Moonlight Madness

Downtown Plymouth's annual Moonlight Madness is scheduled 7-11 p.m. Friday, March 21.

Visit the following downtown stores for special prices and surprises: Accent Bin, Ageless Wisdom, Bloomsbury Lane, Creative Framing, Days Gone Bye Lace, Curtain Gallery, Christines Hallmark, Delta Diamond Setters and Jewelers, Engraving Connection, Frameworks, Gabriala's, Grundwalds House of Fudge, Hands on Leather, Minerva's Dunning's, Nawrot Pendelton Shop, Native West, Penniman Gallery, Sideways Inc., Sunny J's Lingerie and Bras, Village Shopkeeper.

Police chief leaving

Plymouth Township Police Chief Carl Berry, who announced last month he intended to leave his post this spring, has set a date for leaving.

Berry said his last day on the job will be April 18, as his new motorcycle dealership business is taking up more time than expected.

"I now find my new career is taking a large portion of my time and I am not able to devote my full attention to the police service which I believe is a disservice to the community and the members of the department," he said in a letter to the township supervisor and board of trustees.

The board has discussed hiring a consultant firm to conduct a search for a new police chief.

Anti-graffiti plan

In an effort to stop graffiti downtown, the Downtown Development Authority is considering offering a reward to those who tell on graffiti writers.

"It's an incentive to report these incidents so these perpetrators can be taken care of properly," said DDA Director Steve Guile.

Guile said the DDA will seek to have those who write graffiti be responsible for erasing it, and have them pay the reward amount, yet to be determined.

New name

Silverman's Restaurant on Main Street south of Ann Arbor Road is changing its name to Vassel's of Plymouth Restaurant & Deli following a renovation in April.

The dining and counter areas are to be redone. The restaurant will retain the same owners, Jerry and Sherry Vassel, and staff. Silverman's coupons will be honored through their expiration dates.

In conjunction with the renovation and name change, the restaurant is having a contest to offer $100 in free meals to four winners. The drawing date is April 15. Contestants can visit the restaurant for a contest entry form.

Arts fund-raiser

The Plymouth Community Arts Council is offering a Detroit Tigers ticket package that will provide $4 per ticket to support arts council programs.

For a ticket order form, call the arts council at 416-4-ART.

Prayer breakfast

You are invited to attend the Community Prayer Breakfast 7:30-9 a.m. Thursday, March 27 at the Water Club Grill on Ann Arbor Road and I-275.

Guest speaker is Jeff Totten, Detroit Tigers chaplain and pastor of Grace Baptist Church in Birmingham.

The breakfast buffet is $7 per person.

The event is sponsored by the Kiwanis Club of Colonial Plymouth, the Kiwanis Evening Club of Plymouth and the Kiwanis Breakfast Club of Plymouth.

Calls for service on a fast track

■ Increased service calls mean less officer patrol time in neighborhoods.

BY KEVIN BROWN

A review of 1996 Plymouth Township police statistics shows calls for service are rising faster than any crime category.

There were 41,293 such calls in 1995. The number rose to 50,442 last year - a 22 percent increase.

Police Chief Carl Berry said the increased calls for service means officers have less free patrol time in neighborhoods.

Tapping
Maple gives energy

Rick Taracks said he doesn't want to encourage people to destroy maple trees.

But the Tai Chi instructor said the occasional tapping of a tree can provide a energy-giving drink - and lots of it.

"One of my teachers has taught me a lot of things about diet and energy," Taracks explained. "He showed me how to tap the trees, he talked about the energies coming out of the earth in the spring, it's a good way to get some of that."

Tapping a maple on his property produces anywhere from a quart to more than a gallon of sap water per day.

"The only thing to be careful about is you don't want to put too many taps into the tree, you want to be careful about the environment," Taracks said.

He also cautioned prospective tappers to be aware if pesticides are being used in the yard, as then the sweet water traditionally used for making sap wouldn't be healthy.

"We really don't want to destroy maple trees, take just a little bit," he said.

To tap his tree, he drilled a quarter-inch hole two-to-three inches deep, then pounded a piece of pipe an inch deep in the hole and put a bucket on the end.

"If it's cold in morning and sunny and warm in afternoon it will start to flow, it can actually drip pretty fast," Taracks said.

"On a good day you can get a gallon and a half of the School officials hope for high turnout

Precincts will be open from 7 a.m.-8 p.m.

Voters are asked to approve a $79.7 million bond issue to fund construction of a new high school and new elementary school; refurbish and make improvements in school buildings throughout the district; and to purchase buses and computers.

"I'm a little bit worried people will forget because it's a Saturday election," said Superintendent Charles Little. "It was intentional to do it on a Saturday so everyone has an opportunity to vote.

"I think we are at a crossroads. People have to pay attention to material that they have. It's very clear to me. This is about opportunity, growth, and it's even about home value," he said.

Sixth-graders are learning plenty about the legal system, thanks to regular visits by 35th District Judge Ron Lowe to Central Middle School in Plymouth.

"He lets the kids know a little bit about the law. His thought is that if he educates them now, he won't see them later," said Jim Jensen, Central social studies and math teacher. "The kids are learning what a law is; what isn't a law, and what punishment is."

Lowe has asked students to research stories in preparation for Law Day May 1, when sixth-graders will visit the Dunbar Davis Hall of Justice. Also planned is a May 29 mock trial, when teachers will take the stand. It'll be up to the sixth-grade class to determine their guilt or innocence.

They're auctioning the mermaid and the captain's wheel from the old Mayflower Crow's Nest lounge at 11 a.m. Saturday.

Also offered in the auction is everything from celebrity autographs to old keg taps to copper coal buckets and even lobster traps.

A percentage of the auction proceeds goes to the Plymouth Historical Museum. "When they first came up with the idea they called us right away," said museum Director Beth Stewart. "They decided that most of the things were historic and they thought the museum would be the best beneficiary."

who has done something wrong," said Joan Davis social studies/English teacher who was put "on trial" last year.

Teachers acting as the prosecuting and defense attorneys bring out all the evidence, she said. "The teachers are then excused, and the judge takes the students through all the steps; listening to and weighing evidence to determine who is guilty based on real evidence.

"His style of teaching kids about the law and procedures is highly effective," added Davis. "It's not like anything out of a book. He dramatizes and tells stories."

Lowe, who is a professional story teller, says his intent is to give students an understanding of - if not appreciation for - the legal system.

"The statistics seem to show these types of programs generate a better legal system, better citizens, and a better understanding of what is occurring out there. That is the goal," said Lowe. "I appreciate the teachers squeezing me into the school day."

The judge is getting good reviews from students.

"I think it's a great influence on children," said sixth-grader Eric Ouellette. "It helps them understand the law, and it enforces how to act."

"I think it's good for kids to know what to do, and what happens if they break the law and stuff," said Danny Lauer.

Daryl South says Judge Lowe's talks "are good, because he tells us if we get caught doing things how long we will be in jail, and what will happen if we get caught."

"I think it's good for people who want to be judges in a career when they grow up," said Scott Foess. "And he tells us what not to do."

Andrew Postma said, "I think it's a good influence on kids not to do drugs. They will think twice about it when they get asked."

■ 'Kids like how he teaches. He teaches by activities. He doesn't just sit up there and talk. He told us about crimes, marijuana and cigarettes; how you get a trial and 50 days in jail.'

While hearing Judge Lowe might not prevent young people from trying drugs, they will at least be informed about the consequences, Chris Myks said.

"Some kids might want to know what it's like to be high, and they will do it. But it's good because they also will know what the punishments will be," he said.

Travis Augustine said he now knows what happens if you steal, or take drugs.

"I think it's a big influence on kids," said Adam Zenner. "Kids like how he teaches. He teaches by activities. He doesn't just sit up there and talk. He told us about crimes, marijuana and cigarettes; how you get a trial and 50 days in jail."

Lowe said students taught him something as well.

The judge asked students to rate various crimes in terms of their seriousness.

"Marijuana and cocaine ranked way up there as the most serious," Lowe said. "When we talked about someone hitting their father, some students didn't rank it as a crime at all.

"When you analyze it, what emerges is that there is a lot of emphasis on not doing drugs and smoking cigarettes. Those things were treated as much more serious than punching dad. Maybe that's evidence that the message is heard, even if it's not adhered to. Perhaps we need more messages about domestic violence."

you're running from call to call," Berry said. "Studies show we should be doing a minimum of 50 to 60 percent free patrol time," he said, adding such patrols can help prevent break-ins.

"If we had more people we'd have a larger impact on neighborhood types of crime," said Berry, who is leaving his post in April.

Berry and some township police staff made a pitch before township trustees in the fall to increase full-time police officers from the current 23. Nothing was done to meet the request, as the township administration cited budget concerns.

The chief said showing a strong presence in township neighborhoods and industrial parks could help head off business break-ins and burglaries.

Berry said these crimes could rise in coming years, following increased subdivision and industrial growth.

There are eight major crime categories for which police prepare statistics and present them to the Michigan State Police. In 1996, burglaries dropped to 95 from 119 in 1995. That's a leveling out of sorts, as burglaries had surged from 56 to 119 in 1994-95.

Larcenies jumped from 363 in 1995 to 437 last year, a 20 percent increase. Larcenies had dropped by 2 percent in the 1994-95 period. Police said there wasn't a particular reason for the increase, other than the growth in the number of township homes and businesses.

Reported assaults dropped from 196 in 1995 to 107 last year, another leveling out as the number reported in 1994 was 97. Lt. Robert Smith said the increase in 1995 was likely because that was the first year police were allowed to arrest those suspected of domestic violence, whTapproved or not.

There were 50 stolen cars reported in Plymouth Township in 1996, up from 42 in 1995 but down from 61 in 1994.

While the township administration has not approved increasing the number of full-time police, Berry said the bike patrol program initiated two years ago should increase officers' visibility in township neighborhoods.

Eriksson Elementary School parents, students and staff are calling their Indian Festival a grand success.

Art teacher Christine McWatt formed an Indian (Asian) Club with 11 fourth and fifth graders. The students met twice each a week since returning from winter break.

The culminating event was a festival March 7 that provided students with the opportunity to share their culture with classmates. Forty-four children from India provided many with experiences about their country.

There were nine areas of interest. Many were interactive stations including live dancers offering student participation, playing board games called "Caram," tasting food samples and handpainting called "mendi."

All of the classes in the school were able to attend and enjoy the festivities. Students gained an appreciation for and enjoyed learning about India and its culture.

vath favors the move to Saturday. "People have told me that with all the constraints they have as far as jobs, kids and day care, sometimes it's very difficult to vote on a weekday. Part of my responsibility is to make sure we provide the opportunity for as many people to vote as possible," he said.

If absentee voting activity is any indication, voter turnout should be good, said Elizabeth Adams, Plymouth-Canton schools' election clerk.

"We've already received 1,600 absentee ballots," she said. While Adams is hesitant to predict how many of the district's 68,000 registered voters will cast ballots, "I would think it would be easier for people to go to the polls on a Saturday. I have no idea what to expect, but it's been very busy. Lots of people are calling to find out where they go to vote."

Voting will take place at every school in the district, with the exception of Smith, Tanger and Salem.

Voters unsure of their polling place may call (313) 416-2701. "We'll have people working Saturday, and we're urging people to make sure to call our office if they're not sure where to go," said Adams.

Little is optimistic about the outcome.

"I think the process has worked very well," he said. "The board of education and the district leadership have listened well to the community.

"There has been good public response around the district as information has been presented. Our web site has gotten several hundred hits. At our dozens of informational meetings, we've had pretty good crowds of 15 to over 80, depending on the group."

A newsletter mailed this week "gets at some of the lingering questions - namely, can we really afford this? Can we operate this? The answer is clearly yes," Little said.

"The five-year projection was a real solid piece of convincing evidence that was well thought-out, albeit it took some time. I don't know who can think of great ideas in a hurry."

The district's third draft of the five-year financial projection reflects added revenue Plymouth-Canton would accrue by enrolling schools-of-choice students.

Little emphasized that "Many people don't understand Proposal A. I do think people understand this bond project is about growth. Even the opposition acknowledges that something has to be done.

"Finally, people do understand that opportunities are expanded with a third high school. It would be an opportunity missed if we don't do it."

As for voter turnout, Little says, "I have heard very guess under the sun. I have no idea. By 9:30 p.m., we will have the tally. But I'm glad the forecast is for relatively warm weather."

Never having held a Saturday election, "this is new ground. The point is to have full participation," he said. "Surveying other districts, we learned that Saturday is as strong a day as any other day. But it's not an automatic," he said.

Residents throughout the district will find state-of-the-art, touch-screen machines when they enter voting booths.

Adams says they're simple to use.

"It's very easy. You just push yes or no. Everyone I've talked to likes the equipment," she said.

Adams doesn't expect lines at any precinct. "Voters should be able to get in and out right away."

Election results also will be available late Saturday night by calling (313) 416-2700 and pressing "2," said Judy Evola, community relations director. Internet users may access results anytime after noon on Sunday. The on-line address is http://users.aol.com/bondpccs/bond.htm.

Horvath is urging people to take the time to vote.

"Everyone needs to get out and vote. They can't be neutral. This is too important," he said.

While Horvath is hoping for a 100-percent turnout, "I know that is naive. I don't know what to expect. I hope it's significantly greater than some of the past school board elections where we've had 3 and 4 percent. I hope it's the biggest we've ever had."

My Health. My Needs. My Hospital.

"The women's programs at St. Mary Hospital meet all my needs."

My doctor said I needed a few tests, and told me about St. Mary Hospital's new Marian Women's Center. It's close to home, and the staff is committed to keeping women healthy. I found a warm, caring atmosphere designed to help women feel comfortable.

The Center provides education and support programs for women of all ages. Diagnostic testing like mammography, radiology, and ultrasound are also available, as well as a complete breast health clinic.

The Marian Women's Center, adjacent to the new Miracle of Life Maternity Center, provides family services like childbirth education, a breastfeeding program, and even pre- and postnatal exercise classes. We're planning to start a family soon, and all the programs I need are now available close to home.

My mother was interested in the Marian Women's Center menopause support group, which educates women and removes some of the mystery about this time of life.

And, if I want more information about health topics concerning women, I can attend specialized seminars throughout the year.

The Marian Women's Center cares about women. That's why St. Mary Hospital is my hospital.

Big picnic planned to follow improved July 4 parade

BY KEVIN BROWN
STAFF WRITER

If you're going to have a new, improved July 4 parade, how about a big picnic to follow?

And what's a July 4th picnic without baseball, a fishing contest, horse shoes, pie eating contests, bike decoration contests and more?

Some Plymouth Township elected officials and administration staff are organizing a picnic and a slew of related events, to happen all day long after the 7:30 a.m. parade at Plymouth Township Park, at Ann Arbor Trail and McClumpha.

They're really pushing for service groups to get involved, as these groups could also benefit from some substantial publicity through the event.

Heading the Fourth of July Committee are township Treasurer Ron Edwards, Finance Director Rosemary Harvey, Clerk Marilyn Massengill and supervisor's assistant Becky Armstrong.

"We've set a schedule and we're moving forward," Edwards said. So far, some community groups who've expressed a desire to participate include the Plymouth Historic Society, the Goodfellows and Tonquish Creek Yacht Club.

■'We have the playscape, we want to have a slip and slide, just to make it a family day out there.'

"Two events we're trying to get service groups to be a part of are a pancake breakfast, and to offer hot dogs and soda," Edwards said.

"We've sent out a bunch of letters, now we're contacting them individually to see if they'll participate.

"We're trying to make it a community event. It's a day to bring the community together. Service clubs will be able to show what they're about and be able to recruit," Edwards said.

In addition to the earlier mentioned events, the committee is seeking to organize boat races, croquet, a water balloon throw, and a fire department ladder truck demonstration.

"We're going to see if we can have a barbershop quartet come out, it's going to be an old-fashioned day out," Edwards said.

"We have the playscape, we want to have a slip and slide, just to make it a family day out there. They can come and go as they wish.

"We'll tell people to bring out their lawn chairs and blankets," he said.

Interested groups who want to participate can call the Plymouth Township offices at 453-3840 and ask for Armstrong at extension 201, Edwards at extension 214, Harvey at extension 255, or Massengill at extension 224.

Florida girl asks for information on Michigan

A Florida fifth-grader is seeking postcards and information about Michigan from anyone who wants to send her the information.

Stephanie Martin, who attends the Big Cypress Elementary School in Naples, Fla. wrote to the Observer this week asking for help.

"I would like to put an ad in your paper telling people to send me postcards and other things from your state," Stephanie wrote.

water. It just tastes like a sweet water, a little thicker than oil," he said.

Taracks said he'll stop tapping when the tree buds open.

Mel Koelling, a professor in the department of forestry at Michigan State University, is co-author of a Maple Syrup Producer's Manual available through the Ohio State University printing office.

Water tapped from maple trees from March through mid-April typically used to make maple syrup is 98 to 99 percent water, Koelling said.

"The sugar tends to be residual sucrose, it's not anything different than cane sugar," he said. "Essentially there is no flavor characteristic of maple, there's maybe some complex sugars, and some protein compounds in small quantities."

Koelling said it takes 43 gallons of sap water to make 1 gallon of maple syrup. "That's why pure maple syrup is expensive, it takes so much time," he said.

"I see nothing wrong with drinking it. It's certainly a very pure source; it's natural and organic," Koelling said. "At the same time I don't see any significant benefits except it would provide for the daily sugar intake and fluid intake."

From maple sap, people have also produced maple beer and wine and a maple beverage, he said.

WAYNE COUNTY PARKS

Director pledges to fulfill tax plan

By Ken Abramczyk
Staff Writer

Hurley Coleman has ambitious plans for Wayne County parks this year.

"The Wayne County parks (division) will deliver on everything we committed to in the millage proposal," said the director of Wayne County parks. "Everything. We feel we should be judged by our performance rather than our speeches."

Wayne County voters approved a 1/4-mill in August 1996 for improvements in county parks. The capital improvement plan has earmarked $31.6 million for park renovations, construction and consultants through 2001.

About $6.7 million in improvements are scheduled for the 1996-97 fiscal year, and $11.6 million in '97-'98.

For western Wayne County, Coleman said that has resulted in new ice skating ponds, and soon the purchase of new picnic tables and grills. "Our goal is to have these installed this year," Coleman said.

Machinery, equipment and staffing will increase this year, Coleman said. Coleman hopes to hire a firm to complete architectural, engineering and design work and over see the improvements.

"We knew when we started out we were short-staffed and had a mishmash of bureaucracy," Coleman said. Coleman expects rest rooms, comfort stations and trails will be improved and maintained with the additional staff.

"A lot will come about because of personnel in the critical areas of maintenance," Coleman said. "It demanded that the general fund maintain its level of support. We will be putting in picnic pavilions and play structures.

5-year recreation plan faces commission study

By Ken Abramczyk
Staff Writer

■ Under the five-year plan, approximately $26 million to be generated by the 1/4 mill will be used for the improvements through 2001, while $3.1 million of the millage will be earmarked for operations. County officials expect to receive an estimated $2 million in grants. The general fund will finance $250,000 worth of improvements.

Wayne County commissioners are expected to review a five-year $31 million capital improvement plan today.

The recreation package was reviewed on March 20 by six members of the commission's Committee on Roads, Airports and Public Services. It includes a memo of understanding between the city of Detroit and Wayne County for cooperative parks and recreation projects and an amended five-year capital improvement plan.

The committee forwarded the plan without a recommendation to the full 15-member commission. It recommended approval of the memo between Detroit and Wayne County.

The plan includes projects funded by the new 1/4 mill special millage. That mill costs the owner of a home with a sales value of $100,000 or a taxable value of $50,000 about $12.50 annually.

It authorized McNamara to enter into all contractual arrangements, including design, engineering, design, construction, construction management and environmental services.

The memo of understanding calls for improvements to Historic Fort Wayne, Chandler Park and Mariner Park in Detroit. The county would be "held harmless" from hazardous materials if any are found, but it must conduct an environmental audit of the Detroit properties.

Under the five-year plan, approximately $26 million to be generated by the 1/4 mill will be used for the improvements through 2001, while $3.1 million of the millage will be earmarked

SC to host seminar for secretaries

Business professionals and others can show appreciation for secretaries with the gift of professional and personal growth on national Secretary's Day.

Schoolcraft College presents a day-long seminar at the Novi Hilton on April 23 designed to address important aspects of the job and approaches to life.

The program begins at 9 a.m. with keynote speaker Vicki Niebrugge talking about professional style and strategies to improve communication methods and get specific results.

Niebrugge is director of the NOVA Group and was named Business Woman of the Year by the American Business Woman's Association.

The post-lunch program includes Laura Bierema, residency network director for the Department of Family Practice at Michigan State University.

She will talk about simplifying in this complex age with information overload and conflicting priorities.

On a lighter note, Hope Warner, a former fashion consultant and sales promotion manager, will discuss the professional wardrobe in the age of corporate casual.

Cost for the seminar and lunch is $79. To register or for more information, contact Continuing Education Services, (313) 462-4448.

Schoolcraft College is located at 18600 Haggerty Road, in Livonia, between Six and Seven Mile roads, just west of I-275.

Henry Ford plans college night for seniors

Representatives from more than 80 colleges and universities will be on hand April 2 when Henry Ford Community College holds its sixth annual college night for high school students and parents from western Wayne County.

The event will be held from 6:30-9 p.m. in the student center on the college's main campus, 5101 Evergreen Road, Dearborn.

Representatives from the schools will answer questions and provide information to prospective students.

Several larger colleges and universities will give individual presentations in the liberal arts building.

Seminars on financing a college education also will be presented by the community college financial aid staff in the liberal arts building.

The 30-minute individual college presentations and the financial aid seminars will be held three times during the evening, from 7-7:30 p.m.; 7:45-8:15 p.m.; and 8:30-9 p.m.

Ample, free parking is available. For more information, call the office of admissions at (313) 845-9613.

auctioned that stand out to her include stained glass windows and old keg taps. "There are some beautiful old chairs from the Roundtable Club," she said.

The auction will be run by J.C. Auction Services of Plymouth. Those seeking to bid can arrive at 10 a.m. to register and preview items for sale.

Among the more unusual items being auctioned are small wood plaques, autographed by celebrities who visited the Mayflower over the years. These autographs were displayed on the walls of the Crow's Nest. Some of the signers included Joe Garigiola and Cyd Charisse.

Also to be auctioned are framed caricatures of Plymouth characters, which for years were displayed on the walls of the Crow's Nest.

Inside the hotel, the auction scene will shift from the Roundtable Club to the Mayflower dining room.

Other antique items offered for sale include a wood humidor, butter scoop, iron pans, a Spanish helmet, a hand-carved plaque of the Mayflower ship, pewter mugs, a leather shot flask, Victorian parlor chairs, Victorian ice skates, old electric lamps and wood furniture.

Other Crow's Nest items for auction include the replica crow's nest displayed in the bar, wooden pulleys, hand-carved wooden whales, boat oars, an oak ice box with brass hardware, chairs, bar stools and serving plates.

Roundtable Club items include wood and upholstered benches, dishes and utensils.

More items to be auctioned include color TV sets, lobby chairs, a love seat, sofas, a bar unit, nine-foot chandelier, barn beams and marble-top tables.

Registration is required. It starts an hour before the auction. To receive a bid card, you must present a valid driver's license or picture identification.

City-owned land wanted for hotel renovation

BY KEVIN BROWN
STAFF WRITER

The sale to the new Mayflower Hotel owners of a city-owned strip of land bordering the south side of the hotel has been approved in principal by Plymouth city commissioners.

The hotel owners want the portion of land just north of the adjacent parking lot to complete renovation plans. To build out on this parcel would allow the joining of hotel rooms to the southwest to the main hotel building, and create a serving area to accommodate a new 200-seat banquet area.

The three-story build-out would also provide a new fire exit stair tower to meet fire code requirements.

The area to be sold is 19.5 feet north to south along 107 feet east to west, from Main Street to a stair tower.

"The additional structure does not reduce the number of parking spaces in the city lot, nor adversely affect traffic access to the parking spaces under the deck," said City Manager Steve Walters in a report to commissioners.

Besides functional advantages, the addition "also provides an architectural improvement by hiding the irregular roof and wall lines on the south side of the original building and tying into the brick facade being added to the annex structure," Walters said.

The city Historic District Commission has approved the plan.

Walters said that to evaluate the land strictly as vacant land downtown, a price of $10 to $12 per square foot could be projected. But because a purchase option the hotel has for the Weidman parking lot would work out to $4.62 per square foot, this price would be more reasonable, he said.

"In addition, there is a general public value in facilitating the architectural improvement and internal functioning and safety of the hotel, as proposed with the addition." he said.

The hotel renovation site plan includes the creation of two landscaped areas on each side of the north driveway from Main Street, to become city property maintained by the city.

The planned $2.5 million renovation is to begin this spring and finish in eight months, hotel partner Matt Karmo has said.

The goal of the renovation is to recast the hotel as a more upscale property that would be different from a Holiday Inn or Marriott and therefore wouldn't compete with those properties.

Exterior plans call for removing aluminum siding, improving the look of windows, restoring a cornice around the top of the building and making entrances more grand.

Internal renovation plans call for creating a banquet-ballroom area, a lobby with a fireplace at the northeast corner of the hotel and a restaurant and lounge at the northwest corner.

A gallery off the main entrance, off Ann Arbor Trail, would provide a focal point to guests or diners entering the Mayflower.

REAL ESTATE UPDATE
Chris Knight

DOG DAYS?

Most Realtors are animal lovers and have pets of their own, but we have all shared stories of having our fingers or ankles nipped by furry creatures during a showing. We have opened the front door to the home we are showing only to have a purebred Persian kitten scoot toward the nearby busy street.

If you have pets and you are putting your house on the market, be sure to work out the showing arrangements carefully. It is important for us to be able to communicate to our colleagues what to expect when they pass through your front door. It is rare for pets to pose significant problems, but big dogs can be menacing. Buyers or agents may be allergic or even a little phobic about dogs or cats. It is difficult to get a buyer excited about your home if he or she is sneezing continuously or cowering in a corner in fear of Fido. If we know there might be a problem, we can arrange ahead to time for you to walk the dog, vacuum the cat dander or do whatever is necessary to make sure that the showing goes smoothly.

Rec contracts up for approval

By Ken Abramczyk
Staff Writer

Wayne County commissioners are expected to review contracts with consultants today as part of the five-year capital improvement plan for Wayne County parks.

The commission's Committee on Roads, Airports and Public Services recommended on March 13 the full commission approval of a memo of understanding between Wayne County and city of Detroit to enter into cooperative parks and recreation projects.

The committee recommended approval of the agreement with Detroit, but forwarded without recommendation the five-year plan. The committee is chaired by Michelle Plawecki, D-Dearborn Heights. Her district includes Redford Township and a portion of Livonia.

The committee also sent the following items for action on today's commission agenda:

■ Forwarded without a recommendation a contract with McNamee, Porter & Seeley, Inc. of Detroit, for $2.5 million to act as program manager of the five-year parks capital improvement program.

■ Recommended approval of a contract with R.J. Thomas Manufacturing Co. of Cherokee, Idaho, for $98,433 to provide 220 outdoor charcoal grills and 1,000 picnic table frames for the Department of Public Services, Parks Division.

■ Recommended approval of a contract with Beckett & Raeder, Inc. of Ann Arbor, for $45,500 to update the preparation of a five-year master plan update for the Department of Public Services, Parks Division.

Committee members had questions, particularly with the program manager contract.

"Why do we need a program manager?" asked Commissioner Bruce Patterson, R-Canton. Hurley Coleman, director of the parks division, responded: "Our staff is a very small staff."

The program manager would oversee the design and construction phases during the improvement process and would check construction specifications at projects throughout the entire county in the $31.6 million capital improvement program through 2001.

"Our plans for the millage were to increase the staff, but not to the degree to what the improvement of the parks will involve," Coleman said later.

The McNamee firm will consist of a team of several contractors. That firm went through the bid process and submitted work experience and qualifications, Coleman said.

who have a problem paying for those parks. But the Wayne County park system will be 78-years-old this year. In its entire 78-year history, Wayne County has never made a single investment in the city of Detroit, or anywhere east of Dearborn.

"All the money was spent in western Wayne County."

Investment in western Wayne County parks averaged about $2 million a year. If that figure was "extrapolated" over 78 years, it would equal $156 million versus zero improvements in Detroit, Coleman said.

"The $13 million (in Detroit) over the next five years will service the entire county." That means improvements at Chandler Park, Ft. Wayne and Mariner Park at Jefferson and Alter roads on Detroit's east side.

But the overall improvement plan also means upgrades in western Wayne County, including the restoration of bridges and trails at Holliday Nature Preserve in Westland and Canton, installation of new picnic and playground equipment at Lola Valley Park in Redford Township and a new fitness trail and street lighting at Bell Creek in Redford Township, and construction of an interpretive center at Nankin Mills in Westland.

Coleman understands the arguments from millage opponents, but points to the out-of-community usage of programs.

"We ought to try to fill recreational voids regardless of where they are located," Coleman said. "You don't expect only the people in Trenton to be the only ones to use the boat launch, otherwise it wouldn't be the busiest boat launch in southeast Michigan. You don't expect people only in Westland to use the Holliday Nature Preserve, or only Livonia residents to participate in the marshmallow drop.

"We wouldn't be averaging 5,000 people at our Saturdays in the park."

Only Trenton, Highland Park and Detroit voters backed the millage. It failed in every other Wayne County community.

"You have places like Canton Township where it failed, but a lot of people supported the millage there. There were only a few places where we lost 2-to-1. That kind of plurality is what passed the millage."

Coleman highlighted some of the new programs and improvements:

■ Hines Drive will not only be closed from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. on Saturdays for recreational use, but will be shut down to vehicular traffic during the same hours on Sundays for joggers, bicyclists and others.

Saturday and Sunday in the Park begins the weekend of May 3.

■ Parks officials expect another phase of the bike path along the Rouge River in Hines Park will be completed this summer between Nankin Mills and Inkster Road, which would finish a 17-mile bike path along Hines Drive, from Dearborn to Northville.

■ Convert tennis courts in Redford Township, Dearborn Heights and Westland into roller hockey rinks.

■ Hire a naturalist this spring and start programs in the fall at Nankin Mills.

The canoe rental also will receive more promotion this summer. Last year the canoe livery near Nankin Mills rented 600 canoes with no promotion, mainly just word-of-mouth and people driving by.

The 2.5-mile, 90-minute canoe ride is located in what is described as a cleaner area of the Rouge, just east of Newburgh Lake to just west of Nankin Mills. Sewer separation and retention basins have helped alleviate some raw sewage emptying into the river, Coleman said.

"It is the cleanest part of the river," Coleman said.

As of month seven, for lines of credit $40,000 and above, the APR will be 8.75%; for lines of credit $20,000 to $39,999, the APR will be 9.25%; for lines of credit $5,000 to $19,999, the APR will be 9.50%. Variable rate may increase or decrease monthly but in no instance exceed 16%. Monthly payments of interest only required until maturity. Balloon principal payment at maturity or refinance, at lender's option. Interest may be tax-deductible, consult your tax advisor. Property insurance required. Lines of credit available on owner-occupied homes (1-4 family), up to 85% of the value, less any outstanding indebtedness. Subject to our underwriting standards, which are available on request, and our property appraisal. This offer is available for new line-of-credit relationships only, and is subject to change without notice. APR's effective as of March 3, 1997.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Cast a yes vote

Vote Yes on Saturday, March 22. Vote YES for our children, for our community, for our future. The Canton Observer also "urges district residents to vote Yes in the special election on Saturday, March 22."

The city of Plymouth, Plymouth Township and Canton Township share many excellent cultural, athletic and educational programs. This is what makes us such a unique and close knit group of communities. It is very disheartening to read comments in the paper like "I don't think Plymouth wants to fund schools for Canton and why should they?" or "the differences in growth and size of each community do not make it equitable for Plymouth to be taxed equally for new schools that mostly benefit Canton."

I urge the folks that make these comments to walk through any of the elementary schools located in Plymouth and note that the majority of them are operating beyond their capacities. A new elementary school will eliminate overcrowding districtwide, which will directly benefit Plymouth not just Canton. Plymouth will not be unfairly taxed by approving the bond, even the Canton Observer has stated that "Canton's high-priced, new construction will also bear the brunt of the total tax bill."

Roland Thomas (past school board president) has recently stated "You don't need a high school; you need classroom space at the high schools." Actually, we do need a new high school. If we continue to operate with two high schools by adding more classroom space we are excluding a large population of students who will not have the opportunity to participate in co-curricular programs like student council, drama, debate, quiz bowl and athletics. These are essential programs that our students should not have to sacrifice. We need to provide a quality education for our young adults, not a quantity of classrooms.

Some people are concerned about future debt, specifically the amount of interest to be paid on the bond. This is a debt no one can escape. Any one who has a home mortgage realizes that when the interest is added into their mortgage they will be paying approximately twice the amount of the money they borrowed. This is not bad judgment on the part of the school district, it is a fact of life. We all pay interest.

Some people are concerned that there won't be enough money to open the new schools. They say "look at what happened when we built Bentley and Tonda." Well, Bentley and Tonda are open and thriving today. Just imagine the situation we would be in right now if we didn't have them.

We need schools, buses, capital improvements and computers to continue to be competitive with our neighboring school districts. To make our community the best it can be, for our children and for our future, vote YES on Saturday, March 22.

Maintain reputation

I'd like to take this opportunity to respond to the recent criticism of the school bond proposal slated for the March 22 election.

From a purely financial aspect, it certainly is cheaper to look at alternative solutions to the tremendous increase in enrollment our district is now facing. The alternatives, including such solutions as adding on to existing schools, increasing class sizes, or housing students in portables are not solutions at all, but "quick fixes" to a problem that is not going to go away. I believe such alternatives will dilute the quality of education the Plymouth-Canton School District has continued to provide in the face of increasing space and financial challenges.

Quality education does not result from just warehousing students, but from responding to the ever-changing times in which we live. If the educational community did not change with the times, we would still be using chalk and slates and one-room school houses. The educational system that was in place in the '60s and '70s will not work in the '90s.

I did not see Mr. Thomas or Mr. Kramer at the well-publicized bond forums at which many alternatives were considered, the previous high school plans were visited, and more current, applicable date was addressed. After reviewing this data, the bond that is before the community now was formed.

I am unclear as to the direction Mr. Thomas feels the Plymouth-Canton school district should be moving in. However, I am clear I would not want my children educated in an environment of overcrowding and constant reaction rather than proaction to ever-increasing enrollments. I believe the Plymouth-Canton school district has a strong reputation for providing excellent educational opportunities to all students, and passage of this bond will ensure continuation of this standing.

for operations. County officials expect to receive an estimated $2 million in grants. The general fund will finance $250,000 worth of improvements.

Most of the projects are scheduled for fiscal years 1996-97 and 1997-98, except several projects slated through 2001. Those improvements include the purchase of park machinery and equipment, park office equipment and picnic area improvements, landscaping at Bennett Arboretum in Northville, two street hockey rinks and the public seating/entertainment area at Elizabeth Park in Trenton, Chandler Park improvements and the interpretive center at Crosswinds Marsh in Sumpter Township.

Here's a summary of park improvements between 1997-2001:

Hines Park

Design and construction-improvements of 10 picnic areas for new pavilions, playscapes and upgrade of rest rooms ($2 million)

Nankin Mills Interpretive Center in Westland ($1 million)

Bennett Arboretum-Northville ($80,000)

Development week marks national grant program

Wayne County Executive Edward McNamara has designated March 24-30 as Community Development Week in Wayne County. The designation is in conjunction with a national celebration of the Community Development Block Grant (CDBG) program.

The program is administered locally by Wayne County in partnership with the U.S. Department of Housing & Urban Development.

A consortium of 30 Wayne County communities have received more than $32 million in federal funds through Wayne County's Community Development Block Grant program. Since 1987, the following Observer communities have received the following amounts: Garden City, nearly $1.2 million; Plymouth, $688,498, and Plymouth Township, $1 million.

Wayne County communities with populations over 50,000 people --Canton Township, Detroit, Dearborn, Dearborn Heights, Livonia, Redford Township, Taylor and Westland -- receive block grant money directly from HUD, as does Lincoln Park.

HUD funding for the county's block grant program will total $3.7 million in 1997, McNamara said. Block grants are disbursed to participating communities based on demographics and population, McNamara said.

Eligible projects range from neighborhood improvements and housing rehabilitation to infrastructure improvements and senior citizen services.

Project applications are reviewed and approved by a 16-member Advisory Council, made up of elected officials from the 30 communities participating in the program.

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

Be part of change

This past week, the Citizens Election Committee sponsored a luncheon for senior citizens of the Plymouth-Canton community at the Rock Cafe at Salem High School. This was an opportunity for these guests to see first hand the many activities and educational endeavors that take place at the educational park.

The guests were served a delicious lunch planned and prepared by the students who participate in the Food Service Occupations program as part of the curriculum of the high school complex. Under the direction of Carey Gary, who coordinates the Culinary Arts program, the guests at the luncheon were impressed by the lunch served graciously by the student staff of the Rock Cafe. The student staff were very attentive to the guests and were great ambassadors for the students of the complex.

In addition, a saxophone quartet from the band program entertained everyone with some jazz tunes and Big Band selections. To add to the entertainment at the luncheon, the Madrigal Chorus sang several songs that were wonderful.

The afternoon was a wonderful display of the talents and personalities of the students at our high schools. The citizens of this community need to know that these students are representative of the majority of the students at the high school complex.

Citizens of this community should become more involved in opportunities at the high school complex, and all the community schools, as we are all part of the educational system in this community. "It takes a village" to educate our children. The community spirit that envelopes the Plymouth-Canton community is often the magnet that draws people to this community. We are that village, that diverse group of people who can work together to continue to build a strong educational system.

But many people who have concerns about this bond issue don't seem to be concerned about the community as a whole. Several people who frequently write editorials complain about the bond proposal without any evidence of their presence at the community forum and bond proposal process. Their comments were delivered after many attempts were made to elicit ideas from the community.

Many say that the forum process is not representative of the entire community. It is, however, representative of those people who are truly interested in the education of the children in this community. I made the time despite three jobs, three masters classes and thesis writing to attend to the bond proposal, as it directly impacts the future education of my children.

We should not be about complaining, but about participating in change. A prominent former board member continues to complain about the bond proposal, but was not at the forums or any other developmental meetings to add insight into the decision-making process and be a part of the community process for change.

Another recent editorial writer believes that our children are "guinea pigs" in the integration of additional computer technology. Please wake up sir! We are soon to enter a new millennium. Computer technology is long past experimentation. I am pleased that we are looking to the future in the education of our children and preparing them to succeed in the future.

Change is very difficult for many people. The growth we see in these communities is a huge change from the small community that many of us know. The outcome, we all know, is that new schools are needed. Let's support the bond issue, then work on the process of developing the details of what we want. The growth in this community is something we can't change. Instead of fighting it, we need to be involved and work toward the positive and planned growth in our schools. There's a lot of work to be done in the development of new schools once the bond is passed. Be involved in this change, make it work for you. Look to the future of education in this community and don't fight the change in population that has already taken place. Be a part of the change by voting for the bond on March 22.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Let kids benefit

Glenn Kremer, who wrote a letter to the editor that appeared in the Feb. 27, Observer, is entitled to feel that the bond issue is unnecessary. He has a right to vote against it.

He does not have the right to state as fact, misconceptions and downright misstatements.

Glenn wrote, "I am being told to cough up another $80 million in taxes. The fact is no one is telling him to cough up anything, least of all, $80 million. The Plymouth Canton Schools is placing a ballot proposal before the electorate in March that would increase Kremer's taxes by approximately $88 if the value of his house is $100,000, and $175 if the value is $200,000.

Glenn's proposal that only Canton residents who are moving into a new house pay a "future schools fee" is patently discriminatory. People move into new houses in each of our government areas, adding to our space problems. Everyone benefits from good schools, even those with no children at all. Everyone is a stakeholder. Everyone should contribute financially to education, according to his or her means; not according to geography.

Mr. Kremer is pitting Canton residents against residents from other areas in the district. Divisiveness is disabling; to promote it is in nobody's interest.

Dr. Little has never equated the building of new schools with the failure of any one child, nor for that matter with the failure of children in general. He and the staffs in Plymouth- Canton Schools are dedicated to delivering quality education whether in crowded or uncrowded conditions. But crowding anywhere has negative consequences. It puts a strain on resources, on commonly used areas and on people. It does not allow for as much individuality nor for as great a sense of identity.

Mr. Kremer wants contingency plans and many have been proposed in letters to the editor. Almost all of the contingency plans proposed were tried before. I was here for modular scheduling, 9th grade school, 6th grade to elementary school/9th grade to Middle School, 45/15 years round school. Some were disasters in terms of quality education; all of them took their toll in terms of the above-mentioned stress on people and resources. One definition of contingency is, "not logically necessary." If a contingency plan was the best possible solution to a problem, it wouldn't be a contingency plan.

His declaration to the contrary, Mr. Kremer does not pay Dr. Little's salary. Everybody's taxes, including Dr. Little's, pay salaries. This means educators need to take into account taxpayers' concerns and incorporate them into planning. The community survey, the forums held, the district committees participating in decision making; these were all avenues for extensive taxpayer input. More taxpayer input is gathered, considered and acted on than ever before in the 27 years I've worked in this district.

The Plymouth-Canton district will have more growth to come. Eventually, subdivisions will be continuous from Plymouth to Ann Arbor. We will build new schools. The question is when? Now, at today's prices, or down the road at even higher cost? Now, so our children can benefit from conditions that enhance learning, or down the road when our children are out of school?

Maureen Murphy

assistant principal, West Middle School

It's imperative

I am writing this letter to voice my support for the upcoming bond issue which will be before the Plymouth-Canton school district voter on March 22.

Over the past year I have served on the Long Range Planning Committee of the school district and I have learned first-hand of the crisis facing the district, and in particular, its students.

Every single person in the community has a stake in the education of our youth.

The necessity of additional school buildings and technology improvement should be as evident as the striking growth in residential homeowners in this area. The current structures available are not sufficient to match the population increase that this area has seen over the last 10 years and is projected to see into the indefinite future.

To maintain this area as an attractive location for homeowners, parents and children, I would urge that the citizens of the Plymouth-Canton school district vote yes on the bond proposal.

Brian Broderick

Plymouth

Intelligent choice

The proposed bond issue for the Plymouth-Canton Community Schools has brought out many opinions, especially related to the need for a new high school and elementary school. It is interesting that few dispute the need for more classrooms.

Our obligation to children is to provide an excellent educational experience with the support of taxpayers, parents, community and staff. To do this we have gone to great lengths to involve all parties in the decision-making process.

I attended the community forums and was in favor of placing a third high school off the PCEP site. Much to my dismay, the community consensus was to place the third high school near the current high schools - at the Joy-Beck Road intersection. Investigation into the availability of an alternative location away from the PCEP was not encouraging. Few sites were available. They were not conducive to an educational facility and were costly. More importantly, students would not have access to the vast educational opportunities at the current high schools. Locating the third school at Joy and Beck does not necessarily answer the size perception but does provide the wonderful learning opportunities that currently exist.

The challenge will be for students, staff and parents to have a more personalized program by participating in the commitment to student services.

The flexibility of converting the elementary school to a middle school is good planning and offers opportunities for future decision makers.

The bond proposal involved all sorts of people in the deliberation of the proposal. I am encouraged to see the talent and expertise of our community applied to decisions affecting all of us. The citizens election committee is comprised of financial-business, professional and educational experts, people who are genuinely concerned for the community and the tax burden this proposal puts forth. They have put in many hours in getting information out to the people in a clear and concise manner. Their philosophy is to get the information out to people and allow them to make their decision without the use of threats.

As board of education member, I see this as the best way to get the message out to you. We are doing everything possible to allow voters to make an intelligent choice.

Special program aims to help senior citizens

Senior citizens soon can work with local law enforcement agencies to design crime prevention programs that best suit their needs.

Sheriff Robert Ficano assured older people that they will not have to tolerate furnace or other contractual scams now that Wayne County has initiated The Right Information And Direction (TRIAD) program.

The TRIAD programs are developed by a council of senior representatives called Seniors And Law Enforcement Together (SALT) Council.

The SALT Council is responsible for gathering information from their peers about their needs, and representatives from the Sheriff's office and local police departments act as advisors, helping to facilitate the programs.

One woman, a Wayne County resident, needed repairs to her furnace, according to Sheriff Robert Ficano. She contacted a company, and was told that she needed to put down a deposit, and she did. That was the last she saw of her money, or the furnace repairman.

Representatives from the Wayne County's Sheriffs office have met with senior advocacy groups and over 22 local police departments who have expressed an interest in signing on with TRIAD.

Wayne County has been divided into five separate regions to better serve the needs of seniors in those areas, Ficano said.

Currently 12 TRIAD programs operate in Michigan.

Seniors interested in the program can contact Officer Eugene Wright of the Wayne County Sheriff Department at an interim phone number until a hotline is completed within the next few weeks. Wright's number is (313) 224-0618.

Students to study Yellowstone via satellite link

BY MARIE CHESTNEY
STAFF WRITER

Western Wayne County students are among the 25,000 Michigan students who will soon use the latest in technology to travel to remote locations in Yellowstone National Park and Iceland - without ever leaving their seats.

From April 28-May 9, students from Westland, Canton Township and Garden City will be among the 3 million worldwide who are transported via live satellite link-up to the two similar "hot spots" to study glaciers, geysers, hot springs, and volcanic activity.

For Michigan residents, the complex trip takes place at Madison Heights Lamphere High School. The auditorium there has been transformed into a technological wonderland, complete with global teleconferencing, microwave and satellite technology, digital signals, fiber-optic cables, and interactive telecommunications.

"We want to excite kids about science and technology," said Bridget Gerlach, spokeswoman for Troy-based EDS, one of the sponsors of the technological trip for students in grades 4-12. EDS provides the communications system that links students and teachers to the expedition site.

"We want them to see that science is fun and exciting and not so dry."

So far, Western Wayne County students attending are from Huron Valley Lutheran High in Westland, Erikson Elementary in Canton Township, and Douglas and Henry Ruff schools in Garden City.

But space is still available; teachers should call Pat Thornberry at EDS at 810-265-2276 to reserve a spot. The free program runs each weekday for two weeks at the following times: 10 a.m., 11:30 a.m., 1 p.m., 2:30 p.m., and 4 p.m.

At the four schools, teachers have been using curriculum that dovetails with the science talked about in the program, called the JASON VIII project and named after the mythological adventurer who searched for the Golden Fleece.

"That makes the broadcast more meaningful," Gerlach said.

For eight years now, under the tutelage of its founder, oceanographer Robert Ballard, the JASON project has taken students on a scientific exploration to the far reaches of the earth.

This year, the journey is to Yellowstone National Park and Iceland, two regions similar geologically. Both sit on "hot spots"; both are examples of the explosive power of water and rock beneath the earth's surface. Students will find out first hand what happens when fire and ice collide. "Old Faithful" in Yellowstone is one example of a "hot spot" below the earth's surface.

The focus of the program is movement: how land moves because of the hot spots underground, and how people and animals move because of the movement of land.

During the one-hour program, students and teachers can actually talk to expedition scientists broadcasting from both remote locations.

"JASON pushes the limit of technology," Gerlach said. "Students can ask scientists questions. They get to explore and compare two geologically unique locations. This is the ultimate trip."

County parks plan marshmallow drop March 28

Wayne County officials predict a blizzard of thousands of marshmallows falling from the sky when they team up with WNIC-FM 100 on Friday, March 28, to host the Great Marshmallow Drop. The event is scheduled at two Wayne County parks locations: Elizabeth Park in Trenton at 9 a.m. and Nankin Mills in Westland at 11 a.m.

Marshmallows will be dropped from a helicopter, much to the delight of hundreds of children who will scramble to collect the sweet treats and turn them in for a prize-filled egg. Children will be divided into age groups to collect their share of the marshmallow treats.

"This is a Wayne County parks tradition that is in its 12th year," Wayne County Executive Edward McNamara. "It is the official kickoff for several family events that will take place this spring and summer."

Admission is free, so come and enjoy the fun. For more information on this or any Wayne County parks event, call (313) 261-1990.

Do You Have Ringing in Your Ears?

Barbara J. Douglas M.A. CCC Certified Audiologist and Licensed Hearing Aid Dealer
An estimated 50 million American adults experience ringing in the ears, or tinnitus. People with tinnitus hear a sound when no external physical sound is present. The sound may vary from a low roar to a high-pitched sound that is occasional or constant.
For some, this is merely a nuisance. For others, it's a chronic condition that causes loss of concentration, sleep problems and psychological distress. It can also cause a deteriorating hearing condition or balance disorder to appear worse.
While the cause of tinnitus is not known, almost everything that can go wrong with the ear has tinnitus associated with it, from wax on the eardrum to acoustic tumors. Tinnitus can also be brought on by exposure to excessive noise.
Tinnitus often accompanies hearing loss, but it does not mean that the patient will become deaf.
If you think you have tinnitus, consult an otologist to determine if it is the result of a medical condition. If no medical condition exists, see your local audiologist for treatment.
Treatments range from reducing caffeine intake to using medication and relaxation techniques to wearing hearing aids or masking devices.

*"Prime Rate" is the highest rate shown as the Prime Rate in the Money Rate Table of The Wall Street Journal. For home equity installment loans, Prime Rate will be determined at the time of the loan. The Prime-or-Better Loan is a 36-month, fixed-rate home equity loan. The current Annual Percentage Rate (APR) is 8.25%. To obtain this rate, you must have payments automatically deducted from a checking or savings account and must have an Old Kent Preference or OnLine Checking Account. The loan is payable in 36 equal monthly payments. For example, a $10,000 loan would require 36 payments of $314.51. Applies to 80% loan-to-value loans only.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Are there other solutions?

I would like to add my voice to the debate on the upcoming bond election. Once again, we are being asked to give more money for education. We are told that a "yes" vote means we are for education. Implicitly, then, a "no" vote means we are against education? I challenge each voter to go beyond the rhetoric and think through the issues surrounding the March 22 bond vote.

The following things are included in the proposal: "acquiring school buses; partially remodeling, furnishing equipping and re-equipping school facilities, partially reconstructing and remodeling existing athletic facilities, and developing and improving the sites; and acquiring, installing and equipping new and existing school facilities for technology, in part, for classroom computers."

In my opinion, these items should be covered out of the current operating budget. Instead, we are being asked to take out a long-term loan to pay for things that will be "used up" long before the final payment is due. That would be like charging your groceries on your VISA, or remortgaging your house to paint it and plant some flowers. I do not think any successful financial advisor would agree that this makes sense. And I also do not think you would find a successful teacher who would say that these changes, in and of themselves, guarantee quality education.

One of the reasons given for voting "yes" to this mileage is property values - quality education means higher property values. I would submit that it is not quality education, but the perception of quality education, that drives property values.

In my work, I get to meet people from throughout the state. When we get around to talking about where we live, schools, etc., inevitably they will tell me what good schools Plymouth-Canton has. Would they say this if they knew my fifth grade son repeatedly receives A's and A+'s on work that is far from perfect and, in fact, riddled with errors? For example, on a recent test, my son was asked to draw 15 states, label them with correct spelling, and, for extra credit, add the states' capitals. My son brought the test home, proud of the A+ he received. I was appalled when I studied this test and found that 5 states were out of place and 8 capitals were spelled incorrectly. Is this A+ work? This is not an isolated incident, but just one of many examples of the "quality" education my son is receiving.

Neither a new bus, a better athletic facility, nor a classroom computer can fix this problem. So, even if the passage of this bond gives Plymouth-Canton schools the "look" of a quality school district, it doesn't mean that the students are receiving a quality education.

I know I am expressing a potentially unpopular opinion; however, I hope it is taken seriously. Dave Artley recently had a letter to the community in which he told us how the community had been listened to. It is very easy to listen to people who are saying what you want to hear; it takes character to listen to people with a different point of view. Have the alternate voices been listened to in this community?

Remember the parents of young elementary students who were concerned about their children not being able to read? Were they heard and responded to, or did they just give up and go away? What about the parents who were concerned about their children's safety at the PCEP? Were their fears taken seriously, or were they just told that there wasn't a problem?

Former school board member Roland Thomas has raised some very compelling issues about the whole bond proposal. Has he been listened to and taken seriously?

I would ask each citizen to think hard about their vote. Do not get caught up in the feeling that, if you value education, then you must vote "yes." I have three sons, and their education is my top priority.

This vote is not about whether we need new school buildings. I think everyone would agree that, with the rate of growth in the Plymouth-Canton area in the last 10 years, new schools are inevitable.

This vote is about how best to spend money, not about education. Is the plan that the school board has adopted the best overall use of money? Are there other solutions that are less costly? That's the question to be answered in this election. How are you going to pay for your groceries this week? How do you want your education dollars to be spent?

Christa Hitchock
Plymouth

Contact board office

I would like to thank Judy Evola, public relations director for the Plymouth-Canton school district, for her help in clarifying the bond proposal which has drawn so much heated discussion.

Ms. Evola came to the home of a friend of mine, and answered the questions of some 15 people, who had gathered to gain insight into this controversial issue. I strongly recommend that voters who need a better understanding of the bond issue contact the district office and either speak to Judy or arrange for her to address their questions in a group format.

As a parent who has participated in community forums and still remained bewildered by the Observer's reports of what this bond is to accomplish, I respectfully request this newspaper to verify its information prior to printing. There are people at the district office who would be happy to provide FACTS rather than see rumors printed.

Remember, the current superintendent and many of the administrative staff at the district level are not responsible for the mess we are in. They've only been on board about 18 months. The problems we face were begun before Dr. Little joined us. It is unfair to blame him for leadership problems. I do know he is trying to solve these problems and many, many others.

If voters would work with, rather than against, this group of administrators, much better results could be achieved. Proposal A harmed our district, plain and simple. We are receiving more than $3,000 LESS per pupil than neighboring districts, yet we are growing at a rapid rate. Also, we're paid for an averaged number of students, not on current enrollment. This means we have students for which no money is received at all.

We taxpayers have no control over our own school revenues, which do not have anything to do with property taxes or new construction. Funding is determined at the state level, not by our district staff.

I am concerned about the negative attitudes in my community regarding our schools. We need to send a message to Lansing that our voters urgently want better schools, and that can only be done through our "YES" vote on the upcoming bond proposal.

If we keep defeating proposals to improve our schools, we are telling the state that we don't care about education. Do we think they will step in to solve problems that we ourselves will not?

Again, if voters would simply contact the district office, they can receive factual information, including where the monies are coming from and where funds will be spent, from this proposal.

Don't go out and vote "No" on this issue if you care about our children. Don't vote "No" if you care about your property values. Vote "Yes" and take a stand on behalf of our kids and our future as a community, for our reputation will fall if our schools are allowed to deteriorate further.

Call 416-2700 to arrange to speak with Judy. She is an informed, articulate person who is an asset to our community. I thank her for giving me the facts I needed to make an informed decision!

Marnie Holdefer
Canton

Give kids a gift

Perhaps I should address this letter to my dear fellow senior citizens since I want to state why I feel we senior citizens who own homes and pay taxes to the Plymouth-Canton school district should vote YES for the school bond proposal on March 22; as should others who reside here and do not own property.

Let me state at the beginning that I favor the bond issue and will vote for it because it is needed and needed now. Speaking as a person who has been deeply involved in school affairs for over 25 years as a volunteer and a school board member, I have studied the proposal carefully and I am convinced it is the right thing at the right time.

My other reasons are:

- Most of us who are retired find our largest, single investment is our home. Public knowledge that schools are good keeps property values up and increasing. A reputation for having poor or inadequate schools make houses hard to sell and drives the value down.
- The schools have provided a good education for many of us, for our children and for some of our grandchildren. Shouldn't we give as much back to education as we have received from it? Other paid taxes and made sacrifices for us to be educated, shouldn't we repay that by supporting the continuation of high quality education where we live?
- Good schools are very signficant forces in maintaining a stable and orderly community for us to live in. Full school days mean children in school where they should be. We need that for their security and ours.
- A yes vote on this proposal can be our contribution to all of these children who really deserve the best education we can manage. If properly educated they will be ready to fill the important roles for tomorrow and be the strength of our country as we enter the next thousand years of America.
- Finally passing this bond proposal is a gift we can give to the next generation. It is our legacy to them which will say we cared as much for them as for ourselves.

I urge my fellow seniors to join me in voting yes for a better today and tomorrow in the Canton and Plymouth areas. Please go vote on March 22 for kids.

Ameritech asks CWW to wait for telephone line statistics

By Ken Abramczyk
Staff Writer

Officials in western Wayne County communities will have to wait at least another month before they find out from Ameritech how many billable telephone lines exist in their communities.

Dan York, a quality service manager with Ameritech, apologized Friday to the Conference of Western Wayne, a consortium of mayors and township supervisors from 18 communities, for not having more information for them.

Wayne County residents are hit with a 48-cent user charge for 911 services. That money is collected by Ameritech, then turned over to communities for specific use in 911 services, such as dispatcher salaries and 911 equipment, according to CWW Executive Director Marsha Bianconi.

The 18 communities receive about $187,000 annually for equipment, Bianconi said.

Because that revenue translates into money for communities, CWW members want to know how many billable access lines exist in each community.

York said Ameritech's computers "weren't big enough" to count all the billable access lines, and that Ameritech may have to devise a way to count the lines. He hoped to have more information next month.

York's responses did not sit well with CWW chairman and Westland Mayor Bob Thomas. Thomas said the group was becoming impatient.

"I cannot accept the fact that you don't know the number of these," Thomas said. "If you've got the capacity to bill them, you ought to know how many are billed in that city."

State Rep. Robert Brown, D-Dearborn Heights, who once worked at Ameritech, actually was in attendance to discuss legislative matters. Brown said the data was there.

"But it's a hard thing to extract in a report form," Brown said. Brown said he would look at the issue from a legislative perspective.

York expected to return in April to the next CWW meeting.

CWW watches issues

The CWW executive committee has decided on three priority issues for 1997: transportation, revenue sharing and personal property taxes.

Several legislators have introduced bills seeking to increase transportation funding. State Rep. Thomas Kelly, D-Wayne, has introduced House Bill 4147. (See related story.)

Another bill would allow communities to decide how to allocate road dollars in their own community, while another would require the state to match funds raised by local roads millage.

State budget

Gov. John Engler's 1997-98 proposed state budget would divert $30 million of the growth portion of revenue sharing to road funding.

The Michigan Municipal League, a coalition of Michigan communities that lobbies state lawmakers on pending legislation, opposes this measure since it does not provide any genuine road funding and substitutes unrestricted revenue sharing for restricted funds.

The CWW also will be examining any legislation dealing with personal property taxes. Local governments generally are unwilling to agree to phase out the tax until they are assured of replacement revenue.

The MML also opposes any reduction in personal property taxes unless state revenue generated by those taxes and distributed to communities is replaced.

Consortium backs road bill

By Ken Abramczyk
Staff Writer

An 18-member consortium of city leaders from western Wayne County communities passed a resolution Friday supporting legislation that would eliminate fund transfers from the Michigan transportation fund to other agencies.

The Conference of Western Wayne is a consortium of 18 communities from western Wayne County represented by mayors and township supervisors. The cities of Belleville, Dearborn, Dearborn Heights, Garden City, Inkster, Livonia, Northville, Plymouth, Romulus, Wayne and Westland and the townships of Canton, Huron, Northville, Plymouth, Redford, Sumpter and Van Buren.

Introduced by state Rep. Thomas Kelly, D-Garden City, House Bill 4147 would reserve $108 million in the Michigan Transportation Fund for road and bridge projects.

"This proposal would stop other state agencies from dipping into the transportation fund," Kelly said. "Eight state departments have been receiving about $108 million per year from the fund — an amount about equal to the revenue that would be generated by a 2-cent per gallon increase in the state motor fuel taxes."

In 1996, the Department of State received $86 million for collecting vehicle registration/license fees, Department of Treasury obtained $6 million for the collection of motor fuel taxes, and State Police received $6.5 million for motor carrier enforcement.

Kelly told CWW members he wants state departments to go through the appropriations committees rather than using the transportation fund's grant system.

"They go in and take cash, use it to run their departments, and send whatever's left back to the fund," Kelly said. "I'm trying to stop that."

Under the current system state departments are not accountable for their expenditures, Kelly said. Transportation funds should be used specifically for roads and bridges, Kelly said.

Kelly expects his bill will be approved by the state House, possibly as early as this week. He encouraged CWW members to contact state senators, as he was uncertain of the bill's fate before that group of lawmakers.

"That's where your help is really going to be needed," Kelly said.

The resolution was passed unanimously with the following communities in attendance: the cities of Belleville, Dearborn, Garden City, Inkster, Livonia, Wayne and Westland, and the townships of Plymouth, Redford, Sumpter and Van Buren.

The meeting was held the morning after an ice storm hit the Detroit area.

Bond election

Get out and vote Saturday

It's been an intense month and a half since the Plymouth-Canton Community Schools Board of Education finalized a plan and approved ballot language for its $79.7 million bond proposal.

The day everyone has been waiting for comes this Saturday, March 22. We hope no one sits home and passes up the opportunity to cast a ballot in this election.

If passed, the bond will pay for the construction of a new high school near the Plymouth-Canton Educational Park, an elementary school in Canton, infrastructure improvements at schools in Plymouth and Canton, new buses, improved classroom technology and computers.

The Observer urges district residents to cast a Yes vote Saturday. The community has spoken and a manageable class size in this growing district is the top priority.

The proposed bond amount is not out-of-line with what other southeastern Michigan school districts have requested for similar improvements.

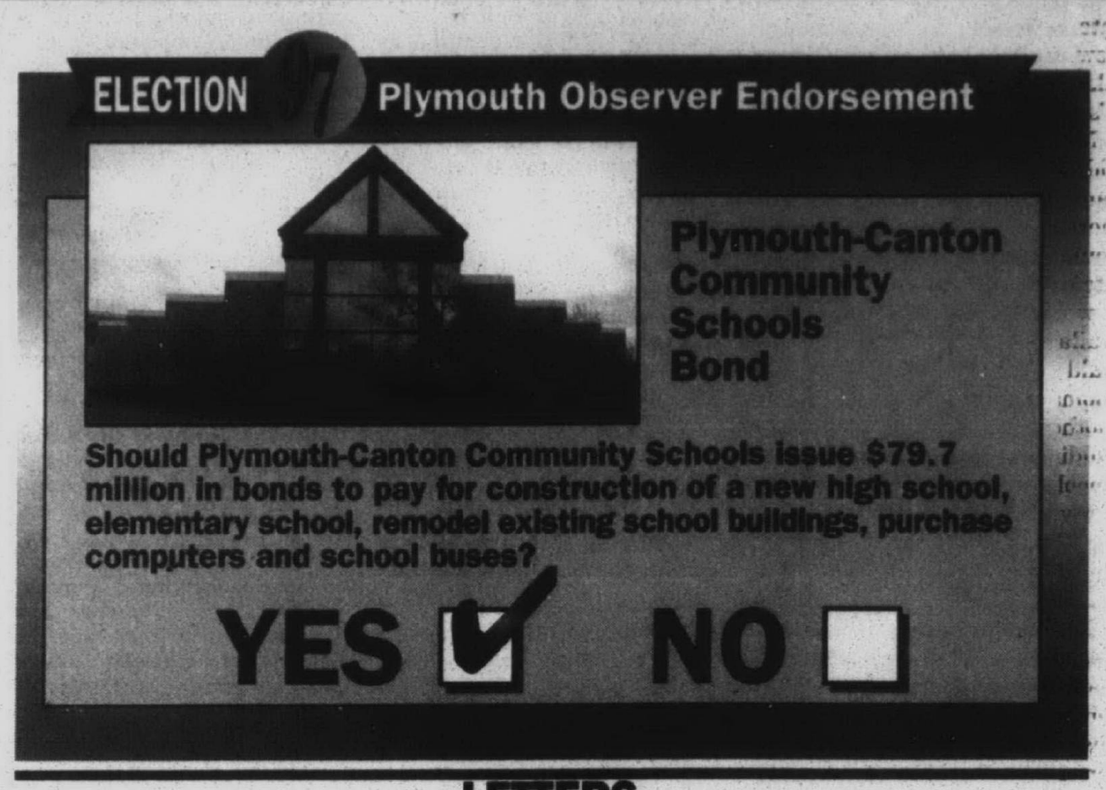
The proposed new schools would account for about three-quarters of the bond money. The bonds would be repaid over 25 years. The owner of a $200,000 house would pay an additional $175 in property taxes in the first year.

The board of education wisely selected a Saturday for the election with the hope that unlike busy weekdays, voters will get out and cast their ballots.

The many volunteers who gave of their time to make phone calls and get out in the community to provide information about the bond must be thanked for their tenacity and patience.

Remember to check your voter registration card to see where you must vote. School district precincts are not the same as those you vote at for municipal and other general elections.

Polls are open 7 a.m. to 8 p.m. Your presence is required. If you don't get out Saturday and vote, you really have no business complaining about the outcome of the election.



FOIA needs sharper teeth

■ House Republicans, we note with satisfaction, are beginning to distance themselves from the secrecy practices of Gov. John Engler's administration.

The state House of Representatives has barely begun to repair the damage to Michigan's Freedom of Information Act that was done in the wee hours of the morning by the lame-duck session of the 1996 Legislature.

A House committee has reported out House Bill 4339 to restore FOIA's original purpose: to inform all persons of "the affairs of government and the official acts of those who represent them as public officials and public employees."

That is far broader than the midnight purpose that lawmakers substituted last year – "governmental decision-making." The narrower purpose, due to become law at the end of March unless fixed, could be interpreted to cut off public records about toxic wastes and incompetent licensees because "decisions" aren't involved.

Rep. Greg Kaza, R-Rochester Hills, took the blame, as floor manager, for allowing the bad bill to pass without closer inspection. He has started the partial repair job.

But while the worst of the damage seems likely to be repaired, there are other "take-away" provisions in the 1996 law that should be repaired. Those provisions allow sneaky officials to frustrate the public by delaying responses to public requests for public records and by jacking up the price.

The 1976 FOIA said officials should respond "immediately." The bad new law removes the key word, encouraging officials to delay for five days.

It's curious: If a police officer stops you on a country road, he asks for your license and registration, goes back to his car, enters the information on a small computer, and has your records from Lansing at his fingertips in three minutes.

But when a citizen goes to a police station for a record, the standard response is: "Come back in a week. We're very busy." That kind of public-be-damned delay tactic should be stopped. Police departments are custodians of public records, just as libraries are, and need to adopt the "may-I-help-you" attitude of librarians.

The new law allows public agencies to charge for "research" at a wage of the lowest-qualified person able to retrieve the record.

Superficially, this seems fair – until you consider that suburban police departments gouge the customer by charging $1, $2, $5 per page for a Xerox copy that costs 10 cents in a library and 5 cents at an office-supply or party store.

The Legislature should put a cap on copying costs for standard 8-by-11 and 8-by-14 inch copies. A dime per page is plenty.

Standard operating procedure seems to be to charge a minimum of a half-hour for routine public records requests. Again, compare that to the cop in the squad car on a country road who can get the records he needs in three minutes.

House Republicans, we note with satisfaction, are beginning to distance themselves from the secrecy practices of Gov. John Engler's administration. Engler's legal counsel said the change to the purpose of FOIA was "stylistic" and "irrelevant" – a whopper that no one in the Capitol Building, in city halls and school offices believes.

The administration's anti-public attitude was spelled out in the Secchia Commission's report on making government more efficient. It spent half a chapter on "counterproductive laws" denouncing our public records law, advocating more barriers and secrecy.

Michigan's FOIA was written in 1976 as a compliance law, dependent on the good will of public officials, rather than fear of punishment, for enforcement. The good will isn't there, either in big city governments like Detroit's or in suburban councils and police departments.

The Legislature needs to put teeth in the law. When you ask to see public records, you are exercising a right and performing a civic duty by scrutinizing the activities of public officials. You shouldn't be treated as if you are "interfering with official business."

Principal responds

My name is Thomas Owens, the actual principal of Pioneer Middle School. Pat King was erroneously identified on Thursday, March 6, by the editorial staff of the Observer as the Pioneer Middle School principal. I would like to take the opportunity to respond to the comments of Pat King and subsequently let my community know where I stand on the current school bond issue.

Apparently, King is not aware of the numerous districts throughout the state that are a combination of two cities. In Wayne County alone, there are the Wayne-Westland and the Melvindale-North Allen Park school districts. This type of district was conceived when our state was more rural in its character and farmers needed the support of the local villages to help educate their children.

I recall hearing about these days in our community's history when all of Canton Township was called Plymouth; a time when Canton Township was one of these farm communities that relied heavily on Plymouth for its schools; a time when my own grandmother, a Canton Township resident, had to ride her horse and buggy to school to be educated in the city of Plymouth; a time when the residents of Plymouth supported the residents of Canton Township and vice versa. Prior to the turn of this century, this community made choices to band together as one, long before Canton Township knew the definition of "subdivision."

When the original high school burned in January 1917, the residents of both Canton Township and Plymouth banded together to rebuild a stronger, larger and state-of-the-art (by 1917 standards) high school. My grandmother was a senior that year. It took everyone in this "village" to make that reality happen. If my grandmother were alive today, she would be out marching to ensure that we continue to grow and band together as one. When we create divisiveness throughout our own community, we allow turmoil to grow and prosper.

King also states in the editorial that over the last 20 years, Canton Township's student population has been a strain on the school district. Actually, because of the growth of Canton Township, our school district has continued to grow and prosper in numerous ways that have benefited our district. Without Canton Township, we would not have the numbers to have a top nationally ranked band. Without Canton Township, we would not have the Class A standards that we have come to cherish for the children of our district. Without Canton Township, our size could not constitute a district with the legislative clout it currently has in Lansing. Because of the growth of Canton Township we have not had to close schools and go through the turmoil and upheaval that districts to our east have had to agonize over in recent years.

As we look toward the 21st century, our community needs to continue to band together, as the original landowners of our community did in 1917, to ensure that our young people continue to get the education that they desperately need to be productive citizens. A positive YES vote will ensure that they are given every opportunity to be educated to the best of the "village's" ability.

I would strongly urge King and all those opposed to the bond issue to re-evaluate their position.

Thomas Owens
Pioneer Middle School principal

Why more money?

Why is it that Catholic schools at the average cost of about $2,000 for an elementary student, and of $3,000 for a high-school student, provide superior education as compared to public schools. In public schools the average cost is about $7,000 per student.

Maybe the board of education and the superintendent, instead of asking millage after millage increases, and bond issues, first should learn how Catholic schools do it, and do likewise. Pumping more and more money into the system will not necessarily benefit the students to any significant extent, but rather will benefit construction firms, banks, brokerages, and those who work in the system.

We are continually conditioned to believe that all society's problems can be solved with more money. In most situations there are other, better ways that require no money at all. We will not be doing any favor to our children if we senselessly spend now, and burden them with huge debt which they will be paying back most, or all of their lives.

And there are additional tax monies collected due to property valuation increases every year; also additional monies received from taxes on newly built houses. Isn't that enough?

Thomas plan falls short

It appears that Mr. Roland Thomas and I agree on one fact: The Plymouth-Canton Community Schools need more classrooms to accommodate the growth in our community. However, Mr. Thomas' plan does not take into consideration the community's needs and desires.

Mr. Thomas' proposal to build an additional classroom building at the Canton and Salem High Schools is a short-term solution at best. We would be remiss if we failed to take into consideration the current growth as well as the buildable land still available in all our communities. I could not justify approval of the Thomas plan then turn around in another five years to ask for another building or worse, another high school.

My worst fear is that voters will ask, "You knew of the vast growth, why did you not ask for more schools?"

Research exists that students learn measurably less in high schools larger than 2,100 students. The P-CEP student enrollment is already beyond this number. As well as our students perform now, imagine how much better they could perform in a smaller environment.

By locating the third high school at the southeast corner of Joy and Beck Road, students will be able to enjoy the many learning opportunities at the P-CEP and still alleviate the concentration of students in one general area.

P-CEP teachers, administrators and parents were given several opportunities to contribute to the bond proposal. Three community forums were held and staff from the P-CEP were present. An additional opportunity was given specifically to the staff and parents at the P-CEP.

Mr. Thomas said that the construction cost of Tonda and Bentley was $4.5 million each in 1991 compared to $9.7 million for the proposed new elementary school. In fact, the cost to build Tonda and Bentley was $5.7 million each and the bond project includes $7 million to build the new elementary school. Also, in the 1991 bond, property was strategically purchased to accommodate the high-growth areas similar to the 1997 bond proposal.

Thirty years ago our board of education had the wisdom to purchase property throughout the district for the benefit of future generations. Their wisdom has provided us with the framework we have today. The flexibility of converting the elementary school to a middle school is good planning and offers opportunities for future decision makers.

I fully and wholeheartedly support the district's initiative to involve the entire community in the decision-making process surrounding the bond proposal. Experts in the finance, business and professional fields were involved in community forums and the steering committee. Their talents have helped to develop and deliver clear and concise information to the public. These people are genuinely concerned for the community and the tax burden this proposal puts forth.

Although I have a great deal of respect for Mr. Roland Thomas and his years of service to this community, I support the community forums, the Bond Steering Committee and the Citizens' Election Committee in their diligent efforts to bring before the voters the best solution to accommodate the students of this district. Please remember to vote on Saturday, March 22, 1997.

It's not compelling

I hope teachers will appreciate their new toys: computers, Internet access, screaming fast machines, e-mail, desktop publishing. Wow, what a great new perk.

I just wish that this perk was presented up front as one of the reasons to get computers, instead of hiding behind the other reason, "it's for your child's success." If computers weren't agreed to in a backroom, unwritten clause to the last union contract, I sure hope the district can use this new perk as a negotiating point in the next contract talks.

Computer learning software for children in school has not advanced enough. It is in its infancy. There has not been enough time in the marketplace for the best software manufacturers to filter up to the top. It's a new, wide open field. The very recent studies and knowledge gained about how kids learn best on software are brand new and are just being tried. The knowledge is only recently being integrated back into new software that encourages program solving, reacts to a child's learning level, and entices imaginative thinking – those attributes that are a solid part of a good curriculum. Only now is some software going beyond simple supplemental practice work and attention-demanding graphics.

With the recent introduction of network computers, buying full-scale desktop computers is questionable as a wise decision. These new terminals allow full access to the Internet and PC software access, at about one-fourth the price of a new computer. Since these devices, like learning software, are on the leading edge of development and haven't matured as a product, wouldn't it be wise to wait five years and assess the state of technology first while focusing money on successful, more traditional resources?

Computers are most valuable in vocational ed classes or as an elective above the 10th grade and should remain there until further development occurs.

The arguments presented to date, the value of a computer in 1997 below the 10th grade, and the general public opinion today "that our educational results are not as good as 10 years ago," outweigh the most recent (school) board plans, and are not yet compelling enough for me to step forward and plop down $100 a year for the next 25 years.

I don't want to be used, nor have my brand-new children used, as guinea pigs for the next five years for educators to learn how kids best learn on computers. I would rather wait for someone else to go through that hurtful learning curve, and reap the benefits of their mistakes later.

Until computers in the classroom have evolved into useful training tools that encourage problem solving and go beyond supplemental practice work, it is not compelling enough for me to invest the long-term dollars in hardware and software. Computers and software, as they are today, won't improve MEAP scores.

Look at the benefits

As you are aware the date for the vote on the bond proposal is rapidly approaching, that being Saturday, March 22. I believe when making an important decision, it is always beneficial to look at the benefits and costs.

First, I would like to address the benefits. Currently our schools have an overcrowding problem. Each high school was built to educate a maximum of 2,100 students. At this point in time, with the rapid growth in our community, they each have close to 2,300 students, and are still growing.

Many of the texts in the high schools are outdated and in poor physical condition. In fact, these texts are in such short supply, that many can't be taken out of the classroom. This is not a healthy situation for our children in this increasingly technological world.

The problems with the elementary schools being overcrowded are just as bad, and are best represented by this situation at Bentley Elementary School, where a number of lower level students go to a different school than their older brothers and sisters, because there isn't enough classroom space. Classes with over 30 students in each class have not been uncommon throughout the Canton-Plymouth School District. Kindergartners are forced to ride up to an hour on the bus going to school, and an hour coming from school.

Yet even with all these problems, and at least 35 percent of Canton Township and Plymouth Township still to be developed, and new homes to be built in these communities, there are those who say: "We don't need any more schools."

Our children soon will have to compete in the work world with children educated in Grosse Pointe, Birmingham, Ann Arbor, Northville, Novi and in Japan, Germany, China and the rest of the world. Will we provide them with the necessary tools to be able to compete and lead happy, productive lives, or will we relegate them to a lifetime of flipping burgers? These are the same children who will be our next taxpayers, and who will be providing for our social security payments.

Secondly, with regard to the cost of the bond proposal the yearly cost will be $175 for a $200,000 homeowner. This is approximately 50 cents a day. Do you feel our children's education is worth giving up one can of pop per day for your family? Is giving up one Happy Meal a week, too much to ask for the future of our children? Don't you think your parents would have given up two movie tickets per week, to further your education? In fact, don't you think they did?

I know when I was a child, everyone's parents drove their cars an extra year, wore their clothes an extra season, repaired their own clothes, didn't eat out as often, mowed their own lawns and didn't have sprinkler systems and decks. They took this money and put it into new schools, so we, the baby boomers, could enjoy an era of economic prosperity, that has never been equaled in this planet's history.

Please ask yourself the following question: "Are you going to vote "Yes" for the bond proposal and for educating our youth and maintaining our home values, or are you going to vote "No" to the future of our Plymouth Canton Schools, and our community's future?"

Democrats jostle for position as pack eyes governor's race

Don't look back, but that funny rumble in the distance is the sound of a bunch of Democratic would-be governors jostling each other in preparation for next year's primary election.

In alphabetical order and minus late-breaking news flashes, they include:

■ Jim Agee, state representative from Muskegon. A former school superintendent, Agee is widely regarded as an expert on schools and financing. For his position as chair of the House Education Committee, he has not been afraid to take on the right wing on a whole range of school issues.

■ Jim Berryman, state senator from Adrian. Although handicapped in the hunt for name ID by being a minority member of the Senate, Berryman was the first Democrat to announce his candidacy for governor and has been out on the hustings ever since.

■ Larry Owen, lawyer from East Lansing who ran third in the 1994 Democratic gubernatorial primary. A former mayor of East Lansing and Michigan State University trustee, Owen is running from the "sensible center," whatever that means. His wife, Faylene, is a Democratic fund-raiser. Owen is reputedly close to the UAW, especially to President Steve Yokich.

■ Doug Ross, who returned to Michigan last year after serving as assistant secretary of labor for employment and training. A former state senator and director of the Department of Commerce during Gov. James Blanchard's administration, Ross is the candidate probably the most interested in policy innovation and citizen-based political reform.

■ Don Riegle, former U.S. senator, who decided not to run for re-election in 1994 after getting tarred in the savings and loan scandals of the time. A charismatic and emotional campaigner, Riegle recently moved from Traverse City to vote-rich Oakland County and is widely rumored to be gearing up for a run for governor.

■ Karen Willard, a state representative from St. Clair County who is able but little known outside of her district.

For those interested in probing below the usual media preoccupation with who's ahead in the horse race, I'd advise looking carefully at one of the most interesting phenomena undergirding the contest: the current clout of organized labor in Democratic Party primaries.

Time was when a nod from labor, especially the UAW, was all that a candidate needed to win a Democratic primary. Indeed, Owen's standing with party insiders is in large part based on the presumption that at the end of the day the UAW will come down on his side.

PHILIP POWER

But Ross disputes the conventional wisdom. "As a party, we ought to recreate the days when Neil Staebler, G. Mennen Williams and Walter Reuther were remaking the Michigan Democratic Party along the lines of broad-based citizen participation," he argues.

"A broadly-based party, not dominated by one interest group, avoids the dilemma labor has faced in recent years," Ross continues. "Either they've anointed a candidate early on, which may win a Democratic primary but is the kiss of death in a general election, or they've got into a fight and wasted enormous sums in the primary and been tapped out by the time of the general." Ross is referring to the dispute between the Michigan Education Association, which spent millions backing Owen in 1994 only to lose to the UAW-endorsed Howard Wolpe, who went on to be crushed by incumbent Gov. John Engler.

And Ross cites a couple of other examples to sustain his argument that things are different these days in Democratic Party politics. Ed McNamara is hardly regarded as a bosom buddy of the UAW, but he won his 1986 executive primary in labor-dominated Wayne County and has won by overwhelming margins each time since. And Dennis Archer, the very popular mayor of Detroit, took on parts of the UAW and the remains of the Coleman Young machine when he defeated Sharon McPhail in 1993.

Ross is tearing around the state, trying to attract the same kind of citizen-based, policy-driven reformers that were so important in building the party back in the 1950s and, at the same time, arguing that it's in organized labor's best interest to take a hands-off position in the primary. His success (or lack of it) will reveal a lot about the inner workings of an important part of Michigan politics.

STATE CAPITOL CAPSULES

Child care break

The House passed a state income tax break for child care expenses with hopes of good publicity but little hope it will survive in the Senate.

"This legislation addresses the realities faced by many working families in Michigan," said House Speaker Curtis Hertel, D-Detroit. "The reality is that child care expenses keep many parents form working when they need a second income."

The bill, sponsored by Rep. Deborah Cherry, D-Burton, provides an income tax credit of up to $5,000 per child for working parents who pay for day care. It's part of the House Democrats' 12-proposal package of targeted tax breaks.

The House passed House Bill 4180 by a vote of 78-26 on March 4.

Republicans, outnumbered 58-52, cast all 26 no votes. Among those voting no was Deborah Whyman, R-Canton.

Whyman protested: "I believe this tax cut is too narrow. It is a tax cut for working moms, subsidized by to work of at-home moms. Numerous attempts were made to include work-at-home moms and expand the tax cut to include a broader base of beneficiaries," she said, referring to her own amendment which was shot down on a 55-52 party-line vote.

Alan Cropsey, R-DeWitt, joined by several other Republicans, objected that the House Democrats "perverted" House rules and limited the bill "to a very select constituency, those families who chose to place their children in day care in order to earn a second income."

Rep. Don Gilmer, R-Augusta, ranking Republican on the Appropriations Committee, placed the cost of the bill at $16.5 million, "equal to nearly 100 percent of the general fund increase for the Department of Environmental Quality. . . This is a very selective and discriminatory tax policy."

One Republican supporting the bill was Rep. Nancy Cassis of Novi. "As a school psychologist with the Novi school district for many years, I understand the importance the family plays in the emotional health and development of young children." But Cassis, too, said the bill "devalues the important role of parents who stay at home with their children."

Lottery payback

The Senate routinely advanced a bill to require Michigan Lottery winners to reimburse the state for welfare benefits they may have received.

Senate Bill 188 would tax lottery winners half their winnings over $1,000.

"Why pick out the weakest in society to be the strictest with?" objected Sen. Virgil Smith, D-Detroit, minority floor leader.

"Ludicrous," added Sen. George Z. Hart, D-Dearborn. "A businessman can get loans and grants, can win $100 million from the lottery, and not have to pay it back."

When Smith said the bill would punish women and poor children, Sen. Michael Bouchard, R-Birmingham, replied, "A whole lot of people are taking food out of children's mouths to buy losing tickets. It is wrong to incentivize gambling."

UM-D offers new master's in liberal arts

The University of Michigan-Dearborn will launch a new master's degree program this fall.

The new master of arts in liberal studies degree program was approved by U-M Regents at their March meeting on the Dearborn campus. It will be offered by UM-Dearborn's College of Arts, Sciences and Letters (CASL), under the auspices of the Horace Rackham School of Graduate Studies.

"The objectives of this degree are synonymous with the objectives of liberal education: developing critical thinking skills, encouraging intellectual flexibility, and cultivating an individual's ability to make connections among diverse fields of human thought and activity," said Gerald Moran, professor of history and associate dean of CASL.

More than 100 colleges and universities across the country offer similar programs, Moran notes. "In these programs, the typical enrollees are people who are somewhere in mid-career, are successful in their professional lives, or are reevaluating their careers, and want the opportunity for further intellectual development," he said.

"Our program will draw upon a similar, non-traditional constituency, and will be offered at times, such as evening hours, that is suitable for that student population," Moran said.

Students will need to earn 30 credit hours of course work, including 21 credit hours at the graduate-only level; complete a three-course core, including a colloquium and two seminars introducing students to graduate-level critical thinking skills and techniques, and to the major interdisciplinary themes and concepts of the program; and a concluding master's thesis or project.

Students in the program will be able to choose from several elective tracks, including liberal studies, women's studies or individualized programs.

"While typical graduate studies tend toward specialization, our new program will give students the freedom and flexibility to explore knowledge across disciplinary boundaries," Moran said. "We will emphasize interdisciplinary learning, teaching and research to foster the development of a broad and varied understanding of the liberal arts, and promote the critical and comparative analysis of ideas and society across diverse historical and cultural contexts."

Admission to the program will be open to all college graduates, with a grade point average of 3.0 or better in the latter half of their undergraduate program, regardless of their undergraduate major.

For information about UM-Dearborn's master of arts in liberal studies program, call the CASL office at (313) 593-5490.

Mr. Coady's gift of remembering

Some people have a knack ... no, that's not the right word, "knack." Let's try this, some people have a gift ... Yes, that's better ... gift. For remembering names, remembering faces that go with the names. And I've noticed that those with this gift bring with them something special, something like a glow. A glow that lights up rooms and warms and comforts and cheers everyone around.

That's not a knack. Knacks are learned, if you try hard enough, like a trick. This isn't a trick, it's a gift.

And one of those gifted people passed away last week. His name was Mr. Coady. He was 87 years old and known by everyone in the little town I grew up in. He was the principal of the high school for many years and by the time I was a freshman, Mr. Coady had stepped out of the front office and gone into the classroom, to be a teacher. He was my science teacher in the ninth grade. Now that was 25 years ago.

Twenty-five years. And after all that time, that wonderful, gifted man never forgot our names. It's been 25 years since I sat in his science classroom and learned a veritable ton, how to mix learning and laughing. We laughed, he laughed, he had a very infectious laugh. And even we, awkward, self-conscious 14-year-olds, felt OK in that classroom, OK enough to laugh out loud WITH the teacher.

Good-hearted character

He was a character, but a very good-hearted character, the kind who'd never forget you. The kind you could never forget. He made us all feel "OK" in a stage in our young lives where most days we felt everything but OK.

Mr. Coady had that gift. And when I'd visit my old hometown during my college years on Red Flannel Day weekend each October, he'd still remember me. He always worked at the Rotary Chicken Barbecue and would see hundreds of people and greet them with his signature wonderful, chuckly "hello" followed by their name. The right name with the right face, no matter how the face had changed.

I saw him after I'd graduated from college and he remembered me. I saw him after I got married and he remembered me. I saw him every first Saturday of October at the Community Building, selling tickets at the Rotary Barbecue.

"Well, hiya, Karen. How are you doing?" Every time. Without fail. I'd always looked forward to that. Even my older children had come to know Mom's ninth-grade science teacher and his friendly greeting.

Mr. Coady, they knew, was a wonderful teacher. I told them. I told them of the grand science project I attempted in his science class. Mr. Coady had assigned a rather general science project, the end of the year biggie, and in explaining the assignment he told us of some past projects of other students, former students, who'd done amazing things.

He'd thrown down the gauntlet, in my 14-year-old opinion. If the Class of '71 could come up with impressive science projects as described and fawned over by Mr. Coady, then I, as a member of the Class of '75, could rise to the challenge.

The sky's-the-limit project

The limits of the project, as I remember it, were none. The sky was the limit. I didn't go to the sky, but I did go as far as the town creek, Cedar Creek. I designed a plan to clean it up and make a park on its banks on the north end of town. I spoke with someone at City Hall about it.

I drew up plans. I took slides of the existing creek. I took water samples. I did unsophisticated tests on the water samples. I wrote to excavating machinery companies. What for, I don't exactly remember now. But I do remember getting brochures for years afterwards. And I wrote a report and gave a speech, using my poster board renderings and slides and charts. I was 14 and I had been inspired and challenged by my teacher to do all that.

Mr. Coady gave me the ultimate compliment, not by the "A" I received on the project, but by suggesting I take my presentation to a real city council meeting. I wish now I had done that, but back then the thought of that frightened me way too much.

A 14-year-old girl? Presenting a civic project idea in front of the real city council? That was asking a bit too much. I mean, in Mr. Coady's class we felt comfortable and OK. And he made us feel worthy. But that? Out there? That was the real world. I wasn't ready for that. I was chicken.

Mr. Coady and chickens. A long and genial past those two had. He pushed chickens every Red Flannel Day at the Community Building.

A new model

Canton church planting has a 'meta' style

It used to be a group of churches would hire a minister and send him out to start a new church. Now there's a new model, a "meta-church," the first of its kind in Michigan.

BY SUE MASON
STAFF WRITER

Two years ago, the Rev. Luther Werth had a dream and saw a need. The dream was to purchase property near the M-14 corridor, Wayne County's growth area. The pastor of Christ Our Savior Lutheran Church in Livonia foresaw a need for a new church.

Sunday, the dream will come true when the doors are officially opened to Christ Our Savior Lutheran's "meta-church" in Canton.

"This represents a new model of church planting," said Werth. "It's an extremely exciting concept of sharing God's word with the people in that area."

The branch church is at 46001 Warren Road, west of Canton Center Road, in what was formerly Faith Moravian Church and later Resurrection Catholic Church.

Purchased by the Missouri Synod's Church Extension Board in January 1996, Christ Our Savior will get a three-year subsidy before taking on full financial responsibility for the church. In the meantime, half of the offerings of those who attend the Canton church will be turned over to the district office, Werth said.

This is only the second "meta-church" in the synod. The other is in Des Moines, Iowa, which church members visited last year to see if it was the direction Christ Our Savior wanted to go.

The "meta-church" concept is a simple one. A larger, established church opens a branch church as an extension of its ministry, using its staff and resources to reach out at a second geographical location.

"The old model of church planting was a group of churches would pledge money and hire a pastor to start a mission," Werth said. "The congregation of Christ Our Savior was geared up to form a mission, so we only needed to change the focus."

Getting started

Christ Our Savior, Livonia, has provided $90,000-$100,000 to get the church ready for its first service at 9:30 a.m. Palm Sunday, March 23. The parking lot was repaved, the exterior painted, and new carpeting installed. The existing altar and baptismal font are being used, but there are new padded chairs providing seating for 250.

The Rev. Robert Bayer, who joined the Christ Our Savior staff several months ago, will be the main pastor at the Canton campus, switching off with Werth every four-six weeks to preach.

While the 8:30 and 11 a.m. services at Christ Our Savior, Livonia, will be more traditional with organ and choir accompaniment, the 9:30 a.m. service at the Canton campus will be more blended contemporary with a synthesizer and lead singing teams and different worship forms using dramatic arts.

"This underscores our goal to serve people," said Bob D'Ambrosio, assistant to the pastor for outreach and assimilation. "And serving people means choices. Now we can offer another choice of time and style of worship."

A lot of what is offered at Christ Our Savior, Livonia, will not be offered immediately at the Canton campus. The main youth ministry will remain in Livonia, but Werth and Bayer estimate that such things as Sunday school will not be offered until the summer or September at the latest.

The church will be opened for limited hours and will have a separate telephone number, but arrangements have been made with Ameritech to switch unanswered calls, "so no one will know, if they call, if they're getting Canton or Livonia," Werth said.

With local Lutheran churches gearing up to build a new nursing home on Plymouth Road in Livonia, the Canton church also will be used as the headquarters for that campaign, he added.

Meeting new neighbors

In preparation for the opening, church members conducted a survey of the community in February to determine needs and worship style. Last Saturday, members did a Prayer Walk, to distribute fliers, inviting neighbors to the grand opening, and to prayer for the households.

"There was a great deal of interest in the church and there was a lot of excitement about the church with people watching the progress and wanting to know when it would open," D'Ambrosio said. "There were some who indicated they would attend."

The Canton church, which sits on three acres, is a temporary site, Werth said. With the help of a Realtor, Christ Our Savior is looking for a permanent location – 15-20 acres – so when it outgrows the current site, a new church can be built.

"One of the challenges of this that we face is that we don't know all the answers," said D'Ambrosio. "It's kind of like pioneering because we don't have all the answers to go by."

Christ Our Savior chose Sunday to introduce the new facility to the community because the Palm Sunday and Easter season is a time

Now's the time to poison-proof your house

When it comes to poisons, how safe is your home?

During Poison Prevention Week, now through Saturday, March 22 – the Poison Prevention Council is asking families to take a look at what potentially lethal potions are lurking in their homes and either lock them up or properly dispose of them.

"We turn our attention to poisons in the home because our homes are filled with potentially poisonous products, including laundry detergents, paints, thinners, insecticides, plant food and bathroom cleaners," said spokesman Thomas Kiurski. " While these products help maintain our homes, they can sicken, or even kill, kids who take them internally."

Most poisonings involve children, who often can't effectively discriminate between poisons and more familiar foods and candies.

Each year poison control centers report nearly one million children under the age of 5 are exposed to potentially poisonous medicines and household chemicals, even though the Poison Prevention Act of 1970, which requires child-resistant packaging, has reduced accidental poisoning deaths in children under age 5 by more than 75 percent, according to the U.S. Consumer Product Safety Commission.

A case in point: while getting enough iron is essential for good health, iron supplements are the leading cause of fatal poisonings in children under age 3, Kiurski said.

Growing children are curious and small children often explore their world through tasting it.

If youngsters are crawling, arrange to keep household products in places other than below the kitchen sink unless the cabinet is locked or secured with child safety latches.

If the child is walking, be certain that bottles and boxes containing medicines or household products are put away before answering the telephone or doorbell.

If the child is able to climb, find a shelf that is completely beyond his ability to reach, or better yet, lock the products in a cabinet or closet. And after using a product, always re-secure the child-resistent closure.

Kiurski has some other tips for parents to keep their children safe from poisonings:

•Keep child resistant caps on all prescription medicines. Never transfer medicines from child-resistant bottles to open containers.

• Throw out old medicines. Pour them down the drain or toilet and rinse the container before discarding it. Don't put the container with its contents in the trash.

• Keep medicines out of reach and out of sight of children. Avoid taking medicines in front of them since they tend to copy adults.

•Don't deceive children by telling them flavored medicine is "candy." When left alone, they may locate the bottle and eat or drink its contents.

If someone should become poisoned, Kiurski recommends calling 911 immediately, then try to identify the poison, since treatment is based on the type of poison.

He also recommends keeping syrup of ipecac in the home. However, ipecac causes vomiting, so don't use it unless directed to by the Poison Control Center.

Locally, the Poison Control Center is based at Children's Hospital of Michigan in Detroit. It can be reached by calling 1-800-POISON1.

Growing up poor: It's not just a welfare problem

Challenging the popular image of childhood poverty as primarily a consequence of unemployed teen mothers dependent on welfare, a new study reveals that a rapidly growing proportion of all poor children belong to families where at least one parent works all year. According to the seventh annual KIDS COUNT Data Book, a state-by-state survey of children's well-being released by the Annie E. Casey Foundation, 5.6 million children – more than one-third of all America's poor children – live in working-poor families. Between 1989 and 1994, a period of overall economic strength in the national economy, the number of children in working-poor families increased by 30 percent.

The KIDS COUNT report found that only 14 percent of children in working poor families were born to a teenage mother. Most were born to women over age 25. And one-half of children in working poor families lived in married, two-parent households where at least one parent (usually the father) worked all year.

"The growing number of children in working poor families is rooted in the steady decline in the value of low-skill labor in an increasingly global economy," said Douglas W. Nelson, executive director of the Casey Foundation. "In the late 1960s, a young adult working full-time at the minimum wage could keep a family of three out of poverty. In 1994, a household head, working full-time at the minimum wage, earned only 70 percent of the income needed to lift a family of three out of poverty."

Nelson underscored the inseparable links between reforming welfare and addressing the conditions of working-poor families.

"The impulse to reform welfare by enhancing self- sufficiency through work and earnings is a sound one," he said. "But, at the same time, we have to make certain that working will actually enable families to meet the minimum needs of their children."

Noting similarities and differences in the risks facing children of working and non-working poor families, the KIDS COUNT data book identified two distinct disadvantages faced by working-poor families:

(1) Working-poor children go without health insurance at a much higher rate than any other group of American children. In 1994, 27 percent of the children of working poor families had no public or private medical insurance – about twice the rate for all Americans. In most cases, this is because their parents' employment does not carry health benefits, yet they are frequently ineligible for Medicaid because they do not receive AFDC. Without recent changes in Medicaid policies, the percentage of children in working-poor families without insurance would be much higher.

(2) Time at work reduces parental time at home and the consequent cost of child care is often a heavy financial burden. The average working-poor family that pays for its own child care spends more than a fifth (21 percent) of its limited monthly income on trying to meet this need. That compares to a figure of 7 percent for non-poor families. Furthermore, studies show that the child care received by most poor children is typically of lower quality and less benefit.

According to Nelson, the long-run response to the conditions of the working poor must focus on dramatically improving the education of at-risk children in the United States in order to enable more young adults to command higher-wage jobs in an increasingly global economy.

Within states, a new priority has to be given to strengthening those districts that serve the highest concentrations of low-income and at-risk students.

Within districts, priority must be given to improving those schools that have been least effective in achieving key learning benchmarks for all their students.

And within individual schools, a greater priority has to be placed on engagement and achievement by those students most likely to fall behind and fail.

In the short run, the book recommends the elimination of penalties and disadvantages associated with work, including barriers to child care and health insurance. To enhance the value of work, the report strongly endorsed the Earned Income Tax Credit, a refundable tax credit that increases the net income of low-income wage earners. In 1994, that provision alone lifted 1.7 million children of low-income working parents out of poverty.

At the federal level, an increase in the tax credit would enable more poor families to work their way out of poverty. Similarly, more states could emulate those seven that have created their own earned income credits to reinforce the federal program.

"Making work really 'work' for disadvantages families won't be easy or quick," said Nelson, "but we do have the knowledge. The open question is whether we have the resolve."

The Annie E. Casey Foundation is a private charitable organization dedicated to helping build better futures for disadvantaged children and families in the United States.

It was established in 1948 by Jim Casey, one of the founders of United Parcel Service, and his siblings, who named the Foundation in honor of their mother.

In addition to publishing the KIDS COUNT Data Book, the Casey Foundation also funds KIDS COUNT projects in the 50 states and the District of Columbia.

when a lot of people want to go to church. The service is not the first for the church. Last summer, Christ Our Savior offered vacation Bible school there, attracting 85 children, a majority of whom were from the area.

"We thought it would double our work and in a sense it is, but we've learned to mirror programs," Werth said. "The vacation Bible school was the same in Canton and Livonia and we did them back-to-back. It really worked well.

"We offered it in Canton in the evening and Livonia in the morning, so members could have a choice."

The Palm Sunday service at Christ Our Savior Lutheran, Canton, will be at 9:30 a.m. and feature contemporary music and soloists. Children will receive a free Easter book.

On Easter Sunday, there will be a festival service at 9:30 a.m. with special music and cross bookmarks for all who attend.

For more information about the church, call D'Ambrosio at (313) 522-6830.

And he pushed, encouraged, this chicken 25 years ago. And I'm better for it. His lessons were not lost on me.

"Hiya, Karen!" he'd always exclaim.

And now, I have to say, "Goodbye, Mr. Coady. Thank you for believing in 14-year-olds. Thank you for pushing chickens. Thank you for being a teacher of science – and of life." Thank you. God bless you.

John Glenn High keeps Junior Miss travel trophy

The traveling trophy for the Wayne-Westland Junior Miss program will stay at John Glenn High School for another year.

The official trophy-passing ceremony was held this month, with the trophy remaining at John Glenn with current winner Brooke Formolo for the rest of this year.

A portrait of the winner will also hang in the school.

Formolo, a senior, won the title last fall. She also won the first runner-up title and the Creative and Performance Arts award over the past weekend in the state Junior Miss program in Alpena said president of the group, Pat Hermatz.

For the talent portion of the competition, she did a tap dance routine.

"We're just so proud of her," Hermatz said. "She nailed it — she was awesome. She was a very elegant speaker."

Formolo will represent the Wayne-Westland community throughout the rest of the year, making appearances at various community events.

Hermatz said if the state winner is not available, that Formolo may also occasionally represent the state.

The local and state wins give Formolo several college scholarship opportunities. She also won $1,800 in scholarship money from this past weekend's state competition.

The Wayne-Westland program is the only one in Wayne County and one of eight in the state. The scholarship program is 30 years old this year and has awarded more than $90,000 in scholarship money since it began, according to one of the group's organizers, Ed Turner.

Over the years, five Wayne-Westland winners have been honored with a state title, Turner added.

Trophy passed: The Wayne-Westland Junior Miss scholarship program has passed its traveling trophy to the 1996 winner. On hand were president Pat Hermatz, vice-president Dennis Hermatz, winner Brooke Formolo, corresponding secretary Ed Turner and John Glenn High School assistant principal Lori Brickman.

Churches celebrate Easter in music and with drama

While Holy Week marks the most solemn time of the Lenten observance, churches are observing the death and resurrection of Christ with dramas and musicals.

The Creative Arts Ministry of Northville Christian Assembly presents the musical drama, "The Choice," at 7 p.m. Friday through Sunday, March 21-23, at the church, 41355 Six Mile Road, west of I-275, Northville.

The musical is set during the reign of Tiberius Caesar and revolves around Marcus, a young Roman centurion who falls in love with a beautiful Jewish girl, Hannah, a follower of Jesus Christ who is thought to be a radical teacher from Nazareth.

As Marcus becomes fatefully intertwined in the tumultuous events leading to the execution of Jesus, he weighs the words and example of Christ against the wealth and power of the world.

"We have been passionate in creating a truly inspiring, excellent theatrical experience," said Pastor Carlton Quattlebaum, producer of "The Choice." "The drama, music, elaborate sets and costumes, choreography and technology have been combined to make this production not only an event of entertainment but one which says there is hope and true meaning of life"

For ticket information, call the church office at (810) 348-9030.

• Covenant Community will present "Who Will Call Him King of Kings?" at 6 p.m. Sunday, March 23, at the church, 25800 Student St., at Beech Daly, Redford.

The multimedia presentation is set in a prison during the first century. prisoners there evaluate there lives as they hear the wonderful hope that will change their lives. in the music-drama-video presentation.

• Temple Baptist Church, long known for its traditional "Glory of Easter" concert, this is planning two spectacular services at 11 a.m. Palm Sunday, March 23, and Easter Sunday, March 30, in its new facility at 49555 North territorial Road, Plymouth Township.

The services will feature a 100-voice choir, 40-piece orchestra and drama. Nursery and child care will be provided. For more information, call (313) 414-7777.

• Merriman Road Baptist Church will present a dramatic musical, "Jesus The Beginning and the End" at 7 p.m. Friday and Saturday, March 28-29, at the church, 2055 Merriman Road, Garden City.

The production focuses on the life, death and resurrection of Christ as seen through the eyes of Nicodemus. It will be presented by the church congregation. For more information, call the church at (313) 421-0472.

• St. Michael Church's adult, children's and handbell choirs will present their annual Lenten cantata, "Where Are the Shepherds Now?," at 7:30 p.m. Saturday, March 22, at the church, 11414 Hubbard at Plymouth Road, Livonia.

There will be a reception in the gymnasium following the performance. For more information, call (313) 421-5290.

• St. Martin Episcopal Church, 24699 Grand River will have a special music program, including the sounds of the newly formed Bell Choir, at 10:15 a.m. Palm Sunday, March 23, and Easter Sunday, March 30. Traditional hymns also will be sung. They include "All Glory Lord and Honor" on Palm Sunday and "Jesus Christ Is Risen Today" on Easter Sunday. For more information, call the church at (313) 533-3600.

• The music-drama, "Who Will Call Him King of Kings?," will be presented at 6 p.m. Palm Sunday, March 23, and 8 p.m. Good Friday, at Calvary Baptist Church, 43065 Joy Road, Canton.

The presentation, which features the Celebration Choir, soloists and the church's Drama Ministry, retells the life death and resurrection of Jesus Christ through the testimony of Paul and Silas. Set in a Phillippian jail, the story is built around their efforts to explain to the other prisoners why they have been thrown into prison. For more information, call the church at (313) 455-0022.

• Grace Baptist Church will present "Behold the Man," an Easter cantata, at 10:30 a.m. and 6 p.m. Sunday, March 30, at the church, 28440 Lyndon, at Harrison, Livonia.

This special musical focuses on the life and ministry of the Jesus Christ. The public is invited to attend. Nursery and child care will be provided. And Transportation will be available by calling the church at (313) 425-6215.

RELIGION CALENDAR

Listings for the Religion Calendar should be submitted in writing no later than noon Friday for the next Thursday's issue. They can be mailed to Sue Mason at 36251 Schoolcraft, Livonia 48150, or by fax at (313) 591-7279. For more information, call (313) 953-2131.

PARENTING WORKSHOP

Can you talk to your kids about today's issues? Do you sabotage meaningful discussions because you're lecturing instead of listening? Learn helpful tips on communicating to your kids in a free workshop 7-8:30 p.m. Thursday, March 20, at the Canton Campus of Christ Our Savior Lutheran Church, 46001 Warren Road, just west of Canton Center Road. Registration is requested and can be completed by calling (313) 522-6830.

'SON SHINE'

Holy Trinity Lutheran Church's contemporary music band Celebration will present "Son Shine," a fun-filled musical evening , at 7:30 p.m. Friday, March 21, at the church, 39020 Five Mile Road, east of I-275, Livonia. The music style will celebrate the "Son Shine" of Jesus Christ and the "Sun Shine" of the new spring season. Coffee, punch and light desserts will be served during the brief intermission. Admission is free; donations will be accepted to help fund sound equipment for the Saturday contemporary services and the future events to be held in the new fellowship hall.

LENTEN BREAKFAST

Garden City United Methodist Women will have their annual Lenten Breakfast at 9:30 a.m. Saturday, March 22, at the church, 6443 Merriman Road, Garden City. The Rev. Faith Fowler of Cass United Methodist Church will present a spiritual program for women. Breakfast will consist of fresh fruit, fruit breads, coffee and tea. Reservations are necessary and can be made by calling the church office at (313) 421-8628 by Monday, March 17.

EASTER FAIR

An Easter Fair for children age 3 through second grade will be held 10:30 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. Saturday, March 22, at Christ Our Savior Lutheran Church, 14175 Farmington Road, Livonia. Parents will accompany their children through different activity centers – egg coloring, cookie decorating, craft making and a photo session with "Happy Bunny." There is no charge, but donations will be collected at the door. Registration is requested and can be completed by calling (313) 522-6830.

PURIM CARNIVAL

The Youth Group and the Sisterhood of Congregation Beit Kodesh will have its annual Purim Carnival 10 a.m. to 1 p.m. Sunday, March 23, at the synagogue, 31840 W. Seven Mile Road, Livonia. There will be games, prizes and face painting and lunch will be available for purchase. Tickets can be bought at the door or in advance. For more information, call Sally Stein at (313) 421-5945.

CHARISMATIC PRAYER

Orchestra will present the full musical drama, "The Life of Christ," at 7:30 p.m. Friday and Saturday, March 21-22, and 7 p.m. Sunday, March 23, at the church, 17000 Farmington Road, Livonia.

The moving contemporary performance with words and music by David Clydesdale is under the direction of Dr. Jerry Smith. Seating is limited and complimentary tickets are available in advance.

For more information, call the church at (313) 422-1899.

• The First Church Choir and Orchestra will present "God with Us," beginning at 6 p.m. Palm Sunday, March 23, at the Detroit First Church of the Nazarene, 21260 Haggerty Road, north of Eight Mile Road, Livonia.

This special musical performance will feature Dan Evans as guest soloist and narrator. Free child care services will be provided.

For more information, call (810) 348-7600.

• Plymouth Baptist Church will present a 90-minute Easter drama and concert at 7 p.m. Palm Sunday, March 23, Thursday, March 27, and Good Friday, March 28, at the church, 42021 Ann Arbor Trail, west of Haggerty Road, Plymouth.

The evening will open with a dramatic presentation, "I Watched Him Die," followed by the concert, "Once and for All." As a gift of the community, the drama and concert will be free of charge. Doors will open at 6:30 p.m.

Children ages 4 and under will not be admitted to the auditorium, however, nursery and child care will be provided. For more information, call (313) 453-5534.

Evangelist visits Plymouth church

Annette Safaer, an evangelist with the Jews for Jesus organization's New York City branch, will speak at 7:30 p.m. Thursday, March 27, at Trinity Presbyterian Church in Plymouth.

Jews for Jesus is an agency which proclaims that Jesus is the Messiah of Israel and Savior of the world.

"What could be more Jewish that following the Messiah?" asks Safaer, who considers herself 100 percent Jewish and 100 percent Christian.

Safaer grew up in a messianic home and had the privilege of knowing Jesus from an early age, but also knowing and celebrating her Jewish heritage. She received both theological arid musical training at Biola University in La Miranda, Calif.

Safaer toured with the Jews for Jesus singing group for 18 months before joining the New York branch to train as an evangelist.

She has a diversified role in the branch, serving as the music director for its local Jews for Jesus Singers and assisting in training the missionary candidates.

She also supervises its outreach to Russian Jews in Brooklyn and also writes articles for the organization's newsletter. She recently accepted an assignment of leading the stewards for the annual Summer Witnessing Campaign.

The Jews for Jesus organization was founded by Moishe Rosen, a Jew who has believed in Jesus for more than 35 years. The organization has permanent branches in eight North American cities (San Francisco, Los Angeles, Chicago, Toronto, Dallas, Boston, New York City, Washington D.C.,) and south Florida as well as more than 70 chapters spanning some 30 states.

"Jews for Jesus began about 2,000 years ago, around 32 C.E., give or take a year," Rosen said. "Jesus' first disciples were Jewish, and there have been some Jewish people who have believed in him ever since."

To Safaer and other Jews for Jesus believing in Jesus makes sense in light of the Jewish Bible and in fight of their experiences as "believers."

There will be no admission charge for the presentation. Trinity Presbyterian Church is at 10101 W. Ann Arbor Road, at Gotfredson Road, Plymouth Township. For more information, call (313) 459-9550.

We're rolling back Equity Line rates to as low as prime: 8.25% APR.*

Choose the Equity Line that's right for you.

With our Equity Line, you can access cash for your family's larger needs...such as home improvements, loan consolidation, college tuition, a second home, a new car or boat, or an unexpected emergency. And you can choose the loan amount and annual percentage rate, based on the loan-to-value (LTV) you have in your home.

Variable Rate	Up to 80% LTV	81% to 90% LTV	91% to 100% LTV
$100,000 and up	8.25%	—	—
$99,999 – $50,000	8.75%	10.25%	11.25%
$49,999 – $25,000	9.25%	10.25%	11.25%
$24,999 – $3,500	9.75%	10.25%	11.25%

Rates effective 3/3/97

Plus, because an Equity Line is secured by your home, the interest rate you pay may be fully deductible for federal income tax purposes. In addition, there's no application fee, no closing costs and no points.

Wayne Memorial has right blend to win state title

I consider myself a basketball purist.

And if you're like me, you've got to love what this Wayne Memorial boys basketball team stands for.

Don't jump on the bandwagon because they're good. There are lots of terrific high school teams in this state.

Hitch your wagon to this team because of the way they act, the way the play and the way they're coached.

When Wayne walked into the cavernous Lansing Eastern gym for its Class A quarterfinal showdown with East Lansing, some first-time observers had to be wondering how a team with an average height of 6-feet, 2-inches, can play (and win) against bigger and stronger teams.

But after watching them dissect a pretty talented East Lansing team, 86-66, they may have added a few converts.

Winners of 23 of 25 games this season (not counting the Detroit Pershing forfeit victory), smallish Wayne is now on the threshold of something big.

This is Rupp's Runts, but it's 1997 Zebras instead of the 1966 Kentucky Wildcats.

And with what coach Chuck Henry has molded over the past three years with this Wayne team is right out of Leonardo DaVinci and Arnold Schwarzenegger.

Offensively, it's the Mona Lisa, an artful display of effective passing, outside shooting and deft ball-handling.

Defensively, it's Terminator and Predator, taking opponents out of their game with a Last Action Hero mentality.

Henry pulls the strings

Sounds like strange bedfellows, but Henry makes it work.

And this Wayne coach is a throw-back.

He doesn't allow any theatrics, showboating or trash-talking.

These are simply a bunch of poker-faced kids who play the game the way John Wooden meant for it to be played.

I've had several conversations this year with the Wayne coaching staff — Henry, Wayne Woodard, Dave Bogataj, Lee Williams and Bill Romej — and they'll all tell you the same thing.

These Wayne guys are modest, mute (on and off the court), very business-like and good citizens.

Even with a maestro like Lorenzo Guess, who has had many challenges thrown his way in four years, this team doesn't seem to get unnerved or rattled, even in the heat of the moment.

They could have cracked easily Tuesday night, but they didn't.

Henry received some dreadful news Monday at practice when 6-foot-7 reserve center Quentin Turner, who had been making huge strides of late, was shelved the rest of the season for academic reasons.

The Wayne coach was reportedly brought to tears when principal Leo Schuster gave him the final word.

Ironically, this was the second academic casualty for a key Wayne reserve late in the season.

Zebras overcome the odds

And then there's guard Deon Willis, a 5-8 senior guard, who also comes off the bench. He was limping noticeably, but hit an astounding three-pointer midway through the final quarter to seal East Lansing's fate.

And if that wasn't enough, Wayne had to also contend with three Lansing-area officials, one of whom was smiling and slapping "fives" with the East Lansing players during the warmups.

But despite the imbalance in calls and the hometown crowd, a more experienced and mature Wayne club found a way to play another day.

"They (Wayne) were better than I thought they were," conceded East Lansing coach Chris Ferguson.

Some say this is a crazy year in Class A with all the upsets which have occurred.

Many of the top 10 and pre-season favorites have gone down — Detroit Denby, Detroit Pershing, Detroit Cooley, Flint Southwestern Academy, Mount Pleasant, Flint Carman-Ainsworth, Battle Creek Central, Benton Harbor and now Flint Northern.

And then there's Wayne, smack dab in the state semifinals again for the second straight year against a Cinderella, Grand Rapids Ottawa Hills.

And if you're a basketball guru like me and you're free Friday afternoon at the Breslin Center, you've got to see it to believe it.

Bad start, good finish for Crusaders

COLLEGE BASEBALL

After a slow start, Madonna University's baseball team rebounded to bring home three victories from the Florida spring trip.

The Fighting Crusaders were 3-7 on their week-long foray south. But it wasn't until their final two games that their pitching made a noticeable appearance.

Madonna lost its first four games: 13-12 to Rollins College March 1; 5-4 and 9-7 to Eckerd College March 2; and 4-3 to Webber College March 3.

The Crusaders ended up splitting their doubleheader with Webber, winning the second game March 3 by a 7-6 count. Tim Holland was the winning pitcher; for the trip, he was 1-0 with a 1.93 earned run average in 4 2/3 innings.

Madonna followed that with a 10-9 loss to St. Leo College March 4; an 8-7 win over Kean College and a 14-2 loss to St. Thomas University March 6; a 2-1 loss to Nova Southeastern March 7; and a 2-1 triumph over Barry University March 8.

Craig Benedict (from Plymouth Canton) was the winning pitcher against Barry. The senior righthander was 1-1 on the trip with a 2.87 earned run average. He tossed 15 2/3 innings, allowing 16 hits but just four walks; he struck out nine.

Jason Carter was the winning pitcher against Kean College.

While the pitching may have lagged a bit — the team ERA for the 10 games was 5.90, with opponents batting .293 against them — Madonna's hitters were hot. As a team, the Crusaders hit .321 with 20 doubles, nine homers and 55 runs scored.

One of the offensive leaders was junior Jeff Gutt (Redford Catholic Central), who batted .304 with three homers and seven runs batted in. Aaron Shrewsbury also had an exceptional trip, batting .424 with five doubles, two homers and nine RBI.

Eric Marcotte, a junior from Plymouth Canton who was switched from second base to shortstop, responded well. Marcotte played nine games, batting .370 with seven RBI, and he made just one error.

However team defense, which plagued Madonna last season, wasn't sharp. The Crusaders com-

Time to regroup.

And there is still time. But Detroit Whaler hopes for an upset in the opening round of the Ontario Hockey League playoffs took a serious blow when the Whalers lost both games in Sault Ste. Marie earlier this week.

The Greyhounds, reigning regular-season champions of the OHL's West Division, overcame two short-handed goals and a two-goal deficit to edge the Whalers 4-3 Sunday.

Joe Thornton scored the last three goals for Sault Ste. Marie, including the winner with 7:05 remaining in the game.

It was a bitter disappointment for the Whalers, one they apparently had trouble recovering from — on Monday, the Greyhounds blanked them 3-0.

Which put Detroit in a 2-0 hole as the series shifts to Plymouth's Compuware Arena for 7:30 p.m. games Friday and Saturday night. Following those two contests, the series will go back to Sault Ste. Marie for the fifth game Monday, then come back to Detroit for the sixth on Wednesday.

The seventh game, if needed, will be in Sault Ste. Marie next Thursday.

In Monday's loss, the Greyhounds scored twice in the first period, then shut down the Whalers the rest of the way. Dave Wight and Brian Stewart each scored for Sault Ste. Marie in the opening period; Matt Lahey added a third goal midway through the second.

Robert Esche was in goal for Detroit; he made 31 saves.

Last Sunday, the Whalers took the early advantage with first-period goals by Harold Druken and Andrew Taylor, for Taylor his first of two. Druken, whose goal came shorthanded and tied the game at 1-all, also drew an assist Taylor's second goal, which was short-handed as well.

Taylor's first goal was on a power play; it came with 55 seconds remaining in the first period and gave Detroit a 2-1 lead. His short-handed goal 3:39 into the second period pushed the Whaler advantage to 3-1.

But Thornton tied it for the Greyhounds before the second period was over, then got the game-winner with 7:05 to go. Joe Seroski, who scored

Donahue shows interest in CMU

BY STEVE KOWALSKI

Former Redford Bishop Borgess boys basketball coach Glen Donahue, who has the most collegiate basketball victories in state history, has applied for the vacant Central Michigan University head coaching position.

Donahue was a CMU assistant coach this past season under head coach Leonard Drake, who was fired after four losing seasons. The Chippewas finished the 1996-97 season with a 7-19 record.

Donahue has 636 victories as a college coach at Highland Park Community College, St. Mary's College in Orchard Lake and Schoolcraft College in Livonia.

His tenure at St. Mary's was cut short after the 1991-92 season when the administration there decided to cut the basketball program for budget reasons.

He coached at Borgess from 1992-93 through 1994-95 before spending the 1995-96 season as Schoolcraft coach.

Donahue said he told CMU athletic director Herb Deromedi about his interest in the posi-

East Lansing can't keep Zebras from return trip

BY BRAD EMONS
STAFF WRITER

Wayne Memorial is back in familiar territory once again.

The Zebras will be making a return trip to the Final Four in Class A after dismantling East Lansing, 86-66, in the state boys basketball quarterfinals Tuesday before an estimated 3,500 fans at Lansing Eastern High School.

Using a balanced attack, Wayne won its 19th straight and improved to 24-1 overall, but more importantly, moved within two wins of garnering the coveted state title.

The semifinal opponent will be Grand Rapids Ottawa Hills (20-6), beginning at 2:50 p.m. Friday at the Breslin Center on the campus of Michigan State University in East Lansing. (Ottawa Hills upset Flint Northern in the other quarterfinal, 71-52.)

The first semifinal, at 1 p.m. pits Detroit Redford (18-7) vs. Detroit Central (18-4). The final is set for 4 p.m. Saturday at Breslin.

A year ago, Wayne was stopped by Southfield-Lathrup in the semifinals, 77-67, but this Zebra team apparently has more grandiose ideas.

CLASS A

"We hope our experience helps and it did tonight," Wayne coach Chuck Henry said. "We've been here (at Lansing Eastern) before and we've been to the semifinals before. And there's no substitute for that.

"When you have a senior-laden team, you know you're kids will come to play. That's been our trademark all season."

To get back to the Breslin, Wayne shot a blistering 53.9 percent from the floor (34 of 63) to oust a talented East Lansing team that finished 21-4 overall.

"We knew they were good because they wouldn't have beaten Benton Harbor and Battle Creek Central (in the regional)," Henry said of East Lansing.

Despite being outsized once again, Wayne never trailed after LaVelle Guess nailed a three-pointer to start the game.

The Zebras raced out to a 24-13 first-quarter advantage and would not let the Trojans get any closer than seven the rest of the way.

There were a few anxious moments, however, particularly when East Lansing sliced a 17-point third-period deficit to seven, 59-52, on a steal and layup by Thomas Jackson with 6:27 remaining.

But as he has done all season, 6-foot-3 senior point-guard Lorenzo Guess, who led all scorers with a game-high 24 points, came up with a key three-point play and the Zebras were never headed.

The hobbled Deon Willis, who has been a key performer down the stretch this season for Wayne, came off the bench to drain a big three-pointer with 4:29 remaining to put Wayne on top by 14.

"We had a lot of guys stir the pot offensively," Henry said. "And when we play good defense and get multiple scorers offensively, we're usually pretty good."

The sweet shooting LaVelle Guess, a 6-1 senior, finished with 18 points, while 6-4 senior center Richard Rashad came up huge with 15 points and nine rebounds. Junior Brian Williams came off the bench to score 10, while senior starter Rodney Hurst had nine.

Jackson, a 5-10 junior who had 27 points in a double-overtime regional championship victory last week over Benton Harbor, paced East Lansing with 19.

Onome Scott-Emuakpor, a 6-8 senior, added 18 with 16 of those coming in the second half. Junior guard Alphonso Jones added 15.

"We're basically a man-to-man team," Henry said. "We tried to match up size-wise and neutralize Jackson. And we wanted Rashard to take No. 3 (Scott-Emuakpor) and play him as tough as possible.

"Richard just played phenomenal against their big man."

Hurst, a three-year varsity performer, helped keep a lid on the dangerous guard combo of Jackson and Jones.

"We had to keep them to the sideline and stop penetration," the 6-1 Hurst said. "We knew they had a good guard come off the bench in No. 22 (Jones) and a great point-guard (Jackson) who could score and wouldn't make many turnovers.

"We just stopped them from getting in the paint (the lane)."

Rashad had 11 of his 15 points in the opening half as Wayne enjoyed a 41-31 advantage. One of his field goals was a three-pointer.

"I felt good because our floor at home (synthetic rubber) is almost just like this," Rashad said. "I just had to play better and play an even game.

"Defensively, we had to force them baseline side and turn them to the middle to get some weakside help."

East Lansing shot 42.4 percent (28 of 66) and committed 15 turnovers (to Wayne's 13).

"Wayne is not 20 points better than us by any stretch, but they're a well-coached team," East Lansing coach Chris Ferguson said. "They shot the ball incredibly well early, but a lot of those shots were uncontested.

"They worked extremely hard and out-hustled us.

"Our problem was defense, not offense. We shoot 49 percent (from the field) for the year and today we shot 42 percent. We broke down defensively and that's what happened. They had scouted us well and they had answers for our press."

And the East Lansing coach paid his respects to the less-heralded LaVelle Guess, who was six of 13 shooting from the floor.

"Lorenzo plays well, too, but LaVelle may be their key person," Ferguson said. "He makes very good decisions and takes care of the ball."

Sharp-shooting Spartans earn a berth in the Final Four

BY STEVE KOWALSKI
STAFF WRITER

The opponent's jersey had "USA" written across the front, but at times Tuesday night the Redford Bishop Borgess boys basketball players must have felt it was them against the world.

Advancing this far in the Class C state tournament is a big deal for Unionville Sebewaing Area and it seemed like everyone in the tiny towns near the top of the Thumb followed their heroes to the quarterfinal game at Troy Athens.

But the raucus environment didn't faze Borgess, which made its last 12 free throws and held off USA, 69-58.

The win sends the Spartans to the Final Four for the first time since 1988 when they lost to Grand Rapids South Christian in the Class B championship game.

The Spartans wore warm-up shirts over their game jerseys that proved prophetic. On the front were the words Final Four bound.

Borgess, 18-8 overall, plays in a semifinal game at 1 p.m. Thursday at Michigan State University's Breslin Center.

"The crowd just hyped us even more," Borgess' junior guard Aaron Jessup said. "They play very hard. We wanted to get a good lead in the first half and keep up the intensity in the second half."

Along with effort, another thing coach Roosevelt Barnes can count on from his players is excellent free throw shooting.

Senior guard John White estimates the Spartans shoot 50 to 100 a day in practice.

The Spartans made 16 of 20 against USA.

"If they complain (about shooting free throws), they don't do it around me," Barnes joked. "We've got young men who come up time and again."

Borgess never trailed, but couldn't build a lead larger than 13 points in the second half as the Patriots refused to surrender easily.

Same Hoskin scored on a pass from Aaron Jessup to put the Spartans up 59-50 with less than two minutes left, but a trio of three-point baskets by USA in the final minute made for some anxious moments.

Shaun Gainforth made consecutive triples and Eric Kelly made a third to cut the Borgess lead to 63-58 with 49.7 seconds left.

USA stole the in-bounds pass but was ruled out of bounds to give possession back to Borgess.

In the bonus, the Spartans proceeded to nail six-straight free throws to make the final margin 11.

The loss snapped USA's 19-game winning streak. The Patriots finished 21-4 overall.

A victory by the Patriots might have compared to the USA's Miracle On Ice – a hockey win over the Soviet Union during the 1980 Olympics

"I couldn't be prouder," said USA coach Mark Gainforth, who spent the last seven seasons as an assistant coach at Saginaw Valley State University. "We tried to lengthen the game, were hoping they would miss their free throws. We were hanging around, six, eight, five points down, but couldn't extend our defense. We didn't have their quickness so we had to pack it in and hope we could rebound."

Borgess outrebounded USA, 26-20, and made two more field goals than the Patriots. Borgess was 22 of 50 from the floor to USA's 20-41.

Jessup led the Spartans' balanced attack with 27 points and six rebounds. Junior guard Kevin Jordan added 12 points, all from three-point range, while White also scored 12 points, making two shots from three-point land.

Hoskin had seven points and six rebounds and the Spartans' other tall frontline player, Durand Bynum, scored six points in the fourth quarter after being scoreless through the first three.

Jessup, playing the point often in the Spartans' half-court offense, twice found Bynum for easy lay-ins in the final quarter.

"Coach said 'Get the big man the ball' because we had the height advantage," Jessup said.

Bynum also grabbed six rebounds.

Kelly led USA with 18 points and Shaun Gainforth contributed 17. Senior Dan Sweetman added eight.

"That's a solid team, well-coached," Barnes said. "They shot very well and ran plays well, got the ball to the guys who can score, and didn't quit. That's a very disciplined team. The games we play in our league prepare us for these kind of games."

SPORTS ROUNDUP

Grid stars

Five Observerland players have been selected for the East squad for the 17th annual Michigan High School Football Coaches Association All-Star game Saturday, Aug. 2 at Spartan Stadium in East Lansing.

Among those selected include All-Observer first team picks Paul Terek, Livonia Franklin (wide receiver); Jon Becher, Westland John Glenn (tight end); Greg Call, Redford Catholic Central (punter), Rob Johnson, Plymouth Canton (quarterback); and Francis Gocaj, Farmington Hills Harrison, interior lineman.

The East will be coached by Frank Sumbera (Grosse Pointe North), while Jim Eurick (Bay City Western) will direct the West.

Hockey champs

The Livonia Squirt Leafs, sponsored by Mike Tonarelli Construction and Joe's Italian Bakery of Plymouth, took first place in the Sports Weekend Extravaganza, March 14-16, with hockey victories over Dayton (7-0), Sault Ste. Marie Police (5-0) and Bowling Green in the championship, 3-2.

PCJBL winners

The final rounds of the Plymouth-Canton Junior Basketball League tournament, in the Girls B League and the Boys B League, were about as close as you could get.

Only two of the final six playoff games in the two leagues were decided by more than a basket.

The Girls B League was the closest. In the semifinals, the Celtics edged the Bulls 24-22 and the Kings beat the Lakers 20-17.

That set up a showdown between the Celtics and the Kings, in which the Kings prevailed, 23-21.

In the Boys B League, it was the Pistons slipping past the Celtics 42-39 and the Lakers beating the Nets 54-45 in the semifinals.

This final was more lopsided than in the Girls League — Lakers 39, Pistons 35.

Soccer winners

The under-14 Michigan United-COPA premier boys soccer team collected its third indoor title this winter, finishing first in its division for the second session at Total Soccer in Farmington.

Sponsored by the Wayne-Westland Soccer League, Michigan United was 6-0-2 for the season. Team members are Brian Collins and Justin Griffin of Plymouth, Mike Johannes, Ryan Nephew, Doug Radcliffe, Kurt Sarsfield, James Thornton and Steve Walters of Canton; Chad Lloyd of Redford; Brian Braun, Peter Karoub, Ryan Kunkle and Steve McLean of Livonia; and Kevin Coleman and Corey Dahn of Westland.

The team is coached by Dave Radcliffe, with assistance from Kerm Kunkle.

Hockey champs

The Plymouth-Canton White Sharks went overtime but came away with the big prize at the Sports Weekend Extravaganza Tournament last weekend.

The Mite BB team (ages 8-9) edged their foes from Alleghany, Pa. in a shootout following a 1-1 regulation game and a scoreless overtime.

Johnny Knoerl netted the only goal of regulation. In the shootout, Knoerl, Billy Gauthier and Marco Masciulli all scored to give the Sharks the title.

David Carey earned the championship game MVP award for his defensive play in helping goalie Joey Moore collect his third tournament win.

The rest of the Sharks are Alex Auer, Brett Kavulich, Jonathon Groat, Alex LaJoie, Joey Moore, Dante Masciulli, Ben Underwood, Tyler Staber, Derrick Schmitt, Kyle Gross, Nathan Marderosian and Paul Stevens. The team is coached by Joe Moore, Dave Knoerl and Jeff LaJoie.

Soccer tryouts

The Canton Quest under-14 girls soccer team is searching for players for the fall of '97 (under-15 then). The Quest is one of the top five teams in Michigan, and it is currently looking to augment this team with additional skilled, committed players.

Handling the development of the Quest is Stephen Glover, a top-level Olympic Development Program coach with a national and Michigan coaching license.

For additional details, call Glover at (313) 331-4182.

Men's golf league

Spring officially arrives this week, which means all the golfers out there better start getting ready.

The Canton Parks and Recreation Services will sponsor a men's golf league starting April 23 at Fellows Creek Golf Course in Canton. The league will play on Wednesdays, with tee times from 5-6 p.m., for 20 weeks.

Cost is $400, which covers all greens fees, prize money, a league outing and awards.

Registration for the 36-person league begins March 24 and is restricted to Canton residents only (unless the league fails to fill by March 31). Register in person at Canton Parks and Recreation Services, 46000 Summit Parkway in Canton. Call (313) 397-5110 for details.

Koufax tryouts

Tryouts for the Plymouth Salem Koufax baseball team will be held at 7 p.m. Thursday in the Salem gymnasium. Any interested 13 or 14 year olds should plan on attending.

For further information, call Aaron Rumberger at (313) 453-4003.

Coaches needed

Expanding player rosters has created a need for more soccer coaches and trainers in both the Little Caesars and recreation leagues.

At the Little Caesars level, there is a specific need for coaches in the girls under-13, under-14, under-16, under-17 and under-18/open divisions. In the recreation team level, there is a need for coaches for both boys and girls, in all age groups.

There are also openings for coaches for the under-10 and under-11 select teams.

Anyone interested in coaching any of the above, or playing on any of the teams, or being a volunteer or paid trainer for any of the teams, should call (313) 464-9114 for further information.

All-Star hoop

Registrations are now being taken for Bernie Holowicki's All-Star Basketball Camp.

The first of the Madonna University coach's camps will be for boys, from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. June 16-20 at Madonna. Cost is $110.

The second, also for boys, will be from 9 a.m.-3 p.m. June 23-27 at Madonna. It, too, will cost $110.

Camp No. 3 will be a co-ed shooting camp, scheduled for 9 a.m.-12:30 p.m. at St. Robert Bellarmine. Cost: $60.

From 9 a.m.-3 p.m. July 7-11 there will be a girls camp, also at St. Robert Bellarmine. Cost: $110.

Camp features include contests and prizes, a T-shirt, guest speakers, camp awards, instruction in all facets of the game, a personal written evaluation, and much more.

For further information, call Bill Derderian at (313) 937-0966; Bernie Holowicki at either home (313) 261-3346 or at Madonna (313) 432-5591.

Baseball tryouts

•The Michigan Bulls 14-and-under boys travel baseball team will have tryouts every Sunday at 3 p.m. at the Downriver Baseball Center in Riverview. The team plays out of Dearborn.

Interested players cannot turn 15 before July 31.

For additional information, call Dave Smith at (313) 388-6019 or Cris Hansen at (313) 584-7077.

•Any Observerland area 15 and 16-year-old interested in playing for the Garden City Little Caesar Mickey Mantle baseball team are invited to a tryout from 1 to 3 p.m. at the Schoolcraft College Parking Lot at Ford Road and Radcliff in Garden City.

For further information, call manager Wally Krol at 422-0653.

Softball sign-up

•The Canton Softball Center is now accepting registrations for the upcoming season. Team registration costs $495 per plus umpire fees for a 14-game season, featuring both single games and double-headers.

Game balls, USSSA registration, and first- and second-place individual and sponsor awards for each league are included.

The season begins April 13.

Also, Canton Softball Center begins its extensive tournament season with its anual Early Bird Classic April 12-13, with the championship round scheduled for April 19-20. Entry fee is $125 per team (plus umpire fees), with a four-game guarantee.

Canton Softball Center offers tournaments every weekend throughout the spring, summer and fall. Call (313) 483-5600 for a listing or for more information.

•The city of Plymouth Parks and Recreation Department is currently holding registration for the following adult softball leagues: men's slow pitch, women's slow pitch, co-ed slow pitch and men's modified fast pitch.

Registration will continue through the end of March or until each league is filled. Play begins in early May. For further information regarding fees, league nights, etc., contact Parks and Rec director Tom Willette at (313) 455-6620.

•Canton Parks and Recreation Services is conducting registrations for summer softball this month.

New men's teams may register through March 28. Women's teams may register through April 4. New co-ed teams may register through March 28.

Cost for men's teams is $280; for women's it's $360, which includes a $50 refundable forfeit fee; and for co-ed teams, it's $320, which includes a $50 refundable forfeit fee.

The co-ed and women's leagues are run jointly with the city of Plymouth. For further information, call (313) 397-5110.

Titan softball clinic

The University of Detroit Titan Athletic Department, along with the Midwestern Collegiate Conference, will stage a free NCAA Collegiate Women's Softball "Yes" Clinic for girls (ages 10-18) from 8-11:30 a.m. at Kyte Monroe Fields at Macomb Community College.

Each participant is will receive a free T-shirt. All applications, on a first-come, first-serve basis, must be received by April 18 (signed by a parent or guardian to be eligible for selection).

For more information, call (313) 993-1700.

Lady Crusaders get split results on spring trip to Florida

SOFTBALL

This was no pleasure trip south for spring break.

For Madonna University's softball team, it was all work. And what came of it wasn't all good.

There were breakdowns, their were miscues, there were lapses — all the things one might expect to find in the first two weeks of a season.

The good news first: Madonna started out well enough, winning three of its first four games while scoring 31 runs.

It slipped a little for the Lady Crusaders after that. Of their remaining eight games, they won just three.

Their trip opened March 2 with wins over Mercyhurst, 11-9, and Ohio Northern, 6-4. On March 3, they lost to Alma 11-5, but they rebounded later that day to upend Assumption College, 9-4.

Later that same day, they took on the first of three Great Lakes Intercollegiate Athletic Conference teams in a row, and they lost all three: to Saginaw Valley State, 3-0 (March 3); to Gannon University, 8-0; and to Ferris State, 7-1 (both on March 4).

On March 5, Madonna returned to its winning ways with victories over Rochester Tech, 8-2, and Ohio Northern again, 6-4. The Crusaders finished the day with a 2-1 loss to Rochester Tech, then split its two games on its final day (March 6), beating Regis College 9-1 and losing to St. Thomas College 4-2.

What looked good on the trip were their bats. The team hit a respectable .263 on the trip, scoring 58 runs in 12 games (4.8 per game).

Team leaders:

It starts with Dawn Shaffer, the team's best clutch hitter, who batted .313 with team highs in doubles (two), triples (two), walks (eight) and runs batted in (11). She tied for the team lead in runs scored (11) and home runs (one).

But she got plenty of help. Like from Stephanie Dick (.304, nine RBI); Vicki Malkowski (.500, 11 hits, six runs scored); Shawna Greene (.324, 11 runs scored, five RBI and 11 hits, tying Malkowski for team honors); Jeanie Baxter (from Redford St. Agatha; .321); and Christy Riopelle (.267, four RBI).

The not-so-good news: the pitching and defense. Shanna Price led Madonna with a 3-1 record and a 2.71 earned run average; Janell Leschinger was 3-2 with a 3.78 ERA; and Angie Van Doorn was 0-3 with a 3.05 ERA.

The pitchers' control was decent; they allowed 24 walks in 79 innings, one every 3.3 innings. But they also surrendered 91 hits, 21 of them for extra bases.

What didn't help Madonna's pitchers was the defense. The Crusaders made 27 errors, or 2.25 per game. Greene, whom coach Jerry Abraham is trying to insert at shortstop, made 11 errors.

Madonna is scheduled to play at Aquinas College at 3:30 p.m. today, then is supposed to play in the Wayne State Tournament this weekend.

mitted 18 errors, surrendering 24 unearned runs of 71 runs allowed, and had just a .944 fielding average.

Others who did stand out offensively for the Crusaders: Bob Hamp, .474, two homers, four RBI; Pete Quinn, .367, three doubles, six RBI; and Brandon Jaskolski, .345, five doubles, three RBI.

For the pitchers, Dan Pydyn was 0-2, but in 14 innings he gave up just two earned runs (a 1.29 ERA) on six hits and three walks. His nine strikeouts tied Benedict for the team lead.

Madonna was supposed to begin the northern portion of its schedule Friday and Saturday, at Walsh University and Ohio Dominican. However, all three games were weathered out.

tion the day after Drake's firing was made public.

Drake took the job at his alma mater in 1993 after the previous coach, Keith Dambrot, was fired for using a racial slur to inspire his players in the locker room during one of the Chippewas' games.

"I told Herb that I was emminently qualified for the job. I couldn't wait any longer because he was going out of town for five days," said Donahue, who also was an assistant coach at University of Detroit-Mercy in the early 1980s. "Leonard is a hell of a person, a very good coach, he just got caught up in the previous turmoil. This could be a great program if we get quality student athletes, a good roster that competes to its maximum potential, goes out and plays hard and works together. Those are the things I've done in my career."

Donahue said his age, 61, shouldn't be a factor. He estimates he has another "10 to 15 years" left in coaching.

He previously has applied for vacant coaching positions at U-D Mercy and Central.

"The job is pretty wide open," Donahue, 61, said. "I think if you're talking about experience, ain't no one with more experience than me. I'm going to be competing for a job against some people who have never called a timeout in their life.

"I've been here five months, they know me here, what I can do. I'm a high-energy guy, a guy who goes out, rolls up his sleeves and gets to it."

Sault Ste. Marie's first goal, assisted on two of Thornton's. Thornton also had an assist.

Esche faced 49 shots in the game, making 45 saves.

With the playoff format already decided, Detroit finished its regular season with a win and a loss last week, losing at Windsor 10-4 Thursday and winning at home against London 8-6 Friday.

In the win over London, Detroit pulled away from a 4-3 lead after two periods with a four-goal third period. Joe Byrne, playing just his 10th game this season for the Whalers, scored his first two goals and helped turn the game around.

Byrne's goals came 24 seconds apart and turned a 3-2 deficit into a 4-3 lead. The Whalers never trailed again.

Julian Smith got got the game's first goal, and the only goal of the first period, to put Detroit ahead. London scored twice in the first 3:26 of the second period to jump in front, 2-1, but Detroit retied it on a goal by Luc Rioux.

After the Knights regained the lead, Byrne got his two goals to put the Whalers in front to stay. Rioux notched a second goal, Taylor got a goal and Druken added a third, all before the third period was 10 minutes hold. Anthony Terzo added an insurance goal, an empty-netter with nine seconds left.

Esche faced 47 shots and made 41 saves for Detroit.

Last Thursday's game at Windsor was similar to the London game, except this time the Whalers suffered a third-period collapse, surrendering six goals.

Tezro, Mike Morrone, Bryan McKinney and Mark Cadotte scored goals for Detroit. Sergei Fedotov and Smith had two assists apiece; Cadotte also had an assist.

Detroit finished with a 26-34-6 record in the regular season.

Observer swimmers have a bright future

BY C.J. RISAK
STAFF WRITER

Once again, it was a strong season for Observer-area swimmers.

And if there was something to be derived from this particular season, it was that it won't be the last.

That's guaranteed. How? A quick look at those who made the 1997 all-Observer swim team provides the necessary proof.

There are 19 individuals named to the first and second teams. Only eight are seniors.

Eight others are juniors and three are sophomores.

Nick Sosnowski
Catholic Central

The two teams that governed the Western Lakes Activities Association — Plymouth Salem and Plymouth Canton — were both proud of their accomplishments this season, but at the same time they were looking ahead optimistically and enthusiastically.

But enough about the future. Let's talk about what's been done this past season, and let's start with the seniors.

It seems certain those in the younger classes will be heard from again.

FIRST TEAM

Patrick Duthie, senior, North Farmington, 100-yard butterfly: This senior saved his best for last.

Duthie qualified for the Class A state meet in the second dual meet of the season, then kept moving up the ladder. At the WLAA finals, he finished second to Stevenson's Steve Domin, then turned in his best time at the state meet preliminaries (53.88), a time that narrowly missed scoring.

"Patrick is dedicated, conscientious and a hard-working swimmer," said North's coach, and Patrick's father, Pat Duthie. "He has made tremendous contributions for four seasons."

Otto Geiseman, senior, Plymouth Salem, diving: For the past two seasons, Geiseman has set the standard in the WLAA among WLAA divers.

This past season, he was named to the all-conference team for the second-consecutive year. He set the Salem varsity record for 11 dives when he scored 500.55 points.

He has been a diving regional qualifier the last three years and a state qualifier the past two, finishing 13th this season.

"Otto has been recognized as one of the best diving competitors in the state," said Salem coach Chuck Olson. "He has worked hard to improve every year."

Kevin Reinke, senior, Redford Catholic Central, 100-yard freestyle: Reinke scored in the 100 freestyle at the state meet for Catholic Central, placing eighth in 48.21. He was also 15th in the 200 free (1:46.85).

At the Catholic League meet, Reinke won both events.

"(Kevin's) a very strong and wholehearted swimmer," said CC coach Dan Knipper. "I can't wait to see what he can do in college. He was an excellent captain and team leader.

"Best of luck. I wish he were only a junior so I could have him one more year."

Tim Buchanan, junior, Plymouth Salem, 200-yard freestyle: Buchanan qualified for state in three individual events, then scored in three events at the meet.

Individually, Buchanan's best was the 200 free. He placed 10th at state in 1:45.64, avenging his loss in the WLAA finals to Farmington's John Hawkins. He was also part of Salem's two freestyle relay teams, both of which scored at state.

"Tmi has continued with another outstanding season, having qualified for the state meet three-straight years," said Olson. " Tim is also a very team-oriented swimmer."

Steve Domin, junior, Livonia Stevenson, 50-yard freestyle: Few could match Domin's performance in individual events at the state meet.

He scored in two individual events for the Spartans, placing 10th in the 100-yard butterfly in 53.18 and 12th in the 50 freestyle in 21.98 — two events he also won at the WLAA meet. In addition, Domin was an integral part of Stevenson's two state-qualifying relays, the 200 medley and 400 free.

"Steve showed a unique ability to sprint or to swim distance," said Stevenson coach Doug Buckler. "He works very hard and has great leadership abilities. I look forward to his senior year at Stevenson — I know it will be a great one."

Dan Gabriel, junior, North Farmington, 100-yard backstroke: The backstroke was Gabriel's most proficient stroke, and he proved it at the state finals.

Gabriel placed fifth at the Class A final with his best time of the season, 52.96. He was also first at the WLAA meet. He holds North's pool and varsity record in the event.

"Dan is the best backstroke swimmer in North Farmington's history," said North coach Duthie. "He works hard for himself and the team. He is very talented and possesses a great competitive spirit."

Nick Sosnowski, junior, Redford Catholic Central, 200-yard individual medley: Sosnowski was another Observer-area swimmer who was good enough to score in two individual events at state, and the only CC swimmer to do it.

In the 100-yard backstroke, Sosnowski finished ninth in the state, his best time 54.05. In the 200 IM, Sosnowski was 11th, his best time 1:58.91.

"He's a very strong all-around swimmer," said CC's Knipper. "We're looking for great things to come from Nick next year."

Keith Falk, sophomore, Livonia Stevenson, 500-yard freestyle: Like his teammate Domin, Falk also scored in two individual events at the state final.

In the 200 free, Falk placed 11th in 1:46.73; in the 500 free, he was 12th in 4:50.29.

Falk also demonstrated an ability at various distances and in differrent events. He was clocked at 48.71 in the 100 free and at 2:01.62 in the 200 IM.

"Keith is one of the best young swimmers in the state," said Buckler of Stevenson. "His ability to swim all the events, and swim them in state-cut times, is very rare. Keith's work in the pool is matched by no one. If he picks up his level of training in the off-season, look for some great swims out of him in '97-98."

Alex Rottgers, sophomore, Plymouth Canton, 100-yard breaststroke: Rottgers saved his best for last.

Throughout the season, he was consistently in the 1:01.5 range in the 100 breast — until the state finals.

In the preliminaries, Rottgers narrowly missed the championship heat, going 1:00.2. He did even better than that in the consolation finals, placing seventh in 59.86.

"He's one of the hardest workers I've ever coached," said Canton coach Kyle Lott. "He's also mentally tough and one of the hardest racers I've ever coached."

Redford Catholic Central, 200-yard medley relay: Nick Sosnowski, Paul Connolly, Matt Baran and Kevin Reinke combined to give CC a formidable team, one that finished seventh at state in a season's best time of 1:39.72 — a more than six-second drop from their second-place time at the Catholic League meet.

And here's something to concern other coaches: "There's only one senior on this relay, so next year should be just as fast, if not faster," said CC's Knipper.

Plymouth Salem, 200-yard freestyle relay: Andrew Locke, Tim Buchanan, Kyle Petroskey and Nick Corden combined to give the Rocks points at the state meet, placing 10th in 1:28.49.

Which made them the fastest sprint free relay team in Observerland. Their time at state was more than two seconds faster than their first-place time at the WLAA championship meet.

Plymouth Salem, 400-yard freestyle relay: Tim Buchanan, Mark Dettling, Kyle Petroskey and Nick Corden combined to make the fastest 400 free relay ever for the Rocks — 3:14.03, a time that earned them a fifth-place finish at the state final.

Salem also ruled in the WLAA championships. The school record the Rocks broke dated back to 1990.

SECOND TEAM

Mark Dettling, senior, Plymouth Salem, 100-yard butterfly: On a team that had only a few seniors to look to, Dettling helped provide the leadership.

The team co-captain qualified for the state meet in three individual events: the 200 free, the 100 fly and the 100 back. In the 100 fly, he was 18th at state in 54.29; in the 200 free, he was 19th in 1:47.95.

"Mark has been one of the most versatile swimmers in the history of Plymouth Salem, with the ability and drive to be successful in any event," said Salem's Olson. "He's a great leader in both the pool and the in the classroom (4.2 GPA)."

John Hawkins, senior, Farmington, 200-yard freestyle: Hawkins' coach at Farmington, Ross Bandy, can tell you that Hawkins "is the hardest-working individual I have every worked with." But not many prove it like Hawkins did.

At the WLAA finals, Hawkins trimmed 4 1/2 seconds off his previous best time in the 200 free (to 1:47.83) and eight seconds off his 500 free clocking (4:52.43) to win both events.

"John is an outstanding individual and an excellent student," said Bandy. "He leaves Farmington HS as one of the most respected swimmers and captains the school has ever had."

J.P. Merchant, senior, Redford Catholic Central, 500-yard freestyle: Merchant made it to the state meet and finished 19th in the 500 free (4:53.07). At the Catholic League finals, he was second in both the 200 free and 500 free.

"He is one of the best leaders on the team," said CC's Knipper. "He was always there and always ready to work hard.

"What more can you ask for?"

Jeff Thomas, senior, Farmington, diving: Thomas started diving from scratch as a freshman. By the time he reached senior status, he was Oakland County champion, finishing third in the WLAA and second at the state regionals.

He also broke the school diving record and the pool record, which had stood for 20 years.

"Jeff brought exposure to Farmington HS like no other individual in my 13 years of coaching," said the Falcons' Bandy. "He is a hard-working young man who has made his mark and left a very positive influence on Farmington HS with his diving and his leadership."

Paul Connolly, junior, Redford Catholic Central, 100-yard breaststroke: Talk about peaking at the proper time.

Connolly finished third at the Catholic League meet in 1:04.27. In the Class A state finals, he took more than four seconds off that time, placing ninth in the state in 1:00.17.

"He's a very solid breaststroker," said CC's Knipper. "With a little more training and development, he will be a top contender next year."

Nick Corden, junior, Plymouth Salem, 100-yard freestyle: Corden was not one to mope when things went wrong, and in his first day of qualifying at state meet, things went poorly.

He battled back, however, and the next day on the two relays he swam on, Corden showed his true ability. He had a 48.09 split in the 400 free relay, over a second faster than he had gone the previous day.

At the WLAA meet, Corden was first in the 100 and second in the 50.

"Nick has become one of the fastest freestylers in the state as a junior and with continued practice he could have an outstanding senior year," said Salem's Olson.

Brent Mellis, junior, Plymouth Salem, 200-yard individual medley: The IM and Mellis seem a perfect fit for each other.

Mellis qualified for state meet in two individual events and two relays. He finished 18th at state in the 200 IM in 2:01.65, a five-second drop from his previous season's best. In the 100 backstroke, Mellis was 22nd in 56.25.

At the WLAA finals, Mellis swam the 200 IM and the 500 freestyle, placing sixth in both.

"Brent had his best season as a junior, qualifying for four events at state meet," said Salem's Olson. "He's a very hard worker at practice who is on schedule to have an even better senior year."

Mark Sgriccia, junior, Livonia Stevenson, 100-yard backstroke: His junior season was superb. But his senior year figures to be outstanding.

Sgriccia, as Stevenson coach Buckler described him, is "a rare swimmer at this level because he only swims in high school." With his limited training, Sgriccia still placed 16th in the 100 back at state in 55.63. He narrowly missed qualifying for state in the 100 fly.

"As Mark starts to train in the off-season for the first time this year, I believe he will have major time drops in his events," said Buckler. "I look forward to coaching him next year and watching him have a great year."

Matt Walker, junior, Farmington Harrison, 100-yard breaststroke: There were three Observerland-area swimmers that scored in the 100 breaststroke at state meet. Walker was one of them.

After placing third at the WLAA meet in 1:02.30 (he was also fifth in the WLAA in the 50 free), Walker turned it loose in the state finals, trimming more than two seconds off his time to place ninth in 1:00.18.

Some of the phrases Harrison coach Lisa Collins used to describe Walker: "Very coachable, very competitive, a hard worker, great attitude — once he sets his mind to something, he gets it."

Andrew Locke, sophomore, Plymouth Salem, 50-yard freestyle: What Locke accomplished as a sophomore was certainly solid enough.

He qualified for state in the 50 free, he swam the 50 breast on the 200 medley relay team, and he swam a leg on the 200 free relay team. He placed 33rd at state in the 50 free in 22.69.

"Andrew made great strides in his sophomore year to become an important contributor to Plymouth Salem's fifth WLAA championship in a row," said Salem's Olson.

Livonia Stevenson, 200-yard medley relay: Mark Sgriccia, Keith Falk, Steve Domin and Jacob Varty combined to give the Spartans two things — a 1:40.84, which narrowly missed scoring at state meet, and a promising future.

Sgriccia, Domin and Varty are juniors, and Falk is a sophomore. That means for at least one more year, Stevenson will have a tough team to beat.

North Faimington, 200-yard freestyle relay: Brandon Digia, Matt Zald, Dan Gabriel and Patrick Duthie teammed to give the Raiders a winning combination in both the 200 and 400 free relays.

Their best clocking in the 200 came in a second-place finish at the WLAA meet (1:32.46). They were fourth in the 400 relay at the WLAA finals (3:25.40).

The only senior in the group is Duthie.

Redford Catholic Central, 400-yard freestyle relay: Nick Sosnowski, Ryan Meekins, J.P. Merchant and Kevin Reinke placed ninth at the state final for the Shamrocks in 3:16.16.

CC was also second at the Catholic League finals. "This relay put the icing on the cake," said CC's Knipper. "What a great way to finish the season."

'Smart' airbags the program

Engineers and designers at Johnson Controls Inc., an automotive supplier with plants in Plymouth Township, are aiming to "push the envelope" on vehicle safety. In fact, their focus is on the vehicle "envelope" itself - the passenger compartments of future cars trucks and vans.

"We want to develop total occupant protection that incorporates the most advanced technologies for enhancing safety inside the vehicle," said Bob Velanovich, vice president of worldwide engineering for Johnson Controls Inc.

"As the world's leading producer of seating and a full range of interior designs, we are unique because we take a comprehensive approach in developing a totally integrated safety package for vehicle interiors," Velanovich continued.

To accomplish their goal, Johnson Controls Inc. will join efforts with Prince, its wholly owned subsidiary, and several strategic partners to create: a more robust all-belts-to-seat system, "smart" air bag systems linked to occupant sensors, new interior components with integrated air bags which would offer more extensive body protection; advance and repositioned interior components (headrests, headliners, armrests) which would absorb more energy in vehicle crashes, and an emergency crash notification technology which would automatically summon help when an air bag deploys. It would even tell rescue teams the location of the accident.

Velanovich believes the market is asking for these precautions.

"There's an urgency to do everything we can to make cars safer," he said. "And automakers increasingly rely on their top suppliers to develop, evaluate and produce safety technologies that are innovative, viable and cost-effective."

The Automotive Systems Group of Johnson Controls Inc. is the world's largest supplier of vehicle seating and interior systems. In 1996, the company's worldwide operations manufactured seats for more than 9.3 million vehicles, achieving $5.3 billion in sales. During the same period, Johnson Controls Inc. recorded sales of $10 billion.

S'craft to host open house

Schoolcraft College will host an open house Sunday, April 13 for the general public to tour the campus and explore the range of programs available to persons of all ages.

As the community resource for lifelong learning, the college's various divisions will present information for graduating high school seniors, for adults who have not attended college or have some college but have not completed a degree, for those seeking personal enrichment courses and for parents seeking summer enrichment courses for their children.

Visitors may drop in anytime between noon and 3 p.m., take guided tours of the campus and talk with current Schoolcraft students. Prospective students can learn about admissions, financial aid, career planning, tutoring, student activities and athletics, weekend college and distance learning, and Continuing Education Services.

Several departments will provide informational materials, faculty members to answer questions, or hands-on demonstrations to acquaint visitors with their degree programs. Public Safety will display the EMT, fire and police vehicles; culinary arts will have an ice carving and table display; computer assisted drafting will demonstrate software; and continuing education services will have material on its talented and gifted program for children.

For information, call the Office of Admissions at (313) 462-4426.

Independence Day.

Meet the Women in America who pushed the boundaries
March 22 & 23
Come explore the lives of women in history who challenged their male-dominated society and pushed the boundaries of what they were allowed to do. Talk with an independent woman of 1894 whose bloomers gave her "bicycling freedom" but raised a lot of eyebrows! Join a group of women suffragists in a rally for their right to vote. And much, much more. You'll get to know the extraordinary women who changed the way Americans viewed the so-called "fairer" sex.

appliance doctor

Companies leery of writer

JOE GAGNON

There's a guy out there doing talk radio about the appliance industry and helping close to half a million consumers with their questions each week. He contacts two of the leading manufacturers of appliances in this country, and because he feels they build a pretty good product, he suggests that they might want to advertise on his radio show.

Their response is to act like they've been kissed by a vampire. Isn't it strange that company who spends millions in advertising wouldn't want to become a member of the monster's team. Wouldn't or shouldn't they want to stand on the side of righteousness in this world of today and benefit from the reputation of one man. There is something seriously wrong here ladies and gentlemen and I will tell you what it is.

They don't have the guts to stand up and admit to a problem which occurs within their products, until it's much too late of has been forced on them by others.

On Jan. 16, you read a column in this newspaper written by the monster about a certain brand of dryer catching fire because of a defective motor switch. This switch allowed the gas valve to stay on even though the dryer was not operating. I informed you that I would soon be testifying in a court case involving this brand of dryer, and I also reproduced a letter from a lady in Livonia who had a dryer fire with the same brand. I wonder if it is this kind of pressure that continues to keep the manufacturers from becoming a part of the Appliance Doctor show. If it is, it is very small in their thinking, and I don't want them as an advertiser on my show.

This column that I write is designed to educate you as a consumer on the subject of the major appliance industry. I enjoy what I do for people, even if it makes the big guys look bad sometimes.

Imagine what they would think if I published all the service bulletins they sent out to the service industry on problems that occur after they have sold the product. I wonder how many millions of needless dollars are spent each year by a public which doesn't know because they haven't been told about these problems. It is not fair and it is nor right, it borders on the edge of plain consumer fraud.

If the manufacturers of major home appliances in this country think that Joe Gagnon is such a monster, then let them put their money up front and take him on. They can't get blood out of a rock and if the end result was a different method of operation which resulted in more honest facts being given consumers, so God help me, if would be worth it. – The End.

Flash bulletin just received after I wrote this column – the names of the gas dryers which I wrote about in my January column have just been published by the U.S. Consumer Products

Interest in bread is on the rise in U.S.

RUTH MOSSOK JOHNSTON

North America is finally catching the European wave – bread shops on every corner – actual shops devoted to those wonderful carbohydrate-filled goodies. Bread machines still selling at a fast pace – new models with new gadgetry on the market, bread stones and restaurants with hearth ovens aglow – bagels, bagel machines, and bagel shops aplenty – dough is definitely being spend on dough!

Mark Miller of Coyote Cafe fame, has come out with a brand new book devoted solely to flavored breads ... timely for this full scale bread trend. "Flavored Breads – Recipes from Mark Miller's Coyote Cafe" By Mark Miller and Andrew Maclauchlan with John Harrisson. Published by Ten Speed Press, 1996. Soft bound $19.95

The following recipe is from Miller's book – it not only encompasses the bread trend, but also the hottest grain on the market – quinoa (pronounced Keen-wah). Quinoa has been around since the time of the ancient Incas ("the mother grain"). Considered the "super-grain of the late '90s, it contains double the amount of protein of most grains and complete with all the 8 essential amino acids. The small, bead shaped particles expand to four times original size. This super grain is an alternative to rice and can be substituted for that grain in most recipes. Quinoa is found at all health food stores and specialty food shops (like The Merchant of Vino).

RED SAGE QUINOA BREAD

"The combination of sage and quinoa results in an aromatic, earthy bread that's good with chicken dishes, including chicken soup."

1 cup quinoa
2 1/2 cups water
1 cup lukewarm water
2 tablespoons lukewarm milk
2 tablespoons canola or corn oil
2 teaspoons active dry yeast

Dry Ingredients

1/2 cup whole-wheat flour
3 cups bread flour
3 tablespoons dried rubbed sage
12 fresh sage leaves, coarsely chopped
1 tablespoon chile molido (freshly ground pure chile powder)
2 1/2 teaspoons salt

1. Place the quinoa and 2 1/2 cups water in a saucepan and bring to a boil.

2. Lower the heat to a simmer and cook for 20-25 minutes, or until the quinoa expands and becomes fluffy.

3. Drain the quinoa and place in a mixing bowl; there should be about 2 cups of cooked quinoa. Set aside.

4. Combine the 1 cup water, the milk, and oil in the bowl of a heavy-duty electric mixer or in a large mixing bowl.

5. Sprinkle the yeast over the mixture, stir in, and let sit for 2 minutes.

6. Add the cooked quinoa and dry ingredients.

7. Mix with the dough hook (or knead by hand) for 8 to 10 minutes, or until the dough appears silky and resilient.

8. Transfer the dough to a lightly oiled bowl and cover with plastic wrap.

9. Let rise in a warm place for 1 1/2 hours, or until approximately doubled in volume.

10. Punch the dough down re-cover with plastic wrap, and let rise again in a warm place for 30 minutes.

11. Place a baking stone on the middle rack in the oven and preheat to 400 degrees F.

12. Place the dough on a lightly floured work surface and cut into 2 equal pieces.

Antique shows go on-line

Antique Networking and Michael Butler, co-owner of M&M Enterprises, a Detroit area-based antiques show production company, are teaming up to bring antique shows into the 21st century.

Antique Networking, a large database of antiques on the Internet, offers on-line show previews through the World Wide Web. Anyone with access to the Internet can go to http://www.antiqnet.com and click on the icon for "Show Previews." There browsers will find a calendar of M&M Enterprises' shows listed along with a list of exhibitors at each event.

Exhibitors who are members of Antique Networking are displaying examples of their inventory. Show Previews allows individuals interested in particular items to contact the dealer by phone, fax or e-mail and ask that these items be brought to a show.

For information about Antique Networking or Show Previews, call Antique Networking at (800) 400-8674.

"People may not want to spend hundreds or even thousands of dollars on a piece that they haven't seen, touched and examined," said Kathy Kamnikar, Antique Networking president. "It's all part of antiquing."

Toy soldiers spark childhood memories

BY HUGH GALLAGHER
Staff Writer

For Carlos Araujo of Bloomfield Township, toy soldier collecting was a call back to childhood.

"It's almost the same story for any collector," Araujo said. "You collect as a kid, you grow up, become interested in girls and stop playing with toy soldiers; and then something happens, you come across a piece and the nostalgia kicks in and hooks you."

That nostalgia for childhood has attracted about 200 Michigan collectors to form the Michigan Toy Soldier Collectors club which meets every other month 2:30-5 p.m. at the Livonia Senior Center, 1518 Farmington Road. The next meeting is scheduled for April 27.

A recent show in Ann Arbor sponsored by the club attracted several hundred collectors from throughout the area.

Rick Berry, who operates the Michigan Toy Soldier Co. out of his Off-the-Record store in Royal Oak, said the club originally met at old Fort Wayne in Detroit but then was disbanded. The club reformed about two years ago, attracting a diverse group of people who enjoy collecting and displaying toy soldiers.

"I collect American Civil War, also European plastic, quite extensive. I collect a little of everything," Berry said.

"Guys who played with toy soldiers in the '30s and '40s collect dimestores, guys from the '50s collect composition, babyboomers collect plastics."

Each age group seems drawn to the type of soldier that was being sold when they were children.

Evidence of toy soldier collecting can be found on Egyptian tombs dating back 2,000 years, but toy soldiers as we know them became a popular toy in the 18th and 19th century, particularly in Germany where flat and solid lead figures were made. The modern era for toy soldiers began in Great Britain in the 1890s with the William Britain Co. and its development of 54mm hollow-cast lead soldiers. American lead soldiers were being produced beginning in 1898 using a hollow cast method. They were sold in 5 and 10 stores and so were called "dimestores."

Lead soldiers were followed by "composition soldiers" made from a wood, glue material. Plastic toys were introduced in the 1940s and in the 1950s the Louis Marx Co. began mass producing plastic soldier sets.

"The key is that when you see something it triggers memories," Araujo said.

Araujo primarily collects First and Second World War soldiers, some British pre-World War I and some cowboy and Indian.

"I'm 59. All the people in my age group are into composition pieces because that's what they collected," Araujo said.

"Plastic, everybody in their 30s and early 40s collect those because the rest were gone. Britain stopped making lead soldiers in the '60s because of British laws against lead in toys.

"It all refers back to what they played with as kids."

Paul Cirocco of Livonia collected toy soldiers as a child, but today he makes toy soldiers full time for collectors.

"I got into manufacturing sideways," Cirocco said. "I used to repair antiques that were damaged for collectors and replicated pieces that were missing. Then I began designing new ones for collectors."

Cirocco makes tin soldiers using a complex casting procedure and then he handpaints each piece in glossy paint. He does British Victorian, American Revolution and French and Indian War primarily.

Cirocco's most famous client was the late publishing magnate Malcolm Forbes, who collected toy soldiers in the same grand manner that he collected hot air balloons and motorcycles.

The primary purpose of collecting toy soldiers is to display them. Some collectors use curio cabinets, some put them on bookshelves or mantels and some construct elaborate historical dioramas. Here, too, Forbes set a high standard.

"Malcolm Forbes dedicated a palace in Morrocco to toy soldiers," Cirocco said. "The layout was custom designed for the palace. My work for Forbes is on sand tables designed for the room, but not everybody has Malcolm Forbes' resources."

Araujo said the hobby attracts many successful people. He said in the Bloomfield area he knows of a banker, a doctor and a stockbroker who collect different kinds of toy soldiers. Araujo is himself a successful businessman who recently sold Eaton Air Filter, a company he continues to manage.

But Araujo added that the hobby is broad enough that young beginners can start collecting plastic pieces for a couple of dollars. Elaborately detailed lead and composition pieces and pieces with a special lineage can go for hundreds and thousands of dollars. Forbes' collection was valued at between $10 million and $20 million.

Toy soldier collectors are not, for the most part, war game players.

"They use the pieces for the game. With us the emphasis is on the pieces, not as a game," Araujo said.

And the emphasis is on displaying the pieces in attractive settings as a reminder of pleasant childhood memories.

For information on the Michigan Toy Soldier Collectors, call Will Beierwaltes, (313)331-3072.

Easter Lily: Lovely symbol of season

MARTY FIGLEY

Happy first day of spring!

Easter will be celebrated March 30 this year, and since the Easter Lily is the traditional flower of the season, I thought you might enjoy a bit of history about this lovely flower, compliments of the Easter Lily Research Foundation, Encinitas, Calif.

The Easter Lily, Lilium longiflorum, is native to the southern islands of Japan. It was widely cultivated in Bermuda in the 1880s when bulbs arrived in this country. Japan was the leading exporter of Easter Lilies to the United States until the start of World War II.

In 1919, a World War I soldier, Louis Houghton, brought a suitcase full of hybrid lily bulbs to the south coast of Oregon and shared them with his friends and neighbors. With the attack on Pearl Harbor, the supply from Japan was cut off and the cost of the bulbs rose dramatically.

Those people in Oregon decided to "cash in" on the bulbs, which were then called "White Gold." By 1945 there were about 1,200 growers producing the bulbs from Vancouver, Canada, to Long Beach, Calif. However, producing consistent lily bulbs was a demanding science (and specific climatic requirements were needed), thus many of the new businesses closed.

Finally, just 10 farms in an isolated coastal region straddling the Oregon-California border remained and the region became the Easter Lily Capital of the World, now producing nearly all the bulbs for blooming potted Easter Lilies.

It takes three to four years of cultivation before the bulbs are ready for shipment to commercial greenhouse growers. Because the bulbs are never dormant, they require constant attention.

Each bulb is handled up to 40 times before it is ready to be shipped. A small bulblet grows underground on the stem of its mother plant, then when "she" is harvested the bulblet is carefully removed and set in another field. In one year, this yearling is dug up again, then replanted in a new field for another full year of cultivation, eventually reaching full maturity to a commercial bulb.

All the steps of harvesting, propagation, cleaning, grading, sorting, packing and cooling are done in the fall, then the bulbs are shipped to growers throughout the United States and Canada where they are forced to flower in time for Easter. Easter isn't always celebrated the same time each year, so crop scheduling is critical.

The Easter Lily symbolizes purity, virtue, innocence, hope and life and commemorates the resurrection of Jesus. The flower is mentioned numerous times in the Bible, including the reference to it in the Sermon on the Mount. Lilies were found growing in the Garden of Gethsemane after Christ's suffering; tradition tells us that lilies sprung up where drops of his sweat fell to the ground during his ordeal.

We often see paintings of the Virgin Mary that include pure white lilies.

Care

When choosing an Easter Lily, look for high quality plants with flowers in various stages of ripeness. One with one or two open or partially open blooms and three or more unopened buds of different sizes would be a good choice.

As the flowers mature, remove the yellow anthers before the pollen starts to shed. This keeps it from staining the white blooms and extends the flower

The modern bath is a quiet retreat

Q: Do you have any criteria for beginning to design a bathroom and what to expect during a bath remodel?

A: The American attitude toward the bath is definitely changing. The modern bath is becoming a retreat. There is a trend toward bigger bathrooms. This is no longer a minor room in the home and is ranked as the most expensive per square foot project in the entire house. It also requires more planning. Timing and speed are the two most important requirements when remodeling a bath because no one wants to be without the bathroom for too long. In addition to the questions below, you may be interested in some of the new trends in bathroom design that includes: a shower with a rain bar, in-line heaters in the tub, radiant floor heating, towel warmers and steam showers.

Try to include natural lighting as much as possible in the bath. Skylights, picture windows and roof windows all help to create a perfect bath. Imagine taking a long soak while watching the stars come out.

NARI MICHIGAN REMODELING ASSOCIATION

Most families inlcude two working adults who both need to get ready at the same time in the morning. These homeowners want two lavatories and maneuvering room for two, but they still want to maintain their privacy.

Another quality many homeowners are seeking to maintain is their safety. Accidents in the bath account for approximately 25 percent of all household mishaps, and slips, falls and hot water burns top the list.

Below are a few questions you can ask when considering the design and function of a new bathroom.

- What features would make the bath more comfortable?
- How many people will be using it?
- Are there enough sinks and counter space for everyone?
- Are there enough baths in the house or should you consider adding another room?
- Do you prefer showers or baths? Maybe you would like a tub and shower combination or separate facilities.
- Do you have adequate storage? Make a list of everything you intend to store in the bath. This list also should include cleaning agents, toiletries, linens, first aid items and medications. Indicate on this list where in the room you would like to store everything.
- Have you considered the lighting in your bath?
- If it is going to be a shared bath for the family, would a separation of the sinks from the rest of the room be helpful?
- Have you considered newer water-saving fixtures?

Be sure to do your homework and then budget the functionality into your design. There are probably 20 different ways to take a shower nowadays. You must be aware of the options if you are going to get the right design.

Take your time to design this part of your home. It could be your most treasured retreat.

13. Grease two loaf pans or generously dust a baking sheet with whole-wheat flour.

14. Shape the dough into oblong loaves. Alternatively, divide it into 14 to 16 rolls.

15. Place the loaves in the prepared loaf pans or on the baking sheet (or place the rolls on the baking sheet), cover with lightly oiled plastic wrap, and rise again in a warm place for 30 minutes.

16. Uncover the loaves (or rolls) and, using a spray bottle, spritz them with water and lightly dust with (rye) flour.

17. Make 2 or 3 diagonal slashes in the tops of the loaves with a serrated knife to allow the dough to expand in the hot oven.

18. Using the spray bottle, spritz the oven walls with water. Work quickly so the oven does not lose heat.

19. Set the loaf pans or baking sheet on the hot stone.

20. Bake for 35 to 40 minutes (20-25 minutes for rolls). The bread is done when the crust is crisp and dark brown and the loaves sound hollow when tapped on the bottom.

21. Let the bread cool in the pans or on the baking sheet for 10 minutes.

22. Transfer the loaves (or rolls) to a rack and cool before cutting.

Yield: 2 loaves or 14 to 16 rolls

Bread Machine Instructions

1. Combine the ingredients, except the fresh sage, in the bread pan in the order specified by the manufacturer's instructions.

2. Process on the sweet or raisin bread setting (#8).

3. Add the fresh sage at the beeps.

Another bread recipe – this one I frequently use especially when I have an extra can of beer left after making a big pot of chili – BEER BREAD. This super easy recipe is great served with Chili or Stew.

BEER BREAD - 1 LOAF

3 cups self-rising flour

1/3 cup sugar

Pinch of sea salt

1 can of light-beer

Preheat oven to 350 degrees F.

In a large bowl, combine all the ingredients. Mix well. Pour the batter into a greased and floured standard size loaf pan. Bake for approximately 50 minutes or until bread loaf is nicely browned. Remove from baking pan, let cool slightly before serving.

life. When the flowers start to decline, cut them off. Good, dark, rich green foliage all the way down to the soil line indicates a good, healthy root system.

Remove wrapping from the plant when you get it home and keep it in a room with temperatures ranging from 60 to 65 degrees F. It likes slightly cooler nighttime temperatures. Don't place plants near excessive heat sources. Bright, indirect natural daylight, not glaring, direct sun, is the preferred location indoors. Keep the soil moderately moist and well drained.

When flowering is over, set them in a sunny location and continue to water as needed. Add one teaspoon of slow-release 19-6-12 fertilizer every six weeks. Next time I'll share outdoor planting.

■ Interior designer Clodagh will give a lively presentation on her comprehensive approach to interior architecture in the ArchiLECTURE 7:30 p.m. Thursday, March 20, in the College of Architecture and Design Auditorium at Lawrence Technological University, on 10 Mile near Evergreen in Southfield. Clodagh's New York-based firm, Clodagh Design International, creates environments that involve the five senses and all of the elements (earth, fire, water and air).

■ World famous fashion designer Alexander Julian will be on hand to introduce three special new collections to his Home Colours furniture line during a special benefit for Children's Hospital of Michigan 6-9 p.m. Thursday, March 20, at the Scott Shuptrine Fine Furniture Showroom, 977 E. 14 Mile in Troy.

Those attending will be able to meet Julian and see three new additions to his Home Colours furniture line: Chapel Hill, Old East and the Restoration Collection. A silent auction will also take place.

Tickets are $30 each, which includes wine and hors d'oeuvres served by renowned chef Jimmy Schmidt of The Rattlesnake Club. Call (810) 589-1100 for information.

All proceeds will support the Children's Research Center of Michigan, which is striving to raise $20 million for pediatric medical research over the next five years.

■ Neiman Marcus introduces "Antiques for Entertaining," an exclusive selection of tea-related items originating from Europe. Each piece was collected by New York City antique dealers Lynn and Arnold Feld, who have traveled the English countryside for years searching for rare and exquisite tea accessories. Lynn Feld will be present 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. Saturday, March 22, in the Neiman Marcus Gift Galleries on Level Three at the Somerset Collection, Big Beaver Road and Coolidge in Troy. The collection is a melange of antique and vintage china, silver, linens and table accessories.

■ Paterson Carney Florist offers a series of classes 6-7:30 p.m. Thursdays in its shop at 239 Pierce, one block south of Maple and one block west of Woodward in Birmingham. Advance registration is necessary; call (810) 647-7477. "Creating a Wall Swag" is the March 27 class. Participants will use a huckleberry vine base, filling it in with real foliage (which dries to wonderful shades and textures) and adding silk or dried flowers. The $15 fee covers the instruction, huckleberry and foliage. You may buy silk or dried flowers at the store. Bring wire cutters, scissors and pruning shears. Color or fabric swatches from home are helpful.

■ The Southfield Americana Antiques Show and Sale, featuring more than 100 Americana dealers from across the country, will take place Friday-Sunday, March 21-23, at the Southfield Civic Center, 26000 Evergreen.

OSCAR

FINALLY COMES OF AGE

BY JOHN MONAGHAN
SPECIAL WRITER

With age comes wisdom. At 69, the Academy Awards appear to be living up to that old saying. Think about it: Both Madonna and Courtney Love were snubbed for Best Actress nominations. Billy Crystal has again agreed to host.

And while my favorite film of last year, "Lone Star," could easily have replaced "Jerry Maguire" in the Best Picture category, the other choices are surprisingly sane. "Shine," "Fargo," "The English Patient," and "Secrets and Lies" were all among the most challenging films of last year.

The thought of any one of them winning helps counter the ill feelings I usually harbor against Hollywood's highest honor. With only one of these films ("Fargo") available on video, all five nominees can still be found at the local multiplex.

The Birmingham Theatre has gone a step further with its "Best of the Academy" film festival, running from March 14 right up until Oscar night on the 24th. Moviegoers can check out films separately or in packages that include a $125 black tie benefit with a live broadcast of the Oscars projected on the movie screen (see related story below).

For the past few weeks, names have been added daily to the presenters' list. You can compare fashion tips with the likes of Sigourney Weaver, Chris Farley, Nicole Kidman, Bette Midler, Julia Roberts, Nicolas Cage, and Kenneth Branagh, just to name a few.

Rumor still has it that David Helfgott, the real-life pianist portrayed in "Shine," will perform at the ceremonies, despite savage reviews he received when he took his piano on the road last month. He'll certainly be in the neighborhood, with a Los Angeles performance scheduled for the next night.

I've seen almost all of the pictures in the major categories, but it still doesn't give me much of an edge in the office Oscar pool. You might remember me as one of the few pigheaded critics to predict a "Babe" sweep last year.

■ Best Picture: "The English Patient" should win simply because it appeals to so many audiences on so many levels. It's a romance and an adventure; it has sex, violence and great performances. It really was the best crafted movie of the year.

■ Best Director: Though it could easily sweep in every category, this award belongs to "The English Patient's" Anthony Minghella, who has been rightly compared to fellow Brit David Lean for his ability to make a "personal" epic. It never loses its human side in all the sweeping grandeur.

■ Best Actress: Frances McDormand deserves it for her portrayal of "Fargo's" very pregnant Northern Minnesota sheriff. She politely conducts her murder investigation while questioning a violent world she's bringing a child into. She gave the Coen Brothers' low-budget mystery a moral center lacking in most films of its type.

■ Best Actor: "Shine" did so primarily because of Geoffrey Rush, the oldest of three actors to play the crazed concert pianist. Though I found the movie overbearing at times, Rush's ramblings made for inspired acting.

■ Best Supporting Actress: As the only nominee in any category who represents Old Hollywood, Lauren Bacall will probably cop the award for a half century of service. I steered clear of "The Mirror Has Two Faces," but still have fond memories of her in "The Big Sleep" and "Written on the Wind."

■ Best Supporting Actor: Armin Mueller-Stahl played to perfection "Shine's" overbearing father, a holocaust survivor who relentlessly pushed his talented pianist son to the brink of insanity.

■ Best Screenplay Written Directly for the Screen: If there's any order in the universe, John Sayles should take this, the only nomination for his "Lone Star." The story of a murder investigation in a small Texas border town had vivid characters, a compelling mystery, and probably the best movie twist last year.

■ Best Cinematography: "Evita" was a knockout, with a cast of thousands and Madonna lit like Garbo in closeups, but it still looked too much like a music video. From the first incredible shots of the rippling sands from above the plane, "The English Patient" was a study in the lost art of epic filmmaking.

■ Best Foreign Language Film: The screwy nominating procedure (each country sponsors one film) leads to equally screwy voting in this category. The reviews were most favorable for "Kolya," a Czech film about a bankrupt cellist who enters into a marriage of convenience. Two other films, "A Chef in Love" (Georgia) and "The Other Side of Sunday" (Norway) have yet to be released here.

John Monaghan welcomes your calls and comments. You can listen to him on Dave Dixon's Radio Show AM 1270, 8 p.m. to midnight Saturdays. To leave John a voice mail message, dial (313) 953-2047 on a touch-tone phone, mailbox 1866.

Lights, camera, action – celebrate the Oscars

BY KEELY WYGONIK
STAFF WRITER

They'll be rolling out the red carpet, turning on search lights, and dressing up, at The Excalibur in Southfield, Birmingham Theatre, and Intermezzo in Detroit to celebrate Oscar Night on March 24.

Local entrepreneurs David Trepeck and Carole Ilitch Trepeck of The Birmingham Theatre kicked off their first Filmfest and Academy Award Party. The "Best of: The Academy, The Birmingham Theatre Filmfest" on March 14.

During the filmfest, which continues to March 23, each of the five films nominated in the "Best Picture" category – "Jerry Maguire," "Shine," "The English Patient," "Fargo," and "Secret and Lies," will be shown at the theater.

The festival culminates Oscar Night with a black-tie party featuring simulcast of the awards, special guests, food, red carpet, lights, live auction, prizes and excitement. Event proceeds benefit The Karmanos Cancer Institute and The Variety Club.

Look for familiar faces such as Madonna (as Eva Peron), Jack Nicholson and Marilyn Monroe sprinkled throughout the Oscar gala crowd.

The live auction at the gala will feature such one-of-a-kind packages as: a Sundance Film Festival package, an "on the fly with the Red Wings" package, a David Helfgott tour weekend package and a Detroit Tigers Fantasy Camp package.

"We're excited to introduce the first Birmingham Theatre Filmfest," said Carole Illitch Trepeck. "The festival will provide an opportunity for everyone to view this year's Academy nominees, and to cast their own votes. It's a fun way to give something back to the community. This is the first of many festivals to be held at the Birmingham Theatre. The filmfest and Academy Award night party promise to be remembered by all for a long time to come."

Birmingham Theatre Filmfest tickets are now on sale at the theater, and can be purchased for an individual film, or for event packages which are priced at $45 and $125.

The $45 per person tickets include admission to the five movies nominated for Best Picture of the year.

poster, T-shirt, two passes for a film to be shown at the theater in the future, and chance to win a premiere ticket for unlimited movies at the Birmingham Theatre.

Those purchasing the $125 ticket receive admission to the five "Best Pictures of the Year," T-shirt, poster, and admission to the Oscar gala on March 24.

Excalibur

Excalibur started hosting its Oscar Night party five years ago because "there was no place in Detroit that was doing it," said general manager Victor Dazbaz. "Most people dress in black tie, we put a red carpet outside and search lights."

Chef Vince Bulone prepares the star-studded menu. This year's features Twin City Silver Dollar Mushroom Caps stuffed with crab meat and Minnesota Bleu Cheese; a Mother and Daughter Salad – mixed wild greens with sun dried cherries and pine nuts; "Oscar Melange," – orange glazed chicken breast, English Dover Sole Murat, Roasted Leg of Lamb served with Hush Puppies, and Chocolate Raspberry Piano for dessert.

Prizes will be awarded to those who correctly guess the Oscar winners in the top 10 categories. Reservations are a must, seating is limited.

Oscar Night America

Royal Oak filmmaker Sue Marx received an Oscar in 1988 for "Young At Heart," a documentary, and is a voting member for the Academy of Motion Picture Arts & Science. But this year she'll be in Detroit, not L.A. to celebrate at the official Oscar Night America Party to benefit Detroit Film Theatre.

"It's going to be great," she said. "I was planning to go to the awards until this dropped in my lap. The Academy approached the DIA and asked if we would like to host a party," explained Marx who is chairman of the Cinematic Arts Council of the DIA.

The evening begins with a buffet supper and open bar. Among the celebrities attending are Elmore Leonard and his wife. There will also be celebrity look-alikes, dancing to the Edge, Earl Klugh's back-up group, a live auction with a variety of prizes including autographed movie posters, and Oscar Derby.

Guests are being asked to "Look Hollywood" – dress in creative black tie, as movie stars, or in their best Hollywood attire. They'll be able to watch the Academy Awards on a large screen TV.

"Come early and stay late," said Marx. The event is being underwritten by Pontiac, GMC Division, General Motors Corporation in cooperation with ABC sations, WXYZ-TV and WJR radio who will be broadcasting live 8-9 p.m. from the event.

Who does Marx favor to win Best Picture? She won't say, but admitted she loved three movies this year – "Shine," "Fargo," and English Patient."

Oscar contenders – The theater has gotten ahold of all five contenders for the Best Picture Oscar for a limited engagement through March 24. "Shine," "Fargo," "Secrets and Lies," "The English Patient" and "Jerry Maguire" can be seen individually or in special packages that include a black tie gala and simulcast viewing of the Academy Awards on March 24.

Detroit Film Theatre Detroit Institute of Arts, 5200 Woodward Ave., Detroit. Call (313) 833-2323 for information. ($5; $4 students)

"Le Samourai" (France - 1967). March 21-23 (call for show times). The legendary gangster film from Jean-Pierre Melville features Alain Delon as an ice-cold contract killer who lives by a personal code of honor.

William Castle Night - "The Tingler" (USA -1959) and "13 Ghosts" (USA - 1960). Starts at 7 p.m. March 24. Two offerings from the master of monster gimmicks. Vincent Price stars in the first, as a scientist who discovers a large, caterpillar-like creature that attaches to your spine just when you get the urge to scream. You'll need special "ghost viewers" (free with your ticket) to see the spirits in the second feature.

Magic Bag Theatre 22920 Woodward, Ferndale. Call (810) 544-3030 for information. Freak Shows - "Freaks" (USA - 1932) and "Freaked" (USA - 1993). Starts at 9 p.m. March 25. The first is the legendary Todd Browning horror film about the personal lives of circus sideshow performers and what happens when one breaks "the code of the freaks." The second is a low-budget horror comedy about a TV star turned into a grotesque beast by a mad scientist. Shown on big-screen video. (Free)

"The Breakfast Club" (USA - 1985). 9:30 p.m. March 26. Perhaps the best-realized of the John Hughes "Brat Pack" pictures. Emilio Estevez, Judd Nelson, Molly Ringwald, and Anthony Michael Hall spend an eventful morning in Saturday detention, where they learn to break down the barriers of status and stereotype. ($2).

Main Art Theatre 118 N. Main Street at 11 Mile, Royal Oak. Films play through at least Thursday, unless noted otherwise. Call (810) 542-0180 for information and show times. ($6.50; $4 students, seniors and matinee; $3 twilight

"Kolya" (Czechoslovakia - 1996). This Oscar-nominated foreign film finds a marriage of convenience turn into a personal revolution for a middle-aged, down-on-his-luck cellist.

"Hamlet" (USA - 1997). Kenneth Branagh's latest version of the Shakespeare classic runs at its true length of nearly four hours (with intermission). But this shouldn't keep you away from the year's first epic film experience, a tour de force for star/director Branagh, who has compiled a most eclectic cast including Billy Crystal, Jack Lemmon, Kate Winslett, and Robin Williams.

"Waiting for Guffman" (USA - 1997). Christopher Guest, best known as a founding member of the fake rock group Spinal Tap, creates his own mock documentary about a small town in Missouri staging a sesquicentennial pageant. Guest co-wrote and directed the low-budget film, and even stars as Corky St. Clair, the high school drama teacher who helms the show with hilarious results.

"The Godfather" (USA - 1972). The success of the "Star Wars" rereleases has all the studios looking in the attics. Francis Coppola's seems like a good place to start, the still-influential gangster epic that gave Marlon Brando his greatest role as Don Corleone and launched the career of Al Pacino. (Starts Friday)

Maple Theatre 4135 W. Maple, Bloomfield. All titles play through at least next Thursday, unless noted otherwise. Call (810) 855-9090 for information. ($6; $2.95 twilight)

"Sling Blade" (USA - 1996). Billy Bob Thornton wrote, directed, and stars in this portrait of a middle-aged man released from a mental institution after 30 years. He must somehow assimilate back into the community where he committed a grizzly murder. Nominated for best actor and screenplay honors, Thornton's first feature also boasts surprising performances from Dwight Yoakam and John Ritter.

Michigan Theatre 603 E. Liberty Street, Ann Arbor. Call (313) 668-8397 for information. ($5; $4 students)

"The Graduate" (USA - 1967). Through March 25. This sixties landmark only looks better with age. Dustin Hoffman is the college grad who lands in an affair with one of his parent's cocktail party friends. Then he makes the mistake of falling for her daughter. Redford Theatre 13671 Lahser (at Grand River), Detroit. Call (313) 537-2560 for information. ($2.50)

"The Robe" (USA - 1953). 8 p.m. March 21; 2, 8 p.m. March 22 (organ overture begins a half hour before show time). This lavish Biblical epic, based on Lloyd C. Douglas' best seller, is better known as the first movie released in CinemaScope.

'Velveteen Rabbit' hops into Music Hall

Hop over to Youtheatre this weekend to see the "Velveteen Rabbit." Show times are 11 a.m. and 2 p.m. Saturday, March 22; and 2 p.m. Sunday, March 23 at Music Hall, 350 Madison Avenue, Detroit. Tickets are $7 in advance, $8 at the door. Call (313) 963-2366.

Presented by New York's Theatreworks/USA, "Velveteen Rabbit," is a heartwarming story about a stuffed animal who becomes a real rabbit through a young boy's love. Families may visit with the Youtheatre Bunny Mother, Barnaby Bunny and Benny Bird before, or after the show in the theater lobby.

The show, part of Youtheatre's Wiggle Club Series, is recommended for children ages 3 and above. No one under the age of 3 will be admitted to the theater.

Other activities include a preshow "Playshop" 9:30 a.m. Saturday, March 22 conducted by metro Detroit area performance artist Bobbi Lucas, entitled Bunny Hop Dramatics.

Young people ages 3 and up will laugh, dance and hop till they drop! Tickets for this hands-on workshop are separately priced at $8 per child. Reservations must be made in advance by calling (313) 963-2366.

Also of note:

■ Schoolcraft College's theater department is presenting "Lend Me A Tenor," in a dinner theater setting, with food being served at 6:30 p.m. and the play beginning at 8 p.m. Friday and Saturday, March 28-29 in the Waterman Center on campus, 18600 Haggerty, Livonia. Tickets are $16 per person, reservations are a must. Dinner includes a salad, entree, vegetable, dessert and beverage. The 8 p.m. Friday and Saturday, April 4-5 presentations are the play alone. Tickets are $6.50 per person. Call (313) 462-4400, Ext. 5393 for reservations for the dinner theater and play.

"Lend Me A Tenor" is a farce involving grand opera, a corpse who isn't dead and two singers, both claiming to be the world famous tenor Il Stupendo.

■ Northville's historic Marquis Theatre is presenting "Pooh Visits Storyland," 2:30 p.m. Saturdays and Sundays through April 27 and 2:30 p.m. Monday-Friday, March 31, April 1-4.

'Liar, Liar' Jim Carrey's funniest comedy yet

JOHN MONAGHAN

Believe me when I tell you that "Liar, Liar," the new Jim Carrey vehicle, is the funniest, cleverest Hollywood comedy I've seen since "Groundhog Day." For once, the $10 million dollar comedian really earns his keep.

You probably already know the premise: a slime ball lawyer who makes lying his stock in trade must tell the truth for 24 hours.

If blunt honesty during office small talk isn't bad enough, he's got to defend a woman (Jennifer Tilly) whose settlement would be devastated by the truth. Then there's his family life. In true "Cats in the Cradle" style, the divorced dad keeps promising his 6-year-old son that he'll play catch but never seems to find the time. It's the kid who makes the birthday wish that sets the whole mess in motion.

In one of the funniest scenes, he is forced to tell a law firm partner exactly what he thinks of him. When the old guy takes his insult as a good-humored "roast," Carrey gleefully shoots vicious barbs at everyone else in the room.

While his "Cable Guy" was an ambitious flop, Carrey, in his first truly adult role, manages to show his dramatic side. Forced to admit what a horrible father he is, he makes a desperate attempt to keep his kid from moving to Boston with his ex-wife and a dull, but reliable new boyfriend.

The bits with the boy are often cloying, but also charming, with Carrey turning his hand into "The Claw," a tickle monster that puts the boy in stitches. The only problem: if he really was honest, Carrey would have to lampoon his son's haircut, the irritating helmet of hair popularized on TV's "Eight is Enough."

Acting with Carrey must be like reading lines next to a tornado, but Maura Tierney and Amanda Donohue (as the ex-wife and libidinous legal partner, respectively) manage to hold their own.

Swoosie Kurtz also has a nice bit as another lawyer nonplussed by her rival's courtroom antics.

Tom Shadyac, who directed the first "Ace Ventura," keeps the movie humming even through a slightly drawn-out courtroom scene. Carrey is as out-of-control as ever, but the director pulls the reins in enough to keep the story believable. You don't want to see Jackie Chan in a car chase. Carrey similarly realizes that props and special effects only get in the way of his comedy. The idea of the rubber-faced comedian trying to gain control of his own elastic body is all you really need for major laughs; Carrey certainly delivers.

Like Chan's movies, which typically feature flubbed stunts under the closing credits, "Liar, Liar" ends with Carrey outtakes. You half expect to see him wheeled out on a stretcher after pulling a facial muscle during his go-for-broke antics.

After watching him beat himself silly in "Liar, Liar," you realize that Carrey truly is the hardest-working clown in show business.

For every act that hits the big time there's a story of destiny about "being discovered." Straight Ahead, a scintillating female jazz quintet from Detroit with an eclectic repertoire and far-reaching musical ambition, already has the opening lines about their ride to the land of musical fortune and fame.

One day, they hope to recall how their success story began in 1990 when they were "discovered" rehearsing before the Montreux-Switzlerland Jazz Festival. But first, during the next few months, the ride will get pushed into overdrive.

Continuing a busy national touring schedule, the local group will perform in metro Detroit this weekend to play at Henry Ford Museum & Greenfield Village and Riverfront Cafe. At Greenfield Village, they'll join the folk-pop female band, The Chenille Sisters, in a celebration of National Women's Month. Drawing on traditional compositions, Straight Ahead will present the music of Bessie Smith, Ma Rainey and Billie Holiday in two separate half-hour sets called "Blues Women of the 20th Century."

Straight Ahead drummer Gayelynn McKinney is no stranger to the Henry Ford Museum. She and her father, jazz pianist Harold McKinney, have participated in many African-American history celebrations, said Dan Kirk, program developer at the museum. For the past decade, respect for the jazz-blues heritage has been a hallmark of the group's appeal and inspiration.

"First there was Aretha, Earl Klugh then Anita Baker," said Brian Sefansky, who began managing the group two years ago after the release of the band's third album, "Dance of the Forest Rain," a collection of R&B ballads, Brazilian beats, rap and funk. "We're the next jazz happening out of Detroit."

That bold assertion may sound like wishful thinking or the realization that the time for Straight Ahead's inevitable national success has arrived. Jazz audiences will soon decide.

Seven years ago, Straight Ahead was scheduled to appear on a satellite stage at the Montreaux-Switzerland festival. While watching the band rehearse, one of the promoters was so impressed that he arranged for Straight Ahead to open on the main stage for legendary jazz singer Nina Simone, one of the headline acts. Soon after, based on a videotape of their performance, the band was signed by Atlantic Records.

What began as a fast-track climb to a record contract, however, has become a seven-year struggle to break out of their current status as a second-tier act, said Sefansky. That breakout, he predicts, will come in the next six months, which coincides with the release of Straight Ahead's as yet untitled new album.

To date, Straight Ahead's three albums have sold more than 50,000 with a modest promotion budget from Atlantic. "The record company tends to let albums escape rather than releasing them with a strong publicity plan," said Sefansky, whose strategy for the group calls for performances at jazz festivals and high-profile venues.

Last year, Straight Ahead played in Atlanta at a concert for Olympic athletes. During the last several years, they've gained a following on college campuses and throughout the south and east. And on May 1, Straight Ahead will headline a salute to women jazz artists at the Kennedy Center for Performing Arts.

Typically, Straight Ahead plays about 100 dates a year, headlining one-quarter of those concerts.

'Show Boat' production as big and bountiful as all America

"Show Boat" continues at the Masonic Temple Theater, 500 Temple Ave., Detroit, through May 24. Tickets $22.50 to $70. For more information call (313) 832-2232. To charge tickets, call (810) 645-6666.

BY HUGH GALLAGHER
STAFF WRITER

"Show Boat" is the one American musical as big and bountiful as the country itself.

The Harold Prince-directed-version that is beginning its national tour at Detroit's Masonic Temple Theatre is a rich compendium of American life and concerns.

As the play opens, the black dock workers tote bales of cotton and heavy boxes singing, "Colored folks work on the Mississippi/colored folks work while the white man plays." A boat moves across the far side of the river and suddenly the tune changes as the show boat "Cotton Blossom" comes steaming down the river and the crowd welcomes the diversion from their labors. This opening brilliantly sets the stage for all that follows.

When the Jerome Kern-Oscar Hammerstein II musical opened in 1927 it was a breakthrough. Here was a musical that told its story in song, that touched on the most serious and sensitive national topics, that included a rich mixture of musical styles reaching up to operatic ranges and, yet, still retained the bright colors, giddy humor and optimistic sentiments of traditional musicals.

Harold Prince has retained all of that and added to it. Sixty years of racial battles have given "Show Boat" a whole new set of meanings that waited only for a director of Prince's ability to draw out. Prince also brings to the production state-of-the art stagecraft that is eye popping and beautiful.

Capt. Andy Hawks and his wife Parthy operate their show boat at small towns all along the river, treating the locals to slapstick comedy, outrageous melodramas and sickly sentimental songs all guaranteed to push real life aside for just a moment. But real life is always intruding on the folks of the Cotton Blossom, as Kern and Hammerstein follow their lives from 1887 to 1927.

Based on Edna Ferber's soap opera novel, the story follows the fortunes of Capt. Andy's daughter Magnolia and her love for the gambler Gaylord Ravenal. But it also tells about Joe and Queenie, the hard working black boat hands; of Julie and Steve who have to leave the boat when it is revealed that Julie is part black; and of Frank and Ellie, the dancing, singing, clowning show biz couple.

"Show Boat" is about families and about show business and, most seriously, about race relations. But it is also a singing, dancing, clowning musical event, that includes some of the finest songs ever written for the musical stage. Here are beautiful love songs like "Make Believe," "You Are Love," and "Why Do I Love You" and bright comic songs like "Life on the Wicked Stage." "Can't Help Lovin' Dat Man" is the song that you'll leave the theater whistlin' for days. But "Ol' Man River" is the song you'll hold in your mind forever.

The sets are stunning from the river boat itself, which opens and closes on inside rooms and the melodrama stage to a street in Chicago where during time-passing montages choreographer Susan Stroman shows how black dance, black music and even black humor influenced white entertainment. In fact without black music there is no American entertainment.

The cast here is perfect. Tom Bosley brings a career's worth of sympathetic warmth and gentleness to the easy-going captain. Karen Morrow finds the key bit of humanity that keeps stiff, New England Parthy from shrillness.

John Ruess is finally a Ravenal who looks young enough and dashing enough for a teenage girl's fancy and he sings beautifully. Matching his voice and youth is Sarah Pfisterer as a bubbly and determined Magnolia.

Three parts give the play its special place in musical history and also need to be played with special care. This production does it right. Debbie deCoudreaux is tall, self-assured, haughty as Julie, delivering a particularly sassy "Can't Help Lovin' Dat Man." She is equally touching later on the poignant, "Bill." Gretha Boston won a Tony for her performance on Broadway as Queenie and it's clear why. She has taken a role usually played as a heavy-set mammy and turned her into a strong, attractive, empathetic woman with a striking, bluesy voice.

Finally, Andre Solomon-Glover delivers a Joe that is Greek chorus, moral center and stalwart anchor. He not only sings "Ol' Man River" is a rich, rolling baritone that breaks the heart, but his face conveys all sorts of subtle and startling realities.

This is a show not to be missed.

Rasputina blends Victorian romanticism with longing vocals

CHRISTINA FUOCO

The three corset-wearing, cello-playing women who make up Rasputina like compliments as much as the next person. But please, don't use the "I" word.

"I don't care what people say about our record just as long as they don't say it's interesting. Interesting is such a euphemism. It doesn't mean anything," said Melora Creager, the group's leader.

The group recently released its debut album "Thanks for the Ether" (Columbia) which blends traditional Victorian romanticism with longing and sometimes sarcastic vocals teamed with cellos hooked up to guitar effects.

Creager, who played cello with Nirvana on the band's final tour, formed the group five years ago.

"I believed that I wasn't alone in the world, that there were girls or women with similar interests. It started as kind of a misfit cello club for girls," said Creager, whose group is rounded out by Julia Kent and Agniezska Rybska.

"We have a strong work ethic and played really hard but when we started, we would never even say aloud the idea that we would get to make a record. Not to seem arrogant but gradually over time we realized that the major label is the only thing that would release it. The indie (independent label) community never responded to us."

Although Creager is influenced by 1930s blues, David Bowie and T-Rex, she and her bandmates "keep our chops up" by playing lots of classical music.

"I think classical music expresses advanced emotions – something more complicated than love, anger, revenge. We get to do that in a 2-minute song," Creager said.

Rasputina takes the stage wearing Victorian-era clothing – corsets and bloomers. Dressing and undressing has become old hat for the trio.

"We're so in the habit of it that we're able to get them off very quickly. That's something that takes practice. To play well, we should be having an erect posture so it actually helps us. At the time when people wore corsets, when you saw a woman without a corset it looked incredibly sloppy in their eye. We've gotten that way. If we don't wear a corset, we feel unpresentable," she explained.

After opening for Bob Mould and Kula Shaker, Rasputina returns to Detroit to open for The Cranes at St. Andrew's Hall on Friday, March 21. She said the responses to Rasputina have been varied.

"It really depends on who we're opening for. The audience will be their audience. Bob Mould's audience was very receptive. They were white, twentysomething males, mostly. Kind of a sensitive guy, I think. Then we toured with Kula Shaker and that was whatever Britain sensation brings. That was 12-year-old girls with dead eyes dying for us to be done. But there was always one girl with a look on her face (saying) we really moved her."

Shows with The Cranes, Creager said, have gone very well. But, she admits, she is nervous about her upcoming stint with Marilyn Manson and Helmet.

"We are scared, seriously. I like Marilyn Manson a lot. I can relate to his lyrical imagery. With that big of a crowd, the common denominator is kind of low."

Rasputina opens for The Cranes Friday, March 21, at St. Andrew's Hall, 431 E. Congress, Detroit. Doors open at 6:30 p.m. for the all-ages show. Tickets are $9 in advance. For more information, call (313) 961-MELT.

■ The Presidents of the United States of America's sophomore album "II" (Columbia) opens with the 1 1/2-minute song "Ladies and Gentlemen Part I" which includes the line "Do you have any idea what it takes to rock every night, every day, every night? Plug us in and watch us pump out sound. Comin' to you so you don't have to leave town."

Band member Jason Finn said it wasn't meant to garner pity for the group.

"It's all in fun, I guess. I wondered about that line. It kind of sounds like we're saying 'Poor us.' We only do it because we have a lot of fun," said Finn via telephone from Birmingham, Ala.

"II" comes with their tribute to Speed Racer, "Mach 5," which the band performed on "The Tonight Show with Jay Leno," and the talents of Morphine's Mark Sandman who played the three-string tritar on "Froggie."

The Presidents of the United States of America along with special guests Redd Kross perform Saturday, March 22, at St. Andrew's Hall, 431 E. Congress, Detroit. Doors open at 8 p.m. for the all-ages show. Tickets are $15 in advance. For more information, call (313) 961-MELT.

Easter Sunday brunches welcome Spring

By Ray & Eleanor Heald • Special Writers

TAMMIE GRAVES/STAFF ARTIST

Many restaurants consider Easter Sunday brunch extra special and have stylized unique dishes to enhance an official welcome to Spring. Some restaurants that are not usually open on Sunday, will be to celebrate Easter. Whether your style is eating brunch early or late, one of the area's restaurants can satisfy. All restaurants we spoke with strongly advise booking reservations early.

■ Charley's Crab – 5498 Crooks Road, Troy, next to Northfield Hilton, (810) 879-2060, noon to 9 p.m.

Charley's regular dinner menu will be served along with a few Easter specials including baked Virginia ham with Michigan cherry sauce, mashed potatoes and green bean casserole $12.50; braised Colorado lamb shank with natural sauce, roasted Yukon Gold potatoes and Spring vegetables $14.25

■ Ernesto's – 41661 Plymouth Road, Plymouth, (313) 453-2002, 10 a.m. to 2 p.m., $17.95 per person

Chef Ernesto Di Michelle mentioned the following specials added to his regular Sunday brunch menu: smoked Norwegian salmon and bluefish; baked Virginia ham; crepes and Italian fritatta; and chicken Siciliano.

■ Excalibur – 28875 Franklin Road, Southfield (southwest corner of 12 Mile Road and Northwestern Highway, (810) 358-3355, 11 a.m. to 3 p.m., $19.95 adults, $13.95 children 8 to 14, under 8 free.

Chef/owner Marty Wilk said that this year is the first time the Excalibur will be open Easter Sunday. Get your taste buds piqued with a complimentary glass of champagne before taking on a wide array of specialties with upscale breakfast items including blintzes and made-to-order omelets and pancakes. Also available are roast turkey, ham, four chicken dishes and a carving station with prime rib. Cap it off with an elaborate sweet table.

If you want to eat in, but are not in the mood for kitchen work, pick up a complete Easter dinner serving six to eight people for $110 at Excalibur. Take your choice from baked, spiral-sliced ham, roasted turkey or leg of lamb accompanied by mixed organic greens, cole slaw, fresh broccoli and carrots, whipped potatoes, yams, rice pilaf, rolls, cherry and apple pies. Orders must be placed by March 27 and picked up between 8:00 a.m. and 3:00 p.m. Easter Sunday.

■ Franklin Grille – 28100 Franklin Road, Southfield, inside Doubletree Guest Suites, (810) 355-2050, 11:30 a.m. to 3 p.m., $16.95.

In addition to regular brunch buffet items, Chef David Thompson will have a carving station with roast leg of lamb and roast fresh turkey breast. Hot buffet specials include herb-roasted Spring chicken breast, seared salmon medallion and stuffed manicotti.

■ John Cleveland's Water Club Seafood Grill – 39500 Ann Arbor Road, Plymouth (313) 454-0666, 11 a.m. to 2 p.m.

Brunch items include Steak and Eggs $9.95; Shrimp and Scallop Omelet $9.95, French Toast $8.95, Cajun Chicken Omelet, $8.95, Poached Eggs with Potato Pancakes, $7.95 and Eggs Benedict, $8.95 served with muffins and bagels. Sweet endings Raspberry Parfait, $3.50 and Fresh Strawberries with Caramel Sauce, $2.75. Regular menu available all day.

■ Kingsley Hotel & Suites – 1475 N. Woodward Avenue, Bloomfield Hills, (810) 646-7900.

In the Grand Ballroom, Unique Restaurant Corporation will offer a buffet from 10:30 a.m. to 3:30 p.m., adults $25.95, children under 12 $15.95, children under 5 free. In addition to upscale breakfast stations, a carving station includes roasted prime beef steamship round with natural au jus and sauce Bernaise; honey-glazed country-smoked ham; salmon Wellington with chardonnay sauce; sautéed chicken with champagne mushroom sauce; all accompanied with horseradish whipped potatoes and medley of Spring vegetables. Sweet endings at a dessert table.

■ MacKinnon's – 126 E. Main, Northville, (810) 348-1991, 1 p.m. to 7 p.m.

Here's another restaurant not regularly open on Sundays. Each Easter, owner Tom MacKinnon makes his own ham, keeping it in brine one and one-half months followed by smoking for 40 hours then roasting it to perfection. Other holiday entrees at $20-28 include salad, potato, vegetable and bread basket. Menu specials: roast leg of lamb, prime rib, turkey, salmon Wellington and a seafood butter broth (salmon, scallops, shrimp, and mussels poached in a lobster broth). Children's menu is $8.

■ Ritz-Carlton – Fairlane Plaza 300 Town Center Drive, Dearborn (313) 441-2100, 10:30 a.m. to 3:30 p.m.

Presidential Ballroom Buffet, $38 per person will offer traditional breakfast items including eggs and waffles plus assorted seafoods, salad selections, spicy citrus chicken, baked salmon and scallop soufflé and stuffed lamb with goat cheese. The carving station will feature house-smoked London Broil and baked holiday ham.

From noon to 9 p.m., a prix-fixe menu at $45 per person will be served in The Grille. Price includes appetizer, soup, salad, entree and dessert. Entrees are roast prime rib, sole and lobster paupiettes, roast rack of lamb and baked ham.

■ Townsend Hotel – 100 Townsend Street, Birmingham, (810) 642-5999, Regency Room Buffet 11 a.m. and 1:00 p.m. seatings, $39.50 adults, $18.50 children, under 8 free. Rugby Grille 11:30 a.m., 1:30 and 3:30 p.m. seatings for a la carte specialties ranging $18-24.

In addition to breakfast items such as waffles, Eggs Benedict and western omelets, roast turkey, honey-glazed ham, chicken piccata, seafood pasta and grilled salmon are offered for the buffet. A carving station will have certified Angus beef tenderloin. Pastries, torts and fresh fruits complete a sweets table.

Some Rugby Grille features are grilled lamb chops with plum chutney, grilled duck with lingonberry preserve and roasted, boneless Amish Cornish hen. All entrees are accompanied by fresh fruit or mixed greens.

■ Trattoria Bruschetta – 27790 Novi Road, Novi (inside Hotel Baronette), (810) 305-5210, 10 a.m. to 3 p.m., adults $23.95, children under 12, $9.95, free for children under 3.

A Grand Buffet with cold, hot and omelet breakfast stations, principal and salad stations plus sweet table. The principal station includes roasted New York loin of beef, apple and almond seared pork loin, honey-glazed ham and grilled breast of turkey all accompanied by potatoes gratin and glazed carrots.

■ Weber's – 3050 Jackson Road, Ann Arbor, at Exit 172 off I-94, (313) 769-2500, 10 a.m. to 2:30 p.m., adults $11.95, children under 12 $6.95, children under 3 free.

Features will be bone-in honeysuckle ham carved to order, golden malt waffles and seafood St. Jacques sautéed in brandy cream sauce.

No sale? Check price, upkeep

BY DOUG FUNKE
STAFF WRITER

It doesn't happen often, nowadays, Realtors say, due to a relative scarcity of homes available for sale.

But once in a while, a house languishes on the market for an extended period of time. It just seems to sit there week after week with no prospects. The for-sale sign on the lawn mocks like the Scarlet Letter.

The problem generally relates to price, the condition of the property or a combination of the two, real estate professionals advise.

"The number one reason, in my opinion, is they're overpriced," said Michael Mangold, a Realtor with Real Estate One in Westland. "People think their house is worth more than it really is."

Lynn DeJohn, a Realtor with Quality Properties Better Homes and Gardens in Plymouth, relates a story about price.

"A gentleman wanted to price his home about $10,000 more than I could see. We compromised, but it was still too high.

"He had traffic noise, small bedrooms – things he couldn't change. The home was meticulous. The only thing we could do was adjust the price," she said.

"We adjusted it a second time and it sold. He was an original owner, and he was looking at other houses in his neighborhood that had gone for more money. But they had more updates," DeJohn said.

Ann Klein, a Realtor with Weir, Manuel, Snyder & Ranke in Birmingham, agrees that pricing is generally a good place to start if there isn't much movement on a listing.

"Many times, I think sellers think they can get a little more because there's so little on the market," Klein said. "We kind of go along with that.

"But sometimes if you go with a seller's price and you don't get a lot of showings, the public is telling you you're too high.

"After two weeks, I think it's time to come down and be realistic. After that, it becomes dead in the water. People think something is wrong if they keep seeing the sign," Klein said.

Physical condition of the property is the opposite side of the slow-sale coin.

"Buyers are picky," Mangold said. "I find very few people willing to pay for a fixer-upper. They want neat, clean, ready to go."

Mangold shared an experience.

"I had one I listed in mid February of '96 and it sold in December of '96. The main reason was because it was dirty. It was also overpriced.

"At the time we started, the price seemed to be on the high end of accurate," Mangold said. "Within a month, we could see it was overpriced.

"I told them what to do up front. I explained what we had to do. I said the feedback was its condition didn't warrant the price. Either improve conditions or lower the price.

"For a variety of reasons, they didn't do it," Mangold said. "Both were working very demanding jobs and they just didn't want to do it."

No offers came. The clients finally agreed to a $15,000 drop in October. Still no action. An offer $5,000 less than the adjusted asking price eventually was accepted, Mangold said.

Realtors can provide comparative market sales studies to target in on a price. But similar houses don't show equally well.

"If a seller only realized cleanliness and lack of clutter could net more money at the bottom line, they would probably cooperate," DeJohn said.

"I guess you have to be kind of savvy, talk to people about what their responsibilities are getting the home ready to market. If people need to houseclean, I say it. Your kitchen and bathroom can't be too clean," she said.

"More buyers have been discouraged by fingerprints and dirty windows than you would believe," Mangold said. "Sparkling clean is worth every effort it requires.

"Anything that makes a house look shabby should be replaced or removed," Mangold added. "If you have a hardwood floor under ratty carpeting, remove the carpeting and put a coat of wax on the floors."

"Make things as neat as possible, as clean as possible, even if you have to hire someone," Klein said.

Surprisingly, the unavailability or unwillingness of a seller to show a house sometimes affects sales, said Ray Caldwell, an associate broker with Century 21 Elegant Homes in Southfield.

It stands to reason that if prospective buyers can't see the product, they probably won't make offers.

"The house should be accessible most hours," Caldwell said. "You shouldn't have to run a seller down to show a house."

"If people work and they don't want you to show the house unless they're there, they should be accessible Saturdays and Sundays and on weekdays from 5-8 p.m.," Caldwell said.

"People sometimes don't realize that people buy houses not at their (sellers) convenience, but at the buyer's convenience," Caldwell said. "If it's priced right and accessible, it should sell quickly."

Find out if home is in flood plain before you buy

REAL ESTATE QUERIES

ROBERT M. MEISNER

Q. We are bringing to your attention a situation which we were faced with as home buyers in November 1996. We hope that you will educate your readers of the Clinton law that now required mortgage lenders to find out if residential property sits on a flood plain. Please explain to your readers how it will affect new buyers and those who decide to refinance their homes. We were blind-sided by this law when we determined, a few hours before closing, when we were notified by our mortgage lender's title company that, due to the passing of the new law from 1994, every property must be checked against Federal Emergency Management Agency maps to determine if it sits on a flood plain. Much to our surprise, our soon-to-be-acquired new home was sitting on what was zoned a flood plain because of our 200-year proximity to the drain system. We were told that the sellers did not know this was a flood plain because this was a new law and were therefore not responsible for disclosing it to us in the disclosure statement. We were told that we must secure flood insurance before our choosing, which now amounts to $750 a year and the flood insurance is limited to the structure only, no content with a $5,000 deductible. This incident has caused us great concern and the property value may diminish, there is a risk of flooding, property damage and other unexpected living expenses.

A. I appreciate your bringing this matter to our readers' attention. As I am sure you now realize, homebuyers should be provided with all relevant information early in the buying process in order to make informed decisions.

Anyone buying a home or condominium should inquire as to whether it is located on a flood plain. In the case of a condominium, that should be disclosed to the purchaser by the developer or, if necessary, in a resale situation. Good luck to you.

Q. I have heard that the marina district of Puerto Vallarta is very interesting. Do you have any idea how much condominiums, full time, would cost in the marina district?

A. While Puerto Vallarta, just like many other Mexican cities, is offering time shares in many locations, there are a number of full-time ownership opportunities in the marina district, which is relatively new and borders around a marina where many fishing and private yachts are located.

Prices vary, but condominiums of two bedrooms and approximately 1,500 square feet can be obtained for approximately $93,000 U.S. There are other condominiums being advertised for as little as $55,000 U.S.

Keep in mind when you buy a condominium in Mexico, you must hold it in trust as opposed to clear ownership in your name. More about this in future columns.

Trading consumer debt for mortgage debt

MORTGAGE SHOPPING

DAVID C. MULLY

If you own real estate but you've run up high-interest debt in other areas, you may be able to trade one debt for another. If you can refinance your mortgage and pull out extra cash to pay off your credit cards, auto loan or other costly credit lines, you may be able to save yourself money.

One example of a new home equity product is from Rock Financial, which has introduced the "No-Equity Home Loan."

"This loan is ideal for homeowners looking to pay off their credit cards, consolidate debts or make home improvements but do not have the cash up front to take out a conventional loan," said Dan Gilbert, president and CEO of Rock Financial.

With this loan, Rock Financial is able to lend homeowners more money than their home is actually worth. Qualified homeowners may be able to borrow up to 125 percent of their home's value! For example: a home may be worth $100,000. With this program, homeowners may qualify for combined borrowing of up to $125,000. This no-equity loan is a second mortgage on a home.

One major advantage of this product is that most of the interest may be tax deductible. In comparison, the high interest many people pay on their credit cards is not tax deductible.

Gilbert says convenience for the homeowners is another advantage of this loan. "We know that people are busy and sometimes find it difficult to fit additional things in their schedule" he said. "That is why we have designed a state-of-the-art call center to allow homeowners to both apply and close on their loans over the phone seven days a week."

Mortgage loans are usually available at a lower interest rate than consumer loans and get a tax deduction. This lowers the effective borrowing cost further. Hence, people may feel eager to enter into this type of debt because they are "saving money."

This strategy involves some danger. Borrowing against the equity in your home can be an addictive habit. I've seen cases in which people run up significant consumer debt three or four times and then refinance their homes the same number of times over the years to bail themselves out.

An appreciating home creates the illusion that excess spending isn't really costing you. But debt is debt, and all borrowed money has to be repaid. In the long run, you wind up with greater mortgage debt, and paying it off takes a bigger bite out of your monthly income. Refinancing and establishing home equity lines have additional costs in terms of loan application fees and other changes (points, appraisals, credit reports and so on).

At a minimum, continued expansion of your mortgage debt handicaps your ability to work toward other financial goals. In the worst case, easy access to borrowing encourages bad spending habits that can lead to bankruptcy or foreclosure against your debt-ridden home.

Editor's note: Dave Mully will be a guest speaker at the upcoming 79th Annual International Builders Home Flower and Furniture Show, which runs through Sunday. He will be talking about "Mortgage Shopping" and how to save money on your mortgage.

Mully will be appearing every day at 3 p.m., with additional appearances on Friday at 5 p.m., Saturday at 5 p.m. and 6 p.m., and Sunday at 2 p.m.

David Mully has been writing his weekly "Mortgage Shopping" column for the Observer & Eccentric Newspapers since June 1995. He has been involved with residential mortgage lending in the Detroit area since 1988 and is a mortgage consultant.

Easy maintenance laminated flooring

(MS) – Love the look of hardwood floors, but concerned about the high costs and maintenance needs associated with real wood? Homeowners today are finding the answer to these concerns in new laminated flooring products.

These easy-to-install planks are a dream project for homeowners. Using simple tools and materials, even novice do-it-yourselfers can install the durable tongue- and-groove panels in no time at all.

One new laminated flooring product, EternaFloor, makes the job even easier with its unique "floating loor" construc- tion: the planks adhere to each other, not to the floor under- neath, allowing for quick and easy installation. And, EternaFloor can be installed directly over a variety of exist- ing floor coverings, including vinyl, concrete and wood.

Wear- and fade-resistant, EternaFloor's topcoat never needs refinishing. Cleaning laminated floors is easy using a damp mop and mild household cleaner.

Each package of EternaFloor contains eight planks, enough to cover 21 V2 square feet of space. The product is competitively priced to other forms of floor coverings and usually can be purchased from $2.25 to $2.85 a square foot.

This product line comes in honey oak, rustic oak, natural oak, cherry, knotty pine, maple and light beech. Accessories like the connecting joint moldings and foam underlayment with planking adhesive are also available from the manufacturer.

For more information on EternaFloor, including free brochures, call 1-800-801-9382.

Buyer beware

Mortgage life insurance may offer only limited protection

Joanne Scott, associate broker at Century 21 J. Scott in Garden City, warns Realtors and their clients to know exactly what they're getting into when buying mortgage life insurance.

What seems to be and what actually is often don't match, she says.

"Over and over, when home buyers are closing on their home, the mortgage company will ask, 'Do you want a life insurance policy that will pay off the mortgage in case of death, which means a slightly higher payment, but think of the peace of mind,'" Scott said.

"Well think again. All policies don't cover if death occurs through natural causes. What some mortgage companies and banks fail to disclose is that this life insurance policy only covers accidental death."

Scott recalled two instances – one involving her brother, the other a relative of a client – in which spouses died from cancer and a heart attack and neither mortgage life policy paid off.

She also related an experience during a closing earlier this year.

"I listened to a mortgage closer ask our clients, a young couple, if they wanted the mortgage insurance policy at a certain monthly fee. I asked if this policy would cover if death was natural or accidental. He didn't know," Scott said.

"I'm urging the general public to look into their mortgage life insurance policies to be sure they're covered as they think they are," she said.

Shop term (mortgage life) insurance rates, too, advises Thomas E. Hogan, a certified life underwriter and principal with HFA Planning in Livonia.

Mortgage companies and banks don't always offer the best deals.

"If you go through an independent (insurance) agent, they tend to have relationships with a number of companies," Hogan said.

"They will be very, very competitive. Try to work with agents looking at more than just a few carriers."

Speaker: Jack Shafer, Volkswagen of America.

Cost is $35 for members, $45 for non-members. For reservations, contact Paula at (810) 524-4700.

West Coast trend: Human 'for sale' signs show the way for home buyers

BY MIGUEL BUSTILLO
LOS ANGELES TIMES

LOS ANGELES (AP) – In southern California's intensely scrappy home sales market, "human directionals" have become a hot gimmick.

Standing in the sun for hours as a smiley-face shill, swinging a cumbersome sign as the cars flash by, demands the energy of Richard Simmons, the patience of Job and the disposition of Kathie Lee Gifford.

And people like that don't come cheap: up to $18 an hour for the "stars" of the fledgling field, some of whom go on to teach others the tricks of their unusual trade.

"These people are professionals," said Joanne Williams of Costain Homes, which uses human directionals to help sell houses. "They always smile, they give off enthusiasm and they have a whole arsenal of moves."

Eventz Extraordinaire, an Irvine-based company, claims to have invented the gimmick seven years ago. Regarded by developers as one of the classier providers of human directionals, Eventz Extraordinaire is also the biggest, with hundreds of workers in the field.

Its competition is rising, however.

Randy Rock is one of those looking for a bigger slice of the action with his human directional company, Streetside Motion.

A thespian and modern dancer with years of experience in Orange County, Rock said he brought a quirky new element to human directionals – out-of-work actors and performers – after starting his business two years ago.

"We take the theater to the roadside," Rock said. "We know how to play to a crowd, and that in and of itself may not sell a home. But it will get people to take a look, and the salespeople can take over from there."

In Rock's case, that means Russian splits, ballet moves, jazz dance – even some techniques he copped from Martha Graham.

"When the traffic light's red, and all eyes are fixed on you – that's what it's all about," he said. "That's when you've got to hit them with your best move."

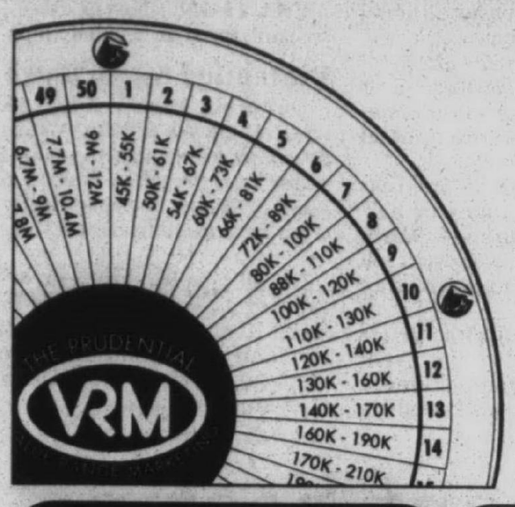
Introducing Value Range Marketing™

Here's an easy way to cut the time it takes to sell your house.



It's a revolutionary, yet proven idea that puts a whole new spin on securing listings and selling houses. Wherever this program has been introduced, VRM-listed houses have sold at least twice as fast as the market average. And many have sold for even more than the owner expected.

The exclusive Prudential VRM Wheel can be the key to increase success.

Instead of listing houses at a fixed price, you help the seller select a value range in which they "will entertain offers". This VRM listing sends a powerful message to home buyers. It gives them a comfortable basis to open negotiations. So don't let the revolution start without you. Call us today to set up an appointment.

Loss of heat means thawing frozen pipes

BY READER'S DIGEST BOOKS
FOR AP SPECIAL FEATURES

Winter temperatures can result in frozen pipes. Thawing frozen pipes is a slow, time-consuming but necessary process.

First steps

Before starting to thaw a frozen pipe, close the shut-off valve to the pipe or the main shut-off valve for the house. This will prevent water from gushing out as soon as the pipe is thawed.

Water expands as it freezes, so frozen pipes or joints may burst or leak. Check for breaks and repair them before defrosting the pipe.

Also, open the faucets connected to the pipes so that water and steam from the melting ice can escape when the pipe is heated. Close the faucets when the pipes have thawed.

Which pipes are frozen?

If no water runs from any faucet in the house, a main inlet pipe near the water meter may be frozen. To confirm this, touch the meter and exposed pipes adjacent to it. If they feel extremely cold, a main inlet pipe probably needs thawing.

When water runs in only one part of the house, a pipe in an adjacent outside wall or uninsulated crawl space may be frozen. Turn up the heating system. Open kitchen and – if needed – bathroom sink cabinets to let in the warm air to the pipes. Or heat the pipes where they emerge from the wall.

How to thaw pipes

If possible, let nature take its course and allow frozen pipes gradually to thaw on their own after heat is restored to the house. Of course, this may require more time than you're willing to be without water.

If a pipe is partly frozen, open the affected faucet all the way. Then open other hot-water faucets in the house. This will raise the temperature of the water in the hot-water pipes and help melt the water in the nearly frozen pipe. Once hot water is flowing from all the faucets, close them to a trickle. Don't turn the faucets off completely until water is flowing freely from the affected faucet.

To keep a frozen pipe from bursting while heating it, it's important not to warm the pipe any hotter than your hand can tolerate. Never allow a pipe to get too hot to touch. If the water in the frozen pipe begins to boil, the pipe may explode.

Other thawing methods

Here are some other tried-and-true ways to thaw a frozen pipe:

- Thaw a well-in pipe slowly with a heat lamp clamped to a chair or ladder and set a few inches from the wall.
- Wrap rags around a metal pipe (but not plastic pipe), and pour near-boiling water over the rags. (Place a container under the pipe to catch the runoff.) Repeat when the rags cool.
- Wrap a grounded waterproof heating pad, electric blanket or heat tape set to its lowest temperature around a frozen metal or plastic pipe.
- After opening the nearest faucet, use a heat lamp or hair dryer to warm the pipe. Warm the pipe gradually, working back from the faucet toward the frozen area.
- A propane torch with a flame spreader can also be used. Because of a propane flame's concentrated heat, it's extremely important to use a flame spreader and not allow the pipe to get too hot to the touch.

CAUTION: Never use a propane torch on a plastic pipe.

Preventing frozen pipes

During a winter cold snap, open all faucets a little. A steady drip may be enough to keep the water from freezing. Even if the pipes do freeze, the open line will often keep them from bursting.

Install pipe insulation or wrap exposed pipes with strips of foil-faced fiberglass batts, foil side out, and secure the batts with duct tape. (Wear gloves when handling fiberglass.)

Don't worry about floor covering with radiant heating

FOR AP SPECIAL FEATURES

Q: I have a home with radiant heating (cement slab floor with embedded circulating hot water), and I want to replace the existing vinyl tile in the kitchen. I would like to use slate, quarry tile or something similar, but I'm concerned about the chance of disrupting heat transfer and increasing energy requirements and cost. What do you recommend as the best covering for this type of floor?

A: Any floor covering that you like will do fine. We checked with the American Society of Heating, Refrigerating and Air-Conditioning Engineers (ASHRAE) and they say there would be no appreciable increase in energy use regardless of the type of floor covering.

The response time of a radiant heating system to changes in thermostat setting is normally slower than that of a hot water system with baseboard or free-standing radiators, or a forced warm air system. This means it takes longer for a radiant system to reach the desired comfort temperature than the other two systems. By covering the floor, you will slow down this response time slightly, but you will also increase the mass of the heated floor, so it takes longer to cool down. Thus the end result will be almost no perceptible change in heating costs.

Q: I have a septic system problem. Once a year, I have to dig up my tank cover and clean out the tank. We have a water softener that uses about 20 pounds of salt weekly. We switched soaps softeners but nothing helps. Waste foods and grease are kept to a bare minimum. Can you give me any suggestions to solve this problem?

A: Cleaning or pumping out a septic tank once a year really is not that bad. Most health departments recommend that the tank should be cleaned every two to four years depending on use. Even when a septic system is functioning properly, the tank should be cleaned periodically, or at least inspected for sludge buildup.

Otherwise, sludge can accumulate to a level where solid wastes will be carried out into the leaching field and eventually clog the voids in the soil and the perforations or open joints in the drain tiles. When this happens, the leaching field requires replacement, usually at a cost of at least 10 times the price of a cleaning.

Apparently, the waste water from your water softener regeneration process discharges into your septic system. This is a potential problem, especially if the leaching field is installed in a finely textured clay-type soil. The salt brine in the waste water is not broken down by the bacterial action as it passes through the septic tank on its way to the leaching field.

As the salt accumulates in the field it can, and often does, clog the voids in the soil, thereby damaging and shortening the life of the disposal field.

To eliminate this problem, the waste water from your water softener should discharge into a separate dry well or onto the ground away from your leaching field, plants and your water well, if you have one.

Contractor can help with heating system

BY ART GUILMET
BRYANT HEATING

(NAPS) – Your local contractor can offer advice on installing the most reliable and comfortable heating system for your home. In guiding you through various decisions, such as when to get a new furnace, whether to upgrade to a more energy-efficient model or whether a heat pump would be practical, a good contractor will consider a number of factors.

Your contractor can estimate the payback on a new heating unit and redesigned ductwork and suggest other improvements to make your home comfort system more cost-effective.

Your contractor can also explain the benefits of a variable-capacity furnace. Variable-capacity furnaces run on low speed most of the time, switching to high speed during the coldest times of the year. This can mean dramatic energy savings and a quieter heating system.

Ask your contractor if he or she recommends a heat pump. A heat pump is an electrically powered alternative that provides heat in the winter and cooling in the summer.

You may be best off with a dual-fuel electric heat pump/gas furnace system. Adding an electric heat pump to an oil or gas furnace can further increase your energy savings because the furnace operates only on the coldest days.

Many people try to control heat and heating costs by closing off registers in little-used rooms. This strains the heating system and causes an imbalance in heat distribution around the house.

To find a local heating and cooling expert, call 1-800-HOT-SALE or consult the yellow pages directory under "heating" or "air conditioning."

SENIORS

HOW TO DECIDE WHEN TO SELL

by... NANCY AUSTIN

I am a Senior Citizen. My father who is 90, says he is not. He says he has entered the "Age of Wisdom". In his wisdom, he has decided to remain in his home. He cooks, cleans, gardens, drives, visits and has me for dinner once a week. He is also updating his house for when the day comes that his wise decision is to sell. I have been his gentle guide, because, not only am I his daughter, but I am a Realtor. In honor of my father's wisdom, I have decided to help Seniors by making available a Free Report which answers your questions: How to Decide When To Sell. Enter the age of wisdom now, and send for your Free Report.

HELP WANTED - AMERICAN HEART ASSOCIATION, has been sponsoring a Blood Pressure screening program on the 2nd and 4th Sat. of each month, from 11AM-2PM at Wonderland Mall for years. We have been wonderfully lucky to have volunteer retired registered nurses working with us. But our nurses have turned into traveling grandmothers. It is getting more difficult to catch them home. So. I hoping to find some retired registered nurses who could volunteer 3 hours once a month to help with our program. Please call Sylvia (313) 427-6396

WRITE IT AND REAP!

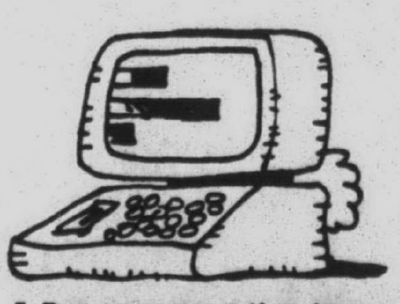
Writing a classified ad that gets results–whether it be for real estate, employment, the personals, transportation, or merchandise–is easy if you follow the guidelines below.

1. Give the reader specific information. Pretend you are someone reading the classifieds. What would you like to know about the item, service or job you are advertising? Be sure to add details such as color, size, condition, brand name, age, features and benefits. Be accurate! Don't embellish your ad with misleading information. Stick to the facts and reap the rewards!

2. Include the price. Don't waste your time or a potential buyer's time. If you advertise the price of the item or service you offer, the people who respond to your ad will be those who are genuinely interested. Surveys show that readers are more interested in those items and services they know are within their price range.

3. Avoid abbreviations. Don't make a potential customer work too hard! Although you may be tempted to cut down on the cost of your ad by using abbreviations, surveys indicate that many people don't understand such abbreviations as EIK (eat-in-kitchen) or WSW (white side wall) tires and won't take the time to figure them out. A confused reader is a disinterested reader. Get the most for your money and use complete words.

4. Include phone number and specify hours. Be sure to let potential customers know when and where to call. Surveys show that even if a person is very interested in your item or service, he or she will not call back after the first attempt. Stay near the phone during the hours you indicate you will be available. Don't risk missing a sale!



5. Run on consecutive days. Your ad will not get results if people don't see it! Therefore, it is important to set up a consistent and consecutive ad schedule with your telephone salesperson or outside sales representative.

MAKE THE MOVE NOW!!

THERE'S NO BETTER TIME TO BUY

If you've been thinking about moving from your current residence to the house of your dreams or from an apartment to a starter home, this is the time to do it.

- The selection is excellent.
- Low interest rates are available.
- There are many financing options available.

Go ahead, make the move. Now is the right time to buy a home.

NOW is the right time to Buy a Home!

Purchasing a home has always been a wise decision, but current market conditions are making it even more attractive to buy now.

EXCELLENT FINANCING IS AVAILABLE NOW

Interest rates are lower, and mortgage lenders are offering a wide variety of financing options. Low interest rates mean you can get more for your money.

- 30-year fixed mortgages are still available as well as many other financing alternatives.
