyla said. "She didn't miss one day through AAU, our summer program or the season.

"She shoots the three; she can drive to the basket and score and she's a force in the post.

"The next step, which has already begun, is making other players better. She showed flashes of that at the end of the year. Some of the passes she threw were pretty incredible."

Alysha Smith, 6-1 Jr. center, Redford Bishop Borgess: The three-year starter did everything asked of her, including bringing the ball up on the press at times.

She averaged 12 points, 10 rebounds, three assists and two blocks per game while shooting 50 percent from the floor.

"I feel she makes good decisions and I want her to have the ball a lot, especially in the low post where she can pass or shoot," coach Dave Mann said. "She'll realistically be one of the top five players and a Miss Basketball candidate in the state next year."

Madonna gets 3rd win

COLLEGE HOOP

After absorbing a deflating 28-point defeat one night earlier, Madonna University's men's basketball team illustrated its resiliency by bouncing back to beat Concordia College Thursday in Ann Arbor.

The win was Madonna's third of the season; combined with its 95-68 loss at Wayne State Wednesday, it left the Fighting Crusaders with a 3-10 record.

Free-throw shooting was the difference for Madonna against Concordia. The Crusaders were 34-of-42 from the line (81 percent); the Cardinals were 8-of-14 (57.1 percent).

Mike Maryanski enjoyed a superb performance for Madonna. Maryanski connected on 11-of-12 free throws and 4-of-8 three-pointers in scoring a team-best 29 points. He also grabbed 12 rebounds and blocked three shots.

Kristian Magro added 23 points and 10 boards; Brandon Slone (Plymouth Salem) contributed 10 points and nine rebounds; and John-Mark Branch got seven points, eight boards, four assists and four steals.

Madonna held a commanding 42-32 rebounding advantage.

In Wednesday's loss at Wayne State, the results were quite different. The Tartars outrebounded them 34-21, holding a commanding 17-5 edge on the offensive boards, and outshot them, connecting on 39-of-72 (54.2 percent) of their floor shots.

Maryanski again paced the Crusaders, scoring 16 points, grabbing five rebounds and blocking two shots. Slone had 11 points, five boards and three steals, and Magro netted 10 points.

Wayne State was led by Westland John Glenn grad Tony Goins, who shredded Madonna with 20 points, 10 rebounds, eight assists and two steals.

Findlay 100, Madonna 93 (women): Free throws and rebounds led Madonna's women's team to defeat Thursday at the University of Findlay (Ohio).

A superb performance by the Lady Crusaders' Katie Cushman wasn't enough. Cushman poured in a game-high 32 points, connecting on 11-of-16 from the field and 9-of-13 from three-point range, and dished out four assists.

Chris Dietrich added 14 points, six boards and eight assists, and Michelle Parmentier had 13 points and five rebounds for Madonna.

The loss was Madonna's fifth in a row and left the Crusaders with a 2-6 mark.

PCA 71, W. HIGHLAND 59: Plymouth Christian Academy jumped out to a 17-3 lead Friday against visiting West Highland, but needed a strong fourth quarter to hold on for the win in the Eagles Tournament game.

The Eagles (2-0) led by 14 after the first quarter and 36-12 at halftime. West Highland cut the deficit to 51-46 entering the fourth quarter, but PCA wouldn't allow the margin cut any further.

West Highland had its chances to come back at the free throw line, but made only 24 of 43 foul shots. Three Eagles fouled out in the contest.

Junior forward Nick Brandon led PCA with 17 points. Senior guard Chris DeRenzo added 16 points and junior center Jeff Paszko tallied 10.

Agape 64, West Side Christian: 60: In the consolation of the Eagles Tournament, Plymouth Agape needed overtime to beat Detroit West Side Christian.

Agape rallied from a 29-15 halftime deficit and sent the game into overtime where they outscored West Side 12-8.

Senior guard Matt Major scored 20 of his game-high 24 points in the second half for Agape. Senior forward Adam Martin just missed a triple double, recording 22 points, nine rebounds and nine assists.

CC 93, Powers 70: The hot shooting of Marc McDonald continued Friday as Redford Catholic Central notched its first victory of the season.

McDonald, who scored 44 points in CC's season-opening loss to Ypsilanti on Tuesday, poured in 39 points against visiting Flint Powers (0-2). The senior guard had four three-pointers.

Sophomore guard Nick Moore netted a career-high 16 points for the Shamrocks, and junior center Chris Young chipped in with 13 points and four blocks.

Senior guard Jeff Angle scored 25 points for Powers.

fouled as he drove to the basket. He then hit both free throws to give the Rocks the temporary lead.

"I think we got too protective too early," Simons said. "But the key was the missed free throws which gave them a chance to come back."

"You have to give the team credit; they came from 10 points down and had a chance to win it," Brodie added. "This team hates to lose, but I'm sure they'll bounce back."

Power led the Salem attack with 19 points. Lopez and Jeff McKian added 14 and 12 points, respectively. Bhavin Phatel grabbed eight rebounds.

Both teams shot well as Salem connected on 55 percent of its shots (26-of-47). The River Rats nailed 52 percent of their tries (27-of-52). Huron also hit nine three-pointers to Salem's eight.

"That's the name of the game now -- who can make the most three pointers," Simons said.

"It was a shootout," the Salem coach said. "Huron is a tough team with a lot of weapons."

New Suzuki Sidekick Sport makes a big impression

By Anne Fracassa
Avanti NewsFeatures

ROAD TEST By Anne Fracassa

This 1997 Suzuki Sidekick Sport is huge.

By compact sport utility standards, that is. With its four doors and expansive interior, the Sidekick Sport JLX 4-wheel-drive is long on comfort and convenience features — even though it's got a pretty hefty pricetag attached.

The window sticker said $20,619, including delivery. But look at the standard equipment list on this baby: Air conditioning, vehicle security alarm system with remote control, cruise control, power windows and door locks, remote control side mirrors, dual cup holders, remote fuel lid door release, intermittent windshield wipers, rear window wiper and washer, tinted glass, electric rear window defogger and passenger vanity mirror.

The model tested is the top-of-the-line fully-equipped model. You can also choose from a Suzuki Sport JS (2WD) or the JX (4WD) models. They both have less equipment than the JLX model.

The Sidekick Sport has got four doors. That means easy ingress and egress for not only the kids, but for the older adults as well. It's not so high off the ground that you'll need running boards, either.

You've got everything you'd ever want from a sport utility vehicle in the Sidekick Sport. I sat next to a two-door Geo Tracker, the sister to Sidekick, and the Geo was dwarfed.

You can only get the four door model at a Suzuki dealer. Geo doesn't — and won't — have any four doors to sell. Geo is only authorized to sell the Tracker in two-door models. Suzuki wanted the edge — and got it.

The Suzuki Sidekick Sport, which delivers a segment-leading 21 mpg city and 24 mpg highway, is easy to fall in love with. It's got all the amenities of most of its competition (including comfort and room).

It's even equipped with a 16-valve1.8-liter multi-point electronic fuel injected dual overhead cam 4-cylinder engine that outputs a respectable 120 horsepower. That doesn't sound quite adequate, but this is all that's necessary to power this sport utility with grace and ease.

The engine was mated to a 4-speed automatic that features a lock-up torque converter, overdrive selector and a driving sensor selector is even more fun. The driving sensor can be set to a power mode, giving it a healthy dose of performance and acceleration.

Automatic free-wheeling hubs and 4-wheel-drive with 2-speed transfer case is also standard equipment. Be sure to read the manual carefully. You won't have to get out and manually turn the hubs, but there are certain, strict procedures that must be followed when engaging or disengaging the 4WD and 2WD modes.

Complaints? The overdrive selector shouldn't be so close to the automatic's shift knob. That's really it.

The Sport JLX also has dual air bags, rear door child safety locks, 4-wheel anti-lock brakes, daytime running lights, 16-inch steel belted radials mounted on smart-looking 5-spoke aluminum alloy wheels, full-size spare tire with lock and tire cover, and bucket seats up front.

Instrumentation is taken care of and smartly positioned in the front instrument panel. The stereo has been upgraded to an Alpine AM/FM cassette stereo with four speakers that's strong on signal and has a sound quality any college kid would adore.

The Sidekick performs well in city and highway driving. But beware. This is still a truck and although suspension has been improved, you'll feel every bump. Not really the car for anyone with a touch of arthritis.

Off-roading is not a chore in the Sidekick Sport. This 4-wheel-drive system features a two-speed transfer case for extra traction of pulling power when you need it.

As for the design, I like it. It's wide track, flared fenders and cool-looking bumpers make it look like a force to be reconned with. It's aggressive-looking, yet so friendly.

The bottom line is that this is a perfect vehicle for someone who won't pay the steep price of the other carmakers' sport-utility offerings. The Sidekick is good value for the money.

Keeping Drivers In Touch With The Highway

(NAPS) – Imagine heavy traffic and unfamiliar roads. You're uncertain of directions and late for an appointment. Without taking your eyes from the road or your hands from the wheel, you receive a pager message from your office, call your client and receive navigation pointers to your final destination. All the while, you're alerted to upcoming road conditions.

These electronic systems were just shown in a new concept vehicle called the SSC that was developed by Delco Electronics Corporation, a subsidiary of Hughes Electronics Corporation, and a world leader in developing and producing vehicle electronics.

It's said that the SSC is loaded with more advanced electronic systems than any automobile in history. The concept car drives, protects, informs and communicates. 6910602S.DOC

WRITE IT AND REAP!

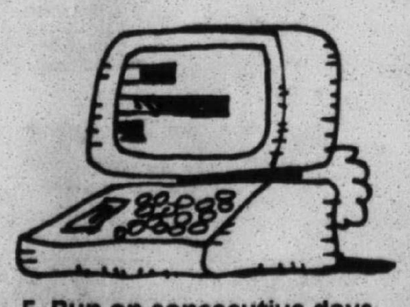
Writing a classified ad that gets results–whether it be for real estate, employment, the personals, transportation, or merchandise–is easy if you follow the guidelines below.

1. Give the reader specific information. Pretend you are someone reading the classifieds. What would you like to know about the item, service or job you are advertising? Be sure to add details such as color, size, condition, brand name, age, features and benefits. Be accurate! Don't embellish your ad with misleading information. Stick to the facts and reap the rewards!

2. Include the price. Don't waste your time or a potential buyer's time. If you advertise the price of the item or service you offer, the people who respond to your ad will be those who are genuinely interested. Surveys show that readers are more interested in those items and services they know are within their price range.

3. Avoid abbreviations. Don't make a potential customer work too hard! Although you may be tempted to cut down on the cost of your ad by using abbreviations, surveys indicate that many people don't understand such abbreviations as EIK (eat-in-kitchen) or WSW (white side wall) tires and won't take the time to figure them out. A confused reader is a disinterested reader. Get the most for your money and use complete words.

4. Include phone number and specify hours. Be sure to let potential customers know when and where to call. Surveys show that even if a person is very interested in your item or service, he or she will not call back after the first attempt. Stay near the phone during the hours you indicate you will be available. Don't risk missing a sale!



5. Run on consecutive days. Your ad will not get results if people don't see it! Therefore, it is important to set up a consistent and consecutive ad schedule with your telephone salesperson or outside sales representative.

TV PIPELINE

By Taylor Michaels

Q: I love the new series The Pretender. Michael T. Weiss is a great actor. What other work did he do before this show? –Geneva Tucker, Tyler, Texas.

A: A native of Chicago, Weiss has been acting since he was a child. Shortly after earning a degree from the University of Southern California's school of drama, he landed his first big role, playing Dr. Mike Horton on the soap Days of Our Lives.

He left the soap in 1990, then co-starred in the ill-fated NBC remake of Dark Shadows, in which he had a dual role. He also co-starred with Drew Barrymore and Jennifer Beals in 2000 Malibu Road.

Weiss earned rave reviews as an HIV-positive gay man in love with the title character (Steven Weber of Wings) in the film version of Paul Rudnick's hit comedy Jeffrey, and recently starred in the independent film Freeway with Reese Witherspoon and Kiefer Sutherland.

A passionate environmentalist, Weiss sits on the board of the Earth Communications Office. He is also a playwright and recently completed a piece called Streams of Consciousness.

Michael T. Weiss

Q: In a recent column, you identified the manor house used in A&E's Pride and Prejudice as being on the Cheshire-Derbyshire border in southwest England.

As a Yorkshire woman, I must point out that you should have said northwest England. –D.P. Armstrong, Vienna, Va.

A: My answer came directly from A&E's publicist for the miniseries, but I thank you for setting the record straight.

Q: Why did Grace Under Fire cast a new actor as Quentin? Why didn't the producers at least get one who was the same age as the other one? –Chris Ciske, Neenah, Wis.

Q: Is the actress playing Nadine on Grace Under Fire really pregnant? –D.A., Easton, Pa.

A: Carsey-Werner publicist Diane Shaw says Jon Paul Steuer, 12, decided to leave the show to pursue other offers. Of the several young actors who read for the part, producers thought 15-year-old Sam Horrigan was the best.

By the way, Steuer was the second Quentin; Noah Segan played the role in the pilot episode.

No, actress Julie White is not pregnant.

Q: Was Nancy McKeon ever a regular on Empty Nest? If not, who was? –E.K., Grand Blanc, Mich.

A: That was Kristy McNichol as policewoman Barbara Weston during the sitcom's first four seasons. The other female regulars were Dinah Manoff (Carol), Park Overall (LaVerne) and, for one season, Lisa Rieffel (Emily).

It's a wrap: networks put the tinsel on holiday TV schedules

By Suzanne Gill
TVData Features Syndicate

It's beginning to look a lot like Christmas everywhere you turn on TV.

Holiday specials have been strung through the schedules with care, favorite series have decked out seasonal episodes in holiday wrapping and network movies are starting to slow as one star after another learns "the true meaning of Christmas" in a heartwarming fable.

There's something in the scheduling bag to suit every viewer, so one show needn't fit all.

The most predictable offerings rework one of the traditional uncopyrighted secular stories: The Night Before Christmas, It's a Wonderful Life and A Christmas Carol. Call it Dickens redux.

Suddenly Susan (NBC, Thursday, Dec. 19) suffers from the Scrooge effect when Jack (Judd Nelson) cancels the staff's holiday bonuses and announces pay cuts for the new year. Also Thursday, Martin (Fox) features three nighttime visitors as Martin (Martin Lawrence) gets a holiday attitude adjustment.

It's "A Ranger's Christmas" on Walker, Texas Ranger (CBS, Saturday, Dec. 21) as Walker (Chuck Norris) tells a Wild West version of the Dickens story to a group of orphans.

Next come the warm-and-fuzzy entries, beginning with Unlikely Angel (CBS, Tuesday, Dec. 17). Dolly Parton stars in this TV movie as a wayward country singer who dies and can't get into heaven. Roddy McDowall co-stars as St. Peter, who sends her back to Earth to perform a good deed.

Tuesday on NBC's Something So Right, the kids spend the holidays at Jack (Jere Burns) and Carly's (Mel Harris) exes, leaving a special gift behind.

Beverly Hills, 90210 (Fox, Wednesday, Dec. 18) gets into the holiday spirit with an exchange of gifts and a surprise from Kelly's (Jennie Garth) dad.

CBS has the gift that keeps on giving: perennial favorite A Charlie Brown Christmas airs Thursday.

And speaking of holiday evergreens, It's a Wonderful Life makes its annual appearance Saturday, Dec. 21, on NBC.

Christmas in Washington (NBC, Wednesday) is a cup of more sophisticated Christmas cheer. Hosted by John Lithgow and the cast of 3rd Rock From the Sun, the special features performers Faith Hill, Luther Vandross and CeCe Winans and the U.S. Naval Academy Glee Club.

Elsewhere, it's a postmodern Christmas. On Lois & Clark: The New Adventures of Superman (ABC, Sunday, Dec. 15), an elfin troll ties a time loop that keeps Christmas Eve going and going... until Superman (Dean Cain) saves the holiday.

The Tick Loves Santa (Fox, Sunday) features the supercilious superhero in an animated attempt to defeat a horde of electronic Santa clones.

On The Drew Carey Show (ABC, Wednesday) Drew (Drew Carey) has problems with temporary employees, particularly a cranky Santa, so he enlists Lewis (Ryan Stiles) and Oswald (Diedrich Bader) to play elves. And his private life isn't much better: Bride-to-be Lisa turns an angry shade of red when Drew's loose words to her fiance threaten their nuptials.

On ER (NBC, Thursday) Dr. Carter (Noah Wyle) tries to uninvite Dr. Gant (Omar Epps) to his family's house for the holidays after Carter gets a better offer from Dr. Keatin (Glenne Headly). Dr. Greene (Anthony Edwards) makes a promise to a homeless man and Dr. Ross (George Clooney) plays guardian angel to a seriously ill baby.

Sliders (Fox, Friday, Dec. 20) supplies social commentary with an episode set in a world where folks live in malls and Christmas is a purely commercial proposition.

But for some hapless series, it's a Christmas spent stuck in a snowdrift. Mr. Rhodes (NBC, Monday, Dec. 16) takes the gang on a holiday ski trip, then snaps the telephone lines so Nikki (Farrah Forke) can't talk to Carl (Patrick Fabian) about his latest marriage proposal.

On The Nanny (CBS, Wednesday) Miss Fine (Fran Drescher) stays a little farther south and gets caught in a hurricane.

Monday on The Jeff Foxworthy Show (NBC) an attempt to school the kids in Georgia Christmas tradition backfires when Jeff (Jeff Foxworthy) and Big Jim (G.W. Bailey) are arrested for chopping down a tree without first asking permission.

Wings (NBC, Wednesday) gets its feathers ruffled over some unexpected guests and assorted mishaps that disrupt holiday plans. Then on Newsradio nobody wants to pull a Christmas shift, and Dave (Dave Foley) may get left holding the station together.

The broken head from a church nativity scene turns Christmas Eve upside down for Denise (Lauren Graham) and Ryan (Billy Burr) on Townies (ABC, Wednesday), while Carrie (Molly Ringwald) ends up in the hospital during the holiday.

It's just another Christmas on series like Caroline in the City (NBC, Tuesday) and Party of Five (Fox, Wednesday), where encounters with the homeless figure prominently in the story lines.

A mother and daughter spend their first Christmas together on Melrose Place (Fox, Monday), and on Living Single (Fox, Thursday) Khadijah (Queen Latifah) gets in over her head when her new boyfriend, a doctor, takes her to party with his associates.

Finally, there's a show that defies the usual categories. The Munsters' Scary Little Christmas (Fox, Tuesday) takes an oddball approach, pulling out all the stops for a "traditional" Transylvanian holiday designed to restore Eddie's (Bug Hall) faith in Santa Claus. Sam McMurray plays Herman, with Ann Magnuson and Sandy Baron as Lily and Grandpa.

SOAP TALK

New year ushers in changes to P&G series

By Candace Havens
©TVData Features Syndicate

In preparation for the new year, there are big changes on the Procter & Gamble Co. soaps Guiding Light, As the World Turns and Another World.

Two GL favorites are returning to the show on Wednesday, Dec. 25. Fiona Hutchison, who played Jenna Bradshaw from 1992-94, is back.

Jenna had been romantically involved with Buzz Cooper (Justin Deas) and returns to Springfield with a surprise for him.

For now, Jordan Clarke, who has played Billy off and on since 1983, is scheduled to appear only on the Dec. 25 episode. But the door will be left open for the actor's return.

GL also has a new executive producer, Paul Rauch, who replaces Michael Laibson.

"I feel particularly challenged to become involved with a series that has one of the most talented, exciting casts in daytime," Rauch says.

"All the raw material is there. I intend to revitalize GL – we're going to have an even more compelling show."

Rauch previously was executive producer for One Life to Live and Another World.

P&G also has announced that Helena Mines Behr will replace John Valente as executive producer for ATWT.

Behr has been involved in daytime for more than 25 years. She was a part of the team that launched All My Children in 1970.

"I'm excited about joining a serial that holds such a solid place in daytime history," Behr says. "It's a part of American life."

Fan favorite Amanda Cory is back on AW.

The character will be played by Laura Moss, a newcomer to the daytime scene.

In the story, Amanda will challenge those around her in order to bring her family back together.

Kevin McClatchy, who played Nick Hudson on AW, is leaving the role.

The show wants to take the character in a different direction, and Mc Clatchy will be replaced.

The 3rd Rock From the Sun cast (from left: Kristen Johnston, John Lithgow, French Stewart and Joseph Gordon-Levitt) invades the nation's capital to host Christmas in Washington Wednesday on NBC.

Christmas in Washington looks to be out of this world

Is it fallout from an unusually kooky election year or the result of the astronomic box-office success of Independence Day?

More likely, it's just the NBC peacock preening over its network's latest ratings smash.

Whatever the reasons, NBC's telecast of the 15th Christmas in Washington, airing Wednesday, Dec. 18, may take a decidedly unconventional turn this year as the proceedings are hosted by the zany cast of the sitcom 3rd Rock From the Sun.

Actor John Lithgow, who recently won an Emmy for his work as pompous alien expedition leader Dick Solomon, will share hosting chores with castmates Jane Curtin, Kristen Johnston, French Stewart and Joseph Gordon-Levitt.

The hourlong concert, which includes President Bill Clinton and Hillary Rodham Clinton among the honored guests, is generally a classy affair (last year's elegant hosts were the cast of Frasier, for example).

It remains to be seen how executive producer and writer George Stevens Jr. will make use of the unique zanies who make up the 3rd Rock ensemble, but the possibilities are boundless.

This is, after all, the first Christmas season the 3rd Rock aliens have witnessed, and, as anyone who recently saw their reaction to Thanksgiving knows, anything could happen.

Then there is the chance that someone will make an inspired riff on those familiar tabloid stories that have extraterrestrials dropping in for secret summits with the president and his staff.

One thing viewers can count on, however, is beautiful music in abundance. Vocalists who have committed to appear are country singer Faith Hill, Luther Vandross and gospel great CeCe Winans. Also, the United States Naval Academy Glee Club, the United States Army Band Herald Trumpets and the Washington Orchestra, conducted by Ian Fraser, will perform.

The concert is a benefit for the Children's National Medical Center in Washington.

TRIVIA

The Consumer Product Safety Commission in 1975 declared poinsettias a "nonfood substance," though it added they are not poisonous.

SATURDAY

Donna Reed and James Stewart star as a young couple who find love, happiness and the spirit of Christmas in It's a Wonderful Life, airing Saturday on NBC.
