Oyster Bar headed for downtown

BY KEVIN BROWN
STAFF WRITER

It's been a while coming, but work on a new Tom's Oyster Bar in downtown Plymouth could begin this year, one city official is saying.

"We're assuming the project could get started in the next six to eight months," said Downtown Development Director Steve Guile on Tuesday.

On Monday, city commissioners OKed the setting of public hearings on restaurant owner Thomas Brandel's application for a class C liquor license.

The hearings were scheduled for 7:30 p.m. today before the Downtown Development Authority and 7:30 p.m. Thursday, May 15, before the Plymouth City Commission. Both meetings will be at Plymouth City Hall, 201 S. Main.

"As you know, I have been interested in opening a restaurant in Plymouth for several years," Brandel wrote in an April 30 letter to Guile.

"In furtherance of that goal, I purchased a building in 1995 for a restaurant but have been

Danny's Markets struggle

Could downtown Plymouth's last supermarket be on its way out?

Stepped-up competition has cut into sales, and Danny's Markets Inc. has filed for Chapter 11 bankruptcy protection in federal bankruptcy court.

But a company spokesman said Danny's, which has a store on Main Street in Plymouth, will survive.

Arnold Schafer, a Bloomfield Hills attorney representing the 10-store chain with 268 employees, said no layoffs are planned.

Students feted for 'turning around'

"The man swimming against the current knows the strength of it."

West Middle School principal Judith Stone was reminded of President Woodrow Wilson's words as she introduced one of the 29 students honored at the Plymouth-Canton Community Turnaround Achievement Awards at the Summit on the Park Tuesday afternoon in Canton.

The second annual luncheon - attended by school officials including Superintendent Charles Little and school board president Mark Horvath - recognized elementary, middle and high school students for their "effort, perseverance and commitment in making significant improvements in the academic and/or behavioral aspects of their lives," said Betty Bloch, coordinator of Plymouth-Canton's Community Business-Education partnership.

A packed banquet room heard tales of students conquering academic challenges, cultural difficulties, drug and alcohol problems, and personal loss.

Clint Smiley, assistant principal at Lowell Middle School, honored Andrew Murphy, "a frequent visitor to my office" before he changed his attitude, behavior and academic performance.

"In seventh- and eighth-grades, he was disrespectful, argumentative and not doing his job," said Smiley. "Getting involved with the sport of basketball changed his attitude.

Your newspaper today includes a special section devoted to the 1997 Observer Academic All-Star Team. A group of area high school principals met in March to tabulate the winners based on their test scores and grade point averages.

Students named

Here is an introduction to students who have worked for years to reach this point. Chosen from nominees from local public and private high schools, this year's team includes: Angkana Roy of Plymouth Canton High School, Brian Decker of Plymouth Salem High School, Christopher Parrott of Detroit Catholic Central in Redford Township, Michael Nye of Livonia Churchill, Abhik Shah of North Farmington, Stephen Smith of John Glenn, Brian Godfrey of Plymouth Canton, Ryan Schrieber of Detroit Catholic Central, Jennifer Yen of North Farmington, Brooke Kilyanek of Livonia Churchill, Hillary Whitcomb of Livonia Stevenson, Allison Jones of Mercy, Jerico Collins of Redford Thurston, William Chapin of Plymouth Salem, Anne Aristeo of Livonia Stevenson, Jennifer Lyons of John Glenn, Andrea Platt of Farmington Harrison and Jenny McDevitt of Mercy.

Roy, a Plymouth resident, plans to major in English and biology at the University of Michigan. Her career choice is pediatric medicine.

Roy says her parents brought her up to work hard in school. "They instilled the work ethic in me," she said.

Roy, who is co-president of the Key Club and vice president of the National Honor Society and Student Council at Plymouth Canton, says extracurricular activities have given her a broader perspective. For example, the work she has done with the Key Club to help other people is "really rewarding." Extracurricular activities get students involved in activities they wouldn't normally be involved in if they just went to school, she said.

Larceny reported

The 57-year-old owner of Andy's Hallmark reported that numerous items were stolen from her store at 550 Forest. The theft took place between 10:30 a.m.-1 p.m. April 30.

Missing are bath oils ($45); six quartz clocks ($316); three Quita paperweights ($90); 14 Dynasty paperweights ($176); three Books of Love ($94); two ornamental teapots ($30); six angel figurines ($54); one Cast Art Limited Edition ($27); two model decorative buildings ($118); two ceramic figurines ($29); and six Kiddie Car classics ($284).

The merchandise was displayed on open shelves. All items are small in size and could have been concealed in a small shopping bag, the owner said.

There are no known suspects. No employee noticed any customers acting in a suspicious manner.

Property found

While doing building checks at 2:45 a.m. May 1, Plymouth police found a $50 Konica copy machine on the back porch at 199 N. Main.

The building, which was locked, is shared by several businesses. Officers took the white/tan copier to the station where it was tagged and stored in the police garage.

Plymouth street repairs to start

BY KEVIN BROWN
STAFF WRITER

■ The street work on Ann Arbor Trail is to be scheduled so as not to disrupt the annual Art in the Park event.

A $2.08 million contract to repair city streets detailed in the 1997 Street Program was awarded by Plymouth city commissioners Monday to low bidder the Angelo Iafrate Construction Co.

This will be the first year in a 10-year street repair program for which city voters approved a bond sale in November. A second 10-year program will follow.

Work this year is to be performed on:

■Ann Arbor Trail from Deer east to the city limit, to be finished by July 10.

■Elizabeth from Ann Arbor Trail to Roe, to be finished by July 10.

■Farmer from Sheldon to Mill, to be finished by Sept. 30.

■Garling and Parkview, to be finished by Sept. 30.

■Harvey and Fralick, to be finished by Sept. 30.

■North Main and South Main, to be finished by Sept. 30.

City officials have said streets to have work done first are most in need of such work.

While the cost of testing had been omitted from the Iafrate bid, City Manager Steve Walters told commissioners in a report that the cost was expected to be less than $80,000.

"The second bidder Thompson-McCully had submitted a bid which was approximately $425,000 higher including the testing cost," he said, adding it was not in the city's best interest to reject the low bid because of the omission.

The city administration received five bids on the project.

City Commissioner Joe Koch told Walters the contract, "could have potentially cost us a lot more and I appreciate your efforts."

With CSX Transportation slated to do repairs to the railroad crossing on Ann Arbor Trail this spring, Walters said street work on Ann Arbor Trail will be scheduled around crossing work.

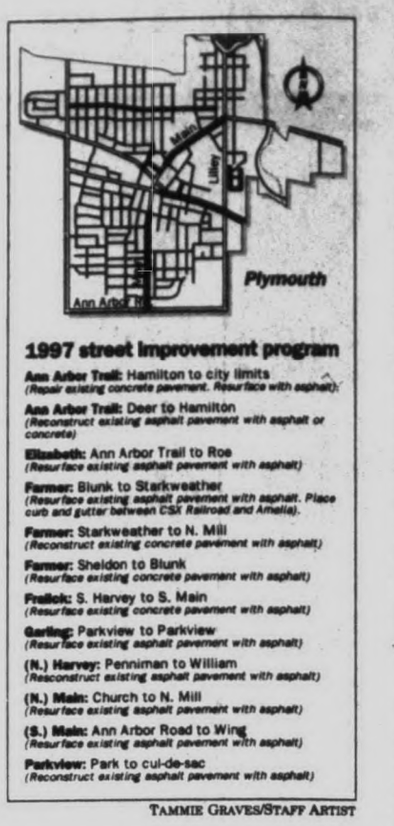

The street work on Ann Arbor Trail is to be scheduled so as not to disrupt the annual Art in the Park event scheduled downtown in July.

City homeowners will be assessed roughly 2 mills over the next 20 years to pay for the street improvement project.

After commissioners finished discussing the low bid, Mayor Ron Loiselle joked with them, in asking for their vote on the issue:

"All those in favor of spending $2 million say 'aye,'" he said, and some commissioners responded with a groan.

Commissioners unanimously approved the low bid.

Isbister parents, staff, students join forces to beautify grounds

BY JOANNE MALISZEWSKI
STAFF WRITER

Parents, teachers and students are joining forces to make Isbister Elementary School a more attractive place to learn.

"We are improving all the grounds of the school," said parent Jean Mazzoli.

Approximately 60 parents, teachers and students turned out Sunday for the first phase of the improvement effort, which included cleaning up, planting a bed of ivy and pots of pansies, as well as planting four trees.

"The whole effort is part of our outdoor learning program," said Isbister Principal Lee Harrison.

For example, students will be able to learn about composting, mulching and erosion once a large perennial garden is in, as well as flowering shrubs and trees.

The improvement effort joins the school playground committee and landscaping (beautification) committee. The school has plans for landscaping, playground improvements, including new equipment. Through Greg Ash Surveyors, the school now has a topographic survey to help solve drainage problems in the playground.

"We have a lot of parents and teachers who take on a lot of projects," Harrison said. "We have been pretty thorough."

On Friday, May 16, parents, teachers and students will again be on Isbister grounds planting flowers.

"We're going to reach our goal within the next two weeks," Mazzoli said, referring to Student Planting Day.

But the schools' parents and staff couldn't do what they are doing with donations from the community.

"We couldn't believe all the donations that have come in," Mazzoli said, adding that the Plymouth Rotary donated $1,000 for an improved playground.

The playground improvements are more of a longterm goal because of the need to raise money to buy equipment, some of which runs in the $20,000 range. The school already has had fundraisers, including donations from the PTO, Harrison said.

In a letter to businesses who have helped with the improvement effort, the principal said: "We are fortunate to have businesses in the community that support us as you do. This allows us to focus our time and resources on what we do best which is teaching and learning. It also allows us to provide an environment that is attractive and inviting for children and parents as well."

Special thanks goes to Christensen's Plant Center for four sunset maple trees and ivy at a discount from wholesale prices, Mazzoli said.

The following businesses and individuals also donated materials or gift certificates for the improvement program: Louise Johnson of Farmington Hills; Good's Nursery; Plymouth Nursery; Meijer; Rock Shoppe; B.F.I.; Saxton's; HQ; Target; Kroger; Home Depot.

Refreshments on planting day were provided by Einstein Bros. Bagels, Dunkin' Donuts and McDonald's.

"We also want to give a special thanks to all Cub Scouts, Girl Scouts, students and their families for volunteering; Connie Rose and Stephanie Saia for typing and Sue April and Suzanne Dempsee for donation requests," according to parents.

Registration is now open for free PLUS Preschool Center

BY JOANNE MALISZEWSKI
STAFF WRITER

Simply put, Head Start and two other free preschool programs headquartered at Central Middle School give children a head start on their educational careers.

"I think it is wise for children to go to preschool," said Jan Metzner, program assistant for Head Start. It gives them a head start. They learn so much more about learning centers, getting along with other children and listening to the teacher."

Head Start is only one of three free preschool programs available to children in Plymouth-Canton Community Schools district.

"There is different criteria for each program. You may qualify for one and not another," said Nancy Bandli, who works in the School Readiness Program.

The three programs - Head Start, School Readiness and Preschool Title I - are all a part of the PLUS Preschool Center. The three programs are financed by the state and federal governments.

Fall registration for the three programs is now under way. "You can call and say "I don't know which program I would fall into to..."" Metzner said.

Here's a rundown of the three programs:

■Head Start: Preschool for 3- and 4-year- olds. Eligibility is based on family income or if the child is a foster child or child with a disability, as certified by state guidelines. For example, children in a family of four with an income of $36,050 would be eligible.

■School Readiness: A new preschool program for 4-year-olds who come from situations that place them at risk for school success and who have an extraordinary need for special assistance. Income restrictions are a bit higher in this program than for Head Start.

■PLUS Preschool Title I: Preschool program for 4-year-olds who live in eligible elementary schools' attendance areas, which include: Allen, Eriksson, Field, Fiegel, Gallimore, Farrand, Hoben and Smith.

At the Head Start program, 4-year-olds attend classes 3 1/2-hours a day, four days a week. Home visitors visit the 3-year-old home-based children 1 1/2-hours per week with two socializations per month. Orientations for the program are in June and September.

"The purpose of Head Start is to teach readiness skills for kindergarten. Disabled children come here for social skills," Metzner said.

School Readiness, is a pilot program through the Michigan Department of Education, and targets 4-year-olds who will attend class 9-11:30 a.m. at Hoben Elementary or 8:45-11:15 a.m. at the Truesdell Elementary Monday-Thursday.

Four-year-olds in Title I Preschool attend two days each week, while their parents must attend one of the two days per week 1:10-3:10 p.m. Monday-Thursday.

"We also take delayed kindergarteners in the Title I program," Bandli said.

Metzner encourages parents to investigate the three programs, all of which are free. "People don't know we exist here. This is something that is free that every parent and child should take advantage of," Bandli said.

For more information or to register for one of the three programs, call 416-6190. Mary Uhl is the director of the PLUS programs, centered at Central Middle School, 650 Church in Plymouth.

He's become a genuinely pleasant person to be around. He's become a positive addition to Lowell."

Andrew thanked his parents and teachers for "turning my attitude around and for teaching me how important education really is."

Jennifer Norris of Salem High School was awarded by teacher Diane Matsumuto. "Jennifer came to my attention after she'd lost the sense of her own brilliance. She'd had a death in the family; her grades were mediocre and she was in a less-than-perfect love relationship," said Matsumuto. "Life seemed bleak for her. With support from home and school, she started to take a hold of her life again.

"When it came time to talk about college admission, we didn't know how possible it would be for this young woman." Jennifer seized the initiative to "call the dean of admissions at Eastern Michigan University. She wanted to speak with him personally. She will start at EMU in the fall.

"Jennifer now helps other young women who are struggling and have lost their confidence," said Matsumuto. "Jennifer is a credit to her gender, high school and community."

Cheri Kosmalski shared the success story of Michael Salsbery of Canton High School. Not long ago, his friends were predicting he wouldn't graduate. "I remember days when he slept through classes and would throw his final exam in the garbage," said Kosmalski. "He has taken his grade point from a .8 to 3.6. It would have been much higher, but somebody gave him a B. He's shooting for that 4.0. Michael is a winner, because he is going to graduate."

■ 'Jennifer now helps other young women who are struggling and have lost their confidence. Jennifer is a credit to her gender, high school and community.'

Michael thanked Kosmalski "and my girlfriend for helping me with my homework."

Lois Moyer commended Christopher Stewart of Starkweather Center. "When Chris was a ninth-grader at Northville, he thought drugs would give him a little status," said Moyer. "By his junior year, drugs had taken over his life and he was asked to leave school.

"He spent six days in Oakland County Jail, and time in two rehabilitation programs. Then something clicked for Chris. When he arrived at Starkweather, he was ready to change his life. He now gets all A's and B's. He's worked the same job for a year now; renewed friendships and speaks to middle schoolers about his experiences with drugs.

"He's a standout because of his incredible attitude," she said. "Christopher is going to college in the fall and wants to study graphic illustration."

Christopher thanked his "mom for sticking by me" and his teachers for "giving me the opportunity."

While grades haven't been an issue for Jennifer Rea of Salem, substance abuse has. "Jennifer is a grateful, recovering alcoholic and drug addict who still struggles with this on a daily basis," said teacher Lynn Sandmann.

"She's grown in courage and in wisdom, and has taken positive risks. She mentors other students, has spoken at domestic violence shelters, and has earned the love and respect of myself and others. Jennifer is going to college too and would like to pursue a career in criminal justice. It humbles me daily to work with her."

A tearful Jennifer thanked Sandmann, teacher Diane Matsumuto, and "my mom, who promised me she wouldn't cry. I love you Mom. I wouldn't be here if it weren't for you."

unable to proceed with those plans because of the lack of liquor license," Brandel continued.

The building he owns is at 849 Penniman.

The state legislature earlier this year created more liquor licenses, and has made them available to redeveloping downtowns that seek increased restaurant business to spark activity.

"That's basically what he's been waiting for and what we've been waiting for," Guile said.

"It's going to take some substantial renovation to get it ready," he added.

"I think the crucial thing is when it's finished, along with the(Cafe) Bon Homme there will be some major draws in our downtown for diners," Guile said.

"Both are high quality establishments, and with the (Mayflower) hotel coming on line Plymouth will be known as a place people can come for entertainment, to eat good food. I think that's what we've been waiting for."

The ground breaking on a $2.5 million renovation of the Mayflower Hotel will likely be scheduled for later this month, Guile said. The hotel's owners said that renovation would likely be finished this year.

Brandel could not be reached for comment Tuesday.

Tom's Oyster Bar restaurants are currently in Royal Oak, Southfield and Grosse Pointe Park.

A class C liquor license allows the sale of beer, wine and cocktails.

Largest graduating class ever marks Madonna's 50th

Singing, Signing: Leading the commencement crowd in the national anthem are Lawrence Banas, who graduated with a bachelor of arts degree with honors and who sang the anthem while Kristen McClellan,(above) who also received a bachelor of arts degree, signs.the anthem.

Rain and clouds could not dampen the spirit of graduates and their families attending Madonna University's 50th commencement on Saturday, May 3 in Calihan Hall at the University of Detroit Mercy in Detroit.

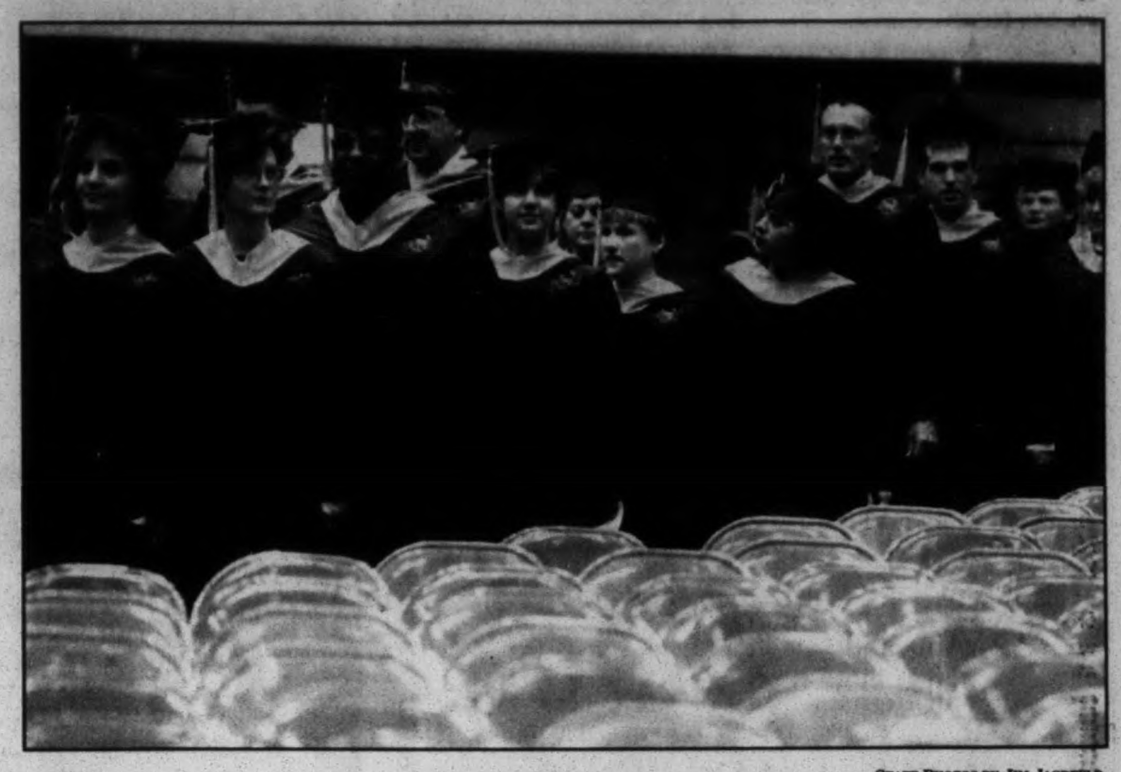

Each graduate received a gold carnation as they exited the platform, after receiving their diploma and congratulations from Sister Mary Francilene, president of the university. Gold mums lined the stage.

More than 770 students graduated, making it one of the largest graduating classes in the institution's history.

Three accomplished leaders received honorary doctorate degrees: Detroit Mayor Dennis Archer, Sister Margaret Carney, general superior for the past eight years of the Sisters of St. Francis in Pittsburgh, Penn., and Monika Hellwig, executive director of the Association of Catholic Colleges and Universities.

1997 city sidewalk repair program will soon get under way

BY KEVIN BROWN
STAFF WRITER

The 1997 Sidewalk Repair Program is about to get underway, as city commissioners on Monday awarded a $94,150 contract to Larocca Construction of Livonia.

The firm was the low bidder on the project. Half the city's sidewalks are being inspected for repairs, which will happen this summer.

Larocca Construction was the low bidder on the project, for which five other firms submitted bids ranging from $94,850 to $99,125.

"Based on the comments of the references provided, Larocca Construction Inc. has demonstrated the ability to complete the project in accordance with the project's specifications," reported Dietrich, Bailey and Associates, the city's engineering consultants.

About $20,000 of that amount will be paid from the city general fund budget and the rest will be billed to homeowners whose sidewalks require repairs, as determined by city officials.

City Building Official Jim Penn told commissioners inspectors have already completed inspections of sidewalks south of Ann Arbor Trail and west of Main Street. Sidewalks south of Ann Arbor Trail and east of Main are to be inspected next week.

Inspectors draw orange marks on sidewalks, designating that repairs are coming.

An "XS" symbol means a repair is needed. "XSC" means there is a city water line underneath this portion, and the city will pay for the repair.

Homeowners with sidewalk repairs required on their property will get letters from the city. They have the option of seeking a firm to do the repair, or to use the contractor hired by the city.

The city code provides for a 30-day window for owners to arrange for their own repair of sidewalks. If arrangements are not made by the property owner, the city will proceed with the work.

Homeowners who do not choose to pay within a 30-day billing period will have the cost for work added to their summer 1998 tax bills, city officials said.

City Commissioner Stella Greene asked Penn what costs homeowners could expect. He said five-foot sections or flags can run $57 each. Some homeowners may have to pay for just one, while others could pay as much as $300-$400 he said.

The city government is contributing $20,000 toward the project, for handicapped ramps and areas damaged by water or sewer services.

Mayor Ron Loiselle asked if handicapped accessible curbs will be installed at all locations deemed to need repair. Penn said the city didn't have the money to make all curbs handicapped accessible, adding, "This will be a step in that direction."

Penn added that if a resident seeks a handicapped accessible curb at a certain location, the city could make arrangements to do the work.

The sidewalk program is overdue, as the last major sidewalk repair program was in the early 1980s.

Benefits of the program include the obvious, providing nice even sidewalks. But well maintained sidewalks also head off liability concerns and boost property values, officials say.

Residents with any questions about repair marks on their sidewalks or other questions related to the program can call Penn at 453-1234, Ext. 232.

Honored: Detroit Mayor Dennis Archer received an honorary doctorate of education at Madonna's 50th commencement last Saturday. Archer urged graduates to remember their alma mater and "always give back."

ates, each honorary degree recipient shared a central theme. They stressed the fact that the graduates were embarking on a "new beginning" and although it would not be easy, they should make the most of the opppртunities available to them. Archer encouraged the graduates not to forget their alma mater and give back to the university.

Archer, a graduate of Western Michigan University, received a law degree from Detroit College of Law. He also taught children with learning disabilities in Detroit Public School. He was appointed to the Michigan Supreme Court by then Gov. James Blanchard in 1985. In 1986 he was elected to an eight-year term. He was elected mayor of Detroit in 1993.

Another special feature of this golden anniversary commencement was the awarding of a distinguished alumna award to Norene Daly, a 1967 graduate of Madonna who served as a supervisor of student teachers and a director of the teacher education program at Madonna College for seven years from 1978 to 1985. Most recently, Daly has served as the dean of the college of education at Iowa State University in Ames, Iowa.

As the ceremony came to a close, the graduates hugged each other and tossed flowers in the air.

Public rally, meetings on May 19 to mark Rouge cleanup success

City, county, state and federal government officials, school and college teachers, and community activists will gather at the University of Michigan-Dearborn on May 19 to review the status of clean-up efforts in the Rouge River watershed, and to consider future challenges to the region's environment.

A rally, free and open to the public, will begin at 11:30 a.m. May 19 at the Henry Ford Estate's apple orchard. The rally will celebrate the community, governmental and educational partnerships responsible for focusing attention on the environmental problems in the Rouge River watershed, and organizing efforts to address those problems over the last decade.

At the rally, children from area schools will demonstrate activities monitoring water quality and biological diversity in the region. In addition, U.S. Rep. John Dingell, 16th District, will be honored at the rally for his support of federal efforts to enhance the quality of the Rouge River watershed.

"Certainly there's been an enormous change in people's understanding of the Rouge River watershed, and a clear change for the better in terms of water quality," said Orin Gelderloos, professor of biology at U of M-D. "We've seen an increase in the number of species of fish living in the river, and recreational use will certainly grow.

"What's really important is that people are starting to see the connection between what we do on the land and how that affects water quality."

Other activities planned for May 19 include bird watching and a bird-banding demonstration, a briefing for elected officials on the status of federal efforts to improve storm water drainage in the region, a current assessment of the watershed by the Environmental Protection Agency, and a presentation by state and local officials on future challenges for the Rouge River.

A "Celebration of Education and the Rouge," 11th Annual Student Congress, will be held that day at 4 p.m. at The Detroit Science Center, 5020 John R in Detroit. Student displays and videos, student sessions and presentations will be exhibited.

Rouge 2000 is sponsored by the Friends of the Rouge, a community organization; the cities of Dearborn and Detroit; Wayne County; the state Department of Environmental Quality and Department of Natural Resources; and the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency, as well as U of M-Dearborn's Business/Education Round Table, a group of community leaders from the region.

"It's important for us now to measure the progress we've made, and to consider the challenges we face in the future to improve the environment in this region," said Jim Graham, executive director of Friends of the Rouge, a non-profit community group that has organized clean-up efforts along the river since 1986.

Friends of the Rouge sponsors an annual cleanup of the Rouge River, which will occur this year on Saturday, June 7. Volunteers can call Friends of the Rouge at (313) 961-4050.

"We knew when we began that this would be a long-term project, but the good news is that we're moving in the right direction," Graham said. "There's no doubt that the concerted efforts of educators, elected officials, community groups and thousands of volunteers are making a huge improvement in the quality of life in our communities."

State wants to limit trash from other states, Canada

BY TIM RICHARD
STAFF WRITER

■ Canada sends 2.7 million cubic yards of trash to Michigan landfills each year, much of it to Washtenaw County. Canadian trash amounts to a three-feet-high heap 0.9 mile on each side.

Michigan has taken step one of a four-step process to limit the importation of trash from other states and Canada.

"Michigan is currently a net importer of certain solid wastes, said state Sen. Loren Bennett, R-Canton, sponsor of two regulatory bills.

Canada sends 2.7 million cubic yards of trash to Michigan landfills each year, much of it to Washtenaw County. Canadian trash amounts to a three-feet-high heap 0.9 mile on each side.

Other senders are Ohio and Indiana, at one million square yards each; Illinois at nearly 600,000; and Wisconsin at 500,000. Metropolitan Toronto recently announced it will send 750,000 more tons this year.

"Michigan should not be a dumping ground for its neighbors, the rest of the nation and especially not another country," added Sen. Bill Bullard Jr., R-Milford, a strong supporter of Bennett's bills.

The Senate approved the two bills 35-0 on March 27. All area senators voted yes. Signing on as co-sponsors were:

Robert Geake, R-Northville, and George Z. Hart, D-Dearborn.

The bills' second step is the state House of Representatives. They were assigned to the House Conservation Committee chaired by Rep. Tom Alley, D-West Branch.

Third step is the U.S. Congress, which must pass permissive legislation because states lack power to control the importing of trash under the U.S. Constitution's interstate commerce clause. U.S. Rep. Lynn Rivers, D-Ann Arbor, has introduced the measure.

If all are successful, Michigan will be able to regulate, though not entirely prohibit, importing of trash.

Then, according to Bennett's bill, Michigan's Department (of Environmental Quality shall notify other states and Canada that Michigan disposal areas and incinerators can't accept their trash until DEQ certifies they have "a solid waste disposal system at least as stringent and protective of the public health, safety, and welfare and environment" as Michigan's.

The other states and Canada must supply DEQ documents to prove their regulations are as tough as Michigan's.

A second bill makes violators responsible for all costs of corrective action, in addition to prison terms and civil fines of up to $25,000 for individuals and $1 million for corporations.

The bills would amend the Natural Resources and Environmental Protection Act.

Michigan currently accepts Type II wastes, such as household trash, and Type III solid waste, which is non-hazardous industrial waste such as concrete slabs and construction materials.

Refer to Senate Bills 4 and 5 when writing to your state representative, State Capitol, Lansing 48909.

Food bank needs help Saturday

Gleaners Community Food Bank needs volunteers on Saturday, May 10, to help box canned goods collected by the National Association of Letter Carriers.

Postal officials are reminding metro Detroit residents that the NALC 's annual food drive will be conducted Saturday.

Residents are reminded to leave non-perishable food by their mailboxes to help the needy people. The NALC is expected to collect between 150-250,000 pounds of nonperishable items. Gleaners, which distributes the food to 300 feeding programs and agencies and shelters in southeastern Michigan needs a helping hand.

Volunteers are needed between 4-7 p.m. Saturday at the food bank, 2131 Beaufait, (north of Jefferson, just west of Mt. Elliot) in Detroit. For more information, call Ruth Mayhall at Gleaners at (313) 923-3535.

Walk to raise money for Parkinson Foundation

Your chance to help raise money to fight Parkinson's Disease arrives May 17 when the Dearborn and Flint campuses of the University of Michigan host the annual Michigan Parkinson Foundation Annual Fun Walk.

Registration is set for 9:30 a.m. with the walk following at 10 a.m. Walks also will be held at St. Joseph's Hospital West in Mt. Clemens and Memorial Health Care Center in Owosso.

In store for the participants are Papa Romano's pizza, refreshments, face painting, clowns, kids' games, prizes and raffles.

Entry fee is $5, with proceeds going to support a variety of programs. Among them are support groups, medication assistance, educational materials, student fellowship awards, research, and adult day care services.

For more information contact the Michigan Parkinson Foundation at (313)745-2000.

Duke University. Decker also attributes his success in school to the work ethic his parents instilled in him. They have been supportive, "starting way back in elementary school," he said.

He's involved in outside activities such as the National Honor Society and the Varsity Quiz Bowl which he said helped him "keep balanced" and not dwell on just one thing.

Parrott, a Dearborn Heights resident, plans to attend Harvard University, the University of Michigan or the University of Pennsylvania and study economics. Parrott attributes his success in school to his teachers and his parents. "Anytime I didn't have the motivation to do something they were there to provide it for me," he said.

He has worked as editor of the Catholic Central high school yearbook, which he said "really helped me budget time and reach deadlines," he said.

Nye, a Livonia resident, plans to attend the University of Michigan College of Engineering. Nye attributes his success to hard work, his parents and his girlfriend.

Nye is editor of his high school yearbook, the Charger Herald. He is also treasurer of Students Against Driving Drunk and a member of the Spanish Club and Diversity Club at Churchill.

Shah of Farmington Hills is considering the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, the University of Michigan and the Georgia Institute of Technology.

He is president of the Environmental Club, vice president of the French Club, senior representative on the Student Council and has participated in Quiz Bowl and the Science Olympiad at North Farmington High School.

Supportive parents

Smith, a Westland resident, plans to attend Michigan State University and major in engineering and music performance. He attributes his success to the "active role my parents, especially my mother, took when I was younger," he said.

Smith is involved in orchestra as concertmaster and secretary, the marching band, the winter drumline and Quiz Bowl, among other activities. Extracurricular activities helped him to become more active socially, he said.

Godfrey of Plymouth plans to attend the Wharton School of Business Management at the University of Pennsylvania.

He is class president at Plymouth Canton High School, a member of the Student Senate and the National Honor Society. He has participated in the Varsity Quiz Bowl and on the Student Television Show.

Schrieber, also a Plymouth resident, plans to major in engineering at the University of Michigan. His success in school has come from "a lot of hard work," he said. Support from family and teachers pushed him to study and keep up, he said.

He runs cross country and track, which he said takes a lot of hard work and determination. He is also a member of the National Honor Society and is a peer group tutor in Spanish, math and science.

Yen of Farmington Hills plans to study pre-medicine at the University of Michigan in Ann Arbor with plans to become a pediatrician.

She is co-captain of the varsity tennis team, a member of the Environmental Club, the National Honor Society and is a volunteer at Botsford Hospital.

Kilyanek, a Livonia resident, plans to attend Valparaiso University and major in biochemistry-biology.

Kilyanek is founder and president of the Diversity Club at Churchill. She is vice president of the German Club, a member of the National Honor Society, a volunteer tutor and an intern at the University of Michigan.

Whitcomb, also of Livonia, plans to attend Calvin College in Grand Rapids and major in history, concentrating on archaeology and languages, ancient and modern.

She attributes her success partially to her parents, but also to being blessed with a certain amount of ability. "I've also chosen classes that I like," she said, including Spanish, French and history.

She is involved in extracurricular activities, including cross country, which she says taught her to get along with other people and taught her a lot about human nature.

Also an internship at Greenfield Village as well as working at University of Michigan-Dearborn and Greenmead have shown her which opportunities are available beyond high school, she said.

Jones, a West Bloomfield resident, is considering the fields of pre-medicine and education at Georgetown University, Washington University in St. Louis or at the University of Michigan.

She takes ballet three times a week and piano once a week. She is also a member of the National Honor Society, French Honor Society, Model United Nations, Mercy Works volunteering club and the Mercy Mime Troupe.

Sports discipline

Collins of Redford Township plans to major in aerospace engineering at the University of Michigan in Ann Arbor. Collins attributes his success in school to his parents.

He played varsity football and is a member of the National Honor Society. Extracurricular activities helped him learn to get things done, he said. "Football helped a lot with discipline," he said.

Chapin, a Plymouth resident, said he attributes his success in school to luck. "It's just been really easy for me."

"I got a lot of encouragement early on from my parents," he said, adding they put the idea in his head that school is fun.

Chapin plans to major in journalism at either Michigan State University, University of Illinois at Urbana-Champaign or Northwestern University.

He is a member of the Park Players and has had parts in seven plays and served as master of properties in four plays. He is a member of the National Honor Society and secretary of the International Thespian Dramatic Honor Society.

Aristeo, a Livonia resident, plans to attend Stanford University where she has been awarded a swimming scholarship.

She is a championship swimmer and attributes her success in school and as a swimmer to what her parents have taught her – to always try her best at tasks.

Being involved in competitive swimming "helps me budget my time," she said

Also, a lot of things she learned in swimming have helped in school, she said. Finding time to practice, study, have a social life and spend time with her family have taught her to budget her time, she said.

Lyons, a Canton Township resident, plans to attend Michigan State University and major in a science-related field, possibly medicine.

She attributes her success in school to her parents, good teachers and a lot of effort. "My parents encouraged me and helped me. They don't push too hard," she said.

Lyons is a member of the National Honor Society, plays varsity tennis, is treasurer of the French Club and is a member of the Ski Club, New Adventures Club and the Medical Explorers Group 1669.

Platt, a Farmington Hills resident, plans to major in engineering but hasn't decided on the school.

She has participated in tennis as co-captain in 11th and 12th grades. She is on the Student Council and is treasurer of the National Honor Society. She performed with the marching band during ninth and 10th grades.

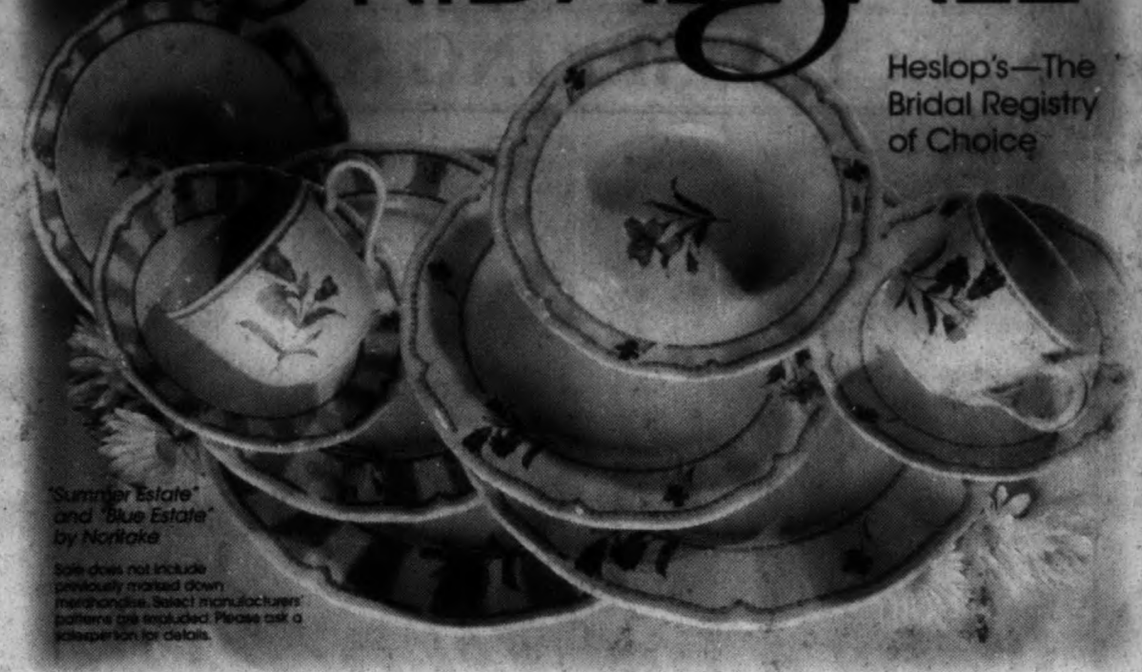

McDevitt, a Livonia resident, plans to attend Kenyon College and study journalism. She says she's always had a lot of support from her parents and teachers, who taught her that "as long as I believe in myself that's enough."

She participates in field hockey and track at Mercy High School and said she has learned a lot about discipline and pushing yourself as hard as you can through sports. It also helped her with time management, she said.

Schoolcraft speaker urges grads to 'never stop learning'

More than 3,000 parents, relatives and friends attended the 32nd annual commencement ceremony last Saturday at Schoolcraft College. Featured speaker Paul Hillegonds, president of Detroit Renaissance, told graduates that learning should never stop.

The world is demanding more and more skills and you must apply your desire and capacity to continue learning to the challenges you face, said Hillegonds."You as graduates make important and wise decisions in your lives. Ask yourselves, 'Will this path enrich me and my community? Am I working to divide or heal and unite?' try to make your community a better place to live and grown," said Hillegonds, a former state Speaker of the House of Representatives who received an honorary degree from Schoolcraft.

Challenges grads: Paul Hillegonds urged graduates to make their communities a better place to live and grow.

Other honorary degree recipients included Harry Greenleaf, the longest serving member of the college's board of trustees, and Kenneth Hulsing, a founder and former president of the Schoolcraft College Foundation Board of Governors.

Edwin Schulz, a partner in the Sutherland and Yoe accounting firm received a Distinguished Alumni Award.

More than 900 graduates received diplomas.

WSDP, 88.1FM, will broadcast a full schedule of baseball, softball, and soccer this spring.

WSDP's main broadcaster is John Kreger, Canton High School Senior. Kreger is also sports director for the station and is in his fourth year of sports broadcasting for the station. He is joined by Sam Plymale (Canton Junior), Mike LaMasse (Salem Junior), Scott Griffin (Salem Junior), and Denny Kapp (Catholic Central Junior).

WSDP's sports broadcasts are sponsored by Canton Center Market and Wordhouse Financial Planning and Education of Plymouth. The station is celebrating 25 years of broadcasting in the Plymouth Canton Community and is owned and operated by the Plymouth Canton Community Schools.

The following is the 1997 Spring Sports Schedule:

- Friday, May 9 - Soccer, Canton vs. Mercy
- Monday, May 12 - Softball, Canton vs. Walled Lake Western
- Wednesday, May 14 - Baseball, Canton vs. North Farmington
- Thursday, May 15 - Baseball, Salem vs. Walled Lake Central
- Wednesday, May 21 - Baseball, Conference Finals
- Tuesday, May 27 - Baseball, Pre-district (Soccer Regional)
- Saturday, May 31 - Baseball, District
- Wednesday, June 4 - Soccer, State Semi-Finals

"We hope to have this successfully reorganized in about a six-month time frame," he said.

The company, which has several stores in the western suburbs and downriver, filed in federal bankruptcy court in Detroit on April 28.

"The cause for the filing is our sales have decreased as the result of new competition in our marketing area," Schafer said.

In a five-year period, he said, 26 new competitors have entered the business. "They include the huge, huge stores as well as Meijer's, Farmer Jack's and Kroger's as well as the independents."

"We are planing to renovate our stores and give them face lifts because some of them are sleepy looking," Schafer added.

Some Danny's shoppers asked Monday for their reaction to the Chapter 11 bankruptcy filing said they were unaware.

"It's unfortunate," said Liz LaFreniere, adding she was shopping at Danny's because it's close to her house in Old Village.

"I love the Oakwood Bakery bread," she said. But LaFreniere said she shops more often at Kroger.

"To be honest, I'm pretty much a vegetarian, they have more produce at Kroger," she said.

"I think it's a shame," said Ty Patton of Belleville, who took a break from working in Plymouth on Monday to shop at Danny's.

"I really appreciate the smaller stores, instead of the larger supermarkets that have taken over everywhere," he said.

The Farmer Jack supermarket on Main Street south of downtown closed in the late 1980s. The building now serves as the temporary home of the Plymouth District Library.

The Inkster-based Danny's chain was founded in the 1950s. The company claims assets of $5 million and debts of $2 million. By filing for Chapter 11 protection, the company is allowed to develop a plan to pay back creditors over a specified time period.

Industry observers say family-owned stores are having a tough time competing with big chains that can buy goods at big volume discounts. Further, the supermarket industry has been coping with low inflation and flat population growth.

Danny's on Main Street paid $31,787 in property taxes in 1996.

Day in court: Judge Ron Lowe of the 35th District Court explains the legal system to sixth graders from Central Middle School who visited the court on Law Day. Students observed a typical day in district court, including youths not much older than they charged with crimes.

Law Day

Students learn a measure of prevention

BY M.B. DILLON
STAFF WRITER

Sixth graders from Central Middle School found out the easy way how expensive it can be to break the law.

More than 300 students visited Plymouth's 35th District Court on Law Day; not as defendants, but as invited guests.

On May 1, they observed Judges Ron Lowe, John MacDonald, and Charles Kaufman as well as Magistrate Eric Colthurst on the job.

"It was truly an enlightening, educational experience for students, staff, and the parents and grandparents who accompanied us on our trip to he courthouse," said Central teacher Margo Panko.

Students observed a typical day in district court.

"The kids were shocked at the severe consequences that must be paid for violating the law," said Panko. The fine for smoking at the high school is $50. It was a big thing for kids to see young kids just a few years older than they are being charged with drinking, cigarette smoking, possession of marijuana, disturbing the peace and destroying property.

"Drunk driving fines are over $1,000 with probation.

"Kids couldn't believe not just the fines, but the community service or having to attend Alcoholics Anonymous or Narcotics Anonymous. One parent said every parent should have been there. It opened their eyes. The parents learned as much as the students.

"I think the people there (defendants) were embarrassed to see 300 students" witnessing the proceedings, Panko added.

Judge Lowe, who with other staff at 35th District Court coordinated the event, supplied students with informational booklets on court operations. Magistrate Colthurst conducted a mock "Beanie Baby" trial students enjoyed. Probation Department personnel told students about lawbreakers who must wear bright orange vests while performing community service.

Lowe has been a regular visitor at Central, teaching students about the law, and sponsoring essay and story contests. He will visit again May 29, when teachers will take the stand in a mock trial.

The partnership between Central and the court "is going to be like a pilot program for the state of Michigan, it's so well orchestrated," said Panko. "We're hoping other lawyers will get involved and come into the classroom. Judge Lowe is doing it basically so he doesn't see the kids in front of him. It's prevention."

Panko also thanked Plymouth police. "They escorted us down Main Street," she said.

CHARTER TOWNSHIP OF CANTON BOARD PROCEEDINGS

A regular meeting of the Board of Trustees was held on Tuesday, April 29, 1997 at 1150 South Canton Center. Supervisor Yack called the meeting to order at 7:05 P.M.

ROLL CALL All members were present
Staff Present: Machnik, Ager, Martin, Salla, Voyles, Zevalkink

ITEM 1 PERFORMING ARTS CENTER

Supervisor Yack explained the structure of the Performing Arts Center Study Group and introduced Gene Hammonds. Mr. Hammonds gave background information on the study group. He said that the idea began nearly six years ago with the consideration of a barn theater in combination with the Historical District Commission. He explained that purpose of the night's meeting would be to disclose the findings of a feasibility study on building a Performing Arts Center in Canton Township.

Dan Matthews, Plante Moran, presented a Performing Arts Center Comparative Analysis. He said that the analysis was based on preliminary assumptions and would vary depending on the specific plans. He noted that operating expenses were estimated using averages of other facilities. Mr. Matthews pointed out that the actual numbers may vary depending on the specific type and plan of the Center but the relationship between a 600-seat and the 1,200-seat facility would remain constant. Building costs were estimated at $150 per square foot.

FIXED OPERATING EXPENSES

Mr. Matthews said that the fixed operating expenses were developed using assumptions regarding the specific operation of each facility.

Personnel Expense - A 600-seat theater would require one full-time Executive Director/Stage manager at an annual salary of $35 thousand, and two part-time assistants at a combined annual salary of $24 thousand, plus fringe benefits.

A 1,200-seat theater would require four (4) full-time employees: one full-time Executive Director at $35 thousand annual salary, one Program Director at $30 thousand annual salary, one Stage Manager at an annual salary of $30 thousand, and four (4) part-time assistants at a combined annual salary of $48.1 thousand plus fringe benefits.

Break-Even Revenue - Mr. Matthews noted that the break-even revenue was calculated by dividing the total fixed operating expenses by the fixed operating expense percentage (65%).

Estimated Utilization - (In Days) - Mr. Matthews said that it was assumed that the facility could realistically hold three performances per week at 52 weeks per year if properly managed, run and marketed. He said that this would be approximately 156 performances per year.

Supervisor Yack opened the floor for discussion from the Board and Audience. It was determined that a parking structure would be a higher cost than a parking lot. The concept of a Barn Theater was moderately discussed. The question was raised on whether the theater project could become a part of the Summit project. It was noted that the Summit project was well into process at the time of consideration, and therefore, it was not thought of as a viable option. For comparative reasons, it was pointed out that the Plymouth Salem theater had a capacity of approximately 1,000-seats and the charges were estimated to be more than $3,000 for a three-night performance.

PARTNERSHIP COMMITTEE

Phyllis Redfern said that the purpose of the Partnership Committee was to explore the interest and need for a performance art facility within the Canton Community. The Partnership Committee was charged with identifying visual and performing art groups that may be potential users of such a facility. Ms. Redfern noted that based on the Committee's findings, there was much enthusiasm and support for this project. She said that the results of 38 responses of the 50 contacted were tabulated on a matrix showing the variety of needs of the key groups. Ms. Redfern said that 3 of the 50 groups contacted indicated that they probably would not have a use for an art center.

Trustee McLaughlin asked if any of the committees researched the Birmingham Theater and Mai Kai/the George Burns Theater and the reasons behind their failure. Some responses included 1) it was being run for profit, 2) construction problems, 3) not enough capital behind them and 4) the theaters were not community owned.

DEVELOPMENT COMMITTEE

Joan Noricks, Executive Director for the Canton Community Foundation, said that The Development Committee's role was to identify funding sources, both private and public, for the construction and operational stages of the performing arts center, and to identify the governance option best suited to assure the success of the facility.

Ms. Noricks reviewed the Development Committee's recommendations:

- Hire a fund raising consultant to approach the foundations identified in the report and complete a fund raising feasibility study.
- Pursue private and public funding sources for the performing arts center.
- Establish a 509 (a)(3) supporting organization under the Canton foundation to manage the facility and coordinate major gift giving. The foundation would later develop a permanent local giving program. (Founders Society model.)
- Maintain Township ownership of the facility.
- Develop a business plan for the performing arts center project. (Plante Moran has been retained for this purpose.)

Ms. Noricks said that federal sources could pay for handicap-accessible doors, restrooms and elevators. She noted that the Michigan Department of Management and Budget provides grants through The Cultural Facilities Grant. Ms. Noricks added that the Michigan Department of Commerce provides grant money through the Arts and Cultural Projects for Cities, Townships and Villages on a dollar-for-dollar match requirement. Ms. Noricks said that they recommended a tax-exempt supporting corporation, under the direction of the Canton Community Foundation, be created to serve as the fiduciary recipient for all contributions. The governance would be modeled after the DIA Founder's Society where the city of Detroit owns the building and the Founder's Society does the fund raising for the center. Ms. Noricks said that a consultant feasibility study would be the next step in the process, but she felt there would be no difficulty in raising funding.

DESIGN AND OPERATIONS COMMITTEE

Bill Potter, Plymouth Theater Guild and Product Design Engineer for Ford Motor Company, Co-Chaired the Design and Operations Committee with Aaron Machnik. This committee was charged with exploring design and operation criteria associated with community arts facility. Various members of the committees visited other performing arts/theater sites during the course of the design study process. Mr. Potter explained a matrix that the committee created to prioritize design criteria for each artistic area integrated into the facility.

Mike Gross noted that the goal of the design must be self sufficiency. With that goal, came the necessity of contrasting alternative designs, thus the small community theater or the larger regional theater for their potential self-sufficiency.

At this time Gene Hammond opened the floor for audience comments. Jennifer Toben, Judy Recman, Sharon Dillenbeck and Jane Hultz all spoke in favor of moving ahead with the next steps toward a performing arts center for Canton and its neighboring communities.

DISCUSSION

Supervisor Yack pointed out that there was a greater need for partnering in the community across cultural lines in terms of theater, musical and various artistic societies. He gave the example of the University of Michigan's Musical Society and what it does for the community relative to nurturing an appreciation for the arts in the community, developing audience participation, and art organizational influence on sub-regional areas.

Mr. Yack said that he would like to see the Art Alliance becomes stronger and to become a voice for partnering in the community. He also said that he would like to see more information collected before he could commit to the project. Mr. Yack said that the Study Groups needed a way to demonstrate more funding. He said that governance issues needed to be expanded on. Mr. Yack said that governance might need to reflect contributions. He noted that the operating cost and Township contribution were startling compared with the General Fund Budget. He suggested that other governments needed to be approached for definite commitments such as Plymouth, Van Buren and their schools.

Board members responded in concurrence with Mr. Yack's statements. It was suggested that the comparative analysis from Plante Moran be reviewed to find ways to cut back on costs. Volunteerism was suggested in reducing personnel expenses. Other suggestions included contacting more organizations for firmer commitments and willingness to share costs, land and resources. It was advised that the committees rethink the seating capacity for a more realistic figure that could satisfy the majority of potential patrons. The Board acknowledged a need for a performing arts element in the community but it was noted that the process would take a considerable amount of time. Various Board members requested more information and specifics. The costs related to the project were described as staggering, but the issue of the performing arts center was not dead as the community is still evolving. The committees were thanked for their hard work and their coming together as a community.

Supervisor Yack suggested that chairs and co-chairs of the subcommittees meet with some members of the Board to craft the next steps in moving forward with the study. He suggested that a time frame should accompany each step before the next meeting.

ITEM 2 YOUTH LEADERSHIP CANTON

Supervisor Yack introduced Betty Bloch, PC Business-Education Partnership and Kelly Young, St. Joseph Mercy Health System. They gave a presentation on a proposal for a Youth Leadership Canton Program.

The Mission of the program is to develop the leadership and problem solving skills of local youth in order to enhance their personal lives, future employability and community involvement. She said that the target audience of the program was Canton youth with a desire to gain knowledge of their community and develop leadership skills between the ages of 14-16 and each session could have 25-30 participants.

Ms. Bloch reviewed the Program Curriculum. Suggested themes:

- History of the Community (develop appreciation for the unique history of their community)
- Quality of Life (build awareness of how the arts, education, environment and human services contribute to a positive quality of life in a community)
- Success in Business (basic employability skills, applying and interviewing for a job, communications, decision making, learn from successful business and governmental leaders)
- How a City Runs (increase understanding of the local government structure and the issues associated with the growth of a community, and students' future responsibilities in building a community)
- Leadership Skills Development (develop skills needed to work in teams, overcome conflict and volunteer successfully in their community)

It was recommended that the development and administration of the Youth Leadership Canton Program would be the responsibility of Canton Township. Furthermore, a Program Coordinator should be appointed and a Steering Committee established to facilitate fund-raising, marketing, curriculum planning, and community collaboration. It was also suggested that marketing efforts be aimed at students, school staff, businesses, and parents be supported by the Township Communications Department. Ms. Block said that the Steering Committee would include a Program Coordinator, High School Representative(s), Canton Township Representative(s), Canton Chamber Member(s), Community Leader(s), Community Policing representative(s) and Character Counts representatives(s). Fall of 1998 was recommended as a time line for steering group participation in active planning for a one year program. Afterwards, the steering committee would become an advisory board and a graduate of the program could be added to the advisory board.

The drafted budget for the Youth Leadership Canton Program was presented and reviewed leading to a discussion regarding potential funding sources. It was suggested that a mentor relationship for each participant be developed including job shadowing opportunities. As an incentive for students to enter and complete the program, scholarships or letters of recommendation could be offered. Discussion occurred regarding a one year commitment for completion of the program, non resident participation and fees, and the minimum GPA requirement for participants. General discussion regarding the makings of a true leader and leadership skills were addressed regarding individuality and independence. Supervisor Yack said that the next phase would be to create a plan to present to the Board asking for support of the program.

Supervisor Yack adjourned the meeting at 10:21 P.M.

The above is a synopsis of discussion taken at the Regular Board meeting held on April 29, 1997. The full text of the approved minutes will be available following the next regular meeting of the Board on May 13, 1997.

CARRIER OF THE MONTH: PLYMOUTH

PLYMOUTH CARRIER

Chris Hosey, 13, of Plymouth was named carrier of the month for April.

He started delivering the Observer in April 1995.

Chris is a seventh grader at West Middle School and has A-average.

His favorite subjects are math, language and arts. His hobbies are playing video games and in-line skating.

Chris' outstanding achievement is being on the honor roll. He plans to go to college and become a cartoonist or a teacher.

Chris says learning to be responsible and on time and the things he has learned on his route.

Chris is the son of Tom and Beth Hosey. He has one brother, Stephen, 11 and one sister, Kathryn, 4.

Chris Hosey, 13, of Plymouth

PLYMOUTH PIPELINE

Candidate forum

You are invited to ask questions of the three candidates seeking one open seat on the Plymouth-Canton Board of Education 7-9 p.m. Thursday, May 8 at Tonda Elementary Schools, 46501 Warren Road, Canton.

Candidates are Carol Bollman, Susan Dersham and Roland Thomas. The seat is being vacated by longtime school board member David Artley.

Chi Kung seminar

A demonstration of ancient techniques and how energy works through the movements of Tai Chi will be presented by an authentic Shaolin master from 7-9 p.m. Friday at the Grange building, 273 Union Street.

Cost is $20 in advance or $25 at the door. Seating is limited. For reservations call Dave Dixson at 425-3741.

Appointees named

Plymouth Mayor Ron Loiselle on Monday named Janet Warrick and Libby Ann Smith to the city Beautification Committee.

Parade update

Fred Hill, who is organizing the new, improved July 4 parade "Good Morning USA" with the Plymouth-Canton Jaycees, reports 500 bleacher seats are to be sold - half outside Plymouth City Hall and half at Kellogg Park.

Hosts and hostesses will provide parade-packs to those with bleacher seats. The packs will hold a variety of items, including clown noses which spectators will pull out and put on when clowns pass on the parade route.

Hill said businesses on the parade route are being encouraged to display red, white and blue bunting for the parade, and the new Miss Michigan has been invited.

Also slated to attend is the Catholic Central High School drum line, Detroit Pistons mascot Hooper, the Plymouth Township Police color guard and The Dogmatics, a canine precision drill team.

Spring cleanup

In the city of Plymouth, Spring Cleanup dates continue next week for those with Tuesday or Thursday trash pick up.

The city municipal services department says residents should separate and group wood products and metal products into separate areas at the curb. Each household is allowed an eight trash can limit or equivalent for collection and two large items - including a washer, dryer, couch or desk - at the curb for collection.

Appliances containing freon must have a valid certificate of freon removal attached. Smaller refuse must be placed in suitable containers strong enough to hold the weight.

Prohibited items are tires, concrete or major construction debris, auto parts or piles of dirt or sod. Also prohibited are very large items including boats, cars, engines, motorcycles and snowmobiles and hazardous materials including gas, fuel oil, motor oil, paint thinners, pesticides or medical waste.

For more information, call 455-1392.

Fund-raisers

Have fun, help the community

The weather may not be thoroughly springlike lately. But there are plenty of activities coming up in the next couple weeks to keep families busy and to do some good for the community.

A day of note in the Plymouth area is Saturday, May 10. That's the day Plymouth mail carriers will collect canned and packaged foods that you put on your mailbox or porch.

Postal carriers directly turn over the food collections to the Plymouth Salvation Army, which serves the Plymouths, Canton and Northvilles.

Right now, the Food Pantry at the Salvation Army is at a low ebb. This is probably one of the easiest ways to get involved. Yet it's an effort that goes a long way in helping those in need in our community.

A first-time event that is certain to draw interest is the new Plymouth Dog Jog/Walk '97 on May 10 in Kellogg Park.

Not only can you show off your dog and get some exercise for both you and your pet, but the Dog Jog is designed to raise money for the Plymouth Kiwanis, the Michigan Humane Society and the Humane Society of Huron Valley.

To help raise money for these worthy causes, a $15 registration fee is charged, but walkers and their dogs may also accept pledges in their honor.

For some more fun, the walk will be followed by a dog-owner look-alike contest, a tail wagging contest and a longest tail contest.

And still another family event that will benefit yet another good cause is the eighth annual Southeast Michigan Warm-Up Magic Ride and Magic Walk 7 a.m. to 3 p.m. Saturday, May 17, at the Canton Recreation Complex.

Magic Ride raises money for the Child Abuse Prevention Council of Out-Wayne County.

CapCo., which started as a task force in 1975, is composed of individuals and agencies collectively working together to prevent child abuse and neglect. They sponsor child abuse education and awareness programs throughout Wayne County. Their most recent success was a program in Livonia designed just for fathers.

Magic Ride is a perfect opportunity to spend time with your kids, get some exercise and raise money for much-needed programs that help families before there's a problem. Pledges are accepted for bikers and walkers.

Another fun event is the "Hoop-Law" at 7:30 p.m. Monday, May 19, at Central Middle School. The effort pits Plymouth police against the Detroit Lions in a benefit basketball game.

Sponsored by the Plymouth Police Officers Association, the game will raise money for DARE, Big Brothers and Big Sisters and Growth Works, all programs that help children and teens in our area.

The beauty of these activities is that they offer family fun while doing something good for other people and causes.

The agencies that will benefit from these fund-raisers do help within the community. And though it may be sometimes hard to believe, there's plenty of need here whether it's counseling services or just plain food to get through another month.

Being part of a community is more than having an address in it. To be an active member of the community you have to get involved and with activities such as these, you don't have to give up much time and effort to help.

All-Stars look to the future

Inside today's Observer, we preview the leaders of the next generation and readers are in for a special treat.

The 13th team of Observer Academic All-Stars and the runners-up represent the public and private high schools across our coverage area. The team was selected, based on high school grades and national test scores, by a judging committee comprised of secondary high school principals head by Troy High School principal Larry Boehms.

After years of asking these students who influenced them most, we decided a new topic was in order: What do you expect your generation to contribute to society?

With all the optimism and passion of youth and displaying responsibility and wisdom beyond their age, our All-Stars responded with ideas that will make their parents and teachers very proud.

Using technology, our All-Stars believe their generation will find a cure for cancer and AIDS. They were raised in the computer-age and global communications are the norm and not the exception.

"My generation is a group who is willing to make the world a fantastic place to live. We are technologically sound, environmentally aware and hesitant to create violence on a worldwide scale," wrote Anne Aristeo, an All-Star from Livonia's Stevenson High School.

Their kindness and regard for humanity is striking and refreshing.

Abhik D. Shah, an All-Star from North Farmington High School, writes: "In an era of globalization and community, I expect my generation to weaken the barriers of racial and economic prejudice, advance science with ethics and contribute to the art and culture of our society."

Hillary J. Whitcomb, an All-Star from Stevenson, answered the question by writing about a television news interview in the year 2015. The newscast features the prominent historian Dr. Hillary Whitcomb, who is discussing the historically relevant changes that she has observed.

The future Dr. Whitcomb writes: "The greatest change that I see is in the level of tolerance. We are people who do not condemn or censure others for their differences, though many differences exist. People are more aware of other people than in previous years and there are some secondary changes that I see as a result of this."

These students will head to many colleges and universities to study pre-medicine, journalism, education, engineering and science.

They have set high goals and have accomplished much during their busy and very productive high school years.

The one thing they all have in common is outstanding academic achievement coupled with unparalleled extracurricular involvement.

The Observer Newspapers organization is proud to honor and share with our readers the good things these outstanding students are accomplishing.

Post office commended

To the post office: I think you should be commended instead of a gripe this time.

Last Tuesday I went to our post office in Plymouth – not the new one – and found them busy as usual. When I saw the line was stretched out nearly to the door I was about to turn away. Then I looked to see how many windows were working. Lo and behold, much to my surprise all four were putting out service. Well, that changed my mind. (I seldom saw four windows working during the Christmas season).

After a few minutes a young woman came in line with a 2-year-old on one arm and a package on the other. She took one look at the long line and with a discouraged look said "We will come back!" . . . . . A male customer near the window saw her disgust and piped up and said "Don't go lady, this line moves fast, I've only been here five minutes." The lady set the child down and said, "Oh good, I'll save a trip."

Well, postmaster, that's the way I felt when I saw you using all those clerks and passing customers out the door. I entered a long line and was out the door inside of 10 minutes, instead of 25. I was pleased to see you push service when it's needed and make your people flexible. That has not always been the case, but I am sure pleased to see the change. I hope you keep up the practice of killing those long lines. If the corner grocer can provide short lines, I am confident the post office can too.

Family Fun Day

On Saturday morning, April 26, over 400 children and their families came to Plymouth Township Park to celebrate the 5th Annual "Kids, Kites and Family Fun Day."

This event was sponsored by the Metro Detroit Association for the Education of Young Children to celebrate the Month of the Young Child. Young children made kites, visited with story book characters played games and created wonderful art projects. Families worked and played together.

A special "Thank You" to all of the volunteers who helped the families in our community have a fun morning. All of the kite makers, Young Moments Preschool, Kiddie Crew (Plymouth-Canton Schools), Kiddie Campus (Plymouth-Canton Schools), Red Bell Children's Nursery, Plymouth YMCA, Starkweather Child Care, Rosey's Romper Room, Pathways to Learning, Northville Early Childhood Center and Children's World (Lilley Road Center) provided the many activities at the park.

Kite Kraft (Frankenmuth), Kites and Fun Things (Plymouth), Little Professor Book Store, and Office Depot donated materials to help make this a very special morning.

Lastly we could not have done this without the support of the Plymouth Parks and Recreation, the Plymouth-Canton Community School District and the Plymouth Community Fire Department.

A special "Thank You" to the parents who share their children with us and to the children who make our days so delightful. We truly enjoyed making this day possible for you and your families.

Author luncheon

On behalf of the Friends of the Library, we would like to thank the Observer Newspapers for sponsoring our successful Author Luncheon with Judith Guest.

This cooperative effort with Canton, Northville, Novi and Plymouth Friends celebrated National Library Week. We appreciate the Observer financially backing our event for the past two years and placing importance on reading, literacy, libraries and the community.

In the age of big business and computers, it's important to remember how vital our libraries are to our communities.

POINTS OF VIEW

Filibusters should have started with students

Christianity is a great religion. My favorite. But some Christians – the practitioners as distinct from the theology – have an oafish propensity to shove their religion into others' faces. Worse, they have the ill manners to try to use government to do it.

So it was when State Board of Education minority members Clark Durant of Grosse Pointe and Gary Wolfram of Hillsdale filibustered last month against a proposed new "mission statement."

The new one would make students the focus of education. The old one, crafted in secrecy two years ago by Durant, is larded with references to the deity, to control-freak parents and classical allusions to liberty.

The board will have the votes May 15 to approve the new, common sense mission statement 5-3, unless Durant and Wolfram, supported by their cheerleader Sharon Wise of Owosso, again decide to filibuster.

In his 30-minute monologue, Durant quoted Presidents Washington, Jefferson, Madison, Lincoln, Kennedy and even Clinton; U.S. Chief Justice Roger Taney; Martin Luther King Jr., and the hobgoblin Friedrich Nietzsche – all of whom have one thing in common: They had nothing to do with Michigan's public schools and never were public school officials. The three most quoted lived prior to Michigan's becoming the first state in the Union to guarantee free public education as a constitutional right.

Durant also misquoted the "Religion, morality and knowledge" line from the Continental Congress' 1787 Northwest Ordinance (he made it a main clause instead of a subordinate one) and failed to point out that it was drafted five decades prior to free public education.

Wolfram, a private college professor who hates all things governmental, rambled on another 30 minutes quoting 18th century sources along with "Sir" John Henry Newman. Well, Newman 1) was a Briton, 2) was a cardinal of the Catholic Church, 3) wrote about universities and 4) didn't address K-12 public schools as administered in the good ol' U.S. of A.

They quoted everything but the relevant texts.

They should have quoted the Michigan Constitution's Art. VIII which says, "Every school district shall provide for the education of its pupils without discrimination as to religion, creed, race, color or national origin," and, "Leadership and general supervision over all public education ... is vested in a state board of education. It shall serve as a general planning and coordinating body for all public education, including higher education ..."

That is all the "mission statement" a State Board needs.

They should have quoted John D. Pierce, Michigan's first superintendent of public instruction: "But the wealth of the state has ever opposed free schools, and yet no class is more deeply interested in the education of all."

They should have quoted Franklin K. Sawyer, our second superintendent, who eloquently defended the need for semi-annual state inspection of schools: "The inspectors must be satisfied, not only that the candidate has a good moral character, and sufficient learning, but that he is versed in the art of teaching." Sawyer in 1841 was a half-century ahead of those who regard a firm state policy and certification as "bureaucratic."

Sawyer deplored the kind of parents who "regard the teacher as a mere servant, hired to do a job that nobody else can do, and fit for nothing else." He would have had no use for parents like Dennis and Lorie Nixon, the Altoona, Pa., couple who let two of their children die for lack of medical treatment because it violated their religious principles.

They should have quoted Michigan Supreme Court Justices Conrad Mallett Jr. and James Brickley:

"(T)he state possesses a compelling interest in the universal education of its children and that the certification requirement is an effective means of achieving this interest."

Durant and Wolfram researched their filibusters poorly. Their starting point should have been students, not scholasticism; 1837, not 1777.

Tim Richard reports on the local implications of state events.

Efforts applauded

As the representative and spokesman for the citizens group opposing the Willow Run tradeport Expansion (Citizens Against Willow Run Airport - CAWRA), I applaud the efforts of State Representative Debra Whyman (Observer, Feb. 23, 1997).

The suggestion for a binding citizen referendum was made by our group in June of 1995.

We believe we have a right to be heard on issues such as these because of the safety, health and economic impacts these issues have on our communities. To date, we do not have this right.

Contrary to what some assert, the Willow Run Tradeport issue is not dead. Our organization, continues to track this issue and its impact on our communities. We're doing this by working with and through our elected officials. State Rep. Debra Whyman, State Sens. Loren Bennett and Robert Geake, Canton Township Supervisor Tom Yack and Wayne County Commissioners Bruce Patterson and Thaddeus McCotter have been our champions.

For example, the legislature appropriated $200,000 this past December for "runway improvements" at Willow Run. Rep. Whyman offered an amendment to strike the wasteful Willow Run appropriation and redistribute it between other airports scheduled for improvement. Sadly, this amendment was narrowly defeated.

There is a $1.6 billion expansion occurring at Metro Airport. The runway extension at Willow Run would require only one percent of that expansion budget. We are watchful some of these funds are not diverted to expand the runway at Willow Run. A one percent reduction in monies would probably not disrupt the Metro expansion.

The appropriation for this tradeport can easily become reality. We must remain vigilant to defend our property values and our piece of mind.

The loud jet airplanes flying low over people's homes should be a constant reminder of what would occur if Willow Run is expanded even further.

Far too often, our politicians try to tell us they know best, that we should trust them on matters such as these. We disagree. Greater citizen control of our government can only improve, not worsen, our situation.

We will continue to be diligent in this matter and work with our legislators. We have not varied from our original intent. If all else fails, we will make our sentiments known at the ballot box on election day.

Drive successful

The Plymouth Salvation Army, which services Canton, Northville, Northville Township, Plymouth and Plymouth Township, would like to thank all of the people who helped to make our first Diaper Drive a success.

Thank you to the caring individuals and families who made such generous donations of disposable diapers, disposable training pants, baby wipes and miscellaneous items.

Thank you to the following businesses and government offices who allowed the Salvation Army to place a collection box on their premises: Canton Township Hall, Canton Library, Danny's (downtown Plymouth), Hiller's, Kmart (Canton), Kroger (Sheldon/Ann Arbor Road), Kroger (Sheldon /Ford Road), Northville City Hall, Northville Library, Northville Township Hall, Plymouth City Hall, Plymouth Library, U.S. post office (Penniman location), U.S. post office (Beck Road) location), and Shopping Center Market. Through your support, we have helped to baby some bottoms.

Additional donations are always welcomed and can be dropped off at the Salvation Army Headquarters in Plymouth at 9451 S. Main.

Big money, pro pipeline behind college sports evils

I've been reflecting on the extraordinary media attention recently given to the University of Michigan basketball program in general and to the decisions made respectively by junior Maurice Taylor to turn pro and by sophomore Robert Trayler not to turn pro.

I come to these reflections both as a U-M regent and as a sports fan who has been watching the Maize and Blue play football since Bob Chappius and the "Mad Magicians" went undefeated in 1947 and basketball since Cazzie Russell was shooting the lights out at the old Yost Field House.

Certainly we have come to a strange place where games played by college students regularly command 72-point headlines and where a new journalistic sub-specialty – rating recruiting classes in football and basketball – merits regular coverage.

The reason: College sports have become a staple of TV programming. Especially now that professional sports appear to be overpopulated by overpaid athletes often in competition for arrogance with over-wealthy owners, the sincerity of young men and women competing for their universities has a terrific emotional appeal that translates into great TV ratings.

Let me be blunt. Sporting events at NCAA Division 1 schools today constitute in too large part entertainment programming fodder, just as many college sports programs amount to an unpaid farm system for the owners of professional sports teams.

These twin facts lie behind many of the evils of big time sports today.

People in university athletic programs have always had a competitive incentive to win. But the incentives have been magnified by the effect of national TV. Winning teams – especially title winners – get watched more than losing teams. And winning on TV has all kinds of useful consequences: happy alumni; increased giving; continued success in recruiting the next generation of talented athletes.

This magnified pressure to win lurks behind the absurdity of today's college athletic environment: The NCAA rule book governing recruitment of student athletes now contains 538 pages! And athletic departments hire folks whose only job is to understand and interpret the exquisitely detailed NCAA rules!

Any rule book with 538 pages has no pages. Moreover, any human activity (excepting, possibly, the U.S. Tax Code) that requires 538 pages of rules is in serious institutional trouble.

Therefore a modest proposal: Scrap the

PHILIP POWER

NCAA rule book. Forbid any recruiting contact with high school athletes. Eliminate upfront, full-ride scholarships. Once students are admitted and in good academic standing on campus, allow them to walk on and try out for teams. If they make a team, give them a scholarship.

My second thought has to do with the relationship between college athletes, big money and the pro sports pipeline for talent through the campus.

The hope of big money motivates 18- and 19-year-old kids to quit college. The fact of big money encourages agents and boosters to festoon campuses in ways unrelated to their interest in Shakespeare and differential equations. The unseemly presence of big money potentiates charges of hypocrisy launched at universities, which like to talk about "student athletes" and then use the gate and TV receipts to balance the budget.

Big money has opened the yawning gulf between the purposes of universities – to educate kids – and the ambivalent reality of their athletic programs. Universities have tried for years to bridge the widening gap – most recently with 538 pages of rules – but it's getting tougher.

Frankly, I doubt anybody will ever legislate that kids can't leave college before they get their degrees in order to sign a rich pro contract. But at least some kind of connection between college athletics and university degrees would be established if the teams that sign players before they finish their degrees were to contribute the cost of their scholarships to a revolving fund.

Given the greed of both professional athletes and the owners, I'm not holding my breath.

STATE CAPITOL CAPSULES

Job for McMaster

Michigan Citizens Against Casino Gambling is launching a petition drive this week to place a constitutional amendment on the November 1988 ballot to override 1996's Proposal E allowing three casinos in Detroit.

The group, an offshoot of Michigan Interfaith Council on Alcohol Problems (MICAP), has hired Birmingham publicist Bill McMaster to guide the drive. It is looking for a fundraiser, too.

John Mecartney, president of the anti-casino group, argues that Proposal E, a legislative initiative, was passed because of "lies" by its supporters, and voters deserve a second chance.

A second part of the proposal will be a tax cut proposal, according to McMaster's outline. If approved, it will count all fees, fines, costs, interest, revenue from property, and revenue of the 15 state universities as part of the "total state revenues" under the Headlee Tax Limitation Amendment. "Any revenue collected in excess of the cap will be refunded to grassroots taxpayers as required in the Headlee Amendment," McMaster's battle plan says.

Michigan Citizens Against Casino Gambling's address is PO Box 24195, Detroit 48224. Phone is (313) 531-5461.

Gaming panel

Several suburban lawmakers are on a special subcommittee that will study bills permitting video gaming at bars, restaurants and horse racing tracks.

Reps. Eileen DeHart, D-Westland, Dan Gustafson, R-Williamston, and Frank Fitzgerald, R-Grand Ledge, are on the panel headed by Rep. Ilona Varga, D-Detroit. They were appointed by House floor leader Pat Gagliardi, D-Drummond, chair of the House Oversight and Ethics Committee.

House Bills 4409-4411, sponsored by Rep. Beverly Hammerstrom, R-Temperance, would limit the number of video gaming machines in places licensed to sell liquor. They provide that 23 to 25 percent of net proceeds will go to the start, with 70 percent going to transportation and 20 percent to school aid.

New bills

■ Rep. Gerald Law, R-Plymouth – six bills on pain management. The bills define "intractable pain," expand a state panel of pain symptom management, and define what health providers must provide, "including a full-time medical director certified in pain management." Health insurers will be required to state that they do (or don't) provide coverage for pain management. Reps. Penny Crissman, R-Rochester, and Kirk Profit, D-Ypsilanti, are co-sponsor.

■ Sen. Robert Geake, R-Northville – two bills to promote the use of electronic funds transfers and direct deposits. One would require welfare recipients, state employees and state pensioners to have checks deposited directly to their accounts. The second would allow private employers the option of paying workers through electronic fund transfers.

More absentees

Any registered voter could cast an absentee ballot under a bill passed by the Michigan House and sent to the Senate. Purpose is to promote mail-in voting, said sponsor Agnes Dobronski, D-Dearborn.

Currently, one may vote by absentee for any of six reasons, such as being age 60 or older, out of town, unable to go to the polls, and so on. The bill goes to the Senate, where its future may be in doubt.

Probe charters

House Speaker Curtis Hertel, D-Detroit, has asked Art Ellis, state superintendent of public instruction, to investigate allegations of improprieties at charter schools in Detroit and Lansing.

Hertel's goal: "proper state oversight of charter schools." The targets:

■ Baron's Academy, Detroit – operated by the Romulus School District. Detroit school officials have filed a civil suit alleging Romulus never properly received a charter and has enrolled fewer than the 2,000 pupils it claims in order to receive $9.4 million in state aid.

■ Walter French Academy, Lansing – which a student attended for one week in September before returning to Waverly High. The student continues to receive progress reports and report cards showing her attending classes at Walter French.

County hosts weekends in Hines

Motor vehicle traffic can present a significant hassle for people who enjoy skating, cycling, running or walking in the outdoors. But the expanded "Saturday and Sunday in the Park" will give visitors to Wayne County Parks twice the opportunity to enjoy traffic-free recreation at Hines Drive.

This year funding from the new 1/4 mill parks millage will allow Wayne County to close six miles of Hines Drive between Warrendale Picnic Area east of Telegraph to the Nankin Mills Area at Ann Arbor Trail to traffic from 9 a.m. to 3: 30 p.m. on Sundays, as well as Saturdays. This is the first full season of Saturday and Sunday in the Park, which will run through Sept. 28.

"This is one of the few places in southeastern Michigan where you'll find this much roadway set aside for these activities," said Hurley Coleman, Wayne County director of parks.

Parking is available at Merriman Hollow, Merriman Road and Hines Drive, and Nankin Mills Picnic Area, Hines Drive and Ann Arbor Trail.

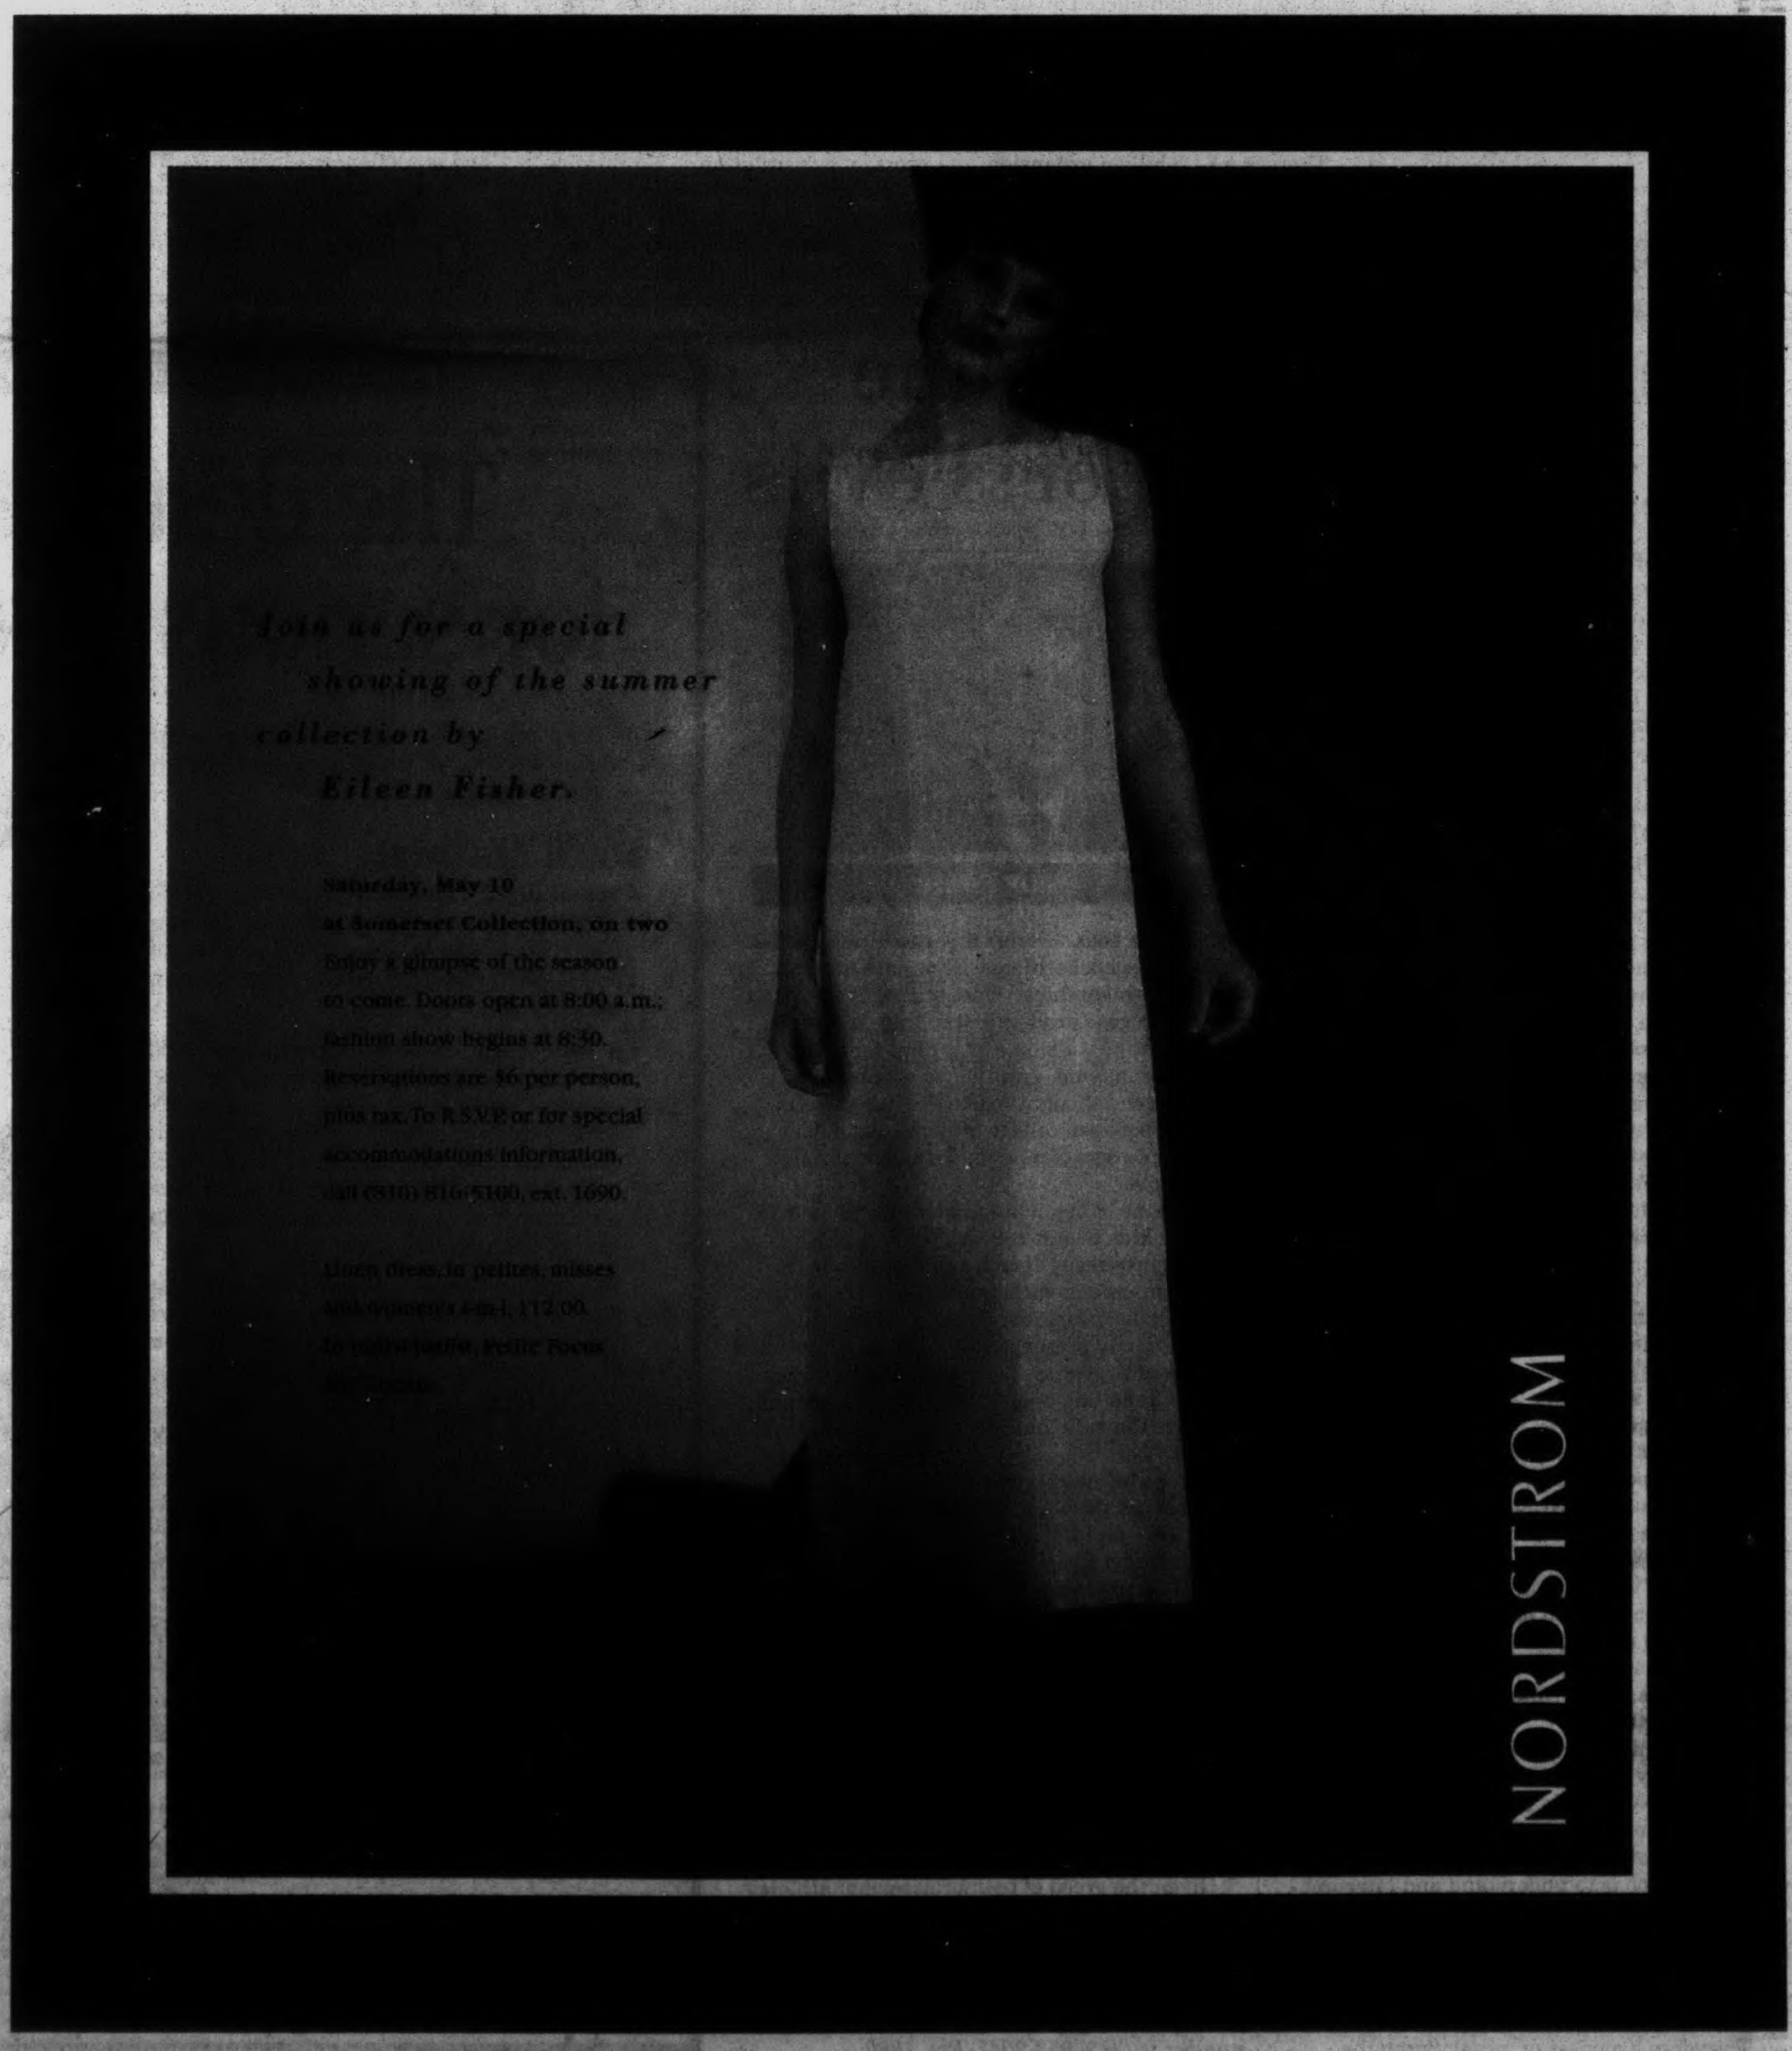

Rivers hosts area forum

U.S. Rep. Lynn Rivers, 13th District, has scheduled an educational forum to discuss the issue of campaign finance in presidential and Congressional elections. Anyone who has questions or concerns about campaign finance reform legislation is welcome to attend.

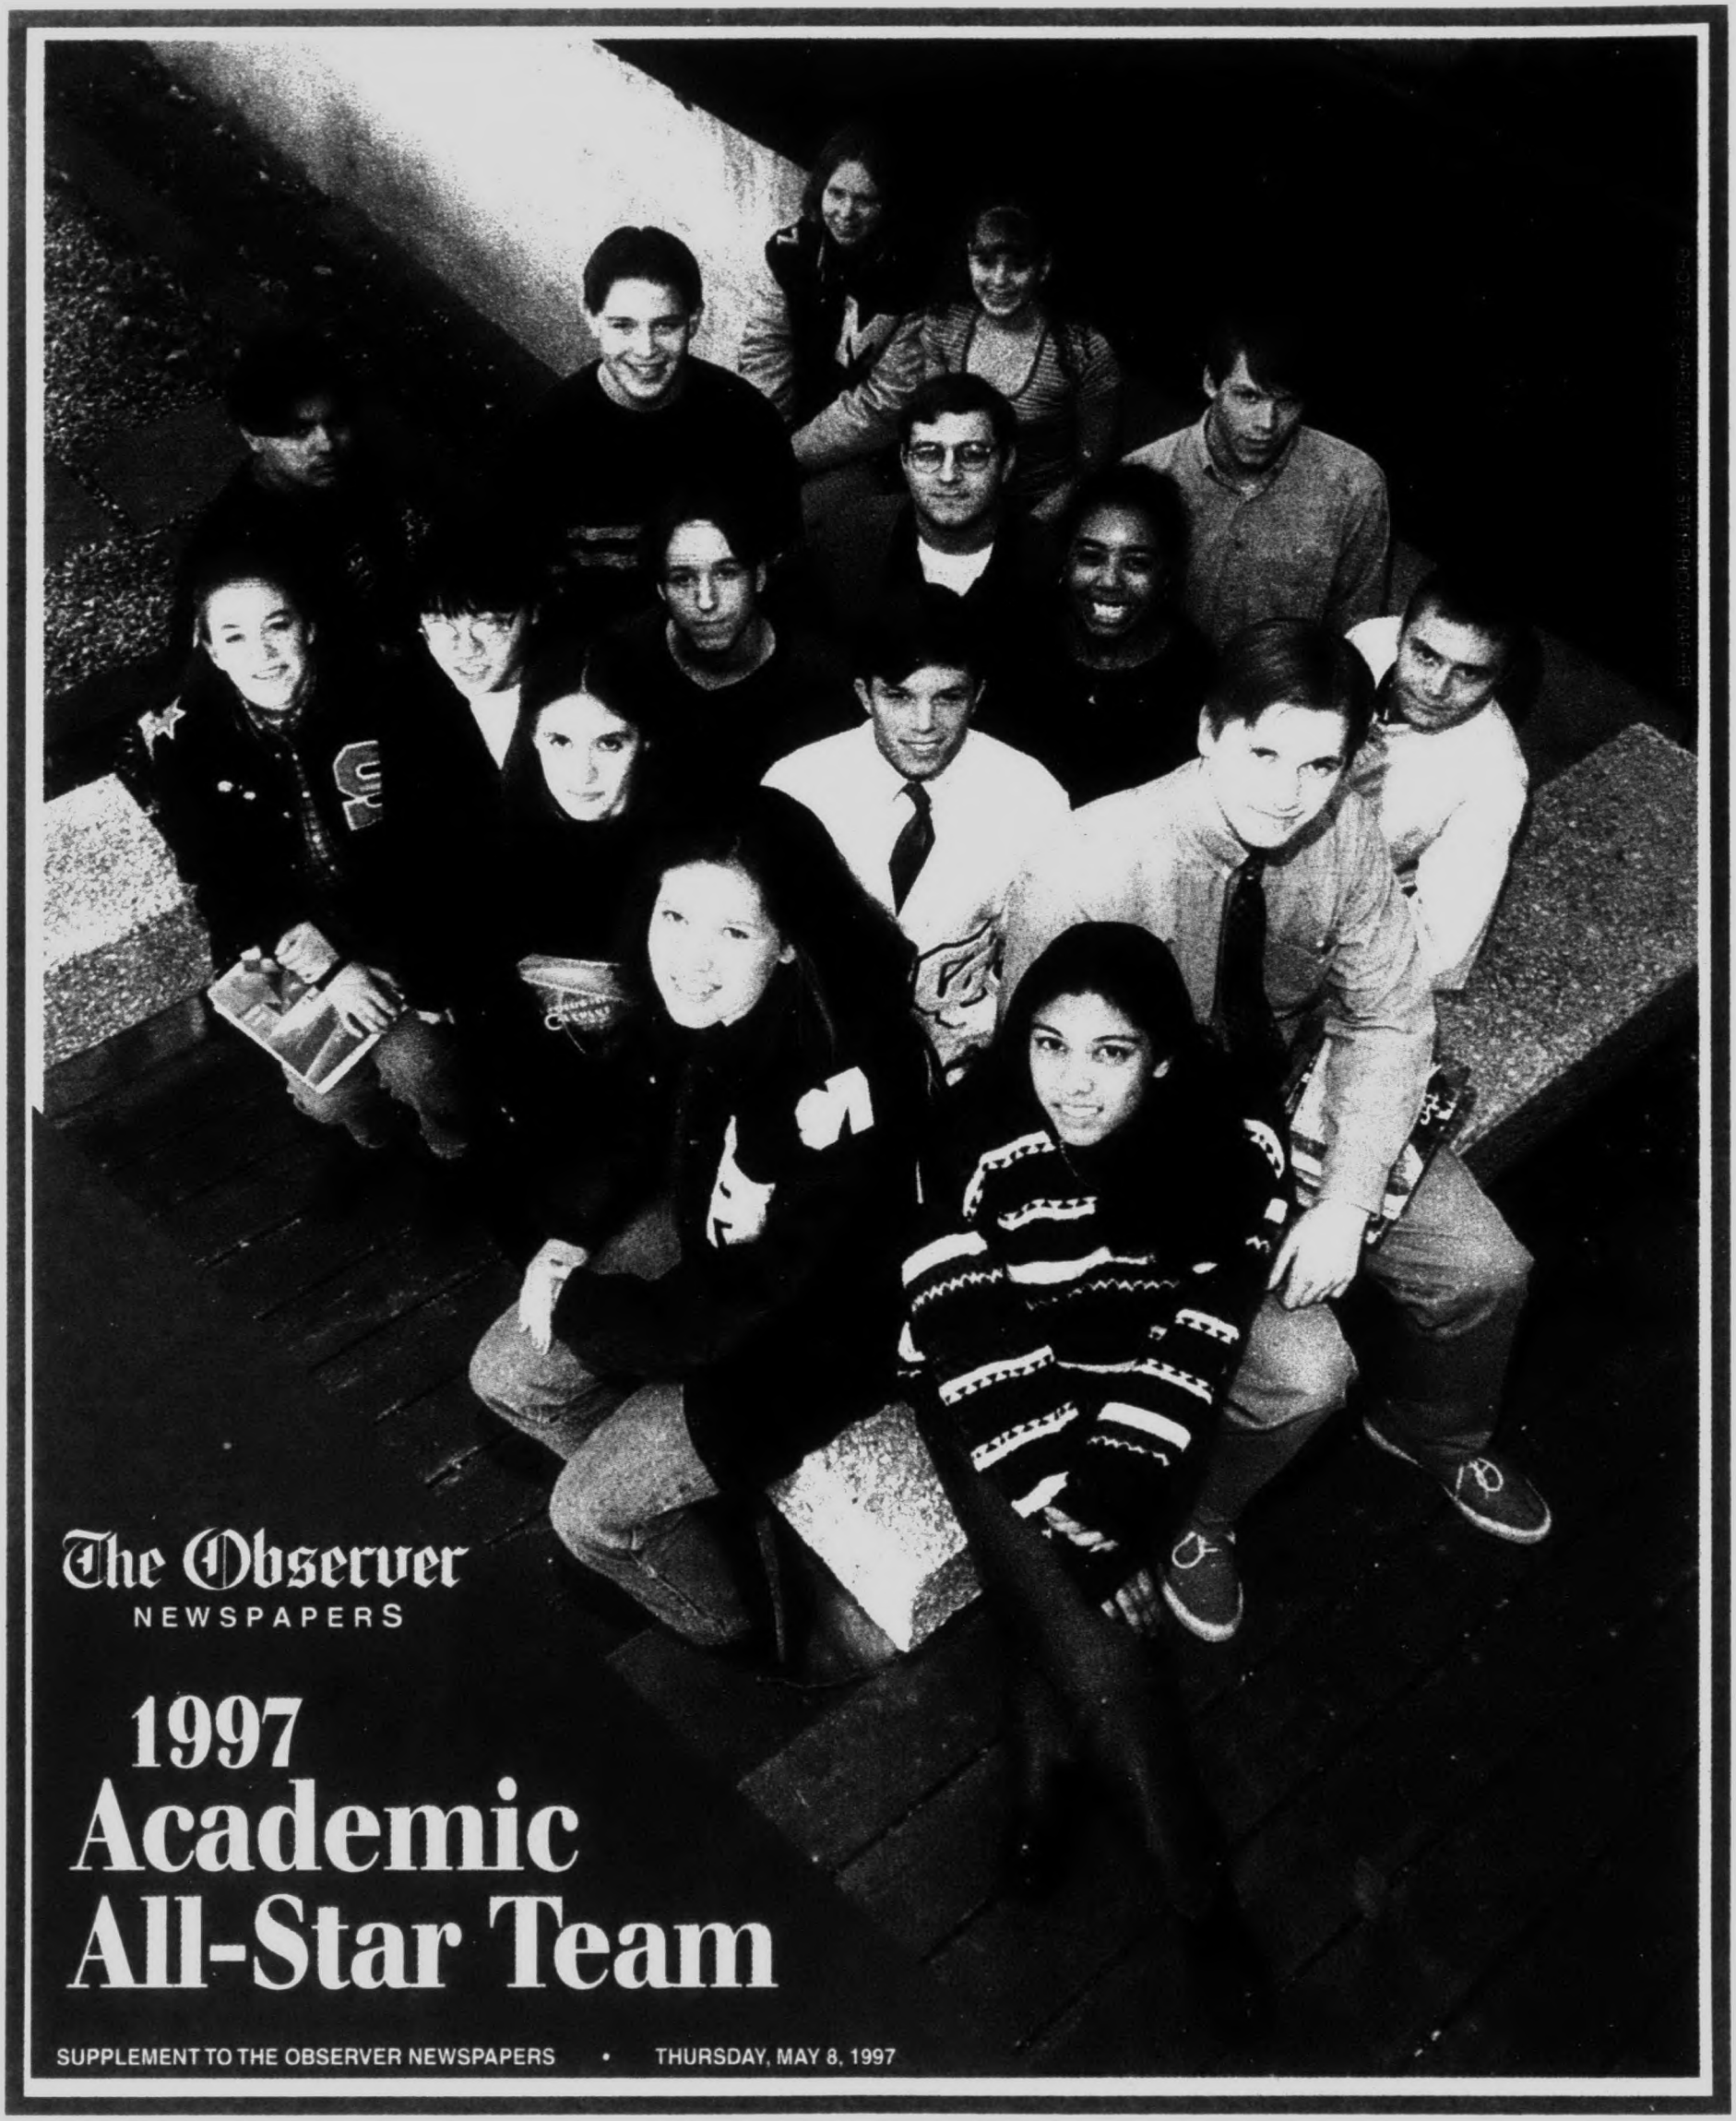

Rivers will be in Ypsilanti on Saturday from 9:30 a.m. -11:30 p.m. at the Eastern Michigan University Regents Room. Join panelists from Common Cause, American Civil Liberties Union, Republican National Committee, League of Women Voters and others.

For directions or further information, call Rivers' district office in Ann Arbor, (313) 741-4210.

1997 Academic All-Stars

All-Stars: Best and brightest

Meet 18 of the brightest, most accomplished metro area high school seniors, the 1997 Observer Academic All-Star Team.

Selected based on grade-point averages and college entrance test scores, these students are leaders in their class in extracurricular activities as well.

This year's team includes: Angkana Roy of Plymouth Canton High School, Brian Decker of Plymouth Salem High School, Christopher Parrott of Detroit Catholic Central in Redford Township, Michael Nye of Livonia Churchill, Abhik Shah of North Farmington, Stephen Smith of John Glenn, Brian Godfrey of Plymouth Canton, Ryan Schrieber of Detroit Catholic Central, Jennifer Yen of North Farmington, Brooke Kilyanek of Livonia Churchill, Hillary Whitcomb of Livonia Stevenson, Allison Kendall Jones of Mercy, Jerico Collins of Redford Thurston, William Chapin of Plymouth Salem, Anne Aristeo of Livonia Stevenson, Jennifer Lyons of John Glenn, Andrea Platt of Farmington Harrison and Jenny McDevitt of Mercy.

Angkana Roy
Plymouth Canton High School
Canton Township

Angkana Roy of Plymouth plans to major in English and biology at the University of Michigan. Her career choice is pediatrics.

Roy is a co-president of the Key Club, vice president of the National Honor Society, vice president of Student Council and a participant in the Math Olympics.

She participates in track and field and on the cross country team and has earned varsity letters in both.

Her academic honors include National Merit finalist, an MHSAA Scholar Athlete Regional finalist, University of Michigan Regents Scholarship, second place in a districtwide essay competition, and top 1 percent in the state for the past 2 years in Michigan Math Prize competition.

"The leaders of the present era are dedicated to rapid technological advancement, better communications, and global understanding. However, our generation will take these trends to new heights through astounding scientific phenomenon yet to be discovered. Virtual Reality and the Internet already allow to mentally be anywhere in the world while sitting in the living room. As geographical and political barriers are essentially eliminated, our generation will bring world peace closer than ever," she wrote of her expectations for her generation.

Roy is the daughter of Dhirendra and Manjusri Roy of Plymouth. She has a brother, Anindya K. Roy, 24.

Brian Decker
Plymouth Salem High School
Canton Township

Brian Decker of Plymouth plans to study computer science at Iowa State University or pre-medicine at Duke University.

He is a member of the National Honor Society and has participated in Varsity Quiz Bowl. He is also co-moderator for the church senior high fellowship and performs with the church choir.

His academic honors include the bronze award in the Michigan Math Prize Competition, National Merit semifinalist and Presidential Scholar nominee.

"I expect my generation to continue to make advances in science and technology. I think we will find the cure to many diseases, including AIDS and cancer and complete the formation of the global economy currently being developed," Decker wrote of his expectations for his generation's contribution to society.

Decker is the son of Frederick and Mary Decker. He has a brother, Steven, 19.

"I expect my generation to make advancements in medicine and prolong life expectancy. I also expect social equality to be extended to more people," she wrote of her expectations for her generation's contributions to society.

Kilyanek is the daughter of Karen E. Kilyanek.

Hillary J. Whitcomb
Stevenson High School
Livonia

Hillary J. Whitcomb of Livonia plans to attend Calvin College in Grand Rapids and major in history, concentrating on archaeology and languages, ancient and modern.

She has participated on the Quiz Bowl team and on the cross country and track and field teams. She has served as co-captain of the cross country team in her senior year.

She also has worked as a reporter and sports editor for the Spotlight school newspaper.

She has volunteered at Greenmead Historical Park as a costumed tour guide.

She is co-founder and has served as secretary and president of the Spanish Club. She is a member of the Livonia Historical Society.

She is a member of the symphonic choir and the National Honor Society.

Whitcomb is a National Merit Commended Scholar and is listed in Who's Who Among American High School Students. She was named an athletic conference scholar-athlete five times. She is on the summa cum laude honor roll and is an AP Scholar.

In response to the question what do you expect your generation to contribute to society, Whitcomb wrote a statement as if it were the year 2015 looking back at the changes:

"I have carefully tracked the changes in our society, both as a participant and as an historian watching a piece of the puzzle of world history being put into place. My generation has altered society greatly from how it was when I was younger. The greatest change that I see is in the level of tolerance. We are people who do not condemn or censure others for their differences, though many differences exist. People are more aware of other people than in previous years, and there are some secondary changes that I see as results of this."

"For example, products are more 'user friendly' than ever before. Manufacturers are considerate of their consumers and have incorporated this idea into their industries. As well, there is less physical violence in our society. Citizens have learned to accept each other unconditionally, not trying to force one another to conform to a specific pattern. Finally, I have seen a contribution in the area of health care. Medical professionals who once saw patients as diseases rather than as people with diseases have transformed hospitals and clinics into places where one feels welcome and secure, not frightened, as before. As human beings caring for one another, we have become a society more open, more tolerant, and assured of recognition among the great philanthropists of history."

Whitcomb is the daughter of James and Janet Whitcomb. She has three sisters, Katie, 15, Amanda, 11, and Elizabeth, 7.

Allison Kendall Jones
Mercy High School
Farmington Hills

Allison Kendall Jones is considering the fields of pre-medicine and education at Georgetown University, Washington University in St. Louis or at the University of Michigan.

She studies ballet and piano and also likes horseback riding. She takes sign language classes and participates in the student volunteer leadership program, a student-run program at Oakland Community College.

Jones is a member of the National Honor Society, the Model United Nations, Mercy Works volunteering club, and the Mercy Mime Troupe.

Jones tutors in both the mathematics and language departments. She volunteers as a tour guide for open houses and visits and entertains elderly Sisters of Mercy with Mercy Works.

Her academic honors include National Merit finalist, National Achievement finalist, being selected to attend "Operation Bentley" a government program at Albion College, selected to attend "Young Writers at Kenyon," a writing program at Kenyon College, ranked first in class junior and senior years. She won a statewide poetry contest during her junior year.

"My generation will reform our country's system of education so that everyone will have an equal opportunity to achieve their fullest potential," Jones said of her expectations for her generation's contribution to society.

Jones is the daughter of Harry E. and Judith D. Jones. She has a sister, Vanessa Jones, 12.

She plans to attend Stanford University.

"My generation is a group who is willing to make the world a fantastic place to live. We are technologically sound, environmentally aware, and hesitant to create violence on a world-wide scale," Aristeo wrote of her expectations for her generation's contributions to society.

Aristeo is the daughter of Joseph and Judith Aristeo of Livonia. She has a sister, Michelle, 11.

Jennifer Lyons
John Glenn High School
Westland

Jennifer Lyons of Canton Township plans to attend Michigan State University and major in a science-related field, possibly medicine.

She is a member of the National Honor Society. She plays varsity tennis and is treasurer of the French Club. She is a member of the Ski Club, the New Adventures Club and the Medical Explorers Group #1669.

Her academic honors include academic letters her junior and senior years and the John Glenn Honor Roll.

"Hopefully, my generation will re-examine what's really important and what's not," Lyons wrote of what she expects her generation to contribute to society.

Lyons is the daughter of Robert and Marianne Lyons. She has a sister, Megan, 13.

Andrea Platt
Harrison High School
Farmington Hills

Andrea Platt of Farmington Hills was a member of the marching band in ninth and 10th grades, and tennis co-captain in 11th and 12th grade. She also played varsity soccer.

She has served on student council, and as treasurer of the National Honor Society. She also serves on the Interact Club doing community service.

Her academic honors include Student Excellence Awards, the Superintendent's Excellence Award and academic letters.

She plans to major in engineering but hasn't decided on the school.

"I expect that we would have more regard for the future success of humanity rather than relish in current personal triumphs," she wrote of her expectations for her generation.

Platt is the daughter of Ruth and Bernard Platt. She has a brother, Robert Platt, 15, and a sister, Diana Platt, 11.

Jenny McDevitt
Mercy High School
Farmington Hills

Jenny McDevitt of Livonia plans to attend Kenyon College and study journalism.

She is a member of the National Honor Society and editor in chief of Lore, the Mercy High School yearbook. She has competed in varsity field hockey and track.

Her academic honors include an academic scholarship to the University of Michigan and Kenyon. She is a member of the Quill and Scroll International Society for high school journalists. She is an NCTE school representative and is ranked first in her class. She is a scholar-athlete.

"I expect my generation to use our advanced technology and further the studies of cures for cancer and AIDS. I also expect that we will improve race relations due to increased understanding and a desire to do so," McDevitt said of her expectations for her generation's contribution to society.

McDevitt is the daughter of Brenda and Paul McDevitt. She has a brother, Paul McDevitt Jr., 13.

Graduates Prepared to Enter Growing Careers

Making a decision about what college to attend is often based on a student's desire to pursue a particular career. The U.S. Bureau of Labor Statistics (BLS) projects that jobs which require a bachelor's degree or higher will experience an average growth of 23 percent through the year 2005.

Madonna University graduates enter the work force with a strong liberal arts education and career preparation. Following are some careers which the BLS has identified for growth.

Overall employment of kindergarten, elementary and secondary school teachers is expected to increase faster than the average, according to the BLS. Madonna University's elementary and secondary teacher preparation programs are approved by the Michigan Departmer of Education and accredited by the National Council for Accreditation of Teacher Education. Madonna offers master's degrees in teaching and educational leadership.

Job prospects in nursing are good, according to the BLS. Madonna's bachelor of science degree in nursing is accredited by the National League for Nursing. In addition to an outstanding undergraduate program, the University also offers a master's degree in nursing; graduate and undergraduate programs in hospice; and a master's degree in health services.

Employment of police officers, detectives and special agents is expected to increase. The University offers a bachelor or an associate degree, as well as a certificate of achievement in criminal justice.

Madonna University Abolishes Application Fee to Lessen Burden for Students, Parents

The fee for applying to colleges in Michigan generally ranges from $20 to $40 per school. As for the number of higher education institutions to which students apply, it varies, but is supposedly increasing now that the process has been simplified through World Wide Web.

As Madonna University in Livonia celebrates its 50th anniversary this year, its administration, looking at ways to make students feel welcome, has chosen to eliminate the application fee for all students applying to Madonna. This was done to remove any barriers that may prohibit students from entering higher education.

"We want students to know that they are welcome here," said Sister M. Francilene, CSSF, Madonna University president. "This was a major consideration for our university because of the loss of income generated by application fees. We will absorb this loss through our operational budget."

The University, which has a large transfer student population (approximately 70 percent of the 3,972 men and women who attend Madonna University are transfer students), feels that transfer students have already paid an application fee at the previous college they attended.

"We will be assisting the transfer students to continue their educational goals and at the same time will be acknowledging that they are already members of the higher education community," said Sr. Francilene.

Kim Imperati

Madonna University students Kimberly Imperati of Livonia and Kate Smith of Southfield feel the elimination of the application fee will be encouraging to students. "This offers students an opportunity to learn more about Madonna University," said Kate Smith. "Since they won't have to pay a fee to apply, they will feel more welcome and will want to check out what Madonna has to offer."

Kate Smith

Kim Imperati said that often students may be interested in a program, but they are not familiar with the school. "Now that they won't have to pay to be considered, they have nothing to lose by applying to find out if it is the right school for them."

New Programs Offer Opportunities

Consistent with its mission, Madonna University has started new programs which combine a strong liberal arts foundation with solid career preparation.

HHH Individuals working in sales, or those who aspire to a sales career, can improve their knowledge and skills in the Sales Specialist Certificate Program at Madonna University.

The Sales Specialist Certificate Program integrates the study of marketing, use of selling strategies, and a focus on customer service. Upon completion, admitted students are awarded a Sales Specialist Certificate by the Madonna University School of Business.

Classes are held in the evening once a week, so that working adults can take advantage of the course of study.

For more information, contact the School of Business at 313/432-5355.

HHH Beginning this fall, Madonna University and Schoolcraft College in Livonia will offer an innovative, technology-driven degree program where students can earn an associate, bachelor and master degree in business in four years.

Students enrolled in the Online Multi-degrees in National and International Business (OMNIBUS) program need visit campus only five times in total because classes will be delivered by a variety of distance learning technologies such as e-mail, Internet, telecourses and audiotapes.

"As a public institution, we are pleased to forge a partnership with a private university to bring this concept to the national and international marketplace," stated Dr. Conway Jeffress, vice president for instruction and student services at Schoolcraft College.

"This unique educational opportunity is designed for working adults who are seeking training, certification and credentials to meet the needs of a highly competitive workplace," said Dr. Ernest Nolan, vice president for academic affairs at Madonna University .

For information about OMNIBUS, contact 313/462-4599 or e-mail omnibus@cca.munet.edu.

HHH Identifying the need for Catholic school administrators to be skilled not only in curriculum, human resource and finance areas, but also as leaders in religious education ministry, the Archdiocese of Detroit Office for Catholic Schools, Madonna University and Sacred Heart Major Seminary have become partners in offering a Master of Science in Administration degree in Catholic School Leadership.

For more information, contact Madonna University's Office of Graduate Studies at 313/432-5667.

The Fighting Crusaders Join WHAC

Beginning July 1, Madonna University will officially become a member of the Wolverine-Hoosier Athletic Conference (WHAC).

Madonna University has been competing as an independent institution in the Great Lakes Region of the National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics (NAIA) and will continue to play the same teams as a WHAC member, participating in six WHAC-sponsored sports (men's/women's basketball, baseball, men's soccer, softball and volleyball).

"This is a big step for our athletic program and an important piece of the puzzle in gaining regional and national recognition," said Madonna University Athletic Director Ray Summers.

Gaining admittance has been a culmination of two years of work by Madonna and WHAC, however, the move was unanimously approved by the six presidents of the WHAC-member institutions at their meeting in September.

Member institutions which currently make up WHAC are Aquinas College, Concordia College, Cornerstone College, Siena Heights College, Spring Arbor College and Tri-State University.

"The addition of Madonna University is a positive move for our conference," said WHAC Commissioner Rob Miller. "Our members are truly some of the finest institutions and people in the arena of athletics and we feel that as Madonna University continues to strengthen its athletic programs, it is and will be a benefit to the WHAC."

Madonna University has developed into a national power in three sports: volleyball, baseball and softball and is expected to have immediate impact in the Wolverine-Hoosier Athletic Conference in 1997-98. Athletic scholarships and grants are available. Call the Athletic Department, 313/432-5610.

Intellectual, Spiritual and Personal Growth

Dennis Murphy, a senior at Madonna, feels that the University's liberal arts education offers him a tremendous advantage, and the night classes allow him to advance his career by day.

Student organizations, such as the DASH Club (Deaf, ASL, Sign Language, and Hard of Hearing), also offer unique learning experiences outside of the classroom. At right: Savita Singh, blindfolded and a junior at Madonna University, is led by guide dog Kira and Kristen Milligan, trainer from the Michigan Leader Dogs for the Blind and Madonna University freshman.

At Madonna University, learning not only extends beyond the classroom but beyond borders. In March 1997, students participated in a service-learning trip to Morelia, Mexico. At left: Sherrie Williams, sophomore; Stacie Blair, senior; Laura Morelli, senior; Caitlin Hoen, freshman; and Brooke Pitts, senior, visit with students at a preschool.

Tuition Remains Affordable, Subsidized

University Focuses on Serving Students

Determined to remain accessible and affordable for a diverse student body, Madonna University's administration and board of trustees has approved tuition fees for the 1997-1998 academic year. Again, Madonna University remains the most affordable independent liberal arts university in Michigan. Annual full-time tuition based on 30 semester hours, plus registration and technology fees will be $6,040.

Undergraduate tuition will be $198 per semester hour; nursing tuition, $248; and graduate tuition, $250. Room and board will be $4,334, which is based on semi-private room and a meal plan.

Students will no longer have to pay a registration fee at the time of registration. The $50 registration and technology fee will be billed along with tuition. This fee includes the use of the academic computer lab with access to the Internet, e-mail and World Wide Web.

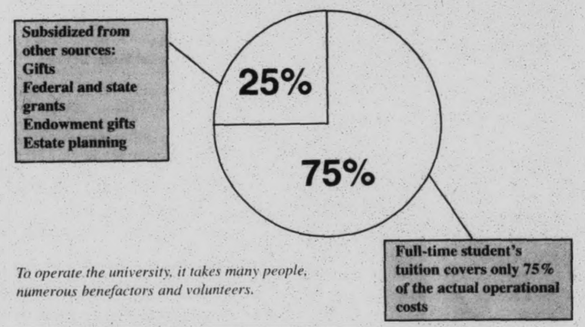

"This all ties in with wanting to provide students the service they deserve," added Sister Francilene. "Our students can come in and register without paying any money up front."

"It can be truly said that all Madonna University students receive an institutional grant or scholarship, amounting to approximately 25% of the cost of their education."
Sister M. Francilene, CSSF, President

Since tuition covers only 75 percent of the actual cost for a student's education at Madonna, the University will continue to rely on additional support to cover the remaining 25 percent. Funding will be sought through corporate, foundation and competitive government grants, fundraising activities, earnings on endowment and charitable gifts. Over 50 percent of Madonna University students receive additional financial assistance.

The Cost of A Madonna University Education

A student's education at Madonna University is still the most affordable among all independent liberal arts universities and colleges in Michigan.

To operate the university, it takes many people, numerous benefactors and volunteers.

1997-98 Tuition Rates: $198 per semester hour @ 30 semester hours = $6,040 (this includes registration and technology fees)

Tuition Rates 1997-98
(per semester hour)

Regular	$198
Nursing	$248
Graduate	$250

1997 Academic All-Stars

Principals select All-Stars

They gather once a year and make their tabulations.

The Observer & Eccentric Academic All-Star Team Selection Committee meets at the Observer Newspapers building in Livonia and reviews nomination forms and makes calculations to choose the Academic All-Star teams for the Observer Newspapers and the Eccentric Newspapers.

This year four area high school administrators took on the task: Larry W. Boehms, principal of Troy High School; Carol Miller, assistant principal of Troy High School; Bob Cross, principal of Troy Athens High School and Dale Coller, principal of Livonia Stevenson High School.

"Great kids, lots of great kids," is how Coller described the nominees.

The group reviewed nomination forms from about 50 public and private high schools in the Observer & Eccentric readership area.

Selection criteria are test scores and grade point averages.

A single score is given to each student. This score is tallied by a combination of the highest score earned on either the ACT or SAT and grade point average. Using this total score, students are then ranked.

This year 18 students were selected to the Observer Academic All-Star Team, while 20 students were selected to the Eccentric Academic All-Star Team.

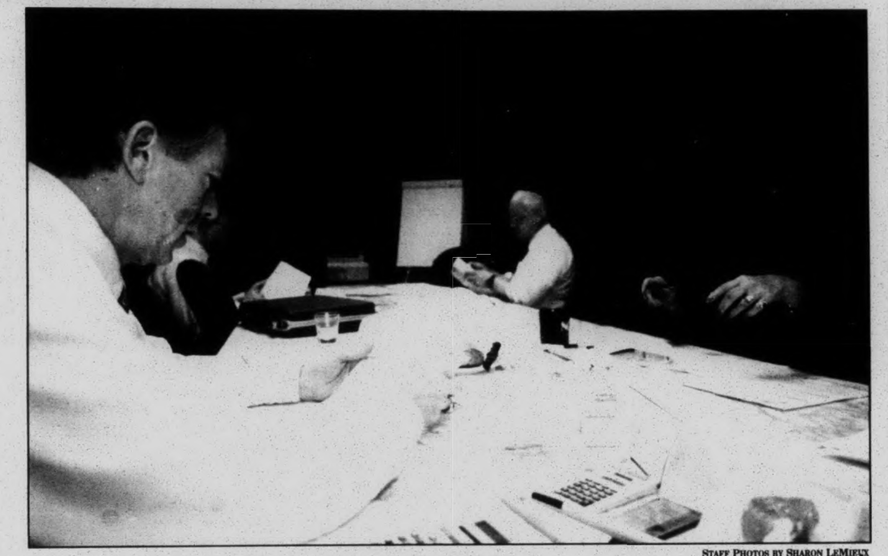

The Observer team had students nominated from schools in Farmington and Farmington Hills, Livonia, Redford, Westland, Garden City, Plymouth and Canton. The Eccentric team had students nominated from schools in Rochester, Rochester Hills, Troy, West Bloomfield, Bloomfield Hills, Birmingham, Southfield, Clarkston, Lake Orion and Oxford.

It is the 12th anniversary of the Observer & Eccentric Newspapers Academic All-Star teams. The idea was born in 1985 when Robert Schramke, then principal of Redford Union High School, approached the O&E with the idea of honoring students for academic achievement in the way students have been honored for exceptional athletic ability.

Students honored for their academic achievement will receive the latest edition of Webster's New World Dictionary and a special certificate of recognition.

WSDP radio gets ready for annual auction

BY CHRISTINA FUOCO
STAFF WRITER

With Red Wings and Pistons playoff fever in full swing, a Steve Yzerman autographed puck and a T-shirt signed by Rick Mahorn should be hot items at the auction for Plymouth-Canton Community Schools' radio station WSDP 88.1 FM.

"The Red Wings have been really good to us," said Bill Keith, station manager for WSDP. "I was thinking I may run out and buy some Red Wings memorabilia. One year we had a Paul Coffey autographed plaque, and it went for more than it was valued at."

The 25-year-old radio station is having its seventh on-air auction 9 a.m. to 10 p.m. Saturday, May 10. Each half hour a new group of items will be placed up for bid. A "Dream Board" of special items is available for bid all day long. For more information about the auction, call WSDP at (313) 416-7732.

Besides the Red Wings, more than 150 area businesses and residents have donated items to the auction. For example, A New Attitude Salon has donated a manicure and haircut, with four passes for one lesson each from American Karate, 8.81 grams of gold from Crystal Diamond Setters, four two-hour art classes from D&M Studios and a one-hour decorating in-home consultation from Orchid Interiors.

Listeners will be able to bid for meals at Boston Market, BJ's Bowery, Bob Evans, Platos, Lee's Famous Chicken, Izakaya Sanpei, Johnson's Family Restaurant, Marco's Pizza, Mexican Fiesta, Old Country Buffet, Omelette and Waffle Cafe, Pizza Hut, Palermo's and Uncle Frank's Chicagos and Coneys.

For music lovers

Music fans can make offers on gift certificates at Arnoldt Williams Music, an autographed CDs from Over the Rhine, Couriers, Judy Plester and Mulligan Stew, autographed posters from The Verve Pipe, three $10 gift certificates at Dearborn Music, and CDs and cassettes from Warner Bros. Tickets for concerts by Luscious Jackson and Built to Spill, Rollins Band and Dinosaur Jr. are up for grabs.

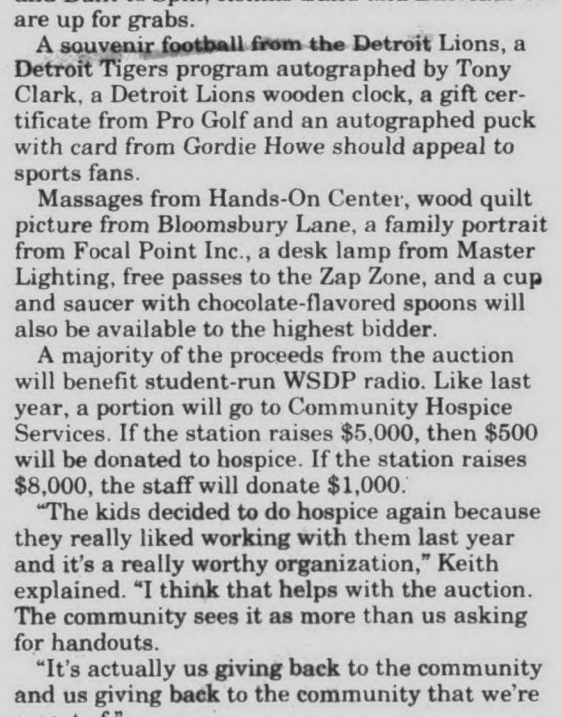

A souvenir football from the Detroit Lions, a Detroit Tigers program autographed by Tony Clark, a Detroit Lions wooden clock, a gift certificate from Pro Golf and an autographed puck with card from Gordie Howe should appeal to sports fans.

Massages from Hands-On Center, wood quilt picture from Bloomsbury Lane, a family portrait from Focal Point Inc., a desk lamp from Master Lighting, free passes to the Zap Zone, and a cup and saucer with chocolate-flavored spoons will also be available to the highest bidder.

A majority of the proceeds from the auction will benefit student-run WSDP radio. Like last year, a portion will go to Community Hospice Services. If the station raises $5,000, then $500 will be donated to hospice. If the station raises $8,000, the staff will donate $1,000.

"The kids decided to do hospice again because they really liked working with them last year and it's a really worthy organization," Keith explained. "I think that helps with the auction. The community sees it as more than us asking for handouts.

"It's actually us giving back to the community and us giving back to the community that we're a part of."

Maggie rallies support for CF

BY SUE MASON
STAFF WRITER

Last year, they raised more than $13,000. This year, they have yet to hit their stride, but have already raised more than $10,000.

First, it was the 32 people who turned out to walk with the "Magpie" at Maybury State Park last May for the Cystic Fibrosis Foundation's annual Great Strides walk for a cure.

The goal was to raise $41,000 through the Northville walk, but the final tally came in at $67,800, $10,271 of which was raised by Team Ronayne.

Then there was the card party, staged by the Magpie's grandparents, and the $2,400 or so raised at a toy and bake sale staged by the Magpie's cousins and which featured 14 dozen cookies baked by her grandfather, not to mention $822 raised through a pay to dress business casual day held at Compuware.

Then came the piece de resistance, the Feb. 15 "Dancing for the Magpie," an evening of food, fun and dancing, that raised more than $10,000.

It goes without saying that the Cystic Fibrosis Foundation is elated with Brendan and Donna Ronayne, their friends and family members who are helping raise money for CF research in the name of the Ronaynes' 18-month-old daughter, Maggie. The toddler was diagnosed with the most common fatal genetic disease in April 1996.

"This is just a dynamic family," said Shari Peters, director of special events. "Anything they do for CF is fantastic."

But the Plymouth Township residents have been "overwhelmed" by how friends and family members have rallied to their cause. The efforts of Team Ronayne at Great Strides was "staggering" and the response to the dance "just blew me away," said Donna.

Donna credits friend Maureen Jenkins with coming up with the idea of the dance and convincing her to do it. She also heaps praise on the businesses that provided the food, including Jim Grutza of Papa Romano's Eatery and Tavern in Plymouth which matched the 50 percent discount Papa Romano's corporate office offered on the 45 deep dish pizzas the party goers enjoyed.

"Some 270 people showed up," she said. "Family, friends ... we mailed invitations to everyone in our address book. I never did this before (asking people for donations) and people just said yes and just blew me away."

And it's hard telling what will happen with Team Ronayne at this year's Great Strides walk considering "many team members kept saying, 'Just wait until next year; give us a little more lead time and we'll show them,' " the couple wrote in a thank you letter.

The Ronaynes have made a commitment to help in finding a cure for the disease. In 1989, researchers identified the CF gene and, in 1993, began the first gene therapy studies,

Walkers turn out for Great Strides

Great Strides: A Walk to Cure Cystic Fibrosis is one of the many events the Cystic Fibrosis Foundation' Metropolitan Detroit Chapter sponsors to raise much needed money for research, patient care and education.

Due to the overwhelming response to the event, the foundation has expanded its walk sites this year to include Ann Arbor. On Saturday, May 17, the walks will be at Bloomer Park in Rochester and Gallup Park in Ann Arbor, with a walk set for Sunday, May 18, at Maybury State Park in Northville.

Check-in times for the Saturday walks will be 11 a.m. and start at noon. Check-in for the Sunday walk will be noon with a 1 p.m. start.

The walk is an event the entire family can participate in. Walkers are asked to raise at least $150 through prepaid pledges. Walkers who preregister with a minimum $50 pledge will receive a CF T-shirt and all participants will be treated to picnic at the end of their walk.

The walker who raise the most money (more than $1,000) in this CF region will receive two round-trip coach class tickets on American Airlines/ American Eagle in the contiguous United States and Canada.

Among the other pledge prizes are a 13-inch color TV with remote, video cassette recorder, cordless telephone, portable AM-FM dual cassette player, AM-FM personal headset radio and AM-FM clock radio.

Chrysler Corporation is title sponsor for Great Strides with Snapple, Domino's Pizza, Arbor Springs Water and The Produce Station providing the food and beverages.

Pledge forms are available by calling Shari Peters at (313) 998-1234.

Cystic Fibrosis is the number one genetic killer of children and young adults in the United States. It is a complex disease caused by a defective gene which creates dangerously thick mucus. This abnormal mucus leads to chronic and eventually fatal lung infections and also interferes with digestion.

The challenge of the Cystic Fibrosis Foundation and its 70 chapters nationwide is to raise money to fund research and make a difference in the lives of those with the disease.

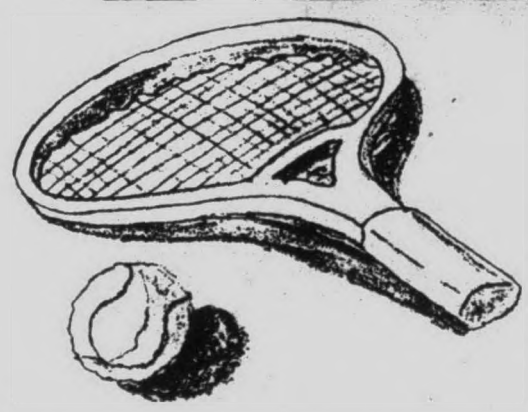

Of the money raised through benefits like this year's Great Strides walks, 90.5 cents goes to research, patient care at 113 CF care clinics nationwide, and education.

Currently, there is no cure for CF, but scientist have made remarkable progress since identifying the gene which, when defective, causes the disease and the gene's defective protein product.

which for the first time targeted the root cause of CF, a defective gene.

"In the 1960s, the life expectancy was 10 years, now it is 29-30 with the new treatment and medicines," Donna said. "Now, there are CF children living into their 20s, getting married and having children of their own."

While she is confident about Maggie's future, she admits life was not quite so rosy a year ago for the family that includes daughters Kaley, 7, a first-grade student at Our Lady of Good Counsel School, and Jessie, 4. It "was like a bad movie with no end."

As an infant, Maggie had difficult gaining weight and seem to have a lot of colds. When she slept, she did what Donna calls snorkeling because of mucus in her lungs. Food supplements couldn't get the 4-month-old's weight up much higher than 10 pounds and the labored breathing prompted doctors at University of Michigan Hospital to do a wet test to check the level of salt in her sweat. On April 1, doctors called to say the level was "very high."

Maggie is like a vast majority (85 percent) of children diagnosed with CF. She has both respiratory and digestive problems. Her very salty-tasting skin and an excessive appetite but poor weight gain are some of the common symptoms of CF, caused when the body produces an abnormally thick, sticky mucus that clogs the lungs and obstructs the pancreas, preventing enzymes from reaching the intestines to digest food.

Because of the CF, she lacks vitamins A, D, E and K; she receives special vitamins once of day. She also takes enzymes before each meal to help her body absorb fat and protein.

Three times a day she receives breathing treatments, which increase to four when she has a runny nose, and has physical therapy twice a day. Rhythmic and lasting 30-40 minutes, it's done at bed time because it helps Maggie sleep, but Donna admits doing it is "like trying to hit a moving target."

There's also doses of maintenance antibiotics, given to her when she's half asleep. Maggie doesn't like the taste of the medicine and spits it out, Donna said.

The illness took an toll on the family. A few months after the diagnosis, Kaley wondered if they were ever going to be a family again because Maggie was always sick.

And Jessie wondered why her parents were doing everything for her baby sister and nothing for her, or asked Donna if she remembered doing breathing treatments with her when she was young.

"I'd say yes," Donna said. "At the time of the diagnosis, Jessie asked if we were going to keep Maggie. It was hard in Jessie because she was the middle child. It was hard with a baby coming in, let alone a special needs baby."

The disease also is a strain financially. One prescription that Maggie takes twice a day to break up the sticky mucus costs $2,300 per month, although the Ronaynes can get it for $1,800 through the Cystic Fibrosis Pharmacy in Bethesda, Md.

Children's Special Health Care Services has helped reduced some of the cost. It covers expenses related to Maggie's CF with the Ronaynes covering the 20 percent co-pay.

In spite of it all, Donna said the family wouldn't think of letting Maggie go. Her sisters have even made wishes before blowing on dandelions and breaking wishbones that there will some day be no CF.

"Sometimes ignorance is bliss," said Donna, watching her children play. "Sometimes I look at her and wonder how severe it is, how long she will live, how bad her lungs are. We love her and wouldn't trade her for anything."

Camps are popular with kids, parents

Summer camps: popular attraction for families

The time for children and teenagers to exchange school books for back packs and classrooms for campfires is fast approaching. Overall, six million young people will learn new skills, build self-esteem, meet new friends, and create lasting memories at day and resident camps.

"We believe camp gives kids a world of good," says Schultz, - and so do millions of others," said Bob Schultz, director of public relations for the American Camping Association (ACA). "That is why we are seeing more and more camps filling up sooner each year."

According to ACA, the national organization which sets the standards for the summer camp profession, nearly 50 percent of the camps responding to their annual summer camp survey reported that their summer camp enrollment was increasing at an average rate of 13.5 percent.

"Parents recognize that camp experiences contribute to the successful development. of their children," said Schultz, "and camp directors and staff are their summer partners in parenting."

Child and youth development professionals agree. Dr. Peter Scales, a nationally noted child psychologist and senior fellow of the Search Institute, cites that the biggest plus of camp is that camps help young people discover and explore their talents, interests and values.

REAL ESTATE UPDATE
Chris Knight

WE MAKE YOUR GOALS ...OUR GOALS

When we help prospective buyers locate a new home in the Plymouth and Canton areas, we listen carefully to your goals. What are your criteria for selecting a neighborhood, what style of house do you prefer, what price range and floor plan meet your needs? Are there any special considerations that will go into making your decision? When we have a good picture of what you want, we will go to work as the master matchmaker to find the best property on the market for your needs.

Our agents succeed when they can make our buyers' goals their goals. Finding you the perfect home is a collaborative effort. The buyers communicate what they want, why they want it, and where compromise might be possible, and the agent listens carefully and selects the homes that might come as close as possible to meeting the needs expressed. When there is trust and communication between you and the Realtor you are working with, miracles can happen! Creating these miracles for buyers and sellers is "Job #1" for us.

If you are considering a move, call Chris Knight at Coldwell Banker Schweitzer Real estate, 313-453-6800.

'Too Old' Gold goes 50/50 for Magic Ride

BY SUE MASON
STAFF WRITER

It's a 50/50 kind of year for Steve "Too Old" Gold, but not in the raffle sense.

He looks on it in terms of age and distance. In July he turns 50; next weekend he'll be riding 50 miles on his bicycle, hopefully getting people to pledge $50 each for the effort.

"People regard 50 miles as an impossible distance to ride on a bike," said Gold, director of planning and evaluation for the Wayne County Health Department in Westland. "But as long as the weather is within reason, it's a tolerable distance."

Gold will be logging his seventh year, participating in the eighth annual Southeast Michigan Warm-Up Magic Ride slated for 7 a.m. to 3 p.m. Saturday, May 17, at the Canton Recreational Complex on Canton Center Road, south of Cherry Hill.

Rain or shine, riders and walkers of all ages will hit the highways and byways of Wayne and Washtenaw counties to raise funds for the Child Abuse Prevention Council of Out-Wayne County.

"We are really trying to encourage parents with young children to participate so that the children can grow with this event," said Sandra Murphy, CAPCo's executive director. "We are hoping to raise $10,000. In the past, it's been $8,000 to $15,000."

■ 'Any trip I can substitute a bike for a car, I do. But it's a time consideration when I use the gas monster.'

Steve 'Too Old' Gold
–Wayne County Health Department

Varied distances

Riders and walkers collect per mile pledges. The bike routes are 5, 15, 25, and 50 miles along paved, country roads with low volumes of traffic in most areas, while the walking paths suitable for walkers and children in strollers or on tricycles.

There are two rest stops along the bike routes, staffed with nurses from Oakwood Healthcare Center-Canton, and water and refreshments along the routes. There also will be a SAG vehicle to take care of emergencies and breakdowns along the routes.

Gold "theoretically is an avid bicyclist," riding whenever possible, although his two-wheeler is a Schwinn Suburban with traditional handle bars as opposed to some of today's more expensive models.

"Both the bike and I are the antiques out there," he said with a chuckle. "Any trip I can substitute a bike for a car, I do. But it's a time consideration when I use the gas monster."

The ride is "kind of a friendly competition" with the Oakwood Health Care System, and Gold tries to get as much as he can in the way of pledges. His goal is to get 100 people to pledge and raise $2,000. Some years he's more successful than others.

It takes Gold 3 1/2-4 hours to complete the course and afterwards he writes a travelogue of the ride to make it entertaining for his supporters. Because this is his 50/50 year, he also plans on giving supporters who pledge $50 or more a surprise gift.

"I'm somewhat of a cash cow for CAPCo," said Gold. "Some years, friends have ridden along, but most follow the American tradition of 'Oh, I can't do that, but I'll pledge.' "

Held each year in May, the Warm-Up Ride is a prelude to the actual Magic Ride held in July in Lansing and attracts a bevy of local celebrity riders. Among dignitaries riding or walking the Celebrity Mile at 10:30 a.m. will be State Sen. Loren Bennett, R-Canton, State Rep. Lyn Bankes, R-Redford, U.S. Rep. Lynn Rivers, D-Ann Arbor, Plymouth Township Supervisor Kathleen Keen McCarthy, Canton Township Supervisor Tom Yack and Wayne County Commissioner Bruce Patterson.

Family fun

The local event emphasizes family fun, with Silver Sounds Professional DJ playing music and giving away prizes, beginning at 9 a.m. Marc Thomas & Max the Moose also will entertain at a free concert at 11:30 a.m. at the Heritage Park Amphitheatre. At 12:30 p.m., children also can enjoy hands-on experiences with goop, flubber and clean mud at "Something to Do" by Tickle the Earth Inc.

Registration is 7-10:30 a.m. at the recreation complex, with a free lunch for riders and walkers ($3 for all others), provided by Bruegger's Bagels Bakeries, Archway Cookies Inc. and Pepsi Cola, served 10 a.m. to 1 p.m.

The cost for participating in Magic Ride is $10 without a T-shirt and $15 with at T-shirt for those who register before Friday, May 9, $15 without a T-shirt and $20 with a T-shirt for registrations after that date. There also is a $40 family rate (four members) for four registrations and four T-shirts before May 9 and $50 thereafter.

Participants who preregister will be guaranteed lunch and receive a coupon for a free bicycle safety check by Jerry's Bicycle & Fitness in Plymouth. Same-day registrants will be served lunch on a first come-first served basis.

For more information about the Southeast Michigan Magic Ride for Kids, call CAPCo at (313) 721-5901. People interested in helping Steve "Too Old" Gold meet his goal can send pledges of $5 or more to him care of the Wayne County Health Department, 2501 Merriman, Westland 48186.

CAPCo got its start as a task force in 1975. Composed of individuals and agencies working together to prevent child abuse and neglect, it sponsors numerous child-abuse education and awareness programs in schools and communities throughout out-Wayne County each year.

Nina and Joe help children cope with their illnesses

"My relationship with each child is as fragile as a string of pearls," says Shira Blum describing the daily challenge of helping children cope with a terminal illness or deal with the loss of a family member or classmate.

A child life specialist for Care-ousel, Arbor Hospice's care for kid's program, Blum sees her relationship with each child as a chance to "walk with them on their individual journey, respecting where they are at any given moment and being with them at their emotional level."

Play, art, group sessions and counseling help children and teens cope with their disease and intense emotional reactions. Play is a child's work, according to Blum, holding up "Nina" to show how the anatomically correct rag doll and her companion doll, "Joe," can be used to help children after surgery through role playing.

"By taking on the child's illness, the doll assumes the same personality by expressing the child's concerns," Blum said.

With the doll as the patient Blum becomes the doctor and the child her assistant. Step by step, Blum tells what is happening and why.

The doll, often mirroring the child's own emotions, expresses feelings such as fear and anxiety. Through role reversal – the child becomes doctor – Blum makes sure that the young patient truly understands the procedure and surgery and has integrated the information about their bodies, medications and even the instruments used.

"This is an important reality check to make certain the child is fully understanding," she said. "Communication becomes more of an issue as children and teens realize they are dying. Many have a need to protect their parents, relatives and close friends, to maintain a form of mutual pretense."

To cope daily, "there can be a pretense between adult and child that everything will get better, a pretense that keeps the needed adults close and allows for relief from constantly dealing with the intense emotions," Blum added.

Supporting the child patient at home or during the transition from the hospital to the home means that Blum also forms a special bond with the parents, siblings and classmates. At the start of the relationship, she meets with the family to understand their belief system.

"My goal is to bring the family into the child's circle, allowing for good-byes to be said when the time is right and letting the child know he or she is not alone," she said.

As a captain in the Israeli Air Force who taught pilots technical English, Blum witnessed death and dying when she was sent to the front line in the 1973 Yom Kippur War.The daughter of Holocaust survivors and a granddaughter of a cantor from Poland and Brooklyn, N.Y., Blum settled in California after she returned to the U.S.

There she heard of the work of Dr. Elisabeth Kubler-Ross, a Swiss-born psychiatrist recognized as one of the foremost authorities in the he field of death, dying and transition. An invitation to train with Kubler-Ross led Blum to work and travel with her as a staff member.

A certified child life specialist with a master's degree in child development psychology, Blum started a university-level child life program in Tucson and served as child life director for an HIV/AIDS respite facility in Dallas before joining Arbor Hospice three years ago.

Hospice friends: With the help of child life specialist Shira Blum and her anatomically correct rag dolls, Nina and Joe, terminally ill children get to be the doctors and understand the surgeries they face as part of a Arbor Hospice Care-ousel program.

Working with Blum in Care-ousel, Arbor Hospice's care for kids program, are an art therapist, pediatric social workers and pediatric nurses. Care-ousel provides numerous bereavement groups for both the parents and the siblings. And starting in May will be "Circle of Love" for parents who have lost a child.

For more information, call Arbor Hospice at (313) 677-0500.

'Woman to Woman' radio specials will focus on mothers and fathers

Each year, mothers everywhere are honored with special gifts, flowers and cards in celebration of Mother's Day. This year, these women will also receive tribute on the radio in a special Mother's Day edition of the popular radio talk show, "Woman to Woman."

In an inspiring Mother's Day radio special, entitled "Motherhood: From Dress Up to Grown Up," program host Phyllis Wallace will interview two guest about how children learn the expected roles of a mother and how they cope with their roles in the "real world."

The program, produced by Lutheran Hour Ministries, can be heard local on WEXL (1340) at 3 p.m. Sunday and on Ann Arbor's WAAM (1600) at 5:30 p.m.

The show will feature Dr. Brenda Hunter, renowned psychologist and internationally published author, specializing in relationships between mothers and daughters. Hunter has appeared on many national programs such as "Larry King Live" and the "Today" show.

In this special edition of "Woman to Woman," Hunter and Wallace will discuss the privilege, power and challenges of motherhood.

The radio special also will feature an interview with Joanne Main Kemp, wife of 1996 vice-presidential candidate Jack Kemp. The mother of four, Kemp will share her experiences and challenges of motherhood in the public eye.

"This Mother's Day special is one I have been looking forward to for a long time," Wallace said. "The guests have so many interesting insights to share about motherhood that I believe will inspire and enrich the lives of women everywhere."

"Woman to Woman' is a syndicated weekly talk show heard on more than 250 stations throughout North America and in several countries worldwide. Wallace is an author, counselor and popular speaker at seminars and retreats nationwide. She is also a wife and mother of four.

In June, fathers take center stage in a special Father's Day edition of "Woman to Woman." Wallace will interview two men who have discovered the importance of listening, understanding and spending time with their children.

The first interview is an insightful discussion with Chuck Benes, who spent years teaching and coaching his three sons. Today, two of them are major league baseball stars and the third is a promising prospect in the minor leagues. Benes will discuss the challenges, the price and the payoff of raising his boys to face life.

The Father's Day special will also feature an interview with an award-winning cartoonist Johnny Hart, known for his syndicated cartoon, "B.C." Hart, a father of two, will share with listeners the challenges he has faced and rewards he has reaped throughout fatherhood.

"Although this program is called 'Woman to Woman,' my hope is that men will also tune in to this special Father's Day edition," Wallace said. "I believe these interviews will serve to encourage and strengthen men everywhere who have the privilege of being fathers, while providing valuable insight to women as well."

Women gather for 'Joyful Journey'

More than 14,000 women from Michigan and the surrounding state swill gather at the Crisler Arena in this weekend for Joyful Journey '97.

The conference will be 7-9 p.m. Friday, May 9, and 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. Saturday, May 10, at the arena, 1000 S. State St.

The Joyful Journey weekend event for women, may possibly be one of the largest women's event ever held in the city of Ann Arbor. The Michigan conference will feature some of today's most dynamic, influential and motivational women.

Brought together for the first time ever are nationally recognized authors and speakers Patsy Clairmont, Barbara Johnson, Marilyn Meberg, Luci Swindoll, Sheila Walsh and Thelma Wells. These outstanding women will merge their unique talents and backgrounds to give messages of inspiration and encouragement. Noted for their humor, wit, and wisdom each of the speakers will bring a different view of life that ill challenge women to look at their circumstances and experiences from a new perspective. Sharing their comic genius and gift of laughter, they will inspire women to pursue the journey of life with joy.

The Women of Faith Joyful Journey Conferences started in 1996 and have been called some of the most significant and well attended women's events of the '90s. All of the conferences sold out in the city where they were held. Due to the overwhelming response, Women of Faith extended the 1997 tour to encompass 13 more cities.

"From the letters that we receive, thousands of women's lives are being impacted in a positive way by this conference series," said Laurie Knox, Director of Women of Faith. "In just a short time, we have seen this grow into a powerful movement just for women."

Women of Faith was established to help women in America celebrate life through God's love and grace. Through its conferences, Women of Faith provides a national forum for women of all ages, denominations, nationalities and backgrounds to come together for spiritual encouragement and renewal.

Tickets for the conference are $49 per person in advance and $69 at the door. For more information about the Joyful Journey Conference, (888) WOMEN-2000 or (800) WOMAN-20.

these needs," said Scales. "Kids who have these kinds of (camp) experiences end up being healthier and have less problems which concern us all."

So where should parents begin?

With more than 8,500 day and resident camps in the United States, choosing a camp may seem overwhelming. Selecting the right program is often a matter of knowing your options and asking the right questions. It's important to know your child's personality and identify the camp programs that will benefit him or her best. Working as a family, you can help ensure an experience your child will cherish for a lifetime.

Some important questions to ask a camp director are:

• What is the ratio of counselors to campers? Is it a ratio that makes sense to you, taking into consideration your child's needs?

• What is the camp's program philosophy? Many camps promote competition and friendly rivalry. Others emphasize programs that are inclusive of all campers and where performance, at most, is secondary.

• What are the safety and medical accommodations at the camp? If yours is a special needs camper, are programs, accommodations and facilities adequate?

• How does the camp handle camper homesickness? Does the camp have recommendations for parents to help with the situation?

• Ask if it will be possible to visit the camp before enrolling your child.

Most resident camps offer a variety of programs for children from about 7 years of age to teenagers. The majority are coed, but camps for girls or boys only and camps specializing in a particular program are also available. Resident camps also offer a variety of overnight accommodations such as cabins, tents and tepees.

Day camps are similar to resident camps except campers are somewhat younger (starting at about 4 years of age) and everyone returns home in the evening.

Even at camp, campers can get away from it all. Many specialty camps and programs offer trip and travel programs.

At travel camps, campers are transported by cars, vans or buses to a variety of interesting pieces to explore and appreciate.

Trip camps let the campers do the walking, hiking, biking, riding or canoeing to transport themselves to group campsites in national and state parks and other outdoor surroundings.

A physical or medical disability is not a roadblock for a camp adventure. Each year more than a million physically or emotionally challenged as well as economically disadvantaged children experience the benefit and joys of summer camp.

Some camps specialize in serving certain groups while other camps include special needs campers among the total camp population.

Children can stay at camp for a few days, a few weeks or the entire summer. At camp, there's a session length for every child, budget and family schedule. And camps remain a very affordable option for most everyone. Fees vary, but range from approximately $15 to $120 per day, depending upon the choice of camp, the facilities offered and the camper's needs. Many camps and other organizations offer camp scholarships to those needing financial assistance.

Help in finding a summer camp can be found in the "Guide to ACA Accredited Camps, 1997-98 edition." It lists locations, programs and costs for more than 2,000 ACA-accredited day and resident camps from coast to coast.

The guide is available for $16.95 (including shipping and handling) and can be ordered by calling (800) 428-CAMP.

Another source is "Peterson's Summer Opportunities for Kids and Teenagers" that has in-depth information on 1, 400 camps and other summer programs. It's available for $28.95 (including shipping and handling) and can be ordered by calling Peterson's at 1-800-338-3282, Ext. 600.

ALLERGY & ASTHMA CAN TAKE ADVENTURE OUT OF CHILDHOOD

If your child spends more time indoors watching television than outdoors playing with friends, find out how to stop the symptoms of allergy and asthma and start the fun.

Children may "outgrow" allergic responses, but if all you do is wait, you run the risk of a more serious, restricting illness.

Michael S. Rowe, M.D., is a board-certified pediatric and adult allergy specialist who has earned a reputation for success with hard-to-treat cases. His approach is minimum intervention for maximum improvement. No unnecessary tests, an ultraconservative view of allergy shots, and a philosophy that there is always more than one way to solve a problem.

Ocelots advance

For the first time in memory, Schoolcraft College's men's golf team will advance to the NJCAA Region 12 Championships, which will be Sunday and Monday at Darby Creek Golf Course in Marysville, OH.

The Ocelots managed to qualify by the narrowest of margins. At the 14-team Michigan Community College Athletic Association State Tournament, played at Stonehedge Golf Course in Augusta Sunday and Monday, SC won the tiebreaker for the sixth — and final — regional berth with Grand Rapids CC.

Each finished with a 679-stroke total for 36 holes (the tournament was scheduled for 54 holes, but the final round was weathered out).

Leading the Ocelots was Andy Baron, who tied for 22nd with an 84/84-168 tournament. Although none of SC's competitors placed in the top 20, their overall consistency was notable.

Next best among the Ocelots was Brad Villa, 84/85-169, followed by Dan Gourlay (84/88-172) and Brian Gabbeart (88/84-172). Erik Gustaf was their fifth scorer (86/92-178).

SC has shown steady improvement through the latter stages of the season. The Ocelots were fourth (out of eight) at the Schoolcraft College Invitational, played April 25 at the University of Michigan Golf Course; Muskegon CC won in a tiebreaker over Oakland CC, each carding 326 totals.

Macomb CC was third (333), followed by SC (338); Mott (339), Henry Ford CC (346), Glen Oaks (358) and Alpena (378).

The Ocelots had two place in the top 10 individuals: Baron, who tied for third with an 81, and Villa, who tied for sixth with an 82. Other SC scorers: Gourlay, 87, and Gabbeart, 88.

SC was fourth out of eight teams in the Eastern Conference, scoring 989 in the three invitationals. Oakland CC was first (936), Macomb was second (971) and Mott was third (985).

Villa, whose three-round score was 238 (80-81-77), was chosen to the all-conference team.

Macker winners

Four members of the Plymouth Salem HS boys basketball team took their talents to the Gus Macker 3-on-3 Basketball Tournament in Mount Clemens last weekend, and they came home winners — again.

Playing in the 17-18 age division, the Power Rangers from Salem won all five of their games; they have lost just once in their last 22 games.

Rangers' team members are Andy Power, Jeff McKian, Bhavin Patel and Matt Mair. All four are juniors at Salem.

Canton boosters to meet

The Canton Football Booster Club will meet at 7 p.m. Tuesday in Room 165 of Canton HS.

Among the topics of discussion will be fundraising goals for the upcoming season. All parents of Canton football players are asked to attend. Parents of incoming freshmen who will play in the fall are also encouraged to attend.

Meetings are regularly scheduled for the second Tuesday of the month, at 7 p.m. in Room 165 of Canton HS. For further information, call Dennis Frazer at (313) 981-4345.

Coaching clinic

Plymouth Christian Academy, located at 43065 Joy, will be the site of a course on how to be successful at coaching.

The clinic will be Saturday, June 7 in Room 19A of Plymouth Christian Academy HS.

Cost is $45 for the full-day clinic (8 a.m.-5 p.m.); pre-payment is a necessity. Registration must be by May 26.

The course instructor will be Dan Brandel, a trained instructor.

Coaches will receive information about sport psychology, physiology and sport management; they will be instructed on how to teach sport skill more effectively.

Those who successfully fulfill the clinic's requirements will receive diplomas of recognition from the National Federation of State High School Associations and the American Coaching Effectiveness Program.

Madonna sports camps

•Madonna University will be hosting two sessions of its summer girls basketball camp. The first will be for grades 10-12 on July 21-25; the second will be for grades 7-9 July 28-Aug. 1. All camps will be from 9 a.m.-3 p.m. at Madonna.

Canton, Salem come out even

BY C.J. RISAK
SPORTS EDITOR

One team raised its play to a level it had strived for, but fallen short of, all season.

The other played like a team caught off-guard by its opponent.

Last night's Plymouth Salem-vs.-Plymouth Canton soccer clash might have looked like a game between a powerhouse (Canton) and a struggling team (Salem).

So it would take a superhuman effort by the underdog to topple the favorite, right?

But with these two teams, it's never like that — a lesson the Chiefs should have been fully aware of. Certainly, the 1-1 tie they had to come-from-behind to attain last night proved it.

"They played well, they really went after it," Canton coach Don Smith said of Salem's effort. "I don't know if we really wanted to win so much.

"I don't think we were in the game as much as we needed to be."

The Chiefs came in as one of the state's top teams, a squad that had surrendered just one goal in its 10 previous games and had registered nine wins and one tie.

Salem, on the other hand, had struggled. The Rocks were 6-3-2 and had been shutout four times.

And yet, they hardly seemed like a team of desperation, that needed to play above itself to win. Indeed, for the first 75 minutes of the match it was dead even, with neither team exerting control.

Then, what appeared to be a dagger in Canton's heart came with 4:25 remaining. After a restart in the Chiefs' end of the field, Jodi Coyle got the ball to Salem's main threat, Mia Sarkesian.

Somehow Sarkesian evaded her ever-present entourage of defenders and put the ball in the far side of the net.

Salem led, 1-0.

"They've been marking (Sarkesian) all over the field, and she's learning how to play with it," said Salem coach Doug Landefeld.

The Rocks' jubilation was short-lived. Canton took the ensuing kickoff and, when Salem's clearing attempt in front of its goal was deflected to the Chiefs' Jenny Parviainen, she looped a shot over freshman keeper Jenny Fitchett to tie it at 1-1, with 3:53 left.

"We're really positive about this, with the way we played," Landefeld said, singling out the defensive work of Coyle and Lisa Bacyinski.

Smith didn't echo those sentiments, in reference to his own team. At 6 p.m. Friday, the Chiefs play at Livonia Churchill with a berth in the Western Lakes Activities Association championship game at stake.

Rocks jolt Chiefs with lopsided dual-meet win

Perhaps many fans thought the score would be closer.

After all, the Plymouth Canton and Plymouth Salem girls track teams both entered the Mangan Meet at 4-0 overall and 3-0 in the Western Lakes Activities Association.

But what the fans may not have taken into consideration was the heart — and the built up frustration — of the Salem seniors.

For the past three years, the Rocks have watched Canton not only win the annual showdown between the rivals, but also go on to capture the WLAA meet.

This year would be different.

Salem ended the Chiefs' three-year reign of the Mangan Meet with an overwhelming 94-34 victory.

"I thought we could score quite a few points, but not that many," Canton coach Mark Gregor said. "Canton competed hard, but our girls were inspired. Our seniors hadn't won a Mangan Meet and they wanted that monkey off their backs."

Winning the Mangan Meet is nothing new for the Rocks, who have actually won the meet 15 of the previous 21 years.

Salem won 13 of the 16 events and never let the Chiefs into the meet.

In particular, Gregor was impressed with the meets of Lisa Maul, Rachel Jones and Angie Sillmon.

Maul turned in personal best performances by winning the 100-meter hurdles in 15.7 and the 300 hurdles in 47.5. Maul was also the winning 1,600 relay team with Katie Bonner, Ruth Viforeanu and Kristie Giddings.

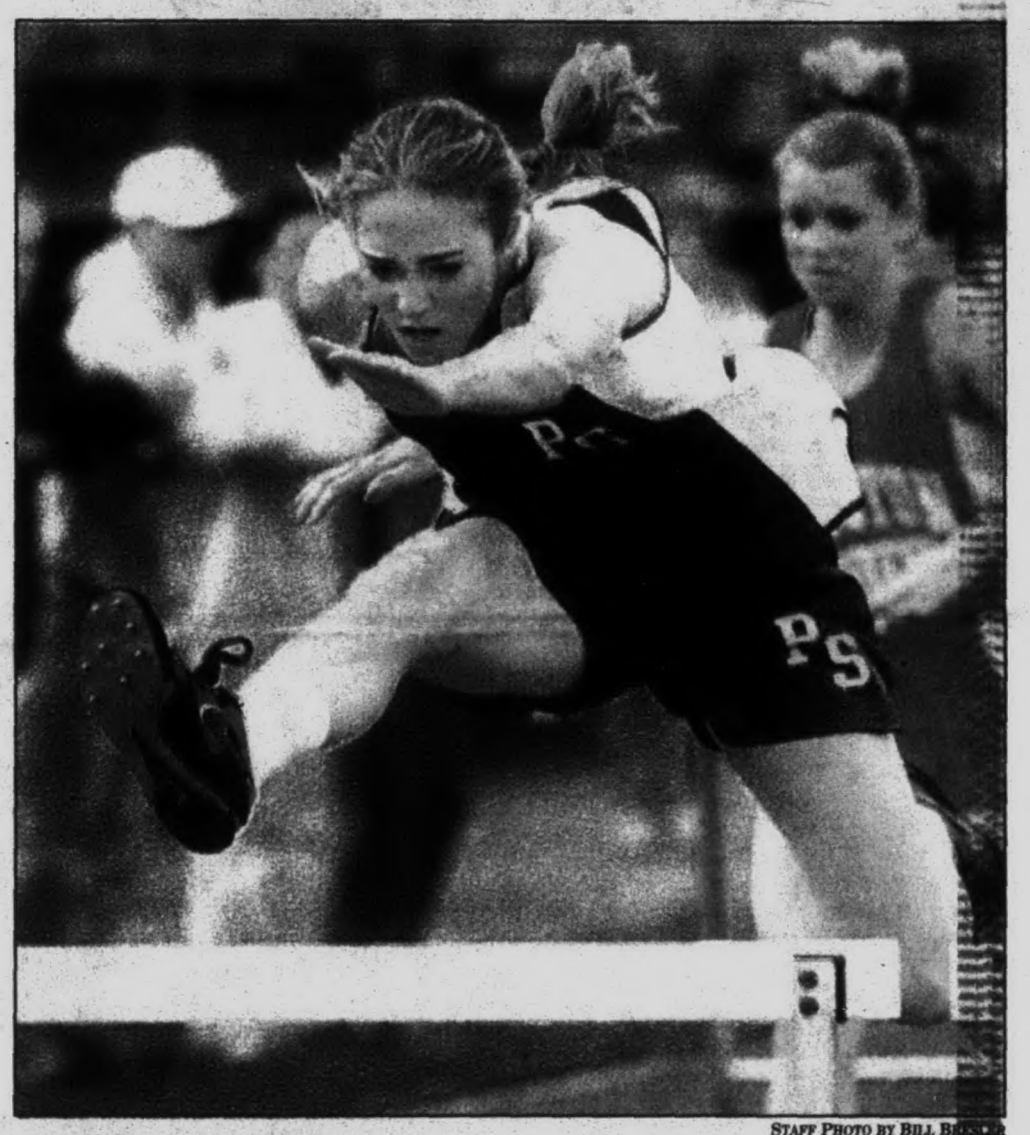

Jones was also a three-event winner, taking the 100 meter dash (12.9), the 200-meter dash (26.9) and capturing the 800 relay with Viforeanu, Candace Lynett and Bonner (1:51.1).

Sillmon failed to win an event but turned in personal best leaps in the long jump (17 feet, 1/2 inch) and in the high jump (5-0). Both jumps took second place. She also ran her best time of the year in the 100 dash (13.03), which was good enough for third place.

Other Salem winners included Jessica Ash in the shot put (35-3 1/2), Tiffany Grubaugh in the discus (113-3), Kristin Kosik in the high jump (5-1), Giddings in the 800 run (2:31.3), Evelyn Rahhal in the 1,600 run (5:37.1) and Nicole Bolton in the 3,200 run (11:51.7).

The Rocks also won the 3,200 relay in 10:19.2 behind the swimming of Bolton, Ellen Stemmer, Rahhal and Giddings.

The Canton winners included Nkechi Okwumabua in the long jump (17-3 1/4) and Becky Uryga in the 400 run (1:01.4). Canton's 400 relay team of Alina Boyden, Tiffany Williams, Doris Igwe and Okwumabua won in a time of 52.0.

Personally satisfying: Not only was beating Canton enjoyable for the Rocks, but for Lisa Maul it was especially pleasing — Maul won two events in personal-best times.

Chiefs narrow the gap, but Rocks still rule

■ BOYS TRACK

The string is still going, but Plymouth Canton is snipping away at it.

Plymouth Salem defeated Canton, 69-59, Tuesday in their annual trackfest to make it four straight triumphs for the Rocks in the Mangan Meet.

"It was exciting for the fans, the Chiefs and everybody," Salem Coach Geoff Baker said. "It was a good meet for everybody, I think.

"We got to keep that string alive. This was one of the better meets we've had. They've got a real nice team."

Canton had a two-meet winning streak in 1992-93 but its only other victory in the series was in the early years.

"We ran about the maximum we could," Canton Coach Bob Richardson said. "The meet was the closest it's been in several years.

"We had some great efforts and great performances. Including several personal bests."

Canton's Kevin Keil was a double winner, taking the shot put in 44-6 and the discus with a throw of 159-9.

The Chiefs' Dave Koshizawa took the 100-meter dash with a personal best 11.03 and also led off Canton's winning 400-meter relay team. Kwaku Dankwa, B.J. Page and Larry Anderson followed Koshizawa to complete a winning 400 in 45.71, the Chiefs' best of the year.

Eric Larsen reached a personal best for Canton in winning the long jump with a 20-foot, 11-inch effort. Shawn Moore's first-place time of 4:38.7 in the 1600 was his personal best also.

Salem took the other events.

Never-say-die Canton overtakes Franklin

BY BRAD EMONS
STAFF WRITER

Despite a 3-2 deficit with one-out in the bottom of the ninth, Plymouth Canton girls softball coach Jim Arnold had a good feeling when clean-up hitter Jenny Sikora stepped up to the plate.

"I don't think she's had a strikeout in two years," Arnold said, "and I know she'll put the ball somewhere in play."

With the bases loaded, the senior right fielder, who went 4-for-5 on the day, delivered a game-winning two-run double, a gapper to right-center, scoring teammates Tara Biro and Angela Litwin to give the host Chiefs a 4-3 victory over Livonia Franklin in a battle for first place.

Tuesday's victory pulls Canton even with Franklin in the Western Division standings. Both teams are 6-1 with three games left. (Franklin won an earlier meeting between the two teams, 3-1.)

The Chiefs, 19-3 overall, battled back twice for the victory, erasing deficits of 2-0 and 3-2 to gain the win.

"I think it was a combination of our desire and determination," Arnold said of the pivotal win. "These girls don't give up, no matter what the score is.

Madonna ends regular season; Sectionals next

COLLEGE

Madonna University squeaked out one victory in three tries Sunday in a baseball triple-header with St. Xavier (from Chicago, Ill.).

St. Xavier took the first game 11-5 and outslugged the Fighting Crusaders 15-13 in the second before Madonna held on to take the third, 7-6, when reliever Jason Carter squelched a four-run rally in the seventh.

St. Xavier erupted for five runs in the fourth to chase starter Craig Benedict (2-8) in the morning contest. Joe O'Brien slugged a pair of home runs and drove in five runs for the winners.

Pete Quinn slammed a home run for the Crusaders and garnered Madonna's only two RBI. Quinn, Aaron Shrewsbury and Jeff Gutt each had two hits for the Crusaders.

Madonna scored seven runs in the second inning of the middle game but gave up four in the second and third. St. Xavier scored twice in the fourth to crack a 10-10 tie and added three in the seventh, which enabled it to withstand a two-run Madonna rally in the bottom of the inning.

Starter Eric Butler, who pitched the first four innings, dropped to 0-5 with the loss. Shresbury slammed a home run and drove in four runs for Madonna.

Kevin Foley had three hits and drove in a run, Dan Taylor drove in three runs and Quinn had two RBI. Taylor had four hits while Daryl Rocho, Mike LaPointe and Gutt had two apiece.

Carter came on to get the final three outs of the third game, allowing a run on three hits, and earn his third save. Dan Pydyn went the first five innings, allowing a pair of unearned runs on five hits, to raise his record to 6-4.

Brandon Jaskolski and Bob Hamp each slammed a home run for the Crusaders, who opened up a 7-0 lead by the end of the third.

The three games left St. Xavier 24-30-1 this season while Madonna fell to 19-28-1.

Fifth-seeded Madonna opened the NAIA Great Lakes Sectional baseball playoffs, which the Crusaders are hosting, Wednesday with a 10 a.m. contest against second-seed Indiana Tech.

The Crusaders 1-2 finish Sunday dropped them in the seeding of the six-team Sectional. Marian College (Fond du Lac, Wisc.) was No. 1; after Indiana Tech came Mount St. Joseph (Cincinnati, OH) at No. 3; Concordia University (Mequon, Wisc.) at No. 4; Madonna; and Trinity International (Deerfield, Ill.).

The Sectional championship will be decided Friday at Madonna Park, with the winner advancing to the NAIA Great Lakes Regional in Battle Creek next Wednesday (May 14) through Saturday.

Madonna softball

The final day of the NAIA Great Lakes Sectional Softball Tournament, hosted by Madonna University last weekend, was washed out, forcing tournament officials to proclaim a winner.

Which was the only team still unbeaten in the four-team, double-elimination field come Saturday: Madonna, which had won its first two games in the double-elimination playoffs in eight-run mercys.

The Crusaders beat Marian College (Fond du Lac, Wisc.) 10-0 last Thursday and Mount St. Joseph (Cincinnati, OH) 12-4 last Friday. Mount St. Joseph defeated Cardinal Stritch (Milwaukee, Wis.) Friday to reach the championship round.

Madonna carried a 30-18-1 record into this week's eight-team NAIA Great Lakes Regional, hosted by College of St. Francis in Joliet, Ill. The Crusaders were seeded fourth; they played fifth-seed St. Xavier (Chicago, Ill.) in the first round yesterday.

A win would put them up against the winner of the game between Shawnee State (Portsmouth, OH), the NAIA National Tournament runners-up last year and the region's top seed, and No. 8 seed Walsh College (North Canton, OH).

The regional final will be Friday. The region champ advances to the NAIA Tournament in Alabama next Wednesday through Saturday.

Children age 12 and under and disabled individuals will fish from 8 a.m. to 10 p.m. The water will be open to the general public 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. There is no cost and fishing licenses are not required during the derby. There is a five-fish limit per person and participants must bring their own fishing equipment. Call (810) 354-4967 for more information.

Here's a cackle that spring Toms just can't resist

OUTDOOR INSIGHTS

BILL PARKER

The fly-down cackle has always been one of my favorite turkey calls and having located a pair of roosted Toms the night before I couldn't wait to give it a try at sunset and (hopefully) entice the Toms into flying our way.

The fly-down cackle, which mimics the excited cackle a hen emits when she flys down off her roost each morning, can be a deadly call if everything goes well. If you can locate a roosted Tom and give him a believable fly-down cackle, many times the long-beard will come directly to the call when he leaves his roost. With not one but two longbeards perched in the same tree I had a hunch the opportunity awaiting could prove to be golden.

My hunting partner Al Blackwell and I crept through the predawn darkness and into a likely position, then waited for the first rays of daylight to trickle through the budding hardwoods. As dawn arrived we could see the objects of our pursuit perched on the edge of a ridge some 80-yards away. I hoped quietly we hadn't moved in too close and that they would feel comfortable flying down in our direction.

When legal shooting time arrived I offered a little tree talk, a few subtle clucks and purrs, as a prelude to the main course: the fly-down cackle. I never got a chance to see if it worked.

One Tom let loose with a thunderous gobble and flew down right at us. I guess he figured he'd get a jump on his opposition and left him on the roost. We couldn't wait for the second Tom to fly down since the first was right on top of us. The report from Al's 12 ga. shattered the morning's silence seconds before Al raced over to retrieve his bird.

Now the real fun began.

The second Tom, which was still on the roost, kept leaning forward in an attempt to look around the trees towards us and find out what all the commotion was about. On his third or fourth swing forward the gobbler lost his balance and literally fell out of the tree. He tumbled for about 10 or 12 feet then got his wings beneath him and glided to the forest floor. His feet, and mine, were already moving as he hit the ground, but the Tom quickly disappeared over a ridge.

One of the exciting aspects of spring turkey hunting is that you just never know what you'll encounter over the course of the hunt.

Reports from DNR District offices around the state indicate hunters are experiencing mixed results so far during the 1997 spring wild turkey season.

"The people I've talked with said the second hunt has gone real well," said Joe Robinson, a wildlife technician at the DNR's Lansing headquarters. "The gobblers are responding pretty well to their calls."

Over near Gaylord, hunters had better success during the first hunt period (April 21-27).

"Early on we had quite a few reports of success, but lately the birds have been kind of quiet," said Glen Matthews, district wildlife biologist at the DNR's Gaylord office. "Hunters are hearing birds on the roost, but they're not saying much after that."

The weather has also been fair at best in the last week, which has kept some hunters out of the woods.

The regular spring turkey season runs through May 19 and an experimental hunt will take place May 20-30. My partner and I didn't receive a permit for the regular season this spring and will give the experimental late hunt a shot. I'm grateful to have that opportunity.

If you're a turkey hunter and connected on a Tom this spring, or if you know of someone who has, give me a call and report the success then look for your results in this column. My phone number and address are listed at the bottom of this column.

Derby rescheduled

Last Saturday's Southfield Parks and Recreation Fishing Derby was canceled because on inclement weather and has been rescheduled for this Saturday, May 10.

The derby is open to the public and provides an excellent opportunity for anglers, particularly children and beginner anglers, to enjoy the thrill of catching a trout without having to make a long-distance trek up north.

A section of the Rouge River near Civic Center Drive and Telegraph Road will be fenced off and the area will be stocked with 10- to 12-inch rainbow trout.

The event runs 8 a.m.-4 p.m. and is open to anglers of all ages. However, only children age 12 and under and disabled individuals will be allowed to fish for the first two hours of the event.

There will also be casting contests and prizes for the largest trout. The event is free and no fishing license is required while fishing in the fenced-off area. There is a five fish limit.

Participants must bring their own fishing equipment and bait. Corn, worms and marshmallows work well and single-barbed hooks are recommended.

Call (810) 354-4967 for more information.

Eagles on a roll

BASEBALL

The outcome was similar for the Plymouth Christian Academy baseball team Tuesday, but the score wasn't.

The Eagles, who have been scoring runs in the bunches this season, actually found themselves in a defensive struggle against Warren Zoe Christian.

But PCA was able to hang on for a 2-1 victory and win its 11th consecutive game.

Junior James Jones (6-0) recorded the victory. The right-hander went the distance, scattering five hits, fanning eight and walking only two.

Jones pitching helped PCA was suffering what would have been an embarrassing defeat to the last place team in the Michigan Independent Athletic Conference's bottom division.

With the win, however, PCA continues to cruise through its MIAC season, improving to 13-3 overall, 6-1 in the MIAC and a perfect 4-0 in the division.

"It was a closer game than it had to be," PCA coach Dave Robillard said. "We lost five base runners, including three at third base. We just weren't thinking out there and making mental mistakes. Perhaps they took Zoe too lightly."

The Eagles jumped out to a 1-0 lead in the first inning after Chris DeRenzo singles and stole second. He scored on a single by Jon Isensee.

PCA added what would proved to be the winning run in the fourth inning after a Jim Speier single knocked in Derrick Isensee.

Speier also turned in the defensive play of the game in the second inning. Zoe had the bases loaded with one out, when Speier caught a fly ball in right field. Speier then threw out the Zoe base runner who was trying to score from third by at least three feet.

Speier, Derrick Isensee and Doug Robillard had two hits each in the eight-hit PCA attack.

never been so far behind that we couldn't catch up.

"But today we got started a little late."

The Patriots, who fell to 16-5 overall, certainly had their chances at putting Canton away.

Franklin had the bases loaded with two-out in both the third and fifth innings, but couldn't push home runs for an additional cushion.

The Patriots, however, took a 2-0 lead in the third when Kelly Young led off with a single and scored on Randi Wolfe's triple.

Wolfe came home on a Canton infield error.

Canton, limited to three hits by Franklin ace Lori Jendrusik through five innings, evened the count at 2-2 as Liz Elsner and Jenny Sikora, who led off with back-to-back singles, eventually scored on a Patriot infield error and a fielder's choice off the bat of Amy LaGrow.

The score remained that way until the top of the ninth when Young drew a lead-off walk from Canton pitcher Gretchen Hudson, only her second free pass of the day.

With the infield drawn in expecting a bunt, Wolfe, the senior second baseman, ripped a shot to right-center again, scoring the go-ahead run with a double.

"We were going to go with the percentages," Franklin coach Linda Jimenez said. "We were looking to see what their defense was going to do. If they were playing back, we'd go with the bunt to try and move her to second, but we saw them playing up, so I let her hit away."

But Wolfe was left stranded at third as Hudson prevented further damage.

"It's too bad we couldn't get her (Wolfe) in," Jimenez said. "A couple of times we had the bases loaded, but we popped out. We just needed one base hit."

Each team collected 10 hits.

Both Hudson and Jendrusik each collected six strikeouts. The two hurlers only combined for five walks in nine innings apiece.

"Jendrusik had good location with the ball, she works the inside and the outside of the plate," Arnold said. "And she has a good change-up. She keeps you off-balance.

"Hudson has very control and a good rise-ball. Both pitchers will keep you in the game."

Jimenez, meanwhile, was not about to throw in the towel even if Canton has the edge in the WLAA's tiebreaker criteria.

"It's unfortunate we lost, but we just have to come back stronger," she said. "You can look at all the (tiebreaker) possibilities, you just have to go out and play ball and see what happens.

"You can't lose perspective over something like this, or you'll go crazy over it."

the 110-meter hurdles in 15.36.

Salem's 4 x 800 relay quartet of Charlie Schmidt, Kevin Conte, Andy Briggs and Ian Searcy finished first with a time of 8:35 while its 800 relay outfit of Mike Shull, Lawrence Nunn, Chris Mason and Scott Kingslien won with a 1:35.2 clocking.

Andy Briggs took the 400 in 52.2, Clemons was best in the 300 hurdles with a time of 44.23 and Ian Searcy captured the 800 in 2:01.6.

Kingslien's 200 time of 22.74 was a winner while Jon Little ran 10:10 to take the 3200.

Salem's 1600 relay team of Briggs, Searcy, Matt Fair and Kingslien recorded a winning time of 3:35.2.

The victory boosted Salem 3-2 overall and it remained 1-2 in the Lakes Division.

"This meet was just about as exciting as the Observerland Relays were with them," Baker said. "That came down to us and them. If we'd beat 'em by (only) one place, we would have tied."

As it was, Salem captured third in the Observerland by eight points over Canton.

"We run John Glenn Thursday (today)," Baker said. "Let's hope we can muster up something to get going.

"At least we can go in with a relaxed demeanor. We can't do anything if we win, just boost our confidence. Divisionwise we can't catch 'em."

The glow of the win in the Mangan Meet will last until then.

27TH ANNUAL OBSERVERLAND BOYS TRACK AND FIELD RELAYS

Harrison wears crown; Glenn, Salem 2-3

Hawks' relay, Terek set records

BY STEVEN KOWALSKI
STAFF WRITER

Wes Morland might not be living more elaborately at his new digs in Farmington Hills, but he's definitely gone to the penthouse where track and field is concerned.

Morland became eligible to run track at Harrison High School immediately after moving from Northville to Farmington in December. He was just what the doctor ordered for the Hawks, who won their first-ever Observerland Relays in the 27th annual event held Saturday night at Redford Union's Howard Kraft Field.

Harrison, always a contender, finished with 87 points, 13 ahead of pre-race favorite Westland John Glenn. Plymouth Salem was third (68), followed by Plymouth Canton (60) and Detroit Catholic Central (55).

Morland, a junior, was on two of the Hawks' four winning relays.

He anchored the winning sprint medley relay that finished in a time of 2 minutes, 33.85 seconds. Joining Morland were Jason Sharp, Keith Battle and Jerrard Johnson.

Morland also combined with Nick Shaieb and Jason Lampinen to win the discus with a combined toss of 383 feet, 3 inches. Shaieb had the day's best throw, 159-0.

As his final contribution, Morland ran a leg of the 1,600 relay, which edged out Glenn for second place (3:32.35) and assured the Hawks the team championship in the day's last running event. Sharpe, Jared Roth and Derwin White also ran on the 1,600.

Once Morland moved, he couldn't wait to enroll at Harrison, whose teams have a strong tradition.

"My parents wanted me to go to Harrison. The coaches are competitive, work to win," said Morland, who attended Northville High School. "We were seeing all the hype about John Glenn, people saying that 'they're going to win.' They thought they were going to ride high. We had to keep our cool, keep our composure, go in with a strong attitude. It's better for us to be a strong contender, not have a big ego."

Earning second place and the eight points that goes with it in the 1,600 relay gave Harrison a 12-point lead on Glenn, which was mathematically eliminated at that point with only the pole vault relay to be decided.

Winning the pole vault relay wasn't a consideration anyway since Livonia Franklin's Paul Terek can almost win that event by himself.

Terek, who cleared a meet record 15-4, joined Ryan Shiplett and Anthony Grech to give Franklin first with a combined jump of 34-4.

Balance throughout the lineup was the key, as Harrison coach John Reed explained before the meet.

Battle, Chris Knox, Kevin Woods and Johnson had enough in them to win both the 400 and 800 relays in times of 43.78 and 1:30.45.

The 400 time was a new meet record. What's most impressive about was it beat the time of 43.9 from Glenn that also broke the previous meet record.

"Every time the last five years we've been in the hunt and the last four or five events we kind of fell apart," Reed said. "We haven't had the 400 runners and that's what wins these meets. Where we've fallen apart, we've improved – the 400 kind of kids."

"I've been in the program four years and this team has more heart than any of the previous teams," Harrison senior Ryan Moloney said. "Every kid comes to work and win. It's not what we had in the past. We had the talent but not the work ethic. This team never quits."

No Hawk exemplified that better than Roth, who competed despite a pulled muscle. He gave up a chance at individual glory, passing on the open 1,600, to help the Hawks in the 1,600 relay and the distance medley (11:00.75), which placed third.

"He would have been in the running to win the open mile, but he gave it up for the good of the team," Reed said. "The points he helped earn in the two relays were worth more than his open."

"He was definitely the tough man for this meet," Moloney said.

Instead of taking a big lead, as some predicted, after the field events, the Rockets endured some disappointment as their favored high jump relay team failed to place. Harrison took advantage of Glen's misfortune as Joel Fodor, Sam Ingesulian and Brent Mackey cleared a combined 17-0 to win the high jump in a tie-breaker with Plymouth Canton.

"That helped us a ton," Reed said.

Still, Glenn came out of the field events in good shape as its long jump team of David Jarrett, Tim Moore and Andre Dawson cleared a combined 59-7 to earn first place and the shot put and discus teams earned third and second, respectively.

The Rockets' only other win came individually as junior Harden James edged Knox in the 100 meters, clocking 19.93 to Knox's 10.98.

"Our downfall was the pole vault and high jump," Glenn coach Jess Shough said. "And we didn't score in the distance medley. But as far as everything else, I thought we ran well, all in all. We ran tough and never gave up. We had all the ingredients going into the rest of the events (after the field).

"Harden is a lot stronger this year and he's done a lot of block work. He's just physically more mature."

CC won the shot put as Dan Dominguez, Brian Douglas and Chris Koss threw a combined 146-2½, with Dominguez taking individual honors at 50-4.

The Shamrocks also won the 6,400 relay as Chris Laney, Craig Skalski, John Griffin and Joe Hubert finished in a time of 19:12.1. Laney, John Griffin, Wayne Brigee and John Faunce also won the 3,200 relay (8:21.72), but the Shamrocks couldn't do any better than fourth in the rest of the relays.

"We have no speed and speed kills," CC coach Tony Magni said. "Chris Laney had a nice day today, ran a tough mile in the four mile relay, a tough half mile in the two mile and a tough quarter in the mile relay. Brian Teefey ran well, too."

Salem was led by the all-around talents of Ian Searcey, who anchored the Rocks' winning distance medley relay (11:00.56) and also ran a leg of the winning 1,600 relay (3:30.16). Also running on the distance medley relay were Andy Briggs, Mark Sheehan and Charlie Schmidt. Briggs, Scott Kingslien and Mark Sheehan joined Searcy in the 1,600.

The Rocks' shuttle hurdle relay of Rob Hawley, Dave Clemons, Ryan Thomas and Dave Hester also was victorious (1:03.4).

It was clear early to Salem coach Geoff Baker that the Rocks would be on the outside looking in, though still having a chance at the top three places.

"I liked the quote Tony (Magni) had in the paper, 'If we can't win it, we might as well take a trophy,'" Baker said. "I was looking at the points early and felt it would be tough to win it, 'Let's just take a trophy.'"

Terek keeps them around

Unless someone steps forward to carry the torch, uh, pole vault, from Terek, there won't be much reason for fans to stick around past dark in the future.

Terek, a Livonia Franklin senior, kept up the suspense long after the rest of the events were finished as he attempted to clear 16 feet, 2 inches in the pole vault. The event took place in the pit, behind the west end zone and far from the best lighted-area at Hilbert.

Terek nearly had his personal best on two of his three attempts, only to knock the bar down on his descent.

He said the lack of light didn't effect his timing.

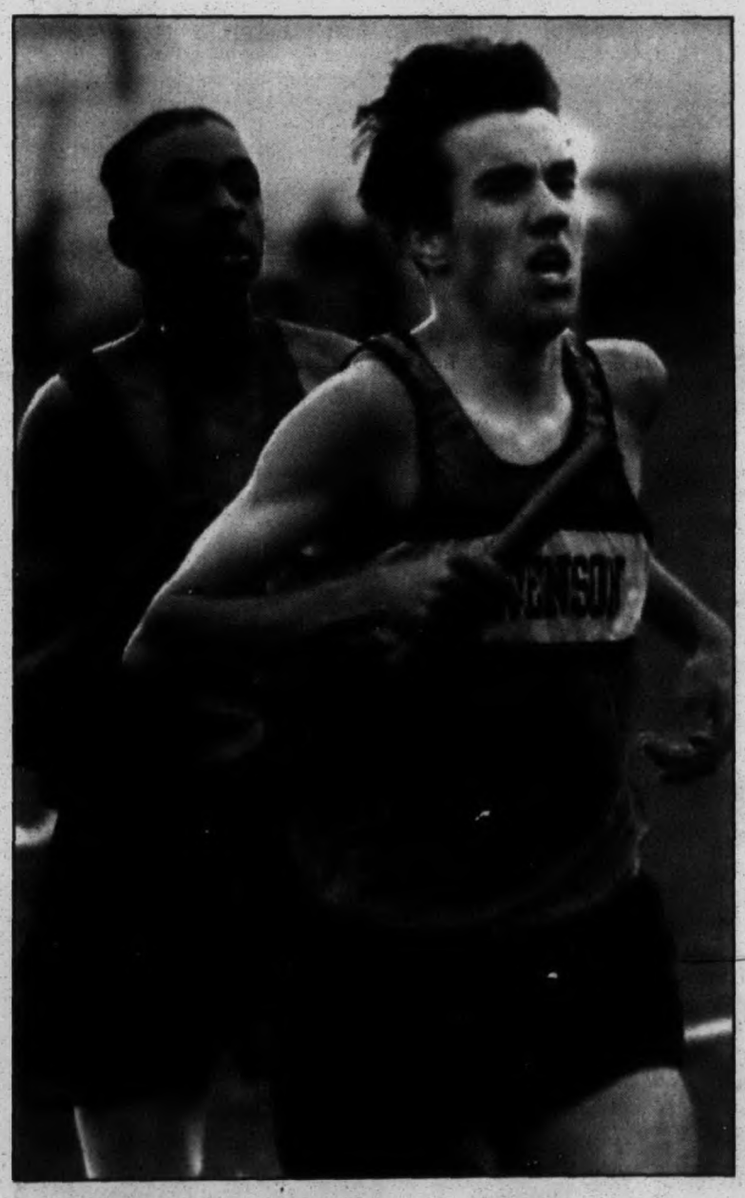

"It was better in that I wasn't judging my steps, just hoping for the best," said Terek, bound for Michigan State University on a track scholarship. "I wish I could have done it tonight."

Dems propose increase in university budgets

House Democrats are upping the stakes on university budgets in an openly partisan battle with Gov. John Engler.

"We feel an overall 5.5 percent increase in state support will help stave off a tuition hike by the universities," said House Speaker Curtis Hertel, D-Detroit. He said the House budget bill also expands aid to undergraduate tuition and research.

One new initiative is the Center for Public School Assistance at Eastern Michigan University in Ypsilanti. It will provide technical assistance to public schools. EMU is one of the state's largest teacher of teachers and school administrators.

The House passed the budget bill April 22 on a 66-40 vote and sent it to the Senate. The House and Senate take turns each year in starting the budget bills for higher education.

Meanwhile, Republican Rep. Nancy Cassis of Novi celebrated her successful amendment to the higher education budget, requiring universities to hold tuition increases to the increase in the consumer price index for metropolitan Detroit or 3 percent, whichever is less.

Her amendment won on a 90-10 vote.

GOP probes U-M

Four Republican representatives announced May 1 they were targeting the University of Michigan's "shamefully selective and secretive policies" giving admission, scholarships and grants based on race rather than ability.

The four are Deborah Whyman of Canton, Greg Kaza of Rochester Hills, David Jaye of Macomb County and Michelle McManus of Lake Leelenau.

Whyman said U-M is "illegal and immoral" in racial discrimination. She praised the Center for Individual Rights, a nonprofit, public interest law firm in Washington, D.C., that won a case against the University of Texas in a U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals case.

Kaza said U-M is hiding information about its racial preference policies. "I won't stand for secret government in Michigan," he said.

Kaza cited research from Dr. Carl Cohen, U-M philosophy professor, on law school admissions. In one middling category of students who took the law school admissions test, only 3 percent of "Caucasian Americans" were offered admission, but 100 percent of "African Americans" were offered admissions.

They asked to hear from parents and students who have been denied admission, scholarships or grants during the past four years because of U-M's minority preference programs.

Address of state representatives is: State Capitol, Lansing 48909. Rep. Whyman's fax is 517/373-6974. Rep. Kaza's fax is 517/373-5945.

More hearings

House Bill 4309, the $1.5 billion higher education budget, will be the subject of two more public hearings:

- Friday, May 9, from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m., at Marygrove College, Mme. Cadillac Building, 8425 W. McNichols, Detroit. Scheduled in order are the U-M at 10 a.m., Wayne State at 10:45, independent colleges at 11:30, Eastern Michigan at 1:15 p.m. and Oakland University at 1:45.
- Friday, May 16, at 9 a.m. at Michigan Technological University, Memorial Union Building Ballroom A, 100 Townsend, Houghton. MTU is scheduled at 10 a.m., Ferris State at 11.

Yet to be scheduled are testimony by the American Association of University Professors, the Michigan Education Association and Focus:HOPE.

Management test offered at EMU

Test preparation workshops for the Graduate Management Admission Test (GMAT) will be offered by Eastern Michigan University Continuing Education on Saturday, May 17 and 31, and Saturday, June 7 and 14, from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. in the McKenny Union Main Lounge.

The workshops emphasize test-taking techniques found in the modules in the GMAT. The materials used in the workshops have been prepared by a California-based test preparation consultant and are not available in book stores or by mail order.

Participants who complete the workshop and are satisfied with their score may retake the workshop at no additional cost (materials not included).

The workshop fee of $249 includes classroom and home study materials. The workshop fee does not include the cost of taking the GMAT, which will be given Saturday, June 21.

For more information or a workshop registration form, call EMU Continuing Education at (313) 487-0407.

Born in Ypsilanti, Mr. MacDiarmid was an engine repairman.

Survivors include his parents, John MacDiarmid and Catherine Collier; brothers, Nicholas and Matt; sisters, Kerri, Alexandra and Amy; grandparents, Bill and Virginia Johnson and John and LaVerne MacDiarmid; fiancee, Mary Ann Roemer.

Services were May 5 at the L.J. Griffin Funeral Home, Canton Township, with the Rev. Rick Thomas of the Canton Free Methodist Church officiating.

Former employee makes good in Garden City

BY LEANNE ROGERS
STAFF WRITER

Sue Dodson, a former Plymouth Township employee, wasn't looking for a job when Garden City's building official position became vacant earlier this year.

"Three people called to tell me this was an opportunity. It felt good, it felt right," said Dodson, who joined the city as the new chief building official late last month. "The people have been wonderful, very friendly."

Prior to being hired in Garden City, Dodson spent 10 months as deputy building official with the city of Belleville. She had previously worked for Plymouth Township for 13 years.

"I had been in banking. Then I started in the Plymouth Township water department," she said. "I went to an opening in the building department and worked as a permit clerk."

Dodson then went to school to get her builders license and studied blueprint reading. From then on, her career was in the building department.

"I love it. There are never two days the same. I'm a people person. I love dealing with people," Dodson said.

When she was recruited by Belleville, Dodson was ready for a new opportunity.

"In Plymouth Township, it was so very big with new subdivisions and industrial parks that I wasn't able to be out in the field much," she said. "In Belleville, I did plan reviews, field work and inspections for resale."

Part of her work in Belleville was getting the building department computerized – something she is working on in Garden City.

Other projects include flow procedures for residential, commercial and industrial construction. Dodson has also been meeting with other departments to clarify overlapping duties such as ordinance enforcement.

"We want to form a clear understanding about who does what. The ordinance officers are in the police department budget," said Dodson. "My plate is very full. I was here a week before I could open my boxes because I was so busy."

Garden items perfect for Mom

MARTY FIGLEY

Once again it's time to honor mothers on their special day. Cut flowers or a potted plant are the traditional gifts, especially for green-thumb moms, and we all enjoy receiving them. Sometimes, though, a surprise package can add some excitement to the day.

One unusual gift I shall always remember was instigated by our oldest daughter who had just received her driver's license. She went to the local grade school where her dad was coaching one of our sons in baseball, and asked his permission to drive to the nursery to buy an apple tree.

It was a very thoughtful and loving gift from our four children, three of whom made the selection, a dwarf golden delicious. The youngest had to stay with the game.

A gift certificate for any kind of plant, a flat of annuals, a perennial, shrub or tree, and help when it's time to plant it, would please most any mom.

Or choose something unusual for indoors, perhaps if the home has enough light, a fig or a lemon tree, or a banana plant would be a lot of fun. To announce such a gift, a bowl of oranges, lemons or figs all wrapped up with a pretty bow could accompany the certificate.

If your mother lives in a condo or apartment and doesn't have a garden, a new elegant jardiniere for a plant would be used for many years.

Of course, a good set of garden tools for the avid gardener would be most useful and appreciated. There are so many new ones on the market; some have handles designed for those people with limited movement. A good nursery can help with your selection.

Don't scrimp on the quality because it is important to buy the best you can afford so that they will last for many years and stand up to a lot of use. Take time to shop around, ask questions and then make your selection.

One tool that is new and innovative is the Precision Weeder made by Creative Enterprises, the folks who manufacture the Winged Weeder that many of you have.

This new tool easily removes perennial weeds such as dandelions, thistles and it is a good asparagus cutter. It has a T-bar handle and a deep center V in the blade, which needs no sharpening. You can stand up to use it. Gardenviews in Northville and Goldner Walsh in Pontiac have it; or call (800) 388-4539 for a dealer near you.

I am excited about my new early gift. It's an Ames Planter's Wagon and I know I will get a lot of use out of it. I especially like the fact that one end has a "gate" that removes so I can scoop compost or other material out and not have to lift it with a fork or shovel.

The very wide handle folds to make an upright work station so I can set things at waist level to eliminate so much bending. The fold-down seat will surely come in handy as I work, and there is even a covered storage section for potting soil and the like, and clips to hold tools.

My wagon held a surprise bag of Hoffman potting soil that will be put to good use. The wheels "turn on a dime" and the whole thing stands up for storage. In our crowded garage, that means a lot. Hardware and garden nurseries carry Ames lawn and garden tools. This mama is delighted.

Those of you who are regular readers of this column have been able to keep up with my reviews of the plethora of garden books on the market. A trip to the bookseller will reveal more titles than I can ever review.

Sit quietly and choose a special book. One way to judge a book to see if it will fit your needs (especially the how-to ones) is to think of a question and look in the index to see if you can find the information you seek.

There are many types of clothes with gardening and/or nature motifs. Perhaps your mother would appreciate a new sweatshirt, garden clogs, a hat or gloves. The choice is endless. Another type of gift might be a new birdbath, wind chimes, gardener's hand soap, a sundial or a piece of statuary.

You might want to consider a large container of fragrant bubble bath, a sponge and a matching lotion so that your special person can take a long warm soak after a hard day working in the garden... mmm doesn't that sound divine!

Containing love

Beautiful boxes: Honor Mom on Mother's Day with a container she will treasure for years to come, available at Tiffany & Co. in the Somerset Collection, Big Beaver and Coolidge roads in Troy. Shown here are Battersea boxes of Halcyon Days Enamels and a Tiffany box. The elegantly designed Battersea boxes are works of art worthy of your mother. As hallmarks of quality and character, they symbolize all that you honor in her on this special holiday. As direct descendants of the rare and beautiful enamels of 18th century England, they were made to be kept in the family. Prices are $185 for the oval box and $125 for the round. The stylish, porcelain keepsake fashioned in Tiffany's classic blue with white bow will wrap up Mother's Day with style. It is priced at $32. Call (810) 637-2800.

On the moo-ve

Udderly clever: Cows will soon be seen "grazing" in lawns and gardens all over the area as English Gardens introduces H_2OLY COW, a decorative and animated lawn sprinkler. With a smiling face and animated wagging tail, H_2OLY COW consists of solid, durable plastic enabling it to withstand rain and sun. It also features adjustable spray patterns. H_2OLY COW retails for $29.98 and is available at English Gardens' four locations, including the West Bloomfield store at 6370 Orchard Lake Road (call (810) 851-7506.

Dots nice

Way to grow: This Mother's Day, give Mom tools to grow her garden. Made of aluminum, this garden cultivator, trowel and garden fork are displayed in a festive yellow-and-orange dot catch pot. Other aluminum garden tools and patterned catch pots are available. The dot catch pot retails for $9 and each aluminum garden tool for $4 at the Pottery Barn in Somerset North, Big Beaver Road and Coolidge in Troy. Call (810) 816-8359.

Scents-ational

Spring aroma: The new housewares collection from Jacobson's offers great gift ideas for Mother's Day. For example, fragrant gift items from Aromatique will add the scents of spring to any room. The spring planter with candle is available for $15, the spring planter with potpourri for $20.

Customizing: the ultimate accessory

By Linda Axe
Special Writer

Linda Axe

Customizing is a small detail that remains a big mystery to some, yet it can make a big difference! It's not for everyone, to be sure, but you'll want to know it's available and what your options are.

One of the advantages of working with an interior designer is that you have access to a lot of customizing resources, whether it be special custom linens, a particular faux finish, custom-colored wallpaper or fabrics, or a solution to a quirky window problem. The list goes on and on.

Customizing gives you a one-of-a-kind product that you won't find anywhere else. It's a reflection of your taste and preferences and enhances and coordinates the overall look of your home design plan.

A customized piece has its own personality and is often a great problem-solving tool. Custom storage comes to mind. When your piece is finished, it will fit your space exactly, the finish will match or coordinate with your furnishings and it will store the things for which it was designed. No guessing, no making do, but perfectly suited to your needs.

My area of expertise, for example is in custom linens, bedding and towels. By working with many manufacturers and other sources, I am able to produce and coordinate your linens to pick up the exact colors or patterns perhaps from your wallpaper or an area rug, or maybe you just want a special trimming effect. This gives you a lot of flexibility, and the overall effect has a polished and finished look.

I can't stress enough how important it is to having the proper resources available when you want to customize. Carpenters, finishers, workrooms, manufacturers and suppliers, to name a few, all contribute to the final success of your project. You'll want your designer involved to translate your needs exactly, and take responsibility to make the custom work right.

The cost of customizing can be minimal or expensive, based on the time and skills involved and the size of the project. While you might be tempted to do your own custom work, it is best left in the hands of a professional who is familiar with all of the options available.

Work with your designer to change the arm on a sofa, add fringe instead of a skirt, enjoy the luxury of custom bedding, and you'll have just what you want and furnishings that are uniquely yours.

Flowers make bloomin' good photos

MONTE NAGLER

One of the most abundant, beautiful and colorful subjects for your spring and summertime camera is flowers. So plentiful are they that the choices of presenting them photographically are numerous indeed.

You might, for example, select the closeup shot revealing the innermost heart of the flower, the delicate texture of the stamen, minute drops of moisture, or a single petal that becomes a picture in itself. Or you might prefer to show the character of a single whole flower, or a grouping, or even an entire field of flowers.

The best time to photograph flowers is in the morning when they are freshest. Hot, afternoon sun may cause flowers to look limp and wilted. Diffused sunlight either from behind or the side is best. It will give your flower intimate texture and full color saturation. Fill-in flash can also add extra sparkle.

To fill the viewfinder with a single flower or part of a blossom, you'll need closeup equipment such as closeup filters, extension tubes or a macro lens. All work well and will give you pleasing results.

Because you'll often need a small aperture to maximize depth-of-field, a tripod and cable release are a must to keep your camera steady during the long shutter speeds you'll require.

As always, watch your backgrounds. A distracting or "busy" background can ruin a picture. So be sure to check yours after composing your shot. Look over the entire viewfinder and use your camera's depth-of-field preview to check out the background. You'll often want it as a soft non-distracting blur in your picture.

Better still, carry a small piece of

Best-dressed gardens make use of accents

BY MARTY FIGLEY
Special Writer

It seems as though more and more gardeners are adding accents to dress up their plant-filled gardens. Some people use very expensive art forms made of bronze or other quality materials, while others use home-crafted, whimsical folk art type artifacts. I suppose the saying "Beauty is in the eye of the beholder" rings true.

Placement of objects is very important. Howard Nemerov's poem says it very well: "Alone at the end of green allees, alone; Where a path turns back on itself, or else where several paths converge, green bronze, gray stone; The weather-beaten famous figures wait... Inside their basins, on their pedestals; Till time as promised them, wears out of date."

My travels have given me the opportunity to see beautiful and unusual pieces in this country and abroad. Participating in our local garden walks and interviewing gardeners has also given me a chance to see what is currently catching gardeners' fancies in our immediate area.

Furnishings

Birdhouses of all shapes and sizes are still used a lot and butterfly houses are seen more often, as are bat houses, which aren't very pretty but are environmentally correct. Anything to bring nature into the yard is a plus.

Trellises and garden furniture made of all kinds of materials, metal, plastic and wood are dominant features in many gardens and encourage you to take time to enjoy your labors.

Antique furniture is in great demand and adds grace to the garden. Remember the old bent metal chairs that bounced when you sat on them? They are making a reappearance, especially the old ones with chipping paint and rust spots.

William Longwood wrote, "The green metal chair is an indispensable piece of equipment. As Farmer Bagley said, 'How can you grow anything to see what's going on?'"

Speaking of fences, I photographed a short fence in Texas that I think is wonderful. The top of each picket was a different design – a star, an abstract form, etc. – and each was painted a different bright color with the paint being allowed to run down over the rest of the slat. This was a perfect example of ingenuity and creativity.

Trellises and gates are intriguing, with designs worked into them, often with an animal theme.

Garden sheds have become focal points. To make yours more interesting, find old shutters and paint them to look old, old. Add a window box full of flowers, a couple of pots beside the entrance and voila! An alternative would be to paint tall hollyhocks or sunflowers up the sides, or cover it with a vine-filled trellis. Old and arty stuff is in.

Ornaments

Garden ornaments made of cement are still popular. Figures in all sizes and shapes from animals and birds to human forms still are used, but do be particular where you place them. Several cement geese strategically placed can welcome guests to the garden. And don't forget pigs! Yes, still an important garden accessory!

A well-dressed garden should contain a figure of St. Fiacre, the patron saint of gardeners. He stands beside a shovel that represents the digging he did to make a garden. Other religious figures, especially angels, are appearing everywhere, indoors and out. They are seen as single figures, sitting on the edges of birdbaths and in many various positions.

On a serious note, gorgeous bronze figures grace many gardens and add a sophisticated note. Often seen in larger gardens, the art work is excellent. What I would give to have one of Marshall Fredericks' works in my garden!

Containers

Pots, pots, pots, and other containers – baskets and the like – filled with flowers or just enjoyed for their beauty are a versatile necessity in all gardens, large or small. The art of topiary is being practiced by more gardeners and their efforts often take center stage.

Another hot, hot container are the hyper-tufa pots. These are replicas of old troughs (large ones were originally used as watering troughs). Many people make their own and now there is a pre-mix package to simplify the craft.

One important container in most gardens is a birdbath. Artifacts associated with a water feature are gaining in popularity as are water gardens. Frogs, fish, with water spouting from their mouths, cranes and water nymphs all are being seen in gardens "with the mostest."

Sundials have never gone out of style, whether they are small or large, a traditional design or armillary style. Often a verse such as "Count only sunny hours" is inscribed on the face. The gentle ringing of wind chimes is heard in many gardens and adds another dimension to garden sounds.

Sculpture and art have been used in gardens from earliest times, often to invoke a mood. We use it for many reasons, some very personal. Different cultures have influenced the practice. There are no rules; use what you like. Perhaps you have something that was in a loved one's garden or a special treasure found on a trip or an outing. Use it and enjoy!

This poem, by Richard LeGallienne, might encourage you to take time to enjoy your garden and its surroundings:

I meant to do my work today,
But a brown bird sang in the apple tree,
And a butterfly flitted across the field,
And all the leaves were calling me –
And the wind went sighing over the land,
Tossing the grasses to and fro,
And a rainbow held out its shining hand,
So what could I do but laugh and go?

Flower pots make bright birdbath

I saw a demonstration on the TV program "Home & Family" of a birdbath made from clay flower pots. One of them would certainly add a bright accent to any garden. By the way, bright flowers and bright ornaments are also "in."

Instructions for the birdbath:

You need three clay pots, one each 16 inches, 14 inches and 12 inches; and one large clay saucer, four inches deep. Spray the pots with a clear acrylic sealer, then spray with two coats of white spray paint (or color) for background.

When dry, choose a bright color for each pot. Add about one tablespoon of water to 1/2-cup of paint (consistency of melted ice cream) and brush on the paint.

Decorate each pot with freehand painting or stencils. Use flowers, circles, checks, etc., extending the decoration three to four inches down from the top of the pot. Paint inside the saucer blue, add decoration such as fish.

Stack the pots upside down (largest on the bottom), apply a generous amount of liquid nail to the bottom of the top pot and position the large saucer on top. Spray with a non-toxic sealer. Add water and wait for the birds to visit your custom-made creation.

black poster board or cloth in your camera bag and place it behind the flowers. The background will go totally black, resulting in greater impact in your finished shot. The poster board can also act as a windbreaker to stop swaying flowers on a brisk day.Try some innovative techniques too. Shoot a group of flowers, focusing on only one so that the rest become complementary blurs of color. Or move in close and focus on only the stamen, allowing the petals to be out-of-focus blurs. Also, try sprinkling the flowers with droplets of water to give them a fresh, natural look.

In addition to flowers around your home or in the "wild," a local greenhouse will provide excellent picture possibilities.

Go 'wild' at Cranbrook sale

By Marty Figley
Special Writer

The Cranbrook Gardens 25th annual Spring Plant Sale is right around the corner.

It will take place 10 a.m. to 7 p.m. Wednesday, May 14, and 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. Thursday, May 15. Free parking and shuttle are available from the Cranbrook Church parking lot, across the street from the entrance to the gardens, 380 Lone Pine Road in Bloomfield Hills.

Wildflowers are always in demand at this sale and the "Wildflower Crew" has been very busy digging, propagating and potting these popular plants for customers.

One of the recent new digging areas is a 100-acre site in Lake Orion, formerly the Franklin Settlement Camp, most recently a boys and girls camp. Robertson Brothers is developing this land and has graciously given permission to Cranbrook to "dig away"!

Many people are spotters for the wildflowers, which would otherwise be lost when new development occurs. New areas are always needed. If you know of such a piece of property, notify Cranbrook. This is a win-win situation and a perfect example of conservation.

Patty Shea of Bloomfield Hills heads this group of stalwart volunteers, who are deterred by neither rain nor weed-filled lots. Shea recently received the Presidents Excellence Award for outstanding volunteer work for Cranbrook.

Some of the wildflowers available this year are Woodland Ferns, Trillium, Bloodroot and Hepatica. In addition, perennials, miniature roses, orchids, geraniums, herbs and greenhouse plants will be offered.

If you are looking for a special piece of garden art, a large selection is available, as well as earth-friendly products.

Proceeds from the sale will be used for maintaining and improving the 40 acres of gardens surrounding Cranbrook House, the preservation of sculpture in the gardens, and the upkeep and improvements of the greenhouse.

The gardens are open to the general public May 1 to Oct. 31. Hours are 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday-Saturday and 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. Sunday May to August. After Labor Day, hours are 11 a.m. to 3 p.m. Monday-Sunday. In October, hours are 11 a.m. to 3 p.m. Saturday-Sunday only.

General admission is $3, admission for seniors and students is $2. Season passes are available: family, $25; couple, $20; and individual, $15.

Ethics needs to be taught in school

JOE GAGNON

In the many seminars and lectures that I've done in the past 10 years, I have preached the word ethics like a church minister to his or her flock. The dictionary describes the word to mean – the principles of honor and morality, accepted rules of conduct and the moral principles of an individual.

My personal interpretation of the word agrees with the above but goes much further in explaining the right and wrong of things. The person who wrote the dictionary should have spent a few years working in the appliance repair business, it's been a great lesson in life for me.

A few years ago, the only place that would teach "ethics" was a school called Harvard University and only one class was available and it wasn't a requirement. With the amount of attorneys who are disciplined and punished in this country, I would think that that alone would inspire schools across the country to make it mandatory. The image created by the lack of ethics in the legal profession has become a standing joke in this country. The respect for lawyers is at its lowest. The advertising we see in the media is another example of a group who can't make it on their ethical reputation. The legal professionals who went on to become our country's leaders and servants of the people have embarrassed themselves and their peers and caused havoc in the nation.

This includes a former president who resigned rather than face impeachment and swore he was not a crook.

The word "ethics" doesn't go very far in the business world today. We as consumers still do not know who to trust, simply because the word "ethics" holds so little meaning to so many in the world today.

Years ago when God and prayer were removed from our schools, it left a void which was very important to the children. The dictionary description uses the words moral and morality and these are not taught in reading, writing and math. There was so little taught about ethics even back then, but it was better

Something fishy could also be dishy

RUTH MOSSOK JOHNSTON

Something quick, something tasty, something interestingly unique – something fishy?

Yes, something fishy – caviar. A great idea for company entertaining.

Carolyn Collins is doing La-De-Da Caviar, but not from the Caspian Sea. Located in the "Windy City," this entrepreneur with a taste for roe has made an interesting hobby into a creative and lucrative business. Last year her Chicago based caviar company produced 12,000 pounds of those tiny sparkling orbs – and flavorful orbs (berries) they are. Carolyn produces a line of caviar that has been infused with flavors and in some cases, spirits. Not all of her caviar is infused, some has maintained its own natural flavors, and unlike much of the imported caviar, Collins' Caviar is not overly fishy or salty. While some think caviar is an acquired taste ... it doesn't take a devotee to get hooked on this.

"Although I started this caviar company for the food service industry, currently our main thrust is the home consumer," says an impassioned Carolyn Collins. "We view caviar as – simple, elegant and fun to use in recipes, and would love to see it become a common pantry item."

Eighteen types of caviar to choose from (all reasonably priced – from $7 to $28 per ounce) – Whitefish, Salmon, Trout, Bowfin, Hackleback Sturgeon, Paddlefish, Smoked Caviars; Smoked Chicago Golden, Lone Star, Specialty Caviars; Caviar Peppar®, Caviar Citron®, Ginger, Grande Passion, Cajun and Sweet and Savory, Tobikko:Flying Fish Roe; Orange Tobikko, Wasabi Tobikko, Caribbean and Black Tobikko. This caviar is sold to consumers in one, three, and 6 1/2 ounce plastic jars - keep in mind, an ounce goes a long way when you're talking tiny fish roe. Mail ordered and delivered right to your door, still well chilled.

The Carolyn Collins Caviar Co. is at 925 West Jackson Blvd., 3rd Floor, Chicago, Illinois 60607, phone, 312-226-0342, Fax: 312-226-2114.

Chef/ Restaurateur Jimmy Bannos serves a big scoop of Cajun Caviar atop a stack of his Salmon and Chèvre Cheese (goat's cheese) quesadillas – and with good reason, he helped developed this garlicky, spicy caviar.

- Top scrambled eggs with caviar, make an omelet filled with Crème Fraîche and line with the caviar of your choice - fold over.
- Top a mini-potato pancake with sour cream and dot with any type of caviar.
- Make a crepe - line with Laban (heavy strained yogurt) or sour cream and top with cajun caviar before folding up.
- Bake small potatoes, cut off tops - place a dollop of sour cream and top with caviar.
- Make a quesadilla and fill with your favorite cheese and caviar.
- Fill small puffed pastry shells with the caviar of your choice.
- Slice a large strawberry - fan-out - top with a small teaspoon of Devon cream (heavy English cream generally served with scones or fruit) and top with a small spoonful of La Grande Passion Liqueur Caviar® - serve as dessert.
- Make a Caviar pie - a crust of hardboiled eggs, caviar, and a layer of sour cream (see recipe below).
- Create a pasta dish and top with caviar, or add caviar to a light pasta sauce.
- Serve caviar plain in a china egg cup with a special caviar spoon made of bone or mother of pearl.
- Do a wrap sandwich – Lavash bread filled with any filling of your choice – add the caviar for added flavor and garnish.
- Keep a couple of plastic jars of caviar on hand for unexpected guests – makes an elegant and quick snack or appetizer.
- Serve caviar on toast points or bis-

Good lighting reflects solid planning

Q: We are beginning the design of a kitchen addition. Do you have any suggestions for lighting?

A: The professional kitchen planner knows that a proper lighting system is more than a light over the sink and one in the center of the room. An efficient lighting system is possible only after the designer has considered the area to be illuminated, the desired mood to be suggested, the reflectance values of the surfaces to be installed and the type of light source to be installed.

The first consideration is the most often recognized – the area to be illuminated. It may be the entire room – general lighting. It may be one specific work area – task lighting. It may be one special area – decorative lighting. Lighting engineers have developed lighting guidelines for each of these areas.

Before any designer can effectively follow any recommendations, three other factors must be considered – the effect of the reflectance levels within the design, the mood association inherent in a lighting system and the differences between fluorescent and incandescent lighting, recessed and surface mounted.

To start at the beginning – what type of mood do you and your designer wish to achieve? High levels of light will make the room lively and cheerful, colors will be vibrant. The problems of glare and distracting shadows must be dealt with whenever high levels are suggested. Low levels of light will accentuate and add to a quiet and restful interior. The most defused light will minimize shadows and eliminate glare. Colors will be grayed.

In addition to the mood to be created, a major factor to be considered is how much light will be reflected from the surfaces being illuminated. All decorating is a part of the interior lighting design, because every surface reflects

CAVIAR PIE

Yield: 1 pie

I made this recipe years ago for our daughter Kim's High School graduation party (she's a week away from Birthday 33 – that really is years ago!). This was one of the buffet items at her open-house celebration – it was a hit then, now a bigger hit with flavor infused caviars. Perfect for parties, and great for appetizers. Make more than one pie, use a different caviar for each one served.

4-5 hardboiled eggs

3 tablespoons minced shallots

1-2 ounces caviar (flavored if desired - and amount discretionary - depending on how much caviar you choose to use as your layer.

1/2-3/4 cup sour cream or Laban (heavy strained yogurt)

Chopped fresh parsley for top garnish.

Chop hardboiled eggs - mix with minced shallots. Place the egg and onion mixture in a decorative pie plate or quiche dish. Pack in like a crust. Add layer of caviar - top with layer of sour cream or Laban. Garnish with chopped fresh parsley - chill.

Serve with an assortment of biscuits, baguette slices, or silver-dollar sized mini-pitas.

CAROLYN COLLINS' RECIPE FOR WILD RICE BLINIS (WITH CAVIAR)

1 cup Wild Rice, cooked according to manufacturer's instructions and cooled to room temperature.

3 cups Pancake mix (Plain, Wholewheat or Buckwheat), prepared according to manufacturer's instructions.

1 cup sour cream

An assortment of Collins Caviars

Gently fold Wild Rice into pancake mixture. In a heated skillet form 2 inch "pancakes."

Fry until golden brown. (Non-stick spray can replace oil if desired)

Serve blinis warm or room temperature with an accent of sour cream topped with traditional or specialty Collins Caviars.

Variations: Add any of the following to batter for taste; finely chopped fresh chives, Italian parsley, cilantro or oregano. Lemon zest, cinnamon and or nutmeg.

Revel in rosy outlook at Brickscape's Rose Fest

BY MARTY FIGLEY
Special Writer

Everything's coming up roses at Brickscape Gardens of Northville during its Rose Fest '97 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. Saturday-Sunday, May 10-11.

Its new spring stock of 1,000 rose plants of some 100 different varieties has arrived and you will be able to choose one or several from the large selection.

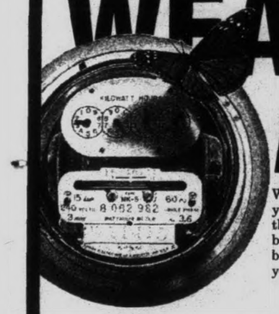

Brickscape Gardens is at 21141 Brickscape Drive (formerly Old Novi Road), just north of Eight Mile and just east of Novi Road on the limit between Northville and Novi. For more information, call (810) 348-2500.

Brickscape handles first quality Jackson & Perkins roses exclusively. Three of the varieties available are the 1997 winners chosen by All-America Rose Selections Inc. Two are hybrid teas.

"Artistry" blooms in soft coral orange on 16- to 18-inch stems and "Timeless" has deep rose pink blooms. Both are J&P introductions. "Scentimental" has a sweet spice fragrance that emits from burgundy and cream striped petals. It was introduced by Weeks Roses.

You won't want to miss the new extensive brick and flower garden that contains more than 20,000 brick pavers.

some of the light it receives and thus affects the lighting recommendations made by your designer. The lighter the surface, the more reflection and less lighting required. The darker the surface, the more lighting required. Shiny smooth surfaces reflect more light than the dull textured ones. Your designer must answer questions about mood and reflectance before planning any lighting system, or follow any lighting recommendations. Recommendations for lighting systems are based fluorescent and incandescent light sources, using recessed or surface mounted fixtures.

In today's ever-changing market, the recent introduction of halogen low wattage lamps offer you an additional alternative for your lighting scheme. Placement of lamps, using special trim ring options are so important in developing the look for today's kitchens. Stay away from the dotted effect AKA: "Swiss cheese factor" for your ceiling. Designers objectives are to illuminate the area and draw no attention to the source.

An area not so new to kitchen lighting, but receiving more attention today than ever, is the emergence of under-cabinet lighting. This lighting source is often mistaken for just lighting the counter top. This is not necessarily so. Isn't the backsplash often your main focal point? Stone, tumbled stone, granite and decorative tiles are what you want to display, not your countertops. Work closely with your designer to achieve your look. The lighting in this area will make the statement in your kitchen. Think through with your designer the objectives you want for the look you expect. This will be fun and the end result will be satisfying.

than none at all. I believe that the moral fiber of each individual child in the schools today can be brought to the surface by using methods of teaching which brings awareness to the word "ethics."

Now folks, I'm not ready to become a teacher in these my older years, but I am ready to write a book on the teaching profession. After the book is published and becomes a best seller, then just maybe I'll be able to teach the administrators and teachers a word or two about the subject of "ethics."

Now, you may be asking, "what does this guy know about ethics."

Let me reply in my simple way by doing everything that I do. I have become known across the country because I do things for people. The radio and television shows are heard by people who have grown to trust me and believe in me. I try to be understanding with people and kind in my response, and most of all, I give my love to strangers with each answer that saves them money. When I was a little boy, my cousin Guy Ranger and I cut our fingers and became blood brothers. Today, some 50 years later, we are as brothers. The word "ethics" means loving others and doing things which are done from the heart.

They're baaacckk! DINOSAURS

BY FRANK PROVENZANO
STAFF WRITER

Maybe it's the pungent scent coming downwind from the camels that induces the illusion of entering another time and place.

Possibly, but not likely. It's probably the bellowing snarls and awesome sights emanating west of the camel yard across from the Rackham Fountain at the Detroit Zoo, location of Dionsauria II.

Along a four-acre site, the Zoo has gathered an imposing crew of prehistoric reptilian thugs that Fred, Wilma and Dino wouldn't tell us about. Unquestionably, the group of hip behemoths has put the chic back in being a dinosaur. Sorry Barney, but you're just not "cool."

Quite simply, four years after the unprecedented success of the first animated dinosaur exhibit at the Zoo, they're baaaaacckkk! And they've brought some friends.

Dinosauria-II brings together the first-ever collection of 27 animated dinosaurs. Dinosauria-I had a modestly stunning class of 18. Many have graduated to join the stunning assemblage of more mobile and realistic dinos in this year's exhibit, created by Dinomation, an Irvine, California that designs science-education entertainment products.

The unprecedented range of animated dinosaurs has never been seen at any other zoo, museum or Hollywood set. Entryway to the "lost world" begins with a walk through a misty time tunnel. On the other side is a 3D version of the creatures that stalked the planet during the Triassic, Jurassic and Cretaceous periods, which span 225-65 million years ago.

An adult-size Tyrannosaurus Rex hovers over a pubescent lizard. A saber-tooth tiger stalks a humped-back Woolly Mammoth. Toss in an irascible Triceratops, a perturbable Pachycephalosaurus, and a thick-headed herbivore or two. Basically, you've got "Jurassic Park" without the anxiety of wondering if you're going to be stepped on – or eaten.

All that's missing is realistic dino doo-doo. No problem. Just take a deep breath at the camel or elephant exhibit and you can easily imagine the olfactory dimensions of prehistoric droppings.

The newly opened animated world of dinosaurs is expected to attract even larger crowds than the initial exhibit. Attendance surely won't be hurt by the upcoming sequel to "Jurassic Park" to be released in two weeks. And revenue will certainly be augmented by sales at the DinoStore with a range of dino T-shirts, puppets, CD-ROMs and educational books.

Four years ago, Zoo attendance increased nearly 40 percent, largely due to Dinosauria-I. The upturn at the gate was the first in years. "It brought people back to the zoo," said Charles Hammond, executive director of the Detroit Zoological Society. "It also created new zoo goers. It was definitely the hook."

Visitors to the dino sequel, according to Hammond, is expected to exceed 1993 attendance and revenue figures by 10 percent.

Although this year's exhibit includes more dinosaurs, the cost has remained about the same, he said. In 1993, the Zoo made a substantial investment to create a site to exhibit the prehistoric creatures. This year, the setting has merely been enhanced with foliage, bogs and a winding trail. That's the main reason the Zoo might be in for a big boost in net revenue.

Like most successful blockbusters, thoughts of a sequel began almost immediately after the overwhelming popular appeal to the initial Dionsauria. Yet while the main attraction brought in record crowds, it doesn't reflect the Zoo's long-term approach to make small-scale, ongoing improvements at the park, said Hammond.

For instance, over the last three years, the Zoo has introduced several major exhibits while renovating others. The new attractions include the Madrill Baboon exhibit, the Wildlife Interpretative Gallery, Giraffe House, Reptile House and Snow Monkey exhibit.

Meanwhile, general improvements have been made to the landscape, cleanliness of the park and customer service. "We believe the incremental improvements to the park is what will sustain high level of attendance over the years," said Hammond.

Sisters reflect on over 100 years of living in 'Having our Say'

BY KEELY WYGONIK
STAFF WRITER

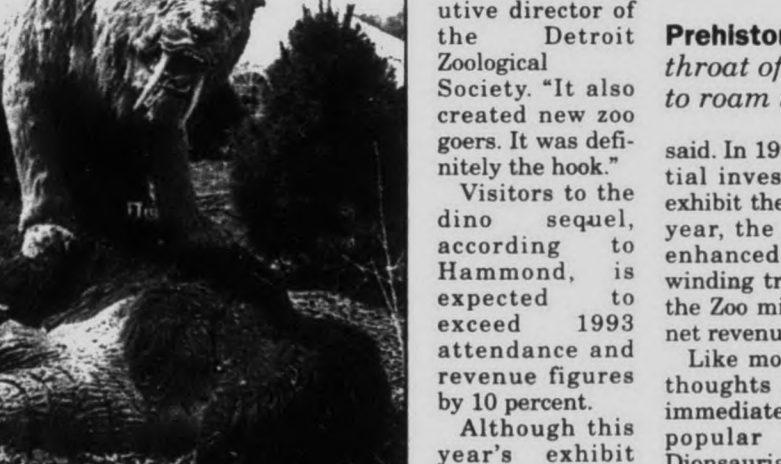

They say ordinary people do extraordinary things. Had it not been for New York Times reporter Amy Hill Hearth, the world might never have come to know Miss Sadie Delany and her sister, the late Dr. Bessie.

"I remember my Aunt Bessie saying, 'she never believed as a colored woman that I would get so much notoriety about her life.' They didn't think it was exciting," said William D. Murrell, principal of Oak Park High School about his aunts whose lives are portrayed in "Having Our Say," opening Thursday, May 15, at Music Hall Center for the Performing Arts for a short four-day run.

Hearth met the sisters in September 1991. Dr. Bessie, who passed away in 1995, had just celebrated her 101st birthday. Miss Sadie, who will be celebrating her 108th birthday this September, had just celebrated her 102nd birthday.

Hearth was invited to visit the sisters in Mount Vernon, New York, by one of their neighbors, and went to meet them. "Having Our Say," writes Hearth, "was woven from thousands of anecdotes that I coaxed from the Delany sisters during an eighteen-month period (September 1991 to April 1993). The sequence of stories is all mine but the words are all theirs."

"Having Our Say," published in September 1993 by Kodansha America Inc. remained on the New York Times bestseller list for more than six months. Dell Publishers has, to date, sold more than a half-million copies of the paperback. It was adapted into a play, and opened April 6, 1995, at the Booth Theatre on Broadway. The play has received rave reviews, and was nominated for three Outer Circle Awards and three Tony Awards.

"The Delany Sisters' Book of Everyday Wisdom," was published in 1994, and "On My Own at 107 – Reflections on Life Without Bessie," this year.

Micki Grant stars as Miss Sadie Delany, and Lizan Mitchell as Dr. Bessie Delany in the drama, adapted and directed by Emily Mann.

"It's a very personal, yet universal view of life and American history," said Mitchell who has performed extensively on and off-Broadway, in regional theater, on TV and in movies. "We have an intimate conversation with the audience. We invite them into our home for tea and a meal." On stage the sisters set the table, and prepare turnips with broccoli, a stuffed hen, macaroni and cheese, and ambrosia.

During the play, the audience gets to know Dr. Bessie, the second black woman licensed to practice dentistry in New York, and Miss Sadie, the first black person ever to teach high school domestic science in New York City public schools.

"They lived in a duplex, and I was a teenager when my parents moved into the other part of the house," said Murrell. "All of my mother's brothers and sisters managed to finish college, and many earned master's degrees. They were extraordinary people who rose above their problems. They knew people who made history. Booker T. Washington was a friend. They witnessed the birth of a nation, which was very racist at the time."

As they talk about their life, share their secrets, and hopes for the future, the audience is witness to the Delany Sisters' over 100 years of good living from the 1890s to the 1990s.

"Portraying Dr. Bessie is the crowning moment in my life in theater," said Mitchell. "These

Shoot-'em up gangster comedy a crime to miss

"Broadway" comes to life at the Hilberry Theatre 8 p.m. Thursdays, Fridays and Saturdays, and 2 p.m. Wednesdays and Saturdays through May 17. Ticket prices range from $9.50 to $16.50, groups discounts available, call (313) 577-2972. Box office hours are 11 a.m. to 6 p.m. Monday through Saturday.

BY TAMI TABACCHI
SPECIAL WRITER

For 1920s shoot-em-up gangster comedy, the Hilberry Theatre is the place to be. As part of the graduate company, you can catch the Phillip Dunning and George Abbott comedy "Broadway" through May 17.

While lead character Roy Lane is no gangster, he is thrown into their world while working at the Paradise Night Club as an aspiring vaudeville performer, along with partner and love interest, Billie Moore. Of course, Roy is in love with Billie, who is being pursued by local gangster Steve Crandall, played by Bret Tuomi. Should she choose Roy and his honorable intentions or Steve and his dangerous world of wines and riches? Being your typical love story (gangster-style), guessing where this plot goes is certainly no surprise, but it's a fun gambol.

Even with the somewhat corny story line, director Anthony Schmitt has assembled an amiable show. The actors have done an equitable job interpreting their characters, and for the most part, even pull off those overpowering New York City accents. Karl Kippola stars as Roy Lane, and despite his characters galling arrogance, you'll enjoy his impromptu toe-tapping and rousing ambitions throughout the show. Wendy Gough is very sweet and charming as Billie and creates an all-around likable performance.

No, it's not a musical, but it certainly rings like one. The show even required accomplished choreographer, Nira Pullin, to add some steps. However, the only true dance routine you'll see is in the curtain call, and it's actually pretty good.

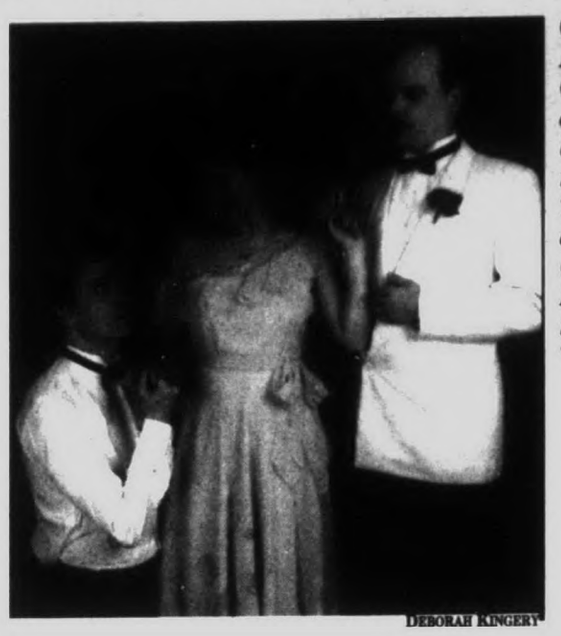

By far the funniest part of "Broadway" is the slovenly drunk scene with characters Lil and Porky, played by Mary Vinette and Topher Owen. As the fiesta showgirls Mazie and Ruby, Judith Annozine and Peggy Johns are also good for a laugh as they butt heads and torment each other throughout each act.

Crediting John Woodland, the showgirl costumes, which include baby doll and clown motifs, are great; very fitting for the time period, as well as adding humor to the show. After all, showgirls weren't all sequins and frills in 1925.

Cindy Freet has created an eye-pleasing set, constructing an authentic and functional balcony and a picture window with the Paradise Night Club marquis appropriately poking through.

For a bang-up time, "Broadway" is certainly not the great American classic, but it is a fun night out. As the gangsters would say, "check it out if you knows what's good for you."

"Broadway" also features Mark Finnell of Farmington Hills and David Haig of Livonia.

were extraordinary women. The words we say were spoken by real people. We talk about Jim Crow laws.

"Here we have two people who lived together before and after being considered an untouchable," said Mitchell. "People who come to see this play may see an America they never knew about. They lived through the Depression, and were very resourceful, but cautious in spending."

The Delany sisters didn't choose maidenhood, it chose them. Years ago you either had a career, or husband and family. You couldn't have both.

"The play validates a relationship outside of husband, and wife," said Mitchell. "Just to find someone who accepts you as you are. Their self-esteem was so strong they felt they could do anything."

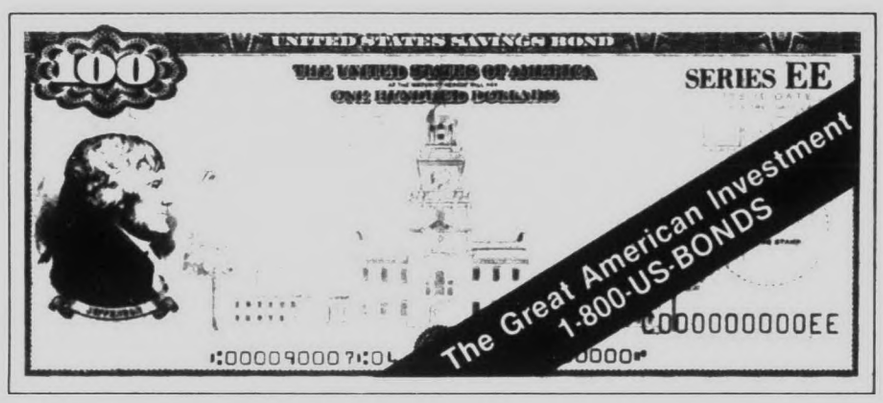

Murrell saw his Aunt Sadie during Easter break. "She's well, although her hearing is somewhat impaired," he said. "She was alert, and talkative."

Murrell saw the play on Broadway, and like Mitchell believes it will show people an America and family they might not have seen. "The emphasis in my family is education," he said. "You just had to go to school and get a degree.

"You made something of yourself. My oldest son is graduating from medical school, all of my children are in college. If you want to get a real flavor of the struggles of an African-American family who rose above the constraints of society, see the play. My family is no different from others who have struggled."

"Miss Sadie says, 'life is short, it's up to you to make it sweet,' said Mitchell who has difficulty deciding what her favorite part or line in the play is.

When pressed, she quotes a line from her character says, and repeats again in our interview – "Maybe our country will finally grow up and come to terms with this race mess."

that archeologists, animators and filmmakers have essentially made an educated guess on what dinosaur looked like. "Dinos leave so much to the imagination," said Hammond.

That's a major part of the appeal. Hollywood knows it. And so does the Zoo. The difference, however, is that Hollywood producers are concerned with box office appeal while Dinosauria-II offers a broader understanding of the lessons of Mother Nature.

"These dinosaurs became extinct because their environment changed, or a natural disaster," said Hammond. "One popular theory is that an asteroid shower wiped them out."

The contrast between the demise of dinos and today's endangered species is alarming, said Hammond. Many animals are becoming extinct because of human intervention in the natural ecology. Poaching has wiped out many wild game, while uncontrolled industrialization has polluted many habitats.

"Animals are totally dependent on their environment," said Hammond. "What we do best at the Zoo is exhibit threatened and endangered species to teach about what's happening to their natural environments."

Apparently, the unspoken lesson of Dionsauria-II can best be summed up by the growling snarls from the most imposing creatures to inhabit the earth.

The translation is meant for the ages: Don't fool with Mother Nature.

'Purple Dinosaur' comes to Southfield

The Cultural Arts Division of Southfield Parks and Recreation is proud to present, as part of the Kids Koncerts Series, the perennial kids' favorite, "The Purple Dinosaur" 1:30 p.m. Saturday, May 17 in Room 115 of the Southfield Parks and Recreation Building, 26000 Evergreen.

"The Purple Dinosaur" sings, dances and features a lot of audience participation with one of the kids' best-loved friends.

Tickets are $3.25, $2.50 for groups of ten or more, and available by calling (810) 424-9022. Party rooms are available for groups of ten or more, but must be reserved ahead.

Also of note:

City of Southfield's Parks and Recreation Department sponsored Concerts In The Garden Series features pianist David Syme 3 p.m. Sunday, May 18 at the DoubleTree Guest Suites, 28100 Franklin Road, Southfield. Tickets $8, call (810) 424-9022.

Syme, an internationally acclaimed pianist with synthesizer and percussion accompaniment, will perform a feast of piano music drawn from the pops, Broadway favorites, and classical selections.

BY TAMI TABACCHI
SPECIAL WRITER

Once again, it's time for a time-honored American musical, specially geared to get audiences dancing in their seats. This is especially true when it's an Ira and George Gershwin classic. "Crazy for You," now being staged by the Players Guild of Dearborn, provides an evening of memorable show tunes that people of all ages will surely recognize and enjoy.

It wouldn't be Gershwin if it wasn't a love story. Bobby Child wants to be on stage in the Zangler Follies, but his mother (played by 30-year Guild member Elna Johnson) has plans for him in the family banking business. When he's sent to Deadrock, Nevada, to foreclose on a dying theater, he gets the idea to resurrect the theater with help from the vacationing Zangler Follies girls and a phony mustache that makes him appear as the famous producer, Bela Zangler. However, saving the dying theater isn't the only thing on his mind after he falls madly in love with a beautiful cowgirl named Polly. However, Polly is falling in love with this Bela Zangler persona. Then another problem- no one comes to see the show. It's not until the real Zangler appears does the actual show dream become a reality for the folly-transformed cowboys of Deadrock.

From start to finish, you'll find yourself humming along with the tunes and tapping your toes to the beat. With a talented cast and orchestra to accompany them, musical director Robert Ballard and director Brian Townsend have put together a truly fun show.

The lead characters, Bobby and Polly, both make their debut at the Guild (with several theatrical credits in productions elsewhere). Jeff Drewno of (Walled Lake) and Nancy Wilinski give delightful performances in every aspect. They have created likable characters, honing in on their sensitivities, with talent to sing and dance, as well. Listen for Bobby's "They Can't Take That Away From Me" and Polly's "Someone to Watch Over Me" and "But Not For Me."

Led by Valerie Mould, the chorus has been given some snazzy dance steps, and they do a nice job strongly belting out those lyrics. By far the best number in the show is "I Got Rhythm." Obviously, it is the most well-known song in the show, but it also is the best choreographed and the best performed number in regards to timing and entertainment quality. Other favorites include "Can't Be Bothered Now" and "Tonight's the Night."

The greatest laugh is in "Bidin' My Time," where the local cowboys paint an overtly lackadaisical picture of themselves, with some of the best blank stares seen on the Guild's stage. But watch how they move later in the show- especially those moves of Paul Bruce.

"What Causes That?" also provides a hearty laugh, where Bobby and Zangler (played in robust fashion by Michael Falzon of Westland) contemplate love in a drunken stupor.

Valerie Mangrum and Cindy Foreman do a great job on their ditsy-showgirl accents, and Alan Ellias is a hoot as (perhaps) Deadrock's dumbest cowboy, Moose. Other worthy performances include Tony Lawry of (Garden City) and Joanne Duckman (of Birmingham) as the show's least-likely couple.

Costumer Amy Purrenhage must have overworked her sewing machine on some of those eye-catching costumes. Clementine and Floyd Belle design some rather elaborate back drops that work quite well.

SUE SUCHYTA

"Crazy For You" is certain to be a crowd-pleaser. With the talented cast and many well-rehearsed hours, the Players Guild of Dearborn has certainly got rhythm.

Mike Myers' 'Austin Powers' a groovy spy spoof

TICKETS PLEASE

JOHN MONAGHAN

Few movie heroes deserve more lampooning than James Bond. He may have saved the world countless times, but Britain's quintessential secret agent has also taken his knocks in the '90s as the Playboy-era's reigning sexist pig. The people behind "Austin Powers: International Man of Mystery" don't just stop there. The new Mike Myers spy spoof also makes clever nods to Richard Lester's Beatles movies and fashionable art films like "Blow Up," things that Sean Connery's Bond openly despised.

Austin Powers is a fashion photographer by day, secret agent by night. Both jobs require the same groovy outfit: striped pants, puffy polyester shirt, crushed velvet jacket, and so much "shag appeal" that women literally run after him in the streets.

It's 1967 when Powers and partner Mrs. Montgomery (a leather-suited tribute to The Avengers' Emma Peel), infiltrate a Mod London nightclub. They suspect that it serves as a front for Dr. Evil, Powers' bald-headed, cat-stroking nemesis.

Also played hilariously by Myers, the pinky-biting Evil cryogenically freezes himself and jettisons into space in a hamburger-holding, Big Boy-shaped rocket. Powers follows suit and thaws out three decades later, expecting even more swinging times ahead. He's in for a rude awakening, especially in his treatment of women. While Mrs. Montgomery found him almost irresistible, her daughter (both played by Elizabeth Hurley) is repulsed. It's her job to acclimate Austin to the post-Cold War world and she wants him strictly hands off.

Sometimes "Austin Powers" plays like an overlong TV comedy sketch, not surprising from a former member of Saturday Night Live. Myers has already proven himself on film in "So I Married and Axe Murderer," a 1993 cult comedy, and appears to have a similar free hand here.

Even the bathroom humor is surprisingly funny, including an insanely long urinating sequence, the logical result of 30 years of sleep.

Robert Wagner, meanwhile, plays Number 2. Evil's right-hand man meets Austin at a Las Vegas black jack table, where the secret agent loses the game after stopping at five. "I like to live dangerously," he says smoothly.

Bond fans will appreciate the in-jokes. Asian assassin Odd Job now wields a lethal shoe instead of a hat. Even Austin's carpet of chest hair is a spoof of Connery, who prided himself on this symbol of his masculinity.

The villain's ubiquitous underground lair houses a drill bomb that will ignite at the earth's core and make all the world's volcanoes explode, a concept not that much goofier than the real Bond movies. Evil originally wants a million dollars until his colleagues convince him that this isn't so much money anymore.

What would have made "Austin Powers" even better is a spoof of Bond's elaborate action sequences. The movie certainly provides the music to go along with them, a dead-on tribute to the original film's memorable John Barry soundtracks.

Other music blends pop music old and new. The hippy anthem "Incense and Peppermints" can be heard along with The Divinyls' "I Touch Myself" when Austin must face off in a sensual showdown with a bevy of robot Nancy Sinatras.

Whether "Austin Powers" works without knowledge of the pop references will be the real test of the secret agent's meddle. The filmmakers obviously have high hopes, leaving plenty of room for a sequel. Groovy.

SCREEN SCENE

A sampling of what's playing at alternative movie theaters across metro Detroit as reviewed by John Monaghan.

Detroit Film Theatre Detroit Institute of Arts, 5200 Woodward Ave., Detroit. Call (313) 833-2323 for information. ($5; $4 students)

"Ponette" (France-1996). May 9-11 (call for showtimes). When four-year-old boy suffers the loss of his mother, he progresses through stages of grieving and ultimately emerges at a new awareness of what it means to be alive.

"Flirt" (USA-1995). 7 p.m. Monday, May 12. Maverick director Hal Hartley spins three similar tales set in New York, Berlin, and Tokyo. Starring Martin Donovan and Parker Posey.

Magic Bag Theatre 22918 Woodward, Ferndale. Call (810) 544-3030 for information.

"Jerry Maguire" (USA-1996). 9:30 p.m. Thursday, May 8. Tom Cruise plays a sports agent who loses his job after he puts honor before percentages. Cuba Godding, Jr. won an Oscar as his single remaining client. ($2)

"Touch of Evil" (USA-1959). 9 p.m. Tuesday, May 13. As legend has it, Orson Welles bet producer Albert Zugsmith that he could make a decent movie out of any story. He did, casting Charlton Heston as a Mexican-born federal agent who gets caught up in nastiness in a seedy border town. Janet Leigh co-stars. Shown on big screen video. (Free)

Main Art Theatre 118 N. Main Street at 11 Mile, Royal Oak. Films play through at least Thursday, unless noted otherwise. Call (810) 542-0180 for information and showtimes. ($6.50; $4 students, seniors and matinee; $3 twilight)

"Anna Karenina" (USA-1997). Leo Tolstoy's classic heroine returns in the most viewer-friendly screen treatment possible. The original 900-page book has been packed into two hours and with English-speaking actors, among them Sophie Marceau, Sean Bean, and Mia Kirshner.

"Chasing Amy" (USA-1997). The third film from Kevin Smith, independent director of "Clerks," about a comic book artist who falls in love with a woman only to find out that she's gay. Better than his sophomore effort, "Mallrats," the movie tries valiantly to make a poignant statement about modern relationships.

"Kissed" (Canada-1997). This low-budget romance from Canadian director Lynne Stopkewich is surprisingly tasteful considering its bizarre subject matter: intimacy with corpses.

Maple Theatre 4135 W. Maple, Bloomfield. All titles play through at least next Thursday, unless noted otherwise. Call (810) 855-9090 for information. ($6; $2.95 twilight)

"Pink Flamingos" (USA-1997). The same year that George Lucas was pushing the limits science fiction , director John Waters was doing the same thing with bad taste. Divine, the 300-pound transvestite and star of most of Waters' pictures, tries to retain her title as "filthiest person alive." The midnight classic stops here as part of a nationwide 20th-anniversary rerelease.

Michigan Theatre 603 E. Liberty, Ann Arbor. Call (313) 668-8480 for information. ($6.50; $5 students/seniors)

"Kama Sutra: A Tale of Love" (India-1996). Through May 15 (call for showtimes). A study in eroticism from Mira Nair ("Mississippi Masala"), about an Indian princess, her lifelong companion and servants, and the people that try to separate them.

Punk band 'Offspring' offers disclaimer

STAFF WRITER

The 1994 album "Smash" was the break-through effort for the then 10-year-old punk band the Offspring. Thanks to hits like "Come Out and Play (You Gotta Keep 'Em Separated)" and "Self-Esteem" more than 8.5 million fans went out and bought the band's album.

Good for the Offspring; Bad for a select group of parents who thought that some of the lyrics on "Smash" were profane. In response to the protests, the Offspring included a spoken word disclaimer by punk mainstay Jello Biafra in its latest album "Ixnay on the Hombre" (Columbia).

Singer Brian "Dexter" Holland is an acquaintance of Biafra, who was involved in the "No Censorship Defense Fund" in the late 1980s, and thought he would be the perfect performer for the disclaimer. Biafra, a member of the defunct Dead Kennedys, was charged with obscenity for artwork included in his band's album "Frankenchrist."

"Ladies and gentlemen," Biafra says with a sarcastic sneer, "Welcome to the disclaimer ... this American apple-pie institution known as parental discretion will cleanse any sense of innuendo or sarcasm from lyrics which might actually make you think and will also insult your intelligence at the same time."

"So protect your family. This album contains explicit depictions of things which are real. These real things are commonly known as life. So if it sounds sarcastic don't take it seriously. If it sounds dangerous do not try this at home or at all. Or if it offends you – just don't listen to it."

Come out and play: The Offspring – from left, bassist Greg K., guitarist/vocalist Kevin "Noodles" Wasserman (in baseball hat), drummer Ron Welty (in car), and singer/guitarist Dexter Holland – come out to Detroit to play the State Theatre on Sunday, May 18.

Calling from Lyon, France, guitarist/vocalist Kevin "Noodles" Wasserman, explained the "Disclaimer."

"They (parents) just kind of thought that the whole album was tearing away at the whole fabric of America's youth. We did the disclaimer to make fun of disclaimers and the people who would have them on records."

There's very little swearing on "Ixnay on the Hombre," however. Wasserman stumbled over his words trying to explain is parents' complaints kept the swearing to a minimum on the new record.

"Ixnay on the Hombre" marks a new era for the Offspring. The Offspring and its longtime producer Thom Wilson parted ways before the recording of "Ixnay on the Hombre."

"I think Thom just wanted to go in another direction. Thom had other things that he wanted to do," Wasserman said.

The immediate choice was Dave Jerden who has worked with Jan'e Addiction and Social Distortion.

"Dave's a great guy. He doesn't really say a lot. When he does say something, there's generally something to do. As far as the studio, he knows everything there is to know – all the little tricks to fatten up a guitar sound or drum sound, or to weaken it if that's what you want. He had all these tricks to use that we never knew of."

Besides the thickening of guitars and drums, Jerden's ideas included adding effects to Holland's vocals. The singer came up with the addictive hand clapping in "I Choose."

"I think that was Dexter's wish really. He was the one who really figured that out. Most of what you hear is Dexter's idea really. I know that he (Jerden) helped us a lot with tempo especially if our tempo wasn't consistent throughout a song. He'd time the songs to see if we were speeding up or slowing down. He'd say, 'You're kind of losing it there. Let's slow it down. Let's try it that way.'"

The second big change for the Offspring was after years of releasing albums on indie labels, the band jumped from Epitaph Records to the Sony mega-machine of which Columbia is a part.

The new deal with Columbia has "been great," Wasserman explained.

"Fortunately we had some muscle when we worked out a deal with them to get some of the things we wanted which was for us to be left alone and to do things our way. They're really cool people."

The Offspring performs in concert Sunday, May 18, at the State Theatre, 2115 Woodward Ave., Detroit, with special guests L7 and A.F.I. Doors open at 7:30 p.m. for the all-ages show. Tickets are $15 in advance. For more information, call (313) 961-MELT.

Luscious Jackson gets unusual collaborator

CHRISTINA FUOCO

When famed producer Daniel Lanois suggested that hip-hop artists Luscious Jackson invite country star Emmylou Harris into the studio to perform on the band's latest album, "Fever In Fever Out" (Grand Royal), keyboardist/singer Vivian Trimble admits she had reservations.

"Emmylou had just finished working on a record with Daniel, and he suggested that we invite her over. We thought 'Emmylou Harris, OK.' But she came over to our little rehearsal home studio, and we were flabbergasted," Trimble said.

"It's not a completely obvious collaboration, but it's great."

That was just the beginning of a series of changes Luscious Jackson made during the recording of "Fever In Fever Out."

"In the past we had worked in a small studio and were using a lot of sampling and looping, and then sort of playing our instruments on top of the loops. This time we really wanted to concentrate on live music, having toured together for two years.... We felt that producing a live sound was our weak spot."

To enhance that sound, the band called in an outside producer, Lanois, for the first time to collaborate with longtime knob-turner Tony Mangurian. Most of the album was recorded in New York except for two weeks that were spent at Lanois's Kingsway studio in New Orleans.

"That was the first time we recorded away from home. It was incredible. Kingsway is beautiful. It's in a luxurious decadent villa in the French Quarter."

A firm believer in "preventing overkill," Lanois pressed Luscious Jackson to accept early takes of songs.

"For example, he believes in only recording a song a very few times. After that you lose the spontaneity and the feeling of the song. He's right. When you first record something you've got some energy and some gusto. You go for it. By the fifth or sixth time, you're starting to freeze up and start getting too self conscious about your performance and you lose what was originally there," she explained.

Luscious Jackson is making an encore Detroit appearance Friday, May 16, after a sold-out appearance in mid-November. Detroit, Trimble explained, has always been a good city for Luscious Jackson.

"We've always had really good times in Detroit. We've always had great shows. You get jinxed in certain towns and then you always have luck in other towns."

Like the last tour, the band is bringing along extra musicians to fill out the live sound.

"DJ Alex Young, he adds a lot of different sounds and textures to the songs. He also gets up on the stage and sets a vibe before we even come on. Ann Hairston, she plays percussion and some bass and guitars. With six of us on stage we can manage to pull off just about any of the songs."

Luscious Jackson performs Friday, May 16, at St. Andrew's Hall, 431 E. Congress, Detroit. Tickets are $13.50 in advance for the all-ages show. Doors open at 6:30 p.m. For more information, call (313) 961-MELT.

"We'd like you to think of each song as a so-called snapshot of where we were at various creative periods," said lead singer Tim DeLaughter. "Some of the earlier songs are cassette dubs while others are recordings done in ridiculously expensive studios."

• Sony Music Video has released the two-hour feature film "Message to Love: The Isle of Wight Festival – The Movie" on home video. The documentary, filmed by Oscar award-winning director Murray Lerner ("From Mao to Mozart"), arrives in stores Tuesday, June 3.

"Message to Love" captures on film the final stage performances by Jimi Hendrix and Jim Morrison with The Doors. The movie made its U.S. debut at a special screening on Christmas Day 1996 in New York City. In addition to the video, Legacy Recordings has released a two-CD collection "Message to Love: The Isle of Wight Festival 1970" featuring 20 live performances from the soundtrack to the film.

Sweet Afton Tea Room has mother/daughter touch

BY KEELY WYGONIK
STAFF WRITER

Nancy Burton raised four children. "It seems like I've been running a kitchen all my life," she said. "I enjoy making sure people are happy and comfortable in an atmosphere where they can relax."

Burton is right at home at Sweet Afton Tea Room & Restaurant, which she and her daughter Cynthia Belanger took over in March. "It's a place where you can come in blue jeans or a dress and feel comfortable," said Cynthia who left a job at Wabeek Country Club in Bloomfield Township to run the tea room with her mom. Sister Lyndi, 19, a freshman at the University of Michigan – Dearborn, began working at the tea room in high school, and has been there for three-and-a-half years.

"We make all of the desserts ourselves, and soups from scratch," said Burton. "We make just about everything from scratch, and offer 20 varieties of tea, and flavored coffees." Iced tea, sparkling juices and ginger beer are also available.

A little gift shop in front offers tea cups, and tea-related items from Britain for sale.

"The time was right, and the previous owner wanted to sell," said Burton explaining how her family came to own the tea room at the end of March. She is quick to compliment her staff. "They are so willing to work hard, and are a very dependable, good staff."

Subtle changes make the tea room feel a little homier. White tablecloths were replaced with burgundy ones. The buffet in the front of the store belonged to Cindy's grandmother. All of the tea cups are individual, and customers have their favorites. One even belonged to Lyndi's grandmother.

"Each tea cup has their own personality," said Lyndi. "People have their favorite cup. The teapots are all old English teapots."

But Burton and her daughters want you to know they are more than a tea room. "We offer very good, homemade food," said Belanger. "It's a good value, and casual, yet elegant."

There's a fresh soup on the menu everyday. Chicken and wild rice were the offerings on the day I stopped in. In addition to tea sandwiches, you'll find Shepherd's Pie, The Wellington – a rich meaty pie of seasoned sirloin tips and vegetables, and hearty sandwiches including the Tavern Sandwich. Be sure to ask about the Feature of the Day. Previous features have included quiche and Chicken Waldorf Salad. Belanger and her mom plan to expand the menu to include salads and chicken pot pie.

Be sure to leave room for sweets – shortbread, butter tart, lemon tart, chocolate tart, mini tart place, Victorian Sponge Cake, and Scones.

While most of the clientele are women, some men do venture in. "They like the Wellington and Sheperd's Pie," said Belanger adding "men are more than welcome."

Her uncle joked – "what a place to meet women. The women were still smiling thinking about the sweet guy who called for reservations and brought his wife in to celebrate their 41st wedding anniversary. They sat them at a cozy table in the corner.

With all those delicate tea cups around you'd think Sweet Afton's was off limits for kids, not so. They're more than welcome. "My son, Christopher loves to come here," said Belanger. "They love to have chocolate milk from a tea pot," adds her mom.

Sandwiches "For the Wee Folk" – your choice of cheese, peanut butter and/or jam, are cut into whimsical shapes, and served with fruit and animal crackers.

Nancy and her daughter, Cynthia live two miles from each other in Plymouth. Lyndi lives at home.

"We really enjoy the community, and have an investment in our homes, and business," said Belanger. "We really like the renovations in downtown Plymouth."

As Mother's Day approaches, the women are busy planning a special menu for Mother's Day, and counting their blessings. "It's very encouraging," said Burton. "We enjoy our work."

Keeping the lines open

BY DOUG FUNKE
STAFF WRITER

A relationship between Realtor and client, like any other initiated with the best of intentions, can sour.

Frustrations set in early when buyers can't crystallize their desires or, worse, change their minds about what they want.

All that preparation down the drain.

Realtors also get upset when their buyers lose out because they aren't available at a moment's notice to view houses as they pop up in a very hot market.

No purchase – so long commission and more work, too.

Buyers shake their heads when continually shown houses that don't quite measure up to their requirements.

Is this guy (or gal) really interested in me?

Some buyers resent being on call around the clock, then feel pressured to make an offer with little time for reflection.

I've got a life, too. And this decision, which affects my lifestyle and finances, deserves more thought than a walk-through.

Some sellers get nervous when they don't hear from their agents for more than a couple of days.

Where's my Realtor? Where's my house on the priority list?

"I think you can attribute every problem to communication," said Michael Peck, executive vice president for the Western Wayne Oakland County Association of Realtors.

"Communication stops. Or, somebody says something one way and another perceives it a different way," Peck said.

In some cases, both sides can share the blame.

"The biggest cause would be the salesperson did not listen, did not hear what the customer actually wanted," said Larry Martin, WWOCAR president and training director for Remerica of Michigan.

■ Clients should bring up concerns immediately – 'whether it's nine at night or six in the morning. That's where things break down. Clear it up right away.'

Robert J.Corbett
president
Birmingham Bloomfield Rochester South Oakland Association of Realtors

The other side of the coin? "The customer has to explain what it is they want and why," Martin said.

Realtors should remember that while they're active in the business every day, clients aren't.

"I think a real estate agent should be direct and right up front about what they can or can't do," said Robert J. Corbett, president of the Birmingham Bloomfield Rochester South Oakland Association of Realtors and an associate broker with Century 21 Campbell.

Clients should bring up concerns immediately – "whether it's nine at night or six in the morning" – Corbett advised. "That's where things break down. Clear it up right away."

A couple of simple questions right up front can save a lot of hard feelings down the road, Martin said.

"Realtors can ask, 'How will you know if I'm doing a good job? How often should I contact you?'"

Most clients should realize, too, that they aren't the only persons with whom their Realtor is involved at any point in time. On the other hand, some clients need a degree of hand-holding.

"Buying or selling a house is really a big deal," Martin said. "Sometimes, a real estate agent doesn't get emotionally involved like he should."

Recent state laws requiring a written inventory by the seller of a property's condition and notice of agency representation apparently haven't totally eradicated complaints to realty boards.

"About 90 percent of cases involve allegations of misrepresentation, exaggeration or concealment of pertinent facts," Peck said.

Last year, nearly 50 ethics-related complaints were filed and forwarded to the association's grievance committee for review, Peck said. Twenty-eight went to the professional standards committee for a hearing.

BBSOAR received 11 written complaints last year, five of which went to hearing, said Susan Bleich, professional standards director there.

"Most people call to get it off their chest ... blow off steam," Peck said. "Somebody listened. They (complainants) realize it's not serious or they don't have time to pursue it."

Complaint forms are available from LaVada Cowans, WWOCAR professional standards administrator, at (810) 478-1700 or Bleich at (810) 879-9560.

Complaints also may be filed with the state department of consumer and industry services, office of commercial services, (517) 373-9153.

Norwest Mortgage offering new products

MORTGAGE SHOPPING

DAVID C. MULLY

Current mortgage customers of Norwest Mortgage can now repay their loan at an accelerated rate and build equity faster, without disturbing the terms of the mortgage.

The new Norwest Mortgage Equity Enhancement Program (EEP) is a method of rescheduling standard monthly mortgage payments. EEP allows the equity benefits and reduced interest of bi-weekly mortgage payments and offers the added flexibility and convenience of customer-designated payment intervals (weekly, bi-weekly or semi-monthly).

This program can significantly lower the term. The EEP can be offered at a substantially lower cost than traditional accelerated mortgage plans.

A one- time enrollment fee entitles people who have home mortgages with the company to continue to use the program even if they buy a new home. This program does not change the mortgage terms or payment due date, but does require that the company receive payments electronically.

Here's how the the program works: One half of the regular monthly mortgage payment is collected every two weeks by electronic transfer from the homeowner's bank account. The mortgage payments are automatically paid to Norwest monthly.

Biweekly payments, the equivalent of 13 monthly mortgage payments, are collected annually. The two "extra" biweekly payments are sent to the mortgage servicer to reduce the mortgage principal balance.

The program works in a similar manner with a semi-monthly payment schedule. One-half of the regular monthly payment plus 1/24th of the regular monthly payment is deducted twice each month. The additional amount is added to each half payment, so as to replicate the pay-down pattern of the bi-weekly schedule. Additional principal is applied each month. Weekly payments work the same way.

The company also is offering a telephone-based mortgage prequalification service. The system, called Rapid Connection, enables people interested in a mortgage loan to have round-the-clock access to precisely how much house they can afford and what size mortgage they can handle at current interest rates.

In addition, Rapid Connection enables anyone with a Touch-tone telephone to apply for and be prequalified for loans automatically. The service is free and usually takes less than five minutes to complete, a company spokesman said.

This is how it works: When prospective borrowers call Rapid Connection's toll-free number, the system's voice prompt asks them a few simple questions.

Borrowers respond by using the keypad on their Touch-tone telephone. By supplying their Social Security number, income, monthly debt and ZIP code, Rapid Connection accesses

REAL ESTATE QUERIES

ROBERT M. MEISNER

Q. I read with interest your recent article where you recommended that the board take action to terminate the management company where the management company is reviewing the bids from contractors, besides its own affiliate, before the bids are submitted to the board.

Unfortunately, the management company has a majority of votes on the board of directors of our association. Also, the officers and the management company own a majority of the condominium units. Are we completely at their mercy or there is an alternative action that we can take? This situation reeks of a conflict of interest.

A. It would appear that you may be in a position to bring what is akin to a stockholders derivative suit in behalf of those minority members of the condominium who are aggrieved by, in effect, the tyranny of a majority in entering into a contract with a management firm that they control, which is not operating in the best interests of the association.

Moreover, the directors of the association may be breaching their fiduciary duties by retaining their own management company to the extent that it is taking undue advantage of the members.

If you cannot obtain political control of the board of directors, your only recourse is to seek legal recourse.

Risk management can reduce stress of buying and selling your home

Buying a house is an enormous investment, and it can be risky. Problems that arise after the sale, such as a broken air-conditioning system or furnace, can turn your dream home into a nightmare, costing you thousands of dollars.

To prevent such nightmares, many homebuyers and sellers are now insisting on home warranties as part of the sale. More than four million homes were sold in 1996, with a median cost of $120,000.

American Home Shield, the nation's largest home warranty company, says that almost one in four of those transactions included home warranty protection. The number of home warranty contracts issued is expected to climb rapidly in the coming years.

"Most people agree that an ounce of prevention really is worth a pound of cure," said Chris Handley, American Home Shield account executive based in Clarkston. "Home warranties are a great way to reduce the financial risk associated with buying or selling a home, and they're very affordable."

■ 'Home warranties are a great way to reduce the financial risk associated with buying or selling a home....'

The average cost for a homeowners warranty is $350, according to the company.

Home warranties are a type of service contract that covers home systems and major appliances for a year after the sale. For buyers, a home warranty is an added measure of comfort in the face of a huge investment. For sellers, home warranties help protect them from being dragged into a confrontation over covered problems associated with their old property. In effect, everyone wins.

A thorough, professional home inspection will prevent a number of potential problems. AmeriSpec, a subsidiary of American Home Shield, is the largest home inspection company in North America. AmeriSpec inspectors check more than 400 items during the inspection process to help buyers know exactly what they're getting into when they buy a home.

Home buyers and sellers aren't the only ones at financial risk in a real estate transaction. Real estate agents are often involved in lawsuits because of problems that occur after the sale. To protect them, American Home Shield offers a product called Errors and Omissions insurance, which helps reduce or eliminate their risk in the event of litigation.

Fortunately for everyone involved, the majority of homes in the United States are bought and sold without incident. However, when problems do occur, they tend to be costly and sometimes end up in court. Nearly all of these unpleasant situation can be avoided through appropriate risk management.

Window films block sunlight

BY POPULAR MECHANICS
FOR AP SPECIAL FEATURES

Few structural features make a house more attractive and livable than windows.

In fact, for most of us, the more windows the better. Yet window glass is not a very good energy barrier. And, it's paradoxical that for all we invest in windows, most of us rush to draw the blinds to block out the summer sun. Not only is direct sunlight often too bright and too hot, it carries too much ultraviolet radiation and produces glare.

In fact, single-pain window glass blocks less than 25 percent of the UV rays that damage skin and fade drapes, carpets and furnishings. It reflects less than 8 percent of the light and heat that strikes it and absorbs only 5 percent, while allowing roughly 87 percent to pass through.

The year-round numbers for double-glazed windows are only slightly better. What we really need is a window that's a little more discriminating – one that lets in as much visible light as we want, while excluding some of sunlight's less desirable characteristics.

Since the advent of window films, we now have a range of products that address this need. However, they're all not alike and the usefulness of any one film is directly related to your personal requirements. Windows may give us the best of both worlds, but not always in the best proportions.

Window films were introduced in 1969 to address problems surrounding the control of sunlight in homes and businesses. Although they were fairly effective, they often played to mixed reviews.

The failings were identified quickly: fading film dyes and highly mirrored and easily scratched surfaces. Poor installations also caused blisters, cracks and edge peel. Within certain limits, most of the problems of older films have been fixed.

Today's offerings are more attractive (some are virtually invisible), come in great variety, with excellent performance and better durability. These gains are largely a product of improved technology, nudged along by the market pressures of consumer demand.

With a reasonable compromise of performance and appearance, window films can now block up to 98 percent of UV radiation and up to 80 percent of the normal heat gain.

They can also provide a degree of privacy – thicker films can turn regular glass into safety glass by increasing strength up to 300 percent.

In winter, films can decrease emissivity, allowing us to keep more of the heat we pay for. Moreover, they do it all fairly reasonably.

Allowing for the odd exception, window films sell for between $3.00 and $7.50 per square foot, installed. Where utility companies subsidize installations, through rebates and allowances, costs may be even less. And finally, home centers sell DIY films that range between $1 and $2 per square foot.

If these prices sound a bit steep, they're really not. Industry studies and Department of Energy models predict a payback in energy savings of 3-5 years.

In fact, site studies show that every 100 square feet of window film can reduce the air-conditioning load of a building by as much as 12,000 BTUs, or 1 ton of heat.

Because the issue is really summer heat gain, the most dramatic savings occur in the Sun Belt states. Curiously, window films are seldom installed on factory glass, unless you include the sputtered coatings used in making Low-E glass.

Tinted films are almost exclusively aftermarket products, probably because the selection process relies so heavily on consumer tastes, home sites and climate. Then, too, builders are reluctant to darken show homes when buyers prefer bright, spaces.

Questions and answers around the house

FOR AP SPECIAL FEATURES

Q: I would like to know if it's normal for a well pump to go on about every 20 minutes to half an hour. We bought the house one year ago. It was built in 1962, and it's been a good house otherwise.

A: Your pump should not be cycling as you describe. There are several things that cause this, depending on the type of water system you have. The first thing to check is whether a slow leak somewhere in the plumbing system is causing the well pump to come on.

Several likely sources for this are faucets, shower heads or outside spigots. Another cause may be a leak in a toilet flapper or ball valve. This can be easily checked by inserting some food coloring or dye in the toilet tank. If the dye shows up in the bowl, you've found the cause, or at least a contributor to it. Finally, leaks in pipes may be to blame.

If you have a submersible well pump, then another possible cause for the cycling condition is a leak inside the well casing. There may be a fracture in the plastic pipe or possibly a leak in the pump fitting. A leak within the well casing is an expensive one to correct.

Another factor to consider is whether the storage tank has become waterlogged (no air is left at the top of the tank). If it is, the pump will cycle whenever a small volume of water is drawn or leaks out.

Q: My G.E. dishwasher recently started to act up after years of faithful service. It seems that the water pressure inside the machine is a fraction of what it should be, and, of course, my dishes are not cleaned at all. The water pressure at the sink faucet appears normal.

A: It sounds like the water fill valve on your dishwasher is the culprit. When this valve malfunctions, one of two things will happen: No water will flow into the appliance, or just a trickle of water will enter.

In the first case, no water enters the machine because a break in the valve's solenoid coil will cause an open circuit, and this prevents the plunger in the valve from opening.

In the second case, water flow is reduced because the valve's screen needs to be removed and cleaned.

The first step is to disconnect the power to the dishwasher, and turn off the hot-water supply to the dishwasher fill valve – the shutoff valve is often under the sink near the dishwasher. Next, remove the toe-kick panel, and detach the wires from the valve's solenoid coil terminals. Also remove the valve's green ground wire.

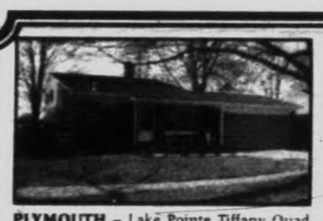

Using a wrench, remove the nut which attaches the incoming water supply to the valve. Use a pair of pliers to remove the flexible water hose which leads to the tub inlet. Also remove the screws holding the valve mounting bracket to the appliance frame.

Now, using a multi-meter set to the RX100 ohms scale, check the valve for continuity. Hold the meter's probes together, and turn the meter's adjustment dial until the needle rests on zero.

Hold the meter's probes on the valve terminals. If the needle remains stationary, there is no continuity through the coil (current cannot pass from one needle on the meter, through the coil, to the other needle), and the coil needs to be replaced.

On the other hand, if the needle sweeps to zero, then the valve is good. Disassemble the valve and clean its screen using an old toothbrush. Reassemble and install the valve, and check for leaks.

The system asks the borrower's permission to verify credit information through a credit bureau. Using the company's credit scoring policies, Rapid Connection then automatically determines their loan status and payment.

A company representative will then follow up to discuss prequalification information and various mortgage programs and options.

"Consumers are most likely to read and respond to advertisements in the evenings and on weekends," said Melissa Beyer, director of marketing with Norwest Mortgage.

"However, those are the hours when most banks are closed for business. Rapid Connection enables us to keep Norwest Mortgage lending services open 24 hours a day, seven days a week. The system lets consumers get lending information at their convenience and gives them a firm and specific offer when they need it. In this day and age, ease and convenience are the key in servicing the mortgage consumer."

Upgrade windows to save energy

BY READER'S DIGEST BOOKS
FOR AP SPECIAL FEATURES

The main reason to upgrade double-hung windows is to increase their energy efficiency. Upgrading also frees you from the annual ritual of putting up and taking down storms and screens.

Energy loss is greatest at the point where the glass meets the sash (sliding frame) and where the sash meets the window jambs. The simplest way to combat this without replacing the window or sashes is to caulk the exterior of the window, weatherstrip the interior, have transparent heat-reflecting film applied to the glass and use insulating window treatments, such as lined draperies.

More permanent solutions call for replacing single-glazed sashes with double- or triple-glazed ones, or installing an entirely new window – either a custom-made replacement unit or a mass-produced prehung one.

Completely new windows

Prehung windows are built at the factory and come completely framed. They are available in an array of stock sizes, styles and finishes.

You may not be able to find one that's an exact fit, but you can easily install one that's just slightly smaller than your current window opening. Basically, you just remove the old window and frame, pop in the new prehung unit, shim it to fit and screw it in place.

A prehung window is also a good choice if you want to change the size or shape of the original opening, or if you are cutting a new opening.

A replacement window consists of sashes and a pair of jamb liners are custom built to fit inside the original frame. Unless you're an experienced do-it-yourselfer, make sure the cost of professional installation is included in the cost of new windows.

Sash replacement

A simpler – and usually less expensive – alternative is to find a hardware store or home center that will build a double-glazed sash to fit the existing jambs.

You may need new friction channels, in which the sashes ride, to mount the new sashes. Made of vinyl or aluminum, friction sash channels are sold in kits. They eliminate the need for sash weights. If you install friction channels, be sure to fill any old weight pockets in the window frame with insulation.

Framing material

Fiberglass is the best choice for framing material. It's a good insulator, requires minimal maintenance, is lightweight and doesn't rot. But it is expensive.

Aluminum that has an anodized or baked-on finish will outlast aluminum that has only a mill finish. Although it is a poor insulator and dents easily, it is relatively inexpensive, lightweight, low maintenance and doesn't rot. Thermal-break aluminum has the added advantage of being a good insulator.

All-wood, vinyl-clad wood or aluminum-clad wood are good insulators but they may be prone to rot. Vinyl- or aluminum-clad are low maintenance and all-wood is high maintenance – three versions which are heavy in weight. All-wood is low in cost while the clad types are usually high.

All-vinyl is relatively inexpensive, a good insulator, lightweight, low maintenance and doesn't rot. However, vinyl becomes brittle in extreme cold, and expands and softens in extreme heat.

Steel is a poor insulator. It's heavy in weight, high in cost but doesn't rot. It also must be coated to resist rust and needs regular painting.

Windows and glass types

Double- or triple-glazed windows have either air or a dense gas mixture – usually argon- or krypton-based – between the layers to inhibit heat flow.

Low-emissivity glass (or low-E) has a metallic coating that reflects heat. Film-insulated glass has transparent polyester film suspended between the layers that helps keep heat out in the summer and in in the winter.

Check a window's R-value, a measure of a material's resistance to heat flow. The greater the number, the greater the resistance. Triple-layer glass has a value of 3 to 3.5, film-insulated glass from 4 to 6, double-layer with low-E film 2 to 6 and double-layer glass 2. Single-layer glass has an R-value of only 1.

Mortgage rates down

WASHINGTON (AP) – Interest rates on 30-year, fixed-rate mortgages slipped to 8.01 percent this week, remaining above 8 percent for the fifth consecutive week, the Federal Home Loan Mortgage Corp. said.

After sinking to 7.56 percent during the week ended Feb. 20, the rate climbed to a seven-month high of 8.18 percent the week ended April 3, just after the Federal Reserve tightened monetary policy

Buyers' Etiquette!

As children, we are taught to be polite, to be respectful, and to "do unto others..." As adults planning to buy a home, there are also some basic rules of etiquette.

Buying a home is not a simple act, but a process involving a variety of actions. The first step is to select an agent to help locate your next home. Visit the agent at the real estate office and explain your home buying objectives. This allows the agent to learn more about your plans and expectations, and can result in a smooth and exciting home purchase.

Once the agent has identified homes to show, allow yourself time to see them without rushing. Be on time for your appointment, and let the agent do the driving. It takes concentration and focus to locate the right home. By allowing the agent to be the tour leader, you will be free to inspect, examine, and absorb all the features and benefits of the homes you see.

Take only the decision makers in your family when you look at homes. It can be distracting when aunts, uncles, parents, and children are included in the initial search. There will be plenty of time later to introduce your choice to them.

The greatest challenge faced by the agent can be learning to see homes through your eyes. Be open and share your thoughts as you see each home. The agent will convert your feedback into a more suitable array of home choices, shortening the search and making it more rewarding.

Finally, be prepared to disclose complete and accurate financial information to the mortgage lending officer. Your loan application can then be processed more efficiently, resulting in an early loan approval.

For more information about the Real Estate process, please call me at ReMax, 100, Inc. (810) 348-3000 or Call my 24 hour "customer service" line at 1-800-965-SOLD
