Three candidates seek single vacancy

SCHOOL NEWS

BY KIMBERLY A. MORTSON
STAFF WRITER

At the close of business on Monday, campaigning officially began for three candidates electing to contend for a single vacancy on the Plymouth-Canton Board of Education.

Following the announcement by long-time school board member, Dave Artley, that he will not seek re-election for a 15th year in office, newcomers Carol Bollman and Suzanne Dershem will have only one veteran board member to challenge, Roland Thomas.

Thomas served on the board from 1982-1995 and served as president during 1985-86, 1992-93 and 1993-94.

A Plymouth resident and 1961 graduate of Plymouth High School, Thomas, 53, believes he possesses the experience necessary to be a productive and contributing board member.

"I think I have the right kind of talent, and the time to offer to the district," he said. "I think I can help them get through the kinds of financial things and decisions that they'll be facing in the next four years."

The second of three candidates, Bollman of Canton, may be best known for her outspoken view of the district's Housing and Facilities Committee. She took an active role with the Bond recount set for April 15

BY KIMBERLY A. MORTSON
STAFF WRITER

The Wayne County Board of Canvassers will begin the Plymouth-Canton Community Schools bond recount process promptly at 8:30 a.m. April 15 in the E.J. McClendon Educational Center.

Committee members will allow challengers to be present in limited numbers, according to Superintendent Charles Little, who said he understands the procedure to be "an all day affair."

The local Board of Canvassers is expected to reconvene the same evening following a decision by Wayne County committee members as to how the district should proceed.

Little noted there are two reasons for canvassers to do a recount, including fraud and machine malfunctions, both of which have been raised as issues following the March 22 bond proposal.

New touch-screen voting machines were used in the election, in which 720 ballots were spoiled. The $79.7 million bond issue - the only item on the ballot - passed by just 96 votes, 5,733-5,637.

Dell Templeton, proponent of the special bond issue, said there were a lot of hard feelings stirred up by the allegations that votes were handled fraudulently. Templeton suggested election results be withdrawn and a new election be held in an effort to eliminate a lawsuit in Wayne County Circuit Court and the extensive time involved with litigation.

Shop and drop: Dona Waszczuk, of Plymouth and Charlotte Yax of Canton, dig through a pile of Beanie Babies. "I'm only here for one," said Waszczuk. "The rest are for my friends." The Plymouth Marketplace received delivery of the stuffed toys Wednesday morning and allowed only so many shoppers in at a time.

Shoppers compete for toys

Armed with cellular phones and lists of demands, they move into action. Not perilous gunmen or dangerous kidnappers, but Beanie Babies fanatics preparing to maraud the latest shipment of trendy collectibles.

Small in size, but phenomenally popular, those pint-size creatures have captured a marketable audience of consumers, both young and old, with their nominal price and generous appeal.

"We can't keep them on the sales floor," said Plymouth Marketplace co-owner Jim Tanski. "We sold 1,000 in two hours last week and must average 20 calls a day from customers inquiring about our next shipment."

Tanski said Ty Incorporated, manufacturer of Beanie Babies, can't keep up the orders he and thousands of other retailers have placed since the craze first hit Michigan last summer.

Keeping up with the frenzy only adds to the excitement, said Plymouth Marketplace floral manager Char Rowe.

"In the 26 years I've been in retail I haven't seen anything like this," said Rowe, an admitted veteran of the Cabbage Patch wars of the mid-1980s. "You can't help but stand back and laugh. It's absolutely insane when we bring them out on the floor."

Rowe said all of the approximately 75 animals in the Beanie Babies collection sell for the same price, in unlimited quantities at the Plymouth Marketplace. Rowe said they have not tried to take advantage of demand by increasing prices compared to several merchants selling the animals for up to $20 a piece.

City rolls on facility

■ Despite concern about liability, efforts are continuing to provide a temporary skateboarding facility.

BY KEVIN BROWN
STAFF WRITER

It's a case of danged if you do, danged if you don't.

A temporary skateboard facility for teens could expose the city to lawsuits, according to an April 2 letter from the city of Plymouth's liability insurance carrier.

But a task force of adults and teens has found such a facility would provide a place for skateboarders to congregate - away from downtown where some business people say the teens' presence scares away shoppers.

So after talking the issue over at their regular meeting Monday, Plymouth city commissioners suggested that efforts continue to set up a temporary facility either at the Plymouth Cultural Center parking lot, or at a Plymouth Township church.

Carol Stone, city administrative services director, presented to commissioners a letter from Joseph Juras of the city's insurance carrier, the Michigan Township Participating Plan.

"It is the opinion of the MTPP that the risk exposure in operating such a facility far outweighs the potential benefits," she said. "However, they have provided guidelines to follow for the construction and operation of a skateboard facility should the city choose to do so," Stone added.

She said that in researching skateboard parks, she found two such facilities now operating in the state, in Kalamazoo and Ferndale. "Both of these facilities report minimal problems," she said, adding both are privately operated and supervised.

Stone found that South Lyon oper-

Get ready to dial a new area code

BY KIMBERLY A. MORTSON
STAFF WRITER

Unanticipated changes in the telecommunications industry has led the way for additional modifications to area codes in Wayne, Oakland, Monroe, Livingston and Washtenaw counties.

Southeastern Michigan residents including most of Oakland County and very limited portions of Wayne, Washtenaw and Livingston counties, who now use the 810 area code, will have optional dialing privileges of the new 248 area code effective May 10.

According to Ameritech spokesperson Sara Snyder, optional dialing allows consumers to dial both area codes, 810 and 248, until required dialing takes effect Sept. 13.

"The changes can be attributed to the explosion of telecommunication services," said Snyder. "Second phone lines, fax machines, cellular phones and modems all effect the need for new numbers."

Unforeseen technological advances call for additional phone lines including, said Snyder, the credit card devices found on most gas station pumps that require a dedicated phone line for operation.

"Three years ago those were unheard of," said Snyder.

A new area code will also be implemented optionally for a majority of Wayne County and small segments of Monroe and Washtenaw

Ginsberg visited Plymouth-Canton

BY KEVIN BROWN
STAFF WRITER

Poet Allen Ginsberg performed his first-ever high school reading here in the Plymouth-Canton community.

The event may not earn a mention in Ginsberg biographies that are likely to abound, following the poet's death Saturday at age 70.

But he did tell teacher Barbara Masters before his Feb. 15, 1985, performance at the Canton Little Theater in Plymouth Canton High School, "This is the first time I've been asked to do a reading at a high school," she recalled.

"He was delighted to be there," said Masters.

"I think most high schools wouldn't be likely to bring him in, that he was too controversial," she said.

"He was a motivational speaker. He read from some other poets and read his own poetry. The sound of his voice was a beautiful sound, a deep resonant mature voice," Masters said.

Of Ginsberg's poems, she said, "Sometimes they were funny, sometimes they made a political comment which I liked. Sometimes he wrote about personal experience. 'Father Death Blues' was immensely moving."

Ginsberg led about 75 students in the auditorium in a meditation exercise. "Buddhism makes me notice what I'm in touch with already," he explained.

The "Beat Generation" poet who became famous in the 1950s sometimes sang poems, accompanied himself on a harmonium, and drank chamomile tea while sitting on stage. He wore a black leather jacket and a blue shirt ated an unsupervised skateboard park that closed due to vandalism and other problems.

Detroit Edison reported 1,700 customers in Plymouth city and township lost power Sunday due to 60-70 mph winds. About 500 were still without power on Monday, but all power was restored by Tuesday. Outages stemmed from winds blowing tree branches against power lines, forcing them down.*

While the city insurance carrier expressed concerns about potential liability stemming from a skateboard park, City Manager Steve Walters said insurance carriers sound the same warnings for city-run fireworks displays.

City Commissioner Joe Koch said one way to ease liability concerns would be to have the skateboard park at a Plymouth Township church that has expressed interest in participating.

But Commissioner Don Dismuke suggested that skateboarders may choose to stay downtown, rather than trek out to a township location.

Commissioner Stella Greene asked commissioners to consider the possibility that after money is spent on such a facility, kids could lose interest. She also asked if parents would approve of kids going to such a facility.

"The parents are very supportive of their skateboarding," said Del Templeton, another task force member.

He encouraged the city administration to talk with officials in Brighton, where government and the local Optimist Club are organizing a skateboard park.

Mayor Ron Loiselle said the commission has to determine if the people supervising the park will be paid, or will volunteer.

Despite the cold, start thinking spring

BY KEVIN BROWN
STAFF WRITER

We've had some blasts of high winds and light snow, but lots of Plymouth and Canton folks are nonetheless thinking spring.

Recently at Saxton's Garden Center in Plymouth, customers were interested in a range of yard items, from hedge trimmers to fertilizer.

"We've been selling a lot of step fertilizer programs," said owner Bill Saxton. "We've got a raft of lawn mower tune ups coming in. There's a seven to 10-day wait on them right now," he said, adding more mowers are expected in coming weeks.

"We've been selling some weed control material for putting in their flower beds, we've sold some grass seed too, some fungicides, some insecticides for grubs," Saxton said.

When customers talk about the weather, most agree it's been a typical early spring. "It's not as cold as last year," he said.

At Backyard Birds Garden & Nature Store on Main Street in Plymouth, spring brings a dramatic increase in the sale of bird seed. "People are welcoming the birds from down south and South America, the indigo bunting and the red-breasted grosebeck, all your cool migratory birds are passing through Plymouth on their way up north," said owner Gary Phillips.

■ 'We're starting to get deliveries of plant material. We get a lot of calls for landscaping plans.'

"There's been a dramatic increase in bird bath sales and also garden accessories - sundials, trellises, feeders, garden stones, bird feeders, sculptures, we get our phone ringing off the hook," Phillips said.

Those sprucing up backyards in both the city and township can begin putting out composted materials sometime around mid-month. Plymouth Township residents can dispose grass clippings, leaves, vegetative pruning starting the week of April 14. Acceptable compost containers are 30 gallon reusable containers with sturdy handles marked "compost," and 30 gallon paper refuse bags.

Plastic bags are not accepted for disposal of compost material. All township residents with curb-side trash pick up are required by ordinance to separate yard waste for composting from their regular trash.

This includes both those who are part of the township's solid waste pickup system and those with a private trash contractor. Township residents with questions should call 454-0530.

Mark Hammar, city assistant municipal services director, said the city composting program will begin the second or third week of the month. For now, he said, "We're recommending to residents to just hold yard debris until we're given the green light by (waste contractor) Painter-Ruthenberg. Compost will not be picked up a the curb for now."

City workers recently were putting out picnic tables and trash receptacles at parks. Crews have also been cleaning up at city parks and at Riverside Cemetery, raking leaves and picking up debris. Hammar added that street sweepers are cleaning up dirt, gravel and salt from roadways this week.

Michelle Murch, head groundskeeper for Canton Township, said,"We've been doing a lot of painting of picnic tables, trash barrels and that kind of stuff, to get it ready for the season."

At Lucas Nursery and Landscape Company on Ford Road in Canton plenty of shrubs are being sold, due to the building that's going on, said manager Kim Lucas.

"A lot of people are buying crab trees and a lot of the flowering trees so far; plumb trees and weeping trees, and spruce. People are asking for a lot of hedge type plants," she said.

Cindy Parker, manager of Plymouth Nursery Home & Garden Showplace, said Tuesday, "We're starting to get deliveries of plant material - shredded bark, a lot of trees and fertilizers. We get a lot of calls for landscaping plans."

Whistle Stop Players take center stage

BY JOANNE MALISZEWSKI
STAFF WRITER

When you see the Whistle Stop Players' production of "James and the Giant Peach," you will see creativity and innovation at work.

Children, ages 5-15, who are in the production, will do more than take on their particular characters in the popular children's story. The kids become part of the scenery so to speak.

"They are clouds on a stick, sharks. It's really kind of fun. The kids each have a character and then they become an actor in conventional black. It's sort of an Asian theater type of thing," said Jennifer Tobin, Plymouth Community Arts Council executive director and Whistle Stop Players director.

The production is supported by parents who volunteer, as well as technical director Sandra Richards of Plymouth.

"James and the Giant Peach" will debut at 7 p.m. Friday, April 11, followed by shows at 2 p.m. and 7 p.m. Saturday, April 12, and at 2 p.m. Sunday, April 13. The shows are at the PCAC, 774 N. Sheldon at the corner of Junction.

Tickets are $4 each in advance and $5 each at the door.

Ninety children turned out for auditions in January and two casts of about 18 each were selected. "Kids alternate performances," Tobin said. "We really have good kids. It's excellent quality because the kids are experienced."

"James and the Giant Peach" is about a boy whose parents are killed and is sent to live with two nasty aunts. The story is his experiences when he encounters a giant peach and the insect characters inside and the adventures they live.

"The ending is really fun," Tobin said.

Following the weekend performances, the kids will take their production on the road to schools in the Plymouth-Canton district, as well as one school in the Farmington Public Schools - one of the cast members is from the Farmington area.

Schools to be visited include West, Bird, Isbister, Tonda, Hoben and Smith.

"Everything we make for the play has to be portable. The set is bits and pieces. It's really creative," Tobin said.

To buy tickets in advance, the PCAC is open 9 a.m.-noon and again 5-8 p.m. during rehearsals this week for the production.

Near the end of one of two hour-long programs, Ginsberg was asked about his drug use. He said he had used drugs to probe the parameters of his mind, adding he still tried psychedelics at least once a year out of principle.

"After the reading was over students were hopping up on stage, he asked them questions, he wasn't in any hurry to get away," Masters said.

Rob MacKercher, a 1984 Plymouth Canton graduate, worked through a Detroit Institute of Arts director to bring Ginsberg here. "The kids asked me if I would sponsor it, I said sure never believing he would come," Masters said. "My administrator, Gerry Ostoin, said that was OK.'

MacKercher recalled that Ginsberg "was a very generous, kindhearted human, he was very into sharing his time." He accepted a $250 fee for the reading.

"What always stuck out for me was his approach, dealing with life with candor to break down people's barriers. He was very down to earth and very good at reaching out to people. It was not like a star thing, there was no distance between audience and performer," he said.

Masters added, "I just really feel terrible that kids are not going to hear him live anymore."

CSX crossing at Ann Arbor Trail and Lilley is set for improvement

BY KEVIN BROWN
STAFF WRITER

Work to lower and rubberize the railroad crossing on Ann Arbor Trail west of Lilley Road could begin as early as May.

Plymouth city commissioners at their meeting Monday approved a plan by which the city would contribute $32,000 toward the work, to be performed by CSX Transportation.

The city's contribution will pay for rubberized crossing materials.

City Manager Steve Walters reported to commissioners, "CSX is evaluating an elevation change to the tracks, to reduce the severity of the rise for vehicle traffic."

"Obviously, it is desirable for the city to participate in these improvements at this time, in conjunction with the repaving of Ann Arbor Trail in the 1997 street program," Walters said.

He added that the city's share of the crossing improvement cost could be paid from the street improvement plan budget, set up through a bond issue approved by residents in November.

"There is a contingency budget which can absorb related expenses such as this, if the base bids are within the project budget," Walters said.

Noting that CSX has already agreed to pay for a rubberized crossing in Old Village - which followed the city agreeing to close the York Street crossing - Commissioners Joe Koch and Dennis Shrewsbury asked Walters if he could look into the possibility of CSX paying now for the rubberized Ann Arbor Trail crossing. That way, the city could hold off paying for one rubberized crossing until a time when this cost could be more easily budgeted.

Walters said he could ask, but the go-ahead on the Ann Arbor Trail crossing should be communicated now to the railroad. That way, work could be coordinated with Ann Arbor Trail improvements already scheduled for this year through the street improvement program.

Commissioner Doug Miller said that unlike railroad crossings in the city on Main Street and Farmer, the crossing on Beck Road in Plymouth Township is much smoother. He asked the city administration why the situation existed.

City Building Official Jim Penn offered that the grade or road level at the city crossings was the reason. But he said that since improvements were made at the Main Street crossing in recent years, "We don't get the loose timbers, we haven't had the problems."

CLARIFICATION

The recount of Plymouth-Canton Community Schools' March 22 bond issue won't be open to the public. The recount, which has been scheduled for Tuesday, April 15, at the Plymouth-Canton administration building, is open to petitioner Dan Harriman and others who have challenged the result, said Ed Carey, Wayne County Elections Commission director.

The Wayne County Board of Canvassers will meet following the recount. That meeting, in the Plymouth-Canton board room, is open to the public.

Patching machine smooths out freeway potholes

BY KIMBERLY A. MORTSON
STAFF WRITER

The condition of state, county and local roads throughout the winter months and into the spring season remain in a state of deterioration as independent contractors and county workers labor to patch and repair hazardous holes and cracks.

Travelers accustomed to seeing patching crews filling holes the cold patch method — large premixed emulsion coated stones shoveled into pavement breaks and openings — may be seeing more repairs performed by a machine that extends the longevity of the patch.

The seal patch machine has been utilized by county workers and independent contractors since 1990, according to Dick Gould, district maintenance engineer with the Michigan Department of Transportation.

"It's just another way of doing it," said Gould. "The equipment is much more expensive but you can get pretty good production results."

Machine patch

In contrast to the cold patch method, seal patching requires an operator to blow out loose materials from the pothole with a hand operated gun. From the same device, small stones coated with emulsion fills the hole followed by untreated stones (1/8 to 1/4 in size), then a powdered layer of dust secures the material to prevent it from cracking.

Gould said unfavorable consequences include dust complaints resulting from inexperienced operators, sewer congestion created when loose stones are carried away by storm run-off and the fact that the task is very physically demanding on the operator.

The state road engineer added the seal patch machine is only capable of doing one job as opposed to multiple uses repair crews gain from dump trucks that carry cold patch materials.

"Often times cold patch, under ideal conditions, can have a service life from three to five years," said Gould. "In the hopes that it's deposited into the hole and tapped down by a road crew worker or a passing vehicle, cold patch works just as well."

Complaints soar

A Wayne County Department of Public Service Roads Hotline spokesperson said the telephone service receives dozens of complaints per day regarding declining stretches of road throughout the county. In particular highways including I-275 and I-96 as well as busy thoroughfare intersections such as Cherry Hill and Middlebelt roads in Westland, leave weary motorists at the mercy of the road.

Scott Kingan, public information officer county roads, said with the onset of the spring season complaints lodged regarding road conditions have increased by 200 percent compared to this same period in 1996.

"The weather is partly to blame for the shape of the roads as well as the fact that they're continuing to get older. Just like a 100,000 miles on a car, all kinds of things can start to happen."

Kingan said the county however, is actively seeking new methods to improve driving conditions through the acquisition of a new pothole patching unit referred to as a "hot patcher." The machine carries heated high performance cold patch materials, kept pliable, through an onboard gas heating system towed by a trailer behind the operator.

The device has the capability of hauling up to four tons of patch material equaling one days labor for a crew.

Kingan said the county has taken delivery of six hot patch units and expects to receive up to one dozen by 1998. The average cost of the device is $11,000 and is believed to extend and improve the quality of patches beyond the three to five year standards of cold patching.

Patch crews

Patch crews increase productivity per day, particularly in extreme cold weather conditions, because of the versatility of the heated materials.

"Cold patching is a meticulous job that requires workers to pound by hand the product into the hole," said Kingan. "During the winter months cold patch gets hard and is difficult to manipulate but hot patch remains heated and flexible."

The county public information officer added the spring season is typically the most detrimental to roads as moisture begins to be released from the frozen ground counties as of Dec. 13. Communities including Plymouth and Canton will be able to dial 313 and 734 beginning in December until they are required to dial 734 exclusively, effective July 25, 1998.

The only cities that will continue to make use of the 313 area code are: Detroit, Hamtramck, Highland Park, Dearborn, Dearborn Heights, Redford, Lincoln Park, Ecorse, Harper Woods, the Grosse Pointes and River Rouge.

Snyder said Ameritech has accurately forecasted changes for consumers beginning with the October 1995 announcement that additional area codes would be essential in the next five years.

Updates, said the Ameritech spokesperson, were made in July 1996 with the announcement of the 248 area code and again in October 1996 for 734.

"We are currently working on our communication plan and how we will meet the future needs of our customers," said Snyder, "but we are continually providing face-to-face communications through the distribution of business kits, press releases, the media and visits by yellow page sales representatives."

Snyder said no one can predict the direction telecommunication services will follow and ideally we would all have one number that we carried with us for the rest of our lives.

"As favorable as that sounds we need to deal with the short-term situation," said Snyder.

committee in determining how to handle overcrowding at Bentley Elementary. In addition, she has studied a variety of other issues facing the district - recommending numerous possible solutions over the years.

"I want to see an open race with choice," Bollman said.

A married mother of three Plymouth-Canton Community School graduates, Bollman, 54, works part-time for Enterprise Rent-A-Car.

According to Plymouth-Canton Community Relations Director Judy Evola the final candidate to submit a petition was Suzanne Dershem of Canton.

Dershem, 35, said she hopes to serve as a Plymouth-Canton Board of Education member because she believes its the entity she can make the best contribution of her time and resources.

A chemical engineer, Dershem and her husband Scott have two children in the Plymouth-Canton Community Schools including a preschooler and second grader at Bentley Elementary School.

Dershem said she has been actively involved in several school related programs and organizations such as the Bentley PTO, Superintendent Charles Little's Legislative Action Committee, and c hairman of the Preschool Committee.

"Because I live west of Canton Center I've been studying the housing committee situation very closely," said Dershem. "I don't even know where my kids will end up going to school."

Her first attempt at running for a public office, Dershem said the driving force behind her campaign will be to allocate the money the district currently has to better educate the children of the Plymouth-Canton Community Schools.

CITY OF PLYMOUTH
ORDINANCE NO. 97-2

An ordinance adopted pursuant to the Charter of the City of Plymouth, Wayne County, Michigan, for the purpose of prohibiting the obstruction of vehicular traffic on a public street or highway by a railroad train pursuant to the empowerment of Section 391 of the Michigan Railroad Code of 1993, as amended, being 1993 PA 354; MCL 462.391; MSA 22. 1263(391); for the purpose of establishing penalties, fines, civil fines, costs and sanctions for the violations of this ordinance; for the purpose of maintaining in effect penalties, fines, civil fines, costs and sanctions for the violations of ordinances occurring prior to the effective date of this ordinance; and for the purpose of amending the Code of Ordinances of the City of Plymouth, Michigan, providing as follows:

THE CITY OF PLYMOUTH ORDAINS:

Section 1. Section 70-241 of Chapter 70, Traffic and Vehicles, of the Code of Ordinances of the City of Plymouth, Michigan, together with all other current sections of the Plymouth City Code shall be and remain in full force and effect as to all ordinances and all events and occurrences and all violations of ordinances to which said Section 70-241 and other ordinances are otherwise applicable and occurring prior to the effective date of the Ordinance, saving the same from repeal for prior offenses.

Section 2. That Section 70-241 of the Code of Ordinances of the city of Plymouth, Michigan, is hereby amended to read as follows:

[Sec. 70-241. Obstructing street.

It shall be unlawful for any railroad company, its successors, assigns, or lessees, or for any officer, agent, or employee thereof, to obstruct free passage of any street or sidewalk within the city, by means of any railroad cars, trains, engines or locomotives for a longer period than five minutes at any one time, nor shall successive train movements be permitted to obstruct streets or highways until all vehicular traffic previously delayed has been cleared or a period of five minutes has elapsed since the obstruction.] Deleted text is shown by enclosing the omitted material in brackets.

Sec. 70-241. Obstruction of vehicular traffic by train; restrictions; penalties.

(1) A railroad shall not permit a train to obstruct vehicular traffic on a public street or highway for longer than 5 minutes at any time, except the obstruction shall not be considered a violation under the following circumstances:

(a) if the train is continuously moving in the same direction at not less than 10 miles per hour for not more than 7 minutes.

(b) if the railroad can show that the incident occurred as a result of a verifiable accident mechanical failure, or unsafe condition.

(2) A railroad shall not permit successive train movement to obstruct vehicular traffic on a public street or highway until all vehicular traffic previously delayed by such train movements has been cleared.

(3) A railroad company shall not permit its employees to allow the activation of active traffic control devices at a railroad grade crossing for more than 2 minutes if there is no intention to move a train or track equipment through the crossing within 20 seconds to 60 seconds after the activation of the devices.

(4) Each offense under this section shall be a separate municipal civil infraction violation and punishable by a fine of not more than $500.00

(5) All fines civil or otherwise collected by the City of Plymouth in excess of $10,000.00 annually from the enforcement of this section shall be allocated as follows:

(a) Fifteen percent shall be retained by the City of Plymouth for costs of enforcement of this section.

(b) Eighty-five percent shall be deposited in a railroad grade crossing safety fund. The revenue collected in this fund shall be used solely for railroad grade crossing safety projects in the City of Plymouth. A municipal fund designated the "City of Plymouth Railroad Safety Fund" is established for the purpose of receiving and disbursing railroad grade crossing safety projects funds as determined and authorized by the City Commission which fund shall receive all fines civil or otherwise collected by the City pursuant to this sub-Section and may be utilized for any purpose not inconsistent with State of Michigan statute or regulation.

Section 3. Nothing in this Ordinance hereby adopted shall be construed to affect any suit or proceeding impending in any court, any rights acquired, or liability incurred, or any cause or causes of action acquired or existing under any act or ordinance hereby repealed as cited in Section 2 of this Ordinance; nor shall any just or legal right or remedy of any character be lost, impaired of affected by this Ordinance.

Section 4. Should any section, clause or paragraph of this ordinance be declared by a Court of competent jurisdiction to be invalid, the same will not affect the validity of the ordinance as a whole or part thereof other than the part declared invalid.

Section 5. All other ordinances inconsistent with the provisions of this ordinance are to the extent of such inconsistencies hereby repealed.

Section 6. The City Clerk shall certify to the adoption of this Ordinance and cause the same to be published as required by law; and this Ordinance shall take full force and effect on April 28th, 1997.

At a regular meeting of the City Commission held on April 7th, 1997, the foregoing Ordinance was:

Defusing the time bomb:
The hidden danger of high blood pressure

Over 60 million American adults have high blood pressure, but half of these people don't realize it. That's because this condition—also known as hypertension—often has no symptoms. When left untreated, high blood pressure can complicate other problems such as diabetes and eye disease, and seriously damage the heart, arteries, kidneys and lungs. In the past, all a doctor could do was recommend a low-salt/low-fat diet. But now there are many more treatment options to help patients lower their blood pressure to healthier levels.

For our next Health Night Out in Western Wayne County, the Northville and Plymouth Health Centers will present High Blood Pressure: Unmasking the Quiet Killer. Leading the presentation will be Denege Ward, M.D., medical director of the Plymouth Health Center, and Bretton Weintraub, M.D., internist at the Northville Health Center.

During the presentation you'll learn how hypertension is defined and diagnosed...how it affects other health problems and contributes to coronary artery disease and heart attacks... what genetic risk factors you may have...which behavioral changes in diet, exercise and mineral intake are effective... which drugs have proven most effective in controlling this condition while minimizing side effects...and more.

Join us on Thursday, April 17 for our next Health Night Out in Western Wayne County. Because half of all adults reading this have—or don't realize they have—high blood pressure.

Canton woman runs to show you can beat cancer

BY DONNA MULCAHY
SPECIAL WRITER

Janis Puskar of Canton is many things — a wife, mother, competitive athlete and aerobics instructor.

But the one thing she thought she'd never be is a breast cancer survivor. That's because she wasn't supposed to get the disease in the first place.

"I did all the right things," the 38-year-old mother of two said. "I never smoked, I ate right — there's very little fat in my diet — and I've been an aerobics instructor for 17 years now. I've even trained for aerobics competitions. I've always been healthy."

Plus, no one in her family ever had the disease.

But soon after giving birth to her daughter, Jordan, now 6, Puskar noticed a lump in her breast. She mentioned it to her doctor, but he said it was a harmless fibroid tumor and that she shouldn't be concerned.

Taking action

Still, it continued to bother her. About two years after she first noticed the lump, she told her doctor that she wanted a plastic surgeon to remove it, just to allay her fears.

The surgeon ordered something that Puskar had never had before, a mammography. When the results of that X-ray came back suspicious, he ordered more tests. They confirmed Puskar's worst fear: she had breast cancer.

"The first thing that came into my head was, 'Oh my God, I'm going to die,'" she said. "And then I thought, "I've got to go clothes shopping for my kids,' because my husband didn't know how to shop for them, and they'd need new clothes after I was gone and he'd need a new suit for my funeral."

Race helps raise funds, awareness of breast cancer

Detroit's Race for the Cure, Michigan's largest race, will be held at the Detroit Zoo Saturday, April 19.

Presented locally by the Karmanos Cancer Institute, the race is part of a national series of races, founded by the Susan G. Komen Breast Cancer Foundation. The series' purpose is to increase public awareness about breast cancer and to raise money for research into a cure.

Registration fee is $20 until April 11; $30 thereafter. No registration on race day. Free entry for children 10 and under. Last chance to register is noon to 8 p.m. Friday, April 18 at the Oakland YMCA, 839 S. Crooks at Normandy.

More than 13,500 people participated in the Detroit race last year, including runners, joggers, fitness walkers and recreational walkers. The race is directed by The Motor City Striders, a Detroit-based running club.

Prizes are awarded to the top athletes in the Men's 5K and the 5K for Women, Family and Friends. Awards also are given to the top three 5K breast cancer survivor runners.

The Alexa Kraft Award, named for a talented Detroit runner who died in 1988, is presented to the first place survivor.

In addition to the 5K race, people can participate in a one-mile Fun Walk up the zoo's promenade.

For more information, call 1-800-KARMANOS or (810) 544-9099, 8 a.m. to 8 p.m. any day.

Aiming high: Janis Puskar, an aerobics instructor in Canton, plans to finish year's Race for the Cure in 24 minutes but if it takes her longer, and if she doesn't win first place, it doesn't matter. "I do it because, every time I finish the race, I get this little extra feeling of, "I'm still alive."

REDUCE PAPER CUTS BY 98%
Open fewer envelopes when you consolidate bills with a home equity loan from NBD.
Save up to $300 on your first month's interest.
Everyone knows the leading cause of paper cuts is opening monthly bills. Let NBD reduce the risk by consolidating your bills with a home equity loan. You'll pay no application fees or closing costs. NBD will refund your first month's interest up to $300. And your interest may be tax deductible. Best of all, fewer envelopes mean fewer paper cuts. Visit any branch. Or apply over the phone, seven days a week, at 1-800-CALL-NBD.
we can do that
NBD
Interest accrued during the first 30 days after you close the loan, if any, will be refunded up to a maximum of $300. For term loans, you will be notified of the interest savings amount at the time of closing. Property insurance required. Please consult your tax advisor regarding the deductibility of interest. Offer expires July 31, 1997.

Puskar said she felt scared, depressed and defeated, but only for about two weeks.

"By that time, I had talked to some breast cancer survivors, and I started to think, no one can raise your kids and dress them like you can, so you've got to get your head together and fight this thing," she said.

She had a mastectomy in June of 1993, soon after being diagnosed with cancer. From July through December, she underwent a series of chemotherapy treatments, and when it was over, she had her healthy breast removed, just to be safe.

Through it all, she refused to feel sorry for herself, for her sake and her family's. She drove herself to her chemotherapy treatments and continued to teach aerobics classes.

"I think the fact that I continued to teach helped me," she said, "because the exercise helped me stay healthy, and the students in my class were just wonderful. They didn't treat me any differently than they did before. So what if I didn't have hair? It didn't matter. I was still their teacher."

Race beckoned

In April 1994, just four months after completing her chemotherapy, Puskar ran in the Race for the Cure at the Detroit Zoo. The annual, 5 kilometer (3.1 mile) race is part of a national series of races that raises money for breast cancer research.

"I took along a group from my aerobics class, because I thought it would be a good activity for us to do," she said. "My goal at that point was just to finish the race, and I hoped that my dollar would be the one to help find the cure."

She finished the race in 32 minutes. "But I'm very competitive; I wanted to do better," she said.

So in July of 1994, she drove to Ohio and competed in Toledo's Race for the Cure. She finished the race in 28 minutes and received a special award for coming in second place among the breast cancer survivors who competed that day.

"I didn't even know that they had a special category for breast cancer survivors," Puskar said. "I was just out to beat my previous time."

In April 1995, she competed in the Detroit Race for the Cure again. Her son, Jonathan, who was 6 at the time, said she would win first place among the breast cancer survivors and she did, finishing the race in 26 minutes.

She's been racking up wins ever since. She won the first place award for breast cancer survivors at the Race for the Cure in Toledo in 1995 and 1996, and in Detroit last year, where she had her best time yet, 24 minutes, 52 seconds.

Race goal

The 1997 Detroit Race for the Cure will be held Saturday, April 19 at the Detroit Zoo. Puskar hopes to finish the race in 24 minutes flat this year. But if it takes her longer, and if she doesn't win first place, it doesn't matter. She's not in it for the awards.

"I do it because, every time I finish the race, I get this little extra feeling of, "I'm still alive,"" she said. "It's hard to describe. But by running in the race, I've proven to myself that this thing (cancer) is not going to beat me. It's not going to overtake me."

Puskar founded a support group for breast cancer survivors, called Women Celebrating Life, in 1994. The group meets Downriver, where Puskar and her husband, John, used to live before moving to Canton last year.

The group helps women who have been diagnosed with breast cancer in many ways: by introducing them to other breast cancer survivors, and by helping newly diagnosed women purchase wigs, prosthetics, makeovers and anything else that might help them feel better about themselves.

"We'd also like to do a videotape of the families of some breast cancer survivors, to show what they go through," she said. "There are support groups out there for families, but a lot of men won't go to them, because they think they wouldn't feel comfortable. If we had a videotape, they could see what other people have gone through and realize that they're not alone."

Other roles

In addition to her work with the support group, Puskar teaches aerobics part-time at Canton's new community center, and is a speaker and breast educator for the Karmanos Cancer Institute.

As a breast educator, she stresses how important it is for women to take control of their bodies and health care.

"Nobody knows your body better than you, not even your doctor," she said. "So if you think there is a problem, you should get it checked out. After all, if I hadn't insisted on having the lump in my breast removed, who knows if I would still be here today."

Mammograms

Most health insurance providers won't pay for a woman to get a mammogram before the age of 40, unless she has a higher than normal risk of developing breast cancer, due to her lifestyle and factors in her background.

"But if you think you need a mammogram get one, even if your insurance doesn't pay for it," Puskar said. "You don't hesitate to spend $200 on an outfit, so why not to save your life?"

Since her chemotherapy, Puskar has been cancer free. But the experience has taught her to live each day as if it were her last.

"I don't measure things in terms of age or how many years you have left," she said. "I look at the number of days you have left and nobody knows what that is. And I don't feel that way because the cancer might come back. It's because I could go out to get my mail tomorrow and get hit by a car. You just never know what's going to happen. So make the most out of the time you do have and don't worry about the little things."

and road surfaces suffer negatively.

"This is usually our worst time for repairs but most of the moisture is already out of the roads," said Kingan, "it may not be as awful as it could be based on the weather of the past few months."

Maintenance operation engineer Dennis Kolar said hot patchers are easier to use because access to the materials from the trailer is lower to the ground compared to reaching high off the back of the truck.

"The workability of the heated materials makes it easier for the crew to manage and compact," said Kolar.

While the new devices are being utilized more readily, Kolar said the traditional method and equipment will continue to be used.

Auction to benefit 8 Mile effort

Members of the Eight Mile Boulevard Association will be "Going, Going... Going Eight Mile" as the group adds a silent auction to its fourth annual meeting, scheduled for 5 p.m. Monday, May 5, in the Michigan State Fair's community arts building.

"Our selection of items will reflect the variety you find in the 1,800 businesses on Eight Mile," said auction chair Tom Storey.

Attendees can bid on Tiger tickets, fine dining, designer sunglasses, a Michigan State Fair ticket package, tools, tires, golf outings and many more items donated by businesses and communities throughout the corridor. Sponsors for the event include St. John Health Systems, Greenman's Printing and Imaging in Livonia, Madison Bank and the Plumbing and Heating Industry of Detroit.

Restaurants and caterers along the corridor will serve up a " Taste of Eight Mile" for the meeting. The association will share its year's accomplishments and introduce new board members.

Admission is $8 for members and $18 for nonmembers. For tickets, call (810) 559-8633.

Members of the 8MBA include businesses, neighborhood groups, the 13 communities and three counties along Eight Mile plus the Michigan Department of Transportation. The association's mission is to revitalize and promote the Eight Mile transportation, business and residential corridor by linking the efforts of the public and private sectors.

Local students to use Rouge as 'living' lab

Students and teachers from schools through Wayne and Oakland counties will turn the Rouge River into a living science lab on Saturday, April 12.

Elementary, middle and high school students, along with their teachers, parents and school administrators, will be participating in the first step of the annual Rouge Education Project, sponsored by the Friends of the Rouge.

Students will converge on the Rouge at Detroit Country Day Middle School, 22400 Hillview Lane, off Lahser Road one block south of 13 Mile Road in Birmingham, to learn a series of chemical, biological and physical tests they will use in May to monitor the water quality of the Rouge River.

Wayne County schools registered to participate in Saturday's tests included Garden City High School; Fisher Elementary School, Redford Township; Bird Elementary, Plymouth; and Huron Valley Lutheran High School, Westland.

The students will test the water to determine its level of life-sustaining oxygen, and check levels of nutrients and other pollution sources in the Rouge. They'll also search for water insects, which can provide clues about water quality.

On May 8, students from the 90 schools participating in the Rouge Education Project will go to separate sites throughout the 470-square mile river basin to perform the tests they have learned at the Saturday workshop.

The results of their tests, which they can share with other students both locally and internationally over the Internet, are used to develop an annual overall water quality index for the four branches of the 126-mile Rouge River.

Brownfield redevelopment

County authority to work with local officials

BY KEN ABRAMCZYK
STAFF WRITER

Wayne County commissioners took the first steps last week to work with local communities to clean contaminated sites to establish new or relocated businesses.

Commissioners set a public hearing for May 15 to create a countywide Brownfield Redevelopment Authority, which uses tax revenue collected similarly to Tax Increment Finance Authorities.

After that hearing commissioners will be asked to approve a $3 million revolving fund and approve the 11-member board of directors of Wayne County's Economic Development Corporation to serve on the brownfield authority's board of directors.

The authority will capture increases on taxable property values on all millages within that established authority and use the money to clean up contaminated sites. The cleanup fund will be reimbursed through increases in property values from new development, so it acts as a "revolving fund."

"First of all we want to create an authority for our county to work in concert with local communities," said Tim Johnson, director of Wayne County's marketing and communications division for the Department of Jobs and Economic Development. "Seven communities want to work with us, but a lot of them have opted out on their own."

Two that have decided to set up a separate Brownfield Development Authority are Garden City and Westland.

Wayne County expects to work with communities where cleanup sites are located, but the county does not have a list of priority projects yet, Johnson said.

Brownfield authorities can outline projects that involve cleanup, removal, containment, isolation, destruction or treatment of hazardous substances released or threatened to be released into the environment. Work plans also include monitoring, maintenance or other action to minimize or prevent injury to the public stemming from the site's contamination.

The concept is that the tax capture will finance the cleanup. Once the cleanup is completed, planners believe developers or business entrepreneurs will locate at the formerly contaminated site.

The contaminated site must house a hazardous substance that exceeds legal concentrations or other cleanup criteria that has been released, deposited or disposed on the property. Those properties also must be located adjacent to property where development is expected to increase the captured taxable value there.

"(A proposed contaminated site) is property you normally don't get any millage from anyway," said Al Bogdan, Wayne County planning director. "You won't get the millage until you get that investment on the property."

These same chemical and biological tests have been performed annually by students since the Rouge Education Project was established in 1987. They have shown that the Rouge has remained consistently in the range of "fair" to "good" water quality.

Friends of the Rouge developed the interdisciplinary curriculum, which incorporates many scholastic disciplines including science, math, social studies, language, music and art for teachers to include in their regular classroom instruction.

The results of this year's Rouge Education Project will be on display at the project's annual Student Congress on May 19 at the Detroit Science Center.

The Rouge Education Project is one of the major activities of the Friends of the Rouge, a nonprofit volunteer-based organization that has conducted the annual Rouge Rescue cleanup of the Rouge River since 1986.

Rouge Rescue '97 will be held Saturday, June 7 at more than 20 sites in Wayne and Oakland counties.

Commission road audit vote splits along party lines

BY KEN ABRAMCZYK
STAFF WRITER

Wayne County commissioners approved a resolution April 3 asking the state Legislature to order a financial and operational audit of the Michigan Department of Transportation.

The resolution is the latest missive fired in the road transportation funding war that has pitted governmental agencies, political parties and elected officials against each other.

The resolution was introduced by Wayne County Commission Vice Chair Kay Beard, D-Westland, and approved on a 11-2 vote.

Backing Beard's resolution were all the Democrats who were present, including Commission Chair Ricardo Solomon, Vice Chair Pro Tem Edna Bell, Commissioners Chris Cavanagh, Ken Cockrel, George Cushingberry, Susan Hubbard, William O'Neil, Bernard Parker, Michelle Plawecki and Jewel Ware.

Opposed were Commissioners Thaddeus McCotter, R-Livonia, and Bruce Patterson, R-Canton.

Commissioner Robert Blackwell, D-Detroit, was absent.

Beard's resolution states that Michigan receives $42,168 per mile of road, according to information made available by the Michigan Department of Transportation, in comparison to $11,518 for cities and $4,604 per mile of road for counties. Michigan's per capita expenditures on roads rank Michigan 48th in the nation.

Wayne County receives 78 cents from Lansing for every dollar it sends to the Michigan Transportation Fund.

Beard's resolution states that the Michigan House of Representatives Appropriations Subcommittee on Transportation has identified $100 million for which MDOT cannot account for at least each of the last five years. Beard said the state Auditor General has identified an additional $28 million transferred from the Michigan Transportation Fund between 1994-96 to subsidize the operations of various state departments.

"We're really just asking the Governor to live up to his responsibility to preserve the public's trust in the same manner as he has asked everyone else to do so," Beard said. "To not do so is the equivalent of condoning mismanagement."

"We're concerned about the possible diversion of funds — the $28 million from MDOT — and other state departments. The general public needs to know what's going on. Elected officials are concerned because we're not getting our fair share."

Beard believes an audit of MDOT is necessary to preserve the public trust at a time when emotions over this issue are running high and to reciprocate the bipartisan efforts of elected officials from throughout Michigan.

Beard's resolution comes several months after the state auditor general wanted access to county financial records to complete an audit of Wayne County road funding.

State Sen. Loren Bennett, R-Canton, requested state Auditor General Thomas McTavish complete an audit of county road funds for the years of 1993-96 because he believed Canton was not receiving its fair share of funds for roads from Wayne County. Wayne County receives state aid for transportation and contracts projects out for major roads.

Bennett was not available for comment this week on Beard's resolution, but Bennett's legislative aide Bill Sullivan said her resolution had "no point" to it, as the state already conducts two performance audits on MDOT.

"The resolution says the state is doing this thing (audit) to us, and we'll do something back at you," Sullivan said.

County Commissioner Thaddeus McCotter called the resolution a "partisan tit-for-tat." "This is a payback for the road audit," McCotter said.

The Michigan Congressional delegation has made bipartisan efforts to seek additional federal revenue for roads when the Transportation budget is approved later this year.

Last week U.S. Sen. Spencer Abraham, R-Michigan, appeared at a Canton luncheon and said he hoped to change Michigan's status as a "donor" state in delivering tax dollars to Washington. Michigan sends $700 million to Washington for roads, but only receives $550 million in return, Abraham said.

Abraham said he was working on a "turnback" proposal that would eliminate a federal subsidy of 12 cents from the 18-cent gas tax earmarked for roads and instead allow states to pick up that revenue.

Legislators in Lansing also have proposed a number of ideas to increase revenue without raising the gas tax. Sullivan said House lawmakers may act a recently approved Senate proposal as soon as this week.

Board seeks public input on Wayne State's future

The board of governors of Wayne State University has scheduled two public forums to receive comments from students, faculty and staff, alumni and the community about the policy issues, challenges and opportunities the new president will face in the next several years.

The two-hour sessions will be held 3:30-5:30 p.m. Wednesday, April 23, and 10:30 a.m.-12:30 p.m. Thursday, April 24, in the McGregor Memorial Conference Center on campus.

Comments may be made orally at the forums or in writing.

The deadline for written remarks or requests to make an oral presentation is Friday, April 18.

Those who wish to make oral remarks will be limited to five-minute presentations and should send a request to the board secretary with name, address, daytime phone number, whether student, faculty, staff, alumni, community or other designation, and the preferred date and time of their remarks.

Address the request to: Office of the Secretary, Board of Governors, Wayne State University, 4165 Faculty/Administration Building, Detroit MI 48202.

Those requesting a time to speak will be notified of a time and date by mail or telephone. For more information, call (313) 577-2034.

Nature association plans spring events

The Holliday Nature Preserve Association is continuing its tour schedule this spring. This volunteer group leads nature tours and clean-up activities through the William P. Holliday Forest and Nature Preserve, which they have been doing since 1988.

The group will host a general meetings at the Livonia Civic Library Wednesdays, April 9 and May 7 at 7 p.m. at Five Mile and Farmington Road in the Jenkins Room. In May, the group will preview this year's Rouge Rescue — the 10th being done at Holliday.

All of the following activities are free and family-oriented and tours last from an hour to an hour and a half. Hiking boots are recommended footwear as the trails can get muddy:

- Earth Day Clean-up — Saturday, April 19 at 10 a.m. Volunteers will carry boardwalks to place on the muddier parts of the trail and clean up trash from the preserve. Meet at Hix Road park entrance just north of Warren.
- Spring walk in Foxlands led by Bill Craig — Sunday, April 27 at noon at the Koppernick entrance one half mile west of Hix and one half mile south of Joy. Travel to the Foxlands area, which is the first piece of new parkland added to Wayne County Parks in years, thanks to the efforts of local action group South East Michigan Land Conservancy.
- Mother's Day Walk in the Cowan Section led by Phil Crookshank — Sunday, May 11 at 9:30 a.m. This is an annual event held in conjunction with the Sierra Club. Enjoy a leisurely stroll through the woods to marvel at the spring display of colors. Meet at the Cowan entrance just north of the Westland Shopping Center. Park in the Service Merchandise parking lot and cross the street to the preserve entrance.
- Wildflower Walk led by Bill Craig — Saturday, May 17. Meet at the Newburgh entrance at noon, north of Warren. Trek westward to check out the spring display of colors in this section of the preserve.

Wayne County must receive approval from the Michigan Department of Environmental Quality for work plans involving school millages, which would be just about all projects under the brownfield agreement.

"The schools are protected," Bogdan said. "It doesn't impact them because all the schools are in-formula." That means the state gives them the aid in its state aid formula, instead of the schools generating it in property tax revenue."

Within 60 days MDEQ must provide either an unconditional approval, conditional approval or indicates additions or change before it considers the plan.

The authority can establish the public purpose for eminent domain action.

An owner or lessee of an eligible property in a brownfield zone may take a tax credit of 10 percent of the cost of an eligible investment paid or accrued by the qualified taxpayer in the tax year.

The maximum tax credit cannot exceed $1 million.

Incumbents unopposed at S'craft

Two trustees will be unopposed in their quests to be reelected to the Schoolcraft College Board of Trustees.

Dick DeVries and Carol Strom returned nominating petitions by Monday's deadline to officially declare their candidacies. Voters will decide on two six-year terms on the board in an election June 9.

The Schoolcraft College district includes the Wayne County portions of K-12 districts of Clarenceville and Livonia Public Schools; the Northville district; Novi Community Schools, excluding the portion covered by Oakland Community College and portions of the Plymouth-Canton school district.

People who wish to register to vote in this election must do so by Monday, May 12 in the city or township hall in their community or visit a Secretary of State's office.

Voters who wish to obtain an absentee ballot can request one until Saturday, June 7, from the clerk in their municipality.

■ People who wish to register to vote in this election must do so by Monday, May 12.

Arts council

Director leaves a clear vision

It's quite a combination to be gracious, charming and classy and not blink an eye when picking up the trash and moving anything from boxes to furniture.

But that's how colleagues of Randy Lee will remember her as Plymouth Community Arts Council executive director.

Her recent resignation after three years has brought a sadness to the PCAC because board members and volunteers know what they are losing.

Lee was a full-time part-timer. If something had to be done for the arts council – regardless of her part-time position – she was there and always thinking how to improve the council and expand programs. Fifty-hour weeks were not unusual for Lee.

She also demonstrated a vision for the arts council, not only to have its own facility, but to expand programs of visual, musical and theatrical arts for adults and children in the community.

No matter where, the arts today always seem to be in struggle, particularly for funding, but for enthusiasm and devotion, as well.

There has been no question about Lee's energy and determination to bring the community the best artistic opportunities possible.

Lee also was known for tackling the unknown and uncertain. The Whistle Stop Players children's theater is one such example. She also guided the council through its move to the former Jehovah's Witness building on Sheldon at Junction, as well as the subsequent renovation. Lee also provided direction and leadership with grant requests to help the council.

While someone quite instrumental in the council's growth has moved on, the council is not lost. Jennifer Tobin, children's theater director, began as interim executive director March 1.

And there is no doubt that Tobin will offer the same dedication and hard work that she has given the Whistle Stop Players.

We look forward to the council's future and we are sure that under Tobin's leadership, it will continue with ingenuity, excellence and creativity.

Let horse racing gallop away

"This is an historic development in Michigan's horse racing industry which will help bring it successfully into the 21st century and enable it to compete effectively in the increasing competitive environment in which it finds itself."

So said state racing commissioner Nelson Westrin on Jan. 9, 1996, when Gov. John Engler signed a law allowing Michigan's eight horse racing tracks to offer wagering on simulcast programs – that is, races broadcast here from other tracks.

That bill went even further, allowing year-round simulcasting at Michigan tracks to "supplement" live programs. The 1996 law was to provide funds for county fairs, 4-H programs and the horse industry.

Well, the tracks are back for more. Specifically, the race tracks now are interested in a legislative package (House Bills 4409-4411) to allow video lottery terminals by the hundreds in bars and race tracks. Some of the proceeds – rah, rah – would be used on our roads.

Chief beneficiaries would be the area tracks: Ladbroke DRC in Livonia, the only thoroughbred track in the state; Northville Downs and Hazel Park Raceway, two harness race tracks.

The tracks' position is all the more annoying because Ladbroke officials refer to "an expanding entertainment market." Entertainment, your eye. There is no employment for artists, no encouragement for young musicians and ballerinas, no market for stand-up comedians, no soothing of the soul.

They are talking about gambling, where people throw money in a pot, the government takes its share, the operators take their shares, and what's left is distributed on the basis of luck. Not one car, not one pair of shoes, not one book, not one bottle of ginger ale, not one cabbage, not one stack of roofing shingles – no product of economic benefit is produced. Just something loosely called "entertainment."

The horse racing interests argue their industry may go down the tubes in the face of casino gambling. Well, let it. Horse racing, as colorful and exciting as it is, may have outlived its usefulness.

Time was when wagering was friendly game among fans who were genuinely interested in horses and improving the breed. The state's share of the proceeds did indeed advance the interests of agriculture through county fairs, 4-H, better purses for the horses, and so on.

Today, few people use horses for plowing, none use horses to pull their carriages to town on Saturday, and few even ride for pleasure. Engler, raised on a beef farm, stated the issue fairly bluntly in our 1994 interview with him:

"Horse racing nationally is an industry that's in trouble. We've seen attendance at tracks all across America decline. Demographics have been working against the horse racing industry."

Engler lauded racing commissioner Westrin, his appointee, for bringing the disparate horse interests together. But he hinted at what we now openly suggest: Horse racing is dying, a proliferation of gambling devices shouldn't be employed to save it, and the time may be near when we bid Ladbroke DRC a fond adieu.

The industry has exaggerated its economic impact, making it sound as if $2 billion in economic activity and 40,000 jobs are at stake. It arrived at that bloated figure in part by counting even the newspaper reporters who cover racing.

In fact, Ladbroke's track eats up a huge hunk of land along Livonia's "golden mile" industrial belt. The land could be redeveloped for industry – you know, real jobs – that would be worth 67 times as much as a grandstand and horse barns, according to the assessor's office.

Northville Downs is located on attractive land just downhill from a charming downtown. Hazel Park Raceway's land is nicely located near freeways and could hold other commercial uses.

It would be nice to see a fine old sport like horse racing survive. But if it takes hundreds of video lottery terminals seducing the gullible to help it, then we are better off letting horse racing die a dignified and natural death, along with hoopskirts and celluloid collars.

Attend the meeting

I wish to advise your readers that a town hall meeting is scheduled for April 17 from 7 to 9 p.m. at the Pioneer Middle School Media Center (Ann Arbor Road, between Canton Center and Beck Roads). Area lawmakers Sens. Loren Bennett and Robert Geake, and Reps. Gerald Law and Deborah Whyman will be available to answer questions.

The meeting will be moderated by the League of Women Voters and is sponsored by The I CARE Committee, the Class-Size Action Partnership, the P-CCS Legislative Action Committee, and the Plymouth-Canton Community Schools.

Your readers should be aware that there are many issues at the state government level that have potential to significantly affect educational outcomes in our community. For example, school funding under Proposal A, which went into effect in 1994, leaves Plymouth-Canton Schools with significantly less operating revenue than most surrounding districts.

I encourage the members of this community to attend the town hall meeting and let our lawmakers know their concerns about educational and non-educational issues as well.

No instructions given

I am writing to voice my objection to the March 22nd school bond election.

On thinking back to election day I may have been one of the voters who touched the "NO" screen twice and this invalidated my vote. I would have touched the screen twice only in an effort to make sure my vote was recorded.

No oral instructions were given to me on electronic voting and I was totally surprised to see electronic voting in this election. I either failed to read any article announcing the fact that electronic voting was going to be used or no such advance publicity occurred to alert the public.

In addition none of the election workers at Tonda Elementary (where I voted) at the time I went through the voting line (around noon) offered any advice or instruction to me or anyone else in the line at that time. I did see posted instructions and did read them but I do not recall seeing explicit instructions indicating that touching the screen twice for either a "yes" vote or "no" vote would invalidate my choice.

The reason I voted "no" in this election is that I feel that building a world class media center for the Park would be a better idea than building a third high school. Since the projected enrollment increase is only 400 or 500 more students, it seems to make more sense to build a third building to house a library/media and/or cafeteria center and use the extra space created at Salem and Canton to construct the new needed classrooms. I have recently been in Salem's library and was quite surprised by the small size considering the student population. I do have two students at Salem right now and know first hand of the population size and the problems inherent in the present campus. However, building a third high school for an additional 500 students does not seem to be the best stewardship of our money. Build the "Center" on the campus and move the athletic complex to the proposed new site for the high school.

At the very least, school officials and election workers should have given the voters all the information they needed to insure and election process of integrity.

Volunteers recognized

April 13-19 has been designated as National Volunteer Week, and I want to publicly recognize the dedicated volunteers at Community Hospice Services. I applaud and thank each of them for the wealth of time and compassion they bring to our incurably ill patients and their families, either directly or indirectly.

The volunteer role is very diverse in hospice care today. Our CHS volunteers represent every age group. No task is too large or too small. Most importantly, they offer their presence, just being there for our patients – to reassure them that they are not alone, to hold a hand, to offer a smile. Work of this nature is not easy, but our volunteers feel that the strength and courage of our patients and their families provide a constant source of inspiration. I salute our remarkable volunteers.

Each person is sent "into this world with a special message to deliver, with a special song to sing for others, with a special act of love to bestow. No one else can speak your message, or sing your song, or offer your act of love." Adapted from John Powell.

POINTS OF VIEW

What happened to our sense of unity?

MARTHA TRAFFORD

If today's Observer headline had read "Plymouth Devastated by Deadly Tornado," the citizens of Canton and of other nearby communities would have immediately responded with a massive outpouring of help. And likewise, the residents of Plymouth and Plymouth Township would be the first to offer their assistance and support to Canton, if the township was coping with a similar disaster.

Why should it take a disaster to bring out the best in all of us, to bring forth our sense of community that seems to be diminishing more each day? Shouldn't the everyday needs of our active, growing, and prospering Plymouth-Canton neighborhoods be enough to invoke in us this sense of community – that we are indeed "all in this together"?

It would seem that the recent bond election to build badly needed new schools, to update older ones, and to equip all of them with the latest technology and newest resources should have been just as important to the future of our Plymouth-Canton community, as facing together the aftermath of any natural disaster.

Yet only a little more than 12,000 community members managed to take time to vote on a Saturday election day.

The March 27 Observer editorial pronounced a "Divided District," since the precincts in the north, Plymouth, primarily voted against the bond; while the ones in the south, Canton, voted for it.

In the Observer editorial, the writer acknowledged that "there is, after all, some truth to the Abraham Lincoln maxim, adapted from the Book of Luke, 'A house divided against itself cannot stand.' "

We must not let the cynicism of our times, the trickle down polarity of the party politics in state government, or even our own personal indifference or preference toward an issue, such as education, divide us whenever the best interest of the entire Plymouth-Canton community is at stake.

Years ago, the pioneering individuals who settled here carved this community out of a wilderness. Some settled on farms, still others built a small town and named it Plymouth. But it was together that they built their schools. As a result of the tireless work of those earlier pioneers, the Plymouth-Canton community of today has schools which are second to none!

Recently this paper reported that the 1997 Plymouth-Canton yearbook was selected by Walsworth Publishing for the Gallery of Fame. Less than 8 percent of all the yearbooks they publish throughout the country are selected for this honor. A group of Plymouth-Canton seniors led the nation on an advanced calculus test. A choir from Plymouth-Canton Schools performed in Carnegie Hall. The Plymouth-Canton Marching Band captured national honors in competition, again. Science and math awards for achievement, top performance in the arts, and team trophies earned in competitive sports are the hallmark of what it means to earn an education in the Plymouth-Canton school district.

This recently passed bond issue was not just about mortar and bricks, two-by-fours, and electrical wiring. It was about continuing the legacy left to us by the visionary individuals who settled and built the Plymouth-Canton community. It was about renewing our own sense of community – stick together through the good times and the hard times.

Let's work together to promote the "unity" in the Plymouth-Canton community.

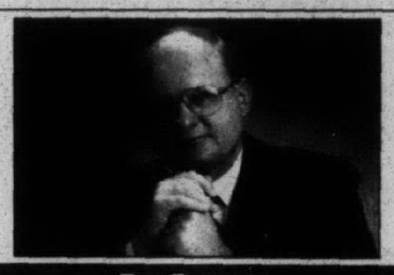
Court reform unexciting, but it affects lives



TIM RICHARD

After lamenting the Michigan Supreme Court's inability to decide cases with a majority vote, I now give credit to the justices and the judiciary for undertaking an immense reform.

What? The courts are doing something right? Yes, though they get little reader interest and even less news coverage.

Readers care little about court operations until they get involved in their own divorce, child custody or juvenile case. Then the court becomes the center of their world, and they quickly develop hot opinions on personnel and their efficiency.

Michigan in the last two years has seen the biggest judicial changes since the 1960s when we junked the rural justice of the peace system. It's almost as big a change to the judiciary as Proposal A was to school finance.

Many good people have advocated "court reform" on its merits, but the story really begins in the growing Wayne, Oakland and Washtenaw suburbs with demands for more judges. Nope, said cost-conscious Gov. John Engler – not until we deploy our existing judicial resources more efficiently. We have 181 circuit judges, 107 probate judges, 260 district judges ... and so on.

Reform is happening.

■ Last year, the Legislature passed Public Act 388 requiring that family litigation handled by circuit and probate courts be handled in a new "family division" on the principle of "one family, one judge." Deadline for establishing plans: this July 1.

The change in paperwork alone boggles the mind – combining functions of circuit and probate courts, filing papers, telling lawyers where to file and retrieve documents, retraining staff, etc. It's a major step toward combining circuit and probate courts, a system few voters understand anyway.

■ But the deployment of resources is even more daunting. The Supreme Court tapped 27 good minds for a Family Court Division Implementation Task Force just to identify the issues.

It reported back Feb. 14, recommending that family division judges be assigned full time. It called for plans to transfer cases from currently assigned judges to family division judges. "Where there is a youth detention facility, (local plans) shall indicate who is responsible for the operation of the facility and should identify the position of facility manager ..."

■ Meanwhile, Chief Justice Conrad Mallett Jr. is moving ahead with ideas that will make lazy judges as jumpy as cats on a hot tin roof.

He wants 6 percent more in his $200 million budget to "monitor trial court operations and budgets by adding one accountant and six auditors" to his staff.

He wants to set "higher performance standards for trial courts statewide."

By Oct. 1, he wants "a detailed recommendation of the number of circuit probate and district court judges needed to dispose of the court workload" and "a recommendation for the number of judges assigned to the family division of circuit court based on workload."

If you've ever heard a lawyer complain about how courtrooms are empty on Friday afternoons in certain jurisdictions I won't name, you will have an idea how important these workload recommendations are.

No longer is it a matter of how well a county can butter up "the boss" in the Legislature. Your county's judges will have to point to their productivity before the state will create more judicial jobs.

Newswise, court reform is not as picturesque as the car that went off of the Mackinac Bridge. But it affects far more lives – perhaps yours, and probably for the better.

Tim Richard reports on the local implications of state and regional events.

Pursuing college degree not only path to a career

PHILIP POWER

Dear high school seniors: Congratulations! You're in the last stretch. Senior year is just about over, and you're ready to order your caps and gowns for commencement.

You may have discovered already that one of the hardest things you face is trying to fend off various well-meaning folks who keep asking, "What are you going to do after you graduate from high school?" I hope you'll tell 'em you have no idea. I certainly didn't at your age. Moreover, I suspect the real origin of this kind of boringly intrusive question lies in the fact that most adults can't figure out anything else to ask kids about.

Certainly, with Michigan's unemployment numbers – currently below 5 percent – at an all-time low, you won't have much problem finding a job after you leave school, assuming you have mastered the arts of breathing and standing on two legs.

But I suspect that a lot of your friends and family – including especially your parents – are putting a lot of pressure on you to go to college. After all, the presumption goes, it's the route to the high-skill, high-income part of the economy (sort of true), and it's concrete proof that you have at least half a brain (not necessarily so).

Certainly, according to a study released by Michigan Future Inc., a respected local think tank, some people who go to a university and graduate school can expect pretty good incomes. Doctors in the Great Lakes states, for example, can expect median earnings of $99,088, while the median lawyer and judge should earn $64,958. Electrical and electronic engineers should earn $56,583, and so on.

But what your parents, their friends and most of your family won't tell you is that there are plenty of high-skilled, challenging, good-paying jobs out there that don't require a university degree. According to the Michigan Future study, "there is a path to good-paying work other than earning a four-year college degree. Clearly, the best-paying work is professional, but it is not the exclusive path to good-paying work."

The study then recited 23 occupations whose median earnings are at least 10 percent above median earnings for full-time, year-around workers. Some examples and their median earnings:

- Purchasing agents and buyers: $39,506.
- Police and detective: $38,301.
- Science technicians: $35,104.
- Tool and die makers: $34,587.
- Plumbers: $34,531.

These are non-trivial income numbers, especially when you consider that a four-year residential college degree costs on average around $50,000 these days. As most middle-income families know, this isn't the kind of money you can earn yourself to work your way through college. So just in terms of the economics, staying out of debt and getting a good (non-university degree) job might be a good deal.

Oakland Community College, for example, offers one-year certificates and two-year associates degrees that fit exactly the 80 percent of all new jobs in the year 2000 that require more than a high school diploma but less than a university baccalaureate.

The Big Three expect to replace 129,000 auto workers who will be retiring in the next few years. That's why the Michigan Virtual Automotive College, which is geared toward teaching skills for workers in the automotive industry, will start classes this fall. Former University of Michigan President James Duderstadt, who will head M-VAC, says it "will utilize the most appropriate delivery medium – whether it's satellite TV 'narrowcasts' or CD-ROM on the World Wide Web or something that's still in a testing lab – to get information to students when they need it ... and where they need it."

These are important developments because they strike to an unfortunate trend in our society: to look down on young people who are able and ambitious but who do not want to attend a university.

So, graduates-to-be, congratulations and good luck! Please feel free to clip, save and brandish this column at your parents, family and friends whenever you please.

on the quantity customers can purchase," said Rowe. "It's just plain old fun, pure and simple. There's nothing evil or wicked about Beanie Babies."

The Plymouth retailer provides a phone service for customers who wish to be notified when the next shipment will arrive. Rowe estimates between 50 to 70 shoppers are contacted each week.

It's shipment day, however, when the genuine excitement is brought about by chaotic shoppers trying to snatch the pint-size creatures, say Tanski and Rowe.

"I've seen grown women on their cellular phones frantically calling their friends to find out which ones they want or need for their collection," said Tanski.

The Plymouth retailer said age is not an issue when it comes to the collectors competing for the bean-filled animals. Two female patrons, over the age of 70, drove from Jackson to take advantage of a shipment of 2,000 babies that arrived late last week. They bought 47, said Rowe.

Another customer, recalled Rowe, was less than subtle about her stuffed spoils.

"I found her spread eagle on the floor with her phone in hand," said Rowe. "I thought she had a heart attack but she was just an aggressive shopper protecting the 20 Beanie Babies she didn't want anyone else to have."

Since their debut in 1996, nearly 75 animals have been distributed nationally with the unannounced retirement of 16. Tanski said Ty, Incorp. doesn't announce the characters they put into retirement, so some become more popular because shoppers attempt to forecast their withdrawal from circulation.

Rowe said it's also possible to have a back- order from last year arrive with Beanie Babies already placed into retirement.

"That's when you get some hot items," said Rowe. "Some of the most treasured and sought after can appear long beyond retirement."

Attached to every Beanie Baby is a poem, name and birth date. Rowe said collectors, particularly children, try and locate or exchange babies with the date closest to their own birthday.

"That's when the fun begins," said Rowe.

Popular targets of trade include Garcia, bear; Snip, cat; Pouch, kangaroo; Congo, monkey; Nut, squirrel; and Hoppy, bunny.

This week was no exception for the Beanie bedlam. Tanski and his employees stood back as 3,500 babies came and went in a matter of hours.

"I think they're so popular because the price is reasonable and they've hit a great market," said Rowe, "Kids today have money. I wish I would have thought of them!"

"I believe a whole new election would be a PR plus for the district and eliminate any doubt by the citizens of this community," said Templeton.

Susan Kopinski, chair of the bond steering committee, angrily addressed the board expressing her personal outrage at the "slander campaign" she believed to be running rampant following the March bond proposal.

"This campaign was run open and honestly and it was a positive campaign," said Kopinski, "with the heart and soul of everyone."

Kopinski said challengers had every right to request a recount but felt betrayed at the insinuation that fraud was involved. She said the actions would only delay the sale of the bonds and interrupt the construction of "two schools the kids of this district deserve and need."

Trustee Jack Farrow said he was puzzled as to why people were concerned about the 720 voters that "weren't clever enough to use the machines" yet not worried about the 45,000-plus registered voters that didn't make it to the polls.

Board vice president Mike Maloney said it was important to move forward. He rescheduled an April 15 budget workshop until April 21 at 6 p.m. to avoid conflicts with Tuesday's recount process.

CHARTER TOWNSHIP OF CANTON BOARD PROCEEDINGS
APRIL 1, 1997

A regular meeting of the Board of Trustees of the Charter Township of Canton was held on Tuesday, April 1, 1997 at 1150 South Canton Center Road. Supervisor Yack called the meeting to order at 7:06 P.M.

ROLL CALL - BOARD OF TRUSTEES
Members Present: Burdziak, Kirchgatter, McLaughlin, Shefferly, Yack
Members Absent: Bennett

ROLL CALL - PLANNING COMMISSION
Members Present: Gustafson, Johnson, Lieberman, McLaughlin, Wade, Zarbo
Members Absent: Sullivan
Staff Present: Machnik, Goulet, Bocklage, Wolosiewicz, Rembert, Zevalkink

ITEM 1 NORTHWEST STUDY AREA

Commissioner Lieberman, Treasurer Kirchgatter, Commissioner Zarbo and Trustee McLaughlin addressed the northwest part of the Township. He said the area was four (4) square miles, or 2,560 acres, and the population in the area was approximately 3,000 persons. The area has a natural resource base including numerous creeks and streams. Additionally, portions of Ridge, Gyde, Napier and Joy Roads have been designated Natural Beauty Roads and as such deserve careful consideration with respect to future development of the area.

The study group's vision for this area includes "an environmentally aware series of neighborhoods with distinctive open space and natural features, protected habitats, parks and outdoor recreation areas, serviced by roads and utilities in a manner compatible with the area." They recommended no changes to the Comprehensive Plan because it continued to reflect the proper guidelines for the development of this area and the current vision of the Community. The study group recommended amending the Cluster regulations to allow greater flexibility in lot design. Additionally the group recommended amending the PDD regulations to calculate density based on net acreage (gross acreage minus ultimate rights-of-way for county mile and half-mile roads).

The study group recommended that density bonuses be evaluated, amended or eliminated, the density bonus provisions. Additionally, they suggested that the Zoning Ordinance, Subdivision Control and Condominium Ordinances be amended to require less formal, more naturalized planting in buffer and park areas. The group recommended alternative ground covers that require infrequent mowing and watering. House and lot sizes and designs were discussed relative to varying the topography of the area.

Regarding the infrastructure, minimal impact on the natural features and Natural Beauty Roads was desired. To minimize impact on the Natural Beauty Roads in the study area, the group recommended that primary entrances be designed to direct the majority of traffic to Warren, Beck, Ann Arbor and/Ford Roads whenever possible.

Trustee McLaughlin summarized that they would like to see some flexibility in the area regarding lot designs, amendments to the density guidelines, more naturalized plantings in buffer and park areas, and consideration for the area's natural features when installing infrastructure.

ITEM 2 FORD AND LOTZ - I-275 STUDY AREAS

Commissioner Wade, Trustee LaJoy, Trustee Burdziak and Commissioner Sullivan focused on the Ford, Lotz and I-275 area. Commissioner Wade defined the Ford, Lotz and I-275 area as bounded on the south by Cherry Hill, on the east by Canton Township's line, the west by I-275 and on the north by Koppernick Road.

Commissioner Wade gave an overview of the study group's vision for the area. He said that they recommended consideration of a new Corporate Park Zoning District to encompass the entire study area. The study group said that the feeling in the area should be unique and that the Township should consider being pro-active and invest in the District, such as possible participation in road installation and other aspects of creation of the park.

The study group would like to see an increase in accessibility to the area to allow quality kinds of developments to come into the area. They also suggested that a boulevard would give the area a signature commercial industrial theme.

Sam Natoli, 5914 Lotz N. had reservations about the effects this kind of development would have on his property. Mr. Natoli said that he would like to see sidewalks along Lotz Road. He said that when the train stops traffic on Warren, cars speed down Lotz to bypass the train and this made for a very dangerous situation for pedestrians.

Commission Wade explained that this was only a conceptual vision to study the possible development of the area. Mr. Wade agreed that sidewalks, walk paths or a bike path would make the district pedestrian friendly.

Discussion occurred regarding Township participation, the Detroit Edison corridor, Plymouth Township's newly adopted Corporate zoning district, causeway access, and the image or theme for the area. As an initial strategy, the study group suggested amending the Future Land Use Map to designate the entire area Light Industrial with Research Park recommended

ITEM 3 CHERRY HILL AND RIDGE STUDY AREA

This study group consisted of Commissioner Johnson, Clerk Bennett, Trustee Shefferly and Commission Gustafson. Commissioner Johnson gave a presentation of the finding of this study group. She stated that their goal was to maintain the existing historic theme and allow for some additional or mixed uses, such as village shopping and accessory residential uses. The study group would like to see the creation of a "free-standing ordinance" that would outline building design guidelines for new construction within the historic district.

It was pointed out that the only feasible location for future local shopping use would be the northwest corner of Cherry Hill and Beck Roads and that this area should be limited to no more than 4 acres to prevent large scale uses. Commissioner Johnson said that this might require amending the Future Land Use Map to designate the appropriate area local shopping.

Regarding the area around the district, Commissioner Johnson said that the study group would like to see a transition zone created around the historic district. A centralized bike path around and leading to the district was suggested. Also discussed were the financial feasibility and market demand for such an area, traffic and street patterns, lot sizes and housing types.

Director Machnik said that the Master Land Use plan would be presented to the Planning Commission for review and possible updating. He said that after any possible revisions to the Master Land Use Plan were made, zoning amendments could then be initiated. Any changes would have to go through the public hearing process. Mr. Machnik ranked the areas: Ford, Lotz and the I-275 area would be the priority, followed by the Cherry Hill and Ridge area then the Northwest section of the Township.

OTHER

Supervisor Yack suggested that the Michigan Avenue corridor be taken off the table and studied for future recommendations. Commissioners Gustafson, Johnson and Wade, Trustee LaJoy, Treasurer Kirchgatter, and Supervisor Yack volunteered to be part of the Michigan Avenue corridor study group.

Supervisor Yack noted that the Willow Run Tradeport was still making news. He asked if the Board of Trustees were interested in having a study session with our State Senators, Representatives and County Commissioners regarding the Willow Run Tradeport. The consensus was that this study session would be very beneficial to the community. Supervisor Yack adjourned the meeting at 8:50 P.M.

The above is a synopsis of discussion taken at the Regular Board meeting held on April 1, 1997. The full text of the approved minutes will be available following the next regular meeting of the Board on April 8, 1997.

Twinkling students stars at Bulman

Something I saw a couple weeks ago sparkled and shone just like the Hale-Bopp comet in the night sky. It was that visible, that noticeable, that newsworthy. It was really quite extraordinary.

It was an elementary school some miles up the road. The school, built in the late '40s, was tucked in a Redford neighborhood full of neat, regular-sized homes with neat regular-sized yards. And there were tall trees lining the street indicating that this neighborhood, along with the school, had been around for some time.

I'd been invited to this school to read some favorite stories to a classroom of children, part of their National Reading Month celebration. And I must say, the students and the teachers and the principal at Bulman Elementary were like an earth-bound Hale-Bopp – sparkling, shining and shedding light on the future.

From the moment I arrived at 8:30 that Friday morning, I could see this extraordinary "light." Escorted by a courteous young boy to a small room on the left, I noticed a sign hanging in front of the room. The sign simply said "Library." I thought that was pretty neat.

The term "library," it seems, is becoming old-fashioned, dated in this world of ours. In many schools that room with all those books on the shelves is called something else, and that something else usually has the word "media" in it.

Cozier, inviting 'word'

"Library" though, is a much cozier, more inviting sort of word; it even conjures up a smell, a book smell. All libraries have it, that cozy book smell. Anyway, the library was the gathering place for the guests who'd been invited to help celebrate reading and celebrate books that day.

Valorie Williams greeted us as a group and individually as well. She's the "helmsman" of this elementary school ship; she's the principal there and she's very nice. She was so happy to be celebrating books and reading and to be making a general hubbub over it all.

After a bit, the 16 guests, including myself and Lyn Bankes of the Michigan House of Representatives, Bill Bushart, editor of the Redford Connection, Michelle Plawecki, a Wayne County commissioner, Jack Bailey, station manager for WCAR, and Kim Potter, a Redford Township librarian – we all went to the gym.

It was a small gym, even by elementary school standards. There was a little curtained stage at one end and near the stage on one side were choir risers and a piano and on the other were chairs for the guests.

We sat down and then the children, kindergarten through sixth grade, began filing in and taking their seats on the floor. There was something almost palpable in the air: excitement, spirit, electricity, enthusiasm, all rolled into one. And principal Williams was at the helm. She was as much a generator of this "something in the air" as anyone else.

Marvelous rapport

Once everyone was seated, she spoke. Librarian Potter, seated next to me, whispered some observations she'd made. This principal, she couldn't help noticing, had such a marvelous rapport with her students, and she'd seen many other schools and principals over the years. But this principal made an impression on her. Well, she made an impression on me, too. A sparkling, joyful impression!

After some brief remarks by principal Williams, the children all stood to say the Pledge of Allegiance. Now, let me tell you, these children did not mumble, did not fool around, shuffle feet, they did not gaze about, no. With hands on their hearts, eyes on the flag, they, every one of them, said the pledge with conviction and with spirit. And such clarity of voice, it almost sounded like a cheer. A cheer for being American. Tears sprang to my eyes.

All these young children feeling proud enough and respectful enough and spirited enough to let those words ring out like they did. Good for them! Good for their teachers who taught them well! Good for the principal at the helm!

With the pledge said, the children, except the second-graders, sat down on the choir risers. They'd prepared a song for this occasion. This celebration of reading. Their music teacher, Sydnie Lyn Benson, seated herself at the piano and accompanied the young singers. Not only did Sydnie play the piano, but she wrote the words to the song:

"The books on my shelves are exciting. A place

Christian writers to share verse at festival

■ Plymouth poet-in-residence the Rev. Rod Reinhart has found that there are few outlets for Christian poets to read their works. That why he's once again helping to organize next weekend's the Michigan Christian Poetry Festival.

BY CHRISTINA FUOCO
STAFF WRITER

The Rev. Rod Reinhart has organized poetry readings for years. One thing that he has found is that there are few comfortable outlets for Christian poets to read their works.

So, for the third year he and the Plymouth Poets are hosting the Michigan Christian Poetry Festival from 5-9 p.m. Saturday, April 19, at St. John's Episcopal Church, 574 S. Sheldon Road, Plymouth Township. Tickets for the event are $5 at the door. For more information, call (313) 459-7319 or (313) 728-5734.

"In general, religious poetry is not all that popular on the coffeehouse scene," explained Reinhart, the rector of Trinity Episcopal Church in Monroe. "So often poetry that deals with religion is filled with anxiety, anger, and alienation. I wanted to create a kind of poetry event that would give us a chance to hear and a reason to write really, really serious Christian poetry from a very positive and deeply faithful perspective."

Reinhart describes "Christian poetry" as "serious poetry written and performed in the name of Jesus Christ, in the power of the Holy Spirit and in the call to speak God's truth to the needs of the world today."

Contemporary Christian poets, he explained, take their inspiration from the gospels, Old Testament prophets, classic Christian and modern writers. These poets also try to avoid "cheap religious sentiment, extremist political labels, or simple 'spiritual' answers to the complex questions facing us in this era."

"With Christian poetry I see that we're doing a serious reflective theology which is to say thinking about the problems and struggles of the people in the world today from a Christian perspective," he said. "It's creative and artistic through informed by your Christian faith."

Reinhart along with Wayne State University professor Murray Jackson, the Rev. Gimbu Mullagatta and poet Donna Demeyer of Plymouth are the featured poets at this year's event. Audience members will have the opportunity to read their poems during an open microphone segment.

Poet's corner: Plymouth's poet-in-residence, the Rev. Rod Reinhart, believes there are few comfortable outlets for Christian poets to read their works, a reason why he is once again helping organize the Michigan Christian Poetry Festival April 19.

Demeyer has "written poetry that comes out of some really, really deep family struggles," said Reinhart. "Her poetry is filled with faith but at the same time really reminds us that the Christians today have to deal with the very painful realities of life, death and personal choices."

Jackson, a Detroit resident, has been writing poetry for many years. He is described by Reinhart as someone who is "highly respected by the poetry community as a significant voice and a man who brings age and wisdom and depth and faith to his writing."

Mullagatta is the founder of the Christian Poet's Society and the Christian Poet's Church.

"He calls on people to express their faith through good solid writing," Reinhart said. "It's the kind of church where people give their testimony but it has to be well-written in a poetry form."

"It's probably the healthiest way to enable people to build their faith but also to build essential skills for success in today's world."

The host of Continental Cablevision's "The Poet on the Power" which airs at 6:30 p.m. Tuesdays, Reinhart said these poets were chosen because of their commitment to faith and their talents.

"For the most part, these are poets that I've known for a long time that have a deeply committed Christian faith and who are also very fine, capable contemporary poets," he said.

Reinhart is the poet-in-residence for the city of Plymouth, appointed by Gov. John Engler.

"I'm part of a residence program that involves poets in libraries all through Detroit and southeastern Michigan," he said. "We work closely with other organizations."

He is also the founder of the Plymouth Poets who sponsor a variety of poetry events in the city, including the Summer Celebration of Poetry, the annual Plymouth Poetry Contes, and the annual Michigan mystical poetry festival.

He recently penned the book, "Spiritual Aerobics for the 21st Century," which was published in part through Operation DOME (Detroit on the Move for Education) Press. He also is looking for a publisher who will publish the entire 80-page poem.

"It's a real blockbuster of a religious poem; it's a book where I talk about everything from the meaning of the cross to the dangers of religious cults to the need for people to

Bidder's delight: Organizers are hoping for plenty of high bids at the 21st annual auction benefitting New Morning School. Too young to participate, Emily and Alex Arble have a few choices they'd like to see their parents bid on at the April 19 auction.

New Morning goes high-tech for auction

BY CHRISTINA FUOCO
STAFF WRITER

The items up for bid at the 21st annual benefit auction for New Morning School in Plymouth have practically made patrons salivate.

"We have a day where guys and gals can go to learn how to be a fighter pilot; they actually fly fighter planes – not flight simulators said Marti Chamberlain of Plymouth, the chairwoman of this year's event. "We talked about this at a meeting and the guys in the audience were panting,"

The auction takes place from 5 p.m. to midnight Saturday, April 19, at Laurel Manor, 39000 Schoolcraft Road, Livonia. The $55 tickets include admission to the auction, hors d'oeuvres, dinner, an open bar and a late-night pizza snack. Complimentary photos of guests will be taken.

Advance registration for the event is required and can be done by calling the school at (313) 420-3331.

"It's really a class event," Chamberlain said. "It's an evening out instead of a business event. There's lots of glitz and glitter.

"Since it's our 21st auction and we're looking toward the 21st century, we thought we would focus on high-tech items."

Hence, it's theme of "Techno Mania."

The Air Combat U.S.A.–Fighter Pilot Program is one of more than 500 items up for bid. Sports memorabilia autographed by Detroit Red Wings Sergei Fedorov, Vladimir Konstantinov and Slava Fetisov, the Detroit Pistons, the U.S. soccer team, the Detroit Whalers, University of Michigan football player Tim Biakabatuka, ex-Piston Bill Laimbeer. One of the highlighted sports items is a players' edition Russian 5 lithograph.

"It's a drawing of the five Russian Detroit Red Wings players with their signatures," Chamberlain explained. "It was only editioned to the five Russians, so it's not something you can buy in the store. You have to know one of the players to be able to get one."

There's more for sports fans – a full suite at Joe Louis Arena for a 1997-1998 season Red Wings game, a suite at The Palace of Auburn Hills for a Pistons game, eight tickets and a tailgate party

REAL ESTATE UPDATE

IF IT'S NOT A DREAM OFFER

Your adrenaline is flowing! Your agent just called to say that she has an offer on your home. You are really excited, but the bubble bursts when you are presented with the contract. It's just not enough! The buyers asked for your new washing machine, and they also want to postpone the closing for three months. You don't see how it can work!

Before rejecting any offer on your property, you should consider making a counter offer. Rarely does an offer look the way it would if you had written it yourself. Consider the good and bad points of the offer, and work with the agents to find a middle ground that you and the buyers can live with. You may have to go back and forth several times, and there will probably be compromises on both sides. Unless you are lucky enough to be selling in a strong sellers' market, the buyers will expect to do some bargaining. With a little patience, you and your agent can create a "win-win" situation for you and the buyers.

If you are considering a move, call Chris Knight at Coldwell Banker Schweitzer Real estate, 313-453-6800.

to the University of Michigan-Ohio State University game and tickets to see the Michigan State University football team, the Detroit Lions, Tigers and Red Wings are up for grabs.

Fitness and leisure lovers can bid for a variety of items including a five-person paddle boat, a trampoline, a Healthrider and memberships to the YMCA, Med Health and Polo Fields.

Once again, trips will be available to the highest bidder. Patrons can possibly stay at a five-star time share condo anywhere in the world, a condo in Silver Creek, Colo., or a condo in Fort Myers, Fla., or Boyne City. Higgins Lake, Washington, D.C., and upstate New York getaways are up for grabs, as well as a rounds of golf and an overnight stay at Sugar Loaf resort.

Returning this year is the "Deal for Wheels" check. The highest bidder of the $6,000 check can use the money as a down payment for a vehicle at Dick Scott Dodge, Blackwell Ford, Jaguar of Plymouth, Saturn, Hines Park Lincoln Mercury or Bob Jeannotte Pontiac, GMC and Buick.

A two-year, 24,000-mile lease for a fully loaded Mercury Mountaineer from Hines Park Lincoln Mercury will be raffled off. Only 250 tickets priced at $100 will be sold. Winners, subject to Ford Motor Credit approval, will be responsible for insurance and licensing. If less than 150 tickets are sold, the prize will be 50 percent of the gross ticket revenue with a $500 minimum prize.

"The raffle is new this year ... One in 250 are pretty good odds," Chamberlain said.

A garnet gemstone bracelet, a Sligh grandfather clock from Walker Buzenberg, a leather massage recliner, a gourmet dinner, Bitty baby and accessories, a Nintendo 64 system, a fax/copier/printer/scanner, a ladies' Gucci watch, a Yamaha Keyboard with stand, a Guardian Alarm home security system and a Bose speaker system are also among the special attractions.

"Signature Items" include elementary and middle school class projects; framed wild life prints; autographed sports, business and children's books and Broadway show posters and a Shaker wall clock.

Artist Terry Redlin has donated an autographed print, "Total Comfort." Retired items from the Department 56 Dickens Village collection will be available.

"Somebody's going to get a really good deal because I'm sure there won't be many collectors in the audience," Chamberlain said.

Television fans will be vying for autographs of Brian Austin Green, who plays David on "Beverly Hills 90210," and the cast of "Frasier," "Clueless" and "Mad About You."

Chamberlain said that within the last couple years, the auction has earned a reputation as a quality event.

"It seems as if the reputation is building. In the past it's pretty much been families (of children enrolled at New Morning School), and friends of families," Chamberlain said.

Co-chairwoman Ellen Arble of Plymouth added, "Now it's people outside of the school who want information on the event."

care for one another and be responsible for those who are poor," he explained. "Also I talk a lot about things like the relationship of professional boxing to Christianity and how some clergy end up being more like World Wrestling Federation Christians than real Christians, things of that sort.

"It's a pretty powerful piece of work."

Reinhart also is organizing the Michigan Christian Poetry Festival with local poet Ann E. Horvath, who will "most likely" read at the event. She is excited about the event because "there are a lot of Christian poets."

"Spiritual people need to express themselves, too," she said. "Religious people need it as much as a spiritual person would."

to escape to, a place to feel free. A great adventure, worlds full of dreams. Places I've never seen. Someday I might be a writer. Or someone who reads special stories to kids. I'll write the words to express how I live. And share my stories with the world. I'll share my stories with the world."

Every word sung loud and clear. These second-graders knew every note, every word, each one sang the song as if it were as familiar as "Twinkle, Twinkle Little Star." They twinkled. They shone like stars.

There was more music and there were introductions of the guests, the "celebrity readers," as we were called. And the children clapped for us. But goodness knows, we weren't the celebrities, not by a long shot, they were, the children were. The bright, the sparkling, the brimming with enthusiasm students at Bulman Elementary. And I applaud them!

Genitti's, comedians team up to help Arbor Center

BY SUE MASON
STAFF WRITER

They say laughter is the best medicine and that's just what a group of local comedians will be serving up as part of special benefit at Genitti's Hole-in-the-Wall in Northville Sunday, April 13.

The combination dinner and evening of laughter, billed as "Laughing on the Outside," will benefit Arbor Center, which provides bereavement services for children, teens and adults. The center opened its doors at 200 N. Center St., Northville, March 31.

The evening has been organized by Arbor Hospice's Starting Over (under age 45) and B'Tweeners (over age 45) grief support groups It features two dinner seatings at 5:30 and 6:45 p.m. and two comedy shows at 7 and 8:30 p.m. in the adjacent historic theater.

"The concept for the show was developed while on a Starting Over retreat," said Cathy Clough, director of adult bereavement services who started the group for young widows and widowers. "They were talking about how they missed laughing. At first, the idea was to invite people from the group and have an evening of laughter."

Seven comedians have lent their talents for the comedy showcase. Guy Gordon will be the master of ceremonies. Joining him on stage will be John Remick, Ken Dumm, Jim McLean, Kirk Noland, Jim Snideman, Andrea Szewczyk and Leo DuFour.

Tickets are priced at $50 per person and are available by calling 1-800-783-5764 by Friday morning.

Arbor Center is an outreach program of Arbor Hospice, a nonprofit hospice agency serving Wayne, Oakland, Livingston, Lenawee and Washtenaw counties.

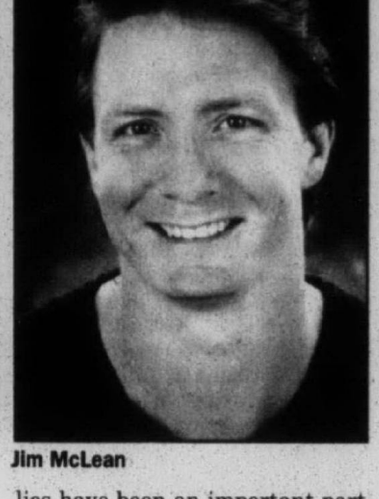
Similar bereavement programs are offered in Connecticut and Minneapolis, Minn., but are home-based, making Arbor Center a one-of-its-kind operation. Its offices are in the Simkins Building in downtown Northville.

"We wanted to be in Northville or Plymouth and Nick (Simkins) made us an offer we couldn't refuse," Clough said. "We feel it was the right choice. We've always served Oakland County, but we're not well-known. We have a lot of groups in Oakland County, so this office is centrally located.

"It just feels right."

Bereavement services to families have been an important part of the work done by Arbor Hospice for 13 years. As a result, it has developed the largest bereavement program in the area, reflected in the growth of its specialized support groups like Starting Over and B'Tweeners.

Ken Dumm



Jim McLean

Clough coordinates the adult services while Sally Dunning is director of children's services.

The center's opening "is kind of a dream come true," according to Clough. It is a place people can call for information about grief support groups and individual counseling.

Adult services are offered free of charge, while scholarships are available for children's individual counseling, provided by certified social workers.

"It's not just a drop-in center, it's a resource center," she explained. "It's a place where professionals can call. We'll be available to go schools to talk to children and offer training for people who want to start support groups. If you have a question, we can find the answers."

Staffing includes specialists dealing with grief issues, social workers and child life specialists as well as a cadre of volunteers. Volunteers are an important part of the Arbor Center outreach. Initially, 19 people were trained to work in the center, and a second training session has been schedule for Saturday, April 11.

Among participants in the first group were Denise Luckow, Nancy Stoner, John Bros, Charli Johnston, Wilma Sedor and Gloria Mackay, all of Livonia, and Ada Calleja, Marge Mandarachia and Pat Eddy, all of Plymouth.

"Some day we hope to have our own building," said Clough. "We need a room for painting and a room to play in. It's our dream and the comedy showcase is a step toward it."

The center is open 9 a.m. to noon and 1-4 p.m. Monday through Friday. For more information, call (810) 348-4980 or (810) 349-5712.

Gender is conference focus

The Huron Valley Girl Scout Council will present "Voice and Choice," a conference on gender equity for educators and youth leaders Saturday, April 19, at Weber's Inn, Ann Arbor.

The conference will present information on the impact of gender equity issues on girls' learning and development. It will start with registration and a continental breakfast at 8:45 a.m. and end at 3:15 p.m.

The keynote address will be 9:30-11:30 a.m. and will feature David Sadker and Phyllis Lerner. They will talk about "Gender Communication Gap: From the Classroom to the Board Room."

Sadker, a professor at American University, co-wrote "Failing in Fairness: How Our Schools Treat Girls" with his late wife Myra Sadker. He was extensively involved with a national survey conducted by the American Association of University Women which found that girls' self-esteem drops during preadolescence.

Lerner is director of interweave, an educational consulting service which specializes in training and technical assistance for teachers, administrators, community leaders and parents. She has experience teaching grades K-12 and in staff development.

Three additional presenters will conduct break-out discussion sessions 1:15-2:15 p.m. They are Angela Laycock, director of Workplace teaming for Washtenaw Community College, Cinda-Sue Davis, director of the University of Michigan Women in Science and Engineering Program, and psychologist Sonya Gunnings-Moton.

The break-out sessions will cover careers, physical education and sports, body image and the role of the media, group strategies for promoting equity, and science, math and technology learning.

Lunch will be at noon and feature storyteller Corinne Stavish. With graduate and undergraduate degrees in performing arts, she combines a love of literature, a passion for history and honed performing skills in her programs.

Huron Valley Girl Scout Council is collaborating with the Ann Arbor Public Schools, Eastern Michigan University College of Education, University of Michigan Women in Science and Engineering Program, Washtenaw Community College and Washtenaw Intermediate School District.

Organizers hope "Voice and Choice" participants will leave the conference with information on gender equity issues in education and adolescent development, an understanding of the connection between research findings and life experience and strategies for educators and youth leaders.

The conference costs $35. For more information or registration materials, call Huron Valley Girl Scout Council at (313) 971-8800, or 1-800-49-SCOUT. Weber's Inn is at I-94 and Jackson Road in Ann Arbor.

ARTIST VISITS

John Ylvisaker, called the "Poet Laureate of the Lutheran Church," will be at Holy Trinity Lutheran Church, 39020 Five Mile Road, Livonia Tuesday, April 15, for a 4:30 p.m. workshop and 7:30 p.m. performance. The singer/songwriter for 33 years is known for his song "I Was There to Hear Your Borning Cry." He also has produced an award-winning radio show and composes many of the soundtracks for ELCA videos. He spends a great deal of time performing and leading workshops in an effort to get people involved in worship through music.

For more information about his visit, call the church at (313) 464-0211.

UNDERSTANDING ISLAM

Free non-Muslim classes on Islam and Muslims, sponsored by the Muslim Community of the Western Suburbs, are offered at 7 p.m. Wednesdays at the Crescent Academy at the corner of Palmer and Lotz roads in Canton. There is no obligation or age limit to attend. For more information, call Rafael Narbaez at (313) 728-6393.

FRAUD AND SUPERNATURAL

Does magic and unexplainable mysteries fascinate you? Do you refute supernatural phenomena? Single Spirit Ministries will present Dan Korem, renowned for demonstrating how people with alleged paranormal powers deceive others, at 7 p.m. Saturday, April 19, at Ward Presbyterian Church, 17000 Farmington Road, Livonia. For more information, call Single Spirit at (313) 422-1809.

EVENING OUT

The Evangelism/Pastoral Care Group of St. Martin's Episcopal Church is sponsoring an evening at the Redford Theater Saturday, April 19. The film feature will be "Tootsie" at 7:30 p.m. and feature an organ recital. The church is at 24699 Grand River Ave. For more information, call the church at (313) 533-3600.

Bennett, Wilk pick EMU

When Eastern Michigan University men's soccer coach Brian Tinnion went searching for talent, he didn't have to go far.

Tinnion announced the signings of six recruits for next fall's team, among them Jason Bennett and Graham Wilk, both from Plymouth Canton.

Bennett was one of the Chiefs' most valuable players last fall, starting first in the midfield and later on defense. He was a second-team all-state selection and an all-Observer choice.

Wilk, a defender, graduated from Canton in 1995; he attended the University of Kentucky the past two years. An all-state player, Wilk will best be remembered for the final goal he scored in his high school career — in overtime against Warren DeLaSalle in the Class A state final.

Other players Tinnion signed are Mike Healy, a forward from Troy HS; Kirk Hodges, a midfielder from Troy Athens; Ryan Blackwell, a defender from Copley (Ohio) HS; and Justin Jeffers, a keeper from Lake Orion.

Also becoming eligible in the fall is transfer Mo Hijazi, from Dearborn and Schoolcraft College.

With the loss of just two starters to graduation, Tinnion believes "this incoming group of players puts Eastern one step closer to challenging for the MAC (Mid-American Conference) title."

Magic are runners-up

Canton's Michigan Magic, an under-16 boys Little Caesars Premier League (Ilitch Division) team, opened its outdoor season by finishing second at the St. Louis, Mo. Easter Invitational (March 28-30).

St. Louis Metro 1974 won the championship in a shootout over the Magic after four scoreless overtimes.

The Magic, coached by Jerry Parent and Randy Prescott, defeated St. Louis Caleco's, 2-0; Shawnee Mission (Kan.) Alliance, 2-0, St. Louis Lou Fusz, 2-1, and Overland Park (Kan.) Udinese, 2-1 (avenging a 3-0 loss earlier in the tourney).

Recreation offerings

•Adult tennis lessons are being offered by the Canton Parks and Recreation Services on the beginner and advanced levels, for six weeks starting April 28.

Beginners will meet Mondays (beginning April 28); advanced lessons will be on Wednesdays (beginning April 30). Both will be 6:30-7:30 p.m.

All lessons will be at Griffin Community Park. Cost is $30 for Canton residents, $35 for non-residents, and is open to those at least 16 years old.

Lessons will be conducted by Kristen Harrison, a certified pro, and her staff. For further information, call (313) 397-5110.

•A women's Friday morning golf league is taking shape at Canton's Fellows Creek Golf Course. Sponsored by the Canton Parks and Recreation Services, the league is open to all ability levels.

League play gets underway May 2, with tee times starting at 9 a.m. The league lasts 16 weeks; cost is $15 to register, plus weekly greens fees. There are no residency requirements.

For more information, call the Parks and Recreation office at (313) 397-5110.

Prop 48 clinic

A clinic to help high school student-athletes interested in attending and playing sports at an NCAA institution is scheduled for April 19 at Detroit's Cass Tech HS.

The clinic is one in a series of SAT/ACT Pre-Game Clinics conducted in 45 cities across the country. Sponsored by the Princeton Review Foundation, the clinic's aim is to help student-athletes prepare and meet NCAA academic guidelines, often referred to as Proposition 48.

At present, those who wish to compete as college freshmen must meet standards for grade point average in 13 high school core courses and obtain minimum scores on either the ACT or SAT entrance exams. The NCAA's requirements have been changing, causing confusion among students, parents, coaches and counselors.

University of Detroit Mercy basketball coaches Perry Watson and Nikita Lowery, and Detroit Red Wings' announcer Michael Goldberg, will also speak at the clinic.

Further clinic information may be obtained by calling Kira Lewis at (313) 663-2163.

Correction

In last Thursday's story on the all-Observer basketball team, the name of Mark Hovermale was unfortunately omitted from the honorable mention list.

Named the most valuable player for Plymouth Christian Academy, Hovermale, a senior and team captain, was the team's second-leading scorer (11.5 points) and leading rebounder (6.5).

Chiefs' outlook: promising

BY RICHARD L. SHOOK
STAFF WRITER

It isn't who's gone that's significant for Plymouth Canton's softball team, it's who's back.

And who's back is sophomore pitching sensation Gretchen Hudson.

If the Detroit Tigers had two pitchers as dominating as Hudson on their American League baseball team, they wouldn't have to worry about trying to avoid 100 losses.

Hudson and Cathy Hermann of Livonia Ladywood are two of Observerland's finest softball pitchers.

"She's an outstanding kid," said her coach, Jim Arnold. "She's very coachable. She's already got some colleges looking at her.

"She's a good coachable young lady. She's been working hard on her own in pitching camp. She has a rise, a changeup, a drop. She's been working real hard on those."

Canton finished 18-12 last season with Hudson playing a prominent role down the stretch.

Arnold kept testing the freshman by throwing her in increasingly important games and the young lady kept responding.

Canton was scheduled, weather permitting, to open its season Wednesday at home against Westland John Glenn.

It lost outfielder Shelly Butske and third baseman Shana Bidwell to graduation but will have a good solid nucleus of players coming back.

Included are catcher Amy LaGrow and her center fielder sister Amber, outfielder/pitcher Jenny Sikora and second baseman Angela Litwin. Sikora was a first-team All-Observerland selection last year.

Shortstop is in the capable hands of another veteran, Nikki Kovachevich, while Tara Biro plays a strong third base plus the outfield.

Tough on the mound: Canton's Gretchen Hudson is only a sophomore, but she still rates as potentially one of the top pitchers in Observerland.

Jillian Gross backs up LaGrow behind the plate while Kristin Witt plays first base. Sarah Carson will give Hudson some days off on the mound and Karen Dougher will play the outfield.

Arnold has a transfer from Lake Orion, Erica Hancz, who may be a factor at third base, as might a player up from last year's junior varsity team, Sara Freels.

"Third base is open," Arnold said. "It's between Freels and Hancz. They'll both get some playing time and whoever has the better stick will probably dominate that position."

Outfielders Donna Logsdon and Melanie Mikosz also made the jump from the junior varsity to the varsity this season.

Elizabeth Elsner will see some outfield duty and also spell Kovachevich at shortstop.

The presence of Sikora and Carson will let Arnold keep from burning Hudson out.

"We have 12 returning seniors," Arnold summarized. "And two good pitchers, one a senior and one a sophomore.

"Our defense should be real strong. And our hitting has been impressive quite a bit to this point. We have a lot of depth. I think we'll go quite a ways this year."

Kovachevich and Amy LaGrow will serve as co-captains and "both have played on the varsity since their freshman year," the coach said. "We have a good mix of personalities and everybody seems to get along real well."

Sikora will start in right field. "She's got the stongest arm, and she's been there a few years. Amber LaGrow will be in center field while left field will be open to a couple of different players.

Pitching is pivotal to Rocks' hopes

■ SOFTBALL PREVIEW

It all starts with the girl with the ball.

Plymouth Salem's softball team will go as far as its pitching can carry it.

"We've got a lot of depth this year," third-year coach Bonnie Southerland of the Rocks said. "We've got a good bench.

"We have quite a bit of experience coming back. We're young, but we're experienced. But the key is always pitching."

The core of Salem's team remains pretty much the same as last year, junior Stefanie Velpe, who hit .570 last year, at catcher and four-year starter Carah Best at shortstop.

Both were first-team All-Observerland members last season so both will lead Salem by deed and by word.

"She (Best) will add quite a bit to the lineup this year. She's a very smart player," Southerland said. "She and Stefanie will probably be our team leaders.

"They are our co-captains along with Kristen Los, a senior who will be starting in center field."

Salem finished 16-12 last season with Jenny Trott doing most of the pitching. Trott elected to concentrate on volleyball full time this year so Southerland gets to develop her other pitchers.

Senior Becky Hattle will share the mound with junior Shannon Coultas, with junior Rachel Krumwiede backing them up.

"Shannon will come around," Southerland said. "She's got to get some game experience, build up that confidence, because we've seen her do it."

The Rocks lost two starters, second baseman Nicole Sitek and outfielder Terri Walters.

Junior Katie Gagleard will take over at second for Sitek and may possibly fill in at pitcher also.

Junior Karen Prosyk and Jill Schmalhurst, up from the junior varsity, will split time initially at first base.

Senior Grace Tomlin will back up Volpe at catcher and also serve as designated hitter "along with junior Becky Little, who has a really strong bat and will help us offensively quite a bit."

Third base goes to junior Becky Esper, up from the junior varsity. She's another Salem player who features good hands and good wheels.

Southerland has a young utility player in sophomore Maureen Buchanan.

"She'll be starting somewhere in the lineup," the coach said. "I'm just not sure where. She has a great bat. She can pitch, she can catch and she can play the outfield.

"Wherever we're lacking that day, that's

Up, then down

Madonna wins opener with a last-inning rally, then stumbles

■ COLLEGE SPORTS

In six of the previous seven games, the pitching for Madonna University's baseball team had been solid. Which is why five of those games had ended in victory.

So perhaps a letdown was to be expected in the second game of Sunday's double-header against visiting Siena Heights College.

But after Sunday's dramatic finish in the first game, in which the Fighting Crusaders battled back to edge Siena Heights 5-4 on the strength of Aaron Shrewsbury's bat, a better sequel had to be hoped for.

Madonna didn't get it, though. The pitching let up, with four pitchers getting tagged for 11 runs in an 11-5 Saints' victory.

The split left Madonna with a 9-15 record. Siena Heights is 13-16.

Madonna's double-header at Northwood University Saturday was rained out; the Crusader softball team had twinbills Saturday against Calvin College and Sunday at Heidelberg College rained out as well.

The Crusaders had lost in eight innings the previous weekend at Siena Heights, leading to a Saints' sweep — and planting the seed of revenge.

They got it in the opener, thanks to Shrewsbury. He drove in all five Madonna runs, slugging home runs in the fourth (a solo) and sixth (two runs), each narrowing the Siena Heights lead to a run, 2-1 in the fourth and 4-3 in the sixth.

The score was still 4-3 in the seventh when Shrewsbury came to the plate with runners in scoring position and two out. Kevin Barkholz replaced Siena Heights' starter Bryan Gearhart on the mound, but Barkholz wasn't much more successful, surrendering a game-winning, two run double to Shrewsbury.

Shrewsbury's 3-for-3, five RBI game made a winner out of Dan Pydyn (from Plymouth), who started and went all seven innings for Madonna, giving up four runs on eight hits and a walk, with three strikeouts. Pydyn is now 3-3.

In the second game, the Crusaders played catch-up again — this time, unsuccessfully. Bob Mason started and took the loss (he's 1-2), lasting 4 1/3 innings and allowing six runs (five earned). He was followed by Mark Serra (no innings, one run), Tim Holland (2/3 of an inning, one run) and Jason Carter (two innings, three runs).

Steve Keider was the starter and winner for Siena Heights.

Kevin Foley led Madonna's offense with two hits, including a double, and two RBI. Eric Marcotte (Plymouth Canton) also had two hits, scoring two runs, and E.J. Roman slammed a solo home run.

Jason Martines had two doubles among his three hits, with two RBI, for the Saints, and Kris Hemry had two hits, three RBI and one of three Siena Heights' homers. Josh Reeber had two hits, one a solo homer, and Jason Folgmann had a pinch-hit home run.

T'Birds prove they're the best around

BASKETBALL

Dreams really do come true.

The West Bloomfield-based Ann Arbor Thunderbirds wheelchair basketball team — featuring local players Chuck Dillon of Canton, Jerry Sarasin of West Bloomfield and Lou Cherwak of Troy — watched its season-long dream turn to reality Saturday afternoon in Birmingham, Alabama when the T'birds won the championship of Division II in the 49th National Wheelchair Basketball Association's National Tournament.

Having already won sectional and regional championships in the 64-team invitational tournament, which is structured similar to the NCAA National Basketball Tournament, the Thunderbirds won the national crown with a 63-50 triumph over the Pacific Spartans (California) in the championship game. The Thunderbirds knocked off the Austin River City Mavericks (Texas) in the semifinals, 67-51.

"This is the biggest accomplishment for me in any kind of sport," said Sarasin. "It's like a dream come true. I have friends that have won it and I've gone and watched them play, but and I never thought it would happen to me. I've waited five years for this and it easily could have been 15 or 20 years like some of the guys on the team. I feel very fortunate to be on a team of this caliber, with all of the talent. It's a great feeling."

In the championship game against Pacific, the Thunderbirds held a narrow 27-26 lead at halftime and didn't pull away until midway through the second half.

With the score tied at 33-all, the Thunderbirds got into a jam when star player Kris Lenzo was forced to the bench with his fourth personal foul. But in form with a true championship team, the Thunderbirds' bench rose to the occasion and took control of the game.

The game remained close and was tied at 35-35 and 37-37 before the T'birds went on an 11-4 run. When Cherwak scored on a layup following a basket by Donald Moore the Thunderbirds found themselves in control, 48-41. The Spartans cut the deficit to four, 54-50, but the Thunderbirds stepped up defensively and shut out the Spartans in the final 3:20 of the game. The Thunderbirds closed the game with a 9-0 run for the final margin of victory.

"We got into foul trouble in the second half and our bench really stepped up," said Thunderbirds coach Dr. Jeff Pierce, of West Bloomfield. "Don (Moore) and Lou (Cherwak) really picked it up. That kind of took the steam out of (Pacific). It was a very exciting game and the whole team contributed."

Erick Corsaut, the tournament MVP, paced the Thunderbirds in the title game with 20 point, one block and one steal. Moore, Mike Sprau and Jimmy Ladouceur chipped in with nine points each and Glen Ashlock led the team in rebounds with 17. Sprau and Ladouceur dished off five assists each.

Pacific had three players reach double figures led by Rod Williams with 16.

Corsaut's 16 points led four players who finished in double figures for the T'birds in the semifinal victory over the Mavericks. Corsaut also grabbed 13 rebounds dished of three assists and had one steal. Ashlock finished with 13 points, 13 rebounds and two assists; Ladouceur meshed in 12 points (to triples), dished off seven assists and had one steal; and Moore finished with 12 points and six rebounds.

The Thunderbirds took the lead for good at 11-9 just 10 minutes into the game. They gradually built the lead and held advantages of 22-16 at halftime, 30-20 with 16:10 remaining in the game, and 56-31 with just over seven minutes remaining on the clock.

SPORTS ROUNDUP

Dekhockey sign-up

Registration for all leagues at the Michigan Dekhockey Center, located on Michigan in Canton, is currently underway through April 20. Games begin April 28.

Leagues are open for ages four and over. The Center offers Dekhockey/floor hockey, played in gym shoes, and in-line/roller hockey, played with in-line skates. Equipment is required.

Also, the IDTA Senior B Regional Dekhockey Tournament will be at Michigan Dekhockey April 26-27. The tournament, fbr players 18 and over, will include teams from Michigan, Massachusetts, Illinois, Pennsylvania and Niagara Falls/Ontario.

Teams will be competing for prizes and a berth in the U.S. Nationals next month in Leominster, Maine.

Entry fee is $250.

For further information on either league registrations or the Senior B Regional Tournament, call (313) 397-8900.

Softball tryouts

Tryouts for the Plymouth-Canton Junior Baseball League's under-12 girls fast pitch softball travel team will be from noon to 2 p.m. Saturday at the Canton and Salem HS fields.

Questions should be directed to Fran Jurcak at (313) 454-7351.

Rockers' camps

For the seventh-straight year, the Detroit Rockers are comin' to town!

This summer, Rockers' summer soccer camps will be in 22 locations. Each camp last five days; the half-day camps run for 2 1/2 hours, the full-day camps for 5 1/2 hours.

The Rockers will make a trip to Plymouth and to Canton. They will be in Plymouth at Heritage Park from 9:30 a.m.-noon July 7-11, and in Canton at the Canton Recreation Complex from 9:30 a.m.-noon July 28-Aug. 1.

Cost is $99 for half-day camps and $169 for full-day camps if registered prior to May 1. Prices increase to $119 (half-day) and $189 (full-day) after that.

All campers receive a Kendis NPSL soccer ball, a camp T-shirt, a 4x6 group photo, two free tickets to a Detroit Red Wings exhibition game, and one Rockers VIP season ticket for the 1997-98 campaign.

To register or for more information, call the Rockers at (313) 396-7070.

Basketball camps

Ladywood High School will hold two sessions of basketball camps this summer for girls in grades 4-9.

Session I (fundadmentals) will be from 9 a.m. to noon, Monday through Thursday, June 23-26 (cost $55).

Session II (fundamentals plus) is from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m., Monday through Thursday, July 14-17 (cost ($90).

Campers can attend both sessions for a cost of $130.

For more information, call Ladywood coach Andrea Gorski at (810) 442-7456.

Softball sign-up

The Canton Softball Center is now accepting registrations for the upcoming season. Team registration costs $495 per plus umpire fees for a 14-game season, featuring both single games and double-headers.

Game balls, USSSA registration, and first- and second-place individual and sponsor awards for each league are included.

The season begins April 13. Call (313) 4835600, ext. 2 or 3 for further information.

Also, Canton Softball Center begins its extensive tournament season with its anual Early Bird Classic April 12-13, with the championship round scheduled for April 19-20. Entry fee is $125 per team (plus umpire fees), with a four-game guarantee.

Canton Softball Center offers tournaments every weekend throughout the spring, summer and fall. Call (313) 483-5600 for a listing.

All-Star hoop

Registrations are now being taken for Bernie Holowicki's All-Star Basketball Camp.

The first of the Madonna University coach's camps will be for boys, from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. June 16-20 at Madonna. Cost is $110.

The second, also for boys, will be from 9 a.m.-3 p.m. June 23-27 at Madonna. It, too, will cost $110.

Camp No. 3 will be a co-ed shooting camp, scheduled for 9 a.m.-12:30 p.m. at St. Robert Bellarmine. Cost: $60.

From 9 a.m.-3 p.m. July 7-11 there will be a girls camp, also at St. Robert Bellarmine. Cost: $110.

For further information, call Bill Derderian at (313) 937-0966; Bernie Holowicki at either home (313) 261-3346 or at Madonna (313) 432-5591.

No kidding: These guys all can play

BRAD EMONS

You would think most NBA general managers had something better to do Sunday afternoon.

But there they were, coming in droves to the baggage area of Northwest Airlines at Metro Airport.

I was there to pick up family members back from Florida.

Meanwhile, the NBA GMs and scouts were headed to the Palace of Auburn Hills, my eventual destination as well, to watch the nation's top players at Magic Johnson's Roundball Classic.

First it was Mike Dunleavy of the Bucks, then it was Wayne Embry of the Cavaliers, and soon Jerry Krause of the Bulls walked in.

Connecticut head coach Jim Calhoun also walked through.

Twenty-five years ago Moses Malone was a novelty, a freak of nature.

He was a high school player from Petersburg, Va. who eventually proved he was physically and mentally ready to bypass college and go straight to the pros.

Back then it was big news, but now it's the '90s and it's becoming common place. It's no longer a shock.

Kevin Garnett started the trend again, followed by Kobe Bryant, and now it's Tracy McGrady's turn.

I joked with Dunleavy as he was picking up his bags: "When are you guys going to start scouting junior high players?"

He got a chuckle, but that may not be so far fetched as we enter the next century.

South American and Europeon soccer clubs begin developing talent in their pre-teens, and Major League baseball teams give $1 million bonuses to high prep draft picks.

Cavs scout Phil Hubbard was overheard in the press room saying: "Other sports do it, what's the difference?"

And Dick Vitale may have summed it up best when he said: "How can you blame anybody for getting on-the-job training, and in the process, get paid millions?"

It's just like the famous line in the movie Jerry McGuire: "Just show me the money!"

But these weren't ordinary high school basketball players, these were the cream of the crop.

College coaches were in abundance because several of Magic's Roundball participants have not committed.

Sitting a few rows up was Gary Williams (Maryland), Tubby Smith (Georgia), Tom Izzo (Michigan State), Bill Banyo (UNLV) and Clem Haskins (Minnesota). Assistants from Iowa and Arizona were also on hand to make pitches for the undecided.

Ironically, one Magic Roundballer, 6-foot-9 Lamar Odom of Ozone Park, N.Y., announced before the game that he was going the conventional route — UNLV instead of the riches of the NBA.

But really, what's the difference? UNLV, Kentucky or the NBA?

They seem to be very professional organizations with lots of money.

This game gave our own Lorenzo Guess of Wayne Memorial a chance to prove he belonged among the best in the country.

It also gave Guess a chance to play with future Michigan State teammate Charlie Bell of Flint Southwestern Academy. The two are summer teammates on the Michigan Mustangs, an AAU club sponsored by Adidas.

And the 6-3 Guess, like his 1994 Magic Roundballer predecessor Guy Rucker of Westland John Glenn, did little to dispell that they can play big-time college basketball.

He came up with 10 points (on five-of-12 shooting), along with a team-high seven rebounds and four steals. He also had three assists in 20 minutes.

It was a typical Guess outing.

In a game normally dominated by spectacular dunks and dazzling offensive plays, Guess was clearly the defensive standout.

"I was impressed with every asset of his game," said Louis Reynaud of DeLaSalle High of Concord, Calif., co-coach of the victorious West All-Stars. "He's strong defensively because he has quick reflexes. He's very aggressive and that's half of playing good defense. Technically he's good and he shows a lot of pride."

Guess did not have a turnover as he helped orchestrate a convincing 124-106 West victory over the East before an ESPN-2 national TV audience and 14,163 Palace fans.

"It was really a fun, competitive game," Guess said. "It was a lot of fun to play with big-time hoopers."

McGrady, a smooth 6-8 forward from Auburndale, Fla., who played for national power Mount Zion Academy in Durham, N.C., had to impress NBA scouts with multi-talented athletic skills.

McGrady, who was playing his last amateur game, finished with 13 points on six-of-seven shooting. He also wooed the crowd afterwards with his efforts in the slam-dunk contest.

But so did 6-10 Melvin Ely of Harvey, Ill., who is going to be hooked up with Tark the Shark (Jerry Tarkanian) at Fresno State. He was the East MVP with a game-high 24 points (on 11-of-13 shooting).

And the East MVP was 6-7 Ricky Davis of Davenport, Ia., who will be teamed up with the rapidly-improving 6-10 Rucker next season at Iowa.

Davis, who showed an consistent outside shot, finished with a game-high 29 points on 13 of 16 from the field.

Nobody looked out of place in this game, not even last-minute replacement Greg Grays of Southfield-Lathrup, an alternate who shook off a sluggish start to finish with 10 points.

"Everybody here can play, that's for sure," said Guess, who will head to MSU June 15 to begin summer school classes.

Guess had gone head-to-head against many of these players in national AAU tourneys during the summers, so he wasn't intimidated by the surroundings.

It's just hard to believe these guys were high school players because they're beginning to look more and more like the pros.

But the game is more than dunks and fancy plays, Magic Johnson warned.

It's more about fundamentals, something Guess may have a leg up on his future competition.

OUTDOOR INSIGHTS

BILL PARKER

With the recent cold spell which blew through southeastern Michigan earlier this week open water fishing probably isn't embedded in everyone's mind just yet. The success of a few area bass pro's may provide the spark you need to get into the open water mode.

Canton Bass'n Gals Linda Bennett and Mary Ashteneau recently competed in the National Bass'n Gals Texas Invitational held on Sam Rayburn Reservoir. Although rain, cold and high winds dampened the success rates, the two Michigan anglers fared well in the 100-woman field.

Bennett weighed nine keepers in the two-day event for a total weight of 19 pounds, 24 ounces. She finished 35th and earned 66 points in the race to qualify for the Bassn' Gals Classic Star, the women's equivalent to the BASSMASTER Classic.

Ashteneau caught eight keepers which totaled 16 pounds. She finished 55th in the standings and earned 46 points toward qualifying for the Classic.

The Lake Orion angler, a regular on the BASSMASTER national tournament trail, finished 11th overall in the 112-man field with a three-day limit catch of 15 fish which totaled 26 pounds, 10 ounces.

Economou earned $6,000 and 90 points in the race for the BASSMASTER Top 100 Tour Angler of the Year. He is currently 20th overall in the Angler of the Year competition with 308 points. Davy Hite leads the division with 427 points. BASSMASTER Classic champion David Fritts is second with 403, Rick Clune is third with 401, Denny Brauer is fourth with 389 and Michigan's Kevin VanDam is fifth with 395. Economou leads such noted anglers as Jim Bitter, Gary Klein, Roland Martin and Guido Hibdon.

Campground hosts

If you get a kick out of camping and enjoy helping others the Michigan Department of Natural Resources has a deal for you.

Free camping is available for anyone who volunteers as a campground host at a Michigan State Park or State Forest. The program allows individuals to camp for free in exchange for providing assistance in the campground.

Duties include greeting campers and directing them to their sites, explaining camping fees, light maintenance, answering questions about the park or forest, arranging activities, and providing other services depending on the hosts talents and interests. Campground hosts can be individuals or teams.Retired couples, teachers and students, as well as families have preformed the duties of a campground host in the past.

Requirements for being a campground host are: you must be at least 18 years of age; must attend a training session May 14-16; must serve for at least four weeks; must provide your own camping equipment and personal items; must be available as a host for at least five days a week (approximately 30 hours) including weekends and holidays

Anyone interested in volunteering as a campground host should call Monica Terrell at (517) 373-9483 for more information.

Free Fishing Weekend

Michigan's 11th annual Free Fishing Weekend, when all fishing license requirements are waived for residents and nonresident, will take place June 7-8. All fishing regulations will still apply.

Each year many local businesses, chambers of commerce, and fishing clubs sponsor "how-to" clinics. The DNR is looking for first-time and returning sponsors to again sponsor a clinic on Free Fishing Weekend.

"Free Fishing Weekend has become a tradition in Michigan over the years – its a great opportunity to take time out and enjoy the great outdoor experience that fishing has to offer with family and friends," said John Robertson, DNR Fisheries Division chief. "Fishing holds a special place in Michigan's history and heritage as well. By celebrating the fishing tradition in Michigan during this special weekend, we can pass on the principles of stewardship of our rich aquatic resources to a new generation of anglers."

Michigan has a vast array of fishing opportunities with over 3,000 miles Great Lakes shoreline, over 11,000 lakes, and some 36,350 miles of rivers and streams including 12,500 miles of trout waters.

If you or your organization is interested in sponsoring a clinic call the DNR Fisheries Division at (517) 373-1280.

Anglers and hunters are urged to report their success. Questions and comments are also encouraged. Send information to 805 E. Maple, Birmingham, MI 48009. Fax information to (810) 644-1314 or call Bill Parker evenings at (810) 901-2573.

It's a different type of game — lacrosse

INSIGHT

Even though it's played by 10-man teams running around on a football field, outdoor men's lacrosse resembles basketball. You will see a lot of fast breaks, picks and screens. Defenders will use man-to-man or zone defenses and a "full-court press."

If this is your first lacrosse game, sit down near the "50-yard line," the line that separates the offensive and defensive halves of the field. It's nice to sit with someone who is familiar with men's lacrosse.

Fifteen yards from each end of the field is an 18-foot-wide circle (the crease) containing a six-foot-square goal, backed by a net. Players score by throwing a baseball-size hard rubber ball past a goalie into the net (rather like in ice hockey). If a shot goes out of bounds, the ball is given to the team that had a player nearest to where the ball went out.

At first, you may have trouble figuring out who has the ball. To find it, listen to the goalie and look where he looks. The goalie is in charge of the defense, and he usually calls out the position of the ball.

Every player carries a stick with a basket at one end. He uses this stick to pick up, catch, throw and shoot the ball and knock the ball from the ball carrier's stick. (Players wear helmets and pads.)

Each team consists of a goalie, three attackmen (who stay on their offensive half of the field), three defensemen (who stay on their defensive half of the field), and three midfielders, who play on both ends of the field (rather like ice hockey players).

You can get a clue what position each man plays by looking at his stick:

- If the basket on his stick is so big he looks like a fisherman wearing a helmet, he's the goalie.
- If his stick is six feet long, he's a defenseman.
- If he carries a "short" stick, he's either an attackman or a midfielder. When the ball moves across the center line, the "middies" will follow the ball. The attackmen won't.

A player may run into another player (except the goalie in his crease) so long as either is within five yards of the ball on the ground. Contact must be from the front or side and between the shoulder and the knee.

And anyone may hit the ball carrier, either with his body or his stick. Again, contact must be from the front or side and between the shoulder and the knee. If a defender clearly swings his stick at the ball carrier, rather than at his stick, the defender will be penalized.

Penalties are assessed like in hockey: The offender must sit down for a while, and his team must play short-handed. However, the penalty in lacrosse is more severe: A short-handed lacrosse team will give up a goal twice as often as a short-handed ice hockey team.

The final score of a lacrosse game usually runs in the high single digits or the low double digits. The lowest-scoring game I've seen was 6 to 4. The highest-scoring game was 22 to 11.

Lacrosse is a spring sport. Although the East Coast is the hotbed of North American lacrosse, many colleges around here have "club" teams.

High school play in Michigan begins in March and ends in late May or early June at the state tournament at Cranbrook in Bloomfield Hills.

Some of the best high school lacrosse in Michigan is played by teams from around here: Catholic Central, Brother Rice, Cranbrook, Country Day, Birmingham and deLaSalle.

A lacrosse pitch: The center line divides the field for each team, into offense and defense. The circles represent each side's goal.

Here are few terms to master

Lacrosse terminology:

Cage: usual name for the goal.

Clear: a pattern of running and passing to move the ball from the defensive end to the offensive end. See Ride.

Cradling: swinging a stick back and forth so that centrifugal force will keep the ball centered in the basket of the stick – everyone with the ball does it.

Crease: the 18-foot-wide circle surrounding the cage.

Crease attackman: an offensive player who stands in front of the goal (like in ice hockey).

Cutter: an offensive man running across the front of the goal (like a cutting guard in basketball).

Dodge: An offensive maneuver in which the ball carrier attempts to get past the man guarding him.

Give and go: An offensive maneuver in which the ball carrier throws the ball to a teammate, runs toward the goal and receives a return throw from the man to whom he just threw the ball (like in basketball).

Ground ball: Like a loose ball in basketball, except that ground balls occur more frequently.

Help: An unguarded teammate to whom the ball carrier can throw the ball if he is hard pressed.

Hole: The prime scoring territory. Like the lane in basketball but wider and deeper.

Lax: Short for "lacrosse," just as "xing" is short for "crossing."

Pick: A screen by a standing offensive man to allow a teammate to escape his defender (like in basketball).

Ride: Defensive pressure to keep the offense from moving the ball from its defensive end of the field to its offensive end (like a full-court press in basketball).

Screen: An attackman standing between the goalie and the shooter so the goalie has difficulty seeing a shot (like in ice hockey).

Unsettled: An attack on defenders who have not yet organized their defense (like a fast break in basketball).

Jim Brown: The best-known lacrosse player. An all-pro running back with the Cleveland Browns professional football team, Brown was an all-American midfielder on the Syracuse University lacrosse team.

Shamrocks have many holes to fill

■ BASEBALL PREVIEW

Detroit Catholic Central baseball coach John Salter can't remember having to replace as much talent as this year.

That's saying something since this is Salter's 17th season, during which the Shamrocks have won two Class A state titles.

The Shamrocks lost several players to graduation and two who transferred off a team that finished 25-11 and won a Class A district championship.

Among the losses were first team all-state first baseman Mike Daguanno (.443, 36 RBI) and second team all-state second baseman Chris Karney (.425). Both players are at the University of Detroit Mercy.

Also lost to graduation was left-hander James O'Connor (9-2), now a member of Madonna University.

The two players who transferred are centerfielder/pitcher Kevin Thomas and catcher/third baseman Dave Viane. Thomas is with Walled Lake Western and Viane with Farmington.

Viane hit .355 and Thomas .333.

The Shamrocks have managed a 2-0 record, winning a double-header against Redford Union, 7-5 and 9-6.

"One of our problems early will be lack of experience," Salter said. "We haven't lost this many quality players since I've been here. But we were young two years ago and still made it to the state semifinals.

"We don't have one pitcher right now that looks dominant, but have six that can throw strikes around 80 miles an hour. If we can play defense behind them, we should do well.

"We hit .333 as a team last season, but I don't see us doing that well again offensively. We'll be running more this year and manufacturing runs, instead of waiting for the big inning."

CC stuns Panthers

Redford Catholic Central swept a non-league double-header Sunday against host Redford Union, 7-5 and 9-6.

Junior right-hander Matt Ksiazek earned the pitching victory in the first game, allowing four hits and one walk through four innings. He had four strikeouts and allowed two earned runs. Mike Haller pitched three inings to earn the save.

Sophomore shortstop Dave Lusky went 3-for-4 with a two-run home run and four RBI. Ksiazek was 2-3 and Chris Woodruff 2-4.

Luke Humphreys was 2-4 with a pair of stolen bases and Mike Macek 2-4 for the Panthers.

In the nightcap, junior right-hander Tony Nozewski allowed three hits and one earned run in five innings of relief to earn the victory.

John DiBella was 2-for-5 with two runs scored and designated hitter Anthony Tomey was 2-4 with three RBI. Lusky tripled and scored two runs.

Salem softball from C1

where she'll be."

Freshman Amanda Sutton also will get plugged into the infield at some position by Southerland.

"She'll be doing a lot of baserunning for us," her coach said.

Salem opened Wednesday at Livonia Franklin, weather permitting, and should be a factor in the Western Lakes Activities Association Lakes Division race.

How well the Rocks do will depend upon how well the pitchers develop.

But pitching is such a funny thing. The mind plays as big a part as the body and confidence can turn on a thing as seemingly innocuous as a ground ball out in a key situation.

That could be a big factor for Salem, too, because the infield appears defensively sound.

"I definitely think we have a stronger team than we had last year," Southerland said. "If we can put it all together, I think we'll do just fine."

Canton softball from C1

"We can play Biro, who is an all-around excellent athlete. She can play any postion out there.

"Our hitting has come along real well. We have good chemistry and we're eager to play, eager to start. We have a 30-plus game schedule and against some tough teams. Hopefully we'll fare real well.

"In our conference, I think Walled Lake Central will be strong again. They're always pretty strong and they won it last year.

"In our (Western) division, I feel it's up for grabs. I don't see anybody real dominant.

"It could be anybody's ball game there. We hope to be there. We'll see what happens."

OBITUARIES

REV. SAMUEL MARTIN BACKMAN

A funeral service for the Rev. Samuel Martin Backman, 64, of Westland will be held Friday, April 11, at the First Baptist Church of Northville with the Rev. Bob White, the Rev. Steve Sparks, and the Rev. Al Larson officiating.

Burial will be in Mt. Hope Cemetery in Livonia. Schrader-Howell Funeral Home in Plymouth handled local arrangements.

The Rev. Backman was born May 3, 1932, in Newell, S.D., and died Monday, April 7, in Ann Arbor.

He served the Lord in Brazil for 37 years. During that time he worked to start seven churches, six on the Amazon and one in the prairies of central Brazil. Those churches, in turn, have reached out themselves to start other churches.

The Rev. Backman was a graduate of Prairie Bible Institute and Seattle Pacific College. At school, he organized campus Bible studies and prayer meetings

Later years saw the same discipleship, with the grooming of countless young Brazilian men to become pastors who are still serving.

The Rev. Backman was the current senior pastor at the First Baptist Church of Northville. He came to Northville in 1988 as associate pastor. He and his wife, Shirley, worked together every day in the church office.

He is survived by his wife, Shirley of Westland; sons, David Backman of Canton and Paul of Westland; daughter, Cathy Shamie of Canton; five grandchildren; brothers, Olaf Backman, a missionary in France, Axel Backman, Jr. of California and Milford Backman of California; sisters, Margaret Williams of Washington, and Joy Flood of Washington; parents, Axel and Ida Backman of Washington.

Memorials may be made to the Rev. Backman Memorial Fund.

FRANK M. ROZMIAREK

Funeral services for Frank M. Rozmiarek, of Newport, Mich., were held recently at Our Lady of Good Counsel Catholic Church in Plymouth with the Rev. John Sullivan officiating.

Mr. Rozmiarek, 86, was born in Detroit. He lived in Livonia, Plymouth and Canton.

Before retiring, he worked as a general foreman at Chrysler Automotive. He is survived by his wife, Ruth; sons, Joseph, David and Donald; daughter, Joyce Hill and Rose; 10 grandchildren and six great-grandchildren.

Internment will be in Holy Sepulchre Cemetery, Southfield.

Poets meet tonight to remember Ginsberg

To celebrate the life and work of Allen Ginsberg, the Plymouth Poets will meet at 8 p.m. today at the Coffee Bean Company on Penniman in downtown Plymouth.

They will meet to share favorite Ginsberg poems, memories and thoughts on his impact.

"American poets have been enriched by his presence and we will be poorer because of his absence," said Rod Reinhart, founder of the group.

For more information, call him at 459-7319.

New to the family: Westland residents Jan and Chris Sucoe with their dog, Cocoa, who they adopted last month from the Westland shelter of the Michigan Humane Society. The society recently changed its hours to encourage more pet adoptions.

Adoption

Humane Society open 7 days

The Michigan Humane Society-Westland shelter will be open for adoptions seven days a week beginning in this month and will also extend certain morning and evening adoption hours in order to better accommodate families and those who work.

"Our primary goal is providing our services during convenient and accessible time periods, to benefit potential adopters and the animals too," said Sue Gates, Westland shelter manager.

As of April 1, anyone considering adopting a companion animal will now be able to visit the MHS Westland shelter 10 a.m.-4:30 p.m. Saturday-Tuesday and noon-8:30 p.m. Wednesday-Friday. Potential adopters will be greeted by trained adoption counselors who will assist them in finding the animal best suited by personality and lifestyle of each family.

"We want people to understand that adopting an animal is a serious and long-term commitment," Gates added. "We want to be sure that the animal they choose will be a welcome addition to the home."

The MHS adoption fee includes sterilization, health check and age-appropriate vaccinations and a 10-day health guarantee against infectious diseases. Last year the Michigan Humane Society took in more than 51,000 homeless animals, the majority of which were healthy and socialized. Nearly 25 percent of the animals at the MHS shelters are purebred.

The Westland shelter hours are:

- For adoptions: Monday, Tuesday, Saturday and Sunday from 10 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. and Wednesday, Thursday and Friday from noon to 8:30 p.m.
- Relinquish/reclaim: Monday, Tuesday, Saturday and Sunday from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. and Wednesday, Thursday and Friday from 8 a.m. to 9 p.m.

The Michigan Humane Society is a private, nonprofit organization serving animals since 1977. The MHS operates three full-service animal shelters and veterinary hospitals in the metro area.

Decision delayed on bids

While the Plymouth Municipal Services Department on Monday proposed having a private contractor mow Riverside Cemetery, city parks and road right-of-ways this year, a decision on whether to accept low bids for the service was delayed to the next city commission meeting April 21.

Municipal Services Director Paul Sincock said the action would free city employees to do needed maintenance in other areas of the city. But City Commissioner Doug Miller said he'd like to see a list prepared of the work that would be performed by city employees.

License change

Plymouth Township trustees on Tuesday approved a request from the Archdiocese of Detroit regarding two liquor licenses held by the Archdiocese.

One liquor license is to be held by St. John's Golf Club Inc. on property owned by the Archdiocese. The other is to be placed in escrow and sold, an Archdiocese attorney told trustees.

By state law, that liquor license can be used only at a business located in Plymouth Township.

Azaleas are a spring bright sight

MARTY FIGLEY

I leave tomorrow for a boat trip up the Mississippi River on the Mississippi Queen and am sure I will enjoy the many luscious plants and beautiful gardens on this Gardens of the River Cruise. Perhaps you will want to join us another time.

The lovely blossoms of azaleas (Rhododendron) will remind me that spring has really come to Michigan, as we travel from New Orleans to Memphis and stop along the way to enjoy the southern gardens.

Most of the azaleas that we will see are evergreen and grow south of zone 6. Nevertheless, the blossoms on the deciduous plants that we grow here are just as lovely and welcome in the spring in Michigan as they are in the South.

Late April or mid-September is the best time to plant these beauties here. If the plants are very small they can be bought and planted bare-root, but if they are medium to large in size, buy only those balled and burlapped.

In the spring they can be planted while in full bloom, which will allow you to select just the color you want or need for your garden. If you plant them while they are in bloom, be prepared to water them weekly during the following summer.

It's wise to consult your nurseryman when making your choice. Here are some possibilities:

R. arborescens (white, flushed pink or red, sometimes blotched yellow – always have red stamens), blooms in mid-June; R. calendulaceum (orange, yellow or scarlet), early June; R. canadensis (light lilac, rose-purple), needs very acid and moist soil; or R. roseum (bright pink), late May. You may want to look at the Exbury, Ghent, Mollis or other hybrids, which vary in form and color with the cultivars.

The most important cultural requirement for azaleas is acid soil, which most of them need. A pH of 4.5 to 5.5 is ideal with the acidity 12 to 18 inches. Root systems on these plants are shallow, so it isn't too difficult to amend the soil to satisfy their needs. Mollis hybrids and R. schlippenbachii (purplish pink, white with brown dots in throat; mid-May bloom) will grow in less acidic soil so you may want to investigate these.

If you wish to replace the existing soil in a hole, dig to a depth of 18 inches, make sure the drainage is good, and mix the existing soil or bought topsoil with acid peat. The mixture needs to be 50-50 or 25-75 (75 being the peat). An alternative is to construct a raised bed, but again, be sure about the drainage.

If you are already growing azaleas and wish to move them, spring is the time to do it, just before they leaf out. Cut through the roots just outside the drip line, completely around the plant. Dig down 10 to 12 inches (underneath the root ball) and lift it from the hole. Follow the planting instructions as with newly bought ones.

The flowers of azaleas are pretty, bloom in a variety of bright shades and are beautifully formed. Used as a specimen plant or in a border or grouping, they will be a welcome sight in the spring garden.

The history of azaleas began in the 17th century when several species were discovered in Virginia, then sent to Europe where American and European plantsmen worked with them. In the early 1800s breeding of azaleas increased rapidly and today there are many varieties on the market.

Here's how to ready air conditioner

JOE GAGNON

It is now a matter of only a few weeks before you arrive home from work and walk into a home which feels sticky and hot.

You'll more the thermostat setting from heat to cool and expect everything to come on like it did last year. For the sake of your wallet, I hope everything works OK, but if it doesn't, let me give you some facts.

The heating and air conditioning industry can not handle all the service calls that come their way during the first few hot spells of the year. You can expect a waiting period before the technician arrives to remedy the situation. New federal laws mandate that the A/C industry must recycle and capture the freon in your system before it goes into the atmosphere. New technology and training have been implemented by these companies and the result is a larger amount of dollars collected from the consumer.

The media constantly reminds us that there are a few unethical companies who will hose a consumer to the tune of thousands of dollars. You need to be sure about who you are calling to come out to your home.

If your air conditioning needs to be taken care of by a room air conditioner instead of a central system, let me remind you of a yearly occurrence. With any prolonged heat wave during the summer, you will not be able to purchase a new room air conditioner. The stores just simply run out of stock. Another fact is that of the several million units sold each year, many of the disposed units had very little wrong with them. Let me try to save some aggravation for the readers of this column by telling you what I do as the cooling season approaches.

You should not operate your central A/C when the temperature outside is cooler than 65 degrees. Your condenser which is located outside should be free of debris such as leaves, twigs etc. and should be cleaned using a garden hose with a high pressure nozzle. On one of the firs warm days, I will replace the furnace filter and shut off the humidifier on the furnace. I find that taking the humidifier apart and cleaning if then is much more convenient than waiting until next winter to do it. I also like to replace the pad each year instead of cleaning it. I remind myself of what causes Legionaires disease and it makes it easier to spend a few dollars for a new pad.

I also take apart the condensate pump that some of us have which pumps the water from the furnace to a sink or a drain. I use white vingegar to clean it and I pour a pint through the system to clean the drain tubes. Every two years I take the furnace plenum apart and clean the A-Coil which is located inside.

I use a vacuum cleaner and soft brush to accomplish this delicate task. The last thing I do is reinstall the two cartridge fuses I removed last fall to make sure nobody could turn on the A/C during the winter months.

Please note with attention, the last thing I do – I set the thermostat for cooling making sure that the temperature setting is high enough so that the A/C does not come on. – I do not want the unit to begin running until a low wattage heater built into the bottom of the compressor outside has been given a few hours to heat the oil in the bottom of the compressor. – Only then will I turn down the thermostat to a temperature which will allow the unit to operate. After the A/C has been on a half hour, I will perform a simple test to tell me if the freon level is OK. I use a good probe type thermometer which I place in one of the registers. If the temperature coming out is 20 degrees cooler than the outside temperature, everything is working fine for this year.

Julian: Feel comfortable expressing yourself

BY MARY KLEMIC
At Home Editor

The saying, "There's no place like home," has special significance for designer Alexander Julian.

The home is a special place for expression. And Julian's home – his background and community – is special inspiration for many of his furniture pieces. (It takes him "50 years and five minutes" to complete a design, he said.)

"My things are somewhat eclectic," Julian said when he visited the Scott Shuptrine Fine Furniture Showroom in Troy recently for a benefit for Children's Hospital of Michigan that raised almost $8,000.

"(They're designed) for more of a mind set than an age ... The kind of person that wants to live in an expressive yet very comfortable lifestyle."

The award-winning designer was friendly and gracious as he toured the room displays of his furniture. You choose to express yourself with what you wear and with what you surround yourself, he explained. Your home allows a different kind of expression.

"With your home, you're editing. You're choosing who comes in there."

At his Troy appearance, Julian introduced his three new furniture collections: Chapel Hill, Old East and Restoration. The collections feature elements of Julian's life and career as a fashion designer. The pieces are graceful and timeless, both elegant and casual. They blend well with one another.

A flowing argyle pattern adorns glass fronts, hardware and chair backs. Legs have slipper feet.

Restoration features include paisley fret work. Old East is named for the original building on the campus of Julian's alma mater, the University of North Carolina. A curving design came from the wingtip of a 1920s shoe Julian found. Drawers and doors are prima vera with a light mahogany finish. Knobs were inspired by cufflinks.

Chapel Hill is the name of the North Carolina college town where Julian was born. The items in the Chapel Hill collection have a mahogany finish, and some feature accents of quartered cherry and holly inlays. Carved fanned shells are among other details. Some tables have necktie patterns.

Alexander Julian

The glass fronts on cabinets were inspired by the haberdashery displays at the clothing store owned by Julian's father. Julian began managing the store when he was 16. The cabinets become a form of art, as what is behind them is on view; also, as you are getting ready, you can be deciding what to wear as the pieces of clothing are caught by the corner of your eye, Julian suggested.

"I contend you can get dressed about five minutes faster," he said with a smile.

Comfort and longevity are important to Julian's designs, especially as people are spending more time at home.

"It's anti-plastic wrap furniture.

"I can't stand planned obsolescence."

Julian won the prestigious Coty Award for fashion design in 1977, before he was 30; he has received other honors as well. He is the youngest designer ever inducted into the Coty Hall of Fame. Julian created the wardrobe for the male actors in the movie "The Player."

He is the first fashion designer involved in professional sports, creating uniforms for the Charlotte Hornets basketball team, and the car color and crew colors and apparel for the Mario and Michael Andretti racing team. Julian designed uniforms for the Tar Heels basketball team of his alma mater.

Pottery backstamps solve mystery

BY NANCY AND FRANK BOOS
Special Writers

Dear Nancy and Frank:

We have a Royal Doulton pitcher and bowl. The marks are, "Doulton Burslem England," with a crown or coronet over the words and the numbers 11549 and 156418. We would be interested in knowing the approximate value of it.

R.F.M.,
Troy

Dear R.F.:

So many inquiries come in about Royal Doulton pottery that we decided it was finally time to tackle the subject.

There are many unresolved issues, contradictions and omissions regarding the recording of Royal Doulton production, but here's our attempt to not be afraid of the dark and to shed a little light on the subject.

Britain's history is recorded in Royal Doulton figurines via renderings of kings, queens, common laborers, notable and general figures in society and characters from fiction, theater and legend.

Prized possessions: This Doulton pitcher and bowl, possibly made around 1891 to 1893, are unusual and attractive.

Dating and authenticating the pieces is based on deciphering marks consisting of letters, numbers and words called backstamps found on the pottery. With every move, change of ownership, introduction of new designs, etc., marks changed and weren't always accurately recorded. Therein lies the confusion. Herein, it is hoped, lies a little clarification.

History

1815, the year Napoleon was defeated at Waterloo, is also monumental in British history as the year John Doulton joined the Vauxhall Pottery Works in Lambeth, which was known as Jones, Watts and Doulton.

A large part of the production of this factory at this time was garden statuary, which we usually don't associate with Royal Doulton. Keep your eyes open for such items, as they would be treasure finds indeed.

In 1826 the firm moved to Lambeth and became known as Lambeth Pottery. In 1835, John's son, Henry, joined the firm. Henry was responsible for Royal Doulton's monumental success. He became an economic force and social commentator. Henry was knighted by Queen Victoria in 1887, the first potter to be so honored.

Doulton was a major industrial enterprise. In addition to being involved in the development of industrial ceramics for use by electrical, chemical and sanitation engineers, Henry decided to further pursue the artistic development of the pottery.

In 1877, Henry acquired a factory in Burslem for the purpose of producing the more artistic wares and renamed the company Doulton & Co., Burslem, in 1882. Other local potters called it the "Doulton Invasion."

The most commonly known decorative figurines were introduced in the early 1900s. In 1913, Doulton introduced a series of small figures called the HN series, named after Harry Nixon, the firm's most important colorist.

Most of the designs were retained until 1938, but are still considered rare, even though not antiques, because they were produced in limited editions that became even more limited due to production interruptions caused by the period before, during and after World War II. Even the large editions weren't huge compared to the productions of other pottery factories.

Stamping

In 1932, a line of miniature figures was introduced that initially carried the HN number, which was later changed to M (for miniature) numbers. Eventually the number system for this series was dropped altogether. After World War II, Royal Doulton discontinued the early HN line and forged ahead with massive productions of new series. Obviously, the older pre-World War I items are extremely desirable.

Special editions are marked with specific color stamping information. For example, the Dickensware introduced in 1908 was backstamped in brown until 1930, when it was changed to black until 1960. Some pieces turn up without series numbers. Getting the picture?

Designs were registered with coded numbers and letters in a diamond shape on Victorian china from 1842 to 1883. In 1884, a numbering system was put in place with certain numbers allocated to certain years.

Here is what we could best ascertain as to the dates and manufacturing locations as indicated by the following backstamps:

1850s – Doulton Lambeth

1869-77 – Doulton Lambeth in oval with date (later in circle with quatrefoil)

After 1877 – Either Doulton Lambeth or Doulton Burslem

1886 – A coronet was added at Burslem

After 1891 – The word "England" was added

1902 – The word "Royal" was added

Over years changes were made and a lion and a crown were added, which after 1913 were usually stamped.

After 1928 bone china products are marked "bone china" and often have the artist's name and a number in a rectangle together with a registration number at the British patent office.

Indications

Using the available information, the stamped "Doulton, Burslem" on your item indicates it was made at the Burslem location in 1877 or later. The coronet, added in 1886, indicates it was made after that. The stamped "England" indicates it was made after 1891 and before 1902 when "Royal" was added.

You have two registration numbers, which leads us to believe the decoration as redesigned and registered a second time. The first registration number, 11549, falls in the series allocated from January to December 1884, the time of the first design. The second registration number, 156418, falls into the series allocated from January to December 1890. The design registration usually preceded actual production by at least one year.

Taking all of this into consideration, we feel very comfortable stating that your items were produced around 1891 to 1893. Your pitcher and basin are unusual and very attractive. You say they're in excellent condition. We would put a conservative auction estimate on them in the range of $400 to $600, which means in a retail shop you'd expect to see it priced anywhere from $800 to $1,200.

Home Comfort is an inside job. That's why it makes sense to call Bergstrom's, a third generation company serving Metro Detroit since 1957. Since a central air conditioner is a major investment, we'll help you make an informed decision on which model unit to purchase. Our estimator will balance your comfort needs with your financial concerns.
An air conditioner's SEER value, or Seasonable Energy Efficiency Ratio, is a measure of how efficiently an air conditioner uses electricity. This rating is similar in nature to the miles-per-gallon rating for cars, and provides a way for you to judge which models will be more economical to use. Most older air conditioners fall in the 6-8 SEER range, whereas newer models rate in the 10-16 SEER range. In the summer, this commonly translates to a 30% savings on electric bills. Asian noodles – savor the slurping

RUTH MOSSOK JOHNSTON

Noodles always seem to be popular – pasta remains the prolific favorite – with subtle and ethnic changes to flour (in some cases, rice flour) and water ... what we now have hot on the scene is Asian noodles, and in some locations, Noodle Bars.

In Japan, it's appropriate and polite to slurp noodles, never cut them – it's bad luck, they symbolize long life. Just ask Nina Simonds, author of the new book "Asian Noodles, Deliciously Simple to Twirl, Slurp and Savor," published by William Morrow & Co., Inc. a Hearst Book Group Co., $21.00.

"Noodles are so sensual and wonderful," says Simonds. "Everywhere in Asia where I've traveled and eaten, people suck them up noisily, with great relish and delight in every mouthful. It's a way to show your appreciation of the dish – in fact, if you don't make noise, the cook will be offended!"

Simonds lived in Taiwan for 3 1/2 years – to study Chinese cuisine and culture, and has since written four other books related to Asian food. This fifth publication highlights the new food trend – Asian Noodles. In this book, she gives American cooks and their families irresistible incentives to loosen up their table manners and slurp with pleasure of the meal.

"Noodles for Asians are like hamburgers for Americans" says Jessie Yan who owns Oodles Noodles (two restaurants in the Washington, D.C., and Maryland area). Yan like Simonds is trying to noodle-educate the American public. Soba are Japanese buckwheat noodles, rice noodles come in a variety of sizes and shapes – thin Ramen and larger ones called Udon, then there are Chow Foon or He Fen, the broad flat rice noodles used in Pad Thai dishes. Many dried rice noodles must be soaked in cold water, boiling just doesn't do the trick.

Nina Simonds' book provides a comprehensive and practical introduction to Asian noodles along with a two page full-color spread showing every Asian noodle variety.

Don't let these "long-Life" symbols be daunting – let them be delicious in dishes that can be shared with family and friends, and don't forget, tell them all to slurp!

Some Simonds Noodle Knowledge and Recipes:

■ Don't boil rice noodles! Most varieties of rice noodles, cellophane and sweet potato noodles just need to be softened in hot water for 15 minutes. Then they are cooked for less than a minute in boiling water or in a stir-fry.

■ Make puffy "birds nests" noodles – cellophane noodles (bean threads), thin rice noodles (Asian Vermicelli) are quickly fried in very hot oil (425 degrees) until they appear puffy and golden in color.

CINNAMON BEEF NOODLES

Yield: 6 servings

1 teaspoon safflower or corn oil

CHILE-CINNAMON SEASONINGS

6 scallions, trimmed, cut into 1 1/2 inch sections, and smashed lightly with the flat side of a knife

6 cloves garlic, peeled, smashed lightly with the flat side of a cleaver, and thinly sliced

4 slices of fresh ginger (about the size of a quarter), smashed lightly with the flat side of a knife

1 1/2 teaspoons hot chile paste

1 teaspoon aniseed

8 1/2 cups water

1/2 cup soy sauce

2 pounds chuck or beef stew meat, trimmed of fat and gristle, and cut into 1 1/2-inch cubes

10 ounces spinach, trimmed, rinsed, and drained

1/2 pound flat Chinese wheat-flour noodles, udon, or other flat noodles, such as fettuccine, cooked until just tender, rinsed under warm water, and drained

3 tablespoons minced scallions

1. Heat a large pot or casserole over medium-high heat. Add the oil and heat until hot, about 30 seconds. Add the chile-cinnamon seasonings and stir-fry until fragrant, about 15 seconds. Add the water and soy sauce and bring to a boil. Add the beef and bring back to a boil. Reduce the heat to low, cover, and simmer for 1 1/2 hours, or until the beef is very tender. Skim the surface to remove and impurities or fat. Remove the ginger slices and cinnamon sticks and discard. Add the spinach and bring to a boil.

2. Divide the noodles among six soup bowl. Ladle the meat, spinach, and broth over the noodles and sprinkle with the scallions. Serve.

WILD MUSHROOM NOODLES

Yield: 6 servings

1 tablespoon safflower or corn oil

12 cloves garlic, mashed with the flat side of a knife and very thinly sliced

1/2 pound cremini mushrooms, rinsed, drained, stems trimmed, and caps thinly sliced

3 1/2 tablespoons Chinese rice wine or sake

1 1/2 cups minced scallion greens

3/4 pound soba or thin noodles, such as spaghetti, cooked until just tender, rinsed under warm water, and drained

3 1/2 tablespoons soy sauce

1/4 cup chopped fresh cilantro

1. Heat a wok or a heavy skillet over high heat. Add the oil and heat until hot, about 30 seconds. Add the garlic and black mushrooms and stir-fry until fragrant, about 15 seconds.

2. Add the fresh mushrooms and stir-fry for 1 to 2 minutes, until slightly softened. Lower the heat to medium high and add the rice wine. Partially cover and cook for about 3 1/2 minutes, or until the mushrooms are tender. Uncover, add the scallions, and cook to reduce the liquid by half.

3. Add the noodles and the soy sauce and stir-fry briefly to mix. Add the cilantro and toss to mix. Transfer to a platter and serve.

JOHN CUSACK'S

'KILLER' FILM HITS CLOSE TO HOME

■ John Monaghan's review of "Grosse Pointe Blank," E6

■ Birmingham band's song featured in film, E7

STAFF WRITER

Sitting in a suite at The Ritz-Carlton hotel in Dearborn, John Cusack suspiciously resembles the hit man he plays in his latest film "Grosse Pointe Blank."

In his film, Cusack plays assassin Martin Blank who returns to his hometown of Grosse Pointe to finish his last hit, attend his 10-year class reunion, and reunite with his high school girlfriend, Debi (Minnie Driver). His uniform of choice is a black suit, skinny tie and dress shirt.

Reclining in a black leather chair with his leg resting on another, Cusack is dressed in a black suit, skinny black tie and white shirt. He has a mischievous look in his eye like he's going to pounce at any moment.

The similarities do not end there. Making the film was a reunion of sorts for Cusack, who co-wrote the screenplay and served as co-producer.

Cusack and fellow writers D.V. DeVincentis and Steve Pink were high school classmates who started the Chicago-based New Crime Theatre Company, which spawned New Crime Productions, one of the producers of the movie. Actor Jeremy Piven, who plays real estate agent Paul, was also a classmate.

His sister Joan ("Nine Months," "Working Girl") stars as his receptionist Marcella. Another sister, Ann ("Jeff Foxworthy Show"), appears as Amy, and his brother, Bill, makes a cameo as a waiter.

"My brother and sister (Ann) did a day each just for fun. Joanie was in it. It was fantastic," said Cusack, an alumnus of films such as "Say Anything," "The Grifters," "City Hall," "Sixteen Candles" and "Better Off Dead."

"Grosse Pointe Blank," which opens at theaters on Friday, April 11, is the first film project for New Crime Productions. Cusack said that when he and his partners came across the story, written by native Detroiter Tom Jankiewicz, it didn't seem complete. But Cusack liked the idea.

"It was almost like a treatment version of the screenplay. It had the idea of a hit man named Martin Blank going back to his 10-year reunion and feeling like he wanted to get out of the business. I thought this is a great idea for a film if we really flesh it out," said Cusack, sipping a Diet Coke.

"It has tremendous potential – you know, the savage journey to the heart of the American dream stuff; American male values and denial; and sort of that schizophrenia, not equating your self image with your behavior. What a person does does not necessarily reflect who he is. He could be a killer at the office and a good Christian at home."

The trio thought they could extend the killer concept and make it "more of a metaphor for a certain sort of emotional detachment from reality that some people go through. They can do all these horrible things and they rationalize it. We thought that denial and rationalization were inherently comic themes."

As a result, Martin takes professional pride in his accomplishments just like any other businessman. However, he feels like his life is missing something so he uses the visit to Grosse Pointe to find himself.

Dan Aykroyd stars as fellow hit man Grocer, with Alan Arkin as Martin's psychologist Dr. Oatman. Cusack said, much to his surprise, that the reaction to the film has been "actually great."

"I thought at least a good number of people would hate it because it's so strange. It's a little subversive in its nature. I think it's funny but maybe some of the ideas would be a little bit too radical for people. Maybe I was just being a snob about it. I was really thinking they wouldn't get the movie or something. But people have been really loving it."

One thing that Cusack loved was his fight scene where he beat an assassin named Felix to a pulp. Cusack has had little opportunity to do action scenes before. Ask him if he enjoys it and he sits up straight and answers with an enthusiastic "Yeah."

"Actually, it sort of hurt," he said with a laugh. "I've kickboxed ever since 'Say Anything.' I like to fight. It's a really good way to stay in shape. The guy I trained with is this master martial artist. The guy Benny (Urquidez) who played Felix in the movie, he's a martial arts legend. I worked with him so he helped me choreograph the fight. We just did it. We didn't have stunt men."

Although identifying signs are peppered feverishly throughout the movie, "Grosse Pointe Blank" was actually filmed in the small town of Monrovia, Calif., with aerial shots of Lakeshore Drive inserted within.

"For five days we filmed in Grosse Pointe; mostly scenes of cars going through the city. We couldn't afford to bring the actors here. It was cheaper to shoot in Los Angeles, I'm sorry to say. I wish we could have shot here."

With "Grosse Pointe Blank," Cusack hopes to start a new genre of films rather than subverting the others.

"Just because it's funny doesn't mean it can't have romance in it, just because it's absurd. A black comedy doesn't mean you can't have real emotion in it. You can have really broad stuff."

Backing the film is a soundtrack that shoots straight out of the late-1980s. The Violent Femmes, The Clash, David Bowie and Queen, Johnny Nash, The Specials, Pete Townshend, The Jam, and Faith No More are among the performers chosen to set the scene. All those acts appear on the soundtrack to the film released on London Records.

Former Clash singer/guitarist Joe Strummer composed the original score.

"I always thought that the Clash would have written a song about Martin. They could have written a song about a guy who got confused in high school and ended up in the military freaking out," Cusack said.

"I always liked their edge and their black absurdity. They always made tragedy seem like punk reggae circus music. That was a real definitive voice for my era, at least when I was growing up especially being a freshman in high school, Ronald Reagan being president, and I really felt like doom was the prevalent theme. There's so much intelligence and political sophistication and a real understanding of the way nations work and the myth of nationalism I just thought he was a great artist."

Besides the intelligence of Strummer and the Clash, Cusack admits his film has some of the "best of the bad songs of the '80s. We have '99 Luftballons' (by Nena), 'Walk Like An Egyptian' (by the Bangles). We tried to put some real good, solid bad tunes in there."

Cusack hopes that audiences will enjoy the movie as much as he so his crew can make a sequel.

"We just felt that there was something great with this character, this movie and this idea. I just felt like I hadn't seen it before. I hadn't seen a killer who was processing the morality of killing while he was doing it. I had never seen a black comedy about that theme. I think maybe we are on to something."

TELEVISION

Star treatment: TV's "Murphy Brown," Candice Bergen, with script writer Adam Belanoff, now a senior producer at "Cosby."

BY HUGH GALLAGHER
STAFF WRITER

Adam Belanoff has words of encouragement for prospective television writers.

"When scripts are good enough they make it up through the ranks," he said.

Belanoff should know. The young writer/producer has written for "Wings" and written and produced for "Murphy Brown" and "Cosby."

Belanoff will join Stephen Bochco producer Charles Eglee and producer/writer/ UCLA professor Andrew Guerdat for a two-day seminar on "Writing the Half Hour Sit-Com and One Hour Drama for Television," 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Saturday and Sunday, May 3 and 4, at the Plaza Hotel in Southfield. The cost is $295, though student and early bird discounts are available.

The seminar is presented by the Hollywood Literary Retreat and sponsored by Budget Rent-a-Car's Studio Division and Online Marketing Co. For information and to register, call (810) 584-4764 or 1-(888)-HLR-1600.

"In general I'll cover my own career trajectory and tell what you need to know to get into the business," Belanoff said in a telephone interview from his home in New York City. "Taking the class through the fundamentals of creating a spec script."

Belanoff graduated from Columbia College where he received the Seymour Brick Playwriting Prize. He also joined other students in producing off-Broadway comedy revues.

"I had applied to law school at the same time as my father," Belanoff said. "He continued on and took his bar exam at 67. He became the lawyer in the family. I left Yale Law School and went to film school in L.A."

At the University of Southern California film school, Belanoff met successful film and television writer Lowell Ganz, who teaches at USC. Ganz steered Belanoff toward television writing.

Belanoff received a fellowship in 1990 from Paramount that gave him a first-hand view of the production process.

"It was a stipend to walk around and observe things," he said. "I even wrote a screen play for 'Star Trek: The Next Generation.' I made everybody Jewish."

He also wrote a spec script for "Seinfeld" that came to the attention of the producers for "Wings," where he became a writer and story editor.

Since then, Belanoff has had the opportunity to work for two of the biggest star names in television – Candice Bergen and Bill Cosby. He said they have very different approaches when working with writers.

THEATER

Trinity House introduces 'The Boys Next Door'

Trinity House Theatre, 38840 W. Six Mile Road (northwest corner of I-275 and Six Mile Road) presents "The Boys Next Door," 8 p.m. Fridays and Saturdays, 4 p.m. Sundays through May 3. Tickets $8. Call (313) 464-6302.

BY DIANNE THOMAS
SPECIAL WRITER

Arnold and Norman stand on the sidelines of the community house dance floor looking across at girls they'd like t be with. Norman has taken a fancy to Sheila, but he's afraid she wants too much from him.

Arnold wants to ask Helen to dance, but he's so unsure of himself, he makes excuses not to like her too much.

Two typical young men facing one of life's unusual challenges, but for Arnold, Norman and the rest of "The Boys Next Door," life is a bit more complicated.

Opening Friday at the Trinity House Theatre in Livonia, the 1986 comedy tells the story of four mentally challenged men who share an apartment in a suburban neighborhood.

Arnold (portrayed by Dan Gumina of Redford), Norman (Gary Brda of Westland), Lucien (Jason Birkby of Northville), and Barry (mark Barrera) have been classified with varying degrees of retardation and mental illness, but are capable of living independly in a group home.

Watching over the "boys" is Jack (Randy Coble of Novi), a social worker facing a different set of challenges. A biter divorce and classic case of job burnout are making him frustrated and short-tempered even with people he cares about.

The story could easily be one of dramatic tragedy, but author Tom Griffin has created a thought-provoking comedy, evoking laughter by showing how all troubles and triumphs are universal.

"These characters have a variety of endearing and annoying qualities, just like members of any other family," said Trudy Mason. "People laugh at situations, and their humanness."

"There's a dichotomy in that the lines have to be second nature, but come out fresh," Brda said.

A deep respect for the characters in the play, and for the mentally challenged in real life, is evident as the players rehearse their scenes, and discuss their charactrers.

"I consider it an honor to play a retarded person," Gumina said, adding that he has drawn on his own occasional feelings of being a "wallflower" to understand Arnold's sense of alientation.

Audiences who come to view "The Boys Next Door" will find themselves virtually a part of the young men's lives. The tiny, 85-seat Trinity House Theatre has been made even more intimate by the building of several platforms that extend the stage, and provide space for the numerous monologues that allow the audience to share intimate moments with the various actors.

And inevitably, they will be drawn into the action as Arnold, Norman, Lucien, Barry and Jack share their thoughts, hopes and dreams.

"The point is not to make people thinkn 'aren't we fortunate?' but to establish these men as human, with family problems like anybody else," Gumina said.

Whistle Stop Players present 'Peach' of a story

The Whistle Stop Players are preparing to take an amazing adventure on a giant peach. The Plymouth Community Arts Council's children's theater group, under the direction of Jennifer Tobin, will present "James and the Giant Peach,' a fanciful tale about a boy and his insect friends, 7 p.m. Friday, April 11, 2 p.m. and 7 p.m. Saturday, April 12 and 2 p.m. Sunday, April 13 at the PCAC's Joanne Winkleman Hulce Center for the Arts, 744 North Sheldon Road in Plymouth.

Tickets are $4 in advance or $5 at the door, and available at the arts council office or by calling (313) 416-4278.

The cast is comprised of nearly 40 children between the ages of 5 and 15. The show runs 50 minutes. Schools, or other groups interested in a private performance can book the show to come to them or schedule a performance at the Plymouth Community Arts Council.

"It is a smaller cast than the Whistle Stop Players usually have," said Jennifer Tobin. "We are able to feature our best actors, now with three years of experience under their belts. It is amazing how good these kids have become. It is a tribute to hard work and experience."

The Whistle Stop Players will offer several six week classes this spring. Classes in acting and performance, actors workshop, and family acting workshop are available for ages five through adult. Cost for the six week course is $40.

The Whistle Stop Players are also taking limited registration for two sessions of a week-long performing arts camp in July and August. Cost is $100 and includes instruction, costumes and cast party.

"He (Cosby) wants a say from beginning to end, to the point where he'll dictate stories from inception. We're following his lead," said Belanoff.

Cosby began his career writing material for his own brilliant stand-up routines. Bergen, on the other hand, came to television as a noted film actress. She makes only nominal changes in a finished script.

"One thing is when you're writing for a star driven show, you want to know, for instance, where Murphy (Bergen's TV character) is in this," Belanoff said.

"The experience on a show like 'Cheers' or 'Wings' it's not are we serving Ted Danson or Tim Daley but everyone on the show. It's a different way to look at the story process."

The "story process" in television writing is a collaborative process that can be both stimulating and frustrating.

"On a show anywhere from six to 15 writers are working on a situation comedy. They kick ideas around as a group," Belanoff said.

One of the writers will then prepare an outline. This outline will then get kicked around and a first draft of the script will be prepared by the outline writer. A second draft is also written for group appraisal.

"When it hits the table, each writer has his say," Belanoff said. "Then it goes to the actors. It's a free-for-all after that."

The process can be frustrating for many reasons. Belanoff said there is a definite "pecking order" among the writers and that office politics often determine what remains in a script. Many ideas dear to a writer's heart get thrown away.

"You hope it's a meritocracy where people who have ideas have an equal say at the table," he said. "Many talented people have trouble working under this situation because of egos."

He described turning a draft over to the other writers as letting "a pack of jackals attack your ideas." He said this is why many writers prefer to write for movies where they have more time and a little more autonomy. But, he said, it's only in the rare independent project that a writer has complete control over a project.

Belanoff said another drawback to television writing is the long hours. He said during one stretch on "Cosby" the writers were working seven days a week.

"The joy of working in TV is that you see produced what you wrote in hours and it's aired in weeks," he said. "With film it could take months and years."

Belanoff suggests prospective TV writers prepare a spec script. He advises if you're interested in writing for "Seinfeld" that you do a "Wings" script to show what you can do without setting yourself up for critcism by those who actually write the series.

And, he adds, if it's good, it has a chance.

Legendary jazz singers Williams, Wilson at Orchestra Hall tonight

FRANK PROVENZANO
STAFF WRITER

In the days of graphic and inane lyrics – not to mention head-banging three-chord cathartic howls – a song might be the last place to expect subtlety. Silky jazz singers Joe Williams and Nancy Wilson prove, however, that emotional depth can be communicated sometimes by what isn't said.

In the tradition of bellowing Big Band balladeers and smokey-timbre jazz club crooners, the two legendary singers have proven on more than 100 albums and thousands of concerts that their unique phrasing communicates a heart-throbbing intimacy by the power of suggestion.

Williams and Wilson perform tonight at Orchestra Hall. For the baritone Williams, the concert brings him to one of his favorite venues in his 50-year career in which he's performed with jazz greats Coleman Hawkins, Lionel Hampton and Count Basie.

What: Nancy Wilson & Joe Williams In Concert
When: 8 p.m. Thursday, April 10.
Where: Orchestra Hall, 3711 Woodward Avenue, Detroit
Tickets: $12 to $36; box seats, $58. Call (313) 833-3700.

Outstanding vocalist: Nancy Wilson, often called a "singer's singer," will be performing with Joe Williams at Orchestra Hall.

"I love the lush sound of all the horns, strings and timpani. It really sends me soaring." said Williams, who lists among his most memorable performances concerts with the Cincinnati Symphony Orchestra, Boston Pops and the Detroit Symphony Orchestra.

The two jazz legends will perform individually, and are expected to share the stage for several duets in the Ameritech Jazz Series concert.

Together, Williams and Wilson represent the heritage of American jazz – and oddly, its future. Williams, in particular, personifies what can be called the Tony Bennett phenomenon. Bennett, who for years was merely recognized for the 1960s hit "I Left My Heart in San Francisco," was inexplicitly rediscovered by a generation born during the days of Disco. His duets with k.d. lang and "Unplugged" appearance on MTV led to a mainstream breakthrough unknown to crooners since the days of Sinatra and Nat King Cole.

Ironically, a more influential singer like Williams has been helped by Bennett's success. Although his 45 albums proved that he had a loyal audience all along.

Williams, long known for his flawless diction and clipped singing, is considered a jazz legend for his longevity, sophisticated style and early work with Basie. Their 1954 recording "Every Day I Have the Blues" was placed in the Recording Industry Hall of Fame in 1983.

Meanwhile, the huge success of female singers Whitney Houston, Sade and Anita Baker has helped the careers of ground-breaking singers stars such as Wilson. Baker, for one, has readily admitted that Wilson was a major influence.

The way Wilson stretches a note and rushes through a crescendo and dips to a decrescendo offers the best evidence of her sustaining influence on the new generation of singers. For her immense talent and dignified style, Wilson is often called a "singer's singer."

Her impressive 60-album career ranks with legendary singers Ella Fitzgerald, Peggy Lee, Dinah Washington and Sarah Vaughn. Her first hit, "Save Your Love For Me" with Cannonball Adderley, scored high on the Billboard charts in 1962. By the mid 1960s, Wilson was Capitol's second best-selling artist behind the Beatles.

Currently, Wilson records with Columbia. In 1991, she received a Grammy nomination for "With My Lover Beside Me," a collection of previously unpublished lyrics by the late Johnny Mercer with music by Barry Manilow.

Jazz legend: Joe Williams, long known for his flawless diction and clipped singing, will be performing with Nancy Wilson at Orchestra Hall.

In addition to a recording career, Wilson has appeared on several television series, including "The Cosby Show," Fox's "The Parent Hood," and in the 1993 Robert Townsend film, "The Meteor Man."

In the 1980s, Williams's popularity also grew steadily with regular performances on the "Tonight Show Starring Johnny Carson."

At what was once considered the twilight of their years, the careers of Williams, 78, and Wilson, 60, continue to soar. Today, their influence can be heard on such promising artists as Harry Conick, Jr. and Cassandra Wilson (no relation).

Yet perhaps Williams and Wilson's greatest contribution is affirming that talent can take you a long, long way.

'Lend Me a Tenor' cast receives laughs, applause

Theatre Guild presents "Lend Me A Tenor," 8 p.m. Friday, April 11-Saturday, April 12, and 2 p.m. Sunday, April 13, at the playhouse, 15138 Beech Daly, Redford. $10; $8 for seniors and students, (313) 531-0554

The cast of the Theatre Guild's "Lend Me a Tenor" received laughs and applause for their entertaining performances. They could have received even more, however, by taking greater chances with their characters to get the most out of the outrageous situations afforded by Ken Ludwig's riotous farce.

The play's highjinks are built around an improbably situation. A famous, bigger than life Italian opera star cannot perform for the Cleveland Opera Company. He is thought dead (but really is only zonked out on barbiturates). He is replaced by a nerdy little gofer, who can hardly carry a tune in the shower. In a stunning transformation, our impostor is a resounding success. Once started, the conspiracy becomes increasingly complicated as the real singer awakes from his stupor – and (with both dressed in their Otello costumes) mistaken identities lead to all sorts of fun, muddled misunderstandings and misconceptions.

Thom Hinks plays Saunders, the impresario of the opera company, with the broad visual and physical humor required of farce. Unfortunately, his fellow actors sometimes appear a bit lame by comparison, as if performing in a straight comedy. Too often, he somehow seems out of place, which tends to upset the comedic timing.

Douglas Dawson,with a commanding stage presence, does a fine job as Tito Merelli, the great opera star. One wishes he would take a clue from his nickname (Il Stupendo) and give us even more grandiose, sweeping gestures and the majestic mannerisms of a womanizing, conceited performer.

Tommy Bettis has his moments as Max, the would-be singer and impostor. In some ways, he appears too competent at times. As if he could really carry off the scheme. And his Otello needs to be more exaggerated to mimic the real thing and magnify the ridiculousness of the situation.

Karen Foran scores as Maggie, a young lady in love with opera (and its stars) but stuck with the likes of Max. Emily Haas as Diana has a funny scene seducing Tito. She has aspirations of making it to the Met, but the delicious disposition of a local diva were missing.

Carol Aubuchon looked perfect as Tito's long-suffering wife, Marie. One wishes she made a more bombastic entrance to make her fiery temper more believable. Constance Fox as Julia is a charming patron of the arts, who could be more of a shallow, dithering pest to the put upon Saunders. Thom Griffin rounds out the cast as a befuddled bellhop.

Director Troy Hughes added an interesting reprise as part of the curtain call. Although too long, it shows that the cast can perform with the energy, pacing, nonsense and gags sometimes missing in the play itself.

Livonia Artists Club presents art exhibit and sale

BY LINDA ANN CHOMIN
STAFF WRITER

The Livonia Artists Club will spotlight a variety of mediums at their 36th annual Art Exhibit & Sale April 12 and 13 in the atrium of the Livonia Civic Center Library, 32777 Five Mile Road east of Farmington.

Hours are 1-5 p.m. Saturday and Sunday.

The public is invited. Admission is free.

Henry Ford Community College art department chairperson Martin Anderson will judge the exhibit awarding Best of Show, First, Second and Third Place, Honorable Mentions, and the Grumbacher Award for Best Use of Color.

"I'm excited because the group has grown so over the years. We've been invited back again and again to do an art show in fall at Laurel Park Place because of the quality of work we do," said Yvette Goldberg, show co-chair with Ruth Ann Platt.

"Many of the artists will be there throughout the show in case people would like to know more about their work."

Al Weber and Eileen Bibby of Livonia will demonstrate watercolor techniques during the show, and Evelyn Henry of Redford, pastel.

Unframed works will be available for $20-$100. Framed works such as monotypes, collage, oil, and watercolor, will range from $90 to $300.

For more information about the exhibit or the Livonia Artists Club call Yvette Goldberg at (810) 476-2313 or Marge Masek at (313) 464-6772.

Also of note:

■ Madonna University celebrates families with a concert featuring recording artist Geri Green noon, Saturday, April 12 in Kresge Hall, 36600 Schoolcraft Road at Levan in Livonia. Tickets are $1 per person and available at the door. Seating is limited, call (313) 953-5437.

Green provides a musical enrichment program for the young child. Her musical performance of vocals, guitar, and puppetry is both educational and entertaining.

■ The Ann Arbor Digital Music Ensemble will perform 7:30 p.m. Friday, April 11 in the Forum Building at Schoolcraft College, 18600 Haggerty Road in Livonia. Admission is free.

Comprised of Ann Arbor-based musicians, the ensemble plays everything from the 13th to 20th century music on digital keyboards, wind and percussion instruments.

Cusack's 'Grosse Pointe Blank' never hits its mark

TICKETS PLEASE

JOHN MONAGHAN

"True Romance." "RoboCop." "Beverly Hills Cop." Even a character-driven drama like "Scarecrow." When Detroit lands on film, it's usually the end of the line, the last place in the world you'd want to find yourself for longer than an airport layover. So how does Detroit's most famous suburb fare in the new movie, "Grosse Pointe Blank?" Not well at all.

While the aptly-titled black comedy doesn't mine the usual pink-and-green preppy jokes, it also fails to treat the Pointes as the potentially unique locale that it truly is. The movie could take place in Des Moines, if it wasn't for all those shots of Lake St. Clair. John Cusack plays a hit man en route to his 10-year reunion from Pointes High, where he left without a trace on prom night and hasn't been seen since. Mixing a little business with pleasure, he also has a contract to rub someone out. He arrives to discover that his family house has since been replaced by a convenience store. He visits his mother (Barbara Harris) in a nursing home, an embarassingly drawn out exchange in which she drifts between barely recognizing and flirting with him.

It gets even more awkward when he stops in on his old girlfriend (Minnie Driver) at her radio disc jockey job. She insists that they hash out their personal problems on the air, how he stood her up on prom night 10 years ago and how he now expects them to just pick up where they left off. Of course they do, which is where "Grosse Pointe Blank" really starts to fall apart. While Cusack, wearing a black suit reminiscent of his great work in "The Grifters," is extremely watchable, Driver needs more direction. For all the time spent talking about the past, you never get any sense what these two were really like in high school.

Let's give former Detroiter Tom Jankiewicz the benefit of the doubt, since his script, according to promotional materials, was "immediately optioned and tailored to Cusack's specifications." Cusack, one of four writers who had a hand in the rewrite, was originally supposed to direct. The reins were instead were handed to George Armitage, a veteran writer/director whose previous films "Hit Man" and the recent "Miami Blues" should have made him the right man for the job.

When the production company, Caravan Pictures, couldn't secure the rights to shoot in the Pointes, they created a surprisingly realistic replica near Los Angeles. The only time you really see the area is in a few establishing shots of the Ambassador Bridge and birds' eye views of a black car driving along the lake shore.Whatever Hollywood hubris you can blame him for, Cusack holds together what little there is of "Grosse Pointe Blank." There are nice moments between him and a talented stable of character actors, among them his sister Joan as the loyal secretary he constantly communicates with on his cel phone.

Dan Aykroyd also brings a sort of manic charm to his work as a rival hit man. In one of the movie's few funny scenes, the two meet in a diner and cautiously keep each other covered throughout the conversation.They also engage in a blazing shootout as the two face off on opposite sides of a kitchen counter. Armitage's action scenes are the best executed things in the movie, owing plenty to the "million bullets" philosophy of Hong Kong action epics.The movie's soundtrack samples alternative music of a decade ago. "Walk Like an Egyptian," "99 Luftballons," and "Blister in the Sun" overpower the fine incidental music score by former Clash member Joe Strummer, giving it, appropriately I suppose for the Class of 1986, the feel of MTV. Like its CIA-trained main character, "Grosse Pointe Blank" goes wrong despite its smartness. It has all the right elements of a solid film, but never quite hits its mark.

Edgy comedy:

Birmingham's Burros get mileage out of film play

CHRISTINA FUOCO

The Detroit area may not have been the primary filming locale for John Cusack's latest movie "Grosse Pointe Blank." But the Birmingham-based roots rock band The Burros will get its share of mileage out of the movie.

The band's song "Little Luxuries," from its debut album "Homestead" (Schoolkids Records), plays in the background as Cusack (Martin Blank) and co-star Minnie Driver (Debi) leave a bar.

"I like that song," Cusack said during a recent interview at The Ritz-Carlton hotel in Dearborn. "I was looking for very cool songs. We had so many great old '80s songs that we wanted some cool, young new bands as well."

John Harvey, who along with Bob Pereira make up The Burros, got the chance to meet Cusack during his visit to Detroit on Monday, March 31. Later that day Harvey attended an advance screening of "Grosse Pointe Blank" at the Main Art Theater in Royal Oak.

"He was very cool and it was good to meet him. He's a good guy. He's as genuine as he was on screen," said Harvey during a recent interview at the Muddy Waters Coffeehouse in Berkley.

"That's what made Monday such a strange experience. I meet Cusack and then I'm taking all my family and friends to the show. Then you see a guy up on the screen that you met two hours ago. Then you hear your music and then you see your name roll at the end. It was so personal it was surreal. Watching the credits was more exciting than actually hearing the song."

Big screen debut: The Burros – guitarists/vocalists Bob Pereira and John Harvey of Birmingham – contributed the song "Little Luxuries" to the film "Grosse Pointe Blank." It is heard as stars John Cusack and Minnie Driver leave a bar.

"Little Luxuries" found its way to the film through an acquaintance of Harvey's who served as an editor for "Grosse Pointe Blank." Harvey, who was vague about the connection, hopes that this leads to other opportunities for The Burros.

"We met a lot of different people at the production company and film companies. Hopefully we can do an encore this next year and we'll be able to get the soundtrack too. It's wonderful to get the score of this movie, but the soundtrack would be the next thing. All the buttons we left unpushed this time, we'll push next time."

The soundtrack to "Grosse Pointe Blank" (London Records) features the retro songs that appear in the movie – "Blister in the Sun" by the Violent Femmes, "I Can See Clearly Now" by Johnny Nash, "Mirror in the Bathroom" by The English Beat, among others.

Harvey and Pereira are getting ready to return to the recording studio to work on their sophomore effort with bandmates drummer Brad Fairman, bassist Pete Lewton, and mandolin/violinist Ron Ellman.

"I've got four or five tunes done right now. Bob's got another four or five. We've started into preproduction in the studio. We're trying to lay down some basic tracks to try to get a feel for how the songs are going."

The Burros will begin a regular run at Rumors, 112 S. Main St., in Royal Oak in May. For more information, call (810) 546-0606. The band's album "Homestead" is available at Repeat The Beat in Royal Oak, and Schoolkids Records in Ann Arbor.

• It's amazing the things that men will do to get the attention of a beautiful woman. Crispian Mills, lead singer of the mystical Brit pop band Kula Shaker, has been a strong believer in Indian philosophies since he was 10 but two years later he narrowed in on an aspect of it to impress a girl.

"I came across that philosophy and some of the concepts when I was about 10 or 11. I became a vegetarian when I was 12 – not out of choice, initially. I met a really beautiful girl who was a vegetarian. I didn't want to be uncool," he said with a laugh.

Mills's Indian influences can be found on Kula Shaker's album "K" (Columbia), a blend of '60s psychedelic rock, Charlatans U.K.-style Hammond organs, Sanskrit lyrics, sitars, and tabla drums. It's a logical progression from Mills's life-changing experiences in India. Mills explained that he had graduated from college in 1991 and was suffering from depression so he traveled to India in 1993 to "see what's happening out there."

"I said, 'I'm going to go to all the places I read about.' When I came back I was a little bit more hip to the scene and I understood it a little bit more. That was in 1993 and I've been back three or four times," said Mills calling from his home in England.

"I've always been interested in old legends, you know, whether it was Indian or King Arthur or Druids, or European mysticism. When I was 16 I got into some of the mysticism in pop music like Jim Morrison and the Beatles. Going to India was a natural thing for me. It always interested me more and more and I kind of advocate some of those philosophy."

"K" is Kula Shaker's debut album. Mills said he was "really nervous" about recording "K."

"I'm really ambitious and I couldn't wait to do the album. It's a really colorful album. There's lots of diversity on it. We were kind of nervous working with (famed producer) John Leckie. It took awhile to get confident, but I found that 'K' was really a learning experience."

Since the release of "K" and the popularity of the first single "Tattva," Mills said "we've been really lucky."

"The main thing is that when we first came over and 'Tattva' was on the radio, it was a luxury to travel all the way to the states and see people at the concert. The good thing is that it's growing really nicely. It's growing gradually. It's not some big hype, pop trash. I want to be around for more than 10 minutes and make more than one album."

Kula Shaker performs Friday, April 11, at St. Andrew's Hall, 431 E. Congress, Detroit. Tickets are $4.89 for the all-ages show. Doors open at 6:30 p.m. For more information, call (313) 961-MELT.

Festival showcases variety of Israeli films at Maple

The Israeli Film Festival, continues Saturday and Sunday, April 12-13 at the Maple Theater. Tickets $7 per show, available in advance, or at the door, call (810) 258-9270.

Here's the schedule:

Saturday, April 12

■ 10 p.m. – "Lovesick on Nana Street" (1995) – Funny and bizarre love story about a romantic dreamer who wants to win the girl of his dreams, a beautiful actress who isn't at all interested.

Sunday, April 13

■ 2 p.m. – "The Summer of Aviya" (1988, for mature audiences) – Aviya is a 10-year-old girl yearning for normal childhood in newly independent Israel. But life is painful and confusing. Her mother is a holocaust survivor. Without friends, and surrounded by uncertainty, Aviya finds hope in music.

■ 4 p.m. – "Under the Domin Tree" (1995, for mature audiences) – Sequel to "Summer of Aviya" finds Aviya now 15, in a youth village with other teenage death camp survivors and war orphans. Based on Gila Almagor's autobiography.

■ 6 p.m. – "White Night" (1996) – Brutally realistic film, the true story of good and evil. Filmed in Israel's highest security prison, it depicts a prisoner's critical discovery of courage and faith. A Cannes award-winner.

■ 8 p.m. – "An Imagined Autobiography" (1996) – Making a film about her own life, young movie director Aya instructs actors who portray her mentally ill mother, her taciturn father, and herself as a troubled adolescent. For Aya, the process reveals new meanings to life.

"The Graduate" (USA -1967). April 11- 13 (call for show times). Celebrating its 30th anniversary, Mike Nichols' dark comedy looks only better with age. Dustin Hoffman plays the college grad, worried about his future, who ends up in an affair with a family friend, the legendary Mrs. Robinson (Anne Bancroft). A treat in wide screen.

"Man With a Plan" (USA - 1996). 7 p.m. April 14. A goofy "mockumentary" about a 73-year-old Vermont farmer who decides to run for Congress. Director John O'Brien will be on hand to discuss the film after the night's screening.

Magic Bag Theatre 22920 Woodward, Ferndale. Call (810) 544-3030 for information.

"Man Bites Dog" (Belgium - 1991). Starting at 9 p.m. April 15. A group of filmmakers follow and document the activities of a serial killer, becoming obsessed, implicated, and eventually involved in his crimes. Preceded by a short film from director Benoit Poelvoorde, "No C-4 Pour Daniel-Daniel." Shown on big screen video. (Free)

"Beverly Hills Ninja" (USA - 1997). 9:30 p.m. April 16. The mere thought of Chris Farley showing his talents as a martial artist is probably the funniest thing about this recent slapstick comedy. ($2)

Main Art Theatre 118 N. Main Street at 11 Mile, Royal Oak. Films play through at least Thursday, unless noted otherwise. Call (810) 542-0180 for information and show times. ($6.50; $4 students, seniors and matinee; $3 twilight)

"Waiting for Guffman" (USA - 1997). Christopher Guest, best known as a founding member of the fake rock group Spinal Tap, creates his own mock documentary about a small town in Missouri staging a sesquicentennial pageant. Guest co-wrote and directed the low-budget film, and even stars as Corky St. Clair, the high school drama teacher who helms the show with hilarious results.

"Smilla's Sense of Snow" (USA - 1997). Julia Ormond and Gabriel Byrne star in this contemporary thriller about the investigation surrounding a young boy's mysterious death.

VAN REDIN/COLUMBIA PICTURES

Adventure: Jennifer Lopez and Ice Cube star in "Anaconda"

"The Godfather" (USA - 1972). The success of the "Star Wars" rereleases has all the studios looking in the attics. Francis Coppola's seems like a good place to start, the still-influential gangster epic that gave Marlon Brando his greatest role as Don Corleone and launched the career of Al Pacino.

"Chasing Amy" (USA - 1997). The third film from Kevin Smith, independent director of "Clerks," about a comic book artist who falls in love with a woman only to find out that she's gay. Better than his sophomore effort, "Mallrats," the movie tries to make a poignant statement about modern relationships.

Couple brings a taste of Chicago to Livonia

BY KEELY WYGONIK
STAFF WRITER

Husband and wife John and Sylvia Jakupi moved from Chicago to Detroit to be closer to family, but miss the Windy City, especially the food.

"We felt there was a need for a place that offered unique items – Chicago hot dogs, and beef sandwiches," explained John. "We wanted to give a taste of Chicago to the metro Detroit area," added Sylvia.

The couple's Windy City Cafe was just an idea for the longest time. Then, in October, John, who studied to be an architect, and worked as a designer, and Sylvia, director of a day care center in Canton, put their careers on hold to follow their dream.

"We'd thought about it, and talked about it, and this opportunity came along," said Sylvia. "We franchise part of the business to Toarmina's Pizza – we're two restaurants in one."

The restaurant, only seats about 26-30, but the kitchen is huge. Windy City is a popular lunch spot, and after work destination for people with little time to cook. The menu includes a variety of fresh salads including Greek, Antipasto, and Chicken Caesar. There are five hot dog choices including Chicago Style hot dog – all beef hot dog, mustard, relish, chopped onions, sliced tomato, fresh cucumber, kosher pickles and hot peppers piled on a steamy poppy seed bun, Polish Sausage Dog and Coney Dog.

Taste of Chicago: Husband and wife John and Sylvia Jakupi of Windy City Cafe share one of their famous Chicago-style sandwiches.

If you're from Chicago, you'll recognize the Beef Sandwiches – thinly sliced beef cooked in beef juice, served on French bread, topped with choice of sweet or hot peppers.

Grinders, known around here as sub sandwiches, are made fresh on French bread and then baked warm. The Classic City Grinder is ham, salami, pepperoni, mozzarella cheese, lettuce, tomatoes, onions, black olives, spices and dressing. There's also a turkey, ham, veggie, pizza, Italian sausage, grilled chicken, steak, breaded chicken, and tuna grinder.

Windy City also operates one of 18 metro locations of Toarmina's pizza. Their 24-inch pizza is ideal for large parties. Choices also include mostaccioli and lasagna.

"We have a lot to please a lot of people," said Sylvia. Two homemade soups are offered daily including bean and ham, chicken noodle, and cream of potato.

"We're successful, even though we don't have a lot of food background because we use quality ingredients," said John. "We cook our own chicken for salads and sandwiches, and use a top line of meat. Our hot dogs are all beef Vienna."

Everything on the menu can be ordered for parties, and their are other items too, such as vegetable trays, cold cut trays, barbecue and regular chicken.

"We're flexible, you can dine in, dine out, or order from work. We deliver to offices and factories within a two mile radius of the restaurant," said John.

Another ingredient of the couple's success is their willingness to listen and respond to customers. They added four varieties of grinders based on customer demand. "We're a customer driven restaurant, and pay attention to what they want," said John.

Check the menu board for specials such as spaghetti. During Lent they offered fish and chips. Salads, which can be ordered in two sizes large and small, and sandwiches range from $1.80 to $4.25. Mostaccioli served with cheese bread is $4.99, and lasagna, $5.49. Pizza ranges from $5.79 for a small with cheese one item to $18.39 for a 24-inch with cheese and three items. Flavored coffees and dessert are available for purchase.

Cleaning up: Do you know what to do in the aftermath of a storm that damages your property?

BY DOUG FUNKE
STAFF WRITER

Winds send a tree limb crashing through the roof. The power goes out. Water starts filling the basement. What are you going to do?

While there's no good time to experience the fallout of Mother Nature's fury, a clear head and a little planning can get you a leg up on the cleanup and recovery of damages.

"Safety is the most important thing in any situation. That's what we want our customers to remember," said Mary Kay Bean, spokeswoman for Detroit Edison.

Stay away from downed power lines, even if they're not sparking.

Also, keep out of flooded basements if appliances with motors that occasionally kick on – refrigerators, freezers, dehumidifiers and furnaces – are plugged in down there.

"Contain damage," advised John Hale Sr., president of EJH Construction in Redford, which responds to houses-in-trouble calls.

"Get the emergency part done, not necessarily final repairs," he said. "Insurance companies want the emergency contained. We can remove limbs from the house and tarp the roof to prevent water from coming in."

Firms like EJH can be found in telephone advertising directories under the headings of board-ups and glass companies, Hale said.

If rainwater or snow is dripping into overhead light fixtures , remove the fuse or shut off the circuit breaker for that particular problem room at the main panel, Hale said.

But don't touch the main panel if it's wet and stay out of flooded basements.

Some folks use portable generators for auxiliary power in emergencies.

"Be sure to find out exactly what you're doing so you don't hurt yourself or someone else," Hale said. "Generators should be outside and away from the house."

If everyone on the block has water in the basement due to a torrential rain, a sewer service won't do any good, said Jerry Neal Cockrell, owner of GJ Sewer Repair and Cleaning in Redford.

Either the municipality will have to deal with a blockage somewhere down a major line and/or the water will have to recede on its own.

If it's just your basement, the problem probably is tree roots that can be cleared by a professional.

It's up to the homeowner – not the insurance company – to document damages, said Allen Gross, a public insurance adjuster in Southfield.

"Make sure they (homeowners) really look everything over to determine the extent of damage," Gross said.

"It may be more than they realize. Test all appliances. Check all switches. If something's not working, get some estimates what it's going to cost to get fixed," he said.

Here are other things to do when disaster strikes :

- After losing power, unplug or turn off all appliances including computers, refrigerators, microwaves, televisions and VCRs to prevent an electrical overload and damages when the juice returns.
- Better to unplug than just turn off, Bean said.
- Keep refrigerator and freezer doors closed. A closed refrigerator will stay cold for 24 hours, while a well-filled freezer will preserve food for two to three days.
- Take pictures and videos to support insurance claims.
- Casualty losses may be tax deductible. Check with a tax expert.

And things to do before the next emergency occurs:

- Clean gutters, install downspout extenders and make sure the grade slopes away from the house by adding topsoil, if necessary.
- Periodically have the storm trap and sanitary sewer line in the basement cleaned to whittle away blockages.
- If your house is serviced by wells and septic systems, keep a couple gallons of water in the refrigerator/freezer for emergency use.
- Review your homeowners insurance policy.

Know that flooding damage isn't covered by most policies. Double check value of contents coverage. Some policies cover sewer back-ups when power outages knock out sump pumps, others don't. What's your deductible, your share of financial damages, per incident?

MORTGAGE SHOPPING

DAVID C. MULLY

The mortgage industry is constantly evolving products to help make home-buying easier for everyone. One example is Rock Financial's new PMI Buster program, which eliminates the requirement of private mortgage insurance for home buyers making a 20-percent down payment on a new home.

"The PMI Buster program has many advantages for home buyers," said Lindsay Gross, executive vice president or Rock Financial. "Not only is the burden of high monthly PMI payments eliminated with the PMI Buster program, but home buyers will also benefit from higher tax deductions."

The PMI Buster program packages a first and second mortgage together into one transaction, allowing the home buyer to achieve a 75-percent loan-to-value ratio on their first mortgage, thereby eliminating the requirement of PMI, which is usually required for down payments of less that 20 percent of the value of the home. Look for other lenders to offer similar packages soon.

This creative home-financing product can be tailored to meet a home buyer's specific needs. For example, if the amount of a home buyer's monthly payment is a concern, the PMI Buster program can offer significant monthly savings. If the amount of the monthly payment is NOT the primary concern, the PMI Buster can also be structured to increase a home buyer's equity position at a faster pace than traditional mortgage products. It can also produce both benefits simultaneously – it's all up to the homeowner and his financial goals or preferences.

Additional tax deductions are an added benefit as well, PMI payments are not tax deductible, while mortgage interest is fully deductible. By not paying PMI, more of your monthly payment will go toward principle and interest.

If you are at the other end of the home-buying spectrum and are interested in getting equity out of your home, a new program to help elderly homeowners find reputable reverse mortgage lenders and counselors has been launched by the National Center for Home equity Conversion. As I discussed in my March 6 article, reverse mortgages convert home equity into

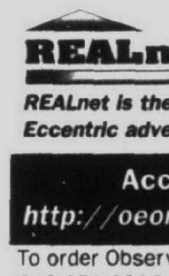
REAL ESTATE QUERIES



ROBERT M. MEISNER

Q. I have my house listed with a real estate agent who is very cooperative, but I am appalled with the lack of courtesy that I am receiving from agents who are showing my home.

On four or five occasions, I have been advised by the office of my listing agent that someone was going to come to the home, sometimes at inconvenient hours.

In a effort to sell my home, I accommodated them, only to find out that they did not show for the appointment and didn't even have the courtesy of calling me or the real estate agent. Is this a common phenomenon and if so, what can be done about it?

A. I, too, have heard from other persons who have complained about what would appear to be a lack of professionalism, courtesy and respect on the part of a number of real estate agents in this community as it relates to the showing of homes.

While I am sure that the discourteous ones are in the distinct minority, unfortunately, they are the ones that cast aspersions on the entire real estate profession as a whole.

I would suggest that you ask your real estate agent to notify the broker of the office of the person who made an appointment with you that was not kept and not properly canceled and, if necessary, file a complaint with the real estate board concerning this discourteous and unprofessional conduct.

Perhaps if more people bring their frustrations to the attention of the appropriate authorities, this practice will cease.

Does a stadium makes economic sense?

We went through the exercise. So have other communities. The question: Are new sports stadiums/arenas good for an area economy?

"So many variables have to come together for the project to benefit the public as well as the franchise," said Robert L. Dunn, research associate and project administrator at the University of Michigan Sports Facilities Research Laboratory.

"A stadium is just one piece of the total community revitalization or identity process," said Dunn, a doctoral student in urban, technological and environmental planning.

"Municipalities should make stadium decisions based on how the stadium will affect quality of life in the community and community identity, but they must also judge a stadium's capacity to lure new business to locate within the community," he said.

Are the public/private ratios of responsibility for construction costs and infrastructure costs reasonable?

Will a new stadium really generate jobs or will it just transfer existing jobs from the older stadium?

"Keep in mind that most of the jobs associated with the facility will be low paying, part-time positions," he said.

Will the stadium increase revenues for surrounding restaurants and shops or will the stadium with its own eating and retail facilities compete with the neighborhood?

If a new stadium is publicly owned, will tax revenue generated from the franchise, surrounding businesses and other sources cover project costs?

How much faith should be put in the spin-off effect, which assumes each dollar expended on the stadium will generate so many dollars annually to the franchise and surrounding businesses?

What, if any, other civic improvement projects won't be funded due to tax dollars going to a stadium?

"Policy-makers and media should examine economic impact studies assembled by stadium advocates with a close eye," Dunn said. "Show me the money should be their motto."

cash with no repayment for as long as borrowers live in their homes.

"Scams and rip-offs are beginning to appear in this market," says center director Ken Scholen. "But now we have a way to recognize lenders and counselors who pledge to uphold strict ethical standards." The center is an independent nonprofit organization that has specialized in consumer information and analysis on reverse mortgages since 1981.

To qualify as "preferred," lenders and counselors must agree to a code of conduct and give a copy of the code to each customer upon initial contact. The code requires them to present all homeowner options, including a range of reverse mortgage choices and a variety of alternatives to reverse mortgages.

The options and alternatives are presented as an individually customized 13-page report titled "Personal Reverse Mortgage Analysis." It provides detailed, objective, side-by-side comparisons of the benefits, total costs and leftover equity for up to 12 reverse mortgage choices.

"Seeing all your options is critically important," says Scholen, "because no single reverse mortgage works best for everyone. One plan may give you tens of thousands of dollars more at a much lower cost than another plan. But for a different consumer, the other plan might be a much better deal. It all depends on your age, home value and location, and current interest rates."

The code of conduct also requires the protection of consumer confidentiality with a pledge not to give consumer names to any outside party without specific prior written permission. In addition, preferred lenders must agree to reject referrals based on deceptive, misleading or fraudulent practices. Preferred counselors must agree not to steer customers to any specific lender or mortgage and to disclose any fees they may charge or be paid.

For a current state-by-state list of NCHEC preferred reverse mortgage lenders and counselors, send $1 and a self-addressed, stamped business-size envelope to NCHEC Preferred, Room 115, 7373 147th Street, Apple Valley MN 44124. Or call me (1-800-405-3051) and I'll help refer you to a lender I'm comfortable with.

David Mully has been researching mortgage lenders for more than 10 years. He shares his most recent findings every week in this column. Any feedback from homeowners about their experiences with mortgage lenders is welcome. Readers may contact him at 1-800-405-3051 or fax him at 810-380-0603. Jamey Kramer's REAL ESTATE FACTS

...The "Original" Real Estate Column

Time Is Money!

How long does it take to sell a home? As a property owner planning to sell, you'll need the answer to that question. Fortunately, the answer is readily available-from your sales agent.

Have you ever noticed that a stock prospectus states that future stock values cannot be predicted? The prospectus then goes on to outline the historical increases in the stock's value. In other words, while history cannot guarantee the future outcome, it's value is nevertheless significant.

How can the sale time of a home be predicted? Again, historical data is the most likely source. Ask your agent to provide the sale time of all homes which have sold in your area over the past year. The numbers are readily available from the agent's local Multiple Listing Service records.

Before beginning an analysis of the sale times provided, throw out the longest and shortest sales times. Next, average the rest.

The result will give you a "ballpark" historical summary of recent sale times. From this figure, it is possible to predict with some accuracy the time it will take to sell your home.

Are there any other factors which may affect the projected sale time? Definitely. The condition of your home can either make or break your predicted sale time. Offer your home in peak condition and buyers may compete to own it. Offer it without needed repairs and improvements, and it may be totally ignored.

The best advice for selling in a reasonable length of time is to price it fairly, offer it in top condition, and consider each offer carefully. The marketing plan implemented by your agent will further insure an early sale.

Industrial leasing strong

Metro Detroit's industrial real estate leasing activity remained surprisingly strong in the first quarter of 1997 in a market with few quality availabilities, according to Cushman & Wakefield's First Quarter Industrial Summary.

Lack of space put the squeeze on firms with space requirements, forcing them to search early, explore every option and pay at or near asking price with no landlord concessions.

Overall, lease rates were up 8 percent compared to first quarter 1996.

Leasing activity in the first quarter reached 2.2 million square feet, a slight increase from 1996's first quarter. Strong demand for warehouse and distribution space has been the driving factor, accounting for 62 percent of activity.

"The auto industry's increased demand for warehouse and distribution space and high-tech facilities continues to stretch availabilities to the limit while spurring new construction," said Jeff Shell, senior managing director at Cushman & Wakefield.

The summary showed that square footage under construction jumped 80 percent to just over 3 million square feet.

"Until recently, most speculative construction was in the small- to medium-size range, leaving large space needs unmet, which increased build-to-suit construction," Shell said.

In response to heavy demand, three major speculative warehouse/distribution projects are under construction.

In Brownstown, Ashley Capital is building the 495,000-square-foot Brownstown Business Center III. Livonia is the site of First Industrial's two-building project totaling over 250,000 square feet.

Stuart Frankel is building Oakland Park, a project totaling 141,000 square feet at the former Chrysler Corp. headquarters in Highland Park.

"The rush on leasing and lack of quality available space have pushed lease rates up across the board, with overall rates up 8 percent compared to first quarter 1996 results," said Shell.

Warehouse and distribution accounted for the biggest jump with an increase of 15 percent, followed by high-tech rates, which were up 10 percent.

"Landlords get asking price because there just isn't any place else to go," Shell said.

Southern Wayne County witnessed the largest overall lease rate increase of any submarket.

Heavy demand for warehouse and distribution space, especially near expanding Metro Airport, pushed overall lease rates up 18 percent over the same quarter last year.

"The first quarter showed tremendous strength for industrial real estate," said Shell. "But demand still outweighs supply of quality availabilities, and it remains to be seen if activity can continue at this pace without added inventory."

Cushman & Wakefield is an international real estate services firm with 1,900 employees in 42 U.S. offices including Southfield.

Tips make home ownership a reality

A recent survey released by Fannie Mae, the nation's largest purchaser of residential mortgage loans, found that three in five Americans believe this is a good time to buy a home.

Even with this increased optimism, the prospect of buying a home may still seem overwhelming for many first time purchasers.

Scott Van Dellen, director of affordable lending for the nation's largest independent mortgage lender and servicer, Countrywide Home Loans, Inc., recommends a few simple steps to help bring you closer to buying a home.

• Get prequalified – Pre-qualification assesses an applicant's ability to purchase a home, telling you exactly what you can afford. Countrywide offers free prequalification through its House America Counseling Center, an educational public service which recommends personalized plans to help you qualify for a home loan.

• Investigate affordable lending programs – Check out affordable lending programs such as Countrywide's House America, which requires as little as a three percent downpayment, as well as more flexibility in areas such as debt ratios, credit and employment history.

• Examine your credit record – It's a good idea to review your credit report with a mortgage lender before considering purchasing a home, especially if you have had any credit problems in the past.

Countrywide's Counseling Center offers a free credit repair manual, "Your Credit and You," which can help you resolve credit issues that may be preventing you from obtaining a home loan.

Carbon monoxide detector standards tightened

An increasing number of false alarms triggered by household carbon monoxide detectors have imposed significant burdens on emergency response personnel in recent years. In most (90 percent) of the carbon monoxide calls reported to utilities and fire departments in 1995 and 1996, no carbon monoxide or levels too low to affect the average person were found, according to the American Gas Association (A.G.A.) and the Gas Research Institute, which conducted the study.

So the A.G.A. Laboratories has tightened its standards for testing and certifying new carbon monoxide detectors. Now these devices must meet several new requirements.

New IAS-certified carbon monoxide (CO) alarms will not sound if the level of CO detected is only at a "nuisance" level, which can be caused by a car starting up in an attached garage or by elevated outdoor levels of CO.

Instructions will clearly tell consumers who hear an alarm to evacuate the premises and call an emergency response unit.

SENIORS

HOW TO DECIDE WHEN TO SELL

by...
NANCY AUSTIN

I am a Senior Citizen. My father who is 90, says he is not. He says he has entered the "Age of Wisdom". In his wisdom, he has decided to remain in his home. He cooks, cleans, gardens, drives, visits and has me for dinner once a week. He is also updating his house for when the day comes that his wise decision is to sell. I have been his gentle guide, because, not only am I his daughter, but I am a Realtor. In honor of my father's wisdom, I have decided to help Seniors by making available a Free Report which answers your questions: How to Decide When To Sell. Enter the age of wisdom now, and send for your Free Report.
