Judith Guest to speak at April event

BY JOANNE MALISZEWSKI
STAFF WRITER

Ask Judith Guest what it takes to get a novel published. She'll likely tell you that despite her success, she knows the exasperation and rejection that accompanies the effort.

"I think a lot of good books can fall through the cracks," she said during a recent visit to Ann Arbor.

Best known for her novel of family life, "Ordinary People" - made into an award-winning film in the early 1980s - Guest is busy promoting her latest novel, "Errands," which is set in Michigan.

You'll hear more about her latest work when she visits as a guest speaker for the annual Observer-HomeTown Newspapers and Friends of the Libraries Book and Author Luncheon Thursday, April 17.

The noon event - tickets are $18 - will be at Fox Hills Country Club, 8768 North Territorial Road, Plymouth. It is hosted by the Friends of Plymouth, Canton, Northville and Novi libraries.

Guest is no stranger to Michigan. Her ties run deep. Her brother lives in Farmington Hills, she is a University of Michigan graduate and her parents live in Fenton. Guest lives in Minnesota and also lists Harrisville in Michigan as an address.

Of course one of the first questions Guest gets is if she is related to famed poet Edgar "Bud" Guest. Indeed she is through marriage. It's clear that she feels some

A winner: Paul Cusick of Plymouth made history as the first American male ever to win the All-Ireland Irish Dancing Championships

Irish dancer brings home the trophy

BY M.B. DILLON
STAFF WRITER

Plymouth's 16-year-old Paul Cusick recently returned from Ireland, where he made history as the first American male ever to win the All-Ireland Irish Dancing Championships.

"He'll go down in the record books," said Michael O'Hare, who with his brother Tim, Paul's teacher, established the O'Hare School of Irish Dance.

O'Hare says the honor couldn't go to a better, more capable young man. "It's quite an accomplishment. The Irish have gotten so advanced. It just seems to get more and more difficult."

The Redford Catholic Central sophomore outshined top competitors from Ireland, the U.S., England, Scotland, Wales, Australia, New Zealand and Canada.

Paul made the County Clare with several other American dancers, including Michael Belvitch of Plymouth Township.

Michael, 14, a Plymouth Salem High School freshman, distinguished himself with a 6th-place finish.

"We're very proud of Michael. At his age, and to achieve this now is just perfect timing," Mike O'Hare said. Both Paul and Michael have qualified to compete in the All-

Township draws ire from its neighbors

■ Plymouth Township participates in the regional mutual aid pact but has not signed the agreement, which annoys other participants.

BY KEVIN BROWN
STAFF WRITER

It ticks off some neighbors that Plymouth Township is the only community that has not signed the Western Wayne Police Mutual Aid pact.

The picketing by 2,100 UAW members earlier this month outside the local Johnson Controls plant drew attention to the township government's lack of a written commitment to the joint police effort.

Township Police Chief Carl Berry pointed out that the township police attend mutual aid training sessions and respond to all out-county calls for service - exactly as members who've signed the pact.

MUTUAL AID

But that lack of a formal commitment irks some area government leaders.

While several western Wayne County police departments sent officers to help with the Johnson strike, the city of Northville refused - because Plymouth Township has not signed the mutual aid pact.

Canton Supervisor Tom Yack said Canton Public Safety officers responded to the call "because the people on duty at the time believed they (Plymouth Township) were a member of mutual aid."

Dearborn Police Inspector John Sligay, director of operations for mutual aid, said, "Every time there's been a call out to Plymouth Township, they've responded."

So why doesn't Plymouth Township formally belong? "At the time it began the supervisor (Maurice Breen) didn't feel Plymouth Township should join, I'm not sure what his reasons were," she said.

"We have a history of responding when there are call outs. We have sent members to train with other communities, we have abided with all agreements - that's really the crux of mutual aid," McCarthy said.

Of Canton's Yack, McCarthy said, "I am not sure I understand what his concerns are, I would be more than happy to talk with him."

The Johnson Controls strike and the subsequent call for police mutual aid in Plymouth Township sparked a complaint call from one member community to mutual aid Chairman Ronald Deziel, Dearborn police chief.

He in turn called Berry. "Their township

In today's Observer, we take a look at AIDS and how it has affected those who live in western Wayne County. Our coverage begins with a profile of a gay couple from Livonia in which one man is HIV-positive. Medical experts from western Wayne County discuss the epidemic and its treatment in today's Health section. We also look at services available to help those who are HIV-positive and at a Redford family whose son will be remembered on the AIDS quilt.

Stan and Gene made a commitment to spend their lives together after they met and fell in love in late 1992.

"We wanted to grow old together," Gene, 48, said. "We always had a 10-year plan for our future."

The Livonia gay couple's commitment hasn't changed, but their long-range dreams have become a lesser priority than keeping Stan, 42, alive for as long as possible.

"What was important yesterday is not important today," Gene said.

Stan learned in October that he had tested positive for HIV, the virus that causes AIDS. He also is infected by cytomegalovirus (CMV), a latent virus that could emerge to leave him blind.

"I know that my life is now going to be limited," said Stan, who didn't want his real name used. "Sometimes I can sleep up to 18 hours a day. I'm exhausted by the most minimal tasks."

Sitting on kitchen bar stools in their meticulously furnished brick ranch home, Stan and Gene talked nearly three hours about the way HIV has changed their lives. They occasionally paused to give attention to Trixie and Miss Thing - small, playful Maltese dogs that scampered around the room.

"These are our babies," Stan said, smiling like a proud parent.

Away from work

Stan has been on leave since Dec. 6 from his social work job with Wayne County Family Independence Agency, Child and Family Services. He has two master's degrees and a specialist degree. Gene, who has tested negative for HIV, is a General Motors Corp. Powertrain employee who works the afternoon shift.

Stan began noticing a change in his health last spring. He became feverish. He broke into frequent sweats. He had an ear and sinus infection that he couldn't shake. And he felt tired all the time.

"It became harder to function. I would have to come home early from work just to rest," Stan said.

Following some medical tests, he received an World Irish Dancing Championships in Galway, Ireland, in March.

Mike and Tim O'Hare are champion Irish dancers themselves. They teach hundreds of students at Dance Unlimited in Plymouth, and in East Detroit, Grosse Pointe, Ferndale, Bloomfield Hills, Clarkston, Akron, Ohio and Chicago, Illinois.

With the highly-acclaimed Irish "Riverdance" production taking the world by storm, the O'Hares are being contacted by countless prospective dancers. Riverdance is a celebration of Irish dance, music and song that incorporates cultural traditions of Harlem, Spain and Russia. The Riverdance CD entered the Billboard World Music Chart at number one.

Fast-paced with a premium placed on finesse and power, Irish dance is a spectacle to see. So skillful is it that Canadians pushed for it to be included in the 1976 Montreal Olympics.

Done in ballet-like shoes, soft-shoe dance requires acrobatic leaps, jumps, high kicks, and rhythm. Hornpipe dances, performed in "hard" shoes like tap shoes, feature heel and toe clicks, fancy footwork, kicks and leaps at a dizzying pace.

What was it like for the four-time North American champion to be awarded the foot-tall silver trophy?

"It was excellent," said Paul. "It was the happiest moment of my life; just to be the first American ever to win the All-Ireland. I'm honored, and proud to have accomplished a goal. Now I just have to win the worlds next month," added the all-A student who hopes to attend the University of Notre Dame.

Paul said he had a good feeling during the competition. "It was going well, but I didn't want to get too overconfident. I barely won."

All the adulation has "been great. All the support and everything makes it worthwhile," said Paul, who has willingly practiced since he was 5 years old, inspired by his dancing sisters.

Michael said competing in a packed ballroom against 32 boys in his age division was "pretty nerve wracking. You want to do your best."

Things went well for Michael until the second round, "when I kind of tripped on my hornpipe," the bronze-medal winner said. "I recovered and kept going. I'm going back in March, and I'm going to make up for that trip."

Both Paul and Michael have laurels to rest upon. In addition to his four national championships, Paul has four Midwest-ern championships to his credit. He placed fourth in the world in 1995 and seventh in world competition last year.

Michael has won the Midwestern championship four times since he started dancing at age 8. In 1994 world competition, he placed 16th in the 11-13 age division. Despite a broken foot, he placed 13th in last year's world contest.

Both travel extensively to compete and have made close friends in distant locales.

Paul and Michael thrive on competition and use their athletic ability in other sports. Paul runs cross country and track for the Shamrocks, and has won a varsity letter. "Cross country has helped me in dance, and dance has helped me in running," said Paul.

Michael is a diver at Salem. "I didn't know dance would be so advantageous," he said. "My legs are trained. I've learned body control and to keep my toes pointed. I had such an advantage coming into it."

Mike O'Hare says, "These guys are gifted as far as rhythm, timing, and their sense of music. But it's like playing an instrument. You may have some natural ability, but you still have to practice, practice, practice."

It wouldn't surprise O'Hare if, just like Riverdance star Michael Flatley, Paul and Michael have their feet insured with Lloyd's of London someday. "They're young right now, but they're definitely Riverdance caliber," O'Hare said.

The O'Hare School of Irish Dance is staging a recital Saturday, March 8 at Oakland Community College in Farmington Hills. Show times are noon and 2:30 p.m. For more information, call (810) 435-2479.

Johnson Controls workers worry about losing jobs; strike continues

BY KEVIN BROWN
STAFF WRITER

Some Johnson Controls workers are worried about losing their jobs, as work at the plant has been moved to other UAW-organized facilities while a strike continues.

"We struck for a union that said they could back us, and they're not doing everything for us," said one striking Johnson Controls worker Wednesday. He declined to be named.

"We just came out of a union meeting where our own local is going to take our jobs," the 29-year-old Northville man said.

here and cleared out the whole plant," he continued. "They (UAW) have no guarantees for everybody, they're going to try to leverage with Ford, they're trying to put pressure on Ford to put pressure on Johnson Controls."

While some observers speculate Johnson intends to close the plant to avoid labor strife, the company has denied this.

Of some plant workers complaints with the UAW, union spokesman Karl Mantyla said, "We'd prefer not to comment. Our effort is to negotiate initial contracts for the Plymouth and Oberlin (Ohio) facilities."

The Johnson Controls plant off of Beck Road north of M-14 produces truck seating for Ford Motor Co.

The strike is in its 13th day, as workers making around $10 per hour say their pay falls short of that going to workers at other area seating suppliers, who make $14 per hour.

"We've got 350 people who want to go back to work, they've got bills to pay. Lear is building our seats," the worker said.

Striking workers receive $150 per week in strike pay.

Township Supervisor Kathleen Keen McCarthy said the strike hasn't posed a financial burden, as some overtime police costs are already budgeted.

There have been no contract talks since Monday, and none were scheduled as of Friday, said representatives for Johnson Controls and the UAW.

While Johnson Controls does not receive tax abatements on the auto seat plant, it did receive a $770,075 tax abatement last year on its office facility at 49200 Halyard in the township.

That abatement came as part of a 12-year 50 percent abatement awarded in 1989 by the township board of trustees.

board has not passed a resolution formally agreeing to the terms of western Wayne mutual aid," Deziel said.

"From a practical standpoint it's not a problem," Deziel said. Yet, a formal agreement to participate guarantees that participation. "It's not really binding but it helps those in administrative positions to plan for those type of situations," he said.

"I have suggested to Chief Berry that perhaps the matter needs to be addressed by his township board," Deziel said.

"Practically speaking it hasn't made a difference. But I think it would be the proper thing for their township board to pass a resolution and be a signator of the pact," he said.

There is no cost to agreeing to participate, other than sending officers to other communities when needed, he said.

A significant benefit of the mutual aid pact, as provided by state law, allows officers from outside agencies to be able to arrest subjects in the community they're called to.

Music scholarships are now available

Young musicians are encouraged to apply for Plymouth Community Chorus scholarships by March 3.

The PCC Scholarship Program consists of an $800 scholarship awarded to a graduating senior, a $400 scholarship to a high school student, and a $400 scholarship to a middle school student.

Scholarships are intended to assist students in the pursuit of studies in vocal music; an applied vocational career in vocal music; academic study of voice; or the study of voice for the purpose of organized recreational or community singing.

Applications must be post-marked no later than March 3.

Applications are available by writing to the Plymouth Community Chorus, P.O. Box 700217, Plymouth, 48170, Attention: Scholarship Committee.

Leonard A. Turowski is proud to announce the opening of his newly renovated Funeral facility located at 45100 Warren Rd. in Canton. Under remodeling since September of 1996 the facility has been completely updated and expanded to service the needs of the growing Plymouth-Canton community.

Neely Turowski is honored to be the only funeral home in the area to receive the 'Pursuit Of Excellence Award,' given by the National Funeral Directors Association. This honor is awarded for unique programming activity, outstanding accomplishment in funeral service and innovative achievement in the fields of professional, educational and community service.

An entirely new area has been created to accommodate those wishing cremation services in addition to traditional burial services. Other services we provide are pre-arrangement and inflation-proof funeral arrangements.

An open house is planned for mid spring but feel free to come & view the new facility now.

Designer reaches for the stars and an MBA

BY M.B. DILLON
STAFF WRITER

When the going gets tough, the tough go back to school.

You can include in that category Plymouth graphic designer Margaret FitzGerald, who is earning her master's in business administration at the University of Michigan.

FitzGerald was featured in a recent cover story in Inc. magazine about the growing number of professionals returning to school for MBA's.

Since she launched Metaphor Design in 1988, FitzGerald has served clients ranging from large organizations such as Ameritech and the University of Michigan Medical Center to non-profit groups and start-up companies in real estate; high technology; health care; telecommunications; and job placement as well as training; transportation; and the legal profession.

In the course of her career, the 33-year-old has witnessed meteoric change.

"When I started, we had to know how to keyline," she said. "My students at Schoolcraft College (where FitzGerald teaches computer graphics technology) never heard of it. Change has been that fast. Technology has driven all the changes in graphic design." Desktop publishers and electronic presses in particular have carved into graphic designers' niche.

In 1984, the Indiana-born entrepreneur graduated cum laude with a bachelor's degree in fine arts from the U of M, where her grandfather was a professor of analytical chemistry.

"The Mac (computer) came out in 1984, the same year I graduated," said FitzGerald, whose parents also graduated from the U of M.

"There were no computers in the art school. To get access to computers, you had a choice of taking one class in the school of architecture, or four courses in the school of engineering. It was so ludicrous."

FitzGerald has furnished her spacious home office with a computer and color monitor, printer, fax machine, copier and extensive reference library.

Tools of the trade coupled with her creativity and knowledge equip her with everything it takes to create marketing communications packages for businesses. She produces collateral printed marketing material, including brochures, logos, letterheads, and annual reports. She's also designed book covers and interiors.

FitzGerald is a whiz at creating cohesive images that tie all of a client's materials together. Awards she's received fill an entire page of her resume. Plaques and merit certificates cover her walls.

FitzGerald recently won an International Association of Business Communicators award for an Ameritech newsletter she designed. The newsletter prompted an 85-percent response rate to an employee program.

With skills she's acquiring in the U of M's 60-credit MBA program, FitzGerald will be able to "go into a company and say, 'I'm going to outsource this aspect of your marketing for you, working with you to develop strategy and implement it fully,'" she said. "It's teaching me how to operate in other sections of the marketing universe."

Right now, the tendency is to be more of a vendor handling specific tasks versus an outsourcing partner.

As she told Inc., she recognized the need to "jump to a higher level, to ask where the marketing research came from, and to understand what information is relevant in deciding what a marketing piece should be." That "should differentiate my firm within this broadening spectrum."

Somehow, FitzGerald finds time to assume leadership roles in numerous professional organizations and to teach - following in the footsteps of her grandfather and father, a University of Pittsburgh computer science professor.

"As busy as I get, I love teaching at Schoolcraft. It's a real energy giver," said FitzGerald, who stresses real-world projects in her classes. "I love watching students blossom and prosper. I like watching them go out into the world. It's exciting."

Gallimore interim principal to serve extended period

Cheers arose from the audience at last week's Plymouth-Canton Board of Education meeting when it was announced that interim Gallimore Elementary Principal George Dodson will serve for an extended period.

Dodson and a large contingent from Gallimore were present, as Dodson had nominated teacher Bonnie Miller for the Extra Miller award.

Superintendent Charles Little said the hiring of a new principal to replace Larry Cole, who resigned, is being postponed until April.

"We wanted to get a larger pool of candidates," said Errol Goldman, the district's assistant superintendent for employee relations. "It's not that we don't like who's in the pool. We will consider them. But the pool is pretty small. We want to get a larger pool."

"We're extending the posting until April or May - in that range."

Thus far, 10 individuals have applied. Most are from outside the district, Goldman said.

The goal is to hire someone before the end of the school year.

"We want to see if we can get a little overlap and have someone start before the end of the school year so that the new person can work with George and begin preparations for next year," said Goldman.

Man sought for impersonating officer

Plymouth police are asking for the public's assistance in apprehending a man wanted for impersonating a police officer, forgery and counterfeiting.

The suspect passed a stolen check at the Plymouth Marketplace Dec. 11.

Described as a light-skinned black male, the suspect is 5-feet-5 or 5-feet-6, 140-160 pounds, with a bald head.

He showed the store employee a fake Pontiac Police Department badge and used the name Jesse Cessante. He purchased $4.98 worth of merchandise and issued a check in the amount of $145, asking for cash back. The check was stolen from a Farmington Hills woman, police said.

Dressed in a tan sports coat, tan slacks and brown-and-tan tie, the man spoke as if he were well-educated and presented himself with confidence, said Plymouth Lt. Wayne Carroll. "He didn't look nervous or suspicious." The suspect told the clerk that his wife or girlfriend had just had a baby. He also told her that he knew the store owner, and that the owner had asked the suspect to write his badge number on the check.

Anyone with information is asked to call Lt. Carroll at 453-8600.

PLYMOUTH PIPELINE

Board of review

Home assessment notices are on their way, and property owners who want to challenge their assessments can do so before the Plymouth city or township boards of review.

In the city, board of review sessions are scheduled for noon to 6 p.m. Tuesday, March 4 and 3-9 p.m. Wednesday, March 5 at Plymouth City Hall, 201 S. Main St.

In Plymouth Township, the board of review is scheduled to hold public sessions from 9 a.m. to noon and 2-5 p.m. Monday, March 10; and if needed from 2-9 p.m. Tuesday, March 11 and at noon Saturday, March 15 at the township government office complex at the northeast corner of Ann Arbor and Lilley roads.

Those seeking to appear before the boards of review should make appointments. Also, collect information on neighborhood home sales to support your claim of an incorrect assessment.

New government offices?

Plymouth Township Treasurer Ron Edwards suggested at the board of trustees meeting Tuesday that a new township government office complex should be considered, to replace current offices at Lilley and Ann Arbor roads.

"I have a squirrel living over my office," Edwards said, adding that it's common knowledge among township employees that the buildings are in disrepair. He suggested that a building committee be formed to address the situation.

"Whether or not that is a high priority for the community is another question," said Supervisor Kathleen Keen McCarthy, who said trustees have on occasion discussed a need for a new township office building with all offices under one roof.

Arts council blues

The Plymouth Community Arts Council presents its sixth annual dinner theater "Blues at the Botsford" at 7 p.m. Saturday, Feb. 22 at the Botsford Inn in Farmington.

The featured soloist is Chicago blues and jazz artist Eden Atwood. An art auction and cocktails open the evening, dinner is at 8 p.m. and dancing follows. Tickets are $50 per person and are available at the council office at 774 N. Sheldon Road.

Call 416-4278 for more information.

Editor's note: Every week the Plymouth District Library will provide the Observer with their list of "best sellers" based on the number of requests for titles by library patrons. The books are available by placing a request with the library, 453-0750.

connection to the poet, especially in his descriptions of people.

"He wrote about ordinary people, too," Guest said. After she had written "Ordinary People," she found a poem Edgar Guest had written titled "Real People." Within the poem he used the phrase, "ordinary people."

Her newest novel is again about ordinary people and the obstacles they overcome. "Errands" is about a family whose father and husband, Keith, is dying of cancer. The husband accepts his fate, but his wife, Annie, doesn't. The family spends its last summer together in a cabin in Au Gres, near Huron Lake, north of Bay City.

The husband's death turns the family's lives upside down. But it takes a second threatening event to make Annie and her three children understand that even without Keith they are still a family.

Guest said titles are easy for her to write. When she decided on "Errands" for the new book, she was committed. But editors didn't really like it. They suggested instead, "The Secrets He Kept" and "The Secrets They Kept."

But Guest stuck to her guns. "I love this title. It means a lot to me."

The title is truly about the errands that people do in life. "I have a lot of feelings about the errands women do," she said, adding that errands are the "gifts you give to yourself and other people."

Guest makes it clear that even with such a popular novel as "Ordinary People" on her resume, publication of future novels has been no guarantee.

In fact, "Errands" was initially turned down. Finally, her son, Larry, read the book. His verdict: "Fix it." So she cut out 100 pages and rewrote some of it.

Guest sent the book to five publishers, two said yes and they entered a bidding war.

"This is a very precarious and uncertain business," she said. "This is a business contract you're negotiating."

Guest, of course, has an agent. But in the early days when she sent "Ordinary People" to publishers, she had no connections and it was a tough experience getting it published. "I didn't have any trouble getting an agent after I got the book published," she added.

Guest admitted she is not a prolific writer. "I'm just the pokey little puppy." She describes herself as a proud grandmother who "mainly writes and babysits."

Treasurer wants summer program

BY KEVIN BROWN
STAFF WRITER

Spring is a ways off, but recreation is on the minds of some city and township officials.

Township Treasurer Ron Edwards is proposing that township trustees revive a summer recreation program initiated in 1992 by then supervisor Gerald Law.

"It was quite successful, it wasn't that expensive but it was only at one site. We could expand it to a few schools," Edwards said.

And through a joint city-township survey, officials say they want to find out how many people out there are willing to pay for recreation services.

The phone survey of Plymouth city and township residents is to happen in the next few weeks. Officials say they hope to have results back by mid-March.

In 1992 at Plymouth Township Park, high school students ran activities for children. Edwards said college phys-ed students could head the program this time around.

"Comments I've seen from parents were very positive," he said, adding such a program is needed.

The program in 1992 cost $14,103. Edwards is proposing to expand it to four school yards throughout the township.

In 1992, 257 kids ages 6-12 registered for the program. It included races, baseball and a range of games. "It's just a great program, they ran it for seven weeks, we could do eight," Edwards said, adding similar programs succeed in other communities.

"All I'm trying to do is a common sense thing for this community, kids will get to know their own neighbors, it brings the community together," he said. "We spend more on one employee for the township than for a parks program."

While most township trustees have yet to respond, Supervisor Kathleen Keen McCarthy said, "In '93 we couldn't do it, that's certainly something we can look at."

"That program was just finishing up when we came into office," McCarthy said. Because the new township government faced budget problems, McCarthy froze pay raises for a year. Some salaries were frozen for a longer period.

Edwards said the program can be paid for, as the township has a budget surplus of more than $1 million.

McCarthy said, "Our expenses have been in excess of revenue each of the last three years." She said some routine maintenance items have also been deferred in recent years, and this has contributed to the size of the surplus.

The joint city-township recreation survey, put together with the help of a consultant, will seek to sample residents' views on how important recreation is to their quality of life, how it should be paid for, and what recreation options are preferred.

Letters will be sent to those chosen to participate in the telephone survey, to encourage participation.

Tax guide available to area residents

State Rep. Gerald Law, R-Plymouth, is making the 1996 Michigan Taxpayer's Guide available to 20th District residents.

The 50-page booklet offers the latest information on tax laws in an easy-to-understand format. Tax forms also are included.

"This should help ease the burden of filing taxes, an unenviable chore we all face," Law said. "This guide is a great resource."

CHARTER TOWNSHIP OF CANTON
HARRISON DRAIN IMPROVEMENTS PUBLIC COMMENT PERIOD

Pursuant to an environmental review mandated by 43 FR 6030 (February 10, 1978), implementing E.O. 11988, the Charter Township of Canton has determined that the Harrison Drain, located south of US-12 and adjacent the Conrail railroad tracks beginning at Haggerty Road and extending east of Lotz Road (a total of approximately 4,600 feet), should be cleaned of debris in an area limited to the drain bed and adjacent bank, notwithstanding an area of wetland immediately west of I-275 and adjacent the drain.

The determination was made with due consideration of the following: (1) The project must be located in the drainage course and immediate bank area because that is the only practicable location to clean the drain in the project area to prevent the flooding of adjacent properties. The work will not be in a floodplain or wetland. (2) In determining to do the drain cleaning, the Engineer considered the impact on adjacent properties and the adjacent wetland. Project alternatives were considered including that of no action. It was determined that without drain cleaning the adjacent properties would continue to experience flooding and such flooding would continue to worsen over time due to increasing blockage due to the growth of vegetation in the drain. Changing the slopes of adjacent properties or redirecting runoff to another drain are financially impracticable and would result in greater environmental impacts than removing the vegetation in the subject drain segment. (3) The drain cleaning will be coordinated with the Michigan Dept. of Natural Resources (DNR) and the Wayne County Office of Public Services (owner of the drain). (4) The NFIP (National Flood Insurance Program) criteria are demonstrably inappropriate for the proposed action because the work will not take place in a floodplain.

The second, legally noticed public hearing for this project was held February 6, 1997. Project plans are now available for public inspection in the Resource Development Division during regular business hours. The public comment period will run February 17 to March 21, 1997. Written comment or requests for information should be directed to: Gerald Martin, Development Specialist, Resource Development Division, 1150 S. Canton Center Road, Canton, Michigan 48188, (313-397-5417), or Susan Folsom, Engineering Services, (313-397-5406).

LIVING AIDS

Quilt tells local man's life story

BY JULIE BROWN
STAFF WRITER

Therese Vincent's son, John, died on July 25, 1996, but his memory lives on.

John Vincent, who was 34 when he died of complications from AIDS, will be among those featured in the Names Project, AIDS Memorial Quilt.

"He was aware of his illness for 10 years," Therese Vincent of Redford Township said of her third youngest child, one of nine born to Therese and her late husband, Walter. John Vincent, who earned a degree from Michigan State University, taught AIDS awareness and prevention in schools.

The family had heard about the quilt project and thought it was a great idea. John Vincent's partner, Jon Chapman, has worked with the family on the project.

John Vincent was active in a nonprofit organization later in his life, AAEP, which worked on AIDS education and prevention. "That's still in existence," his mother said. "A lot of people made contributions to that" when John died.

She and other family members are arranging a Mass for the spring at Our Lady of Loretto Catholic Church in Redford. The quilt panel, which measures 12-by-12 feet, will be displayed. The family had a healing Mass at the church with the Rev. Rich Bartoszek, who is active in AIDS ministry, on April 2, 1995, and John was able to attend.

A spring display is planned at the University of Michigan-Dearborn campus, she said.

The John Vincent panel features pictures of him. It includes a portion for those who cared for him at the Henry Ford Health System. There's a friends' part and portions for other family members.

"Doing it with the friends and all" was rewarding, she said. Therese Vincent and her brother worked on one section of the panel, including several tributes to John.

She never had trouble accepting her son's homosexuality.

Her husband died young, which meant she had to go to work. The children looked after each other.

Her son's diagnosis was a shock at first as there was less known about HIV. "Everyone accepted it. We were with him all the way." Family members appreciate the excellent medical care he received.

At the hospital, Therese Vincent saw some other patients who didn't have loving families. "Fortunately, he wasn't from one of those families."

The 13 nieces and nephews, when younger, called him "Uncle Chops," on account of a slight weight problem, and his partner "Uncle Jon." The children didn't understand the nature of the relationship, she said, but were accepting.

"Nothing that ever separated us, I'll tell you that."

Reducing Your Risk of AIDS

HIV, the virus which causes AIDS, is in the blood, semen or vaginal secretions of an infected person. The two main ways of spreading HIV are having sex and using contaminated needles to inject drugs. In addition, infected women can pass HIV infection to their newborns.

"Unprotected sex" is sex without a latex condom. HIV can be in semen (including the first drops of fluid, even before ejaculation) and in vaginal fluids.

Any form of unprotected sex is risky, including oral sex. Although condoms are not perfect, they are highly effective in preventing sexually transmitted diseases when used consistently and correctly. Condom failure is usually due to a person not using the condom correctly, rather than flaws in the condom itself.

Some sexually transmitted diseases produce open sores or blisters on the genitals. The sores or blisters make it easier for HIV to be transmitted during sex.

Sex with multiple partners increases your risk of getting HIV. Contraceptives other than latex condoms do not protect against HIV.

AIDS epidemic strikes Michigan, Wayne County

Current estimates for HIV infection for Michigan are at 8,500 to 11,500 out of a population of approximately 9.3 million. About 3,500 of those infected have AIDS.

"The rest are infected but healthier," said James Kent, HIV epidemiologist for the Michigan Department of Community Health.

Wayne County, with a population of a little over 2 million, has 4,700 to 6,500 people infected with HIV, accounting for 55 to 57 percent of the epidemic in Michigan. Of those, over 1,800 have AIDS.

An estimated 680 to 1,335 people who live in Wayne County outside of Detroit are infected with HIV, including those with AIDS, according to the department.

The state started to keep statistics on AIDS in 1981, said Kent, who has a master's degree in epidemiology from the University of Michigan. Ten years ago, there were a lot of infected people who were relatively healthy.

"The population in Michigan is becoming sicker. There are different reasons for that," he said. One is the natural course of the epidemic.

There are also a variety of treatments that have helped infected individuals. Public health measures have had an impact on behavior. "The answer is obviously yes. It obviously has had an impact." That impact is, however, difficult to measure.

The figures haven't changed significantly since 1990, Kent said. The state didn't begin to keep statistics on HIV separate from AIDS until 1989.

"We were only counting people who were really ill. Typically, they were hospitalized."

Michigan ranks about ninth in the U.S. in population, but is 33rd when AIDS cases are calculated by dividing the number of cases by the population. Michigan is 17th in the total number of AIDS cases reported.

The mortality rate has gone up, although it appears to have leveled off around 1995, Kent said. The number of persons diagnosed each year has also become level since about 1993. Mortality rates continue to climb for some people, such as young black men.

Oct. 1 phone call telling him to contact his doctor immediately.

"HIV was one of the last things that I really thought about," Stan said. "But I had never had a phone call like that. I was very upset."

The next day, Gene accompanied Stan for a doctor's office visit that brought the devastating news.

"I just became totally drained," Stan recalled. "It was as if I lost total feeling. It was like a dream state. I broke down. I could only think the very worst."

Gene has had an HIV test every month since then, and his results have consistently been negative. Stan said he can't figure out how he became infected.

"We have been monogamous. I have not cheated," he said, adding that an HIV test in December 1995 was negative. "It must have been from blood, but I don't know how."

Stan, who isn't visibly sick, has told select friends and family members about his condition, including his only sister. He hasn't told his only brother, who lives out of state, or his 75-year-old mother, who is still coping with the cancer death of Stan's father two years ago.

"We decided it would be too much for my mother right now," Stan said. "But she knows that something is wrong, because I have been off work."

Niece Julie - to whom Stan is godfather - has been particularly supportive of him. Stan once wanted to adopt his own child, and Julie "has been like the child I never had."

Although he spends more time at home now, Stan suffers from chronic fatigue syndrome that leaves him too tired to enjoy his hobbies.

"My passion is working outside in the yard," he said. "I love gardening and planting flowers. The greatest sensation is to get my hands in dirt, but I couldn't do much last summer."

Handling chores

Most household chores have been passed to Gene, who juggles those responsibilities along with holding down his job and helping Stan.

Stan frequently sleeps until early afternoon, only to awake to nausea. He takes as many as 16 pills a day for health problems, including Retrovir and Epiriv for HIV.

Doctors suspect he has liver damage. He also has suffered ulcerative colitis that, at times, left him unable to control his bowel movements. When he was working, he had to go home sometimes just to change clothes.

"That is humiliating for a 42-year-old man," he said. Two workplace employees, including his immediate supervisor, know about his HIV status.

In December, Stan battled influenza. "It wiped me out."

HIV patients have to be keenly aware of their T-cells, a measure of the immune system's strength. Stan should have 1,500 to 1,800 of them. His last count was 523; it has been as low as 435.

He said he will have AIDS if his T-cell count dips below 200. He also runs the risk of CMV-related blindness with a low T-cell count.

"That's one of my biggest concerns," along with pneumonia, which kills many AIDS patients, Stan said.

He wants to join a support group to share HIV experiences and to learn about drugs that other patients are taking.

"You grasp at straws because you're dealing with your life," he said.

aren't good because of Stan's morning nausea and Gene's afternoon job.

Stan receives support from neighbors whom he has told about his disease. They heaped baked goods on him last Christmas.

He also draws support from employees of The Stables, a Livonia bar and grill that he and Gene frequent. The owner specially orders Perrier water for Stan, who is supposed to limit alcohol consumption.

Even before he was sick, Stan was allowed by The Stables employees to hang a Christmas stocking alongside theirs in honor of Miss Thing, the only dog he had at the time. Customers and employees stuffed it with money that was donated to the Michigan Humane Society in Westland.

Stan conceded, however, that some people once considered friends haven't remained supportive.

Concerned about pets

Stan worries about Trixie and Miss Thing. His doctor told him that the dogs will need to leave his house if his T-cell count dips below 200, because they might carry bacteria that could threaten his health. "That's heart-breaking," Stan said.

If he agrees to let them go, a close friend plans to keep the dogs so he can visit.

"Once I'm dead," he said, "the dogs can come back home" to Gene.

Gene has pledged to stay with Stan, and he gave Stan a ring when they celebrated their fourth commitment anniversary on Dec. 30.

Although they practice safer sex, they have become less intimate.

"My biggest fear in my relationship is that I will give him my disease," Stan said. "I could not live with the guilt of infecting him."

Stan and Gene have wills naming one another as beneficiaries, and they have exclusive rights to make decisions if one should be placed on life support.

"There will be no life support after seven days," Gene said.

Gene said he is more optimistic than Stan that a cure will be found.

"I hope that there will be a cure," Stan said, "but I don't think there will be a cure in my lifetime."

Bill repealing photo ID law for voters goes to Senate

BY TIM RICHARD
STAFF WRITER

Eleven crossover Republicans helped House Democrats pass a bill that would repeal a 1996 state law requiring voters to show a photo identification before being given a ballot.

"I had considerable feedback since this was passed in the lame-duck session in December," said Rep. Nancy Cassis, R-Nowi, who backed the bill then but voted Feb. 13 to repeal it.

"All my clerks have concerns about requiring photo ID," said Cassis.

"Where is there authenticated, recorded abuse that requires photo ID? We Republicans are the party of less government, less regulation, less intrusion into the lives of individuals," she said.

The House voted 66-40 to pass House

Bill 4226 repealing the photo ID law and sent it to the Senate, controlled 22-16 by Republicans.

Unless repealed, the law will take effect April 1. It requires a person to present either a driver's license or other identification with a photo before being issued a ballot.

Voting yes were Republican Gerald Law of Plymouth and Democrats Bob Brown of Dearborn Heights, Eileen DeHart of Westland and Tom Kelly of Wayne.

Voting no was Lyn Bankes, R-Redford. She cited vote counting problems in Redford's Nov. 5 election in which ballots were sealed in a locked township hall.

Absent was Deborah Whyman, R-Canton - the equivalent of a "no" vote. Republicans failed, mainly on party-line votes, to soften the effect of the original law. Among the rejected amendments:

- Not require a photo ID if the polling place has a record of the voter's registration with a signature.

- Require the Secretary of State to issue free photo identification cards to persons who don't have driver's licenses. Democrats scoffed that the GOP provided no cost estimate or appropriations bill.

- Never require any individual, company or public official to demand a photo ID under any circumstances.

Rep. Bob Brackenridge, R-St. Joseph, a former county clerk, argued for keeping the photo ID law. He said the federal "motor voter" law prevents local clerks from canceling the registrations of persons who haven't voted.

Result: Each year 10 percent of voters who no longer live in the area swell the voter lists, and 20 percent of Michigan registrations are now dead wood. "The possibility for fraud is out there," said Brackenridge.

Democrats argued that the fraud Republicans seek to prevent is non-existent and a burden on senior citizens who no longer drive.

Attorney General Frank Kelley ruled in an opinion the photo ID law is a burden that violates the U.S. Constitution ("equal protection of the laws").

Kelley cited a 1972 U.S. Supreme Court decision that said, "A heavy burden of justification is on the state" to demonstrate such restrictive laws are "necessary to promote a compelling governmental interest."

Kelley added, "Michigan already prevents voter fraud by less drastic means."

Gov. John Engler, a Republican who signed the original law, said Kelley came to a wrong conclusion, adding, "It is absurd to think that the state is precluded from refining this process until full-blown election fraud has occurred. Nine other states have an ID requirement for voting, and Hawaii has a photo ID requirement."

Engler said he would have his office's attorney go to court to challenge Kelley's opinion. Engler said the attorney general's procedure afforded no opportunity for a pro-photo ID point of view to be considered.

Refer to HB 4226 when writing to your state senator, State Capitol, Lansing 48909.

FOCUS ON WINE

ELEANOR & RAY HEALD

Happy grapes make good wine

Mediterranean is not a term frequently associated with Australian wine. But it should be when it comes to McLaren Vale in South Australia. Climate there is consistently Mediterranean with sea breezes from Spencer Gulf. The region is generally free of frost, hail, draught and vine disease. Result? Very happy grapes. Happy grapes make good wine and that is showcased in the McLaren Vale bottlings from Seaview and Edwards & Chaffey.

Within the McLaren Vale area are "vales" or small valleys, each with a different microclimate. Microclimate diversities enable a winery to match vineyard site to grape variety. Seaview has done that with its plantings of chardonnay, sauvignon blanc, cabernet sauvignon and shiraz.

"In particular, McLaren Vale has garnered an international reputation for chardonnay and shiraz," Seaview winemaker Mike Farmilo said.

While McLaren Vale and Seaview wines may be new to you, they are steeped in rich history dating back to 1850 when George Pitches Manning migrated from England and purchased 161 acres of virgin land in the McLaren Vale region. Managing vineyards and making wine passed to Manning's children who sold the business in 1892. After that, it changed ownership several times until 1950 when it was christened Seaview by new owners California-born W.B. Chaffey and winemaking pioneer F.H. Edwards. In 1951, their winery became one of the first in Australia to release a varietally-labeled cabernet sauvignon.

Wine Selections

Get to know Zabaco! This new wine brand grew out of California's rich grape growing and wine making history plus the interest of E. & J. Gallo wine company to showcase fruit from its Sonoma County growers. If California wine pricing has been giving you sticker shock, try:
■ 1994 Zabaco Chardonnay $9
■ 1995 Zabaco Sauvignon Blanc $8
■ 1994 Zabaco Zinfandel $9
If you've not tried wines from Gallo's new single vineyard series, we recommend:
■ 1995 Gallo Sonoma Stefano Vineyard Chardonnay $14 - great fruit underpinnings with vanilla-oak fullness.
■ 1994 Gallo Sonoma Barrel-Creek Vineyard Valdeguié $14. His is Napa Gamay by its French name and full of berry-bright fruit.
■ 1995 Gallo Sonoma Chiotti Vineyard Zinfandel $14. This debut wine puts over-priced $20 zinfandels to shame.
■ 1994 Gallo Sonoma Frei Ranch Zinfandel $14. Even bigger than the Chiotti, it puts $20 zinfandels to double shame.

Winemaker

State-of-the-art winemaking at Seaview is carried on today by winemaker Mike Farmilo. "I prefer to use fruit from the sloping areas of the McLaren Vale area because the flavor is more intense," he said. "In chardonnay this is detected as rich melon and tropical fruit flavors. For cabernet sauvignon the translation is sweet berry enlivened with mint and cassis. Shiraz comes across with berry, plum, pepper and a unique peppery spiciness."

Seaview's premier estate vineyards are saved for the winery's Edwards & Chaffey wines named after the visionary partners who purchased the winery and vineyards in the mid '50s.

"Edwards and Chaffey are our reserve wines," Farmilo added. "They come from our best vineyard blocks with older vines and lower yields. For example, we age the Edwards and Chaffey Shiraz in new French oak because the fruit is so concentrated that it requires the character and complexity that only new French oak provides."

It's a similar regime with the Edwards & Chaffey Cabernet Sauvignon. While Seaview Cabernet Sauvignon is aged 12 months in two- to four-year-old oak because it is not as concentrated and would be over-powered by new oak, Edwards & Chaffey Cabernet Sauvignon is aged 18 months in new French oak.

Tasting

A recent tasting of Seaview and Edwards & Chaffey underscored Farmilo's comments. The 1993 Seaview McLaren Vale Semillon-Sauvignon Blanc blend $10 was highlighted by melon, hay and fragrant straw scents accented by a touch of oak. Because this wine is nearly four years from vintage, it highlights the unique character and graceful aging that Semillon brings to Australian wines. Fabulously balanced, it is still available in our market.

The 1996 Seaview Chardonnay $10 is typical McLaren Vale with ripe melon, tropical fruit and a distinct peach character. Very flavorful, it is a big mouthful for the price.

For reds, the 1992 Seaview Shiraz $10 has

Cherries

BY RENEE M. SGOGLUND • SPECIAL WRITER

George Washington didn't cut down a cherry tree for the firewood. He did it for the cherries. Americans still love this bright, flavorful fruit, and Michigan, Washington and Oregon lead the nation in cherry production.

There are two kinds of cherries: tart and sweet.

Tart cherries, sometimes called "pie cherries" or sour cherries, are seldom sold fresh. Usually, they are frozen, canned or made into juice soon after harvesting.

Michigan produces 70 to 75 percent of the tart cherries in the United States. Montmorency cherries, harvested from the mineral-rich soils of the northeast corner of Michigan's lower peninsula, have earned the region the title of "Cherry Capital of the World."

Besides sliding them in between two flaky crusts, there are a variety of uses for sour cherries. Chop and mix them with applesauce or yogurt, add them to your favorite bread stuffing or meatloaf, or blend them with ice cream for a cherry shake. You can even stuff them with cream cheese and nuts for a salad garnish.

Dried cherries, processed from tart cherries with or without the addition of sugar, have a passionately intense taste. Add them to rice pudding, pancake batter, muffins and barbecue sauces. Sprinkle them on salads, hot cereals and French toast. Transform your apple and peach pies by adding a half cup of dried cherries to the filling. Eat them and love them.

Sweet cherries

Michigan produces about 20 percent of the nation's group of sweet cherries each year. Sweet cherries most often are sold fresh, especially during the summer, when mounds of the dark, jewel-toned variety brighten roadside stands or supermarket produce displays.

Canned, dark sweet cherries are plentiful on grocers' shelves. Don't reserve them only for baked goods. Use them as the basis for sweet and sour sauces for a variety of meat dishes.

From the lighter, sweeter varieties of cherries - the Queen Annes and the Golds - we get maraschinos, America's fun-loving party cherry. It's the cherry you don't miss until it's not there. Try putting parsley in your Manhattan or on top of your ice cream sundae and you'll know what I mean.

"Maraschino" refers to a process, not a variety. The cherries are brined in deep, in-ground pits for 60 days, pitted then sent to processing plants where they are washed and placed into 5,000-pound vats. As water is extracted or evaporated, a sugar solution is slowly added over a six-week period. Finally, the vibrant red food coloring is added along with oil of almond. It's party time!

Cherries, low in sodium and calories and with no cholesterol, are power-packed with vitamins, especially vitamin A. Compared to apples, cranberries, peaches, grapes and strawberries, cherries have the highest level of calcium, iron, magnesium, phosphorus and copper. They have equivalent amounts of potassium - important to the body's water balance - to peaches and grapes.

Food folklore claims that cherries can relieve the pain of arthritis or gout and even act as an aphrodisiac. That's good news for cherry-lovers who just care about the taste.

COOKBOOKS

Authors share a taste of the White House

BY KEELY WYGONIK
STAFF WRITER

I nominate "My Fellow Americans," for "Dinner and a Movie," on President's Day, Monday, Feb. 17, and the Revised & Updated Centennial Edition of "White House Cookbook" for those who'd rather skip the movie and just eat dinner.

"My Fellow Americans" starring Jack Lemmon, James Garner, Dan Aykroyd and Lauren Bacall (playing former First Lady Margaret Kramer) is a comedy about two former U.S. presidents Republican Russell Kramer (Lemmon) and Democrat Matt Douglas (Garner) who can't stand each other, and have nothing in common except that they were both presidents.

When the current president, (Dan Aykroyd) tries to blame a scandal of his own design on Kramer, the two ex-presidents travel cross country together to reveal the truth. They meet, unexpectedly, in Chicago at the American Booksellers Association Convention where Kramer Hawks his seventh book - "Hail to the Chef! A Taste of Power, The Presidential Recipes of Russell Kramer." While serving as president, Kramer cooked for many of his guests.

Movie fans will be delighted to know such a cookbook exists. Written by Tom Connor and Jim Downey, (Time-Life Books, copyright November 1996, $12.95), the book is a collection of regional recipes, accompanied by anecdotes from Kramer's time in the White House, and 16 pages of color photos from the movie.

About the "Layered Turkey Enchilada Casserole," Kramer remarks, "I knew a lot of turkeys when I was in Washington. I had to get through 20 layers of them to get a bill passed."

The movie is silly, but the recipes are sure to win your vote for what's for dinner tonight. They're divided into five sections - New England & Mid-Atlantic, the South, Midwest, Southwest, and West Coast - offering a taste of specialty foods from these regions. Most are short on ingredients, and simple to make.

Registered dietitians Patti Bazel Geil and Tami Ross, diabetes nutrition educators at the University of Kentucky Hospital, dish out history and low-fat recipes in the "Revised & Updated Centennial Edition of the White House Cookbook," (Chronimed Publishing, copyright 1996, $13.95).

"White House Cookbook"

First printed in 1894, the original "White House Cookbook," written by Hugo Ziemann (White House steward under Grover Cleveland) and F.L. Gillette, does not reflect the needs of today's cooks.

"Although proper nourishment was undoubtedly a goal for the authors of the 1894 edition of the book, the call for lard, fat, cream, eggs, or salt in most of the original recipes makes them unsuitable for today," write the authors. "Home-makers of that time spent the better part of their days at home in the kitchen, and there was a strong reliance on all manner of game, from wild hare to partridge."

Can you imagine spending three

LAYERED TURKEY ENCHILADA CASSEROLE

- 1 can (16 ounces) tomato sauce
- 1 can (4 ounces) diced green chilies
- 1 clove garlic, minced
- 1 tablespoon chili powder
- 2 teaspoons ground cumin
- 1 teaspoon oregano
- 1/4 teaspoon pepper
- 9 corn tortillas
- 1/2 pound cooked turkey, cut into 2-inch by 1/4-inch by 1/4-inch strips
- 6 to 8 green onions, coarsely chopped
- 1 package (10 ounces) frozen corn kernels, thawed
- 2 1/2 cups grated cheddar cheese (about 3/4 pound)

Preheat the oven to 375 degrees F. Lightly butter a shallow 1-quart baking dish.

Mix the tomato sauce, chilies, garlic, chili powder, cumin, oregano and pepper together.

Put 3 of the corn tortillas, overlapping them, on the bottom of the baking dish. Spread them with 1/3 of the tomato mixture.

Then, cover the tomato mixture with half of the turkey, green onions and corn. Sprinkle with 1 cup of the cheddar cheese. Top the cheese with 3 more tortillas, half of the remaining tomato mixture, all of the remaining turkey, green onions and corn and 1 cup of the cheese.

Top the cheese with the remaining 3 tortillas, the remaining tomato mixture and the remaining 1/2 cup cheese. Bake it, uncovered, for 25 minutes and serve the casserole hot. Serves 6.

MACARONI AND CHEDDAR BAKE

- 1 1/2 cups uncooked small elbow macaroni (about 1/2 pound)
- 1 cup cottage cheese
- 1 tablespoon Dijon mustard
- 2/3 cup sour cream
- 1/2 teaspoon pepper
- 2 cups grated sharp cheddar cheese (8 ounces)
- 1 package (10 ounces) frozen peas
- 3 tablespoons minced fresh chives or green onions (optional)

Preheat the oven to 400 degrees F. Butter a 1 1/2 quart baking dish.

Cook the macaroni according to package directions; drain.

Meanwhile, put the cottage cheese and mustard in a food processor and process until it's smooth. Put this mixture into a large bowl and stir in the sour cream and pepper. Then, stir in the cooked macaroni, 1 1/2 cups of the cheddar cheese, the peas and the chives, if desired. Mix it well.

Put this mixture in the baking dish and sprinkle it with the remaining 1/2 cup cheddar cheese.

LOWER-FAT VERSION HILLARY RODHAM CLINTON'S CHIP COOKIES

- 1 1/2 cups unsifted all-purpose flour
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 1 teaspoon baking soda
- 2/3 cup reduced-fat stick margarine
- 1 cup firmly packed light brown sugar
- 1/2 cup granulated sugar
- 1 teaspoon vanilla
- 1 teaspoon butter flavoring
- 1/2 cup egg substitute
- 2 cups old-fashioned rolled oats
- 10 ounces mini chocolate chips
- Cooking Spray

Preheat oven to 350 degrees F. Combine flour, salt, and baking soda in one bowl. In a separate bowl, beat together margarine, sugars, vanilla and butter flavoring until creamy. Add egg substitute, beating until light and fluffy.

Gradually beat in flour mixture and rolled oats. Stir in chocolate

Let's consider the reserve category with all wines priced in the low $30 range and tasting wow! The 1994 Edwards & Chaffey Chardonnay was 1/3 barrel fermented in new French oak. Its rich vanilla character harmonized with tropical fruit offers a generous fruit punch up front, but finishes elegant and lengthy.

Lush, red fruit with spice cabinet notes and well-integrated oak is the hallmark of 1994 Edwards & Chaffey Shiraz. Vanilla characters from new French oak and the wine's spici-

The pick of the vineyards is highlighted in 1994 Edwards & Chaffey Cabernet Sauvignon where rich oak and clastic fruit are abundant.

Fruity jewels are American treasure

FROM THE AMERICAN INSTITUTE FOR CANCER RESEARCH

Ever since George Washington became known for chopping down a certain tree, cherries have been associated with February and President's Day. A good source of potassium, vitamin C and fiber, it's no wonder that cherries have become a national nutritional treasure. Their vibrant color, succulent texture and irresistible flavor, however, are what truly make them an all-American favorite.

Cherries grow in sweet and sour varieties. Sweet Bing cherries are what most people enjoy fresh, straight from the bowl, while hard-to-find sour varieties are more often used for cooking and baking. Since cherry season is short, canned cherries make an excellent way to enjoy the fruit year-round. A one-pound can of pitted cherries is the equivalent to one pound of fresh and yields two cups of pitted fruit. When substituting sweet cherries for tart varieties, decrease the amount of sugar in the recipe and add a little lemon juice.

Make a sour cherry sauce as a tangy accompaniment to sweet desserts. Place 3 cups pitted sour cherries, 3/4 cup sugar and 1/4 teaspoon ground cinnamon in a medium-size sauce pan, cover and simmer, stirring occasionally, for 10 minutes. Stir in 1-1/2 teaspoons balsamic vinegar. Mix 3/4 teaspoon cornstarch in a small bowl with one teaspoon water, stir until smooth and add to the cherry sauce. Cook until the sauce begins to thicken, about two minutes. Serve over low-fat vanilla ice cream, angel food cake, yogurt or poached pears.

Not what you'd ordinarily consider salsa, this cherry mixture is a zesty topping to lean meats, game and poultry.

CHERRY SALSA

- 1 cup pitted, sweet cherries
- 2 tablespoons chopped fresh basil
- 2 tablespoons finely chopped

AMERICAN INSTITUTE FOR CANCER RESEARCH

Topping: Cherry Salsa is a zesty topping for lean meats, game and poultry.

- green pepper
- 1 teaspoon lemon juice
- 1/4 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
- 1/4 teaspoon grated lemon peel
- 1/8 teaspoon salt
- Dash hot sauce

Rinse, drain and chop cherries in a food processor or by hand. Combine all of the ingredients; mix well and refrigerate at least one hour.

BLACK FOREST UPSIDE-DOWN SUNDAE

- 1 cup maraschino cherries, drained
- 1 quart vanilla ice cream, softened
- 1 jar (11.5 ounces) fudge sauce
- 10 filled chocolate cookies, (such as Oreo's) crushed
- Maraschino cherries with stems (garnish)

Arrange 12 whole cherries on bottom of 5-cup gelatin mold or bowl. Chop remaining cherries; fold into softened ice cream. Spoon half of ice cream mixture into bottom of mold.

Spoon fudge sauce over ice cream; cover with remaining ice cream. Sprinkle cookie crumbs over top of ice cream and press lightly with finger to smooth. Freeze 4 to 6 hours or until firm.

Unmold onto chilled plate. If desired, garnish with maraschino cherries with stems. Can be made in advance. Makes 8 servings.

CHERRY NUT STICKY BUNS

- 1 cup packed brown sugar
- 1/2 cup chopped walnuts
- 1 teaspoon ground cinnamon
- 1/2 cup butter or margarine, melted
- 1 cup maraschino cherries, drained and halved
- 1 package (3 pounds) frozen white rolls, thawed

Combine brown sugar, nuts and cinnamon until blended; set aside. Spoon 1 teaspoon melted butter into bottom of each greased muffin tin; sprinkle with 1 tablespoon brown sugar mixture.

Arrange 4 cherry halves in each tin. Cut each roll in half; place 4 halves of dough over cherry mixture in each muffin tin. Set aside in warm place and allow to rise 1/2 hour or until doubled in size. Bake at 350 degrees F. 20 to 25 minutes or until golden. Cool on wire rack 10 minutes; invert onto serving platter. Makes 18 buns.

MEATBALLS IN CHERRY SAUCE

- 1 (16 ounce) can dark, sweet, pitted cherries. Drain and reserve liquid
- 1/4 cup orange juice
- 2 tablespoons soy sauce
- 1/4 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
- 1/4 teaspoon orange rind, grated
- 3 tablespoons vinegar
- 1 tablespoon cornstarch
- 3 tablespoons brown sugar
- 3 tablespoons lemon juice

Pour cherry syrup into large saucepan. Add remaining sauce ingredients except cherries; mix well. Cut some cherries into halves and some into quarters. Add to sauce. Cook, stirring until clear and slightly thickened; set aside.

MEATBALLS

- 1 pound lean ground beef or pork
- 1/2 cup soft bread crumbs
- 1 egg
- 2 tablespoons minced onion
- 1/4 cup water chestnuts, finely chopped
- 2 tablespoons milk
- 3/4 teaspoon salt
- 1/8 teaspoon pepper
- 1/4 teaspoon garlic salt
- 1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce

Mix all ingredients well. Shape into 36 balls. Brown slowly in ungreased skillet. Drain well. Add to sauce. Simmer gently 10 to 15 minutes. Serve hot with cocktail picks.

- 1 1/2 cups water
- 3/4 cup wild rice
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 1 teaspoon fresh marjoram
- 1/2 cup long-grain white rice
- 1 cup dried cherries

Melt butter in large saucepan; add celery, green onions and parsley. Saute until tender. Bring chicken broth and 1-1/4 cups water to boil; add to sauteed vegetables with wild rice, salt and marjoram. Cover and bake in 350 degree F. oven for 1 hour. Stir in long-grain white rice and 1/4 cup water; cover.

Cook additional 20 minutes; stir in cherries. All water should be absorbed and rice tender. Fluff casserole with fork. Makes 6 servings.

IMPOSSIBLE CHERRY PIE

- 1 cup milk
- 1/4 teaspoon almond extract
- 1/2 cup Bisquick
- 2 tablespoons margarine
- 2 eggs
- 1/4 cup sugar
- 1 (21 ounce) can cherry pie filling

Streusel Topping:

- 2 teaspoons margarine
- 1/2 cup Bisquick
- 1/2 cup brown sugar
- 1/2 teaspoon cinnamon

To make Streusel Topping: mix all ingredients until crumbly. Set aside.

Heat oven to 400 degrees F. Beat together first 6 ingredients until smooth. Pour into 10-inch greased pie pan. Spoon cherry pie filling evenly over the top. Bake 25 minutes. Take out of oven and top with Streusel Topping. Bake again, until brown, about 10 minutes. Cool and refrigerate.

BEAUTY AND THE BEST

Jeffrey Bruce

Smoking ages that pretty face

It's official — smoking can make you old and wrinkly. Researchers have found that nicotine causes the skin to grow thinner — 40 percent thinner in fact, and therefore, it is more prone to wrinkling and premature aging.

If no other arguments have convinced you to quit the habit by now, perhaps by appealing to your vanity I may give you pause next time you light up. It is rather unsettling in this day and age, with the studies that have been done, plus the anecdotal evidence, that rational people are still puffing.

Anyway, back to research. Apparently doctors in England have done comparative studies on 50 sets of identical twins, one of which smoked and one who didn't. The imprint of the smoker's faces showed more wrinkles, less pores. Considering the twins had the same set of genes, you would assume they would age at the same rate.

Doctors have always referred to what they call "smoker's face," and say they can recognize a smoker at twenty paces. Generally, there is a more haggard look, shallow features, and many more finer lines around the mouth and eyes.

The why and wherefore

But with the development of an ultrasound technique, the skin can be measured. Doctors believe that smoking releases an enzyme that breaks down the collagen and elastic tissue. Collagen is the framework of the face, to put it in laymen's terms, and if this is damaged, you can imagine the results.

Another theory is that smoking damages genetic material and that the blood supply to the top layer of skin is restricted causing deterioration in the long run. Does it really matter which theory is correct? Unless you are aiming for a Nobel Prize, I think your concerns are a little closer to home.

I called a friend, Dr. John Alter, a leading plastic surgeon with offices in West Bloomfield and Waterford, to find out what it is like on the front lines. He commented:

"I truly think that smoking is worse for the skin than extensive sun exposure. I have noted a more leathery, sallow look in my smoking patients. Of course this is a generalization, for a lot of results depend on the gene pool the patient comes from. Interestingly, it is not as easy to perform plastic surgery on a smoker. The capillaries are more obviously constricted and due to the thinness of the skin, can lead to a condition called rosacea. The procedures tend to be more extensive due to vascular changes."

We have all seen the thin women in the magazines, the social X-rays, the women who smoke to keep thin to look great in clothes. What a sad commentary, and what a bad example to give to our children. Everybody has a relative/acquaintance who has smoked every day and lived to be 100. But to use that as an excuse to smoke is about as logical as sky jumping without a parachute. Somebody, somewhere probably survived a fall once.

Save the children

What really amazes me though is the younger generation who are smoking at alarming rates, according to experts. Maybe it's because I just turned 50 that I am having this mid-life crisis, realizing just how far removed I am from the minds of teenagers.

I understand the need to rebel, to separate from the older generation, and to this extent I can even forgive tattoos and body piercing, just as long as I don't have to look at the results on a daily basis. But smoking is stupid, and how can you kiss somebody after they have smoked? No amount of gargling can cover the smell.

In the 1940s it was considered sophisticated to smoke. Most of the film stars advertised cigarettes, or were photographed smoking. In the 50s it was "in" to smoke. By the 60s, though, evidence started to come in, and the smoke began to clear, if you'll pardon the pun.

This is not in the least scientific, but it seems to me that we are getting more images of young people smoking in movies of late, particularly disturbing is the chic-ness surrounding cigars — there's an accessory you can all do without for the coming season.

Hardware store beats competition

BY BARB PERT TEMPLETON
SPECIAL WRITER

The smell of freshly popped popcorn and the eager faces of a half dozen store clerks greet customers as they walk inside the Dillman & Upton hardware store in downtown Rochester.

Nestled near a residential area just blocks from the main drag, the 86-year-old lumber and hardware business is still going strong with third generation owners Brad and Todd Upton safely at the helm.

One of the city's oldest business establishments, the 1990's version of Dillman & Upton's is dubbed "a full-scale home center that continues to serve both homeowner and builder."

Despite that trendy moniker the store has never set aside the cozy, small town originality that allows customers to gather in the "morning coffee corner" to chat about their projects. Dillman & Upton's product line has of course expanded over the years and currently includes cabinets, windows, wood flooring and decorating items.

The recent onslaught of warehouse style hardware store chains made the changes essential, said Upton.

"It seems to us that no one is pushing for that business anymore and everyone is just giving up not wanting to compete against the bigger outlet style stores," said Upton.

"Well, we love the homeowners' business. We feel it's an opportunity for us because there aren't many independents like us left."

When Dillman & Upton relocated to its current 43,000-square foot location at 607 Woodward St. in 1987, Upton said they may have lost "a drive-by location" on Main St. but their reputation has kept the business strong. The staple that remains a major factor in Dillman & Upton's continued success is service to the customer via the store's well trained 40 person staff.

"What we sell is service. A piece of board is a piece of board, but can a clerk tell you what you can do with that board?" said Upton. "We offer service and have specialists in many areas of the store. We also have full-time employees with benefits. We don't have a lot of part-time people. And we don't have a turn over, I have a few people who have been here 20 years and a few even 30 years."

Steve Morris has been bringing his business to Dillman & Upton for 15 years and says he simply enjoys the "old fashioned, friendly way of doing business" the store offers.

"The service at this store is more than anything I've ever known," said Morris. "No matter what it is that I need they will get it, find it, or have it made, and you just can't find that service anywhere else today."

Minding the store: Brad (left) and Todd Upton are third-generation retailers taking care of homeowners in the Rochester area at Dillman-Upton "a nuts and bolts" hardware store.

The benefits of being able to work closely with the customers is something Upton views as a plus for everyone. "I really enjoy it because the people are excited when they come in here and they're planning their new home or doing projects and I enjoy talking about that with them," he said. "And we're small enough that I can still go out to the jobs and estimate projects."

Dillman & Upton's claim to fame in the business today is their expertise on wood decks. The store hosts several seminars each year that offer tips to homeowners planning to construct their own decks.

"We are still a good nuts and bolts kind of hardware store," smiled

Upton. "We haven't really set any of that aside."

Historical Notes

•1908: Great-uncle C.W. Upton establishes the store where Jerry's Gun Shop on University stands today.

•1915: Brad and Todd Upton's grandfather Roy Upton begins working for the store.

•1919: The business moves to a shop on Main St. when Roy Upton and C.W.'s son-in-law Art Dillman, purchase the store and became partners in Dillman & Upton.

• "We have known a multitude of people from men during the Great Depression shoveling coal to pay off coal bills to very wealthy people like Alfred and Matilda Dodge Wilson, when they were building Meadow-Brook farm and hall," said Brad.

Steppin Out benefit showcases Hudson's cutting-edge styles

BY SUSAN DEMAGGIO
EDITOR

Meet designer Max Azria (of BCBG of Paris) and the team behind Mondo di Marco Men's Collection at Hudson's benefit for the Steppin' Out Foundation, Feb. 27, at the Royal Oak Music Theatre.

Tickets are $25 and include a 6-7 p.m. cocktail reception, 7:30 p.m. runway show followed by a meet and greet the designers, plus dessert, dancing and cash bar until 11 p.m.

The Steppin' Out Foundation is a non-profit organization that provides financial support to agencies offering direct aid to people with AIDS in southeastern Michigan.

"Hudson's is proud to host this electric evening of fashion and entertainment which includes the cutting edge fashion show presenting our "Advanced" collections for both men and women," said Chris Morrisroe, spokeswoman.

Max Azria was named 1995 California Designer of the Year, 1996 Atlanta designer of the year, becoming the resource for contemporary fashion.

Carving a niche

In 1981, after 11 years of manufacturing women's wear in his native Paris, he moved to the U.S. and started the clothing company, Jess. Recognizing a retail niche in the emerging "modern woman," he founded BCBG in 1989 to "combine European sophistication with American spirit." The name comes from the French phrase Bon Chic, Bon Genre, (Parisian slang for good style, good attitude.)

Max Azria

In addition to operating 34-boutiques nationwide, the BCBG collection is carried by Hudson's, Neiman Marcus and Saks Fifth Avenue. There is a BCBG footwear division and this spring a menswear line will be launched. In the highly competitive field of woman's apparel, BCBG surpassed its goals by doubling its 1995 volume, then ending 1996 with wholesale sales topping $80 million.

In 1996, Azria acquired the Los Angeles sports firm Francine Browner, immersing himself in the moderate and junior business as well. Projections for sales in 1997 — $132 million.

That Italian touch

Mondo di Marco was founded in 1984 as a partnership between New York retailer Ben Greszes and the late Marco Wachter, Italian menswear designer, to "provide stylish quality Italian menswear to the American market at an affordable price."

Mondo's product lines are marketed under the Mondo di Marco and Pronto Uomo labels, with headquarters in Florence, Italy. The company makes sweaters, pants, jackets, suits, outerwear, rainwear and small leather goods. A New York show room opened in 1989 at 37 West 57th Street. The line is carried by select specialty stores across the country.

For spring '97 Mondo di Marco offers "the relaxed sophistication of the 1950s" modernizing the era's looks with new attention to fabric, shape and detail. Jackets are lean and close to the body, ventless with a softer, rounded shoulder, high gorge and one- to four-button styling.

Pants have plain fronts in gray, navy, ecru, slate and white. Knitwear items add counterpoint with color in jacquard and rib-knit shirts, v-neck tees and polos in seafoam to citron, mist to mint.

There is a new, elongated short sleeve. Prints are strong — whether graphic black and white check or retro-styled pattern with a 50's edge.

Where can I find?

Thanks to all the readers who phoned in locations for the hard to find items listed last week!

Here's what we found:

- A Redford Union Schools official said parents can purchase Warner's English Composition and Grammar Complete Course from Hartcourt Brace publishing, $26 a copy. Most schools should have the address handy.
- Several readers report great success with very long-lasting light-bulbs from the N.O.V.A.H. Co. of Clearwater, FLA. The toll-free number for orders is 1-800-243-6555.
- Four readers recommended The House of Renew for china and silver repair, calling it "Birmingham's best kept secret." The shop is in the Merrill Building, closed Mondays (810) 642-0363.
- We also got repair recommendations for The Doll House at 12 Mile and Greenfield in Berkley.
- More than a dozen readers called in with names of their favorite smoke-free beauty salons. Among them Margo's of Northville; Canton Creations; Sandy's Hairstyles in Plymouth; Sylvia's in Dearborn; Style Masters Salon; on West Warren; Hair Loft in Dearborn; The Mop Shop in the Orchard Mall, West Bloomfield; Salon International in Plymouth; Salon Tarvisio of Dearborn, Philip James Salon of Troy; Tremonti of Troy; Gerald's of Northville and Franklin; Don's Salon in Applegate Square, Southfield, and Cal & Koehler of Farmington Hills.
- A caller suggested LuLu's Antiques in downtown Royal Oak as a source for button appraisals. The owner has lectured on buttons and is very knowledgeable. (810) 542-6464.
- The Barnes and Noble Sale Annex listed as a good source for out-of-print and used books, is inside the Rochester Hills store north of Auburn Road on Rochester Road.

We're still looking for:

- A special request from Diane Hackman of Garden City for elementary school readers from the 50s and 60s: "As a student at the old St. Hedwig's School I recall using blue-covered Polish readers, about 10-inches by 5-inches, with the Christ Child on the cover that listed words in both Polish and English. I'm also hoping to locate those old Dick and Jane readers."
  - An old CD of saxophone artists Body & Soul by Verve for Jim.
  - Veronica Stevenson needs a copy of the manual for the Viking Sewing Machine, model 6030. She does not want the company's entire product line manual, just the pages that apply to her machine.
  - A Polyperk Electric coffee pot that makes 6-8 cups for Terry Leszczynski of Garden City.
  - Schmartzau Strawberry Preserves for a Redford couple.
  - A flat beater for a KitchenAid mixer, model 4-C for Anna Harrison.
  - From the Easterling Co., a 1950s china pattern "Crocus"
  - A Corelle pattern of dishes "Spring Pond" for Kit Lynn.
  - Paula MacCue hopes to quickly locate an antique "Boy Scouts in the Wilderness," which is part of an old collection for a shopping buddy.
  - Wayne Peal is looking for a pair of Beatie boots complete with elastic gussets and Cuban heels - 11 1/2 D-please.
  - A reader is trying to find a linoleum patch product to seal a cracked floor from moisture. Does anyone know of such a product?
  - Mary Drummy of Grosse Pointe is hoping to find a copy of The Other Half of the Egg, (180 ways to use up extra yolks or whites) by Helen McCully.
  - Robert Kuntz hopes to find two NASCAR collectibles 164-scale: #8 Kenny Wallis "Red Dog" and #98 the RCA car. Call him at (313) 427-3914.
  - Marlene Hyet wants to know whatever happened to Sophie's Pierogis on Maple in Troy. Did the store relocate?
  - A woman is looking for cassette tapes called "Song of Praise" Volumes 1-3 by now-defunct Servant Publications of Ann Arbor.
  - Roz Novak needs a copy of Danny Kaye singing "Momma Give Me a Drink of Water."
  - "Jennifer" wants to know who sells clothing by Smooth Ones.
  - "Mrs. Ray" is wondering if there is any market for the old Avon articles she's collected from catalogs of the past.
  - Ever see Magic Baking Powder made by Nabisco of Toronto on your grocery shelf? A caller doesn't want to travel to Canada any more to buy it.
  - A Birmingham resident can't find the Almay hypo-allergetic all-over body splash that she used to buy at Montgomery Wards.
  - Two callers are looking for out-of-print sheet patterns - king-size flat sheets from Martex in the Trade Blanket pattern, Wamsutta king-size sheets and pillow cases in the Textura pattern.
- If you've seen any of these items in your travels, let Malls & Mainstreets know and we'll print the answers. Please call (810) 901-2567 (and relate your message and phone number slowly and clearly!)

Spring is a green thing

Want to update your wardrobe for spring? Add something green! According to trade group Cotton, Inc., spring fabrics will include lots of light greens and other "soothing colors" that remind people of nature. Among the favorite shades: jade, lime and celery, along with aquatic blues, pink-reds and clay. To the rear of the closet move: gray, beige, peach, mauve, fluorescents and jewel tones.

National image consultant says business wear must be all business

BY SUSAN DEMAGGIO
STAFF WRITER

As president of New York-based "Executive Training Consultants," Laura Laaman travels the country talking to executives about building sales and perfecting customer service.

In her latest book, a chapter is devoted to: What to wear to work. Her insights are worth noting amid all the confusion and controversy over casual dressing.

Here are excerpts:
Men:
• Always wear dress socks in a business setting.

• Never wear short socks, wear them to the knee or at least calf-length. When you sit, your customer should never see a bare leg.

• In a professional setting, always wear a tie.

• Always appear clean-shaven. Moustaches are acceptable if well-trimmed. Beards should be avoided.

• Wear dark, well-tailored suits that are cleaned and pressed.

• Double breasted jackets should always be buttoned.

• Wear white, gray or light-blue shirts.

• Make sure your tools

(binders, business cards, pens) have dynamic appeal.

• Always have your business cards ready, and always request one in return.

Women:

• Look stylish - not trendy.

• Attire should be right for the weather.

• Shoes should be same color or darker than your outfit.

• Never wear a sheer blouse.

• Wear an appropriately colored blouse, preferably one with a raised neckline.

• Make sure suits are well tailored and professional.

• Make sure hemline is an appropriate length.

• Always wear nylons with a skirt or dress.

• Don't carry a purse.

• Sweaters are generally not a good clothing choice in a professional setting.

• Eliminate use of perfume or make sure it's subtle.

• Don't wear overpowering jewelry, earrings that dangle, rings that encumber a handshake. Gold personifies success more than silver.

$100 gift certificate and four tickets to Greenfield Village & Museum. Pick up entries at any Hudson store - contest deadline is Friday, Feb. 28. Details on the entry forms.

Saks expands collections

The Salon Z department at Saks Fifth Avenue welcomes Peter Nygard's spring collection for sizes 14-24 on the third floor and also Company from Ellen Tracy in sizes 14-24 arriving Feb. 21.

Deli opens in Bloomfield

Matt Prentice opened Deli Unique inside the Kingsley Inn on Woodward south of Long Lake. The Deli Unique of Bloomfield Hills becomes the 12th restaurant in Prentice's popular "family" - joining Morels, Bruschetta, Tavern on 13, Sourdough Bread Factory and Cafe Jardin, to name a few.

The restaurant is opened daily at 6:30 a.m. Saturday and Sunday at 7 a.m.

Hudson's opens mattress departments

Hudson stores will begin selling a selection of mattresses on Feb. 19. The stores will handle Simmons, Serta, Sterns & Foster and Comfort Cloud from $60-$2,600.

Ceramics studio debuts

Artist Stacey Laker, 26, opened You're Fired a contemporary ceramics design studio where the customer is the creator of pots, dishes, cups, vases, tiles and more. The supplies, ideas, work space and kilns are provided.

The "shop" is closed Mondays, located on The Boardwalk, south of Maple on Orchard Lake in West Bloomfield, (810) 851-5594. She welcomes aspiring artists to "come alone or bring a group." Studio rates are $8 per hour.

Tailor relocates business

Ken Zarka moved his Classic Tailors shop to larger quarters at 32508 Northwestern south of 14 Mile in Farmington Hills. He brings custom clothing and ready-made garments as well as alterations for both men and women to his customers.

Zarka is a graduate of L'Homme Design School in Paris. In addition to his own designs he sells Garlanda, Zegna, Loro Piana, Vitale Bar- beris and Scabal Brioni.

To celebrate his move, he's offering each client ordering a custom suit a complimentary custom shirt. For more details call (810) 626-6565.

Gallery promotes collections

Gallery Nikko, 470 North Woodward, Birmingham, has clocks by Larry Hoedema, pewter frames by Celia Landman, wood chopsticks by Deb Doyle and jewelry by Barbara Bayne and Terri Logan. For more information call (810) 647-0680.

Name change

The Department Store Division of Dayton Hudson announced that three Hudson stores in South Bend, Fort Wayne and Toledo will be renamed Marshall Field's as part of a strategic realignment. These stores are currently being remodeled and the name change will top the grand openings. Company spokeswoman Chris Morrisroe said the name changes are based on the markets' proximity to the Chicago market where Marshall Field's is a leading retailer.

Wrecked: A wrecker tows away a school bus after it slid on ice and struck a van Feb. 12. No one was injured in the wreck but the driver was ticketed for driving too fast for road conditions.

Bus driver ticketed in mishap

A Plymouth-Canton substitute bus driver was cited for driving too fast for road conditions after the bus she was driving slid on ice and struck a van shortly before 8 a.m. Wednesday, Feb. 12.

No one was injured in the accident.

"The school bus was traveling south on Sheldon at Ann Arbor Road when the driver hit an icy patch," said LuAnn Grech, Plymouth-Canton Community Schools transportation director.

The bus, transporting four special education students to Burger School in Garden City, slid through a stop light, struck a tree and then careened into oncoming traffic, striking a van. "There is a full investigation into the incident," said Grech.

Grech couldn't say whether the bus, which has a broken axle, was a total loss. "The bus is on our lot. We are currently conducting internal and external reviews of the damage to the vehicle."

It was the district's fifth bus accident so far this school year.

The students - one adult and three pre-teens, were taken in another bus to Burger.

Grech said she was "pleased that the driver immediately radioed dispatch, and then assisted the bus monitor in attending to the students. The students were evacuated and sustained no injuries. We were pleased with the report that students were in good spirits."

Grech said Plymouth Township police and fire personnel arrived on the scene swiftly.

Plymouth Township Lt. Robert Smith said the bus driver, a 31-year-old Detroit woman, attempted to stop "when the bus slid over the curb before swerving into the northbound lane and running off the roadway on the east side of Sheldon."

Police are unsure how fast the driver was traveling. Driving too fast for road conditions carries a $100 fine and two-point penalty.

Road conditions were hazardous that morning. "It was slippery. We had five or six accidents; more than usual," said Smith.

PLYMOUTH CHARTER TOWNSHIP ORDINANCE NO. 83.81

AN ORDINANCE TO AMEND THE ZONING ORDINANCE NO. 83 BY ADDING ARTICLE XV-A, TECHNOLOGY AND RESEARCH DISTRICT TO SAID ORDINANCE, AMENDING ARTICLE XVI SCHEDULE OF REGULATIONS AND ARTICLE II ZONING DISTRICTS, ZONING MAP, USES, PERMITTED.

THE TOWNSHIP OF PLYMOUTH ORDAINS:

Part I. The Zoning Ordinance No. 83 of the Plymouth Charter Township, is hereby amended by adding Article XV-A Technology and Research District and amending Article XVI Schedule of Regulations and Article II Zoning Map and Uses Permitted, as follows:

A. ARTICLE XV-A, TAR TECHNOLOGY AND RESEARCH DISTRICT is hereby added as follows:

ARTICLE XV-A TECHNOLOGY AND RESEARCH DISTRICT

PURPOSE:

Advances in industry and technology have created uses which are related to industry and office uses, but may not be appropriate or function adequately in a typical industrial or office zoning district. These uses have been identified as "high tech" uses. The purpose of the Technology and Research District (TAR District) is to provide an environment where high tech uses and functions such as engineering, design, research and development, photonics/optics, computer assisted design, robotics research, numerical control equipment (CAD/CAM), prototype development and limited manufacturing, biotechnology, lasers, medical research, food and materials testing, telecommunications, and related storage, warehousing and limited assembly operations associated with principal permitted uses can be located.

The TAR District will require a campus-type environment with generous landscaping and attractive buildings and so situated that uses will be developed without being negatively impacted by elements and conditions such as extensive heavy truck traffic, which are commonly found in a traditional industrial district and without negatively impacting uses found in an Office Service District. Such areas are often visible from freeways and high image locations.

SEC. 15.1 - A: PRINCIPAL PERMITTED USES:

No building or land shall be used and no building shall be erected except for one or more of the following specified uses, unless otherwise provided in this Ordinance:

- Laboratories, offices, and other facilities for basic and applied research, and experimentation, development testing, product design, technology development, consulting, and business development.
- Business schools and training facilities.
- Office buildings, providing for uses such as corporate offices in accordance with the purpose of this district, including any of the following occupations: Executive; administrative; professional; accounting; engineering; architecture; drafting; writing; clerical; stenographic; and sales provided that no display shall be visible from the exterior of the building and that such sales shall be clearly incidental to the principal office use in the determination of the Planning Commission.
- Data processing and computer centers, including service and maintenance of electronic data processing equipment.
- Any use charged with the principal function of research in the area of photonics/optics, robotics, and electronic equipment.
- A high technology service use which has as its principal function the providing of services including computer information transfer, communication, distribution, management, processing, administrative, laboratory, experimental, development, technical, or testing services.
- A high technology industrial use, meaning a use which has as its principal function light manufacturing, assembly, fabrication or machining from processed materials, including (but not limited to) uses devoted to agricultural technology, biological or pharmaceutical research, software technology, telecommunications, biomedical technology, fluid transfer and handling technology, defense and aerospace technologies, or other technology oriented or emerging industrial or business activity not involving any heavy manufacturing, any heavy stamping operations, any manufacturing from raw unprocessed materials, or any use specifically prohibited in Section 15.3A.
- Research, development, engineering, design, assembly, fabrication and limited light manufacturing of high-technology equipment, including equipment involved in any high technology industrial activity as defined in Subsection 7 above, instrumentation and associated computer software, engine product research, fluid transfer and handling product research, development, engineering, design, testing, assembly, production, and related office, sales and administrative uses.
- Accessory structures and uses customarily incidental to the above permitted uses, excluding outdoor storage. Accessory storage of products and materials necessary to the permitted operation may be provided within the building. Child day care, recreation and fitness facilities, cafeterias, health care services, financial services and similar uses may be permitted as accessory uses if such uses are located wholly within the building of the principal use which it serves (except for outdoor recreation and fitness facilities), are conducted primarily for the convenience of the employees of the principal use, and have no exterior advertising or displays.

SEC. 15.2 A: USES SUBJECT TO SPECIAL CONDITIONS:

The following uses shall be permitted subject to the provisions of Section 2.7, Uses Subject to Special Conditions.

- Medical offices, clinics and research facilities, including auxiliary or accessory laboratories. Such uses may include sports medicine, medical wellness, physical therapy, physical medicine, and similar facilities. Facilities that are principally for the treatment of substance abuse (drug and alcohol) shall not be permitted.
- Motels and hotels.
- Publicly owned and operated buildings and facilities, such as fire stations.
- Outdoor uses such as testing facilities for prototype products.
- Banks, credit unions and other similar financial services.
- Communication facilities, public utility transformer stations, substations and gas regulator stations without service or storage yards shall comply with the requirements of Sec. 22.9 of this Ordinance and shall be subject to the following:
  - A front yard setback of not less than fifty (50) feet shall be provided.
  - When a transmission or relay tower, etc., is proposed as part of the facility, the tower shall be located so that it does not present a nuisance to abutting residential properties. The tower shall be so located on the subject property that the distance from the base of the tower to all points on each property line shall be not less than one and one-half (1½) times the height of the tower.
- Retail uses which in the determination of the Planning Commission are incidental and complementary to the principal technology and research uses, including the following business services such as printing, copying and mailing.
- Restaurants or other places serving food and/or beverages when located within a building containing one or more other principal uses except that restaurants with open front windows, drive-ins or drive through service are prohibited.
- Corporate fitness centers, health spas, racquetball clubs, bowling alleys or similar forms of recreation, except as otherwise provided herein.
- Child day care centers.
- Limited accessory outdoor storage subject to the following:
  - Evidence satisfactory to the Planning Commission shall be provided that the open storage is essential to the approved principal permitted use.
  - Open storage of raw materials, junk vehicles which are wrecked, disabled, worn out, abandoned, or incapable of movement, waste materials, parts, assemblies, and similar items shall be prohibited.

- Evidence satisfactory to the Planning Commission shall be provided that the storage can not reasonably be enclosed in a building.
- Evidence satisfactory to the Planning Commission that continued enforcement will not cause an undue hardship to the Township.
- All open storage shall be completely screened on all sides by a decorative masonry or brick obscuring wall which matches the main building, or a berm eight (8) feet in height, located a minimum of twenty-five (25) feet from the street setback line when the area abuts a street. An eight (8) foot wide planting strip shall be located on the street side of the wall or berm. When the side and/or rear yard does not abut a street, the wall or berm shall be located on the property line. The combined use of a wall and a berm shall be permitted.
- Within the intent of this section, the Planning Commission may approve alternatives as it deems necessary to accommodate peculiar circumstances or unforeseen problems and to carry out the spirit and intent of this Ordinance.

12. Any other use of the same nature or class as uses listed in this district as either a Principal Use Permitted or a Use Subject to Special Conditions which the Planning Commission finds not to be inconsistent with the purpose of this Article and which will not impair the present or potential use of adjacent properties. When considering other uses, the Planning Commission will review the nature and function of the use and its proposed location to ensure that said use will not present a potential conflict with principal permitted technology and research uses.

SEC. 15.3-A: USES SPECIFICALLY PROHIBITED

No building or land shall be used and no building shall be erected for any one or more of the following uses:

- The following uses or similar uses which may create unusual danger for fire, explosion, toxic or noxious matter, radiation or which may cause noxious, offensive, unhealthy or harmful odors, fumes, dust, smoke, light, waste, noise or vibration shall be considered as not meeting the minimum standards of this Ordinance as to performance and potential negative impacts on surrounding properties:
  - Processing of corrosive acid, cement, lime, gypsum or plaster.
  - Distillation of bone, coal, tar, petroleum refuse, grain or wood.
  - Processing or storage of explosives.
  - Processing of fertilizer or storage of compost.
  - Processing of products from animal refuse or offal including glue, size or gelatin.
  - Processing using steam or board hammers or forging presses.
  - Tanning, curing or storage of raw, green or salted skins or hides.
  - Manufacturing of sulfurous, sulfuric, nitric, picric, carbolic, hydrochloric or other corrosive acid, however the use of corrosive acids in connection with any permitted use is not prohibited.
  - Petroleum or asphalt refining, mixing or manufacturing.
  - Slaughtering of animals, stock yards, livestock feeding yards.
  - Manufacturing or disposal, above or below ground, of nuclear or radioactive materials.
  - Processing of garage, offal, dead animals, refuse, rancid fats.
- Warehousing, truck transfer or distribution centers as a principal use.

SEC. 15.4-A: DEVELOPMENT REQUIREMENTS

In order to obtain site plan approval, all developments in the Technology and Research (TAR) District shall comply with the following requirements:

- Site plan and development approval for all uses as specified in Article 24 of this Ordinance.
- Off-street parking for all uses as specified in Article 20 of this Ordinance, except that technology and research uses shall provide one parking space for every 300 square feet of usable floor area, usable floor area being defined as 80 percent of gross square footage.
- Off-street loading and unloading for all uses as specified in Article 20 of this Ordinance. The Planning Commission may modify such requirements, if in its sole determination, the use does not require the number of loading spaces specified in Article 20.
- Screening and land use buffers for all uses unless otherwise specified shall be in accordance with Article 22 of this Ordinance.
- All doors designed for vehicles, and loading docks and truck wells shall not be located on the front of the building, and shall be screened from view from any road.
- Signs for all uses as specified in Article 21 of this Ordinance, except that pole signs shall not be permitted.
- Height, area, lot coverage and yard regulations as specified in Article 16 Schedule of Regulations of this Ordinance.
- The following specified requirements shall apply within the TAR Technology and Research District:
  - Machines Permitted: All machines are permitted when installed and operated so as not to allow a noise, odor, fumes, dust, smoke, glare or radioactive material exceeding the limits set for Environmental Performance Standards, Section 23.17. In no case shall such impacts be detectable from districts in which residence occupancy is permitted within the Charter Township of Plymouth.
  - Environmental Performance Standards. Compliance with the Environment Performance Standards in Section 23.17 is required for all uses.
  - Setback Landscaping: All setback areas shall be landscaped with lawns, trees, shrubs and/or other plantings, and may include reflecting pools, retaining walls and other landscape construction harmonious with the overall landscape scheme. Parking and loading areas may be located in side and rear setback areas, but shall be prohibited from the front yard setback. Parking provided in a side yard setback adjacent to a street shall be provided with a 10 foot landscaped greenbelt, adjacent to that street. On a corner lot, one of the front yards may be designated a side yard. Parking and loading areas shall be screened in compliance with Article 22 of this Ordinance.
  - Source of Power: Power for any manufacturing or heating process or activity shall be derived only from electrical energy, smokeless fuels, such as gas or oil, or smokeless solid fuels containing less than twenty (20%) percent of the volatile content on a dry basis.
  - Yard Grading and Drainage: All yards in the TAR Technology and Research District shall be graded in a manner which shall avoid the ponding of storm water unless said conditions have been designed to occur as part of a storm detention plan which has been approved by the Charter Township of Plymouth and such grading shall comply with the engineering design standards for the Charter Township of Plymouth. A detailed grading plan shall be submitted by the builder and shall be approved by the Charter Township of Plymouth prior to issuance of a permit.
  - Emergency Access: All buildings shall be readily accessible by fire and emergency vehicles and shall comply with the Township Fire

Newburgh Lake soil headed for landfill

BY KEN ABRAMCZYK
STAFF WRITER

Soil excavated from Newburgh Lake will not be used to cap old contaminated sites in Detroit and a former landfill site at the former Cooper School in Westland.

Jim Murray, director of Wayne County's Department of Environment, told county residents Thursday that all the soil contaminated with polychlorinated biphenyls (PCBs) will be taken to a landfill in Salem Township. Murray discussed the excavation at a meeting on the lake's $10 million restoration project.

Tests have indicated the soil falls under the 50 parts per million standard of PCBs, which allows it to be transported to state landfills. If the levels exceeded that figure, the soil would have to be transported to outstate landfills.

"The amount of PCB is low enough," Murray said. "The PCBs don't need special treatment."

Project highlights

Murray also highlighted several other aspects of the project:

- Contractors may begin lowering the lake as early as Thursday. Excavation will continue throughout the late summer into September.

- Hines Drive will be closed for about 18 months during the restoration from I-275 to Jughandle Road, or roughly Haggerty to Newburgh Road. It is expected to be closed from early April until the project is completed in July 1998.

That portion of Hines will be restored in 1998.

- The first of two fish kills is scheduled for May. Rotenone, a pesticide derived from plant roots that kills fish and can be fatal to tadpoles and frogs, will be sprayed on the water in a monitored environment, while potassium permanganate will be used to detoxify the rotenone.

The eradication is expected to remove fish contaminated with PCBs, while a second kill is scheduled in June 1998, before the lake is restocked with fish.

The state's advisory against consuming fish from the Rouge River will continue.

- The 100 to 150 trucks transporting the soil each day will travel the following route: Newburgh Road south, then west on Ann Arbor Road, I-275 north to M-14, west to Beck Road, north to Five Mile, then west to Napier north to the landfill entrance.

Contractual work

Murray summarized the major contractors involved in the project:

- Browning Ferris Industries (BFI) was recently awarded a $1.6 million disposal contract for the excavated soil, but some items still are being negotiated in the contract, Murray said.

- John Carlo Inc. of Shelby Township received a $7.4 million contract for the actual excavation and restoration. That firm is expected to begin excavation in April and complete it by May 15, 1998.

A toll-free number is expected to be made available soon for residents to call if they have questions.

Jim Ridgway, president of Environmental Consulting & Technology, told the audience plants will be included in the restoration and fish will be restocked once the second fish eradication is finished.

Fish that are killed will be collected, counted and taken to a landfill.

"Most fish will die and float," Ridgway said. Monitors will check the rotenone levels.

The source of the PCBs was the former site of Evans Product in Livonia. The Environmental Protection Agency, Michigan Department of Environmental Quality and Wayne County's Department of Environment are involved with the cleanup of that site.

Most of the PCBs in Newburgh Lake are in a 10- to 20-inch depth level, covered with sediment.

Besides the closing of a portion of Hines Drive, residents can expect construction noise, odor from the excavation of muck, plant life and sediments, and prevented use of the lake for 18 months.

Residential concerns

County Commissioner Kay Beard, D-Westland, asked Murray if there were similar plans to remediate Nankin Lake. Murray said there were no funds currently available for such a project.

A resident asked if PCB-contaminated fish downstream could return to the lake after the remediation. Murray said fish cannot get past the dam.

He added that combined sewer overflows (outflows from sanitary sewers and storm water drains that enter the river) will be separated next year in Livonia, Plymouth Township, Westland and Garden City to help maintain the remediation.

"We do not want to have material that will recontaminate the site," Murray said.

Murray wants to educate the public on the effects of phosphorous and fertilizers on the river. "It would be a shame to spend $10 million (on Newburgh Lake), just to have it weeded up downstream," Murray said.

Excavation workers will not need "moonsuits" protecting them from exposure from the PCBs because the levels are so low, Murray said.

GOP, Dems vary in views of state's problems

STAFF WRITER

State Senate Republicans and Democrats not only offer different solutions to problems. They have far different notions of what Michigan's problems are.

A few days after Gov. John Engler's State of the State address, party leaders unveiled their own agendas for the two-year legislative term. Sample issues:

- Civil service reform. Republicans, led by majority leader Dick Posthumus of Alto, see it as necessary but don't define "reform." In the past, Posthumus has said too many top layers of state departments are protected by civil service.

Democrats don't list it as an issue.

- Consumer protection. Senate minority leader John

Cherry of Clio has a seven-point program that includes refusal to hide company settlements of product liability lawsuits, "strengthening the ban on fully automated telephone sale solicitations," limiting "junk mail and phone calling," and creating a standardized form for auto insurance policies. House Democrats have formed a consumer affairs committee.

The GOP agenda has no consumer item.

- Transportation spending. Republicans propose to "reform" it but don't say how. Republicans also propose to "invest more in transportation infrastructure."

Democrats don't list it transportation as a problem. They refuse to put forth a fuel tax increase proposal until Republicans, including Engler, offer some support for it.

- Environment. Democrats want to "toughen the environmental audit law to revoke immunity if an uncovered violation is one that is already required to be reported to a state or federal agency. Violations uncovered in voluntary audits are currently immune from prosecution."

The second sentence refers to the GOP-backed law sponsored in 1995 by Sen. Loren Bennett, R-Canton.

Democrats propose a business tax credit for pollution prevention initiatives "above what is required," a biological monitoring program for air and water quality, better reporting on the effects of pollution, and an annual public health advisory on contaminated fish.

The Republican agenda addresses none of the Democrats' issues. It proposes to "restrict and regulate waste, acquire developmental rights for protection of sensitive areas, comprehensive protection of water resources and sound scientific management of wildlife."

- Core curriculum. This was a Republican "hot button" in the early 1990s, but the party turned against it when it rewrote the school code in 1995-6.

Democrats propose to restore the mandatory core curriculum to assure "that the basics are being taught." Another Democratic pet is to reduce class sizes in grades 1-3, pointing to the success in Flint.

Republicans propose to "increase school accountability."

BRUSHING UP

Dentists advise their patients to replace their toothbrushes at least every three to four months to ensure their efficient cleansing action. Toothbrushes should be replaced even sooner when illness strikes, because a brush can harbor bacteria that may be reintroduced into the mouth to prolong sickness. What type of toothbrush should patients reach for when the bristles on their older brushes become frayed? Patients with impaired manual dexterity may best be served by electric toothbrushes. As for traditional manual toothbrushes with their many head shapes and handle-angle options, the Academy of General Dentistry says that one type of toothbrush does not necessarily do a better job of removing plaque than another. What matters most is that people use their toothbrushes, preferably for up to three minutes per brushing session.

Artist driven by horsepower

Susan Roush McClenaghan grew up surrounded by racing cars, so it's no wonder her one-person show of graphic and fine art at the Livonia City Hall spotlights Thunderbird Supercoups and winged horses.

Presented by the Livonia Arts Commission, the exhibition, which features a variety of media from computer illustrated vehicle graphics to fantasy oil paintings of dragons and knights, is well worth a look, even if art isn't your first love.

As far back as high school, Roush McClenaghan knew her career would have to include both art and cars. As the daughter of Roush Industries' founder Jack Roush, it was inevitable. The Livonia-based conglomerate, with 32 facilities in the United States, Europe and Mexico, specializes in research and development for the automotive industry.

Interest in cars

"I've been exposed to cars all my life. After high school I started taking an interest in cars," said Roush McClenaghan, who graduated from Madonna University with a bachelor's degree in graphic design.

An interest is hardly descriptive of her involvement with Roush Racing's thundering Ford cars. Roush McClenaghan recently built the engine for her dream car, a 1968

Mercury Cougar which is featured in the February issue of Super Ford magazine. Of course, she had a little help with the engine from the Roush mechanics who build the Winston Cup Series engines.

Compatriots in mischief: "Siblings," an oil painting by Susan Roush McClenaghan, features two red fox in their curious mode.

because both require a sensitivity to detail. You have to be skilled with your hands. I've heard that people who are artistically inclined are mechanically inclined as well," said the Livonia artist who until recently worked as a free-lance graphic designer on projects developing vehicle graphics for racing cars.

"I love the variety, but my priorities are to use my lifetime to develop my skills to be the best I can be whether it's drawing a car or a dragon."

Roush McClenaghan's art and cars seem entwined in more ways than obvious at first glance. As curator for the Roush Racing Museum, she is influenced by the Ford cars owned by the museum. She is working in Illustrator to create a series of computer-generated portraits of these vintage cars. Would you expect anything else from an artist who reveals

MIDWEST COLOR '97 EXHIBITION

Softening The Edges: (Above) "Rebel Without a Pause" is a portrait of Marilyn Gorman's 20-year old son Ian. The Birmingham artist frequently uses young people as models in her work because looking past their torn blue jeans, tattoos and earrings, Gorman sees diamonds in the rough. (Top right) Billie Thompson of Livonia takes the exacting medium of colored pencil to new heights with this richly colored abstract entitled "Revival."

Once considered a material for commercial art or illustration, colored pencil is well on its way to earning respect as a fine art. As a measure of the medium's success, the Birmingham Bloomfield Art Association will host a regional exhibit sponsored by the Colored Pencil Society of America's southeast Michigan chapter Feb. 22 to March 15.

The Midwest Color '97 Exhibition features works by 47 artists from Michigan, Ohio, Illinois, Indiana, Missouri, Wisconsin, Minnesota, and Iowa. From 246 entries, juror Bernard Aime Poulin chose 59 pieces in a variety of styles ranging from translucent portraiture, landscape, floral and still life to opaque abstract. Internationally known for his colored pencil portraits of children, corporate executives, political figures and royalty, Poulin studied art in Florence, Italy. The Ottawa artist's latest book on techniques, "The Complete Colored Pencil Book," was published by North Light Press.

This is the second time the BBAA will exhibit a CPSA show. In 1993, the national show won rave reviews from BBAA members.

"It's an art form that's up and coming and really quite beautiful. It's quite amazing what they can do," said BBAA executive director Janet Torno.

Tecumseh artist Bonnie Auten began working in colored pencil seven years ago. As president of the CPSA regional chapter founded in 1992, she's watched the medium grow in a variety of ways along with the organization established to promote the stature and awareness of colored pencil as a fine art form in the professional art world as well as by the general public. The CPSA provides a forum for education, communication and recognition of colored pencil artists. It will hold its fifth International Exhibition/Convention in August in Chicago.

"A nonprofit organization, the CPSA was formed to break down the barriers to accept colored pencil as a viable medium. It's a very versatile medium so more fine artists are using them. Manufacturers have taken note of the increasing numbers. As a result, pencils have gotten better. They're light fast and color fast now," said Bonnie Auten, who was accepted into the show for a work from her "Series of Hands."

Still, artists like Sherry Eid of Livonia feel as if they work in a vacuum, isolated from the rest of the art world. A colored pencil instructor at Schoolcraft College in Livonia, Eid primarily does portraiture similar to "The Watcher," juried into the Midwest exhibition at the BBAA.

"I originally joined the national group to learn about the materials and light fastness rating. It's an important consideration now that colored pencil is being used more for fine art than illustration," said Eid.

From traditional to abstract, colored pencil is capable of portraying a range of moods as well. Marilyn Gorman of Birmingham creates her pensive portraits of young people in colored pencil. In "Rebel Without a Pause" she softens the hard edges of her 20-year old son Ian. Gorman emphasizes the eyes, looking past torn blue jeans to find a diamond in the rough.

"I can get effects with colored pencil that I can't get with other mediums. When you're working with colored pencil you're working with a pen point. When you're working with a brush, you're laying down a stroke that's an inch wide," said Marilyn Gorman.

Billie Thompson takes the exacting medium of colored pencil to new heights with a richly colored abstract which began as a still life featuring a bowl of oranges. Mixing blues and oranges, Thompson builds up color in layers to produce depth.

A watercolorist for many years, the Livonia resident selected colored pencil as her medium of choice one year ago because it offered the opportunity to explore its versatility.

"I was looking for something different. I can mix media with colored pencil and it's very portable. For an artist, transportation with ease is important," said Billie Thompson, a board member of the Livonia Arts Commission.

Pencils express emotions in artists' hands

Livonia artist Nancy Hurd agrees with Thompson. An enthusiastic supporter of the medium she's worked in for 10 years, Hurd exhibits two portraits in the CPSA exhibit.

"It's easy to pick up and lay down, and amazing what a variety you can get," said Nancy Hurd.

Other local artists in the Midwest exhibition include Davya Cohen of West Bloomfield; Jeanne Tennent, Birmingham; Neil Swaab, Orchard Lake, and Rita Mach Skoczen, Rochester Hills. Skoczen's work is also exhibited in the Michigan Water Color Society's 50th anniversary show at the Detroit Institute of Arts.

'Tap Dogs' have industrial rhythm

SPECIAL WRITER

Kids called Darren Disney "Donald Duck" when he was a kid growing up in Newcastle, Australia. Now he, and his childhood chum, choreographer Dein Perry, who created the new Australian musical "Tap Dogs" are having the last laugh.

This Stomp-like show, on its first U.S. tour of 17 cities, has become a sensation. In Denver crowds of 3,000 showed up every night to see the hour-and-a-half blue-collar special — six young men in Blundstone work boots tapping their way across steel girders and drum pads on a set that looks like an industrial site.

The show opens Feb. 18 at Detroit Opera House, the last stop junction before it hits Off-Broadway's Union Square Theatre.

"The mixture of people in our audiences is incredible," said Disney. "The other night I looked out at the audience and I saw a priest, a drag queen, and a grandmother with her grandchildren all sitting in the front row."

Choreographer Dein Perry and Disney began dancing together when they were six at a local Aussie dance studio.

"That is what young boys did in Newcastle if you didn't play sports," said Disney.

At 18, Disney went on to appear in shows in Melbourne and Sydney, Australia. Perry became a boilermaker machinist at the Newcastle BHP steel mill. In those three years, Perry found the inspiration for a show to recapture interest in tap dancing, which Disney says was killed by Elvis and rock-n-roll.

While choreographing "Hot Shoe Shuffle" in London, Perry got a call from the Sydney Theatre Company to develop a new show with a small government grant. "Tap Dogs" was creat-

"Self Images," a group exhibition by and about women recovering from food, weight and diet obsession will run through Feb. 20 at the University of Michigan Pierpont Commons Gallery, 2101 Bonisteel on North Campus.

Works include paintings, wall sculptures, photography, and poetry by amateur and professional female artists depicting their personal stories.

For more information call the Center for Eating Disorders at (313) 668-8585.

OPENING RECEPTION

In celebration of the second annual Women's Recognition Month at Henry Ford Community College, the Focus on Women Program will present "Michigan Women Artists," an exhibition of two- and three-dimensional works created by female artists from Michigan Feb. 19 to March 5 in the Sisson Gallery located in the MacKenzie Fine Arts Center at HFCC, 5101 Evergreen Road in Dearborn.

An opening reception and awards presentation will take place 6-8 p.m. Wednesday, Feb. 19 in the gallery. Marilyn Zimmerman, an artist and associate professor at Wayne State University, judged the entries. She will give a gallery talk and lead a discussion about work included in the exhibition during the reception.

The first Women's Recognition Week took place at HFCC in 1975 as a tribute to Women's History Week. A year ago, the week was extended to a month long event to draw attention to the special problems and unsung achievements of women. Nationally, March has been declared Women's History Month. A series of activities, including lectures and a fund raising walk, will continue throughout the month at HFCC.

The exhibition is part of the festivities. It is free and open to the public. For more information call the Women's Resource Center at (313) 845-9629.

CALL FOR ARTISTS

The Livonia Arts Commission is looking for exhibitors for its first annual "Art in the Village" opening 6:30-8:30 p.m. Thursday, June 5 at Greenmead Historical Village in Livonia. Deadline for entry is April 1.

Art will be displayed in several of the buildings on opening night as well as on the following Saturday and Sunday. The exhibition will run in conjunction with the arts commission's Arts & Crafts Festival held on the village grounds.

Stanley Rosenthal, professor in the graduate programs at Wayne State University, will judge the entries. Cash awards totaling $2,500 will be awarded, including a $1,000 First Prize.

For an application contact arts commissioner Billie Thompson at (313) 427-9683.

SPECIAL ARTISTS

Very Special Arts Michigan's

Southeast Regional Committee is seeking performers with mental or physical challenges for its seventh annual Celebration of Arts-Ability Festival May 1-3 at Wonderland Mall in Livonia. Applications and release forms must be submitted by March 3.

Solo and group singers, dancers and musicians from area schools and the community will display their achievements before the general public and VSA supporters in the Center Court. In addition, hands-on activities in art, music and movement will encourage participants as well as all goes to explore their creativity. "Visualize the World of Nature, Imagination and Friends," the 1997 touring VSA Art Exhibit of works by children and adults with disabilities, will also be showcased.

Vocal and instrumental music, dance, comedy, mime, drama, puppetry, baton, and pompon performers are needed. In years past, entertainers have included the Schoolcraft Players, a chime group from Redford, and the choir from Burger School in Garden City.

Very Special Arts, an educational affiliate of the John F.

Kennedy Center for the Performing Arts in Washington, DC, provides opportunities for individuals with disabilities to develop through the arts.

ONCE UPON AN EASEL

D & M Studio will open Once Upon an Easel, a new concept in art stores, 1-4 p.m. Saturday, March 1 at 8691 N. Lilley in Canton's Golden Gate Plaza.

The afternoon kicks off with a ribbon cutting ceremony followed by art demonstrations, face painting and refreshments.

A total art store and more, Once Upon an Easel will offer supplies, art classes, a gallery, and services such as a lending library and rentals of art fair tents, display screens and easels. The sole proprietor is Sharon Dillenbeck, a Canton artist who's previously owned and operated D & M Studio and Gallery in Plymouth for the last 12 years.

For more details about Once Upon an Easel call (313) 453-3710.

GRANT WORKSHOPS

The Michigan Council for Arts and Cultural Affairs will present a technical assistance workshop to help potential applicants prepare arts and cultural grant applications 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. Thursday, March 20 at the Southfield Civic Center, 26000 Evergreen.

The application deadline for all MCACA grant categories is May 1. Grant guidelines and applications will be available at the workshop.

"We believe it's important that potential applicants become familiar with Council requirements and to plan viable projects. Good proposal writing does not guarantee success, but is only one aspect of good grantsmanship. Application reviewers also look for excellence and for well-planned projects that benefit people and communities throughout the state," said Consumer & Industry Services director Kathleen Wilbur.

The MCACA is a bureau within the Michigan Department of Consumer & Industry Services and administers the arts and cultural grant program. For information call Marlowe Belanger at (810) 424-9034.

as a matter of fact that prior to 1932, all Ford engines were 4 cylinder.

Besides the automotive related art, Roush McClenaghan paints oils featuring flying horses, dragons and knights in shining armor. Not to be missed among these storybook-like pieces is "Confrontations." It focuses on two golden-winged horses bat-ling in mid-air above the Grand Canyon.

For many of the horse paintings, she uses the horses in her Beyer collection for models.

"I like to express a mood. I've had people say they have a romantic atmosphere and setting," said Roush McClenaghan.

Hours for Roush McClenaghan's show at Livonia City Hall are 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday.

ed in early 1995 with his "top dog" Newcastle dancing friends. It was an immediate success at the Edinburgh Festival.

"It is fast, funny, and in your face," said Disney. "The look is similar to 'Stomp' and so are the tempos. But the footwork is more like 'Riverdance'. We don't play with things in our hands. We kick."

Disney calls the show the "industrial rhythm of the '90s". The music is a combination of Latin melodies with heavy metal, funk and rock played by two percussionists on an assortment of drums, congos, electric guitar, keyboards, cymbals, chimes, and a big Chinese gong.

The tough, ready-to-wear costumes worn by six macho men are "what we rehearse in: blue jeans, cut-offs, flannelette shirts, and rugby shorts. Things really get hot at the end so we go topless."

Women everywhere like that.

Part of the show's Australian flavor comes from the authentic industrial Blundstone Boots worn by the dancers. "We cut off the tread and put metal Capecios on the soles."

"I really can't explain the Aussie battler flavor of the old-time workers."

'Ghosts' come back to haunt in drama about the South

BY DAVID GOODMAN ASSOCIATED PRESS WRITER
On a June night 33 years ago, Medgar Evers, a prominent black civil rights leader, pulled into the driveway of his Mississippi home and was gunned down from behind by an assassin with a high-powered rifle. Gushing blood, he dragged himself to his door, only to die as his wife, Myrlie, and their young children stood helplessly by. Facts discovered later about the murder weapon and other evidence strongly implicated a local white supremacist named Byron De la Beckwith. But two all-white juries deadlocked and Beckwith was freed.

Gripping drama: Byron De La Beckwith (Oscar nominee James Woods) is finally brought to justice in Rob Reiner's "Ghosts of Mississippi."

meeting a reluctant witness at night, in a moonlit swamp hung with vines and moss. As DeLaughter begins spending his evenings combing old files and traversing the state to interview old witnesses, his wife Dixie (Virginia Madsen) starts to feel neglected and embarrassed — her father was the judge who presided over Beckwith's second trial. "You're going to pursue this thing" she gasps. "You're going to humiliate me in front of my friends, my family and the entire state of Mississippi." Before long, Dixie is back at her mother's house leaving her husband to play Mr. Mom to their three children. With his boyish mane and eye-crinkling smile, Baldwin is appealing as the idealistic attorney. Despite doing double duty at the office, Bobby never looks disheveled and even has time to meet and marry a new love interest (Diane Ladd). Goldberg, swathed in staid clothing, her wild locks tamed under a heavily lacquered matronly hairstyle, is fine every time she appears as the wry and determined Myrlie Evers, but too often she isn't given enough to do, except look as solemn as a figure on Mount Rushmore. The film owes much of its energy to the supercharged performance of James Woods as the unrepentant, arch-roost De la Beckwith. Even with layers of latex to give him the crevices, jowls and wattles of a 72-year-old, Woods seems to be having the time of his life playing the swaggering, smirking hate-monger. Woods has always specialized in villains, but this time he outdoes himself. When Assistant District Attor-

Smokeys rate with shoppers

(NAPS) - If you're looking for a must-go shopping spot, it could be Pigeon Forge, Tenn. This shopping hamlet turned mecca was voted "Favorite Shopping Spot in The South" by Southern Living Magazine readers.

"We are absolutely delighted," says Kay Powell, assistant director of the Pigeon Forge Department of Tourism. "I'm a shopper myself and know the difference in great places to shop with great bargains and places that aren't. I'm so pleased that the readers of Southern Living have reaffirmed that when it comes to shopping, this is the place."

Shoppers who come to scope the bargains along, with friends or in pairs won't be disappointed in this "shoppers mecca" of more than 200 outlet stores plus craft villages and dozens of specialty shops. Famous names with outlet stores here include Izod, Gant, Maidenform, Today's Child, Van Heusen, Bass, Black & Decker, Mikasa, Oshkosh

B'Gosh, J. Crew, Coach, Anne Klein, London Fog and, of course, lots of others.

Everyday finds give way twice a year to finds extraordinary during the World's Largest Outlet Sale (Dec. 12-22) and Winter Savings Fest (Feb. 1-23).

World's Largest Outlet Sale is a Pigeon Forge shopper's tradition with a new date: mid December. Says Powell, "In the past, turnout for the World's Largest Outlet Sale has depended completely on the weather. Even though Pigeon Forge is in a valley, and we generally have temperatures that stay in the 40s in the winter, you can't say the same thing for many of the people who visit us. By moving the sale to before the holidays, more people are assured of participation. Besides, who couldn't use a great deal when it's time for holiday shopping?"

Winter Savings Fest is a month-long special promotion with shopping as its focus. During this February shop-a-thon, visitors to Pigeon Forge save big on every aspect of their trip from their purchases to hotel rooms because Winter Savings Fest is held when prices are their lowest. Hotel rooms are easy to find for less than $40 a night. And when visitors bring friends, and share some costs, the savings are really substantial.

For more information about Pigeon Forge or its special events, dial 1-800-251-9100 or 1-800-WINTERFEST.

Truckers rate the eateries

(NAPS) - There are two basic ways to decide where to eat when you're on the road: trust your luck or look for a truck.

Truckers are America's foremost experts on roadside dining and now, you can check out their opinions. Vivarin Alertness Aid conducted a survey of hundreds of truckers and the results are compiled in The Vivarin Guide to America's Best Truck Stop Diners. The 52-page guide lists more than 350 establishments in a state-by-state format.

The guide named these diners the winners:

- America's Best Truck Stop

Diner, Most Outrageous Personality, and Best Overall Food - Beto Junction Travel Plaza, Beto Junction, Kan.

- Best Bathroom - Giant Travel Center, Jamestown, N.M.
- Best Waitress - Marsha Locklear, Derrick 76 Truck Stop, Salisbury, N.C.
- Best Breakfast - Ranch Hand Truck Stop, Montpelier, Idaho.

Tell us about your cruise

The cruise industry is busy touting February as National Cruise Vacation Month. When the snow falls and the winds howl, residents of Southeast Michigan begin thinking seriously about drifting through the islands on a cruise ship.

We'd like to know what your experiences were. Did the cruise live up to its billing? Was the food fantastic or just so-so? What about the ports of call, were they inviting or frightening? Was your captain like Capt. Stubbing on "The Love Boat" or Capt. Bligh on "The Bounty?"

Tell your neighbors in 75 words or less what it was like to take a cruise and we'll print a sampling of your comments.

Send your cruise stories to Hugh Gallagher, Assistant Managing Editor, Observer & Eccentric Newspapers, 36251 Schoolcraft, Livonia, MI 48150. or fax us at 313-591-7279.

Our cab driver was right, most Americans haven't seen our nation's capital, because they don't travel.

"I've driven Japanese tourists who had handbooks and knew all the historic places to visit," he said. "But I find it so hard to believe the number of Americans I've met who have never been here before."

On a whim, my husband David and I decided to attend President Clinton's Inauguration on Jan. 20. Anyone can go, just contact your congressman. Most inaugural events, like many things in Washington, D.C., are free.

We were not alone in our desire to experience this historic moment, the last presidential inauguration of the 20th century.

On the lawn of the Capitol we met people from all over the country. As we stood together singing "This land is your land, this land is my land..." during the swearing-in ceremony, we felt united; we were Americans, and proud.

Washington, D.C., does that to you. No matter what your political views, it's hard not to be impressed. You're surrounded by monuments, museums and buildings that symbolize and catalog our nation's history. Seeing the Capitol building in person puts the national news into perspective. President's Day is a great time to consider a trip to Washington, D.C.

"Overwhelming" is another word that describes our nation's capital. There's a lot to see and do.

One of the smartest things we did is pick up a couple of guide books - "Fodor's '97 Pocket Washington D.C. What to See and Do If You Can't Stay Long" (Fodor's Travel Publications, Inc. 1997, $8.50) and "Frommer's '97 Washington, D.C. With the Best Sightseeing and City Strolls" by Rena Bulkin (Macmillan Travel, a Simon & Schuster Macmillan Company, 1997, $14.95).

Both guidebooks offer a glimpse of the many historic

The second smart thing we did was to buy tickets for the Tourmobile (narrated shuttle tour), which is authorized by the National Park Service. The Tourmobile stops at 18 sites, including the White House, Washington Monument, Arts to get comfortable with the city. You can get on and off as many times as you want during the day. Riding the Tourmobile is cheaper than taking cabs and a great way to get to historic sites. Some of our tour guides were boring, and others, like Elliott, were a joy. He had a great sense of humor and, besides telling us all the textbook stuff, shared great insider information, such as the National Gallery of Arts is home to great masters, chefs who work at two restaurants on the concourse level of the National Gallery, and the Capitol cafeteria is a great place for lunch, or to catch a glimpse of a well-known politician.

In addition to the Tourmobile, there are Trolley Tours. The Trolley's a little more expensive, the fare is $18 adults, $9 children ages 4-12, but they stop at the FBI Building-Ford's Theatre, Freedom Plaza-National Aquarium and Washington National Cathedral, which aren't Tourmobile stops. The Trolley also offers an evening tour of the Jef-

Once you're acclimated, getting around town is no problem. Washington's subway (the Metro) will get you where you want to go in a hurry. Maps are available at Metro stations, and it's pretty easy to figure your way around. Fares are based on how far you travel. For a full day of Metrorail rides, buy the Metrorail $5 one-day pass. Call your travel agent for information about airfare and hotel recommendations. We stayed at the Sheraton City Centre near Washington Circle, a short walk from the metro station.

Take time to find out what's happening while you're in town. Mark Russell was appearing at Ford's Theatre, and we got tickets two days before the show. Ironically, we sat next to a couple from Kalamazoo, and they were Republicans.

OBSERVER SPORTS SCENE

Whalers stung

The Detroit Whalers fell victim to a penalty-filled third period, surrendering four goals as the Sarnia Sting rallied for a 7-5 Ontario Hockey League victory at Compuware Arena Wednesday.

The loss left the Whalers with a 22-28-5 record; they remain in fourth place in the OHL's West Division with 49 points. The win allowed Sarnia to slip past Sault Ste. Marie and into first place in the West with a 31-17-5 mark and 67 points.

Detroit led 5-3 after two periods, with Mark Cadotte netting two goals and an assist and Steve Wasylko getting two unassisted goals. Randy Fitzgerald also got a goal and Julian Smith picked up two assists.

But the Whalers were whistled for more than 25 minutes in penalties in the third period alone, which fueled the Sting's turnaround.

The first three third-period goals came on power plays by Andy Delmore, Darren Mortier and Michael Manson. For Manson, it was his second goal of the game; Richard Rochefort added a goal and three assists for Sarnia.

Robert Esche was in goal for Detroit; he made 19 saves.

The Whalers host the Erie Otters at 7:30 p.m. Thursday.

Sports card show

The city of Plymouth will sponsor a Sports Card and Memorabilia Show Saturday, March 15 at the Plymouth Cultural Center (located at 525 Farmer).

The show will be held in conjunction with the AAA Bantam Hockey State Championships, which will be in the same building.

The show will be from 9:30 a.m.-4:30 p.m. Admission and parking are free. Any dealers interested in a booth should call the Plymouth Recreation Department at (313) 455-6620.

Salem Koufax meeting

A meeting for all those interested in playing on Plymouth Salem's Sandy Koufax baseball team this summer should plan on attending a meeting at 7 p.m. Thursday, Feb. 20 in Room 2210 of Plymouth Salem HS.

For further information, contact Aaron Rumberger at (313) 453-4003.

Adult softball meeting

Organizational meetings for anyone interested in having a team in one of Canton's summer softball leagues, sponsored by the Canton Parks and Recreation Services, are slated for Saturday, March 1 at the Summit on the Park Community Center.

The men's meeting will be at 10 a.m., with the women's meeting at 10:30 a.m. and the co-ed meeting at 11 a.m. Information on league fees, registration dates and times, residency requirements and league formats will be available.

Call the Parks and Rec office at (313) 397-5110 for more information.

Indoor soccer registration

The Canton Soccerdome is now accepting registrations for its third indoor soccer season, which runs March 1-30. All age divisions are available, from under-eight to over-30.

Cost is $650 per team for the eight-game season, plus referee fees for each game. Call (313) 483-5660, ext. 2 or 3 for further information.

Softball sign-up

Canton Softball Center is currently accepting registrations for the spring season, which begins April 13.

Cost is $495 per team for the 14-game season, which includes game balls, USSSA registration and first and second place individual and sponsor awards are included in the fee.

For more information, call (313) 483-5660, ext. 2 or 3 for more information.

Rams tryout information

The Michigan Lake Area Rams, an Amateur Athletic Federation Travel Baseball Organization, is in the process of planning tryout dates for the upcoming season.

The organization has one collegiate team (ages 19 and 20), three Connie Mack teams (ages 17 and 18), one Mick/Mack team (ages 16, 17 and 18), two Mickey Mantle teams (ages 15 and 16), one Sandy Koufax team (ages 13 and 14), three Pee-Wee Reese teams (ages 11 and 12) and one Willie Mays team (ages 9 and 10).

Call these coaches for information: Collegiate - Rick Berryman, (313) 455-8623; Connie Mack - Frank Clouser, (810) 879-5852, Tom Nester, (313) 291-5031 or Bob Radu, (313) 479-4955; Mick/Mack - Tom Stephens, (810) 375-1193; Mickey Mantle - Rick Arbogast, (313) 291-8969 or Terry Sever, (810) 615-9094; Sandy Koufax - Rick DeSana, (313) 246-6622; Pee-Wee Reese - Len Makowski, (313) 383-0578, Jerry Villareal, (313) 292-1943, Kevin Wilkinson, (313) 274-5405; Willie Mays - Ken Allen, (313) 458-1970 and Andy DiCicco, (313) 427-0076.

Streak ends: Central stops Salem

BY BILL PARKER

As losses go, Wednesday's was a painful one for the Plymouth Salem girls volleyball team.

The Rocks suffered their first regular-season league loss in 43 matches Wednesday at Walled Lake Central. The eighth-ranked Class A Vikings rallied from a gloomy situation early in the match to post a thrilling 11-15, 18-16, 15-5, 15-5 victory over the visiting Rocks.

In the process, the Vikings clinched the Western Lakes Activities Association's Lakes Division title and at least a share of the conference crown. It's the first time since 1992 the Vikings have won the WLAA regular season championship.

Central is 10-0 in conference play with only Monday's home match against Plymouth Canton remaining. A win against the Chiefs clinches the conference crown outright. Salem slipped to 9-1 in the conference.

"In the first game (Salem) stuck it to us and they had us down in the second game. It's a tribute to the girls that they came back like they did," said Central coach Mike Lindstrom, whose team stands 35-4-1 on the year. "The kids are confident. It was kind of dark for a few minutes, but they didn't give up."

After winning the first game, Salem jumped out to a 13-11 lead and had the serve and the momentum in the second game. The scrappy Vikings clawed their way back, however, and tied the game at 13-all. The score was tied at 15-15 and 16-16 before Central ran off the final two points to even the match at one game each.

The loss seemed to take the steam from the

Crusaders build big lead, then hold off UM-D

For most of the season, it's seemed as if Madonna University's men's basketball team was the one climbing that second-half ladder.

So it must've been an unfamiliar situation when, last Wednesday against visiting University of Michigan-Dearborn, the Fighting Crusaders found themselves in the locker room at halftime with a 15-point cushion to keep them company.

And then having to protect that lead throughout the second half — which, familiar or not, they did, holding off the Wolves down the stretch to claim an 82-77 triumph.

The victory, their second in a row, boosted the Crusaders' record to 9-18. UM-D fell to 3-23.

The key run for Madonna came in the final 4:02 of the opening half. A basket by the Wolves' Will Marcoux (from Redford Catholic Central) had trimmed the Crusader lead to 27-26.

But in that final 4:02 Madonna outpointed UM-D 16-2, thanks to three three-pointers and an assist by Christian Emert (Walled Lake Central) and five points from Kristian Magro.

The Crusaders managed to maintain at least an eight-point bulge through most of the second half. With just over two minutes remaining, their advantage was still nine (77-68).

That's when UM-D started a run of its own. A Pat Hughes' triple — his seventh point in a span of 1:12 — narrowed the gap to 77-71 with two minutes to go.

Two free throws by Marcoux, followed by a layup by Tom Laco (Redford CC), the latter with :46 left, pulled UM-D to within a three-point basket, 78-75.

But the Crusaders prevailed, with Mike Maryanski getting one free throw and John-Mark Branch scoring his only basket of the game — at an opportune time, with :30 to go.

Maryanski contributed a solid game for Madonna, scoring 20 points (with four triples) and grabbing eight rebounds. Emert added 19 points (also four triples) and five assists, Magro got 18 points and six boards, and Narvin Russaw finished with 15 points and 10 rebounds (in 23 minutes).

Hughes led UM-D with 21 points. Playing against Bernie Holowicki, current Madonna coach and their former coach at CC, Marcoux had 16 points with seven boards and Laco totaled eight points with three assists.

lead against Siena Heights — then blew it, getting outscored by 30 in the second half.

The Lady Crusaders made no such mistake Thursday against Cornerstone. After playing the first half evenly, the game tied at 44-all, Madonna poured it on in the second, outscoring the Golden Eagles 48-23.

Canton, Salem both ousted

There are reasons why Plymouth Salem's team wrestling season ended in the state district final Wednesday. The most prominent: inexperience.

Salem has few seniors on its roster, and that means it can be difficult to adjust to the rigors of the state tournament. Not that the Rock wrestlers weren't tournament-tested; they were.

But perhaps they anticipated too much.

Salem beat Plymouth Canton in the first round of the team districts, 48-15 at Wayne Memorial. That put the Rocks into the district final opposite Wayne, which defeated Westland John Glenn 40-28 in the other district semifinal.

Salem and Wayne seemed evenly matched. At the Observerland Tournament, the Rocks had finished second while the Zebras were third.

But, as experienced matmen will constantly repeat, past results don't carry over. Salem found that out, losing 44-24.

Wayne (20-5-1) advances to the Class A team regional at South Lyon Wednesday. Salem finishes with an 8-2-1 overall dual-meet record.

"We didn't wrestle our best, and therefore we didn't win," was about as much as Salem coach Ron Krueger cared to say about the district results.

But the Rocks were certainly capable of beating Wayne. Through 155 pounds, Salem had five weight class wins to the Zebras' four.

But then the Rocks lost three divisions — and the meet. Jason Bedoun was pinned by Wayne's Jim Siwula (1:10) at 160, Mike Popeney was pinned by Wayne's Sean McInerney (:40) at 171, and Teono Wilson was stopped by Patrick Grzecki in overtime (4-3) at 189.

Wilson and Jeremy Wollschlager at 145, who lost 5-2 to Keith Britt, were among the Rocks who had beaten their Wayne opponents in previous meetings.

There were other opportunities that Salem failed to capitalize on. The winners for the Rocks were:

112, Dan Morgan pinned Justin Beseler (:56); 119, Eric Coburn beat John Nichols (4-3);

Rocks finish off Falcons; Chiefs win

One very basic — but important — barometer used by coaches to test a team's mettle is the reaction after an upsetting loss.

In other words, how well they bounce back.

Plymouth Salem passed that test in its final regular-season, and Western Lakes Activities Association, game of the season Friday when the Rocks knocked off visiting Farmington 58-35.

Salem finishes tied for second in the WLAA at 8-3, and ties Walled Lake Central — the WLAA champion — for the Lakes Division title. Salem is 13-4 overall.

Farmington misses the WLAA Tournament with a 3-8 record, 4-12 overall.

"Everybody contributed and played a lot," said Salem coach Bob Brodie after the Farmington game. "They bounced back with intensity after that tough loss Tuesday to Livonia Franklin."

The Rocks had Franklin beaten last Tuesday, but a desperation three-pointer at the fourth-quarter buzzer forced overtime. The Patriots won in two OTs.

Salem opens up the WLAA Tournament at home Friday with a rematch against Franklin.

The Falcons had no Patriot-like miracles in their repertoire Friday. Salem built a 16-10 lead by the end of the first quarter, increasing it to 28-20 at the half.

The Rocks' defense took over after that, limiting Farmington to 15 second-half points.

Rocks as Central rolled to victory in the final two games by identical scores of 15-5.

five blocks

"We needed to get that second game," said Salem coach Brian Gilles, whose team stands 27-7-6 overall. "They were good. Becky Cummings hit very well and they dug up everything we hit at them.

"In game four, we were up 4-2 and they scored 11 unanswered points. That really broke our back."

Call it a turn of fortune for the Rocks. On Monday, Salem was on the receiving end of a very similar winning rally against Plymouth Canton. Canton jumped out to a 13-4 lead and had the serve in the opening game of the best-of-five league match before Salem mounted a comeback.

The Rocks battled back to win the opening game, 15-13, then rolled to victory in the final two games by scores of 15-5 in each.

"This was our first league loss since 1993," said Gilles. "The girls are disappointed. They wanted to keep it going, but I told them they have nothing to be ashamed of."

"The seniors will go out of here with a 43-1 career record in the league and that's pretty impressive. We still have a lot of volleyball left. We have the league tournament, districts and regionals, which I think we can win."

Senior middle hitter Becky Cummings paced the Vikings at the net with 27 kills and 11 blocks. She was 46-of-53 hitting. Cummings also came up with 19 digs.

"Becky was as sick as a dog today and she still played out of her head," said Lindstrom.

Central sophomore Amanda Mendenhall had 10 kills and four blocks and was 23-of-25 hitting. She also had 19 digs and three aces in a 21-of-23 serving effort.

Senior Laura Hochthanner helped out with 11 kills and two blocks (23-of-27 hitting); junior Kristen Brady contributed nine kills (20-of-22 hitting) and sophomore Leah Douglas had six kills and four blocks (9-of-11 hitting). Sophomore Becca Saldana also played well and finished with Central's hitters were the recipients of the steady setting of senior Jenny Keeler. Keeler dished off 47 assists and was 120-of-132 setting. She also had six kills and 19 digs to go along with three aces in a 21-of-23 serving performance.

The Vikings also served well all evening. Junior Sabrina Nordeen was 18-of-18 serving with one ace, junior Kelly Burt was 15-of-17 with two aces and senior Katie Horton was 15-of-15.

Defensively, Horton contributed 12 digs and was 12-of-12 in serve receptions while Burt was 10-of-12 receiving and finished with six digs.

Canton clinches title

On Seniors Night at Plymouth Canton, the Chiefs made certain of their WLAA Western Division championship by sweeping past Walled Lake Western 15-9, 15-9, 15-11 Wednesday.

The win pushed Canton's record to 32-6-2 overall and 5-0 in the division. The Chiefs are 8-2 in the WLAA.

"That was the big thing for us, finishing alone on top in the division," said Canton coach Steve Anderson.

The Chiefs were in command throughout the match against Western. In the third game, Anderson had half his starters on the bench as Western built a 10-2 lead.

A quick re-substitution altered the momentum, with Canton scoring 13 of the next 14 points to clinch the victory.

Jessica Orleman led the attack for the Chiefs with 15 kills. She also had 13 digs and two solo blocks. Nikki Kovachevich had 18 digs, was 11-of-11 on serve reception, had four service aces and seven assists to kills.

Jenny Sikora added 17 digs and three aces, and Courtney Wells collected 14 assists to kills.

The Chiefs conclude their regular season against WLAA champion Walled Lake Central tonight at Central, a match Anderson believes they have a solid chance at winning.

"If we serve as well as we can serve, it's definitely possible," Anderson said.

Maybe it's the blue nail polish, or some other good luck charm which keeps Livonia Ladywood on top Catholic League volleyball world.

Whatever is coach Tom Teeters' secret, it works.

The Blazers, before a raucous crowd Thursday night at the Madonna University gymnasium, captured their sixth consecutive A-B Division championship with a come-from-behind 7-15, 15-0, 15-10 victory over Birmingham Marian.

"It means a lot, it's a great feeling because the Catholic League is very competitive," said Teeters, whose team improved to 39-4 overall. "I'm the luckiest person in the world to be coaching at Ladywood."

The last time anyone other than Ladywood had won a Catholic League title was 1991 when Farmington Hills Mercy (coached by Tim DeBeliso) took the crown.

And it appeared the five-year reign was all but over when Marian jumped out to a 10-3 advantage in the third and decisive game.

But the Mustangs, the only team to beat Ladywood in any kind of Catholic League match since 1991 (it happened on Jan. 30), could not stand prosperity.

The Blazers caught fire after Teeters made a few minor adjustments.

Behind Natalie Rozell's serving and four kills and one block off the bench from 6-foot-1 sophomore Jenny Young, the tide turned quickly.

"We gave them a different look," Teeters said. "We went with Natalie's spin serve and we saved Jenny for the third game to block

Ladywood responded with 12 unanswered points capped by Sarah Poglits' block to sew up the match.

"This tops it all off, it's even more special to win it this year," said four-year varsity player Nicole Vondracek, who finished with a team-high 34 assists, 10 digs and three aces. "We just pulled together and worked harder."

Ladywood, ranked No. 2 in the latest statewide Class A coaches poll, got 11 kills from Poglits, 10 from Jenny Lachapelle and eight from Cathy Hermann.

Kristen Dause and Mary Lu Hemme also made key contributions in the third game.

Kristy Kreher, a 6-1 junior who hits left-handed, gave Ladywood fits all night long.

She had seven kills, one block and an ace as Marian won the opening game. Katrina Lehman, a 5-11 junior, added six of her nine kills in the opening game as well.

But things quickly deteriorated for Marian in the second game as Vondracek served 15 consecutive points.

"I don't think I've ever done that before," the 5-9 senior setter said. "I just kept looking up (at the scoreboard) and tried to keep it going."

Marian coach Patty Kopmeyer made her point clear about Marian's second-game collapse.

"We felt we could beat them coming," she said. "But the second game we just played terrible. We couldn't communicate with each other on the court. We didn't pass the ball and we didn't serve receive. We just lowered our play and Ladywood played better.

"They started finding our weaknesses and the only thing you can learn from that is turn this stuff into a lesson, or you'll feel bad the rest of the season."

Behind the pinpoint passing of junior setter Erin Matthews and the hitting and serving of Kreher (six kills/two aces), Marian built a seven-point lead (10-3) and found themselves only five points away from the championship.

"The last time we beat them in their own backyard in two (games) and we were never rattled by the audience," said Kopmeyer, whose team is 30-14 overall. "Even in the second game, we wouldn't let that get to us. I was proud of the fact we didn't stop hitting."

"But Ladywood found our short-side hitters. They mixed up their attack better than ours. That's the way their big hitters are. They'll throw off-speed shots and finesse you. They throw out so much junk out there that you can't play a set defense. And our blocks didn't work out the way we needed it."

Afterwards, it was on to Buddy's Pizza for a victory party.

Their next action is Feb. 24 in the Operation-Friendship match at Harper Woods Bishop Gallagher vs. the Detroit Public School League champion.

And the blue nail polish will be reapplied by everyone on the Ladywood roster.

"We've done it since the middle of the season," Vondracek said. "We had it on the first team we beat (Temperance) Bedford and we've stuck with it since."

Also, Salem was 12-of-15 at the line; the Falcons did not attempt a free throw.

Matt Mair's 13 points led the Rocks. Andy Power added 10 points and eight assists, and Jeff McKian had 10 points. Andres Lopez finished with eight.

Farmington's leader was Trevor Gaines with 10 points.

Canton 46, Franklin 44: Plymouth Canton locked up the fourth seed in the WLAA playoffs by edging host Livonia Franklin Friday.

Canton improves to 11-6 overall and 7-4 in the Western Lakes, while Franklin drops to 8-9 and 5-6. The Chiefs play at Westland John Glenn Friday.

Donte Scott, just returning to action after a knee injury kept him sidelined for a month, hit a key three-point shot down the stretch; he led Canton with 15 points. He also grabbed five rebounds.

Nick Hurley added all 12 of his points in the second half, converting a three-point play and adding another field goal to secure the win. He also had three assists.

Rob Johnson added eight points and seven rebounds.

"We hung in there defensively," Canton coach Dan Young said. "Johnson got a big rebound (when Franklin missed the game-tying shot). It was a good game and they (Franklin) are a good team."

Franklin got 16 points, eight rebounds and three blocks from 6-foot-8 senior Matt Bauman. Kevin Biga added eight points.

"They doubled and tripled team Bauman, we didn't hurt them enough when they did," Franklin coach Dan Robinson said. "We didn't execute well enough to make them pay for that. We got off to a slow start, but showed some maturity coming back."

Agape 93, W.Wayne Christian 37: This game was quite literally over by the conclusion of the first quarter.

Plymouth Agape Christian scored as many points in the opening period as Western Wayne Christian had in the entire game, building a 37-4 lead after eight minutes. The Wolverine lead expanded to 62-14 by halftime.

Adam Martin and Tim White each had 15 points for Agape, with Steven Mecklenburg scoring 13 and Matt Major 12. Jonathan Sherfield nabbed 13 rebounds.

Bryan Blankenship had 21 points for Wayne Christian.

Agape improved to 12-3. Wayne Christian is 0-10.

St. Florian 65, PCA 63: It was a long trip across town for a non-league game, and it ended badly for Plymouth Christian Academy Friday at Hamtramck St. Florian.

The loss left the Eagles with a 6-11 record. St. Florian is 8-8.

PCA trailed by four after one quarter (18-14) and by the same amount at the half (39-35). St. Florian's advantage grew to six after three (48-42) and to 12 early in the fourth quarter.

The Eagles narrowed it down to within striking distance, but they never caught their hosts.

Chris DeRenzo (23 points) and Mark Hovermale (20) did most of the scoring for PCA. Jason Sawinski had 21, Eric Gutowski 16 and Terence Jackson 14 for St. Florian.

Late basket puts Spartans in playoffs

Livonia Stevenson coach Tim Newman said Friday's finish reminded him of the 1983 NCAA championship finish between North Carolina State and Houston.

Ed Szumlanski launched a desperation shot from just inside half-court — air ball — but teammate Brett Dubay, a junior, is in the right spot, tipping in the game-winning shot to give visiting Livonia Stevenson a 61-59 boys basketball victory over a stunned Westland John Glenn squad.

The victory also gives Stevenson, the eighth seed and a spot in the upcoming Western Lakes Activities Association playoffs.

The Spartans are now 6-9 overall and 4-7 in the WLAA. They win the tiebreaker with Walled Lake Western and North Farmington, both at 4-7 as well.

After losing a one-point game to Farmington Hills Harrison and a two-point game to Plymouth Salem, two of the top three seeds, Stevenson was "due to win a close one," according to Newman.

Senior Mike Potempa turned in his best effort of the year with 18 points, including 12 in the second half as Stevenson erased a 26-

17 halftime deficit by outscoring Glenn 44-33 in the second half.

Bill Bauer and Tyrone Davidson each added 10 points. Nine of Stevenson's 10 players scored.

Jon Becher, who tied the score at 59 by splitting a pair of free throws with nine seconds left, led Glenn with 14.

David Jarrett added 11, while Reggie Spearmon and Brad Wilde each contributed nine.

The loss drops Glenn, which has lost five of its six WLAA games, to 6-5 and 7-9.

Harrison 61, Churchill 48: On Friday, host Farmington Hills Harrison secured the third seed in the upcoming WLAA playoffs with a 13-point victory over Livonia Churchill.

Jared Hopkins paced the winners with 14 points, hitting eight of eight from the free throw line.

Matt Derocher added 12 points, while Justin Snow had eight points and six rebounds.

Harrison is now 13-3 overall and 8-3 in the Western Lakes.

Kevin Renaud and Matt Van Buren scored 12 and 10 points, respectively, for the Chargers, who fall to 2-14 overall and 2-9 in the WLAA.

Wayne 61, Woodhaven 55: Wayne Memorial improved to 15-1 overall and 9-0 in the Mega Conference's Red Division, but it wasn't easy.

When the same two teams met Jan. 14, Wayne crushed Woodhaven 79-48. Thursday was different as the host Zebras found themselves tied 31-31 at halftime.

Wayne pulled away in the third quarter and took a 47-41 lead into the fourth.

"Woodhaven did a nice job and we didn't have the mental toughness we had the first time we played them," Wayne coach Chuck Henry said.

Junior guard Brian Williams led the Wayne attack with 13 points. Senior guard Lorenzo Guess added 12 points.

Woodhaven (6-10, 2-7) received a game-high 21 points from James Driscoll.

within a game of .500 at 12-13. Cornerstone slipped to 15-10.

Three-point shooting certainly benefitted Madonna. Katie Cushman led the way, making 6-of-12 triples; she scored a game-high 24 points, with three assists and two steals.

The Crusaders converted 15-of-30 threes (50 percent) in the game to Cornerstone's 4-of-14 (28.6 percent).

Indeed, the Golden Eagles shooting fell off dramatically in the second half. They were 17-of-35 (48.6 percent) in the first half, but in the second they made just 9-of-32 (28.1 percent).

Madonna's shooting, on the other hand, went from decent (12-of-29, 41.4) in the opening half to superb (18-of-34, 52.9) in the second.

Chris Dietrich added 21 points, six rebounds, four assists and two steals for the Crusaders. Mary Murray had 12 points and two steals, and Meegan Zann had 10 points.

Kelly Hoekwater paced Cornerstone with 23 points (on 10-of-11 floor shooting) and 16 rebounds. Megan Rhew had 17 points.

Madonna has now won four of its last five games.

Mott CC 106, SC 74 (men): The winning streak for Schoolcraft College's men's team ended at one.

Not that it wasn't expected — when your team is 6-16 and its playing the No. 3-ranked team in the nation, victory is difficult to visualize.

What happened Wednesday at Mott filled all expectations. The Ocelots fell behind by 32 points at halftime (57-25) and never did pose much of a threat.

The win boosted Mott's record to 20-4 overall, 9-3 in the Eastern Conference. SC dropped to 6-17 overall, 3-9 in the conference.

"We do not have a great team," said SC coach Greg Thomas. "We get into a hole and we can't get out."

The Ocelots were led by Naron Burks with 19 points. The Bears got 28 points from DeWayne Allen and 25 from Dion Harvey.

SC WOMEN: Schoolcraft College's women's team moved to within a victory of clinching second place in the Eastern Conference with a 61-55 triumph at Mott CC Wednesday.

The win lifted the Lady Ocelots' record to 18-6 overall, 9-3 in the conference. No other information was available.

pinned by Rich Watson (2:57) at 130. With the meet decided, Krueger opted to void at 215 and 275.

In the district semifinal against Canton, the Rocks collected wins at all but three weight divisions. Voids by the Chiefs at 103 and 119 made life easy for Salem's Mervyn and Coburn.

Canton (3-6 final record) got wins at:

112, with Vince St. Louis pinning Morgan (5:59);

130, with Derek Rummel beating Sam Boyd (10:3);

215, with Brian Sinesco pinning Mike Kozma (1:52).

Salem's wins came at:

125, with Henderson beating Rob Lentz (6-1);

135, with Green beating Brent Buttermore (6-1);

140, with Dan Hamblin beating Kevin Stone (6-3);

145, with Wollschlager pinning Brian Musser (:36);

152, with Crutchfield pinning Jim Shelton (2:44);

160, with Bedoun edging Dan Shelton (5-4);

171, with Popeney trimming Larry Anderson (4-3);

189, with Wilson pinning Josh Pinion (:22);

275, with Charlie Hamblin beating Brian Poline (4-1).

RECREATION

NATURE NOTES

TIM NOWICKI

Valentine's Day is not only the holiday of love for people, it is also the time of year when the red squirrel becomes amorous. Red squirrels are often identified by people as those cute baby squirrels. They are smaller than the fox squirrel that most people see at their backyard bird feeder, but they are not a baby squirrel.

Just the other day I watched two red squirrels, one immediately following the other, as they raced around the yard. This is basically squirrel courtship.

During most of the winter, females and males defend exclusive territories. But beginning in February, males begin to invade a female's territory to investigate her interest in mating.

Females spend a lot of time chasing males from their territory until they eventually become interested in the male. During these chases they are often oblivious to their surroundings and are vulnerable to predation.

Earlier in the year, or even late last year, fox squirrels showed the same kind of behavior. Two fox squirrels race up or down a tree, one behind the other, in a pattern like that of a stripe on a spinning barber's pole. This activity comes to an end after mating.

Then the female searches for a suitable tree hollow in which to raise her young.

Both the red and fox squirrel will give birth to their young about the same time of the year. Mid

March is about the time of the year when little pink hairless squirrels are born with their eyes and ears closed. By June, the adults are free of their young and soon begin chasing each other again in order to raise another litter of young for the year.

Not only did my thoughts turn to red squirrels when I saw them chasing each other in my backyard, but I also thought of them when I passed a tree with a long icicle developing from an opening in a branch.

Sap has begun to flow in some trees and as it seeped from this opening an icicle about 14 inches long had developed.

Red squirrels have been observed intentionally scaring a branch to cause sap to flow out. They typically do this on maple trees in several places.

When the sap flows out and evaporation occurs, the sugars in the sap become concentrated around the opening. Individual red squirrels will return to their little sap line and lick the concentrated sugar from the little taps they made in the tree.

Since red squirrel courtship seems to coincide with our Valentine's Day, maybe someday some will see a red squirrel bring a sweet icicle of tree sap to their potential mate, like people give their loved ones candy.

ON THE RUN

MARYBETH DILLON

Runners from Western Wayne County wowed them at Sunday's Riverview Winterfest four-mile run.

The popular race drew more than 600 runners, 575 of whom finished on a sunny day with temperatures in the low 20s, and little wind.

Chuck Block of Livonia took the men's masters title in 22:25, but keep your eye on his son, Rob Block. The Livonia Stevenson

High School junior captured the men's 19-and-under division and beat his "old man" in 21:06.

Nancy Grayson of Northville won the women's masters division handily in 24:28, good for second overall.

Laurel Park of Ann Arbor was first overall, setting a new course record in 23:14. She bettered Free Press Marathon winner Cindy Keeler's mark by 9 seconds.

Winner of the men's race was Keith Stopen, 30, of Farmington Hills, who clocked 19:50.

Second among the male masters was former Catholic Central High School and Wayne State University phenom Tony McDonnell of Northville.

McDonnell ran 22:47, his fastest four-miler in 20 years. Former CC teammate Stan Polkowski of Plymouth took fourth in the men's 40-44 division in 24:10.

Megan Fitzgerald took the women's 19-and-under division in 23:58.

Amy Masternak of Livonia won the women's 20-29 division in 25:33.

Diane Himebaugh of Canton placed third among women 40-44 in 30:22.

Barbara Fletcher of Livonia placed fifth in the women's 50-54-year-old age group in 38:41.

Martha Krisciunas, a Holy Stroller and marathoner from St. John Neumann's in Canton, paced the women 65-69 in 53:49.

Matthew Rowe of Livonia took third in the men's 20-29-year-old age division. Livonia's John Jones captured fifth in 25:22.

Dave Peterson of Farmington Hills placed third among men 30-34 in 20:14.

Jeffrey Martin of Northville was fourth in the men's 35-39-age division in 21:50.

Jim Kyle of Northville was second in the men's 50-54 division, finishing in 25:18. Brad Behrman of Plymouth was fifth in 27:37.

UPCOMING RACES: The Livonia Family YMCA & St. Mary Hospital St. Pat's Fun Run & Pancake Breakfast, 8:30 a.m. Saturday March 8. Early registration through March 6 is $12. For more information, call (313) 261-2161, Ext. 314.

United Irish Societies' St. Patrick's Parade 15th Annual Corktown Races, 12:30 p.m., Sunday, March 16. Early registration ends March 7.

SNOWSHOEING

A walk in the wilderness of your neighborhood park

STORY BY JEFF COUNTS • STAFF WRITER

all it urban snowshoeing. When the snow starts piling up, many folks get the fireplace going and hunker down in front of the television set for the evening.

But for those of us with snowshoes, snow is an invitation to take a silent night walk in a nearby park.

Unlike cross country skis, snowshoes can be kept in a car during winter, ready for a quick jaunt.

Also, you don't need a trail. On a recent winter Sunday morning, I plunged into the woods near Newburgh Lake.

Cross country skiers were taking advantage of the fresh snow, making new tracks along the trail.

But on snowshoes, I was quickly off the trail and in the dense woods near the water.

You could occasionally hear traffic, and there was a parade of cross country skiers on the trail. Apart from that, I could have been in a remote area of northern Michigan. And I was less than five minutes from home.

Snowshoes are easy to master. It's just a walk, a way to get around in the winter, just as the Native Americans who developed them intended.

Climbing uphill on snowshoes is much easier than on cross country skis.

Some use poles while snowshoeing. They can speed you up. But intent is important. And mine is to just have a good winter walk, with no need to cover a lot of ground.

And apparently I'm not the only one moving from cross country skiing to snowshoeing.

"There's been a dramatic increase in snowshoeing," said Chuck Spriggs, manager of the Benchmark in Farmington.

He said the store has been selling snowshoes for 25 years, but that in the last five years sales have grown.

"People want to get out and walk during the winter," said Spriggs, who himself snowshoes.

"Cross country skiing is getting more and more into speed and racing. Some people are trying to get away from that," he said. "For cross country skiing, you need a track. For snowshoeing you don't."

"You can get back into the brush along creeks where the animals and birds are in the winter," he said.

And that's a good place to be.

The cost

Snowshoes cost anywhere from $90 to $260 and range from the traditional wood and rawhide mesh to lightweight, high-tech metal and plastic shoes for racing and climbing.

"An average casual snowshoe for recreational use costs between $120 and $200," said Chuck Spriggs, manager at the Benchmark in Farmington.

To try snowshoeing for a weekend, the Benchmark rents them for $25. For information, call (810) 477-8116.

TEN PIN ALLEY

AL HARRISON

Darold Dobs, Executive Director of the American Bowling Congress passed away last week at the age of 54.

Most readers of this column never knew Mr. Dobs. I had never met the man, but with the news of his death, I contacted the one person around here who knew him quite well.

This would be our own Tom McKay, past President of ABC for the past eight years. The "Bowlers Journal" named him "The Most Influential Man in Bowling" two years in a row.

"He was a very sincere individual, totally honest and upfront about everything" McKay said. "He was a very good golfer in addition to being a fine bowler."

Dobs had competed for many years in the all-star leagues around his hometown of Milwaukee. He had been battling cancer for awhile, and like in the game of bowling, you cannot win every fight. This is a big loss to the bowling community nationwide.

•Now for some good news.

Peggy Smitley of Westland fired her first 300 game at Garden Lanes in Garden City. She had been trying for this ultimate goal over 25 years of competitive bowling, and now she has the magic euphoria that comes with the achievement of a perfect game.

Her previous high was 290 some years back and the 718 series was also her first 700 set.

Peggy competes in four leagues including the All-Star Bowlerettes where she is currently averaging 201.

The ball she was using for her perfect was a "pulse" by Columbia 300.

That is the same type recently used by the first sanctioned 900 bowler a short time ago in Nebraska.

Peggy also wears a Cobra wrist device as she has some arm and shoulder problems, not enough to keep her from bowling such fine scores.

■ The National Seniors Bowling Association (NSBA) began 1997 with the monthly action taking place at Westland Bowl.

Observerland bowlers fared pretty well to start of the new year right, even though the top prize went to Ohioan Derek Smith.

Roy Biggs of Canton took second place ($500), Bob O'Brien of Farmington Hills came in third ($250); Bill Haynes, Rochester Hills, sixth, followed by Southfield's Neil Beckman, seventh; Chuck O'Rourke, Livonia, 13th.

Other finishers in the money were James Emslie of Rochester Hills, Jim Hacht of Farmington Hills and Bill Funke of Livonia, the latter whom cashed in with the high game of 257.

For information on NSBA action, call the tournament office of (810) 932-LANE or (810) 851-7494.

■ They are called the Lost Weekend-ers, a trio league at Merri Bowl Lanes in Livonia on Wednesday nights.

Now if this is not some sort of record, I just don't know, but the team comprised of Bob and Chris Campbell with Dave Farlane "shot the lights out" last week.

Bob Campbell rolled 244-236-299 for a 779 series; his wife Chris had a 222-226-289 for a 737 set; partner Dave shot 235-238-298 for a 771.

That add up to a trio team total of 2,287 actual.

Hubby and wife Bob and Chris combined for 588 in one game with their 299 and 289.

How's that for togetherness?

MEDICAL BRIEFS

Diabetes research

Diabetes Self Care Inc., a Livonia-based company that provides diabetes supplies and services, has funded a $1,000,000 commitment for diabetes research through the American Diabetes Association FlexFund program. Under the terms of this gift, Diabetes Self Care Inc. will make the earnings from $1,000,000 available each year for the next decade for use in researching treatments and cures for diabetes.

"The Diabetes FlexFund commitment allows companies like Diabetes Self Care to donate significant funds for diabetes research without permanently sacrificing capital that would otherwise be tied up in long-term endowment," said David Kruger, MSN, RN, past senior vice president of the American Diabetes Association and a certified nurse practitioner at the Henry Ford Health System in Detroit.

"Diabetes Self Care has been a strong supporter of the American Diabetes Association for many years," she added. "We hope their generosity will inspire other companies to consider this unique opportunity to help in the fight against this deadly disease."

The company has provided diabetes-related services for nearly 10 years, said Alan Korby, executive vice president of Diabetes Self Care. "We've always supported the local efforts of the American Diabetes Association and the Diabetes FlexFund allows us to make a stronger commitment to the national association and people with diabetes by helping to fund research toward a cure."

From offices around the country, Diabetes Self Care provides a wide range of services for people with diabetes. These include: in-home training on self blood-glucose testing equipment; assistance in filing insurance claims; follow-up calls to remind patients to test their blood sugar regularly and order new supplies; and a mail order service for home delivery of medical equipment, pharmaceuticals and supplies. For managed care organizations and self-insured companies, the company provides compliance monitoring, utilization reviews, pharmacy benefit management and outcomes data.

The gift will provide the foundation with an estimated $60,000 a year over the next 10 years. Company employees have also volunteered for association fund-raising events.

Companies interested in learning more about the American Diabetes Association's Diabetes FlexFund or Research Foundation should call (703) 549-1500, Ext. 2149.

Diabetes is a serious disease that affects the body's ability to produce or respond properly to insulin, a hormone that allows blood sugar to enter the cells of the body and be used for energy. Diabetes can lead to severely debilitating or fatal complications, such as blindness, kidney disease, heart disease, stroke and amputations. It is the fourth-leading cause of death by disease in the United States and has no cure.

Cancer benefit

Providence Hospital will hold its Friends' Ball Saturday, March 15, at The Ritz-Carlton in Dearborn. Proceeds will support the Providence Cancer Care Program. The black tie event will feature an 8 p.m. dinner followed by dancing to the music of Mel Ball and Colours.

The event will also feature an earlier silent auction, followed by an awards presentation at which Adam Cardinal Maida of the Archdiocese of Detroit will preside. Award recipients are Kenneth F. Elliott and Carl H. Schmidt Jr.

For reservations or more information, call (810) 424-5744.

New office

Renaissance Home Health Care recently relocated. Its new office is at 20755 Greenfield, Suite 900, Southfield 48075. The new telephone number is (810) 559-6440 and the fax number is (810) 559-3093.

Education program

The Michigan Department of Public Health has certified a five-week series of sessions geared toward helping people "Live Well With Diabetes." Classes begin at 1 p.m. Feb. 24 at MedMax Health & Care Superstore, located at 35600 Central City Parkway (across from Westland Mall). Topics include: hypoglycemia, hyperglycemia, foot care, meal plan exchange system and glucose monitoring. Physician referral is required. Call 468-4330 to register.

AIDS researchers offer patients hope

BY JULIE BROWN • STAFF WRITER

Treating AIDS patients isn't the most uplifting of tasks for doctors. Even so, Dr. Lawrence Crane, M.D., and Dr. Rodger MacArthur, M.D., have reason for encouragement.

Crane, a Livonia resident, is director of The Detroit Medical Center HIV/AIDS Program and a professor in the Division of Infectious Diseases at Wayne State University. MacArthur, a Canton resident, is director of clinical research, WSU/Detroit Medical Center HIV/AIDS Program and an associate professor of medicine at WSU.

Crane said the death rate from AIDS among DMC patients has decreased by half recently and there have been fewer AIDS-related hospitalizations. Some patients are even returning to work.

"Patients are doing much better clinically. They're feeling better," MacArthur said. "We're seeing some dramatic turnarounds."

New drugs, specifically protease inhibitors, are working wonders, although not all patients respond and not all can handle the side effects. Crane knows that AIDS remains a serious public health threat.

"It's still an epidemic and I think one of the biggest dangers is complacency. People think the epidemic is over or it's plateauing."

Both Crane and MacArthur are particularly concerned about young people. Those most in need of education are ages 15-25 and having sex for the first time, Crane said.

"The public has to understand it is important to teach about abstinence as well as prevention and safer sex," said Crane, who graduated from the medical school at WSU.

Adolescents are at risk of getting AIDS from heterosexual intercourse, said MacArthur, who graduated from the medical school at the University of Illinois at Chicago.

"We've had a major public health impact," said MacArthur. The number of babies infected in utero is decreasing, but the need for public education continues. Data show that needle exchange programs have made a significant impact, Crane said, and data from the gay population also show promising results.

LIVING WITH AIDS

Local treatment

The physicians, nurses and others at The Detroit Medical Center treat nearly 1,000 HIV-infected patients. Such patients who live in the Detroit area generally are treated at either the Detroit Medical Center or at the Henry Ford group, Crane said.

About 20 percent of DMC patients are in clinical studies. The facility receives Ryan White funding through an act of Congress to support those with HIV.

Worldwide, an estimated 30 million people are HIV-positive. In the U.S., that figure varies from a half million to a million, with three-quarters of a million often used.

The biggest advance has occurred in understanding how the virus affects the body, Crane said. "It's that understanding which has led to better treatment."

A person who is HIV-positive may be well from a medical standpoint, but "virological mayhem" is going on, Crane said. There's a sort of a war of destruction of immunity, and mutations in the virus occur quickly.

Only about one-third of those in the Detroit area with HIV know they're infected. "Anything we can do to get people to be tested is a good thing," said Crane, who's not opposed to initial use of home test kits. Testing needs to be discreet and have appropriate safeguards for individual rights.

"If you're negative, that doesn't mean you can go out and have unsafe sex," said Crane, 54.

There's no known drug which will shut off the growth of the virus completely. "You really need treatments which will impact the turnover by thousands, or hundreds of thousands," Crane said.

Protease inhibitors work in the later stage of the virus. "The way I explain it to my patients is we now can get the virus coming and going," he said. "This really has translated into improved survival."

Protease inhibitors are combined with other drugs, said MacArthur, with some patients taking as many as four or five drugs, including two protease inhibitors. Protease inhibitors act on the virus to block reproduction of viruses.

"They're being used earlier and earlier." The protease inhibitors work at a later point in the virus's life cycle, MacArthur said. Sophisticated tests are used to determine HIV still present in the body.

AZT still used

The viral load can be decreased by a hundredfold or even thousandfold, MacArthur said. AZT, the first major drug developed to treat AIDS patients, remains in use.

"AZT by itself is not particularly potent," said MacArthur, 41. "In combination, it's still a good drug."

Research is being done at Wayne State on a vaccine which would boost the body's immune system against AIDS, but results have been disappointing, MacArthur said. He doesn't believe that research funds for AIDS take away from work on cancer, heart disease and other major killers.

"I think that we need to have more funding for all diseases that affect us to a great extent." The number of years of potential life a person loses should be considered, MacArthur said; AIDS claims people at their most productive years.

He and his colleagues would be delighted to be put out of business by a vaccine.

AIDS TIME LINE

1981 - The first cases of a mysterious immune system disorder are documented in the U.S. The Centers for Disease Control cites the cases of five homosexual men in Los Angeles with Pneumocystis carinii, a rare form of pneumonia. The disease is later found to be one of many opportunistic infections that occur in people with AIDS. Most of the early reported cases in the U.S. occur in gay men.

1982 - The CDC names the new disease AIDS - Acquired Immune Deficiency Syndrome.

1984 - Scientists in France and the U.S. announce simultaneously that they have isolated the virus that causes AIDS, later named the human immunodeficiency virus (HIV). The first documented case of AIDS is reported in Thailand, which will later suffer one of the highest HIV infection rates in the world.

1985 - The first blood test to detect the presence of antibodies to HIV is approved for use in the U.S. To prevent the further spread of AIDS through transfusions of tainted blood, U.S. blood banks introduce blood-screening tests.

1987 - AZT (zidovudine), marketed under the brand name Retrovir by Burroughs Wellcome, is the first drug to receive Food and Drug Administration approval for treatment of AIDS. Like the other early anti-HIV drugs, AZT is a nucleoside analog that inhibits the action of reverse transcriptase, a viral enzyme that enables the AIDS virus to replicate within human immune system cells.

1988 - The Office for AIDS Research is established to coordinate AIDS research funded through the National Institutes of Health. In August, the number of AIDS cases in the U.S. reaches 100,000.

1989 - Aerosolized pentamidine, one of the most potent drugs to combat opportunistic infections in AIDS patients, is approved for the prevention of Pneumocystis carinii pneumonia. The FDA also approves ganciclovir for treating cytomegalovirus retinitis, an eye infection common in AIDS patients.

1991 - A second reverse transcriptase inhibitor, ddI, is approved and marketed by Bristol-Myers Squibb as Videx. Foscarnet also received FDA approval for treating AIDS-related retinitis. The Ryan White CARE Act provides federal support to cities with high incidences of AIDS for treatment of patients with the disease. In November, the number of AIDS cases in the U.S. reaches 200,000, having doubled in just over two years.

1992 - FDA Administrator David A. Kessler introduced a program of "accelerated approval," giving AIDS patients access to experimental drugs before the approval process is completed. The FDA also approves a third anti-AIDS drug, ddC, sold as Hivid by Hoffman-La Roche.

1994 - An NIH committee decides that a genetically engineered AIDS preventive vaccine, known as gp120 after the viral protein it targets, is not promising enough to warrant large-scale testing in the U.S. The same year a fourth nucleoside analog, d4T (stavudine), is approved for treating AIDS. It is sold under the trade name Zerit by Bristol-Myers Squibb. The number of AIDS cases in the U.S. doubles again, surpassing 400,000.

1995 - The CDC reports that AIDS has become the leading cause of death among all Americans ages 25-44. The agency also reports that the rate of increase in new cases has fallen to 3 percent a year, down from 200 percent a year in the early 1980s. The FDA announces that it will begin accepting applications for HIV home-testing kits, which are commercially available in 1997.

Resources exist to help those with HIV, AIDS

BY JEFF COUNTS
STAFF WRITER

For persons with AIDS, the AIDS Consortium of Southeastern Michigan can help manage the illness.

Each case is managed by one of 13 staff people at the nonprofit agency located in Detroit.

"We can help with everything from counseling to independent living," said Deborah Stevens, financial and administrative director for the agency.

"We even have outreach workers for western Wayne County," she said.

She said they go to places where AIDS can be contracted and talk to people, trying to make sure people don't contract the disease.

They also do educational work, she said.

Basically, the agency helps the AIDS patient manage the case.

This sometimes involves medical treatment, and other times it's just a monthly telephone call to check on the person.

She said that about 80 percent of AIDS patients with which the agency deals are unemployed.

The agency can also help with housing needs for AIDS patients and can help arrange for the delivery of services at home such as meals, she said.

The agency has a toll-free number which to call. It's 1-800-826-1662. Also, the agency's regular telephone number is (313) 496-0140.

She said that either number can be called to make an appointment.

The agency maintains a list of other agencies that provide support for AIDS patients.

Health providers reach pact

Oakwood Healthcare Inc. and Botsford Health Care Continuum, the parent company of Botsford General Hospital, have signed an agreement to develop a broad working relationship.

Fitzgerald and Cooper confirmed the affiliation will combine specific elements or programs and joint ventures.

This agreement is an exciting opportunity for both health care companies to positively impact the health of the communities we serve, and to enhance the community value of our not-for-profit delivery systems.

This is an example of two well-respected and recognized health care systems combining efforts to enhance services for our patients and community members.

According to Cooper and Fitzgerald, additional details regarding the new relationship will be announced over time as additional programs and services are identified.

Oakwood Healthcare Inc., based in Dearborn, is the parent company of three operational entities: Oakwood Healthcare System, the health care delivery system serving the western Wayne, eastern Washtenaw and Downriver areas.

The Botsford Health Care Continuum is an integrated system of care which includes Botsford General Hospital, the Botsford Physician Network, Community Emergency Medical Service, the Botsford Continuing Care Corporation and the Botsford Center for Health Improvement.

Women's health will be focus

The Fourth Annual Women's Health Conference, "Your Care Package," will be held 8:15 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. Saturday, March 1, at the Ypsilanti Marriott.

Presented by St. Joseph Hospital and Saline Community Hospital, the conference will feature dynamic speakers on timely issues of concern to women.

The conference keynote address will be presented by Molly Keep. She is an exercise physiologist whose down-to-earth advice has been heard on local radio and cable TV stations.

Workshops offered at the conference will range from "Living Well and Aging Well: Busting the Stereotypes" to "Women on the Web."

They will range from "The Feminine Journey: The Search for Self" to learning yoga and exercising, from "Menopause: Coping With The Change" to "Making Your Wardrobe Work for You."

Other workshops include "Integrated Therapies: A New View of Health and Illness," "The Food-Mood Connection" and "The Hobbies of Your Life."

Conference attendees are asked to bring an item for the SOS Crisis Center, which provides counseling and supportive services to low-income and homeless families with children.

Disposable diapers, personal care or hygiene items, or gift certificates are all appreciated by the Ypsilanti organization.

Sponsors of the conference include Care Choices HMO, McAuley Breast Care, Michigan Heart & Vascular Institute, Wyeth-Ayerst Laboratories and St. Joseph Mercy Hospital's Women's Health Services.

For more information on "Your Care Package" or to register, call (313) 712-5946.

Caddy pleases driver

AUTOMOBILES

Just 24 hours after receiving a shipment of Cadillac's newest luxury vehicle, at least one of the cars was joining traffic at the corner of Ann Arbor Road and Massey Drive in Plymouth Township. Jane DeHart was taking the $35,000 Catera home to Auburn Hills.

"It's wonderful," she said about the ergonomically designed vehicle made with professional women in mind.

Right down to the buttons, the car is designed so as not to strain any muscle or make driver's moves uncomfortably.

That is important for DeHart, a hospital administrator at Henry Ford Health Systems and former therapist specializing in ergonomics. Yet comfort was only one selling point for her. Aesthetics was another.

"Cadillacs really are thought of for older people, but this was appealing for my age group," said the 30-something administrator. "And it was marketed to executive women, and I'm an executive woman."

"It's a luxury car with a sports flair" which sells for under $40,000 she said.

DeHart was sold on the Catera by a friend familiar with the car before it even became available. Don Massey Cadillac was the first in the area to make the Catera available. DeHart was the first person to buy it locally.

"It came in the dealership and she bought it the next day," said Mary Macionski, sales consultant. She offered her reasoning for the quick sale.

"The car handles like a dream, has European style and is priced right." She expects the Catera to compete with BMW and Lexus.

Available in eight exterior colors, five interior, Macionski said Cadillac is "looking to capture the luxury, sport car buyer as well as current Cadillac owners and younger people."

DeHart's favorite thing about her new Catera is the sport mode button on the gear shift.

"You push the button and you can actually feel the tighter control of the steering wheel." She also appreciates the heated seats.

"It took me three hours to get to work one day (due to snow), and that was the first time I had heated seats."

"It's just a fun car to be stuck in," she said. The car goes from 0 to 60 miles per hour in 8.5 seconds, and back to 60 in 132 feet.

"The brakes on the car are awesome," said Macionski, also a Catera owner.

Before leasing the Catera Nov. 21 from sales associate Nicholas Zoccola, DeHart had driven a Corvette and Riviera. When asked what her next car would be, she answered, "probably another Cadillac."

Priest living in Japan reaches out through the Internet

EMORY DANIELS
O&E ONLINE

I continue to be amazed about how the Internet makes the world within reach so easily.

On Christmas Day, I received an E-mail message offering Christmas greetings from a Catholic priest in Japan. The Rev. Denis

McGowan has an Internet connection and one day was doing searches on the word "Livonia" because his sister lives here.

McGowan came upon O&E Online and spent some time reading stories about Livonia on our electronic news edition. He came across the Internet column I had written that week on Hanukkah. There was some information in that column that McGowan found interesting enough to include in a subsequent sermon.

So, on Christmas Day, he sent E-mail holiday greetings and included a word of appreciation for the sermon help. I returned the greetings and inquired about his ministry in Japan. A few days ago, he communicated with me about a computer virus report he had received after reading my column on "Spam" that mentioned the "Good Time" virus hoax.

"I was surprised when I read your column about 'Spam' that 'Good Time' was a hoax since I was warned last August by a friend here in Japan about it, then in October received a detailed 'report' from somebody in the U.S. about how 'vicious' it was. So, apparently the stories, thanks to the Internet, get spread rapidly and all over the world."

He shared with me the URL of a Web site where computer users can get up-to-date information on hoaxes before forwarding virus reports to someone else. When McGowan visited the Virus Myths Page at <http://www.kumite.com/myths/>, he found this direct quote about the Deeyenda Good Times virus report: "A hoax apparently surfaced in November 1996 warning users not to read E-mail if it contains the word 'Deeyenda' in the subject line. This new hoax uses many tactics found in other hoaxes, myths, and urban legends."

The priest used this latest communique to answer my earlier queries. I learned that McGowan is living in the city of Ikeda, a suburb of Osaka. He has been in Japan since 1957, and most of his work has been in a parish. He is a member of the Passionist Order and informed me that there is a Passionist monastery and retreat house on Schoolcraft.

"Together with the church (with about 960 people) I am in charge of a kindergarten with 160 children. The kindergarten is more fun than work, though. I enjoy the church work too. I have shared the joys and heartaches of the families in my parish for so many years that they have become part of me."

On a recent online visit, McGowan read the story about the Plymouth resident upset about a Web site that furnishes users with the address and a map to the house of individuals. "I've done the same looking up my sister, relatives and friends, just to see if I could do it. I think it is marvelous. Of course, anyone who has a phone book of the city and a map can do the same ..."

JumpStart Michigan

A couple days after hearing from McGowan, I received another interesting E-mail from Wendy Shepherd of Commerce Township who is a regular reader of West Bloomfield/Lakes edition of the Eccentric.

Shepherd and Michele Strasz have teamed up to produce JumpStart Michigan at <http://www.jumpstartmich.com>. JumpStart Michigan is a monthly interactive magazine for people interested in making a difference in the lives of children in Michigan.

The E-zine is a nonpartisan publication by Catalyst for Action which for seven years has been advocating for children on a grassroots level.

"This E-zine has made it possible for us to do this on a statewide level," explains Shepherd. "It is highly engaging and interactive, allowing readers to click their way through the pages and to be able to link directly with Web sites and E-mails of organizations and campaigns that interest them.

"It is 'come as you are' advocacy, with no particular bias or bent... just a resource to help people become involved in the process of helping the lives of children and their families become more healthy and secure. We have successfully moved child advocacy into a more public awareness with events which we have coordinated."

For two years, Shepherd and Strasz were the chair and co-chair of Michigan's Month of the Young Child, bringing media and corporations into partnership with this statewide event. Twice, Catalyst for Action "took over" Tiger Stadium to hold Kids Advocacy Day.

Strasz has three times coordinated Michigan's Campaign for Children public awareness event tied to the national and state elections. Shepherd coordinated the Michigan Stand for Children attended by 3,000 people in Lansing last October. Shepherd also has served as coordinator of the Michigan Worthy Wage Coalition for the past six years and in this role developed the Child Care Job Shadow Day. This activity has included one-day child care teachers Neal Shine, Stephen Yokich, Drago (the Detroit Neon star), U.S. Rep. Sander Levin, various mayors and other community and elected officials. The event has been replicated in nearly every state in the country in the past two years.

"Michele and I like to take a more proactive and nontraditional approach to advocacy. The feedback we have gotten on our Web site has been great so far."

Although closer to home than McGowan, I also was excited to hear from Wendy in Commerce Township. I'm impressed and will be making return visits to www.jumpstartmich.com.

DURALINER

Four Duraliner bedliners from Durakon Industries are being used by Reliable Lawn Care Inc. to protect the paint and finish on the beds of the company's pickup trucks.

"Duraliner bedliners are dependable," said Randy Czajka, co-owner of the Plymouth-based lawn care service. "They stand up to everything we throw at it. They do a great job protecting the bed surface despite constant use. They do not crack or chip and they hold up to the rugged conditions and weights we submit them to in the winter for our snow removal business."

The bedliners were purchased at Duraliner USA in Westland.

UNIVERSITY GRANT

The University of Detroit

Mercy Urban Health Education Center, which represents a multidisciplinary approach to teaching, has been awarded a three-year $287,700 grant from the W.K. Kellogg Foundation of Battle Creek.

Distance no obstacle to Irvine community

Distance no obstacle to Irvine community People today will drive for housing value.

That's the thinking of the Irvine Group, a Farmington Hills-based building company that has acquired nearly 250 lots at Rolling Oaks in Howell.

"This isn't far any more," said Norman Finkelstein, Irvine vice president. "We're a half hour from the Novi area. That isn't considered far. Look how popular the Brighton area is. We're 10 minutes away.

"Transportation is good," Finkelstein added. "M-59, I-96 and Grand River all come together here. A few miles east is M-23. From here, you can go anywhere quickly."

"This sub is so well located," said Barbara Kotula, sales representative. "Lansing is a half hour away; Ann Arbor is a half hour.

"I'm getting primarily move-up buyers," she said. "For most, it's their first new build. We have some empty nesters. But obviously, when you have a school complex right across from here, you get lots of families."

Five floor plans are available, ranging in price from $157,500 for a colonial of 1,640 square feet with three bedrooms and 2-1/2 baths to $195,500 for a 2,380-square-foot colonial with four bedrooms and 2-1/2 baths.

Standard features in all include fireplace, two-car attached garage, basement, range and dishwasher. A first-floor laundry is included at no extra cost in four of the plans.

"We're a little more bread-and-butter here," Kotula said. "They're more conservative, watching dollars. They want to be comfortable but don't want glitzy."

The Barton is a Cape Cod of 1,880 square feet with the master suite on the main floor.

The master has a pan ceiling, separate tub and shower and a walk-in closet.

The house also features a library with cathedral ceiling, family room, kitchen/nook, dining area and laundry on the first floor.

Two bedrooms and a full bath are upstairs.

Base price is $190,500. The model with upgrades is about $204,300, not including landscaping.

The Manchester, a colonial of 1,640 square feet, is the smallest and most economically priced at $157,500 base.

The main living area includes a living room, dining room, kitchen/nook and family room with cathedral ceiling.

All three bedrooms are upstairs. The master with cathedral ceiling also has a shower and walk-in closet. A second full bath also is on the second floor.

The first-floor laundry ($5,400) is an extra in this plan. The Manchester model with upgrades carries a price of about $166,500.

The Regency Deluxe, a colonial of 2,380 square feet, is the largest and most expensive.

The traditional layout includes library, living room, dining room, family room with two-story ceiling, kitchen/nook with island and laundry.

The master has a pan ceiling, separate tub and shower and walk-in closet. Three other bedrooms and a full bath also are upstairs.

The model with extras prices out at about $202,000.

Vinyl siding and brick are the primary exterior materials.

"I think one thing they (visitors) like best is we're willing to make changes, discuss things," Kotula said.

The Irvine reputation will draw many prospects into Rolling Oaks, Finkelstein said.

"We're the biggest name in quality building that has come out to this area," he said. "We've been around three generations."

There are other draws, too.

"The area is dotted with lakes and parks," Finkelstein said. "Howell has an aura with a real downtown. It's a very charming area. Kensington Valley, an upscale outlet mall, is two miles away.

"We're a short walk from the hospital (McPherson). You have a nice airport near Howell," he said.

Rolling Oaks is serviced by Howell's water and sewer systems. It's within the Howell school boundaries. The sub will have sidewalks.

The property tax rate is now $34.81 per $1,000 of state equalized valuation, half of market value. That means the owners of a $157,500 house would pay about $2,750 the first year.

Julie and Michael Schwanz have bought a colonial for themselves and their children.

"We have family in Lansing. We love Howell. We wanted to live in a somewhat smaller area," Julie said. "We picked Rolling Oaks because the prices were excellent. We were satisfied with the amenities we were getting for the price."

Leigh and Scott Triplett and their children already have moved into their colonial.

"Obviously, the subdivision location was great with the schools," Leigh said. "The neighborhood is full of kids. I guess we liked the yards. We wanted a two-story. I like that the living room and dining room are two separate rooms."

The models at Rolling Oaks, (810) 661-0180, are open noon to 6 p.m. daily, closed Thursdays.

OVER 50 YEARS OF BEING SOUTHEASTERN MICHIGAN'S PREMIER DEVELOPER AND BUILDER

Know the facts before you buy clothes washer

Looking to buy a laundry pair? Although you probably don't want to spend extra money on a washer or dryer that's more machine than you need, buying something that you'll outgrow in a year or two can be even worse.

To make sure the model you buy is right for you, now and in the future, the home economists at Whirlpool recommend first taking a close look at your real laundry needs. The following questions should help you get started:

How much laundry?

How often?

How often you wash or dry clothes, what size bedding you have and how many people are in your family will go directly to what size machine you should be looking at. Although the definition for such capacity labels as "large" and "super" tend to change from manufacturer to manufacturer, most washers and dryers typically come in the following sizes:

Washers

- 3.0 to 3.2 cu. ft. - Large enough for family-size loads and king-size sheets or blankets.
- 2.6 to 2.8 cu. ft. - Offers average room for a small family with few loads per week.
- 2.45 to 2.5 cu. ft. - Ideal for a single person with twin-size sheets or blankets.

Dryers

- 6.8 to 7.0 cu. ft. - Handles family-size loads and king-size sheets or blankets.
- 6.0 to 6.5 cu. ft. - Offers average room for a small family with few loads per week.
- 5.0 to 5.5 cu. ft. - Ideal for single person with twin-size sheets or blankets.

What kind of clothes?

Looking at the types of clothes you and your family normally wear can go a long way in helping you choose a washer or dryer.

- Mostly denims and uniforms? A one-speed washer motor offers a fast agitation and a fast spin to clean these heavy-duty items. A dryer with only a high-heat setting would also probably be adequate with these fabrics.

- Are there more knits and sweaters or permanent press pants and blouses in your closets? These fabrics need more moderate care. A two-speed washer is a better choice here because of its slower agitation and spin speeds. Dryers should have a medium or warm setting to best care for such fabrics.

- Delicates, lingerie, silks? These need the extra-gentle care that a dryer with a low-heat or air-only setting and a three-speed washer offer.

Are your closets full of a combination of fabrics? A good rule of thumb is the more cycles or settings on a washer or dryer, the more fabrics they can properly handle.

Do you have any special needs?

- Do you wear glasses or have trouble seeing? Look for easy-to-read consoles and large control knobs.
- Are you a first-time user or will your children be responsible for some of the laundry? Look for models that offer such features as color-coded consoles or programmable controls.

What's your laundry area like?

Space is certainly a factor in buying a washer or dryer. For example, a full-size laundry pair would be just fine for most basement laundry rooms, but might be a tight fit if all you have to work with is a bathroom closet. In that case, the solution might be either one of the space-saver models or a stackable unit.

Other questions to ask yourself:

- Where is the laundry room located in terms of the rest of the house? If it's close to a family room you might want to consider a model with a sound insulation package and adjustable end-of-cycle signal. If it's far from the main living area, look for audible signals.
- Is the laundry area dimly lit? You might want a laundry pair with easy-to-read and/or lighted consoles. A dryer with an interior drum light might also be helpful.
- Is there enough room to open the dryer door? Dryer doors come in several configurations - side-swing, drop-down and reversible.

Electric can be energy efficient

Energy-efficient homes that depend on electricity add value that goes beyond lower monthly energy bills. It means the indoor air quality is better. Because they use energy efficiently, these homes can even help to protect the environment, according to the Edison Electric Institute, an association of electric companies.

How can you add the value of electric energy efficiency to your home? Your electric company defines electric energy efficiency as getting the most value from every dollar your household spends on electricity. That doesn't mean doing without, or changing behavior to save money. Turning off lights when not needed will always be wise, but today, consumers should consider three areas to add the value of electric energy efficiency:

- Improve the efficiency of your home's thermal envelope - that's everything that separates the inside from the outside. This includes windows, doors, insulation, and weather-stripping.
  - When you replace large, energy-consuming appliances, do so with energy efficient ones.
  - Lastly, look at how the household uses energy. Consider a set-back thermostat and timers for lights.
- Call your electric company's residential marketing department for more information.

The Weekly Do-It-Yourselfer

Deep-Eave garage

This week's Do-It-Yourselfer feature allows you the option of four different sizes to choose from - 24' x 22', 24' x 24', 24' x 26', and 24' x 28'. You can build the garage to stand alone or to be attached to your house. There are three foundations to choose from, four roof styles, four garage door configurations, a side personnel door option and a side window option. Two complete sets of the plans are included: one for you or your builder and one for the building department. Plans include clearly labeled, detailed drawings along with full framing instructions. Illustrations are drawn three dimensionally with full elevations and cross sectional diagrams. Step-by-step comprehensive instructions are included to aid you in construction. A full materials list will make your trip to a local lumberyard for building materials another easy step toward the completion of your new project.

Recycled glass becomes insulation

Everyone knows that using home insulation saves energy and money and protects the environment because it enables utilities to produce less fuel for heating and cooling.

Schuller GoldLine fiber glass insulation uses a minimum of 25 percent remelted glass in its manufacture. More than 70 percent of this is post consumer, which is any glass product or container originally produced for, and used by, a consumer.

Good examples of this glass are used household food and beverage containers which, through curbside recycling, end up in other useful products, rather than in a landfill.

A typical truckload of GoldLine fiber glass insulation contains about one-and-a-half tons of recycled glass which nationwide translates to thousands of cubic feet of saved landfill space.

This recycling has earned Schuller GoldLine the right to bear the Green Cross symbol from Scientific Certification Systems.

For more information, see your nearest building supply dealer, or contact the Product Information Center for Schuller GoldLine insulation, Schuller International, Inc., P.O. Box 5108, Denver, CO 80217. Or call, 800 654 3103.

Plan gives 3-bedroom house that will be just 38 feet wide

The three-bedroom Cortez is a contemporary stucco home designed with a zero lot line concept in mind. It is only 38 feet wide and has no windows along the right side.

This design concept is brought into play when additional privacy is desired along one of the lot lines, or when a builder wants to construct two mirror-image units in a duplex configuration. This allows each of the units to have one wide side yard instead of two narrow ones.

If these concerns aren't relevant, windows could be added, but the home is already richly gassed. The rear of the Cortez has more windows than walls, facing out across a covered terrace that could be screened. Sliding glass doors provide access from the kitchen/nook area and master suite.

And from the dining room, you gaze into an enclosed courtyard through wide windows, crowned by an arched transom. Inside, a columned archway echoes the graceful curves of the windows and defines the boundary between the dining room and the airy, vaulted living room.

Counter and storage spaces are plentiful in the kitchen. A powder room is centrally located, close to the front door and a pass-through utility room opens into the garage.

Amenities in the Cortez's generous master suite include a walk-in closet, linen storage, oversized shower, twin basins and an enclosed water closet. A small arched window brightens the stairwell leading upstairs to two more bedrooms that share a compartmentalized bathroom.

For a review plan, including scaled floor plans, elevations, section and artist's conception, send $15 to Associated Designs, 1100 Jacobs Dr., Eugene, Ore. 97402. Please specify the Cortez 11-011 and include a return address when ordering. A catalog featuring over 170 home plans is available for $12. For more information call (800) 634-0123.

Intense demand for Technical Temporaries

Information technology (IT) professionals looking for an alternative to full time jobs might do well to consider contracting.

Sean McGowan, director of marketing for Krystal Solutions, headquartered in Huntington Beach, California, says, "The contract market is growing by leaps and bounds."

Alan Shulman, a division vice president for Comsys Technical Services in Rockville, Md., comments, "There are more positions than there are people to fill them."

Although Shulman says opportunities are wide spread, some technologies are definitely in greater demand than others. According to McGowan, PeopleSoft, SAP and Oracle are hot technologies right now.

Pete Kominsky, senior vice president of The Consortium, a subsidiary of New Jersey-based RCM Technologies, adds, "There's also a huge demand for Unix, C, and C++ people, as well as people with Internet and intranet skills, and Java expertise."

McGowan says, "We're also seeing a strong rise in demand for technical support including PC and LAN technicians and help desk staff."

Even mainframe expertise is back in demand. "Companies aren't getting rid of their legacy systems so fast. And in the last couple of years, a lot of mainframe people got retrained in client server technologies and landed new jobs they don't want to leave," McGowan explains.

"That's created a shortage of high end mainframe professionals to meet current needs."

The Year 2000 conversion facing companies with mainframes in another contributing to the demand for mainframe expertise, says Joe Liberatore, regional vice president for Atlanta, Tampa and Orlando, for the Information Technology division of Romac International.

Not surprisingly, high demand is producing wage inflation for the hottest skills. McGowan points to earnings of $100-$140 per hour for high level Oracle and PeopleSoft architects able to design large systems. Liberatore says he sees hourly rates for those with PeopleSoft expertise ranging from $60-$150 per hour and Internet expertise commanding $40-$150 per hour, depending on skill level and experience.

McGowan points out that many projects require 60, 70 or more hours of work a week, and contractors earn their hourly rate for every hour worked. Liberatore also notes that for the highest level experts in such high-demand areas as Powerbuilder, Oracle, and Lotus Notes, assignments often involve travel and client companies pay travel and lodging expenses in addition to hourly rates.

For those who worry about downtime between projects, Kaminsky says,

"Contractors with in-demand skills can work 52 weeks a year and more than 40 hours a week if they want." They can also frequently choose from more than one contract opportunity at a time.

Beyond earning potential, McGowan says other attractions of contracting include flexibility, variety, and opportunities to travel. "There are projects around the country as well as in Europe and Asia," he says.

What if you don't have experience or training in today's hottest technologies? Ziman says existing technology skills, coupled with a willingness to pick up new technologies, can be a viable starting point for contracting, albeit not at the highest hourly rates. Say Ziman, "This can be especially true with a former employer," with whose company culture, programs and processes you're familiar.

For those tempted to consider contracting but afraid to leave the security of a full time job, Ziman says, "Look at the worst case scenario. If you didn't like contracting, you can always go back to full time employment, where demand is intense for those with in-demand skills."

McGowan agrees, noting, "If someone maintains marketable skills, they won't have any difficulty finding another full time job or contract opportunity."

Take your time when hiring a Lawyer

Chances are, you wouldn't buy a car without a test-drive. Yet many people hire lawyers to handle workplace disputes with little regard for the professional's qualifications, personal style, or even fees.

One who did was Elizabeth Layman, a former computer scientist at the Xerox Corporation. First she bounced from lawyer to lawyer until she found one willing to handle her sex and age discrimination case against the company. Then she shelled out more than $35,000 in legal fees and expenses while she waged a four-year lawsuit.

By the time she won a hefty $9 million jury verdict in 1990, she and her lawyer had sparred over everything from witnesses to settlement discussions.

Things really deteriorated when a federal district court judge tossed out the verdict, leaving Layman with a stack of bills and a career in ruins.

She and her lawyer were in court against each other. He claimed she owed him another $25,000. She charged him with malpractice, complaining, among other things, that he misrepresented his experience, didn't try hard enough to settle, and allowed an amateur associate to handle key tasks.

They reached a confidential settlement in 1993.

In retrospect, says Layman, who switched fields and is now a lawyer in Houston, she should have put more effort into choosing an attorney. Here are some steps she and others recommend:

• Start with referrals. The best ones come from people who've been involved in similar cases, or whose business judgment you trust - like bankers, other lawyers, or people in your industry.

• Interview at least two lawyers before you choose one. Your initial conversation can take place by phone, but it's a good idea to meet in person before you agree to work together.

• Negotiate fees. Although many people are hesitant to discuss money with a lawyer, it's important to strike a deal that's good for both of you.

• Protect yourself against any surprises, it's best to set a ceiling on the total tab. And no matter how trustworthy (or intimidating) the lawyer seems, get your agreement in writing.

Infiniti QX4 delivers uncompromised luxury

BY ANNE FRACASSA
Avanti NewsFeatures

At first glance, it really doesn't stand out. Other than its distinctive Infiniti badge in front, it just looks like another sport utility vehicle.

The gentleman at our local Sunoco station noticed it right away.

"Is that the Infiniti QX4?" he asked, excitedly. I told him it was.

"Oh, man, I've got an Explorer and I would love to have one of those, but I just can't afford it. That's a great-looking sport ute."

It was unfortunate I didn't quiz him more about his own Explorer; whether it was the base XL that sells for just over $20,000 or if he had the Limited all-wheel-drive 4-door Explorer that costs $36,000. If it was the Limited, he could afford a QX4.

Base price of the Infiniti QX4 is $35,550. And this is a luxury sport utility vehicle. I emphasize luxury because that's what Infiniti is all about. Uncompromised luxury.

You'll not be disappointed with the QX4, either. It's fully equipped and includes a full leather interior, tasteful wood-tone trim, a Bose AM/FM cassette compact disc audio system, smart-looking 16-inch alloy wheels, dual power heated outside mirrors, power windows, tilt steering, cruise control, rear 12-volt outlet, liftgate wipers, keyless remote entry with security system... the list goes on and on.

What's on the option list? Just three things: Power sliding tinted glass sunroof with tilt and sunshade, heated seats and a sport package ($1,650) that gives you the sunroof, heated seats and limited-slip differential.

The only complaint I had with the QX4 was initial acceleration. Powered by a 3.3-liter single overhead cam 12-valve V6 that produces 168 horsepower. When coming out of my subdivision, I couldn't take the chance if a car was coming. I wasn't certain it could get up to speed in time.

Infiniti has graced the QX4 with its own SOFIS. This Sophisticated Optimized Fuel Injection System has a sensor that can change the air/fuel mixture under any driving condition. The result to you is better fuel economy, more power and lower emissions.

In all fairness, however, once the QX4 got really warmed up, passing on the freeway wasn't a stretch. It was able to get up to speed and pass a car going 70 mph with ease. Not a problem at all.

More than 90 percent of this engine's torque is available in the 1500 to 1800 rpm range. That way, you'll get great power for low speed off-roading and better power at high engine speeds. You'll see the difference most in towing, passing or cruising over a long distance.

Infiniti has graced the QX4 with its own SOFIS. This Sophisticated Optimized Fuel Injection System has a sensor that can change the air/fuel mixture under any driving condition. The result to you is better fuel economy, more power and lower emissions.

The QX4 also has a good road feel. This is Infiniti at its best. Known for its exceptional suspension systems, stability and on-road and off-road comfort, you won't be disappointed in the ride.

In inclement weather, the QX4 proved its mettle. A snow squall hit me by surprise and the 4-wheel-drive system worked like a charm, did its job and got me home safely without white knuckles.

Infiniti's advanced All-Mode 4WD brings 4WD technology to new heights without the drive getting a headache trying to figure out how to use it.

It tells you exactly when to use the 2WD or 4WD modes and exactly how to engage and disengage the system.

But this All-Mode 4WD system was developed to enhance traction and stability on the road. And isn't that exactly what you need in a sport utility like this?

I liked the option of allowing the drivers to override and get into manual control if you needed it.

And you'll always know what mode you're in. There's a display right on the instrument panel to tell you whether you're in 2WD, AUTO or LOCK.

On clean and dry pavement, you're in 2WD. In AUTO mode, you use it for most driving conditions except for severe or off-road driving.

In the LOCK position, you'll get a 50-50 front/rear torque split for traction on slippery surfaces.

Safety for you and your family hasn't been forgotten with the QX4. You'll find dual airbags, adjustable front shoulder belt anchors, 3-point rear outboard passenger seat belts, energy-absorbing steering column, child safety rear door locks, front and rear body structure crumple zones, hood buckling creases with safety step to help avoid intrusion into the passenger compartment and bodyside reinforcements.

Although I think the QX4 was comfortably low to the ground and possibly didn't really need the side step rails, as the week moved on, I started using them and found they gave me the extra help I needed to get into the vehicle.

The Infiniti QX4 is worth looking into when choosing a sport utility. It's got all the fine luxury of a true Infiniti automobile and the technology and advancements of a fine sport utility.

Q: Do you have an appropriate address to send condolences to Bill Cosby's family? -Angie via e-mail.

A: Write to Bill Cosby, c/o Brokaw Co., 9255 Sunset Blvd., Suite 804, Los Angeles, Calif. 90069. Donations to the Ennis William Cosby Foundation, a fund in Ennis' memory benefiting special education, may be sent to the same address.

Q: During the credits of an episode of Xena: Warrior Princess that dealt with the death of Gabrielle's former fiance, Perdicus, there was a dedication to Hudson Leick, who played Xena's enemy, Callisto. Did she die? What happened? -A.M., Gresham, Ore.

A: Leick is fine. Leah Krantzler, the show's publicist, says you misread the dedication, which actually said: "Dedicated to the memory of Michelle Calvert.... We're thinking of you."

Calvert, a crew member who died recently, was a wrangler on the series.

Q: We watch Hometown several times a week. Dean Johnson and JoAnne Liebler are on some shows, while he and Robin Hartl are on others. Which is Dean married to? -A. Sherman, San Lorenzo, Calif.

A: Johnson's wife is neither Liebler nor Hartl. He's married to his high-school sweetheart, Kathi. They have two children.

Q: I have always liked the actress Jessica Walters, who is currently acting in One Life to Live. Is she related to Barbara Walters of 20/20? -Peggy A. Brown, Defiance, Ohio.

A: Jessica, whose last name is Walter, not Walters, is not related to the ABC newswoman.

Q: My friend and I were arguing about Charles Shaughnessy of The Nanny. My friend says he used to play the title role on Remington Steele. I say that was Pierce Brosnan, and Shaughnessy used to star on a soap. Which of us is right? -Cherish Freeman, McBride, Maine.

A: You are right on both counts. Before he starred in The Nanny, Shaughnessy played Shane Donovan on Days of Our Lives.

Q: I recently saw the movie Flight of the Intruder starring Danny Glover and Brad Johnson. Whatever happened to Johnson? Someone told me he died. -J.R.T., Center Harbor, N.H.

Bill Cosby

A: Johnson has continued to plug away in a number of movie roles since the 1991 Flight movie you mention. Among them are The Birds II: Land's End, Dominion, Lone Justice II and The Philadelphia Experiment II. He also was prominently featured in last season's ABC bomb Courthouse.

Watch for him in the upcoming TNT movie Rough Riders, in which Tom Berenger plays Teddy Roosevelt.

NBC movie Asteroid hits close to home for Michael Biehn

By Dave Larsen

TVDData Features Syndicate

Michael Biehn is an old hand at saving the world. The veteran film star battled a cybernetic Arnold Schwarzenegger in The Terminator and an army of slimy extraterrestrials in Aliens. More recently he fought on the other side of impending disaster, conspiring to level San Francisco in The Rock.

Biehn is called into action again for Asteroid, a TV movie about meteorites on a fiery crash course with Earth, airing Sunday and Monday, Feb. 16 and 17, on NBC. Biehn plays Jack Wallach, director of the Federal Emergency Management Agency, who leaps from helicopters and races raging floodwaters to save lives and stave off global devastation.

"I continue to impress people with my ability to roll around in the dirt with youngsters," Biehn, 40, says.

Inspired by the success of the big-budget disaster films such as Independence Day and Twister, the $19 million TV movie is one of the most ambitious special-effects extravaganzas ever made for the small screen. Stargate Films Inc., the visual-effects company responsible for the title sequences of Twister and Eraser, created almost 265 special-effects scenes for the film.

Asteroid also stars Anabella Scierra (Jungle Fever), Don Franklin (seaQuest 2032), Anne-Marie Johnson (Melrose Place), Carlos Gomez (ER) and Emmy-winner Anthony Zerbe (Harry O).

Having made a career of white-knuckle action thrillers, Biehn describes Asteroid's production as very similar to the motion pictures in which he's starred.

"The biggest difference is that we have less time to shoot it," he says.

A Hollywood movie will shoot two or three pages of script a day, while small-screen counterparts race through five or six.

"You're basically moving a lot faster, which I myself like," Biehn says. "I get a little bored on the big-budget action movies, because there really is a lot of waiting, especially with special effects, because they just take a long time to set up."

As for Asteroid's cataclysmic explosions, death-defying stunts and rubble-strewn backdrops, Biehn says, "You wouldn't know you were working on a television show if you walked onto the set."

The actor's TV credits include guest appearances on Hill Street Blues and Police Story, as well as more recent starring roles in made-for-cable movies such as Strapped, but it's been 11 years since Biehn worked in network television. He was attracted to Asteroid by its "big event" nature.

Fans often recognize Biehn as Kyle Reese from The Terminator or as the unbalanced naval officer in The Abyss, but rarely do they realize that he's the same actor who also appeared in Aliens, The Rock, and Tombstone.

"It's been hard for people to put all my roles together and know that I've played them all," he explains. "I don't know why, exactly, but I kind of wanted to do a real high-profile piece."

Given Asteroid's reported $2 million promotional campaign, Biehn is about to become a very recognizable face.

The movie's story line involves two large asteroids knocked out of their orbit and into the Earth's gravitational pull by a passing comet. One is on a collision course with Kansas City; the other is massive enough to smack the planet into another Ice Age. As is the case in this type of movie, chaos and destruction ensue, and the large cast of heroic characters is pulled together in the face of catastrophe.

"My feeling about this is that it is going to be pretty much what people expect," Biehn says, acknowledging there's a booming market for such movies, with Independence Day and Twister the top-grossing films of 1996.

"This, I think, will be an extremely well-done one of those," he says. "I'd be lying if I told you there was something different about this."

"The only thing that I can really say is it's not science fiction. I guess that there's a real possibility that something like this could happen. Our director coined a phrase-it's called 'science faction.'"

Asteroid is just one of several disaster movies heading to theaters and television. Dante's Peak and Volcano are both set to erupt on the silver screen, while two big-budget asteroid pictures also hope to make an impact at the box office. Then there's an impending flood picture, as well as The Titanic from director James Cameron (The Terminator).

"We're going through the different types of special-effects movies, and we're getting the natural disaster movies now," Biehn says. "But one thing I think is nice about our show is we basically had ours in the can while these other ones-as far as the asteroid element goes-are in development."

Usually television follows film's lead rather than the other way around, "so that's kind of nice," he says.

Biehn admits that he shares audiences' morbid fascination with total destruction.

"To me, one of the most exciting things to watch is a real-life tornado ripping the roof off a building," he says.

He's also glued to the screen by the fires that annually devastate portions of California, where he lives with his wife and their 4-year-old son.

"I don't know what it is, but I know when it comes to mass destruction, people are interested in it," Biehn says. "I know that I'll sit and watch that before I'll sit and watch a guy reading poetry."

When he's not too busy saving civilization from asteroids and aliens, that is.

TRIVIA

Jane Austen's last novel, Persuasion, along with the earlier Northanger Abbey, was published posthumously. Austen died in 1817.

Of the 10 largest known meteor craters on Earth, three are in Canada, three are in Russia and two are in the Southern Hemisphere.

Twenty U.S. commanders in chief were not veterans, including Thomas Jefferson, Woodrow Wilson and Franklin Roosevelt.

Four state capitals are named for presidents: Jackson, Miss.; Jefferson City, Mo.; Lincoln, Neb.; and Madison, Wis.

Journalist Henry Stanley spent six months of 1871 on assignment in Africa, looking for missing explorer David Livingstone.

Streep returns to TV for a highly personal role

By Suzanne Gill

©TVData Features Syndicate

It took more than a good script to get Meryl Streep to make another TV movie after 19 years.

Streep won an Emmy for her work in the 1978 drama Holocaust, but her services are beyond the reach of most small-screen producers because her acting fee alone is several times the cost of a typical TV movie.

But because of her concern for the subject matter, the actress took a reduced fee to be both star and associate producer of First Do No Harm airing Sunday, Feb. 16, on ABC. The film takes its title from the Hippocratic oath sworn by physicians.

"We were fueled by a very personal sort of fire on this project," Streep says. "It was not purely an entertainment. It's unapologetically got an agenda. And we thought the best way to get the largest possible audience would be to put it on TV."

The powerful fact-based drama, produced and directed by Jim Abrahams (the Naked Gun series), concerns a Midwestern family afflicted by its youngest child's illness. Though the names have been changed, the tragedies of the movie betell an actual family.

Streep plays Lori Remmuler, whose son Robby is diagnosed with epilepsy. Drug treatments fail to stabilize his condition, and the 4-year-old seems destined for life-threatening brain surgery or mental disability.

"I knew Jim (Abrahams) through our kids," Streep explains. "I was pregnant with my youngest about the same time Nancy, his wife, was pregnant with Charlie. When he was about a year old, Charlie began to manifest symptoms of epilepsy."

First do no harm is not Charlie's story. For the fictional Remmulers and thousands of families with sick children, financial and insurance resources are limited. In contrast, the Abrahams family could afford to travel anywhere in search of treatment. But the result for both sets of parents was the same: suffering for their children and despair for themselves.

For both families, hope came through discovery of a diet program in limited use since the 1920s.

"Jim found (an article about) the ketogenic diet in a library," Streep says. "They put Charlie on the diet, and from 90 seizures a day, he had none!"

Meryl Streep

Most physicians do not advise parents of the diet because it has not been the subject of a clinical study. But in one-third of all cases tried, the high-fat diet controls seizures, in another third it moderates them. The diet works in more patients than any other single treatment for juvenile epilepsy. And after several years of use, it constitutes a cure.

Streep and her co-star, Fred Ward, give strong performances as Robby's frantic parents, but the dramatic success of the movie rests with 6-year-old Seth Adkins, whose extraordinary performance as Robby should earn him an Emmy by acclamation.

Other surprises in the cast include a half-dozen nonactors who have benefited from the ketogenic diet in real life. They are identified at the end of the film.

Abrahams hopes the film will give viewers new insight into medical care.

The fact that you can walk into a doctor's office in 1997 with a critically ill child and be deprived of valuable information, well-documented information that is germane to his well-being, he says, "is an important message for all of us to understand so that we can be advocates for our own health and our children's health."

WEDNESDAY

Wednesdays on ABC. Ellen DeGeneres and Jeremy Piven star as Ellen and Spence, cousins who give each other support through good and bad times, in Ellen.

SOAP TALK

'Tis the season for daytime weddings

By Candace Havens
©TVData Features Syndicate

After more than six years together, Crystal Chappell (Maggie, One Life to Live) and Michael Sabatino (rev. Jonathan, All My Children) tied the knot. The two were married on Jan. 8 at City Hall in New York City.

Another longtime couple on AMC took the plunge in Hawaii. Eva LaRue (Maria) and John Callahan (Edmund) secretly married on Nov. 30, 1996, at the Lodge at Koole on the island of Lanai. LaRue's and Callahan's characters have been married on AMC since February 1994.

On the West Coast, Lauralee Bell (Christine, The Young and the Restless) got more than she bargained for on a ski trip she took during the holidays. Scott Martin proposed to Bell this past New Year's Eve, and she accepted.

And just when Days of Our Lives fans thought the Billie-Bo-Hope triangle couldn't get any crazier, there's a new twist. Krista Allen (Billie) is pregnant.

The producers and writers haven't decided whether to include Allen's pregnancy in the story line, but it could prove interesting to the love triangle if they did.

On a sadder note, daytime has lost several of its favorite stars.

Vince Williams (Hampton, Grading Light) died of cancer on Jan. 6. He was 39 years old. Williams is survived by his wife, Kathryn, and two sons, Heru, 7, and Amon, 8 months.

The family has asked that in lieu of flowers, donations be sent to The Vincent Williams III Theatrical and Jazz Foundation, 1225 College Drive, No. 183, Baton Rouge, La. 70814. Attn: Geryl Williams.

GI also lost Larry Gates, who played HB Lewis. Gates was 81. He is survived by his wife, Judith.

Wesley Addy (Cabot Alden, Loving) died of pneumonia on Dec. 31, 1996. Addy appeared on The Edge of Night as Dr. Hugh Campbell and on Ryan's Hope as Bill Woodard.

Addy is survived by his wife, actress Celeste Holm (Isabelle, Loving).
